PURGE PROTESTANT EDUCATION BODY

Seek Resignation Of Seven Members Of Education Group

Letters Calling for Resignation of Seven Members of Protestant Committee of Council of Public Instruction Fail to Give Reason for Drastic Action—Centralization of Teacher Training Reported Cause of Split in Committee—Request Came As a Surprise.

The Protestant education system in the Province of Quebec was in a state of turmoil today following the announcement that the resignations of seven members of the Protestant Committee of the Council of Public Instruction, the majority from the Eastern Townships, had been requested. The reason for this drastic action is unknown, all parties expressing ignorance regarding the basis for the ouster. But in any case, supporters of the Protestant faith in the Province have a real problem for discussion on their hands and many theories and ideas may be advanced before the powers that be break their silence and let the public into their confidence.

Dr. W. P. Percival, director of Protestant Education and Deputy Minister of Education, who is also secretary of the Committee, had little to say beyond the fact that he had asked the following members of the Committee to vacate their posts: Rev. A. H. McGreer, principal and vice-chancellor of Bishop's University, Lennoxville; Charles B. Howard, M.P. for Sherbrooke; P. C. Duboyce, N.P., of Richmond; Eric Fisher, of Montreal and Magog; Rt. Rev. Lennox Williams, former Bishop of Quebec; Howard Murray, O.B.E., of Montreal, who has a summer home near Magog, and H. R. Crookfield, of Montreal.

This leaves as members of the Committee Hon. Gordon Scott, chairman, Dr. W. O. Rothney, professor of Education at Bishop's University; Malcolm T. Robb, of Valleyfield; Mr. Justice W. L. Bond, of the Court of Appeal; Dr. G. W. Parmelee, former director of Protestant Education, of Quebec, and Rev. Dr. Leslie Pidgeon, of Montreal. Dr. Milton L. Hersey resigned from the Committee some time ago.

Numerous Rumors.

Although definite information is lacking, general rumors, denied in official quarters, have it that the ouster order follows a division in the Committee over the question of the training schools for teachers. At present two training schools are in operation in the Province, one at Macdonald College, which is affiliated to McGill University, and the other at Bishop's College, Lennoxville. The curriculum in effect at these institutions is determined under the general authority of the Protestant Committee.

Prior to the election of Macdonald College, the training of teachers was carried on at a Government-owned normal school in Montreal and the training of teachers at Macdonald College is in virtue of a contract between the Government and the Protestant Committee and McGill University.

Of late years there has been some discussion between the Committee and the University authorities as to whether this control of teacher training should not be taken over entirely by McGill, but the Committee, which now disappears as far as the majority of its members is concerned, was not inclined to relinquish its authority in the matter and discussions which were underway were terminated for the time being by the retirement of Principal Morgan from the University.

Some members of the committee were of the opinion that additional assistance should be given to Bishop's University which is carrying on its training school at a loss. This additional aid would in no way detract from the privileges and income of Macdonald College. This idea was said to lack the favor of the Montreal members.

TRADE UNION CONGRESS APPROVES BRITISH REARMAMENT

Norwich, Norfolk, Sept. 10.—By a card vote of 3,544,000 to 224,000, the Trades Union Congress today adopted the most important item on its agenda—the report of the National Council of Labor on International Peace and Defence, which gives qualified approval to rearmament.

The opposition was led by Aneurin Bevan, member of Parliament for a South Wales constituency, and speakers variously urged policies ranging from isolation to severe punishment of "fascist invaders" by democratic countries.

COMBAT SPREAD OF MALADY IN NEW BRUNSWICK

Opening of Schools in Maritime Province Postponed a Week on Recommendation of Health Authorities—24 New Cases in Toronto.

Schools in New Brunswick remained closed today as the Maritime province joined other parts of the Dominion in combatting the spread of infantile paralysis. Opening of the schools was postponed a week yesterday on the recommendation of health authorities.

New Brunswick's case list has reached thirty-two with most patients suffering only a mild type of the disease. No alarm was felt but closing of the schools decided on as a precautionary measure.

Third victim of the disease in Nova Scotia was a thirty-eight year old man who died Wednesday at Halifax. In Montreal forty-two persons were under treatment, sixteen of them from outside the city.

Scheduled to reopen Tuesday, Ontario normal schools will remain closed until the disease is definitely checked, Hon. Dr. L. A. Simpson, Education Minister, announced last night. Toronto public, separate and secondary schools will not open until September 20.

Twenty-four new cases appeared in Toronto yesterday. One death occurred to bring the toll in the district to thirty. In the province more than 1,200 were stricken since the disease first struck in June, with the death toll at forty-four.

Other centres extending the school holiday because of the disease are Edmonton, the west and London, most seriously affected in western Ontario. Both cities yesterday decided on September 20 as the day for school classes to resume.

With more than ninety cases in the West where eight have died and twenty-five in Quebec and the Maritimes with deaths, it is estimated some 1,400 persons suffered throughout Canada.

A seventeen-year-old Barrie youth and a five-year-old Toronto girl died yesterday to raise the Dominion's total to thirty.

FAIR PROVED A GREAT SUCCESS AT SCOTSTOWN

Another Successful Scotstown Fair Passes into Records—Fine Exhibits and Entertainment Attracted Large Crowds.

Scotstown, Sept. 10.—Featuring exhibits, and entertainment of the highest quality and favored with a continuation of the ideal weather which has prevailed throughout the Fair season, the sixty-ninth annual Scotstown Fair, sponsored by Compton County Agricultural Society, No. 2, proved to be a complete success and attracted large crowds of people on both Thursday and Friday.

An amateur contest was the special feature yesterday and was enjoyed by a packed grandstand with J. A. Blanchard, M.P., acting as judge. A trio from Lennoxville, Lloyd Price, Garnet Bennett and Cecil Magwood, presenting a singing and dancing act to accordion accompaniment, won the first prize of ten dollars, while second prize went to a charming danseuse, Miss Kirkpatrick, of Bury. Miss Lois MacKenzie, of Scotstown, won third place with a vocal solo and a piano, banjo and guitar trio, Miss Pauline Goodin and John and Joseph Dugan, of Scotstown, were awarded fourth place.

Other winners were C. Fournier, who presented an eccentric dance. Mrs. Baker, an eighty-five year old pianist, and T. Goodin, an eighty-five year old tap dancer.

The quality of livestock and agricultural and horticultural products was of a very high order and drew favorable comment from visitors at the Fair.

The chief exhibitors of horses and cattle were Clayton and Percy Sherman and Shirley, Newton and Finlay Bennett, of Canterbury, W. S. McCaskill, of Keith, and David Ross, Ross Goodin and Buddy Elger, of Scotstown.

M. MacAleer, Peter MacIver, Thomas Chapman and R. H. MacRae were the leading exhibitors of farm and garden produce, while fine displays of flowers and plants were shown.

Lord Beaverbrook Launches Newspaper Campaign to Have Done with Rumors of Wars as He Believes There Will Be No War—Brilliant Editorial Writers and Cartoonists Enlisted in Drive to Remove Jitters from European Situation.

DEMAND PROBE INTO ACTIVITY OF U.S. NAZIS

London, Sept. 10.—Lord Beaverbrook is launching a campaign to have done with rumors of wars, as he believes there will be no wars.

By editorials and the efforts of the brilliant cartoonist Strube, the Canadian press is endeavoring through the Daily Express and the Evening Standard to minimize the worrying effect of the insistent din of continental tomtoms.

Strube in the Express today depicts the front door of the "Empire Theatre," in which is playing "The Dominions' Melody." At the door, standing and calmly grinning, is a man in a military uniform, a scene is a turmoil of Hitler, Mussolini, Japs, Chinese, Turks, Arabs and Jews, all pointing among themselves, accusing and jostling.

An American is seen dashing in a panic to Wall Street. John Bull, wiping his brow amid the confusion, is pressing his way through to the Empire Theatre, noting the advertisement: "It's cooler in the Empire."

Yesterday the leader-writer of the Express, Frank Owen, announced Strube had created a new character for his cartoons—"Major Crisis," who is a black-coated, mustachioed villain with swords, guns and bombs. Strube is to present Major Crisis in his real role in the future.

"Major Crisis is the villain of the piece," Owen wrote. "He stalks about the world stage uttering fearful threats of war and death and desolation and darting looks of hate and rage upon the good folk of all nations."

"But as we no longer fear the villain of the movies, who bound the girl in the mountain shack, we no longer fear Major Crisis. Only the City (London financial district) believes in him."

Britain-France Plan An International Patrol To Halt Submarine Piracy

Proposals for Automatic Elimination of Any Undersea Craft Lurking on Mediterranean High Sea Route Was Placed Before Nine-Power Conference Today—League Formally Placed on Its Agenda a Spanish Government Charge that Italy Is to Blame for Piratical Attacks on Ships.

Geneva, September 10.—Great Britain and France laid before a nine-nation conference today a plan for automatic elimination of any undersea craft lurking on the Mediterranean high sea route.

Officials of the two powers completed this formula, which embraces also the use of dirigibles, airplanes and warcraft to safeguard merchant shipping, while the League of Nations Council, in a brief session, formally placed on its agenda a Spanish Government charge that Italy is to blame for piratical attacks on ships in the inland sea.

The Council session preceded the meeting of the nine nations at Nyon, near here—a momentous session designed to find security for neutral ships in the Mediterranean, with or without the help of Italy and Germany, both absent today.

Yvon Delbos, the French Foreign Minister, was chosen to open the Nyon session and get it quickly down to practical work.

The preliminary plan of the British and French experts would divide the Mediterranean into territorial waters and high seas. Riparian states would retain full control of their territorial waters and do their own policing there. But along the great Mediterranean sea route, all craft found under water would be regarded automatically as piratical, to be open to immediate attack by warships of a nine-power international fleet.

Franc Continued Its Rapid Decline In Heavy Selling On Bourse Today

Dropped to Lowest Point Since Franc Was Freed on June 30 to Seek Its Natural Level—Treasury Has Borrowed Heavily to Bolster the Currency.

Paris, Sept. 10.—The franc today dropped to the lowest point since it was freed on June 30 to seek its natural level. It hit 28.22 to the United States dollar in a heavy selling wave that followed yesterday's revelation by the Bank of France that the Treasury had borrowed heavily to bolster the currency. Slumped yesterday, losing in official trading at 26.96 to the dollar as compared with the previous day's 26.85.

The Bank of France statement for the week ending September 2 showed the Treasury had taken 800,000,000 francs in loans without interest, bringing the borrowing total to 3,900,000,000 of the 15,000,000,000 francs authorized by the Finance Ministry decree of June 30.

Today's downward tendency proceeded rapidly before the opening of the Bourse, quotations dropping almost immediately to 27.95 francs to the dollar. Then selling continued unabated.

BETTERMENT IN RETAIL TRADE CIRCLES NOTED

Retailers in Small Towns and Rural Areas of Province Report Business Up Twenty-Two Per Cent. Over Last Year.

Montreal, Sept. 10.—A fairly good volume of business was transacted by retailers during the past week, with increased sales reported in footwear, wearing apparel and house furnishings. Retail sales of general merchandise stores in small towns and rural areas throughout Quebec showed an increase of twenty-two per cent. for July 1937 as compared with the same month in 1936.

In wholesale and jobbing centres, groceries, hardware and dry goods are reported in fair demand. The value of Quebec wholesale trade increased eleven per cent in July 1937 compared with the same month a year ago. Hardware firms reported 18 per cent. more business dry goods 15 per cent. and the clothing group 14 per cent. The downward trend in wholesale prices continued in the week ended August 27, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, index dropping from 85.3 to 84.8 or one half of one per cent.

Moderate improvement in employment in the Province of Quebec was recorded during the month of July, 2,460 establishments showing 336,324 persons employed on August 1, against 328,738 on July 1.

There was also an increase in all divisions except silver during the first seven months of 1937 as compared with 1936.

Property sales in the Montreal district suffered a rather severe drop during the week ended September 2. There were 101 sales of a value of $248,851, compared with 120 sales and value of $643,806 in the previous week, a decrease of nineteen in number and $294,455 in value.

Heavy offerings featured the Montreal livestock markets during the week ended September 2nd, 15,884 head being for sale as against 13,337 head the week previous. Prices were somewhat mixed, cattle and calves were firm to somewhat higher, while lambs and hogs were inclined to weakness. Exports to the United States consisted of 4,706 head of cattle and 715 hogs, while 494 head of cattle were shipped to Great Britain.

CHARGE CHOLERA GERMS PLANTED BEFORE CHINESE ABANDONED PAOSHAN

Shanghai, Sept. 10.—A Japanese spokesman charged today that cholera germs were planted in the town of Paoshan before it was abandoned to Japanese forces, resulting in 80 cases and 20 deaths within three days.

The Japanese entered the walled town, located near Woonung on the Yangtze delta shore, after defeating a detachment of Chinese defenders who held on for more than a week against overwhelmingly superior forces.

Urges Solid Canadian Citizens To Assume Leadership In Development

Income and prosperity were dependent on foreign sales and competition. Expressing faith the central area of the Dominion, despite drought, was well suited for a permanent population, Sir Edward told the banquet gathering he had "lasting confidence in the future of Western Canada as an agricultural area quite capable of supporting a much greater population than now resides there."

The future of Canada was assured, he said, if business men, professional workers, educationists and ordinary solid citizens provided leadership in developing "a heritage of wealth and opportunity such as no people of our numbers have ever held in history." He was confident the leadership would be found and that the wealth was in the Dominion ready to be used.

Sir Edward said there was "little to regret" from the standpoint of the quality of Canadian population. He said it might take time to produce a "national type," but the Dominion immigration policy was hard to criticize, except that it was too rapid early in this century.

Sir Edward said Canadian hopes of economic recovery must be tempered by the inadequate supply of export wheat produced on the prairies this year, but that they should "still not be abandoned."

He said the Canadian people showed little disagreement concerning the methods needed to improve the moral and intellectual standards of the nation, but asked why they could find so little agreement concerning what must be done for their own material advancement.

Sir Edward said he could find no reason for disagreement over foreign policies of Canada, those of immigration or transportation.

A driver backed the truck into a parked automobile. Someone tossed a stone through the windshield of Holland's automobile and one of his two pigs broke a leg.

The reason for this request," stated Mr. Duboye in an interview with the Record this morning. "So far as I know there has been no friction on the committee and the letter from Mr. Percival came as a complete surprise. I have so far refused to accede to this request and have asked that more particulars be provided as to the reason why my resignation is desired."

"It cannot be a matter of politics for the resignations of Liberals and Conservatives alike have been asked. The statement by Premier Duplessis that he knew nothing of the whole matter further complicates the issue, for the letter I received definitely stated that my resignation had been requested by the Government. This is at distinct variance from the declaration of the Premier."

Discussing reports that the matter of teacher training had caused the split, Mr. Duboye said he doubted this. On several occasions he had requested greater assistance for Bishop's University but not at the expense of Macdonald College. "I have felt right along that while Macdonald was deserving of every cent it got, Bishop's was entitled to additional assistance. I feel certain that this was not the cause of the trouble for all members of the committee at least admitted that our requests were understandable even if they could not be granted."

Charles B. Howard was out of town.

Refused to Give Reason For His Action.

Discussing the matter in Quebec this morning, Dr. Percival declared that he had asked the seven members to resign. He refused to give the Government the reason for the move, stating: "All that I will say is that I sent the letters and I was acting under authority."

The wholesale dismissals may have been carried out without authorization, Premier Duplessis declared in an interview in Quebec, thus conflicting somewhat with Dr. Percival's statement and the letters sent to the various members whose resignations were requested.

In the other hand, the Premier made it clear that the Protestant Council has always been given full autonomy. The Government does not interfere with its affairs, believing that the Protestants should have full control of the education of their children, as Catholics have of theirs.

Premier Appeared to Be Surprised.

The Premier appeared to be surprised when told that resignations had been demanded of seven members of the committee and that full reorganization of the Protestant education governing body was contemplated.

"The Government has no knowledge of wholesale dismissals," the Premier said.

So far as the Government was concerned, the only action relating to the committee which had been brought to its knowledge was the letter of resignation sent in several months ago by the Hon. Gordon W. Scott, chairman of the education body. The Premier added that no action had been taken on Mr. Scott's resignation.

"Perhaps this (the wholesale dismissals) was carried out without authorization," Mr. Duplessis added. "We do not know."

"In any case, we do not interfere in these matters. The Government has always recognized the complete autonomy of the Protestant Committee of the Council of Public Instruction."

"We gave no instructions to ask for the resignations of these members. I repeat, we do not interfere in these matters."

The names given as having been asked to resign or to remain on the committee with Dr. Hersey account for a total of fourteen out of eighteen members of the Protestant Committee.

There have been, however, for some time several vacancies, the reason being that as members died the decision was taken, with general elections coming on, that it might be better to leave to the incoming Government, should there be a change, as did come, some latitude as to the composition of the committee. Consequently, it will be for the Government to appoint by order-in-council twelve new members, and should the resignation of Hon. Gordon W. Scott be accepted, an additional appointment will have to be made, thirteen in all. Appointment by order-in-council is at pleasure, which means for life unless the Government otherwise decides, as has been done in the case of the seven members asked to retire.

The membership of the Protestant Committee consists of the same number as there are laymen on the Roman Catholic Committee, and the number of Roman Catholic laymen equals the number of Roman Catholic Bishops, who are ipso facto members.

There are six additional members of the Protestant Committee, who are elected by the appointed members and consequently are not subject to Government decision. Of this added membership there remain in office at present A. Kirk Cameron, Montreal; Dr. W. L. Sturtevant, K.C., Godfray; Dean Sinclair Laird, Dean of Macdonald College School for Teachers, and T. M. Dick.

The Provincial Association of Protestant Teachers is also allowed to elect each year at its convention a representative to the Protestant Committee, to serve for one year. The term of these six members by the committee is not defined in the law, and consequently unless stipulated in the resolutions electing them, the term is also at pleasure.

As to Hon. Mr. Scott, the situation is not quite clarified. He submitted his resignation to the Government, feeling that it might be better if he were to make way for some one else in view of the fact on the reform of the League gathered to consider steps to strengthen the League Covenant which was weakened with the collapse of international sanctions against Italy's Ethiopian conquest.

The Council, with Italian, German and Japanese representatives absent, already had before it the Spanish Republican Government's charge of Italian intervention and China prepared to ask League action against Japan.

Russian sources said Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet Foreign Commissar, would attack Italy both at the Nyon gathering and at the League session.

Hope For Italian and German Adherence.

The delegates to the "anti-piracy" conference at Nyon promoted by Great Britain and France, expressed hope that Italian and German adherence to any pact they should reach might be obtained later in the twenty-seven-nation Spanish Non-Intervention Committee at London.

Both Italy and Germany, yesterday, in rejecting the Anglo-French invitation to Nyon, held out the possibility of continued collaboration with other powers in Spanish matters.

In fact, Berlin and Rome suggested that was the proper place for "anti-piracy" negotiations—not Nyon.

Anglo-French co-operation was strengthened by the choice of Italy and Germany to stay at home. Paris and London were said to have agreed upon a plan to use a nine-power international fleet to police the Mediterranean and sink any submarine menace.

It was possible that Nyon's spot in the international limelight would be quickly eclipsed by Geneva.

The meeting had been called at Nyon because of Italy's dislike for Geneva, but with the Fascist envoys away from the council table it was possible the proceedings would be shifted to Geneva after the formal opening.

FRANCO ADMITS HE HAS PURCHASED FOUR SUBS

London, Sept. 10.—Revised Anglo-French proposals to end submarine piracy in the Mediterranean are to be submitted to the Nyon conference. Their main features are understood to be:

International shipping to confine itself to defined Mediterranean lanes;

Creation of an international force of destroyers to ensure that these lanes can be used freely and safely.

Any molestation with shipping in these lanes will be treated as an act of piracy.

General Queipo de Llano, commander of General Franco's southern army, announced in a frank broadcast that Franco had bought four submarines which were now in the Mediterranean. This was the first mention of the purchase.

The authorities are now anxious to know when Franco bought the submarines and from whom they were purchased. If bought from a member of the Non-Intervention Committee subsequent to conclusion of the Spanish non-intervention agreement, the sale would constitute a breach of the agreement. It is expected Queipo de Llano's announcement will be referred to the Non-Intervention Committee for inquiry.

In any event, it is stated in British circles, submarines illegally interfering with British shipping on the high seas will take the consequences.

able to straighten out the machine and it began to fall at a terrific speed and crashed into a grassy hill atop the cliffs.

The Canadian officer was thrown clear and his body rolled over the edge of the cliff. The pilot lay among the wreckage. Ambulances and fire-fighting appliances were quickly dispatched to the scene but both men were dead.

More than 1,000 spectators saw the plane dive to its doom. As news of the crash spread, thousands of holiday-makers at the seaside were hurried to the scene, snarling traffic in the town's busy streets. Many women fainted at the sight of the wreckage.

The plane, a Miles Falcon entered in the division of the race for machines of less than 150 horsepower, was owned by Sherren, who had been living in retirement with his wife at Felixstowe.

His pilot, Hilton, was forty-three and had a distinguished record stretching over more than twenty years. He gained many decorations for service in France during the Great War and later in Kurdistan.

Six years ago he commanded a flight to Nigeria. Last year delay at Athens robbed him of a chance to smash Amy Johnson's flight record.

He was one of the team of inter-pilot test pilots who put all machines, military and civil, through their paces before an air ministry certificate is granted. He had never entered the King's Cup race before, and a few days ago told a friend: "I want to get the experience and a general impression of what this round-the-country race is like."

that he is a prominent Liberal, but, it is understood, he was asked at the time to continue in office. From what could be learned yesterday from Quebec, the Government has not acted upon his resignation as member of the Committee, and the Committee itself, which selects the chairman, has not yet acted upon his letter of resignation as chairman.

"Every morning we read of Stalin shouting at Mussolini, of Hitler abusing Stalin, of Mussolini roaring back at Hitler. For that, then, we learn that Foreign Secretary Eden went to Paris, that Leon Blum is going to Prague, and that the situation is grave."

"Then the League of Nations spokesman assures us that peace is indivisible and that war anywhere means war everywhere. Then we remember that in 1920 the Russians fought the Poles, that in 1922 the Turks fought the Greeks, that in 1932 the Japanese fought the Chinese, and in 1933 Bolivia fought Paraguay, and that in 1935 the Italians fought the Abyssinians, and still there was no world war."

"Today there is a civil war in Spain which is more than civil war. It is a civil war, armies and populations are geared up for vast struggle. Yet the British public remains calm."

"Why no war? In the first place we are too strong. We have the most powerful navy in the world and our fleets could blow out of the water any other armada or combination of armadas likely to come against us. Our air force is strong and growing stronger despite certain lamentable hitches in the expansion scheme. Our army is efficient and adequate for any immediate purpose."

The second reason for sleeping soundly at night is that possible challenges in the bloody lists of world war are not so strong as they look. They have men, guns and planes, making them formidable and perhaps dreadfully dangerous at the first onset, but they have no command of the resources of war material, food, and money that could sustain them in a struggle with the great democracies.

"Thirdly, none of the powers, either dictators or democracies, wants war."

The Evening Standard in a full length letter, summarizing why it is just as well the Nyon conference has been postponed, concludes, "Britain had better make up her mind that the Mediterranean problem is insoluble for the present and that abnormal conditions must prevail until the war is over. She should stick to her own path, giving adequate protection to British ships, leaving protection of foreign ships and shores to the nations which own them."

Foreign Troops Endangered In Cross-Fire Of Shanghai Fight

Shanghai joined in the shelling. The Chinese batteries, deep within in Pootung, repelled and their shells churned the waters of the Whangpoo and crashed into the Japanese-occupied Yangtzeop section of the International Settlement.

The populace of the International Settlement was thrown into a panic by the renewed outbreak of warfare on the Settlement's fringes.

The Japanese bombardment was believed to be a covering action for the landing of reinforcements for Japan's army of 60,000.

It was four weeks today since the conflict between China and Japan engulfed this commercial port city of 2,500,000 people, the greatest trading centre of the Orient.

Yet both sides occupy much the same positions today as at the beginning, with the overwhelming mechanized Japanese force unable to budge the Chinese. The defenders are holding the Japanese to narrow areas fringing the two rivers that form the triangular Shanghai delta.

Engagements were being fought on all sectors of the swayed-backed front today from Lotien, to the northwest, along the shores of the Yangtze to Woonung and from there along the Whangpoo south to Shanghai proper.

Japanese asserted that a women's "Battalion of Death" made up of five hundred Chinese Communists was fighting among the troops at Lotien. Uniformly only twenty years old, the Chinese girl unit was said by Japanese observers to be well armed, completely disciplined and surprisingly brave.

Japanese asserted that a captured member of the battalion disclosed the girl troops had been trained by Madame Sun Yat-Sen, widow of "The Father of the Chinese Republic" at Nanking to encourage the regular troops by their example.

HIGHLY EQUIPPED RED ARMY ENTERS BATTLE

Peiping, Sept. 10.—Powerful Chinese Communist forces of Gen. Mao Tse-Tung were reliably reported today preparing to take the field in Shensi and Shansi provinces to block the thrust of the Japanese army in northwest China.

The first independent word of the Communist forces in many weeks was brought here today by foreign missionaries evacuating the interior.

They reported they had seen long trains of ammunition, light and heavy artillery and all sorts of war supplies moving westward from Genyang across the Yellow River to reinforce the Shensi Communists.

Their difficulties with the Central Government at Nanking buried in the face of the present crisis, the Communists, long bitter foes of the spread of Japanese influence, were awaiting orders to cross the Yellow River into Shansi Province and bolster the troops of the aged warlord, Gen. Yen Hsi-Shan.

The 100,000 well-trained Communist troops would be added to an equal number of Shansi provincial and Central Government troops already concentrated in northern Shensi Province where Japanese have penetrated after an advance from Peiping through southern Chahar Province.

Reinforcements from Japan — many of them high school lads whose spare time is spent searching out the Chinese poetry books — were being concentrated here for the push into northwest China along the railroad from Peiping to Suiyuan Province.

Gen. Juichi Terauchi, former Japanese Minister of War, arrived at Tientsin to assume full command

Elsa Burt, Lennoxville, Is Critically Injured

Suffered Fractured Spine When Car in Which She Was Travelling Careened Off Roller Coaster Highway Near Island Pond Yesterday Afternoon—Herbert Hall Received Injuries to Leg.

Elsa Burt, twenty-seven year old daughter of Rev. H. C. Burt, professor of philosophy and economics at the University of Bishop's College, was critically injured yesterday afternoon when the automobile in which she was a passenger careened off the "Roller Coaster" highway four miles this side of Island Pond, Vt. Her fiancé, Herbert Hall, twenty-seven years of age, a master at Bishop's College School and son of Dr. George Hall, of Montreal, who was riding with her in the automobile, also was injured. Miss Burt suffered a fractured spine and Hall sustained bruises about the leg. Both were removed to the Sherbrooke Hospital by Lord's ambulance.

Miss Burt's younger sister, Ruth, and William Crawford, son of the Very Rev. Dean A. H. Crawford, of Quebec, driver of the ill-fated car, escaped with a bad shaking up. Dr. Norman Williamson, Montreal specialist, was called last evening to examine Miss Burt, whose spine is fractured in two places. He advised her removal to the Neurological Hospital Montreal, and the victim left in Lord's ambulance this morning, accompanied by Dr. J. B. Winder, of Lennoxville.

The accident occurred when Crawford lost control of the wheel while rounding a curve on the "Roller Coaster" road and the car plunged into the ditch. The vehicle, swerving end for end and turning turtle, was wrecked.

OFFICE BOY AND PLAY STOWAWAYS

Will Likely Be in for a Beam or Two from International Publicity Spotlight.

New York, Sept. 10.—Robert Oliver, a seventeen-year-old office boy for Chamberlain Brown, a theatrical manager, and a little thing called "Merely Murder" were on the high seas together today—and it looked like both Robert and the play were in for a beam or two from the international publicity spotlight.

Robert, according to the best available information, was a stow-away on the liner Queen Mary, going a little too far in doing his job. Brown, who said he didn't put any blame on Robert and felt sure it was all a mistake, explained he had sent the boy to the Queen Mary just before sailing time Wednesday to give the script to a cabin boy, who would hand it on arrival in England to British actor Laurence Olivier.

Then, somehow Robert and "Merely Murder" having got on the ship, didn't get off.

Brown said he understood they clapped you in jail for sixty days in England for being a stowaway and added that if they did that to Robert it would be "carrying the whole thing too far."

BLAME DEATH OF SIX PERSONS ON BLOWOUT

Evidence Showed that Left Rear Tire Blew Out Causing Machine to Swerve into Path of Another Near Regina, Sask.

Regina, Sept. 10.—A coroner's jury last night found a blowout caused an automobile collision near Ballonville, Sask., September 1 which took six lives. No blame was attached to anyone.

Evidence showed the left rear tire of a car driven by John Adolph Neudorf, Sask., blew out, causing the machine to swerve into the path of one driven by Frank Neibel, St. Paul, Minn.

Killed in the crash were Mr. Neibel, his wife and daughter, Mrs. Roger Hayes, of St. Paul, and Gus Banard, John Adolph and Edward Usaki, all of Neudorf, Sask.

Hymn No. 588, "O, Where Are the Banners?" was then sung, and Mr. Gilmour pronounced the benediction.

The ladies were invited to the home of Mrs. Z. Oliver, where a dainty luncheon was served by the hostess, assisted by the young ladies of the congregation.

Mrs. Reynolds, of Inverness, invited the ladies to meet in Inverness for the next sectional meeting. A social hour followed, which was enjoyed by all.

MOTORIST WAS EXONERATED IN HIGHWAY DEATH

Verdict of "Accidental Death" Returned Yesterday Afternoon at Inquest into Tragedy that Claimed Life of M. D. McNeerney, of Waterloo.

Waterloo, Sept. 10.—G. M. Ranson, of Knowlton, driver of the automobile that struck and fatally injured M. D. McNeerney, seventy-three year old Waterloo farmer, on Wednesday last, was exonerated of all blame for the tragedy at the inquest held here yesterday afternoon under the presidency of Dr. P. A. LeDuc, of Granby, district coroner.

McNeerney, it was revealed at the inquest, was somewhat deaf and evidently failed to hear the warning blast of Ranson's claxon. He was crossing the highway near his home on the Foster road when struck by Ranson's car. He suffered a fractured skull, two broken legs and a broken arm, and succumbed to his injuries shortly after being admitted to the St. Vincent de Paul Hospital in Sherbrooke.

Witnesses at the inquest included the driver of the car, Mrs. Ranson and Mrs. McNeerney. Only a few minutes deliberation was necessary before the jury returned a verdict of "accidental death."

The jurors were Ovide Jolin, Waterloo, foreman, J. Cousineau, St. Pronto, E. Cantin, A. Cassavant and M. Hubert, also of Waterloo.

TWO ADDRESSES ENJOYED BY W.I. AT LENNOXVILLE

Work Accomplished During Past Month Reviewed and Plans for Future Discussed at Well-Attended Meeting Yesterday.

Members of the Lennoxville Women's Institute travelled far beyond the confines of their town in the Town Hall yesterday afternoon when they went on a mental journey across the continent to Vancouver with Mrs. Frank Titcomb, and crossed the ocean with Mrs. William Worster to England, as these two members traced their journeys which they took this summer. The speakers described their trips so vividly and in such detail that their listeners lived each scene as they told it, and a highly interesting and enjoyable afternoon was spent. Later each passed around pictures and souvenirs of her trip. At the close of their addresses a hearty vote of thanks was extended to them by the president, Mrs. E. L. Atto, and further appreciation shown by a round of applause.

During the business period a splendid report on the contest staged by the various branches of the Sherbrooke Women's Institute at the Sherbrooke Fair was given by Mrs. R. E. Mosher.

The report of the Sherbrooke County meeting held recently in Cherry River was sent in by the delegate, Mrs. Hugh Wallace, and read by the secretary, Mrs. A. E. Abercrombie.

Standing committee reports followed. Mrs. Worster mentioned in her report on "Canadianization and National Events" the Sherbrooke Centenary celebrations and Labor Day, and the convenor of legislation stated that a new by-law was being drawn up by the Town of Lennoxville to fine offenders of the Public Disturbance Act. This new law was enthusiastically received, as citizens of Lennoxville have suffered considerable annoyance from cattle loading every week-end.

It was decided that the Institute accept the offer of the Lennoxville W.C.T.U. to cater for two meals during the Provincial Convention of the W.C.T.U. to be held here early next month. A tea and food sale were also planned for the middle of the present month, under the convenership of the "Ways and Means" committee.

A canvass for funds for the cemetery was discussed, but this matter was tabled until the next meeting.

An outline for the work of the publicity convener was read by the secretary and listened to with interest.

Mrs. K. Cunningham stated that if the members would give her pieces of cloth she would make a patchwork quilt for the Institute to dispose of as the members saw fit. This offer is greatly appreciated by the members.

The opening ode, sung by the members, and the Club Women's Creed repeated aloud, opened yesterday's meeting, and the motto, "A Short, Short Story," which was well answered, proved most amusing.

Following adjournment a delicious afternoon tea was served by the hostesses, Mrs. E. L. Atto, Mrs. Fred Glass and Mrs. F. R. Titcomb.

MRS. DAWSON WON BRIDGE CLUB PRIZE

Members of the Past Noble Grands Bridge Club were pleasantly entertained last evening at the home of Mrs. Clifford Waite, when contract bridge was played at three tables, the prize being won by Mrs. Gladys Dawson.

During the business period which preceded the card games, the president, Miss Ruby Pegg, presided and plans were outlined for the raising of prize money promised by this club to the Lennoxville High School.

Mrs. J. Boulton, of Montreal, a former member, was present at last evening's gathering, and was welcomed by the members. At the conclusion of sixteen hands of bridge a dainty lunch was served by the hostess, assisted by her daughter, Marjorie.

Custom Ports Report Heavy Tourist Month

No Less than 23,881 U.S. Cars Crossed Frontier at Rock Island and Stanhope in August, According to Statistics Released Today—Vermont and New Hampshire Visitors Headed Parade.

August proved a banner month for the tourist industry in this city, chiefly for the centenary celebration being held in this city during that period, for there is no gainsaying that the festivities attracted thousands of visitors who likely would have gone elsewhere for their vacations or week-end trips. No less than 23,881 United States cars crossed the frontier at Rock Island and Stanhope in August, statistics made public today indicate. Of this total, 15,092 came into Canada via the former port and 8,349 through Stanhope.

Leon Darche, in charge of the local tourist and information bureau operated by the city, reports that 2,000 visitors called at his office during August seeking sundry information.

Of the 15,092 cars that came in at Rock Island, 8,582 entered Canada under a sixty-day permit. A total of 6,291 had tourist permits valid for forty-eight hours and 169 entered for other than touring purposes. Sixty-day permits were issued to 4,210 cars at Stanhope, and 4,599 entered this country for forty-eight hours and 49 for other than touring purposes.

Rock Island statistics indicate that Vermont sent the largest delegation of visitors, a total of 2,514. At Stanhope, New Hampshire occupied the top berth with a total of 595, being closely followed by New York with 583.

In addition to the 2,514 Vermonters entering Canada through the Rock Island port on sixty-day touring permits were 1,791 from Massachusetts. Then came New York with 1,079, New Hampshire 780, Connecticut 704, New Jersey 492, Pennsylvania 393, Rhode Island 282, Maine 169, Ohio 81, Maryland 61, Illinois 55, Michigan 46, District of Columbia 39, Virginia 28, Florida 27, Delaware 27, California 16, Georgia 10, Wisconsin 10, North Carolina 8, West Virginia 8, South Carolina 7, Texas 6, Indiana 6, Iowa 6, Missouri 6, Colorado 4, Kentucky 4, Louisiana 4, Minnesota 4, Mississippi 4, Arizona 3, Oklahoma 3, Tennessee 2, Alabama 1, Kansas 1 and Montana 1.

Massachusetts ranked third at Stanhope with 522. The other states were as follows: Vermont 421, Maine 288, New Jersey 264, Pennsylvania 254, Connecticut 241, Rhode Island 192, Michigan 138, Ohio 115, Maryland 88, Illinois 74, District of Columbia 65, Virginia 25, Delaware 25, Missouri 24, Wisconsin 24, California 23, Florida 22, Georgia 22, Indiana 21, North Carolina 20, Mississippi 19, West Virginia 17, Louisiana 13, South Carolina 11, Iowa 11, Kansas 11, Alabama 9, Colorado 9, Kentucky 9, Minnesota 9, Tennessee 9, Texas 8, North Dakota 7, Nebraska 7, Washington 4, Arizona 3, Idaho 3, New Mexico 3, Oklahoma 3, Arkansas 2, Montana 2, Utah 2, South Dakota 2, Wyoming 2, Oregon 1; foreign countries: Mexico 1, Porto Rico 1, Canal Zone 1, Newfoundland 4, and France 1.

Comin's Mills reported 3,228 tourists cars, representing 12,912 persons, for July. This compared with 2,557 cars, or 10,628 visitors, in the same month last year.

Want To Get Rid Of Aberhart.

The People's League of Alberta, a non-partisan organization, in demanding the resignation of Premier Aberhart, is expressing the wish of a province which finds itself in a sad plight because of its own folly.

The name Aberhart is a joke in the other eight provinces of the Dominion and the theory of Social Credit stands today as the farce "par excellence" of this modern day.

Aberhart has not undertaken one sensible thing for Alberta. When he suddenly found himself Premier of the province and expected to make good his pre-election promises of Social Credit prosperity he was bewildered. He did not know which way to turn. He had made a lot of rash promises which he knew he could never fulfil. His regime has been one blunder after another.

Day after day the people of Alberta have seen their province, like Eliza in "Uncle Tom's Cabin," jump from one cake of ice to another. They have hoped against hope that by some good stroke of fortune they might be saved. Now conditions have reached such a state that their only salvation lies in getting rid of a stupid theory.

The rest of Canada has laughed at Aberhart and has ridiculed his theory. But now Ottawa and the other provinces realize that the situation in Alberta has passed the joking stage.

It behooves the people of Alberta to support the People's League and make it impossible for Aberhart to continue. The salvation of a province is far more important than the pampering of a stupid policy.

Caution In The School Zones.

Motorists must now remember that the period of closed schools is over. Classes have been resumed and drivers of motor vehicles must again accustom themselves to caution when passing school zones.

During the summer months motorists have been permitted to sail merrily on past schools at a normal rate of speed and to run by school intersections without watching, particularly for children.

Now these days are over and every driver must exercise precaution and be prepared for dismissal of classes and the careless, child-like rush from school. The first few days after the opening of school have always been the most hazardous for the motorists who have fallen out of the habit, during the midsummer season, of exercising particular precaution in the neighborhood of schools.

There is no cure for it except a conscious and conscientious effort on the part of every driver to employ that little bit of extra care that might save a life.

School zones are clearly marked, both in the cities and towns, as well as along the highways. "School Ahead" signs bear a warning to motorists. These signs should be heeded. They MUST be heeded.

What Is Success?

(An Editorial for Youth, by Rev. B. S. Murray, M.A.)

In a village restaurant, one recent September evening, a keen, bright-eyed city youth asked "What is Success, Sir?"

As I looked into those eyes I sensed that he was baffled, disturbed about the twentieth century standards of success. I understood.

If there is one subject upon which the modern youth needs the ventilating of fresh, stimulating, constructive thinking, it is success. For straight thinking suggests that the so-called great successes are not only possible successes, and that they are not always the most enjoyable and satisfactory successes.

Off the lives of great people remind us of the importance of good character with which one need fear nothing, without which uncertain prospects await. Into your "jig-saw" puzzle of life piece together integrity, steady, industrious habits, application, concentration, determination, energy, push, accuracy, good temper, habits of economy and punctuality and there you have a picture of an essentially successful life.

We may aim at imitating those so-called successful lives—perhaps we ought, within reason, to aim at them, but if we miss them we have not, of necessity, missed everything or even the best things. Grasp this thought tenaciously.

Unfortunately, so paganistic is our modern philosophy of life that young people have been spurred on, unreasonably, to the idolatry of success and to worship the "god of getting-on." In this mad, pushing, calculating race to win the label—success—many people have lost more than they have gained when they sacrificed, in some measure, their finer sensibilities, human sympathies and their faith in lofty ideals.

And when youth brings sweetness of disposition, generosity of heart, large sympathies, modesty, cultured minds, devoted family affections, religious sincerity to the world's market and finds "No Sale" sign, then they return home disgusted, disappointed, disturbed, wounded, asking "what is success? And the only definition they receive is "success is the measure of certain powers and aptitudes which are marketable in the world." This is a crude and vulgar measure of one's individual merit, they conclude.

Of course there is no virtue in failure. Whilst some need the "reins," others need "angels with whips." But, is it not high time to study that farmer who did not become a member of Parliament, or that village person who did not become a bishop, or that lawyer who did not become chief justice?

In your own life, you will take that success which comes as the result of honest, earnest, faithful work and, being satisfied with it, you can never possibly be called a failure. You see, there is a "moderate" success which all may, and should in the end of the day achieve. The law of moderation and the golden rule still function in the game of life.

Choose ultimate goods in preference to immediate pleasures, adventurously calls life. In our endeavor to see life steadily, in totality, we should take a "vivid" life-size photograph in advance of the person we hope to one day become. As you follow that gleam, think of the words of Marcus Aurelius, "my dominions are greater within than without."

Then you will "read, mark, learn and inwardly digest" the best of the world's literature, not forgetting that best of books—the Bible—cultivates a genial and gracious spirit rich in friendships. Live usefully, unselfishly. Aim at the perfection of a high Christian character as you participate actively in all healthful, profitable games and refined tastes.

"To have done all this is to have lived, though fate remember us with no familiar name."

THIS IS SUCCESS.

SONG OF HOPE.

Just a little song of hope,
On life's uphill road,
Often helps someone to cope
With his heavy load;
And, when life's so full of care,
Joy is welcome anywhere.

Just a little word of praise
For discouraged folk,
Often smooths life's rugged ways,
Lightens its hard yoke;
And the world's so quick to blame,
That to praise is better fame.

Just a little sunny smile,
When the days are drear,
Helps to rift the clouds awhile,
Banish shadowy fear,
And life's darkness sometimes dies
In the light of smiling eyes.

PRESS COMMENTS

"BLOOD IS THICKER THAN WATER"

(New York Herald Tribune)

History has a disconcerting habit of repeating itself—with modifications—which tempts analogy. Seventy-eight years ago a British fleet, asserting the prestige of the empire, tried to force the Taku forts at the entrance to Tientsin. The Chinese gunners proved unexpectedly stubborn, the advance of the British was checked, and several of their vessels were in imminent danger of being smashed. At this juncture Commodore Josiah Tatnall, commanding the neutral American squadron, sent his boats to help tow the British out of danger with the classic remark: "Blood is thicker than water."

Recently the British ambassador to China, representing a power which is usually half-protesting, half-acquiescing in another imperialist raid on China, was relatively gunned from the air and taken to the hospital in a serious condition. There, according to reports, an American marine gave a new interpretation of Tatnall's phrase by furnishing blood for a transfusion to the wounded diplomat.

No breach of American neutrality was involved in this act, yet it has a quiet drama of its own. As an unconscious symbol of Anglo-Saxon solidarity, raised while this country and Great Britain are sharing the uncomfortable role of innocent bystander in the strife-torn Far East, it is far more expressive of the real bond between the two countries than was Tatnall's melodramatic intervention. After all, the latter, though widely applauded in the United States at the time, did not prevent Anglo-American relations from reaching the breaking point a few years later, during our Civil War; nor did it measurably influence our Far Eastern policy.

The ties of sentiment between the British Empire and its erstwhile colony are very real, but they find their best expression in a deed of humanitarianism rather than in joint adventures in international affairs. In all such self-interest, it is play a leading part, even though it may give British opinion a shock to learn that the Declaration of Independence is an historical fact. The gift of the marine, however, forms an intimate rapprochement without embarrassing complications of international jealousy and suspicion.

A MOTHER'S SON'S RETORT.

(From Time)

Mrs. Walter Ferguson learned about the newspaper business when she went, as a bride, to Cherokee, Okla., where she helped her young husband run the weekly Republican. She learned about the home when three rapidly growing children came to the Ferguson's. She combined the fruits of these experiences to write a column, "From a Woman's Viewpoint," which has been a successful feature in the Scripps Howard dailies for more than a decade. Her column is a spirited, folksy discussion of anything that pops into her mind, from jelly-frying to the problems of business girls.

Recently Mrs. Ferguson learned how a son feels about having a columnist in the family. Benton Ferguson, now 27, in the advertising department of Scripps-Howard's Fort Worth Post, wrote for his paper an intimate sketch of his mother which ran alongside her column.

"She owes me $10,000, at least, for acting as a guinea pig for her column for the past fifteen years. First I got the brunt of her theories on how to raise children; next, was the wider younger generation; then I was a youth caught in the clutches of a depression; then I was a young married man, and now that I'm a father I suppose the cycle will start all over again.

"Just to get even, here's some of the things she doesn't write about. She's forty-nine. She plays bridge, and draws to inside straights in poker games. She reads all the time, even at the table.

"She used to spank her children entirely too much, and in spite of all she's written about raising children her daughter, twenty, and her youngest son, fourteen, are ornery as the dickens.

"The only thing she can cook worth a darn is slaw with bacon grease or, I must say, she can't fairly slip. Her kind of slaw, which makes Tulsa mothers keep their children in and pedestrians sink up back alleys. She can't sew very well.

"But she has one great redeeming feature, and that one is her oldest and boldest son."

A BILLION FROM BEER

(Montreal Gazette)

To speak of beer in the sense used by Shakespeare in Othello, or wrote of it as a triviality, would be considered decidedly impertinent today by the United States Treasury, where there is a constantly flowing tide of revenue from beer. The receipts, in fact, are averaging close to $1,500,000 each business day. On thirty days such as recur at this season, they race high above $2,000,000. A little more than four years ago beer was released from Volsteadism in the United States through a Congressional statute specifying beverages of 3.2 alcoholic content as non-intoxicating. Congress then put a 35-cent tax on the new beer, and from April, 1933, to April, 1934, beer's first year of legality, tax receipts just exceeded the Treasury's $125,000,000 estimate. The next year saw a definite rise; for 1934-35 beer revenue set a mark of $193,270,609. Since then the rise has been continuous, reaching $211,215,057 at the end of the 1935 fiscal year, $244,581,331 in 1936, $277,455,239 in the 1937 fiscal year recently closed, and the Revenue Collector's office has just acknowledged receipt of the billion-dollar in excise tax for beer since the era of prohibition came to an end in the United States, announcing at the same time prospect of a tax yield above the $300,000,000 mark. In addition, the United States

THE GHOST WRITER

Brewers' Association estimates beer since 1933 has yielded at least $250,000,000 to state treasuries.

What is gratifying in relation to these figures is the fact that revenue which formerly went illegally to the bootlegger today goes into the national treasury and the liquor consumed is less of the sorry kind that tempts men and more of the content which makes beer, judged by the increasing income of the Treasury at Washington, one of America's preferred mildly table drinks.

TRUCKS THAT FALTER ON THE HILLS.

(Ottawa Journal)

One of the things which Premier Heppburn emphasized when inaugurating his recent highway safety campaign was the matter of slow driving, especially on the main highways of the province. If he includes slow-moving trucks and transports it will relieve the feeling of a great many passenger-car drivers who have had to contend with this menace to highway safety.

The average modern truck or bus can breast the steepest incline to be found on main highways without much decrease in speed. But travelling the roads are hundreds of heavily-loaded older-type trucks that make 35 or 40 miles an hour on the level but find difficulty panting up even a slight incline at better than 10 to 15 m.p.h. when loaded. This type of truck is a distinct menace on a highway such as Number Two during the tourist season when there is almost a continuous stream of cars in each direction.

With the new Ontario speed limit the average tourist or resident driving a passenger car is keeping within the limit. The driver who seldom takes chances is reasonably safe from the folly of others. But the stream of traffic is kept moving at a fair clip such as the law allows on all open and straight stretches of highway. But the truck or bus that must slow to a crawl on every little incline disrupts everything. Such trucks practically force the driver behind to take the law into his own hands and endanger the lives of everybody in the approaching stream of traffic.

It is all very well for the critic to say that motorists should know better than to try to pass on hills, even if the vehicle ahead is going only 10 m.p.h. That is right in theory but in practice the average person who drives a car on the highway is going somewhere and expects to reach there within reasonable time, and if he were to wait behind every slow-moving vehicle he would be hours late at his destination. Further, the same truck that is slow on the hill is slow to pick-up and usually is well beyond the incline before becoming a part of the regular traffic movement.

By far the simplest and most easily enforced traffic regulation in the interests of safety is to require these slow-moving, heavy-pulling vehicles to speed up and become a more even and regular part of normal traffic. Any machine on the highway that requires those following to pull out and pass at each little incline, and on most of our highways there are several of these to the mile, has no place on a main or heavily travelled highway.

ROUNDING UP CHICAGO'S QUACKS.

(The Digest)

It's a miracle that Virginia Gardner is alive. Naprapaths and physiotherapists diagnosed her complaint as arthritis, inflamed spleen, infected lungs, weak kidneys, heart trouble, slow pulse, poor hemoglobin, secondary anemia, shrunken ligaments, nerves knotted together, rheumatism, a misplaced vertebra, one leg shorter than the other, emotional, and toxic poisons. The cures prescribed were red and green "chromatary," herbaceous pills, distilled water, an electric pad (with out electricity), pepper, hot sauces, sleeping tablets, astral power, and love.

These treatments did not help her ailments in the least, for she had none. She is a very healthy Chicago Tribune reporter who spent several weeks investigating quack doctors. Meanwhile, the Illinois department of registration and education, in its fifth drive in two years, arrested twenty-four Chicago "doctors" for unlicensed medical practice and last week warned six more.

Special investigators, sent as patients to supposed quacks, obtained the necessary evidence. The honours they found, refused to treat patients without references, boasted of being busy, prided themselves on helping humanity, and based their cure-alls on colored lights and manual manipulations. One "doctor" used Yogi Berra's philosophy. Another prescribed two berry tea and gin. Another called himself an "osteopath." Most of the accused were "naprapaths," who hold that every ailment results from a "ligature," or shrunken ligaments. It is said, this readily curing insanity and stammering, cross-eyes and appendicitis, paralysis and fallen arches, asthma and constipation, eye trouble and deafness, angina pectoris and writer's cramp—but on a strictly cash basis. John J. Hallahan, director of two drive against quacks, denounced them roundly for "preying on the credulity and ignorance of the sick."

TROUBLE AHEAD FOR THE JAPANESE.

(London Times)

What does the overt extension of Japanese influence entail for Japan? Tokyo has already embarked on a fiscal legislation designed to meet, in a lean year, this fresh financial strain and the taxpayer and the conscript are bearing new burdens. In the cause of imperialism. When the smashing is over and the grabbing has been done, many millions of yen and several thousand soldiers will be required to consolidate and exploit the addition to Japan's territorial responsibilities. But what will be required just as badly, and what for, is unlikely to be forthcoming, is a satisfactory technique of administration. If Japan obtains a sphere of influence in North China she will have dealt herself the sort of hand she plays worst. When she created the State of Manchukuo, she honestly—and wisely—intended that it should enjoy a considerable degree of autonomy; and the same intention was the original basis of her policy towards the Mongol minority in Manchuria. Neither intention survived the experimental stage, and today the former Chinese territories north of the Great Wall are governed by what is in effect a military dictatorship.

HIS ROLLS-ROYCE CAR.

Frank Capra of Columbia Pictures, went to Europe recently and took Nate Spingold's Rolls-Royce car with him, inasmuch as Spingold was leaving for Europe a month later. To facilitate Capra's securing licenses in Europe, Spingold transferred the car's ownership to his studio's car producer. Capra used the car in England and when Spingold arrived there Frank transferred the car's ownership back to Spingold. When Spingold returned to America and tried to bring his Rolls-Royce back with him, he discovered that he'll have to pay customs duties on importing one Rolls-Royce, which, the customs men insist, he bought—as far as the records show—from Frank Capra in England!

THE GOOD OLD DAYS.

(Fredericton Mail)

The appearance in the city recently of an automobile with a Prince Edward Island number plate recalls the fact that when the writer spent a couple of months on Prince Edward Island in 1916 that it was against the law for any man to drive an automobile along the streets or on the country roads of that province. We well remember morning in July, 1916, that we were in company with a man from

PENSIONS FOR THE BLIND

(La Presse, Montreal)

By virtue of an agreement which has just been concluded between the Federal authorities and the Government of Ontario the blind people of that province will henceforth receive a monthly pension of $20. Two other provinces, Manitoba and New Brunswick have signed similar agreements with Ottawa and they will begin, starting with September, to pay a like amount of $20 to their blind. Nobody doubts that Quebec will soon make the same advantages available to its people. It will be remembered that the Federal Parliament during the last session decided to pass a law, in response to numerous demands to pension blind persons over forty years of age or more. The municipalities have nothing to pay. Ottawa pays three-quarters and the provinces the rest. Ontario expects that its share will cost $300,000 a year. The expense will be about the same in Quebec.

THE STRIKE SETTLEMENT

(L'Action Catholique, Quebec)

Recently, in the office of the Premier of the Province the Confederation of Catholic Workers was treated on an equal footing with the Dominion Textile Company, and it was its representatives who put their signatures beside those of the industrial and financial chiefs. That is the important fact, the thing that made history. It is only necessary to think back thirty years to a time when the Church tried with difficulty to have itself accepted among the workers to realize the distance that has been travelled. On the other hand, we ask the public, a witness of all that went on among those concerned, to ask itself what would have happened if, instead of the 10,000 Catholic unionists who had decided to cease work, the civil authorities had found themselves faced with 10,000 more or less imbued with Socialist or Communist doctrine, and who would have reacted in another way, one can be sure, to the words and acts of provocation.

INDECENT MAGAZINES

(Le Droit, Ottawa)

It is enough to glance at the displays of the newsdealers to see how well founded is the warning of His Eminence, Cardinal Villeneuve. Most of the magazines displayed before the public and the most popular among young people appeal to morbid curiosity and to the lowest passions. Their covers and their contents are an affront to public decency. They are a ferment of degradation, both moral and financial. How great is the amount of money wasted in buying these magazines which are not worth the paper on which they are printed. A waste of money, of time, and of decency—such is the result of these immoral periodicals which nearly all come to us from the United States.

WORDS OF WISDOM

The first great rule is that we must do something—that life must have a purpose and an aim—that work should be not merely occasional and spasmodic, but steady and continuous. Pleasure is a jewel which will only retain its lustre when it is in a setting of work, and a vacant life is one of the most painful, though the islands of leisure that stud a crowded, well-occupied life may be among the things to which we look back with greatest delight.—Lecky.

Did you ever hear of a man who had striven all his life faithfully and singly toward an object, and in no measure obtained it? If a man constantly aspires, is he not elevated? Did ever a man try heroism, magnanimity, truth, sincerity, and find that there was no advantage in them—that it was a vain endeavor.—Henry David Thoreau.

It is comparatively easy to do what we have to do and go where we have to go, but the supreme test of a man is not so much in the discharge of obligatory as of voluntary and self-appointed tasks. A man is not half a man who does not do some things with his teeth clenched and his face set like a flint.—Charles Frederick Goss.

Be eager to meet opposition face to face. Invade it to combat. Give failure to understand that you are not afraid of it. Give it to understand that you are master of the situation.—O. S. Marden.

Beware of desperate steps; the lives of tomorrow will have passed away.—Cowper.

TINTED FINGERTIPS RECEIVED AT COURT

Recent reports on doings of royalty and society in London state that the new queen has decreed that pale shades of nail lacquer may be worn at court. Although tinted polish has been in existence twenty-one years, Queen Mary never tolerated it.

Furthermore, the beautiful Duchess of Kent recently asked an important manufacturer of smart polishes to design a special one to set off the ivory tones of the Duchess' skin, yet be soft enough to wear at court.

The handsome arrays of new lacquers which harmonize attractively with fall costume colors have stimulated fresh interest in colored fingertips in this country too. While natural and shell pink polish are surprisingly popular right now, the major trend is toward a choice of mellow tones (lovely with new dark greens), rich reds (nice with black) and rich rose tones (good with blues, greens, purples and black).

If you intend to wear bright polish which, of course, draws attention to your fingertips, make sure that hands are immaculately groomed every hour of the day. Have or give yourself a complete manicure once a week, which nails into shape between manicures, and don't wear chipped or cracked polish. The minute the coat of lacquer on a nail begins to show signs of wear, remove all of it and apply a fresh one. Use hand lotion frequently and, once a week during cold weather, cover hands and wrists with your richest night cream, wear clean old white cotton gloves while you sleep. Get a tiny jar of cuticle cream and use it regularly. Never cut cuticle. If you push it back with a towel while hands are moist, you'll never have cuticle problems anyway.

Profiles For Today

LESLIE HOWARD DOES NOT REGRET 'HAMLET'

Leslie Howard, the quiet-spoken, likeable English actor, is to most Americans the personification of the British. To the English, he is known as "the American actor," because he has been over here so long and has played in so many American plays and pictures. Actually, he is half Hungarian, one-fourth Russian, one-eighth Scotch, and one-eighth English—all of which makes him typically American.

The papers tell us that he wears glasses only when he reads, but we remember one evening, a few years ago, when we sat next to a very pleasant-looking gentleman with horn-rimmed glasses at the "ambulance club," the famed actors' club in New York, for a whole evening and didn't know that he was Leslie Howard. Such is the change that glasses make in the human face.

Harold Lloyd is never recognized in public, because he doesn't wear the glasses he affects on the screen. Leslie Howard, we think, is at his best when he portrays likable characters with gentle personalities. He seems to be that sort himself, from all we hear of him. He is one of those people who are instantly liked, and who stay liked. An enviable trait—and a rare one.

He doesn't look his forty-three years. He is taller than he seems, five feet, ten and a half inches, and weighs more than you would think, one hundred and fifty pounds. He has a son, Ronald, eighteen, who is at Cambridge University, and a daughter, Leslie, who also goes to school in England. His wife leaves all the acting to him and attends strictly to family duties. He wanted to play Hamlet all his life. When he finally played it, he was not a success, but he's satisfied, because he did have the chance to try the role. He wants to play as many different parts as he can, because he doesn't want to be "typed" as an actor.

His next role will be the part of Lawrence in a British production based on the life of Lawrence of Arabia. We think that's a very swell job of casting.

Beauty Tips

Question: "Please tell me how I can look older. I am fourteen, but look a lot younger than my friends who are in the same class and about the same age. My face is round and rosy and my hair straight. Would you suggest a permanent wave?"

Sally: I believe that end curls make your hair easier to manage and would be flattering to your face. Part your hair high on the side and brush it back behind your ears with the curls to give softness. Try to get some simply tailored "grownup" clothes of the sports type and wear your skirts two or three inches below your knees to make you appear taller. Do not try to be too sophisticated and grown-up. You can't do it in a hurry, and you will just make yourself seem silly and artificial by trying.

Extra fruits, vegetables and milk will help you to ward off early fall colds by reducing acidity.

The habit of trimming the cuticle every time a manicure is done, is a mistake. Never cut the cuticle unless there is a torn edge that might cause trouble. Oil and soak the cuticles, and push them back to make soft frames for the nails.

Peroxide will remove stains from the nails. It is also a good antiseptic to use when you have a hang-nail, or have torn a nail. In case of a torn nail, you had better bandage it for protection until it has grown out sufficiently to protect the sensitive tissue underneath.

A going-away gift for the college man that is sure to be appreciated is a combined cigarette case and lighter made by a firm nationally famous for its reliability. The case is of a smooth rubber metal closely resembling platinum and, while not at all bulky, holds sufficient cigarettes to satisfy the most inveterate smoker. And it is not too expensive.

A handy item for the woman who travels is a neat folding iron in a smart flat leatherette case that occupies surprisingly little room. The outfit comes complete with room-size clothes-line and pins. The chrome finished iron won't tarnish, and can be used in A.C. or D.C. current.

Bridge was played at five tables, the prize for highest score being won by Miss Kathleen Topp. The honored guest received a pretty gift prize from the hostess.

The little Misses Elaine and Patricia Payne brought in a prettily decorated basket filled with attractive and useful utensils for the pantry and kitchen, for which the bride-to-be very sweetly thanked her friends.

The house decorations were gladioli and asters, and the tea table, at which Mrs. F. E. Horner presided, was decorated with pink asters in a silver basket. Pink and green candles in silver candlesticks were also effectively arranged.

Miss Mona O'Neill, Miss Eileen Payne and Miss Gertrude Ellis assisted the hostess in the dining room.

ROBERT BLACKWOOD ATTENDS GRANBY FAIR

One of the most welcome visitors at the Granby Fair is eighty-seven-year-old Robert Blackwood, of Montpelier, Vt. Blackwood formerly resided on the old Blackwood farm, at the foot of Sheffield Mountain, but recently sold the property and took up residence in the metropolis.

Mr. Blackwood was a familiar figure at Eastern Townships fairs, and a great sportsman, acted as horse judge for many years.

The old gentleman is still hale and hearty and takes a keen interest in affairs, especially in his old love, the Granby Fair.

LIGHTS FOR COLLEGIANS

Modes And Manners

Question: "I am planning to give a bridge-luncheon in honor of a friend. Please enlighten me upon the following points: How many prizes should there be? Also, what is the correct way to go about inviting the guests?"—Mrs. O. L.

Answer: There should be a prize for guest of honor besides a first, or a first and second prize. The guests may be invited on the telephone or by letter. If you write, say briefly, "I am giving a bridge-luncheon in honor of my sister-in-law, Mrs. Harvey Lakes, at my home next Thursday, September 16, at one o'clock and would like you to be my guest." It is not polite to ask for a reply to a bridge invitation. One must assume that the guest knows this to be necessary without being reminded of it.

Question: "When should refreshments be eaten at a dinner table?"—F. F.

Answer: Between courses.

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Palmer, their little daughter, Gail, and Mrs. Alex. Blue, who has been visiting them in Montreal, arrived by motor last evening. Mr. and Mrs. Palmer and daughter will spend the week-end with Mrs. Blue.

DEATHS REPORTED

FUNERAL OF C. W. HATCH, SHERBROOKE

Charles William Hatch, beloved husband of Ellen M. Wilmhurst, passed away on August 16th at his home, 35 Esplanade street, after a lingering illness of five months' duration.

The funeral service was conducted by Rev. Osborne, of St. Peter's Church, who said prayers at the home and led the service in the church. Six members of the Canadian Legion, to which the deceased belonged, acted as bearers. Interment took place in Elmwood Cemetery.

Charles William Hatch, who was fifty-four years old, came to Sherbrooke from England in 1904. He very soon made his presence felt in local sporting circles and was noted for his all-round athletic ability and sportsmanship. Soccer was his favorite game, and indeed, he was one of the first champions of the game in this city. He played on the Sherbrooke Royals' team in 1911-12, and wore the colors of the 53rd Regiment in 1912-13. After the World War he performed with the Garrison and Great War Veterans teams and coached Sherbrooke United and the Regiment juniors to several championships.

The deceased was an enthusiastic bowler and continued to play until his illness made it impossible. He served with the 53rd Regiment for nineteen years, and was a life member of the Sergeants' Mess.

Mr. Hatch was a member of the Canadian Legion and past member of the Foresters, Maccabees and Orange Lodges.

He leaves to mourn his loss his wife, five daughters, Geraldine, Joyce, Ellen, Ellen and Lilian, Mrs. Joseph Allison, all of Sherbrooke, and three sons, Lewis, Charles and Albert.

ELLA STIMSON HARRIMAN, ULVERTON.

Ulverton, Sept. 10.—Ella Stimson wife of Albert Harriman, passed away at her home in Ulverton on Monday, August 16th.

Mrs. Harriman was born at Melbourne on March 13, 1886, the only daughter of Luther Stimson and his wife, Sarah Morrill, both of whom predeceased her several years ago.

She was a member of the former Congregational Church at Melbourne before her marriage to Mr. Harriman on June 5, 1918, after which she became a member of the Ulverton United Church.

She was an active worker, having been a Sunday School teacher until disabled by ill-health, and was also a member of the Women's Association.

On Wednesday, August 18th, after prayers were said at the house, the funeral service was conducted in the United Church, with the pastor, Rev. E. Johnston, officiating, assisted by Rev. Dr. Elliott, of Boston, a friend of the family, who was visiting in Ulverton at that time.

The hymns were, "Unto the Hills," "Lead Kindly Light" and "Guide Me, O Thou Great Jehovah," and the anthem, "There is a Land that is Farther Than Day," with Miss C. F. Dunkley at the organ, was sung by the choir.

The bearers were Messrs. Ernest W. Doyle, Henry T. Smith, J. Gordon Smith and William J. Smith.

Interment was in the Stimson lot in the Maple Grove Cemetery, Melbourne.

The church was filled with sorrowing friends and relatives, who came to pay their last respects to one who will be greatly missed in the community.

Flowers on the casket were sent by Ulverton Sunday School, Mr. and Mrs. Edith Stimson, Mr. and Mrs. Gerard Desmarais, Mrs. C. Bogie and Mr. Candlish Bogie, Mr. and Mrs. A. Cote and family, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Weare and family, Mrs. B. E. Reed, Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Kerr, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Doyle and family and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Husk and family.

Left to mourn Mrs. Harriman's loss are her husband, Mr. Albert G. Harriman, Mr. and Mrs. John Harriman, of Drummondville, son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edith Stimson, of South Durham, and Mr. and Mrs. Bert Stimson, of Galt, brothers and sisters-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Gerard Desmarais, of Richmond, nephew and niece, and many cousins.

COL. W. W. DUNSMORE, OF NEWPORT, BURY, QUE.

Bury, Que., September 10.—The funeral service of Col. William Walker Dunsmore, who passed away at his home in Newport, Vt., on July 2nd, was held at the United Church on Monday, July 5th.

Rev. E. M. Wilson, of Waterloo, a former pastor, conducted the service, which was very largely attended, there being both military and Masonic services at the grave.

The remains were laid to rest in the family lot in the United Church Cemetery. Col. Dunsmore was for forty-five years a highly respected citizen of this place.

The following tribute to Col. Dunsmore appeared in the Newport Daily Express:

"The subject of this sketch was born in Wishaw, Scotland, June 7, 1862, son of Peter Dunsmore and Margaret Broochie.

"At the age of fifteen years he bade farewell to his native land, coming to Castle Garden, N.Y., in 1877, where he secured employment for a time. A year later he reunited with members of the family, who came to Bury, Que., to locate.

"His early life brought him many interesting experiences, one of which included two years in the gold mines of Nevada and California.

"Returning to Bury, Que., on February 4, 1882, he was united in marriage to Jean Evans, a former schoolmate in Scotland. During the early married life he engaged in agriculture at Bury, Que., and conducted a general store in his home town. He was elected mayor of Bury for several terms. In 1896 he joined the Canadian militia, during which service, he was promoted to the rank of lieutenant.

"At the outbreak of the World War he offered his services to his country. Promoted to the rank of Major, he assisted in organizing the 17th Canadian Battalion for overseas service and was in service from 1915 to 1919.

"He received his discharge from the Canadian Militia as a Lieutenant Colonel in 1921.

"It was during the visit of the Prince of Wales to Quebec City, Que., prior to the World War, that he was honored as chief of the police assigned as a bodyguard to the Prince.

"He was a resident of Bury for forty-five years, during which time he took keen interest in politics as a Conservative. He was also prominent in Masonic circles, many paying him tribute at the funeral.

"Col. Dunsmore came to Newport to make his home fifteen years ago, and during this period he displayed much interest in city affairs and made a host of warm friends.

"His illness due to a series of shocks extended over a period of eight weeks, death claiming him on Friday night, July 2nd.

"Prayer services conducted by Rev. W. F. Sturtevant were held at his late home at 9:30 o'clock Monday morning and the body was taken to Bury, Que., where military and Masonic funeral services were held with burial in the family lot there.

"Public funeral services were conducted at the United Church of Bury with Rev. Mr. Wilson, of Waterloo officiating.

"Company L, 172 Inf., and Vermont Motor Vehicle Department extended the late Colonel every courtesy on that day when a military escort and motor vehicle escort preceded the body to the Canadian boundary.

"The funeral was largely attended and the flowers were profuse, representing organizations and friends in Bury and Newport. Among those paying tribute to this noble and gallant soldier were many Army officers from Montreal and Sherbrooke and soldiers from all over the Eastern Townships.

"The bearers were James Saunders, Robert Mayhew, John Martin, Harold Armstrong, Steve Davis and Ray Cummings.

"Nine children were born to the Colonel and Mrs. Dunsmore, eight of whom survive, six boys and two girls. One son, Robert, died during the influenza epidemic in 1919.

"A most remarkable fact in connection with the history of the Dunsmore family was that four sons served in the World War overseas with the Colonel, all returning to their loved ones, one of the four receiving decorations for bravery.

"Besides his widow he is survived by the following sons and daughters, William Walker Dunsmore, Orleans; George E. Dunsmore, Plymouth, N.H.; Mrs. Alden Saunders, Newport; Charles Dunsmore, Fort Erie, Ont.; Andrew S. Dunsmore and Mrs. Charles Hunter, Newport; Arthur B. Dunsmore, Magog, Que., and Allen N. Dunsmore, of Plymouth, N.H., also six grandchildren and two great grandchildren and nieces in Sherbrooke, Detroit, Mich., and California." Another brother, Andrew Dunsmore, of Sherbrooke, passed away shortly after Col. Dunsmore's death.

TED FRANK LED SOREL TEAM TO SMASHING WIN

Tall Right-Hander Hurlled Five-Hit Ball as Team-mates Jumped on "Ace" Corrigan for Seventeen Hits in 13 to 1 Victory Over Granby.

Sorel, Sept. 10.—As Arthur Normandin and Guy Moreau, scouting for the Montreal Royals, watched with approval, Ted Frank, twenty-two year old right-hander, tamed the slugging Granby crew with five hits yesterday afternoon and Sorel's last year's champions piled up thirteen runs to Granby's one.

The winners' attack was led by Chett Scott, chunky shortstop, who took to Corrigan like a long-lost brother and hit four for five. Sime, left fielder, cracked out three safes in five appearances at the plate and drove in three runs.

Sorel 015 304 000—13 17 2
Granby 010 000 000—1 5 2

EXPECTS LITTLE HELP FROM DEANS IN 1938 CAMPAIGN

St. Louis, Sept. 10.—The skillful gentleman who helped guide "Dizzy" Dean to baseball fame today placed the big, ailing right-handed pitcher "in the same category" with his ailing brother, the retired, junior member of that famous mound duo—"Me an' Paul." Branch Rickey, general manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, made it plain the club expected little help from either Ditz or Paul in the 1938 campaign.

GREAT CATCHER PUTS AWAY HIS MITT AND MASK

Mickey Cochrane Yesterday Wrote Finis to His Playing Career by Signing New Contract as Non-Playing Pilot of Detroit Tigers.

Old Pop Time marked up the final out for one of baseball's grand old players today.

Mickey Cochrane was definitely and officially through as a catcher, in future, he'll be bench manager only for his Detroit Tigers.

And all over the big leagues the reaction was the same: "He was a great guy while he had it."

Mickey was the sparkplug of one world championship team and the backbone and manager of another. But, in addition to all that, he's a "right guy."

His thirty-four years and the effects of a "beanball" that fractured his skull early in this season have made him hang up his mitt and mask for keeps. Yesterday he wrote finis to his playing career by signing a new contract as non-playing pilot of the Tigers for next season.

In twelve seasons under the big top, he's batted .320 in 1,455 games and has driven in 820 runs. He's been in five World Series, three for the Athletics, and two (1934-35) as pilot of his own Tigers.

While Mickey prepared to leave tonight for a tour of Europe, the rest of the "Big Time" dug in again for their stretch drive.

In the National League, the Giants were three games in front by virtue of a split in their doubleheader with the Brooklyn Dodgers. Carl Hubbell was belted five to one in the opener, but the New Yorkers came back to take the nightcap by nine to two with Mel Ott whacking four hits.

This even break boosted their league edge a half game since the Cubs finally lost their jinx hold on the Cardinals, the "Gas House Gang" winning by eight to two behind Lon Warneke.

The Red Sox stopped stooping for the Yankees for a day and hammered out a thirteen to seven victory over the American League leaders with a sixteen-hit attack. This defeat, coupled with the Tigers' ten to nine victory over the Indians, cut the Yanks' pace-setting margin to eleven games.

Dutch Brandt's four-hitter gave the Pirates a one to nothing decision over the Cincinnati Reds. Vince DiMaggio's three-run homer did the same for Boston Bees over the Phillies, by a five to three margin.

The Senators slugged the Athletics twice, thirteen to six and twelve to ten, with a total of thirty hits. The White Sox outlasted the Browns by nine to eight.

ORIOLES CHANCES IN THE PLAY-OFFS APPEAR BRIGHTER

Baltimore's play-off stock in the International League jumped upward a few points today with the news that all is well with their star southpaw, Carl Fischer.

The slender, thirty-two-year old hurler is counted on for some heavy duty in the post-season series by manager Buck Crouse.

The Orioles haven't clinched their berth in the first four yet, since Buffalo Bisons are hanging on like a drowning man onto a stick, but their ace pitcher brought them on the verge of it with a fine performance yesterday.

Fischer went "the route" for the first time in his last three starts when he beat Jersey City Giants by two to one, registering his eighth victory of the season against three defeats.

The Bisons, faced with elimination the next time they lose, kept hoping with a five to two win over the Toronto Leafs. Ken Ash, of no-hit fame, outpitched Earl Nalvelli. He was touched for seven hits, three of them of the scratch variety and another a home run by Bobby Porter.

The Bisons won in the first inning, scoring four runs before a man was retired.

Rochester closed out their home season with a four to one victory over the Montreal Royals behind the smooth pitching of southpaw Abe White. Although he was touched for eleven hits, the Wings' finger was tight in the pinches.

Syracuse and Newark had a day off.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

Vince DiMaggio, Bees: His homer with two aboard beat the Phillies by five to three.
Merv Connors, White Sox: His homer and two singles, driving in three runs, led the way to a nine to eight win over the Browns.
"Babe" Phelps and Luke Hamlin, Dodgers, and Dick Coffman, Giants: Hamlin pitched six-hitter in opener as Phelps' homer with two on led to five to one victory; Coffman pitched four-hit shutout in six-inning relief trick for nine to two nightcap win.
Billy Rogell, Tigers: His single in the ninth with the bases loaded scored winning run to top the Indians by ten to one.
Dutch Brandt and Bill Brubaker, Pirates: Former blanked the Reds by one to nothing with four hits; Brubaker drove in only run with a single in the ninth.
Joe Krakauskas and Mel Almada, Senators: Krakauskas, making his first start, stopped the A's with one hit in seven innings relief trick for thirteen to six victory; Almada hit a double and three singles, driving in two runs in twelve to ten nightcap decision.
Lon Warneke, Cardinals: Stopped the Cubs by eight to two with six hits.
Ben Chapman, Red Sox: Hit a triple and single, driving in four runs in thirteen to seven win over the Yankees.

SPORT FLASHES

New York, Sept. 10.—Mike Jacobs said today he offered Freddy Steele $40,000 to fight Fred Apostoli for the middleweight title, but Steele turned it down. Why?

Prof. Larry Kelley (who has shaved off his soup strainer, by the way) opines the pros are no tougher than a good collich eleven.

Best move the Dodge directors have made in a long time was the resigning of Burleigh Grimes. That spikes reports that "Lefty" O'Doul is shifting from San Francisco to Ebbets Field.

Joe McCarthy says there'll be no dead ball in the American League next year. If there is, the Yanks are sunk.

Washington football Redskins should credit Branch Ricker with an assist. Sammy Baugh, the passing fool from Texas Christian, signed to play baseball with the Cards. The latter contract stipulated there would be no football. Poor Sammy was in a strut trying to make up his mind. Along came Ricker. "We want no contract breakers," he told Baugh. "You report to Washington. Sammy did—by air. H. has one of the best contracts in the league—two seasons at 7,500 potatoes per."

Tommy Farr says the real reason he broke with Manager Ted Broadbent was that Ted did nothing to help his cut eyes on the night of the Louis fight. To which we say: nerts.

Col. Ruppert says if Tony Lazzeri gets a chance to manage a big league ball club, he'll release Tony outright. Which is a right-about-face from the attitude the Yanks took when Cleveland wanted Tony a year or so ago.

The only fellow we know who predicted the nose-dive of the Cubs was Eddie Bramble, secretary of the Giants. When the Cubs were seven games to the good, Eddie observed: "They haven't got what it takes."

TWO VETERANS LEAD FIELD IN CANADIAN OPEN

Leo Diegel, Four Times Champion, and Harry Cooper on Even Terms at Start of Second Stage of Seventy-Two Hole Competition—Farley Setting Pace Among Amateurs.

Toronto, Sept. 10.—For years the Canadian open golf tournament and Leo Diegel were almost synonymous and it may be that way again. The old warrior with the cramped putting stance, four times winner of the event, led the field today with another veteran, Harry Cooper, as they started on the eighteen holes of the seventy-two-hole competition.

Diegel and Cooper, victor at Ottawa in 1932, shot 67's, three under par yesterday and held a two-stroke advantage over Billie Burke, of Cleveland, and Ed Oliver, of Wilmington, Del.

Diegel narrowly missed leading the field alone yesterday. He had a six-foot putt on the eighteenth green for a 66 and missed it.

St. Andrews, a course built for long hitters, wasn't kind to them yesterday. Lawson Little, defending champion, and "Slammin' Sam" Sneed, the pre-tournament favorite—both lengthy off the tee—were deep in the ruck when the final scores were posted.

Little played poor golf on his outgoing nine and had to come home in 35 to post a 74. Sneed posted a 75, the same score as his partner, Bob Gray, Jr., of Windsor, Ont.

The course, in fact, stood up well under the opening day firing. Par was bettered only four times, and many of the ranking United States stars failed to come anywhere near besting it.

As they started out on the second round only two Canadians appeared to be in the hunt for a crown no native son has won since before the war, Bobby Alston, the Ontario professional, and R. H. Green, of Kingston, Ont., both posted 72's.

They followed Ralph Guldahl, of Chicago, and Al Watrous, of Detroit, tied with 71's, behind Ed Dudley, of Philadelphia, and Vic Ghezzi, of Deal, N.J. Phil Farley, of Montreal, led the amateurs with 73.

WILLO LOVE OF TORONTO, WINS WAY TO SPOTLIGHT

Winnipeg, Sept. 10.—Charming Willo Love, of Toronto, stepped quietly into the semi-finals of the Canadian women's close golf tournament today and three western survivors awoke to the realization the east had cast a new championship challenge.

A modest ninety-two qualified her for the women's open at St. Charles Country Club last week and all eyes were on Beatrice Barrett, of Minneapolis, as the Minnesota champion played sensationally to defeat Miss Love in the second round.

Ninety-one qualified Willo in the close at Niagara but again champions and near-champions drove the public fancy. Then the Toronto Lamson star's steady firing eliminated Mrs. G. M. Cuppage, of Victoria, the Quebec champion, Mrs. J. D. Pearce, of Montreal, and the British Columbia titlist, Mrs. E. E. Jackson, of Victoria.

Miss Love found herself drawn against the open champion, Mrs. John Rogers, of Winnipeg, in the semi-final today. Hastily scanned records showed she had varied little from par in winning to the four, 38 is a dangerous threat to Mrs. Rogers' try for both titles.

Manitoba's nineteen-year-old champion, Heather Leslie, of Winnipeg, upstaged Winnifred Evans, of Vancouver, in the first semi-final. The Love-Rogers match begins fifteen minutes later.

The semi-finals and tomorrow's final are eighteen-hole matches.

NOTED SCIENTIST DIES

Lewisham, England, Sept. 10.—Prof. H. B. Armstrong, instrumental in forming the education section of the British Association for the Advancement of Science, is dead here, aged 89. He was elected a Fellow of the Royal Society in 1876.

OFFICERS WERE NAMED BY CITY FOOTBALL CLUB

Col. Albert Munster Unanimously Named President and Gordon Duff Manager—Plans for Ensuing Season Discussed at Enthusiastic Meeting.

Col. Albert Munster was unanimously elected president of the Sherbrooke Rugby Club at a meeting held in the "Y" last night. Dr. Ned Hume, last year's president, was elected vice-president, and George Logie was chosen secretary.

Finances will be handled by Izzie Echenberg and the tickets will be in the capable hands of Gordon Duff. Duff was also named manager, with Howard Simms and Bill Jowett as assistant managers. Harry Kouri was again chosen trainer.

No official coach was named, but Eddie Wolfe, who was present at the meeting, promised to assist in any way possible, as he has in the past, and expressed the opinion that he and Izzie Echenberg could do a pretty fair job of whipping the boys into shape.

Steve Newton, Bob Richardson, Dr. W. W. Lynch, Dr. A. N. Dupuis and J. W. Booth were named directors.

It was learned at the meeting that the team will start the season with a balance in its favor. Every effort will be made to increase the sale of tickets at games and keep the team on a solid financial basis.

A letter has been sent to Quebec Rugby Union officials in Montreal asking for information as to the organization of the league this year and for schedules and games, but as yet no answer has been received. No definite steps can be taken until it is learned whether Dismouth will field a team in the Q.R.F.U. this year.

Special racks on which to hang uniforms have been erected in the Y.M.C.A. building, and from the fifteenth of the month the "Y" will be used as changing quarters. This service will be available at the seasonable figure which has been agreed upon by team officials and "Y" authorities.

Football, then, is definitely in for this year. Enthusiastic practices and last night's largely-attended meeting augur well for the success of the local team, which, from early season glimpses, will be tight, but fast and experienced.

BOOM TIMES ARE IN STORE FOR U.S. FOOTBALL

Indications Are that Attendance Will Reach 2,500,000 in Western Conference Alone, Which Is 50,000 More than Last Year.

Chicago, Sept. 10.—Boom times are flitting with football in the United States mid-west with the prospect that attendance will reach 2,500,000 in the western conference alone, a boost of 50,000 over a year ago.

It looks like the biggest, most enthusiastic year since 1929, said John L. Griffith, commissioner of athletics for the "Big 10" today. The Minnesota-Notre Dame game, to be played at Minneapolis six weeks hence, is already a complete sellout, for a capacity crowd of 63,000. Every ticket was sold within nine days after the sale opened.

Notre Dame expects to play before 500,000 spectators for its nine game schedule. The army game and the battle with the Gophers will attract a combined attendance of 144,000 fans, with a sellout of 81,000 for the army game already assured.

Football chatter: Within the last two years two of the greatest backfield prospects in the "Big 10" have met tragic deaths just before season opened. . . A year ago it was Tom McGinnon, killed in a locker room explosion with a team mate at Purdue. . . The other day Bill Booth, rated as one of the best half back prospects at Ohio State, lost his life in an automobile accident. . .

Purdue will start its season without Nobel Kizer, head coach, convalescing after being critically ill. He will not take any part in building the 1937 team, which will be in charge of Mal Elward, a former team mate of Knute Rockne, and Kizer's chief assistant. . .

Robert C. Zuppke begins his twenty-fifth year at the University of Illinois Friday. . . His record of continuous service at one major institution is not surpassed or even equaled by any coach in the game today with the exception of Harry Hughes, head coach at Colorado State College for twenty-seven years. . .

Northwestern, winner of the "Big 10" title, doesn't figure to have the power it possessed in winning the western conference championship a year ago, well informed observers say. . .

champion, Heather Leslie, of Winnipeg, upstaged Winnifred Evans, of Vancouver, in the first semi-final. The Love-Rogers match begins fifteen minutes later.

The semi-finals and tomorrow's final are eighteen-hole matches.

Manitoba's nineteen-year-old

PARKER MOST UNUSUAL STAR IN NET GAME

Although Experts Agree He Can't Play a Lick, Young Parker Is Back in Semi-Finals of United States Singles Championships for the Third Straight Year.

Forest Hills, N.Y., Sept. 10.—The boy who "hasn't got a thing," Frankie Parker—will be on exhibition again here today in the semi-finals of the United States singles tennis championships.

Frankie is one of the most unusual exhibits in tennis. He can't play a lick. All the experts agree on that. Yet here he is in the semi-finals again, for the third straight year, and he's in there with three gents who undoubtedly are pretty good—Donald Budge, Gottfried von Cramm and Bobby Riggs.

Even if the twenty-one year old Frankie gets his shorts licked off by Budge—as he doubtless will—it's still a major mystery to the average observer how he gets as far as he does.

On the theory, therefore, that a youngster who can win himself second national ranking in the United States, where there probably are 1,000,000 persons trying to play the game, must have something besides an expensive racket, the case was taken to the original Parker man, old "Doc" Mercer Beasley.

"There's no mystery about it," the Doc declared. "Frankie keeps himself in shape, he has as good a backhand as there is in the game, not excepting Budge's and he outthinks the other kids."

"He looks so colorless out there because he's concentrating every second on his opponent's weakness, even between games. He knows the weakness of every player in the game except Budge, and that guy ain't got any that we can discover."

Maybe that explains some of this Parker hocus-pocus.

Today's top match promised to be that between Von Cramm and Riggs, with the German a slight favorite. The Baron is about at the top of his game, and if all goes according to Hoyle he and Budge should give the fans a memorable match tomorrow. The stadium is a sellout for the finals.

In the women's department, Helen Jacobs faced Jadwiga Jedzejowska, the lapping Pole, and Dorothy Bundy, heroine of Wednesday's victory over Alice Marble, risked her newly-won eminence against Anita Lizana, the auburn haired Chilean.

SPORTING NOTES

GREYHOUND WILL GO AFTER NEW WORLD'S MARK TODAY
Indianapolis, Sept. 10.—Eyes of the world's trotting fans were focussed today on Greyhound, sensational five-year-old gelding scheduled for an afternoon attempt against time to set a new world record on the Indiana State Fairground mile oval.

Weather conditions permitting, the dauntless son of Bay Abbey was to make an effort to break the mark of 1:56 3-4 established by Peter Manning at Lexington, Ky., in 1922. Reinsman Sep Palm, of Indianapolis, expressed a conviction Greyhound would shatter Peter Manning's record "some day" and pointed out the chances were "excellent" for the Grey to do the feat here.

Greyhound's effort here took on an added interest by virtue of the scheduled October 8 match race with Muscletone, the European champion, at Springfield, Ill. The Indiana Board of Agriculture had ready a $5,000 prize to go to the Grey, owned by E. J. Baker, of St. Charles, Ill., if he cracked the world mark. Another $2,500 was to be the reward if he shattered the Indiana State Fair track record of 2:00 3-4 for trotting horses, set by Angel Child in 1935.
