Skin-Diving for Oil

THIS UNDERWATER GEOLOGIST hasn't time to spear fish or take pretty pictures. Believe it or not, he's diving to look for a new oil well. He is one of a fraternity of skin-diving scientists who probe the ocean depths from 20 to 150 feet in search of oil bearing rock that might indicate location of a new off-shore oil well.

The Oil Industry spends millions of dollars annually in search of oil on land and off-shore. It is also concerned with assuring the continuous flow of oil once a well is producing. That's where Johns-Manville people have proved helpful.

When natural oil well pressure slacks off, the crude oil must be coaxed to the surface. Water is pumped into the oil sands below the surface. Oil, being lighter than water, is forced to the surface with renewed pressure. However, the water must be kept pure. Otherwise, its passage through the oil sands might be slowed or stopped. For this purpose, J-M people have developed a special diatomite filter that keeps the water pure for continuous circulation. In addition, they have adapted J-M's insulations, packings and friction materials for operations throughout the Industry.

The Oil Industry is only one of the major fields which the J-M team of research scientists, production personnel and sales representatives serve continuously. Their contributions help these industries make our standard of living safer, more efficient, modern and enjoyable.

C.W. Armstrong Re-Elected President Of Wales Home

RICHMOND — C. W. Armstrong of Richmond was re-elected as president of The Wales Home at the annual meeting held here, while the other officers were also returned to office for another year, namely: Honorary president, D. J. Salls, Sherbrooke; honorary vice-president, Miss Helen Norton, Ayer's Cliff; first vice-president, Mr. Justice William Mitchell, Massawippi; second vice-president, H. P. Stone, Richmond; secretary, Dr. C. E. Manning, Richmond, and treasurer, H. H. Nowlan, Richmond. McDonald, Currie and Co. were re-appointed as auditors.

In his remarks, Mr. Armstrong stated it was a great satisfaction to all those interested in the home to know it would continue to serve the Eastern Townships for many more years. He also expressed thanks to Dr. Manning, Mrs. Armstrong, the matron, and the staff who by their kindness and understanding had added comfort to all residents of the Home.

The standing committees had had several well-attended meetings during the year and deserved much credit for their efforts in supervising the operation and maintenance of the institution.

He said the farm, under the direction of V. R. Beattie, had proved a valuable asset in providing much produce.

He also thanked the Ladies' Auxiliaries, the ministers of the district and the public generally for their continued service to the Home.

The president noted with regret the death of the following members and Governors: — Mrs. A. J. Brown, patroness and member; J. D. McAdyen, member and governor; E. P. Wilson and Robert C. McMichael, Q. C. members and Dr. E. A. Tomkins.

In previous reports it has been suggested that consideration be given to enlarging the Home, but, said Mr. Armstrong, the present need is for additional infirmary space as facilities in this department are over-taxed by the present number of residents.

The finance committee report given by K. G. Nourse showed eight regular meetings held during the year and a net surplus of $1,436.39 reported. The committee extended their appreciation of the careful and efficient work of the secretary, Dr. C. E. Manning.

The auditors report was given by Mr. Nowlan.

Mrs. M. Armstrong presented the Matron's report. She thanked the members of the executive for the immediate consideration given her request for assistance in her administration duties. She said Miss Cutler, R.N., who was already on the nursing staff, agreed to act as assistant and took over her new assignment October 1.

On May 30, 1956, there were 163 residents and in May 1957, 164. There is a nursing staff of 16 and the domestic staff of 21. Mrs. Armstrong said she was fortunate to secure the services of Mr. and Mrs. Westwell as laundry managers and Wilfred Lancaster, engineer and maintenance man, and thanked H. P. Stone for his efforts and co-operation and time spent organizing fire drills etc.

She expressed appreciation for the assistance given at Christmas in decorating the Day Room and at the Annual Reception Day when Auxiliary members act as hostesses. Entertainments furnished by the following friends and organizations were enjoyed during the year: Richmond Band; Scottish Pipers; St. Peter's Church Choir, Sherbrooke; Salvation Army Band, Sherbrooke; Film shown by I. O. D. E., Richmond; Slides by Mr. and Mrs. Nigel Gray - Donald, Asbestos; Concert, — Catholic Girl Guides, Richmond; Rev. Adye with Bible Society; Choruses by Richmond Group and Windsor Choral Society; Grace Chapel Young People, Sherbrooke; Rev. MacKenzie, Sawyerville, and Girl Guides, Danville.

The nursing and domestic staffs participated in a Hallowe'en Dance, St. Patrick's Bingo Party, Christmas party and a Valentine card party, the proceeds of which were sent to local Hungarian Relief.

Church services have been conducted weekly by local clergy throughout the year.

Mr. Stone presented the House Committee report stating every effort has been made to maintain the buildings, contents and equipment of the Home in a satisfactory condition. During the year

Province Will Increase Aid To Bridge Fund

The Provincial Government has granted the city a $50,000 increase to the $100,000 reconstruction grant for the Montcalm Bridge on King St. West near the Paton Mill, it was announced by Mayor Armand Nadeau today.

Mayor Nadeau said the aldermen will discuss a referendum to obtain at least another $150,000 that is needed according to the estimates of the lowest tender, Vincent et Freres, to complete the reconstruction project.

Paving and street levelling works on the bridge approaches as well as other items which come under the general heading of "accessories" will be taken by the city and are excluded from the estimate.

The promise of more money ends months of negotiations between municipal and provincial officials. Mayor Nadeau talked over the matter with a member of the Department of Municipal Affairs while in Quebec last week. He noted that Hon. J. S. Bourque, Minister of Lands and Forests and Hydraulic Resources, intervened on the city's behalf.

If the extra $150,000 loan is approved by the ratepayers, the knotty problem of estimates for the bridge project which were placed radically below the contractors' bids by the city hired engineer will have been solved. Earlier this year the engineer placed the cost of reconstruction between $125,000 and $150,000 but the aldermen found in opening the tenders that the cost was at least double. In the meantime $100,000 had been obtained from the Province for the work.

The Vincent et Freres tender was $261,226 for the construction of the bridge alone and an added $18,573 for the approaches and a retaining wall, but no definite figure was quoted for the latter work.

According to the plans, the new bridge will be 70 feet wide, including five feet sidewalks on either side. The structure will be of reinforced concrete with an asphalt road supported on a series of 30 pillars sunk in bed rock.

An underpass on the Esplanade St. end of the bridge would be built for pedestrian traffic only. It is thought with the increased width of the roadway it would be hazardous for pedestrians to cross the new bridge which will be higher than the present one, necessitating the redesigning of at least one approach.

Permanent Injunction In Magog Mill Dispute Denied

Hon. Justice William Mitchell has dismissed, with costs, a request for an interlocutory or permanent injunction made by the Catholic Textile Workers' Syndicate of Magog against the Dominion Textile Company of the same city.

The Syndicate had asked the injunction to prevent the Company increasing or changing work schedules in the weave room without the necessary period of trial which is set out in the collective agreement between the two parties. Text of the judgment follows:

"The basic facts which prompted this petition are not in dispute. At all material times, a Collective Labour Agreement between the Parties executed on the 21st day of June 1956, was in force. Article 17 of this agreement provides a procedure by which all changes except routine assignments, piece work rates, shall be put into operation by the Respondent. Substantially, this procedure provides for a requisite notice by the Respondent, a trial operation, guarantees as to earnings and submission to arbitration in case of disagreement.

On or about the 20th. day of March 1957, the Respondent advised its employees and representatives of the Petitioner that it would make certain changes in the weave room. The Petitioner adopted an immediate position that the changes contemplated were not routine and therefore the procedure set out in Article 17 should be followed and the Respondent took the other position that the changes were routine. The Petition was presented on the 23rd. day of March 1957 when an interim injunction without notice was granted until the 26th. day of March 1957. On that day, the Parties appeared through their counsel and after argument was made by both Parties, the interim injunction was not renewed pending the hearing of this petition on the interlocutory injunction.

"In order that the petitioner can succeed in obtaining an order in accordance with the conclusions of its petition, it must appear prima facie from the evidence that there is a clear legal right which has been violated. Thus, in this instance, it should appear prima facie that the Petitioners have, under the said Collective Labour Agreement, a clear right to insist that the changes in question are not routine and that the provisions of article 17 should be applied. In the opinion of the Court no such clear right is apparent. Without going into the merits of the issue which should not be decided here, the Respondent is not restricted as to the provision of article 17 apply. There is no definition of what constitutes a routine change. Furthermore, on the evidence, the changes put into operation on March 25th 1957 might or might not be routine. They involve the addition of 25 machines for the employees in the weave room to supervise and were made after tests which are being continually carried out to determine the ratio of brakes per unit which is dependent upon the quality of the yarn and cotton currently available. With better yarn and cotton, the number of brakes are reduced and greater efficiency is obtained. There is nothing in the evidence which would lead the Court to assume prima facie that the change is not routine.

The Petitioners were also bound to show that a great and irreparable injury would result if an interlocutory injunction is not granted. This they have utterly failed to do. The Petitioners argued in their factum that danger to health was involved but this argument is very far fetched. There is not the slightest intimation of this from the proof made. The greatest injury that was proved to be possible is the loss of earnings but, even here, the evidence is far from being conclusive.

Defer Judgment In Case Against Danville Driver

Judge Joseph Marier will render judgment July 26 in the case of Oswald Benton, of Danville, whose trial on an impaired faculties charge was held yesterday in Sessions Court.

Benton was arrested following an accident in Danville June 15 and was taken to the Danville police cells and later transferred to Sherbrooke.

According to evidence at yesterday's hearing, John Gillam, related to the accused through marriage, testified that he and Benton had an argument concerning money at the former's home and the argument developed into a fight which had to be broken up by Douglas Johnson.

Following the fracas, Benton left the property of Gillam and entered into collision with a car driven by Gerard Aly. Gillam also told the court that previous to the argument at his home, he had met Benton in a local hotel.

The accused himself said he had only one drink previous to the accident.

Testifying for the Crown, Danville Police Chief Georges Bonneau and Provincial Police Officer Donald Sevigny both told the court that Benton was taken to the police cells in Danville to Sherbrooke the same night, where he immediately fell asleep. Sevigny, who drove the accused said that Benton slept all the way to Sherbrooke, with the exception of a stop in Bromptonville when the policeman's car caught fire following a short circuit in the radio.

MARTINVILLE MAN COMMITTED

Raymond Dufy, of Martinville, was ordered to stand trial before the next criminal assizes on a charge of theft following preliminary hearing before Judge Joseph Marier yesterday morning.

Dufy was a former secretary-treasurer of the Martinville Co-operative and manager of the Caisse Populaire. He was charged with the theft of $2,026.41, the amount missing from the books after an audit in February of this year.

Stanstead Police Officers Reinstated - Chief Offers To Make Good Missing Fine

STANSTEAD — At a special meeting of the Stanstead Plain village council last evening to investigate irregularities in the collection of traffic fines, Assistant Police Chief Arthur Barrie, who had been suspended by the police committee a week ago, was cleared of all responsibility in connection with the incident and was immediately reinstated to his office.

Police Chief Youville Quirion agreed to reimburse the municipality for a missing fine of $25 and will be re-instated in office as soon as the payment is made.

The two complaints upon which Quirion and Barrie were suspended by the police committee, headed by Councillor Joseph Maheux, were that $25 collected for a speeding fine was unaccounted for and general inefficiency.

At last night's session, Barrie told the Council he does not keep the books or handle the money. Tickets for fines are generally signed by the chief or himself, but that if he collects a fine, he hands the money over to the chief.

This statement was verified by Quirion, who this cleared his assistant of any blame.

The police committee chairman emphasized that the suspension of Quirion and Barrie was not intended to cast any reflection on their character and that while the sum of $25 was missing, there was no proof the police department had taken it.

However, questioning of Quirion made it apparent that the ticket bookkeeping was careless, an example being given of a Sherbrooke motorist who had been fined but no statement appeared in the books of any money being received.

Quirion stated that he preferred not to collect fines but the council felt this was the most feasible system until a justice of the peace is appointed. An application for such an appointment has been made to the Provincial Government.

The three-man investigating committee headed by Councillor Roland Major was instructed to continue the study of the books.

The police chief and his assistant were told that they must use only ticket books at a time and that ticket carbons must be kept in rotation in the book, regardless of any error or other eventuality.

Anyone refusing to pay a fine on police order will be dealt with by the council and the officers were instructed to report to the police committee all cases of traffic violations.

The council also agreed to permit special parking during the Masses at the Catholic Church.

Some opinion was expressed that a speeding fine of $25 was too high, but advice was received from an attorney that mandatory fines of as high as $50 should be ordered to curb speeding within the village limits.

The question of the centennial celebration of the village charter was also raised but action was deferred until news of the requested government grant was received.

Restoring The Trade Balance

The projected meeting of Prime Minister Diefenbaker and President Eisenhower to discuss Canadian-American trade relations should be held without delay. This country is in a vulnerable position because of the huge deficit in trade with the United States and also because American trade policies have undermined our traditional wheat markets.

Canada's imports have soared in recent years. In 1956 the value of imports was $5,710,000,000, which represented an increase of a billion dollars over the previous year. Of that amount, 74 per cent represented imports from the United States. Canada's adverse balance now stands at $1,347,973,603. This situation cannot continue.

A little more than a year ago, former Prime Minister St. Laurent pointed out to President Eisenhower at White Sulphur Springs the growing concern of Canadians over this mounting trade deficit. But the deficit continued to rise.

Mr. Diefenbaker's suggestion that 15 per cent of this country's purchases be diverted to Britain offers a practical way out. The imports must continue because our expanding economy needs good of all kinds which we cannot supply ourselves. But the balance of trade need not be so lopsided.

To switch some 15 per cent of our purchases to Britain would mean more than doubling our imports from the UK which last year amounted to $484,680,000. Britain, at the same time, purchased $812,570,000 worth of goods from us. The change would benefit Canada in that it would enable Britain to increase its purchases here.

The Diefenbaker plan would have to be largely voluntary, unless the Progressive Conservative government were prepared to embroil itself in a complicated system of controls, quotas and so forth. But with effective government backing, which had been lacking previously, and with the help of such agencies as the Dollar-Sterling Trade Board, there is no reason why substantial progress could not be made. Restoration of the traditional three-way trading relationship between Canada, the United States and Britain would bring only benefit to this country.

Mass Murder For The People

For several years the West has heard of mass slaughters by the Communist regime in Peiping. The reports painted such a black picture that many people were reluctant to believe any government could commit mass murder on such a scale. But recently official confirmation has come from the Chinese Red themselves.

Premier Chou En-lai, according to Peiping radio, said that 16.8 per cent of all "counter revolutionaries" the Reds captured between 1949 and 1952 were executed. The statistics-minded bureaucrat who produced that percentage did not say how many people were killed, but a report from Polish communist sources earlier said that 800,000 Chinese were liquidated by the regime.

Chou was reported as saying they were executed because "they had committed heinous crimes and public wrath was extremely strong against them."

Since Communists are notorious for juggling figures to their own advantage, it may be assumed that even more than 800,000 were executed. Chinese officials claim that the killings stopped in 1954. This statement may be questioned too. Killing never stops in a tyranny.

The Reds now say that mass murder has given way to gentler techniques of persuasion. This means something they call "reform through labor" or, in Western terms, slavery. This, as the Russians learned long ago, serves two purposes. It keeps the regime's enemies out of the way and creates a vast reservoir of cheap labor. The admission by the Chinese Reds that such conditions exist is a telling commentary on their "People's Republic."

Defence Costs Remain High

Prime Minister Diefenbaker's statement that the Progressive Conservative government intends to keep Canada's defences strong hardly comes as a surprise. No one expected the Conservatives to let our guard down.

It serves as a reminder, however, that we must continue to spend hundreds of millions of dollars every year to maintain peace. Although the new government is pledged to eliminate waste and extravagance wherever it can be found, defence will continue to consume nearly half of the national budget. Defence Minister Peckes has stated that he plans no radical changes in our national defence set up. The army, navy and air force programs now under way will be continued in the main.

Some tax relief has been promised by the Conservatives and with judicious trimming of the fat of government these should be possible. But substantial tax cuts will be impossible so long as the free world must engage in a costly armament race with the Communist world.

Habitant Idea 'Handicap' To Quebec

By WILLIAM STEWART

MONTREAL (C) — The concept of a "habitant" Quebec, held too long in Quebec itself, has been a serious handicap to French-Canadian development, says a history professor at the University of Montreal.

Prof. Michel Brunet comes to this conclusion in a sharply critical and possibly controversial study of French-Canadian thought since the British conquest of New France in 1759.

He says French Canada's thought pattern has been rural, anti-state and messianic. These three "dominants" have misdirected the people of French-Canada and it is urgent they achieve a careful new idea of their place in a modern industrial society full of material benefits.

Prof. Brunet, 39-year-old writer on Canadian historical subjects, presents his study in the third volume of Essais du Canada Français, a collection of French-Canadian contemporary writing. The first of the collections, published by a group of Montreal intellectuals, appeared in 1954.

The historian says that an examination of trends of thought, while the most difficult kind of history, is essential to French-Canadians if they are to find their proper place in a province abounding in material wealth over which they yet have little control.

He says Quebecers are minority shareholders in their territory's industrial machine because their guidance, particularly in the last half of the 19th century, was toward a rural way of life proclaimed to be not only their mission but their salvation.

With this developed a mistrust of their civil administration which would have served them much better.

Prof. Brunet goes back to the plight of the population of colonial New France at the time of the conquest. He declared that, contrary to general belief today, this population was not primarily land-loving but busy with exploration, trade, commerce, industry, engineering, military service and government. It was a progressive society providing keen competition to Spanish and English colonization of the period.

The French colony counted 40 millionaires and reports from the administration going back to France referred to a lack of interest in agriculture.

Prof. Brunet says the habitant way of life was forced on French-Canadians as a means of subsistence after the conquest. Hundreds of Canadian-born citizens emigrated to France, to the West Indies and to New Orleans. They represented one third of the governing class. Those of the elite who remained behind were reduced to secondary activities.

What happened amounted to "decapitation" of the colonial society and those unable to find refuge outside the colony were part of a population drift.

The rural cult was the gradual result. It was fostered by the clergy, whose own field of action had been drastically restricted, and by educators, writers and French-Canadian civil leaders.

Prof. Brunet says rural life became the great ideal. Its faults were hailed as virtues.

French-Canadians who finally left Quebec seeking to better themselves in the United States often were branded "traitors."

Meanwhile English-speaking people launched profitable commercial and industrial enterprises and took control of business in French-Canada.

The writer discusses the position of the clergy, wary at first of the British regime that dealt strictly with them; alarmed later by loudspoken French-Canadian nationalists who seemed to endanger what liberties the clergy had won; and finally profoundly influential while the influence of civil leaders suffered.

Prof. Brunet says a general suspicion of civil administrators spread through French-Canada whose people failed to take advantage of the major fact that Confederation, little more than a century after the

DOWN FIVE ON BID OF TWO

"I had an opening bid and look what happened to me at two clubs," lamented South.

"As long as you keep on making silly overcalls you can expect the roof to fall on you regularly," commented North. "And furthermore, I am the unlucky one at this table." North went on. "Remember, I am your partner and the loss hurts me as much as you."

North was quite right about South's bid. The fact that a hand is worth an opening bid does not make it worth an overcall at the range of two. In particular there was little or no future to South's hand. He had a nice five-card club suit but he did not really expect to get to a club game. Then he had four cards in diamonds but that was the opponent's bid suit and those cards conquest, gave them their own autonomous provincial government.

He says the Quebec government could have been put to work immediately to help French-Canadians match the industrial and commercial activity of English-speaking business men.

But by then the French Canadian idea, developed within parish boundaries, was of a reduced role for the state because political thought was incomplete and there was no tradition of government.

Prof. Brunet says the propaganda directed against the state and its representatives prevented French-Canada from acquiring a true political conscience.

He blames the immorality of Quebec elections not on lack of moral standards but on absence of political education.

Today, says Prof. Brunet, rural-minded thinkers are fighting a thinning rearguard action though vestiges of their influence remain.

He says his people's educators and intellectuals must consider French-speaking Canadians as inhabitants of a wealthy land to whose development they must contribute and from whose resources they can become well-to-do masters of an urban society.

were not going to be worth much if his side played the hand.

Of course, it is possible to set up some hand where his two-club overcall would have brought in a profit but against that there are so many that produce substantial losses.

The play of the hand was short and bitter. West opened the queen of clubs. Eventually South was able to make his ace and king of clubs and ace of diamonds only. Down 1,400. Of course East and West had a game but it is very doubtful if they would have reached it if South had kept his silly mouth shut.

the following projects were completed: Renovating and painting henhouses and garages, paving entrances to garages, insulating attic of main part of old building, renewing double windows and recaulking the casings. The front of the building was repainted, the floors of several rooms in the old building covered with linoleum, completing the floor covering in all the rooms. The deep well pumping equipment was overhauled and duplicate equipment ordered, to prevent difficulties in the event of a break down.

A great deal of painting, plastering etc. had been done by the staff. Additional fire equipment was installed throughout the building. Fire drills have been instituted and a plan of evacuation in case of an emergency has been drawn up. A complete new terrace was installed at the West end of the new building. Projects now under study include the improvement of the sewage disposal bed and a reservoir to give additional water storage.

W. E. McIver, of the Admission Committee, stated 50 applications were considered, 93 forms for women were sent out from early in August last year until middle of May when 48 forms were sent out at one time. The result is that the waiting list for women is now considerably longer than it was at May 31.

Farm manager's report given by A. E. Dyson showed a very prosperous year. The farm supplied 6651 gallons of milk, 1669 gallons cream as well as vegetables to the Home.

Plans were made for the annual reception day to be held on Wednesday, August 7.

The guest speaker was Dr. J. R. D. Bayne who pointed out that while the number of old people was increasing steadily there is a smaller proportion of young people to look after or support them. The number of applicants for admission to the Wales Home is increasing and despite several additions, the Home cannot cope with all applications.

While it seems as if everyone wants to go to an old folks' home, Dr. Bayne continued, actually only 10 per cent of elderly people are living in institutions, the rest living in their own homes or with relatives. Not only are old people happier living at home, however excellent an institution may be, but if a substantial number decided to move into institutions it would be impossible to find space or staff.

To help old people carry on at home, some countries have organized such community services as home nursing care; home helps—women who go into the home to houseclean, cook or do the shopping for those unable to do so for themselves; meals on wheels assuring one full meal a day for those who cannot cook for themselves, and sometimes a subsidized laundry service.

He expressed the belief that institutions such as the Wales Home could do an important work in determining just what assistance old people needed by analyzing admission applications to decide whether community services would aid these people to remain at home. Questionnaires should be requested from local organizations to find out the particular problems of old people in each locality.

Rains Cause Some Alarm For Harvest

QUEBEC — Recent heavy rains have caused "some uneasiness" over harvesting operations in Quebec, the bureau of statistics reported.

The bureau said the situation "cannot be said to be alarming but more heat and less rain would greatly improve the chances of a better harvest in all crops."

Insect pests are numerous this year, the bureau reported. They include large numbers of aphids and white grubs.

Crops in the Abitibi district suffered frost damage July 2 and heavy rains have caused damage throughout the province.

Rainfall damage was especially heavy in the Quebec area, where the hay crop was reduced and the strawberry crop cut 25 per cent.

Weeds have become a serious threat in the Trois-Rivieres area, but pasture conditions vary from fair to good and the milk flow is satisfactory.

The season was "excellent" for milk production in the Eastern Townships, but strong winds and heavy rains were harming apples and retarding clover silage.

The hay crop had suffered in the Montreal area, but milk production had increased. The strawberry season closed recently and the crop was small.

Khrushchev boasted that Soviet relations with this Communist nation are so good they cannot be improved upon.

"But we want improved relations with other countries — with the United States," he said. "The United States is a strong and big country. We also think that we are not a small, weak country. I think we can be considered equals."

He said the Soviet Union wants an end to the arms race because "with modern developments of arms this race could become catastrophic."

He also told a Polish correspondent: "Our relations with Poland are very good now. We had that episode (last October's) demand by the Poles for greater independence) but it was like a pimple on your face. It disappeared completely and left no trace."

The Beecher Falls and Sherbrooke fire departments used a total of 4,500 feet of hose.

Sawyeridge volunteer fire chief Douglas Mackay and three men kept a supply of hose on hand, and helped in the battle. St. Isidore d'Auckland sent two men, a truck, and a pump with a supply of hose.

loomed as a threat to Eisenhower's foreign aid bill.

The House of Representatives rules committee Thursday cleared the $3,242,333,000 aid bill for House consideration starting Monday but left the Bow resolution in the deep freeze. Bow started studying the aid measure to see where he might offer his resolution as an amendment.

Representative Leo Allen of Illinois, the senior rules committee Republican, said the House "with-out any question" would tack Bow's amendment onto the aid bill if it comes to a recorded vote.

If the aid bill passes Congress in that form, Eisenhower would be faced with the choice of vetoing aid legislation which he says is vital to free world security or signing it with the Bow amendment in it. And the Bow resolution, say defence chiefs, could collapse the global security system by forcing the United States to withdraw its troops from around the world.

COLES - BARRINGTON.
RICHMOND — The marriage of Miss Helen Elaine Barrington, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Barrington, to Mr. Herbert Frederick Coles, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Coles, took place in Chalmers United Church on Saturday, June 29 at three o'clock, Rev. J. L. Dean officiating.

The bride, given away by her father, was gowning in an original of Chantilly lace and tulle over white satin, trimmed with seed pearls, clusters of which outlined the sabrina neckline, highlight of the fitted bodice, with pointed waistline and short sleeves. The bouffant skirt was trimmed with matching lace and fell into a chapel train. Doyle, an aunt of the bride.

MANNERS MAKE FRIENDS

If you say the wrong thing and realize it immediately, try to fix things up by saying something to ease the situation. But whatever you do, don't keep referring to the faux pas and trying to explain it away. You'll only make matters worse by harping on the subject.

Canadian Debs To Meet Queen

LONDON (P) — Forty-four Canadian debutantes have an important date in their diaries — July 18.

The girls, mostly between 17 and 19, will meet the Queen in the ballroom of Buckingham Palace and afterwards join several thousand guests for tea on the green lawns behind the palace.

Two days before the event, Mrs. Sydney D. Pierce, wife of the acting Canadian high commissioner in London, will entertain the girls to tea at her home where they will be given practical advice on how to curtsy calmly to the Queen.

Generally, a palace spokesman joins the tea-party and drops a few pointers on court protocol. It isn't done to wear one glove and carry the other. Either wear both, or remove both, says the rulebook.

Some of the girls take lessons weeks before the event and garden-party outfits have been planned months ahead.

Madame Vacani, who taught the royal children, Prince Charles and Princess Anne, how to dance, is a popular curtsy-teacher with many debs.

The debs being presented come from seven provinces, among them Judith Bennett, Sallie Branch, and Gael Eakin.

MAGOG and DISTRICT — NEWS —

Regatta Results Announced

MAGOG — Some eight thousand persons travelled to Wright's Beach last Sunday, to watch the international regatta sponsored by the Magog Retail and Service Association, which featured six classes of Canadian and United States entries.

Somewhat late in beginning because of choppy water, the racers staged a wonderful show for the huge crowd that gathered, and despite the water condition not one accident occurred.

WELL ORGANIZED

The many weeks of preparation that went into the planning of last Sunday's regatta were quite evident by the way in which the giant crowd of spectators were handled, and by the manner in which the races themselves were conducted.

A number of motor boats, labeled R.C.M.P. Patrol Boats carried mounties to make certain that the racing area would be clear for the 12 races. Other boats were posted at different spots serving as crash and emergency craft.

All the while on the beach, thousands were arriving by cars to watch this highly publicized event, an official check showing that more than 1,000 automobiles entered the grounds.

The traffic problem offered little difficulty though, due to the efficient direction of the Quebec provincial police who were assisted by twenty-nine members of the 73rd and 72nd Batteries of the 27th Field Regiment, R.C.A., who were under the direction of Mr. A. Langlois, O.C. of the Magog group.

Although there were no accidents, every precaution was taken, with an ambulance equipped with a pullmotor and a squad of St. John Ambulance first aid attendants on hand.

The races were officially opened, when Magog's new sports queen, Miss Jean Langlois was introduced to the crowd from the judges' platform. Directing the races were Guy Moreau of the Montreal Boating Club and Yvon Blais of CKAC Montreal.

"Pure Milk" By-Law Passed

No More Raw Products After Jan. 1, 1958

MAGOG — (Special) — The efforts of several aldermen and various service clubs here to have a by-law obliging the pasteurization of milk were rewarded when the City Council adopted a regulation to that effect recently.

Despite the fact that similar laws have been in force in other cities in the Province for many years, the Magog by-law was not passed without a strong opposition from some citizens.

Early in June the Council received a petition signed by about 150 people demanding that they be permitted to purchase raw unpasteurized milk.

However, the Council proceeded with the adoption of by-law No. 353, proposed by Ald. Reginald Urwick, enforcing compulsory pasteurization of milk. The by-law will not be enforced until January 1 following a request by local dairy operators that they be given time to set up the necessary equipment for pasteurization.

Action was first taken by the Magog Lions Club after the members heard a warning by Dr. T. J. Quintin that one out of every four quarts of milk delivered in the Magog area is the potential carrier of one or more diseases as well as other harmful bacteria.

Other items covered during recent council meetings, included an increase of .07 cents to the contractor who handles garbage collection. The increase is based on the population figure and is calculated on the cost per person on a yearly basis.

A petition was submitted requesting the council to put a closer surveillance at the Merry Point park at night.

The L.O.C.F. of the St. Jean Bosco parish notified the aldermen that the organization was in favor of the civic centre.

Magog Tourist Week A Success But Merchants Say Sales Poor

MAGOG — Magog's Tourist Week ended with much more activity than it began, when a tourist queen was crowned Saturday evening and Sunday saw a regatta attended by some 8,000 persons.

But summing up the total results of the week long event shows little gain in business. The promotion was primarily staged to attract outsiders to the city, but poor weather harassed the district for the first four days. Members of Magog's Retail and Service Association undaunted they are already planning a similar promotion for 1958.

Dr. John Bryant In Boston Clinic

Anyone wishing to send him cards, can address their correspondence to Dr. John Bryant, The New England Baptist Hospital, Boston, Mass.

Magog Man Wins Association Car

Keys to the car were presented to Cote by Arthur Charron and Marcel Dore, chairmen of the drive.

gasoline costs you less

If you work at a job—and most of us do—how many minutes does it take to earn enough to buy a gallon of gasoline?

33 minutes? Well, that was true for the average Canadian back in 1939. 29 minutes? You're right if you're thinking about prices in 1946!

16 minutes? Correct. According to government figures, that's how long it takes an average Canadian today to earn the price of a gallon of gasoline.

On the score of performance, you're getting an even bigger bargain. For today's regular gasolines are far superior to the premium grades sold only ten years ago.

Second Half Of National Pennant Race Opens On Torrid Note; Berra Homers To Give Yanks Win Over A's

Think that was a torrid first half of the season in the National League? Well, you haven't seen anything yet, pal, what with a player feud, a couple of no-hit bids and injuries to key players popping up in the break away from the final run to the pennant.

Taking the happenings one at a time:

1. Cincinnati's Don Hoak vowed "I'll get that Neal before this series is over, either on or off the field," while still riled up after being tagged with an "ambush" right hand from Brooklyn's Charlie Neal in the second of two fights Thursday night at Ebbets Field. The Dodgers won it 5-4 on the second of Duke Snider's pair of two-run homers after Brooklyn's Jim Gilliam and Cincinnati's Raul Sanchez set off a big seventh-inning brawl when Gilliam was low-bridged by a Sanchez pitch.

2. After Chicago's Bob Rush had no-hit Philadelphia for seven innings only to lose 1-0 in 11 innings, rookie Jack Sanford set down the Cubs with 7 1/3 innings of perfect ball for his 11th victory, 3-1, and a twin-night sweep that hoisted Philadelphia into second place. The Phils, however, again lost catcher Stan Lopata, this time with a wrenched knee.

3. Milwaukee, slipping from second to third one percentage point behind the Phillies despite a 7-2 victory at Pittsburgh, lost shortstop Felix Mantilla and center fielder Billy Bruton in a fielding collision.

4. Southpaw Johnny Antonelli five-hit St. Louis to win 1-0 as New York Giants shaved the Cardinals' first-place edge to two games and ended their winning streak at five games.

In the "drab" American League, Mickey Mantle's 23rd home run gave the first-place New York Yankees a 3-2 11-inning victory at Kansas City and a 3 1/2-game lead over Chicago White Sox, beaten 6-5 by Washington. Third-place Boston went 10 innings to beat Detroit 9-7. And Baltimore jumped from sixth to fourth with a pair of 5-4 decisions over Cleveland.

At Brooklyn Snider's clouts, his 17th and 18th of the season, twice brought the Dodgers from behind. The first chased starter Brooks Lawrence. The other was off Tom Acker, who lost it after replacing Sanchez—booted out of the game along with Neal, Gilliam and Hoak. Roger Craig won in relief as the Reds lost their sixth in a row and fell within a

Pros Take Hoad In Stride; Aussies Won't Miss Him

By Harry Grayson

NEW YORK—(NEA)—The consensus of tennis people is that the $125,000 guaranteed Lew Hoad will do little more than supply new plasma to professional tournaments and tours.

They can't see the Wimbledon champion's defection to the pros altering the Davis Cup situation, which means another romp for the Australians in the Challenge Round late next December. And they don't expect him to do much winning as a pro.

"Let's say that the better playing pros will stretch Hoad," says Frank Sedgman, fellow Australian, speaking for the entire group. Sedgman was the big amateur for two years before joining the money ranks in January of 1953. "Ken Rosewall beat Hoad three or four times before coming over with us last January," he points out. "Pancho Segura beat Rosewall on the tour when Pancho Gonzales didn't. Segura is fresh from beating Rosewall quite easily in South America."

"Hoad has a good attack, but his defensive game does not match that of Gonzales. Gonzales' big serve is much more consistent. His ground game is vastly superior. He'll beat Hoad with backhand and forehand passing shots and his net rushing game."

"Hoad is too erratic to stick out as a pro. Lew hits a wonderful tempo at times, such as when he lost only five games to Ashley Cooper in the All-England final. The trouble is that he will turn right around and lose to a play-

Former Amateur King Holds Own With Top Pros; Hawkins, Ransom And Ford Stalemated With 136, Norman Two Off

KITCHENER—(CP)—Moe Norman, who chases around a golf course like a man rushing to catch a train, could be the brightest Canadian on the big-time tournament trail. Undoubtedly, he's the most colorful homebrew seen in years.

The 27-year-old Kitchener-born Moe has taken just two rounds in the $25,000 Canadian open championships to show he has the ability to match shots with the best Canadian and American pros. As the 72-hole tournament headed into the home stretch today this comparative unknown was just two strokes off the pace.

The carefree Moe, who talks almost as fast as he plays, breezed to a three-under-par 68 Thursday over the newly manicured Westmount Golf and Country Club course, a 138 total. That made him the leading Canadian and a big threat for the $3,500 first-place money if he took the game seriously.

Leading the field with 136 were three seasoned campaigners—poker-faced Freddie Hawkins of El Paso, Tex., scowling Doug Ford of Mahopac, N. Y., biggest money winner this year, and Henry Ransom, at 46 one of the oldest men in the tournament.

Norman, playing in his second big pro tournament since he deserted the amateur ranks last winter, shared the 138 bracket with John Knight of Springfield, Ill., and power-hitting George Bayer, the six-foot-four former pro football player from Los Angeles, who posted 70-68 scores.

There was a big congestion in the runner-up spot with five at 137. They were Bill Casper, Bonita, Calif.; Ed Oliver, Canton, Mass.; Bo Winger, Odessa, Tex.; Gay Brewer, Cincinnati; and Pat Schwab, Bonita, Calif.

The 25-year-old Brewer, with a competitive course-record 65, led the swarm of shotsmiths who shattered par. The wholesale slaughter came about when the pros left their squawks in the locker room and tournament officials ordered grass cutting on the fairways and more accommodating placing of the pins.

The complaints followed Wednesday's first round when only 16 of the field of more than 160 managed to bust par.

Along with Norman, two other Canadians were well in contention. Gerry Kesselring of Toronto shot a 69 for 139 and little Johnny Henrick of Ottawa cut loose with a five-under-par 67 to match Kesselring's 36-hole score.

The next Canadians were at 142. They were Jerry Magee, Toronto amateur, and Murray Tucker, Toronto pro. Stan Leonard of Lachute, Que., and Nick Weslock, Windsor, Ont., were a stroke back at 143. Al Balding of Toronto was at 144.

Pat Fletcher of Montreal, 1954 open champion, had a two-round total of 149.

Ebbets Field Took Over From Gardens Last Night Staging Two Unlisted Bouts With Redlegs As Opponents

BROOKLYN—(AP)—A bitter feud was brewing between Cincinnati Redlegs and Brooklyn Dodgers today as the result of Thursday night's two scraps which would have done credit to Madison Square Garden's boxing ring.

With Ebbets Field's baseball diamond serving as a ring, Brooklyn's Junior Gilliam, weighing 175, and Cincinnati's Raul Sanchez, weighing 170, squared off for the first of two fights which brought players from both teams running to either get into a fight or attempt to make peace.

The second fight, involving the Dodgers' Charlie Neal and the Redlegs' Don Hoak, a former Brooklyn player, was not as evenly matched regarding weights. Hoak, who said "I was hit from ambush," weighed in at 182, Neal at 159.

"I'll get that Neal before the series is over, either on or off the field," said Hoak. "I was hit from ambush, when I wasn't looking."

Neal said he entered the melee to protect Gilliam, who collided with Sanchez on the first base line as the Brooklyn second baseman's attempted drag bunt popped foul.

"Every Brooklyn pitcher has orders to dust off a batter when the count is two strikes and no balls," said manager Birdie Tebbets of the Redlegs.

Manager Walt Alston of the Dodgers denied this with the report: "Ask my pitchers."

Sanchez sent Gilliam sprawling on the ground with a pitch before the Dodger infielder attempted his drag bunt.

Some players said the bad blood started in Cincinnati on Brooklyn's recent western trip when Sanchez knocked down Roy Campanella.

Richmond, With Help Of Columbus, Snap Losing Streak, Blank Jets 3-0; Royals Upset Red Wings, Havana Wins

Richmond Virginians with an assist from their Columbus "cousins" have snapped the slump which had dropped them into third place in the International League race.

The Virginians swept their fourth straight from the Jets as Bob Wiesler hurled a four-hit 3-0 victory Thursday night. The triumph gave Richmond possession of second place, 3 1/2 games behind Buffalo Bisons, who whipped Toronto Maple Leafs 10-3.

Rene Valdes pitched a three-hitter as Montreal Royals set back the fourth-place Rochester Red Wings, 6-0, and Havana Sugar King's edged Miami Marlins, 4-3 with a run in the ninth.

It was Richmond's 10th victory in 11 games against Columbus and second shutout in a row. Tommy Carroll's home run finished the scoring in the second. Wiesler struck out seven and walked three in posting his seventh victory in 13 decisions.

The Bisons swept their four game set with Toronto, the

Manager Cus D'Amato Claims Fighters Don't Go Stale Just Get Bored: No Predictions For Coming World Bout

By WHITNEY MARTIN
GREENWOOD LAKE, N. Y. (P) — Cus D'Amato, who talks in nice, neat circles, so you expect his words to come out like smoke rings, was discoursing on such varied subjects as fighters going stale, intelligence, and Cus D'Amato.

D'Amato is the one-man oratorical society who manages Floyd Patterson, the heavyweight champion of the world.

Patterson, a quiet, well-spoken young man, is training here to defend his title against Tommy Hurricane Jackson July 29 at the Polo Grounds. D'Amato, to whom a question is a personal challenge to circumnavigate the globe in giving his answer, was available for comment at a pre workout luncheon.

"Fighters don't go stale," he was saying. "They just get bored. How can they overtrain? Old-time firemen on locomotives and stokers on ships burned up more energy than a fighter does."

"The more intelligent a fighter is, the more liable he is to get bored. Patterson would get bored, as he learns quickly and once he has learned something the repetition bores him. That's why I only work a sparring part-

Injuries Piling Up In Majors

Injuries continue to pile up in major league baseball with bruises and strains again sidelining key men in the pennant races.

Milwaukee Braves, already hurt in their fight for the National League flag by a host of injuries that include slugging Joe Adcock's fractured leg, lost centre fielder Billy Bruton and shortstop Felix Mantilla Thursday night in a fielding collision.

And Philadelphia Phillies, a point ahead of the Braves in second place, lost catcher Stan Lopata, who wrenched a knee.

In the American, Cleveland's veteran righthander Bob Lemon came up with a strained elbow.

Bruton and Mantilla, both due for x-rays today, collided in pursuit of Bill Virdon's blooper in the first inning at Pittsburgh. Bruton needed eight stitches in his upper lip and also suffered a badly bruised knee. Mantilla suffered a bruised chest.

Wings Edge Bears 12-10 In P. O. N. Y.

Coach Bill Provis' Wings took a close decision over the Johnny Dowling coached Bears in a game played in the P.O.N.Y. league last night at Sangster Park. Wings took the game by a 12-10 result.

At the end of three full innings Wings were ahead by three runs getting three in the first and six in the top of the third. Bears came back with six in the bottom of the third. Home runs and errors played a big part in the first three innings with each team committing three mis-cues. Walsh, for Wings, along with Kirby, of the Bears, hit out home runs in these stanzas.

Wings in the remaining four innings chalked up three more runs and although the Bears made a desperate bid to draw even they managed to touch the plate only four times and lost a close 12-10 game.

SAFETY TIPS FOR SUMMER SWIMMERS

With the outdoor season getting into full swing and beaches and pools welcoming bathers, it's time to think of some simple safety rules, such as those illustrated here. An average of 7,000 people lose their lives annually by drowning. About 50 per cent of these deaths are the result of playing in the water. The other 50 per cent happen as a result of accidents such as being pushed into the water or falling from upset boats. It's a good thing to remember that drowning accidents have only two potentials — either death or complete recovery.
