

ELEVEN YOUNG NAVAL CADETS PERISH IN FIRE

Australia Has Sent Protest To British Prime Minister

Comedy Changed Quite Suddenly To A Tragedy

Tragedy Occurred During Fire Exhibition at Charity Bazaar in England—Building Was a Three-Storey Structure of Wood and Canvas and Was Constructed to Demonstrate Rescue—Boys Were on Top Floor of Building and Were Supposed to Represent Occupants of Building—Suddenly Building Burst into Flames and Spectators Watched Proceedings at First Not Realizing that Comedy Had Turned to Tragedy.

(Associated Press Despatch) LILLINGHAM, Eng., July 12.—While laughing thousands watched what they thought part of a fire fighting show, eleven boy naval cadets were burned to death here last night and six were seriously injured and were taken to St. Bartholomew Hospital, in aid of which the fete had been held.

A specially erected model house, designed to be the scene of a gala fire brigade rescue spectacle, became instead the horrifying death trap for the twelve to fourteen year old boys who had so eagerly taken part in the festivals.

The youngsters, dressed in clown suits, made frenzied efforts to get out of the flames, bringing in only real applause from the crowd not knowing that realistic acting had suddenly assumed tragic reality.

Fireman Jack Tabrett, who had been the bustling veiled bride in a previous mock ceremony, was standing at the top of the flimsy structure when flames suddenly burst at the bottom. The crowd cheered and laughter, glad the spectacle had begun, but Tabrett knew something was wrong for the flames should have started at the top and the building cleared of actors.

Frantic Parents Crowded Little Morgue. In five minutes the flames had destroyed the oil-soaked canvas and all that was left were the charred bodies of the youths and the gaunt skeleton of the model house.

Frantic mothers and fathers crowded the little morgue here this morning, seeking the bodies of their sons. One tall gray haired man stumbled from the hospital where he had seen his thirteen year old boy die from burns. "My little boy's clothes were all burned and still smouldering as he lay on the ground beside the blazing mass when I got there," said the grief-stricken man. "Only last night he was asked to take part in the mock-tragedy and was so happy that he went even though I asked him not to."

Identification Difficult. The bodies were so charred that they were difficult to identify and only five of the eleven dead had been identified today including a man motor-driver who had taken part in the festival.

Ronald Mitchell, previously reported dead this morning, was reported still alive, although critically injured. The untimely blazing of the structure has been given unofficial investigation by the Mayor and members of parliament, and police and fire investigations are now under way.

The identified dead include: Frederick Arthur Warrell, 30, who played the part of the bridegroom in the mock ceremony; Leslie Neal, 13, Gillingham; Reginald Barrett, aged 13, Gillingham; Leonard Win, aged 13, Gillingham. The fireman Tabrett is critically injured and not much hope is held for his recovery.

Endurance Fliers Still in Air Today—Confident They Will Set A Mark Of Three Hundred Hours

How Many Hours Away Contact With Earth Was Remained Unindicated Today—Had Been in Air 244 Hours at 11 O'Clock This Morning—Dropped Note to Anxious Ground Observers Asking Them Not to Rush Out When Landing Is Made, as They Want to Keep Their Plane Intact.

(Associated Press Despatch) SILVER CITY, Calif., July 12.—The two "tough honkers" and their second-hand biplane "Angeleno" still were in the air today. At eleven o'clock this morning they were in their 244th hour aloft and ground observers looked in vain for signs that the record-breaking flight would end soon.

Freshened late yesterday by a bath—their first since leaving the ground on July 2—Pilots L. W. Mendell and R. D. Reinhart were reported to be in "very good spirits." But how many hours away contact with the earth was remained unindicated.

A note dropped last night addressed to the crowd of spectators on the field, said: "Please do not rush out when we land. We are tired. We have many things planned for the 'Angeleno.' Want to keep it intact if possible. We expected to be up about one hundred hours more, but want you all to help us get down safely, so please don't rush out and meet us when we land."

HUGE ICEBERG BROKE IN SIGHT OF OCEAN LINER

Ten bergs were sighted in the vicinity of Cape Race.

COMPANY WILL TAKE PROPERTY OF RAILROAD

Announcement Is Made of Formation of New Vermont Corporation Which Will Take Over What Property Belongs to Central Vermont Railway After Auction Sale on July 29.

(Associated Press Despatch) ST. ALBANS, Vt., July 12.—Announcement of plans for the formation of a new Vermont corporation to take over the property of the Central Vermont Railway Company after the sale of the property at public auction here on July 29 is made by Receiver John W. Redmond. Present plans, Judge Redmond said, call for the creation of an operating company to be known as "Central Vermont Railway Incorporated."

It is not expected, the statement further said, that there will be any bidders at the auction except the principal creditor, the Canadian National Railway. The required legislation has been passed to enable the Canadian National to own the stocks and bonds of the new company and if the Central Vermont Railway property is purchased on July 29 in behalf of the Canadian National, "that company will occupy substantially the same relation to the new company that it has for years occupied in respect of the old Central Vermont Railway Company, that is, the new company will be a subsidiary of the Canadian National Railway."

(Associated Press Despatch) MEXICO CITY, July 12.—Immediate suspension of court proceedings against all persons accused of rebellion or disturbance of the peace as an outgrowth of the church-state controversy settled in June, was ordered by Attorney General Enrique Medina in a circular sent yesterday to all the judges in Mexico.

All persons under detention in connection with such charges were ordered unconditionally released. The circular stipulated, however, that persons who persist in a rebellious attitude will be prosecuted and punished.

Pardon for persons charged with violating the religious laws was issued by President Portes Gil on the same day the church-state agreement was announced, but not until yesterday were those accused of rebellion granted clemency.

Impression Grows That Dominion Government May Refuse To Clear Liquor Cargoes To United States

Following Many Protests from Prominent People in All Parts of Country, Believed Government Will Modify Policy—Ministers Will Sound Out Opinion Throughout Canada—Refusal to Clear Exports Would Make Bootleggers' Position Difficult and Aid Provinces.

(Associated Press Despatch) OTTAWA, Ont., July 12.—The impression is growing here that the Dominion Government may modify its policy with respect to granting liquor clearances to the United States. In fact it would come as no great surprise to some observers if the Cabinet went all the way and complied with the request of the United States to refuse all liquor clearances to that country. Whether these forecasts are correct or not, there can be no doubt that the recent developments along the Detroit river have caused violent repercussions throughout the country.

Letters and telegrams are coming in from every province, and it has become known that many of them do not mine words in expressing the opinions of the writers about the present policy of permitting the clearance of liquor to the United States in contravention to the dry laws of that nation. The government is accused of favoring the liquor interests. In fact the accusations hurled at the government for not stopping clearances are said to take in a tremendous range.

Protests From Prominent People. The prominence of many of the writers of these communications gives ground for special attention. The liquor will be to them. There is a feeling that many of the men who have sent in their protests will not be satisfied with the formal reply that their communications will be submitted to the Government.

No doubt any one minister, most of the things brought back by the ministers of the crown now spread out over Canada. They will likely know when they return whether these letters are heeded by any considerable public opinion. Of course it is a matter for the Cabinet to decide, not any one minister. Most of the wrath of these epistles burst against the Minister of National Revenue, but he simply administers the policy decided on by the government.

Would Be Hard On Smugglers. If clearances to the United States were refused and the present policy adhered to of only granting clearances to other foreign countries to vessels capable of making the voyage, it is believed that smugglers would find difficulty in securing liquor direct from the distilleries except through ocean ports. The liquor at other points would have to be bought through the Government liquor stores in the various provinces. It would no doubt boost the returns to the provincial governments and at the same time might divert the attack now in full swing against the Dominion Government to the provincial cabinets.

The position taken by those opposed to stopping the clearances has been that liquor would be taken across the International line without clearances and that the cost would be put upon Canada of preventing this by an extensive force.

The point has frequently been stressed that Canada should wait until the United States made a real effort to enforce her dry laws herself. Whether the recent activities along the Detroit river will be considered as meeting this argument, will no doubt be another point of consideration.

CONSERVATIVES HAVE WAY OF SETTLING BY-ELECTION

Thomas A. Code Will Be Elected by Acclamation, After Two Other Candidates Have Retired, Providing No Action Is Taken by Liberals.

(Canadian Press Despatch) TORONTO, Ont., July 12.—According to a news story published in the Toronto Globe today negotiations are under way, which, it is understood, will bring about an amicable settlement of the dispute between Conservative candidates in the forthcoming Dominion by-election in Lanark.

The Globe says these negotiations call for the retirement from the field of both T. A. Thompson, Almonte, and Dr. W. S. Murphy, Smiths Falls, and the election by acclamation of the vacant seat, provided the Liberal party places no opposition candidate in the field, of Thomas Code, Perth.

CHINESE WILL LAUNCH ATTACK ON COMMUNISM

Chinese Foreign Minister Says that Nationalist Government Is Determined to Stamp Out Communism and Will Not Tolerate Soviet Propaganda in Any Form.

(Associated Press Despatch) PEIPING, China, July 12.—C. T. Wang, Chinese Foreign Minister in his first statement concerning the crisis in Manchuria, declared the Nationalist Government was determined to stamp out Communism and would not tolerate Soviet propaganda in any form.

LARGE NUMBER WERE DEPORTED (Associated Press Despatch) SHANGHAI, July 12.—Official Chinese announcements at Harbin, Manchuria, received here, said that 143 Russians, officially or unofficially connected with the Moscow Government, had been deported toward Manchuria within the last twelve hours. They left all their belongings behind them.

The Chinese officials said they would send these belongings to Moscow later. The authorities also were said to be investigating carefully the conduct and professions of a large number of Russians outwardly not connected with the Soviet, but suspected of Soviet propaganda activities.

A news despatch from Harbin said upwards of 400 Russians had been relieved of their jobs.

WOMAN CONFESSES TO HOLD-UP

(Associated Press Despatch) OPEKA, Kas., July 12.—Mrs. Vivian Senger, aged 29, yesterday confessed that she was the woman who single-handedly held up and robbed two employees of the Security Benefit Association of approximately $14,000 here on June 28th.

at the British government's intention to abolish the system of Imperial preferential tariffs. The statement of Right Hon. Philip Snowden, Chancellor of the British Exchequer, that such a step was contemplated came as a complete surprise. It was generally thought the governments of the Dominions should have been consulted before such a step is taken. While ministerial circles have so far treated Mr. Snowden's suggestion to curtail preferences with indifference, the press generally foresees in the withdrawal of preferences a serious blow to the farming communities, especially the fruit farmers.

Trade Would Suffer. Chairman Picketstone, of the South African fruit exchange, said wine, tobacco and dried fruit industries would be chiefly affected by the abolition of preferences, while the canned fruit industry, which depends entirely on export trade, would naturally suffer.

At Mercy of Parliament. The curtailment of the South African markets in Great Britain undoubtedly would seriously affect the circulation of money within the Union throughout the fruit season, Mr. Picketstone said. He thought it wrong that the farmers of South Africa should be entirely at the mercy of the British parliament.

Premier Poincare Again Today Outlined Reasons For Settlement Of Debt

Continued Explanation Before Chamber of Deputies, Taking Up Where He Left Off Yesterday—"We Must Take Things as They Are," Premier Said in Summing Up Present Situation—It Is Not Enough to Appeal to Noble Sentiments of Nations—Claims that France Has Fared as Well or Better Than Other Countries in U.S. Settlement.

(Associated Press Despatch) PARIS, July 12.—Premier Raymond Poincare took up today where he left off yesterday, explaining to the French Chamber of Deputies why they must ratify the debt accords with the United States and Great Britain, expressing their reservations in a separate text.

"We must take things as they are," he said. "It is not enough to appeal to the noble sentiments of nations. Nations are egotistic collectively, men and women."

He added: "Ever our financial restoration would be an argument against us."

No Comment by Secretary Mellon. The Premier recalled that when Secretary Mellon visited France recently "he refused to talk on the debts. It was then that the French Government got the understanding with other nations for a committee of experts to draft a plan which created a liaison in fact if not in law between the payments of the debtors and the creditors."

It was thus M. Poincare linked the debts to Britain and the United States with the reparations payments. France, he said, had finally obtained a long-sought point in this fashion.

He cited to the Chamber article seven of the Mellon-Berenger agreement which authorized the United States to throw on the market French obligations given during the war, which yesterday he described as exactly as binding as French treasury bonds.

Secretary Mellon, however, had written him the United States had not thought of ever doing this in any way to injure France. In this clause, the Premier added, in all the United States debt agreements to France, France fared as well or better than other countries.

Ruhr Occupation Profitable To France. The Premier said the occupation of the Ruhr had been an important profitable operation for France, since it not only netted the country a billion and a half francs, but assured creation and acceptance of the Dawes plan. He reminded the deputies that when France entered the Ruhr in 1923, the Government more than once had declared it would not repudiate the debts but intended to pay them in proportion to the sums received from Germany.

He then repeated his point made yesterday, that France had no standing in a court if the debt was disputed because the United States would only have to produce the signed obligations to get a judgment.

"A tribunal would not consider our sacrifice of life and property loss in the war," he said.

SECRET BUYING OF MATERIAL IS PROPOSED

Purchases Affect Material for Military and Naval Uses—Suggestion Will Be Included in a Bill Submitted to U.S. House Military Commission.

(Associated Press Despatch) WASHINGTON, July 12.—Authority for secret purchases of material for military and naval uses is proposed in a draft of a bill submitted by Secretary Good to Chairman James of the House Military Commission.

The measure to be introduced by James would authorize the President to class as secret certain material, apparatus or equipment, which, in his discretion, is such that the interests of public service would be injured by publicly divulging information concerning them. It would "authorize the purchases and award of contracts for the development, manufacture or procurement thereof, without public advertisement for bids or notice to the trade."

A provision stipulates, however, that the contracts shall not be awarded except where it is impracticable to develop and manufacture the material in government establishments.

THANKSGIVING SERVICES HELD AT COOKSHIRE

Special Services for Recovery of King Well Attended—Garden Party Held by Institute—Busy Meeting of W.I.—Cooksire Notes of General Interest.

COOKSHIRE, Que., July 12.—A large congregation which filled St. Peter's Church last Sunday morning, gave a sincere expression of joy and thankfulness to Almighty God for His Majesty's recovery. The two hymns chosen by the King were sung: "All People That on Earth Do Dwell," and "Praise My Soul the King of Heaven," and two other appropriate hymns.

For his sermon the rector, took for his text 2nd Samuel, 10th chapter and the 16th verse, "and all the people shouted, 'God Save the King'." Today throughout the Empire, in every church, synagogue and mosque, in many lands and climes, languages and tongues, people have met and are meeting to return thanks to God for the King's recovery.

During the prolonged and dangerous winter's illness of the King, when all watched the papers with intense eagerness, not knowing what was each day would bring from Buckingham Palace, how all prayed earnestly for the King's recovery. Today all rejoice and return thanks to Almighty God with millions beyond the seas for answering their prayers. During the sermon Rev. Buckland referred to many loving acts done by the King, instances which he knew were true. "On one occasion at the front he went to a young soldier mortally wounded and asked if he could do anything for him, the reply from the soldier was, 'Sir, please write to my mother and tell her I tried to do my duty'." The King promised and did so.

"On another occasion while visiting a hospital in London after going the whole length of the ward, the King came to a bed which was surrounded by a curtain. The doctors and nurses did not want the king to see the inside but His Majesty insisted. He asked about the patient's wounds and went inside there he saw a young boy armless, legless and blind. The King's feelings overcame him and he went at the foot of the bed and said, 'My God, did they do that to you?' It is and wonder that our hearts go out to the beloved King and the empire today with one voice prays, God Save the King. At the close of the address the preacher paid a loving tribute to the Queen for her devotion and courage during the king's illness. After the sermon the congregation rose and sang the Te Deum.

During the offertory Miss Adele Noble gave a violin selection accompanied by Mrs. J. W. Bradbury at the organ.

Institute Garden Party
The annual Garden Party of the Cookshire Women's Institute at "The Evergreens," the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Fraser was held July 1st. Although the weather had been threatening for days past, the sun shone forth brightly until the evening.

Many visitors came to see Mr. Fraser's ponies and many hundreds of the blooms were carried away. It had been the intention to sell the ponies for the benefit of the Institute, but owing to the recent extreme heat and storms the blooms were not in a condition to keep a long time and Mr. Fraser thought it would be better to give them away to the guests.

A cafeteria supper was served from the grove and small tables were scattered the length of the south lawn. The Southern Canada very kindly supplied colored lights which added a festive note.

The five-pound box of chocolates which was raffled off was won by Major Robinson, of the Seventh Hussars, encamped at Cookshire.

Much of the success of the Garden Party should be given to Mrs. Herbert Chaddock, convener of the supper committee, Mrs. J. L. French, Mrs. L. C. Roy, Mrs. Ayton Cromwell and all those who so ably assisted.

After all expenses are paid the Institute should clear about one hundred dollars from this affair. This sum is somewhat smaller than that made on this occasion in former years but taking place on such a popular date for attractions everywhere the Institute is to be congratulated on the success attained.

Institute Meeting Held
The regular monthly meeting of the Institute was held July 5th, at the home of Mrs. Lionel Gillander. A report of the Women's Institute Provincial Convention held at Macdonald College during June was given by Mrs. Herbert Chaddock, the delegate from Cookshire. Mrs. Chaddock's report was both interesting and instructive and made those who heard it regret their absence at the convention.

Mrs. L. C. Roy, the convener for agriculture, gave a paper on 'Old and new methods of the Farmers of the Eastern Townships, Mrs. Roy handled her subject in quite a novel manner: starting with the customs of the pioneers who settled in this section she traced the development of the progress of the farmers in tilling the soil, marketing their products, up to the present and gave a vision of what we may expect from the future.

During the business session of the meeting it was voted to donate $100. to the Cemetery Board of Trustees toward the upkeep of the Cemetery for this summer. The Institute is very proud of our beautiful Cemetery and wishes to do all in its power to assist in its upkeep. The members of the Institute feel that the entire community should be very grateful to Mr. Crin Osgood for his untiring efforts in causing the Cemetery to be in such a splendid condition.

The Institute is very interested in helping to start a movement whereby the school may be cleaned and painted throughout during this vacation.

Small dish of stewed fruit from the following list. Prunes, figs, pears, raisins, apples, apricots or berries. If wholewheat, oatmeal, or cornmeal muffins are desired, with this breakfast, it will be best to use only one egg, a small dish of mush or one or two muffins, with one addition of the stewed fruit.

If the muffins or mush have not used for breakfast, you may further add to the non-starchy meal by using baked potatoes, baked Hubbard squash, or three or four muffins made from whole wheat or cornmeal, canned corn can be used in place of these other starches, or sweet corn used in season.

WALKING INDISPENSABLE
Late in the afternoon a long walk should be taken each day. The distance should be gradually increased until you can walk four or five miles without fatigue. After returning from the walk, take

If all of my readers will follow such a good daily regime I know they will improve in health in every way.

Those who follow this plan for a few weeks and still find they have unpleasant symptoms from some disorder may find it advantageous to start a fruit fast again, fasting from five to ten days on the orange juice as suggested in the first articles, and then continuing with the diet which has been outlined in the rest of the articles.

The MYSTERY of the BLUE TRAIN

by AGATHA CHRISTIE

Poirot and Knighton Glean Incriminating Evidence From Mirelle.

"WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR?" Rufus Van Aldin obtains a famous collection of rubies in Paris for his daughter, Ruth Kettering, wife of a dissolute English aristocrat. Leaving London while divorce proceedings are started, Ruth takes the Blue Train to the Riviera. Secretly she is to meet her former sweetheart, Comte de la Roche, a handsome and clever swindler of women. Unknown to her, Derek, her husband, is on the same train with his mistress, Mirelle, a beautiful dancer. At Nice Ruth is found murdered in her compartment. A cord is drawn about her neck and her face bashed in. Katherine Poirot, world-known detective, to find the murderer. Testimony of Ada Mason, Ruth's maid, points to both the Comte and Kettering as the guilty ones. The Comte gives an alibi. Poirot gets a tip from a Greek jewel collector to look for the "Marquis" international robber and murderer. Mirelle, his Derek she, too, saw him come from his wife's compartment. Derek and Knighton are both in love with Katherine Grey. Derek admits entering the compartment, but denies the crime. When Knighton asserts his love Katherine has the strange feeling that Ruth's spirit is near her, trying to convey a message.

Now Go On With the Story.

CHAPTER XXVII
Interview With Mirelle.

When Knighton left Katherine he went in search of Hercule Poirot, whom he found in the Rooms, jauntily placing the minimum stake on the even numbers. As Knighton joined him, the number thirty-three turned up, and Poirot's stake was swept away.

"Bad luck!" said Knighton; "are you going to stake again?"

Poirot shook his head.

"Not at present."

"Did you see the fascination of gambling?" asked Knighton curiously.

"Not at roulette."

Knighton shot a swift glance at him. His own face became troubled. He spoke haltingly, with a touch of deference.

"I wonder, are you busy, M. Poirot? There is something I would like to ask you about."

"I am at your disposal. Shall we go outside? It is pleasant in the sunshine."

They strolled out together, and Knighton drew a deep breath.

"I love the Riviera," he said. "I came here first twelve years ago, during the War, when I was sent to Lady Tamplin's Hospital. It was like Paradise, coming from Flanders to this."

"It must have been," said Poirot. "How long ago the War seems now!" mused Knighton.

They walked on in silence for some little way.

"You have something on your mind?" said Poirot.

Knighton looked at him in some surprise.

"You are quite right," he confessed. "I don't know how you know it, though."

"It showed itself only too plainly," said Poirot dryly.

"I did not know that I was so transparent."

"It is my business to observe the physiognomy," the little man explained, with dignity.

"I will tell you, M. Poirot. You have heard of this dancer woman—Mirelle?"

"She who is the chere amie of M. Derek Kettering?"

"Yes, that is the one; and, knowing this, you will understand that M. Van Aldin is naturally prejudiced against her. She wrote to him, asking for an interview. He told me to dictate a curt refusal, which of course I did. This morning she came to the hotel and sent up her card, saying that it was urgent and vital that she should see Mr. Van Aldin at once."

"You interest me," said Poirot. "Mr. Van Aldin was furious. He told me what message to send down to her. I ventured to disagree with him. It seemed to me both likely and probable that this woman Mirelle might give us valuable information. We know that she was on the Blue Train, and she may have seen or heard something that it might be vital for us to know. Don't you agree with me, M. Poirot?"

"I do," said Poirot dryly. "M. Van Aldin, if I may say so, behaved exceedingly foolishly."

"I am glad you take that view of the matter," said the secretary.

"Now I am going to tell you something, M. Poirot. So strongly did I feel the unwisdom of Mr. Van Aldin's attitude that I went down privately and had an interview with the lady."

"Eh bien?"

"The difficulty was that she insisted on seeing Mr. Van Aldin himself. I softened his message as much as I possibly could. In fact—to be candid—I gave it in a very different form. I said that Mr. Van Aldin was too busy to see her at present, but that she might make any communication she wished to me. That, however, she could not bring herself to do, and she left without saying anything further. But I have a strong impression, M. Poirot, that that woman knows something."

"This is serious," said Poirot quietly. "You know where she is staying?"

"Yes," Knighton mentioned the name of the hotel.

"I will go

lilies she flung it into the grate, where it smashed into a hundred pieces.

Knighton was looking at her with cold British disapproval. He felt embarrassed and ill at ease. Poirot, on the other hand, with twinkling eyes was thoroughly enjoying the scene.

"Ah, it is magnificent!" he cried. "It can be seen—Madame has a temperament."

"I am an artist," said Mirelle. "Every artist has a temperament. I told Derek to beware, and he would not listen." She whirled round on Poirot suddenly. "It is true, is it not, that he wants to marry that English miss?"

Poirot coughed.

"On m'a dit," he murmured, "that he adores her passionately."

Mirelle came towards them.

"He murdered his wife," she screamed. "There—now you have it! He told me beforehand that he meant to do it. He had got to an impasse—zui! he took the easiest way out."

"You say that M. Kettering murdered his wife?"

"Yes, yes, yes. Have I not told you so?"

"The police," murmured Poirot, "will need proof of that—statement."

"I tell you I saw him come out of her compartment that night on the train."

"When?" asked Poirot sharply.

"Just before the train reached Lyons."

"You will swear to that, Mademoiselle?"

It was a different Poirot who spoke now, sharp and decisive.

"Yes."

There was a moment's silence. Mirelle was panting, and her eyes half defiant, half frightened, went from the face of one man to the other.

"This is a serious matter, Mademoiselle," said the detective. "You realize how serious?"

"Certainly I do."

"That is well," said Poirot. "Then you understand, Mademoiselle, that no time must be lost. You will, perhaps, accompany us immediately to the office of the Examining Magistrate."

Mirelle was taken aback. She hesitated, but, as Poirot had foreseen, she had no loophole for escape.

"Very well," she muttered. "I will fetch a coat."

"It is necessary to act while—how do you say it?—the iron is hot," murmured Poirot. "She is temperamental; in an hour's time, maybe, she will repent, and she will wish to draw back. We must prevent that at all costs."

Mirelle reappeared, wrapped in a sand-colored velvet wrap trimmed with leopard skin. She looked not altogether unlike a leopardess, tawny and dangerous. Her eyes still flashed with anger and determination.

They found M. Caux and the Examining Magistrate together. A few brief introductory words from Poirot, and Mademoiselle Mirelle was courteously entreated to tell her tale. This she did in much the same words as she had done to Knighton and Poirot, though with far more sobriety of manner.

"This is an extraordinary story, Mademoiselle," said M. Carrege slowly. He leaned back in his chair, adjusted his pince-nez, and looked keenly and searchingly at the dancer through them.

"You wish us to believe M. Kettering actually boasted of the crime to you beforehand?"

"Yes, yes. She was too healthy, he said. If she were to die it must be an accident—he would arrange it all."

"You are aware, Mademoiselle," said M. Carrege, sternly, "that you are making yourself out to be an accessory before the fact?"

"Me? But not the least in the world, Monsieur. Not for a moment did I take that statement seriously. Ah no, indeed! I know men, Monsieur; they say many wild things. It would be an odd state of affairs if one were to take all they said au pied de la lettre."

The Examining Magistrate raised his eyebrows.

"We are to take it, then, that you regarded M. Kettering's threats as mere idle words? May I ask, Mademoiselle, what made you throw up your engagements in London and come out to the Riviera?"

Mirelle looked at him with melting black eyes.

"I wished to be with the man I loved," she said simply. "Was it so unnatural?"

"Was it, then, at M. Kettering's wish that you accompanied him to Nice?"

Mirelle seemed to find a little difficulty in answering this. She hesitated perceptibly before she spoke. When she did, it was with a haughty indifference of manner.

"In such matters I please myself, Monsieur," she said.

Why Farmers Prefer Endowment Insurance

HAVING insured farmers for nearly sixty years, we do not know of any group of men to whom life insurance has been more beneficial. Our experience has been that the average farmer lives out the term of his policy, and profits personally from his thrift.

The most popular policy with farmers is the Endowment Policy. It is generally bought for the amount of any mortgage that stands against property, so that funds to pay off the mortgage will be available at maturity; or in the event of premature death.

Every farmer who is physically fit should own life insurance, and if he buys a Confederation Life policy we can and will arrange for premiums to be paid at convenient times.

Write for a pamphlet entitled "Wm. Matheson Was a Farmer." It tells of his experience with a Confederation Life Policy guaranteeing Total Disability Benefits. Address:

It cannot dissolve . . . it will do nothing . . . but you can depend upon it to "last."

Most soaps are like that . . . hard and "lasting." But this "lasting" quality is deceptive. It means rubbing and rubbing to get suds.

Suds should come quickly and easily . . . as Sunlight suds do. Sunlight is all pure soap. It is purposely made to dissolve freely. No need to rub hard with a bar of Sunlight to get suds . . . and as for leaving Sunlight Soap in the water that's unnecessary—even wasteful.

Yet because Sunlight is all pure soap it is more economical . . . bar for bar it washes more clothes than common soaps.

Do you wonder that millions of women the world over have grown impatient with low quality soaps . . . now use Sunlight . . . and never could be content with any other soap?

Countless Historic Spots In Old Quebec Recall Many Memories Of Events In Dominion's Great Past

May Well Be Termed Canada's Most "Historic" Province — Quebec City, Its Capital, Is a City of Remembrance and Lives to Memory of Past—Historic Spots Are Countless and All Districts Have Many Attractions to Offer—"Habitant" Is Familiar Figure With History of Quebec Province—Tourists Will Find Much in Way of Interest by Visiting Quebec, Canada's Oldest and Largest Province.

The Province of Quebec claims the honor of being the oldest in the Dominion. Under the French Regime, it was called New France. After being ceded to England, it was successively called Province of Canada, Lower Canada, and finally, since Confederation, Province of Quebec. It is the "Historic" Province teeming with reminiscences of a glorious past.

Quebec, the capital, is the city of remembrance. Proudly rising on its rock, it lives in the memory of the past, raises monuments to the glories of Old France and extends a cordial welcome to tourists. The latter, on arriving, at once come in touch with the past. Jacques Cartier, Champlain and Montcalm stand by the highways and mount guard over the city which they founded or defended. A walk in this spot is a historic pilgrimage. Here, on the banks of the little river St. Charles, the first Frenchmen took up their winter quarters. Further up, on those plains now called the Battlefields Park, Montcalm fought and died. Close-by, at Ste. Foy, a valiant little French army won a last victory when their cause was already on the wane.

The whole population of the Old Province lives on the past. Nor is the tourist slow to realize it when travelling through the countryside. Everything conjures up by-gone days; manners, customs, language, quaint dwellings, narrow fields, antiquated wind-mills, old churches. Each district bears its characteristic features.

Historic spots in Quebec are countless, and all districts have memories of the past. The Cote de Beaupre, the typical Canadian homeland stretches from Quebec to Cape Tourmente. Parishes succeed each other at intervals of six miles: Beaufort, L'Ange Gardien, Chateau Richer, Ste. Anne, St. Joachim. Perched on the sloping hills, they are mirrored in the blue waters of the St. Lawrence. The churches, with their glittering steeples, and the Norman-roofed dwellings stand out in the green fields ribbon-shaped by their rustic fences. The prolific race appears with its numberless children: in some families there are twelve, fifteen or eighteen of them. They gaze placidly at the endless procession of motors along the highways.

Have Kept Old Traditions

Here lives a population which has most faithfully kept the traditions, language, customs and dress of the past. Here one meets with sturdy stone houses and thatched-roof barns dating back to the French Regime. The churches are among the finest in the country; their splendid interior decoration deserves a visit. The conservative "habitant" still weaves linen and "etoffe du pays." The floors are covered with variegated home-made rag-carpets.

The Island of Orleans has been made famous by writers, poets, painters and photographers. Here is the real spirit of French Canada, unaltered, it would seem, by modern progress. Old houses, wind-mills, ox-teams, and the genuine type of old-time French-Canadian will delight the tourist.

The south shore of the St. Lawrence, between Quebec and Rimouski, has distinctive charm. It is absolutely French-Canadian. The road nearly always skirts the short amid an ever-varying landscape. The fertile farms have seen eight or ten peaceful generations. Often the same family has dwelt on them from father to son. Feudal vestiges are not lacking. Here an old wind-mill with idle wings; further on, a seigniorial manor in rough white-washed stone typifies the dauntless energy of the race.

The heights of Mount Royal, 180 miles west of Quebec, afford the tourist a splendid view of the city of Montreal, Canada's metropolis, and of the historic Montreal and Jesus Island.

From the past of three hundred years ago, there are still numerous remains. The city of Montreal is replete with history; it is proud of its religious buildings, of the sheltering, educational, financial and industrial institutions which build up its power. Montreal was founded on May 16, 1642, by Paul Chomedey de Maisonneuve, and was first named Ville Marie. Ville Marie, now Montreal, passed through countless perils, being hemmed in for years by the fierce and ruthless Iroquois. Later on, when France and England fought (Continued on page 6)

Countless Historic Spots In Old Quebec Recal Memories Of Events

for supremacy. Montreal revealed the valour of French soldiers. Still later on, when New England broke away from Old England, loyalty to the British flag preserved the city. Montreal is unique among large cities and has a character all its own, past and present blending for the tourist's delight.
A short distance east of Montreal is the Richelieu River Valley. "Nowhere in America is to be found, concentrated along a path ninety miles long, as much history as in this famous valley, where so long clashed rival nations." These words, uttered by an historian, depict the wealth of historical recollection along the Richelieu, formerly the "Iroquois River," on which the traveller long ventured with fear and caution. Today, the tourist enjoys modern roads through a succession of parishes and villages recalling bygone days.
The highways entering the Province along the American frontier reveal quite a different aspect of the Quebec countryside. The stranger once notes the contrast between the original population on the banks of the St. Lawrence and the more recent settlers in the Eastern Townships.
Certain villages in the counties of Stanstead, Missisquoi and Brome are reminiscent of Vermont, Connecticut and Massachusetts. Colonized by American refugees after the War of Independence, these counties have kept something of the New England spirit. An era of progress and comfort set in with the advent of English and Scotch immigrants. Finally, French-Canadian settlers added to the complexity of this corner of the Province. In this picturesque region are the finest farms and the greatest wealth. Descendants of the United Empire Loyalists, of English and Scotch immigrants and of French pioneers live in perfect harmony, each retaining their characteristic methods of construction and farming. Bilingualism can thus exist in a country without injury to the various races and without compromising their prosperity.
Between Quebec and Montreal, one again meets with French culture. The roads are studded with neat, pretty white houses. To the north, the Laurentians limit the plain and close in the horizon. To the south, the round mountains decked in green stand out in sharp contrast with the long yellow fields of waving wheat and oats.
The French noblemen live on in the courteous peasant who offers you a glass of water and invites you to his table.
"The Habitant"
The rural French Canadian, known as the "habitant," has long been famed in song and story, sharing honors with the picturesque voyageur. But under modern conditions, both have undergone a rapid change. Still a steady, industrious, thrifty home-loving individual, strongly attached to his church and fond of political discussion as much as formerly, the "habitant" has, in the meantime, evolved into a practical farmer. He reads the city and agricultural papers, wants a rural mail and good roads. Although much of the boisterous enthusiasm of the old-time "Rouges et Bleus" has vanished, the "habitant" has remained a keen politician and still has a weakness for a good orator. Strongly attached to the soil, he generally settles his claims on neighboring farms, but aims at sending some of his daughters to the convent and some of his sons to college. His pride is to have a priest, a lawyer or a doctor in the family.
Not given to any excess, he is averse to social legislation that would interfere with his personal liberties, and arbitrary prohibitions in any domain have never found favor with him. Temperate, law-abiding, traditionally prudent in social matters and having never tasted the hard life of European Par for the entire course is 72, and the nearest to it any amateur has come to date is 74. Compared with some other holes this one is easy and that means a lot of reputations may be wrecked this summer, not a few of them right here.

COUSIN OF MRS. HENRY AYLMER WAS FAMOUS CRICKETER

The death has occurred at Stanmore Park School, a preparatory school for Harrow, in England, of the Rev. Vernon Peter Fanshawe Archer Royle, a first cousin of the Hon. Mrs. Henry Aylmer, of Lennoxville. Rev. Mr. Royle, who was headmaster of the school, was a famous cricket player. He was in his seventy-sixth year.

"The brilliant fielding of Royle," says the London Times when speaking of the deceased, "at cover-point for Oxford in the University match of 1876 brought him into special prominence, and when he went to Australia with Lord Harris' team in the winter of 1878-79 he earned high praise, particularly by his fine play in the match with Victoria at Melbourne, when, fielding at cover-point, he made five catches."

Mr. Royle was born in Cheshire in 1854 and was educated at Rossall School and Brasenose College, Oxford. He played for Lancashire in cricket in 1873, and regularly thereafter until his duties as a master at Elstree School obliged him to give up first-class cricket. Besides being noted for his bowling and fielding at cricket, Rev. Mr. Royle played association football and was a notable runner. After serving as a school-master for some years, he was ordained and served as curate of Alderham, but returned to teaching again, and received the headmastership of Stanmore Park School, which he held at the time of his death.

THREE RIVERS YOUTH DROWNED NEAR KATEVALE

Rene Bergeron, Twenty Years Old, Suffered Cramp While Swimming in Little Lake Yesterday Afternoon—Body Recovered After Five Hours' Search—Young Man Was Visiting Friends in City.

(Special to the Record.)

MAGOG, Que., July 12.—Stricken with a cramp while swimming in Little Lake near Katevale at about 9.30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Rene Bergeron, twenty years old, of Three Rivers, was drowned before his friends could rescue him.

The young man was visiting Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Rouleau, Murray street, Sherbrooke, and, with his hosts and a party of friends, was picnicking on the shore of Little Lake, near Katevale, about five miles from this place. The party had just finished lunch when Bergeron stated his intention of going swimming. Friends advised him to wait an hour before doing so, but with a laughing remark that there was no danger, the young man refused to listen to their objections. He got into a rowboat and rowed some distance from the shore and jumped into the water. He was suddenly stricken with a cramp and on coming to the surface called for help. Mr. Rouleau, who was fishing in the vicinity, at once went to his assistance, but before he could reach the spot the young man had disappeared from sight.

Chief of Police Joseph Demers, of this place, was at once notified, and an effort was made to recover the body, the assistance of farmers in the vicinity being obtained for this purpose. Owing to the uneven condition of the bottom of the lake at this spot, however, grappling net could not be used, the searchers having to rely on their sight. It took five hours of close searching before Peter Crevier and Midas Gaudreau, of Katevale, saw the remains in about seven feet of water near the spot where Bergeron had disappeared.

The body was removed to the undertaking parlors of W. H. McKenna and the people of the young man notified. Gerard Bergeron, brother of the deceased, at once left for this place and will take the remains to Three Rivers today.

FARMERS NOW CUTTING BIG CROP OF HAY

Haying Operations Are General Throughout Eastern Townships—Reports from All Districts Enthusiastic—Cutting Delayed by Rains, But Crop Not Injured.

One of the finest and heaviest hay crops in the Eastern Townships for years is now being harvested. Haying commenced in a good many instances last week, and has become general throughout the district this week. It has not been finished as yet anywhere, and will continue in most cases another week, at least.

Mr. P. P. Brown, assistant superintendent of the Lennoxville Experimental Farm, declared yesterday that there would undoubtedly be one of the best hay crops ever taken in southern Quebec, and the heaviest for some years. The clover, he pointed out, had withered exceptionally well, and so the hay would be of high feeding value as well as being plentiful.

Haying operations, Mr. Brown remarked, had been delayed considerably during the past ten days owing to the uncertainty of the weather and the frequent rains. In consequence, cutting was late and slow, but this would not be a bad thing. Though there had been a great deal of rain, it had not injured the hay, and had not affected it except to delay the cutting. The warm sunny days which have continued most of this week have been welcomed by farmers, as they have dried the hay well, put it in good condition for gathering and enabled the hay-makers to go right ahead in their work. Even during the wet spell last week and the week before, much of the rain fell at night, and the generally partly fine days helped to dry out the hay.

Not only hay, but other crops as well are reported as being unusually good this year. The Experimental Farm reports all products doing splendidly, including grains, corn and root crops. This is the report also from practically all parts of the Townships. In some districts, some of the products are rather slow and backward, but all are now starting to be progressing well and to promise a very fine crop.

A departure from the usual afternoon tea in the form of ice-cream and cake, served by the hostesses for the day, Mrs. F. A. Titcombe and Mrs. Mosher, met with approval and was greatly enjoyed.

LENNOXVILLE

CAMPAIGN FOR OLD BREWERY MISSION

The returns for the campaign for the Old Brewery Mission, Montreal, which is being carried on in town this week by the C. G. I. T., were augmented yesterday by a food sale held on the lawn of the United Church in the late afternoon. Later in the evening the Lennoxville band gave an excellent concert on the lawn, while the girls served ice-cream to a large and interested gathering of townspeople, the proceeds of which also went into the campaign funds.

Each year the C. G. I. T. groups have interested themselves in this worthy object with great success, and it would appear certain that their work will not fail to good results again this year.

Farmer E. T. Man Has Successful Operation.

Friends of Mr. J. R. Campbell, formerly well-known in Lennoxville, Johnville and Sherbrooke, will be interested to learn of his recovery after an operation on his face, while a patient in a Vancouver Hospital, and that he has so far recovered as to be able to return to his home in West Summerland, Okanagan Valley, B.C. Several years ago Mr. Campbell had an almost miraculous escape from death, when a blast of dynamite, over which he was working, exploded unexpectedly in his face. A stone was driven through his mouth into his cheek, and both jaw bones were broken, as well as minor injuries received.

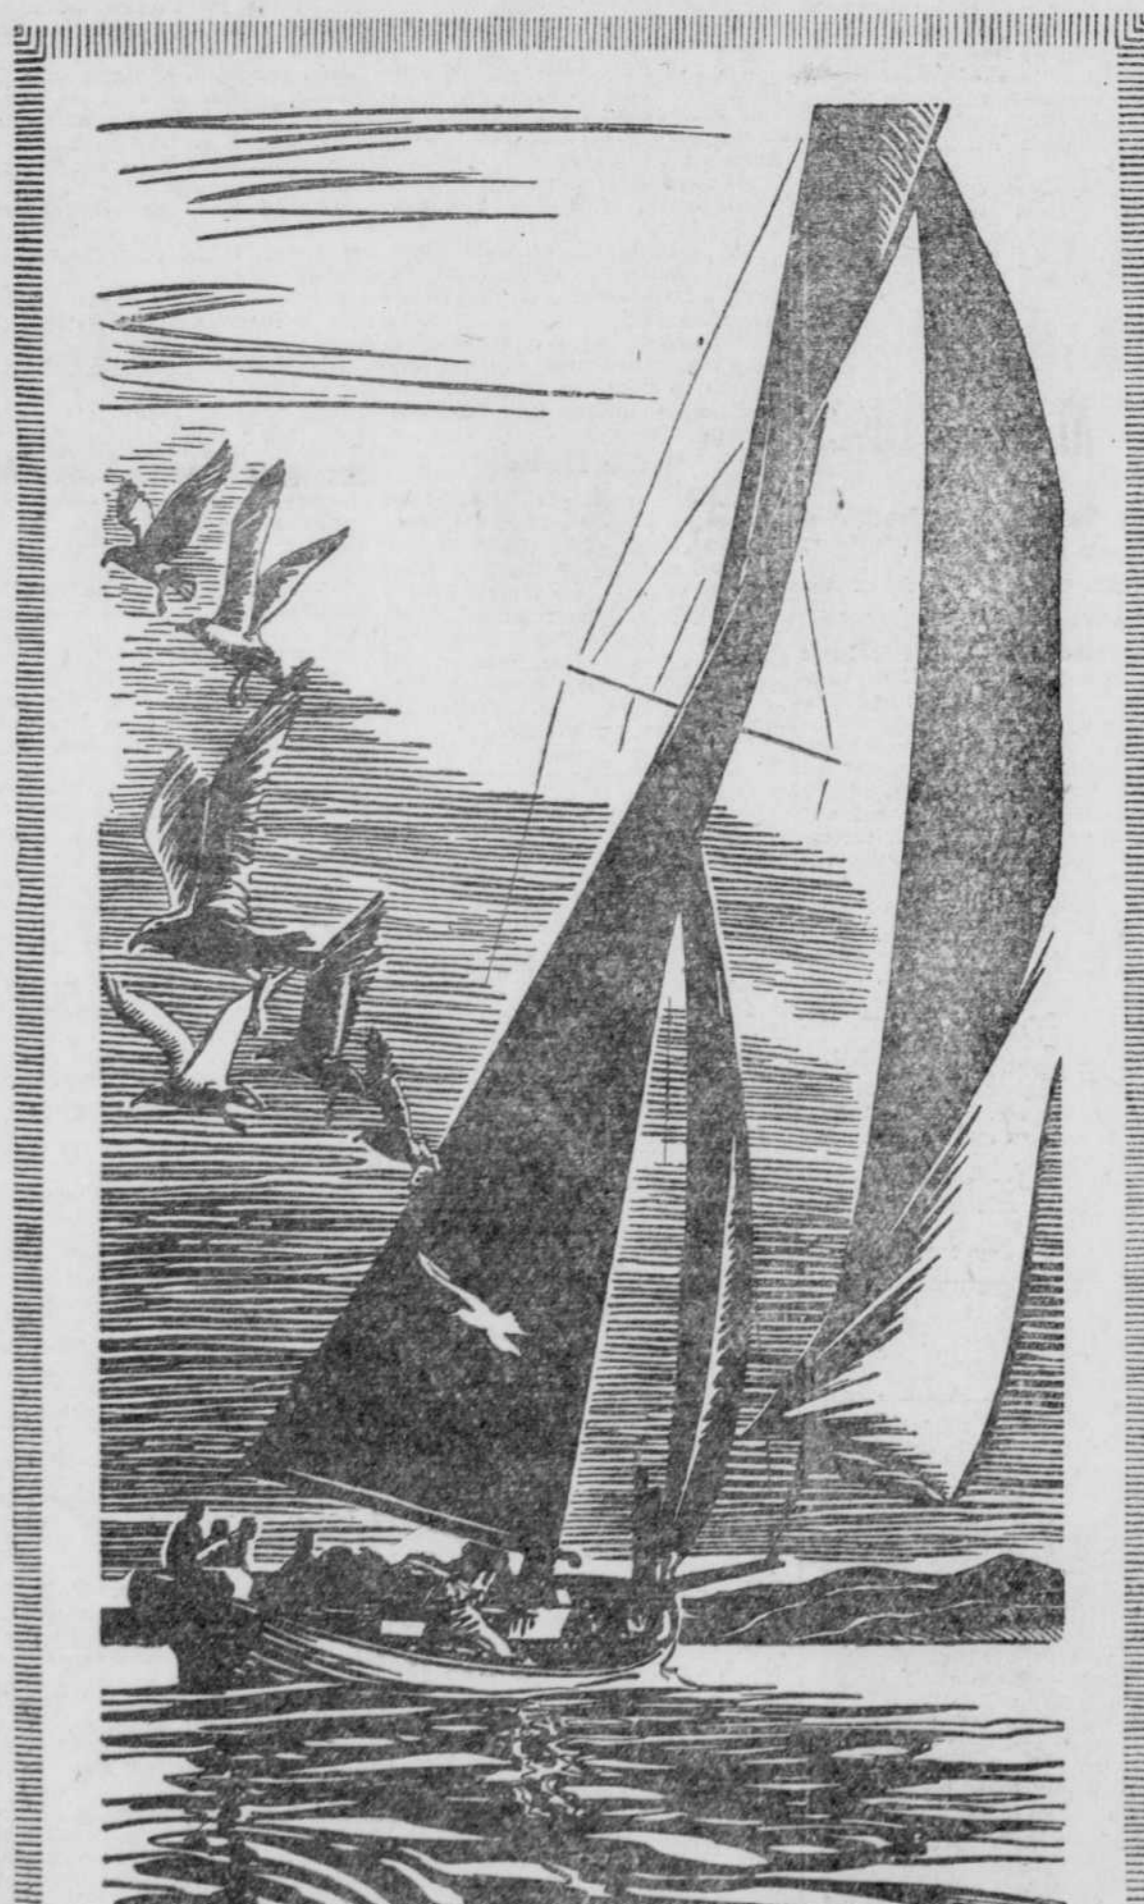

The stone was removed, but the injured place continued to give trouble which several minor operations failed to relieve. About a month ago, Mr. Campbell's condition became critical, and it was thought wise to secure expert medical help. He accordingly entered a Vancouver hospital for an operation, which his friends hope has permanently removed the trouble.

Women's Institute Adjourn Activities Until Autumn.

The Women's Institute yesterday held its last meeting until September, with the president, Mrs. J. Manes, in the chair, and with a fair attendance of members. The secretary, Mrs. E. L. Atto, read a communication from the secretary of the League of Nations in Canada, thanking those who had assisted in the subscription campaign in April. The treasurer's report showed the finances of the club to be in good condition. The Caroline Lodge of the Daughters of England of Sherbrooke and Lennoxville asked permission to use the club room as a meeting place. This request was granted.

A report of the recent meeting of the Associated Boards of Trade and the Immigration Societies held in Magog, to which the Women's Institutes were invited to send a representative, was given by Mrs. McCurdy. Mrs. W. J. Magin, the delegate from Lennoxville branch to the provincial convention of Women's Institutes, held early in June at Macdonald College, gave a detailed report of the convention. A hearty vote of thanks was given for these reports.

The prize list for the women's exhibit for January 1930 was distributed. Lennoxville branch will have an article for the exhibit in glassware which the Quebec Women's

Teacher Deserves It

The example by Lord Beaverbrook in giving an annuity to the school teacher of his youth is one which might be emulated by many other men who have reached a high place in business or profession, as there are too many cases of the school teacher giving the greater part of his life to his profession and having nothing left in his old age.

Youth Will Be Served

Although Alexander the Great was signing for new worlds to conquer before he was thirty, and died of an ail at thirty-three; although William Pitt became Prime Minister of England at twenty-four; although John Keats died at the age of twenty-six; although Delane became editor of the London Times when he was twenty-four; it is a popular superstition that today is the age of all ages when youth is served. This may be true, but it is also true that today youth is usually served by grey-haired gentlemen who are holding down all the big jobs.

The Social Neutral

Yesterday I spoke of the importance of bringing into politics and religion the spirit that the scientist brings to problems in his laboratory. This spirit of the scientist is, as I suggested yesterday, tentative and dogmatic. It does not think a thing is true because we want it to be true.

It does not deny the existence of a fact because the fact happens to be uncomfortable or contrary to a pet theory.

It does not offer any bogus insurance policy against the appearance of new facts that may upset an existing theory it honestly thinks is sound.

I have a friend who admits that theoretically we should approach the problems of politics and religion as scientifically as we approach the problems of chemistry and physics.

"But," he says, "the scientific spirit, which is highly valuable for finding facts, is altogether ineffective in the social adventure of using these facts in the larger fields of human affairs outside the laboratory. The scientific spirit tends to make men neutrals in the social battles of their time. The tentative dogmatic scientist will usually stand on the sidelines, unwilling to get into the fight for an idea he thinks may be upset by facts he may discover the next day. I admit that being scientific and impartial about public affairs is the easiest way, but somebody has to carry the fight."

I think my friend completely misreads a mind of the scientist.

I do not believe that the scientific spirit means that a man must be a neutral in the social affairs of his time, a nerveless Hamlet afraid to act.

Science today is breeding more martyrs and evoking more sacrifice than either dogmatic politics or dogmatic religion.

I do not believe that the scientific spirit means a weak submission to the existing order of things, for the essence of the scientist's outlook is a philosophy of change.

I do not believe that taking a scientific attitude toward politics, religion and other social affairs means taking the easiest way. The man who declines to be a dogmatist will be damned alike by the radicals and the reactionaries, when he declines uncritically to shout their simple battle cries.

And yet he is the hope of the world. —Cpt. 1929.

BOLD ROBBERY CARRIED OUT LAST EVENING

Filling Station on King Street Robbed Shortly Before Eleven O'Clock—Taxi Driver Attacked and Car Stolen by Two Fares Just Beyond Lennoxville.

One of the most daring robberies recorded in Sherbrooke for some time occurred shortly before eleven o'clock last night when the attendant at the gasoline station owned by Mr. C. O. Biron, located on King Street West, near the C.N.R. tracks, was held up by two men who took about twenty dollars from the till.

According to the story of M. Elais, the attendant on duty, he was standing in the door of the office about 10.45 o'clock last night when two young men approached from the direction of East Sherbrooke. They stopped and started to ask some questions. The first indication that Elais had that the men had evil intentions was when a revolver was pressed against his ribs and he was ordered to go inside the station. He complied with this demand and once inside the building the men immediately rifled the till of its contents.

Following the robbery, the bandits bound and gagged Elais and threw him in a corner. He was loosely bound, however, and after ten minutes of struggling managed to free himself.

He rushed to the King Street police station and reported the matter to the police, who started an investigation. Although several clues are being followed, no definite information had been obtained this morning.

The men are described as being dark, about five feet ten inches tall and weighing 150 to 170 pounds. Elais did not notice many details of their clothing.

Earlier in the evening two men answering the description of these two summoned a Diamond taxi, operated by Victor Hamel, to pick them up at the corner of King and Wellington Streets. They then ordered him to take them for a drive in the direction of Cookshire. When in the neighborhood of the Experimental Farm the fares told Hamel to stop and when he did so the two occupants attacked him, tying him up and placing a gag in his mouth. After robbing him of a few dollars that he had in his pocket, the men threw him into one of the Experimental farm fields.

They took the car and set out in the direction of Sherbrooke. Hamel freed himself a little later and went to a nearby house to seek aid. Here he telephoned the police and an immediate search was started for the car. This was found a short time later on Windsor Street.

It is believed that after stealing the car the two men returned to the city by way of Newington and left the car in East Sherbrooke while they went on a tour of robbery and that it was recovered before they had an opportunity to return.

Blais states that the man that held the gun appeared to be very nervous, and that apparently it was the first time that he had actually held up anyone.

SOME ALARM FELT OVER NEW TROUBLE IN ARABIA

Trouble Between Wahabi Forces and Three Combined Tribal Bands Threatens Supremacy of Ibn Saud, Sultan of Nejd and of Hedjaz.

JERUSALEM, July 12.—A grave situation has developed in Arabia, threatening the supremacy of Ibn Saud, Sultan of Nejd and of Hedjaz, it became evident from an official communique issued by the government of Ibn Saud. A report of the Mid-Eastern News Agency, Mena, says the communique confirms previous reports of a severe battle waged by the Wahabi forces against three combined tribal insurrectionary bands.

The communique states that Ibn Saud's army inflicted great losses on the revolutionary bands. The uprising has assumed serious proportions with the confederation of a number of Arabian tribes.

British sources admit the gravity of the insurrection, but express confidence that Ibn Saud, conqueror of Mecca, who dethroned King Hussein and virtually became the dictator of Arabia, will be able to deal successfully with the situation.

SETTLEMENT OF MINISTERS SERIOUS TASK

Considered to Be One of Most Difficult Problems Facing United Church Administration — Advantages and Disadvantages Are Seen in Connection With Both Call and Appointment Systems.

TORONTO, Ont., July 12. — Answering criticisms in a joint letter published yesterday in the "New Outlook", official organ for the United Church, Rev. Dr. W. M. Gunn, present moderator, and Dr. George C. Pidgeon and Rev. Dr. James Endicott, former moderator, representing the former Congregational, Presbyterian and Methodist churches, say that the most difficult problem faced by the United Church is that regarding settlement of ministers.

They point out that all three churches brought into the union liabilities as well as assets, and the most serious liability is to be found in the methods of bringing ministers and congregations together.

"Sometimes the call system was ideal," says the letter, "but sometimes it was cruel in its effect on both ministers and congregations. Similarly the appointment system was often ideal, but often it was equally disastrous in its effect on all concerned."

It is not fair, they contend, to suggest that a congregation has an absolute right to any minister whom they may call. Under the Presbyterian system each call had to be sustained by one Presbytery and often put into the hands of the minister by another before he was free to accept it. The regulations in the basis of union governing the work of the settlement committee require at least a consideration equally broad of each particular case.

It is equally fair, they say, to suggest that a conference has an unqualified right to forbid a transfer and to block a call solely in the interests of the minister already in it. They point out that a large number of young Canadians go to the sparsely settled parts of Western Canada and Ontario, and after several years there are called to eastern congregations. "There is nothing in the basis of union to justify a transfer committee in preventing these graduates accepting eastern calls," the writers set forth.

LACK OF RAIN BAD FOR CROPS IN THE WEST

Drought Retards Wheat in Prairie Provinces and Ontario and Creates Serious Situation — Satisfactory Reports from Quebec and Maritimes Only.

In Quebec and the Maritime provinces alone are crop conditions at present encouraging as the present time, according to the Bank of Montreal crop report for July 11th. Lack of rain throughout the western provinces is creating a very serious situation, and though Ontario's situation is better, it reports crops below the average.

The report follows: General. Continued dry weather has caused irreparable damage to all crops in large areas in Saskatchewan and Alberta. Showers have relieved the situation in localities, but prospects on the whole are not encouraging, and less than an average yield is now expected. Crops are late and short in straw. In Quebec recent rains and cool weather have somewhat retarded growth on lower lands, but conditions generally are still very satisfactory. In Ontario, while rain during the past week has improved grass pastures, the cutting of hay has been delayed and farmers are experiencing difficulty in curing. Fall wheat heads have filled heavily and indications point towards an average crop. There are good prospects for tree fruits. In the Maritime Provinces general growing conditions are favorable, especially in Prince Edward Island, but more rain would be beneficial in Nova Scotia. In British Columbia weather conditions have been favorable for practically all crops, and an excellent crop of hay is now being harvested. Details follow: Prairie Provinces. ALBERTA—Hot dry weather has caused further damage in northeastern and north of western area, and a large proportion of the crop in this section have been irreparably damaged. Wheat heading out in many cases will be too short to harvest. Coarse grains, pasture, and hay are poor. Conditions in south of western area are generally favorable and pasture is in good condition. In Alberta southern area conditions are favorable, but there is no moisture reserve. SASKATCHEWAN Northern Area.—Moisture conditions are fairly satisfactory, but the weather has been cool and crops remain backward. Wheat, although short, is in shot blade with some heading out. Prospects are somewhat below average. Saskatchewan Southern Area.—With the exception of the southwestern portion, where conditions are satisfactory, and in a few other localities continued dry weather has damaged crops, and rain is urgently needed to relieve the situation. MANITOBA—Moderate temperature and scattered showers have improved crop conditions to some extent, but more moisture is urgently needed throughout the entire province, and in some districts the situation is critical. All crops will be short. Province of Quebec. Cutting of hay has commenced in some districts and, with favorable weather, a heavy crop is assured. Grain and root crops are looking well. Small fruits give promise of a large yield. A period of warm weather is now needed. Province of Ontario. Spring wheat is late; the straw is short and the yield will likely be below average. Corn now shows good growth and color. Tree fruits generally will be an average crop, apples being especially good with cherries only average. Peaches are somewhat late, and a little less than average crop is expected. Tomatoes are well advanced, with good settings of the smooth variety. Tobacco is growing fast. In certain localities, sand storms have done harm. Maritime Provinces. Potatoes, though late, show splendid growth. Grass pastures are very good. Hay in some districts is ready to cut and a fair crop is now expected. Prospects are for an above the average apple crop. British Columbia. The cherry crop is poor, many trees being damaged by blight. Raspberries are being picked, but the yield is below average. Potatoes and other root crops are doing well. Pasturage is plentiful. The estimated yield of apples is 90 p.c. of the average crop; peaches, plums, prunes and apricots, 85 p.c.; pears, 90 p.c., and hops 100 p.c. WHAT'S THE USE? Bobby was obstinate one day and refused to say his lesson to his teacher. "But, you know it quite well," she urged. "Yes," admitted Bobby. "Then why don't you say it to me?" "Cause if I say it now you'll only make me learn something else tomorrow." Buy advertised goods. They must always give full value.

MR. RALPH BROOKS, ASBESTOS, QUE.
ASBESTOS, Que., Que., July 12.—The funeral service for the late Mr. Brooks, who was accidentally killed at the mines, on July 4th, was held on Saturday afternoon, at three o'clock from the residence of his brother-in-law, Mr. T. Barrett.

Upon arrival at St. Augustine's Church, Danville, the Asbestos Troop of Boy Scouts were lined up at each side of the church entrance, the casket being preceded by a "color party," consisting of P.L. Robert Burns, Second John Kyle, and George Flack.

The esteem in which their fellow officer was held was shown by the French and English Scouts who turned out in full strength to attend the service at the church, which was taken by the Rev. E. K. Wilson, of Danville. After the service the Scouts marched to the cemetery and formed a square here about the grave. The Scouts' resting on their stav-

MRS. IRVING SLACK, AYER'S CLIFF, QUE.
AYER'S CLIFF, Que., July 12.—Mrs. Irving Slack, of Ayer's Cliff, who passed away at her home here on July 5th, was born in September 10, 1851, at Sherrington, Napierville County, Quebec, the daughter of the late John and Eliza Stocks, of North Hatley.

She was married to Irving Slack in Sherbrooke in 1874, who predeceased her in January 1923. After her marriage to Mr. Slack, they resided on a farm at Suffield, remaining there three years, after which they located in the village for over twenty-five years. Four children were born to them, Ruth Edith, who was born August 23, 1875, and died February 22, 1917; Orange W., who has resided with his mother and cared for her in her failing health; Mrs. N. E. Dean (Elsie), of Oxford Mills, Ont., and Mrs. B. B. Richardson (Lizzie), of Woodstock, Ont. Five grandchildren are also left to mourn her loss.

As long as health permitted, Mrs. Slack was an active member of the W. C. T. U., and always took an interest in things pertaining to the welfare of the community and the Anglican Church, of which she was a member.

The funeral was held from St. George's Church on Monday, July 8th, the service being conducted by the rector, Rev. Mr. Smith, and being in charge of the local undertaker, Mr. Clarence O. Fraser. The numerous and beautiful flowers testified to the esteem in which the deceased was held by her many friends.

Bean, sister; Mr. Roy Bean, nephew, of Suffield; Mrs. Lois Bean, West Glover, Vt., sister-in-law; Mr. and Mrs. W. W. King, Mr. and Mrs. W. Magoon, Mr. and Mrs. Tyecharst, Mrs. E. MEETING HELD BY W.C.T.U. IN SUTTON JCT.

Interesting Session of Union Took Place—Social and Personal Notes of Interest.

SUTTON JUNCTION, Que., July 12.—On Thursday, June 27th, the W.C.T.U. met at the home of Mrs. Aylmer Hawley. The devotional exercises were conducted by the president, Mrs. Westover, assisted by Mrs. Smith. The minutes of the last two meetings were read and approved. Ten members answered the roll call and joined in repeating the pledge. A most interesting letter from Mrs. Foster, of Knowlton, was read, in which she expressed great appreciation and pleasure at the able manner in which the recent convention was conducted. A note from Miss Ingalls was also read. The report of the county convention, written by Mrs. T. Hawley, was read by Mrs. Woodard. It was also reported by the committee appointed to interview the fair directors, that it was expected that ample accommodation would be provided in the new building for the W.C.T.U. work. Mrs. L. Draper told of a meeting held in Sutton to try to re-organize and though no plans were made, it is earnestly hoped that the work may be revived there in the near future. It was decided to pay part of the expense of new tables recently purchased for the hall.

The subject for the afternoon was "Press," by Mrs. U. G. Martin, superintendent. She spoke of the universal thirst for "news" and how it came to be so-called, and referred to the modern newspaper as one of the marvels of civilization. She stated that no country in the world, for its size, is served as well by its newspapers, as Canada. The great influence of printed matter was discussed, especially the book and magazine, which, in many cases, have led girls and boys to form wrong conceptions of life and the real purpose of living. The importance of providing good reading matter, with higher ideals, which may help to build up the community life and that of our country, was stressed.

Supper was served by the hostesses, assisted by her daughters. The next meeting will be held in the hall on Thursday, July 25th, at two o'clock. The subject will be "Lord's Day Observance," by Mrs. Rumby, superintendent.

Mrs. A. A. MacAulay entertained for Miss Marion MacIver, on Tuesday afternoon. The day was ideal and tables were spread on the spacious porch. Decorations were baskets and vases of cut flowers in deep and pale pink. Thirty-one invited guests were present and contributed to the large basket of lovely gifts, which took the form of a "personal answer" for the guest-of-honor, who will become a bride on July 17th. The basket was carried in by Masters MacIver and John MacAulay and placed before the bride elect. The original verses accompanying the gifts created much merriment. Among the gifts were a lovely blue embroidered silk coulle coat and slippers to match, a number of sets of silk underwear, many pairs of silk hose, a number of embroidered towels, aprons, handkerchiefs, blous hangers, toilet accessories and a large embroidered sofa pillow. Miss MacIver expressed her thanks and surprise in a few appropriate words and invited all present to visit her in her new home at Sherbrooke. The hostess was assisted in serving her guests by the Misses Isabell MacIver, Doreen Wood and Anna MacIver.

Miss Edith MacLeod, R.N., left Tuesday for Montreal, to attend the International Congress of Nurses being held there.

A large number of men, neighbors and friends, of Mr. John MacDonald, of Fisher Hill, went to middle district on Tuesday and took down a barn and brought it to Fisher Hill. Mr. MacDonald lost his big barn by fire on Sunday and erected the new one at once to be ready for haying. While taking down the barn one of the big timbers fell on Mr. Kenneth MacAulay, but luckily another timber helped to break the blow and averted what might easily have been a fatal accident. Mr. MacAulay is considerably bruised but not seriously hurt.

Mr. Wallace O'Neill is a guest at Gould Motor Inn.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard MacLennan, of Waltham, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. Alex. MacLennan and two children, of Oakland, Cal., also Mr. and Mrs. Angle and two children, of Montreal, have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Hillis, the past week.

The friends of Rev. J. A. Matheson, B.A., B.D., of Chalmers' United Church will be sorry to know that she is confined to bed. He was taken sick early on Sabbath morning, but managed to preach at the morning service. Dr. Smith, of Stouffville, is in attendance and as present writing Mr. Matheson is progressing favorably.

In the electric storm Sunday, Mr. John MacDonald's barn, at Fisher Hill, was struck by lightning and burned. All his harnessed, some machinery, chickens and a few tons of hay were burned. The efforts of neighbors and the heavy rain saved the other barn and building from being burned.

Mr. and Mrs. Columbia, Mr. Hudson, of Montpelier, and Mr. and Mrs. Gerkie and Miss Miles, of Essex, Vt., were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. MacLeod, at Maplehurst.

A number of the young people were camping for a few days during the past week at Silver Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Johnson and daughter, Pearl, of Lancaster, N.H., were guests this week of Mr. and Mrs. Frank MacLeod.

Mr. M. N. MacKay and Mr. John MacCaskill motored to Hillsburg for the week-end. Mr. M. N. MacKay and daughter, Shirley, returned home with them.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Atkinson and daughter, of Montreal, were in town for a short visit, as guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Cowan, en route for New Brunswick, where they will spend the summer.

Mr. Arthur Carter motored to town on Saturday. Mrs. Carter returned to Knowlton with her husband.

Mr. and Mrs. V. MacIver and daughters, Martha, Jean and Nancy of Waverly, Mass., motored to town and are guests of Mrs. MacIver's mother, Mrs. Robt. Murray.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom MacAulay and two sons, Gordon and Mac, returned to their home in Quebec on Sunday. Miss Annie Arta MacAulay accompanied them and will spend a vacation at Quebec.

Dr. and Mrs. Weatherhead and three sons, Angus, George and Webb, Sask., motored to town and Stewart and daughter, Mary, are guests at Gould Motor Inn.

Mrs. Etta Fitzgerald, of Boston, is a guest of her mother, Mrs. A. P. MacIver.

Mr. Artie Baston was at MacDonald College for a week recently.

MARKET COMMENT

Furnished by McManamy & Walsh.

New York World—The selective nature of the market, both on advance and decline, becomes more and more apparent, however, and it is almost useless to examine the movement for a trend. What we have is a bull market of a limited number of issues. Thus far, these favored stocks have done no more than raise in their advance and some even have pushed ahead without sign of hesitation.

Wall St. Journal—Wall St. got a happy surprise when the brokers' loans figures for the week ending July 10th, were given out by the Federal Reserve Board after yesterday's close. It needed only an increase of $25,000,000 to establish a new high in collateral borrowings and it was generally expected the gain would be substantially in excess of that figure in view of the recent strength of the market.

Wall St. Journal will say today: Steel's quarter to better first. I.C.C. may seek to map mergers. Manhattan Railway dividend suit. Anaconda share listing larger. Motor outlook shows change. May paper output exceeds year ago. Say auto men favor 10 p.c. duty.

SHE'S DAUGHTER OF FRANCE'S ENVOY

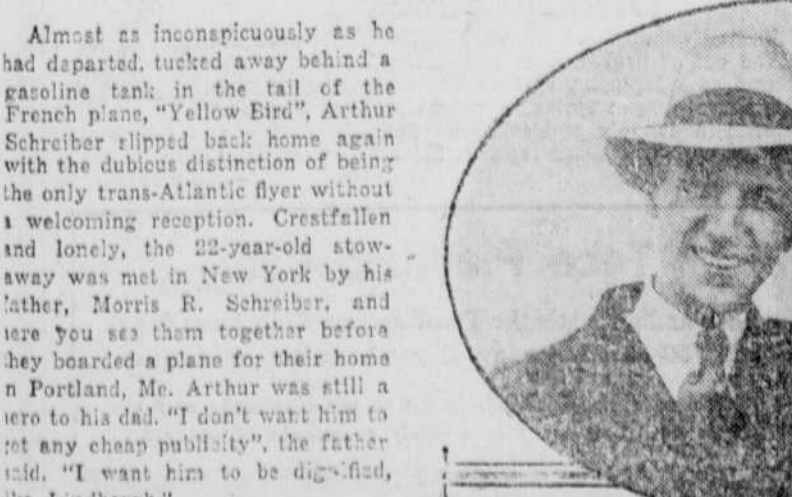

It isn't so difficult to keep cool these days if you have a nice swimming pool handy. That's one thing lovely Reine Claude, daughter of the French ambassador to the United States at Washington, has learned. She is shown here, emerging from a pool after an afternoon's swim. And while it may have been a pretty hot day to the rest of the capital folks, Mile. Claude seems rather cool here.

THE WORLD'S RICHEST BABY

Little Cordelia Mellon Scaife, believed to be the richest baby in the world, is shown as she was taking an airing the other day near her home in Pittsburgh. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Magee Scaife, and is a granddaughter of R. B. Mellon and grandniece of Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the treasury. Some day she may be heiress to the Mellon millions, of which there are many.

HOME AGAIN, STOWAWAY IS SADDER AND WISER, BUT HE'S STILL A HERO TO HIS DAD

Almost as inconspicuously as he had departed, tucked away behind a gasoline tank in the tail of the French plane, "Yellow Bird", Arthur Schreiber slipped back home again with the dubious distinction of being the only trans-Atlantic flyer without a welcoming reception. Cresfield and lonely, the 22-year-old stowaway was met in New York by his father, Morris R. Schreiber, and here you see them together before they boarded a plane for their home in Portland, Me. Arthur was still a hero to his dad. "I don't want him to get any cheap publicity," the father said. "I want him to be dignified, like Lindbergh."

SHARP UPWARD MOVEMENT ON WALL STREET MARKET

NEW YORK, July 12.—The stock market was lifted sharply higher at the opening today, when feverish buying cropped out in the utilities. A block of 11,600 shares of Consolidated Gas was taken at 14, a new top and up 7 1/2 points; a block of 20,000 shares of United Gas Improvement at 53, a new high and up 1 1/2 points, and a block of 15,000 shares of National Power and Light, up 8 1/2 points. Public Service of New Jersey, United Aircraft and Montgomery Ward rose two to three points, Auburn Auto 4 1/2, Union Carbide 1 1/2, and several issues mounted one to two points.

DECREASE IN BANKERS' LOANS SHOULD BE PLEASANT SURPRISE

NEW YORK, July 12.—The Wall Street Advisory Service today says: The decrease in brokers' loans should prove quite an agreeable surprise to the trading community and as such, re-ignite some additional bullishness. While the market has lately not presented the broad constructive front that it did last week, real buying power is still in evidence in pivotal issues to an extent sufficient to block any effort at concerned action at this juncture. Correction should continue to take its appearance, however, but as long as it is confined to recently disclosed proportions, little concern need be felt for the underlying strength of the market structure. Selling for short account has done much in recent sessions to strengthen a technical position that has been higher to become impaired. The specially moves which are now occupying the speculative limelight should prove the best trading mediums currently.

MARKET FORECAST

Early irregularity is expected to be followed by rallying tendencies, particularly in chemical utility and copper shares.

Broad Markets for Canadian Flour

The domestic market for Canadian flour is growing, and has been stabilized through the organization of "chain" bakeries in association with the milling companies. At the same time, there is a steadily increasing demand for Canadian flour in overseas countries—notably in the Orient, where bread is supplanting rice as an article of diet for millions of people.

Maple Leaf Milling Company, Limited, does a substantial part of Canada's domestic and export flour business. Its net earnings for the year ended March 31st, 1929, after depreciation and all taxes, were equivalent to more than four times the annual interest requirement of the 5 1/2% First (Closed) Mortgage Bonds which are now being issued.

We offer these bonds as a desirable investment. Price 97 1/2% and accrued interest, to yield over 5.70%.

GIANTS DIVIDE DOUBLE HEADER WITH CHICAGO

As Result of Games Played Yesterday, Pirates, Who Again Trounced Phillies, Increased Their Lead in Chase for National League Pennant to Two Games.

(By Wm. J. Chipman, Associated Press Sports Writer) NEW YORK, July 12.—The crucial battle of the Polo Grounds is being conducted to the complete satisfaction of the Pirates, who have yielded not one inch of ground since they overhauled the Cubs on Independence Day. The Bruins and the Giants split a double-header yesterday as the Pittsburgh roughriders stamped the Phillies once more. The Pirates thus added half a game to their lead by tossing the Phillies 8 to 2 while the Cubs were winning and losing. The half game was registered in the all-important games lost column, where until yesterday the Pirates were on even terms with Chicago. The Pirates now lead the Cubs by two and the Giants by five and a half. The situation of the New Yorkers is even worse than the figures indicate, as they have lost eight more games than Pittsburgh and seven more than Chicago.

GAMES IN EASTERN TOWNSHIPS LEAGUE ON SUNDAY

DRUMMONDVILLE TO PLAY ST. ROCH ON SUNDAY
As a week-end feature the Sherbrooke St. Roch players have engaged the strong Drummondville team to play here on Sunday afternoon at three o'clock.

TO RAISE PRICES OF BALL GAMES

In their efforts to give the fans of Sherbrooke a better class of baseball, the management of the St. Roch Club finds it necessary to go further afield to get teams of a suitable calibre to oppose the local aggregation. In order to do this heavy guarantees have had to be given and the present admission fee of thirty-five cents has been found inadequate to balance the budget, as four cents out of each general admission goes to the Government in the form of amusement tax.
