GERMANS INCREASING THREATS TO STALINGRAD

Soviets Offer Strong Battle Against Nazis

Desperate Efforts Being Made to Cut Off German Spearheads Crossing Don River Before Reinforcements Can Be Brought Up—Great Bend of River Offers Little Real Hindrance to Advance.

By EDDY GILMORE,
Associated Press Staff Writer

Moscow, Aug. 24.—(AP)—The Russians battled resolutely today in the narrow, flat corridor between the Don and the Volga to halt German forces which finally had consolidated a river crossing and struck out for Stalingrad, probably only forty miles away.

Another thrust at the great industrial city moved slowly ahead at terrific cost to the Kotelnikovsk sector Southwest of Stalingrad along a railway leading from the Black Sea.

The midday communique reported a violent struggle Southwest of Kletskaya where the Germans had reached the East bank of the Don, tanks which ferried the placid river constituted the greatest threat to Stalingrad.

A Soviet tank detachment was sent against the flank of the German force Northeast of Kotelnikovsk and seven German machines were destroyed, the mid-day communique said.

The struggle for Stalingrad appeared to be nearing the supreme test, Russian reports indicated, as a new crossing of the Don was forced Southeast of Kletskaya by the Germans. The Russians were fighting stubbornly to push these Germans into the river and destroy the bridgehead.

In another sector of the Kletskaya area, Russian troops broke into an enemy position during the night and, with bayonets and hand grenades, killed more than 100 Germans and destroyed a radio station and other equipment, the communique said.

In the Caucasian foothills, too, the pictured darkened today, the Russians reporting the Red army had withdrawn to a new position Southeast of Pyatigorsk, only 140 miles from the Grozny oil wells.

A tank group, which the Germans ferried across the Don at the time of their new crossing, was regarded as a serious threat to Stalingrad.

The tanks were taken across under cover provided by the German air force. Four bridgeheads established previously by the Germans had been destroyed by Russian artillery and the Red air force.

The Don itself is less than 500 yards wide in the bend and the slow-running shallow water would constitute only a minor barrier to the Germans in bringing up reinforcements if the Red Army defenders on the East side of the river were broken.

South of Krasnodar in the North-west Caucasus, where the Germans are attempting to bludgeon their way into the Caucasus.

DOLLAR-A-YEAR MEN FAYED BY LABOR LEADER

Winnipeg Mayor Declares that Dollar-a-Year Men More Interested in Balance Sheets Than Organized Effort.

Kenora, Ont., Aug. 24.—(C)—Mayor John Queen of Winnipeg said in an address here that "The war could be made shorter, and fewer lives would be lost, if Canada were organized on the basis of its utmost productive effort."

Speaking at a banquet of the fifth annual convention of the Northern Ontario District Council of Pulp and Paper Mill Unions Saturday night, Mr. Queen urged conscription of industry and finances of Canada.

"The Government has failed to organize our war effort," he said. "How can it when it gives key positions in the Department of Munitions and Supply to dollar-a-year men?" He asserted that a dollar-a-year man was interested only in the balance sheet of business and "knows less than the factory man of industry."

Charging that organized labor has been ignored in the Dominion, Mr. Queen said he hoped that after the war there would be a new world order based on labor principles, and

Canucks Made Longest Sustained Battle Of Great Commando Raid In Taking Main Beach At Dieppe

By ROSS MUNRO,
Canadian Press War Correspondent

Somewhere in England, Aug. 24.—(C) Cable.—They speak with awe in Canadian army camps of the "Main Beach at Dieppe" where three Canadian infantry battalions, tankmen, engineers and provost fought the longest sustained action of the raid on the old French town.

The Battle of the Beach was the main Canadian attack—boldly directed at the town itself. From the stories told by the men who came back this general picture has been pieced together.

The Essex Scottish landed at about 5:20 a.m. on the Eastern half of the mile-long gravel and shale beach, seventy-five yards wide. The Royal Hamilton Light Infantry went in at the same time on the Western half with the Calgary tank battalion, provost and sappers. Les Fusiliers Mont Royal landed later as reserve.

Halfway up the beach, stretched across the Canadians' path, was a thick German fire pouring from a row of buildings looking to the beach across the broad promenade edge which was supported by a long seawall.

The defenders had field guns and the row of buildings they occupied bristled with machine guns and trench mortars.

The B. A. F. and the navy blasted Dieppe for half an hour before the Canadians swept in from small troop-carrying craft and bigger tank-landing boats.

The first wave of Canadians met blistering machine-gun and mortar fire as they swept up the beach, cut their way through barbed wire and then went on again to take cover behind the seawall, ten feet high at the Eastern end and lowering gradually to two feet at the Western extremity.

Heavy shelling and a torrent of small-arms fire prevented some of the troops from debarking on the beach. German fire from the buildings along the promenade was strongly supported by Nazi artillery and machine-gun posts looking down from the tall headlands which rise up on either side.

The Hamilton battalion drove forward in force and finally captured the Dieppe Casino, a group of large buildings at the Western end of the beach. Taking the Casino which was filled with Germans was one of the features of the Main Beach operation.

The Hamilton troops moved from the Casino into the town. Capt. Denny Whitaker, former Hamilton Tiger star football quarterback, led one detachment well into Dieppe proper and engaged in a terrific street engagement. There was hand-to-hand combat and at times the Canadians plowed into the Germans with bayonets. Whitaker was among the men who got back.

One of the other Hamilton detachments battling in the streets reached the Post office near the heart of the town despite the exposure to Nazi snipers who were peppering away from rooftops and windows.

A number of the Essex Scottish also are believed to have broken into

GERMAN DECOY EFFECTIVE IN EGYPTIAN WAR

Letter from Anonymous Soldier Reveals Policy Adopted by Germans in Great Desert Tank Battle.

London, Aug. 24.—(C)—A grim insight into the terrific tank battle which preceded the British defeat in Libya has reached Britain in a letter written by an anonymous tank officer.

The officer, describing the fierce battle ending in the withdrawal from Knightsbridge, told how the Germans in the latter stages laid down smoke screens across the British front and then launched a sudden attack in strength on the left flank, followed up by a frontal assault. At the same time 88mm. guns moved up to concealed positions on the right flank, opened fire.

The Daily Telegraph and Morning Post commenting on the contents, said that it appeared possible the action, which Prime Minister Churchill told the House of Commons reduced a British force from 300 tanks to 70, extended over three or four days and not during a single battle.

"One evening a small force of British tanks took up a position on

Chinese Rapidly Offset Recent Japanese Gains In Chekiang Province

Chinese Have Won Back 110 Miles of Vital Chekiang-Kiangsi Rail Line and Are Increasing Pressure on Chuhshien and Lishui, Air Bases Constituting Threat to Tokyo—Jap Attack on Australia Turned Back.

By The Canadian Press

The Allied air wing in Australia has sent a strong flight of Japanese bombers and fighters limping home with little to show for their big week-end attack on Darwin airfield. Meanwhile, other Allied airmen drove home a new attack yesterday on the Northern Solomons in support of United States marines mopping up around Tulagi harbor.

Flying United States P-40's, the Darwin defenders met the raiding force at 25,000 feet in what Gen. Douglas MacArthur's communique described as "a brilliant tactical interception."

When the fighting was over the raiders had lost four bombers and nine Zero fighters—believed to be a record knockdown for one day in the North Australian war zone.

The defenders lost not a single plane, although they were outnumbered.

The 500-pound bombs which some of the Japanese planes were able to unload over the target area were said to have done little damage.

In their own offensive, Allied planes attacked buildings in the wharf area along Buka passage between Buka and Bougainville Islands where the Japanese still hold out in the Northern Solomons.

There was no new word from the Tulagi area, where United States landing forces were reported earlier to have smashed Japanese garrisons back into the mountains.

As the Allied offensive in the Solomons kept the Japanese occupied far afield, China's stubborn fighting forces threatened to wrest from the invaders virtually the whole fruits of their summer campaign in Kiangsi and Chekiang Provinces.

The Chinese now have won back 110 miles of the vital Chekiang-Kiangsi rail line.

They reported today that from the Eastern limits of the recaptured section of the railway they were rolling the Japanese back upon Chuhshien and Lishui, Chekiang air bases which constitute a potential menace to Tokyo.

They reported the Japanese to fall back from Kiangshan, twenty miles West of walled Chuhshien, and pushed the invaders back from Suichang within forty-five miles of Lishui. Lishui is some sixty-five miles Southeast of Chuhshien.

Another force driving around the South of Poyang Lake, North of the Segment of a rail line through Kiangsi Province, was said to have pressed to the gates of Juihung, only thirty miles East of Nanchang, principal Japanese base in Kiangsi.

SEEK NATIONAL CONFERENCE ON STEEL SCALES

Steel Workers' Executive Addresses New Letter to Prime Minister Urging Conference on Basic Wage.

By FRASER MACDOUGALL,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., August 24.—(C)—Next development in the wage dispute which threatens to bring work stoppages in the basic steel producing plants at Sault Ste. Marie and at Sydney, N.S., appeared today to hinge on the response of Prime Minister Mackenzie King to appeals from the United Steel Workers of America for a national conference of primary steel producers to bring about "an equitable solution" of demands for wage increases.

C. H. Millard, National Director for Canada of the U.S.W.A. who is handling the appeals of the Sydney and Sault unions, announced at a mass meeting of members of the Algoma Union yesterday that he had addressed a new appeal to the Prime Minister to summon a conference of employers, employees and the Government.

Mr. Millard's letter which will reach Mr. King's office today suggests such a conference be convened this week, and quotes "reliable sources" as saying that two of the largest steel producers had no objection to meeting union representatives.

Mr. Millard told the meeting: "They will want to compromise but we just won't compromise, that's all," as he said that "a very few days" should decide whether or not work stoppages would be called to enforce union demands for a basic wage rate of 55 cents an hour in the two plants.

He pointed out that the basic wage rate in Sydney, 43½ cents an hour, was too low to buy the basic necessities of life. Mr. Millard quoted from a letter written by Prime Minister Mackenzie King which said that the Sydney request for wage increases had been rejected because the Regional War Labor Board in Nova Scotia "found that the wage rates were not low within the meaning" of Order-in-council 5693 which sets forth the Government's wartime wage control policy.

Mr. Millard said: "The Sydney case was before the Board for some months before that order was passed. It now is self-evident that Sydney had a case that could not be de-

Chinese Guerillas Taking Heavy Toll Of Jap Occupation Troops

Both Morris J. Harris and James D. White are returning to the United States from internment by the Japanese in China.

Harris was chief of Bureau for the Associated Press at Shanghai, and White was correspondent at Peiping. Both have lived many years in the Far East.

By Morris J. Harris and James D. White

Aboard S.S. Gripsholm, at Sea, Aug. 24.—(AP)—The Chinese guerillas are stabbing deep into the side of the Japanese in China. They range the Japanese-occupied areas and front battlelines by uncounted thousands.

Without uniforms, with whatever arms they can beg, borrow or steal, these daring hit-and-runners, daily take an appreciable toll of Japanese life and equipment in China. Their campaigns vary from sniping a single Japanese sentry on lonely look-out duty to formidable night attacks upon military establishments and communications lines.

Raiders upon Japanese supply depots and wrecked military trains yield the major supply of arms and equipment for these fast-moving forces which receive little material support from Chuwai but little material support.

These guerillas exist by the tens of thousands, but how many tens there are no one knows, not even Chungking. The units operate separately and have but the loosest kind of liaison with each other. The power that impels them is a common hatred of the invaders.

The guerillas do most of their work when darkness gives them the element of surprise. They are day by day for the great part, they are docile and hard-working peasants seeking to wrest subsistence from the soil, and their guns are buried.

But at night, they gather in an isolated bamboo grove or ravine, arms varying from pitchforks and clubs to artillery pieces. Then they're off to the railway train that is to be wrecked and pillaged, the Japanese garrison to be attacked or whatever other objective comprises the task to be done before dawn, when again they will be peasants digging in their fields.

These bands are amazingly mobile. It is the usual thing for them to march miles to the scene of their attack, do their job and get home again all between dark and daylight.

In general the guerilla set-up in the Japanese-occupied areas goes by provinces. These divisions are largely giving the irregulars but the loosest of common command. Whatever all-high authority exists comes from Chungking via devious underground channels, and affords the guerillas little more than the barest outline of a common objective. All else is left to the individual units, including recruiting members, obtaining equipment and deciding upon and executing their campaigns.

MAJOR ROLE OF CORVETTES IN OCEAN BATTLE

Bantam Vessels Prove Important in Conveying Vital War Materiel Cargoes to Great Britain.

Home after a trip to Britain and back aboard Canadian and British corvettes, Frank Lowe, Canadian Press staff writer, has written a series of stories on the "sub-chasing vessels," of which this is the first.

By FRANK LOWE,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

An East Coast Canadian Port, Aug. 24.—(C)—Cocky bantamweights with a knockout jolt in either fist are the corvettes of the Royal Canadian Navy, and they strut the sea roads endlessly on the hunt for trouble.

Sometimes they find it. More often, they just prow, muscles flexed for a wallop at their deadly enemy, the submarine. But always, they get the convoys through.

The corvettes had a chance to deal out a few lethal blows on a two-way North Atlantic crossing I have just completed on board these pygmy sub-busters and similar ships of the Royal Navy. Whether their blows found the mark may never be known, but the crews do know this: They didn't lose a ship.

In the six weeks of the convoy trip over the sub-haunted Atlantic, the little scrappers helped shepherd nearly two hundred merchant ships from port to port. Like their brothers who are carrying the names of Canadian cities and towns into the salty byways in ever-growing numbers, they never ducked a fight in carrying out that job.

The first scent of imminent danger to their charges brought an instant rush to come to grips with the expected enemy. Explosive "ash cans" battered at him from below; above, guns were manned in the hope he should be hounded to the surface.

But these flashes of action were rare, as they are to crews of the battle-craft helping keep the stream of life flowing to Britain. The sailors themselves think of their patrol only as long stretches of dull duty when they scrape paint, wash decks and eat and sleep. They actually welcome as breaks in the monotony the short, feverish periods of activity when the depth charges shake the seas like a cocktail and the guns bark reassurance to the convoy.

But action seemed far off as the South American Nations Waiting Attitude Of Argentina To Brazil

Buenos Aires, Aug. 24.—(AP)—South American diplomats awaited with undisguised interest today a statement by the Argentine Government clarifying its position in the new international situation created by Brazil's entry into the war against Germany and Italy.

While the Foreign Office, which announced last night that such a statement would be forthcoming, gave no indication of its attitude, there was general belief the Government would grant Brazil non-belligerent status, thus enabling her ships to use Argentine ports as in peace times.

The position of Argentina—one of two Western Hemisphere countries still maintaining relations with the Axis powers—was thrown into bold relief by an expression of solidarity with Brazil which came from their joint neighbor, Uruguay.

In a message to President Vargas of Brazil, President Baldomir of Uruguay said his country is ready to carry out the Havana agreement which he said "makes the continent a single nation against aggressions of a non-American state."

Some observers took this statement as an indication that Uruguay might follow Brazil into the war. An announcement issued in Montevideo last night by Foreign Minister Alberto Guani after a series of conferences with the Brazilian and United States ambassadors said the Uruguayan Government has decided on the terms of a decree fixing its position, but details were not immediately disclosed.

It is expected the decree certainly will grant Brazil non-belligerent status.

In direct support of her Northern neighbor, meanwhile, Uruguay began a roundup of Germans and Italians who had fled across the border from Brazil.

PREDICTS HOT WATER RATIONING

New York, Aug. 24.—(AP)—If New York City is to have hot water rationing, as Mayor F. H. La Guardia suggested last week, the order apparently is going to have to come from Washington. In his weekly broadcast Sunday he said that "in all likelihood, if regulations are to be necessary they will come from Washington, and in all likelihood they will be far more severe than those we have now under study."

Ontario Leaves Prosecutions On Defence Regulations To Dominion

Toronto, August 24.—(C)—Ontario authorities today had orders from Attorney-General Gordon Conant not to enforce regulations 39, 39A and 39B of the Defence of Canada Regulations—but to forward all data concerning future occurrences to the Attorney-General of Canada for such action as he may see fit.

Mr. Conant's order was contained in a memorandum sent out to Ontario law enforcement authorities simultaneously with disclosure of his announcement to Justice Minister Louis St. Laurent that the Province no longer would enforce these regulations which make it an offence for any person to act in such manner as to prejudice the war effort and the safety of the state.

The Attorney-General said they "are not uniformly construed and applied in all the provinces" and "other words, the brand of justice dispensed in Ontario with respect thereto is substantially different from the brand of justice dispensed in some of the other provinces."

"In my opinion the anomaly can only be rectified by the Attorney-General of Canada and his department having the conduct of all such cases, so that by the submission of counsel on his behalf and by appeals some substantial degree of uniformity may be attained in the enforcement of Regulations 39 and 39A," Mr. Conant wrote to the Justice Minister.

Mr. Conant referred to his communications to two recent cases under the regulations—the prosecution of Lt.-Col. George Drew, Ontario Conservative Leader, and Rene Chaloult, Independent Liberal member of the Quebec Legislature for Lethbridge. The Crown dropped its case against Col. Drew. Mr. Chaloult was acquitted.

The prosecution of Mr. Chaloult is discussed by Mr. Conant as an example of his complaint against lack of uniformity in dispensing justice.

"As Attorney-General of Canada you have, presumably, directed counsel to consent to prosecutions in two important and widely publicized cases, i.e., Rex V. Drew and Rex V. Chaloult," Mr. Conant wrote. "I presume that other prosecutions have been similarly instituted with your concurrence."

"Although the Drew case arose in this Province, I did not direct counsel to consent to, and this Department took no part in, the prosecution."

EASTERN COAST GOSPEL SERVICE FREE AND EASY

Fighting Men of Many Nations Crowd Y.M.C.A. Hostel for Old Hymns and Preaching
Sunday Night.

By AGATHA PALMER,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.
Halifax, August 24.—Sturdy figures crowd the room—figures in khaki, in navy and in air force blue.
The night outside is hot, but a cool breeze comes beneath the blinds to make a pleasant refuge of this Halifax hostel of the Young Men's Christian Association—a former Ladies' College which is now one of the oldest hostels in the war. It opened December 6, 1939.

The weekly Sunday programme is scheduled for 8:30, but the warm weather has led officials to postpone it until 9 p.m. "After all," they say,
"you can't blame the boys for liking to stay outside in fine weather."

Now P. G. Ibsen, who leads these programmes, weaves, sings, and the men into the tide of favorite songs.
An industrious helper flashes slides of the words on a screen to assist the soldier or sailor of poor memory.

Cigarettes glow here and there through the dusk. A boy in a front row drowsily lights a cigarette. A girl in white flashes quick fingers across the keys of the piano, and uniformed figures sway as several score vibrant voices follow the gyrations of Mr. Ibsen's shirt-sleeves.

"...But I and my true love never-more shall meet.
On these bonnie, bonnie banks of Loch Lomond."

A Scottish voice wails from the back of the room. "Say, you've got that line wrong! It's 'ME and my true love!'"

At the canteen on one side of the room, a constant chinking makes itself heard through the interludes of song. Perched at the counter, a row of boys crack jokes with volunteer girls in blue smocks, then fall silent to listen to their comrades.

Major J. D. MacLeod, an army chaplain who has already spoken at three services today, rises to speak on those words written by St. John on stormy Patmos: "There shall be no more sea." Men, he points out, are like islands surrounded by a sea of loneliness that separates them from other men. "A new world where there is no more sea! Only that which is worthy of the blood which is being shed today."

Hymns are sung. Thomas Edmonds, a naval rating who before the war was active in musical circles at Montreal, stands up to sing a solo, "I Walked with Giants." Then comes Home Rule, when the boys, rising, respond to the name of their homeland as it is called out.
"How many born in Scotland? In England?" Unpronounceable Welsh names roll forth, seem to be entirely composed of consonants. A blond Polish boy is so bashful he has practically to be dragged into the room, but a thick-set Czechoslovakian with dimples strides to the front jocosely.

There are only nine nationalities present tonight. Sometimes, says Mr. Ibsen, there are as many as sixteen. Then representatives from these nationalities are called to the front, and together with the crowd they sing "Blest Be the Tie That Binds."

Patriotic songs follow, a brief prayer, and then the benediction in the chaplain's clipped tones falls slowly through the stillness.

John A. MacGregor, manager of the hostel, waves his programme in laughing dismissal. A scraping of chairs and a hubbub of voices rises as the throng surges towards the door.

Voyage started in this harbor.
Cloaked in shadows, the corvette looked more like an overgrown tug than a floating bit of sudden death.
Her crew, decorated and unadorned, lounged on deck and talked of everything but sea battles.

When morning came, they were fighting men again. Smartly the corvette swung into her place, last ship in the tight battle line that was settling out to deliver another consignment of the goods.

TOTAL EFFORT CONDEMNED BY U.N. CHIEFTAIN

Introduction of Conscription and Huge Financial Expenditure Under Attack by Maurice Duplessis.

Three Rivers, Que., August 14.—
Maurice Duplessis, leader of the Opposition Union Nationale Party in the Quebec Legislature, told a political rally yesterday that if his party had been re-elected in the general provincial elections of 1939 "We would have been strong enough to make Dominion Government leaders keep their promises to carry on a moderate war effort."

Mr. Duplessis, who headed the Union Nationale Government from 1926 to 1939, said that when war broke out "some English-speaking people said they wanted a moderate war effort." Shortly afterwards, he said, the Government borrowed $200,000,000.

"I didn't think that was a moderate effort, and I decided to go to the people to ask them what they thought about it. I told you then that I would have conscription, that you would have conscription, the Opposition said 'No, we will have a moderate effort.'"

"Now you have conscription. You haven't had it since yesterday. If we had had it for two years, if we had had it strong enough to make every man keep the promises they had made."

On these bonnie, bonnie banks of

ANOTHER GREAT UNITED STATES CONVOY LANDS

Arrival of Greatest U.S. Force Coincides with Establishment of Independent Iraq-Iran Command.

London, Aug. 24.—The arrival of still another American convoy—the largest yet to cross the Atlantic in this war—stirred British observers anew today to speculation on a second front.

The convoy was so large its laden troops and transports scattered to many British ports to unload men and weapons now dispersed among waiting American bases.

At the same time the War Office announced formation of a new Iran command under Gen. Sir Maitland Wilson in the Allies' oil reservoir behind Russia's imperiled Caucasus.

Britons saw creation of an independent command in that area under the firm right hand of Gen.
Sir Archibald Wavell as one fruit of Prime Minister Churchill's stopover in Egypt en route to Moscow, at which time he held a long conference with Gen. Wilson.

By this step, Britain divided into three separate commands, giving Gen. Wilson military autonomy in the RAF in all three zones, however.
Gen. Wilson, sixty, is regarded by Mr. Churchill as one of Britain's finest tacticians. As British Com-sponsible for defending the Western Desert in the trying months after the fall of France. He led the British Expeditionary Force which stiffened the defences of overwhelmed Greece in 1941 and directed the successful British campaign in Syria.

Chief Air Marshal Sir Arthur William Tedder, with headquarters in Egypt, will retain command of the RAF in all three zones, however.

"In reading the text of the judgment of the court in the Rex V.
Chaloult case, I cannot avoid the impression that the interpretation and application of Regulation 39A in that case differed materially from what has been and from what I am of the opinion would be the attitude of the courts of this Province under similar facts and circumstances. In the Chaloult case the court acquitted the accused apparently on the grounds of 'good faith'; that he did not have 'guilty knowledge' and that the statements of the accused did not go beyond the limits of simple error of judgment."

Mr. Conant said that in the Rex
V. Stewart (The Daily Clarion) case in 1940 the Ontario Court of Appeal in a judgment delivered by Chief Justice R. S. Robertson, rejected all such grounds of defence and held with regard to the regulations in question that: "Their prohibitions are absolute and that it is not a defence in a prosecution for their breach to say that what was done was done in ignorance or without intending any harm. The acts prohibited are to be stopped."

"In the result," Mr. Conant wrote, "Regulations 39, 39A and 39B are not uniformly construed and applied in all the Provinces. In other words the brand of justice dispensed in Ontario with respect thereto is substantially different from the brand of justice dispensed in some of the other provinces. This situation is, in my view, impossible and a distinct denial of the fundamental principles in the administration of justice."

Two Hit-And-Run Accidents Are Investigated By Police

Driver Fails to Stop After Striking Horse-Drawn Rig on Belvidere Street—Seek Motorist Who Struck and Damaged Parked Bicycle on Wellington Street North—Four Other Mishaps Occurred on Week-End.

Two persons were injured in a variety of six accidents in the city during the week-end, as police reported today that two of the mishaps which they termed "hit-and-run" affairs still were being investigated.

When the bicycle she was riding collided with an automobile in front of 100 Frontenac Street, Mrs. L. P. Beaulieu, 119 Marquette Street, was injured and removed to St. Vincent de Paul Hospital, where she was treated by Dr. A. Berube. Held for observation, X-rays will be taken later today to determine the exact nature of her injuries.

Police said the driver of the car was L. A. Keith, Beckett Road, Sherbrooke, who was travelling from West to East on Frontenac Street. The injured woman was making a U-turn at the time of the accident. The bike and machine were damaged slightly.

The shaft of a horse-drawn wagon driven by Hector Therberge, R.R. No. 1, Sherbrooke, was damaged when it was struck by a car in front of 173 Belvidere Street. Therberge informed police that the driver of the machine failed to stop after the accident. The wagon and the auto were both Southbound when the mishap occurred.

Police also are seeking the driver of the machine that struck and badly damaged a parked bicycle in front of 19 Wellington Street North. The wheel is the property of L. Beaulieu, 43 Fabre Street.

L. E. Lessard, an employee of the City Roads Department, injured the toe of his right foot with a pick while he was engaged in a digging project on McManamy Street. The injured man was treated by Dr. Leo Blais.

Four cars were slightly damaged as a result of two collisions. Drivers involved in the first accident were Roger Houle, R.R. No. 2, Sherbrooke, and E. MacLean, 3 Prospect Street.

The other mishap occurred on Belvidere Street near the intersection of Galt Street. Sam Frechette, 265 Alexander Boulevard, and Mrs. Genevieve Gauthier, 29 King George Street, were the operators of the machines.

Highly Successful Three-Day Exhibition Concluded Saturday Night at Richmond—$500 in Certificates Sold.

Richmond, Aug. 24.—A highly successful Richmond Fair was written into the records on Saturday night after three days of entertaining, judging, competitions and attractions, and directors of the Richmond County Agricultural Society were well pleased with the results obtained, and with the ideal weather which prevailed throughout.

Included on the Saturday programme were the horse and cattle races in the afternoon, the grandstand attractions after dark, and selections throughout the day by the Richmond Band.

The workday drawing by the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire was won by Mrs. George Chamberlain. It was noted that $500 worth of War Savings Certificates were sold by the I.O.D.E. members, and that $140 was raised on Friday in a tag campaign.

The victory vegetable garden entered by Leslie Taylor, of Cleveland, drew much favorable comment in the Main Building, as did the array of cut flowers and potted plants. Principal winners in this section were Mrs. C. Pease, Mrs. F. Woods and Mrs. J. Ashman. Large crowds visited the building every evening, it being the first year the building has remained open at night.

Rural And Summer Resorts To Be Scoured For Rubber Scrap In Drive This Week

Here's one summer resident who isn't going to let those hot water bottles, bathing caps and tires hang around all winter. C. E. Soles, Sherbrooke Postmaster, said today that rural and summer resorts in this sector will be scoured for scrap rubber in a drive opening today and which will continue until September 8.

Nearly 10,000 rural postal employees in Ontario and Quebec are volunteering their services as the collection agency. Rural mail delivery patrons are requested to pile their scrap rubber at the foot of rural boxes and patrons of rural post offices are requested to bring their scrap rubber to the post office when calling for mail.

Mr. Soles said that the rubber drive is being timed to coincide with the conclusion of the summer resort season when summer residents conveniently can part, for instance, with their old rubber tires, and at a convenient season for scrap rubber clean up on farms and in rural homes.

He added that the primary intention is to get the rubber out of the rural and summer resort areas before the Labor Day exit. While old tires should prove to be one of the most prolific sources of reclaim rubber supply a myriad of other articles such as hot water bottles, fly swatters, typewriter key tips, rubber date stamps, swimming tubes and the like, should find their way to piled up heaps of scrap rubber which are to supply vital needs in war effort.

It was pointed out that city residents receiving their mail by letter carrier are specifically excluded from this particular campaign because the addition of city collections would add too much to the task of post office departments in one collection drive.

CANNED CORNED BEEF MUST BE ALL TURNED IN

Canned corned beef which was called in from the merchant shelves and warehouses a month ago is not coming in as it should to meet the pressing demand and its delivery must be expedited, according to a letter received this morning by Lucien Hebert, Local Wartime Prices and Trade Board Officer, from Clive Plante, Food Administrator, Ottawa.

Mr. Hebert said that the Red Cross needed corned beef for prisoners-of-war parcels. "Men serving in the Navy and Merchant Marine require continuous supplies for their rations and tenders of lighthouses and remote weather stations must be provided for," he pointed out.

He added that possibly some of the retailers did not realize the urgency of the call as they have shown little tendency to comply with Order 288, July 9, which is mandatory and their corned beef must be turned in. It was explained at the same time that it is not necessary for a retailer to notify the wholesaler that he is making the shipment. "All he needs to do is ship it. He can bill the wholesaler for his invoiced cost and shipping charges as provided by the order," Mr. Hebert said in calling the attention of all merchants.

NEW CURATE IS APPOINTED FOR IRISH CHURCH

Another change in the appointment of a curate at St. Patrick's Church to act as assistant to Rev. Canon J. C. McGee was announced today when it was learned that Rev. Father Forest, of Lake Megantic, curate at St. Agnes' Church in that municipality, would assume those duties tomorrow.

Rev. Father Forest, who was recently nominated curate at St. Patrick's to replace Rev. Father Pepin, has been transferred to St. Michael's Cathedral where he will act as curate.

Rev. Father Forest has been in this diocese for the past six months, having come here from Three Rivers.

PERSONALITY A BIG FACTOR IN INSURANCE SALE

Toronto, Aug. 24.—Canadian salesmen will move into the life insurance field during the war with increasing success, in the opinion of several insurance company officials in Toronto, as they should know.

Statistics compiled by one company show clients enjoy the women's sales talks. Few have turned down the woman representative in favor of a male agent. Saleswomen themselves discount as nonsense stories of women barred from the insurance business by masculine prejudice. Men who know their insurance believe saleswomen will have a full-time job during and after the war. What do personnel managers look for in prospective insurance representatives? First, sound business sense combined with a pleasing personality. But thumbs down on glamour. Feminine wiles alone will never sell a life insurance policy, the experts say. Unusual educational standards are not essential. Women between twenty-five and forty with broad social contacts, perseverance and initiative are generally preferred. Enthusiasm for work and ability to "like people" are important qualifications.

Careful selection and improved training methods have decreased the possibility of mistakes in the insurance business. All applicants must try an aptitude index test before their future as representatives is considered. For instance: "Do you ever late for an appointment?" "Are you easily discouraged?" Only the insurance saleswoman can answer these—and seventy-eight similar questions—satisfactorily.

One saleswoman who knows the answers is Jane Knowlton of Toronto. A successful insurance representative for fourteen years, she believes in adding a feminine touch to her sales talk; does much of her business over a friendly cup of tea. Mrs. Knowlton recently was admitted to her company's "Million Dollar Club." Entrance requirement is sale of $1,000,000 in insurance policies.

Mrs. Knowlton admits she entered the insurance business "because it looked easy." Now she advises would-be saleswomen to expect their share of hard work. "It takes courage and perseverance for a woman to make a career in this field," But she finds her work exciting and enjoys the keen competition it offers.

TEN FATALITIES ON WEEK-END

Ten fatalities were reported in Eastern Canada over the week-end. Four persons died as a result of traffic accidents, three were drowned, one man was killed by a fall, another by a farm tractor, and a baby was electrocuted.

Four of the fatalities were in Ontario. Harry Gilroy, 24-year-old electrician, fell eighteen floors to his death from a Toronto hotel while repairing an electric sign. At Waterford, Ronald Lewis, 17, was fatally injured when the tractor he was driving got out of control and overturned, pinning him underneath.

Joseph Giovannazzi, 60, driver of a truck that caught fire after a collision, died in hospital at Fort Erie of severe burns. At Brantford John Riddolls, twenty-months-old son of Major and Mrs. W. E. Riddolls, was electrocuted while playing with an electrical extension cord in his bedroom.

There were also four fatalities in Quebec, including a double drowning. Mr. and Mrs. Louis St. Jacques were drowned in the St. Lawrence near Riviere du Loup while attempting to rescue a young girl, who later reached shore in safety.

At Montreal Bertha Morin, 36, died in hospital with a regaining consciousness after being struck by a motorcycle while she was cycling, and four-year-old Jacques Poirier died when a motorcar ran into a group of church-goers.

The two other week-end fatalities were in the Maritimes. At Glace Bay four-year-old Mary Lawrence was struck and killed by a motorcar while she was crossing the street, and Sgt. Edward Saunders, back home at Saint John on leave from Newfoundland, was drowned when he lost his hold on a capsized canoe.

BRAZIL ENTERS THE FIGHT

Once again the Nazi policy of diplomacy by terrorism has backfired and brought additional support for the nations battling aggression. Evidently with the idea of frightening the leading South American Republic, Brazil, from lending economic aid to the United Nations, German submarines have been sinking Brazilian merchantmen off the coast of that country. The idea may have been very nice on paper, but it showed the typical Teutonic inability to understand a human nature that differed in the slightest respect from its own, for the terrorist campaign, instead of scaring the Brazilians into an agreement with the Axis only served to embitter these fighting-loving Latins to the point that the people would consider nothing less than a formal and actual declaration of war on the Axis, which declaration came over the week-end.

The moral effect of the Brazilian entry into the struggle will be even more important than the military and naval aid which it might extend, substantial as the latter may be, for the Republic is considered as the leader of a group of the leading South American powers. Thus it might be that the entry of Brazil may induce some of these anti-Axis republics to throw their lot in with the common cause, taking an active part in the conflict rather than merely sitting on the sidelines and lending economic aid. A notable possibility in this respect is Chile, who has for some time been urging Brazil to do something drastic, promising its fullest support in the fight against Germany, Italy and Japan.

The Brazilian move will serve also to clear up one of the nests of espionage which has long troubled the Allies in South America, as the Government is reported actively rounding up all Axis nationals and sympathizers, confiscating their property and generally taking action to prevent them from being of further use to their principals.

SUBSTITUTE FUELS STUDIED

A bank of scientific knowledge, to be drawn on should gasoline supplies become even more scant, is being built up by Canadian scientists studying substitute fuels. One evidence of the study was the issuance by the National Research Council of a hundred-page publication discussing wood and charcoal as fuel for vehicles. Council officials said that a committee on substitute fuels, set up several months ago, was continuing its study of the most efficient replacements of gasoline.

"The purpose of all this work is to be fully informed," said an official. "It may be called the fact-finding preparedness against the day when gasoline supplies might become further restricted. That day may never come, but if it does Canada will have the information at hand to enable it to apply the use of substitute fuels with the utmost efficiency."

The committee examining substitutes is headed by J. H. Parkin, of the National Research Council.

The detailed examination of wood and charcoal as fuel for vehicles, prepared by R. Ruedy, of the Research Council's Research plans and Publications Section, showed the limitations of such substitutes for gasoline, based on widespread experience in their use in other lands.

The substitute fuels are used with producer gas units, which, attached to motor vehicles, manufacture gas. The gas is transmitted to the cylinders and acts as a propulsive force like gasoline, but with some reduction in power.

Officials said, however, that producer gas appeared to be one of the most likely substitutes should an emergency develop. Tests of this substitute have been extensive in the United Kingdom, Europe and Australia, and producer gas units now are being manufactured in Quebec, where vehicles using this equipment had been in operation for some years.

With its limitations recognized, officials said producer gas was important to Canada as a substitute for gasoline as it would normally be obtained from surplus fuels and waste.

Thus while under ideal conditions it would not give more than eighty per cent of the power obtained from the same volume of gasoline and air mixture, and in practical applications the reduction might be fifty per cent, the question of comparable efficiency did not arise because it would be used under emergency conditions due to gasoline being extremely short or unobtainable. The costs of the fuel required should be moderate.

THE COSSACKS ARE BACK

Perhaps a generation has sprung up since the last war which knows the Cossacks only as a famous, indeed matchless, choir of male voices. But during the great German offensive in Russia they will have read that the Cossacks dashed in here and dashed in there and with tommy-gun and sword have broken up and destroyed not only infantry but tank squadrons. The cry "The Cossacks Are Coming" has struck dismay among the Germans, who have learned that in these days of motorized warfare there is still a place for fearless horsemen who can ride great distances by night across trackless country and attack where and when least expected.

The Soviet Government has made great use of Cossacks, about 40,000 being employed after the invasion last summer, and the number has probably greatly increased since then, notwithstanding heavy casualties. They are farming people who were always noted for their fine breed of horses, forming in 1914 a body of about 3,300,000 people on the steppes. They were almost a self-contained race, speaking a dialect of their own, but were fiercely Russian, loyal to the Czar and sometimes clashed with their fellow-Russians in defence of their lands. The eldest son of the Czar was their hereditary chief. They formed their own military organization distinct from the Imperial army. They sided with the Kerensky revolution but after the Bolsheviks assumed control a great many of them fled the country and scattered all over Europe and the United States. It was from refugee officers that the Don Cossacks choir was formed in the United States, they having no money with which to buy land.

In peacetime the Cossacks had their distinctive uniform, but in war they dress like the other soldiers. They are fighting again in defence of Russia, even although it is a Communist Russia, and their discipline, fearlessness, ruthlessness and ingenuity instil terror into the hearts of the Nazis.

MASTER YOUR MIND

By Grenville Kleiser

You will often find that the task which is really the biggest and most important is not necessarily the most pressing; that there are smaller, perhaps more tiresome, jobs which take precedence because they are needed first. If that is so, then tackle those smaller, troublesome things first.

Put out of your mind every other thought. Forget that, when they are done, there will be that other, very important, thing to do. Concentrate on the little, urgent things—the letters that must catch one particular mail, the job you promised finished by a certain time.

This concentration will enable you to clear those little, worrying tasks out of the way far faster than you had thought possible; then you will be able to give your whole mind to the big, important job that lies before you.

In the same way, if you have two things of about equal importance to do, and know that you will find one much more interesting than the other, do the dull one first, trying to forget the other.

If you use up your energy in doing the thing you like, you will come to the other with no zest to supply your loss of energy; you will have lost both strength and keenness. How will you then face a heavy and dull task?

Never let your thoughts stray from one piece of work to another; assess the various things awaiting your attention, plan the best order in which to do them, and then keep to it, bending the whole of your energy, will and attention to the one in hand.

Planning like this, you will often find that you have a few spare moments unallotted to any particular task. Even these should not be wasted; there are always a half dozen trifles, unimportant in themselves, which mount up to a considerable bulk if they are allowed to accumulate.

The man who can concentrate is master of his mind. He governs it habitually. Whatever he is doing, he is always "on the spot." At work, he keeps his attention wholly on the job in hand; at play he banishes all thoughts of business.

It is just as bad to carry business and financial problems into your hours of recreation as it is to carry your thoughts of pleasure into the office; for in both cases you are preventing yourself from getting maximum results.

When you lock your desk at the end of a hard day, lock up your business problems in it and leave them there until you reopen it next day. When you enter the office, leave on the doorstep your memories of that bridge game or dance, your anticipations of the coming evening.

PRESS COMMENTS

HALF-HEARTED WAR POLICIES SCORED

Toronto Globe and Mail

The speech which Percy J. Philip, resident Canadian correspondent of the New York Times, delivered at the Couchiching Conference will win for his brow no garlands from Ministerial gardens in Ottawa. It obviously was an honest pronouncement of conclusions reached after a close study of the situation in Canada by an impartial and experienced observer. Nor can Mr. Philip be accused of animosity toward the King Ministry or of seeking to destroy confidence in it, for in his despatches to his paper he has been consistently friendly.

Mr. Philip is a realist, with a keenly analytical mind, who does not hesitate to admit a change of opinion or point of view. At one time he was disposed to say a kind word for Marshal Petain and his associates, but their craven and misguided courses gradually alienated his sympathy. He has nothing but admiration for the Canadian people, and particularly their gallant youth. In his speech he gave them pride of place for going to war against Hitler in 1939 alone of all the American nations. But the complacency of their Government has evidently come to irritate him, and so he seized the occasion to assume the role of candid friend.

He bluntly declared that, valuable as the material benefits of the Ogdensburg and Hyde Park agreement might have been, these have been largely nullified by their damaging effects upon the outlook and morale of the Canadian people. In his view, they had operated to drug them into a false sense of security, and made them relapse into the somnolent condition from which they had been awakened by the fall of France. This is indeed a bold criticism of these much-advertised pacts.

This newspaper cordially welcomed and approved of these agreements at the time of their conclusion, and can still see great possibilities in them. But there is merit in what Mr. Philip says of their secondary bad effects. They bred in the minds of the Canadian people a belief that they were now safely under the sheltering wing of the mighty United States, and could count upon immunity from hostile attack. The pacts encouraged Ottawa to persevere with half-hearted war policies, and lulled the public to accept them as adequate. Mr. Philip also revealed how partisans of the Vichy Government had used them to argue that, since Canada had sought refuge in the arms of a neutral power, the great days of the British Commonwealth were over.

THE WAR CABINET

The Times, London.

The War Cabinet was called or forced into existence by the very need which is negatively confessed and exemplified in the multitude of committees. Its purpose is to simplify and clarify the control of administrative activities that, under the pressure of war, have come to cover almost the whole of national life. It is, or should be, an inner

ALL LEND A HAND

La Presse, Montreal.

It should not be forgotten that the form of income tax adopted by Ottawa is new. Perhaps it is not in reality as complicated as it seems to be. But the taxpayer as a rule likes to know exactly what he has to pay without undertaking long calculations. The Federal authorities, therefore, are answering a popular demand by showing as exactly as possible what such each one is called upon to contribute to the Treasury. All Canadians will not be prepared to admit, in agreement with Mr. Hsley, that their earning power has been augmented since the war, since the beginning of the war, and that in consequence it will be easy for them to pay. They understand that grave circumstances necessitate heavier sacrifices than any to which Canada has ever so far consented. In the same way, employers have a responsibility, that of withdrawing the tax at its source. In undertaking to determine and gather the sum due by each employee they are rendering a fine service to the Government by saving it time and expense for which it would have received no remuneration. Let employees set themselves at least to simplify the task of their employers by carefully filling up forms which have been given them.

Council of Ministers, each specially concerned with some large department of policy, having the duty of giving broad decisions and also of following them up to secure prompt and accurate execution, yet free from immersion in routine and free therefore to take his share in the conduct of the war as a whole. When the War Cabinet is working at its best, responsibility for the translation of decisions into action will be placed squarely upon the appropriate departments, which can be held to account for errors or delays. Few such transactions will not require consultation with other departments; but consultation should not inevitably imply the elaboration of a standing committee, nor, if the duty of action has been rightly imposed from the centre, will it be impaired by those battles over jurisdiction which are an all too familiar feature of the war within the war. The essential is that members of the War Cabinet shall exert to the full the authority which Parliament has granted them in full. Are they all in a position to do so? Has the Minister of Production, for example, all the powers that belong to his office and its name? Authority at the centre must extend over the whole field. The great agglomeration of administrative organs cannot be steered and driven unless the War Cabinet has full and real control of policy and strategy. Conversely, the administration must be shaped, where necessary, to allow of this control.

It is not good for the public to feel that all the glorious work toward winning this war—and toward winning the peace which will follow—is performed by the men in uniform.—Daniel L. Marsh, President Boston University.

CHAPTER 3

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

By Wm. E. McKenney, America's Card Authority.

EXIT IS IMPORTANT IN BRIDGE DEFENCE

This week I am going to talk about exiting. By an exit we mean a lead that will put the other side in without damage to the leader's side. One of the chief tasks in defence is to decide when an exit is called for, and when it is necessary to take positive action to develop one's own tricks.

In today's hand the defence began by three diamond leads. West ruffing the third. Declarer cashed the ace and king of trumps, then led a club from dummy. South ducked and West won. Another club lead knocked out the ace. South led a low heart. West played low and the queen won, giving the declarer his contract.

When criticized for letting himself be end-played, South stated that in view of the established clubs, he would have to lead hearts anyhow in the hope that North held the ace.

As in many cases, simple arithmetic should show South his correct defence. He knows that West can win exactly five trump tricks, no more until he himself has opened hearts to give dummy a remote ruff. Declarer can also win three clubs.

That leaves him two short for the contract, and he can make his bid only by winning the first two rounds of hearts. The indicated defence is for South to hop up with

2. If a neighbor who has a vegetable garden occasionally gives you vegetables would it be thought of you to take her flowers from your flower garden whenever they are especially lovely?

3. If you are giving a tea and inviting some of the women in your neighborhood would it be gracious to include the next-door neighbor, who is a newcomer to town?

4. Is it usually a good idea for parents of small children to criticize the behavior of other neighborhood children?

5. Because you have had several children and your neighbor is taking care of her first baby, should you tell her how you did things?

Public Speaking "Panic" Dis-spelled by Home Study

Member Makes Bad Impression

So you never thought they'd ask you to speak!

You can't avoid being asked, sooner or later, if you belong to a group. And even if you only say one little sentence, you sound lovely or awful, depending on whether or not you know public speaking rules.

Maybe you get stage fright, make a poor impression before you even open your mouth. Simple "Don'ts" help prevent this. DON'T scramble to your feet—take your time. DON'T hold anything while speaking.

It helps your voice to practise enunciation at home. Then you're sure you won't ruin people's impression of you by saying "Yes, air childe's macken the samwiches".

Important, too, to be up on parliamentary rules—to know how to address the chair.

Our 32-page booklet tells how you can improve your vocabulary, voice, pronunciation. Describes how to prepare a speech, hold attention, be at ease. Gives sample speeches, rules of parliamentary procedure.

Send 15c in coins for your copy of "Public Speaking Self-Taught" to Daily Record, Home Service, Sherbrooke. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

SPEAKING OF BEAUTY. DON'T OVERLOOK VOICE

BY ALICIA HART

Some stars of stage and screen have faces so homely—well, homely enough to be funny. It takes a sense of humor, and a rare one, to make your fortune out of that sort of face. And either you're born funny or you take years to acquire a quick sense of comedy.

There's a comedian named Howard, there is one quality the comedienne has that any woman can acquire pretty quickly. That's—a charming voice.

A girl can speak pleasantly even though her natural pitch is high. Her tone must be full. In order to get that, she needs to make her breathing-apparatus work properly. That is what produces the full tone.

Breathing Exercises Will Improve Voice

So if you want a pleasing voice, begin with breathing exercises. Check your breathing habits. Press palms against your ribs, under arms, and take a breath. Feel your sides pressing against palms? That's correct! If you do not feel your chest expanding sideways as you inhale, try it in reverse. With hands on ribs, press in and exhale, deeply, and push ribs in. Then, inhale and let the chest expand sideways. Repeat this a dozen times daily. In a short time you'll breathe without giving it a thought.

Diction is important, too. Ask yourself whether you slur your words and rattle on. If you do, notice the irritating effect of the habit. And try to correct it—consciously. First, with practice, clear, pleasant speech will come naturally, too.

One easy step in voice-training is to read aloud to yourself for ten to thirty minutes a day. One reason's work on your voice may get you the job or the date you have been longing for.

Miss Hope Seiveright, of Ste. Anne de Bellevue, is a guest of Miss Lyndall Jackson at her home on London Street.

Mrs. M. C. Armstrong, of Lennoxville, is in Montreal, whither she was summoned by the serious illness of her sister, Miss A. Billen, who is a patient in the Royal Victoria Hospital.

Miss Nancy Nicol returned last night from Montreal, where she was a guest at the Haley-Brown wedding which took place on Saturday afternoon in the Church of St. James the Apostle.

Mr. and Mrs. James Trickett and Mrs. Frank Johnson, of Lawrence, Mass., who have been guests for the past week of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Jowett, Aberdeen Avenue, returned this morning to their home.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hovey and their daughter, Miss Margaret, who have been holidaying at Woodland Bay, where they were guests at "Wayonder," Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Rugg's summer home on Lake Massawippi, are again in residence at their home on Viny Street.

The grounds were beautifully lighted by electricity and though the sky was overcast, the evening proved perfect for the large gathering which came from surrounding points to participate in this unique feast of sugar on snow.

ECONOMY-MINDED CANNERS USE SYRUP — AND LEFT-OVER JARS

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX

Here are two recipes for sugar economy in putting up peaches or apricots. Glass jars are used in place of granulated sugar, and the jars are left-over empty coffee and other glass containers, for which special lids can be purchased at grocery stores.

Select firm ripe peaches or apricots of uniform shape, allowing 3 to 3½ lbs. of fruit for each coffee jar to be filled. Prepare a syrup using ¼ cup sugar and ½ cup glass jar of water. Add a cracked peach pit for each quart of syrup, then boil 5 minutes. Remove any seeds and strain out pits. About 1 cup of the prepared syrup will be needed for each coffee jar of fruit.

Immerse the fruit in boiling water for about ½ minute. Plunge at once into cold water for a few seconds to remove the skins, cut fruit into halves and remove pits. If a large quantity of fruit is being put up at one time, dip the fruit for 2 minutes into a bath made by using 2 tablespoons each of salt and vinegar for each gallon of water. This helps prevent fruit from browning before use.

Place fruit in syrup. Simmer peaches about 5 minutes, apricots about 3 minutes. Do not cook until soft. Pack at once into clean, hot glass jars, placing the fruit halves pit side down in overlapping layers. Fill containers with hot syrup to within ½ inch of top. Seal the special lids and seal jars. Process in hot water bath for 20 minutes, making sure that the water is boiling throughout the processing period. Remove and cool right side up. Test seal. Screw caps may be removed after 24 hours.

HUGE CROWDS AT ARMY-NAVY RELIEF GAMES

Yankees And Senators Draw 69,136 At Gotham

Trio of Doubleheaders Boost Major Leagues' Contributions Past $500,000 Mark—Champions Split Twin Bill with Washington—Cubs Blank Reds Twice by 3-0 Count.

"Relief," a word reserved for substitute pitchers in baseball language of the past, took on new meaning in the major leagues today as all sixteen teams chalked up their important "assist" of the season—designed to help the families of the United States' fighting men.

The programme, in which the receipts of eight regularly scheduled games in each circuit were earmarked for Army-Navy Relief, was completed yesterday when the American League staged a fast finish with a trio of doubleheaders that boosted the contributions past the $500,000 mark.

A New York crowd of 69,136 paid an estimated $80,000 to see the Yankees and Washington Senators in Detroit, the Tigers and St. Louis Browns drew 50,758 and a gate of $68,172. And approximately $30,000 came in at Philadelphia, where the Athletics met Boston Red Sox.

These doubleheaders, redesignated as relief games after the first five American League Army-Navy contests brought in less than $75,000, enabled the junior circuit to surpass its quota of $250,000, although it fell short of the $270,000 produced by the National League.

As for the pennant races, which are moving rapidly toward the finish line, the Yankees watched their American League lead shrink to nine games while Brooklyn Dodgers hiked their margin in the National League to 7½.

Pittsburgh Pirates ended a St. Louis winning streak at eight games when a home run by Elbie Fletcher downed the Cards, 5-3, but Murry Dickson pitched the Red Birds to a 5-2 verdict in the afterpiece, which kept them from slipping more than one full game behind.

Claude Passeau and Lon Warneke hurled a pair of shutouts as Chicago Cubs blanked Cincinnati Reds twice by identical scores of 3-0.

Boston and Philadelphia split, the Braves taking the first game, 3-1, and the Phils grabbing the nightcap, 2-0, on Rube Melton's fourth pitching.

In the American League, the Senators handed Johnny Murphy his eighth straight setback when they rallied for three runs in the ninth inning to beat the Yanks, 7-6, but Ernie Bonham blanked Washington, 3-0, in the nightcap, which was halted by darkness after 5½ innings.

Boston Red Sox picked up a game on the leaders by shutting out the Athletics, 2-0 and 7-0.

Three-hit pitching by Ted Lyons and a three-run rally in the ninth inning gave Chicago White Sox a 3-1 decision over Cleveland Indians, but Jim Bagby hurled the tribe to a 1-0 triumph in the 10-inning nightcap.

St. Louis Browns pulled to within half a game of third-place Cleveland by stopping Detroit Tigers, 2-1 and 4-2, the second game going ten innings.

In Saturday's National League games Brooklyn walloped the Giants 10-5 in a game that was filled with heavy hitting and threatened disturbances; the Cardinals won their eighth straight game—7-6 over Pittsburgh—the Braves and Phils split a doubleheader and Chicago downed Cincinnati 5-4. The Braves won the first game 2-1 and Philadelphia took the nightcap 5-3.

In the American Boston hit Philadelphia pitching freely to take a pair, 11-3 and 11-5. New York Yankees shut out Washington 1-0. Chicago beat Cleveland 3-1 and Detroit-St. Louis was postponed.

SPORRI RIDES MOST WINNERS ON WEST COAST

One of Greatest Half-Mile Jocks on Continent, Sporry Has Good Lead Over Closest Rival.

It will take a lot of riding to catch Emil Sporry, veteran jockey who rode 36 winners in the first four weeks' Pacific Coast racing. His closest opponent at that time was Alex Haller, with 28. At that rate, it wouldn't cost much in the long run to bet Sporry on the nose every time he rides. Sporry is one of the greatest half-mile jocks on this continent.

BONDVILLE

Mrs. John Bassett entertained the Ladies' Guild on Wednesday afternoon with a good attendance and several visitors present from Montreal and Ottawa District tennis juniors for the "international" invitation tennis tournament at the Seignior Club last Saturday and Sunday.

The No. 2 A. J. had a score of 494, as compared to the 540 piled up by Wing Commander Bart Holtham's No. 1 Alley aggregation, and the 574 count registered by Cap Tom Chapman's No. 3 Alley players. Each team sent eight players into the fray, and their scores were counted to arrive at the official totals.

Cap Mathias brought down the house on the 19th hole when he gave a demonstration of the miniature tank he built with adhesive plaster spoils for wheels, placing soldiers, sailors, airmen and marines on the tank. Cap Mathias made a suitable speech and then presented the tank to himself, expressing his appreciation for the honor of winning the tournament once again.

There were plenty of sore heads among the defeated players. Harold Peabody, who had charge of No. 1 Alley in the absence of Wing Commander Holtham, who crashed in Brompton Bog on his way to Sherbrooke for the "crosstank" match, has threatened to hold a Court of Inquiry and hale Cap Mathias into court on charges of corrupt practices and faulty addition of scores, while Cap Chapman, momentarily at a loss for words to the amazement of all and sundry—soon recovered his vocal abilities and protested loudly and at great length against what he termed the "underhand" tactics of the Mathias Mob.

Derek Pierce, club captain, dropped the hint that the method of counting the scores should be changed to give the other teams a chance, but Cap Mathias declared that his team won because of the loyalty of his boys, and nothing more.

Cap Chapman was amazed at the way his Fifth Column had misled him, and voiced the claim that the Mathias Mob had bribed the Chapman Fifth Column to doublecross their own team.

The players were still arguing when they shoved them out of the clubhouse late Saturday night so that the staff could get a little peace and quiet.

Taking the long view, the vanquished allies say, "Wait until next year."

Quite a Racquet

LOCKER ROOM TITLE RETAINED By Phil Mathias And Co.

He did it again. Old Captain Mathias and his No. 2 Alley stalwarts retained the County Club locker room championship on Saturday afternoon, and in so doing surprised nobody, because it has always been understood that with Cap Mathias running the show, and counting the scores the other teams haven't got a ghost of a chance.

The No. 2 A. J. had a score of 494, as compared to the 540 piled up by Wing Commander Bart Holtham's No. 1 Alley aggregation, and the 574 count registered by Cap Tom Chapman's No. 3 Alley players. Each team sent eight players into the fray, and their scores were counted to arrive at the official totals.

Cap Mathias brought down the house on the 19th hole when he gave a demonstration of the miniature tank he built with adhesive plaster spoils for wheels, placing soldiers, sailors, airmen and marines on the tank. Cap Mathias made a suitable speech and then presented the tank to himself, expressing his appreciation for the honor of winning the tournament once again.

There were plenty of sore heads among the defeated players. Harold Peabody, who had charge of No. 1 Alley in the absence of Wing Commander Holtham, who crashed in Brompton Bog on his way to Sherbrooke for the "crosstank" match, has threatened to hold a Court of Inquiry and hale Cap Mathias into court on charges of corrupt practices and faulty addition of scores, while Cap Chapman, momentarily at a loss for words to the amazement of all and sundry—soon recovered his vocal abilities and protested loudly and at great length against what he termed the "underhand" tactics of the Mathias Mob.

Derek Pierce, club captain, dropped the hint that the method of counting the scores should be changed to give the other teams a chance, but Cap Mathias declared that his team won because of the loyalty of his boys, and nothing more.

Cap Chapman was amazed at the way his Fifth Column had misled him, and voiced the claim that the Mathias Mob had bribed the Chapman Fifth Column to doublecross their own team.

The players were still arguing when they shoved them out of the clubhouse late Saturday night so that the staff could get a little peace and quiet.

Taking the long view, the vanquished allies say, "Wait until next year."
