TREATIES DENOUNCED.

GERMAN AND BELGIAN TREATIES WITH ENGLAND WILL CEASE TO BE OPERATIVE.

It is a Victory for Laurier and His Preferential Trade Policy.

Berlin, Aug. 1.—The denunciation of the commercial treaty between Great Britain and the German Zollverein, which has been in force since May 30, 1865, has caused a sensation here. A British announcement is that the treaty will cease to be operative a year hence.

The Reichsanzeiger says that the supplementary conventions which were concluded when the treaty was extended to the German states joining the Zollverein will expire with the main treaty next summer.

Brussels, July 30.—This announcement of the denunciation of the commercial treaties with England has caused much excitement in commercial circles.

Berlin, July 30.—It had been believed here that the danger of Great Britain denouncing the commercial treaties with Germany and Belgium was past and, therefore, the news that the treaties had been denounced caused all the greater sensation.

London, July 31.—With reference to the denunciation of the commercial treaty, the Times this morning again compliments Canada and Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the Canadian premier, on paving the way for a further consolidation of the Empire and expresses the hope that the German friends of the Empire will not be angry enough to refuse to negotiate another treaty.

The Standard expresses similar views, and says: "It would be to the interest of both Germany and Belgium to meet us in a businesslike spirit for the negotiation of fresh treaties."

The Daily News calls it the first fruits of the jubilee, and congratulates the Government heartily.

BUSINESS NOTES.

A. H. Cummings & Son, wood-work manufacturers, Coaticook, have dissolved partnership. The business will in future be carried on by Amos H. Cummings alone, under the same name.

HAD A SURE THING.

But the Baseball Manager Counted His Chicks Before They Were Hatched.

"When it comes to square sport among professionals," admitted the veteran who lives by bucking chance, "I reckon you've got to give the first place to baseball. But way back in the days before the league system was perfected I used to see some curious things. I remember one club in central Ohio that was as good a local organization as I ever saw. All the men in the team were stripping six footers, used hickory bats and knocked a live ball so far that all the farmer-boys in the vicinity had a supply. Finally a sportsy manager got hold of them, went wherever there was a game to be had, took a professional battery with him and bet all the money he could place. Having nothing special on hand that season, I concluded to do a little business on my own hook.

"By a little quiet skirmishing in Toledo, Cleveland, Cincinnati and Columbus I got together a mine that were fast enough for any company. I took them to a little country town about 20 miles from the club I've been telling you about, named them after the place, did some saucy blowing through the county newspaper and got a challenge from the very fellows we were after. We went over there in old farm wagons, looking like the justest lot of farmers that ever ventured away from home. In practice my boys got tangled up in their own feet, fell over each other and made the opposing manager feel so good that he was betting at every turn. I was right with him as long as I had a dollar, and there was a big roll for one of us when the game was over. Now there was a change. My boys came out of the dressing room in knickerbockers, sweaters and canvas shoes, as sick a looking lot of ringers as your ever saw. It was a cinch, and I was only hot because I had no more money to put up."

"You made a good thing of it?"

"Good thing? I got the double cross. My battery sold out to the other manager. They beat us so bad that the scorers demanded extra pay. My pitcher and catcher got away before I could borrow a gun. I walked ten miles to the nearest station and then took a box car. That wasn't a square game."—Detroit Free Press.

A Pigeon Race.

In France pigeons are regarded as valuable messengers in case of war, and recently the French ministry of war offered a prize for the winner of a pigeon race from Perpignan to Paris, 260 miles. No less than 2,749 birds were entered in the contest. The winner made the distance in 7 hours 34 minutes, an average of over 34 miles an hour.

ACCIDENT IN THE HAY FIELD.

Little Child gets both Feet Cut off by a Scythe.

Quebec, July 31.—Last Tuesday, the four-year-old son of Mr. Alphonse Desroches was playing in the field of Mr. Demers, St. Agapit, when the latter, who was engaged in mowing the grass, not perceiving the child, made a sweep with his scythe which completely cut off one foot, and left the other hanging only by a strip of flesh. It is now under the care of Dr. Labreque. Mr. Demers was so overcome by his emotions on perceiving what had taken place that he fainted away, and was with difficulty restored to consciousness after half-an-hour's hard work.

ECONOMY AT QUEBEC.

Mr. Duffy is beginning Well.

The late Government had intended laying an asphalt sidewalk on the Grande Allee, Quebec, on which the legislative buildings are situated, and had secured an appropriation of $,555 for the work.

Mr. Duffy, the new Minister of Public Works, has decided that the necessity for the sidewalk is not urgent, and has accordingly decided not to proceed with its construction.

The legislature had also been asked to vote $10,000 for vaults and basement floor in the Quebec Court house. Mr. Duffy called for tenders for the flooring and accepted one at about $700, although some of the tenders were in the neighborhood of $3,000. It is now likely that the work can be completed for a sum considerably below the amount voted.

In his determination to economize Mr. Duffy has made a rule that appears extremely reasonable. It is that all such work as supervising those improvements to the Court House shall be done by the permanent officers of the department and not be farmed out as in the past to friends of the Government.—The Herald.

COMPTON.

July 31.—M. Theodul Guilbert, died yesterday afternoon, after an illness of only three days, he was 75 years of age, one of our most highly respected citizens, a man in whose word all put confidence.

Mrs. E. W. Brewster, and her two daughters sailed for England this morning, per steamer Labrador. They expect to be absent several months.

NORTH HATLEY.

Miss. E. Hill, of Richmond, is spending a few days at Hatley. The Misses Clarke left for their home in Montreal on the 28th. They enjoyed their visit in Hatley and went home feeling much better for their outing.

Mr. W. R. Webster with a party of ladies and gentlemen from Montreal drove down to Glen Farm, recently, here they chartered the little steamer, taking a pleasant trip on the lake.

No Quail For Him.

"Quail, villain!" He pointed his trusty shooting iron at the head of the man who had been treating the beautiful maiden to a jolt of general wickedness ever since the curtain went up.

"At last I have thee, Quail!"

But, contrary to the direction in act 3, scene 2, the villain stood his ground.

"Quail, I tell thee! Why dost not quit?"

"Can't risk it on 80 bob a week." quoth the villain, with a defiant sneer saved over from the first act, "because, forsooth, quail is legally out of season, and I see a gamekeeper in the audience."

Then he kicked over an Alp, waded through the bay of Naples, fell into the thunder and only stopped in his mad flight to remark to the manager that an actor with a reputation must decline to play on that stage, as there were flies on it.—Pearson's Weekly.

Why He Wanted an Autograph.

Recently a young man wrote to William Dean Howells for his autograph. The novelist replied in a typewritten line:

"Have you bought my last book?"

The young man answered: "I have not. I want to sell your autograph in order to get money enough to buy it."—Atlanta Constitution.

MRS. BLACK'S CHURCH.

Her Coachman Thought It Too Humble For a Cabinet Lady.

During Mrs. Jeremiah Black's life in Washington, when her distinguished husband was in the cabinet, she was one of the most efficient helpers in the early struggles of the Vermont Avenue Christian church. With the little handful of that faith who "broke bread" in some private house or obscure hall, she went regularly. A well remembered anecdote of that time illustrates her fidelity and at the same time her gentleness, kindly nature. The church was meeting in Temperance hall. Judge Black's driver, Peter, sensitive for the honor of the family, or more so for his sarrange, felt it to be something of a disgrace to stand before such a building on Sunday. One day he touched upon the subject as gently as he could by saying:

"Mrs. Black, that ain't a very fine church you and the judge go to."

"No, Peter," said the lady, "it is not a very grand one."

"Mrs. Black, do you 'spec' to 'tend that church every Sunday?"

"Yes, Peter, until they get a better one."

"Well, Mrs. Black, I wanted to ax you somethin', though I don't much like to say it, marm."

"What is it, Peter?"

"Well, marm, I wanted to tell you de drivers of de other members of de cabinet kinder makes fun of me 'bout standin' 'fore dat meetin' house, and I wanted to ax you if you hadn't no objection to let me drive down to dat fine Presbyterian church where de other big men go and stand dere wid my carriage until your meetin' is out, an den drive back for you and de judge."

"All right, Peter, if you'll be on time," said Mrs. Black, and Peter satisfied his mind that he saved the credit of the family and of his horses and carriage afterward by standing regularly with the fine turnouts of the other cabinet officers.—Washington Post.

WOMEN AND JEWELS.

The Combination Is as Old as Time and Not a New Fad.

The critic who finds much to blame in modern women in the number of jewels they wear on both this and the other side of the Atlantic will find that history had set the fashion long before the fair creatures of today had opened their lovely eyes. According to Pliny, Lollia Paulina, the wife of Caligula, wore on her hands, arms, neck, head and waist pearls and diamonds to the value of $1,680,000. Faustina had a ring worth $200,000, Domitia possessed one worth $300,000, and Cassia had a bracelet worth $400,000. Seneca cried out that one pearl would no longer do for a lady, but she must insist on at least three for each shell-like ear. The weight of these, it is hard to believe, could ever be endured by the vainest of fair maids and matrons.

There were women in ancient Rome whose sole occupation was healing the torn ears of ladies whose ornaments had proved too heavy for the pretty lobes. Poppea's earrings were worth $750,000, and Calpurnia, the wife of the mighty Julius Cæsar, had a pair valued at twice that sum. Later on the extravagance had not seemed to have died out. Marie de' Medici had a dress prepared for the baptism of her children, and when she attempted to wear the marvelous creation she found that it was so heavy that she could not stand in it. It was trimmed with 32,000 pearls and 3,000 diamonds.

Men, however, excelled in costly apparel in the middle ages, and Philip the Good of Burgundy frequently wore jewels valued at $200,000. When he walked along the streets, people climbed over each other to get a peep at him. The Duke of Buckingham once wore at the court of St. James a costume costing $400,000. The dress of the nobles of the middle ages was literally covered with gold and precious stones.—Chicago News.

A Good Sally Lunn.

A good Sally Lunn, made according to the original Sarah Lunn's recipe, without yeast, is this: Mix 3 cups of flour, 3 tablespoonfuls sugar, 8 tablespoonfuls melted butter, a cup of milk, 8 teaspoonfuls baking powder and 8 eggs together and bake in a loaf. If a "raised" bread is desired, nothing is better than this often tested recipe. Add 2 tablespoonfuls melted butter to a large pint of warmed milk, then 2 well beaten eggs and half a yeast cake dissolved in 3 tablespoonfuls cold water. Pour gradually over a quart of flour and beat to a smooth batter. Add a teaspoonful salt and a teaspoonful of sugar. Set to rise for 2 hours in a warm place and bake. To those who like the hop taste a whole yeast cake may be used with these proportions and will, of course, accelerate considerably the rising process.—New York Post.

The Tarheel.

An Arkansas lawyer, who was a native of North Carolina, not long ago wanted to inform a juror, also a native of North Carolina, that they both hailed from the same state. So he dropped some chewing gum, stepped upon it, and pretended that his heel had stuck to the floor. This gave him an opportunity to say that he was a Tarheel and that the warmth of the room had made the tar run. The verdict proved that the Tarheels stuck together.—New York Tribune.

JUDGE BROOKS ILL.

STRICKEN WITH A PARALYTIC SHOCK.

No hopes entertained of his Recovery.

Judge Brooks was stricken with a paralytic stroke yesterday and is lying dangerously ill at his residence.

For a number of years the Judge has not been in good health, but lately an improvement has been noticeable, however, Saturday night he was not feeling as well as usual and a hypodermic was administered. Sunday morning he did not rise as usual and when his room was entered some time later he was found in a paralyzed condition and lapsed into unconsciousness at about 11 a.m., and remains in that state yet. A slight improvement in his condition was reported this morning, but the doctors entertain no hopes of his recovery.

LATER. - Judge Brooks is reported a little stronger this afternoon, but is still unconscious.

LACROSSE.

Dragoons Defeat Angus 8 to 1.

The Angus lacrosse team accompanied by a number of their supporters, came to this city Saturday afternoon to play the Dragoons of this place. The prospects for fine weather were none of the brightest, but about 400 people assembled to see the game. The ground was wet and slippery and prevented first-class play. The Angus boys put up a plucky fight, but it was soon evident that they were playing against a superior team. In individual play the Angus players were equal to the Dragoons, but the combination of the latter could not be overcome by the former. The visitors were minus several of their best men who were unable to be present, and the putting on of new men, no matter how clever players, at the last moment always more or less hurts a team. This will account in some measure for the one-sided nature of the play.

All the Dragoons did well and the playing was equally divided among the twelve stick handlers. Exley showed up in his old style and prevented his goals from being in danger time and time again.

The Dragoon's goals were seldom assailed, and only once did the visitors succeed in getting the ball past McAuley. Gilkerson as captain of the Dragoons did admirably, he was all over the field at once encouraging his men, with the result that they were to be found in the right place at the right moment. Lacey as captain of the Angus, did well, too, and if his efforts did not bear such fruitful results he was not to blame. The match was advertised for 3:30 but it was not until 4:25 that the teams lined up as follows:

Table with 3 columns: Name, Position, Opponent. Includes C. Bernier, Goal, McAuley; T. Gorham, Point, H. McCourt; J. Gorman, C Point, Exley; O. Arkeley, Defense, Drapeau; A. Celling, " G. McCourt; E. Gorham, Center, " Davis; P. Dore, Home, H. Witty; W. Sawyer, " Maguire; F. Dougherty, " Slattery; M. Mills, Outside, Timleck; E. Sawyer, Inside, W. Ross; Lacey, Captain, Gilkerson.

Summary. Time 1st game Won by Sherbrooke 2 min. 2nd game 3rd " Angus 10 " 4th " Sherbrooke 3 " 5th " " 13 " 6th " " 17 " 7th " " 5 " 8th " " 7 " 9th " " 7 "

There remained thirty minutes to play but Angus decided not to continue.

NATIONALS DEFEAT CAPITALS.

The Nationals defeated the Capitals by a score of 5 to 2 at lacrosse, in Montreal, on Saturday. The returns were received at the Grand Central hotel where a large number, who were interested in the result, had gathered.

The Sherbrooke lacrosse team are well pleased with the result of the National-Capital game as they now believe their chances will be very good when they meet the Capitals in September.

BASEBALL.

Beebe Plain Defeats East Sherbrooke.

The Beebe Plain and East Sherbrooke baseball teams played a four inning game on the Parade ground Saturday afternoon. The ground was slippery but a good game was put up by both sides. The batteries of both teams did good work. At the close the score stood 8 to 6 in favor of Beebe Plain as follows:

Table with 2 columns: Team, Score. Beebe Plain 8, East Sherbrooke 6. Batteries: Giffellan, Foster; Colton, L'Heureux. Umpires: Browning and Hazelton.

A LEAGUE MATCH.

Waterville Defeats Magog at Baseball.

The scheduled game between Magog and Waterville baseball teams was played on Saturday before a good attendance who displayed great interest as the game progressed.

At three o'clock there was little sign of ball weather, but an hour later, when the game commenced, the sun was beating forth very forcibly and the game was played under favorable auspices.

The following is the summary of the games:

Magog, - 100060410-12. Waterville, - 614336125-25. Batteries, Hungerford and Lavoi; Woolsey and Fortier. Umpire, Bishop.

This leaves East Sherbrooke ahead and the other three teams tie for second place.

The game for next Saturday between Waterville and East Sherbrooke will be one full of interest to all the Clubs and their supporters.

OBJECTS OF WORSHIP.

It is In That Way That Savages Usually Regard Meteorites.

Savages, whenever they come across meteorites of large size, are apt to regard them as objects of worship. Such, however, was not the dignified fate of a very remarkable specimen that is now in the National museum. This strange aerolite is four feet in diameter, weighing 1,400 pounds approximately, and has the shape of a ring. It was found in the Santa Catarina mountains, and for a long time was used as an anvil by Mexicans at Tucson. In this employment it was discovered by Dr. Irwin of the United States army, who bought it for a small sum and gave it to the Smithsonian institution. Doubtless the substance of this meteorite originally was largely stony, but the stony parts became disintegrated and disappeared after it fell, leaving the ring of iron. Of 400 meteorites that have been seen actually to fall, only about a dozen were metallic, the rest being mainly of stony material, though containing more or less iron.

On the other hand, nearly all of the meteorites picked up in a casual way are masses of metal. It is probably the case that a great majority of such bodies are stony, but meteorites of that description do not attract notice when lying on the ground. All of these facts are extremely interesting in view of the belief now entertained by science that the composition of meteorites throws light upon the make up of the terrestrial globe. In fact, according to this theory, the make up of the earth is much like that of the average meteorite. Obviously the moment this assumption is made the study of the structure of meteorites comes to have extraordinary importance, for man's knowledge of the planet on which he lives is restricted almost entirely to the surface of it. The bowels of the earth remain almost unknown.—Washington Post.

Greek and Roman doors always opened outward, and when a man was passing out of a house he knocked on the door, so as not to open it in the face of a passerby.

A DREAMER.

He is a dreamer. Let him pass. He reads the vesting in the grass. His seeing soul in rapture goes Beyond the beauty of the rose. He is a dreamer, and doth know To sound the farthest depth of woe. His days are calm, majestic, free. He is a dreamer. Let him be.

He is a dreamer. All the day Best visions find him on his way Past the far sunset and the light. Beyond the darkness and the night. He is a dreamer. God! To be Apostle of infinity And mirror truth's translucent gleam! He is a dreamer. Let him dream.

He is a dreamer. For all time His mind is married into rhyme. Light that never was on land or sea Hath blushed to him in poetry. He is a dreamer, and hath caught Close to his heart a hope, a thought, A hope of immortality. He is a dreamer. Let him be.

He is a dreamer. Lo, with thee His soul doth weep in sympathy. He is a dreamer, and doth long To glad the world with happy song. He is a dreamer. In a breath He dreams of love, and life and death. O man, O woman, lad and lass, He is a dreamer! Let him pass. —London Sun.

CAPTURING AN ELEPHANT.

Something About This Dangerous and Sometimes Cruel Sport.

When the two sons of the Prince of Wales were on a visit to Ceylon, a grand elephant hunt was projected to show them how the animals were captured. Here is an extract from Joseph Moore's description of the hunt:

After long maneuvering the trained elephants managed to separate a large oov from the herd and so ranged themselves about her that she was forced to stand. This was the opportunity wanted, and in a flash an agile native slipped under one of the friendly brutes, rope in hand.

Waiting until the restless prisoner lifted her hind foot, he deftly placed the noose about her leg and withdrew. Another venture fettered the second limb, the decoys meanwhile warding off with their trunks several wrathful strokes at the man. The ropes were now firmly secured to a stout tree and the captive left entirely alone save her calf.

Then began a titanic struggle for liberty that no few words can justly portray. Finding herself baffled in untying the many knots or in uprooting the tree, she writhed, screamed, tore at the foliage, pawed the earth, tossed clouds of dust over her back, flung her trunk about fiercely and planted her head upon the ground for leverage to rend asunder the bonds.

At length she fell in exhaustion, anguish and despair and lay motionless and resigned. The natives well knew that these symptoms forbode the loss of their prize. She panted for an hour or more, sighed deeply and died—"broken heart."

A male somewhat above medium size was next submitted to the exciting ordeal with minor variations. While he stood jammed between two of the tame elephants, away from any tree, the nooser induced him to raise his hind foot by touching it gently, drew the running knot about his leg and retreated. In this case the rope was attached to the girth of one of the trained animals, and the sagacious brute, knowing exactly what was expected of him, began to drag the captive toward a tree facing the spectators' stands.

The wild one resisted violently, but without avail, as the tame allies steadily pushed, butted and pulled him across the inclosure. When the tying was complete, his contortions to free himself were astonishing, though in the end he calmed down, hopeless and covered with sweat.

A Queen's Visit.

To be old and poor and bedridden is generally to be debarred from the greater privileges of life, but there was one old man in Scotland who found his disadvantages had procured him a privilege that the strong and more active members of his family were seeking in vain.

It was on an occasion when Queen Victoria was at Balmoral, and, as she often did, she went one day unaccompanied to visit the cottages. In one of these she found an old man, bedridden and quite alone, and she sat down to talk to him.

"And how is it you are alone?" she asked. "Have you no one to keep you company?"

"No," replied the old man innocently. "My folks be all away seeing the queen. They thought they might get a glimpse of her."

His visitor made no reply, but she sat with the old man, pleasantly filling the gap made by the absence of "his folks," and then found time to read to him from the Bible she herself treasured. On leaving she gave a further proof of her sympathy in the shape of a 45 note, accompanying it with the words, "When your people come back, tell them that while they have been to see you the queen has been to see you."—Youth's Companion.

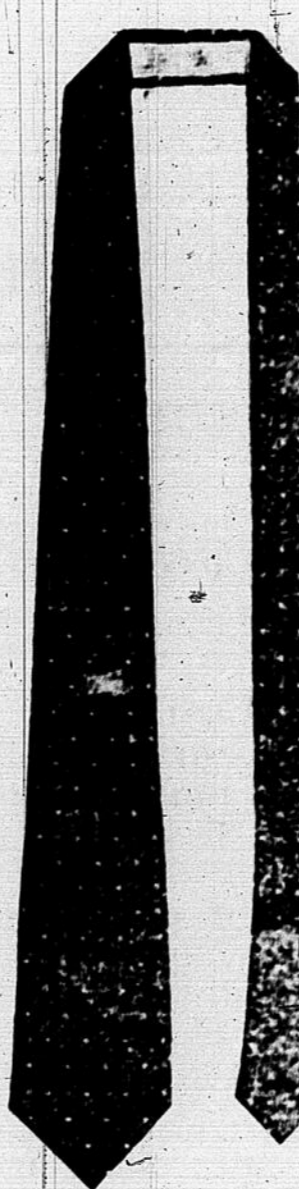

The Chinese.

Conservative historians among the Chinese claim for their race an antiquity of at least 100,000 years, while those whose estimates are a little "wild" assert that the Chinese were the original inhabitants of the earth and that Chinese history goes back at least 500,000 years. The government records of China place the foundation of the empire at 2590 B. C. and claim that it was established by Tohi, who, they assert, is the Noah mentioned in the book of Genesis, B. C. 2240.

Swift's letters to Stella and Vanessa, the two correspondences being carried on at the same time, are equally good, equally loving and at present equally unreadable.

The Chinese divide the day into 12 parts of two hours each. The Italians reckon 24 hours round, instead of two divisions of 12 hours each, as we do.

A FIREBUG.

The light of an August moon was stealing the slight figure of Miss Hannah Stemen against the flap of a tent as she stood in observant attitude a picture of indecision and anxiety, with the harness of a Cripple Creek camp as a frame.

John Borden never thought of trouble when he started for Denver to file a claim for a newly found prospect in the United States and office. He promised to return in three days.

"Be a brave little woman, Ruth," he said as he kissed his wife, "and don't let our tenderfoot sister get out of sight"—a remark which Miss Hannah considered impertinent.

The business of the land office was behind hand, and the days passed into a week before Borden was able to leave for home. It was not the wisest thing to leave the family unprotected, he told himself, but Ruth was self-reliant and Hannah was good company, so there was not much cause for worry.

Mrs. Borden was preparing supper on the day following her husband's departure, when she was disturbed by seeing two men going into camp in the ravine. Apparently they had not noticed the Borden tent.

"I hope not, madam," sarcastically said one of the intruders, "for that would mean the beginning of your trouble."

Both women expected to pass a sleepless night. Black clouds obscured the sky, reddened at intervals by the disturbing flame of the insolent strangers' campfire.

Hannah endeavored to be a brave sentinel, but before being aware of it this gentle tenderfoot dropped on a blanket and dozed. She awoke an hour later, moonlight streaming in her face, the clouds dissipated.

Wrapping the blanket about her shoulders she stood outside the tent. The night was cold and clear. The unwelcome campfire was beginning to flicker, suggesting crumbling embers.

"The idea at last! Is my courage equal to it?" gasped the girl, breathless, turning faint with the daring project in her mind.

Another look at the sleeper's distressed face sent fire into Hannah's veins. Prudence flew to the peaks. For half an hour there was a fight to control nervousness and an inflexible purpose were necessary for success.

The moonlight had vanished, leaving a mist in the ravine. Hannah found the flap of the tent so that Ruth would not be awakened by the blaze. The rifle was left outside on the ground in case of emergency. Then the unwieldy oil can was raised and the match begun. The distance was 300 yards, but it seemed a mile to the courageous girl.

Raising the canvas Hannah could see that no one was there—only guns, instruments and provisions. The cork was removed with some tugging and the can stood close to the ground.

A sulphur match was rubbed on a stone. How it flickered and flamed before turning into a yellow flame. She touched the light to the fuse and mischief began in earnest.

Hannah fled precipitately, stumbling along until the home tent was reached. Curiosity chiefly kept her from fainting outright. Lying close to the ground she watched the slender snake of fire crawling on toward the strangers' camp.

"Flash!" The tent was reached. An envelope of flame curled over it. Then the slight was truly fascinating. The burning oil cracked and cried out in its hunger as powder and provisions were consumed.

"I hope not, madam," sarcastically said one of the intruders, "for that would mean the beginning of your trouble."

The Greatest Wonder of the Age. RHEUMATISM CURED. Rheumatism is caused by uric acid formed in the blood. This acid is poisonous matter and is nothing more than the waste, worn out matter—the ashes, so to speak, of the fire that burns when you think, speak, act or work.
