CAIRO (CP) — Egypt announced today it had closed the Gulf of Aqaba to Israeli shipping, sealing off the major Israeli port of Eilat from the Red Sea and trade routes beyond, heightening the danger of war in the Middle East.

But a Panamanian freighter, identified as the 3,500-ton Amalia, sailed into Eilat harbor at dawn today. It crossed the Straits of Tiran at the month of the gulf after dusk Monday night.

Egyptian President Nasser told airmen at a front-line air base in Sinai, "The Israeli flag will not pass through Aqaba Gulf and our sovereignty over the gulf entrance is not negotiable. If Israel wants to threaten us with war they are welcome."

The authoritative Cairo newspaper Al Ahran said Nasser also banned ships of other nations from carrying strategic materials to Israel through the gulf.

Ships entering the strategic gulf would have to pass Sharm el Sheikh, where a towering fortified post guards the southern approach to the gulf. The Egyptian Army was reported to have occupied Sharm el Sheikh Monday after United Nations troops left it at Nasser's demand.

FORMIDABLE BLOCK

It was from Sharm el Sheikh that Egyptian artillery blocked Israeli-bound shipping for eight years until Israeli troops occupied the post and nearby positions at the mouth of the gulf in November, 1956.

They later withdrew and handed the strongholds over to the UN emergency force.

In Israel, Premier Levi Eshkol met top ministers and officials for emergency talks today after receiving reports of Nasser's speech.

Informed Israeli sources said Nasser's latest move could mean war.

Reliable sources reported an Egyptian cruiser, four torpedo boats and two submarines passed through the Suez Canal earlier, and observers here believed they were headed for the Red Sea and a gulf blockade.

Arson suspected in Brussels fire that killed 50

BRUSSELS — (CP) — Arson was suspected today as the cause of a fire that destroyed two department stores in the heart of Brussels and killed at least 50 persons. But the toll was expected to go much higher as rescue teams combed the smoldering ruins for bodies.

The Associated Press reported about 200 persons missing, with 13 bodies recovered.

Reuters new agency gave an unofficial figure of at least 50 dead based on a fireman's report that he discovered more than 30 bodies huddled together in the wreckage of the five-storey Innovation department store.

No official death toll was available, but Belgian Premier Paul van den Boeyants told reporters when he visited the disaster Monday night: "We must unfortunately expect several dozens of victims."

LIST STILL GROWING

A spokesman for the store said the list of the missing was still growing. It was feared it would be the world's worst fire since 323 persons were killed in a circus fire in Niteroi, Brazil, Dec. 17, 1961.

The fire roared through Innovation at the peak of Monday's mid-afternoon shopping crush. Scores of shoppers and staff were trapped in the inferno and others plunged to their deaths from windows in desperate attempts to escape.

Innovation and a smaller store, Priba, were destroyed and an adjoining silk products company and several other buildings were still blazing hours later. It was not yet known today how many of the more than 1,000 persons in the stores were able to escape.

Advised away

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Johnson administration regards with deep worry today the possibility of a shooting war may break out in the tinderbox Middle East.

As a precaution, the state department advised tourists and other Americans on non-essential business to pull out of the danger area — Israel, Egypt, Syria and Jordan — and suggested those headed that way put off their visits if possible.

By rough estimate some 10,000 Americans are in the four-country danger zone.

Cool to play

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. — (CP) — A play set in Newfoundland opened the 1967 Dominion Drama Festival Monday but got only a lukewarm reception from adjudicator Guy Beaulac of Quebec City.

The plays are all Canadian for the first time in the festival's history. Mr. Beaulac said there appeared to be little collaboration between Harold Horwood of St. John's, whose first novel Tomorrow morning Will Be Sunday formed the basis of the play, and Tom Cahill, who adapted it to the stage.

Exprescue

MONTREAL — (CP) — A specially-trained rescue squad is always ready to bring comfort and safety to anyone accidentally stranded high above the ground on any of numerous rides at La Ronde, the world fair amusement centre.

The 40-man squad, believed by Expo 67 officials to be the only one of its kind in the world, is headed by Ron Lee, the rescue director.

So far the biggest job handled by the squad was the evacuation of the 33,000,000 Gyrotron which had broken down almost immediately after the official opening of Expo April 27.

Busy weekend

Two royal visits, a fiddlehead festival, a "love-in," a centennial sports festival, trips to the cottage, crowded highways, and fireworks earmarked Canada's Victoria Day weekend as a festive occasion.

The Dominion Drama Festival finals opened at St. John's, Nfld., 600 students on Parliament Hill and Expo 67 packed them in. The world's fair had more than 1,000,000 visitors during the weekend. Air Canada reported that traffic boardings at Montreal Sunday totalled 4,027 — the first time the 4,000 mark has been topped during a single day at Montreal.

Dan buys into project

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Daniel Johnson returned from Paris Monday with an agreement to participate in a French satellite project that would give Quebec greater presence on the international scene.

Mr. Johnson, cheered by about 200 Quebecers on his arrival, talked triumphantly of a "new dimension" in France-Quebec relations after his five-day visit, which resulted in nine new projects of co-operation.

He won French approval for a Quebec role in France's proposed satellite communications project, which envisages exchange of radio and television broadcasts among French-speaking people of the world.

He said details of the telecommunications project have to be worked out.

LOOK TO OTTAWA

Mr. Johnson expressed surprise that the federal government had not moved into this field. He said he saw no problems with Ottawa and would like to co-operate if the federal government also wanted a role in the project.

The premier told a press conference that all nine new projects, including the satellite proposal, will be worked out within the framework of existing educational and cultural agreements between France and Quebec. Other projects include creation of a joint committee to study the possibility of French investment in Quebec and intensification of exchanges at the technical, administrative and cultural level.

MORE SMOKE THAN FLAME — A fire which was quickly doused by Sherbrooke firemen flared up at a construction site near 31 Moore Street on Saturday afternoon. It caused total damages of about $1000 mostly to rubber, wood, and construction material generally. It was on the Soeurs Dominicaines property. Cause: undetermined. (Revised photo by Gerry Lemay)

Hong Kong attack shifts

HONG KONG (CP) — After 11 days of wild anti-British rioting, Hong Kong's leftist Chinese shifted their attack on the colonial administration to the labor front.

Drivers from leftist unions went on strike, making idle more than 400 double-decker buses and severely crippling public transportation on Hong Kong Island.

Three thousand dockyard workers went on a sit-down strike. Leaders of the seamen's and textile workers' unions were reported planning strike calls.

COUNTING GOOD DEFENSE TACTIC

Jim: "Books seem to be arriving from all directions these days."

Oswald: "Here's one called 'Killing Defense at Bridge' by the Scottish expert H. W. Kelsey."

Jim: "He stresses counting as the basis of good defense and starts with the sort of elementary hand that looks easy when club and a ruff are two tricks as king of hearts will be a bird trick.

East asks himself, "How can we beat this hand?" He needs to find another trick in his partner's hand. What can that trick be? It can be the ace of diamonds. If it is, then the trick will never get away.

Suppose it is the ace of spades? That trick will keep also. How about the king of spades?

you see all the cards but should be just about as easy at the table."

Oswald: "Mr. Kelsey does not comment on West's choice of the ace of clubs as his opening lead. He just points out that West does make that lead. Nor does he comment on East's choice of his lowest club."

Jim: "His, Mr. Kelsey's comment on the first trick is that West opens the ace of clubs. East plays the four and South the three. He does not discuss the merit of that lead since he is concerned with West's problem at trick two."

Oswald: "He points out that if West reviews the bidding he will expect South to hold at least ten cards in the majors and that there will be little or no chance to defeat the contract unless the defense can pick up two diamond tricks. He suggests, quite correctly, that West should lead his three of diamonds and go after those two diamond tricks right away."

Jim: "The diamond shift produces those two tricks and South will also have to lose a heart later on."

Oswald: "He fails to point out that East made a very fine play when he followed with the four of clubs. Most players would automatically drop the seven. East had obviously counted declarer's hand also, but would still have played the seven if he did not want his partner to make the natural shift to a diamond."

West sees that if he gives his partner an immediate club ruff that king of spades will never make a trick because South will have time to draw trumps, after East makes his king, and discard any losing spades on dummy's nice long club suit.

East thinks a little while longer. If South happens to hold the king-king doubleton in spades and four diamonds the spade lead will give South a chance to get rid of his losing club before West can get his ruff in but East's preliminary checkup had disclosed the strong probability that if South had held 5-4-2-2 distribution he would not have held two no-trump. After all these conclusions East leads a spade and the hand collapses.

HOW DEFENDER COUNTS HAND

Here is a hand from H. W. Kelsey's book, "Killing Defense at Bridge," which shows how a defender can and should count a hand. We are going to use our own code word "ARCH" to illustrate East's thinking.

East Analyzes the lead. He notes that it surely is a singleton. He reviews the bidding and notes that South should hold exactly five hearts. South also holds two clubs and East decides that in all probability he holds three cards each in spades and diamonds.

Vandals strike for 3rd time in month

Vandals, for the third time this month, gained admittance to an unoccupied apartment on Alencon Street in Sherbrooke over the weekend causing damages of about $1,000.

The occupants of the apartment, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lemieux, of 145 Alencon Street, came back after a week-end absence to find their furniture damaged, sheets and drapes cut up, and Mrs. Lemieux's beaver coat worth $750 cut up in shreds.

The walls were scribbled with chalk and a large M had been written on the bedstead.

The two other tenants in the three tenant building were not aware of the vandalism.

Mr. Lemieux and police concluded that since the front door was locked, the vandals could have gained admittance only through a window.

This is the third time Alencon Street apartments have been raided in the last month.

The first raids were at 321 Alencon at the apartments of Guy Roy and Jacques de Courval.

MPs cannot speak for all Canada

One of the most futile things at this time — Messrs. Diefenbaker, Gordon and Douglas to the contrary notwithstanding — would be for Canadian Members of Parliament to engage in an extended debate on the war in Vietnam.

Canadian MPs are not alone in wishing an end to all the misery and suffering resulting from the hostilities in Southeast Asia. President Johnson and his colleagues would like to find some way of decently ending the struggle and diverting their efforts to the fight against poverty at home.

But it is doubtful if the Canadian Parliament is justified in acceding to the demand of Mr. Diefenbaker to pass a resolution which would "put plainly before the world the viewpoint of the Canadian people."

For one thing there is a considerable diversity of views among Canadians regarding the war and no little confusion over its aims and purposes and unless each individual parliamentarian took a personal poll of his constituents he could not truthfully say that he was representing the wishes of his people.

Any resolution which Parliament might pass without its members having made this study would only accentuate a misconception in other countries and embarrass the government in any efforts it may be making to bring about the end of the conflict.

Once a nation repudiates a policy of studied neutrality and goes on record as being for or against the policies of one of the combatants, its usefulness as a mediator virtually ends.

Fish subsidies a dangerous game

The Quebec government is stepping on dangerous ground in its decision to subsidize catches by Quebec commercial fishermen on the basis of size and weight of fish caught.

In attempting to justify the Quebec action, Commerce Minister Bellemare declares that while it is the first action of this kind taken by a Canadian province, it is essential because Quebec fishermen need special help because of the steep decline in fresh and frozen fish prices.

One danger is that it might lead other provinces into a subsidy race, although the Nova Scotia fishermen, whose catch is about five times that of their Quebec confreres, have shown little enthusiasm for this form of government assistance.

Basic reason is that the United States may regard the importation of subsidized Quebec-caught catches and dumping and accede to the demands of fishermen from the northeastern states to raise their tariffs.

According to Halifax reports, the Nova Scotia fishing industry generally feels that more flexible marketing and switching of emphasis from one type of fish to another are the best ways of achieving greater returns.

Aerosol can becomes medical tool

The aerosol spray is one of those little convenience gadgets that has changed our daily lives in more ways than we realize, and now it may begin to save lives.

Physicians at Walter Reed Army Hospital near Washington have developed a plastic film which can be sprayed from an aerosol can on open wounds.

The plastic forms a cakelike surface when it comes into close contact with moisture in the tissue, closing the wound and stopping bleeding without sutures.

It adheres to the underlying tissue and is absorbed into the normal scar that forms, or it may be flaked off later for surgical treatment.

The Walter Reed team reports that it successfully tested the plastic on combat wounds in Vietnam and now the doctors propose to include small spray cans of the compound in every soldier's first aid kit.

Tariff pact offers wide chances

The Kennedy Round has been concluded successfully. Not as successfully, perhaps, as its sponsors originally hoped, but satisfactorily enough. The aim was for a 50 per cent cut across the board in tariffs. This has been achieved in some areas but the reductions over all according to Trade Minister Robert Winters, average out to between 33 and 35 per cent.

The Winnipeg Free Press

Lower prices on these goods, and lower prices mean tougher competition for domestic products. The consumer should benefit here both in savings on imported items and on those made in Canada. The end of the Kennedy Round does not mean that changes will happen overnight. The negotiations took four years; it will be another five before all tariff reductions are in effect. But the new agreement is an encouraging move in the direction of freer world trade. Who will initiate the next step remains to be seen. But it must, and should, be a move in the direction suggested not long ago by Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp — that certain key products of international exchange should be completely freed of tariffs and other restrictions. Only in the freer flow of trade between nations can nations hope to prosper — and Canada, as one of the world's major trading nations, has one of the largest stakes here.

What this means — or could mean — for Canada was explained by Mr. Winters on Monday. The tariff reductions will affect some $3.5 billion worth of goods that Canada now ships abroad, and some $1.5 billion of goods from abroad that enter this country.

Reductions in tariffs on goods sold abroad will provide a larger market for these goods. But this will happen only if Canadian industry takes advantage of this new opportunity. It will not be able to do so if production costs in Canada rise to the point where Canadian goods outprice themselves in foreign markets when they meet competition from domestic products or from products of other exporting nations whose price structure is lower than ours. In Canada last year, wages in mining manufacturing and public utilities went up about twice as much as did productivity in these sectors. Higher labor costs without a corresponding increase in production leads to higher production costs which lead to a higher price structure which leads to a weaker competitive position for these products in foreign markets. Clearly, if Canada is to benefit from this aspect of the Kennedy Round, a vigorous effort will have to be made to make our production costs competitive with other exporting nations which may be going after the same markets.

Reductions in tariffs on goods coming to Canada are also an incentive for greater efficiency in Canadian industry. Lower tariffs mean

Never forgot enforced servility

Tired of begging in the West, Iran turns to the Eastern bloc

MOHAMMED MOSSADEGH died two months ago. Largely unremembered by his compatriots, he was indirectly responsible for the course of events which has turned Iran onto her Eastern economic and diplomatic path.

By WILLIAM POGSON

His story begins in August, 1951. After months of fruitless and bitter negotiations with the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company, now trading under the global banner of BP, Mossadegh nationalized the Iranian oilfields and the Abadan refinery.

The action was predictable. The British, stubbornly ignoring the winds of change in the Middle East, had consistently declined to give Iran a New Deal. It was not Mossadegh's fault that the nationalization of his country's major asset was to lead Iran to disaster.

Encouraged by the Americans, he was deserted at the crucial moment and his country was subjected to a three year Anglo-American economic blockade. Iran, in disowning Mossadegh in 1953 and temporarily mending its fences with the West, never forgot the years of enforced servility. At a time when its economy required bolstering with massive private and public aid, all she received was arms.

THOROUGH CORRUPTION If the West had counted on Shah Reza Pahlavi as a weak man, they were soon disillusioned.

Iran ten years ago was utterly corrupt. Dar Yek — the insidious ten per cent kickback which permeated every structure of the nation — was rampant. Two per cent of the population owned 95 per cent of the arable land.

The bazaar money-lender, who charged extortionate interest rates (20 per cent, was not uncommon) strangled the economy and cornered the market in essential foodstuffs.

The lot of the Iranian peasant was almost comparable to that of the Asiatic Indian. Absentee landlordism enforced a system of near serfdom. If ever a country was ripe for Communist take-over it was Iran.

The Shah, in the face of almost hysterical opposition from the leading landowners, started the wheels moving in land reform 10 years ago. His estates were among the first dismantled and distributed among the less fortunate.

Corruption in high places was ruthlessly stifled. Two Iranian generals, friends of the Shah, were imprisoned for 10 years for accepting kickbacks from contractors.

A massive co-operative educational scheme was launched. An appeal, which many heeded, was sent to thousands of Iranian students who had not returned home over the years after finishing their studies in Western universities.

The dependence of Iran upon the West had for many years worried the more progressive senior civil servants.

They indicated to the Shah that the reopening of the southern oilfields at Aga Jari, Gat Serang and Misi-Suliman, for example, and the recommissioning of the refinery at Abadan, were not contributing to the Iranian economy fast enough to back the ambitious plans the Shah had for the country.

They pointed to increased oil production in Iraq, Kuwait, Saudi Arabia and elsewhere in the Middle East compared to the slow rate of their own recovery.

They noted that the same companies had conflicting oil exploration interests in the Middle East, and equated this in terms of dependence on primarily Western markets.

The surrender of thousands of square miles of concessions by Western-owned companies earlier this year, plus a promised 17 1/2 per cent increase in Iranian crude production, was a major victory for Iran.

However it has an ironic twist. A DEAL WITH RUSSIA Part of the deal was the construction of a massive pipeline from southern Iran to the Soviet Caspian border by the consortium-operated oilfields. In effect, Western oil activity was to be used to supply natural gas to pay for increasing Soviet capital goods.

Iran, tired of asking the West for assistance, has now turned to the Eastern bloc and the Soviet Union for the construction of steel mills, machine tool plants, grain silos and mining equipment.

Gas will flow through a 42 inch pipeline across the border of Azerbaijan province in the Soviet Union by early 1970. Its capacity is 15 billion cubic metres a year, of which Iran will syphon off only five billion.

This phase of the Iranian-Soviet barter deal is to pay off the 2 1/2 per cent, $288 million Russian loan used to build an industrial complex around the ancient city of Isfahan.

A BONANZA AREA Encouraged by the practicality of such agreements — and there are parallel trade pacts with many Eastern European countries and France — Iran in April extended this co-operation one step further: Iran and Russia signed an agreement to jointly explore and exploit the southern Caspian oil reserves.

This has long been considered by Soviet oilmen as potentially the largest oilfield in the world.

Oil is a declining and non-renewable resource. At present there is plenty of crude oil available. But in 20 years the position may be entirely different.

Within the context of present Russian crude oil supplies to Western Europe, additional access to a bonanza area seems strange. However the Shah seems to think that the Russians would like to operate in the Western market for Middle East crude as much for nuisance value as for commercial purposes.

Mohammed Mossadegh may get the last laugh after all. — (TNS) —

To gain friends

South Africa bends race bars

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — South Africa, seeking to woo friends among its black northern neighbors, is bending some racial barriers.

Racial segregation is still strictly enforced for South Africa's 14,800,000 non-whites, but the best white facilities are offered to black dignitaries from other countries.

This new friendship offensive has lined up three neighbors seeking economic betterment. Swaziland is almost certain to become No. 4 when it reaches independence in the next year or two.

Although Prime Minister Vorster has repeatedly offered friendship to the rest of Africa, most black nations remain bitter against South Africa because of apartheid — race segregation — policies.

For the rest, the proffered hand of friendship creates the problem that everyday segregation laws and practices here would humiliate any black envoy.

Vorster is following the example set by his predecessor, Hendrik Verwoerd, when Basutoland's prime minister, Chief Leboa Jonathan, visited South Africa four days before Verwoerd was assassinated in 1966.

A senior government official entertained Jonathan at lunch in a leading whites-only hotel — but in a private dining room.

Basutoland now is independent Lesotho. In early January Jonathan met Vorster in Cape Town for the first time. Again the black leader dined in a private room of a leading hotel, this time as a guest of Foreign Affairs Minister Hilgard Muller.

In March, a three-man ministerial delegation from Malawi, in central Africa, spent more than a week touring South Africa and signed a trade agreement.

The three ministers had cordial meetings and discussions with Vorster and most of his cabinet. They were accommodated in the best hotels and received treatment South Africa normally reserved for whites.

A delegation from Botswana paid an official visit to Pretoria. Two white members of the delegation did not present any problem but the third was an African.

The government relaxed regulations so they could all stay at a leading hotel and eat together in the hotel's dining room.

Malawi, Lesotho and Botswana are heavily dependent on South Africa for trade and for income their migratory laborers earn in South Africa's gold mines.

President Allen Channell welcomed the visiting Lions from clubs in Verdun, Montreal, Lachine, Lakeshore, Sherbrooke, Coaticook and Beloeil.

He read the names of the proposed slate of officers for 1958: Gerard Lacroix, president; J. S. Three candidates moved this weekend into the final stages of a campaign for a federal by-election in Brome-Missisquoi. The vacancy came through the death of Liberal member Henri Gosselin. The line-up includes Joseph L. Deslauriers, 55-year-old mayor of Sutton, Liberal; Henri Demers, 55, Farnham business man; Progressive Conservative; and Philip Borgan, farmer from St. Ignace de Stanbridge, representing the CCF.

In the 1949 general election, Mr. Gosselin captured Brome-Missisquoi with 8,831 votes against 6,265 for his Progressive-Conservative opponent and 681 votes which went to two minor candidates. The seat is traditionally Liberal.

STANSTEAD — At the annual meeting held in Stanstead John W. Sancton, of Montreal, was elected president of the Stanstead College Alumni Association, 35 — for Frank B. Wilson, of Montreal, while F. Cecil Miller, of Rock Island, was re-elected treasurer.

Dr. Charles W. Colby and J. Harmon Andrews both of Montreal, were re-elected honorary presidents and honorary vice-presidents respectively.

Dr. Gerald W. Halpenny and Rev. R. Graham Barr, both of Montreal were elected first and second vice-presidents respectively. Other executives are: Rev. Errol C. Amaron, principal, L. G. McGillon, bursar; both, of Stanstead; Arthur Curtis, Mrs. N. W. Hardy and Miss Evelyn MacDonald, all of Montreal. Miss Elsie McFadden, of Stanstead, becomes alumni reporter for the college magazine.

The PRAYER FOR TODAY FROM The Upper Room

The Kingdom of heaven is like unto a merchant man seeking goodly pearls: who, when he had found one pearl of great price, went and sold all that he had, and bought it. (Matthew 13:45-46)

PRAYER: Lord Jesus, help us to realize that the power of Thy love can be ours only if we give ourselves fully to Thee. Grant us the spirit of willingness to give our all in Thy service. In Thy name we pray. Amen.

COMMENT

by Lubor J. Zink

OTTAWA — (TNS) — Our Government is playing host to the first of several Communist potentates who are using the occasion of Canada's Centennial to pay us a visit and exploit Expo 67 for a bit of high-powered Marxist propaganda.

The pioneer of the unprecedented procession of heads of state whose totalitarian regimes are dedicated to destruction of democratic freedoms is Antonin Novotny. His official title is president of the Czechoslovak Socialist Republic — a designation introduced after the Communist coup in 1948.

In his country, which as a plain Czechoslovak republic used to be a prosperous model of humanitarian liberalism under Presidents Masaryk and Benes, he is generally referred to as "The Old Stalinist."

An appropriate name

It is a fitting and damning description, for, as the Ottawa Journal observed in a brief editorial last Saturday Novotny is "the only Communist leader in Eastern Europe, apart from East Germany's Ulbricht, who has survived both the Stalin and Khrushchev eras."

Mr. Novotny not only survived but made his way to the top during the bloodiest period of Communist tyranny. This fact alone gives a full measure of the man who once pressed for the execution of 11 of his own Communist colleagues, including the secretary general of the party. This particular slaughter, which exemplified Stalinist terror in Czechoslovakia in the 1950s, was four years ago declared a "mistake" due to false charges fabricated by the secret police.

When he was in Prague earlier this year, Pierre Berton was told by a Czech journalist: "Stalin was every bit as bad as Hitler." This is as far as anyone behind the Iron Curtain can go in a public statement designed to convey to the outside world the agony of life under Red Fascism.

Mr. Berton relayed the message but apparently failed to fathom its meaning. So did I, I am afraid, most of his readers who, like Berton, are eager to accept Communist assurances of sweeping changes behind the allegedly rusting Iron Curtain.

Unfortunately the facts, as Stalin's daughter Svetlana reminded us quite recently, do not fit this wishful thinking. Many of the chief accomplices of Stalin's crimes are still in the key positions of power.

As the top Stalinist in Communist-ruled Czechoslovakia, Antonin Novotny is one of them. His hands are stained with the blood of countless innocent people who were executed, tortured to death, killed while trying to escape, or worked to death in slave labor camps.

Canadian citizens who managed to make their way to this country across the death zone of the Iron Curtain, find it hard to understand why our elected representatives deem it necessary to associate with, and even to honor, such Communist equivalents of Hitler's quinquings as Novotny.

The uncomfortable but obvious answer is that in the unprincipled game of international politics our Government finds it economically expedient and diplomatically hopeful to deal with the Novotnys, the Titos and the Castros.

There can be little doubt that had Hitler paused in his aggressive drive after the rape of Austria and Czechoslovakia, Western statesmen would have found little difficulty in dealing with and honoring the Nazi gangsters and their henchmen.

Mackenzie King's correspondence with Hitler, which was not stopped by Munich, is a sufficient proof of that.

Since the Soviet-directed branch of international Communism found it necessary to pause after gobbling up half of Europe, our politicians are quite willing to deal with the totalitarianists in the hope of purchasing peace in our time.

What the political terrorists do at home is deemed to be none of our business, so long as they do not directly threaten our own security.

People who have no notion what life is like under a totalitarian system, no matter how "liberalized" it appears to be to glibble outsiders in the fairy tales of Communist-inspired propaganda, approve and even applaud this official attitude.

The dismayed and despairing immigrants who know the score but find that the truth they are trying to tell is falling on deaf ears should realize that moral principles — especially those expressed by the old truism that freedom and peace are indivisible — do not enter the picture until tangible national interests are at stake.

Crank, not saboteur, blamed in blast

MONTREAL (CP)—Police say there was no injury in a bomb blast which shattered a showcase window of a flower shop in the west-end Snowdon district Monday was not the work of separatists.

They said the explosion, which also smashed several windows in the immediate vicinity, was probably the work of a crank firing a device containing a small charge of high explosives, possibly dynamite.

The bomb was placed at the base of the showcase window of Margie's Flower Shoppe (1966) Ltd., on Queen Mary Road.

He would sit in as mediator in talks between Pierre Bour-gault, leader of the RIN, and Mr. Gregoire.

"For the good of the cause, I agree to work as mediator between these two great political parties which can eventually achieve union," he told a political rally Sunday in Chicoutimi, about 100 miles north of Quebec City.

Gerry Rosenburg, principal shareholder of the firm, last week denied his company has any criminal connections.

In an interview Monday, Mr. Rosenburg said he believes the bombing was "probably the work of some crank who may have reacted adversely" to the allegations made by Mr. Wagner.

Justice speaks

CAP ROUGE, Que. (CP)—Chief Justice Frederic Dorian of the Quebec Superior Court says it is the duty of Roman Catholic Quebecers to insist upon denominational schools at all levels of instruction.

"We talk of the teaching of Jews, Protestants and atheists, but whatever happens, as long as I am here, here will be no question of the crucifix disappearing from the walls of the schools," he told a meeting Monday of former pupils of Quebec teaching brothers.

It was proper to respect the wishes of non-Catholics but it was essential "to respect our own convictions."

Walkout spreads

MONTREAL (CP)—About 1,300 Hydro-Quebec workers walked off their jobs Monday in two Quebec regions as a staggered-area strike entered its third week.

As the new walkout began, about 2,000 company employees in the Laurentian region, which takes in communities north of Montreal, returned to their jobs following a 24-hour strike.

Hydro and union officials said there were no power failures of any consequence in any of the affected regions Sunday or Monday.

The latest walkout involves about 1,100 Hydro workers in the Montmorency and northeastern regions of Quebec and 200 others in the Hauteville-Bate Comeau and Sept-Iles area.

Transport facilities meeting Expo rushes

MONTREAL (CP)—The people piled into Expo '67 by the hundreds of thousands this last weekend but Montreal's bus and subway system, all primed to handle the Expo flood, seemed to take the rush in stride.

Buses to and from the St. Lawrence River fairgrounds were jammed and there were reports of huge crowds at the key midtown clearance station for subway traffic to Expo, Berri-de Montigny.

Officials of the publicly-owned Montreal Transportation Commission reported no major hitches, however, in their surface and underground operations.

Their optimistic statements and general calm under fire indicated the system had undergone massive preparation for the Expo-generated rush.

Four additional lines, utilizing at least 103 vehicles, were taking thousands to the fairgrounds from points in the city and near huge parking lot not far from the Expo site.

On the site itself, 28 more buses were supplementing the seven Expo Express trains in taking visitors from the arrival points to stations across the 1,000-acre site. An additional Expo Express train is kept in reserve.

Early in the fair, which formally opened April 27, the Berri-de Montigny subway station became so clogged that one of its platform areas was closed to allow a drain-off of the surface humanity by the steadily-working trains.

Now, the transportation men feel they have licked at least one of the problems leading to that clog.

They say they have managed to prevent various lines of scurrying passengers at the station from becoming impossibly intertwined and thus generating hopeless confusion and congestion.

Corruption rampant in South Vietnam

SAIGON (AP)—Illicit profits of political and military power in South Vietnam are measured in millions of dollars. Corruption is a drag on the war effort.

Some Americans shake their heads and say, "This is Asia. You can't change it."

One major-general, Nguyen Due Thang, the forthright, hard-driving minister for revolutionary development, puts the problem this way: "Unfortunately, a great portion of government funds has been stolen. Many officials have poured government funds into their own pockets, constructed their houses and bought their cars with it. If corruption continues to this extent, I strongly believe that a real bloody revolution is inevitable."

Thang's voice is still an exception in an unstable land where a deluge of American dollar aid for thousands of projects scattered across the country places embezzlement and bribery almost in the class of a sport for the unscrupulous.

CURBS CORRUPTION

Thang roams Vietnam's 43 provinces continuously, trying to prevent underlings from profiting from his ministry's projects. Thang says he has resisted temptation, but what of Vietnam's other leaders who handle millions of dollars?

Many are tainted by corruption, if not personally then by association, by permitting officials who are manifestly corrupt to remain in key positions.

Now and then there is action, though big fish are rarely hooked.

In recent months, several minor government officials have been tried on corruption charges and given heavy sentences.

Li-Gen Nguyen Khanh, the former premier who quit the country in 1965 to become a roving ambassador, remains abroad in seclusion. He was last reported in Europe.

If charges by the current government can be believed, Khanh embezzled millions of dollars. He is accused of having dipped deeply into secret funds which do not have to be accounted for.

LIVES IN EXILE

A former defence minister, Li-Gen Nguyen Huu Co, has been since January in luxurious exile in Hong Kong, threatened by the ruling junta with trial if he ever returns.

Saigon newspapers estimate that, through kickbacks from defence ministry construction, equipment and supply contracts, he could have accumulated as much as $10,000,000.

Vietnamese investigators say some of Co's senior aides have admitted selling army commissions, charging the equivalent of $500 or so for promotion from captain to major. They are also accused of selling draft deferments.

One field commander of the warlord type has been eased quietly to the sidelines for dispensing grand favors to his friends at grand prices.

Vietnamese investigators said this man sold military and provincial positions and exacted tribute from each of the provinces in his bailiwick, ranging from 10 to 15 per cent of the provincial budgets.

India seeks to grow more

Canada is helping train Asians in modern farming at the Central Food Technological Research Institute in Mysore, India. The institute's work is described in this story by Betty Nickerson, a Winnipeg sociologist, who has made a study of UN food projects in India.

By BETTY NICKERSON

MYSORE, India (CP)—"There is no doubt about it, we can produce three times as much food," says Dr. H. A. B. Parpia, director of the Central Food Technological Research Institute here.

"We have to make use of available scientific knowledge to develop new techniques and processes of food management and we are doing it," he adds confidently.

Having seen five regions in hungry India, and knowing something of the extent of the need, I asked Dr. Parpia, "Where do you begin?"

"By eliminating waste of the food we already produce. In some areas half is lost through mismanagement and improper storage facilities. We begin with research that will work under Indian conditions."

The institute seemed to me one of the most practical and promising developments in India. It seeks more nutritious and efficient ways to manage India's food treasure. There is keen awareness that research must serve a practical purpose consistent with existing economic and environmental conditions.

More than 100 projects are under investigation in the fields of applied nutrition, cereal technology, food engineering, processing and packaging, meat, fish and poultry technology, infestation control and pesticides, protein technology, and industrial research.

For good measure the institute gives consultation and extension demonstrations for the surrounding area, and has eight experiment stations located in various parts of India. These outposts help the scientists understand and identify regional food problems so that more effective research can be undertaken.

FRUIT SPOILS

It is estimated that 30 per cent of the fruits and vegetables grown in India spoil. This is partly due to a trick of nature which causes some kinds to mature all at once. For a few days the population may be knee-deep in mangoes, breadfruit, or bananas.

As with green apples, one can eat only so many mangoes in a given period, and for the same reason. The institute has found ways to wax-coat fruits, to extract juices, make fruit powders, candies and strained baby foods. A process for manufacturing pectin from papaya and citrus peels has been developed and taken over by industry.

They do something marvelous with extra bananas too. They are cut into slices, deep-fried, salted and eaten like potato chips. Deep-fried cashew kernels of delightful flavor are also produced, and manufacturing processes for instant tea and soluble coffee have been standardized.

These things will help India in its struggle for balance of payment funds.

Seventy per cent of India's food intake comes from cereal grains, and it is here where the greatest storage, handling and infestation losses occur. Much of the institute's attention is directed to correcting these problems and to reducing the estimated 50-per-cent loss.

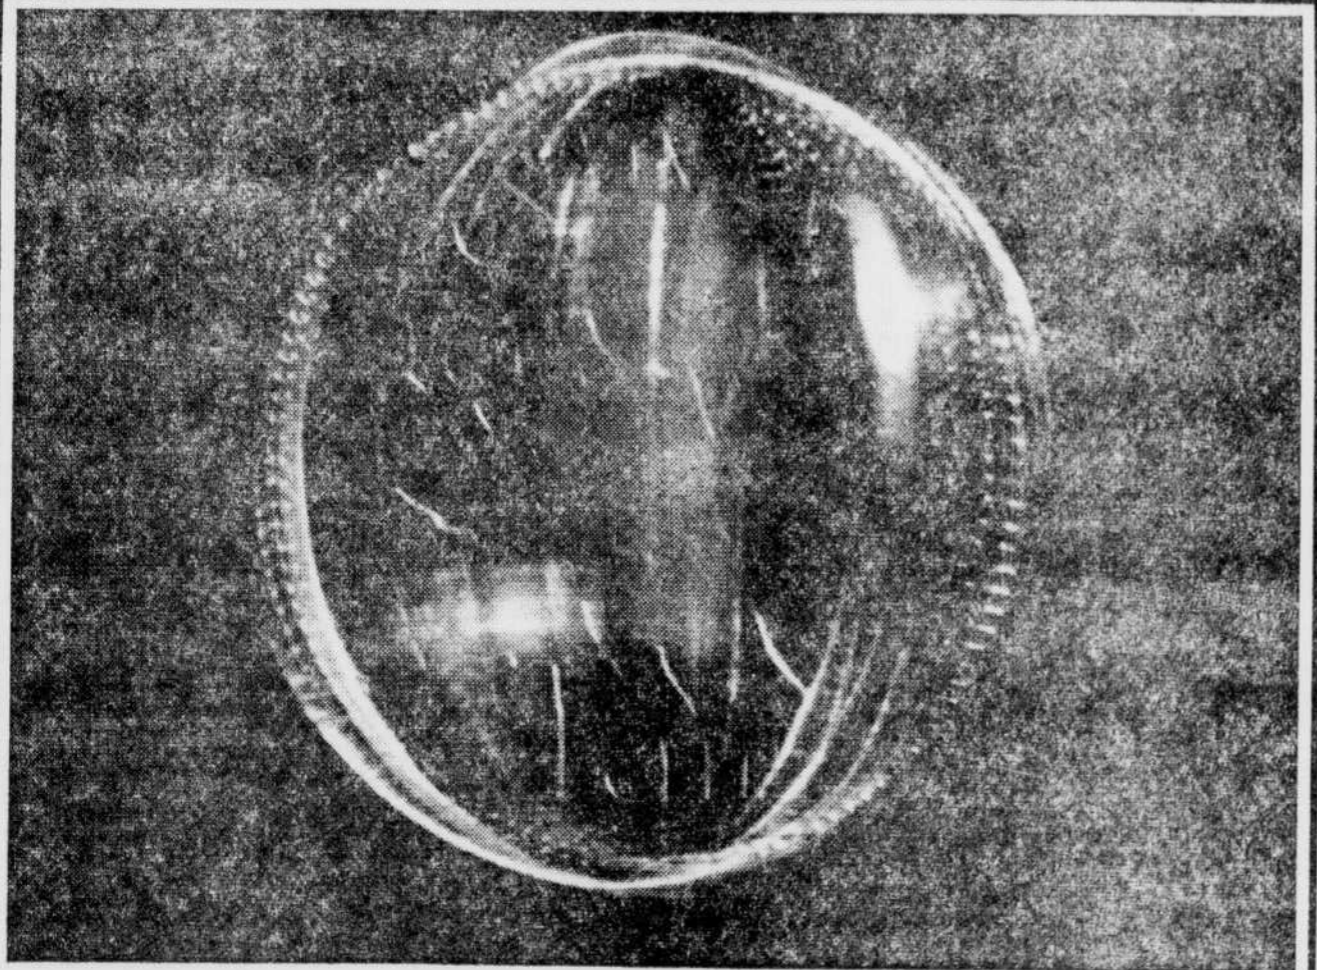

I saw an ingeniously simple device consisting of plastic tubing, plastic bags and ethylene dibromide liberated from small discs. The method can be used almost anywhere, and will prevent insects from getting into grain stored under farm conditions or in warehouses.

REPELS RATS

A new technique for protecting foodgrains from rodents has also been developed and adapted to home storage conditions. It consists of using a repellent to turn the rats away from the food, while attracting them into simple little bamboo traps filled with poison baits. The average farm household will yield from three to 30 rodents during the five-day treatment. The carcasses are collected and the houses fumigated to destroy the lice which desert their former hosts in search of living ones.

Rodent extermination schemes are apparently finding acceptance among the villagers even though the rat is still widely regarded as the vehicle of the goddess of prosperity. One-fifth of India's grain is estimated to go to the rats. This is roughly equivalent to the amount of grain imported from Canada and the U.S.

In one area the extent of rat damage in the field was demonstrated by fencing off two identical one-acre rice plots, and charging one fence electrically. Between planting and harvest more than 2,000 rats, mice and shrews were collected from its boundaries. The harvest was one-third greater than the twin plot.

Bitter insecticide battle over shadflies control

MONTREAL — A bitter, behind-the-scenes battle has erupted at Expo over the method to be used to control shadflies.

The battle has Expo officials and a staff of experts on one side, and the Quebec Water Board, conservationists and sportsmen on the other.

It stems from Expo's proposed method of controlling the shadflies — the dumping of about 10,000 pounds of an insecticide solution into the river to kill the shadfly larvae.

A three-year study by a team from the Federal Department of Agriculture revealed that millions of shadflies swarm in the Expo area of the St. Lawrence from mid-May to mid-September.

When Expo applied for permission last year to experiment with the insecticide, the Quebec Water Board refused. This was believed to be based on insecticide being a threat to pure drinking water downriver, plus being a danger to fish and birds.

Despite this refusal, Expo went ahead and dumped 8,000 pounds of an insecticide solution into the river about one mile above the site.

This year, Expo refuses to state what they will do, but indications around the Expo Administration building are that the Fair officials intend to proceed again without Quebec approval.

English girls see the real Canada

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (CP) — Five weeks working as waitresses at a Canadian hotel in Port Hardy, B.C., have been the experience of a lifetime for two English girls working their way round the world.

Cynthia Clarke and Angela Ireland travelled from England across the United States and Canada, stopped off at Honolulu, and have lately spent three months on a working holiday in New Zealand before continuing to Australia.

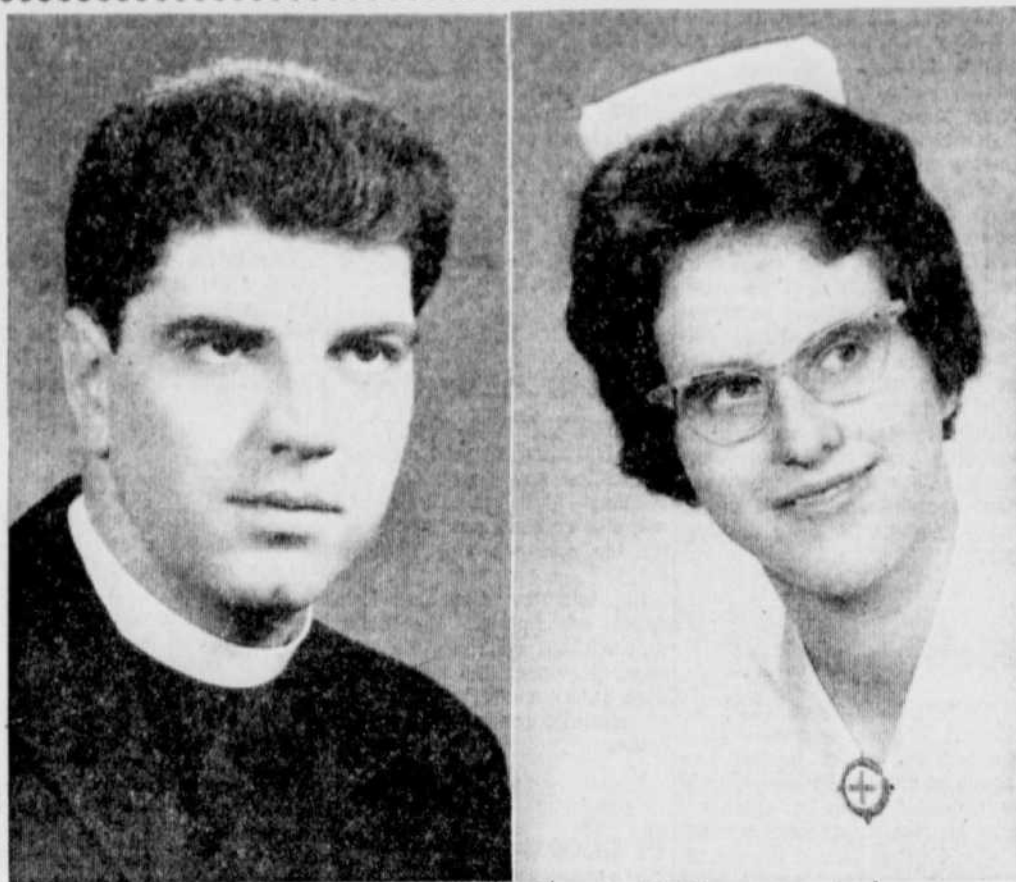

But the highlight of their trip so far has been their stay at Port Hardy and their contacts with Indians and prospectors there.

"We wanted to see the real Canada, and as waitresses in a town that was almost uncivilized we did just that," said Miss Clarke. "We wouldn't have missed it for anything. It was the greatest experience of my life."

The two girls also enjoyed their rail journey across Canada including the trip through the Rockies.

Antique, modern weaving at Centennial Exhibition

The Valley Weavers, as the Centennial project, is holding an Exhibition of Antique and Contemporary weaving at the new Theatre Gallery at Bishop's University on May 26, 27, 28, which will show how preserved this type of work can be even after years of use and some of the beautiful old designs, which are still being copied and of the trend of the present day work of this group.

Included in the exhibition will be work done by Mrs. Gudrun Wiedenfeld, a new Canadian from Germany, now residing in Waterloo, and exhibits of stitchery, are also being revived by Mrs. William Ronald, a member of the group and recently from Glasgow. This showing is open to the public and the admission is free to all who are interested in this art and craft. The Valley Weavers will welcome visitors at each session, afternoon and evening.

The ancient art of weaving is having a revival in many places and here in the Eastern Townships. A new group was formed on Nov. 7, 1961, of seven weavers from Sherbrooke, Lennoxville and Huntingville and was registered under the name of The Valley Weavers of Quebec. It was the first group in the province to be registered with the Guild of Canadian Weavers. This group now has 20 members and has spread to Bury, North Hatley and Windsor. There are many weaving groups throughout the province and a great many new Canadians are adding their knowledge and work which is being much appreciated.

Weaving, which was one of the earliest crafts developed by primitive civilizations all over the world, today offers the craftsman a field rich with opportunity for correlating historical research with original experimentation. In fact there is no limit to what may be discovered in the choice and combinations of materials, color, design and technique.

The story of weaving cannot start at the beginning since no one knows where that beginning is to be found, but, since the days when men and women dressed in skins of animals came to an end. Early history tells us our forefathers found comfort in woolen clothes and that about 8,000 B.C. a type of flax was cultivated. For almost 10,000 years flax fibres and linens have been of great service to mankind. Biblical references of linen are many and today the purity of linen is highly prized, as it refuses to support bacteria growth, a fact known to the ancients and used widely by priests, wisemen and in burial rituals.

How the knowledge of shearing the wool and selling the flax came to our ancestors, is still a mystery too, but the loom in principle has stayed the same and serves to clothe and cover us and decorate our homes. Nothing has ever been invented to take its place or rob it of its usefulness. It is significant that the interlacing of threads in warp and weft upon the looms makes the oldest of signs, the cross.

The loom of many types is one of the most productive machines of all time and simplest ever invented, easy to operate a gentle relaxing exercise or a rapid stimulating one, depending on optional speed. It will give a lifelong interest in addition, skill of hand, creative growth, confidence in being able to produce beautiful activity and beautiful products, which will last long after the hands have ceased to throw the shut-

In this province most weavers use a Leclerc loom, which is manufactured in L'Islet County. The founder, Alfred Leclerc, opened his workshop in 1867. The rudimentary machinery operated by water power, in 1884 was replaced by steam in 1902. Mr. Leclerc withdrew from the business and it was taken over by his son, Niluis, who in 1906 began operating by steam and Diesel and finally was replaced by electricity.

In 1944 he transformed his enterprise into a company with three of his sons and now possesses a vast and modern business with looms going to many countries in five continents.

In the province of Quebec where French and English speaking women and some men have the same interests, many are well known for their hand weaving, making wool blankets, bedspreads, yardage for clothing, which they most all tailor themselves; rugs of many types, catalogue a well known rug, Cata-ion, named for a province in France, made with cotton or linen warp and strips of new or used cottons or sometimes now the new manmade fibres.

Exquisite table linens, guest towels, dainty aprons, ties, purses and any special item the weaver wants to complete an outfit or match a room decor, can be made of this. Many use their own dyes made from onion skins, iris roots, walnut hulls and such to get a desired shade.

If your new plastic flowers seem dull and soiled, brighten them up in your automatic washer. Use the "Delicate" cycle with Slow agitation and spin, short wash time and cold water wash and rinse.

At the end of the cycle, lift out your flower and rearrange them. Small droplets of water on the petals and leaves resemble the droplets of early morning dew.

Vital Israeli trade gateway threatened by Egyptian move

Reports that Egyptian forces 1,300 feet wide and all shipping to and from Eilat must pass through this slim neck of water. About 95 miles south of Eilat, where the gulf joins the Red Sea, shipping must pass within a half mile of the Sinai Desert with the Red Sea on one side and the Sinai Desert on the other. Egyptian forces 1,300 feet wide and all shipping to and from Eilat must pass through this slim neck of water. Egyptian forces 1,300 feet wide and all shipping to and from Eilat must pass through this slim neck of water. About 95 miles south of Eilat, where the gulf joins the Red Sea, shipping must pass within a half mile of the Sinai Desert with the Red Sea on one side and the Sinai Desert on the other.

Background to the news

Force, Egyptian troops could use artillery to enforce a blockade of the Tiran Strait from gun sites at Ras Nasrani and Sharm el Sheikh, on the southeastern coast of Sinai, and from the islands of Tiraana and Sinapur at the mouth of the Gulf of Aqaba. After the Arab-Israeli war of 1948-49, Egyptian shore batteries stationed at these strategic points barred the strait to shipping bound to or from Eilat. Then a garrison settlement of about 1,000, for eight years—until Israel troops occupied Sharm el Sheikh and the islands during their Sinai Peninsula campaign in November 1966.

One of Israel's conditions for withdrawing from Sinai under a Canadian-proposed United Nations settlement was that UN troops would occupy Sharm el Sheikh and observe the free passage of ships through the Tiran Strait. Until Egypt demanded the withdrawal of UN troops from Sinai late last week, a small detachment of Yugoslav troops at Sharm el Sheikh and nearby Ras Nasrani had been keeping watch over the strait, logging the movement of ships.

The otherwise unpopulated outposts were supported on the spot by nine Canadian soldiers of the UN Emergency Force, including signals men who maintained communications with Gaza and engineers who kept a water pump in order. RCAF Caribou planes attached to UNEF supplied the remote desert outpost, which was celebrated among UNEF soldiers as an ideal spot for swimming.

Reports of the Egyptian announcement said Israeli flag or carrying strategic goods would be barred from the Gulf of Aqaba. About a dozen ships trading from Eilat are chartered by Israel from Greece, The Netherlands, Sweden, Denmark and Liberia. Their freedom to continue depends on how Egypt interprets its warning in practice. The United Nations appeared to recognize Israel's claim to freedom of navigation in Aqaba waters in January, 1957. Dag Hammarskjöld, late UN secretary-general, told the General Assembly then:

Chairman J. W. Fulbright said in advance of a scheduled appearance by Rusk today at a closed session of the Senate foreign relations committee that the Middle East act might find the United States overextended militarily because of Vietnam.

Asks Kiwanians to help solve juvenile delinquency problem

Former Crown Prosecutor Guy Blanchette appealed to the Sherbrooke Kiwanis Club last night held to honor Kiwanis' effort to find a solution to the juvenile delinquency problem.

Speaking at the Club's ladies' night held to honor Kiwanis' past presidents, Mr. Blanchette said that service clubs tend to look after the physical side of welfare. He suggested that service clubs in general and the Kiwanis in particular should be able to work in some way to provide help for youth in the 18 to 21 year-old age bracket, "those who have gone wrong because there was no one there to tell them how to go right."

He called on the "best brains" of Kiwanis to provide a little direction and a little orientation to guide young people. Praising the club's work with the underprivileged and the handicapped, Mr. Blanchette said that the handicapped, no matter how miserable their state could not contaminate others. "But," he went on, "put one delinquent on a street with 25 normal, law abiding young people and in two months you may very well have 20 delinquents."

He placed part of the blame on a lack of care by many parents and urged Kiwanians to help correct this attitude. "I've seen many young people appear in court after spending a night in jail," he said, "and many times there has not even been one parent or member of the family turn up. It seems to have caused less trouble than if the dog had been lost."

Other past presidents at the meeting were Jack Dunfield, Lou Sore, Gilbert Rheume, Joe Faucher, Les Memory, Reg Bishop, Tom Cadman, Gerry Curphey, Herb Plow, Cyril Simmonds, Sam Gilman, and Bryce McGregor.

News flashes from around the world

WASHINGTON — (AP) — State Secretary Rusk faces a barrage of senatorial questions on the intensified war in Vietnam and the extent of U.S. peacekeeping commitments in the boiling Middle East.

OTTAWA — (CP) — A two-day supply debate is scheduled when the Commons resumes today but Vietnam and the explosive Middle East situation may take the spotlight.

Opposition members will again have the opportunity to test confidence in the government as the supply motion opens the way for Parliament to examine $11,000,000,000 in government spending estimates for the 1967-68 fiscal year.

The Liberals handily survived four non-confidence motions during the eight-day thronged speech debate that ended Friday before the House rose for the holiday weekend. During supply, two non-confidence motions are allowed.

Government policy on foreign affairs and housing became the issue as the Liberals safely came through the throne speech debate.

WASHINGTON — (CP) — A long look at global water problems begins today at the opening of the international conference, which ends May 31.

A Canadian delegation of more than 60 - federal and provincial - is attending, with the advance proviso that no discussion will be accepted about possible water exports to the United States.

Yugoslavia is the only Communist country registered at the meeting suggested by President Johnson two years ago when he pledged that the U.S. was "prepared to contribute its share of the resources needed for an international crash program to deal with world water resources."

Better testing
MONTREAL (CP) — Car manufacturers should test every critical part that goes into every car and a system of comprehensive accident investigation should be introduced, say two engineering safety experts attending the fifth international conference on non-destructive testing here this week.

Dr. G. H. Tenney, chief advisor on safety control to the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission, said in an interview Monday that a "feedback system" should be devised whereby automobile accidents are thoroughly investigated by experts to determine if the fault lies in defective manufacturing.

OBITUARIES

MRS. HORACE CLARK, OF LENNOXVILLE

On May 8, 1967, Mrs. Dorothy Alice Goodwin Clark died at St. Paul's Rest Home, in Bury.

Mrs. Clark, the daughter of Joseph Edward Goodwin and Sylvia Alice Bowen, was born at North Hatley, on Aug. 28, 1897. She was named after her father's mother, Dorothy Faulkner. Her father, who had been born in Wales, came to Canada, where he spent the greater part of his life in North Hatley as a telegrapher and agent for the Boston and Maine Railroad and as a gardener and boat liveryman. Her mother was the daughter of George W. Bowen and Sylvia F. Wheeler, of early pioneer stock.

Dorothy Goodwin received her early schooling in North Hatley and Lennoxville. She graduated from Bishop's University in 1917 with a B.A. and received her M.A. (honoris causa) in 1918.

While attending school, she met her future husband, Horace Henry Clark, of Lennoxville. They were married in Newport, Vt., on July 29, 1916, by Rev. Bernard. A few days later, he was on his way Overseas as a signaller with the 117th Eastern Townships Battalion. Later when the Battalion was broken up, he went with the Signal Section to serve with the 14th Royal Montreal Regiment in France, until he came home in 1919.

While her husband was Overseas, she became the principal of the High School in Weston, Vt. They moved to Montreal in 1919, where she taught at the Edward VII School. During this time, her husband attended McGill University and received his degree in Pharmacy in 1923.

She was quite at home on Lake Massawippi, as she had often helped her father in delivering telegrams around the lake, as well as operating her father's boats for the summer visitors at North Hatley. She had her father's strong constitution and was a powerful swimmer. In 1927, she swam Lake Massawippi from Ayer's Cliff to North Hatley, a distance of nine miles.

There were many other sport interests as she played golf, skied, sailed, lawn bowled and curled. One of her proudest occasions was when she was on the first team to win the Tweedsmuir Trophy in 1938. Lord Tweedsmuir, Governor General of Canada, personally presented the Trophy and prize.

She served as president of the Ladies Outrigger Curling Club, and was active in the formation of the St. George Ladies Curling Club, with whom she won the Coronation Trophy and the Anderson Trophy at the Seigniory Club. Following her taking up residence in Lennoxville, she took an active interest in the Lennoxville Ladies Curling Club.

In 1955, she was selected to accompany the Canadian and American lady curlers on their visit to Scotland to compete with the Scottish lady curlers. This trip included a special invitation to visit Glamis Castle, the residence of the Queen Mother.

During World War II, while her husband was Overseas with the R.C.A.M.C., she worked for the Red Cross packing food parcels for prisoners of war.

Being of pioneer stock, she took an interest in the early history of the Eastern Townships and was an active member of the Stanstead Historical Society. Her mother was a great collector of early Canadiana which interest was shared by her daughter. Her home in Lennoxville is a treasure trove of the Victorian era.

During her lifetime, she travelled extensively in Great Britain, Europe and the West Indies. In 1953, she was in London for the Coronation of Queen Elizabeth. On occasion she acted as tour conductor for well-known travel agencies to Europe, the West Indies and Mexico. Several winters were spent in Saint Petersburg, Fla., where she used to take her mother and father. Just before her illness, she completed a tour of Europe, the Middle East and Egypt.

In her later years she graduated from the Lewis Hotel Management Training School in Washington, D.C.

The last months of her life were spent in Sherbrooke Hospital and St. Paul's Rest Home. However, on their 50th wedding anniversary, she and her husband went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard E. Lawson of Newport Center, Vt., where they were tendered a reception by her cousin and other er relatives.

She was a member of St. George's Anglican Church, Lennoxville and the funeral service was held there on May 10 at 3:30 p.m. Rev. Jacob Rogers conducted the services at the Church and Malvern Cemetery, Lennoxville, where she was buried between the graves of her mother and father.

She is survived by her husband, Horace H. Clark.

CAMILLE VIGER, OF RICHMOND

RICHMOND — The death of Camille Viger, a life-long and esteemed resident of Richmond occurred at his home, Main Street, on Tuesday, May 2, 1967, in his 55th year. He had been in poor health for the past several years and had returned from the St. Vincent de Paul Hospital, Sherbrooke, only a few days prior to his death.

The deceased was born in Richmond, son of the late Jean Baptiste Viger and his wife, Leona Pettigant. He received his early education at the Sacred Heart Brother's School. In 1933 he married Dora Duperron, of Richmond, and their entire married life was spent here.

As a young man he entered the employ of the former Boston Last Company and later he accepted a position with the Dutchesse Shoe Company, but due to failing health he retired from active duty a few years ago.

Mr. Viger was keenly interested in his home, his church and the community.

Left to mourn his loss are his wife, three daughters, Denise, Mrs. Rejean Langlois, of Sherbrooke, Miss Elaine Viger, Carmen, Mrs. Lucien Sanson; a son, Gerard, of Richmond; three sisters Louise, Mrs. Edward Ward, Richmond, Annette, Mrs. Harmidas Farant, Cleveland, and Lillian, Mrs. Frank Dunn, Melbourne; three brothers, Albert and Alex, of Richmond, and Edward, Montreal; seven grandchildren and many other relatives.

The remains rested at the J. H. Fleury Funeral Home, Adam Street, whence the funeral took place on May 5 at 10 a.m. to St. Bibiane Church for attended by relatives and friends.

The body was received at the door by Father Roland Bacon, professor of theology at the Sherbrooke Seminary, who also officiated at the requiem high mass, assisted by Father Cloutier, parish priest of St. Bibiane, deacon and Father Denis Gingras as sub-deacon.

The Richmond Funeral Choral rendered the mass music, with Mrs. Fernand Menard at the organ. The committal service was conducted by Father Gingras. Burial was in St. Bibiane Cemetery.

Among those present were Mrs. Laurette Montheil, Montreal, Mrs. D. Langlois, Sherbrooke, Mr. and Mrs. V. Duperron, and Mrs. Rita Boisvert, of Asbestos.

MRS. EARLE F. HOVEY, OF LIBBYTOWN

LIBBYTOWN — The death occurred on Tuesday, May 9, 1967, at the Waterloo Hospital, Waterloo, of Claudene Smith Hovey, in her eightieth year. She was born in Holland, Vt., on June 1, 1887, the daughter of the late Alozo D. Smith and his wife, the late Lucy Hovey Smith.

Her mother having died when she was a young girl, she took over the care of her younger sister, Shirley, and brother, Chauncey. She worked at the old Stanstead Journal Office, but upon completing her education, became a most successful and respected teacher. She taught in several schools in the Eastern Townships and later in St. Lambert High School, from which she returned to become the wife of Earle F. Hovey, who predeceased her in May of 1958.

Mr. and Mrs. Hovey first made their home on his farm near Way's Mills, but later, when his health began to fail, on a smaller farm on Route 50 near Libbytown.

Mrs. Hovey had many interests. She was a devoted Christian, a member and elder of the Way's Mills Union Church, which she served as clerk of the session until shortly before her death. She was also a life member of the Way's Mills United Church Women's Society which she served as secretary as long as her health permitted.

She was also a life member of the Way's Mills Women's Institute. Due to lack of members, this branch later closed and Mrs. Hovey prepared a Memorial Book of all its members which has been submitted to the Archives of the Quebec Women's Institutes.

The Women's Christian Temperance Union was another of her great interests to which she gave much time. As a member of the Stanstead Historical Society, she devoted many hours searching out the graves of pioneer settlers and striving for the restoration of old cemeteries.

Possibly her greatest contribution was through her profession. She was a member of the Protestant Retired Teachers Association. Her many pupils profited by her excellent teaching and the example she set. Relatives who survive here are her brother Chauncey Smith, of Barton, Vt.; a step daughter and step-son, Mrs. Dorothy Geddes, Valcartier Village and Howard Hovey, Way's Mills, also several other relatives.

The funeral service was held on May 12 at two o'clock at the Cass Funeral Parlor in Stanstead, Rev. Geoffrey Joyce officiating. Interment was in Crystal Lake Cemetery where the bearers were Frank and Harold Smith, Gordon Cass, Carlo Pedersen, of Libbytown, Clare Libby, of Ayer's Cliff and Avery Davis, of Heathton.

Among those from a distance attending the service were: Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Smith, Barton, Vt.; Mr. Arnold Smith, of Storr's, Conn.; Mrs. Dorothy Geddes, Valcartier Village; the Misses Doris and Marie Hovey of Burlington, Vt.; Mr. and Mrs. W. Dorman, Bedford.

Four of the bearers were nephews, Grant Strangle, Charles Jones, Robert Bowles and Ronald Allen. Other bearers were Paul Mahannah and William Buzzell. Interment was in Friends Cemetery, East Farnham.

Mrs. Strange was the daughter of the late Charles and Elizabeth Beaudry of Cowansville. She was born in Farnham on May 8, 1901, moved to Montreal at the age of six, then to Winnipeg, returning to the Eastern Townships when she was twelve. She attended school at the old Cowansville Academy, formerly on Main Street.

On June 26, 1924, she became the wife of Stewart Chapman Strange, of East Farnham. She was mother of two children, Albert and Elizabeth (Lafleur).

Mrs. Strange had seven granddaughters and one grandson. She had one sister, Joyce, Mrs. Norman Jones. At the time of her death, Mrs. Strange was president of the Women's Fellowship Club of Trinity Anglican Church, a Past Noble Grand of Prosperity Rebekah Lodge No. 32, a charter member and Past Chief Matron of the Ladies Encampment, Auxiliary to Welcome Encampment No. 9, and Right-side to the Past President of the Ladies Canton Maple Leaf No. 4. Members of the Rebekah and L.E.A. Lodges paid final tribute to her appropriate memorial services in the funeral chapel.

Twins cop opener over Senators 5-1

Y's Men's Club sponsored Twins started off on the right foot last evening in the opening game of the 1967 Little League Baseball as they took a 5-1 win over the Kiwanis Club sponsored Senators.

Young Dave Turnbull, the winning pitcher, kept the Senators to a single run and allowed only three hits. Tonight the Red Sox meet the Tigers and Indians and White Sox make up the other part of the twin bill, both games at the Parade Grounds at 6:30 p.m.

Twins took a four-run lead on four hits in the top part of the third inning. The teams were scoreless in the first two innings. Hits by Muleahy, Anto, A. Roy and Kerridge sent the runs in for the Twins.

The teams went scoreless again in the fourth with Turnbull still having control over the Senator batters. Twins added one more in the top of the fifth on a hit by Turnbull coupled with an error sending the run home. Senators' lone run came in the bottom of the fifth with C. Jutras, Senator's catcher, driving in the tally.

There was no more scoring in the game with Twins winning 5-1. In spite of the cold weather the youngsters played good ball and shows well for the remainder of the season when warmer weather comes along. Starring for the winners were Turnbull, Labbe and Muleahy, Senators were well served by Jutras and Bergeron.

Remember when...

Sonny Liston, 215 pounds in weight and once called by sports writers a "bug" who would destroy professional boxing, climbed into the ring at Lewiston, Me., two years ago tonight—in 1965—for the rematch of his heavyweight title bout with Cassius Clay, the new champion. He was knocked down and counted out in the first round, while Clay danced about taunting him and the fans yelled "Fix!"

Dave Stockton wins Colonial

FORT WORTH (CP) — Dave Stockton of San Bernardino, Calif. could manage only a two-over-par 73 Sunday, but it was good enough for first place in the $15,000 Colonial national invitation golf tournament.

Playing in wind, cold and mud, Stockton beat off Charles Coady who finished second with a two-under 69, the only sub-par round of the final day. Coady picked up $12,800.

Tom Weiskopf, first to fall away in the chase for the $23,000 first prize, was tied with Stockton entering the final round. But he went one over on both the third and fourth holes and two over on the fifth to let Stockton pass him.

Weiskopf slid to an 81 and ended 11th with 285 while Stockton carried on to 278.

TIES WITH HOGAN

George Archer caught Stockton on the 12th, but went one over on the 13th and finished with a 72, good for a third place tie with Ben Hogan at 281.

AFL to expand to 10 teams

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Football League probably will expand to 10 teams for 1968, with Cincinnati and owner are selected for the most likely choice, and the Super Bowl game probably will be set for Sunday, Jan. 14 in Miami's Orange Bowl during the Green Bay Packer fullback who played out his option and became a free agent, may or may not wind up in the lap of Commissioner Pete Rozelle, who heads both leagues.

Taylor is reported to be anxious to play with New Orleans Saints, newest NFL entry, but the Saints must reach an agreement with Vince Lombardi, Cleveland Browns, has been general manager of the actively promoting Cincinnati Packers, on just compensation.

Stage late rally to win by 6 pts over Stanstead, three records set, Sherbrooke High finishes third

By LEN O'DONNELL, Record Sports Editor

Bishop's College School rallying in the closing events of the 25th annual Sherbrooke Y's Men's Track and Field meet emerged with the championship and the Skinner Trophy, emblematic of the over-all crown, after a close battle.

It was nip-and-tuck the whole way during the day with first SHS out in front then BCS moved ahead with Stanstead College setting the pace also. Towards the closing of the meet Sam Abbott's squad held a slim two-point lead over SWC with five events left on the card.

In the last five events BCS came through with a total of 15 points while the best Stanstead College could do was to pick up only 11 to lose out. BCS finished the day with a grand total of 191 points while Stanstead gathered 95 and Sherbrooke High copped third spot with 74. Fourth place went to Cowansville High School with 37 and Lennoxville High finished with 32 for the day.

The day got off on a bad start as rain hit just after the opening event and the meet was held up until the storm had blown away. It was wet and cold all day and this didn't help the boys in their efforts to set new records. Only three were broken while one was tied.

Terry Marlin of Lennoxville tied the mark for the Pee Wee 50-yard run and then broke the record for the 75-yard dash when he was clocked in 9.9 seconds. In the Midget class John Shanks of Stanstead set a new mark for the 440-yard when timed in 58.6 seconds. The other new mark went to Mike Logan of Sutton High when he went over the bar in the Pole Vault at 10 ft., 8 1/2 ins. He tried for the Provincial mark of 11 ft., 1/2 inch., but failed in his attempt. The heavy wind didn't help and after a couple of attempts he called it off.

Stanstead College won the Junior High Aggregate with a total of 37 points and copped the Warren Lynch Trophy. It was a three-way tie for individual honors with Bill Purchase of CHS, Colin Gage of Feller College and Don Marchand of Sutton all finishing with 11 points each for the J. S. Mitchell Trophy.

Peter Newell of Bishop's College School paced his team to victory in the Juvenile section with a total of 12 points to win the City of Sherbrooke Athletic Commission Trophy. BCS was awarded the Jean Maysen-elder Trophy for the High Aggregate. John Shanks of Stanstead College won the High Aggregate in the Midget class with 20 points. At the same time he won the High Individual Trophy of the Meet. Stanstead was awarded the Charles Connors Trophy for the High Aggregate while Shanks won the Inspector J. H. Hunter Trophy for his individual efforts.

In the Pee Wee class it was Lennoxville High the whole way with Terry Marlin setting the pace. He won the H. A. Rothfels Trophy while LHS was awarded the Sherbrooke Daily Record Trophy with a total of 24 points. Marlin contributed 18 to the amount. He also tied the record in the 50-yard dash and broke the old mark in the 75-yard when he covered it in 9.9 secs.

In the Bantam section it was Bishop's College School the whole way with Pierre Beland setting the way with 15 points to earn the Syd Hart Trophy while BCS copped the BP of Canada Trophy for the High Aggregate in the class with 33 points. No records were broken in the class.

In the Open Mile for the Sam Abbott Trophy it was Brian Labaree of Sherbrooke High the whole way. He set a good pace winning 4:45.9 without too much effort. He took over on the second trip and finished going away by himself.

The inclement weather didn't help the athletes as it was a cold wind blowing all day and this stopped the boys from going all out as they just couldn't get warmed up. It was a tough break as they were prepared to set new marks after a steady training period.

Following the final event President Ron Bishop of the Y's Men's Club presided at the presentation of the trophies assisted by Bob Jarjour, who was co-chairman of the Meet with Ron Bishop. The Meet, despite the bad weather, was run off in fairly good time and the group of workers deserve plenty of credit for their work during the day-long event.

John Hansen pots five goals as Olympics run over Granby

John Hansen paced the Sherbrooke Olympics to a 16-6 victory over the Granby Voltigeurs Saturday evening at the Sports Palace in a regular fixture of the Quebec Lacrosse League.

Hansen turned on the pressure and drove no less than six goals into the Granby net and at the same time helped to set up three others. The Olympics opened with a drive and just six seconds after the opening faceoff Johnny Hansen rifled the ball by the Granby goalie and from then on the assault was on.

The Olympics moved further away when Andy Despard, Gary Widdup, R. Faulman and Hansen finished the scoring in the first period. In the middle session Johnny Hansen got the third marker before R. Delisle managed to beat Terry Burgess for Granby's first tally. Guy Hubert, Andre Despard and Hansen got three more before J. G. Houle potted Granby's second tally. Denis Dagenais extended the Olympics' lead before Alfred got the third marker for Granby just before the period ended.

In the final stanza Sherbrooke opened with a drive and before five and half minutes had been played, Hansen, Remi Fleury, A. Despard and Hansen had tallied. Delisle got his second goal before Terry Wilson finished off the scoring on a nice solo effort.

The referees, Claude Vanier and Louis Primeau, dished out a total of 32 minors during the tilt with the Olympics picking up 17 of them in the hard-checking duel. Granby had a few who would swing a pretty good stick and this didn't help their cause because the Olympics made their chances count.

The Olympics turned in a much better performance than their first tilt. They seemed more relaxed and came up with some fine passing and running. They broke faster and caught the Granby team out of position several times. Terry Burgess came up with a fine job in the nets for the Olympics as time after time he stopped Granby from point-blank range as he picked off their drives.

Sherbrooke's next game will be a tough one as they take on the Drummondville Athletics on Monday, May 29, at the Sports Palace. Coach Wilkinson will be holding workouts this week as he still claims he wants to smooth out some plays.

Damascus wins Preakness to kill bids this year for a triple crown

BALTIMORE (CP) — There will be no winner this year of North America's triple crown for thoroughbreds.

Damascus made this certain Saturday by winning the $194,000 Preakness Stakes at Pimlico.

Under jockey Willie Shoemaker, the three-year-old bay son of Sword Dancer, charged from ninth in a field of 10 to take a 2 1/4-length victory in 1:55 1/5, three-fifths of a second slower for the 1 3/16 miles than the record set by Nashua in the 1955 Preakness.

Second was In Reality while Kentucky Derby winner Proud Clarion finished four lengths back in third.

The Derby, the Preakness and the Belmont Stakes June 3, constitute the three legs of the Triple Crown, last won 19 years ago by Citation.

Reason to Hail was three-quarters of a length behind Proud Clarion at the wire followed, in order, by Misty Cloud, Barbs Delight, Ask The Fare, Celtic Air, Favorable Turn and Great Power.

BIG PURSE
The victory by Damascus returned $141,500 — the biggest Preakness purse in history — to Mrs. William Woodward and her daughter Edith Bancroft, the owners, and Belair Farms.

"Damascus was an entirely different horse today from the one I rode in the Derby," Shoemaker recalled. "He had it when I called on him."

The horse finished third in the Derby. Proud Clarion also came from out of the pack to take third place, but jockey Bobby Ussery said: "I didn't plan to be so far back."

Damascus has finished no worse than third in his career. He has been in the post 10 times, and as a three-year-old has won four of six starts and earned $260,460.

CAHA accepts CMJHL's bid to return to fold, Drumheller gets $10,397 from Allan Cup

SASKATOON (CP) — The executive committee of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, in a behind-the-scenes pre-convention meeting during the Victoria Day weekend, negotiated peace with the Canadian Major Junior Hockey League.

Terms for the cessation of hostilities were put before the CAHA's 51st annual meeting Monday and accepted, without dissent, by delegates. It will bring the CMJHL back under CAHA supervision after 8 1/2 months as a suspended league operating in Regina, Moose Jaw, Weyburn, Estevan, Saskatoon, Edmonton and Calgary.

"We decided to put hockey where it should be," president Fred Page told a news conference.

"We never did want to be outside CAHA jurisdiction," said Frank Boucher, commissioner of the CMJHL, which, under the settlement terms, will change its name and drop legal action started against five CAHA officers.

The disagreement began last fall when the CMJHL was refused CAHA sanction to operate on the ground the time was not ripe for such a league.

The new pact permits the junior circuit to operate in its present form and to study five applications for new franchises at its annual meeting starting in Regina Thursday.

Boucher said examination and study of a pending new agreement between the National Hockey League and the CAHA during 12 hours of discussion Saturday and Sunday "helped us a great deal to understand what we should do."

Parnelli Jones and his turbine should run away from rest of field, says Mario Andretti

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — "There's no way," said Dan Gurney, "that we can keep Parnelli Jones and his turbine from winning the Memorial Day race if nothing breaks in his car."

Mario Andretti said earlier that if the Pratt and Whitney turbine car holds together "the rest of us will be competing for second place."

Andretti was fastest qualifier at a record 168.982 m.p.h. in a Brawner Hawk Ford. Gurney, Santa Ana, Calif., was second fastest at 167.224 in one of his own American Eagle-Fords.

Jones, the 1965 winner of the 500-mile race in a conventional race car, qualified only sixth fastest in the 10-mile trials the last two weekends, 166.075. But he was practising almost that fast last week with a full load of fuel.

Parnelli had to pamper a faulty gear box in the trials but new gears have been installed.

OPERATES ALL-OUT
The reason the top drivers fear Jones is that the turbine may be able to run all day at close to qualifying speed. The piston engines will be running slower because they have to reduce the amount of nitro methane and other additives in their qualifying fuel, in order to avoid burning the pistons.

The turbine car uses JP1 fuel identical to that used by open planes.

The STP division of Studebaker, headed by Andy Granatelli, spent three years building the noiseless "Turbo-car."

Granatelli contends the car may make the Grand Prix-type rear-engine cars obsolete, even disregarding the turbine power plant. The engine is installed beside the driver. It has an aircraft - originated aluminum backbone frame, an airfoil braking flap and four-wheel drive.

Granatelli, himself a former race driver, has been busily knocking down rumors that the Canadian-built turbine develops 1,000 horsepower.

"Simply not true," he says. "It provides 550 b.h.p., comparable to that of our competition."

Jones undoubtedly has much

Gilles Villemure's Heleta wins Sherbrooke Stake in 2:08 1/5, races tomorrow

Anyone who plays numbers around the track and then on Sunday afternoon at the Sherbrooke Racing Club would have emerged alright for the afternoon. The magic number emerged on the board six times during the race.

The only other incident was in the fifth when Glorian Malo's Ed Bang refused to come to the gate two consecutive times and the judges scratched him. It was his third such offence. He did it last week and after a warning by the judges he was taken out of the race this time.

It was a good card and it was all finished by 5:10 p.m. despite the two delays which caused ten minutes of post time. The next card will be tomorrow evening when the first mid-week program will be presented and Paul Brunelle, racing secretary, is hoping to have a good list of entries for the ten-dash card.

The field went to the quarter in 31.35 seconds and the half in 1:05 to come back in 1:03 and finish in 2:08 1/5 Jersey Express, one of the favorites, made his bid just after the three-quarter pole but broke stride and finished fifth. Mrs. Marie's H.S.M. pulled in second place with Claude Patis and Shawnee Wann taking third.

It was one of the better dashes of the afternoon and it was a battle the whole way as everyone was out to win. Villemure and Heleta had just too much horse and when they came up to him they let out with more speed to win the dash in fine fashion.

In the exacta in the Tenth it was Dean Watson with his Go Hanover once again beating the field to the wire. He got away from the seventh position on the outside but rounded the field and at the quarter had taken over to set the pace. Home they went to the half in 1:05 and finished in 2:11 1/5. It was another close battle between Go Hanover and R. Cossette with Success Girl. In the stretch Cossette tried to move ahead but Watson was ready and had plenty of horse for the final fight to the wire.

In the first race Borderview Tom was scratched when he hit the gate throwing his driver and ran away. He travelled Charles Haws keeps the Volkswagen just for the fun of it.

Charlie Haws lives in Toronto at 7292 Topping. He's in the real estate business. And obviously, he's good at it.

One day we passed his garage and this is what we saw. We were curious as to why a man who could afford a Rolls would have a Volkswagen. Instead of just guessing we went right up and rang Charlie's door bell.

"Sir," we said, "would you mind telling us why you own a Volkswagen as well as a Rolls Royce?"

From here on we'll quote Charlie. "I bought a Volkswagen when I started in business several years ago, and I have nothing but good things to say about it. I guess I bought it for economical reasons, but after awhile, I found it was really fun to drive...well anyway, I got lucky and started making more money than I ever dreamed I'd make, and I figured that everybody is entitled to one big luxury in his life. Mine was the Rolls Royce. But I never did get rid of the Volkswagen. And I'll tell you why. I still get a lot of fun out of driving it... you might say it keeps me young

...besides, these two cars make a great balance in my life. The Rolls reminds me how far I've come, and just as important, the Volkswagen reminds me of how I got there. I think that's healthy...."

That's Charlie Haws' story. Moral: Buy a Volkswagen. It will help you save up for a Rolls Royce.

Life Insurance for 20 year olds?

Definitely. This is the best time to buy life insurance. At the beginning of your career when the premiums are lower.

When you buy life insurance you create an estate of your own the moment you sign. Life insurance is also a sound investment. Thanks to compound interest, the cash value will keep increasing through the years giving you a "nest egg" for unforeseen emergencies.

Life insurance can also be used as collateral. For loans or business deals later. Talk to the Man from Manufacturers. He'll discuss your particular situation with you and draw up your personal life insurance program. One with options so that up to age 40 you can add to it at intervals, including when you marry and when your children are born. You can make these additional purchases regardless of your health condition.

Twenty isn't too young to start your life insurance program. Some men even begin at 18. You have to start early when you're aiming for financial success.

Als split with Lachine and belt Granby 9-5

Sherbrooke Alouettes did very well for themselves over the long weekend by copping two out of three exhibition games they played. On Sunday in Lachine they dropped a close 3-2 decision to the Mets but then Sunday evening on their home grounds they pulled out with a 6-5 victory.

On their home grounds last evening they knocked over Granby Cardinals 9-5 with Este Birth setting the pace when he drove home four runs to settle the issue. Rigo, the Als' starting hurler, worked seven innings to earn the decision. He was replaced by Perez in the eighth after the Poole squad held a 9-2 lead.

The Als will visit Coaticook and Granby this evening and tomorrow before returning to their home field to take on the Canadiens and wind up their exhibition fixtures. The league will officially open Sunday afternoon when the Als will be at home to Thetford Miners at 1.30 in the afternoon. They will journey to Thetford for an evening engagement for 8 p.m.

Last evening Rigo got good backing from his mates and he held the upper hand the whole way until he was lifted in the eighth. He whiffed two batters, gave up eight hits for three runs during his stay on the mound. He picked up the credit for the win.

Simon Perez, who took over, was touched for three hits and two runs in the second inning of the plate including Carlos Thorne twice. The Als' infield came up with three double-plays which helped their pitchers and they also played errorless ball.

Este Birth was the best at the plate for the Als. He drove in two runs in the second inning with a double and then in the eighth he connected for a single to produce two as the Als crossed the plate five times.

Madison came up with three singles, Poole two, King a double and Rosebud with Perez connected for the other singles. For Granby Jimenez, Thorne and Desroches each banged out two hits. Gaetan Plouffe was charged with the loss.

In Lachine the Als built up a 2-0 lead and held on until Chuck Klimchuck smashed a homer to settle the issue and give the Mets the decision. Bert Morin was the loser as each club banged out five hits.

Lilias Poole and Bob King smashed out homers to give the Als their 2-0 lead and held on until the late innings when the outcome was settled on Klimchuck's homer. The Als played errorless ball despite the cold weather.

In the evening at the Park Avenue Stadium the Als drove two runs across the plate in the first inning. They added three more in the third frame as the Mets crossed the plate four times in the fourth but the Als got a single to extend their lead to 6-4 in the bottom half of the fourth.

The Mets got one in the ninth but the Als held their slim edge to pick up the victory and earn the split for the day. The Als played tight ball and didn't commit any errors despite the cold, windy evening.

Willie Madison came up with a great catch to rob Gilles St. Onge of a sure hit with a great running catch. Hollis Fossill paced the attack for the Als with a double and a single while Bob King smashed out two bingles. Willie Madison, Ester Birth and Gerry Brooks accounted for the other Sherbrooke hits.

Gilles St. Onge was the best for the Mets with a homer and a single while Hino Alarcorn got two doubles while Ay Gomez, Chuck Klimchuck, R. Mallonee, Ron Dickson and Jean-Pierre Gauthier accounted for the others.

Eight Canadians qualify for US Open tournament June 15

At least eight Canadians qualified Sunday in preliminary trials for the U.S. Open golf championship set for June 15-18 at Springfield, N.J.

But notable among those not qualifying were professionals George Knudson of Toronto and Stan Leonard of Vancouver.

Leonard tried at Seattle, but picked up after 27 holes because his score was so bad. He had a first round 79.

Knudson, upset because he was required to qualify after winning the Canada Cup individual honors and the Greater New Orleans Open and because the U.S. Golf Association found a flaw in his original entry form, refused to refile an entry and passed the Open.

Joining Gary Cowan of Kitchener, Ont., an automatic qualifier as reigning U.S. Amateur champion, are Al Balding, Bobby Breen and Frank Whibley of Toronto, Bob Panasiuk of Windsor, Ont., Ron Folk of Saskatoon, Bobby Cox Jr. of Vancouver and Bill Ezinicki, formerly of Winnipeg but now resident of Mashpee, Mass.

The second round of the qualifying tests is set for June 5 and 6 at several courses across the U.S.

Breen and Balding set the pace in the fields in which they advanced, Breen leading 22 professionals at Detroit with an even par 71-72-143 over two courses while Balding shot 73-69-142 for a four-stroke lead at Buffalo.

Tom Phoebus gives Orioles new look at home, blanks Yanks on two-hitter, Twins stop Chicago

Baltimore's Tom Phoebus, who started going places when he returned home, has given the wandering Orioles a new look at their old neighborhood.

Phoebus, a Baltimore native who came up from the minors late last year and pitched shut-outs in his first two starts, blanked New York Yankees 7-0 on two hits Monday night, lifting the Orioles back to the .500 level.

The 25-year-old right-hander, who lives less than two miles from Baltimore's Municipal Stadium did not allow a hit until the seventh inning and struck out 11 Yankees.

The triumph, seventh in the last nine games for the world champions, sent them into a third-place tie with Kansas City Athletics and Minnesota Twins in the American League. Minnesota edged Chicago 8-7 to knock the White Sox out of a share of first place with idle Detroit Tigers while California Angels topped Kansas City 6-3 and Cleveland Indians blanked Washington Senators 4-0 in other AL action.

HOMER NO. 10
Frank Robinson crashed his 10th home run — taking the league lead — and Dave Johnson and Andy Etchebarren also puled homers for the Orioles.

Minnesota's Cesar Tovar, who had two homers and four hits in Sunday's victory over California, stayed hot with two hits and a pair of RBI against the White Sox. The Twins burst from behind with a three-run homer in the sixth inning. Zoilo Versalles singled home the go-ahead run.

Don Mincher drove in three runs with his eighth homer and a two-run single, backing Jim McGlothin's six-hit pitching as the Angels overcame Kansas City's early 3-1 lead.

Steve Hargan stopped Washington on four hits and drove in the only run he needed with a second-inning single. Lee Maye and Chuck Hinton rapped bases-empty homers for the Indians.

Willie Mays bunts and Giants win

When Willie Mays hits a home run or makes a great catch, that's predictable.

Then there are the times Willie Mays is unpredictable. Like the other day when he dropped a fly ball. Or Monday night, when he bunted.

The bunt helped San Francisco Giants beat Philadelphia Phillies 3-1.

The play came in the ninth inning with the game tied 1-1, runners at first and second and none out.

"I bunted on my own," Willie explained afterward. "Jim Bunning is a tough pitcher. I've never hit him very well, and I had already struck out three times. We needed only one run, and I got McCovey and Hart coming behind me. All it takes is a fly ball."

Bunning charged off the mound and scooped up the bunt, but he threw high to second trying for a force out and the Giants had the bases loaded.

Just as Mays figured, McCovey got the ball in the air, but it was a foul pop, and now it was Hart's turn. The third baseman came through, lashing a double to left field that drove in two runs and won the game.

In the only other National League game Monday, Pittsburgh Pirates defeated Houston Astros 3-1 and New York Mets downed Los Angeles Dodgers 5-2.
