Ronnie Smythe Killed In Plane Accident, His Wife, 2 Others Injured

Tragedy stalked over the Victoria Day holiday week-end and took the life of one of our younger and well liked citizens, in the person of Ronnie Smythe, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Smythe of Huntingdon. Ronnie's wife and Mr. and Mrs. Wentworth were injured.

The foursome had made a trip to New Brunswick for the week-end in Ronnie's plane and were returning on Monday evening, when the plane developed trouble. The trouble was in the gas line and Ronnie decided to land at Burlington, N.Y. airport for a check. They left Burlington for Malone, N.Y. which is the base where Ronnie kept his plane. On the way the trouble again developed and the pilot decided to land at Plattsburgh Municipal Airport. He radioed the Control Tower for a landing and was in the act of landing the plane when the engine died and the plane nose dived into a swamp about a half mile short of the runway. The wings were torn off the plane and the front badly damaged.

Ronnie was critically injured and lived for only a half hour after the accident. His wife is on the critical list. Mr. and Mrs. Wentworth are in serious condition and all were taken to the Champlain Valley Hospital in Plattsburgh. The extent of Mrs. Smythe's injuries are not known as her condition is too bad for examination and X-Ray. Mr. Wentworth suffered an injury to his back, broken ribs, lacerations and bruises. Mrs. Wentworth has a broken pelvis, lacerations and bruises. It is understood that the Wentworths will recover, but it is not known how Mrs. Smythe will fare.

Mr. Wentworth is the teacher for Grade 8 at Huntingdon High School and he and his wife are both from New Brunswick.

Both Ronnie and his wife are well known and liked in this area and both have been employed in the office of Huntingdon Motors Reg'd., the business owned by Mr. James Smythe, father of Ronnie. Ronnie will be greatly missed from the business for he was his father's right hand man. Since Mr. Smythe was appointed Motor License Issuer, both Ronnie and his wife have looked after this end of the business. Ronnie took up flying several years ago and he was often seen in his plane as he made trips over Huntingdon and the area.

The accident occurred at about 7:30 on Monday evening and the first intimation that people here had that it had happened, was when the news flashed over the Plattsburgh T.V. and later over other channels.

Mr. James Smythe and his son Jimmie left Plattsburgh as soon as they were notified and had a few words with the Wentworths. But Mrs. Smythe was in a partial unconscious condition.

The body of Ronnie is being brought to Huntingdon and will be at the Kelly Funeral Parlor on Wednesday. The funeral is to be held on Thursday, at 10:30 a.m.

The news was a great shock to all people in Huntingdon and all join with The Gleaner in offering deepest sympathy to the families in their tragic loss.

Members Urged To Make More Use Of Huntingdon Breeders' Club Services

The Huntingdon Breeders' Club held their annual meeting at the County Building, on Thursday evening, with only a few members present and with Mr. Meyran, Montreal, Field Technician for the St. Hyacinthe Insmination Centre, Mr. Leon Beaudin and Mr. McGee, Agromones in attendance.

Mr. Earl Rankin, President was in the chair and Mr. Gordon Perry, Secretary, recorded the meeting and read the financial statement. The financial statement showed the Club to be in good financial state and showed a profit of $85.00 on the past year's operations. Twelve hundred services were made during the year.

Mr. Meyran was called to preside at the election for directors. Wallace Rennie and John Cunningham were nominated and they were elected for the forthcoming year.

Mr. Meyran was then called upon to address the meeting. He said that it was evident the members were not using the service as they should and the Club should strive for one hundred percent use of its facilities by all members. Some members when they obtained a good bull, used this animal instead of making use of the services. After about two years or so they revert back to the service of the Club. The average according to the number of services would seem to indicate that only about 6 cows of each member's herd were being serviced by the Club. He told the members present that the Club should strive for 100% service of each Club member's herd as the only satisfactory means of operation.

Mr. L. Beaudin addressed the meeting and gave some very good suggestions for permanent pasture as the best means of feed for the livestock. He said more attention should be paid to this important part of feeding for it would lead to better animals and better production all around.

Tragedy In An Excavation At Valleyfield

Last week in Valleyfield, on Tuesday, May 16th, at about 1:30 p.m. one man was killed and one injured when a section of a ditch, which had been made for drainage works caved in. Six city workers were doing repair work which had begun one week before, two men were busy preparing the bottom for the pipes, when suddenly the earth moved slowly and one section broke in over them. Their companions saw it and quickly went to their rescue, unfortunately, John Mack, age 56 was covered with earth and suffocated, he also suffered several fractures. His companion, Eugene Pigeon, age 40, was partly covered. He was taken to the hospital, suffering from a probable pelvis fracture. Dr. Guy Lavallee certified the death of Mr. Mack and ordered the removal of the body to the Morgue in Larin, where Dr. Gaetan Gauthier made an examination.

New Motel At Port Lewis Built For St. Francis Rod And Gun Club

Our lakeside area in the vicinity of Port Lewis is being greatly improved through the efforts of some energetic and forward looking property owners there. Since the St. Francis Rod and Gun Club came under the ownership of Mr. Ross H. Wilson and his partners, they have done much to improve the facilities available to summer residents and visitors.

One addition to this business and which is providing a long felt want, is the catering to the marine interests along the lake shore. These enterprising men decided that there was need where boats of various kinds could be obtained, where supplies could be purchased near to the scene of use and where repairs could be made to motors and boats quickly and efficiently. They therefore erected a showroom and repair department and also gasoline pumps in order to provide this service. It has turned out to be a very handy service to those who occupy and use this lakeside region. Mr. Ross Wilson, the president and manager, has informed the Gleaner that in the very near future there will be installed at this centre a blending pump. This pump will blend the necessary amount of oil with the gasoline to provide a correct mixture for the motors used on boats of various kinds. This is one of twenty-five which will be installed throughout the Province of Quebec and they feel fortunate that they were able to obtain one of these at this time.

These enterprising men are not content to rest at this, they feel that this is a summer resort and as such it should provide facilities so that it will be more attractive and draw more than just those who stay there during the summer months. With this in mind they have erected a ten unit motel where the casual visitor can stay overnight, for a week-end, or for a longer period if they wish. With this they hope to attract those who like to do a little fishing and the waters of the Lake St. Francis are noted for this sport. Also there are the attractions of boating and swimming, for those who can only get away for a short stay.

While the motel is completed and furnished, the grounds about are in the process of being made attractive also. When this has been done there will be a large lawn in front of and at the side of the motel. To one end there will be a spacious car park. The lake is situated a few hundred feet to the north of the St. Francis Rod and Gun Club and faces the lake, so a very nice view is obtained. It is only a short distance to the water. Boats can be hired and also fishing equipment. A nine-hole golf course is situated a short distance from the club. Good entertainment is also available.

The motel has ten units with one that can be made into a suite if desired. Each unit has two double beds and can accommodate four friends, or a family of four, willing to share the accommodation. At one end there is a built-in vanity, with large mirror and wash basin, also a bathroom with bath and shower. There is also a combination dresser-desk and a built-in luggage rack. The floor is covered in thick carpet from wall to wall. The furniture is in cherry elm which gives the whole a most luxurious effect. There are large windows with draw drapes and the rugs and is not a cold running water and drinking water. The large windows in the front are finished in red wood finish, with lighter colored doors. The building is 130 feet long by 25 feet wide. The units are 12 feet wide by 24 feet in depth and there is accommodation for 35 people. It is very attractive both from the exterior and the interior.

The rates are quite moderate, especially when two or more are occupying a unit. Rates are based on accommodation without meals, or with meals. Meals are served in the dining room of the St. Francis Rod and Gun Club, which as stated, is nearby. The chef is originally from Switzerland and has been with the Rod and Gun for several years and has many years experience. Fishermen have their catches expertly prepared and cooked by them to suit their own tastes. All in all the accommodation offers a very attractive and comfortable stay.

All units were rented for the Victoria Day holiday week-end. The contract for plumbing was to be sometime in June, when an invitation will be extended for the public to view the motel. Earl Fournier Lumber and Construction Inc., had the contract for building the motel. Messrs. Laberge and Lalonde, Mosses, Laberge and Lalonde, George Lecompte, Valleyfield, did the electrical installation. Simpson's Contract Department supplied all the furnishings.

Howick-Huntingdon Ayrshire Club Sale Successful Event

While the Howick-Huntingdon Ayrshire Club sale held at Ormstown Exhibition grounds on Monday evening, May 22, was overshadowed by the National Ayrshire Sale of that day, the 4-H Club event was quite a successful one.

As in the case of the National Sale, the Sale Manager and Pedigree announcer was Douglas A. Ness with Tom Whittaker as Harold P. Higgins in the ring.

Up to a point the bidding was quite brisk and that together with first class team work on the part of the auctioneers and the members of the Club in charge of getting out and presenting the animals resulted in a little more than an hour and a half.

One of the features of the sale was the group of heifer calves and the picking out of same by several 4-H Calf Club members. Topping that section of the sale was Burnside Minora, consigned by R. R. Ness & Sons at $400, to the 4-H Club member Henry Wilson (Jr.) Franklin Centre, Que.

Other Heifer calves and their purchasers, with names of consignors in brackets were: J. E. Ness & Sons, Howick (W. Ross Elliott) $140. James Cotton & Sons, Navan, Ont. — Cherry Bank Royal Trixie (Allister McArthur) $215; Clear Brook Nancy Ann (A. H. Wilson) $250.

Edwin Williams, Cumberland, Ont. — Alderwood Grove Queen (J. G. Wilson) $290.

Topping the sale of cows and bred heifers was: Terrace Bank Pearl Rose consigned by J. Earle Ness & Sons at $410, to Laurent Bousquet, of Granby, Que. Other purchasers, with names of the consignors in brackets, were: Cows and 3-year-old heifers: — Robblea Ruth (Alex G. Robb) $260; her baby calf also sold at $42.50. Successful National Ayrshire Sale Top Animal To Colonial Acres, Huntingdon

(By Frank Napier)

The second annual National Ayrshire Sale, held at Memorial Arena, Huntingdon, on Monday, May 22nd, was generally a most successful event, with the general average price paid being $594.00. It is true that this average was lower than that of a year ago but last year there was a son of a World Champion cow at $4,000, and four specially imported Scottish Ayrshire heifers. It should therefore be considered a very satisfactory sale, especially from broad promotional standpoint. Heading the National Sale committee and as Sale Manager was Douglas A. Ness, Howick, with Tom Whittaker, Brandon, Vt., as Auctioneer. In assistance to the Auctioneer was H. P. Higgins of Huntingdon and John D. McCaig, of Ormstown.

In attendance was a considerable group of Ayrshire Breeders from Ontario, similiary from the Howick-Huntingdon and other areas of Quebec, several from the Maritimes, including the Hon. Andrew MacRae, Minister of Agriculture for Prince Edward Island, also several Ayrshire breeders from several of the United States.

The second animal in the ring was Selwood Cora 7, from Stanseby Bros and she also went at $1,050 to Clement Beauchemin, Vercheres, Que. However, it was the third heifer in the ring that topped the sale, that is Dolly Dale New Year, the 1960 All Canadian yearling heifer consigned by Miss Ellen Bompas, Bells Corners, Ont. After a keen contest with bids from A. L. Young, Davies Bros. of Colonial Acres Farm, Huntingdon owned this heifer at $1100. This firm also purchased Memory Lane Princess at $740; Burnside Caramia from R. R. Ness & Sons at $700; Netherbrae Spice from Mrs. Davis at $560 and Rae Dale Nevada from P.E.I. at $425 — a total of 5 head for $3,525. They were also considerable bidders on a number of other animals.

The next largest purchaser was Archie Armour, Dorchester, Ont., with 6 head at $2505. W. O. Carcaud, St. Chrysostome, Que., paid $900 to J. Earle Ness & Sons, Howick for Terrace Bank White Fairy, while $900 was also paid by Hospital General, Quebec, P.Q., for Dolly Dale Dusky Penny a sister of the top animal from the herd of Miss Ellen Bompas; that hospital also paid $870 for Alderwood Lady Nettie, consigned by J. G. Wilson, St. Valentin, Que. Mr. Wilson, in turn, purchased Bonnie-shie & Sons) at $510 and Selwood Annie Laurie (L. McQuat) at $550.

Col. S. C. Oland, Lindwood Farm, N.S., paid $650 for Oakburn Myrtle 3rd, consigned by Gerald A. Roy & Son, Howick, Que. However, as many of the Nova Scotia and Alberta purchases mentioned the majority of the cattle remained in Quebec and Ontario.

Among the other local or district sellers and purchasers were H. J. O'Connell, Ste. Genevieve, Que., who paid $450 for Balquhider Burton's Bloom consigned by Archie Roy, Howick; Matthew Wallace, Athelstan, who paid $460, for Burnside Nelani consigned by R. R. Ness & Sons; G. M. Brawley, Ashburn, Ont., who paid $600 for Millie Rochelle, consigned by Rene Trepanier, Oka, Alex M. Wallace, Smiths Falls, Ont., paid $525 for De Vercheres, Patricia; while Grant Jermy, Hawkestone, Ont., paid $560, for Clear Brook True Fern consigned by Allan H. Wilson, Franklin Centre, D. A. Finlayson, Ormstown, paid $365 for North Downs Lucky Grace consigned by Eric Cradock, Aurora, Ont.

Howick High School Library Campaign

The library campaign entered its second month with $216.25 deposited in the bank, and verbal reports of some $75.00 additional to date. The canvassers are encouraged by response to date.

A further work session was held on Friday, May 19, during which a group of some nine volunteers catalogued and shelved more books, including a few new additions to the library. It is hoped that, with a sufficiently good turn out, two more sessions will suffice to complete the initial cataloguing before the summer. Although the pupils are using the library, full facilities are held up pending the completion of the campaign.

AN UNSIGHTLY RUBBISH DUMP CLOSE TO ROADSIDE ON WELL TRAVELLED ROAD

There is much talk these days about pollution of all kinds. Above is an example of pollution as it exists along a number of our well travelled roads. This happens to be on the Road to Lake St. Francis and on a road that is much travelled by residents and visitors alike during the summer months. As can be seen it is not even back from the roadside, but right close to it. Some of the rubbish from this dump blows across the road to the other side and rather up in the bushes in an unsightly mess. The rubbish in this case has been pushed back, presumably for more space. At times it is full up and close to the road. Such are a poor inducement to tourists and could breed disease. If there must be a dump at this point it would be much better if it were placed further back and out of sight of the road. This is only one of many in this area and something should be done to see that this is removed from its present site. As the summer goes on, this dump will be more unsightly than it is shown here and from time to time a fire will be set to burn it off. The authorities should see that something is done about this and that it is moved away from this busy road.

They make allowances, however, for other people. It is a sharp reminder of the fact that we learn to make room for one another's minds. Without an interchange and clash of views the human would still be sitting in primitive darkness. Like whatever is excellent

We may develop to the state, wherein we like whatever is excellent, no matter whose it is. The Athenians gave us the first surviving instance of the importance of respect for opinions and beliefs. We recall that Paul was mobbed and imprisoned and beaten for his preaching up and down the coast of Asia Minor, but when he came to Athens they invited him to the Areopagus and asked: "What is this new teaching?"

Prejudice is a sign of immaturity. A person is scarcely civilized, let alone cultured, who cannot listen to both sides of an argument. You may not excuse an error, but you are too genial to condemn the man who voices it. He may not be wicked, but only mistaken. It is your part to propose something better to be substituted. Think of this: every business action, every political measure, and every moral judgment, is in the nature of an alternative. It is not to be pronounced good or bad except as it is better or worse than some other equally definite course which might be adopted instead of it.

We who seek the happy life need to be something more than tolerant. It is not enough to go through life keeping our elbows in and being careful not to step on people's toes. Life demands something more from us than acquiescence. We participate in the process of living only through action.

Pursuit of the happy life requires that we keep on learning. You can increase your enjoyment by learning to learn. You will thereby build a sustained intellectual curiosity about a wide range of significant human problems. You will avoid absorbing rubbish, and you will cultivate a thirst for understanding instead of an appetite for sensation. You will enjoy adventures of the mind.

Most of the blumbing waste of time and the inept decisions that blot the pages of men's efforts toward the happy life can be laid to their naively believing that they could negotiate complex problems by following some book of the mind.

One must, having learned to learn, then go on learning. What the public takes for brilliance is really the result of thorough, painstaking investigation and downright hard work. We may rejoice that work is not reserved for slaves. If that were our greatest field of enjoyment and we should be forever condemned to mediocrity.

After study of the situation, the action, and the consequences, then step out confidently. When you are clear about the need, and what action to take, you will walk sun-footedly.

Not for youth alone. If yours is not a satisfactory way of life, and if you wish to reach a better way of life, now is the time to start. But do not expect sudden transitions, and do not set your mind on absolutes in an all-or-nothing mood. The principle of relativity applies in a high degree to human affairs. Even in the technical fields it is clear that the truth of today is subject to change by the developments and decisions of tomorrow.

Encourage your mind to produce for you a certain set of views as to your place in life, the contributions you can make to life, and the happiness you may attain from life.

There will come to you, perhaps at once, perhaps after a period, a knowledge of the part you are to play, an assurance that you are doing the work for which you are best endowed, satisfaction because you are filling a vital need and joy in meeting your obligations. Then you will have self-assurance and validity.

The happy life does not beckon alone to youth. It is for people of all ages. Too many of us are given, in later years, to a sort of fantasy in which we look back upon our youth as a Lost Atlantis, the while we indulge in pity for our present drab and practical lives. But the happy life is not ushered in at any age to the sound of drums and trumpets. It grows upon us year by year, little by little, until at last we realize that we have it. It is achieved in individuals, not by flights to the Moon or Mars but by a body of work done so well that we can lift our heads with assurance and look the universe in the eye.

Of this be sure: you do not find the happy life; you make it. In the course of applying capability, resolution and concentration, you will run into emergencies which test your courage and your determination. Store up, for such occasions, a stack of principles expressed in maxims.

They may sound like truisms, at which some people sneer, but if they are so commonplace it is because they have been found of wide usefulness over many years. You will find many in this Letter.

If you could ascend to some great height giving a view of all the future landscape of your life, then you could recognize the best things afar off, and strike out for them. But since you cannot see very far ahead, you need to take each step with all the wisdom can muster. While sensing what lies dimly ahead, you must do competently what lies clearly at hand.

ANCIENT BONE
REGINA (CP) — A molar and limb bone of an early ice age horse which lived 50,000 to 100,000 years ago are at the Saskatchewan Museum of Natural History. They were found at the 25-foot level during the digging of a well on a south Saskatchewan farm.

STILL CELEBRATING
RIMOUSKI, Que. (CP) — Christmas lingers on at one store in this lower St. Lawrence city. Three huge cardboard candles placed outside the building's second floor last Yuletide were still up in early May.

In Search Of A Happy Life

Every young man and young woman leaving high school and university is looking forward to a happy life, but there is wide room for individual choice of the things that will make life happy. Long ago, men and women moved from birth to death as it were on a stream, obeying unquestionable laws, taboos and totems. Today, we are more subject to the burden of choice. No warm-blooded youths want to go to sleep in the bottom of the boat, letting the elements carry them wherever chance leads. Instead, they wish to sit up and learn to sail into the wind and against the thrust of the tide, with stars to steer by. They wish to be, if not masters of their fate, at least pilots of their craft.

To a seafaring vessel, all the oceans are open, all the rivers explorable, all the ports beckon. Only choice and sailing skill are needed.

Life is an endless succession of choices. When you go to a ball game you reject an infinite number of other things you might have done with your time. When you sit up to enjoy a late movie you reject sleep in its favour. When you spend a quarter on a soda you reject all else you might have bought with the quarter. Every choice involves your sense of values.

Life is also a set of skills. Your education and your preparations need to be suitable to your hopes and the greatness of the enterprise upon which you are embarking.

What is the happy life?

This was the greatest question of antiquity, as it is of the modern world. Men and women have gone by many ways to seek a happy life. Some have failed because they set themselves no definite goal, but drifted here and there hoping always to come upon the land of their vague dreams. Along the way they found moments of pleasure and they appeased some desires. But the good life should lead us steadily toward happiness, and happiness is a satisfied self, not merely a succession of gratified impulses and desires.

Let us say, tentatively, that there are five components of the happy life: health, work, interests, friendships, and the pursuit of an ideal. And note that for a happy life we must realize ourselves as a whole, not in just one or other of the parts.

The sort of life we are discussing is not necessarily that which makes money, causes talk or gets printed in the newspapers. It doesn't consist in winning alone, but in playing the game right. It is not made up exclusively of great events.

It involves an ideal, which is never quite reached, but always strive to reach. The wonderful thing is that, though we may not touch our rainbow's end, we attain our ideal in little pieces of trying.

Contemplation of our ideal is never useless; at least it produces improvement. On the other hand, to spurn ideals is to invoke unhappiness, because spurned ideals have a way of avenging themselves cruelly.

Happiness should not be looked upon as a reward for a good life, but as the natural effect of it. You will be happy if you are exercising your vital powers along the lines of excellence in a life which affords full scope for their development.

Nor is happiness a negative or passive thing. It is the outcome of things you do, the product of positive thinking and active living. It may be made up of little, everyday incidents; of having something to do, something to love and something to hope for.

A man who was Roman emperor for twenty stirring years wrote after his retirement: "Could you but see the five cabbages in my garden, which I have planted and raised with my own hands, you would not ask me to relinquish such happiness for the pursuit of power."

Happiness is not the means to something else, but is the end in itself. Every person chooses the stepping stones toward it which will suit his stride, his temperament and his ideals. You do not need to take the word of the philosophers for this: search your memory and you will find that your happy hours were those following an achievement in some area of life where you had made yourself proficient.

Raise your aim
The seeker after the happy life will never be satisfied with things as they are. Having reached a plateau, he will not be content to fixate there. He knows that no limitations are more galling than those which are self-imposed.

Nor will he treat an accomplishment like a jewel, to be enshrined in a casket for admiring contemplation. Some people strive toward perfection in something because they conceive it to be a place of ease. But such a life would be one of mindless living, a treadmill, a marching in one place. Every achievement is a means toward some greater achievement.

While it would be folly to concentrate upon living harmlessly, nudged up within oneself, it is equally wrong to build one's life around external things like rank, wealth, honours and social glitter. We need new experiences, and they can be enjoyed only in contact with the world around us. We need, equally, a feeling of stability, and that comes from something within us.

The truly important man is one who is conscious of his powers and is bent upon developing them, and thus becomes great in anything unless you have a vision of the greatness possible in it. Your success is the ratio of your accomplishment to your capacities.

There have been ages in which intelligent improvisation could do the work of a clearly conceived purpose, but ours is not one of them. Unless we have a plan and direction we become confused and side-tracked, and we are forced to make momentous adaptations without preparation or consideration.

What incentives are there to reach objectives and pursue ideals? First, there is the zest of life which raises a flame, sometimes flickering, sometimes a conflagration, in all of us. Then, there is the spur of some interest—of competition, of love, of need, or of a dozen other forces. Some have thought that Aesop's moral of the race between the hare and the tortoise might have turned out differently. What if the hare, instead of sitting down on a soft bank to rest had sat, instead, upon a thistle? Some sting is needed by many sorts of people to get them going.

Others are carried along by enthusiasm for whatever they turn their hands to. While their minds hope for success, their hands are contributing to it. They know that whole-heartedness can make up, in surprisingly many cases, for lack of training and natural ability.

Time and place
The seeker after the happy life is interested in everything that goes on around him, not tempestuously but actively. He seeks the beauty and excitement in living which fill the world, and he is sensitive to them.

The happy life is not measured by the calendar but by the events that occupy it. Consequently, a man goes out every day as a child does, with his mind on what there is to see and do rather than on himself. He lives with a sense of expectancy, knowing that it is better to look forward with pleasure and suffer occasional let-downs, than to approach the days with the prospect of being bored.

Progress is always the result of someone's stepping forward, being willing to break with the pattern of the past. Flexibility and adaptability are most important attributes of the happy life. One does not have to be a Vicar of Bray, changing coat and badge with every shifting wind, but we must accommodate ourselves to fickle surroundings, adjust our internal harmony to the impact of external conditions.

Even if your environment seems ungenerous, you need not despair of leading the good life you seek within it. Consider the Eskimo, how he has over the centuries built a culture in surroundings which appear to us to be most bleak, barren and inhospitable.

To do well where there is no opposition is commonplace. True greatness raises itself above the crowd by doing great things with little means, by coping with the unexpected through originality and ingenuity, and by not wasting time and effort on trivial matters.

Hindrances
There are some factors which seem to hinder us in our pursuit of the happy life. High among them we must place love of security. As soon as preoccupation with security begins to dominate our thinking the scope of our life begins to be diminished.

We can go to history for confirmation. The Greeks prevailed magnificently in a barbaric world, then slackness and softness came over them and they sank to their ruin wanting security and comfort more than they wanted the good life of freedom. The Athenians finally sought not to contribute but to get; the freedom they wished was freedom from responsibility. Athens ceased to be free, and was never free again, and sank into mediocrity.

Poor economic conditions may make more difficult, but should not thwart, our search for the happy life. Webster, the cartoonist, drew a sketch of Abraham Lincoln's log cabin, and under it he wrote this caption: "Ill-housed, ill-fed, ill-clothed."

To measure the goodness of life by its delights and pleasures and safety is to apply a false standard. The happy life does not consist of a glut of luxury. It does not make itself content with commercially produced pleasure, the night club idea of what is a good time, mistaking it for happiness. The happy life is made up of substantial things and attributes and purposes.

On having principles
All achievement is perilously fragile unless it is based on fundamental truth: the quiet strength of the happy life rests upon principles.

Because we live in a welter of conflicting interests we need standards to which we can hold fast. Only so have we any scale by which to measure the goodness or the badness of the interests. Otherwise, we are driven to the use of stop-gap expediency, which is a slippery tool.

A principle is not like a rule. The rule asks nothing more of you than that you obey; a principle requires you to do your own thinking. A rule gives you credit only for being a creature; a principle gives you stature as a man.

Principles are mingled with a sense of values. Each enhances the other. Together, they provide the ultimate motive power applicable to human beings. There can be no purpose in striving toward the good life, nor any way to keep score of our progress, unless we have a scale of values.

This sense of values does not appear suddenly from some volcano-like eruption, but has been built gradually, like a coral reef, during all the years of our lives, and it is still being built.

What matters in the history of any race, as in that of individuals, is progress to higher values. Together, they provide the strength of our Canadian way of life grows out of our western tradition of devotion to the principle of human worth. We detest cruelty and vulgarity and those who reach the heights of their conception of success by climbing over their fellow men.

Character
Those who seek the happy life must have character. This is a word which is given many interpretations in various settings, but there are two basic needs of the man of character: he must have unity, a well-integrated life; and he must live positively, not negatively. He must be and do things really, as part of himself, and not by way of public show. It may be that accident of birth will assign a man's duties and his sphere of activity, but his character is built by himself. A person of character is one who likes and dislikes what he ought. He is honest by habit and as a matter of course. He has been taught this way of living by parents who did not ask him "What will people think?" but "What will you think of yourself?"

To answer such a question involves making a judgment. Part of the continuing happy life is increasing ability to make independent critical judgments concerning the events and trends of life. It is not the events which influence us, but our thoughts about them.

Herein we see one of the trouble spots of our age. People who are incapable of judging causes and consequences become swept by muddled hysteria. After procrastinating in the hope that things will come out all right in the wash, some crisis compels them to make snap decisions. Then they have to cope with adverse situations, and end up in distressing confusion.

To reach a decision, to make a judgment, implies courage. There are some vigorous blows to be exchanged in pursuit of the happy life. You cannot enjoy enterprise without counting upon opposition.

If you pursue a strategy of "least risk" you will not go very far. You need, indeed, courage beyond that required to bear adversity: you need the courage of initiative. When the Thebans were retreating from a city they had failed to capture they were met by the Spartans and someone told the Theban leader: "We are fallen into our enemies' hands." He replied: "And why not they into ours?" He attacked, and won a great victory.

No man or woman pursuing the happy life will turn away from an opportunity or spurn a responsibility. The categorical imperative about which we hear the philosophers talk is the imperative of duty. Only very selfish people and people who are satisfied with lower forms of life can do what they like always. Intelligent people who are seeking the happy life use all their knowledge to do the best they can in every situation, and they accept responsibility for the con-

Well all things must come to an end and this includes holidays. Even though this was the first long week-end of the year the weatherman did not cooperate very well in that rain and cool weather prevailed over most of the holidays.

In order to make up for the bad weather, two dances were held this week-end and both were very enjoyable.

On Friday night a dance was held at the Chateaugay Heights Recreation Club. As a change from the usual form of music two bands supplied the music.

The Earthquakers of Chateaugay put on a fine performance and did a great job of entertaining.

The Septres from Dorval also played very well and provided most of the entertainment.

On Saturday night a Majorettes Dance sponsored by the Royal Canadian Legion was held at Maple School. The benefits of this dance go into the buying of uniforms for the majorettes.

A large turnout was there and the highlight of the evening was a Rock and Roll Contest. It took a long time but finally it had to be declared a tie with Terry Modeland and her partner Gerry Templay and Clair Keenan and her partner Danny Rose, sharing the spotlight.

One Spot Dance was held and Clair Keenan and Raymond Ancon were the winners. Guess it must have been Claire's night.

Door Prizes were awarded and the dance was a complete success.

The next Sox Hop will be held at Vetville Hall on Saturday, that's Saturday May 27 instead of Friday because Vetville will not be available Friday. This will be the last dance held at Vetville and for more information on the dance attend the Hop Saturday Night.

Chatter
Well seeing that it was the first long week-end many people took advantage of it and went away for a couple of days.

Linda and Bruce Dickson, Sandra and Steve Watson and Judy Etherington took a trip to Chateaugay, New York and when they came back they had a hard time holding on to their American cigarettes.

Keith and Lorna Lord had a party Sunday night and the Earthquakers supplied the entertainment. Man was that place rolling.

Sandra Summer spent the week-end at Lake Meecham south of the border. How did you enjoy your trip Sandra?

David Grant tried his hand at fishing over the week-end. How were they biting Dave?

Sharon Lesk took advantage of the holiday and was seen around Chateaugay. Glad to see you again Sharon.

Well that's all for this week folks. If you want to continue reading this column you'd better start using the phone or else I won't be able to continue writing.

Girls Softball.
Saturday morning at 10 a.m. sharp, girls, be at Maple School for Softball practice.

Monday night to celebrate Empire Day the Fire Brigade held a Fireworks display at the Parksite. There was a large attendance, even though it was a little chilly. Children love a bonfire and you may be sure there were lots there to watch.

Congratulations to Maple School, winners of the Annual Track Meet held at Ormstown, on Saturday, May 20th.

Clive Powell was a guest of his cousin Martin Phillips during the holiday week-end at Lasalle. Clive likes to visit Lasalle once in a while, to see a few of his former friends.

It was very pleasant to see Mr. Roger Leclair in Oxford Super Market after so many weeks absence.

Remember, if you have any news for this column my phone number is OX 2-4410. Thank you.

The Lighter Side
Large matron, trying on loose-fitting coat to saleswoman: "That's what I like about fall—you can go back into hiding."

Small boy to friend, watching TV: "Same old story—boy gets dog, boy loses dog, boy finds dog."

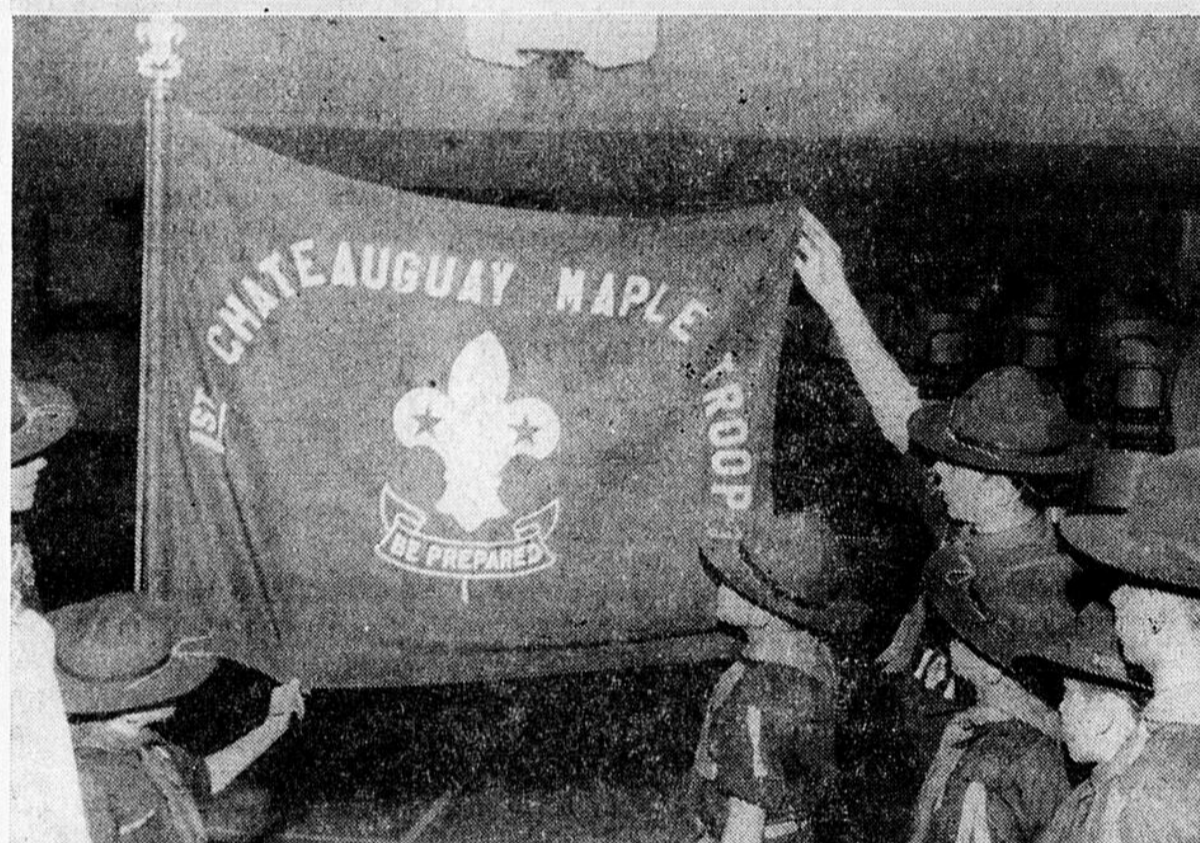

One stenographer to another as they get giant computing machine: "It replaced 25 men . . . darn it!"

Husband, returning from kitchen raid, to wife in bed: "I tried counting sheep and remembered the leg of lamb."

Old fellow to lawyer: "Where it says in my will that I'm of sound mind, put in especially about politics. That'll fix my brother-in-law."

MAPLE TROOP RECEIVES COLORS

(By Wayne Fountain)
On Tuesday night, May 16th, the Maple Boy Scout Troop was presented their troop colors, by Mr. Elkin Chairman of the Group Committee. This presentation marked the end to a long wait. This Troop was formed in 1960 but only since the beginning of the 1961 season when Mr. Mills and Mr. McKinlay took charge of the troop has it showed real improvement. Ever since the beginning of this season more boys have been invested into the troop and the boys have progressed and passed more tests than when it was first formed.

Since the beginning of 1961 the troop has seen the investment of Mr. Mills as the Scout-Master and Mr. McKinlay and Mr. Barnett as Assistant Scout-Masters. The troop has planned a summer camp and many other activities in the future and has had some outdoor activities in the past.

Now that the troop has received its colors it can now go into full swing and the Scout-Masters have planned many interesting projects for the summer.

Scouting helps develop a boy's character and helps him to develop talents that otherwise he wouldn't have been able to develop, so fathers support Scouting.

Mr. and Mrs. John Smithman, Crepin Ave., celebrated their twenty-third wedding anniversary on Saturday, May 20th. It had been such a beautiful warm day.

Miss Veronica Finnerty of Verdun, P.Q. was a week-end guest of her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Robert (Bob) McGlashan, Youville Blvd.

Miss Jean MacDonald of Montreal is a visitor at the home of Miss Mabel Horsnell, Taylor Ave., Jean expects to remain in Chateaugay about a week.

Quite a few of the men folk went away on fishing trips last week-end, the first long week-end of the season.

Let's hope the delay in receiving our property tax bills this year doesn't mean that there will be an increase in the rates. Being late, usually means just that.

Last Tuesday evening turned out to be quite chilly for the children of Notre Dame de l'Assomption Church, who were confirmed that evening. Too bad! It had been such a beautiful warm day.

Mr. and Mrs. C. McGlashan, Crepin Ave., were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. M. Reany of Beauharnois, formerly of Chateaugay, who are leaving shortly to take up residence in Cornwall, Ontario.

The tennis court on Taylor Ave., is being put in readiness for the coming season. Workmen have been busy all week repairing the fence which was badly damaged during the ice storm in February.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Collins, Crepin Ave., entertained at dinner on Saturday, May 20th. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. J. Smithman also of Crepin Ave.

All the fruit trees in the district are in bloom and what a beautiful sight, they look like hugh bouquets.

Majorette Dance Successful
The Chateauguay Ramblers Majorettes held a Record Hop dance Saturday, May 20, in Maple School and it was reported to have been extremely successful with about 175 or 180 teenagers attending.

The dance was sponsored by the Royal Canadian Legion and all proceeds going to the Majorettes.

Mr. Ken Mackenzie of the Sox-Hops, co-ordinated working along with the girls advising them on what should be done. The girls worked very hard making all arrangements for use of the school, soliciting at various merchants for a donation for door prizes and doing all necessary phoning, etc.

The dance was very slow at the start, but got very lively after a little while. Mr. Mackenzie called for a multification or Snowball dance which helped to get the dance really started.

The eight majorettes started the dance off each choosing a partner they danced a short while then the music stopped and the girls and their partners each chose a different partner from the sideline and was repeated until almost everyone was dancing. The purpose was to get everyone acquainted. From that dance on the place was really jumping. There was one Spot dance and Claire Keenan and partner Raymond were the winners each received a "45" record. Big feature of the evening was the Rock 'n' Roll contest and just about everybody taking part. After the first record six couples picked by the chaperones were chosen for the semi-finals. Two couples were picked from the six after the next record finished for the finals. The others were eliminated by the clapping of hands. The two couples then danced and it was decided to call it a draw as it could not be decided that one was better than the other. The winners won a L. P. Record each. The winners were as follows: Danny Rose and Claire Keenan and Gerry Tremblay and Terry Modeland.

The majorettes looked very attractive in their black sweaters and white pleated skirts and white shoes. Each girl wore a corsage with flowers of the team's colours and their little mascot, Sherry Gardiner looking adorable was dressed in full uniform. Everyone agreed they had a wonderful time including Mr. and Mrs. Mackenzie.

The Chaperones were Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. McElroy, Mr. and Mrs. McMillan and Mrs. Gardiner mother of one of the majorettes and the mascot, Sherry. Mrs. Ken Mackenzie worked very hard before and during the dance along with Mr. Mackenzie and the majorettes.

The lady chaperones and Mrs. Mackenzie were each presented with corsages of white carnations by the majorettes.

At the close of the dance Dawn Johnston got up and thanked Mr. and Mrs. Mackenzie for all their help and all the chaperones for giving their support by being present and for all their help. There was also six door prizes which were very kindly donated by local merchants.

Season's Final Sox-Hop

Final Sox-Hop in Vetville Hall for this season will be held Saturday night, May 27th at 8.30. The Sox-Hops are extremely popular with the teenagers and always have a large crowd and as the weather is getting so warm and with so many attending each dance it was decided to discontinue the dances for the summer. So please note the dance will be held Saturday night not the usual Friday night at Vetville Hall is not available Friday night. Also these dances are a dress up affair. Those wearing jeans, etc., will not be admitted.

Visitor Departs

Mr. and Mrs. Gaston Hebert and family guest for the past two months was Father Noury, Mrs. Hebert's brother from North Bay, Ont. Father Noury, who was recovering from a recent illness spent the last two months convalescing under the expert care of his sister Madeline. Father Noury left Friday, May 19th for North Bay, Ont.

Guests

Mr. and Mrs. George Neil and Jo-Ann had for their guests over the Holiday week-end Mrs. Neil's mother Mrs. Bell (Nana) and sister Miss Jessie Bell. They arrived Friday night, May 19th, and returned home Monday night, May 22nd. Nice to see Nana outside once more enjoying the sun. Nana is very popular with everyone who are fortunate enough to know her. We were sorry we were unable to get over to have a chat with her.

Sour of the Moment Party

Sunday night, May 21st, Keith and Lorna Lord had one of their sour of the moment parties. About fourteen boys and girls spent the evening dancing and everyone seemed to have a good time.

The "Earthquakes" were among those present and they brought along their guitars, and really played well, although a trifle loud for a small area. But everyone enjoyed hearing them play regardless of being a little loud a small piece of cotton balled in each ear of course helps and makes the music just loud enough. Sorry boys only fooling. Keep up the good work boys, you're doing great. Hasty prepared refreshments were served also soft drinks and potato chips.

"Earthquakes Play at Dance". Saturday night, May 20th, "The Professionals" at the dance of the music along with "The Professionals" at the dance at the Chateauguay Recreation Hall and received a good hand. "The Earthquakes" are just a new group starting out and will donate their time to anyone wishing their services. To contact the group to make arrangement call their manager Keith Lord OX. 2-6682.

Corrections: Last week a mistake in names of the girl singers with the Earthquakes should have been Donna Bertwhistle and Louise Duff not Sandra Summers. Sorry Louise. The girls however are not with the group anymore.

Please folks if you have any news, please call OX. 2-6682 by Sunday Evening. It's very discouraging the lack of co-operation of folks in the Park. It seems a shame that Park news has to be received from folks in other areas. A lot of time is spent putting the column together and would be much easier if folks would help by sending or phoning their news. Apparently the Park residents slept all the holiday week-end as we received no calls.

License: Don't forget that deadline for licenses for bicycles ad dogs is June 1st and can be obtained at the same place as last year on Blvd. D'Anjou.

Maple School Winners: Students at Maple School are very happy that their school won the Track meet this year.

The baby received the names Mary Michel Helen and was carried by Mrs. Vinnal. Godparents of the baby are Michel and Serge Nantel. After the ceremony a party was held at the home of the parents.

Shower

On Wednesday, May 17th, a baby shower was given by Mrs. Angela Smith of Drolet for Mrs. Rita McCanny. About seventeen friends and neighbours surprised Mrs. McCanny with many lovely gifts. Refreshments were served buffet style and everyone had a very enjoyable evening. Mrs. McCanny is from Ireland and although the expected new arrival will not be first in the McCanny family, it was indeed Rita's first experience at being honoured with a shower. She was very thrilled.

This week we visit with Mr. and Mrs. G. McKee of Colonia development they are shown outside their home with their children Brenda and Geoffrey. The McKees have been residents of Colonia for 3 years now and during this time Gerry has been very active in community affairs.

He helped to form, and was first president of the Colonia Home Owners Association, and still takes an active part in it. The Association now has 200 members, and is about to embark on its biggest project so far, a swimming pool and club house. This will get under way as soon as final approval is given at the next meeting. It will be financed by the selling of shares, 200 to be sold in Colonia, and a further 200 available to Chateauguy residents outside of Colonia. The shares will sell at $190.00 each, this amount payable over three years.

Gerry also formed the volunteer fire dept. of which he is Deputy Chief. Working along with him is a chaplain, the Rev. John Allan, and twenty trained fire workers. Posing around the fire truck with Gerry are Captain G. Jones, fireman A. Palmer, Lieutenant G. Howard and Stan Gordan. The fire dept. works with the association to help organize activities for the children and teenagers of Colonia. Among the most successful of these are the dances run by Ken McKenzie at Verville hall. Open to all teenagers holding members cards. They usually have between 120 and 130 at each dance, with 250 holding membership cards. All money made at these dances is used for the benefit of the teenagers, except for the donations made to the Verville welfare fund.

Apart from all his activities which include being Park coordinator, International director of a Y.M.C.A. service club, Vice-President of Lisie Instrument System Co. of Toronto, President of his own company, Aeroton of Canada, he manufactures electronic bank vault alarms. He also takes a keen interest in his church, and has for some time been considering entering the ministry of the Presbyterian church.

As a hobby Gerry likes to renovate old cars having a preference for Packards. He owns two of these at the moment, and can be seen working on one of them.

Although most wives wouldn't like their husbands being active in so many things, Mrs. McKee doesn't mind, feeling that they are all very worthwhile, even if it does mean that he is away from home a lot. She herself has a full time job as a Grade 4 teacher at Maple school and likes the work very much, but feels parents interfere too much in school affairs.

Item Approved

One of the most difficult jobs anyone can do in an amateur way is to try to make out an expense account that will be satisfactory to the girls and boys in the treasury office. Rules are archaic in some places and restrictive in others. Only a most painstaking thief could possibly get away with anything from the government and only an accounting genius could make out the returns to comply with all the requirements.

Back in wartime there was one person who was trying to win the war by making a number of trips across the country. Never, but never, was his expense account satisfactory to the people whose duty it is to look after such things. Finally, after many days and burning of midnight oil, the traveller came up with the answer.

He carefully made out the papers, calculated the amount of his own money he would lose, and then added the final item. "To hours spent in preparing this report - $x."

The item was approved. — Printed Word.

A Few Matters Of Interest For West End Home Owners

The monthly meeting of the West End Home Owners' Association was held in the Municipal Hall at 8 p.m. on Tuesday, May 16th. There was a very poor turnout of members, which was very disappointing, but probably due to other meetings being held on the same evening. Mr. Mongeau, the Town Manager of Chateauguy Centre was present and answered any questions posed by the residents. It was pointed out that last year a Provincial grant was received for the roads, but doubt if this will be obtained this year, however the budget is not yet down from Quebec. If Westenders want all roads paved, everyone must sign and all share the expense including those who own the vacant lots. If only one street is to be paved, 2/3 of the homeowners on that street must sign for same. Chateauguy Centre will fill all holes, grade and oil the roads shortly.

WATER

A new pump is being installed and will be capable of doing the work of the three small ones now in use. Two will be kept for standbys in case of emergency. Water tax to be only $20.00 this year, but will increase to $30.00 when a filtration plant is installed. A new by-law is being adopted that during the summer months watering of lawns will only be permissible at night from 8 till midnight.

TAXES

Road taxes should be slightly lower this year. Property valuation to be increased from 50% to 90%, but rate of mills to be lowered. If any increase this will be due to improvements on property such as finished playroom, etc.

Fire and Police forces are now amalgamated and owners of stray and unlicensed dogs will be penalized. Speed will not be tolerated and strict measures will be taken against drivers who do not obey traffic rules.

Finally, builders in all developments have been advised to clean up all debris. At the close of the meeting Mr. W. Hulshoff, President, thanked Mr. Mongeau on behalf of all the residents of West End.

Chateauguy Schools Do Well At C.V.T.A. Track Meet

(by Wayne Fountain)

Maple School was again victorious this year at the annual C.V.T.A. Track Meet. Like last year Maple School was way ahead from the beginning and maintained their lead throughout the Meet.

The Meet was held this year at the Ormstown Fair Grounds because facilities at the participating schools were not available. Maple School had a total of 165 points while Franklin Centre had 119, Julius Richardson 98 and Beauharnois 40. Trophies were awarded again this year and Maple School walked off with a giant size portion of them.

Mr. Mosher, principal of Maple School, presented Stephen Thompson the trophy for the winning school. Stephen also received the Gerald Payne Trophy, open only to Chateauguy schools, for the highest points in the meet. He also received a trophy for the highest aggregate points in the 9-10 year old group.

Alfred Bauer, who won a trophy for his age group last year, walked off with the trophy for the 11-12 year old age group. Meva Hughes won the trophy for the 11-12 year old girl age group with a spectacular show of speed in all the races she entered.

Bruce Appleton and Benny Nielson each won a trophy in their respective age groups with a great showing of skill and sportsmanship in their events.

Mr. Mosher had to take back a statement he said during an assembly just before the Track Meet. He said that Maple wouldn't win but the students showed a great deal of effect in proving those words false. Sandra Scott of Julius Nicholson School won the only trophy for her school. This trophy was donated by the Students Council of Maple School for the highest points total for girls of Chateauguy. Wayne Fountain president of the Students Council presented Sandra with her trophy.

Now that Maple School has won the Meet two years in a row, they're going to see if they can take it again next year. Good Luck, Maple.

Majorettes Hold Successful Dance

By M. McCutcheon

The Chateauguy Majorettes held a fund raising dance at Maple School on Saturday evening, May 20th. Sponsored by the Royal Canadian Legion, Branch 108 the dance was well organized and extremely well run by the girls.

Music for dancing was supplied by a record player. The Majorettes, smart looking in their black jerseys and white pleated skirts were accompanied by their little Mascot Sherry Gardiner, petite and cute in her white skirt and blue jacket with gold braid and small plixbox.

Miss Dawn Johnson, President thanked the Co-Ordinators of the Dance. Mr. and Mrs. Ken McKenzie and the chaperones, Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Mc Elroy, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas McMullin, Mrs. Foster Gardiner and Mr. and Mrs. K. F. Kennedy. Each lady chaperone received a corsage from the girls upon entry and this gesture was appreciated and enjoyed.

The ensuing Dance Contest ended in a tie with L. P.'s being awarded to Claire Keenan, Dany Rose, Terry Modeland and Gerry Tremblay.

Plans are being formulated for a similar dance to be held in the Fall.

The Majorettes wish to thank the following merchants for their cooperation: Mac's Superette, Rene Breault, Gilles Crepin, Williams Pharmacy, Mimi Auger of Mimi's Lingerie and the Chicken-Coop.

Do You Know Who Elmer Is?

By Kathleen M. Cowper

Elmer the Safety Elephant is being introduced into Maple School this week. By the time you read this, you should have received a Pamphlet telling you about Elmer. Have you signed and returned the back portion of this pamphlet?

Do try to help your child to be safety conscious. Obey the rules yourself so that he may follow your example. Take time to be careful — accidents happen so easily. Everyday children are victims of fatal accidents, don't let your child be one of them.

Maple Home and School are sponsoring Elmer in co-operation with the West End Traffic Safety Council.

A Safety Bicycle Rally will be held on June 3rd, at 9:30 a.m., at which time the children with their two or three wheeled bicycles will be given Safe Bicycle driver tests. At this time the Safety Elmer Pennant will be turned over to Maple School by the Home and School. Don't forget who "Elmer" is and practice Safety!

FAMILY FINANCES

DOLLARS DOWN THE DRAIN

The Mortgage on the Home

A home is the major purchase most people make in their lifetime. Cars are another periodic major purchase. In both cases people are apt to buy over their heads.

A rule mortgage lenders have gone by is that a man should not put more than one-quarter of his income into shelter expenses. The present NHA rule allows loans if the carrying charges—interest, principal, taxes, fire insurance—do not exceed 27% of income. Generally a man should require a home costing more than twice his annual income.

We said earlier that a man should not go into debt to buy non essentials. A home is essential, and a man would have to wait too long to accumulate funds for a cash purchase. When he buys under a mortgage, he should, however, not buy on a shoestring, but try to have an equity of at least 25%. He should cover the unpaid balance by mortgage cancellation insurance—the mortgage amount is an obligation too big to leave to a widow.

The longer the repayment term, the lower the monthly payments, which lead many people to want the "easy" terms to free extra money for other purposes. An example will show, however, that, as with other installment buying, the costs mount for the borrower who keeps in debt for long periods.

Mr. Brown buys a medium priced house and assumes a $10,000 NHA mortgage at 6 1/4% calculated half-yearly. He has the choice of making amortized equal payment of principal and interest for 20, 25, 30 and 35 years. He thinks he will choose the 35 year period because the monthly payments will "cost" him less. We will look at the cost under a 25 and 35 year comparison.

Monthly Payment	25 Years	35 Years
Monthly Payment	$ 65.48	$ 58.17
Total Payments	300	420
Interest Paid	19,669.00	24,431.40
	9,669.00	14,431.40

The 35 year mortgage eases the monthly payments by $7.31 each. But the offsetting factor is that the mortgagor must pay 10 years longer. In one case it costs him $9,669.00 for interest while on the 35 year plan the costs is $14,431.40—a difference of $4,762.40. The additional cost of the 35 year plan is perhaps roughly equivalent to the furnishing expenses of the home.

Two important clauses in a CMHC mortgage provide that when the mortgagor is not in default he has the privilege of paying an additional amount of

Telephone Numbers In Chateauguy Due To Change From Now On

Chateauguy telephone numbers will no longer contain letters when the 1962 directory serving this region is issued next February. The Bell Telephone Company of Canada informed customers here this week.

In the new directory, the letters will be replaced by the figures that correspond to them on the dial, so that all numbers now beginning with OX 2 will be listed as beginning with 692. There will be no change involved in dialing.

exchange designations will also appear in seven-digit form in the 1962 Montreal directory.

In addition to this "bulk conversion" method where whole exchanges are converted as units, the Bell company plans to take advantage of what it calls "customer order activity" to convert individual telephones throughout the metropolitan area. Starting on August 7 this year, ANC numbers will be given to all customers ordering telephone service for the first time, and to all present subscribers who change their address or otherwise require a change in their existing number. Some Chateauguy residents will therefore have seven-digit numbers even before the 1962 directory appears.

Commenting on ANC, Mr. Love said that the new numbering system is being introduced throughout Canada and the United States because it provides millions of additional telephone numbers, and these will be needed to meet the demands of the future. He explained that the present two-letter, five-figure system is limited because certain letters cannot be combined to form exchange names, and are therefore wasted on the dial.

In a letter sent to all residents involved, local Bell Manager R.C.B. Love explained that all the Bell exchanges listed in the Lachine — Pointe Claire — Ste. Anne de Bellevue directory will be converted to the seven-digit method of numbering (known as All Number Calling or ANC) with the appearance of the new book — which will be the first in the Montreal area to be completely converted to ANC. Other suburban directories will be converted year by year, as will various groups of listings in the Montreal directory, until all telephones in this area have seven-digit numbers.

The other exchanges listed in the Lachine — Pointe Claire — Ste. Anne de Bellevue directory are MEIROSE 1 (Dorval), MEIROSE 4 and 7 (Lachine), MURRAY 4 (Roxboro), OXFORD 5 and 7 (Pointe Claire), GLENDALE 3 (Ste. Anne de Bellevue), BELMONT 4 (Vaudreuil), BELMONT 6 (Hudson), BELMONT 8 (Rigaud) and NATIONAL 6 (Ste. Genevieve). Numbers beginning with these

Many took advantage of the long weekend to spruce up their gardens or put away double windows in anticipation of warmer weather to come. The good neighbour policy was in full force Sunday, when despite the inclement weather, Mr. R. Emard, Mr. Geo. Gourley, Mr. Geo. Marshall and son Garry, also Wayne Hughes of Prudential all pitched in and laid the sod that we had received last week. Thanks to them the SMEALLs can now enjoy the lawn at the side of their house — as the saying goes "Many hands make light work."

The Ladies' Committee of the West End Homeowners' Association held a Games and Social evening at Verville Hall on Wednesday, May 17th at 8:30 p.m. As usual this was a very successful and well organized evening under the capable direction of Mrs. Syd Mitchell. Among those who contributed prizes were: La Rose Confectionery, Dominion Glass Co., Chateau Textiles, Chateau Pines Nursery, Hotel Salaberry, Danis Garage, Bourcier Bakery, Soyez Bakery, Gilles Crepin, Salon Gracia, Toni & Vani Sunoco Station, J. J. Prevost, B. P. Station, Thibault Motors, Handfield's Shell Station, Chateauguay Bowling, Henri Rochfort Contractors, West End Bowlarama, Safety, Syd Mitchell, of Canadian Allis-Chalmers. We also thank all our own good Westenders who so kindly donated prizes, and to the busy but goodhearted homemakers who so kindly made the wonderful sandwiches and cookies. Thanks to our President for the donation of the good coffee. Prize chairman, Mrs. R. Emard, Refreshment Chairman, Mrs. G. Gourley. Many thanks to all for work well done — also to the ladies and gentlemen of Verville and all other who attended our evening.

The children of West End were all welcomed to a real treat on Saturday night when Syd Mitchell, Safety Director of Canadian Allis-Chalmers, presented outdoor safety movies for the youngsters. With cushions, blankets and their own little chairs they soon made themselves comfortable on the front lawn and when darkness fell it was the signal to start the show which was greatly enjoyed by all present. As an added treat Mr. Chausson and Mr. Savard supplied candies which added to the enjoyment of the evening. To Mr. and Mrs. Syd Mitchell a sincere thank you from all the parents for showing these safety films to the children. The Girls Handicraft Group held their meeting last Thursday at the home of Mrs. Syd Mitchell with approximately 26 girls in attendance. The girls were kept busy with needle and thread and held their first business meeting that day. As a swimming club is being formed and a meeting for this purpose is to be called this Thursday at Mrs. Muir's home, the Handicraft Club will be postponed for this week only and will be held the following Thursday, June 1st, at the regular time, right after school.

Sincere sympathy is extended to Mr. and Mrs. W. Roy on the recent sad loss of Mr. Roy's mother, Mrs. E. Roy who passed away on Wednesday May 17th.

Town Of Chateauguay Heights

A meeting of the Town of Chateauguay Heights was called for Tuesday, May 16th. Mayor Dave Currie presided and all councillors were present.

Two by-laws nos. 35 and 36 were given their final reading and were adopted. By-law 35 amended by-law 17 by abandoning the homologation and the opening of the public place appearing on plan prepared by Mr. W. E. Lauriault and passed Jan. 31st 1955. A new public place will be homologated, bounded by Gilmour, Elm, Trudeau and Birch. By-law 36 concerns the method of appointing Police and the specification of their duties.

It was suggested by Mayor Currie that a delegation of the council consisting of the Mayor and Councillors P. MacDonald and G. H. Robinson meet with the Towns of Chateauguay and Chateauguay Centre to discuss the combining of the municipalities for police, fire and recorder's court.

Legion. Comrade Butt, adding that as Comrade Butt himself does, so should all veterans tie in and do all in their power to further the cause of the Legion, not for one moment thinking of what we can get out of it but what we are able to contribute and put into it.

The speaker then announced his subject "Being Positive" and instanced the many negative thoughts, actions and words prevalent in our daily life. The negative thoughts of sickness the criticism of our fellow men is causing untold misery in the world. What a power for good if all thoughts were in the right, or positive way, and surely with all thinking this way we should find an answer and find for good if all thoughts were in the right, or positive way, and surely with all thinking this way we should find an answer and find help.

In closing Rev. Hall pleaded that all ex-service men uphold and further the aims and objects of The Legion, and in remembering our Fallen Comrades he said "Their eyes were closed that we might see."

Meeting closed at 11 p.m.

Canadian Legion, Chateauguay Valley District

A Legionary Meeting was held at Valleyfield, May 18th, under the chairmanship of District Deputy Bruce Haines.

The meeting, which was in the form of a caucus, was attended by members from the various branches in District 13. The representatives were informed of certain recommendations for office which will be voted on at the coming Provincial Convention at Lachute, to be held May 25-27.

The meeting also afforded a fine opportunity for convention delegates to become acquainted with each other, and also to meet Comrade Sam Butt, who is nominated for 5th Vice President.

Comrade Vallee, the newly installed President of Ormstown Branch was introduced, and then Comrade Butt was called upon to give a resume of his past Legion Activities and he also asked for the help of all Convention Delegates. If Comrade Butt is elected it will be the first time District 13 has had a Provincial Representative.

The guest speaker of the evening was the Rev. John Hall, padre of the Valleyfield Branch.

Historical Notes Gleaned From "Sellar's" History

How the Glengarrys and their dusky allies had come to be there can be told in few words.

Colonel Turner, who was in command at Cornwall, had received orders to send reinforcements to Colonel Campbell, and he detached from his command a battalion of the 1st Stormont regiment of militia, 250 men, under Colonel Aeneas MacDonnell, and he also had a fighting chaplain, in the Rev. John McKenzie. The force went on board the steamer Neptune at Cornwall, which landed them at Dundee, where they were met by the St. Regis Indians under their agent, Captain Solomon Chesley. This was the forenoon of the 6th. They at once formed into line and took the road for Huntingdon, which they reached after a fatiguing tramp, late that night, which was rainy. They resumed their march the following day but owing to the awful state of the roads were overtaken by darkness when they reached Ormstown. They were harassed and swept by McEachern, who did all he could for his brother Highlanders, the rank-and-file finding quarters in the church and barns, while the gristmill was given to the Indians, who managed to get some whiskey and kept up a constant yelling.

Early next morning they prepared their march hastened by messages from Campbell, and met the coffin of King as narrated. When the sound of the bagpipes reached the camp, the volunteers were ordered to line the road to greet them. On the Highlanders came, great stalwart men, with swinging stride, pipers proudly playing "The Campbells are Coming", and never halted until they reached the front and established their headquarters at Leclere's. Shaking hands, Colonel Campbell asked when his men would be ready for the assault. "As soon as they get their overcoats off," replied the dauntless Macdonnell, but Campbell was not prepared to avail himself of such promptitude, wanted to wait until Col. Carmichael reported from Beauharnois, and the afternoon slipped by in like inaction to the three that preceded it. That day a messenger from Napierville arrived in the rebel camp, with a letter asking for reinforcements. This was so contrary to the expectation of the habitants, who had been buoyed up by promises that the great combined army of Americans and patriots at that time was coming to help them, that desertions increased, and the leaders, not caring to await the assault they knew was inevitable after the arrival of the Glengarry men, decided on abandoning the camp. Before daylight they began their retreat, were crossed at Ste. Martine in two towns, and took the road for Napierville. Before they had gone far, news of the defeat at Odelltown church met them, and then it was every man for himself. Their abandonment of their camp was discovered early on Saturday by Peter Gibson who, rambling about in his simplicity, crossed the barricade and found nobody. After breakfast the advance began, the Indians and Glengarry men leading, who tossed the barricade aside and passed on to Ste. Martine, wading the river. As the others followed, Baker's and Perrigo's houses were emptied of what provisions they contained and then fired. It was noted as proof of the quantity of hay and grain they contained, that fire smouldered in the ruins of Baker's barns for a fortnight. On every hand prisoners were made, the rebels submitting so meekly, that a trooper might be seen driving a score before him. Entering Ste. Martine the Indians instantly overspread the place, and robbed every house they found tenantless. When Colonel Campbell entered the village he accepted Father Power's invitation to breakfast, who interceded in behalf of his neighbor, Joseph Brazeau, but the colonel was firm. Brazeau had been out of the leaders and they must be punished. As he left, the match was applied to Brazeau's store. The habitants, on giving up what arms they had, were dismissed to their homes. Taking the Bean river road, the column marched to St. Remi and their march was a trail of spoliation. The Huntingdon men refrained but the Glengarrys and the Indians showed not the slightest compunction in plundering the houses they passed, and when they left for home, there were few who had not a bundle of household effects tied to their shoulders or conveyed in a cart. One was seen to coolly empty out the feathers from a mattress and take away the tick, the worst thieves of all, however, were unprincipled men who roamed in the rear of the troops and stole the horses of the habitants before they had been taken in sight of St. Remi. word was received that the place was already in the hands of part of Colborne's army and their services were unneeded. The day they arrived a most painful incident took place. Thos. Gebbie, lieutenant in Finlayson's company, was ordered to go with a detachment and arrest certain rebels in St. Remi. The duty, a most distressing one, for the majority were found in the midst of their families, he performed, leaving for Norton creek mill with 15. Among them was Grenier, a storekeeper, who had been a captain in the rebel ranks. Asking as a favor that he be permitted to ride, he took his horse. A few minutes after Lieutenant Gebbie had left, a troop of Hussars galloped into the village, and their sergeant waited on the priest to get information. The father, who spoke English imperfectly, said a body of rebels had just left, and pointed the direction they had gone. Taking it for granted he spoke of a body of fleeing rebels, the Hussars put spurs to their horses, and galloped after them. Coming in sight of a party of men, dressed like farmers, with muskets over their shoulders, plodding through the mud, the Hussars shouted to them to halt and in a moment were upon them, each one seizing a man. Mr. Gebbie, who had a pistol levelled at him by one horseman and a sword held over his head by another, was about to explain they were laboring under a mistake, that they were not rebels but a party of loyal volunteers in charge of rebel prisoners, when Grenier, either frightened by what was going on or seeing a chance for escape, slipped off his horse and ran for the fence, in going over which a bullet, fired by a Hussar, struck him, and he died an hour afterwards.

The rebellion being over the volunteers were discharged, and they returned homewards. Those from Huntingdon got back after an absence of exactly ten days, during which time few had their clothes off, had undergone much privation, and borne most fatiguing marches over execrable roads in the worst of weather. To the widow and infant son of King they voted a day's pay, which, for a private, was 24 cents. The government gave her no compensation.

Well folks, as your new local correspondent think I had better start off by scotching any possible rumour that I suffer from "Encephalitis Lethargica" (Sleeping Sickness), but as a teenage rookie cavalryman serving in South Africa, some 55 years ago, I learned quite a lot about this disease which was blamed on the Tse-Tse fly and was a scourge among our horses. In parenthesis however, many "Old Sweats" look upon this as an occupational disease, so maybe it is partially responsible for the infrequent appearance of myself among you. 'Nuff said.

Tomorrow 25th inst. a Special Mystery Evening will be held in the Community Hall for Vetville tenants. It will include a Mystery Game; Mystery Prizes and a Mystery Presentation. Further information — still a mystery!

Due to the usual well preserved secrecy, now take the opportunity of tendering belated congrats to the following ladies of Vetville and to wish them "Many, Many Happy Returns of their recent birthdays: Mrs. E. Pitt, "Lens" Apt. 12 and Mrs. F. Burr, "Dieppe" Apt. 4 on 15th inst. Mrs. E. Alton, "Cambrai" Apt. 6 on 18th inst. and Mrs. W. Wright, "Vimy" Apt. 9 on 20th inst. Similar congrats and good wishes are extended to Mrs. A. Logan, "Ypres" Apt. 1 for the same happy event due on 30th inst.

Despite the sudden and unpredictable changes in the weather, for some weeks past, those hardy perennial tenants of the Green Thumb fraternity, have been busily engaged preparing their garden plots. After last year's displays, together with the daily awaited arrival of the 500

Rose Bushes, (last week Gleaner news item) results this year should be outstanding.

With so many chores to be carried out in this happy community, and so few volunteers available, this writer often feels a somewhat guilty complex to see "Mr. Do-It-Yourself" coming just that, and enough to keep an extra's to the following ladies of inst. Similar congrats and good average gang busy. Who? No names — No Pack Drill but, may often be found in P.O.!

It is rumoured that several tenants have their fingers crossed. Could this be a seasonal epidemic such as "Derbyitis", pending the results of certain illegal "Canadian version" Sweepstake Draws? On the other hand, could be Arthritis! Who knows till the results are known?

For the information of new tenants, a programme of routine activities is posted on the Notice Board in Vetville Community Hall each week-end for the ensuing week, by the Supt: Major "Bob" Mitchell. It is not proposed to duplicate such information each week in future, other than to cover events of special interest. Every effort will be made to notify any contemplated changes regarding the weekly Shopping Buses provided for this community i.e. Dominion Stores — Thursdays, leaving the Post Office at 2:30 p.m., Shopping Center, Ville LaSalle 7 p.m. and Steinberg Stores Fridays at 9 a.m. This also supplies to the early Vetville Presbyterian Church Service held each Sunday morning in the Community Hall. Special Church Notices will be mentioned in this column if such information is available for insertion. As this issue will be the last one prior to the departure of Mr. and Mrs. D. Finlayson, "Vimy" Apt. 8 on a 4 month visit to the U.K., we take this opportunity to wish them "Bon Voyage" and everything conducive to an enjoyable vacation and reunion with old relatives and friends. The majority of us will surely miss you, our loss however we trust will be your gain. The best of good fortune, health and weather to you both.

In addition to week-end shopping, tenants will have plenty of fun and recreation provided for them in the Community Hall to finish the week: — Friday 26th inst. Mrs. Henderson's Entertainers will present a Live Show and Dancing, commencing at 8 p.m. Refreshments will be served, and on Sat. 27th inst. Canadian Legion, "Remembrance" Br. No. 75 Ladies Auxiliary will run a special game for Vetville Residents only, commencing at 2 p.m. and the same evening starting at 8:30 the regular "Sox Hop" will be held for the benefit of the local Sox-Hoppers.

Regret to state that our pals Tom Wilkinson and Ken Fessington are still inmates at the Q.M. Vets Hospital and send our best regards and wishes for their recovery. — We extend our sympathy to their respective wives meanwhile. Am pleased to report that Sid. Jones returned from the hospital on 18th. much improved in health we hope.

Strongly suggest our readers advise any visitors to see them, to be sure and park their cars on the right side of the road, one visitor on Sunday 14th inst. was ticketed for failing to take this precaution on Molson Ave., by our local police.

We offer hearty congrats to Miss Jacqueline Lavine, daughter of our popular "Jack of all trades", Nelson and Mrs. Lavine who we note is due to receive her Bate. Comm. Degree on 26th inst. at Sir George Williams University. Every future success to you "Jackie"!

The "Smoker" arranged by the Pres. and Directors of the Mens' Club was held on the evening of the 19th., being ably M. C'd by our worthy Treas. Chas Maille, with N. Robb officiating at the piano and refreshments well dispensed by E. Murray. With sickness, thinning ranks and other causes, the several dozen attending represented over 50% of the members who with their enthusiasm, made up for any lack in numbers in joining the songs given by our local talent, once more demonstrated the very high morale standard maintained at Vetville.

A postscript to earlier item since received. At a Special Meeting of the Ladies of Vetville, it was decided to donate $50.00 towards the cost of 5 loads of top soil for use in planting the gift of 500 Rose Bushes already mentioned. Mrs. Mabel Hexall and her fellow members may feel assured that their generous action is greatly appreciated by all residents.

Last week was brought to a very fitting end through the auspices of Normandy 3r. (and Ladies Auxiliary) (No. 110) of the Royal Canadian Legion, which sponsored a most pleasant afternoon on 20th inst. to the residents of Vetville. As was ex-

Unregistered Arms Worry In Montreal
MONTREAL (CP) — Police sometimes get the uneasy feeling that Montreal is a vast armed camp. That's because it's relatively easy to acquire an unregistered revolver here.

There are 20,000 revolvers registered in the city along with thousands of smuggled stolen and war-souvenir weapons that have never been registered.

"With a bit of training and choice of weapons, Montreal could take on the army and all the police forces in Canada," said one police official.

In 1960 there were nearly 25,000 small arms registered in the half of Québec under jurisdiction of the Montreal division of the Quebec Provincial Police, an increase of 2,085 over 1959.

There were 4,000 individual permits issued to carry a weapon, besides another 1,982 covering one or several persons and issued to banks and security and protective services.

Federal, provincial and Montreal police say their hunt for unregistered weapons is getting more difficult all the time. They know just about anyone can make a deal for a revolver along the Lower Main (St. Lawrence Blvd.).

Police urge mandatory prison sentences for any ex-convict caught with a revolver. As the law stands now, says assistant Montreal Police Director Romeo Longpre, any bandit can hope to beat a concealed-weapon charge with a $50 fine.

Lady Rockhounds Search For Gems
VANCOUVER (CP) — Tired of waiting for new jewelry? Then why not join 600 British Columbia women who are headed for the hills in search of their own. They're the lady rockhounds, members of a faster-growing and longer-lasting craze than the hula hoop.

Their summers, and much of their winters, are spent scouring B.C. for jade, amethyst, opal, agate and other minerals that can be cut and polished into gems and ornaments.

One is Beth Whittaker, an attractive lab technician, who has been rock hunting so long she can't remember how she started.

"I guess I've always been just a little bit interested in minerals," she said, "and rock hunting gives me a wonderful excuse for getting outdoors."

So avid is Beth that she spent her vacation last year on a three-week tour of Australian opal mines.

Oddly enough, it was an Australian opal that launched rock hounding in Vancouver.

The stone was given to Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Rae by a friend. After wondering what it would look like cut and polished, they decided to see if there were many people in Vancouver interested in minerals.

"So we put an ad in the paper, expecting only a handful to answer," said Mrs. Rae. "We were overwhelmed by the response."

Thus the Lapidary Rock and Mineral Society of Vancouver was born.

That was nine years ago and membership is still growing. The Vancouver area alone boasts about one-third of the 18 recently-organized B.C. groups. Membership in the province totals more than 1,000.

The Hour Of Truth

It was the first time one member of the audience had heard Tchaikovsky's 4th Symphony. He was attending a sponsored concert and he was convinced that the sponsor was being victimized by the musician's union.

Three men sat at the back of the stage doing nothing while, directly in front of them, a working musician labored over his hot kettle-drum.

One of the three, the one sitting beside an abandoned modern bass drum, seemed to be leaning through an old comic book.

Then suddenly the fourth movement began. The three stood up.

His comic book abandoned, one attacked the bass drum. The one in the middle produced the enormous symphony cymbals and dashed them together. When ever he found a moment of quiet, the third man struck his triangle. They weren't standbys.

Everyone went home happy. — Printed Word.

Editorial Notes

Could Huntingdon Lose Its Political Identity?

YOU may wonder what the above question means and why it should be asked, but we feel after reading this editorial, it may set you wondering and also what action may be taken to prevent it.

No doubt our readers have seen that the Provincial Government is studying the redistribution of Electoral Constituencies, especially on the island of Montreal. When consideration of this matter comes about, it is usually done that it will better the chances of a Party in power in future elections. In the case of Montreal the move is to make more constituencies, which of course would lead to more representation, or more members in the Legislature.

There is another side to the picture and one that has often happened in the past and it should be considered. There is the danger that when redistribution is talked about, that some constituencies disappear and become a part of other constituencies by being divided. There is a danger that Huntingdon County may lose its identity in such a move. Huntingdon is small as other constituencies go and in a redistribution shuffle, it would be divided and portions distributed to existing, or new constituencies. If those in charge of the redistribution decided that it might be more advantageous to do this, then in all probability it would be. While nothing official has been said that this will take place, there are rumblings in the air that it might be contemplated. If this should prove to be true, we the residents of Huntingdon County want to be ready for it.

Huntingdon County, as far as Federal Government representation is concerned, has been a cut up county for many years and we know from experience that it has not given us the most desired representation, and the electorate at large does not want to see a similar thing take place as to Provincial Legislature representation.

In the Federal field, Laprairie was tacked on to the old constituency of Chateauguay-Huntingdon. The common interest of Laprairie was not in line with the farmers in what we might term the "Montreal Milk Shed" in the counties of Chateauguay and Huntingdon. Seldom did the electorate in Chateauguay-Huntingdon come in contact with the elected member from Laprairie, consequently he was unable to give the entire constituency the attention it deserved. The Parishes of St. Anicet and Ste. Barbe were tacked onto the County of Beauharnois as to Federal matters, and remained in the electorate of Huntingdon County for Quebec Legislative matters. Beauharnois County is, principally speaking an industrial constituency so it is but natural the elected representative of that constituency would lean toward looking after industrial matters rather than the rural agricultural parishes in Huntingdon County.

The rapid development that has already taken place at Chateauguay, Ste. Philomene and Ste. Martine is but a smattering as to what can be expected to transpire, and especially so once the additional Mercier Bridge is erected and expected to be completed in 1963.

If a carving up is to take place in this section of Quebec in order to help provide for additional constituencies where there is a mass population, it is to be hoped the "Montreal Milk Shed" area in the Chateauguay Valley can be retained as a unit electing a representative to the Quebec Legislature who can uphold the interests of the dairy farmer. The dairy farmer is suffering at the hands of milk distributors through the old city of surplus milk. The Chateauguay Valley is a natural "Milk Shed" for Montreal, in that it has location, land that can produce big forage crops and has a big bovine population which is free from T.B. and Bangs diseases. These dairy farmers need legislative representation. The Government at Quebec may need to have these points portrayed to them by the County Liberal Association as well as many associations representing agriculture and interested individuals. It is not enough to have one mouth speak for the whole constituency the Gleaner has had its say on the possible carving up of Huntingdon County as a Quebec constituency. Speak up now electors, it is easier to avoid a carving up of the constituency before it has actually taken place than to get it restored after such a carving has transpired.

Canadian Spelling

CANADA, like Britain, has a flair for compromise. It has been developed through necessity. Canada must compromise every day between things British and things American. The Canadian character, when it emerges, is a mixture of the two.

Compromise, to be useful, must be a something in itself. If it is to be a mixture, then the right quantities of the various ingredients must be decided upon and the formula must be followed. Without a formula, without direction, the mixture becomes mere muddle.

That is the state of Canadian spelling today, whenever words are used which have different spellings in Britain and the United States.

So far, the muddle is mostly concerned with words ending in "our" in Britain. The newspapers and periodicals of Canada have, for many years, dropped the "u" in such words as labor, flavor, valor.

But the government still uses the "u" and, strangely enough, so do Canadian advertising agencies. One result is that such words are spelled differently on the same page of a newspaper or magazine.

For some other words, notably "centre" and "theatre", the advertisers sometimes use the United States spelling — "center" and "theater."

Fortunately, a Canadian standard for spelling does exist. It is the standard followed by The Canadian Press and accepted by all its member newspapers. It drops the "u" out of British "our" words but it retains the original French of such words as "centre" and "theatre". For those who follow it, it is sound protection against such Americanisms as "manoeever." Unfortunately, it hasn't yet been accepted by the government or the advertising agencies. — Printed Word.

Employment Is A Lonesome Thing

UNEMPLOYMENT insurance is a fine idea. That is, it would be a good thing if it accomplished only what it was supposed to accomplish. The theory is that government employer and the employee among them put enough money into a fund so that when an employee is laid off for lack of work he will receive a weekly sum materially less than his regular wage for the period when he is out of work and trying to find a new job.

The Liberals had a time limit of roughly two-thirds of a year. The present government has extended that again to 52 weeks and they have added a number of new classes of workers, including fishermen, who are in fact self-employed, and other seasonal workers. In the beginning it was felt that it was impossible to insure seasonal workers because the rates would have to be too high and the fund would be disastrously impaired if out-of-work seasonal employees or out-of-work self-employed people were able to dip into the principal in the fund built up by the contributions of workers, men and women, who were in work.

There was an error in the basic principle of the law. There are kinds of workers who have had to contribute to the fund through the years who are in groups least liable to unemployment. These would include girls in offices (at least the old fashioned kind), bank clerks, retail employees. It is generally conceded that these people have a lower hourly or weekly rate and are content with the differential for the reason that they are less likely to spend days or weeks or months out of work. There should have been classification according to the probable risks of unemployment, but it was politically wiser to throw the construction workers in with the steadier workers.

In any event, it certainly was not intended that unemployment would become, as it is now, holidays with pay. There are cries all over the country of great distress of the unemployed. There is bewilderment all over the country that workers cannot be found when there is work to be done. The reason is the moral impairment of some workers due to the fact that as soon as they have enough personal credit in the fund to get some unemployment pay, they lay themselves off. Four months, or thereabouts, seems to be the amount of work necessary to earn the "right" to be idle.

This automatic drawing on the unemployment relief pay is not only a threat to the fund but a threat to the economic progress of the nation. Perhaps the cure for the situation would be to have every employer who lays off staff for lack of work certify on oath that such is the case. Seemingly at present all pretence of recompensing only genuinely unemployed has been abandoned.

Everyone knows this, yet no one seems to be doing anything about it.

Jobs at good wages are going begging. Work is available for many people who want it. A seasonal upturn in business and employment.

The other week a man quit his job because, as he explained to his distracted employer, it was too lonesome in the part of the establishment where they asked him to work. He probably planned a future more sociable such as hanging around the national employment service offices scheming with other people on how to live on the country without working. — Printed Word.

The Week In Quebec

QUEBEC, (CP) — One of the Legislative Assembly's sittings this week turned into a marathon affair—nearly 18 hectic hours of controversy and haggling.

Premier Jean Lesage said the lengthy sitting—started at 11 a.m. EDT, Wednesday and adjourned at 5 a.m. EDT, Thursday—was made necessary by what he termed the Union Nationale's opposition's "systematic obstruction."

The sitting was interrupted only with short breaks for lunch and dinner. The Provincial Roads Department's estimates were being considered, the subject discussed being $82,000,000 for construction and repair work.

Finally, at daybreak, the chairman of the committee of supply, Richard Hyde, called off the debate. He ruled the opposition was repeatedly deviating from the article under study and that the article was considered adopted.

The dramatic ending was climaxed by shouting and desk-thumping, the opposition protesting the Liberal chairman's decision.

Opposition Leader Antonio Tabor called the decision to end the debate was "a tactic dictated by Premier Lesage to gag the opposition."

House members didn't have an opportunity to enjoy a long rest.

Less than four hours after the hectic sitting, Premier Lesage was presiding over a cabinet meeting. Then at 11 a.m. EDT, the House resumed debate. Attendance was light when Thursday sitting started but within a half hour it was up to normal.

Study of the road's estimates was suspended. It will resume at a future date during the present session.

The assembly quietly gave second reading—approval in principle—Thursday to a bill under which a $10 monthly allowance will be given to mothers for every child of ages 16 and 17 still attending school. Third reading was postponed until next week.

Idea behind the bill is to make it possible for more children to remain in school longer. The allocation will be made to all mothers, regardless of financial standing but will not be paid during July and August when schools are closed. Payments are to become effective next Sept. 1.

The program is expected to cost the government more than $7,000,000 annually. It will effect an estimated 72,000 children. Family and Welfare Minister Emilien Lafrance, who presented the bill, said it constituted "an aid and an encouragement to the family."

"It is a practical symbol of the importance which the province of Quebec attaches to education," he said.

Mr. Lafrance said that 58 per cent of the province's 15-year-old boys and 51 per cent of the 15-year-old girls attend school. But, by the age of 16 this had dropped to 42 per cent for boys and 34 for girls. At 17, the percentages had tumbled to 32 for boys and 21 for girls.

Youth Minister Paul Gerin-Lajoie said this week the Quebec government is planning measures to ensure stability in the teaching profession.

He was speaking to the Quebec Teachers Corporation which presented him with a brief demanding that the Provincial Government extend the obligatory school attendance age to 16 from the present 14.

The Corporation Represents about 28,000 French-language lay teachers.

Mr. Gerin-Lajoie said the measures, representing a juridical complex problem, would not be introduced to the Legislative Assembly this session.

But, the government would strive to seek "appropriate solutions in the fastest time possible."

Mr. Gerin-Lajoie said there was much to organize in the field of education in the province.

He was hopeful that a Government-appointed Royal Commission on education would bring to light many of the problems now being faced.

The Corporation's brief also said that 35 per cent of the province's young people leave school after completing the seventh-grade and must face life with only a rudimentary education as a result.

"The obligatory minimum for them becomes a sad maximum," the brief said.

President Kennedy To Meet Premier Khrushchev In June

President Kennedy's meeting with Soviet Premier Khrushchev at Vienna June 3 and 4 may be the first of a series of U.S.-Soviet summit talks.

How the relationship between the two leaders develops will depend greatly on the impressions they make on each other in their conference at the Austrian capital.

But it already is apparent that Kennedy's approach to talking with Khrushchev is different from other U.S. administrations since the war. The central element in Kennedy's attitude appears to be a conviction that top-level talks are desirable and may be useful in easing East-West tensions, provided the atmosphere is reasonably favorable to calm discussion of outstanding world issues.

There was already speculation in Washington diplomatic circles that if the Vienna discussions go smoothly, Khrushchev may invite Kennedy to visit Russia. But some U.S. administration officials say such meetings as that at Vienna should be considered worthwhile even if they fail to produce spectacular results.

Likely Topics — Washington officials said that among the factors that prompted Kennedy to decide on a meeting with Khrushchev now were the stalled negotiations over a nuclear test ban agreement — which he regards as of major importance — and the situation brought about by the Communist advances in Laos.

There was no doubt at Washington that Khrushchev, for his part, will bring up the Berlin problem. True to the promise he made a year ago in Paris, he has not attempted to revive the Berlin crisis pending a top-level meeting.

Meantime the U.S., Britain and France, who together with Russia are responsible for divided Berlin, have reaffirmed their determination to safeguard the rights of the people of the Western half of the city.

Allied Reaction — Kennedy goes direct to Vienna after talks with President Charles de Gaulle at Paris. After Vienna, Kennedy will meet with Prime Minister Macmillan at London.

On the Kennedy-Khrushchev meeting, there was no direct comment from the French president. British Foreign Secretary Lord Home told reporters that to meet Kennedy "is a salutary experience for anybody... and we hope very much that good will come out of this meeting."

The government press bureau at Bonn said West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer welcomes the meeting, and thinks Khrushchev and Kennedy should get to know one another personally.

The British press unanimously applauded the meeting. The Daily Express said editorially that the gap since an American

The Week At Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — President Kennedy's visit here last week with Mrs. Kennedy was an unqualified social success.

Its political impact has yet to be determined. There are grounds to believe, however, that his 41 hours in the capital may have weighed the scales towards an historic change in Canada's inter-American relations.

The president's main goal was to have this country claim its seat in the Organization of American States. The issue is an old one and so is the request—both from the U.S. and the 20 Latin American countries who form the group.

Earnest Appeal — But Mr. Kennedy's candid and eloquent plea for Canada's entry added an urgency to the issue.

In a 20-minute speech before the combined houses of parliament, he appealed to Canadian pride without being reproachful of this country's traditional reluctance to become a member of the hemispheric group.

"To be sure, it would mean was not necessary. "We don't need intermediaries," he said.

The offer to exchange prisoners could be considered as a contribution to peace, Castro continued. They would be returned in order of their importance. "The most important prisoners will be returned only after the arrival of the last lots of bulldozers," Castro said. "Mr. Kennedy now has the floor."

and a Russian leader last met has been too long and unprofitable. "This time there is the prospect that the exchange will be businesslike and informal, with a minimum of competitive appeals to the gallery," the Express said.

But the Daily Telegraph's correspondent in Washington regretted that the Vienna meeting will not include other world chiefs.

India's philosopher-statesman, Vice-President Sarvapalli Radhakrishnan, said the future of humanity is at stake in these cruel times. But he added "one of our ancient scriptures tells us that when danger is near, salvation also is near."

Start On Laos — U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk flew home to Washington last Saturday after what appeared to be a promising start to the 14-nation Geneva conference on Laos.

The Soviet had agreed to help in hurrying helicopters, planes and trucks to Laos for the International Control Commission, so it can enforce a truce.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, who had stalled the conference with demands for veto power over the commission's work, gave the go-ahead at the insistence of Canada. He agreed with Howard Green, Canadian external affairs minister, that there was urgent need to get transport and communications equipment to the commission in the southeast Asian kingdom.

India, Canada and Poland are the commission members.

"I think we have won a great victory," Green told reporters before leaving Geneva for Ottawa.

Algeria Gestures. — The French government made two conciliatory gestures in Paris as the peace talks opened at Evian-les-Bains between France and the Algerian rebels.

It was announced that French forces in Algeria were ordered to cease all offensive operations against the rebels they have been fighting for almost seven years. The first rebel reaction was that this was a propaganda move.

At the same time the Algerian rebel chief, Ahmed Ben Bella, was flown from a fortress prison, Ile d'Aix, to a site closer to the peace talks at Evian, a Lake Geneva resort city.

The 500,000 French soldiers in Algeria got the word to fire only in self-defence. It was understood they would continue patrols, but only for reconnaissance purposes.

Castro's Prisoners — Fidel Castro said last Saturday he would send a committee of prisoners captured in the abortive April invasion to the United States to discuss terms for his proposed exchange of prisoners for bulldozers.

Castro said in Havana he had reports the U.S. was considering dealing through the International Red Cross, but that this added responsibility," he said, "but yours is not a nation that shrinks from responsibility."

The Week At Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — President Kennedy's visit here last week with Mrs. Kennedy was an unqualified social success.

"I believe that all of the free members of the Organization of American States would be both heartened and strengthened by any increase in your hemispheric role."

In effect, the president was pleading for help in the latest cold-war crisis that has seen the establishment of what has been described as a Communist beachhead in Cuba.

American distress over the situation in that country is exceeded only by the fear that it may spread to other Latin-American countries.

Sharp Issue — Differences inside the organization have sharpened with the Cuban dispute, and many of the countries have refused to go along with the U.S. in imposing an economic quarantine of Fidel Castro's regime.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker was agreed on the seriousness of any Communist encroachment in the Americas. In Mr. Kennedy's logic it, therefore, followed that: "To make this entire area more secure against aggression — to defend it against the encroachment of international communism and to see our sister states fulfill their hopes and needs for economic and social reform and development — are surely all challenges confronting your nation and deserving of your talents and resources, as well as ours."

"The hemisphere is a family into which we are born and we cannot turn our backs to its troubles..."

But discussions that will follow the Kennedy proposal must return to the question of whether Canada can best serve the hemisphere from within or outside the OAS. The American argument is that Canada's presence at the council table would help bridge the gap between the U.S. and increasingly dissatisfied Latin countries.

Aid is Question — The U.S. would also expect Canada to help provide economic aid for the impoverished southern countries.

Informed Canadian sources suggest that Canada cannot afford any significant contribution because of commitments under the Colombo Plan for South-east Asia. It also wants to extend aid dealing with specific projects for Africa.

But this country's position with regard to OAS has always been open to review and it is known that some of Mr. Diefenbaker's advisers are split on the issue.

External Affairs Minister Green said a month ago that a decision to join should be taken only when a majority of Canadians were in favor.

The president's plea and the favorable impression he made during his visit could go far to sell the idea.

Bolster NATO — Mr. Kennedy also pressed for a strengthening of NATO. He said U.S. forces now in Europe would be maintained with stronger conventional capabilities.

"We look to our NATO allies to assign an equally high priority to this same essential task."

Improved conventional forces and increased nuclear forces were necessary in recognizing that the defence of Europe and of North America are inseparable. No aggressor should doubt that the west would meet aggression with whatever force was appropriate.

He said the U.S. was also looking to the possibility of eventually establishing a NATO seaborne missile force, multilateral both in ownership and control.

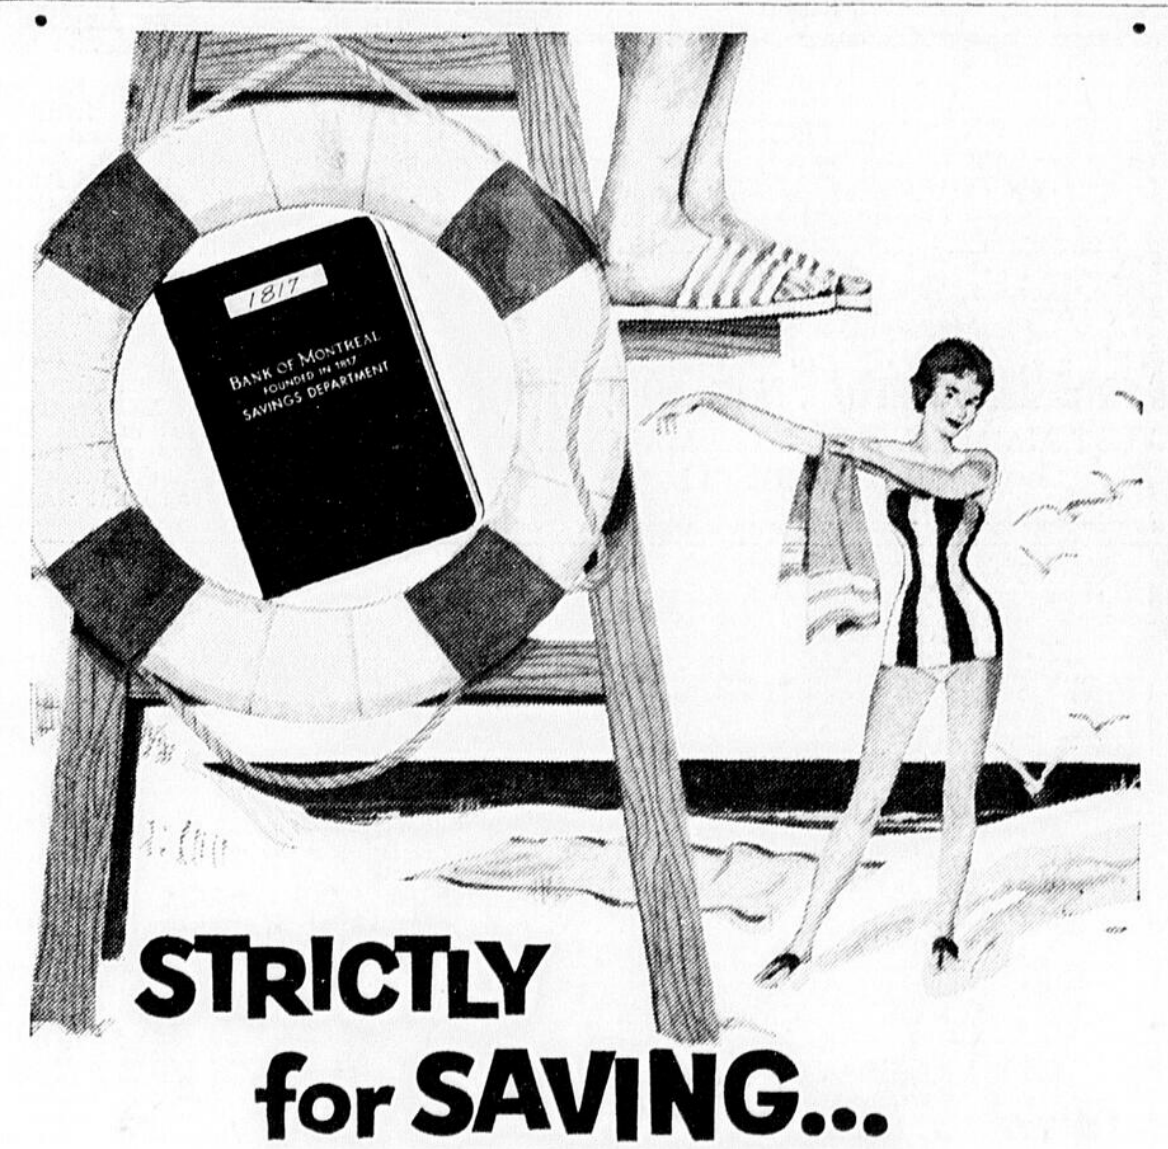

Popular Welcome — For most Ottawa residents the presidential couple's visit was an event rivalling that of royalty.

The crowds were geared to expect a great deal from the dynamic young president and his beautiful wife. They weren't disappointed.

Mrs. Kennedy captivated Ottawa officialdom and sent the social set into a whirl. Her wardrobe drew critical raves.

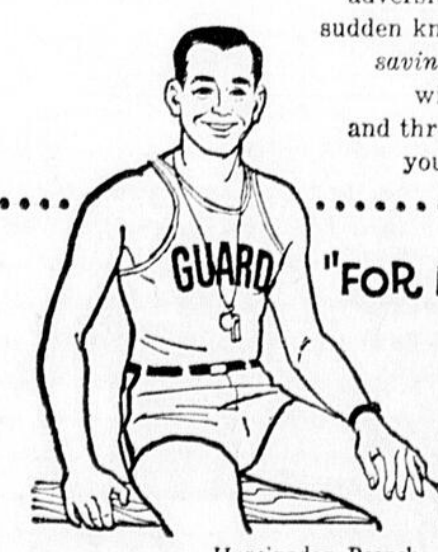

Prime Minister Diefenbaker, welcoming the president to the House of Commons, spoke of the capital's "special glow of warmth for Mrs. Kennedy."

Nearly 6,000 people—mostly women—massed outside the National Gallery to see her enter and depart Wednesday morning. Traffic in the downtown area had to be diverted.

her living" were read a young man was heard to remark: "It all sounds pretty foolish to me."
Many people would be shocked to hear such a statement about a Bible passage, yet this young man spoke the truth for a lot of present day Christians, including many of those who would be troubled by his brash comment. For the fact is that many of us find it difficult to understand the enthusiasm and devotion of the first century Christians. Why were they willing to sacrifice so much, run such risks and even suffer persecution and death?
Could it be that they were participants in the unfolding drama of the Gospel while we are largely spectators? Instead of discovering the joy of leading another person to Christ, we leave the evangelistic work of the Church to the professional worker. Instead of sharing the hard work and rich satisfaction of helping a boy or girl to know Jesus Christ we are content to sit back and let someone else teach the Sunday School class or lead the week-day group.
But any game or activity is more interesting when we are taking an active part. We stopped the other day to watch a group of boys playing baseball at a corner lot. One lad, standing on the sidelines, used every means possible to persuade the others

Athelstan Couple Feted
ATHELSTAN — About one hundred and seventy-five friends, neighbors and relatives gathered in the Grange Hall, Kensington, on Friday evening, May 19th, to celebrate the twenty-fifth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford French. This proved to be a very happy event. My Peter Tully, as master of ceremonies, presided over the good wishes of all present and congratulated the guests of honor on their having reached this milestone in their lives and wished them many more years of happiness together. He then on behalf of those in attendance presented them with a generous purse. This was followed by an unexpected surprise, when Mr. Paul Valdimar, Manager of the local Champlain Industries Co., (where Clifford had been a faithful employee for almost twenty-five years) presented Clifford with a cheque as a token of their appreciation of a job well done. Sincere thanks was expressed by the recipients for the gifts and expressions of goodwill extended to them. The Hall both upstairs and down was tastefully decorated with colored streamers and spring flowers. Refreshments were served upstairs, the Bride's table being especially decorative with tall lighted candles and flowers. A beautiful anniversary cake graced the centre of the table.

THE 3-M CLUB

This club met on Saturday evening, May 20, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Reid, with co-host and hostess Mr. and Mrs. R. Lee. A social evening was spent playing cards, the prize-winners were, Ladies, Mrs. Pat Edwards, Mrs. Earl Orr and consolation Mrs. G. Ellerton, Gents, Mr. Earl Orr, Mr. G. Ellerton and consolation Mr. K. Edwards. The next meeting will be held in the United Church Hall, on June 17th, and will take the form of a family party.

HEMMINGFORD HIGH SCHOOL

The Graduation activities, Dance and Church Service, held this week-end, will be reported in next week's issue. Many activities, together with unexpected holiday week-end visitors, have gunned-up the works, and they won't be ungunned in time for this week's issue!

In the meantime keep next Saturday, May 27th, free. That's the night the 'DRAMA CLUB' put on their 3-act comedy in the school Assembly Hall, see you there.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur English welcomed Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Patch, Donna and Gregory, from Magog, for the week-end and Mr. and Mrs. Roswell Jersey, Dorval, Mr. and Mrs. Pat Norman, Gloria and Brian, Westmount, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Anderson, Glenelg, Mrs. Percy Johnson and Sharon, Athelstan, and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Johnson, Franklin Centre, for the day on Sunday.

In the Shakespearean Festival at Stratford this year, there will be a young school-boy, age 11, taking part. Hemmingford goes one better, in fact six years better. The youngest of our budding actors and actresses is five and the oldest twelve! The play? 'Patty Sue's Birthday Party'. The place and time? United Church Hall Saturday, June 3rd when Mrs. Pat Edwards puts on her children's Operetta. The costumes are enchanting, the children adorable, and if you don't come, in the words of Danny Kaye — you'll be so-o-o-ry!

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall and Karen, from Ottawa, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hadley.

Another pleasant surprise. It's always nice to get news of the children when they are away from home, and when you are able to see them making the news it's better still. On Sunday evening, May 7th, while Mr. and Mrs. Henry Phillon were watching a television programme on the French network concerning the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, they were pleasantly surprised when the camera brought into view one of the R.C.M.P. Officers being interviewed by a charming lady. It was their son Charles, who, until recently, was stationed in Ottawa and now has been transferred to Montreal. He talked about the duties and the various ceremonies which must be attended, particularly in Ottawa, and spoke at length about the fine horses and the famous musical ride. Altogether a most interesting and informative interview on this unique organization and made doubly so for Hemmingford viewers because it was given by one of our native sons.

Wesley-Knox United Church.
The guest speaker at the morning service on Sunday, May 21st, was the Reverend G. F. Fickoo, of Sarnia, Ontario. A beautiful basket of flowers graced the Communion Table, placed there by Mrs. Jackson and Mrs. Doucette of Plattsburg, in memory of 'Loved Ones'.

Dundee
DUNDEE — Week-end guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl McNicol and Mrs. Eleanor McNicol were Mr. and Mrs. Alex Hannah of Montreal, also Mr. Robert White and Miss Jackie Dupuis of McMasterville. Saturday guests at the same home were Mrs. Herbert Chaffee, son and daughter David and Susan, also Mrs. Douglas Jackson and son Peter of Toronto, Mr. and Mrs. George Church and daughter Karen of Montreal, Mrs. Earl McNicol's brother Mr. Alex MacDonald and Mrs. McDonald of Montreal are at present on an overseas trip to Scotland. Mrs. Mary McNicol who was a patient in the Ormstown Hospital for a couple of weeks is at present visiting her daughter, Mrs. George Irvine of Williams-town, Ont.

Five Williams-town men were engaged last Saturday in cleaning a well into which gasoline had seeped when the volatile fluid suddenly exploded. The cause of the accident was said to be a hot bolt heated by a blow torch which fell into the well. Three of the men were injured and one received burns.

The Quebec Roads Department has had a gang of men working the past two weeks and restoring the farm fences which were taken down last fall when Highway No. 3 Cazaville West to Dundee was under construction. The new roadway is 80 feet fence to fence. Farmers along the route are being paid fairly good prices for land along the highway. The Department also supplies the necessary gates for the convenience of the farmers free of charge. Nearly four miles was done last season and it is rumored another section of a mile or more will be done this summer. At the present time it is not known whether

Mr. Walter Oes of Valleyfield, who has been drilling wells in the area for a number of years, now uses a new type of machine for his business. He bought it in December, 1960, and has been in constant use since. The outfit, of which there are only three in Canada and only one in the Province of Quebec, costs $100,000 duty paid from the U.S.A. It weighs 28 tons and is mounted on a heavy G.M.C. truck. The drill used until solid rock is reached is a rotary one with 15 ton pressure applied on the drilling bit. It will cut 60 feet through heavy boulder in a matter of hours instead of days needed to drill through with the old type of equipment. Once solid rock is reached the drill is changed to a hydraulically operated jack hammer which cuts through the lower strata in a hurry. The Oes outfit drilled a well at the A. H. Fraser farm last Thursday and Friday which flowed under air pressure at the rate of 6,000 gallons per hour, the best well he ever struck he said. Every movement on the outfit as regards placing of pipes etc. is all done by hydraulic power. A GMC diesel motor of 200 h.p. is mounted on the truck chassis and supplies the necessary power for operating.

Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Arnold, Bernice and William of St. Lambert were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Fraser and family. They then went on to spend the week-end with Mrs. Wm. Arnold and Mr. Harold Arnold. Recently Mrs. Cecil Arnold enjoyed a courtesy plane flight over Dorval area. The plane was one of the new large jets DC8 and carried 100 passengers. The ship was sponsored by Trans Canada Airways. The day was cloudy but as the flight was 20,000 feet up the clouds were beneath with the sunshine prevailing. The flight lasted approximately 45 minutes.

Miss Elizabeth Stowell and Miss Ann Platt each spent part of the long week-end as guests of Miss Janice Fraser and Miss Jessie Fraser. Jessie was also Ann's guest for a couple of days.

Week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. Stowell were Mr. and Mrs. Ben Presley and son Billy of Danford Lake, Que.

EDDY EVERYBODY
on our free hospital insurance services

WHO qualifies?

- Any person who has been living in the Province of Québec for at least three months.
- The new-born child of such residents is entitled immediately to these services.
- It is up to you to prove to the hospital that you qualify.
- Transients and visitors do not qualify: services received here will be charged to their own provinces.

WHAT benefits are free?

- The usual standard ward accommodation and meals.
- Whatever nursing care is required.
- The following services: laboratory, radiology and other means of diagnosis — including the required interpretations.
- Medication, medicines and other products prescribed by the doctor and administered at the hospital. But you must pay for any item taken home with you.
- The use of operating and delivery rooms, including anaesthetic facilities and standard surgical requisites.
- Radiotherapy and physiotherapy, namely X-ray, electrical, massage and other treatments.

* Items which you must pay for:

- The doctor, the surgeon and the anaesthetist.
- Patent medicines and the ambulance or other means of transportation.
- Services supplied in the out-patient department or outside the hospital.
- Services received solely for the purpose of "check-up" examinations.

 A private or semi-private room is provided free of charge only in two instances: 1 — when your doctor decides that your condition requires such accommodation; 2 — when there is no vacancy in the standard wards.

In all other cases, you must pay for the room at the new low rate established by the Hospital Insurance plan.

AND PLEASE REMEMBER!

- On leaving the hospital, be sure to get a Form AH-108 properly filled out. It will indicate clearly what you must pay, if anything, — and what our Hospital Insurance plan will pay for you.
- Never ask your doctor for hospital treatment unless it is strictly necessary. Never remain at the hospital one day too many: this is an unfair and costly practice!

KEEP THIS PAGE FOR READY REFERENCE

WHEN to seek hospital admission?

- When you really need it. It's up to the doctor to decide.
- If you are in a serious accident, the hospital may decide in your doctor's place.
- You may stay at the hospital just as long as your doctor considers it medically necessary.
- Whenever we say "your doctor", we mean the attending physician.

WHICH hospital to select?

- Any hospital having a contract with the provincial Department of Health.
- This excludes TB sanatoriums, hospitals for mental patients, old people's homes and a few other institutions.
- If you are transferred to another hospital for medical reasons, you still qualify for Hospital Insurance benefits.
- If you are admitted to a hospital elsewhere in Canada, Québec will foot the bill — at the rate in force there.
- If you require hospital treatment outside Canada, Québec will refund costs incurred — up to $15 per day.

UNUSUAL SIZE FOR HEN'S EGG

An egg of unusual size and interest was produced on the farm of Mrs. Eddie Bryson, Ormsdown. Some months ago Mr. Bryson purchased several hens from a farmer near Huntingdon, whose sons had developed a hybrid breed as a school project. The hens have been producing many double yoke eggs, but Mrs. Bryson was more than surprised to find one measuring seven by nine inches round and weighing over five ounces. The picture shows an ordinary egg in comparison. When the egg was broken it was found to contain a one yoke egg of ordinary size encased in two ounces of egg white. Have the Huntingdon boys developed a strain of Super Hens?

Lions Bingo.
The Bingo party last Saturday night, sponsored by the Ormsdown Lions was a huge success. A large crowd of enthusiastic players gathered early and stayed until the last case. Seventy-two games were played and many and varied were the prizes. The proceeds which amounted to over $300.00 will be used by the Lions toward the upkeep and organization of various activities of the Skating Rink next winter. It is planned that another Bingo will be forthcoming soon. It will be of interest to know that the prizes given were of the best quality, and no expense was spared to give the best to all participants. The total value of merchandise was more than $650.00, 87% of the Lion membership turned out to help, this is most gratifying to all Lions.

These card parties are organized by the Ladies Auxiliary of the Legion, and have been a source of great pleasure to all Euchre and 500 players for miles around, for that reason it is hoped they will resume early next fall.

New Guinea Natives Find Learning Hard

VICTORIA (CP) — Missionary Henry Young has yet just returned after four years among the natives of New Guinea's Balien Valley who lived in the stone age until recent years. "Their existence was unknown until a few years ago," he said in an interview here. "Until our first missionaries went there in 1954, they knew nothing of the world outside and did not wear any kind of clothing. The Balien Valley, hidden among mountains, is almost inaccessible except by air and my first year there was taken up in helping to build an air strip for missionary use. Our biggest task was learning the crude unwritten language of the people. Our missionaries made thousands of converts, but the going was hard since they are reluctant to part with fetish worship, witchcraft, sorcery and black magic." Mr. and Mrs. Young and their three children will return to the valley soon.

The evening concluded with delicious refreshments served by Mrs. H. MacLean and Mrs. H. Rennie.

Letter. To The Editor

Letter to The Editor
May 17, 1961.
Editor,
The Huntingdon Gleaner,
Huntingdon, P.Q.

Dear Sir,
Would you be kind enough to place the following message in your newspaper.
The directors of the Dixville Home for retarded children in Dixville express their sincere thanks to the Huntingdon Gleaner for printing an article about our home in the beginning of this year. The need of retarded children certainly needs to be put before the public.

Also to the Dewittville W. G. for the initiative to hold a benefit dance for the Home which enabled us to make extensive repairs and improvements to the kitchen.

And to all those organizations and individuals in and around Huntingdon, Dewittville and region who helped us by sending money, clothing and toys, we really appreciate all that has been done.

John Visser, superintendent.

In the period 1950-1960 employment in Canada's primary textile industry declined from 97,000 to 74,000, and about 80 plants closed down.

Of Many Things

By AMBROSE HILLS

TOO MANY VICTORIES?
"What Labor is chiefly suffering from today is too many victories," writes Henry Hazlitt in a Newsweek article. "It is no mere coincidence," he continues, "that unemployment now is highest in lines in which wage rates are highest. As compared with average wages of $2.30 an hour in all manufacturing industries, wages in automobile plants are $2.87 an hour, in steel mills $3.02, in bituminous coal mines $3.27."

What appears to be happening, however, is that unions are gaining more and more money for fewer and fewer workers, working fewer and fewer hours. In an effort to help those who are employed, the various governments pump more and more money into the country's economic system. Because this causes inflation, the unions demand a further increase in wages and the process begins all over again.

Says Hazlitt, "There is a perpetual and increasingly desperate race between the printing press and the union demands."

Can this process go on and on? Possibly, as a process, it can continue for some years, because those who inaugurate these wage drives are relatively free from the results. Rank and file union members, however, do suffer. First and most noticeably, they suffer from lay-offs, when business finds it difficult to sell the goods produced at such high cost. Second—and less obviously—they suffer along with the rest of us from the general slow-down in the economy, the higher prices, the enormous tax rates which must be imposed on those working to support the many unemployed.

Eventually, rank and file union members will demand changes in the policies being followed by their leaders. As yet they do not seem to understand what is happening to them.

Hit most painfully are the old age pensioners, or retired persons living on dollars earned when dollars were worth much more. Their dollars have been cut in half by our inflated prices!

If this is true, why is nothing done about it? Obviously, governments fear the power of union labor and consider it politically dangerous to oppose their demands. Companies are unable or unwilling to resist the union, because one by one they can be struck or slowed down. Ordinary citizens often refrain from criticizing unions for fear of being called reactionaries or anti-labor fanatics.

What's to come of it all? Who knows? Whatever does happen, ten to one it will be blamed on business.

THE LAWN CUTTER

The young lad came to the front door. "Could I mow your lawn for you, Ma'am, for the Summer months?"

He was a bright-looking lad, about 14 in blue denim trousers and a bleached-out work shirt. The lady of the house had three sons of her own, but something about the young lad was appealing.

"Where do you live, boy?" she said. Her purpose, which he was quick to realize, was to make an estimate of how badly he needed the lawn-mowing job.

"In Winnipeg," he said.

"That's nice," she said, somewhat baffled; but because she was a very persistent lady she probed again. "Your father—what does he work at... I mean..."

"Lady," the boy said, "I just want to cut your lawn."

"I was just trying to figure what to pay you," she sighed. "You know—depending on how much you need the money."

The young lad took a look at the lawn. "It's worth a dollar—I wouldn't take no more. A dollar a week to mow and trim it. It's a small lawn. It's what it's worth," he emphasized.

The boy's grammar might have been improved, but his idea was sound enough. He wanted to be paid what the job was worth, not a penny more nor a penny less. It was a business bargain, not a charity case.

He didn't get the job, though. The lady, somewhat huffed, said, "Well, if you don't need the money, my own boy can cut the lawn. I was just—I was ready to be kind."

The boy grinned, shrugged. "Sure. But I don't actually need the money that bad. I just wanted the job."

That's the way the story went. The wife told her husband about it that evening, and she was still a bit put out. The boy had made her feel noseey. Her husband told it to me. He said he thought it might have made good material for the column, especially if it had turned out that the boy was from a poor family in dire need of money. However, he had done a bit of checking, and the boy didn't need the money at all—they lived only a few houses down the street and his Dad was a substantial construction contractor with plenty of dough. So, my acquaintance said, it wasn't much of a story.

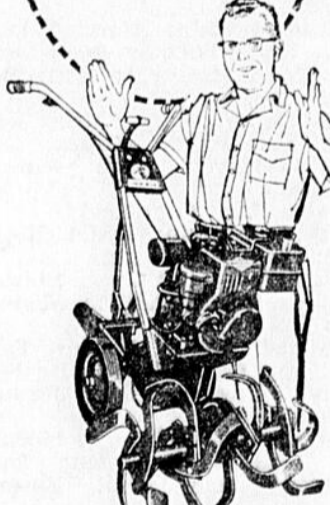

As you can see, I thought it was a darn good story, and it makes a point that needs to be made these days. I don't ask my barber how much money he has before I decide what to pay him. He tells me what his price is and I'm free to pay it or go shaggy. I like it that way; and I hope there are a lot of teenagers like the lawn cutter, no matter where they live or what their fathers do, who feel the same.

HEALTH

I know a man who takes an hour each evening to walk. He's a city gent, an office worker, but he looks an and tough and healthy. He says the one-hour walk is a ritual he enjoys; he gets in some quiet thinking, feels better for the exercise, and hasn't missed a day's work in four years.

He is not a health addict. He merely takes reasonably good care of himself. He smokes, in moderation; he eats enough, but not too much. He says he feels a new man because of this regimen; whereas, some years ago, when he was careless of his health, he lacked tone and pep. Most of us could be toned up a good deal. Dr. Max Howell, at the University of British Columbia, has been concluding an experiment with 60 students.

Fire Destroys Richer & Frere Bottling Works At Valleyfield Last Wednesday Morning

Last Wednesday, an early morning fire devastated the bottling works of Richer & Frere, on Avenue du Parc, Valleyfield. A neighbor gave the alarm to the fire dept. by phone, at about 4:45 a.m. In view of the fact that the flames were spreading so rapidly, Chief Paul Marleau gave a general alarm and had all firemen report to the Police Station in Valleyfield before proceeding to the fire. Twenty-five firemen answered the call and under orders from Chief Marleau, worked at the scene until noon before they could get the fire under control. A few men stayed on after that until later in the afternoon, to keep subduing small outbreaks which occurred from time to time from the smouldering embers. Nine streams of water were played on the fire and a total of 5,000 feet of hose was in use. It is believed that the fire started when the automatic furnace came on about 4 a.m. The whole center part of the factory was destroyed, the roof, which was constructed of heavy iron beams, fell in. Hundreds of boxes of soft drinks ready for distribution, were a total loss.

Hundreds of boxes with empty Cola, Nesbitt, Schweppes, etc., bottles were also destroyed. The front part of the factory which contained the bottling machine with tanks of flavoring essence for the drinks, and where the office was located, was badly damaged by smoke and water. The rear part consisting of the garage, was partly saved, due probably to the fact that a wall of cement blocks separated the center of the factory from the other parts. All the delivery trucks were quickly removed from the garage at the beginning of the fire. Mr. Guy Richer declared on the same evening that the distribution of the drinks—Pepsi

Cola, Nesbitt, Schweppes, etc., continue the next day without interruption. Other kinds of drinks could not be distributed for from four to six weeks. Nothing has been planned yet for the reconstruction of the bottling works, but it seems that all parts still standing, will have to be taken down before the work of reconstruction can be considered. Mr. Eugene, Guy and Robert Richer gave their public thanks to the firemen for their hard work through so many hours. They also thanked all persons, their staff and others for the kind help and collaboration on this unfortunate occasion.
