Witness in Dupuis case said perjurer

ST. JOHNS, Que. (CP) — Roch Deslauriers, St. Johns chiropractor who was chief witness against Yvon Dupuis, ex-minister in the federal cabinet, was charged Wednesday on 11 counts of perjury and was also formally arraigned on a charge of having fabricated a document in February, 1964.

Dupuis, who resigned from the government last January at the request of Prime Minister Pearson, was ordered July 6 to trial at the fall assizes on charges of accepting $10,000 for his influence in an unsuccessful attempt to get a racetrack charter for a group including Deslauriers.

Asselin won't run again

OTTAWA (CP)—Liberal MP Edmund Asselin announced Wednesday night he will not seek re-election so the Liberal party and his family will not suffer from the controversy over his involvement in a school land deal.

Mr. Asselin, 44-year-old member for Montreal Notre Dame de Grace, said in a statement that although the Quebec Superior Court cleared him of any wrongdoing, "certain persons have since gone on condemning me all the same."

Under the circumstances he thought it his duty "not to allow the Liberal party's opponents to take advantage of the situation."

"Nor can I permit my family to suffer any longer the persecution of which it is and has been the innocent victim."

Mr. Asselin issued his statement in Ottawa before going to Montreal to read it to a closed meeting of the riding executive. He was to return to Ottawa today for a press conference.

DECIDED HIMSELF

In an interview, Mr. Asselin said he made his decision on his own and was not asked by Prime Minister Pearson to bow out as an MP.

His statement praised Mr. Pearson and Guy Favreau, Privy Council president and Liberal leader in Quebec, as "indispensable to the future prosperity — indeed survival — of our Confederation."

Mr. Asselin, first elected to Parliament in 1963, said he was announcing his decision at this time to permit the riding association to prepare "for the possibility of an early election."

Called to the Quebec bar last January after starting legal studies in 1960, Mr. Asselin said he plans to open a law office in Montreal.

Mr. Asselin's troubles began when a provincial inquiry said he made an unconscionable profit in a 1961 land sale to the Montreal Protestant school board before he was an MP. At the time he was a Montreal city councillor.

ACTIONS DISMISSED

In an ensuing legal suit, Judge Paul Trepanier of the Quebec Superior Court dismissed the actions with costs against the board. No appeal was entered within the 30-day time limit.

Offshore minerals fly in ointment of federal-provincial agreements

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal and provincial governments put the finishing touches today to a four-day summit conference marked by surprising agreement on several key issues and bitter discord on another.

The agreements or near-agreements covered such items as medical care, area development, a new anti-poverty program and electric power development.

Both the agreed and disagreed points are expected to be covered in a windup communiqué to be issued once Prime Minister Pearson and the 10 provincial premiers end their deliberations sometime during the day. Before breaking off, they are to renew discussion on efforts for a more effective war on organized crime and clean up such relatively secondary matters as a national wildlife program and electric power development.

—All but unanimous agreement on a federal offer to split 50-50 the costs of a $60,000,000 series of provincially-operated medical care plans to be in operation hopefully by July 1, 1967. Further details are to be worked out at a fall conference of health ministers.

—Provincial approval for the criteria on which Ottawa will designate more than 75 chronically-depressed areas across Canada as eligible for direct federal grants for new industry.

—A storm of provincial protest over Ottawa's decision to seek a Supreme Court of Canada ruling on which level of government has control over, and thus claims the royalty benefits from, development of mineral resources under the country's territorial waters.

—Agreement in principle to create a Canada-wide "interpol" communications and records network to aid law enforcement officers in their battle against organized crime.

—The Sherbrooke branch of the Federated Association of Letter Carriers has, as members, all of Sherbrooke's 52 mailmen, officials say.

An association spokesman reports no immediate plan to strike or slow down mail delivery. The group represents mailmen within Sherbrooke only.

Similarly, Postal Employees Association President Herve Thibault reports no present plans to strike or slow down mail service here. This group represents the 39 Sherbrooke mail clerks.

Spokesmen for both groups say no meetings have been called though members are watching developments closely. A Sherbrooke strike would, besides hampering (probably halting) local service, interfere with mail distribution to surrounding Townships centres.

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government plans amendments to the crop insurance act to satisfy provinces like Quebec and Ontario, Agriculture Minister Hays said Wednesday.

The announcement was made in a statement outlining measures to subsidize fodder losses caused by drought in the two provinces.

Main change would be an increase in the present 60-per-cent maximum coverage.

Agriculture Minister Alcide Courcy of Quebec said in the same statement his province intends to introduce legislation for a crop insurance program as soon as a study now under way is completed.

OTTAWA (CP) — A three-man cabinet committee has been set up to recommend action to keep essential mail services operating and to cope with a wildcat strike of postal workers that is spreading across the country.

Prime Minister Pearson said today the committee would "consider immediately action that may be required on the maintenance of postal services, to meet the situation as it may develop out of the strikes that have been declared in a number of centres."

The announcement followed an hour-long cabinet meeting.

City postmen on job

Sherbrooke postal employees have, as yet, made no move to follow their Montreal confreres on strike. Local mail service is running normally, postal officials say.

Mail workers in Sherbrooke say they will likely follow the lead of the national Postal Workers' Brotherhood.

Sherbrooke postmaster Conrad Cayer pledges that the department will give the "best service possible" if any strike develops.

Until now, he says, "everything is regular and all city postmen are at work. In case of strike we will try to continue the service," he adds.

Mr. Cayer quoted a Montreal postal official as saying that service will continue there — even though employees went out on strike early this morning.

City postal workers are represented by two associations, both incorporated in the Postal Workers' Brotherhood.

The Sherbrooke branch of the Federated Association of Letter Carriers has, as members, all of Sherbrooke's 52 mailmen, officials say.

Maine road need survey is planned

AUGUSTA, Me. (AP)—Maine and Canadian highway officials wound up two days of talks Wednesday with tentative plans for traffic surveys to help determine whether a trans-Maine highway is needed.

Representatives of the state highway commission, Quebec and New Brunswick agreed to conduct roadside interviews in the summer of 1966 for information needed on the proposed road linking the two provinces.

Roger L. Mallar, Maine assistant planning engineer, said the three highway departments also agreed to meet again this fall and arrange details on the traffic surveys.

Mallar said the primary purpose of this week's preliminary discussions was to exchange planning and engineering information and decide what further data will be needed before a final determination is made.

Generally, Mallar said, there are five different proposals for a road across Maine. All of the suggested routes would be north of U.S. Route 2.

No authorization for the road exists with the Maine commission, but the three departments decided to discuss the proposals because of interest in the three localities.

Briton pleads guilty to anti-Soviet acts

MOSCOW (Reuters)—A young British Russian language teacher pleaded guilty to a charge of engaging in anti-Soviet activities as his trial opened in a Moscow theatre today.

The trial of Gerald Brooke, 28, appears to be the launching point of a major attack by Soviet authorities on Russian emigre groups.

The indictment read against Brooke also charged that "members of the British diplomatic corps have active connections with people who are working against the Soviet Union."

The prosecution alleged diplomats here were to aid Brooke in sending anti-Soviet material back to London by diplomatic mail if Brooke's mission failed.

After Brooke entered his plea the trial was adjourned to go into closed session later today.

Brooke was accused of acting on the orders of the Popular Labor Alliance (NTS), an emigre organization set up by students in 1930 which now has branches in several Western

The charge said he was caught attempting to circulate leaflets and letters calling for the overthrow of the Soviet government as an emissary of NTS.

The indictment also said he brought with him to Russia printing equipment for publishing propaganda documents and other subversive materials.

The charge said Brooke intended to give the materials to a young Russian doctor, Youri Konstantinov, who was believed arrested the same day as Brooke.

The prosecution said Brooke fully admitted his guilt and said he repented what he had done.

About 600 Russian spectators were in the court—a theatre belonging to the Union of Art Workers.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Raymond Baile of New York was one of the three or four best auction bridge players in the world. All great card players seem to have a sort of sixth sense when it comes to playing the dummy that enables them to locate important cards when ever it becomes necessary.

Raymond likes to bid a lot and also believes in old-fashioned simple bidding. His partner opened the bidding and gave him a spade raise. Raymond investigated a slam and jumped to six spades after his partner showed him the ace of hearts. He won the opening diamond lead and led a trump toward dummy. West played the jack and dummy's king held the trick. Raymond finessed for the queen on the way back. This wasn't sixth sense but rather opens one heart instead of one diamond. What do you do?

Conveners reports: Mrs. Bert and Turner, publicity, read from an English magazine, a tribute to the Womens' Institute of Great Britain, who recently celebrated their 50th anniversary. Also an account of the garden party at Buckingham Palace, which was attended by delegates from over 8000 branches.

Mrs. Johnston Beattie for citizenship read, Dominion Day, more than a celebration, portraying its full significance.

Agriculture convener, Mrs. Roy Sutor, called attention to the school fair and asked that the usual donation be sent to the county convener. Mrs. Sutor or also will look after the purchasing of some flowering crab trees for the W.I. Club House grounds.

Welfare and Health convener, Mr. Fred Green, remembered children of the community, who had been hospitalized.

Mr. Allen Sutor, the branch delegate to the 51st annual convention of the Quebec Women's Institute, held at Macdonald College, gave an interesting report.

Mrs. Sutor was thanked by Mrs. Cairns.

Following the adjournment a very pleasant Cook-Out party was enjoyed. Mrs. Alvin Wark and Neil Broadhurst assisted the hostesses.

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The intrepid Bob Hope is back from entertaining in another trouble spot, the Dominican Republic. The U.S. defence department requested Hope to fly to Santo Domingo and the comedian whipped together a troupe that included Jerry Colonna and Tony Romano, who appeared with him before another generation of soldiers in the Second World War.

For whistle-bait Hope also took along actresses Tuesday Weld and Joey Hetherton and singer Lola Dee.

"We did six scheduled shows and three off the cuff," Hope said.

Hope said he heard no gunfire during his two-day visit to the island, but he added:

"It's pretty exciting to be driving down the street and see a sign, 'Yankee dogs go home!' When I came onstage, I said, 'Hello Yankee dogs,' and the audience broke up."

The visitors could see evidence of the fighting everywhere.

HOLE IN CEILING

Hope told of going to bed in his hotel room and seeing something on the ceiling that looked like a large moth. In the morning he could see that it was a hole.

"Oh, that's where a bullet hit," the hotel manager told him. "You're only on the third floor. You should see the fourth floor, where the rebels were trying to get a newspaper man." Hope found it riddled with bullet holes.

Although he steered clear of gunfire, Hope was felled by a Caribbean bug. On his return to Miami, he succumbed to a virus that put him in bed with a 100-degree temperature for two days.

THE weather? "It was hot," said Hope, "but we had air conditioning — bullet holes in the windows."

DAVID PATRIQUIN

Is awarded fellowship at McGill

David Patriquin, of Lennoxville, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Graham Patriquin, and a 1964 graduate in biology and chemistry from Bishop's University, has been awarded a J. W. McConnell Memorial Fellowship to continue his work in the School of Graduate Studies at McGill University.

Late in June David traveled by Air Canada to Cambridge Bay, N.W.T., to spend his fourth successive summer working with the Fisheries Research Board of Canada on their M. V. Salvinius. The Salvinius will carry three people only — skipper Ingraham Gidney, David Patriquin and Jean Boulay, a second year Science student at the University of Montreal.

David started with the Salvinius in June 1962 at Aklavik, working eastward from the McKenzie delta, exploring coastal waters. In three successive winters the ship was put up at Inuvik, Cape Perry and Cambridge Bay.

This year the young oceanographic biologist will explore the Coronation Gulf region, particularly around the mouth of the Coppermine River. They have a varied program: codfishing, seal-tagging, trawling to determine the life of the shallow sea bottom, sampling of the small organisms (plankton) in the water and the accumulation of physical attributes of the marine environment (e.g. water temperature and salinity) that are important for the life of the sea.

Coaticook native

Bookstore owner: he flipped a coin and lost the toss

By ALICE BUCKLAND
(Record correspondent)

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. — The cranky handscrawl on the door warns with petulance:

No textbooks
No law books
No science
No nothin'
Just literature

The go-getters of the make-money world would probably call it an anti-business.

You walk up five steps and struggle to open the door. The square congestion of a room inside is "enhanced around" with bulging book-cases.

The book shelves, laden and dusty, are in no discernible order. They are full of books on a spit baking over the slow fire of years, pages yellowing.

Two tables clinched together in the center of the room break under the load of modern first editions, some of them tumbling off and onto the floor.

There's no counter, no cash register, no "May I help you, sir", no fluorescent lighting, and there's never been a bargain sale.

The proprietor, Coaticook native, old Gordon Cairnie is, even in his 70s as curious as a squirrel. You find him in an old tweed coat, chatting with friends or reading a catalogue on his long dilapidated leather couch. He has wispy white hair and Scotch Yankee mischief in his smile.

Gordon runs the shop at his own pace. He rarely opens before noon. He never opens when there's snow to be shoveled or a sale he wants to go to downtown.

If he wants a bite, Gordon can lope off, galloping in what's been called a "Groucho Marx half-crouch" — and have the store open behind him. Why worry? His customers will run it.

In the past some of his best customers had keys, to open the shop and run it, leaving a note and any money on the table when finished. Gordon's new landlord frowned down this unheard-of arrangement a couple of years ago.

Gordon wheel-of-fortuned his way into the book business. Born in Coaticook he served the Canadian Army in World War I and then returned to graduate from Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph and become a potato inspector.

On the advice of an old teacher he came to Harvard in 1922 to study landscape architecture. He roomed with men like Gerald Whiting and Douglas Bush, both now famous scholars and professors of English at Harvard.

Gordon liked reading, he hated exams. He took only one exam ever; but he hoarded up so many books he had to rent a room to house them.

He and a friend then set up the Grolier Book Shop. Business

MENTAL HEALTH OFFICERS — The Canadian Mental Health Association, Sherbrooke branch held their annual reunion yesterday afternoon at the New Sherbrooke Hotel when they elected a new executive. Above, from left to right, are: Marcel Savard, second vice-president, Paul Marcel Gelin, general director and lecturer, Sarto Roy, newly elected president, John Dunn, out-going president, and Gerald Winslow, secretary. U of S developments said hope for area psychiatric facilities

Developments at the new medical faculty of the University of Sherbrooke hold out the best hope for proper psychiatric treatment facilities for this area, the Sherbrooke Branch of the Canadian Mental Health Association learned yesterday.

Gathered at the annual meeting of the year-old organization, members discussed the lack of a full-time psychiatrist in the area and of adequate psychiatric clinic facilities.

They learned that the three Sherbrooke hospitals are working with the University of Sherbrooke in the hope that the situation can be remedied as the university's medical faculty is set up.

Sarto Roy was elected president of the branch, replacing John Dunn. Vice-presidents are Eric Webster and Marcel Savard. Secretary is Gerald Winslow; treasurer G. E. Bordua, executive director Henry Crocheteire and executive members Dave Breckenridge and Jacques Lemieux.

A report of the first year's activity showed that 1600 gifts were collected for distribution last Christmas at three Eastern Townships institutions. One hundred of these went to the Dixville School for retarded children.

A guest of the meeting was Paul Marcel Gelin, executive director of the Quebec Division. He urged that the local branch undertake a mental illness survey of Sherbrooke, and that it be used as the basis for a one-day public study session.

Committee members named at the meeting were as follows: Education committee: Hugh Doherty, Yvon Dube, Robert Boulanger, Paul Emile Genest.

Scientific committee: Judge Redmond Hayes, Dr. Paul Chevalier, Dr. Jacques Crepeau, Dr. W. J. Klinck, Msgr. Irene Pinard, Romuald Voyer.

Finance committee: G. E. Bordua, H. A. Plow, Eric Webster, Marcel Savard, John Daly, Douglas Armitage, Jean Sylvestre, Dean Bishop.

Christmas committee: Al Caplan, Sarto Roy, Guy Blanchette, Jacques Lemieux, Bernard Coderre, John Hawkins.

City to sell 7 acres to La Tribune Company

The city of Sherbrooke is planning to sell to the La Tribune company a seven-acre parcel of land near the King Street West Lowney plant for $16,350.

The land is part of a larger parcel expropriated to provide a site for the Lowney development, a city hall spokesman says. Quebec government authorization is necessary before it be sold.

Notice of the purchase is being given in local newspapers, he adds. Anyone objecting to the sale then has two weeks to present his views before the department of municipal affairs.

The land is on the south side of King Street east of the Lowney plant. Being 285,245 feet square in size, its price is slightly under six cents per square foot.

Develop fresh food preserving

OTTAWA (CP) — Preservation of fresh fruit and vegetables has long been a problem for farmers and storage firms, but National Research Council experiments may have part of the problem licked.

The system, already used outside Canada in similar forms, has two sealed rooms, one inside the other, with the refrigeration unit circulating cooled air in the space between the two walls. This assures a constant temperature in the inner storage chamber.

The inner chamber is sealed to prevent any moisture loss, thus keeping it at saturation humidity and reducing drying of the stored food.

"This system is not new," Mr. Lentz said in an interview Wednesday. "It's used in other countries and called the 'envelope of cold wall system.'"

He said there is one drawback to acceptance of the system in Canada — it contradicts most theories that saturation humidity, 98 to 100 per cent, increases decay and mould. But his experiments have proved the opposite, he said.

The first large-scale experiment showed celery — eight tons of it — could be stored for 3½ months compared with 2½ months.

Accidents injure seven

Several people were taken to hospital in Sherbrooke following three minor traffic accidents in various centres yesterday.

Richard Dube, seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Yvon Dube of 1035 Jacques Cartier Boulevard, was taken to Hotel Dieu after he was struck by a car while riding his bicycle shortly before noon on Portland Street.

Driver of the car was Gaetan Dagenais, 19, of 200 Clark Street, Sherbrooke, said investigating municipal police.

The boy was still under observation in hospital this morning, but his condition was good. Members of a Silery family were hospitalized late yesterday afternoon following a head-on collision with another car on the Stoke Road, about seven miles from the city limits.

Mrs. Claude Frenette, 28, was the most seriously injured with cuts suffered when her head went through the windshield, said the Sherbrooke detachment QPP agent who investigated.

Her husband, 29, was also taken to hospital, with light injuries. The QPP said that their two children in the car, four-year-old Michel and two-year-old Jocelyn, escaped injury.

Driver of the other car was Omer Blouin, 61, of Acot Corner. Each automobile incurred about $500 worth of damage in the collision, said agent Gerard Renaud, who conducted the investigation for the provincial police.

Four young people were taken to Hotel Dieu with minor injuries following the overturning of a car in a ditch at Eaton Corner yesterday afternoon.

Bruno Desmarais, ten-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Napoleon Desmarais of St. Isidore d'Audland; Lisette, 17, and Claude, 11, children of Mr. and Mrs. Lionel Desmarais of Ville LeMoine; and Andre Boucher, 20, of St. Lambert, were the injured people.

All left the hospital after receiving first aid, said a Hotel Dieu spokesman.

Store rifled

MAGOG — (Staff) — A store was broken into here some time last night, Magog municipal police said this morning. However, they declined to give further details before press time, pending the completion of a report on their preliminary investigations.

Lived out faith in 3 communions

By MILDRED R. BOOMHOUR
(Special to The Record)

This year, as we celebrate forty years of the existence of the United Church of Canada which brought together into one the Presbyterian, Congregational and Methodist churches in Canada, I am thinking that a hundred years ago, a man, none other than my grandfather, had already lived out his faith in these three same communions.

the Granby Circuit of the Methodist Church and my grandfather was a member there throughout the remainder of his life.

Thus, in the span of forty years, one person was a member of the three denominations of the Christian Church which were to make up, years later the United Church of Canada.

In 1799, John Gillespie and Catherine Hope were married at Wiston, Lanarkshire, Scotland. Wiston Church is and was at that time a Presbyterian church, and it was in the Presbyterian faith that this couple reared their large family of six sons and two daughters.

Some years after his arrival, a small wooden church was built on the mountain side, overlooking his property. While this church was a Congregational church (built by Rev. R. Miles who founded Zion Church Montreal) it became the place of worship for Robert Gillespie and his family and he became both a trustee and elder of the church.

After some years had passed, the services in this Congregational Church lapsed, due to the fact that no pastor was available. Then in 1855, two men (one of whom was Robert Gillespie) on behalf of the congregation, invited the minister of the Methodist Church in Granby to hold services in their church, and he consented to do so. In course of time the Abbotsford Church was added to

The battle against drinking drivers

Justice is always best when it is preventative.

It is for this reason that we think yet another comment is called for on the campaign against drivers who drink and drive currently being waged in Sherbrooke court rooms.

In St. Francis District Court of Sessions, Judge Benoit Turmel has, for the past few weeks, dealt severely with individuals who come before him convicted of impaired driving.

Heavier fines and licence suspensions are being imposed than used to be the case. Two jail sentences have been handed out by Judge Turmel. If the circumstances warrant it, he promises there will be more.

In Sherbrooke municipal court, Judge Pierre Beaudry is following a similar policy. Fines are stiff, and licences suspended. Jail sentences await serious cases.

This, we think, is all to the good. In this province, mixing liquor and gasoline has become almost a local custom. The case load of those who get caught is heavy. Judge Beaudry points out that last year, his court alone handled 125 cases, and this year has been getting three or four a week.

And there are countless culprits who are never detected.

Yet, in most respects, the drinking driver is the most dangerous of all. He causes and gets involved in accidents which invariably involve the maiming and killing of innocent people in other cars.

In other provinces in Canada, a most serious view is taken by authorities of any connection at all between liquor and driving. This has not always been the case in this part of the country.

The kind of battle being waged in Sherbrooke serves a two-fold purpose. For those who are convicted of impaired driving, it acts as a brake upon further tendencies in that direction. And for those who are not caught, or who may be tempted to take one too many for the road, it acts as a warning, not only of possible court consequences, but also of the seriousness of this kind of conduct.

It is to be hoped the kind of policy being followed by Judges Turmel and Beaudry and others here will be emulated throughout the province wherever it is needed.

Labor Department reports that 23 million man-days were lost through strikes last year. Sad part is that such "lost" articles never can be found again.

Electric blue too blue for bridge?

The bright blue paint on Sherbrooke's new St. Francis bridge and on railings and lamp standards along its approaches came in for some discussion at Tuesday night's city council meeting.

Alderman Everett Nicol raised a valid point when he said aldermen should have been referred to in advance of the painting. Is the fact that Mr. Nicol apparently had no part in the decision to paint the very prominent new fixtures an admittedly "startling" color, a warning sign of creeping bureaucracy?

"It's startling, too bright," was how Alderman Nicol described the color when he said a number of people had complained to him about it.

Other people might find the bright electric blue a refreshing change from the normal dull government green or grey that so many of our public installations manage to become painted. The bright color certainly lends an exciting sparkle to the landscape.

Mayor Nadeau said as much when he replied to Alderman Nicol that it "depends on the people you meet." He might have quoted a French maxim that it is foolish to argue with taste.

And, after the hassle over our new flag, we might add it is just as foolish to try and legislate it.

Other papers say:

Mars sees what's up down on earth

What news would Mariner have sent back had it come from Mars to make our earth the object of its cruise of discovery?

"There's life on earth" would be the first news flash. But then the commentators, and still later in more sonorous words the learned journals, would have their go at making head or tail, or their Mariner equivalents, of the sights the ship filmed and the sounds it recorded. (We are assuming a slightly more advanced Mariner.)

The commentators' assignment would be to find what life is as it is lived on earth. If they were lucky they would get a good start by finding, among the tape recordings, an old and long story of an earthling, healthy, wealthy and wise, who dedicated all his energies to a search for the meaning of life. After ruining his health, his fortune and his reputation, after hardships uncounted, he was referred to an ancient lama who lived in a remote Himalayan fastness.

"Life," said the wise old lama when the exhausted questor reached him at last, "life is a waterfall." The pilgrim was disgusted with this answer and said so. The lama was dumbfounded. At last, embarrassed, he asked, "You mean life isn't a waterfall?"

All the galaxy knows that one good anecdote, especially if it be apocryphal, makes an expert and so the Mariner having found it would sit down and write roughly as follows on life on earth.

Life on earth may be divided into two parts: on the one hand living; on the other hand finding the meaning of life. Living itself is more or less simple and straightforward. Men go about it rationally, unless this is interfered with by their search for the meaning of life.

Men who hold like views on the meaning of life unite separately into what are called religions. Each religion, because it embodies that which is most precious to its members, is implacably opposed to other religions. At present the chief religions are called communism and anti-communism — although the latter includes a number of differing sects united only in opposition to communism.

There are also organizations called "churches" which, we may guess, were once religious institutions but are no longer. For they are not in the least implacable in their opposition to one another. Hence we may be certain that their members no longer consider the differences between them worth disputing and thus they do not hold for their members the key to that most sacred thing. There is also an institution called "philosophy." It was, perhaps, once a search for the meaning of life but its leading exponents are now concerned only with the meaning of words or even with the meaning of meaning.

We noted that many earthers have passed up seeking understanding in favor of seeking facts, a fact being only that which can be measured or photographed or felt, or perceived in some concrete manner.

What their artists are seeking we can't make out from the glimpses we caught and the fragments we heard. Their fashionable poets seem fond of making lists of depressing things they have seen and the painters lean to patches of color or optical illusion.

We might guess there are some new thinkers who are against reasoning and think that what is just is, and that there are some still newer thinkers who say that even what is ain't necessarily so. But, fact is, we're not sure what they're up to down on earth and we're not sure that they're sure. For the answers to some of these questions we must await the reports of future earthshots.

DOG SWITCHES SIDES
ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Police here brought out the bloodhounds when two car thieves abandoned their vehicle and fled on foot. The last sight of them was on a road several miles from the scene, leading on a leash one of the bloodhounds supposed to chase them.

The diesel engine was invented by Rudolf Diesel, a German engineer in 1897. The success of this first 25-horsepower four-stroke single cylinder vertical oil engine attracted great attention, but it was not the first — compression-ignition engine ever to be constructed. In 1890 Akroyd Stuart had patented an oil engine which worked at low pressures.

'Don't be afraid to say so'

An angry small town journalist retires, thinning ranks more

By BEN WARD

ALMONTE, Ont. (CP)—For 35 years Stewart Hanna published the weekly Almonte Gazette on the principle that if you don't like something don't be afraid to say so. And don't spare the adjectives.

"Sure, it gets you into hot water," he says. "But heck, it made life a lot more interesting."

The slight, white-haired publisher finally retired this summer at the age of 68, one of a vanishing breed of angry small-town journalists. Life around Almonte, at least for The Gazette's 2,060 subscribers, may not seem quite as interesting any more.

Mr. Hanna's editorial ire, often spiced with rustic humor, belies his quiet voice and gentle manner. It covered a multitude of topics but most often reflected his concern with preserving municipal autonomy and the British heritage.

A few months ago, referring to a proposal for increased provincial control over municipalities, he wrote:

"The people of Ontario have long been sick and tired of the dictation they have to bear from Toronto. Their rights to decide municipal affairs have been filched away from them year by year until the time has come when they must ask some idiot inspector from Toronto if it is all right to put another toilet in the town hall."

FREE OF 'FROGS'
When the flag debate was at its height in Parliament last fall he complained:

"This never would have come about if it had not been for Pearson's desire to appease the French by wiping out every vestige of our British ancestry to comfort a conquered people."

Mr. Hanna came to Almonte after 15 years as a big-city reporter. He started out as an apprentice printer and reporter on the weekly Express in his home town of Perth, south of here, and went on to the since-defunct Peterborough Review.

The Gazette stirred up another hornet's nest last year with a scathing editorial on the separatists' threats against the Queen in Quebec. It wound up by observing with apparent satisfaction that there were no "frogs" in Almonte, a farming and woolen mill centre of 2,450 about 30 miles west of Ottawa.

"Yes, I got a bit of a roasting for that one," Mr. Hanna told an interviewer, flashing a puckish grin. "But honestly, I didn't know French people took that term so seriously. Years ago when people talked of frogs and limeys there was no fuss."

He refused to retract the word but never used it again. Son of a former Conservative MP for Lanark, Mr. Hanna admits "pretty strong Tory leanings" but has whacked away merrily at Conservative governments and the British heritage.

FAVORS DEATH PENALTY
One of his pet peeves is the campaign to abolish capital punishment.

"There is no law or order in this land any more," he wrote recently. "No one is severely punished unless it's some poor chap who takes a drink too many or steals a loaf of bread."

Canada has been reduced to this abject state by meddlers like Diefenbaker and Pearson. "They are the ones who have made life safe for the criminals. If some miscreant took a few potshots at them some dark night who could feel sorry?"

Mr. Hanna came to Almonte after 15 years as a big-city reporter. He started out as an apprentice printer and reporter on the weekly Express in his home town of Perth, south of here, and went on to the since-defunct Peterborough Review.

Windsor Star, parliamentary bureau of The Canadian Press, Montreal Star and Toronto Telegram.

Gazette editorials invariably referred to the Toronto Globe and Mail as "Hogtown's morning bible" but Mr. Hanna read it avidly every day for fresh evidence of what he refers to as provincial plotting against rural towns.

"Those people in Toronto think civilization extends only west as far as Hamilton and east to Oshawa. Everybody living beyond that is a peasant and has to be treated like one."

Some other acid observations of recent months: "Wildcat strikes: 'Strikes are again hamstringing individual concerns against which these lazy, grasping agitators have no real grievance. . . . If there is no respect for contracts, then union labor has degenerated into a mob of cheap crooks.'"

A CPR shipbuilding order for Japan: "Any sentimental regard the people of the Dominion may have had for Sir John A. Macdonald's pioneer railroad has long since evaporated. The CPR had better begin looking to Japan for freight business."

On "rum-running" from Ontario during the Quebec liquor strike: "Who knows but this may create the long-sought bond to unite the French and English citizens of this fair land?"

Such outspoken views have brought floods of critical letters and occasional delegations.

"Most of them were just university students, though," Mr. Hanna said. "Students these days seem to feel they have some special dispensation to go around insulting everybody."

The King David Hotel in Jerusalem, headquarters of British forces in Palestine, was blown up by members of the terrorist Irgun Zvai Leumi 19 years ago today—in 1946. Nearly 100 people were killed and half as many wounded. In April an Anglo-American committee had recommended the partition of Palestine and the immediate admission of 100,000 Jewish refugees, but Britain, holder of the UN mandate, refused to allow this unless the U.S. shouldered part of the cost. Terrorism and reprisals continued until the British withdrawal in 1948.

1620 — The Puritans sailed from Leyden, Holland, for America.

1934 — John Dillinger, U.S. bank robber, was shot.

First World War
Fifty years ago today—in 1915 — the Austro-German advance encircled Ivograd, on the River Vistula; Italian forces probed near Tolmino on the Isonzo front and French forces attacked in the Vosges Mountains.

Second World War
Twenty-five years ago today—in 1940 — in Ottawa, Maj.-Gen. H. D. G. Crerar was appointed chief of the general staff; the loss of HMS Brazen was announced; New Zealand conscripted single men; the governor - general of the Belgian Congo said his colony would stand by Britain.

Gerald Waring REPORTING

OTTAWA — Last Christmas Health Minister Judy LaMarsh was to have visited Australia and New Zealand to study their medicare plans and to question responsible officials on how they handled administrative problems.

She didn't go, because Prime Minister Pearson foresaw that her trip would whet speculation that the government was preparing to bring in a medicare plan, and he didn't want such an impression to get about.

His attitude might be summed up as "one thing at a time, and don't let's bite off more than we can chew". The "one thing" at that time, of course, was the Canada Pension Plan. Although legislated into existence a few weeks ago, the pension scheme will not become effective until next year.

Now, quite suddenly — the way governments do things, six months is sudden — Mr. Pearson is proposing medicare as quickly as it can be brought about, and a national program under joint federal-provincial sponsorship.

Why the hurry?

I believe several considerations influenced Mr. Pearson to move sooner than he had intended.

It has become increasingly evident that it is no longer sufficient to have medicare in the Liberal program for implementation at some future and uncertain date, because:

"The provinces are restive in this field that is wholly theirs under the constitution. Two provinces, Saskatchewan and Alberta, have their own medicare plans; Newfoundland has long had a limited medicare plan in its Cottage Hospital Program; British Columbia is to launch voluntary medicare Sept. 1; Ontario has a limited plan legislated to start next year, and Quebec has a legislative committee studying medicare.

If the provinces provide medicare without Ottawa's participation, standards of service would vary from province to province. The federal government favors, with good reason, establishment of a minimum Canadian standard for medicare right across the country, which federal participation would ensure.

"The New Democrats, who launched the first medicare plan in Saskatchewan when they were in office there, have been increasingly strident in their insistence that Pearson upgrade the priority he had assigned to medicare. Politically the Liberals cannot afford to let the NDP become the pro-medicare party, as could happen if the Liberals promised but failed to perform. This would be an excellent way for the Grits to lose urban ridings to the NDP in the next election.

"With the national economy continuing a very healthy rate of expansion there is no economic reason for fearing the costs of medicare, estimated at $500 millions a year out of federal revenues.

"Finally, federal-provincial friction has heightened the possibility that Mr. Pearson may call an election this fall to seek a Commons majority and strengthen his position in negotiations with Premiers Lesage, Bennett et al.

The PM's decision for medicare now doesn't necessarily mean he's opted for a fall election. Only that if the course of events, such as the events of this week's federal-provincial conference, make it imperative for the government to go to the people before 1966, it won't have to face the electors with a major 1963 pledge still unredempted.

At Cowansville $190,000 pipe system nearing completion

COWANSVILLE — (Staff) A new underground sewer and surface water pipeline system costing an estimated $190,000 is almost finished in the northern end of the town. The new pipeline system was begun about a month ago, town officials said, and should be finished in four weeks. The underground pipe system commences at two places near the fork of the North and Yamaska Rivers and stretches towards the North Boulevard. Presently construction is being done on Albert Street where there is a present water system which will be connected with the new pipeline system. The town of Cowansville is doing the work with its own men, although several Montreal engineers are supervising the construction. Several bulldozers and earth removing machines are being used to open up the ground to reach the present pipeline on Albert Street and to dig a new ditch for the pipeline on some other places on the route. This pipeline is part of a water and sewer system recommended by the Provincial Government's master plan, a town official said. New sewer and water pipes are still to be installed along St. Francois and Cremazie.

Sweetsburg court

17 charged with impaired, dangerous driving

SWEETSBURG WARD —

Over 17 persons appeared at the Sweetsburg Court of Sessions Wednesday on the charge of impaired and dangerous driving.

One of them had his driver's permit revoked for three years and three pleaded not guilty to the charges.

Lawyer Claude Noiseux, acting on behalf of the police department, asked for a maximum fine for a Farnham man who drove while he had his driver's license revoked and while under the influence of alcohol.

Lawrence Crandall pleaded guilty to the two charges which occurred on July 18 in Farnham.

Presiding Judge Maurice Fortin fined Mr. Crandall $100 and costs for driving while his license was revoked and fined him $200 and costs for impaired driving. The judge also revoked Mr. Crandall's driver's permit for three years.

Lawyer Noiseux pointed out to the court that the accused was a danger to the public and someday someone could get killed if he was allowed to drive.

It was also shown to the court that on June 28th Judge Pelouin at the Sweetsburg Court of Sessions had revoked Mr. Crandall's driver's license for eight months on a similar charge.

Three men, Leo Shank, of Eastman, Philip Morin of Granby and Alphonse Lavallée of Magog, each pleaded not guilty to the charge of impaired driving and their cases will be heard next month.

Mr. Shank is accused of impaired driving and driving with an invisible license plate in Eastman; Mr. Morin of impaired driving in Granby last month; and Mr. Lavallée of impaired driving at Austin on June 16th.

A Pont Viau man pleaded guilty before Judge Fortin to three charges and was fined a total of $75.

A British Columbia man was fined $75 and his driver's license was revoked for three months when he pleaded guilty to impaired driving and hit and run charges.

Both violations occurred in Knowlton on July 11th and Judge Fortin fined Anton Rositch $50 and costs plus withdrawing the driver's license for three months for the first charge.

The judge said he was a little more lenient on the second charge as Mr. Rositch explained he wasn't aware he caused $50 in damages to another car. Therefore the judge fined him $25 and costs.

The hit and run charge against Mr. Rositch occurred when he neglected to leave his name after colliding with another car.

For and about Women

Beaulieu-Sarrasin marriage

Pink gladioli formed the background setting in the Lennoxville United Church recently, when Isobel Aveline Sarrasin, daughter of Mr. Philip Sarrasin and the late Mrs. Sarrasin, became the bride of George Leslie Beaulieu, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Beaulieu, all of Lennoxville. Rev. A. B. Lovelace officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Fredrick Fox played the traditional music and accompanied the soloist, Miss Thelma Crawford.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of white French embroidered cord with a bell shaped skirt. The bodice featured a scoop neckline and long lily point sleeves. A full train was draped from the shoulder line. Her bouffant veil was held by a coronet covered in material matching her gown. She carried a cascade of dark red Baccara roses and baby's breath, entwined in ivory. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, a gift of the groom.

The bride was attended by Miss Catherine Maurice of Lachine, as maid of honour, Miss Elizabeth McHarg, cousin of the bride, and Miss Sandra Cleveland of Rosemere, as bridesmaids. All three attendants wore identical street length dresses of romance blue, imported nylon organdy over taffeta, fashioned on the same lines as the bride's gown. They wore matching ring head-dresses and shoes, and carried baskets of white shasta daisies with yellow roses.

Mr. Bruce Fowler, of Lennoxville, acted as best man. The ushers were Mr. Douglas Ford of Port Neuf and Mr. Walter Sarrasin, brother of the bride.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Bellevue Club where streamers, white wedding bells, and summer flowers were used as decoration. The bride's table was centered with a four tier wedding cake, made by Mrs. Fred Green and decorated by Mrs. William Blake. Mr. Walter Sarrasin acted as master of ceremonies, and Miss Hazel McHarg took charge of the guest book.

The guests were received by the bride's aunt, Mrs. Melville McHarg, attired in a two piece costume of silk crepe in tones of blue, with white accessories, and a corsage of yellow roses. Assisting was the groom's mother, who chose a gown of heavenly blue silk shantung with inserts of lace at the neckline.

Matching hat and shoes completed her outfit. She wore a corsage of white gardenias.

For the wedding trip the bride chose a three piece suit of pink linen with toning hat, and accessories of white, with which she wore a white gardenia.

Guests were from Sherbrooke, Waterville, Ayer's Cliff, Montreal, Waterloo, Port Neuf, Toronto, Concession, Ont., and Newcastle, N.B.

The couple will reside at 50 Belvidere Street, Lennoxville.

The not-so-gay bachelor

Married men have always been able to infuriate their wives by making such remarks about a bachelor acquaintance as, "Boy, does he have it good!"

That kind of envy—or pretended envy—is enough to get any wife's dander up. And up until now a wife has found it frustratingly difficult to argue the point.

She 'knows' her Jim-loved, babied, looked after, encouraged—is better off than any one of his unmarried friends. But she has never been able to prove it—not until now, that is.

Now, thanks to a study based on 2,500 interviews with adults all over the country, the American wife has an answer when her husband speaks wistfully of his bachelor days or refers to a bachelor friend as a lucky son-of-a-

According to this study, bachelors aren't as happy as married men. Not only that—bachelors aren't even as happy as spinsters.

So it would seem that men aren't by nature the gay blades, the blithe, independent spirits they like to think they are. Nor do they finally end up married just because they were not wary enough to keep themselves from being caught.

The truth would seem to be that in order to be happy a man needs a wife even more than a woman needs a husband.

This being so, how men have managed through the years to convince themselves that bachelorhood is their natural state and that marriage is a woman's idea is hard to understand.

But we women don't need to let the men get by with that bit of fiction any longer. We have that study as proof that men are happier after being domesticated.

Smith-Webb wedding

THREE VILLAGES —

Nuptials were exchanged by Mary Bonnie Alice, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Webb, of Stanstead, and Mr. Robert Prescott Smith, son of Mrs. Justine Smith, of Sherbrooke, and the late Mr. Fred J. Smith, in a double ring ceremony at Our Lady of Mercy Church on Saturday, July 17, at 11:30 a.m. with father Claude Cinq-Mars, a cousin of the groom officiating.

The wedding music was played by Mrs. J. M. Thomson, who accompanied the soloist, Mr. Jack St. Sauveur, who during the signing of the register, sang Ave Marie. White gladioli and pink carnations adorned the altar with standards of mauve gladioli in the sanctuary.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of white imported Irish lace over peau de soie in A-line styling with an empire waistline and bow at the back. The cathedral length train of lace was edged with peau de soie.

The bodice was finished with a scoop neckline and three quarter length sleeves with which she wore peau de soie gloves. Her cascade veil of silk illusion, hung over the face until after the nuptials were exchanged, was held in place by a crown of stephanotis with pearl centers.

She carried a lace covered missal adorned with a mauve orchid and stephanotis. Her jewelry was a pearl pendant, gift of the groom.

Miss Pamela Chabot, cousin of the bride as maid of honor, Mrs. William Robinson, sister of the groom, and Miss Nora LaPenna, as bride's attendants were gowned alike in regal blue taffeta embroidered in rose pattern. They wore miniature peppermint carnations, and blue baby's breath coronets in their hair and carried semi cascades of peppermint carnations, pink sweetheart roses and marguerites.

Miss Susan Yetter, as flower girl for her cousin, was in a floor length gown of embossed white taffeta. She wore a matching blue ribbon in her hair and carried a white basket of peppermint carnations, pink sweetheart roses and marguerites.

Mr. William Robinson was best man for his brother-in-law and the ushers were Mr. Wendell Webb and Mr. Gary Smith, brothers of the bride and groom. The men in the wedding party wore regal blue jackets and black trousers.

Mrs. Webb, mother of the bride, chose a dress of petal pink having a lace bodice scalloped at the neckline, sleeves and waist and a chiffon over satin skirt. She wore a matching chiffon hat, pink accessories, and a corsage of red sweetheart roses.

Mrs. Smith, the groom's mother, was in a dress of princess blue organza over taffeta in sheath fashion and trimmed with matching blue lace. She wore a navy blue mesh hat trimmed with daisies, navy and white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

The reception was held at Ridgewood Inn, Fitch Bay and attended by 200 guests. The bride's table was centered with the three tiered wedding cake, made by the bride's mother, and decorated in white with roses and a touch of blue forget-me-nots. The top featured a miniature bride and groom within an arch of flowers and two doves holding the wedding rings. Summer flowers completed the decor. Dinner music for dancing was played by McNeil's Stardusters orchestra.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith left on their honeymoon trip in the Maritimes. On their return they will reside on Malouin Street, Sherbrooke. For her trip, Mrs. Smith chose a two piece suit of oyster white linen having embroidery at the neckline and waist, petal pink accessories and an orchid corsage.

Mrs. Donald Demers, a cousin of the groom, was in charge of the guest book with guests attending from Antigonish, N.S., Toronto, Kitchener, Elmhurst, Oshawa, Ont., Montreal, Bennington, Lyndonville, Beebe Plain, Derby Line, Vt., Derry N.H., Sherbrooke, Lennoxville, Baieville, Shawbridge, Three Wives can be quieted by hats

LONDON (AP)—Hat designers appeared Monday to have succeeded where husbands have failed for years—they've created a humane way of stopping a woman from talking.

At a show of autumn and winter headgear, the Incorporated Society of London Fashion Designers produced two dazzling muzzlers for milady.

Intentional or otherwise, these two hats would seem to make conversation extremely difficult, if not impossible, of the wearers. The owners might talk—but it's highly doubtful she could be heard.

Muffler No. 1 was modelled by Barbara Bacher. The top part was of pastel pink and the bottom part—covering the mouth—of thick brown velvet, a western adaptation of the eastern yashmak.

Once she got the hat off Barbara was asked if she felt inhibited conversationwise.

"Definitely," was her reply.

Muzzler No. 2 was called Turkish Delight. Fashioned in thick printed brocade, the top portion resembled a pointed German helmet of the First World War. To this was attached a yashmak that fell to the wearer's shoulders, a real silencer if you ever saw one.

The question remains, of course, will women pay money for a style that will eliminate oral communication? Or, should a husband buy one, will his mate wear it?

Not to be outdone by the pretty muzzlers, designer Si-

Ship burns in harbor at Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Thick smoke from blazing rubber in two holds of a grounded Greek freighter drifted over Toronto harbor early today while firemen fought to contain the flames in the after quarters of the vessel.

Fire broke out in the Orient Trader, owned by Orient Middle East Lines, early Wednesday afternoon. The ship had just finished unloading part of a cargo of raw rubber and general goods and was to have sailed for New York.

When it was realized the fire was out of control, three tugs and a fire boat towed the 7,681-ton Orient Trader half a mile across the harbor and beached her in 31 feet of water off Ward's Island.

Deputy Fire Chief Charles Chambers said it would be days before firemen could leave the ship and probably weeks before the last of the burning rubber is extinguished.

No casualties were reported. Before darkness set in, police along the waterfront controlled thousands of spectators, while others crossed to the Toronto Islands in passenger ferries for a better view.

The Orient Trader is sister ship of the Orient Merchant, which ran aground on rocks at Port Colborne last May. The Orient Merchant has been berthed in Toronto since.

STILL BURNING — The 15,000-ton Orient Trader is silhouetted against searchlights as more than 20 units of Toronto's fire department battle the blaze in an all-night effort to quell flames from burning rubber. Fire aboard the Greek freighter is believed to have started from raw rubber stacked 15 feet high in the hold. About $20,000 worth of electronic equipment destined for Montreal was reported missing when the 435-foot vessel docked in Toronto Harbor Wednesday.

Chevrier welcomes products

Britons study breaking into Canada market

PETERBOROUGH, England (CP)—Britain's drive for increased exports to bolster her faltering economy was focused on the Midlands today where a one-day seminar is being held to tell businessmen how to break into the Canadian market.

More than 250 delegates representing industry throughout the eastern Midlands and the area known as East Anglia covered on this industrial city 75 miles north of London for what the sponsoring British National Export Council called a "one-day incentive get-together" designed to boost exports to Canada.

Canadian High Commissioner Lionel Chevrier set the tone for the discussions in an opening address, when he said the Canadian government wants British exporters to accept Canada's "clear signal of welcome to British goods."

Finance Minister Gordon's announcement last April of changes in customs laws to meet British complaints about valuation and anti-dumping procedures had cleared the way, Chevrier said.

NO BAR REMAINS
"It must surely be the case that no impediment, real or imaginary, now remains on the Canadian side to frustrate a maximum British export effort."

Though there is tough competition from the United States manufacturers, Chevrier said, British exporters have tariff advantages and a traditional fund of goodwill in Canada.

"But success will only be assured if these natural advantages are strongly supplemented by an imaginative and forceful British export drive."

The high commissioner listed figures showing Canadian exports in 1963 totalled $6,000,000 in United States funds. This was more than one-third of the total of all imports into the U.S. which has a population 10 times greater than Canada's.

Last year the Canadian import market increased to $7,500,000,000 and is expected to reach $10,000,000,000 by 1970.

But Britain ranked far behind the U.S. in sales to Canada last year — slightly less than $600,000,000 compared with the U.S.'s more than $5,000,000,000.

To help the British close the gap, the export council has lined up a series of speeches by export specialists and a question-and-answer session with export Canadian Trade.

The meeting itself was organized by Mandy Pritchard, managing director of the Perkins Group of Peterborough, who has world's largest diesel engine manufacturers.

The conference came only a week after the board of trade, the government trade department, published June import-export figures showing that while Britain's foreign trade gap was being narrowed, exports had actually fallen off slightly—excluding those to Canada.

News flashes from around the world

LONDON (CP)—Lord Thomson said today he is deeply disturbed and depressed by the lack of response in the House of Lords to his appeal for drastic measures to increase Britain's efficiency through a ban on unofficial strikes and other unauthorized labor strategy that cripple production.

"It appears that in parliamentary circles at least there is no proper appreciation of the difficulties facing this country," the Canadian-born publisher said in an interview.

He launched his appeal in a House of Lords debate Wednesday, urging that laws be established to penalize union members who ignore their leaders by staging unauthorized strikes and through deliberate slowdown in factory and transport operations.

TORONTO (CP)—The CBC and veteran announcer Earl Cameron are discussing his future on the corporation's top-rated 11 p.m. (EDT) (midnight) national news telecast because some viewers feel his color is "deleterious" to the image of the CBC news.

Mr. Cameron, who inherited the job from Larry Henderson five years ago, has become one of the best-known news announcers in Canada.

In a state in Wednesday, the CBC said Mr. Cameron had been granted permission by the corporation to make money by doing commercials.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Fifteen beauty queens, most of whom rely more on cosmetics, as and hairdresses than old-fashioned good-luck charms, are semi-finalists for the crown of Miss Universe.

The 15, chosen Wednesday night for the liveliest representatives of 56 countries, include Miss Dominion of Canada, Miss U.S.A. and Miss Greece, whose predecessor now holds the title.

Among them are eight blondes and a freckled redhead, Miss Israel.

Miss Canada — Carol Ann Eidey, 18, of Hamilton — has black hair and a five-foot-nine, 117-pound, 11-37 figure.

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP)—The owner of several houses on Montreal Street here charges his tenants $5 an hour with a $20 minimum to hear their complaints, The Canadian Register says.

In an article by James Doyle, the national Roman Catholic newspaper quotes landlord John G. Hewett as saying: "I figured the time is worth $5 an hour."

The tenants confronted the landlord with a list of 10 complaints drawn up and signed by six persons.

WASHINGTON (AP)—A system to alert drivers of highway dangers or changing road conditions ahead, by equipping their auto radios to speak pre-recorded words of caution, was demonstrated Wednesday.

The Ford Motor Co. showed transmitters set up to trigger warnings of such hazards as bridge washouts, roadblocks, traffic pileups, icy roads, changes in speed limits and other traffic situations.

The warning messages are stored in saturation humidity at temperatures barely above freezing not only could be stored for longer periods, but retained better eating quality and did not lose weight through loss of water. This is especially important in foods that are sold on a weight basis.

The Picton group built two large storage rooms, with capacities of 12,000 to 15,000 bushels each, to NRC specifications, and later added three more, all larger than the first models.

"But in spite of their good results the idea has not caught on," Mr. Lentz said.

The difference in cost is not great, he added, being up to 15 per cent in capital expenditure at the most and operating costs are lower.

Orioles trounce White Sox 16-2 while errors cost Twins 11-4 loss, two games slated for this evening

A tight race is developing in the Sher-Lenn Little League and five teams are fighting for four playoff spots.

Orioles and Senators posted wins at the Parade Grounds last night, as the hapless White Sox dropped 16-2 to the Orioles and Twins accepted their 11-4 loss on their own errors, four in all, in the last inning.

Orioles now are in third place, beating out the Indians by two points. However, the Red Sox and Indians clash at the Parade Grounds tonight, while the Yankees host the Tigers in the Lennoxville Community Park.

In the Orioles-White Sox tilt, starter Louis Juras held the Sox to one hit in five innings, this coming from Jim Coley in the first. Juras fanned six men, while walking five. Signs of weakness appeared in the fifth, and he was relieved by Claude Laforce.

Although the Orioles had the decision by a long shot by the fifth inning, they nevertheless enjoyed showing their keen abilities, battering Alain Lacasse for 11 hits and ten runs. Nothing could have stopped them time on time again.

Tops for the high flying birds were Andre Patry, with two singles and a two-bagger, driving in five runs, while Bernard Dubreuil hit a double and three singles. G. Bergeron helped the cause with a homer and double.

As for the White Sox, the only two hits came from Jim Coley and Mike Dalton. Lacasse remained on the mound for the entire game, but offered no spectacular showing, striking out seven and walking six.

TWINS LOSE ON ERRORS
A 5-4 ball game had developed up to the sixth inning in the other game played last night, but a series of errors, all at shortstop, gave the game to the Senators.

Five errors were committed in the entire game. Ken Baker, while starting at first base, came in relief for Dale Ross, in the third inning. Baker allowed four hits, whiffed two and walked two.

The errors, committed by Andre Roy, gave the Senators six runs. One highlight of the game was the performance of Scott Planché, in attempts to put his team ahead in the fourth and fifth innings. Two stolen bases, to home plate, resulted in runs thanks to his slides, evading a putout.

It's not the TV that's not working but rather the television network

OTTAWA (CP)—The possibility of a seven-station independent network to carry Eastern Football Conference games on television this year apparently has been ruled out, for the first half of the season anyway.

Dr. Andrew Stewart, chairman of the Board of Broadcast Governors said Wednesday he had discussed this possibility with a representative of Bouletier, Champagne and Pelletier, the Montreal advertising agency which owns TV rights for Canadian Football League games.

"Mr. Champagne and I had a general discussion on the football situation Tuesday," Dr. Stewart said.

The conversation had included the possibility of an independent network and "I pointed out to him that under our regulations this would have to come before public hearing."

"Our next public hearing is not scheduled until Sept. 1."

The football season opens early in August, a BCP spokesman, said in Toronto earlier in the day that all attempts to reach an agreement on football television have broken down because the conditions involved must be acceptable to both CTV and the CBC.

But the agency planned to approach the BBG for permission to allow seven independent stations to form a per-occasion network, like that used on Wednesday night hockey, to carry the games.

Mr. Wood said the agency had letters from CFTO in Toronto and two Montreal stations offering to carry the games independently, and there were discussions continuing with TV stations in Ottawa, Kitchener and elsewhere.

Dr. Stewart said the BBG had not yet received any application to establish the new network, and no action could be taken until then. The submission, he added, would have to be accompanied by signed agreements with the stations involved.

Bert Wilson, information director for the CBC, said any decision on the seven-station network proposal was up to the BBG.

"But I think it certainly would not be in the best interests of the full Canadian public-viewing public."

Philip Carey cops Softball championship

Philip Carey walked off with the 1965 Lennoxville Softball League title last night, on the basis of their 23-5 victory over the Record squad, who wind up in the cellar.

Playoffs start next week. In last night's game, nine big runs, coupled with nine previous points, was the downfall of the Pressmen, as Carey sewed the game away in the fifth inning.

K. Kerr and A. Hunting were tops for the league winners with the former getting a double and two singles, while Hunting connected on two doubles and a single.

The Pressmen had McCurdy and Nicholl shining with a two-bagger and single apiece.

Mrs. Clay is awarded $350 in circuit court

MIAMI (AP)—Mrs. Cassius Clay blamed "the leader of the Moslem nation" Wednesday for the breakup of her 11-month-old marriage to the heavy-weight boxing champion.

In a circuit court counter-action, Sonji Clay, 25, asked that Clay's suit for annulment or divorce be dismissed, and that she be granted a legal separation and "permanent alimony."

Clay, she said, had shown no cause for action against her. He told her, she added, that he simply had decided to leave her on the advice of "the leader."

Clay had complained in his suit that his wife reneged on a promise to convert to the faith, and did not follow its dictates banning the use of whisky, tobacco and facial makeup and requiring the wearing of plain, floor-length dresses.

After a hearing June 30, Judge Harold Spaet awarded $350 a week temporary alimony. She had asked "$1,000 or more" weekly.

Her counter-suit said Clay has "a great capacity and ability for earnings, with an opportunity and probability of amassing a large fortune."

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A boxing exhibition set for next Wednesday and featuring heavy-weight champion Cassius Clay was cancelled Wednesday.

Tom McHugh, a sponsor, announced the cancellation less than 24 hours after the Missouri Athletic Commission had approved the show.

McHugh said he didn't have sufficient time to round out the program.

Killebrew belts Red Sox, Orioles, Yanks win

Harmon Killebrew, in a class first time since 1960 when the club was based in Washington. Horton, meanwhile, broke a tie for the home run leader with Cleveland's Rocky Colavito as the Tigers downed the Indians 10-5 and 2-1, sweeping a double-header for the first time in 11 tries this season.

Elsewhere, Baltimore Orioles took over second place by sweeping Kansas City Athletics 1-0 and 2-0, New York Yankees edged Chicago White Sox 7-6 in 10 innings and Los Angeles Angels nipped Washington Senators 2-0, in 10 innings.

COLLECTS FIVE HITS

Killebrew, who drove in five runs while scoring six in the twinning, and Earl Battey each drove in two runs for the Twins in the opener while Tony Oliva collected five straight hits. Jim Kaat got the victory for a 9-8 record.

Horton and Al Kaline each hit three-run homers for the Tigers in the opener while Ray Oyler and Norm Cash chipped in with solo shots in support of Mickey Lolich, now 10-5. Sam McDowell, 9-7, started for Cleveland but left after bruising his arm in the first inning.

Denny McLain's three-hit, 12-strike out pitching and Don De-meter's two-run seventh inning homer off Sonny Siebert got the job done for the Tigers in the nightcap.

The Orioles won the opener when Curt Blefary and Sam Bowens got consecutive doubles in the fifth inning, producing the game's only run with the first hits off Kansas City starter John O'Donoghue, 4-13. Milt Pappas, 10-3, won it with two innings of relief help from Dick Hall.

The Orioles scored seven unearned runs in the fourth inning of the nightcap with the aid of three Kansas City errors, a wild pitch, a passed ball and two stolen bases. John Miller took it from there with a five-hitter.

Tom Tresh dove into the stands to rob Ken Berry of a homer in the top half of the 10th inning, then homered off White Sox reliever Eddie Fisher in the bottom half of the inning for the Yankees' victory.

The Angels won it in the 10th when Paul Schaal lashed a two-run single with the bases loaded and two out. That brought the victory to George Brunet, who allowed only four hits in bringing his record to 6-6. Buster Narum, touched for only six hits, took the loss.
