

Three Separate Nazi Attacks Repulsed

Enemy Pushed Back Without Gaining Inch

Artillery Fire on Both Sides Continued Throughout Night in Saarbruecken Sector — French Gunners Reply Shell for Shell — Fear Germany May Strike Through Neutral Countries in Effort to Turn Flanks of Maginot Line.

Paris, Sept. 23.—(P)—French infantry forces strongly installed on German soil near Saarbruecken were reported today to have repulsed three separate German attacks aimed at regaining French-held territory.

Before German assault troops stormed from their trench dugouts, German artillery blasted the French lines with hundreds of shells.

The French High Command described the bombardment as "more intensive" than any before on the Western Front.

Lethal fire from French positions was said to have cut down the advancing Germans each time, finally compelling them to retire without winning an inch.

Artillery fire on both sides was said to have continued throughout the night in the Saarbruecken sector. Aviation and artillery were reported active in other zones.

German guns along the Lauter River—which recently had been quiet—opened fire on French batteries in the vicinity of Wissembourg. In this area, the Lauter forms the boundary between France and Germany.

French gunners were reported to have replied shell for shell. Both artillery and machine-gun bursts were said to have halted German advance patrols attempting to scout the zone.

Military information from the Western Front said the Germans had massed troops hurriedly brought from Poland and sent them into almost immediate action against the French.

The dispatches also reported concentrations of German troops along the east bank of the Rhine River, opposite the main ramparts of the French Maginot line. The planes, these reports said, were in addition to previously reported aviation concentrations near Aachen.

The morning communique said there was "great activity" during the night on the Western Front, particularly between the Saar River and the region southeast of Zweibruecken and on the Lauter River.

Preliminary information from the front failed to make clear whether the German attacks were isolated actions, or might be considered the large scale drive the French have been expecting.

French sources reported, meanwhile, that the Government is speeding production of mechanized military units for fear Germany may strike through neutral countries in an effort to turn the flanks of the Maginot line.

(German Propaganda Minister Paul Goebbels claimed two days ago that Germany had no intention of violating the neutrality of Belgium, Holland or Luxembourg, "hereafter now or in the future.")

Observers believed the speedup measures were decided upon at a meeting of the Allies' War Council in England yesterday.

They said the lessons learned from Continued on Page 10, column 4.

Polish Capital Still Holding Out Against Overwhelming Nazi Forces

By ELMER PETERSON
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Vereck, Hungary, Sept. 22.—(Delayed)—(P)—The Warsaw radio, broadcasting defiance of German troops which for two weeks have been battering at the Polish capital, was drowned out suddenly tonight by interference from a stronger Nazi station.

For fifteen minutes, German music silenced the voice of Polish staff officer who had been telling of Warsaw's determination to hold out.

Then the interfering station broadcast a speech denouncing France and Great Britain. It was delivered first in Polish and repeated in German.

Before the Warsaw radio was jammed from the air, a broadcast by Mayor Stefan Starzinski reported that German warplanes had "drenched" the capital with propaganda pamphlets.

The mayor said the pamphlets were "written in bad Polish, which is evidence no Poles will help the Germans write such pamphlets."

The interference started as Colonel Vladimir Lipinski, staff officer of the Warsaw defence, declared "Germany cannot hold out indefinitely. The British blockade is working."

VESSEL LOADED WITH WOODPULP SUNK BY NAZIS

Oslo, Norway, Sept. 23.—(P)—The Finnish steamship Martti-Ragnar, loaded with woodpulp for England, was reported sunk today by a submarine off the southern coast of Norway.

Members of the crew, all safe and unhurt, said the submarine was German.

It was said to have stopped the 2,602-ton vessel off the coast town of Arendal, ordered it to approach territorial waters so the crew could reach shore easily, then set fire to the ship by placing explosives in the hold.

Two Hundred Perished In Earthquake

Istanbul, Turkey, Sept. 23.—(P)—More than 200 persons were reported killed today in an earthquake said to have caused the caving in of more than 1,000 buildings in the Smyrna region.

Severely increasing casualty lists included many injured at Smyrna. Turkish seaport on the west coast of Asia Minor. The shocks were said to be continuing, accompanied by thunderous underground noises causing panic among the population. The Government and Red Cross were sending assistance to the stricken localities. The tremors were felt here and at Ankara, but in neither place was there loss of life or property damage.

Athens, Greece, Sept. 23.—(P)—Strong earth shocks in a two-second duration, apparently centring in the Gulf of Smyrna, were recorded by the Athens Observatory at 2:37 a.m. today (8:37 p.m., E.D.T., Friday).

The island of Mytilene was rocked severely, and several houses collapsed, but no loss of life was reported. The earthquake was felt as far as western Thrace.

WILNO TO BE RETURNED TO LITHUANIA

London, Sept. 23.—(P)—The Daily Express, in a dispatch from Brussels, today reported that the Soviet Union had decided to return the city of Wilno to Lithuania.

Wilno is in the portion of territory allotted to Russia in the current Nazi-Soviet division of Poland. The city has long been claimed by Lithuania, from whom it was seized by a Polish army in 1920.

Heavily Reinforced German Line May Take Offensive In Big Push On Western Front

By CHARLES FOLTZ
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Basel, Switzerland, Sept. 23.—(P)—Swiss observers, expecting a "big push" momentarily to break the Western Front, saw indications today the heavily-reinforced German line might take the offensive.

So far, these observers said, French and British divisions thrusting across the frontier toward the Siegfried line were numerically stronger than the Germans. But this ratio has been changing as seasoned troops and fighting equipment were rushed from Poland.

There were increasing indications that when the drive comes it may be in the northern sector, where French troops have penetrated the rich Saar Valley. Big guns continued to thunder there.

A movement of German troops in the Baden section, north of Basel, had been observed earlier, but this was said to have developed only into a transit movement—not a concentration.

With Bohemia in German hands since conquest of Czechoslovakia, a dozen railway lines from Poland pass through the Baden section to the Western Front. These routes as well as central German lines apparently are being used to shift fighting strength to the Westwall.

Swiss sources said the veterans from Poland were replacing the lower Rhine fort troops which, in turn, were moved north where most of the fighting has taken place.

Hundreds of the Reich's warplanes have been reported flying from the Vistula front in Poland to underground bases behind the Siegfried line the last four days.

There were reports Polish prisoners of war might be put to work for Germany, although under international law they could not be made to work in industrial plants. Several labor battalions were said to have been put to work behind the Siegfried line, strengthening second line defenses.

The French and British high command is reported still firm in its belief the Allies can last longer than Germany. This has led to reports they might shift to the defensive at any time, hoping even if forced to withdraw from advances positions to let German troops weaken themselves pounding at the Maginot line.

French troops were said to be continuing local advances in the Saar-Moselle triangle, near the Luxembourg frontier.

REFUGEES FROM WARSAW CROSS INTO GERMANY

More Than 1,300 Given Temporary Haven in Koebigsberg. While Others Remain in Besieged Polish Capital.

Koebigsberg, Germany, Sept. 23.—(P)—More than 1,300 refugees from Warsaw found temporary haven here today, but others, fearful of dangers of flight or separation from their families, remained in the Polish capital.

The refugees, foreigners trapped in the Polish capital by the German-Russian invasion, are being provided for by the German Foreign Office until they can arrange to return to their homes. They arrived in groups, some by train and others by automobile after 20 hours of travel through war-torn country.

The food situation in Warsaw was described as "very bad." With co-operation of the Polish civil committee, some of the fifty-five Americans among the refugees said, they were able periodically to get rice, noodles, meat, or other food.

They said one of their handicaps was the great danger in going out. Continued on Page 3, Col. 5.

West Front Break-Through Is Held Virtual Impossibility

Military Experts Agree Force Which Could Smash Either Maginot Line or Westwall Would Be Exhausted at Completion of Drive—Claim Attacker Needs Three to One Superiority in Armament—Soldier's Dream of "Lightning War" Has Small Prospect of Fulfillment.

By J. F. B. LIVESAY

London, Sept. 23.—(P)—In the last war the decision was reached on the West Front. It was there the enemy was pinned down and bled to death. True, there was the strangling of the blockade. And our success in the minor theatres one by one stripped him of his allies, of Turkey, of Bulgaria and of Austria-Hungary. But in a military sense he did not crack till his armies were beaten in Flanders, on the Aisne, the Meuse and the Moselle. In that final victory the Canadian Corps led the van.

Now, the West Front is a doubly-fortified line from the Alps to the North Sea. What prospect is there of a break-through by either side? Is the present French assault a strictly limited liability programme designed to relieve pressure on Poland or has it a real prospect of driving in a wedge? Time only will show. But it is interesting to hear what military critics have to say about it.

In his recent book, "The Defence of Britain," Captain Liddell Hart says in effect it (a break-through) can't be done, and if it could, it would not be worthwhile because it would leave the victor exhausted.

"The difficulty of a 'knock-out blow' is greatly increased by the modern superiority of defence over attack. That is already established on land, where all recent experience goes to show that an attacker needs at least a three to one superiority in armament in order to gain even a local success. And now in the air, also, the defence appears to be overtaking the advantage that the attacker formerly enjoyed."

"Thus, in sum, the soldier's dream of the 'lightning war' has a decreasing prospect of fulfillment."

He goes on to say: "Today a German offensive against the French frontier would be met by the Rhine and the Maginot Line, whose resisting power is enhanced by the mechanized rapidity of reinforcement. An attempt to make a renewed sidestep through Belgium would have to overcome not only the modern superiority of the defence, but a series of waterlines which are a serious obstacle to the mechanized forces on which the chances of a rapid advance would largely depend. The alternative detour through Switzerland would have to overcome still more obstacles."

So he concludes that the possibility of a serious German offensive in the west becomes more than doubtful. He goes on to say that a western offensive looks no more promising for France: "I can imagine."

Britain Fears Germans Will Resort To Other Weapons In Sea Strife

"Energetic Measures" Taken by Royal Navy and Air Force Have Proved Submarine to Be "Very Vulnerable"—Supreme War Council of Great Britain and France in "Complete Agreement" on Course to Be Followed in War—Admiralty Seeks to Tighten Naval Blockade of Germany.

London, Sept. 23.—(P)—The Government assured the home front today that "enemy submarines alone can never maintain an adequate blockade" of the British Isles.

The Ministry of Information declared "energetic measures" taken by the Royal Navy and Air Force had proved the submarine to be "very vulnerable." However, despite establishment of the most powerful submarine-hunting fleet the world has ever seen, Britain is prepared for new losses.

Inhabitants of the Heio Islands off the Norwegian Coast yesterday reported the torpedoing of the British freighter Akenside, 2,694 tons, bound from Lythe, England, to Bergen with a cargo of coal. The crew of twenty-six escaped in lifeboats and was picked up by a Norwegian warship.

With the sinking of the Akenside, Britain had lost about thirty-five merchantmen.

(The Finnish steamship Martti-Ragnar, loaded with woodpulp for England, was sunk today off the southern coast of Norway. Members of the crew, all safe, said a party from a German submarine boarded the freighter and destroyed it with explosives planted in the hold.)

Another communique, issued last night from 10 Downing Street following a meeting of the Supreme War Council of Great Britain and France, announced "complete agreement" on the course to be followed in the war.

The communique, which did not specify where in England the meeting was held, said the Council had "considered the question of munitions and supplies, and agreement was reached on procedure for co-ordinating and perfecting the arrangements to be made by the two Governments."

Representing France at the meeting were Premier Daladier, General Maurice Gamelin, Minister of Defence, and Major General Hastings Ismay, Secretary of the Imperial Defence Committee.

Meanwhile, the Admiralty sought to tighten the naval blockade to keep vital supplies from reaching Germany and issued new detailed instructions to British ships passing through the Dover Straits.

BRITISH READY FOR RATIONING OF FOODSTUFFS

National Registration Forms on Which Food Rationing Will Be Based to Be Distributed Monday.

London, Sept. 23.—(P)—Rationing of gasoline swept motor traffic from the streets of London and other British cities today and threatened an acute shortage of taxis.

At the same time, the Government prepared for general distribution Monday of national registration forms on which food rationing will be based. Registration day for everyone in the United Kingdom is next Friday.

For the ordinary motorist, the new regulations meant a driving range of from 100 to 200 miles a month. For instance, the owner of a small popular Canadian car of 60 horsepower is allowed 10 gallons a month.

Pinched down to two gallons daily, the drivers of London's high, antique-looking taxis were all but desperate. They said the probable result would be no taxis on the streets after noon.

CHINESE CLAIM RE-CAPTURE OF CITY OF KAOAN

Said to Have Driven Back Japanese Fighting Machine Along Entire Kiangsi Province Front.

Shanghai, Sept. 23.—(P)—Chinese officials declared today their troops had recaptured Kaoan, annihilated a Japanese force that occupied the city last Wednesday, and drove back the Japanese fighting machine along the entire Kiangsi Province front.

(A Hong Kong dispatch quoted Chinese officials as saying resistance had stiffened throughout the Central Chinese provinces, and that Japanese had been halted in Kiangsi Province, along the Yangtze River Valley in Hupei Province, and North of Changsha in Hunan Province.)

(The Chinese told of regular and guerrilla warfare penetrating Japanese defences around Canton in the past week and said 2,500 Japanese were killed.)

(Japanese army sources acknowledged there had been raids around Canton. They reported 6,000 Chinese killed and 700 captured in the taking of Kaoan. The Japanese said their forces, after moving into the city, pressed on toward towns to the southwest.)

Belief Grows Baltic States Price Russia Paid By Reich

Nazi Withdrawal in Path of Red Army's Northerly Drive Confirms Opinions Hitler Had Granted Moscow Privileged Position in Baltic Zone—Positions of Russians and Germans in South Obscure.

By LUCIEN ROMIER

Paris, Sept. 23.—(C.P.Havas)—Nazi withdrawal in the path of the Soviet Army's northerly advance into Poland apparently confirms the belief that Adolf Hitler had granted Russia a privileged position in relation to the Baltic States, contrary to the policy of the German general staff in the 1918 negotiations with the Bolsheviks.

According to Red Army communications, Soviet troops have reached the "Carson Line," set up by the Allies in 1919 as the Polish-Russian frontier. Chief points of this demarcation, running from North to South, are Grodno, Bialystok, Brest-Litovsk and Lwow.

In addition it is reported that German troops have retired from several points in the North, leaving the Soviets undisturbed in a zone close to the Baltic countries. This would be the "high price" said to have been paid to Moscow by the diplomacy of the Reich Foreign Minister, Joachim Von Ribbentrop.

In the South, along the Polish frontiers with Hungary and Rumania, the confusion in hastily-written dispatches leaves the positions of the Russians and Germans obscure.

Most of these reports came from Cernauti, in Rumania, where it is very difficult to get an exact idea of what is taking place.

For instance it was reported that the Germans had reached Kut, on the Polish-Rumanian border. Then dispatches said the Russians had occupied all of that frontier, and still later this was denied.

It is highly improbable that the Germans would allow themselves to be blocked completely from a zone of such vital strategic importance. It would be still more imprudent for them to abandon the Galician oil area, which has already been occupied by a Nazi column and of which they have great need.

Supposing a German-Russian accord already exists on the future of the various Polish territories, the question of direct or indirect Reich access to the Black Sea would certainly have to be threshed out sooner or later.

One of the Soviet's greatest fears is of the day when Germany might reach the shores of the Black Sea. The Turks, moreover, have signed an agreement with Britain and France to keep the status quo in the Eastern Mediterranean and the Balkans.

Masters of the Dardanelles, the Turks can easily harmonize their attitude toward the Black Sea with their attitude toward the Mediterranean. But they can do this only if the Russians themselves, following their ancient tradition, keep the Germans away from the Black Sea.

BISHOP'S UNIT HITS NEW HIGH IN ENROLLMENT

College Canadian Officers Training Corps Recruiting Meets Unqualified Success—Parades to Start Next Week.

The University of Bishop's College unit of the Canadian Officers' Training Corps has a larger enrollment than at any other time in its history, the result of a little more than two hours' recruiting last night when between eighty-five and ninety members of the student body enlisted for the special course of training being provided this year.

Col. W. McNaughton, officer commanding the corps, estimated that this number would be increased to well over one hundred before the actual commencement of the course of training next week.

Prospective candidates filed in and out of the orderly room all afternoon, having their attestation cards properly filled out before Major C. Lloyd H. Bowen and Sgt. William Campbell. Many of the older members of the corps returned to have their cards renewed.

Shortly after seven o'clock, when the recruiting office was opened, a long list of University men formed outside the orderly room door, patiently waiting their turn to sign on for the course of instruction. Uniforms will be distributed by the Quartermaster-Sergeant on Sunday, and the first parade of the year will take place next Wednesday afternoon.

Three parades a week will be held on Wednesday, Friday and Sunday afternoons, and the drills will be entirely given over to practical instruction in field work and manoeuvres until such time as weather conditions make outside parades impracticable.

This will be followed by a series of lectures in map reading and theoretical manoeuvres. University authorities have re-arranged the usual afternoon activities to make these parades possible.

Graduates of the University will be eligible for the new course of training, it was announced last night by Col. McNaughton, and he indicated that several had already expressed their intentions of joining the corps.

Graduation last June depleted the complement of officers, and it is expected that these replacements will be made known next week. The constitution of the corps will this year be enlarged to include three active platoons and the band.

Major Bowen, of the Sherbrooke Regiment (M.G.), will be in charge of the instruction of the cadets under Col. McNaughton, and will be assisted by Sgt. Major Instructor Bouchard, of the Royal Canadian Regiment, whose arrival is expected on Tuesday.

Subject: "Reality."

Testimonial meeting Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock.

Reading room open daily from 3 to 5 except Saturday, Sunday and holidays, at 1306 Wellington St. No. All are welcome.

"Reality" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon to be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world on Sunday, Sept. 24th.

The Golden Text is from Isaiah 64.4: "Since the beginning of the world men have not heard, nor perceived by the ear, neither hath the eye seen, O God, beside thee, what he hath prepared for him that waiteth for him."

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "For the Lord of hosts hath purposed, and who shall disannul it? and his hand is stretched out, and who shall turn it back?" (Isaiah 14:27).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passages from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Reality is spiritual, harmonious, immutable, immortal, divine, eternal. Nothing unspiritual can be real, harmonious, or eternal. Let us learn of the real and eternal, and prepare for the reign of Spirit, the

The British press expected that once the Royal Navy mastered the submarine peril, Germany might resort to other weapons to harass enemy shipping.

It was pointed out Germany has pocket battleships especially designed to raid merchant shipping. However, many believed British battle cruisers would be able to run down these raiders.

The British press criticized the "cynicism" of the Nazi-Soviet territorial bargain in Poland.

Joseph Stalin, said the Daily Express, "does none of the fighting and collects half of the loot. But Hitler is always ready to make a bargain when it suits him."

"When he broke up Czechoslovakia, the Poles snatched a valuable slice of territory. Hitler could have pushed them out. But he let them have the morsel. And what has he done to the Poles? Wiped them off the map of Europe."

"So Stalin will have no illusion about his Polish conquests. How long will it be before the greedy eyes of the great man in Berlin turn again to the Ukraine wheat fields?"

"All pretence that the Soviet Government is merely 'liberating' the White Russians and Ukrainians is dropped," the Daily Herald declared. "A huge sea with an almost pure Polish population comes under the Russian rule."

"Bordering neutral states are wondering how far beyond the boundaries of Poland the 'share-out' goes, the paper said.

"Nobody doubts that there is agreement in Berlin and Moscow on 'spheres of influence'."

The News Chronicle said that on many previous occasions Hitler has prided himself on acquiring new territory without fighting for it.

"In Poland he has fought for new territory without acquiring it. Moscow has been more than a match for him."

"Prophecy about Russia is more than ever hazardous today. It may be that German-Soviet collaboration will, for the present at least, be embarrassing and dangerous to our own cause."

"But the possibility cannot be ruled out that the Red Army has taken a step which may eventually change the face and heart of Europe."

"We may or may not like the picture of such an army marching westwards. It is certainly very doubtful whether the Nazis like it. It may yet prove a greater threat to their system than their reconnaissance flights or artillery bombardments."

DUCE REITERATES ITALY'S POLICY

Rome, Sept. 23.—(C.P.Havas)—Premier Mussolini today reiterated Italy's policy of taking "no initiative whatever toward the military operations" in Europe. At the same time he warned that the Italian stand might be changed without advance notice.

"Prophecy about Russia is more than ever hazardous today. It may be that German-Soviet collaboration will, for the present at least, be embarrassing and dangerous to our own cause."

"But the possibility cannot be ruled out that the Red Army has taken a step which may eventually change the face and heart of Europe."

DENISON'S MILLS

One of the dwellings owned by the Commiskey brothers was recently razed by fire. The small building was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. William Butler and their eight children and all took refuge in Mr. Flynn's barn until they were taken to Richmond. This family had resided in the woods, where the building was located, for several years and are dependents of the Township of Cleveland. They are at present located in the former school house near Mr. R. Hinchey's farm.

Large flocks of ducks have been noticed flying over the pond and a few hunters have been trying their luck now that the season is open.

The annual chicken pie supper of Holy Trinity Church parish was a decided success this year in spite of the extremely warm weather for the event. The sum of ninety-eight dollars was cleared and much credit is extended to the ladies who are the mainstay of this affair.

A former resident of this district passed away suddenly at Thetford Mines in the person of Mr. Dan Manson. Although the deceased had been away for several years he was well known to many and had visited here very recently. Several from here attended the funeral services in Richmond.

Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Rief and Miss Margaret Rief, of Montreal, have been visiting at the home of Mr. Fred Armstrong and Mr. and Mrs. T. Demers. Mrs. Demers is accompanying them back to the city for a few days and will visit at the home of her son, Mr. Chester Rief.

Gordon Philyck is attending High School in Danville this year.

Miss Eunice Denison, of Asbestos, was at home for a week-end. Miss Marjorie Soowan, of Asbestos, accompanied her.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. McKeage and sons, John and Arlington, of East Angus, were recent visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Avery Denison. They also called on Mr. McKeage's cousin, Mrs. Charles Philbrick.

Conrad Audy To Stand Trial For Five-Year-Old Killing

November 7 Set as Opening Day for St. Francis District Assizes' Term — Crown to Probe Murder of Saul Gregoire and at Least Eighteen Other Cases—Considered Probable Mr. Justice Verret Will Preside Over Court During Sitting.

With one murder trial and eighteen other cases ranging from bigamy to seditious libel slated to be heard, a sitting of the Court of King's Bench for the District of St. Francis will be held in Sherbrooke this fall, according to instructions received from the Attorney-General's Department at Quebec. The sitting is scheduled to open November 7.

Most important trial is that of Conrad Audy for the five-year-old murder of Saul Gregoire at South Ham. It is considered probable that before the term opens the nineteen cases already on file will be augmented.

Orders have been issued to Sheriff J. P. C. Lemieux to serve notice on jurors and the task of making up the list will be begun without delay. During the summer months the names of those eligible for jury duty in the city were compiled by the municipal authorities.

Although it has not yet been decided which of the two Superior Court Justices will preside over this year's Assizes, it is thought probable Mr. Justice Hector Verret will be called, inasmuch as Mr. Justice C. D. White sat in the 1938 King's Bench Court.

Mr. Justice Verret is to preside at the Sweetburg Assizes' Court during October and the length of the term in that judicial district may be the determining factor in the choice of the local Justice.

CONTRACT FOR HIGHWAY WORK TO BE AWARDED

Tenders for Reconstruction of Sherbrooke-Little Lake Stretch of Route No. 1 to Be Opened Monday.

Tenders for the rebuilding of the Sherbrooke-Little Lake stretch of Route No. 1 will be opened Monday night and successful bids will be announced Tuesday, it was stated today by Col. the Hon. Johnny Bourque, Minister of Public Works and of Lands and Forests, who spiked a rumor road work in the Eastern Townships would be suspended because of the war.

Col. Bourque said that only the nine miles between this city and Lake Park would be completed this year and that the rest of the road to Magog would be started immediately after the frost is out of the ground next spring.

Four contracts for the work will be awarded as a means of speeding up the construction of this important highway. Within the next two weeks two separate gangs will start to work, one to begin at the city limits with the other at Lake Park. Next spring two more contracts will be given, each for half of the Little Lake-Magog stretch.

The report that the Provincial Government had decided to postpone road work in this district probably originated from the fact that many projects were suspended in Ontario and it was thought Quebec would follow suit.

EMPLOYEES OF LOCAL COMPANY GIVEN PEACHES

Car Load of Niagara Peninsula Fruit Distributed Among Canadian Silk Products' Workers in Reciprocity Movement.

Hundreds of peaches were eaten in Sherbrooke last night; hundreds more were eaten today and, if it is possible to obtain the necessary sugar, hundreds more preserved in one form or another will be eaten in weeks to come.

The reason for the sudden and pronounced popularity of the peach is simply this—A. A. Munster, in charge of Canadian Silk Products Limited, believes there should be a better spirit and more co-operation between the Canadian provinces and, if one province has a surplus of a product the next hasn't at all, something should be done about it.

Consequently, some 750 employees of the Canadian Silk firm trooped home from work last evening with nearly two thousand baskets of the luscious fruit divided among them. Married men each received three baskets, single employees who have been with the company some time each two, and employees who entered the services of the firm comparatively recently each one. Golden-ripe and in prime condition for eating, the peaches were brought here from the Niagara Peninsula in a railway freight car, the baskets completely filling the car.

Explaining that there is a surplus of peaches in the peninsula district of Ontario, Mr. Munster expressed a hope that the action of the Canadian Silk in purchasing at least some of this surplus for its employees might tend to introduce movements of a similar nature among the various provinces, with a greater spirit of reciprocity resulting.

Employees of the company were not the only ones to benefit, however, as many baskets of the fruit were sent to the Sherbrooke Hospital, the St. Vincent de Paul Hospital and the Sacred Heart Hospital.

Between fifty-five and sixty baskets of the peaches which were left over were distributed among needy families in the city this morning by various charitable organizations.

When the freight car loaded with the peaches left Hamilton it carried large placards on the sides telling that the fruit was being shipped to Sherbrooke for the employees of the Canadian Silk Products firm.

General Notes

A demonstration in the art of making home made candy featured this week's class in home economics at the Ascot Consolidated School yesterday afternoon. Miss F. I. Drummond, of the Belvidere Branch of the Women's Institute was the instructress, and gave a most instructive lecture and practical demonstration on the making of fudge, cream and fondant. These classes, which are sponsored by the Ascot Women's Institute, are proving very popular and are well worth the time, effort and money put into them.

Twenty girls attended yesterday's class. The services of capable instructresses have been secured and the course will continue for several weeks longer.

Friends will be sorry to learn that Mrs. David Byrne's mother, Mrs. Jane Beattie, in Lemesurier, is still seriously ill. Mrs. Byrne is caring for her mother.

Mrs. Donald Ross has received word that her brother, Rev. W. H. Topping, M.A., B.D., with Mrs. Topping and their family, have sailed from their home in Foo Chow, China, and are on their way to visit relatives on this continent. Mrs. Ross and Rev. Topping's father, Rev. Dr. N. B. Topping, of Perth, Ontario, passed away recently, and were sent to Rev. Topping, was, it is believed, never received by him, since no reply has been received. It is supposed that he had already sailed and knows nothing of his father's death.

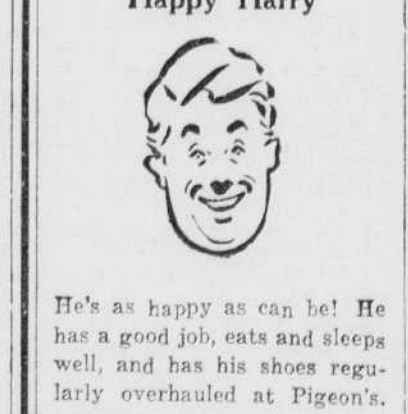

Mr. and Mrs. J. Dumesnil have returned to their home in Shawbridge after spending a week as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Stewart at their residence on Main street.

Edward Fidler is a patient in the Sherbrooke Hospital where he is reported to be resting as comfortably as can be expected. It is the hope of all that he will continue to improve steadily until he is completely recovered.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Cox at their home on the Spring road this week included their niece, Mrs. Howard J. Purdy, and Mr. Purdy, of Regina, Sask., who are on a motor trip through Eastern Canada, and are now on their return journey via New York.

Identity Card System Urged For Sherbrooke By Minister

Bourque Believes Scheme Would Act to Give Local Unemployed Work Ahead of Outsiders, Hundreds of Whom Are Anxious to Come Here on Assumption Munitions Will Be Manufactured—Urges City Council Act Promptly.

Urging that the City Council act immediately to insure that Sherbrooke unemployed be given jobs in local industries in preference to outsiders, Col. the Hon. Johnny Bourque today suggested that an identity card system for residents of the city be inaugurated.

Sherbrooke's representative in the Provincial Cabinet told press representatives that during the past two weeks he had been deluged with letters from persons all over the Province who asked him to secure them positions in this city on the assumption the manufacture of munitions will be started here soon. In the event factories here will have to augment their staffs because of wartime orders, jobless residing in the City of Sherbrooke should be considered before all others, Col. Bourque maintained. He added it was up to the City Council to make necessary arrangements with officials of the industries to see that local citizens are the first given jobs.

The identity card system, as advocated by Col. Bourque, would be the best means of determining whether an applicant for a position belongs to this city or has come from other communities in the hope of landing a job. The Minister urged that action be taken as promptly as possible before the factories start taking on new hands.

The boy, Lorenzo Pepin, was struck while crossing Wellington street south nine months ago. The elder Pepin instituted the action in his capacity as tutor to his son and alleges that the mishap was due to the carelessness of the defendant who, the father charges, was driving his car at a dangerous speed and did not have proper control of the vehicle.

Pepin claims, through his attorneys, Gagne and Desmarais, that after the boy had been struck Brennan was unable to stop his car for a considerable distance. He further alleges that the defendant admitted he had not been observing the road carefully.

As a result of the accident the young Pepin had to be forced to remain in hospital eighty-eight days with disfigurement and various injuries, including a broken leg. For suffering the plaintiff claims $500 and a like amount as compensation for the scars on the boy's face.

Another contention of the victim's father is that the boy's leg is at least partially incapacitated due to the mishap and for this $1,457 is claimed. The balance of the $3,000 is made up of doctor's fees, medical expenses and sundry expenditures.

Turning The Tables

I BET you darsent!" cried Joe. "You darsent yourself!" replied Dick, while the Braves gave him the laugh.

"We've all done it," explained Paul, whom the boys called Big Foot. "That's one of our rules. If you want to join the Big Toe Tribe you've got to prove your mettle."

"I'm not afraid," said Dick. "Oh, no!" chuckled the Braves scornfully. Dick smiled mysteriously. "I'll be there tomorrow night," he said. Later he might have been seen talking to his next door neighbors, twin sisters named Marie and Jane.

"The Braves have asked me to join," he explained, "but to show how much nerve I've got I have to go to the cemetery tomorrow night rough stuff," thought Dick. "A mouse would make 'em shout." However he would have been glad enough to break his promise the next night as he prepared to go to the cemetery. He had said he wasn't afraid of spooks, but of the behavior of his friends. Still he was not the kind to give in without a struggle. He had a plan.

He had often been in the cemetery, which was an old deserted one, and he had noticed a certain tombstone which had fallen over. It was so small and light that Dick found he could drag it easily to a sheltered spot under a tree. His bargain was to sit on a tombstone—it wasn't specified where. He planned to take the tombstone beyond the sacred confines, into the stone and began to drag it to the brow of the knoll which was only a few feet away.

"What's that?" The wind was hissing and whispering in the trees, but suddenly the whispering and hissing seemed to grow louder and Dick heard words.

"Scared to come. I told you so," said a voice.

"He may show up yet," said another voice. "The Braves!" thought Dick. "They're here, lying in wait for me."

"He dared not drag the stone any further, so he sat down on it and waited, and then the first thing he knew a flashlight was turned full upon him and a voice, which he knew was Big Foot Paul's growled: 'Who-o-o are you, dead man?'"

"Aha!" thought Dick, "they're going to play the same game on me they played on Carl."

He could not escape very well while they played the flashlight on him so he stood his ground grimly. The other Braves came up with a stout rope which they tied around their victim, beginning at his ankles, until he was all trussed up from head to foot.

"Now, here ye shall stay till morn," said Big Foot, trying to disguise his voice.

"Say now!" remonstrated Dick. "What did I ever do to you?"

"Silence!" growled all the Braves. From the tree above them came a queer growl then a f-fah! Like a cat spitting. "What's that?" they whispered.

"Ha, ha!" laughed Dick, "and you call yourselves brave!"

"Just for that we'll leave you here with—It!" said Big Foot.

"All right," replied Dick, "only put me on a tombstone so I can get credit for being nervy."

"Put yourself on it," retorted the Braves.

"Oh, well, it don't matter," replied Dick. "I don't know as I care about belonging to the Big Toe Tribe anyway."

But this last was lost on the Braves for they had gone hastily away.

"Dick!" called a voice from the tree.

"Hello, Marie and Jane!" replied Dick. "As soon as I heard your cat up there I knew you must be around. What are you doing here and where are you?"

"Up in the tree," replied one of the girls, "we came to rescue you from those smarties."

Down slid the girls and quickly untied Dick.

"Well!" he exclaimed. "I'll never say girls are cowards again!"

"I'll never say girls are cowards again!" But for a minute when your cat began hissing and growling I did think that a wild cat might be roosting in the tree."

He did not try to express his mind that he would repay the kindness of his neighbors if he had to wait ever so long for the chance. Down from the tree slid the big black cat, invisible in the darkness except for its big green eyes. Then they walked comfortably out of the cemetery.

When they reached the road they met the Braves standing in a ring arguing about something.

"Hello!" shouted all three. "Brave! Ha, Ha!"

And then because there were more Braves than they cared to tussle with, they ran off as fast as they could scamper for home. Thud, thud, thud! The whole gang was after them—right at their heels. They never ran so fast in their lives. Just before they reached home Big Foot overtook them.

"Wait!" he gasped. Dick stopped and turned around. "We've decided to let you in."

"Oh, is that all?" replied Dick. "Well, I guess I won't join, thank you. I don't like your kind of bravery."

"We've decided not to pull off any more stunts on fellows," said Big Foot.

"Then," replied Dick, "I'd be good and glad to join."

"Then," replied Dick, "I'd be good and glad to join."

JUST TRY TO BLOCK ME!

(To be colored with paints or crayons. Whenever you come to a word spelled in CAPITAL letters use that color.)

JUST try to block me!" cries BROWN-haired Teddy to YELLOW-haired Susie May, as he gallops across the GREEN field with his YELLOW football tucked securely under one arm. "We can have a one man game, just for practice!"

"Alright. One, four, nine! here I come!" cries Susie May, trying to get the spirit of real football. "I am the tackle! Look out!"

On the RED bench across the field BROWN-haired Dolly and YELLOW-Teddy bear are the rooters. Dolly is dressed in a PURPLE frock and hair bow. Her collar and socks are WHITE. The soles of her shoes are YELLOW.

Teddy-bear wears gay GREEN and YELLOW checks. His suit is a long sleeved, long legged affair. Teddy wears a light BLUE shirt and light BROWN trousers. His socks are BLUE and his shoes light BROWN with dark BROWN soles.

Susie May wears a pair of BROWN overalls over her PINK (use RED lightly) frock. Her collar and socks are WHITE. The soles of her shoes are YELLOW.

The Dutch Concert

An Indoor Game For Little Folk.

IN THIS game all the players sit down. Each person makes a selection of an instrument, say a flute, a guitar, a violin, a drum, etc., and each makes the motion appropriate for playing the instrument he has chosen, and imitates to the best of his ability the sound of the instrument. The leader of the band has been chosen before the beginning of the concert, and as soon as all are seated, he rises, gives the director's signal to begin, himself starting some familiar tune. As the playing proceeds, the leader may take from any player his instrument and go on playing it in his place. But the idle player must keep a sharp eye on the leader, for the moment that he ceases to play, the player from whom he has taken the instrument must immediately take his place.

It is a jolly game, but a noisy one as well, and unless the consent of the parents is granted, the little players may look for an interruption very soon after the concert has begun. However, most parents love to have their children and their children's guests enjoy such lively games.

Sammy And His "Grumble-Chum"

SAMMY was a most unhappy little boy. Everything seemed to go wrong today.

First he had broken Betsy's pet doll, of course, he had not meant to, and had only been trying to find out what made her eyes open and shut. Then at dinner he had upset a whole glass of water over Betsy's pretty new dress, and nurse had sent him up to his room until Mother came home.

Things always did seem to go wrong when Mother was away. "Quackey, Quackey!" Sammy is very miserable," and he hugged the little yellow duck which always reminded him of the swans at the lake.

"I wish I was a little duck like you, or a little swan. I'm tired of being a little boy, and of nurse's scolding just for nothing, and I'm not going to stay up here alone any longer. Quackey, I'm just going down to those swans and see if you and I can't go and live with them. They do exactly as they like, and so will we. They don't have to learn lessons or wash their hands every minute of the day, they haven't any 'to wash,' finished Sammy with a giggle.

Of course, Quackey never said one word to prevent him, so clutching his "Grumble-chum," off he trotted softly down the stairs, and out at the front door. All was quiet, and no one saw him as he ran down the path, across the garden to the lake where the swans lived. There were two of them, sailing towards him now with their pretty curving necks, golden bills, and snowy feathers.

Sammy felt a little bit frightened, but began bravely. "Please, Mr. Swan, may Quackey and I come and live with you? I'm tired of being scolded at home, and think it would be much nicer. You don't have to go to bed before you want to, or get up when you are told, or wear horrid clothes that are always getting torn, or eat stew with carrots and peas when you don't like it, or do anything like that. May we come please?"

Sammy was so busy explaining matters to the swans that he did not see the amused face smiling at him through the bushes, but the next minute he felt himself lifted up in someone's arms and there was Mother "kissing him like everything," as he explained to Quackey afterwards, who was left neglected on the ground.

"So you want to go and live with the swans! And what do you think Mother and Dad would do without their Sammy-boy?" she said fondly. "Suppose we sit down under this nice big tree, and you tell Mother whatever made you think of such a thing."

"Oh, Mother, things was dreadful bad today," said Sammy, shaking his head sadly. "Nurse says I am the worst boy that ever happened, and so I thought maybe I'd make a better swan. Truly I didn't mean to be naughty, Mother dear, but somehow it seems so hard to be good."

"Just tell Mother all about it, and we'll see what can be done." That was just like Mother, she always seemed to understand, and put things right at once.

So Sammy snuggled up close, and started with the tale of the day's happenings, and when he had finished, Mother kissed him again and said: "Well, I think we can make all that right, and do better than have you go and live with swans. You know you would find it very uncomfortable. For instance, instead of your nice cereal and boiled egg for breakfast, you would only get cold water, and perhaps a worm, or a little raw fish; that would be worse than stew with carrots and peas, wouldn't it? And then in the winter you would have somehow it seems so hard to be good."

Backache—Kidney Pains
Poison causes pain. When you have pains in the back, lumbar or rheumatic pains you may be suspicious of the kidneys. They may be slow and sluggish in removing uric acid poisons from the blood.

Along with inactivity of the kidneys you usually find the liver torpid and the bowels irregular. You can clear up this whole condition by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. For fifty years this popular medicine has proven its outstanding efficiency as a regulator of these vital organs.

Short, Reticent French War Head Born Soldier

Has Been Accorded a Free Hand in Raising French Army to Its Mightiest and Given More Military Authority Than Any Frenchman Since Napoleon.

New York, Sept. 22.—(AP)—In the making and surveying in the army gray shadows of the War Ministry building on the Rue St. Germain, Paris, a child of less than two plays at war. He beats an irregular march on a toy drum slung over his frock. He is a little boy Gamelin.

He is imitating papa, who was wounded in the slaughter at Solferino (1859) in Napoleon III's war against the Austrians, and now is controller general of the French army. He is marching in the footsteps of his father's family—which lists five French generals.

He is Maurice Gustave Gamelin, sixty-five years later to become first soldier of France and supreme commander of the gigantic allied military machine when it rolled for the second time against Germany.

In the years between, the adjective "quiet, reticent, retiring, sociable, methodical, colorless" were used to describe him. But the French and the British military authority looked at the little (five feet four inches) general's record, and were satisfied. He may not be, as many insist he is, the greatest soldier in the world, but no one could deny he's one of the greatest.

Before he was out of the Catholic academy, where strict discipline created a military atmosphere, he was studying the campaigns of Napoleon. The story is that even today he can pluck from memory every order, word for word, that Napoleon issued.

At St. Cyr, the French military college, he must have been a model and scholarly student, for at twenty-one, in 1893, he was graduated first in a class of more than 400. This reticent, chubby young officer was not looking for any soft berth, however. He plunged into three years of the rough-and-tumble Algerian campaign.

From then until he was called to the war college in 1899, young Gamelin indulged in a hobby which fits like a coat of varnish his genius for military strategy. He was map-

Nazi Chiefs Live Luxuriously With Contributions Given To Help Needy

London, Sept. 23.—G. Ward Price, foreign affairs writer for the Daily Mail, yesterday charged Nazi chiefs have lived luxuriously on the proceeds of winterhilfe (winter help) contributions, ostensibly gathered to aid the poor.

"Collections go on almost permanently throughout Germany," he wrote, "for 'winterhilfe.' Burly young Storm Troopers rattle their money boxes in public places and make the rounds of cafes and restaurants."

"Few Germans venture to decline to contribute a few small coins. There is also a system of selling lottery envelopes from a tray. They cost sixpence, and some of them are supposed to contain a bonus for the cheerful giver, although I have never seen anyone draw a winner at this game."

"No accounts of allocations of 'winterhilfe' are published, and the Germans often whisper among themselves that this is one of the main sources of the luxury in which Nazi chiefs and their families live."

"Obviously the money that Nazi officials spend must come from somewhere. None of them, with the exception of Herr (Foreign Minister Joachim) von Ribbentrop and Dr. (Otto) Dietrich, head of the press service, is a man of private fortune—yet all have town houses and country villas."

"One day an inscription was found on (Labor Front Leader Robert) Ley's door: 'Tell us, Ley, where did you get the 100,000 marks this house has cost?'"

(Published reports have alleged that enormous sums in cash or equivalent have been deposited by Nazi leaders to their own accounts in financial institutions outside Germany. Big personal and family insurance policies were also described. (One published report gave the following list:

(Von Ribbentrop—$3,165,000 in cash or equivalent outside Germany. Family insurance of $5,575,000. (Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels—$4,635,000 in cash or equivalent outside Germany. Life insurance of $2,430,000 on his wife's life and $1,865,000 on his own. (Field Marshal Hermann Goering—$5,575,000 in cash and securities abroad. Insurance of $3,025,000. (Deputy Party Leader Rudolf Hess—$2,045,000 in cash and securities abroad. Insurance of $1,992,000. (Chief of Secret Police Heinrich Himmler—$2,000,000 in cash and securities in foreign countries. Life insurance abroad of $637,000. (Labor Front Leader Robert Ley—$1,050,000 in cash and securities. Foreign insurance policies—$841,000.)

The Ward Price article continued: "Ribbentrop, who leads the list of alleged depositors abroad, is himself a wealthy man by reason of his marriage with the daughter of Herr Henckell, proprietor of the most widely sold brand of German champagne. Field Marshal (Hermann) Goering has always lived sumptuously since Hitler came to power. "It comes as a surprise to me to find the names of (Rudolf) Hess (Deputy Nazi Party Leader) and (Heinrich) Himmler (Chief of German Police) in the list of Reich ministers credited with having accumulated fortunes outside Germany."

LENNOXVILLE WIN AS GRID SEASON OPENS

Howard Aikman's Lads Rout Sherbrooke High

Lennoxville High School Victorious by 10-0 on Parade Grounds Over Elton Butler's S.H.S. Twelve—Harry Allen, Max Drennan and Bill Christison Pace Winners' Attack—Barfield, Farr and Arnold Best for Badly-Outclassed Locals.

Outfighting their opponents at every turn and flashing a smashing attack and stonewall defence Lennoxville High School's pigskin pack registered a ten-nothing victory over Sherbrooke High School in an exhibition tilt that opened the local football season yesterday afternoon on the Parade Grounds.

Their backfielders piling through the Sherbrooke High line and dancing around the ends for steady gains, Howard Aikman's victorious twelve were never threatened by the local lads, who seemed to be merely going through the motions rather than battling tooth-and-nail for victory.

Husky Harry Allen, line-cracking half, packed himself through Elton Butler's forward wall almost at will for gains varying from three to twelve yards, while Max Drennan, Cookshire lad playing his first game of football, slithered around either flank for substantial advances. Stuart Allen did a smart job of quarterbacking for the yellow shirts, while the line clearly outplayed the Sherbrooke front sector.

Three players battled valiantly to keep Sherbrooke High in the game, Captain Don Barfield, who made three-quarters of the tackles for his team, Lorne Arnold, shifty backfielder up from the junior squad, and Francis Farr, tall end. With Arnold and Farr on the receiving end, Sherbrooke High's forward passing attack was their most successful effort, but only once did they reach scoring position, and then an attempted drop kick by Barfield failed.

Kicking exchanges between Bill Christison, of Lennoxville, and Jeff Wilson, of Sherbrooke, were about even, but in every other department of the game except forward passing Aikman's athletes were away ahead.

Sherbrooke's players seemed confused. The linemen did not open holes for their backfielders when the team was on the offensive, nor did they charge in to nab the ball-carrier when Lennoxville was carrying the war. Their tackling was woefully weak as they stood up and were knocked down instead of slamming in low to pin the carrier's knees.

Lennoxville started fast and drew first blood soon after the kick-off, which went to Wilson on the goal-line. Two line thrusts proved ineffective, and Wilson booted to his thirty. Harry Allen knifed through for five yards, and on third down Christison hoisted over the goal stripe to Paul Fountain, who was routed by a swarm of tacklers.

NEWARK NEEDS ONE MORE TILT TO GRAB TITLE

Bears Continue Amazing Surge by Dropping Rochester Redwings 4-1 for Third Straight Victory—Louisville Clinches A.A. Crown.

Rochester, N.Y., Sept. 23.—(AP)—Newark Bears, holding a three-to-two advantage over Rochester Red Wings, will seek tonight to clinch the International League's regular season title by dropping the Redwings.

The Bears, continuing their amazing comeback after dropping the first two games of the four-out-of-seven final play-off series, scored their third straight victory over the Red Wings last night in Newark, N.J.

While Joe Beggs, a right-hander, was holding the Wings at bay with five hits, his mates pushed all their runs across the plate in the fourth inning to take the decision four to one.

Louisville, which like Newark finished fourth in the season's regular competition, clinched its "Little World Series" berth last night by defeating Indianapolis six to five to take the Association's final play-off series four games to one.

The "Little World Series" opens Tuesday night in either Newark or Rochester.

Polish Capital Still Holding Out Against Overwhelming Nazi Forces

Invaders must and will be punished for their crimes.

They described with pride the work of the "volunteer corps" now fighting side by side with the regular troops.

Each day, the broadcast declared, sees Warsaw's population contributing to an organized method of handling food supplies and transportation. Private homes as well as public buildings have become hospitals, it was said, and pharmacies have been stripped of medical supplies.

The unequal battle for the air waves was continued each time the Warsaw radio began broadcasting news. There was no interference from the German station when the Warsaw broadcast was confined to musical programmes.

At one time, over the stronger station, alleged Polish prisoners could be heard, being questioned by German officers.

Despite interference with the Warsaw station, the assurance that the capital still was holding out cheered thousands of Polish refugees flocking over the Hungarian border in search of safety.

Authorities here estimated that 7,000 Polish motor vehicles have crossed the border. Most of these were heavily laden, with passengers many of them children—clinging to the running boards.

Hungarian officials struggled to cope with the seemingly endless flow of homeless and hungry refugees. Some of those who cross the border several days ago have gone as far south as Budapest.

German assurances that the frontiers of neighboring neutrals would not be violated were not taken very seriously by French commanders.

The French declared Germany had two choices—a dash through neutral states, or a frontal assault against advance French positions between the Moselle and Rhine rivers in an attempt to remove the present menace of the Saar mining regions.

There was increasing evidence a major engagement might develop with extreme suddenness. The question of which side would take the initiative remained a matter of conjecture.

Observers pointed out the ever present possibility that the French may select to launch an offensive with the hope of making fresh gains before Hitler can move up reinforcements released from the Polish campaign.

Trains continued to discharge fresh French and British troops, as well as munitions, at strategic points behind the lines, French hospitals advertised for blood donors to stock up on transfusion supplies.

The Pasteur institute said it was ready to provide 50,000 doses of anti-tetanus serum daily, compared with 20,000 during the last war.

The Germans were reported hauling up heavy guns near the Swiss border, where the two armies face each other across the Rhine River.

Activity along the front was limited largely to clashes between French and German patrols near Saarbrücken and Zwettzen. Opposing artillery crashed occasional shells into enemy hill positions.

The opposing air forces confined themselves to observation of troop movements.

Possible extent of the Russian understanding with Germany apparently was causing the French some concern, particularly with reference to the military and economic aid Russia could give the Reich through her back door.

Oppose Admission Of Quebec Squad To Provincial Loop

Officials of the Quebec Senior Hockey League are perturbed at the prospect of two senior teams in competition in Quebec City, and have instructed their delegate to the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association to oppose the admission of an Ancient Capital squad to the Provincial Senior Hockey League.

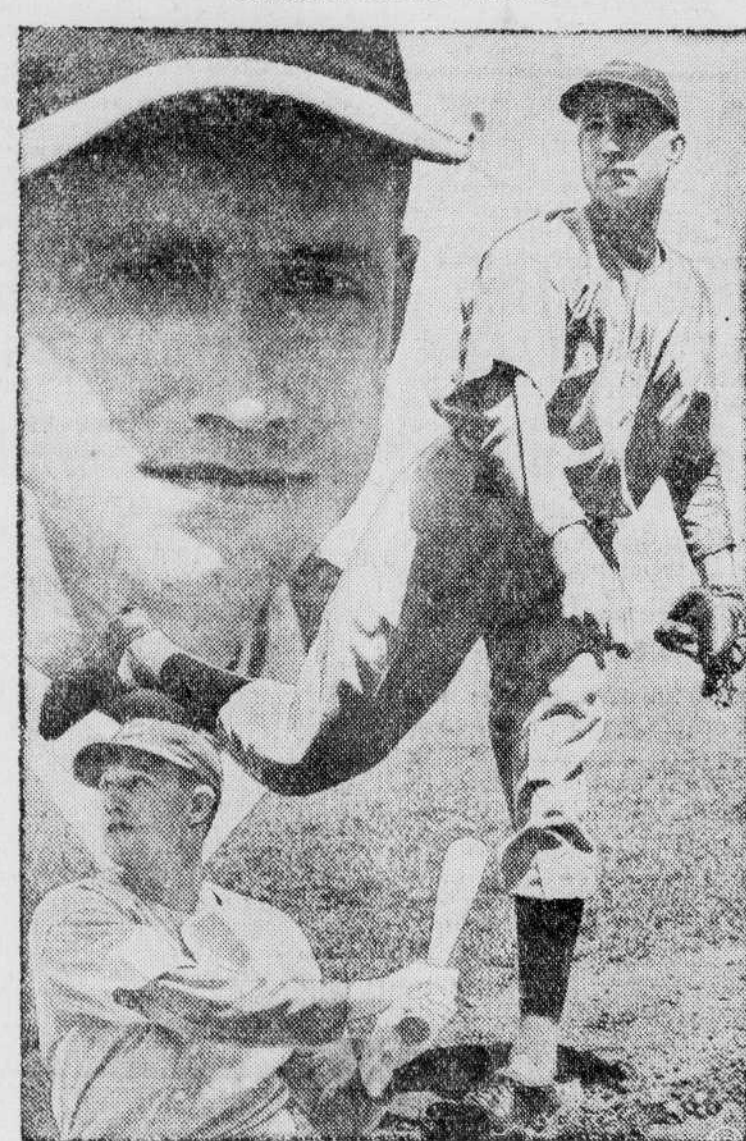

Meeting last night to study the proposed transfer of Ottawa Senators' franchise to another group, Q.S.H.L. officials found more important the fact that Quebec Beavers of the Provincial League would be cutting into the gates and support of Aces of the former Senior group.

The Quebec Senior Hockey League plans to centre its attack on the new Provincial entry on the claim that there is an agreement in Q.A.H.A. minutes made by the Provincial League that it will not place teams in any Q.S.H.L. city, that is Ottawa, Montreal and Quebec, and that this agreement will be broken if Quebec Beavers are permitted to operate.

All but one of the executives of the Quebec Senior Hockey League—Jack Latter, president of Quebec Aces—spoke in favor of opposing the entry of Beavers in the P.S.H.L. Latter said he would have no objection to allowing the Beavers to run.

Application to the Provincial League was made in the name of Omer Cote, rink-operator. It will be considered on Monday night at the Q.A.H.A. meeting, and the application of Cornwall Flyers to the Senior Group will also be studied.

VERDUN HOCKEY ARENA STUDIED BY GOVERNMENT

Appropriation of Building for Military Purposes Would Force Verdun's Provincial League Entry to Disband.

The Provincial Senior Hockey League may be forced to operate as a seven-team circuit this winter since there is a possibility the new arena at Verdun which is to be the scene of some games of Verdun's Provincial league squad will be taken over by the Federal Government for use during the present war situation.

The arena, a $500,000 public work project, has been visited by representatives of the Air Force and the Dominion Government as were several other halls and buildings in Verdun, and word is awaited from Government circles as to which building has been chosen.

If taken over by the Government, the arena would be used for the training of recruits and for other military affairs.

Until Federal authorities come to a decision, no action will be taken by the Provincial League, officials of which will meet next week in Montreal. Addition this year of Quebec Beavers, St. Hyacinthe and Verdun has raised the strength of the circuit to eight clubs, and it is believed the loop will be carried on as a seven-team group if Verdun is forced out of action.

YOUTH'S TRIUMPH

1914; but above all in the fact that ever since the War she has continued without interruption the system of conscription.

On the other hand, owing to the terms of the Treaty of Versailles, the German military classes from 1901 to 1914, did not take part in a training on the same level as was customary in Germany before the war, and in France both before and after. Since Hitler came into power these neglected classes have been called up for short-term training but cannot be considered in the same category as the classes that are reaching their twentieth birthday.

are trained for two years. So he concludes: "The German Reich has 5,000,000 men who have taken part in a thorough two-year training, in comparison with the 5,000,000 France possesses."

"A modern war will be even more a struggle of machines than was the last war," he says. "The soldier will be presented with extraordinarily complicated tasks, the performance of which demands an exact and precisely worked out training which is unobtainable in a short course."

The lack of the necessary number of officers and non-commissioned officers for the essential leadership makes the situation worse, for the German excellent soldier that he is, needs to be well led.

So Dr. Lajos agrees with Liddell Hart that prospects of a lightning war are poor. And he quotes Stephen Possony, the military authority: "If we suppose an equal economic and moral strength of both opponents, a quick victory is out of the question, or, in other words, defence becomes the decisive factor, and the blockade the principal weapon."

He proceeds to a careful analysis of German military and economic resources. But his conclusions are largely vitiated by the since-concluded Russo-German agreement.

If we could put ourselves twenty-five to fifty years distant, free of the prejudices and predilections of the moment, we would perhaps see September, 1939, as the opening phase of an extraordinarily interesting drama about to be played on the West Front.

"War Of Nerves" Continues In National Loop Struggle

Reds Plaster 7-0 and 10-9 Defeats on Pirates to Expand Lead to Three Full Games but Second-Place Cards Cuff Cubs 3-2 for Fifth Straight Victory—Bob Feller Notches 22nd Mound Triumph as Indians Scalp Detroit 5-4.

This National League "yennant" fight has become a "war of nerves," with the baseball world waiting to see whether Cincinnati Reds or St. Louis Cardinals will crack first.

The Reds seem to have passed an important crisis by plastering a pair of defeats on Pittsburgh Pirates yesterday, 7-0 and 10-9, to expand their lead to three full games. But the fact remains that Cincinnati or no one else can have any calm until someone stops the surge of St. Louis, even if the Reds have to do it themselves next week.

The Cardinals cuffed Chicago Cubs, 3-2, yesterday for their fifth straight victory.

This was the way they came to the post today: W. L. G. B. T. P. Cincinnati 90 54 10 St. Louis 87 57 3 9

The Reds, confronted with another doubleheader with the Pirates today, made the most out of their chances yesterday, but left a lot of supporters a bit shaken.

In the first game, Gene (Junior) Thompson hurled seven-hit ball. Ernie Lombardi hit his twentieth home run and Ival Gooden contributed two triples. They started, just as impressively in the nightcap, taking a 7-0 lead in the third inning when Wally Berger homered with the bases loaded.

But then they gave up seven runs in one inning on three hits, three walks and three errors. It was anybody's ball game after that, and the Reds were lucky to win.

The Cardinals ganged up on Harry French in the fourth with three runs on two singles and two doubles. Bob Bowyer came through with some sparkling pinch hitting when the Cubs began cutting playful with Mort Cooper's offerings.

Ont. is a dark horse as far as the Red Raiders' executive is concerned, and they have grabbed him on the recommendation of Coach Clint Benedict.

Benedict is the man who should be getting the players, and the wisdom of local officials' decision in that line is clearly seen. The man who will coach the team certainly should be given a free hand in the lining up of the men he will handle. He is to have the players he wants, and will be left alone to handle them as he sees fit.

It looks as if the Provincial Hockey League is to have its troubles. The Federal Government has surveyed the new Verdun arena and is liable at any time to appropriate the building for military purposes, while from Montreal comes word that Quebec Senior Hockey League officials are out to keep Quebec Beavers from operating in the Provincial circuit.

Appropriation of the Verdun arena would mean that Verdun's hockey days would be ended for a time and that the Provincial League would be forced to operate as a seven-team circuit.

Claiming there is an agreement recorded in minutes of the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association that the Provincial League will not place teams in cities already operating Q.S.H.L. outfits, officials of the Quebec Beavers are dead set against allowing the Aces at Quebec, and will tell the O.A.H.A. just that when the Association meets Monday in Montreal.

Lennoxville High had something the Sherbrooke bunch seems to have forgotten—fighting spirit. Surging in there from the opening whistle, the College Town lads outfought their opponents all along the line.

When they tackled, they really tackled, and did not merely reach out tentatively and hold the ball carrier would fall over. They hit the Sherbrooke backs, and hit them hard. Their front line was charging in fast through the Sherbrooke linemen who stood up and watched them go past, and their backfielders really headed somewhere when they tucked the ball under their arms.

Elton Butler's charges hope to make any progress, they will have to buckle down and work. Yesterday three or four players did most of the running and tackling while the others displayed a "let George do it" attitude. Until they realize they are not out for a romp when they are in a game, the Sherbrooke High youngsters will never get out from behind a great big eight-ball.

The Athletics, now girded in heavy equipment, are getting down to serious activity, and a thorough drill was scheduled for two-thirty o'clock on the Parade Grounds this afternoon. In Lennoxville the Bishop's brigade is also getting down to brass tacks.

Both Bishop's and the Athletics will see action on October 7th, the locals receiving Verdun Arrows, the purple and white horde making a home stand against the fighting Irish from Montreal West, Loyola.

To fill in a gap while waiting for their first test, Bishop's and Sherbrooke might well engage in an exhibition encounter on Saturday, September 30th. Coaches Cruikshank and Sims would have a chance to see their charges under fire and detect troubles to be cleared up, and the tilt would go a long way toward getting the players of both teams in the competitive frame of mind.

Michael Stenson, president of the Red Raiders, returned this afternoon from Montreal after interviewing half a dozen prospective players. He could not be reached before the press roll, but no doubt will have something definite to the way of news by Monday. Peter Konrad, the new defenceman from Kitchener,

Dial Telephone Service For Magog

Announcement was made earlier this year of the new dial telephone service soon to replace the manual system now serving Magog.

This change, scheduled for January next, will necessitate the changing of practically all telephone numbers in Magog and the nearby communities of Channell, Cherry River, East Bolton, Georgeville, Katevale, Lake Memphremagog, Crystal Lake and Oliver Corner.

It is suggested, therefore, that all subscribers in these exchange areas, avoid including their present telephone numbers on any new printed matter, signs, or vehicles, until after the change to dial service has been made.

Your co-operation will be appreciated.
