Athletes run to keep warm Chilly Charron opens Games

By ROBERT MacPHERSON
(Record Reporter)

SHERBROOKE — Chilling winds did little to cool the enthusiasm as the sixth Quebec summer Games finals opened here yesterday.

"It is with pleasure that I declare these 1977 games open," proclaimed provincial youth, recreation and sport minister Claude Charron while 12,000 athletes, officials and spectators cheered during the opening ceremonies at the University of Sherbrooke track.

Competition between some of the 5,000 athletes in 14 disciplines, which continues until Aug. 28, began earlier yesterday. But summaries indicating which of the 18 regional delegations are leading won't be released by statisticians until this weekend.

Although notables such as Mr. Charron, Sherbrooke Mayor Jacques O'Bready, games president Robert Hemond and organizing committee chief Clement Fortier watched the opening from the main podium, the two hours of pomp and circumstance was dedicated to the young athletes.

"The future of Quebec is gathered here now," Mr. Charron said.

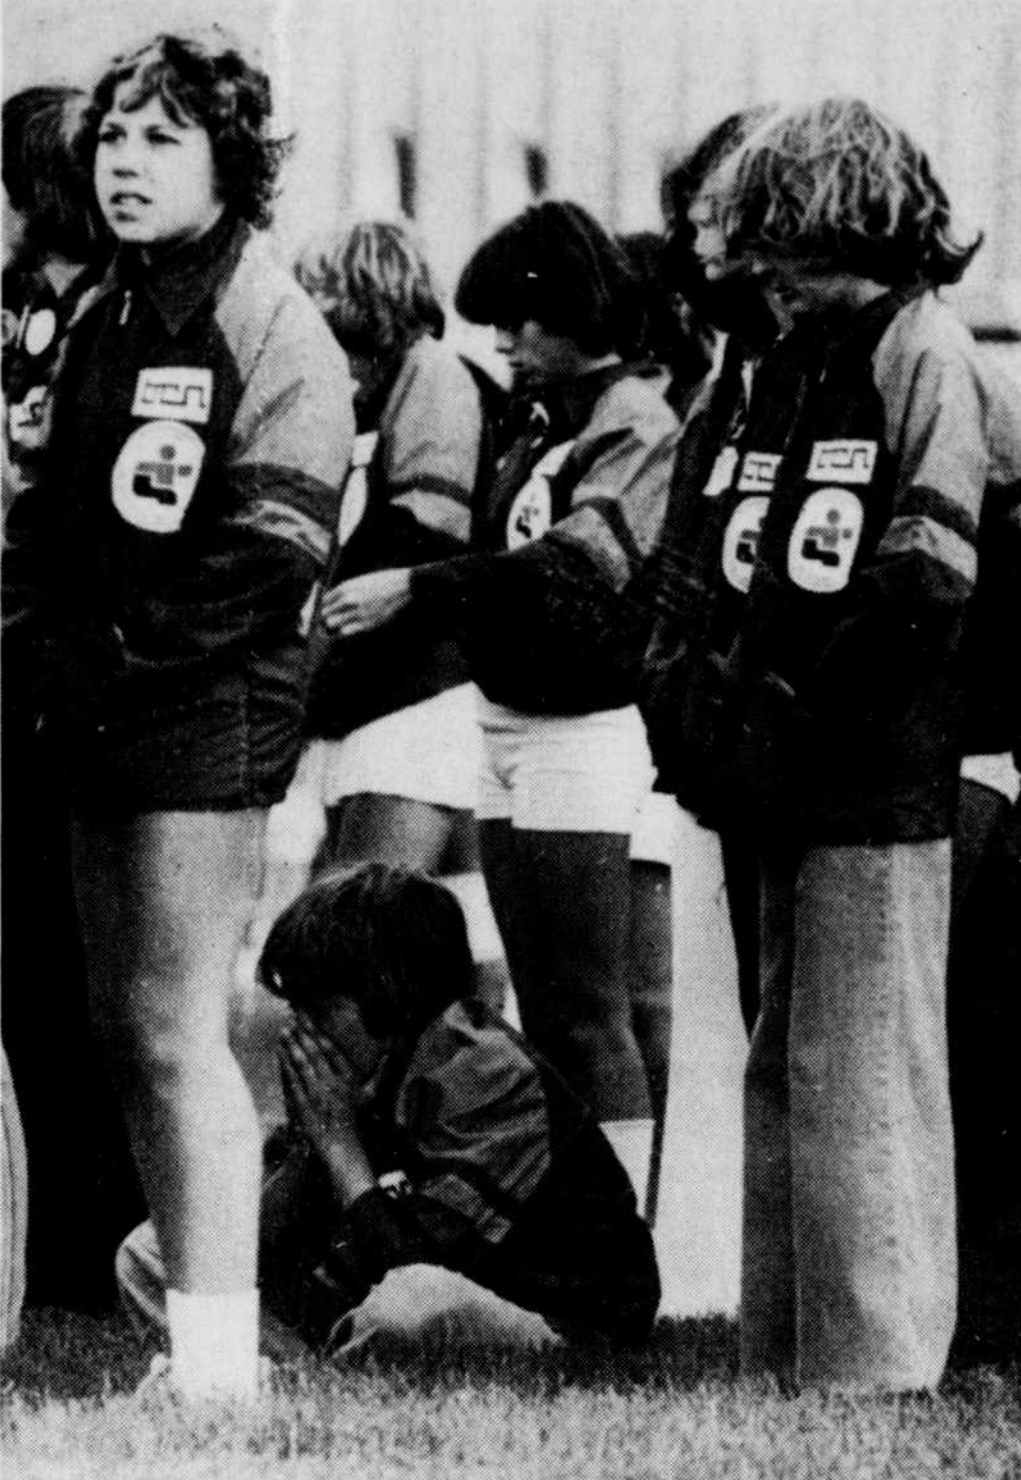

"These young people are here not just for the honor of their regions but for the honor of Quebec," the Parti Quebecois minister said.

Mr. Fortier, whose committee has been preparing for the 10-day games for the past two years, welcomed the athletes to the city.

"Your encouragement has shown us that our work has not been in vain," he said.

Marches, music, flags, flame and skydivers all figured in the ceremonies. According to a split-second schedule, the athletes marched in, delegation by delegation, with the 150 representatives of the Eastern Townships entering last.

After speeches by Mr. Fortier, Mr. Hemond, and Mr. Charron, and two contemporary Quebec folk tunes sung by the Heritage Choir, the ceremonial Games flag was passed to Mr. O'Bready by Gerald Raymond, Mayor of the City of Laval where the winter games were staged earlier this year.

Then Eastern Townships pentathlon contestant Jacques Chappelaine carried in the Games flame while thousands of helium balloons were released to be carried away by the gusty easterly winds over the city.

Ktine, the furry eight-foot racoon which is this year's game mascot, made two appearances during the ceremonies.

First he introduced himself to the VIPs and the crowds, then he returned to greet four precision skydivers who parachuted from an altitude of 3,500 feet into the newly-built track field on the Ste. Catherine Road, adjoining the University of Sherbrooke campus.

Paul Lavoie of Valcourt, the last to jump carrying the Sherbrooke games flag, picturing Ktine - said the descent was tricky because of the wind. Although Games events are centered at the university campus - where all athletes are living - some specialized sports such as sailing and golf are taking place elsewhere in the city and district.

They are complemented by a wide-ranging cultural program, offering some of the best in regional arts and entertainment.

The 5,000 athletes will be competing in three stages during the next ten days.

50 maintained an overnight vigil about four miles away at Presley's Graceland Mansion.

Mourners had waited patiently for hours in the broiling sun Thursday - outside the Presley mansion, along the four-mile funeral route on Elvis Presley Boulevard and in front of the cemetery.

The white funeral that Presley had wanted was carried out: a white hearse bore Presley's copper coffin, covered by 500 red rosebuds, and 16 shining white Cadillac led a procession of about 50 cars from the mansion to the cemetery.

SOUVENIRS SOLD But a commercial atmosphere also crept into the sad occasion. Hawkers sold Elvis T-shirts for $10. Forty-cent picture postcards of Graceland went quickly for $1.50. A small bottle of cola, also $1.50.

Sometimes the crowd surged toward the motorcade and slowed its progress. At least once a policeman had to wrestle a grieving girl away from the moving hearse.

But at the mausoleum, deep inside the cemetery and out of the view of the curious crowd, all was serene.

Floral tributes in front of the mausoleum hid the lawn under a spectacular quilt of color as about 50 members of the Presley family and 150 invited guests arrived for the entombment.

Eight pallbearers carried the coffin in ceremony for five minutes of ceremony.

Vernon Presley, the singer's father, stayed behind for a few private moments with Elvis, watching as workers began to seal the crypt.

"His father is holding up very well," said Joe Esposito, a close friend, his voice breaking

St. Andrew's consensus Premiers seek tax cuts

ST. ANDREWS, N.B. (CP) — Canada's 10 premiers Thursday suggested the federal government cut taxes to improve consumer purchasing power and help battle unemployment.

The premiers also suggested action to "ensure that housing construction is speeded up, either through tax measures, accelerated government procedures or increased funding."

In a communique issued shortly before midnight, Atlantic time, the premiers agreed that "unemployment in Canada at its present level is unacceptable."

The provincial leaders, who are scheduled to wind up the formal part of their annual conference today, said that forecasts of continuing high unemployment rates for at least the next 18 months were a source of great concern. They agreed that both short- and long-term measures are needed if a significant reduction of unemployment rates is to be achieved.

Besides tax cuts and housing starts, they suggested the reintroduction of a federal forgivable capital loan fund as a third short-term measure.

Commenting on the federal government's economic planning, Saskatchewan Premier Allan Blakeney said that "we did feel there was certainly a lack of national focus."

"It is not at all clear what the (federal) government blueprint for the economy is—and this can only be done by the federal government in a state such as ours."

Discussions during the opening session centred around the economy and unemployment. And while host Premier Richard Hatfield insisted the 10 premiers were not gathered for the purpose of hammering away at the federal government, it was clear that most were not happy with Ottawa's economic initiatives.

Hatfield himself said that "the federal government has not co-operated with the provinces in tackling unemployment and hasn't used the revenue-producing power it has" to deal with the problem.

According to Blakeney "all the signs indicate that Canada's unemployment rate is going to go even higher in the immediate months."

In other developments Thursday, Premier Bennett presented a paper that said the federal government should give the provinces more control over their natural resources.

Premier Peter Lougheed of Alberta called for greater provincial participation in the settlement of disputes between Canada and the United States and said that the country needs a new transportation policy which will eliminate regional disparities.

Levesque losing allies for French-use pacts

ST. ANDREWS, N.B. (CP) — Support for Quebec's reciprocal language agreements slipped further Thursday as another provincial premier rejected the idea and a group representing French-speaking Canadians outside Quebec gave it only partial support.

Saskatchewan Premier Allan Blakeney, who was initially receptive to Premier Rene Levesque's language proposal, said he was disturbed and dismayed that the Quebec proposal would lead to different treatment for various classes of Canadians.

The Federation of Franco-phones outside Quebec, representing about 900,000 Canadians with French as their mother tongue, said the reciprocal agreements were fine but wanted minority language guarantees in the constitution.

At the same time, Quebec made public a statement by Levesque outlining Quebec's proposals for the agreements, even though the topic is not on the conference agenda until today.

Intergovernmental Affairs Minister Claude Morin said his government would be open to negotiating different agreements, depending on the French-language schooling needs and facilities in each province.

"We're open to everything," he said.

Basically, the agreements would permit English-speaking newcomers to Quebec from other provinces to attend English-language schools if French schools were available in their province to French-speaking Quebecers moving there.

Under Quebec's proposed language law, newcomers to Quebec would have to send their children to French schools unless the reciprocal agreements are signed.

Opposition raps Bill 101 haste

QUEBEC (CP) — There would be no frantic rush to get language legislation passed before the start of the school year if the government had accepted an opposition suggestion for a separate bill for school admission, the national assembly was told Thursday.

Jean-Noel Lavoie, Liberal House leader, said the opposition would have given unanimous consent to call that separate bill before the assembly for adoption immediately.

Those education provisions of Bill 101 which set rules for access to English-language schools, have been adopted by a legislature committee but most of the rest of the bill remains bogged down in clause-by-clause study before the committee.

Lavoie was speaking on a motion by Parti Quebecois House leader Robert Burns to restrict debating time and extend sitting hours of the assembly to guarantee passage of Bill 101 before the opening of the school year.

Failure to pass the legislation in time would create "chaos," Burns said.

The government has geared all its directives concerning school registration to Bill 101.

presuming it would be adopted in time. School authorities have for the most part acted accordingly.

APPLY OLD ACT But if Bill 101 is not passed, a whole different set of criteria for school registration would apply under the Official Language Act, the law which Bill 101 will replace.

Lavoie denounced Burns' plans for suspension of the rules of procedure in the assembly as abusive and arbitrary.

Meanwhile, Parti Quebecois backbencher Gerald Godin said Thursday that opposition members want to turn Bill 101 into "a big Swiss cheese full of holes."

He made the remark during committee debate on a clause dealing with language requirements for employment, promotion and transfer in the public administration, which includes municipal administrations, school boards, health services as well as government and its agencies.

At issue was a proposed amendment by several Liberal members to eliminate the requirement for a working knowledge of French for civil servants who do not have contact with the general public.

Letter from Marion pleads for parlay

By ROBERT MacPHERSON
(Record Reporter)

SHERBROOKE — A communique has been received from the kidnapers of Charles Marion, written in Mr. Marion's own hand, proving the 57-year-old caisse manager is still alive, says the Journal de Montreal.

Last night's note to the Montreal newspaper was the first word from the kidnapers since Friday. The Quebec Police Force has cancelled daily press briefings in the 13-day-old kidnapping of Marion, the longest non-political abduction in Canadian history.

The police have also refused comment on a report that Mr. Marion's employer, the Caisse Populaire de Sherbrooke Est is willing to pay only a third of the original $1 million ransom demand.

Marion was taken by two armed and hooded men from his cottage in nearby Stoke Aug. 7. The kidnapers tied Marion's companion, caisse secretary Aline Yergeau, to a toilet and abducted the manager in his own van, discovered two days later.

Bill would bar nurses

TORONTO (CP) — Unilingual English-speaking nurses will not be allowed to work in Quebec if Bill 101 becomes law, a spokesman for the licensing association for Quebec nurses said Thursday.

Nicole Du Mouchel, executive director of the 49,000-member Order of Nurses of Quebec, said that under the proposed legislation nurses in the province will be required to speak French.

Miss Du Mouchel, here to attend a meeting of the Institute of Association Executives, said in an interview that English-speaking nurses would find it difficult to take courses to learn French because they work varying shifts.

About 3,000 persons annually are admitted to nursing schools in Quebec, of whom 2,500 are French-speaking. The others will simply have to acquire the second language, Miss Du Mouchel said.

About 300 foreign nurses who speak only English are admitted annually and they also will have to learn French.

Miss Du Mouchel, who is bilingual, said that "to me, being bilingual in Canada is to live and breathe."

"Being Canadian means speaking both languages."

Meg would rather switch than fight

WEST VANCOUVER, B.C. (CP) — Margaret Trudeau said Thursday that she is optimistic about a complete reconciliation with her husband.

"It's what we've always wanted," the Prime Minister's estranged wife said in an interview at her parents' home. "We've been working in this direction and I am praying it will now work out again."

Mrs. Trudeau is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Sinclair, and looking after two of her three sons, five-year-old Justin and Michel, who is almost two, while the Prime Minister vacations in Klusne National Park in the Yukon with three-year-old Sacha.

She said she will meet her husband when he arrives in Vancouver on Sunday and will fly with him and the children to Ottawa.

Lumber workers return following axe-swinging melee

WESTLEY, Me. (CP) — About 40 men, women and children—about two-thirds of them Canadian—returned Thursday to an isolated woods camp near this eastern Maine community after fleeing late Wednesday when it was attacked by 40 or 50 axe-and club-swinging intruders.

The intruders apparently were protesting the use of Canadian workers in the Maine woods, a state police spokesman said.

A spokesman for St. Regis Paper Co., owner of the camp, said Thursday that no dollar value could be placed on the damage but the cost of repairs was likely to be in the low thousands of dollars.

No one was injured in the incident.

Workers who were driven from the camp said the intruders threatened to burn the people out of the buildings on the site if they did not leave. Some of the workers spent the night in nearby communities and others slept at the roadside in their cars.

John Gould Jr., public relations director for the company, said it was not unusual at this time of year for workers to bring their families to woods camps. He said about 10 women and children were among those at the camp when the attack took place.

The wall of one of 26 buildings was pulled down, windows were smashed, porch railings were destroyed, toilets were broken, refrigerators were overturned and petroleum products were spilled on to the floor or dumped on the ground.

Gould said an electrical generator and a radio antenna were put out of commission when the vandals first arrived.

He said the group of attackers stayed at the camp for about 20 minutes and left before police arrived.

Gould said the camp would be closed today, a normal day off, and would reopen Monday.

Maine Governor James Longley flew to the site Wednesday on what he said was an unofficial visit and talked through an interpreter with the French-speaking Canadian employees at the camp.

Gould said the company would not release the names of the employees for fear of repercussions and he did not know their home towns. Most were from northwestern New Brunswick or Quebec, he said.

Police said Thursday that no arrests had been made but an investigation was continuing.

Gould, interviewed after he toured the site, said he would be surprised if some of the intruders were not members of the Maine Woodsmen's Association, a group which has been involved in a long-standing dispute with paper companies in the state concerning the hiring of Canadian workers.

William Butler of Aurora, Me., vice-president of the association, said in an interview that he was not aware of any involvement by the association in the incident.

But he said Maine woodsmen have for a long time been angered by the hiring of Canadians to work in the Maine woods because there were not enough jobs to go around.

Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Prices were mixed on the Toronto stock market Thursday at the close of its lightest trading in 12 sessions.

The TSE 300 index was up 31 to 1,027.58, ending a four-day decline, but losing issues outnumbered gainers.

Analysts blamed the market's slide from an early two-point advance on a similar but sharper descent at New York, where the Dow Jones index went from a six-point gain to a .55 loss, closing at 864.17, a new 19-month low.

Among the TSE 300's four most heavily-weighted groups, industrial products rose 3.41 to 905.82 and metals and minerals 14 to 969.11. Oil and gas issues dropped 4.35 to 1,212.15, lowest since July 8, and financial services declined 2.54 to 952.14.

Merchandising stocks and real estate and construction issues led the seven gainers among the other 10 groups within the 14-unit index. Communications and media shares were the biggest of the three losers.

New York

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market got off to a strong start Thursday, but faltered toward the close in selling that pushed the Dow Jones industrial average to a 19-month low for the third straight session.

The Dow, up about 6 points early, finished with a 0.43 loss at 864.26, its lowest close since it stood at 858.71 on Jan. 2 of 1976.

Dow Jones' transportation and utility averages both posted larger declines. Technical analysts have voiced some concern over recent weakness in these two indicators, which had been faring much better than the industrials earlier in the year.

Thurs. Wed.
Advances: 656 582
Declines: 694 735
Unchanged: 513 539
Total: 1,863 1,856

The New York Stock Exchange's composite index eased 0.03 to 53.48 and NYSE volume reached 21.04 million shares, against 20.92 million Thursday.

Brokers said the early upswing stemmed mainly from internal market forces rather than any particular news development.

By early afternoon it was evident many traders were reluctant to join in the buying and the advance collapsed by the close.

Wall Streeters looking for some consolation may hope for some favorable reaction today to the weekly U.S. Federal Reserve statistics which were issued at the close.

SHOWS DROP
The data showed a drop in both of the simplest measures of the money shares at $10.75 a share. Union Gas Ltd. was second with 24,800 Class A shares at $10 3/4 a share, followed by another 6,800 share block at the same price.

A trading halt issued at the opening continues in shares of Bad Boy Appliances and Furniture Ltd. pending an announcement. In Wednesday's trading, it dropped five cents to $1.55 a share on the sale of 1,500 shares. The company recently reported sharp earnings losses.

Among other industrials, Canadian Tire A gained 1 3/4 to $32 3/4 after first-half earnings climbed to $15.17 million from last year's $14.02 million.

supply—which theoretically is a favorable portent for an end to the Reserve's recent efforts to slow monetary growth by tightening credit.

There was also some hope among analysts that the government's monthly report on consumer price trends today would bring favorable news.

Standard and Poor's index of 400 industrials dipped 0.03 to 107.50, and its 500-stock composite index lost 0.06 to 97.68.

Hewlett-Packard posted one of the day's sharpest losses, falling 4 3/4 to 79 1/4. The company said the estate of Flora Hewlett, who was the wife of the company's president, planned a secondary offering of about one million shares of the stock.

F.W. Woolworth gave up 1 1/4 to 20. The company reported its second-quarter earnings fell to 8 cents a share from 52 cents in the comparable period last year. Diamond Shamrock rose 3/4 to 31 1/4. Directors of the diversified chemicals and energy company said they planned a dividend increase in the fourth quarter.

At the American Stock Exchange, Cook Industries fell 4 1/4 to 7 1/2. The loss-plagued company's shares traded on the Amex for the first time since late May.

The Amex market value index rose 0.14 to 119.23.

U.S. exporters see
'uneven' market

WASHINGTON (CP) — U.S. exporters considering Canadian operations this year should "select among Canada's provincial markets carefully," a U.S. commerce department study says.

The department's semi-annual world trade outlook says that because of economic and political problems, economic activity in the Canadian provinces will be "highly uneven" for the rest of the year.

Among factors placing a drag on Canada's economy are "uncertainties regarding the general economic situation, high unemployment and idle production capacity, the cautious attitude of business as reflected in reduced projected capital equipment expenditures and the unsettling influence of the separatist movement in the province of Quebec," the department says.

Inflationary tendencies are Canada's No. 1 problem" affecting its ability to stimulate growth.

Continued growth of the U.S. economy will benefit Canada, it adds, but the spillover effects "will probably not be significant until toward the end of the year."

But consumer spending has remained strong and markets for U.S. goods should remain attractive, a drop in the exchange value of the Canadian dollar has made foreign goods more expensive, it notes.

The report predicts the Canadian dollar will remain below the U.S. dollar for the rest of the year. Interest rates are expected to move closer to U.S. rates, thus reducing the tendency for Canadians to seek capital funds in the United States and avoiding a return to the upward pressure on the Canadian dollar.

Canada's merchandise trade balance is expected to continue to improve this year, it says. But real economic growth is not expected to exceed 3.8 per cent, unemployment likely will stay at about a 7.9-per cent seasonally adjusted rate and the 1977 current account deficit will be about $4 billion.

The report says Canada's over-all imports and exports rose during the first quarter of the year, by eight and 12 per cent, respectively. Both the United States and Japan increased shipments to Canada by 10 per cent and Canada increased exports to the United States by 15 per cent.

Government not doing enough for agriculture,
says PQ's Baril

QUEBEC (CP) — The Parti Quebecois government must not shun everyday problems while waiting for Quebec's independence, says PQ backbencher Jacques Baril.

Baril, national assembly member for the rural riding of Arthabaska, said in an interview published today that the PQ government should take greater interest in agriculture.

He maintained he would not hesitate to denounce the government if it failed to improve the situation for farmers within a year and said Quebec's agricultural problems should even take precedence over unemployment. "We have to eat well before we can work."

A farmer himself and a member of the Union of Agricultural Producers for 11 years, Baril said he "didn't stand for election just to land a job, but to defend the farming and working classes."

Most stores sold out

People want Presley music

By JANET COTTON
(Record Reporter)

In Sherbrooke, as around the world, Elvis Presley music was selling at a frenzied rate. Most local record shops were completely sold out yesterday and have already ordered extra stock. "People are after whatever Elvis was," said Quad 39 owner Gordon Budning. "They don't really care which tape or album they're getting — they just want Presley music."

From opening to closing, hundreds of Sherbrookers flocked to local stores after news of Presley's death in Memphis.

Most of the buyers are women aged 25-35, many of whom are grabbing three and four albums at a time. A group of youngsters pooled their weekly allowance to buy a Presley album yesterday.

According to published reports, Sherbrooke Sports Palace manager Vincent Roselli was negotiating a Presley appearance here in October, although nothing was final.

The production of Elvis Presley records is being given top priority in Canada by RCA Ltd. and this will cause a slight delay in the output of records by lesser-known recording artists, a company spokesman says.

Edward Preston, general manager and vice-president of the company's record division in Canada, said this week there has been a tremendous demand for Presley's records since he died Tuesday of a heart attack.

"Our sub-distributors tell us there isn't a single Elvis record left in Kitchener, Ont.," Preston said, adding that many retail outlets across the country also are out of stock.

Preston said RCA received telephone calls from Presley fans all day Wednesday, urging the company to pay tribute to the rock and roll singer by issuing a memorial album.

Mourners fly to Memphis

MONTREAL (CP) — A chartered Air Canada DC-8 jet carried a full load of 227 Elvis Presley fans from Montreal to Memphis on Thursday, leaving behind hundreds of others who flocked to Dorval Airport in the hope of getting a standby ticket.

Some of the late arrivals offered passengers up to $300 for their $165 round-trip tickets, but there were no takers. The flight, arranged by a local radio station and a travel agency, was scheduled to return to Montreal after Presley's funeral.

One passenger, 20-year-old Angelo Cerilli, was on his honeymoon in Quebec City when he heard of the death. Cerilli and his wife, Susie, broke short their holiday to drive here to catch the flight.

Jo-Lynn Malfara, 17, was one of the lucky ones who went to the airport even though the flight was fully-booked Wednesday night, and waited for a cancellation. She got on the plane just minutes before takeoff after a woman who booked a seat did not show up.

Montreal record stores reported booming business in Presley records.

"I've never seen a reaction like this," said a spokesman for Sam the Record Man. "There was a lineup of people when my store opened and by early afternoon all the records were gone. One woman in her 70s bought four Elvis albums and six 45s."

Fight with girl friend leads to jail

Indecency brings 15 months

SWEETSBURG WARD (JM) — Mario Morissette, Granby, who earlier pleaded guilty to four counts of gross indecency and one of armed robbery and theft of $3,000 in jewels in Ste. Cecile de Milton, was sentenced to three months, concurrent, on each of the first counts, and 12 months, consecutive, on the second. Crown attorney Claude Noiseux asked for a penitentiary term stating the accused had been freed pending trial on the charges of indecency when the robbery occurred, and cited recent jurisprudence by the Quebec Appeal Court to substantiate his demand.

Defence lawyer Claude Hamann told the court his client had never been implicated with the law until he was arrested on the indecency charges which he indicated were the result of a fight with his former girl friend. He produced a psychiatric report produced by Dr. Pierre Gagne stating Morissette's sexual deviations were cured.

"My client was forced to resign from the Canadian Forces after his arrest," Mr. Hamann said. "He was a group leader and had hoped to make the armed forces a life career. He has always been a good and willing worker which is confirmed in the pre-sentence report.

"I feel the crown's demand for a penitentiary term is excessive for a first offender even considering the gravity of the offences. He has spent five months in preventative detention pending sentencing and the court is aware this usually is considered to be doubly hard. In the light of those circumstances I humbly suggest he be sentenced to time served on the first count and a jail term at the discretion of the court on the second with recommendation he be sent to Waterloo where he can work and also maintain close contact with his parents."

Judge Bernard Legare placed the accused on one year's probation upon his release with an order he report to probation officers within 48 hours and monthly thereafter and added he would suggest he be transferred to the Waterloo Rehabilitation Centre as quickly as possible.

Jacques Paradis and Guy Gagnon pleaded guilty to charges of having evaded legal custody from the Waterloo Rehabilitation Centre, Aug. 14. They were arrested shortly after their flight to freedom by a member of the Bromont municipal police when they were bicycling in the early hours of the morning. A Bromont police spokesman told The Record the constable noticed prison issue socks which led to their apprehension.

Crown attorney Noiseux told the court he would be satisfied with a one month term instead of the usual three as they had only been at large for a brief period. Judge Legare sentenced them to one month, consecutive. Paradis was serving 23 months on charges of armed robbery and breaking and entering. Gagnon was doing 18 months on charges of breaking and entering.

Francoise Algier, Farnham, who earlier pleaded guilty to a charge of wilful property damage in Farnham when she threw a stone through a pharmacy window was handed a suspended sentence and was bound over to keep the public peace for one year after she proved restitution.

Settlement in Fair suit expected soon

SHERBROOKE (JC) — A decision is expected shortly in a lawsuit involving the Lawrence Carr Midway Company and the Eastern Townships Agricultural Association.

The E.T.A.A. is suing Carr for $27,000 for breach of contract during last year's Sherbrooke Exposition.

The Carr Midway, associated with the fair for a number of years, signed a two-year contract for the 1975-1976 seasons, but failed to show last year when the E.T.A.A. refused to renew the contract for the 1977 fair.

Scheduled to arrive on Monday prior to the 1976 Friday opening, Carr told fair organizers he had trouble with machinery and custom restrictions, but that the show was on the way. When organizers contacted Ministry of Revenue and Canadian Fair Association members, they were told, there were no problems.

A day and a half before opening, Jules Racine, owner of a small 12-ride midway arrived in Sherbrooke with a letter from Mr. Carr, stating that he had given the contract to Mr. Racine.

Carr was contracted to pay $30,000 to the E.T.A.A. for the 1976 Expo, but Mr. Racine only paid $18,000.

"People were so disappointed with last year's midway," said fair secretary Eileen Morgan. "We lost a lot of money and our attendance was way down from 1975. People were coming once, but they just weren't coming back."

Hattersley said in a statement from his office here that Rondeau voluntarily had tendered his resignation in order to avoid further embarrassment to the Social Credit party while court actions against him are pending. But Hattersley said Rondeau has been a member in good standing for 33 years and had requested him to continue as a member of the national party.

Railroad job

While Premier Levesque is making his pitch for reciprocal language rights to Canada's other nine premiers in St. Andrew's, his government back home is prepping itself for what should prove to be one of the great marathon debates in Quebec history.

By moving to suspend the national assembly rules to allow a round-the-clock debate six days a week, PQ House Leader Robert Burns is demonstrating just how hard his government is willing to fight to have Bill 101 in effect by the beginning of the 1977-78 school year.

We see PQ whip Jereme Proulx drawing up a battle plan, so that the party will have enough members either seated or on call to win any vote which may arise. With the end of next week set as the deadline for third and final reading of the bill, we're in for an exciting week of finagle, finesse and filibuster by the government and opposition.

Mr. Burns admits he may have to invoke closure on the legislative committee studying the Bill clause by clause. This involves the Assembly voting to cut short the committee's study by bringing the bill back to the assembly for debate.

Mr. Burns' motion to suspend House rules long enough to exhaust the opposition into submission must still be voted upon, probably by the middle of next week. From there it's a short step to final reading.

By this time next week, the railroad-ing of Bill 101 will have exhausted the House to the point where members won't want much to do with it for weeks, which seems to fit in with the government's scheme of things, getting it out of the hands of politicians and into the realm of the bureaucrats, the Regie de la langue Francaise and the various bodies charged with its implementation.

In short, the government has spent an inordinate amount of energy to enact legislation which could have been done far more painlessly, gradually and cheaply if it had drawn up a plan to phase in parts of the French language charter one at a time.

Editorials from the daily French press

Sherbrooke La Tribune: If the boss of a company on strike were to walk near the headquarters of his workers while protected by an army of police, one would quickly assess this gesture as provocation, even if this boss alleged that not all his employees were disposed to strike and even if he contended that his action would contribute to a reconciliation between himself and his employees.

In proceeding to Ireland, Queen Elizabeth has behaved exactly like this mindless boss, full of goodwill but naive to the point of inflaming a situation which she is sincerely attempting to correct and even settle.

What prestige will the Queen garner from this complicated journey which brought her from her yacht by helicopter, under the constant surveillance of an iron wall of 32,000 police?

Pierre Elliott Trudeau has already braved a hostile crowd and if he did not personally have to pay for his action, some participants at a certain St. Jean Baptiste celebration were severely wounded because the prime minister believed it was his duty to prove that he was courageous and not afraid of the reaction of a minority of demonstrators.

But a head of state does not have to demonstrate courage by directly opposing the most determined adversaries to the worst extremes.

Queen Elizabeth is free to do as she pleases and no one will cry in Quebec if her rashness proved costly. But like any other political leader, she has not the right to provoke explosions of violence. That's what she has clearly caused in Ireland.—Jean Vigneault Montreal La Presse: Statistics Canada has revealed that unemployment in Quebec rose in July to 10.3 from 9.7 per cent of the work force, namely some 295,000 unemployed. Ontario, whose population surpasses Quebec by two million, has 10,000 fewer unemployed. But in Quebec the Pequist government has been discussing language for months.

The minister of industry and commerce, Rodrigue Tremblay, the government's economic spokesman in the absence of Finance Minister Jacques Parizeau, declared in the national assembly that "measures must be taken for all of Canada because one cannot ask a provincial government to stabilize the economy."

However, unemployment is not only lower in the other provinces, it has gone down in five of them.

When the PQ formed the Opposition, unemployment was largely the product of the negligence of the Bourassa government. Now that it is in power, unemployment is the result of federal incompetence. If ever, by misfortune, Quebec became independent, unemployment would be the product of "international events."

After having swept away the Opposition's apprehensions with a stroke of his university jargon, Tremblay took advantage of the occasion to invite all the parliamentarians to adopt his bill (No. 48) on the revitalization of industry.

That's how one resolves in a jiffy such a simple problem as unemployment when one belongs to an efficient party like the PQ. Of course, the language problem takes much more time to resolve. But it is so much more complex.

At the time of the presentation of his bill, in second reading July 27, Tremblay had declared that this bill "squarely puts the accent on the dynamism of our enterprises to encourage them to reinvest their profits with a view to growth."

But... what is Tremblay promising as a solution to the present massive unemployment?

In opposition, the PQ had solutions for all problems. In power, it has come to the realization its own solutions are causing the government problems. The 295,000 Quebec unemployed will not perhaps feel like voting for independence at the time of the referendum.—Ivan Guay

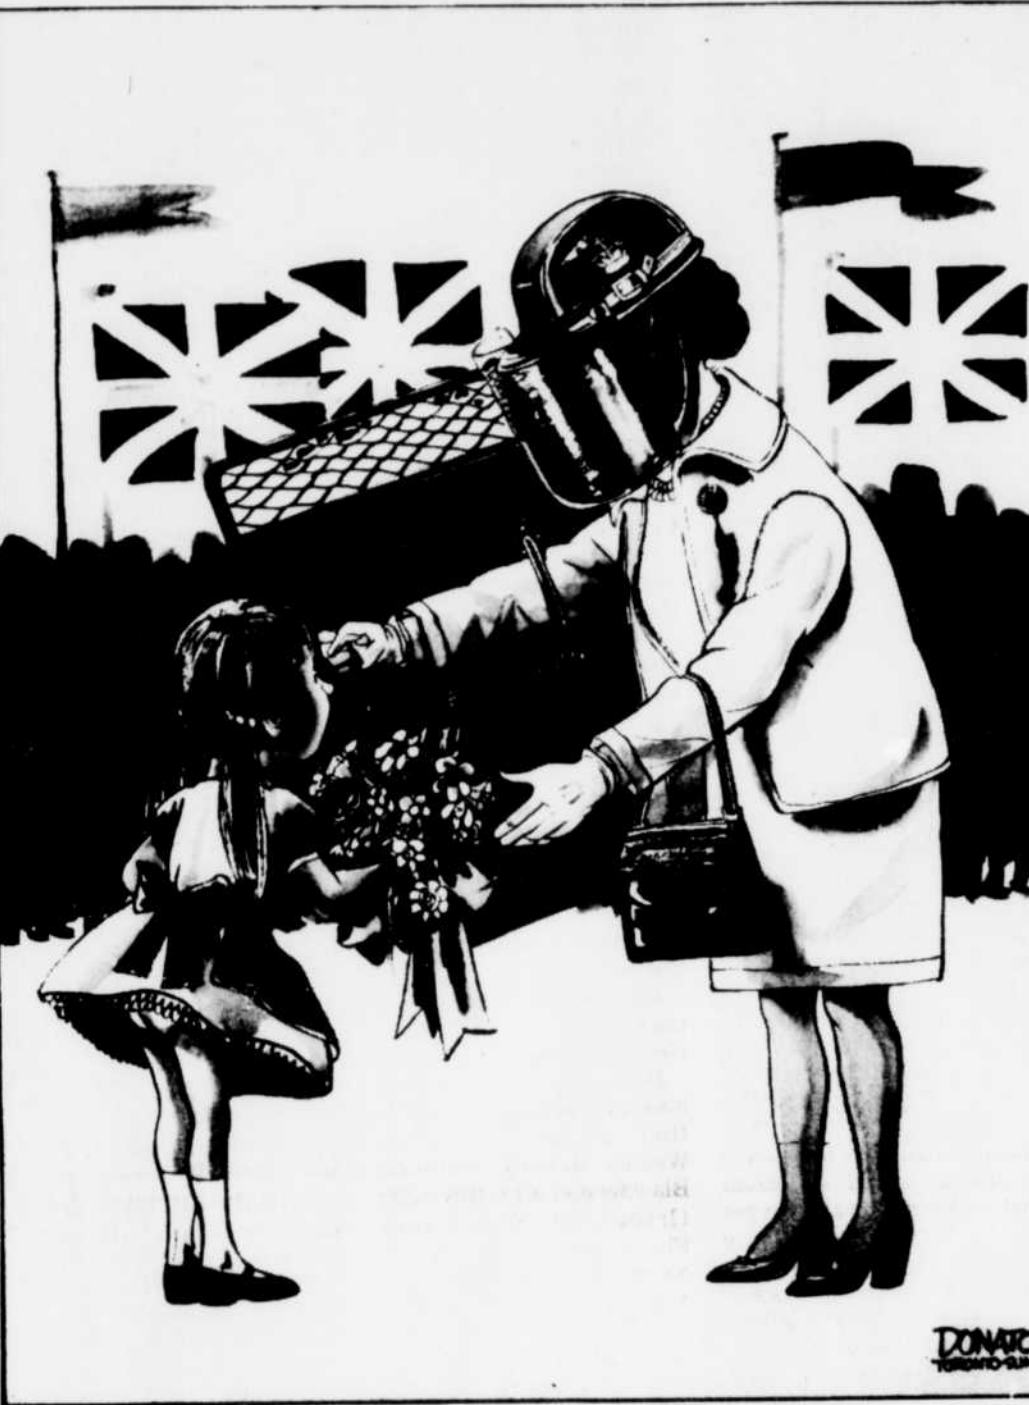

Montreal-Matin: One of the long-standing demands of French-speaking people since 1867 has been to obtain from other Canadians recognition of the idea of equality between the country's two founding groups.

Throughout a long period, French-Canadians demanded linguistic equality. After a century of effort, we still are waiting. The federal public service still is the only place where this linguistic equality is officially recognized. On the other hand, the new directives from the treasury board on bilingual positions will appreciably reduce the scope of the application of this equality.

One is anxious to see what the new commissioner of official languages, Max Yalden, who has the decided air of a calm and peaceable gentleman, will do in this matter. Let us hope he doesn't offer us the habitual excuse on the necessity of familiarizing himself with the dossier before taking a position.

Incapable of arriving at true linguistic equality, the French-Canadians, who in the meantime have also become Quebecois, now are demanding nothing less than political equality. Jean Lesage and the Liberal party were the first to reformulate the demands in this sense.

Fed Watchdogs Sit On
'Corporate Watergate'

by Jack Anderson and Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — Federal regulators are sitting on a multi-million-dollar nuclear scandal, which has the smell of a corporate Watergate. The story is told in confidential documents that bristle with such words as "manipulations" and "blackmail."

Two commercial giants, Dow Chemical and Consumers Power, are partners in a nuclear project. Its financial foundation, however, has become shaky. This has come to the attention of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission, whose rulings could cost the partnership hundreds of millions of dollars.

Consumers Power, thus confronted with a public body in its path, has sought to circumvent it. The giant utility, a la Watergate, allegedly has tried to prevent witnesses from giving information to federal investigators, has laundered testimony that might be damaging and has given the regulatory tribunal incomplete information.

Here is a corporate cat that may need a bell tied to it. But first, some background. Back in 1967, Consumers and Dow teamed up to construct a nuclear power plant in Midland, Mich. But environmentalists forced Consumers to upgrade the project's safety system. By 1977, stricter federal standards and repeated delays had shot up the cost from $350 million to an alarming $1.7 billion.

Consumers Power began to buckle under the financial burden and its partner began to waver. Dow tried to wriggle out of the deal if the plant wasn't completed by a fixed date. But Consumers sternly warned Dow of its contractual obligations. This little disagreement strained the relations between the two companies.

Then out of the blue, a federal court ordered the Nuclear Regulatory Commission to review the project for possible safety and environmental deficiencies. The hot breath of a federal judge on their necks made the commissioners apprehensive. They would have to rule, they agreed, whether to halt construction until the review was completed.

This possibility caused panic in the backrooms of Consumers. Another construction delay might force the company to scuttle the project altogether, with staggering losses. The corporate brass were eager, therefore, to reassure the commissioners that all was well and that construction should continue.

But all was not well; differences between the two partners were boiling beneath the surface. This would not be reassuring, the Consumers executives agreed, to the regulatory commission. They tried to keep the trouble from bubbling up, therefore, from below to pothole the calm surface.

At a private meeting, secret Dow documents allege, Consumers threatened to sue Dow for damages if the chemical company did not support Consumers. If anyone from Dow gave testimony that resulted in the suspension or cancellation of the construction permit, Consumers warned, Dow would be held legally responsible.

According to confidential minutes taken by a Dow attorney, he viewed the threat as "pretty damn close to blackmail." The Dow documents also show that Consumers tried to persuade Dow to produce a witness who was not aware Dow wanted to back out of the nuclear project.

When Dow refused to send an uninformed witness to NRC hearings, Consumers still drafted misleading testimony for the Dow witness. The ghost-written version was carefully constructed not to reveal the extent of the disaffection between Consumers and Dow.

Documents also indicate that Consumers was spoonfeeding selective information to the commission staff. One confidential Dow memo quoted a Consumers lawyer as stating he planned to visit Washington "to get (the federal bureaucrats) ready to go to the hearing."

At the staff level, the regulators and the regulated are in one respect like rare tropical birds. They have learned to communicate with one another through near-inaudible sounds, poses and gestures. They reach understandings through a process of almost imperceptible movements, grunts, raised eyebrows and knowing smiles.

The staff investigation, not surprisingly, failed to bring out evidence that was really detrimental to Consumers.

This might have ended the matter, except for the loud objections of a tough trial and environmental attorney, Myron M. Cherry. Consumers had thought Cherry, with his limited resources, could not keep pace with the battery of company lawyers.

Explained the Dow minutes: "Consumers assumes Cherry will not appear because of lack of funds... They believe that since there is no discovery and probably no intervenor cross-examination - will be able to finesse Dow-Consumers continuing dispute."

The minutes indicate Consumers was not worried about any cross-examination by the commission but only by the crusading attorney. As it turned out, Cherry showed up, questioned Dow witnesses aggressively and unearthed crucial facts. But instead of thanking Cherry, the commission staff filed a motion, which Consumers supported, to censure him for allegedly making "personal attacks" upon the staff members.

Consumers, of course, would like nothing better than to get rid of Cherry, who singlehandedly has forced utilities to spend millions beefing up nuclear safeguards.

Footnote: The commission will rule on the Dow-Consumers project and the Cherry censure in the next few weeks. A Consumers spokesman, confronted with the documentation, conceded it was "difficult to refute" allegations that the company tried to suppress information. He insisted, nevertheless, the charges were false. "It's a lie. We did not try to conceal from the commission problems we were having with Dow," he said.

A Dow official told us, however, that some of Consumers' actions "sounded like extortion" and were "completely out of line." He insisted, nevertheless, that Dow still hopes to harness energy from the Midland plant.

A spokesman for the commission claimed the staff had conducted an adequate investigation of the Dow-Consumers dispute.

Government wants control over crown corporations

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government says it should have authority to overrule directors of Crown corporations as part of a package of reforms to tighten up their operations.

The proposal is part of a discussion paper to be released today leading up to a Crown corporations bill in Parliament.

The discussion paper follows release of a report by Auditor General J.J. Macdonell last fall that was highly critical of "weak and ineffective" controls over financial management of Crown corporations.

Macdonell's report lambasted one of the government-owned companies—Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd.—for paying $10.5 million in agents' fees in the overseas sales of nuclear power stations to Argentina and South Korea.

The company lost $130 million in the Argentinian sale, despite a renegotiation that the government says saved $70 million.

Throughout debate on these issues, Prime Minister Trudeau said he wanted opposition support for any government move to put cabinet ministers in more direct control of the companies. He said that measures had been opposed in the past because of years of political influence on Crown corporations.

The discussion paper says that it must be kept in mind that Crown corporations were established to achieve broad social policy objectives, not strictly for commercial reasons.

Some of the companies are now being examined to see whether the government can reduce its equity participation in them or sell them to private business, the paper says.

A key proposal is one that would give cabinet authority to issue a written directive to a Crown corporation upon the recommendation of the minister who answers to Parliament for the company.

Cabinet's power to issue directives would be restricted in the case of some companies, including the Canadian Broadcasting Corp., to directions of a general nature.

The paper says that the government wants to make it clear that a directive issued to the CBC would be public, would be subject to parliamentary approval and would not apply to specific programming.

Editorial 'ill-informed'

Sir:
I am surprised at the "No surprise" Editorial of David Sherman, with its ill informed views, which you permitted to occupy your editorial column on August 8th.

He stigmatizes the Board of Governors of McGill as if the Board rules on every research project conducted by the professors on the University staff and knew where every dollar of research money came from. Does he not know how much such researchers cherish their right to independence of action?

He stigmatizes University Boards in general as being at the "mercy of industry". A little more contact with members of University faculties should correct his biased outlook as to how a University functions.

He concludes, without any factual support for his thesis,

Vets say "thank-you"

Sir:
The Executive and Members of the Hong Kong Veterans' Association, Quebec-Maritimes Branch, wish to thank all those responsible for arrangements made in paying of final tribute to our respected Executive Member, Colonel W.A. Bishop, D.S.O., E.D., C.D.

The late Col. Bishop, a distinguished soldier of both by inferring that funds from powerful drug companies for undesirable research is accepted because public and government support of research is not given "more readily".

I say balderdash to such nonsense. Ironically in the case Sherman takes as his text, it was Government money (C.I.A.) that was supporting the research in question.

Wives dislike inspections

"Free" housing irks ministers

CALGARY (CP) — So you don't pay your minister a salary that's all that great. "But he gets a free house!" often is the response of a congregational finance committee wrestling with the economic facts of life in running a church.

He doesn't, really. And the minister, rector or pastor—whatever he is called in a Protestant congregation—may resent the manse or rectory, usually fully furnished with light and heating paid for, provided for him during his tenure.

"Free" housing is a favorite topic when ministers' wives get together. They particularly resent the annual "inspections" of property committees of some congregations seeking to make sure the house and furnishings are in good order.

The question whether manses should be provided by a congregation is dealt with in depth in a review of moving costs and housing allowances of the United Church of Canada in a report by a committee to the 27th general council. It gives a qualified "yes" to the question.

FUTURE UNCERTAIN
General council set up the committee in response to what the report says were doubts and frustrations across the church resulting from manses and moving policies.

"Some ministers and their wives resented having to live in houses which did not reflect their personal taste; some resented having 'one-third of their salary tied up in housing'; many were afraid that housing after retirement would be a major problem."

The church is concerned about another angle of the housing problem—possible tax evasion by congregations.

"The committee was concerned about the relationship between housing allowance and salary because members had heard comments which suggested that some pastoral charges used increasing housing allowance and the accompanying tax benefits instead of increased salary to attract or hold a minister."

"Such practices, if real, represent an abuse of the church's tax privileges and would be impossible to justify to non-church critics."

The committee recommends that where a congregation provides a housing allowance, it be based on "fair rental value" of suitable accommodation similar to that which would have been provided for a manse in that area.

'BUY YOUR OWN'

Because church regulations on ministers owning some of their own furniture are "confusing and ambiguous," because many congregations "are desirous of getting out of the manse-furnishing business" and because many ministers want to own their own furniture, the committee recommends that ministers should provide their own furnishings, except for basic heavy appliances and drapes and rugs.

Housing and what goes with it generally are evaluated at one-third of a minister's salary and he pays income tax on it. Many would prefer to have the cash and do their own thing. Some have purchased their manses or have purchased or rented accommodation away from their churches.

The housing committee notes a trend in the church to do away with manses—paying the minister a housing allowance instead. The number of United Church congregations decreased to 4,293 in 1976 from 4,355 in 1974. During the same period, the number of charges without manses increased to 503 from 404.

On this point, the committee observes:

"When a minister receives an allowance in lieu of a manse, what is a fair amount: one-third of his salary, the fair rental value of a house or apartment in his area, or as much as he can get in negotiations with his charge?"

"If housing allowances give the recipients tax and investment advantages over manses, those with better salaries are also getting fringe benefits."

When a manse is not occupied by the incumbent minister—the committee notes that in the United Church ministers move every four years on the average—the word is, don't sell the house. Real estate values are on the rise.

Other reasons: "1. Having a manse facilitates the call procedure (when one congregation 'calls' upon another for a new minister)."

"2. Sale of the manse may accommodate a short-term problem with one minister, but is unsound economics for the church."

"3. Additional costs are incurred in the buying and selling of real estate every time there is a change in pastoral relations."

The committee on fair employment practices of the Anglican Church of Canada takes a similar approach in its recommendations to the general synod, also meeting in Calgary this month.

Its report asks: "Has the possibility of paying a salary sufficient to permit the employee to buy or rent his own accommodation been explored? If the housing is church-owned, rent could be paid by the occupant to the church."

Bridal Shower

DERBY LINE — Miss Janelle Sykes was, on Sunday afternoon, August 14, at St. Edward's church hall, Derby Line, the very much surprised bride-elect, when honored by a bridal shower. Janelle had been invited there to attend a shower for another friend.

As she recovered from the surprise, Mrs. Debbie Fournier pinned on her frock a corsage of white and blue tinted shasta daisies, gypsophila and white satin ribbons.

The beautifully wrapped and ribboned gifts were picturesquely arranged on a table. Seated with Janelle was her mother, Mrs. Earl Sykes, and as they opened the gifts, the lovely assortment of items for the new home were circulated and admired, then arranged on a table.

Two quiz games were played under the direction of Miss Susan Gratton, with prizes going to the winners.

The decor was carried out with blue, green and yellow garlands. The refreshment table was beautifully appointed, with a blue linen cover and blue umbrellas on the white serviettes. A silver bowl of pansies in the center was flanked by gold candles in silver holders.

Sandwiches, squares, olives, pickles and chips were served. Miss Mary Downing presided at the punch bowl. The shower cake was the creative art of Mrs. Benoit Blais, a large square cake with garlands of daisies on blue icing, centered with a cupid water fountain and the inscription: "Best wishes, Janelle and Mike." The cake was cut and served by the bride-elect.

The hostesses for this delightful event were Miss Mary Downing, Mrs. Debbie Fournier, Miss Linda Kennison, Miss Susan Gratton and Mrs. Alta Brooks.

Guests attended from Newmarket, Derby and the Boundary Communities.

Janelle and Michael Flagg have arranged their marriage to take place in October.

Sparkes-Vintinner wed

MR. AND MRS. JOHN SPARKES

BURY — A beautiful summer wedding took place on July 23 at 6:00 p.m., when Miss Bonnie Susan Vintinner, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Phil Vintinner of Bury and Mr. John Robert Sparkes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Sparkes of Birchton, were united in marriage in the Bury United Church.

Reverend L. Westman officiated at the double-ring ceremony. Mrs. Merlyn Coates of Bury played the wedding music and accompanied the soloist Miss Lois Sparkes, aunt of the groom, as she sang "A Time For Us" and "The Wedding Song" during the signing of the register.

The church was decorated with large baskets of pastel gladioli and hydrangeas and the guest pews were marked with white satin bows.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of white sheer and net over taffeta. The scoop neck lining was sleeveless and the outer sheer featured long cuffed sleeves with ruffles. Applications of Brussels lace and seed pearls graced the gown at the neck, sleeves, bodice and around the skirt. A full skirt fell gracefully into a chapel train. Her elbow length veil of triple-tiered lace edged tulle illusion fell from a headpiece of matching lace.

She wore pearl earrings, a gift of the groom and a drop-pearl necklace. The bride carried a colonial bouquet of melon, yellow, and white roses and baby's breath.

Mrs. Sharon Barter, sister of the bride, as matron of honor wore a long dress of blue pompadour with flounced sleeves of French chiffon. The dress had a square neckline and the bodice was trimmed with matching buttons. She carried a bouquet of white shasta daisies and blue baby's breath and wore a white daisy in her hair.

The bride was attended by Miss Donna Sparkes, sister of the groom, Mrs. Carol Bennett, friend of the bride, Miss Laura Doyon, friend of the bride and Miss Kim Evans, cousin of the bride. The four bridesmaids wore dresses identical to the matron of honor, only in melon with floral embossed chiffon sleeves. They carried bouquets of white shasta daisies with melon baby's breath and also wore a white daisy in their hair.

The flower girl was Miss Tina Jacklin, cousin of the bride. Tina wore a long blue dress of floral embossed chiffon over taffeta. She carried a nosegay of white and blue pom-poms.

The groom was attired in a powder blue dinner jacket, navy blue trousers and vest, powder blue ruffled shirt and a navy blue bow tie. He wore a boutonniere of a single white rose.

Mr. Bruce Neil, friend of the groom, acted as best man. Ushers were Mr. Randy Vintinner, brother of the bride, Mr. Clifford Sparkes, brother of the groom, Mr. Frank Barkhouse, brother of the bride and Mr. Bruce and Mr. Bruce Sparkes, brother of the groom. The men in the wedding party wore powder blue dinner jackets, trousers and vests. They also wore powder blue ruffled shirts and bow ties.

The ring-bearer, Master Chad Barter, two-year-old nephew of the bride, wore a powder blue dinner jacket and a ruffled shirt. He wore navy blue trousers and a navy blue bow tie. Chad wore a boutonniere of two white miniature pom-poms and carried a white satin pillow decorated with two gold rings and a cluster of blue and white pom-poms.

Mrs. Vintinner, mother of the bride chose a long, aqua-colored sleeveless gown of polyester crepe with a V-neckline. The gown also had a matching chiffon cape trimmed with silver and aqua. She wore white accessories and a corsage of red miniature roses.

Mrs. Sparkes, mother of the groom, was attired in a long gown of pink, aqua-colored sleeveless gown of polyester crepe with a V-neckline. The gown also had a matching chiffon cape trimmed with silver and aqua. She wore white accessories and a corsage of pink and white roses.

Mrs. Gagne, maternal grandmother of the bride wore a long gown of pink floral chiffon over taffeta. The dress featured a V-neckline and flowing three quarter length sleeves. Black accessories and a corsage of pink miniature carnations completed her outfit.

Mrs. Sparkes, paternal grandmother of the groom chose a long gown of blue and mauve floral print over taffeta, with a round neck and matching long sleeve floor-length coat. Her accessories included a gold pendant and she wore a corsage of mauve miniature carnations.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at Salle Jean Paul, Bury, where a delicious cold buffet dinner was served. The head table was centered by a three-tiered wedding cake made by the bride's mother and decorated in white with dainty clusters of melon roses by Mrs. Robert Bennett and Miss Ellen Bennett, aunt and cousin of the bride. White candles in crystal holders flanked the cake and melon and yellow roses trimmed the table.

Reverend Eldred Marston, of Morrisville, Vermont was asked to give grace and later Mr. Bruce Neil proposed a toast to both the bride and the bride party.

Steven Sparkes, brother of the groom, and Trudy Sparkes, sister of the groom, were in charge of the guest book.

For travelling the bride chose a sleeveless, white polyester dress with navy blue belt and red tailored blazer. She wore white accessories, gold jewellery and a corsage of white roses. The bride and groom left on a two week honeymoon trip to the Poconos, Pennsylvania.

Guests attending the wedding were from Vermont, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Connecticut, Ontario, Montreal, Sherbrooke and their surrounding areas.

On Friday, July 22nd, following the wedding rehearsal, the wedding party was entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Sparkes. The bride and groom exchanged gifts and presented their attendants with gifts.

Ann Landers says keep your nose out of it ...

Dear Ann Landers: Five years ago I married a man who was divorced and had two adopted boys. He paid child support and saw the boys every other weekend. To be perfectly honest, I couldn't stand them because I knew they were not his flesh and blood. I told him he'd have to let their new stepfather adopt them or I'd get a divorce. He finally consented to the adoption and promised NEVER to see the boys again.

I got pregnant last year and now he has a blood son. It's been three years since he's seen those adopted kids. Yesterday his ex-wife sent a letter saying, "The boys are doing fine." (She even had the gall to enclose pictures.) What burns me up is that she has no intention of telling the boys they were adopted. I think I should tell them. They are 12 and 13 - old enough to handle the truth. My husband says I'm wrong. He also says he's sorry he gave up his rights to see them - and it's my fault.

This problem has caused many fights. My husband claims he can't forget about those kids and I am being unreasonable. They are NOT his blood sons and the thought of them makes me sick. Who is right? Shouldn't my husband tell them he's not and never was their REAL father? — Trouble Brewin'

Dear Trouble: I have always taken the position that adopted children should be told early that they were "chosen", and in a case where there is a step-parent, that, too, should be explained.

Since your husband and his former wife did NOT choose to do so - keep your nose out of it. I predict you're going to have your hands full holding your marriage together unless you fold out of this situation completely and let him do as he wishes in regard to his previous family.

Dear Ann Landers: It's been a while since you printed the letter from Good Fortune Cookie, the child who thought his stepdad was neat. I have not forgotten it. I'd like to advise any person about to wed a "single parent" that it is essential that you agree to joint discipline or make it clear at the outset that you will remain uninvolved.

Believe me, this is vital. You see, I too, was "neat," until it came time for my stepchildren to learn right from wrong.

All hell broke loose when my partner began challenging my authority and countermarching measures as if I was an interfering stranger.

If I did nothing, it meant more trouble. My nonaction was interpreted as lack of love for the children. It didn't take long for the kids to pick this up. The result was extreme permissiveness, arguing between my spouse and myself and then - open warfare.

The kids couldn't care less. They pushed our marriage over the cliff and left. What about us? We are as divided as we were during the years when we fought about them. But we still live under one roof - like strangers, smiling on the outside and crying on the inside. Sign me - Substitute

Dear Substitute: You call that living? Too bad you didn't seek the help of a counselor early and straighten the mess out - or separate yourself from it.

Dear Ann Landers: I agree wholeheartedly with your answer to the woman whose husband saves his drunken antics for when his mother comes to visit - once a year.

And now - what would you say about a husband who calls his mother long distance only when he is so plastered he can't hold the phone in his hand - has to lie down on the floor to put the receiver to his ear?

This man rambles on and on, sometimes for as long as two hours - repeating himself, talking a lot of nonsense, laughing, crying, getting mad, apologizing - really crazy stuff. When the phone bills come in I get furious all over again. On top of all this, she writes mean letters to me - not him - complaining about his drunken foolishness.

I know he is hung up on his mother and in his heart he really despises her for the way she has clung to him and made him dependent. The phone calls are a result of the guilt he feels. In the meantime, I have suffered the brunt of it for 30 years.

Should I explain all this to him so he will have a better understanding of what goes on?

Wiser in Wyoming

Dear Wy: No. It's tough enough when a professional therapist tries to get through to a man who is "mother-hung." Coming from a wife (who has resented her mother-in-law for 30 years) it would be rejected and you'd just end up in another fight.

Dear Ann Landers: I am sorry you backed down and apologized to the nurses. Ann, take back your apology.

I'm a 28-year-old male - and no sex maniac. Recently I was a hospital patient so I speak from experience. The young nurses did not look like bunnies. They looked like chorus girls. I refer to the ones who wore mini-skirt uniforms, and a lot of them

STANSTEAD — Amy Helen Archer, infant daughter of Dr. and Mrs. David (Joyce Hyatt) Archer of Campbellton, N.B., was baptised in a special service held at five o'clock on Saturday afternoon, August 6. Rev. Owen Merriman officiated.

The Godparents were Amy's uncle and aunt, Alfred and Thelma (Hyatt) Middleton and Dr. Emily Hamilton. Amy Helen was wearing an heirloom christening gown, all beautifully hand embroidered which had been originally the confirmation dress of Amy's great-grandmother, Mrs. Charlie Hyatt and used for five generations as the christening gown.

After the service, all gathered at the home of Amy's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hyatt in Stanstead where Amy was the center of attention.

An outdoor buffet supper was served and the cake, the top tier of David and Joyce's wedding cake, was cut and served.

Guests attended from Campbellton, N.B., Montreal and Stanstead.

Amy was the recipient of several gifts and many pictures were taken of the event.

Take a step in the right direction. Take a few.

Freezers - get your money's worth

TORONTO (CP) — Owning a freezer doesn't necessarily mean economy, but if used properly it is a convenience, says Margaret M. Szeker, director of the consumer section of the Ontario Food Council.

Mrs. Szeker said in an interview that with the costs of buying the appliance on time, hydro rates, maintenance and packaging, "you really can't look on a home freezer as a money-saver."

She said that a lot of people she receives calls and letters from "really don't know how to get their money's worth from their freezers."

"For instance, a lot of people keep their freezers only half full," she said. "For maximum efficiency, a freezer must be full all the time, and with those foods the family will eat."

Mrs. Szeker said there is no point in buying a lot of meat such as ham on special "if the family only eats ham once in a while." She said that freezer life makes such purchases a waste rather than a saving because even with expert handling, meat should not be kept frozen for longer than 12 months.

"When buying specials for the freezer, people should take into consideration how many times a family will eat that product."

She added that frozen foods must be stored at -18 degrees C. This prevents quality deterioration and possible food spoilage.

With tomato growing season at its height, Mrs. Szeker offers some suggestions for home freezer owners on how to preserve tomatoes for winter consumption.

To freeze whole tomatoes for use in side-course vegetable dishes or in sauces, casseroles and stews (once frozen they cannot be used fresh), select fully ripened fruit.

Mr. Edwin Clark of Brampton, Ont., has been calling on old friends here after an absence of many years. Mr. Clark grew up in Stanbridge East during the time that his dad, Horace Clark, was manager of the Charles Moore farm during the years that it was an experimental farm of test plots, for the Federal Government, under the supervision of the late Charles Moore. Market to feature old clocks KNOWLTON (KT) — The Sutton Saturday Market on August 13 was another big success. In spite of several conflicting factors including other popular events, the parking lot was jammed continuously from 11:30 until 4:30 p.m.

Among the participants were "The Quilters Three" who were well received, while from Waterloo, Gudrun Wiedenfeld brought her tapestry and weaving. While usually specializing in larger pieces, the tapestries she showed were relatively small. They were worked mostly in natural wool with soft, gentle colour accents. Trained in Germany, her work is beautifully executed.

"Bela" was also present. He is a leather worker and the leather purses, belts, hats, etc. shown were all exceptional work, imaginative yet reasonably priced. A rare opportunity to procure some lovely leather pieces of the highest quality.

It was another of a series of good markets which have averaged 40 or more vendors each Saturday, this season. This gives the Saturday Market great variety and added interest. Even on very rainy days, this number can be well accommodated with adequate shelter for the public.

This Saturday, August 20, Mr. Hugh Boyce will be bringing samples of a vast collection of clocks, including gingerbread banjo and mantel clocks. There will be 15 or so displayed, part of a much larger collection which he wishes to sell. Some are 100 years old.

Mr. Boyce will also bring some old guns and oil lamps. This promises to be a special event for many interested in items of this nature.

Display of original paintings

KNOWLTON (KT) — The exhibition of original paintings at Lennoxville Festival has now reached its half-way mark. This very fine display of oils by Gordon Ladd of Knowlton opened on July 6 and will continue until August 28.

Doors open three-quarters of an hour before each theatre performance and the showing may also be enjoyed during intermission and after the final curtain each night, but is not open to the public following matinees.

His collection of paintings has aroused a great deal of interest and has received a gratifying response from the public. His nature stills have particularly attracted attention.

Gordon Ladd has recently had two other one-man shows, one at The Archives, Knowlton, under the sponsorship of B.C.H.S. and another at Cowansville Art Centre, both of which were most successful.

In early fall, Mr. Ladd will be opening a gallery at his home on Davignon Avenue. He will also be at Au Coin des Arts at Central Station, Montreal from mid-September to mid-October.

Happiness is helping.

Quebec and Ontario continue to battle for supremacy

Quebec student wins fourth gold

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — A 15-year-old Quebec student won his fourth gold medal in swimming at the Canada Summer Games Thursday as Quebec and Ontario continued to battle for supremacy in the pool and Games records kept falling.

Peter Szmidt of Pointe Claire got a quick start in the 400-metre freestyle and held off Darrell Dean, 17, of Regina to win in 4:05.09. Szmidt had previously won the 100 and 200 freestyle races and was a member of Quebec's winning team in the 200 freestyle relay.

Johanna Malloy, 15, of Thunder Bay, Ont., also brought her gold medal count to four as a member of Ontario's victorious team in the women's 400 freestyle relay. The winning time was 3:59.62.

Susan Mason, 17, of Halifax; Jody McPhee, 15, of Sudbury, Ont.; Dan Rogers, 18, of Mississauga, Ont.; and Jennifer Boulianne, 14, of Pinte each won their second golds. Chris Erickson, 18, of Surrey, B.C., won his first.

Mason won the women's 400 freestyle. McPhee the women's 200 individual medley. Rogers the 200 backstroke. Erickson the men's 200 individual medley. and Boulianne the women's 200 backstroke, all in record times.

WINS CYCLING

Carole Vanier of Montreal won her second cycling gold medal, in the women's 53-kilometre road race, with Mary Ann Kokan of Winnipeg second and Peggy Bailey of Calgary third.

Gary Trevisiol of Sudbury, Ont., won the men's 91-kilometre road race with Lido Crema of Vancouver second and Andre Gervais of Montreal third.

Quebec took team honors in cycling with Ontario second and Manitoba third.

In women's softball, Ontario qualified for the medal playoffs by defeating Prince Edward Island 3-2 in a playoff to decide second place in Division B. Quebec won first place in Division A with a 2-1 decision over British Columbia.

Saskatchewan, the defending softball champion, joined Ontario, Quebec and B.C. in the medal playoffs. Szmidt was happy about his quick start in the 400 freestyle, which he won in 4:05.09. Earlier in the week he had complained about slow first legs "but today for some reason it was a really good start, and I had enough left at the finish to hold off the others."

Dean closed fast to finish second in 4:05.94 and Dennis Corcoran, 17, of Mississauga, Ont., was third in 4:08.88.

ANCHORS TEAM

Malloy anchored the Ontario team to a three-second victory in the 400 freestyle relay. Her finishing kick allowed her to overtake Quebec in a time of 3:59.62. Carol Klimpel, 14, of Toronto, Kwasny, 14, of Thunder Bay, were the other members of the team.

Quebec was second in 4:02.61 and British Columbia third in 4:04.58.

Mason led from the start in her 400 freestyle victory, touching first in 4:22.67 while Lorinda Parkes, 14, of Toronto, came from behind in the last 50 metres to be second in 4:24.57. Lisa Matheson of Regina took the bronze medal in 4:27.65.

Boulianne started her 200 backstroke event slower than she had in an earlier heat but clipped three seconds off the heat time with a 2:21.30 clocking.

Ontario's Kwasny was second in 2:22.59 and Nancy Nolan, 19, of North Vancouver, took the bronze with a time of 2:23.90.

CLAIMS MEN'S GOLD

Rogers claimed the gold medal in the men's 200 backstroke with a 2:09.30 clocking, less than three seconds off the Canadian senior record and four seconds better than his heat time. Wade Flemons, 16, of West Vancouver, took the silver in 2:12.17 and Jerome Powers, 16, of Lewis, Que., took third in 2:13.37.

McPhee slashed almost four seconds from the Games mark in her medley race, finishing in 2:24.91, followed by Licia Gorbella, 14, of Vancouver, in 2:26.13 and Kwasny in 2:27.80. Erickson finally claimed a gold medal after picking up three silvers earlier in the week. His time of 2:12.21 was four seconds better than his qualifying mark. Steve Sorpule, 16, of London, Ont., was second in 2:13.09 and Paolo Rodeghiero, 15, of Thunder Bay took the bronze with a 2:13.54 clocking.

KITNE, ME AND THE TEAM MAKES THREE — Kite dolls, the official mascot of the Sherbrooke version of the Quebec Games, were in great abundance all over the track facility during yesterday's opening ceremonies. And more than one of the furry little dolls was being used to keep some cold athlete a little warmer.

MASCOTS AND BANNERS were the order of the day yesterday as the teams from all over Quebec gathered to participate in the opening ceremonies.

LOOK ON — Sherbrooke mayor Jacques O'Bready, Games President Robert Hemond and Claude Charron look on as the teams file by the officials stand. Yesterday's ceremonies looked like something out of the Olympic handbook as they followed the Olympic opening fairly closely. (Record photos by Steve Bell)

Marise Kruger upsets Rosie Cassals

TORONTO (CP) — Rosie Cassals of the United States, the No. 1 seed in women's singles at the Canadian Open tennis championship, suffered an upset loss Thursday at the hands of 19-year-old South African Marise Kruger.

Kruger, a finalist in the Wimbledon juniors last year, won 6-4, 7-5 when Cassals double faulted at match point in their quarter-final encounter.

The match meant the $160,000 tournament lost its last women's seed. Cassals had come here to get some clay court play in before the United States Open at Forest Hills.

Hockey

Trade annouced

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Canadiens announced on Thursday they have traded veteran right winger-defenceman Jim Roberts to St. Louis Blues for "future considerations."

Roberts, 37, best known for his defensive ability during a National Hockey League career spanning 14 seasons, joined the Montreal club for the 1963-64 season.

He was selected by the Blues from Montreal during the 1967 expansion draft but returned to the Canadiens in exchange for winger Phil Roberto in December, 1971.

Last season Roberts, injured during a good part of the schedule, scored five goals and assisted on 14 others in 45 games.

Golf

B.C. wins title

BOISBRIAND, Que. (CP) — Paula Phillips, Valerie White and Marilyn Palmer, all of Vancouver, brought British Columbia the provincial team title at the Canadian women's amateur golf championship Thursday.

Phillips had a two-over-par 75 on the par-73, 6,015-yard Hillsdale Golf and Country Club course to lead the way in the second round of the event, held simultaneously with the first 36 holes of the individual championship.

White shot a 77 and Palmer had a 78 to give B.C. a total of 467 for the 36 holes and a fourstroke victory over runner-up Ontario, the 1976 champions.

Football

Leading scorer

TORONTO (CP) — Dave Cutler of Edmonton Eskimos is on the verge of becoming the Canadian Football League's all-time leading scorer.

CFL statistics released today show the Edmonton kicker with 61 points so far this season for a career total of 1,027, just four behind former Calgary Stampeders kicker Larry Robinson.

Earlier this season, Cutler moved up from third place to pass Tommy-Joe Coffey who retired five years ago with 971 career points.

Sailing

First victory

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Skipper Lowell North steered Enterprise to her first victory of the America's Cup defence finals Thursday, crossing the finish line one minute, two seconds ahead of Ted Hood's Independence.

For Enterprise, which got a 27-second jump at the start of the Thursday's initial duel, it was the first win of the final series. She was defeated twice Tuesday by Courageous, 1974 Cup defender.

Sweden's Sverige handed Gretel II her second straight loss, leaving the Australian 12-metre yacht facing a do-or-die situation in the Cup challenger semi-finals.

Sverige, which lost the start by a mere second, passed Gretel II on the first windward leg and gradually expanded her lead through the 24.3-mile race to 2:11 at the finish.

The win gave skipper Pelle Petterson of Sverige a 3-2 record against the old Australian yacht, meaning Gretel II must win the next race in the best-of-seven series or be eliminated from the challenge.

Student Games

First gold

SOFIA (Reuters) — The Soviet Union picked up where it left off in 1973 by winning the men's team gymnastics for the first gold medal Thursday at the World Student Games.

The Soviet Union, which collected 68 gold medals at the last games in Moscow four years ago, finished ahead of silver medalist Japan in the first event of the 1977 Games.

China, virtually unknown on the gymnastics scene and competing in its first student games, surprised the experts by finishing third.

Canada placed 12th.

China also raised some eyebrows by beating West Germany 67-62 in the opening round of the women's basketball round-robin.

In other basketball action, Canada beat Greece 71-43 in the men's tournament while Bulgaria defeated Canada 76-64 in women's play.

Canada suffered two losses in opening-round volleyball. The men's team lost 3-0 to Yugoslavia and the women lost 3-0 to Brazil.

Phillies dash Expos' hopes with 8-3 win

MONTREAL (CP) — Richie Hebner's grand slam home run—his first in the major leagues—erased a 3-2 Montreal lead in the fifth inning and Philadelphia Phillies went on to down the Expos 8-3 in National League baseball play Thursday night.

Hebner, who grounded out and fouled out with runners in scoring position in his first two at bats, smashed Wayne Twitchell's first pitch into the rightfield bleachers for his 14th homer of the year.

It came after Bake McBride drew a walk to start the inning. Larry Bowa singled and Mike Schmidt walked. Greg Luzinski, who extended his hitting streak to nine games with run-scoring singles in the first and third innings, popped out before Hebner connected for his first home run of the 1977 season against Montreal.

After Luzinski put the Phillies ahead in the first, Montreal's Andre Dawson slugged a three-run homer off winning pitcher Jim Lonborg, 8-3, in the Expos' half of the inning.

Twitchell, who left the game for a pinch hitter in the bottom of the fifth, suffered his ninth loss in 11 decisions and his fourth consecutive defeat.

Lonborg's RBI single in the seventh and McBride's home run in the eighth accounted for the rest of the Philadelphia offence.

The Phillies, who had their 13-game winning streak snapped when the Expos pounded them 13-0 Wednesday night, grabbed a 1-0 lead in the first when McBride doubled and scored on Luzinski's single to centre after Schmidt walked.

A wild pitch advanced Schmidt to third and Luzinski to second but Twitchell got Hebner to ground out and struck out Jay Johnstone to end the inning.

Lonborg, who defeated the Expos 6-1 last week in Philadelphia, walked Dave Cash and Warren Cromartie to start the Expos' first and then Dawson followed with his homer.

Philadelphia roughed up Twitchell again in the third with Luzinski's single scoring Larry Bowa from third after the Phils' shortstop had singled and advanced on Schmidt's double.

Again Twitchell got Hebner and Johnstone as the final two outs of the inning with Hebner fouling out and Johnstone popping out to Cash.

Twitchell, acquired from Philadelphia in a trade June 15, has not won since July 8. Since then, he has started nine times, losing four with five no decisions.

Munich Olympics paying off

MUNICH (AP) — Five years after the Munich Olympics, the Bavarian capital reported Thursday that—unlike in Rome, Tokyo, Mexico City and probably Montreal—its investments paid off handsomely.

Since the end of the blood-stained 1972 Games, more than 21 million people have paid to see some 500 events or just visited the 800,000-square metre Olympia Park playgrounds, considered the largest recreation and sports area in Western Europe.

In addition, millions of pedestrians walked the public grounds on fair weather weekends, lazed on well-manicured lawns and admired—or criticized—the controversial tentlike structure that partly covers the main stadium and now is considered Munich's modern day trademark.

Olympiapark GMBH, the city's caretaker organization, said in its latest report that during the five-year period, 9.4 million people visited the 78,000-seat Olympic stadium. In addition, six million rode the elevators inside the giant Olympic tower, 2.3 million came to see the Olympiahalle that accommodates up to 14,000 spectators and 1.9 million each visited events at the ice rink and inside the swimming hall.

GATHERING PLACE

Whereas Rome (1960), Tokyo (1964), Mexico City (1968) and apparently Montreal (1976) drew negative investment balances after their Games, Munich city fathers proudly say their city gained in international prestige and its inhabitants obtained a fine recreational facility and worthwhile tourist attraction.

"No city applying to host the Olympic Games exactly knows what it is letting itself in for," the saying went when Munich applied for the job in 1966. On taking over the finished 1972 Game site, the West German government shed any future financial responsibility in the project by paying the City of Munich $57 million.

"This amount hasn't even been touched yet," an Olympiapark spokesman said.

The Games site has been used for events like the Muhammad Ali-Richard Dunn heavyweight boxing title fight, the final of the 1974 world soccer championship, figure skating and hockey world championships, six-day bicycle races, pop concerts, a Soviet space exhibition, the World Cup for professional ballroom dancers and congresses by Jehovah's Witnesses and other religious groups.

Optimistic about the area's future, Olympiapark GMBH now is trying to arrange giant fascching (carnival) parties and hopes to draw music lovers by attracting symphony orchestras to the modern facilities where Arab terrorists once launched their bloody attack against Israeli athletes.
