Turkish-Alied Assistance Pact Likely

Early Pledges Combined In Single Treaty

Official British Quarters Regard Impending Treaty with Turkey as Important Blow to German Diplomacy in Balkans—Regarded as Good Insurance Against Extension of German Influence in East.

London, Oct. 19.—(P)—The Foreign Office announced today it understood a treaty of mutual assistance among Turkey, France and Great Britain would be signed at 5:30 p.m. tonight in Ankara.

The text of the treaty is to be issued as a White Paper immediately after the signature, it was announced.

The pact, informed sources believed, would be in the form of a single treaty binding the three countries along the same lines as pledges exchanged earlier this year.

Britain and France each then agreed with Turkey to "conclude a definite long-term agreement of reciprocal character in the interests of their national security."

"Pending completion of a definite agreement," Prime Minister Chamberlain announced May 12, "His Majesty's Government and the Turkish Government declare that in the event of an act of aggression leading to war in the Mediterranean area, they will be prepared to co-operate effectively and to lend each other all aid and assistance in their power."

"This declaration, like the proposed agreement, is not directed against any country, but is designed to assure Britain and Turkey of mutual aid and assistance should necessity arise."

Subsequently, on June 23, France and Turkey signed a similar declaration.

Action on the treaty, following the suspension of conversations in Moscow between Turkey and Soviet Russia, coincided with the presence in Ankara of two allied generals, General Maxime Weygand and Lieut. General Sir Archibald Wavell.

Informed British sources said the generals' visits were a mutual sequel to previous discussions among the three countries on military matters in the Eastern Mediterranean region where Turkey occupies a strategic position.

British circles indicated the mutual assistance treaty would be regarded by Britain as good "insurance" against extension of German influence in southeastern Europe.

Turkey's signature, it was said, would not preclude her from resuming negotiations with Russia at some future time, possibly on a basis other than that upon which the recent Turkish-Russian talks were snaggled.

British newspapers regarded the suspension of Russo-Turkish talks as a blow to German diplomacy.

In some quarters it was regarded as a blow to German diplomacy.

SCANDINAVIANS RENEW PLEDGES OF NEUTRALITY

Stockholm, Oct. 19.—(P)—Havas

—The strong desire of the Scandinavian nations to maintain their neutrality and independence and to contribute to the re-establishment of peace was stressed today by King Gustaf of Sweden in an international broadcast.

"The northern peoples desire to live in peace like all other peoples, like all free nations," King Gustaf said. "They do not want any northern country to see its liberty violated. They desire fervently to contribute to the re-establishment of peace."

His broadcast, followed by speeches by the Kings of Denmark and Norway and the President of Finland, was made at the conclusion of conferences here among the four chiefs of state and their foreign ministers.

King Christian of Denmark spoke immediately after the Swedish sovereign.

"The Nordic peoples are inspired by the same sentiments of Nordic solidarity and the same desire to conserve their common neutrality as in 1914," he said.

President Kyosti Kallio of Finland reiterated his country's desire to live in peace. Finland, he added, "hopes her powerful neighbor (the Soviet Union) will respect the accords now in effect. But Finland is ready to defend her independence."

Finnish General Convinced Nation Will Maintain Neutrality To End

By LYNN HEINZERLING

(Associated Press Staff Writer)
Viipuri, Finland, Oct. 19.—(P)—The slender, graying man who commands Finland's eastern military headquarters sat at a desk in his peacetime headquarters high in medieval Viborg castle today and told of his nation's determination to maintain her neutrality, come what may.

Calmly, Lieut. General Harald Oehouist explained that Finns were taking advantage of every minute to strengthen their defenses, but at the same time all hoped peace would come out of the current troubled times.

"The morale is very high among Finnish troops, which have been augmented to defend our neutrality in the Karelian Isthmus," he said. The isthmus, between the Gulf of Finland and Lake Ladoga, is half Finnish and half Soviet Russian, and would be the natural route for any southeast attacking force.

"The nearer one gets to the border, the more thoroughly ready is the Finnish soldier for the test," said the General. "If there were nervous persons on the isthmus they've all left now in a voluntary exodus."

"Civil and military authorities and the population stand hand in hand, but are ready for peace and are hopeful that it will be retained," General Oehouist recalled that Finland began last summer to strengthen her defenses, observing that "everyone knows defenses can never be strong enough."

Some of his troops, whose strength he did not mention, harvested the sugar beets and potatoes of those farmers who left when signs of trouble developed.

Pittsburgh, Oct. 19.—(P)—Peter McCullough is back on the police force after a 90-day suspension but he's got to do a little streamlining to keep his job. Besides being assigned to the toughest patrol in the city, Pittsburgh's corpulent veteran cop was ordered to get rid of 100 of his 300 pounds. Absence from his downtown beat for ten minutes on a hot summer day brought about Pete's suspension.

36 Candidates Are In Field For 13 Seats In Townships: 251 Nominated In Province

Last-Minute Entry of Independent Liberal Will Result in Four-Cornered Contest in Stanstead—Lively Debates Featured Contradictory Meetings Which Followed Fyling of Nomination Papers—Government Has 86, Liberals 85, and A.L.N. 56 Candidates in Running.

With the lines drawn up for one four-cornered battle, thirty-six candidates were officially in the running today for the Eastern Townships' thirteen Legislative seats following the official fying of nomination papers in the various constituencies yesterday afternoon.

In all, no less than 250 candidates were in the field today to contest the Quebec Provincial election next Wednesday, with nominations still to be made in the sparsely-settled Charlevoix-Saguenay division.

The Union Nationale Government of Premier Maurice Duplessis—meeting its first major test since it broke a forty-year Liberal rule three years ago—will have eighty-six candidates in the field. The Liberals will have one less, while the Action Libérale Nationale has named fifty-six representatives. Twenty-three others bearing various political labels make up the number.

A last-minute candidate was Mayor Houde of Montreal who will run as an independent in Montreal-St. Mary.

All thirteen Eastern Townships divisions will be contested by Government and Liberal nominees, nine will see three-cornered contests with Paul Gouin's Actionist candidates in the field, while one county—Stanstead—will have four candidates in the running, Maurice Theroux, Magog textile worker, having entered the fray at the last minute as an Independent Liberal.

The only member of the Duplessis Cabinet in the Eastern Townships, Col. the Hon. Johnny Bourque will seek re-election opposed by Maurice Gingues, Liberal, and J. E. Choquette, A.L.N.

COLD WINDS REDUCE COOKSHIRE INTEREST

Cookshire, Oct. 19.—A cold wind, sweeping across a frozen ground, greatly reduced the interest usually displayed in the nomination day proceedings for Compton County yesterday, as the weather was anything but favorable for the traditional open-air contradictory meeting. The affair was run off as scheduled, with the three candidates and their supporters presenting their views to the gathering of electors who stood shivering in the square in front of the County Building.

After the Returning Officer, Albert Turcotte, of East Angus, had formally read the election proclamation, declaring that three candidates had been placed in the race, the oratorical battle was on. The three names were Charles D. French, carrying the Government standard laid down by Payson Sherman, retiring member for the county, William J. Duffy, Liberal, and Emile Beaudoin, of Scottstown. Mr. French, who led off the discussion, confined himself to a brief personal appeal to the electorate for support, not only on the grounds of his long attachments to the county but on the many favorable legislative acts passed by the Union Nationale administration.

He was followed by the Liberal nominee, William J. Duffy, who declared that while he had been defeated in 1935 under the avalanche of votes cast at that time against the Taschereau administration, the many charges of graft and irregularities laid by the present Prime Minister of the Province had never been proved. Furthermore, the Union Nationale administration had misadministered the affairs of the Province to such an extent that the credit was ruined and no further loans could be forthcoming from the banks. The debt of the province had increased $185,000,000 during their four years of office and this inability to float loans was the real reason for the Government summoning a general election, the Liberal candidate claimed.

Five Drowned, Sixth Missing, As Car Plunges Into Quebec Harbor Waters

Quebec, October 19.—(P)—Police sought to establish identity today of the bodies of five men recovered in the early morning hours, as searchers carried on their quest for the body of a sixth man believed drowned after an automobile plunged off a wharf into the inner Louise Basin of Quebec Harbor.

The car, thought to have carried six passengers, was located by Stanislas Roy, a diver, a few hours after it plunged off the wharf late last night at a spot where two years ago two other persons lost their lives in the same way.

When the car was raised by a towing truck, police officers found the bodies of five young men in the machine. They stated, however, that they were almost certain another passenger had been in the car. Darkness halted their search of the harbor last night and it was the intention to resume the hunt this morning.

No one witnessed the actual plunge of the car into the Basin, but a guard stationed at a drawbridge across the entrance to the Basin rushed into the police station.

"Contact with the enemy has been broken in several places because our troops did not cross the French frontier. The first phase of the war, provoked by French initiative, is now terminated and it is possible to give the following summary of events on the Western Front since the beginning of the war."

With the beginning of operations in Poland, our border fortifications in the west also were occupied with strong forces. September 9 the French opened hostilities and crossed the German border with advance troops at several places between Luxembourg and the Rhine west of Karlsruhe. From the very beginning, at no point on the West Front has there been serious fighting.

The purely local fighting took place in a flat stretch near the French border in front of our West Wall. With one single exception, on

ROYALTY MAKES SPECIAL TOUR OF FRONT LINE

By DREW MIDDLETON

(Associated Press Staff Writer)
With the British Expeditionary Force in France, Oct. 18.—(Delayed)—(P)—(Passed by Field Censor) The Duke of Windsor and the Duke of Gloucester toured the front lines today accompanied by Viscount Gort, the Commander-in-Chief.

The Royal brothers looked into pillboxes, watched breastworks being erected and jumped into trenches on their tour.

Guards hold the front lines. In London, the word "Guards" immediately brings to mind towering beretrains and bright red coats. But in France, guards mean huge men digging trenches in wet clay with a captain who is a cousin of the King lending a hand. They crouch in pillboxes nursing Bren machine guns and wear battle dress—the new style, resembling khaki overalls. They dig deep trenches in French pastures and march with shovels over their shoulders.

I saw them "in the line" today. They have a snap and dash even in battle dress. They mound guard in the dark streets of French towns as smartly as they do in London.

Their blockhouses are models of neatness. A sergeant who left half a loaf of bread on top of a gasoline tin was taken to task by his major.

SOME PROGRAMME

New Orleans, La., Oct. 19.—(P)—Joseph Pellerin, candidate for Governor of Louisiana and used car salesman, borrowed a restaurant chair, placed it on the sidewalk, and made a campaign address last night. Savannah, Ga., Oct. 19.—(P)—As a truck rounded a curve a 250-pound dual wheel, 16-inches wide flew off. The wheel hurtled the hood of another truck, crashed through a window in Tom Beardon's home, shattered a kitchen table, knocked a hole in the floor and smashed the stove on which Beardon's dinner was cooking. The dinner was ruined.

RESTORATION OF TRADE WITH CANADA

Probable Under New Neutrality Law

By C. R. BLACKBURN,

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)
Washington, Oct. 19.—(P)—United States coastwise trade with Canada and the British West Indies may not be cut off as originally proposed in the Government's programme to avoid involvement in the war.

Chairman Key Pittman, of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, and Senator Tom Connally, Texas Democrat, worked last night over the text of amendments to the administration neutrality bill designed to ease the rigid restrictions imposed on merchant shipping.

It was expected that Senator Pittman would announce today a set of proposed changes in the bill, throwing open the entire Western Hemisphere to commercial aircraft, allow unrestricted commercial ocean traffic in the Pacific and permit unrestricted shipping south of a line running into the Atlantic ocean from New Orleans.

Just possibly, it was understood, there will be sufficient relaxation of restrictions to permit American vessels to trade with Canadian Atlantic coast ports and with Bermuda.

Sole purpose of the shipping restrictions in the revised neutrality bill now before the Senate was to keep American vessels out of the way of possible attacks by belligerent submarines or other naval craft.

Power will be left with the President to alter these restrictions as circumstances dictate and to define "combat zones" closed to American vessels.

Sherbrooke And District Feels Earth Tremors As 'Quake Centres Off Coast

Earthquake at Few Minutes Before 7 O'Clock this Morning Rattled Dishes and Windows but Caused No Serious Damage—Centre of Disturbance Believed Somewhere Off Atlantic Coast—Shocks Felt in Quebec, Ontario, Maritimes and New England States.

Sherbrooke and other parts of the Eastern Townships experienced their most severe earth tremors in ten years a few minutes before seven o'clock this morning as a major earthquake, possibly centered somewhere off the Atlantic Coast of North America, created shocks which were felt in various sections of Quebec, Ontario, the Maritimes and the New England States.

The tremors, which lasted between two and three minutes, were distinctly felt by Sherbrooke citizens who happened to be up when they occurred. Some light sleepers were awakened, but most citizens who were asleep at the time did not notice the shocks.

The earthquake rattled dishes and windows but no damage was caused. First reports from scores of centres obtained by The Canadian Press told of no damage, casualties or panic.

The Dominion Observatory at Ottawa reported that its seismograph recorded an earthquake of "relatively great intensity" which lasted for about thirty minutes.

Dr. L. Don Leet, seismologist at Harvard University, described the tremors as a "major earthquake," and declared it was his guess that the centre of the disturbance was about 200 miles from the station at Harvard, Mass., probably somewhere off the coast.

Dr. Leet said today's quake was the most severe since November 18, 1929, when tremors off the Grand Banks caused 28 cable breaks and inundated the Burin Peninsula causing a loss of about 30 lives.

Although seismographs recorded the duration of the quake as half an hour, the tremors felt in most places were said to have lasted from a few seconds up to three minutes.

In Montreal and Quebec City, citizens heard dishes and windows rattled by the tremors. One woman said she heard a "deep, rumbling sound" at the same time.

Residents of northern New Brunswick cities and towns reported they felt the earthquake. The disturbance was slight and no damage was reported.

The quake was not felt in St. John but a number of other southern New Brunswick cities, including Moncton, felt the tremor.

In Toronto, Owen Sound, Peterborough, Brantford and other Ontario cities buildings vibrated, pictures were shaken askew on walls and crockery rattled.

The tremors were not felt in London and Windsor, in the southwestern section of Ontario. A woman living east of Cleveland said the tremors shook her home.

He also condemned the Provincial Government supporters for introducing the race cry into the campaign and declared that the matter of conscription had long since been disposed of, with the Quebec Liberal Ministers finally halting the immediate demand for the immediate institution of conscription.

The Action Libérale Nationale nominee, Emile Beaudoin, found little to choose between the two old parties. Duplessis had been elected to power on the A.L.N. programme, he claimed, but immediately upon assuming office had repudiated it, with the result that the condition of the Province today was worse than it was before the 1936 elections. On the other hand, the Liberals were still representatives of the old Taschereau regime, "The Old Gang," as he described them, and could not be trusted with the administration of the Province.

J. C. Elliott, M.C., who supported Mr. French, answered opposition claims of debt increases by a review of the heavy expenditures incurred for unemployment relief, farm loans, public works and the funding of $45,000,000 floating debt incurred by the former regime. The present administration, he claimed, has instituted more progressive legislation in three years than had been done previously in the history of the Province.

He flayed the interference of the federal ministers in the campaign and asserted that Justice Minister Lapointe had admitted the interference of the Dominion Government in the financial affairs of Quebec.

A. Blanchette, Liberal M.P. for Compton, denied that the Old Age Pensions had been introduced by the Duplessis regime, but rather were passed by the Taschereau Government in its closing days, while much of the boasted Government social measures were in the same class.

The attitude of the Prime Minister of Quebec has alienated much support from former Conservatives, who believed that the question of participation was outside the jurisdiction of the Province and that the declarations of Mr. Duplessis were tending to the disruption of Confederation.

FOUR ASPIRANTS TO SEAT IN STANSTEAD

Ayer's Cliff, Oct. 19.—Closing in complete disorder and with one candidate unable to complete his address, the Stanstead County nomination meeting yesterday afternoon proved the surprise package in the Eastern Townships when Maurice Theroux, Magog textile worker, presented himself as independent Liberal candidate to oppose Henri Gerin, Union Nationale, Raymond Fregeau, official Liberal, and Antoine Mailloux, Action Libérale Nationale nominee.

For the most part the meeting, held in the hall on the exhibition grounds, was orderly, but when Henri Gerin attempted to speak in rebuttal his voice was drowned in the hoots and cries of Liberal and A.L.N. supporters. The remark brought on the speaker's denial of a statement made earlier in the afternoon by Dalma Landry, Sherbrooke lawyer, who spoke on behalf of Raymond Fregeau.

After Returning Officer P. E. Durocher, of Coaticook, had declared that the nominations of the four candidates were in order and that deposits had been received, Emile Beaudoin, of Magog, and Wilfrid Clement, of Kataville, were called upon the podium jointly over the meeting. Only a half-hour was allotted to each party.

First to speak was Mr. Gerin, elected last year over Dr. E. Cabana, of Magog, in the Stanstead County bye-election. The M.L.A. received a noticeably cool reception when he was introduced to the gathering but for the greater part of his address was listened to with attention by the audience.

Claiming that the Union Nationale Government had fulfilled most of the promises made in the 1936 election campaign, Mr. Gerin maintained that it was the duty of the electors to return Premier Duplessis to power in order that he might be able to continue his work of helping the farmer and the industrial worker.

Mr. Gerin contended that in the last three years residents of Stanstead County had benefited from the social laws passed and the public works that had been executed since Premier Duplessis' accession to power. He admitted that there had been large sums of money spent by the Union Nationale Administration but claimed there was no need to worry about the financial situation of the province and that the debt per capita in Quebec was only $80, being less than that of all other provinces other than Prince Edward Island.

A defence of the stand of Premier Duplessis on the question of Provincial autonomy was made by Mr. Gerin as he completed his address. He reiterated his leader's claim that Ottawa was trying to gradually assume control of Quebec by a slow process of assimilation and asked that the voters unite in guaranteeing that Premier Duplessis be re-elected so that he "could save the province from Ottawa."

Raymond Fregeau, the official Liberal candidate, spoke only a few minutes in French and English, stating that the October 25th election not only involved provincial questions but was one of national importance, since it affected the spirit of Canadian unity which, he said, is so needed at the present time.

"The Liberal party represents the spirit of Canadianism," Mr. Fregeau said. "It is the leader in the fight against the Union Nationale followers who are attempting to disunite the peoples of Quebec and the rest of Canada."

Charging that the Liberal convention that resulted in the choice of Raymond Fregeau as Liberal candidate was "packed," Maurice Theroux presented himself as "a proof that democracy still exists in our country." Mr. Theroux affirmed his devotion to the Liberal party but stated he could not back a candidate who, he said, "was picked by twenty-five or thirty organizers."

Mr. Theroux maintained that he should have been chosen as official Liberal candidate because he best knew the needs of the working classes. He added that a defeat for Mr. Fregeau would not mean a defeat for the Liberal party since the official Godbout candidate was not really the choice of the people.

Speaking for the Stanstead County Action Libérale candidate, Antoine Mailloux, Marcel Ostiguy, of Montreal, outlined the programme of Paul Gouin and asked for a general clean-up of the members of the "two old cliques."

"We suffered for forty years under the old Liberal regime," Mr. Ostiguy said, "and we continued to suffer in the three years the Union Nationale party has been in power. It is up to your electors to elect a good man."

The speaker was interrupted by shouts of "Godbout" and "Duplessis."

After the minor hubbub had subsided, Mr. Ostiguy gave particulars of what Paul Gouin promised to do if elected to power and stressed especially that a labor tribunal made up of representatives of the working classes and of the employers would be set up for the arbitration of industrial disputes.

John T. Hackett, K.C., branded as misleading the arguments advanced by the Liberals that the English-speaking residents of the Province should not vote for the Union Nationale Government because of the war question. He stated that the war was something that could not have been avoided by any party whatsoever and should not have been introduced as an election issue.

The Action Libérale Nationale candidate, Antoine Mailloux, confined his short address to a discussion of labor legislation and pledged himself to protect the interests of the working classes, if elected on October 25th.

Speaking for Raymond Fregeau, Dalma Landry, Sherbrooke lawyer, denied the charge of Maurice Theroux that the Liberal convention had been "packed" and stated that Mr. Theroux's reason for coming as a candidate was that of personal ambition and resentment that he had not been chosen at the convention.

Mr. Landry launched a general attack on the Duplessis administration and especially on the Union Nationale claims regarding establishment of pensions for the aged, blind and needy mothers. These, he said, were innovations of the Liberal party and, in fact, the Federal Government now pays 75 per cent of old age and blind pensions.

Referring to the financial situation of the Province, Mr. Landry eventually led to the financial ruin of the Province of Quebec. He stated that the Union Nationale Government had done much and at the same time had maintained the credit of the Province. He denied Mr. Gerin's statement that the per capita debt of the province is $80 per head and claimed it was really $38.

The fireworks started when the Government party candidate, Mr. Gerin, started to speak in rebuttal: "If you want a good administration," he said, "vote for—"

"Godbout, Godbout," the crowd shouted.

Undaunted, Mr. Gerin waited for the clamor to subside and started again. "When Mr. Landry says the debt of the province is $96 per capita, he lies."

It was at this point that bedlam broke loose as different sections in the audience voiced their approval and disapproval of the statement, and the chairman adjourned the meeting.

LIVELY GATHERING HELD AT RICHMOND

Richmond, Oct. 19.—Claim that the Liberal candidate, S. E. Desmarais, when a member at Quebec had consistently voted against the social reforms brought about by the Duplessis Government and counter-charged that the Union Nationale administration had been wasteful and extravagant to the detriment of provincial finances were highlights

REPORT BEATTY GIVEN IMPORTANT SHIPPING POST

Ottawa, Oct. 19.—The Ottawa Journal said in a news-page story today it was learned here unofficially that Sir Edward Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, has been appointed Controller of Shipping in Canada, representing the British Ministry of Shipping.

Sir Edward's appointment, made by the British Government, gives him full control of all shipping on the North Atlantic between the United Kingdom and Canadian ports, the Journal said.

of the lively nomination meeting held yesterday afternoon when three candidates were named to make a bid for the Richmond division.

Albert Goddard will seek reelection to the Quebec Legislature as a Union Nationale standard-bearer, while S. E. Desmarais, a former member of the Lower House, and Alfred Lafamme will contest the riding on behalf of the Liberal and Action Libérale Nationale parties respectively. Their nomination papers were duly filed yesterday with Returning Officer Philippe Roy.

Redmond Hayes, Richmond lawyer, led off for the Union Nationale party and conducted the ten-minute rebuttal which climaxed the contradictory meeting. Mr. Hayes defended the financial status of the Province under Premier Duplessis' three-year reign and stressed the various social reforms which were brought about. These included pensions to the aged, blind and needy mothers, and were described by the speaker as pieces of vital legislation against which S. E. Desmarais had consistently voted while a member of the Quebec Legislature.

Mr. Hayes also compared the Duplessis administration with the long rule of the Liberal party, claiming that many irregularities in the administration of the Province had had to be straightened out when the U. N. took office and that the Duplessis Government was still repairing the mistakes made under Liberal rule.

Elie Lalumière, of Sherbrooke, speaking for the Liberals, maintained that Quebec had refused to cooperate with Ottawa in connection with the adoption of legislation providing for unemployment insurance, but this contention was refuted by the U. N. speaker who produced the Statutes of Quebec showing that the Government was in favor of such employment insurance provided the constitutional rights of the Province were respected.

Another member of the Government party, Charles de L. Mignault, of Sherbrooke, referred to the strike at the Asbestos plant of the Canadian Johns-Manville Company, and to the collective labor agreement which had been drawn up following settlement of the dispute by an arbitration board. This agreement, Mr. Mignault said, had proved very satisfactory to both employees and employers.

Stanislaus Poulin, of St. Johns, claimed that the Duplessis Government had been extravagant and wasteful in the execution of public works, and intimated that contractors had profited unduly from various undertakings in Sherbrooke. Mr. Mignault said that the Union Nationale speakers replied to this charge by the claim that the public works in question had been done for the relief of unemployment through day labor and that no contracts had been awarded as claimed by the St. Johns speaker.

THREE CANDIDATES IN MISSISQUOI CONTEST

Bedford, October 19.—A three-candidate contest for Missisquoi County as for the majority of Eastern Townships constituencies was assured yesterday afternoon when F. A. Pouliot, of Montreal, Henri A. Gosselin, of Farnham, and Aldeé Martel, also of Farnham, were named as candidates in the October 25th election.

Mr. Pouliot, a train dispatcher, was the first elected to represent Missisquoi for the Union Nationale party in November, 1935, and retained his seat in the August, 1936, Duplessis victory. Mr. Gosselin, also a train dispatcher, and Mr. Martel, a trucker, are official candidates for the Liberal and Action Libérale Nationale parties, respectively.

After the Returning Officer had declared that the three candidates were well and truly nominated, a contradictory meeting was held in Victoria Hall. The gathering was under the presidency of Dan Murphy, of Stanbridge, and was at all times very orderly, with the speakers getting a sympathetic reception from the large audience.

Upholding the record of the Union Nationale administration, Mr. Pouliot asked for renewal of his mandate and promised that if re-elected he would continue to work for the county as he had done in the past. The Government party candidate admitted that much money had been spent in the last three years by Quebec but added that the people had received something in return.

The reelection of Premier Duplessis would mean a serious blow to the unity of Canada and might eventually lead to the financial ruin of the Province of Quebec. W. F. Bowles, K.C., of Cowansville, told the electors, Mr. Bowles maintained that Premier Duplessis had tried to make himself a dictator, had wasted the finances of Quebec and in his three years address two weeks ago had displayed his true colors.

The policies of Paul Gouin were outlined by the A.L.N. candidate, Aldeé Martel, who stated that laborers and farmers would be given every consideration if the Action Libérale Nationale leader were elected to power. Other speakers were J. Desjardins, of Montreal, H. Rochelleau, of Abbotford, the Liberal candidate, and Maurice Fortin, of Bedford.

$2,000 DAMAGE FROM FIRE AT COWANSVILLE

Fire Fighters Battle for Over Hour to Subdue Flames Breaking Out in Tenement Owned by M. E. Batalon.

Cowansville, Oct. 19.—Breaking out this morning in a tenement building owned by M. E. Batalon, fire of undetermined origin caused damages estimated at $2,000 and raged for a little over an hour before being extinguished by the town fire-fighters.

The blaze started in a flat occupied by H. Desmarais and it was feared it would get out of control and destroy the whole building. Prompt preventative action, however, allowed the fire department to localize the conflagration.

Although the rooms occupied by the Desmarais family were badly damaged, the adjoining apartment owned by Batalon, A. Couchette and J. Lajoie were not affected by the flames. They were damaged, however, by water.

The loss is partially covered by insurance.

UNITED STATES CLOSES WATERS TO SUBMARINES

Undersea Craft of Belligerent Nations Can Only Enter Territorial Waters in Case of Emergency.

Washington, Oct. 19.—(AP)—Submarines of belligerent nations have been prohibited from entering United States ports or territorial waters except when unforeseen circumstances, such as storms, force them to take shelter.

President Roosevelt proclaimed the ban last night by putting into effect a provision of the neutrality law. Armed merchant vessels or warships still may enter American ports and waters.

Mr. Roosevelt said that the ban would serve to maintain peace and promote American security. Submarines forced to enter American waters, he said, should do so with their conning towers and superstructures above water and with their flags flying.

Experts explained that the proclamation would permit the entrance of belligerent submarines during violent storms, when their machinery was damaged, or when they suffered loss of fuel or provisions. In such cases, the vessel could not remain in an American port for more than twenty-four hours.

The commander of a submarine violating the proclamation could be tried under the Neutrality Law and if convicted could be sentenced to five years in prison and a fine of $10,000.

The White House and other sources have made public several reports in recent weeks of foreign submarines sighted off the American coasts. Their nationality was not disclosed.

UNITED CHURCH MISSION WORK UNDER REVIEW

Dr. Charles Endicott, Prominent Church Official, Guest Speaker at Banquet in Plymouth Church Hall.

The far-flung work of the Missionary and Maintenance work of the United Church of Canada was the reason for a banquet, served in Plymouth Church hall last night by the ladies of Plymouth and Trinity W. M.S. organizations to about 150 of the leading representatives of the church in this area. The district from Lake Megantic to the United States border sent delegates. The Rev. Albert Johnson, chairman of Presbytery, presided, and seated at the head table were Dr. Charles Endicott, of Toronto, heading the work of the M. & M. Fund across Canada; Dr. J. Bruce Hunter, of St. James Church, Montreal, conference chairman; Dr. William Munroe, the conference secretary, also from Montreal; Mrs. Carson, of Ottawa, conference president of the W.M.S.; with leading ministers and distinguished laymen in church leadership.

With Mrs. Cross at the piano, the evening singing was led by the church choir. Speaking briefly, Dr. Munroe, who sits at the very centre of the work throughout Quebec and part of Ontario, surveyed the progress of the missionary work here and abroad, and in urgent phrase related the vital work of the church to the threatened institutions of our time. He asserted that no organization had an equal challenge to build a morale that both now and after the war would be able to do adequate service in setting up an order of society that would abide.

Dr. Hunter paid high tribute to the inspirational work being done across the country by the United Church of Canada. Dr. Endicott, who took up his new position less than two years ago, coming from a similar position in Saskatchewan.

The chief speaker of the evening was Dr. Endicott, making his first visit to the Eastern Townships. Coming from the prairies, he spoke with an affection for the wheatlands evident through his speech, he paid tribute to the beauty of the Townships' country side. Justifying the M. & M. Fund claims by the actual work being done daily by the United Church of Canada, he stressed the average church congregation as a jury, assembled to give a verdict on the evidence produced as to whether the church was justified in this modern world. Speaking of criticism within and without, he said one of the setting sins of our day was that of rendering a verdict without hearing the evidence. That was true in the matter of the war, or of the election.

Obviously many false and mischievous verdicts were so arrived at. The verdict of uninformed ignorance is working mischief and sorrow in many people, the far-flung and variegated work of the church, educational, socially redemptive, spiritual, was a closed book.

Votes of thanks to the speakers were proposed by the ministers of Plymouth and Trinity, and to the ladies who had provided the banquet by Mrs. F. R. Matthews, of Lennoxville. Dr. G. F. Kelly Read pronounced the benediction.

As a Nazi failure to shake Turkey, guardian of the Dardanelles, from the British and French front and as an event that might prove decisive in the war.

Although these sources considered it also a defeat for the Soviet Union, they contrasted the expressions of continued friendliness between Turkey and Russia with what they interpreted as signs of a cooling off in relations between Germany and Turkey.

Germany's ambassador to Turkey, Franz von Papen, was described in the press as having brought intense pressure on Turkey to win her from the Western powers. Von Papen's departure from Ankara for Berlin yesterday, on what was said to have been a summons from his Government, was reported prominently by the press.

In some diplomatic quarters it was suggested that Russia, merely as a formality to satisfy Germany, may have made last minute demands on Turkey to abandon Britain and France.

either side only small detachments, mostly weaker than one company, participated in these encounters. The following were occupied by the French during September:

"First, several villages lying near the French border between the Luxembourg border and Saarbrücken; second, 'The Warndt' woods, which extends into France southward of Saarbrücken, and third, the like-wise protruding region southward of Saarbrücken between the Saar River and the Palatinate Forest."

"Only in the two last named regions which were evacuated by us was the enemy able, with heavy losses, to penetrate into German soil to depths of between three to five kilometres (about two to three miles)."

"There is no enemy in the entire German region in front of the West Wall. At no other point did the French forces even come close to the West Wall with the exception of the West Wall where the French side was the case at Saarbrücken, runs along the immediate neighborhood of the border."

"As with infantry actions, artillery fire also was light. It was limited except for support if minor action to a mere nuisance fire against points in front of our fortifications. In one single case one bunker in the neighborhood of Saarbrücken was shot at with eighty shells of medium calibre without any success."

"Along the Upper Rhine from Karlsruhe to Basel, nearly peaceable quiet has reigned since the outbreak of the war. This minor gain of territory, which from the French side was described as a big success and effective support of the Poles, has been voluntarily abandoned by the enemy between the Luxembourg border and Warndt mountain as well as between the Saar River and the Palatinate Forest."

"Thereupon, the enemy, energetically pressed by our troops, retreated to land beyond the French border. 'War in the air on the Western Front hitherto did not go beyond reconnoitering activity and use of pursuit planes and anti-aircraft on both sides."

"Bombing raids did not occur. Because of effective German defence by pursuit planes and anti-aircraft, sixty enemy planes, among which twelve were British, were brought down since the war's beginning on the Western Front."

"Airplane losses of the enemy within Germany and in the vicinity of the German coast are not contained in these figures. The total losses on the German side caused by enemy action on the Western Front from the outbreak of war until October 17, inclusive, 114 missing, as well as eleven aircraft."

"Up to October 18, 25 French officers, 644 non-commissioned officers and soldiers were taken prisoner. 'Only one man was wounded, and he by a splinter of an occasionally bursting anti-aircraft shell, along the 170-kilometre-long (about 105-mile) front on the Upper Rhine."

"British troops until now have been nowhere in evidence on the first line on the Western Front."

Allies intended to fight a defensive war at least through the winter while awaiting clarification on the diplomatic front, particularly with regard to Russia's intentions.

The French originally said that their advance into German territory was designed to gain extended cover for the Maginot Line. They said now that their main lines had been withdrawn to points more easily supported by winter bases in the main fortifications.

SPEAKER LAUDS SCHOOL'S WORK IN COMMUNITY

E. C. Woodley, M.A., Special Officer of Department of Education, in Address at School for Leaders in Lennoxville.

"The school is one of the pillars of community life in a democracy, and the need of recognizing this fact was never more important than today when democracy is facing its greatest test, and on the four pillars—school, home, church and state—the fabric of civilization rests." This statement was made last evening by E. C. Woodley, M.A., Special Officer of the Department of Education, Quebec, in an interesting address at the School for Leaders in the Lennoxville High School.

Speaking on the subject, "The School in the Community," Mr. Woodley pointed out that the school is the chief instrument of education in that it is the means whereby education reaches the greatest number of individuals, and it deals with them at the stage when they are most easily influenced. It is the institution to which children and young people are sent to receive from specially trained teachers that knowledge and those standards of behavior which are necessary to civilized society. It is here that the child is introduced to the life of a member of society. He is trained on the basis of the garnered social wisdom of the ages, disciplined to live wholesomely, with the good of others in mind as well as his own selfish ends.

Mr. Woodley said that "Education is the door through which a child, or man, passes from the prison-house of years, taboos, inhibitions, all based on ignorance, into the freedom of complete living. Let us see the school in the right light and acknowledge the importance and grandeur of its task. If we do, education will suffer no neglect in our communities."

Another feature of last evening's School for Leaders was a splendid display of handicraft given by Miss Emily LeBaron, of North Hatley, to the groups on handicrafts.

Among other distinguished guests present were Professor H. D. Southam, of the Department of Education, McGill University, Neil Morrison, B.A., of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, and the Misses Gretchen Echel and Helen Drummond, of Montreal.

Maurice McGill, B.Sc., who was active in the McGill Dramatic Society for several years, and has had a wide experience in acting, direction and the production of plays, was the leader of the elective on dramatics.

The usual periods of folk dancing, group singing, educational films, etc., provided instruction and enjoyment.

The Women's Association met at the latter's home.

Mr. and Mrs. Miles Krans, Mrs. Mary Krans and Mr. and Mrs. Myron Chappel motored to St. Johns.

MAGOG MAN WOUNDED IN SHOOTING AFFRAY

Hidden Assailant Fires Four Shots With High-Powered Gun

Wilfrid Pivin in Hospital and Brother-in-Law, Joseph Lepine, in Jail as Argument Results in Bloodshed—Only One of Four Shots from Heavy 30/30 Rifle Takes Effect as Bullets Pursue Pivin in Flight to Safety.

One man is in the St. Vincent de Paul Hospital and another is being held by Provincial Police here following an argument in Magog last night which resulted, police say, in one of the participants firing four rifle bullets at the other after waiting in ambush four hours for the opportunity.

Wounded by one shot of the fusillade was Wilfrid Pivin, today a hospital patient with injuries caused when a bullet struck him underneath the left arm, while in jail here is his brother-in-law, Joseph Lepine, who, according to police, fired the four shots, only one of which took effect.

The argument which led to the shooting, police claim, occurred at the supper hour last night when the two men, who lived in the same house on Beragon street, had words with one another and finally came to blows.

Pivin, a large man weighing about 240 pounds, tossed Lepine, a much smaller man, into a chair during the argument and a few minutes later drove off in his car, according to the authorities.

About seven o'clock others in the house went to bed, leaving Lepine downstairs. According to Inspector Donat Mayer, of the local Provincial Police detachment, Pivin returned home about eleven o'clock and drove into the backyard.

He had just alighted from the automobile when a rifle roared from the window of his home, a bullet from the heavy 30/30 calibre weapon imbedding itself beneath his left arm-pit.

In spite of his wound, Pivin dashed down St. Patrick street, with Lepine after him. The smaller man allegedly fired three more shots, two of which entered the side of the house occupied by Dr. Gabriel LeComte. Pivin then ran into the physician's house and his assailant stopped shooting.

Magog police under Chief Telesphore Lavoie were called and went to Lepine's home, where they found him, fully dressed, in his room. After questioning him police removed him to the Magog station and Provincial Police in Sherbrooke were notified. The rifle used by Lepine was found in the house and taken by police. He offered no resistance when police arrived, it was said. The two bullets which struck the side of Dr. LeComte's house were also recovered by police.

Pivin's condition had not been determined this morning, as hospital authorities awaited results of an X-ray. Lepine was being held by police who were awaiting developments in the wounded man's condition before laying a formal charge.

HIGHER IDEALS SHOULD BE AIM OF ALL PEOPLE

"Cult of Lowbrowism" Described as Serious Threat to Young People of Today by Guest Speaker at C.W.L. Banquet Last Night.

Complete and successful living is the continuous realization of all the values inherent in the personality, the Very Rev. Canon Lawrence Whalen, English Chancellor of the Arch Diocese of Montreal, stated last night at the banquet of the Catholic Women's League at the Chateau Frontenac.

"We come into the world with capabilities rather than means and appliances," he said. "We begin with a small capital, but one that admits of almost indefinite increase, and the transformation of these potentialities into realities is of the essence of human life. All this implies that our life has to be continually re-organized, re-shaped, renovated and kept going."

"The Cult of Lowbrowism and the Aristocracy of the Mind," the title of Canon Whalen's address, was metaphorically based on the child rhyme, "Willie Winkie, Upstairs and Down all Through the Town."

The cult of lowbrowism is a serious threat to the young people of today, the speaker said. "Our contemporary women are faced with all the artificial allurements of a world gone mad with its own sensual impulse. The heritage of good taste which it took years to accumulate is soon squandered at the box office of a world circus where clowns put on their show and teenage eyes pop out of their foolish heads in the presence of such gods."

He stressed that right and good ideas were of enormous importance. "It was the business of a school to put them into our heads; but the task of keeping those fine ideas in our heads is our own work and no one can do it for us."

The speaker said that everyone was exposed to the "dragging-down" influence of the "anti-cultural forces of the times."

"We are all in the same boat and all liable to be sea-sick," he continued. "One has to put up a real fight in order to protect the finer side of one's mind and character. Wherever we go we are cajoled by vulgarity, the vulgarity of newspapers, amusements, advertisements which are determined to promote lowbrowism."

Canon Whalen declared that lowbrowism is not confined to the state of mind. "It is 20th century method of publicity, he said, was to make one believe that God made a mistake when He molded faces. 'Woman allows the corner drug-store to dictate to her and to have her become a standardized article in the show-bus of life,' he said. 'Her natural beauty must be given a veneer of artificial beauty until she becomes a tin soldier in the army of beauty cultists.'"

But what exactly can be done about it all? the speaker asked. "We cannot altogether get away from it. We cannot get off the earth. The great thing is to create within ourselves a reservation to which the lowering influences that are about us can have no access."

One should draw up a sort of chart, he said, and look at it from time to time. Under the heading of "Downstairs" he placed narrow ideas, petty sentiments, small grievances, small triumphs, egotism, conceit, gossip, flattery, intrigue, pretence, time-killing and artificiality, and under the caption of "Upstairs" solitude, silence, indifference to trifles, choosing one's company, reading with a purpose, studying real issues, the best music, the best books, the best plays, working for a cause, self-reform and real religion.

"You need not fear," Canon Whalen continued, "that you will even become panicky upstairs; when all is confusion about your feet downstairs, it will only seem confusion to you upstairs. While hundreds swarm in the basement, directionless and heading in the labyrinthine of an undetermined mind, in the fog of indecision, you will know your way because upstairs you will have learned to put system into your lives."

The sacrifice of others has been the backbone of one's education, Canon Whalen said. "Your parents, your teachers, have given of themselves that you might this evening grasp your parchment, upon which are written, in silver, your efforts and work, but in gold their sacrifices. See that your debt is paid in the gold of gratitude not in the leaden coin of indifference. Your world today begins within the rugged palm of a hard-working father, the tired eyes of a tender mother, the mind of a devoted teacher, you leave school with a heavy debt. See that you play it by living upstairs."

The guest speaker was introduced by Mrs. J. J. Coffey, a past national president of the C.W.L., and thanked by Mrs. Francis Hoye.

Verbal Fireworks Highlight Local Contradictory Meeting

Col. Johnny Bourque, Maurice Gingues and J. E. Choquette, Candidates for Sherbrooke in Provincial Elections, Plead Cases Following Filing of Nomination Papers in City Hall—Frequent Heckling Annoys Speakers—Union Nationale Administration Under Fire.

Verbal fireworks that carried charges and counter-charges, stinging blasts of bitter criticism and equally vociferous and vehement denials of mal-administration and other deadly political sins enlivened the contradictory meeting which followed the filing of nomination papers by the three candidates bidding for the Sherbrooke seat in the October 25 elections.

The City Hall auditorium was jammed to capacity, and Government stalwarts, Godbout adherents and followers of Paul Gouin's Actionist party crowded shoulder to shoulder at the back of the hall and even in the hallway, and cheered or booed as the occasion and their respective party sympathies warranted.

The official naming of candidates went off smoothly. It had been expected that the last-minute entry into the fray was even held as probable. Col. the Hon. Johnny Bourque, Minister of Public Works and of Lands and Forests in the Duplessis Government, Maurice Gingues, youthful Liberal candidate, and J. E. Choquette, Actionist ticket, were nominated to contest the Sherbrooke riding.

Col. Bourque defended the legislation instituted by the Union Nationale Government during its three years of power and challenged the opposition to express publicly his doubts as to the services he had rendered to Sherbrooke and to the whole province. Mr. Gingues pleaded in behalf of a revitalized Liberal party which would wipe out the abuses of the Duplessis regime, and Mr. Choquette asked for approval or noisy disapproval of the removal of the two old parties which, he said, have always promised much and accomplished little for the people of Quebec.

For the most part, order reigned supreme throughout the speech-making, although at times enthusiastic approval or noisy disapproval registered by certain of the listeners caused one or two of the speakers to pause in their remarks.

Following an appeal by Mayor Marcus Armitage, who presided, for silence during the speeches, however, the self-named "orators" subsided and the peaceful tenor which had marked the outset of the addresses was resumed.

Speaking first, Col. Bourque said he could say without hesitation or reservation that the promises he made "three years ago on this same platform" have been kept in answer to the natural question of the electors. "What has he done for us?" Col. Bourque pointed out that he was confident the people of Sherbrooke knew what he had accomplished during the three years he had held office in the Union Nationale Government, and expressed his desire to continue to work in the future as he had in the past to defend the interests of the people of this city and of the whole Province.

Legislation of the Duplessis Government in favor of the laborer, the farmer, and, indeed, of every type of citizen was outlined by Col. Bourque, who said that the Liberal party seeking election is not other than the "old gang—David Cote, Rochette and the others—that were beaten in 1936," and urged the electors of Sherbrooke to defeat the stalwarts of the Liberal regime as they had three years ago.

That the Liberal party was revitalized was asserted by Mr. Gingues, who at the outset of his remarks informed the audience he had no intention, in the present campaign, of making any wild promises that could under no circumstances be fulfilled.

"As a working man, as one who knows the present of the laborer of the worker in mills and factories, and who has always fought for their interests, I ask you to believe that if I am elected my first duty will be to defend the rights of the working class," Mr. Gingues said.

The Liberal candidate asked electors to balance before the financial condition of the province.

ELECTROCUTION OF LOCAL MAN HELD ACCIDENT

Coroner's Inquest Probes Death of Ovide Arcouette, Painter, Killed While Working at Dominion Textile Company Plant.

Shocked with 13,200 volts of electricity which coursed through his body when he grasped a live wire leading from the power house at the Dominion Textile Company plant, Ovide Arcouette, 42-year-old painter of this city, was instantly killed yesterday afternoon.

According to testimony given at the inquest conducted by Coroner Maurice Delorme last night, at which a verdict of accidental death was returned, Arcouette and Camille LeBlanc, employee of Hector Langlois, local painting contractor, were painting a shed at the textile plant when the accident occurred.

They had erected a staging, fastened to the top of the shed with hooks, and Arcouette, attempting to move from the roof to the staging, grasped one of the metal hooks with one hand and one of the heavily-charged wires with the other.

LeBlanc testified he heard Arcouette scream and believing he had lost his balance, snatched at the victim's sweater in an effort to save him. The cloth tore loose in his hands, however, and Arcouette fell fifteen feet to the ground.

In his testimony LeBlanc said he saw flashes of fire encircle Arcouette's body as he fell.

John Miller and Spencer Howcroft, employees of the plant, saw the lashes made when Arcouette grasped the wire and hurried to the scene, where Arcouette was lying on the ground. After throwing water on his smouldering clothes, they practised artificial respiration until the arrival of an ambulance, which took the man to the St. Vincent de Paul Hospital. Arcouette was dead when admitted to the hospital, however.

Other witnesses heard at the investigation, in addition to LeBlanc and the plant employees, was Milton Buzzell, chief electrician of the Textile plant, who told the jury that the wire which brought death to the painter carried 13,200 volts.

Members of the jury which brought in the accidental death verdict were: Nap. Ruel, Hubert Boisse, Narcisse Boissard, Gerard Lariviere, Alfred Lessard and Leopold Robidoux.

MODERN MUSIC DEBATE THEME AT UNIVERSITY

Negative Side Wins Decision in Freshmen Verbal Argument that "Swing Is Flower of Musical Development."

Future orators at Bishop's College last night proved their metal in the second of the customary fall freshmen debates when they played their rhetorical wares before a large gathering of seniors and other freshmen in the college common room. Upholding the affirmative side of the proposition that "Swing is the Flower of Musical Development" were Dean Williamson, Morse Robinson and Archie McKell, while supporters of the negative were Robert Lindsay, Edward McKay and William Van, Professor E. E. Boothroyd, honorary president of the Debating Society, who acted as judge, awarded the decision to the negative.

Dean Williamson, who opened the debate, traced the growth of swing through the whole history of music and stated that as rhythm had grown out of the earliest music, so had swing become a development of rhythm. He pointed to the important place rhythm held in the music of the masters and stated that swing could be found even in Beethoven.

Vigorously opposed to the proposition was Robert Lindsay, leader of the negative. The tom-tom was the origin of swing music, he contended, and he stated emphatically that while rhythm had a definite place in classical music it could not therefore be compared to swing in any way.

Morse Robinson saw in swing the musical representation of the mood and tempo of the present age and claimed that its wide popularity was due to the fact that it faithfully reflected the spirit of this generation.

Edward McKay opposed him with the suggestion that swing represented a downward trend in the musical life of the age.

The last two opposing speakers, Archie McKell and William Van, dealt with the respective effects of swing and classical music on the individual, each one bringing forward illustrations to support his case. Hugh Mortimer, president of debating, was in the chair.

Gates Swing Open For 11th Annual E.T.A.A. Attraction

Winter Fair and Horse Show Inaugurated with Judging in Various Classes and First Performance—Public Sale of Market Cattle Expected to Be Feature of Four-Day Programme—Results in Several Classes Announced.

Agriculturists in the province, particularly lovers of fine livestock and poultry, focussed their attention on Sherbrooke yesterday with the opening in the Arena of the eleventh annual Winter Fair and Horse Show sponsored by the Eastern Townships Agricultural Association. Due to continue through Saturday, the fair began yesterday morning as judging started in a number of classes and the first day's activities concluded last night with the presentation of the Horse Show.

Plainly reflecting the progress made by the fall exhibition since it was inaugurated in 1929, this year's edition of the event boasts increased entries in the majority of classes, particularly market cattle. Hereford, sheep and swine, the increase in the latter division embracing both market and breeding hogs. The horse show, with 131 entries, is also superior to all previous ones presented in the Eastern Townships as many winter fairs have been cancelled because of the war and consequently the cream of the crop is being shown here nightly for the remainder of the week.

Co-operating with the E.T.A.A. in presenting the fair is the Quebec Beef Cattle Association, which is responsible for one of the event's chief features, the public sale of market cattle Friday afternoon. Offered to buyers at this sale will be the outstanding market cattle in the province, including baby beef classes, hog and market lambs. Many buyers representing large companies come here each year to attend the auction sale, including representatives from Toronto, Montreal and other centres in Eastern Canada.

A total of 208 heads are entered for ribbons in the pure-bred cattle classes, with 105 Shorthorns predominating the list. Swine and sheep, breeding animals, together aggregate 297 heads, while market cattle, including sheep and hogs, total 419 heads. Eighty-five horses are entered in the judging competition in this division. In addition to the exhibits of livestock, the fair features displays of field crops, including seed grain, and many varieties of vegetables and fruits.

Judging was completed yesterday in the Hereford and Aberdeen Angus cattle classes, as well as in the Yorkshires, Tamworth and Berkshires breeds of swine. Other sections in which judging began were poultry, market hogs, breeding classes of sheep, vegetables, field crops and fruits.

Judges were poultry, M. C. Wallace, Iroquois, Ont.; swine, breeding classes, Raoul Dionne, St. Hyacinthe, Quebec; market hogs, A. Macneil, Quebec; sheep, breeding classes, L. H. Hamilton, Macdonald College; vegetables, T. E. Ritchie, Ottawa; field crops, W. S. Richardson, Lennoxville, and fruits, H. Marshall, of Montreal.

With thirteen firsts out of a possible fourteen, C. D. French, of Cookshire, Union Nationale candidate for Compton County in the October 25 elections, swept the field in the Hereford cattle judging. Animals entered by Mr. French also took first prizes in all of the seven champion classes.

WILL "PEACE ZONE" BE AS EFFECTIVE AS "WAR ZONE"?

The New World has launched an interesting experiment which is without direct and exact precedent. It will determine whether a group of neutral countries can mark out a sea zone adjacent to them into which countries at war can be prevented from carrying their war.

Because this zone has been extended several hundred miles instead of to the three-mile limit which has been the customary limit of territorial waters, there has been a wild scrambling to books on international law.

European countries in all their recent and most of their past wars, have calmly set aside whole slices of the ocean pathways adjacent to their countries as war zones. They have said: Neutrals who enter these zones enter at their peril and under conditions which we will prescribe. "The freedom of the seas" got short shrift in any waters designated as war zones.

Now when the American nations, all twenty-one of them, decide to restrict freedom of the seas, to the extent of trying to exclude their regular trade lanes from the general battleground which Europe believes the seas of the world should be, there is a great deal of criticism, and a great deal of thumbing through textbooks on parliamentary law.

All warring nations have been informed of the decision of the American nations. It is not yet known how the policy will work. If all the warring nations would accept the wishes of the Americas in the matter there would be no trouble at all. The danger is that all will not, or that one may try to take advantage of the other's acceptance of the new limitations.

What would happen if a British cruiser should be chasing a German submarine, which ducked inside these new limits and then claimed asylum? What would happen if a German commerce-raider secretly got supplies inside these neutral waters, and ducked outside from time to time to raid French commerce? What would be the duty of American naval patrol vessels on duty which ran across such actions? Can the American Nations force their will in this matter, and how far are they willing to go to enforce it if it meets defiance?

The answer is not no, and it would probably be a mistake to say in advance. This is a new and as yet untried policy. It will be necessary to try it out, see how it works, and what sort of complications it causes.

Any policy adopted these days brings complications with it. The intent of the American nations is clear. They wish to keep free from war sufficient sea-lanes so that they can carry on their business without danger to themselves. Whether the belligerents will respect that united wish remains to be seen. The New World is feeling its way toward new conceptions of insulation from war; fortunately feeling its way hand in hand.

WITH MILITARY PLANES, TOO, IT'S THE UPKEEP

After six weeks of war in Europe, it seems likely that the actual, as well as the relative strength of the opposing forces in the air is about the same as it was on September 1. That is, except for the Polish air force, such as it was, which has been completely washed out of the picture.

The German air strength, and that of the French and British, are probably just about what they were when the war began, since the best guesses it is possible to make indicate that losses of planes on both sides have just about balanced new production.

Britain probably lost thirty or more planes when the Courageous went down, and Germany claims to have shot down some forty-seven other British ships, a total of around eighty. The Germans claim to have brought down some fifty French ships.

The Germans, themselves, on the other hand, can scarcely have lost fewer than 250 planes themselves on both the Polish and the Franco-British front.

To these figures must be added the continual crackups which occur in all air forces all the time, but which increases in wartime when there is more flying to be done, and when it is done in more reckless manner.

No doubt more planes have been "washed up" by all air forces during the first six weeks' operations than have been actually shot down in battle. It is estimated, for instance, that Britain is losing 150 planes a month in this war, France fifty, and Germany perhaps two hundred. The German rate always was high, even in peacetime, because a certain recklessness has always been encouraged.

Thus, allowing for new production, the chances are that the relative strength of the German and Allied forces are about as they were on September 1. They may be a little higher all around, but not much.

The air war problem is as much a problem of the rate of production of planes as it is of the number available for flight at any given moment.

People who think of high speed production of planes as a new development, forget that during the World War Britain was producing 1,300 planes a month to keep 1,800 active on the Western Front, and that France was turning out 2,400 a month to keep 4,000 in the air.

Thus when large-scale air war breaks out, it will be even more important to destroy the enemy's plane factories than to destroy existing planes, for sheer wear and tear will soon reduce any air force to impotence if new ships are not constantly supplied.

THE NOMINATIONS

The official nomination of candidates for the Quebec Legislature yesterday produced few surprises, the chief being the re-entry of Mayor Camille Houde of Montreal into the Provincial arena, where he has met with varying success in the past. Having boxed the compass politically, the chubby Mayor is now back to his first love, running as an Independent Liberal. Although three parties are in the race, the fight is essentially between the Union Nationale Government and the Official Liberal Opposition.

The original issues have become somewhat clouded by blasts and counter-blasts involving extraneous issues, and in fact the battle is being waged more on federal than provincial matters, with the question of participation in the Great War being paramount.

The Provincial Premier has confused matters with his varying statements, but with a week still to elapse, he may finally clear up things, his big rally tonight giving him a golden opportunity.

TURKEY SPLITS WITH RUSSIA

Events in European diplomacy during the past few days indicate that the sudden expansion of Russian influence in the Balkans and Baltic areas is meeting with increased resistance, Turkey refusing any further concessions to the Soviets while the northern powers, led by Finland, are displaying great caution before making any commitments.

In many ways, the action of Turkey overshadows other events, as the rapprochement with the Western Powers marks a distinct diplomatic victory for the democracies, who have been dealt some rather hard blows in recent weeks. The refusal of Turkey to sign an alliance with Russia blocks one important means of communication between Russia and Germany and will do much to slow down the flow of vital Russian goods to Germany. Thus the renewed support of Turkey for the Allied cause means much more than the direct military aid which might be rendered at a later date. This is especially true in view of the decision of the Allies to wage an essentially economic war, the success of which was threatened for a while by promises of Russian economic aid.

The danger is greatly reduced, however, and Turkey may thus render an important service to the early conclusion of the war.

Since war began anew in Europe, many maps of that continent have appeared in your daily newspapers. Test your knowledge of European geography with these questions.

1. What eleven countries and two seas bound Germany after her partition of Poland with Russia?

2. What country in Europe, exclusive of Russia, has the greatest distance between its two extremes?

3. What European nation was second to Russia in area before the Nazi-Red split of Poland?

PRESS COMMENTS

ON THE FRENCH FLANKS

(New York Times)

As one looks at the battle-lines on the Western Front it is evident that the French left flank is by no means exposed to the same swift thrust that the Germans delivered through Belgium in 1914. If Hitler's armies, concentrating at Aachen, want still more elbow room for a westward swing through the Netherlands the going may prove even harder.

The Maasticht gap, through which von Kluck's forces swarmed twenty-five years ago, no longer exists. It has been cut straight across by a formidable artificial waterway. Last July a statue of the late King Albert was unveiled at Leige before survivors of the battle for that city's famous forts. It marks the eastern end of the Albert Canal, which is now a part of Belgium's defence system. From Leige this canal flows northward toward Maasticht and thence in a straight line some seventy miles across Belgium to Antwerp. At vital points its banks rise from 130 to 210 feet. In a few hours its waters can be flooded over several hundred square miles, to make the surrounding country a difficult morass.

Belgium has now no alliance with France. But her army, a possible 700,000 men, better equipped except for planes than the Polish Army, has been mobilized for more than a fortnight. She has, moreover, a "rapprochement" with Holland calling for "simultaneous and identical action" in any emergency. Presumably this means that the Dutch will flood their lowlands if and when the Belgians do. Holland has now extended her fortifications to her eastern borders, where water defences, except for natural streams, will not serve her. These comprise a somewhat weak system of scattered concrete pillboxes. If they fail to delay an invader, the Dutch plan calls for retreat to "the Holland Stronghold," which includes Amsterdam, The Hague, Rotterdam, Haarlem, Dordrecht and Delft. This fighting centre behind areas which can be successively flooded through broken dikes would constitute a serious threat to the communications of any invader striking southward.

But what of the French right flank? The Maginot Line, proper, ends at the "trouee de Belfort" near the Swiss border, though there are field fortifications southward in the Juras. But this would prove a grim and narrow gateway. In 1914 one German regarded the Swiss plateau itself as too formidable a barrier to attack. The terrain of the Juras, beyond Basel, is rugged and easily defended, and the Swiss Army is well organized to take advantage of this difficult ground.

All armies, neutral and belligerent, are mobilized today. Ominous concentrations are being watched. Whatever blows the Germans may contemplate against the French, either in the north or south, will scarcely prove to be surprise attacks except possible in mass and power.

THE UNITED STATES AND THE WAR

(Toronto Star Weekly)

John T. Flynn, a long-up British-hater who writes for the New York New Republic, suggests that before the United States thinks of entering the war it "might do well to pause a moment and try to make a picture of what war means." The picture, as he draws it, is that of an America whose soldiers of a second last war, in the name of the United States, are being sent to fight in the name of the American Legion of the Great War has been. And during the war itself, the democratic system would be temporarily suppressed. Certain products would be rationed, the government would exert a greater control over industry, the savings of the people in external securities might be confiscated and internal bonds substituted; bonds, Mr. Flynn thinks, which would decline in value if the war lasted. Taxation would be heavier. Mr. Flynn concludes:

"I do not mention the little irritants to those young men who will be kept in trenches and gassed and slaughtered. I speak of the irritations to the civilians who may think life behind the lines will be as abundant and pleasant as it was in this country in the last war."

In other words, Mr. Flynn would have the United States keep out of the war because participation would mean a national sacrifice at home, suffering and death at the battlefield. His plea is that his country should stay comfortable. That, no doubt, was the idea of the priest and the Levite who "passed by on the other side" when a man had fallen among thieves on the road to Jericho. It is, of course, a purely selfish idea, the idea that a man or a nation should pursue the easy course rather than the right course.

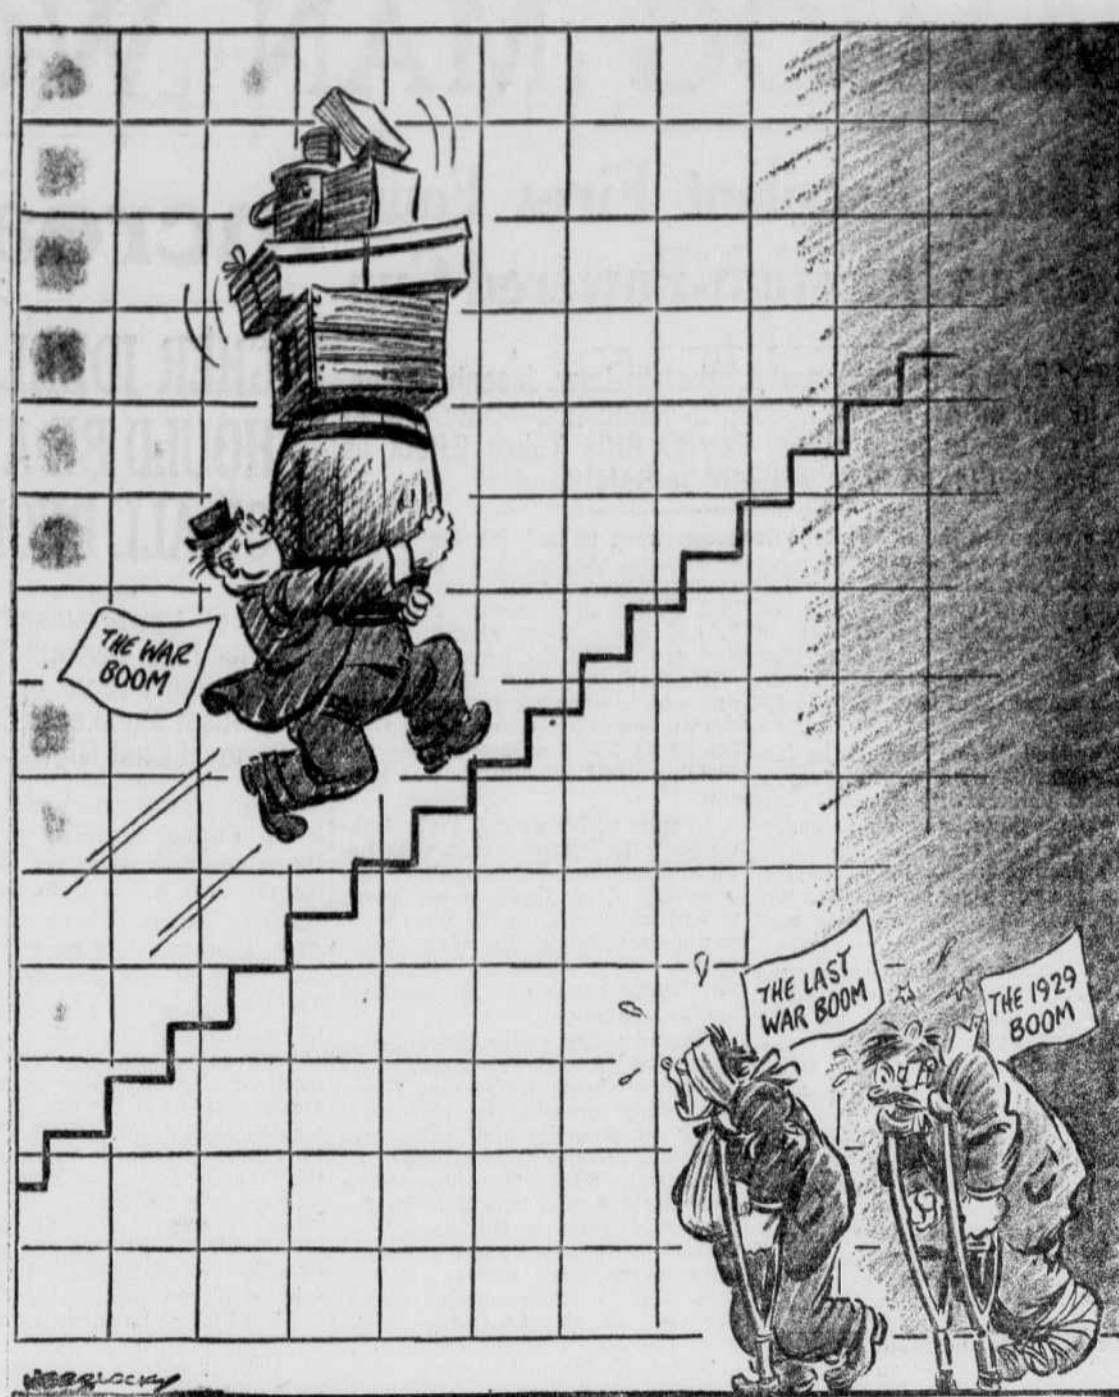

Men and nations alike have duties towards their neighbors. A multitude of people in the United States who are quite cognizant of all that entry into the war might mean are also cognizant of their country's duty in the present crisis; its duty not only to aid the oppressed of Europe, but to save the democracy of the world, including that which exists on this continent.

CANADA'S DEFENSES

(Vancouver Sun)

Certainly we shall have to increase our defenses in every way possible. We shall have to make certain that we have man-power for that job. The Canadian Government is planning to send a token army to France, but that army can never be as large as in the last war, or anything like it, so long as this country's own defenses must be manned. Premier King knew that when he spoke, and the British Government knows it. This is why the defense of Canada has been placed foremost in Canada's responsibilities to herself and to the Empire.

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

WHEN CONTRACT SEEMS DOOMED, RUN YOUR TRICKS, TRUST TO LUCK

Today's "looking ahead" hand was given to me by Geoffrey Mott-Smith, who will be one of the tournament directors at the national championships tournament to be held at the William Penn Hotel in Pittsburgh, Pa., the week of December 3. Geoff held the South hand and started to look ahead for a game or possibly a slam as soon as he picked up the cards. Of course, when his partner bid one no trump, there was nothing he could do except bid two spades.

When the dummy went down, Geoff saw that he could win only seven tricks—the club ace and six spades. For the remaining six tricks, the defenders held the ace and king of hearts, ace and king of diamonds, and the queen and jack of clubs.

Declarer saw that his best chance to make the contract was to cash his seven tricks at once, then exit, say with a club, and leave it to the defenders to cash their top cards. Sure enough, the opponents did get tangled up and the ace and king of diamonds fell together, setting up the queen for Geoff's needed eighth trick.

Entries of Clayton Fryfogle, Wingham, Ont., and Hi-Time Stables, Toronto, Dominate Competitions at Arena—Six Eastern Townships Entries Receive First Prizes—Queenie, Owned by N. W. Price, Collects Two Firsts.

Featured by judging in fourteen classes, an amusing potato race and an exhibition by a horse trained by A. Milton, of Magog, the first performance of the Horse Show sponsored annually by the Eastern Townships Agricultural Association was run off at the local arena last night.

Horses entered by Clayton Fryfogle, of Wingham, Ont., and the Hi-Time Stables, Toronto, carried off the major prizes in the competitions, which had attracted to Sherbrooke a much larger number of entries than in past years.

The opening night crowd was disappointingly small, and the programme was considerably delayed, continuing until well after midnight. It is expected, however, that events will be speeded up on the three remaining nights.

Six Eastern Townships entries won prizes. Queenie, owned by Norrey W. Price, of Sherbrooke, carried off the honors in the saddle pony under 12 hands and ride and drive pony under 12 hands classes, first

BEAVERS SECURE THREE PLAYERS

Ottawa, Oct. 19.—Three Ottawa hockey players, two forwards and a goalie, will line up with George Boucher's Quebec Beavers of the Provincial Senior Hockey League this season. They are Roger DeGagne, right wing, Edgar Mentzell, centre, and Jacques Garneau, goal.

Bill Taylor Appears About To Make Climb From Junior To Pro Ice Game

St. Catharines, Ont., Oct. 19.—Only slightly more than 150 pounds and hasn't been put to much of a test yet, Others hear him out and Lester Patrick of New York Rangers said last spring that Taylor was the best junior player he had seen "in twenty years."

"Billy The Kid" was scoring goals in large clusters at the time as his Oshawa Generals were defeating Edmonton Roamers in the Memorial Cup finals at Toronto.

"There have been good little men make good before," Smythe said as he watched Taylor look after himself in training camp. "Billy has a pretty shift, as pretty as you'll see, and there aren't many centres in the N.H.L. who can lay down a pass as well as he."

Taylor was slated for delivery to the Leafs away back when he used to be mascot for the team and carry the players' sticks. Smythe watched over him while he moved on to become the sensation of junior hockey last season. Now he's twenty.

But Manager Conny Smythe of the Leafs is confident Taylor has the goods, despite the fact he weighs

Russ McConnell, Johnny Acheson and Marcel Raymond New Forward Unit with Eastern Canada Amateur Hockey Champs.

Montreal, Oct. 19.—First ice drills of the season were held last night by the three Montreal clubs in the Quebec Senior Hockey League—Verdun Maple Leafs, Royals and Concordia—with between twenty and twenty-five players at each workout.

The champion Royals, taking the ice first, presented two flashy lines—the unit of Buddy O'Connor, Pete Morin and Gerry Heffernan which sparked them to the eastern Canada amateur championship last year, and a new one of Russ McConnell, Johnny Acheson and Marcel Raymond.

Skipper Bean, a defenceman from Listowel, Ont., who also is working out with the National Hockey League Canadiens, Johnny Mahaffey and Don Tormaly, both of whom played in England last season, and Harold Venus, a youngster from North Bay, Ont., were among newcomers at the Royals' drill.

And Henry has had plenty of fighting. The thick-chested, spindly-legged little pugilist estimates he's fought 280 times in the last ten years. He's twenty-six now, and started fighting at sixteen. He's here to defend his crown in a fifteen-rounder tomorrow night against Richie Fontaine of Missoula, Mont.

Tuesday his manager, Eddie Mead, announced Henry would scrap Ceferino Garcia, two state claimant to the middleweight crown at Los Angeles February 22.

Armstrong is the only fighter ever to hold the featherweight, lightweight and welterweight crowns simultaneously. He already holds a decision over Garcia and declares he can beat the bolo-punching Filipino again.

YOUNG SHOCKED AT DISMISSAL BY RED WINGS

Long-Time Defence Star of Detroit Hockey Teams Undecided Whether to Play in Pittsburgh or Retire from Game.

Detroit, Oct. 19.—Whether the playing days of Doug Young are ended or not is uncertain today as the long-time defence star of the Detroit Red Wings ponders his sale to the Pittsburgh Hornets.

Young said he has not decided whether to play with the Hornets in the International American League or give up hockey entirely and keep his job with a Detroit automobile manufacturer. He said he has talked by telephone to Larry Aurie, his team-mate for years in the National Hockey League and now manager of the Hornets, but no decision had been reached on whether he would play with the Hornets.

"It came as a decided shock to me, for I was sure I had another good season in the N.H.L. in me," Young said. "I reported this season in the best condition of my career."

Manager Jack Adams, of the Wings, said today he does not expect to make any deals for a week at least. Hockey circles here have heard Adams is trying to sell Marty Barry.

Possibly more of the stars who brought National Hockey League championships to Detroit in 1934-35 and 1935-36 will be sold before the season is old.

Captain Eddie Goodfellow is sure of his job, but speedy young recruits are pressing Hec Kilrea and Scotty Bowman.

They're booming Judge Eugene C. Bonewell, head of the Middle Atlantic Association, for national president of the A.A.U.

Hope somebody will spike the rumor here that Whitlow Wyatt, Dodger mound ace, isn't recuperating as rapidly as Durocher and MacPhail believe.

Tony Galento, just back from a vacation in the mountains, leaves in a day or so for another one in Miami.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Neilson, their son, Christian, and Miss Margaret Lawson, of Montreal, were recent guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rasmussen.

Recent guests at the home of Mrs. M. E. Bowker were Mr. Edgar Standish, of Rougemont, Mr. Harlow Bowker and son, of Granby, and Mr. Leighton Bowker, of Malone, N.Y.

The Y.P.U. members are rehearsing each evening for a play "A Fair of Country Kids," to be given in the near future.

Mrs. Florence Smith and Leslie and Barbara Yates, of Stanbridge East, spent a few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Scribner.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Isaacs and daughter, Eurana, of Cowansville, and Mrs. Leon Aiken and son, Dale, of Dunkin, were guests of their father, Mr. O. F. Scribner, and Mrs. Scribner.

Mr. and Mrs. Leighton Burnett and daughter, Jean, of Montreal, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Swann.

The Ladies Aid held their regular meeting in their hall with the president and vice-president being absent. Mrs. Percy Hawke conducted a short business meeting and the afternoon was spent in quilting after which tea was served by the hostesses, Mrs. M. E. Bowker, Mrs. James Barton, Mrs. E. Boyd and Mrs. O. F. Scribner.

If and when the Yanks and Giants go for the floodlight stuff the reason will be the Dodgers out-drew 'em both last season.

In this world, it is not what we take up, but what we give up, that makes us rich.—H. Ward Beecher.

"Hurricane Henry" Hopes To Swap Gloves For Typewriter

Negro Welterweight Boxing Champion Wants One More Year of Fighting—Plans to Beat Out Rhythm in Verse Instead of on Somebody's Ribs—Has Fought 280 Times in Last Ten Years—Defends Crown in 15-Rounder at Seattle Tomorrow.

Seattle, Oct. 19.—(AP)—"Hurricane" Armstrong, the busy little negro welterweight champion who was poet laureate of his St. Louis High School ten years ago, hopes to hang up his gloves in one more year.

Then he'll retire to a life of beating out rhythm in verse instead of on somebody's ribs. He wants to write, both poetry and prose. A bard rather than a bombardier. A mitslinger turned minnesinger.

"I figure in one more year I'll have enough money to bring me security. Yeah, social security," he grinned. "Then I'm going to quit. I haven't had much time for writing, what with all this fighting. But after I retire I'll have plenty of time for it."

And Henry has had plenty of fighting. The thick-chested, spindly-legged little pugilist estimates he's fought 280 times in the last ten years. He's twenty-six now, and started fighting at sixteen. He's here to defend his crown in a fifteen-rounder tomorrow night against Richie Fontaine of Missoula, Mont.

Tuesday his manager, Eddie Mead, announced Henry would scrap Ceferino Garcia, two state claimant to the middleweight crown at Los Angeles February 22.

Armstrong is the only fighter ever to hold the featherweight, lightweight and welterweight crowns simultaneously. He already holds a decision over Garcia and declares he can beat the bolo-punching Filipino again.

"All you've got to do is keep moving and not let him get set, He only hit me once in our last fight," commented Henry.

Armstrong is here with his brother, Harry, who he credits with teaching him "all I know about fighting." Harry has a yen to write, too, but hasn't got around to it yet "because training paid off." They collaborated on a book, "The Glory Road," soon to be published, which they say is a story of their lives.

Harry has a college education. Henry wanted to go to college and study to be a doctor, but hard times forced him to fight for a living. Now he provides business for the doctors.

But in another year, the Armstrongs tell you, they'll be pounding typewriters instead of torques.

An Ounce of Prevention

THESE delicious, crunchy All-Bran muffins will make a hit with everybody at the breakfast table. But they are more than just good food... they are a delightful way of getting that added "bulk" most people need to keep "regular." Remember, the best way to treat constipation is never to let it happen! Usually it only takes about an ounce of Kellogg's All-Bran every day to do the trick. It's important, though, to get that ounce every day either as a cereal with milk, cream or fruit, or in muffins—and to drink plenty of water.

So get your family in the All-Bran muffin habit. There are so many varieties you can serve them every day in the week and not have the same kind twice.

Start with basic recipe. Do any of these eight things for variety:

1. For BACON MUFFINS add ¼ cup crisp-cooked, diced bacon to dry ingredients.
2. For NUT MUFFINS add ½ cup chopped nut meats to dry ingredients.
3. For ORANGE MUFFINS add 2 tablespoons grated orange rind to dry ingredients.
4. For PRUNE MUFFINS add ½ cup chopped prunes to dry ingredients. (Soak dried prunes in water 1 hour or longer, drain, remove pits, cut small.)
5. For RAISIN MUFFINS add ½ cup raisins to dry ingredients.
6. For DATE MUFFINS use ½ cup chopped figs.
7. For FIG MUFFINS use ½ cup chopped molasses to creamed mixture, and ½ cup raisins to dry ingredients.
8. For SPICED MUFFINS add 1 teaspoon cinnamon to dry ingredients. ½ teaspoon ginger or 1 teaspoon cinnamon to dry ingredients.

THIS IS THE BASIC BACON MUFFIN RECIPE!

2 tablespoons shortening	¾ cup milk
¼ cup sugar	1 cup flour
1 egg	1 teaspoon salt
1 cup Kellogg's All-Bran	2½ teaspoons baking powder

Cream shortening and sugar thoroughly; then add egg and beat until creamy. Stir in All-Bran and milk; let soak until most of moisture is taken up. Sift flour with salt and baking powder; add to first mixture and stir only until flour disappears. Fill greased muffin pans two-thirds full and bake in moderately hot oven (400° F.) about thirty minutes.

Yield: 8 large muffins (3 inches in diameter) or 12 small muffins (2½ inches in diameter).

COWANSVILLE CHURCH MARKS ANNIVERSARY

Rev. Harold Parsons, Waterloo, Guest Speaker at 101st Anniversary Service in United Church.

Cowansville, Oct. 19.—Rev. Harold Parsons, of Waterloo, was the guest preacher at the 101st anniversary service in the United Church on Sunday, October 15. A baritone solo, "It Is Enough," from "Elijah," was sung by Donald Boyd, accompanied by Mrs. E. J. Davidge, of Granby. Mrs. Lawrence Stowe and Miss Ella Jones sang a duet at the morning service and in the evening Mr. Boyd sang "Nearer My God to Thee."

At the morning service Mr. Parsons took for his text St. John, chapter I verse IV, "In Him was life; and the life was the light of men." "The light of God," he said, "illuminates life which can be transmitted from one to another."

He referred to the union of the two denominations in this place, which formed the United Church which was trying to face realities and measure up to its responsibilities. Christianity should be a very personal experience and a definite acknowledgement made, he concluded.

In the evening Mr. Parsons based his remarks on Isaiah, sixth chapter, first verse, "In the year that King Uzziah died I saw the Lord." "We cannot destroy our heritage but let it not lay a deadening hand upon us which would make it impossible to live adventurously, but rather let it be as a bridge which will reconcile the two aspects of life," he declared.

At the evening service George Ford gave a few historical facts relative to the two congregations forming the United Church in this place.

The services of Rev. Mr. Parsons and the musicians who assisted were greatly appreciated.

KISS YOUR TIRED FEELING GOODBYE!

Pepless Many Suffer Low Blood Count—And Don't Know It.

The baffling thing about low blood count is that you can weigh about as much as you ever did—even look healthy and strong, yet you can feel if you had lead in your legs, doped, tired and peepless.

Low blood count means you haven't got enough red blood corpuscles. It is the vital job to carry life-giving oxygen from your lungs throughout your body. And just as it takes oxygen to explode gasoline in your car and make the power to turn the wheels, so you must have plenty of oxygen to explode the energy in your body and give you going power.

Get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills today. They are world-famous for the help they give in increasing the number and strength of red corpuscles. Then with your blood count up, you'll feel like bounding up the stairs as if you were floating on air. Ask your druggist for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills today.

"Enoculate" yourself against Winter Ills

Scientific tests prove that regular use of Eno's "Fruit Salt" strengthens their resistance to winter's ills.

A teaspoonful of ENO in the morning and half a teaspoonful at night is of threefold benefit:

1. IT NEUTRALIZES GASTRIC ACIDITY—cause of so many upsetting headaches and attacks of indigestion.

2. IT ENSURES INNER CLEANLINESS—Eno assists nature to remove yesterday's food wastes today. Its natural cleansing action is gentle and efficient.

3. IT MAINTAINS THE ALKALI RESERVE. A teaspoonful of ENO is equal in systemic alkalizing value to 8 cups of pure fresh orange juice. The regular use of ENO continually replenishes the alkaline constituents of the body.

Keep Fit this Winter the Pleasant ENO way—Start Now!

Ayer's Cliff, Oct. 19. — Proof of continued interest in the Stanstead County Community School conducted weekly by the County Institutes in the local High School building was manifested at the last meeting by the large number of representatives in attendance in spite of the heavy downpour of rain.
