FRANCE WARNS ITALY AND GERMANY

Italo-German Patrol Of The Spanish Coast Would Be 'Blockade'

Pointed Notice Follows Reports that Germany and Italy Would Undertake Patrol Without Authorization of Non-Intervention Committee—Germany Reported to Be Increasing Naval Strength in Mediterranean.

Paris, June 24.—French officials declared today that any Italo-German attempt to patrol the Spanish coast without the authorization of the International Non-Intervention Committee from which both withdrew their naval patrol units yesterday, would be regarded as a blockade and, therefore, an act of war against Spain.

In such a situation, officials warned, France and Great Britain could not "remain indifferent."

The British ambassador to Berlin, Sir Neville Henderson, it was expected here, will outline such a stand to Konstantin von Neurath, the German Foreign Minister, and propose that an Anglo-French fleet establish a patrol of the whole Spanish coast.

Only France and Great Britain, it was declared, retain the right to halt and search ships because the Italian and German fleets no longer serve in the neutrality patrol. But, because Rome and Berlin still are members of the Non-Intervention Committee, France and Great Britain would not extend their patrol without Italo-German approval.

MAY FORCE BRITAIN AND FRANCE TO TAKE ACTION

Paris, June 24.—Steady increase of Italian and German naval forces in the Mediterranean and the explosiveness of the situation created there may "compel Great Britain and France to emerge from their passivity and defend their lines of communication," Pertinax said in the Echo de Paris today.

No figures were available for Italian naval strength in the vicinity of Spain, but the German fleet was estimated by L'Epoque, Henri de Kerill's newspaper, at twenty-two, including three pocket battleships, three cruisers, ten torpedo boats and six submarines.

Political circles here were pessimistic over the international situation. The press stressed Anglo-French solidarity in the face of the policies of the Rome-Berlin axis.

"Great Britain and France are on the alert," said the Petit Parisien, "and are ready to defend their interests in Spain and Morocco as well as the security of their Mediterranean communications against any attempt that might result in over-assertive interference by the Germans and Italians in Spain."

"It is to be feared," Pertinax wrote, "that circumstances are approaching in which France and Great Britain will be compelled to emerge from their passivity and defend their Mediterranean lines of communication."

BRITAIN ANXIOUS OVER FUTURE GERMAN MOVES

London, June 24.—Great Britain watched anxiously today as Germany increased her naval forces in Spanish waters in the face of a warning Britain would "regard most seriously" any act of reprisal against the Valencia Government.

There was an uneasy fear the joint Italo-German withdrawal from the Non-Intervention Committee would be followed by a German move.

German Press Charges Great Britain And Russia To Blame For New Crisis

Reich Has Decided to "Take Into Its Own Hands" the Safeguarding of Its Interests and Vessels "Against Bolshevik Firebrands in Valencia."

Berlin, June 24.—German press alleged today Russia and Great Britain were largely responsible for the new European crisis growing out of the Spanish civil war.

On the heels of a Government declaration that the Reich had decided to "take into its own hands" the safeguarding of its interests and vessels "against Bolshevik firebrands in Valencia," the controlled press criticized the London and Moscow governments.

Another German pocket-battleship, the Admiral Graf Spee, sped towards Spain to join the German fighting craft already in Spanish waters. An authoritative informant said the Reich has eighteen warships near Spain as well as some "converted fishing vessels" with navy crews.

The Reich made no secret of its intention to keep a strong naval force close to Spain, although Germany and Italy quit the international naval patrol yesterday. Officials asserted the vessels must remain "to protect German economic interests." By this, they said, they meant German commercial shipping. There was no indication of Reichsfuehrer Hitler's next move. Inform-

ANOTHER INDICATION OF ITALY'S DESPERATE NEED FOR IRON

Rome, June 24.—Mayors of every Italian city received a government circular today asking for estimates on the amount of iron that could be realized by scrapping all municipal iron fences and gates.

Rome, itself, recently set an example by removing four miles of iron railings from Borghese Park. The questionnaire was another indication of Italy's desperate need for iron and of the difficulty of obtaining supplies abroad.

Insurgents Expect Imminent Surrender Of Basque Refuge

Ever-Increasing Number of Desertions from Government Ranks Leads to Belief that Santander Will Surrender—Torrential Rain Halts All Military Operations in Basque Zone—Insurgent Leader Withdraws Basque Privileges.

Bilbao, June 24.—Reports of the possible surrender of Santander to General Francisco Franco's forces were heard here today as torrential rain halted military operations in the Basque zone.

The reports gained credence in insurgent circles because of the ever-increasing number of desertions from Government ranks.

For the first time since the occupation of Bilbao insurgent ships succeeded in passing through the Nervion river between this Basque capital and the sea. Navigation had been halted by barges sunk across the channel by the retreating Basques.

With the insurgent authorities firmly established here, the German consulate was re-opened today.

ARCHBISHOP IS CENTRE OF NEW PRESS ATTACK

Public Rebuke to Dean of Canterbury for Activities on Behalf of Spanish Government Raises Storm of Press Criticism.

London, June 24.—Most Rev. Cosmo Gordon Lang, Archbishop of Canterbury, was taken to task by sections of the press today for his rebuke of Very Rev. Hewlett Johnson, Dean of Canterbury, for his activities on behalf of the Spanish Government.

Addressing the Church Assembly yesterday, the Archbishop emphasized he had "no responsibility for some of the recent actions and opinions of the Dean of Canterbury, and even if I wished to do so I have in law no power whatever to remove the Dean from his office by reason of such actions and opinions."

"I ought perhaps to add," the Primate said, "that while I fully respect the Dean's conscientious convictions and aims, I have expressed to him regret that he should have brought into the arena of actual political controversy the name of the Cathedral Church of Canterbury and the special and world-wide associations which surround that name."

"We are unable to follow the reasoning which led the Archbishop of Canterbury yesterday to administer a very public and pointed rebuke to the Dean of Canterbury," the News Chronicle declared today. "It may be the true doctrine—although it is certainly a new one—that anyone who bears the title of Canterbury should refrain from getting himself involved in acute political controversy, but if it should apply it should apply all round to Archbishops as well as Deans."

Lord Rothermere's Daily Mail declared "the nation will learn with astonishment that the Archbishop of Canterbury disclaims responsibility with regard to the pro-Red actions and opinions of the Dean of Canterbury."

"We would respectfully point out to the Archbishop that although in the past he had not failed to show vigor and initiative, in this matter he appears to lack those qualities," the Daily Mail added.

Dr. Johnson has provoked violent outbursts in the German and Italian press in recent months for his outspoken criticism of alleged intervention by the two Fascist powers in Spain.

The Dean was a member of a delegation which investigated religious conditions in Government Spain, and at an anti-Fascist meeting at Strasbourg, France, earlier this month, charged Germany with responsibility for the destruction of the Basque "Holy City" of Guernica. In a statement to the press Dr. Johnson said:

"I am glad the Archbishop has had an opportunity of saying in public that the action I took was under my own responsibility. We are very great friends and I am grieved he should have been blamed for any step which I felt it on my conscience to take."

EDEN URGES COMMONS TO ACCEPT REPORTS OF GERMAN WARSHIP MOVEMENTS OFF SPAIN WITH GREAT RESERVE

London, June 24.—Foreign Secretary Eden urged the House of Commons today to accept reports of German warship movements off Spain "with great reserve."

Eden said also that neither the European Non-Intervention Committee nor British patrol ships could confirm reports of Italian troop landings in Southern Spain.

In answer to a question by Clement Attlee, leader of the opposition, Eden said: "I would suggest to the House that reports of German warship movements eastward in the Mediterranean should be received with great reserve. Official information received by the admiralty does not confirm them."

GERMAN CRUISER TAKES AWAY WOUNDED SAILORS

Gibraltar, June 24.—The German cruiser Kohn arrived at Gibraltar today to return to Germany seventeen sailors wounded when Spanish Government planes bombed the German pocket battleship Deutschland. The bodies of thirty-one seamen killed in the May 29th bombardment already have been taken back to Germany.

The men had been treated in the military hospital here. The whereabouts of other German warships in Spanish waters was unknown.

C.I.O. Organization Met Rebuff In Plan To Call General Protest Strike

Warren, O., Organizer Calls Off General Strike After Workers of Only Two Plants Pay Heed to Protest Against National Guard Protecting Steel Mill Workers—Johnstown Merchants Protest Action of Governor.

Warren, O., June 24.—John McKeown, C.I.O. organizer said today he had advised his unionists to abandon plans for a general industrial strike.

The walkout was threatened by C.I.O. leaders who, piqued at use of National Guardsmen in defence of non-strikers entering and leaving Republic Steel Corporation's plant, had said fifteen thousand workmen would be out in protest.

McKeown said all plants in Warren were operating this morning except Brainerd Steel Co., and the Van Huffel Tube Co. These, he estimated, employ about five hundred men.

Officials of the Sunlight Electric Co., a General Motors unit whose C.I.O. employees were among those walking out late yesterday in several local factories, said normal operations had been resumed. Sunlight employs about 830 persons.

Asked whether the mill force was being increased, an official of the Warren Republic plant said there was no agreement or legal order to limit the number of men who may return to their jobs.

"Judge Lynn B. Griffith in his (civil) court order Monday limiting picketing provided for free access to the plant by all men who wanted to work," the official declared.

C. R. Wheeler, assistant to the district manager, said 2,500 of a normal force of 6,500 were on the job and that all departments were operating except the hot mill.

Three rapid-fire explosions that were heard for many blocks sent fresh alarm through the city last night. The explosions were near the Republic Steel plant which hundreds of self-interested non-strikers have kept operating despite the strike.

First it was reported an attempt had been made to blow up the plant, but the report was quickly dissipated by Wheeler, who said he believed the explosions were caused by giant firecrackers hurled in the direction of the plant from the Mahoning river or from the opposite bank. The explosions occurred shortly before midnight in a pile of dust and did no damage.

The Republic plant announced today that about 2,500 were on the payroll yesterday, and that $380,000 was paid in wages, compared to a normal $550,000 for the two-week period.

No effort has yet been made to relieve Republic's workers at their nearby Niles plant which, like the plant here, has been operating with workmen who have remained inside the buildings.

The force of 550 Guardsmen originally sent here was re-enforced last night by a detachment from nearby Youngstown.

Crowds of men and women—often as many as 1,000—stood outside C.I.O. headquarters until after midnight.

ELLIS PARKER FOUND GUILTY OF KIDNAPPING

Jury Recommends Clemency in Convicting New Jersey "Country Detective" and Son for Part in Lindbergh Confession Case.

Newark, N.J., June 24.—Another complex sequel to the Lindbergh kidnapping drew to a close today as Ellis Parker, Sr., colorful "country detective," and his son Ellis, Jr., awaited sentence for plotting the kidnapping of Paul H. Wendel.

The two were convicted last night by a federal jury of conspiring to seize and torture Wendel to obtain a false confession to the kidnapping of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr. This "confession" fifteen months ago delayed for three days the execution of Bruno Richard Hauptmann for the Lindbergh crime.

The Parkers were liable to sentences of one day to one hundred years. The jury, which deliberated for 6 1/2 hours on the nine weeks of testimony, recommended leniency, and Judge William Clark said the recommendation would have "great weight" with him. A suspended sentence was possible. Next Wednesday was set tentatively for sentencing.

Judge Clark granted temporary continuance of the $25,000 bail for the younger Parker and the $1,000 bond for the father. Lindbergh "confession" was repudiated and discredited by state officials, but its production almost on the eve of Hauptmann's original execution date brought about the three-day postponement to allow investigation.

PREMIER KING AND HITLER TO CONFER MONDAY

Canadian Prime Minister Hopes, by Friendly Talk, to Establish Better Understanding Between Varying Viewpoints.

Paris, June 24.—During his brief stay in Berlin Prime Minister Mackenzie King will have a frank exchange of views with Chancellor Hitler. An interview between the Canadian Premier and the German Fuehrer has been tentatively arranged for Monday.

The primary purpose of Mackenzie King's visit is to do anything he can possibly do to further the cause of international peace. He is not taking with him any plan. He hopes, rather, by a friendly talk, to establish better understanding between varying viewpoints.

During his visit to Scotland Mackenzie King specially emphasized the need for goodwill in the conduct of affairs. It is largely in furtherance of that idea, it is believed, that he now visits Germany.

Canadian delegations previously visiting London rarely included Berlin in their itinerary. Between London and Geneva they usually travelled via Paris. Mackenzie King's idea is that the opportunity can well be taken to secure a first-hand acquaintance with the German viewpoint.

Mackenzie King and Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Justice, are both guests of the French Government during their present stay in Paris. Friday night they will be guests of the French Government at dinner.

The Prime Minister leaves Paris for Berlin Saturday night, arriving Sunday. After a few days in the German capital he will return to Paris via Brussels.

MEXICAN RAIL SYSTEM TAKEN OVER BY STATE

Expropriation of National Railways of Mexico Latest Move of Cardenas Government to Spread Socialist Ideals.

Mexico City, June 24.—President Lazaro Cardenas pushed his socialistic programme another step forward today with expropriation of the country's greatest railway line, the National Railways of Mexico.

Since the National Railways was incorporated in 1907, the Government has owned 51.35 per cent. of the stock. Foreign bondholders will be reimbursed after the expropriated properties are revealed, the Government said.

Previous moves in Cardenas' socialistic programme have included expropriation of much agricultural land and its distribution among peasants, partial nationalization of Mexico's oil industry, and the teaching of socialistic theories in schools.

A Government department will operate the National Railways with power to organize the lines on a sound paying basis. For years the company has been losing millions of pesos. In 1935 its debt to Mexican and foreign bondholders totalled 1,088,256,228 pesos (about $92,000,000).

progressive programme adopted by the convention held in Truro in 1936, which programme has already been widely published.

The Conservative party, he said, proposed to "resume the constructive and progressive policies of the administration from 1925 to 1933."

"We believe it is essential to take all possible steps to secure the homes of our citizens and to improve their standard of living. For this purpose we propose to make proposals for social security, for expansion of electric power, for improvement of secondary highways and for advanced education."

"We propose to continue the payment of old age pensions and mothers' allowances at not less than the present rates, and we will direct our efforts to improving the administration of both these deserving services and widening their application."

"The paving of our trunk roads will be continued and special attention will be given to our badly neglected secondary roads so as to make the network of highways in the province more useful to our own citizens. A fairer rate of wages will be paid to all highway workers."

The Conservative party would press forward the distribution of electric power throughout the province "at rates that will make it accessible to greater numbers," the Opposition leader continued.

"With the election less than a week away it is necessary for me to point out that all manner of pre-election promises are being made by the Government and its supporters. May I suggest that you examine carefully any promises or undertakings given on the eve of an election. Four years has surely been ample time for the Government to put forward these proposals without waiting to promise coal mines, bonuses on fish and matters of that kind within a few days of actual polling."

Of education, Col. Harrington said, "In the past year our educational system had not merely failed to progress, but has actually retrograded. It is our intention to bring this service forward, adapting our rural schools more closely to the needs of the rural population and providing facilities for adult education."

"We shall seek a more favorable rail rate for coal in an effort to increase our winter shipments so as to help the small mines and to stabilize employment. Nova Scotia's position in regard to rail rates on coal is less favorable today than it was four years ago."

The Opposition leader condemned the Government because "the public interest has largely been forgotten and private interests have been the chief beneficiaries" and concluded by assuring the voters that "if returned to power the Conservatives will be quick to take action for the benefit of Nova Scotia and its citizens."

CLAIMS CHURCH HAS LOST REAL WORSHIP IDEA

World Alliance of Reformed Churches Told That Unregulated Innovations into Public Worship Service Have Removed Contact with God.

Montreal, June 24.—Public worship has declined to the point where the minister is "the only person who seems clearly to be making contact with God" in Church, the World Alliance of Presbyterian and Reformed Churches was told today by a Toronto clergyman.

"Time and unregulated innovations have been said to tell of our public worship," Rev. Dr. Stuart C. Parker, minister of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in Toronto, declared before the two hundred delegates at the Alliance's quadrennial council. "We have undoubtedly lost Calvin and his spirit behind," Dr. Parker said.

Churches, he said, had "tended to become mere auditoriums in which to listen to sermons, buildings planned and furnished with no thought that they may have a man's soul to a holy quiet, but only that they be comfortable and acoustically perfect."

The people were "hearers only when they come to worship." The minister did "virtually everything," Rev. Dr. G. H. C. Macgregor, of Glasgow University, Scotland, addressed the alliance on "The Church: Its nature, authority and evangel." On the Church's nature, he asserted the title "Catholic" belonged "equally to us all; else we are no true Church."

Tonight, Lord Tweedsmuir was to address the council.

Italo-German Patrol Of The Spanish Coast Would Be "Blockade"

the non-intervention patrol to isolate the Spanish war presaged a retaliatory attack against Spain as punishment for the alleged effort to torpedo the German cruise Leipzig.

This fear was believed to have inspired the warning of the Admiral in Berlin, Sir Neville Henderson, that his Government would take a serious view of any hostile action against Valencia.

The manoeuvring of German warships around the Spanish peninsula puzzled London officials, who found it hard to reconcile it with Germany's professed eagerness to prevent further incidents.

Germany and Italy withdrew from the twenty-seven national Hands-Off-Spain Committee's patrol yesterday in indignation at British and French refusal to grant demands for a four-power naval demonstration in Spanish waters as a warning against any further attacks by the four nations.

They did not, however, withdraw their warships from Spain. Reports from Gibraltar placed the German warship concentration in the vicinity of the straits at fifteen vessels. Some are near Tangier, in the International Zone, while others are already in the Mediterranean.

The arrival of the Admiral Graf Spee will bring the total German strength to at least nineteen vessels—two pocket battleships, four cruisers, nine destroyers and four submarines.

A flotilla of destroyers, led by a fast cruiser, was said to have been lying at anchor off the insurgent port of Algeiras last night. Boats were reported plying constantly between the vessels and the beach.

The mildness of the German and Italian decision yesterday—simple withdrawal from the patrol—while causing relief that it was not in itself more serious, left an uneasy feeling there might be a surprise in store.

Germany told Great Britain she had drawn her ships out of the four-power fleet "with the specific intention of avoiding the possibility of aggravating the situation," and added she would "confine herself to this action."

The German and Italian action left the problem of closing the gap in the neutrality cordon left by withdrawal of the German and Italian patrol ships. Roughly, it comprises the territory of the Spanish Government on the Mediterranean coast of East Spain.

British sources said there were two alternatives: 1—Complete scrapping of the set-up, raising the danger of Germany and Italy blockading the Valencia coast to prevent receipt of war materials that would hamper the insurgent cause.

2—Taking over the entire job of the patrol either alone or with France.

The Admiralty as well as the Foreign Office was apparently waiting for developments in Rome and Berlin. There were no movements of British warships in the Mediterranean area, and the Admiralty, while not denying the possibility, remained calm at unconfirmed reports a British merchantman had been halted by an Italian man of war.

General Sebastian Pozas, commander-in-chief of the Catalan forces of the Spanish Government, said in Barcelona he had ordered planes to protect the British ship after it had appealed for aid.

While there were no advances of Italian fleet movements, dispatches from Gibraltar reported large landings of Italian volunteers. These were authoritatively denied in Rome.

What steps may be taken to close the patrol gap will be considered by the full non-intervention committee tomorrow.

The entire Spanish question will also be thrown open for debate in the House of Commons tomorrow.

WILL NOT CALL FOR POWER THAT BLUM DEMANDED

Chautemps Will Request Authority to Cut Expenditures and Impose Taxes by Decree without Waiting for Parliamentary Approval.

Paris, June 24.—Camille Chautemps' new cabinet decided at its first meeting today, an authoritative source said, to refrain from asking the full financial powers, which Parliament refused to give the previous ministry of Leon Blum.

Chautemps intends to ask for authority to reduce governmental expenditures and impose new taxes by decree without waiting for parliamentary approval, this informant said, but he does not plan to demand the virtual dictatorship over French finances which Blum requested.

He will not ask for decree power to supervise banking and foreign exchange operations.

The new Premier, emphasized that France's financial problems—which caused the fall of the Leon Blum cabinet—must await the arrival Monday of Georges Bonnet, ambassador to Washington, who is the new Finance Minister.

Rene Brunet, Under-Secretary of State for Finance, took over the office on instructions from Bonnet and set to work clearing the desks for his new chief's return.

The cabinet's first official appearance was set for next Tuesday when the ministers will attend sessions of the Chamber of Deputies and the Senate. Chautemps is then expected to make his formal declaration of the Government's proposals to reduce the $1,760,000,000 treasury deficit and to bolster the sagging public credit.

24 MEMBERS OF GEM SMUGGLING RING ARRESTED

International Diamond Smuggling Ring Netted Millions of Dollars in Last Seven Years

New York, June 24.—Federal agents today rounded up additional members of an international diamond smuggling ring, which they said had netted millions of dollars in the last seven years.

Twenty-four of the fifty-five persons whose indictments were announced yesterday already were under arrest, Lamar Hardy, United States Attorney, said. An additional twenty-four, mostly Europeans, were fugitives. Hardy predicted seven more would be apprehended before Monday, when they were scheduled for arraignment.

Directing operations of twenty-two carriers who brought $13,000,000 worth of diamonds into the United States illegally during the seven year period was a group of leaders with headquarters at a lower Manhattan Diamond Club, Hardy stated.

The careers of the gems, Hardy said, included housewives, actresses, maids, a labor union organizer, and even a school teacher who used her summer vacations for trips to Europe to bring back undeclared diamonds from the marts of Amsterdam and Brussels.

The carriers generally used the fastest liners. They travelled in the best style, carrying suitcases, trunks and suitcases which survived inspection at the New York piers.

Sir Archibald Sinclair, Liberal Opposition leader, will open the discussion, which is expected to bring forth a full statement by Foreign Secretary Eden.

ITALIAN SHIPS READY TO RETURN ANY ATTACK

Rome, June 24.—Italian warships patrolled the coasts of Spain today under orders to strike back immediately and forcibly at any attack from the Valencia Government.

Italy, acting in concert with Germany, withdrew yesterday from a non-intervention patrol to isolate the Spanish civil war, but the Italian fleet remained on duty off the eastern coast of Spain.

Its presence was stated authoritatively to be required to safeguard Italian interests. An official said the warships would retaliate immediately against any aggression.

Independent action was made possible by the Italian withdrawal from the isolation patrol, thereby freeing Italy from the requirement of first consulting Britain, France and Germany. That requirement was established at Italo-German request under the four-power accord of June 12 as a protection for ships of the patrol fleet.

The situation created by these developments caused serious concern in political circles.

The German and Italian fleet commands were understood to be acting in close co-operation. An official said Italy would support, at least morally, any reprisals Germany might take in the Leipzig incident.

Italy's decision to withdraw only from the patrol and not from the International Non-Intervention Committee was interpreted as evidence she has no intention of intervening any more decisively in Spain than she has already done.

A hint, however, that circumstances may alter this decision was contained in a declaration by the authoritative writer Virginio Gayda in Il Giornale D'Italia that Italy would remain in the committee "as long as she can."

sponsibility of democracy as well as its rights. . . . "Now is going into a well-earned rest in a blaze of glory and admiration perhaps never before given a retiring party leader. There have been other occasions when eloquent tribute has been paid to his services to the nation. Today we of the Conservative party want to register our gratitude to him for what he has done for us."

"I do not think that in all the years I have been connected with politics that I remember any period in which the Conservative party has been more completely united or in which it stood higher in the esteem of the country as a whole, and it is because it has never been more closely attuned to the general aims and attitude of the great majority of the people of the country that has been largely brought about by the work of our leader."

Taking the tribune in his hand Chamberlain turned to Baldwin, saying "and so Prime Minister (laughter and applause) Earl Baldwin of Bewdley, I do not think that sounds right, let me say that, recognizing all you have done for the party, members throughout the country desired to put in permanent form their expressions of gratitude and affection and bound this volume, which is itself a magnificent specimen of British craftsmanship."

"But, Sir, I would not adequately complete my task if I did not add a word or two by way of tribute to the lady who all these years has stood by your side, who, we know, strenuously supported you with encouragement and affection. We rejoice that you both still have health and strength to enjoy leisure."

"I hope you will still give us the benefit of your ripe reason and experience, and I trust that both will live many years longer, secure in the affections of the people."

After several minutes of wild cheering the retiring sang "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow." Lord Baldwin moved from the dais to reply. Obviously moved by the warmth of the reception, he was unable to speak for some moments and then, in a breaking voice, said slowly and deprecatingly:

"In the course of my political life I have been shouted down and was indifferent. I have sat down in the Commons and said dead things. I was indifferent. I have sat down on one or two other occasions when cheers came from the heart as they have come from the heart today. Then indeed I care and am overwhelmed."

"I agree with the Premier's remarks on the unity of the party. We, through our homogeneity, through our public spirit, through our sense of being a national party, must be a great nucleus to maintain the constitution, maintain a charitable sanity of outlook, to fight to the death the extremist movement in this country and prevent the dangers which have come from the triumph of that movement in some countries abroad being repeated in our own beloved land."

"I am so glad he said what I said to her. I am going to throw this game up and live in the country where I can be of some use. She told me: 'You said you would stick it ten years. Sir, ten years. Then, you still think you are no good. I will agree to your going.' And so all that followed was really her fault. I do hope that for the happiness of our old age she is satisfied with her handiwork."

Lord Baldwin then turned in tribute to Chamberlain, recalling the letter he had received from him in August, 1923, in reply to one Baldwin had written offering Chamberlain the post of Chancellor of the Exchequer. One paragraph said: "What a day. Two salmon this morning and an offer of the Exchequer this afternoon." Chamberlain had not accepted, saying he would rather serve the Government in a capacity in which he would be more useful.

That has been his creed of life with the result that the whole party knows and believes the job he can do the best today is the premier's job," Lord Baldwin said.

Turning back to himself, the retiring statesman said: "It is not easy to speak. I cannot, if I desired, give advice as to the future. It is not my part. If I talk of the past I run the great risk of slipping into the garrulity of old age, a thing against which I have been fighting for many years past."

My fondest hope is to see the Premier and those with him beginning to build something on the foundation on which he helped so much—something lasting for the good of our people and the happiness of our country."

Several minutes of applause followed and then Lord and Lady Baldwin, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Chamberlain, walked out of the room slowly. At the door Lady Baldwin turned and waved her hand. Lord Baldwin bowed gravely.

fight against the closing of the $500,000,000 Bethlehem Steel Mills here by Governor Earle's martial law order.

"We protest," stated advertisement costing $60,000, "We are not arguing for or against unions or steel companies, but in defence of two fundamental American liberties—right of local self-government and right of every worker to pursue occupation peacefully and within the law."

Closing of the fast Cambria works Sunday morning made die non-strikers in a normal force of 15,000 and stopped a normal weekly payroll of $500,000. A maintenance force of eight hundred men remained inside the mills.

QUIET RESTORED STRIKE SWEPT ISLAND TODAY

Presence of Marines Curbs Rioting in Trinidad as Governor Seeks to Negotiate Labor Disputes.

Port of Spain, Trinidad, June 24.—Peace enforced by the machine guns of British marines and the rifles of police, held sway today, temporarily at least, over this riot-torn West Indies island for the first time since Saturday.

Government officials were confident worst of the clashes between striking oil fields, refinery and plantation workers and police were past. Presence of two warships, H.M.S. Ajax and H.M.S. Exeter, gave reassurance after four days of riots in which fourteen were killed, forty-four seriously injured and hundreds of others suffered minor wounds.

Governor Sir A. G. M. Fletcher awaited strikers' reply to his appeal to return to work and his promise of Government assistance in reaching settlement of their wage increase demands. The men, negroes and East Indians, sought increases varying from fifty to one hundred per cent.

Refinery workers, paid seven cents an hour, demanded an increase to twelve cents and paid little heed to the companies' offer of nine cents. Other workers sought reductions from fifty-four to forty hours in their working week and pay increases.

Business in Port of Spain itself was returning to normal. Street cleaners, who staged a minor walk-out yesterday, returned to work when civic officials promised wage increases. The city had only one serious clash between police and parading strikers. One man was killed and four wounded when officers fired on the mob.

A Government announcement placed blame for the wave of strikes and riots on Uriah Butler, self-styled "Supreme Servant of British Empire Workers and the Citizens Home Rule Party," and other "certain agitators."

Butler so far has eluded capture since police went to Fyzabad for him Saturday night and were involved in a riot in which they lost two officers. The two were the only police listed in the fourteen deaths.

Four platoons of marines from the Ajax, first cruiser to speed here after the Governor wireless for aid, stood guard in the southern oil fields. Three other platoons from the Exeter, bringing the total to 270 men, were stationed at strategic points. Their machine guns commanded the area.

RUMOR WINDSOR MAY RETURN TO ENGLAND

An Agent for Duke Said to Have Purchased 100-Year-Old Estate in Lincolnshire.

Birmingham, England, June 24.—An agent for the Duke of Windsor was said today to have purchased a hundred year old estate in Lincolnshire, leading to reports former King Edward VIII would go there to live after the echoes of his abdication have quieted.

The little hamlet of Harlington, Lincolnshire, was excused by rumors its former king will be its new squire within a year or so.

Harlington Hall lies near the residence of Lord Brownlow, a close friend of Windsor, who accompanied the Duchess of Windsor—then Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson—when she left the country at the height of the abdication crisis.

The estate is located in Hunting country, only a few miles from Melton Mowbray, the centre of the celebrated region where the Duke often rode to hounds as Prince of Wales.

The estate, roughly one hundred miles north of London, consists of four thousand acres and is completely self-supporting in the baronial style. It has its own brewery, butcher shop and bakery and three little villages lie within its borders. The manor house itself has one hundred bedrooms. It is built in Elizabethan style.

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

TRAP IN "EASY" HAND

Declarer Makes Safety Play With High Card Ruff, to Assure Loss of Only One Trick for Slam

By Wm. E. McKenney,
Secretary, American Bridge League.

Easy hands are not always made. The fact that the declarer can see his contract apparently safe often makes him careless in his play.

Today's hand was taken from the recent duplicate party held by the Women's Auxiliary of the American Bridge League at the Park Central Hotel, New York, in preparation for the forthcoming national championship tournament to be held at Asbury Park, N.J., beginning August 2.

Mrs. Meyer D. Rothschild, of New York, one of the most ardent devotees of duplicate, was one of those who reached the six heart contract.

St. John The Baptist Day.

Today is the festival of St. John the Baptist, which is recognized throughout all Christendom as one of the red letter days in the church calendar.

In the Province of Quebec the day is marked by unusual enthusiasm on the part of the French-speaking people of the Province, who are proud to honor their patron saint and to observe the occasion with celebration and rejoicing.

Far and wide wherever Christian influences have penetrated, on this date the name of the Judean evangelist will be gladly acclaimed as one of the greatest of the prophets and pioneer herald of the Kingdom of God.

The courage, humility, frankness and zeal of this patron saint of French-Canadians made him a living example of the great message he had to deliver.

St. John the Baptist was a humble man. He lived a simple life. He drilled his soul in solitude, yet he became a "burning and shining light."

St. John the Baptist is the patron saint of French Canada, yet he is held in reverence by all Christian people as one who humbly served God and helped to make the life of man more noble. He preached the doctrine of God and by his life and example showed man how to live so that one day he would be ready to face his Creator.

The thought brought home to us by such a festival as St. John the Baptist Day is that the permanent wealth of any community rests in the personal quality of the manhood and womanhood developed within its bounds.

It is not in riches, cleverness, scholarship, inventions and the craving for individual distinction to produce a healthful and progressive type of human civilization. Personal character of a noble strain is the solid rock upon which we must build if the social structure is to last.

Dignity.

Dignity is that propriety of deportment and behavior which should characterize a person in his intercourse with others.

It proceeds from due appreciation of his own moral and social position and of his duties and responsibilities, in conjunction with an entire forgetfulness of self.

There is a common use of the word "dignity" which expresses only half its meaning. Dignity is derived from "dignus," meaning worthy, and is one of those words which have both a primary and a secondary meaning, and it is therefore found not infrequently with the adjective "true" prefixed to it, when it is used to indicate the primary meaning. "True" dignity is thus spoken of in contradistinction to the dignity which may be considered to accrue to a person merely in consequence of any exalted office or position that he may hold, without reference to his own occupation of such office or position.

True dignity is irrespective of position, and ought to be found in every rank of life, high or low, and it is undoubtedly as often met with in the cottage as in the palace.

Another Purge in Russia.

Soviet Russia now finds itself in another state of excitement. As a result, hundreds of prominent Russians have been thrown into prison, just for good measure, where they are left at the mercy of brutal guards, and hundreds of thousands of names are being removed from Communist party rolls.

Just at the present time Russia is experiencing a purge. Such a state of affairs in a civilized country is difficult to understand, but in nations where Communists and Fascists hold sway it is just a periodical affair. A purge is the Communist and Fascist idea of a healthy state.

A purge is declared necessary when a people are in need of reform. The government of Russia has come to the conclusion that things in the country are not going smoothly because there is something wrong with the people. The government, of course, can do no wrong.

A nation is something like an individual. It can no more attain economic and social perfection through the medium of spasmodic blood-letting than a man can achieve health and physical perfection through week-end orgies with epsom salts.

A purge can do no good except to keep people in subjection, for a little longer at least, to a tyrannical government.

EDITOR'S NOTE-BOOK

We are happy today to extend greetings to our French-speaking citizens who are proudly celebrating St. Jean Baptiste Day. May their holiday be a pleasant one.

One hundred and thirty-four years ago today Golden Rule Lodge, A.F. and A.M., was organized at Stanstead. The centennial of this veteran Quebec lodge was celebrated on June 24, 1903, with a great Masonic gathering at Stanstead and a visit to Owl's Head. May this fine old lodge enjoy many more years of prosperity and useful service.

The Waterloo Fair is again taking its place as a leader in the Eastern Townships. The Directors of the Shefford County Agricultural Association, not content with waiting until fall to commence their activities, announce that on Dominion Day they will stage a round of horse races at their Waterloo Fair Grounds, with purses amounting to $600. This is a spirit of action which has been characteristic of the Waterloo Fair officials for several years past. They have secured results.

SHORTAGE OF EXPERT LABOR

It was extensively reported a short time ago, that much of Canada's expert labor was moving over to England. The news was denied in various quarters but no proof was ever advanced to definitely contradict the charge. Our Dominion which carefully notes the people coming in, unfortunately pays little or no attention to those leaving our country.

The situation in Western Canada for instance, indicates that thousands of workmen, of British origin, have been steadily returning home in recent years.

A considerable shortage of expert labor exists in the United Kingdom and the situation is rendered all the more acute due to the fact that the manufacturers of arms and munitions keep on calling for more and more workers.

Direct cause of the shortage of expert labor, of course, was the severe economic crisis. Because, in England, the number of apprentices in the various industries are proportioned to the number of expert hands actually employed.

Apprenticeship, in England, in Canada and elsewhere, has fallen off badly, and consequently, there is everywhere today an unfortunate shortage of expert labor.—Le Nouvelliste, Three Rivers.

PROPER TOWN PLANNING

Creation of a Dominion-wide representative town planning organism, as recommended by the Union of Canadian Municipalities meeting in Ottawa not long ago, would mean the appearance in our national life of a highly useful body which could render eminent services and contribute greatly to the improvement of the cities of Canada.

All municipalities interested in the safety, health and prosperity of the populations they represent cannot ignore town planning but the latter, to be successful, must necessarily be established on a methodical and generous and broad base.

Town planning has made considerable progress in the United States where, in 1911, only 48 cities had adopted it whereas such a system is now in force in no less than 981 cities, which means 67 per cent. of the American urban population.

It is difficult to be more practical than the American. And, in this domain, what is good enough for them should be good enough for us. Let us, Canadians, get behind a national town planning movement without loss of time.—La Presse, Montreal.

THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY

From the Files of the Sherbrooke Record.

June 24th, 1907.
Mr. Peter Dussault had his leg badly crushed while at work on a G. T. R. work train in the Sherbrooke yards.

The vote on the by-law to raise $200,000 for the development of the Westbury power project was adopted by the rate-payers of Sherbrooke by a majority of 64.

His Lordship Bishop Carmichael, Hon. Justice Lynch, Revs. W. Bernard and R. T. Overing were the speakers at the annual closing of King's Hall, Compton.

Hailstones big enough to cut leaves fell during severe storm at Richmond.
Hotel proprietor at Windsor Mills claims he has a cow from which he secures sufficient milk to supply the needs of his forty boarders, as well as to supply three private families and then have enough milk left to send to the cheese factory.

Mrs. Hannah Kennerson, formerly of Sutton, celebrated her 90th birthday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Levi Bickford, at South Stukely.

Mr. Valcourt, who for many years drove a stage from Scottstown to Goud, and is now ninety years of age, was visiting friends in Sherbrooke en route to visit a son in the United States.

Births reported: At Brome Centre, a son to Mr. and Mrs. Homer Sweet; at Sawyerville, a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Walter Sherman; at Stanstead, a son to Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Begin.

TRANSIENTS.

March flung heels to the sky,
Grasping the wind's tresses;
April passed daintily by
Walking on stilts of trees;
May, from a hillside room
Heard the approaching guest,
Saw, through the dogwood bloom,
A figure skirting the crest;
Moving in song she came
Lilting a woodland tune,
The birches whispered her name—
Summer had come with June.

PRESS COMMENTS

THE HONEYMOONERS.

Fashions and manners may change but Niagara Falls still continues to draw the honeymooners and, according to local hotelkeepers and officials more have registered at local hotels in the past two months than in six months last year. Immigration officials report large numbers of American honeymooners crossing to Canada every day. In any gathering almost anywhere, it is possible to find a large number present who spent wedding trips here and look back kindly on their visits to the falls. All the world loves a lover and we have always had a kindly feeling for honeymooners, so generation after generation of married lovers continue to come here. Long may they come. Welcome may they always be.—Niagara Falls Review.

SOME BAND CONTEST.

Australians go in for big things in a big way, which may prove they are more British than many Canadians. Thus the Queensland Coronation band contest attracted a record number of bandmen to Brisbane, two thousand performers and over fifty bands competing for a world's record prize schedule the value of the prizes totalling $8,350. The arrangements provided for a number of spectacular events which included a street march by fifty bands in Queen street, which was closed to all traffic for the whole of the morning when the contest was being staged. The carnival lasted for a week and bands competed from every part of the Commonwealth.—Brandon Sun.

NOT TOO GAUDY.

"I do not believe that Englishmen like to be conspicuously dressed," said the War Secretary, explaining why he refused to restore the army's scarlet tunic. That is strange talk in this land of pearly kings, beauteous, bewigged judges, emerald mayors, brass bands, black rods and strawberry-leaved dukes. Apart even from such dazzling personages we are a picturesque lot. See how eagerly the average man gets out of his drab office uniform and into his plus-fours, hiker's kit or a gay blazer as soon as he has a few hours off. And nobody ever heard of a British redcoat or his girl complaining that he was too gaudy.—London News-Chronicle.

THE RAINY SEASON

Farmers were calling for rain for a week, and they got it. The rain will make the wheat grow. The oats and the barley also. The meadows also have a good start. The prospects are good. The cool weather has been favorable for the setting of fruit plants. It looks now as if this would be the best year the farmers have had since 1915.

For the past four years tobacco has been the best paying crop on the farm. Tobacco land is not much good for anything else. But the costs for labor, fertilizer and seed are heavy.—Port Rowan News.

THE UNCOUNTED JOBLESS.

To date for reasons not apparent to the man in the street the Administration has shown no great enthusiasm for collection of official data regarding unemployment. By the lifting of its finger it could secure congressional approval for any of the pending bills. The Department of Commerce seems to be vain in vain. The Federal Government, the states and the cities should be obliged to work on their relief problems and industry on its employment programme in the dark.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

IT'S HARMLESS

On those rare occasions when there seems to be nothing happening in Washington, somebody generally comes through with a yarn about the revival of the St. Lawrence Waterways treaty. The exercise deceives free and does practically no harm.—Detroit Free Press.

WILL BE HEARD FROM

Announcement may now be expected from sixty-four Liberal members of the Legislature as to whether they are Heppburn Reformers or King Liberals. The status of Hon. Arthur Roebuck and Hon. David C. McLean has not been indicated.—Woodstock Sentinel-Review.

THEY'RE STILL SHORT.

British M.P.'s have had their salaries increased by fifty per cent. and will now receive $3,000, at which figure they will still be $1,000 short of the salary of Canadian M.P.'s.—Sault Ste. Marie Star.

PATRON SAINT IS HONORED BY FRENCH PEOPLE

Open-Air Mass Sung by Rev. Father Dolor Biron at Dufresne Park this Morning Was Attended by Hundreds of Local Citizens.

Sherbrooke's French-Canadian population, honoring its patron saint, today fittingly celebrated St. Jean Baptiste Day. The occasion was observed as a legal holiday, with the banks, the City Hall, the Court House and many business establishments closed for the day.

The programme was inaugurated with an open-air mass sung at Dufresne Park by Rev. Father Dolor Biron, chaplain of the St. Jean Baptiste Society, and attended by hundreds of local citizens. Forming up at the Catholic Synagogue Hall on Gordon street, a parade marched to Dufresne Park at nine o'clock to assist at mass.

The parade was led by members of the Police Department and the Sherbrooke Harmony Band, children from Catholic schools and convents, the Catholic Boy Scouts, members of French Canadian societies, Mayor Emile Rioux and aldermen and officers of the St. Jean Baptiste Society.

This evening a concert will be held in the hall of the Immaculate Conception Church when French-Canadian songs will be interpreted by the five separate Catholic choirs in the city.

A musical and recreative entertainment for the children was held in the Immaculate Conception church parish hall last evening as a prelude to the celebration today. Community singing was enjoyed and gifts distributed to the children.

INVOLVE MORE CORPORATIONS IN TAX PROBE

Congressional Inquiry into Tax Evasions to Hear Means Used by Seventeen Companies and Their Owners to Avoid Payment of Income Taxes.

Washington, June 24.—Guy T. Helvering, Internal Revenue Commissioner, listed seventeen personal holding companies and their owners for presentation today to the United States congressional committee on tax avoidance and evasion.

He said he would "show in detail just what individuals in certain typical cases have saved by use of the personal holding corporate device."

Some committee members expressed the belief the treasury might recommend raising the surtax rates on personal holding companies and lowering or eliminating some of the tax deductions allowed such corporations.

A personal holding company is defined legally as one which obtains eighty per cent. or more of its gross income from royalties, dividends, interest, annuities, and capital gains and has at least fifty per cent. of its stock owned by not more than five individuals.

Besides the ordinary corporation taxes, surtaxes of from eight to forty-eight per cent. are imposed on such corporations.

Helvering testified yesterday that Cecil B. De Mille, the movie producer, formed a holding company for his income. De Mille replied in a statement from Hollywood that tax appeal decisions in his favor showed he had not attempted to evade taxes.

VATICAN HELP SOUGHT TO END POLISH FIGHT

Archbishop of Krakow and Polish Authorities Argue Over Removal of Body of Former Dictator from Cathedral Crypt.

Warsaw, Poland, June 24.—The President of Poland today appealed to Pope Pius to order restoration of the body of Poland's national hero, Marshal Joseph Pilsudski, to its original resting place.

Monsignor Cortesi Filippo, the Papal Nuncio, was asked officially to report the President's dispute with the Archbishop of Krakow to the Pontiff. The Catholic prelate's removal of the Marshal's body from its crypt in St. Lenore Cathedral led the Polish cabinet to offer its resignation.

It was believed Pope Pius would order Archbishop Sapieha to return the body to the crypt from the bell-tower outside Krakow where he had ordered it taken.

There were two versions of the controversy. The Catholic press reported the Archbishop removed the body because the crypt was too damp and became overcrowded with visitors. The other version said the dispute arose when the Archbishop decided to remove the national hero's body to the "Silver Bell Tower" adjoining the cathedral because King Carol of Rumania was expected to visit Pilsudski's grave next Wednesday. The Archbishop did not wish to receive the monarch, head of the Rumanian Orthodox Church, within the Roman Catholic Cathedral.

inating committee, Mrs. R. S. Lipsey, of Lennoxville, and Mrs. H. A census taker, on asking a woman how old she was, received the following answer:
"Do you know how old the Hill girls are next door?"
"Sure," he replied.
"Well, I'm as old as they are."
The census taker wrote down "As old as the hills."

He was about to propose but before doing so he wished to make sure she was a good housewife. So he asked her: "Can you wash dishes?"
"Yes," she said sweetly. "Can you dry them?"
He didn't propose.

HUBBELL TRIPS CUBS TO RESUME WINNING WAYS

Terrymen Landed on Four of Chicago's Best Pitchers Yesterday to Even Up the Series—"Dizzy" Dean Chalked Up Another Victory at Expense of Dodgers.

It served as a bit of encouragement to Manager Bill Terry today that Carl Hubbell is back on the winning track, recovered from the non-winning malady that set in the day the Dodgers broke his two-season winning streak at twenty-four straight games.

But the manner in which the Giants went about providing for Hub's ninth victory of the season, his eight to four conquest of the Chicago Cubs yesterday, was equally heartening.

The Terrymen landed on four of the Cubs' best pitchers, and it was a warning to the Cubs, out front by one game, and the Cardinals, tied for second with the Giants.

Wally Berger, before giving way to George Davis when the Cubs switched from southpaw to right-handed pitching, poled his first Giant homer and sixth of the year. Sam Leslie drove in three runs with a home run and a single and Mel Ott walked his twelfth.

The Cards and "Dizzy" Dean kept pace by turning back the Dodgers by three to two. Two unearned runs cost Brooklyn the game after Van Mungo, a two-hit pitcher for seven innings, was forced to withdraw because of a blister on the index finger of his salary hand.

Hugh Mulcahy lifted the Phils into sixth place with a four-hit, three to nothing job on the Reds, while young Russ Bauers turned in a six-hitter that was good enough to cost the Bees their eleventh straight loss by eight to five.

In the American League the front-running Yanks were spilled by the St. Louis Browns by six to three, but lost no ground as second-place Detroit dropped a six to five decision to the Red Sox.

The Cleveland Indians took a fourteen to five beating by the Senators and the Athletics sustained their second successive shutout, a two to nothing performance by the White Sox who won on only three hits, two of them homers.

NEWARK OUT AFTER RECORDS
Fourteen games in front of the field, Newark's powerful Bears were aiming at International League records as a means of keeping their interest alive.

Few teams in the history of the league have set such a terrific pace as the Bears of today. They've won forty-seven games against fourteen losses. Only twice this season have any clubs been able to stop them twice in succession. With a percentage of .770 in the win and lost column the Bears were far over all modern records for this stage of the campaign.

The Bears ran their current win streak to five last night as they defeated Syracuse by six to five. Atley Donald, sensational rookie, ran his own victory-streak to eleven against no defeats.

The Bears got him off to a six-run lead in the first three innings. The Chiefs rapped him for nine hits and came within one run of deadlocking the contest in the seventh inning. The right-hander halted the Chiefs in the tight spots. He fanned ten.

Baltimore's Orioles finally emerged from the cellar as they defeated Jersey City by three to one and sent the Giants down in their place, Harry Matuzak, Orioles' veteran right-hander, held the Jerseys to six hits as his mates got to Hank McDonald for eight hits and three runs in the seven innings he hurled.

Rochester went down seven to two at the hands of Toronto Leafs. Earl Caldwell's sweeping curve balls were too baffling for the Wings and they were stopped with seven hits. The Leafs registered only two more, but cashed in with extra-base blows.

L. Lachance, of Rubin, robbed the Kayser pitcher, Crompton, of a hitless game when he singled in the last inning. Kayser collected fifteen hits from the offerings of H. Kouri, including a three-bagger by McLeod and two doubles by Pinard.

Six runs in the second inning gave City Transit a lead over New Wellington that they never relinquished. Goyette and R. Dion slammed home runs for the winning squad. In the third and fourth frames, respectively.

BEDFORD DISTRICT TENNIS LEAGUE MET

Cowanville, June 24.—A meeting of the District of Bedford Tennis League was held at the Ottawa Hotel in Cowanville on Wednesday evening, June 17th, with delegates from Granby, Bedford, Cowanville and Sutton.

Messrs. Cartier and Barr represented Granby, Messrs. Lang and McCaw, Bedford, Messrs. Percy Smith and Eland Sutton, and Mr. Jack Brown Cowanville.

Joseph Lang, of Bedford was elected president succeeding Harold Guild, of Granby and F. G. Eland, of Sutton, was elected secretary succeeding George Dyer of Sutton.

It was decided that the League would be known as The District of Bedford Tennis League comprising Bedford, Cowanville, Granby and Sutton. Waterloo were invited to join but sent no delegate. They may decide to come in before schedule is drawn up.

After serious discussion it was unanimously decided that the District of Bedford Tennis League would play as an independent body for 1937 as the clubs found it very difficult to maintain courts equipment etc., and any added expenditure would be a hardship and might necessitate suspending from the League.

The president very generously offered a cup for the best singles in the League. A post season series between the Number 1 players from each club will decide the ownership of the cup for 1937. Any players winning the cup three years in succession will keep permanent possession of same.

Mr. Cartier, of Granby, said that he perhaps could make arrangements for a cup for the club to play for.

The schedule begins July 11th and ends Sunday August 15th.

LONG LAY-OFFS NOT RELISHED BY NEW CHAMP

Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis Is Looking for Work—"An' Lots of It!"—Desires to Meet Max Schmeling in Next Encounter.

Chicago, June 24.—Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis is looking for work—"an' lots of it!"

The new ruler of ringdom isn't worrying about where his next meal is coming from. Now he is planning on going into hiding with his new crown.

"Long layoffs don't do me no good," said Joe as he packed his grips preparatory to leaving tonight for Detroit and a visit with his mother. "I want to fight as often as mah managers want me to. I'd like first to meet Max Schmeling, but thas' up to them to figure out."

Joe won't have to worry about too-long layoffs, Mike Jacobs, the New York promoter who staged Tuesday's title bout, yesterday announced a two-year extension of his contract with the 23-year old titleholder. The rights to the negro's services for the next five years.

The new agreement provides for as many as four fights a year, with the probability that Louis will see action at least twice annually. Jacobs' principal concern now is landing one more fight this year, with the big objective being a Louis-Schmeling bout in September, in New York. He said Detroit, Cleveland, Philadelphia, Chicago and London bidding to put the young champion in action.

Jacobs also disclosed he has effected a three-year agreement for the fighting services of the ex-champion, Braddock. Concurring in Braddock's opinion that he is not "through," the promoter hopes to land a suitable opponent for Jersey Jim in the fall or early winter, preferably Max Baer.

Elizabeth, N.J., June 24.—Giant Jack Torrance of Louisiana held a one-round knockout victory over Al Pekunis of Elizabethport, today but he had to climb off the floor to go to it in one of New Jersey's strangest boxing bouts.

Officially, Pekunis was stopped in 2:41 in the first round, but during that time the fighters were in the ring nearly twenty minutes. Referee Jim Manley allowed Torrance one five-minute rest period and Pekunis two.

Pekunis floored Torrance a few seconds after the bell. The Baton Rouge fighter arose at four and was sent to the resin again. The Jersey brawler swung again and Referee Manley ruled he had struck.

Can't you just see Max Schmeling strutting around the streets of Berlin?

Torrance while the latter was down. He ordered a five-minute rest.

Torrance came back and quickly dropped Pekunis. This time the latter claimed foul. Manley gave him a five-minute rest. They resumed. Again Torrance floored Pekunis who cried foul once more and a debate took place in the middle of the ring. The referee ended it by calling another five-minute rest period.

When the fight resumed, Torrance knocked out Pekunis.

SPORTS FLASHES

Pittsburgh, June 24.—The baseball addicts still give the Pirates a good chance for the National League bunting even if they aren't clicking like they did earlier in the season.

Jorge Brescia, the Argentine heavyweight who was knocked cold by Joe Louis last winter, says he knows just how Jimmy Braddock must be feeling. It took Brescia a week to get over his collision with Louis' left.

Out in Chicago they don't regard the Giants as formidable as last season, but here in Pittsburgh the man in the street says the Terrymen are the ones the Pirates must beat.

One funny angle about the Chicago fight was that there were more ringside seats sold (at $27.50 per throw) than in the $6 and $3 sections. Mike Jacobs wishes he could figure that one out.

The gent in the heavyweight driver's seat is Michael Strauss Jacobs, with contracts with Schmeling, Braddock and Louis in his pocket, he has 'em all saying uncle.

The boys give old Harry Lenny, manager of Ray Impellitteri, a lot of credit for Joe Louis' victory. They say Harry tipped Joe how to dodge Braddock's right.

Can't you just see Max Schmeling strutting around the streets of Berlin?

THE STORY THUS FAR.

After two years in London, Brook Clayton returns to the Saratoga horse-breeding farm in Saratoga, that has been the home of the Claytons for three generations. With her, is her fiancé, young and wealthy Hartley Madison. On her first day back, her father, Jim Clayton, dies. Carol, who has from first meeting, resented handsome Duke Bradley, a bookmaker, asks him to wait until she is married for the $75,000 her father had owed him. Duke had intended to cancel the debt, but at her arrogant attitude he accuses her of marrying for money. Infuriated, Carol auctions off her colt, Moon Bay. She postpones her marriage so she can win the $75,000 she owes Duke. When he tries to dissuade her, she challenges him to take her bets and he agrees.

CHAPTER VII.

Hartley and his mother took Carol's announcement that she wanted to wait a little longer before she was married with better grace than she had expected. She could not tell them the whole truth and even half-truths she disliked. She simply said that there were a number of things she must attend to, that her father's sudden death had been a strain on her nerves, that before she went to her new home, she wanted to "do something for father." She couldn't explain it now. Perhaps they wouldn't understand her feelings, if she did. Would they please just take her word for it that what she was doing seemed to her the one right thing to do?

"It may seem strange," she concluded, "when I tell you I am going around the world. But I am not going to be gay or have a good time. I dread it—but it is part of what I must do."

They did not understand, of course, but they told her gently, that, of course, she was the one to make the decision. Her grandfather who never admitted that anything or anybody could "stump" him, smiled when she told him she was postponing her marriage and going around to the tracks.

"Wanted to give up this life, eh? Went all the way to Lunnion Town, got yourself a nabob full enough to marry you—don't you're going back to the tracks. Don't I know? All the way you're going to leave when we make our pile! You have your hands on a diamond-studded tray and see what you do! You head for the first race. And you always will."

Jamaica, the Empire City Track, Belmont—all the places she had known all her life. The two years she had been away seemed further in the past than any of the years that had gone before them. She was not now a young society woman who listed racing as one of her social activities. She was "horse folks" again.

She was running in luck. "Beginners' luck, you know," said Duke one day when she went to his wicket and he counted her winnings. She always told herself she would not answer him, when he spoke; she would be polite, of course, but most, oh most dignified. But there was something about his voice or smile which always stung her into speech. "I'll let that pass," she answered. "But would you mind not bringing up the law of supply and demand, pardon me, it is the law of averages, isn't it?"

Tip O'Brien, still Duke's adoring sheet-writer, was worried. "I wish we could lose that dame," he muttered one day. "She must have the evil eye or something—it isn't natural for anyone to rake it in the way she's doing. I don't like her anyway. High-hatting everyone in sight. Glue on her hands she has."

"Tip," said Duke, "I've told you about the law of averages a million times. What's the matter with you, anyway? You've been with me, man and boy, for quite a spell now and

"Beginners' luck, you know," said Duke one day when Carol went to his wicket and he counted her winnings.

you've never missed a meal you needed or a drink you didn't have you?"

"I wish that guy who's fool enough to want to tie up for life with her, would come and drag her by the hair of her head to the nearest altar. That would be the happiest day of my life—so far."

Hartley went to the races a number of times with Carol. But without being at all shrewish, without seeming too insistent, she saw to it that he did not bet. She said she was the expert—didn't her record show it—and she would do all the betting, please. Days when Hartley was at the races, Carol would be almost pleasant to Duke. He knew she was gloating over the fact that Hartley was not placing bets with him, but she never could annoy him into being anything but his laughing, carefree self.

"Why don't you like Duke?" Hartley asked one day. "Seems a nice chap to me. Say, is it true he was high man at some college, headed to be a lawyer, ducked out and was found later following the races? Looks as if it might be true; talks that way, too."

"I don't know a thing about him—never saw him before you did. He's too sure of himself—oh everything I don't care for. I'll bet he starts all those stories himself; thinks it makes him fascinating to be as he says a legend during his own life-time. He's just not my kind. I have him place my bets because father, for some reason, liked him."

Carol was relieved when they boarded the train for Baltimore. Hartley had important business and must stay in New York. She liked having him with her, of course, but she was always afraid that Duke would get him to bet, also she was systematic about her betting and worked hours each day over dope-sheets, turf records and racing forms. There was no other reason, of course, why she felt glad when he said he wouldn't be able to see her for several weeks—of course, there wasn't, she said to herself. But she was vaguely worried.

It was a racing special and crowded, Carol, as soon as Hartley had left the compartment, took out her papers and settled down to pick her horses for the next day, but there was so much noise in the club car she could not concentrate.

"Clear with light winds in the forecast," she muttered, "that means a dry track and at Narragansett, Night Flight ran three furlongs in one, thirteen and three-fifths on a muddy track. That makes him good for —" she stopped abruptly and shouted to Rosetta, "Can't they stop that noise, ever, the hoodlums? How can I dope this out with that infernal noise going on?"

"Bound to be a racket, honey, when that Miss O'Malley and Mr. Duke are together. Minute she lays her eye on him, before he speaks even, she begins laughing and soon as he speaks, she hollers."

"I can't stand it," Carol said.

"Give up your handicapping for a while, honey," said Rosetta. "You look plumb worn out. I'll dream you a horse tonight—I have a hunch I'll dream a hot shot for you."

"Ask Mr. Bradley to come in a minute, please," she said.

Rosetta rose from the corner, laid down her knitting and went to the door. Before she went out she said: "You got a pencil amuse you or chess, honey child."

"What about it? I'm busy."

"Just thought you mightn't want Mr. Duke to see you not looking your prettiest."

"Don't be ridiculous. And do as I told you."

She bent over her papers. Then hurriedly, almost guiltily she rechecked for her vanity case, rubbed the mark off, powdered her nose and painted her hair.

"Mr. Bradley," she said stiffly, when Duke came in. "It is getting late and I have work to do. Would you mind asking your friends to have some consideration for other passengers?"

"They are rather noisy, but it's the first time this season they've all been together and they think I rate a party. Don't you think—"

"I think they are just a bunch of dressed-up rowdies whose ideas of home is a shabby hotel room, whose idea of a place to go is a race track—their futures mapped out for them by bang-tails."

"Carol," said Duke quietly, "you don't like or trust me, but I'm forgetting that now and I'm dropping my kidding. Your nerves can't stand too much and I'm not just talking about that commotion going on out there, either."

"You're prescribing a bromide and a good night's rest, I suppose."

"On the contrary, I was going to suggest that you put away your pencil and your papers and come outside with the gang for a while. You won't. Well, it was a good suggestion, but it would have been only temporary relief anyway. So here's another and a serious one. Wire Hartley to meet us. He'll come if you ask him. That will settle everything for all of us."

"Still scheming to get at the Madison millions are you? Well, I'm telling you again, you're not going to do it."

"Partly that—sure. Why deny it? I'm a bookie and it would be a leg up for me if I place Hartley's bets. What's wrong with that? You bet, don't you? Why be selfish about it and keep Hartley and me apart?"

"How many times do we have to rehearse this same old dish of hash? If you don't know by now that I mean what I say, you're just too dumb to bother with any more. So once again, will you please tell those people out there—especially that Fritz O'Malley of yours—to try to show a little of the good breeding they haven't got and never will have?"

"You're going to crack," he said quickly, "and it won't be long either. I know the signs. You're overdoing this thing, just as you do everything else, I imagine."

"I will not crack and I will not stop until I have paid you the last cent of that seventy-six grand and there's a long way to go yet."

"But my plan is so simple and easy and quick—wire Hartley, let him bet."

"You've taken some trimming for me. How do you know if he bet you wouldn't find yourself cleaned out, looking around for a tin cup to hold out on a street corner? Remember, he wouldn't be using chicken-feed like me."

"I might mention the law of averages, but I believe I've done that before. But by point is—I've offered to cancel your market when he places the first bet. If he finishes me—well, that's my affair. And you—why you could be married right away."

"Thank you so much for your kind interest," she said. "And now, will you please be good enough to call Rosetta. I bid you goodnight."

"But why wear yourself out with this fool handicapping? You're doing it just so you can be married and—"

"Will you be good enough to call Rosetta?" she said.

He gave her a look, pursed his lips, shook his head and went to the door.

Coaticook, Que., June 24.—Sunday morning three branches of the Independent Order of Oddfellows, represented in town by Victoria No. 16, I. O. O. F.; Harmony Rebekah Lodge No. 7 and King Edward Encampment No. 7, met in their lodge rooms on Main street west and proceeded to the United Church, where they were received by officials of the church. Among the high officials of the lodge present were Sister Winifred Reed, president of the Rebekah Assembly; Bro. J. J. Forrest, past chief patriarch of the Grand Encampment of Quebec and past representative William Wallace, Edward A. Akhurst and Bert Stone.

An eloquent sermon was preached by the rector of the church, Rev. Albert Johnson, who also bid the Oddfellows and Rebekahs a hearty welcome. Special music was rendered by the choir.

After the service, the group marched back to the lodge rooms, going from there to Mount Forest Cemetery, where the beautiful and impressive service for the departed members was held and each grave decorated with flags and flowers.

VETERAN STORE EMPLOYEE HONORED

A memorable event in the annals of D. S. Bachand's Department store was recorded last week when two employees marked their quarter of a century of employment on the staff. These were Alfred Daigle, manager of the shoe department and Ernest Archambault, of the Feed, Flour and Grain department.

Both Mr. Daigle and Mr. Archambault, although aware of the fact of their twenty-five years employment with the Bachand firm, were wholly unaware that their employer had arranged a practical demonstration of his gratitude for their faithful services. Thirty-nine employees with their associates to the number of almost eighty-five assembled at the home of Mr. Daigle. Mr. Bachand presented Mr. and Mrs. Daigle with a completely equipped refrigerator, and also a beautiful clock from the D. S. Bachand Store staff.

After most delectable refreshments, also furnished by Mr. Bachand, had been served all repaired

APPROVED PLAN TO REORGANIZE PAPER COMPANY

Drastic Writing Down of Both Preferred and Common Stocks Feature of Plan Approved by Shareholders of International Paper.

Boston, June 24.—By a vote which exceeded two-thirds of the total outstanding shares of each class of stock, shareholders have approved the recapitalization plan of International Paper & Power Co. The vote was announced by Richard J. Cullen, president, last night.

He made his announcement at the conclusion of an all-day annual meeting, and said he believed the new plan would provide the company with a preferred and common stock suitable for future financing should the company need additional capital in connection with business development. He said the company showed a net profit for the first six months of more than $4,750,000, compared with $262,542 for the corresponding period of 1936.

The plan provides for "A"—elimination of present capital deficit of approximately $19,000,000; "B"—reduction of dividend payments during 1937, if the directors so determine; "C"—reduction of annual fixed dividend charges; "D"—simplification of the capital structure by eliminating dividend arrearages on preferred stocks and abolishing the present subdivision of common stock into three classes.

Holders of preferred stock forego accumulated dividends and accept a lower return of new stock to be issued to them. Holders of common stock would give up more than half their equity in the company.

The recapitalization, if carried through, will simplify the capital structure, eliminate a deficit of approximately $19,000,000 and clear the way for a resumption of dividend payments, it was said.

HAD A LUCKY ESCAPE AS BUS OVERTURNED

Vehicle Was Carrying Fifteen Women and Fifteen Children to Ottawa Suburb for Picnic.

Ottawa, June 24.—Thirty persons, all women and children, escaped serious injury yesterday when a bus taking them on a picnic turned over in a ditch on the Osgoode road a few miles from here.

The bus was carrying fifteen women and fifteen children to Westboro, a suburban municipality. With the exception of Mrs. J. Girouard, who suffered a wrenched knee, other occupants escaped with a few bruises and a shaking up.

Orville Ralph, of Westboro, the driver, said he turned out to avoid a puddle of water on the narrow road and the vehicle struck a soft shoulder. Right wheels slowly sank in the muddy ditch and the bus turned over on its side.

Women and children screamed, but all of them managed to get out of the overturned vehicle. They were brought back to Westboro by another bus.
