They Tell You a Good Thing—When You Want to Know It. They Sell You a Good Thing—When You Want to Buy It.

A MODERN DISCOVERY OF THE GREATEST IMPORTANCE.

The Star Heater

HAS BROUGHT HOT WATER HEATING TO PERFECTION.

PERFECT CIRCULATION is the principal object sought in hot water heating. This is accomplished by the new Siphon Injector, by which the circulation in the lower coils is increased by the speed of the upper coils.

THE FIRE POT is a water chamber, surrounding the fire without the intervention of non-conducting substances. Thus it receives heat direct from the fuel. Saves coal.

THE GRATE is so constructed as to allow for liberal air spaces, thus assuring complete combustion of fuel. Saves coal.

PATENT ASH SIFTER—The same handle shaking the grate and sifting the ashes at the same time.

HEATS ON ITS OWN LEVEL.—The only heater on the market that, by a special double attachment at the back can heat both the upper stories and the basement.

HONEST TALK ABOUT HONEST SHIRTS!

Our actions in the Main Building at the Exhibition speak louder than words. We make Shirts where you can watch us to prove that we make HONEST SHIRTS: The bosoms are smooth; don't wrinkle, because they are made right. That's what makes the necks comfortable, too. The neck-bands and the cuffs stay with the rest of the shirt, don't break away. The button-holes hold the buttons. You can see the cloth, the finest linen, put in front and back, and that proves THEY WEAR.

KING ARTHUR.

THE FIRST PRODUCTION OF THE DRAMA IN AMERICA.

Magnificent Scenery Accompanies a Powerful Play—Sir Henry Irving Makes a Speech.

For the first time, as Sir Henry Irving remarked in responding to demands for a speech at the Academy last night, "King Arthur" was played outside of the Lyceum Theatre, London. His appearance before the curtain was a measure of the favor—that again was Sir Henry's word—with which the production was received. It seems likely that the success which "King Arthur" achieved in London since the first performance in January last, will be repeated in America. Arthurian legends have been rendered comparatively familiar to the English public through Tennyson's Idylls of the King, and they might be expected to appreciate an Arthurian play, even if it was inferior from a dramatic standpoint. Here the romances of the Round Table have not been so widely read. The enthusiasm at the Academy last night was a tribute to the intrinsic merits of the play. Any who had feared a gorgeous panorama overshadowing a weak libretto were agreeably surprised.

The author, Mr. J. Comyns Carr, has written many beautiful lines, the action is stirring, except in the second act, and the dramatic interest is sustained to the finish. He knew much better than Tennyson how to make a play. "King Arthur" will not meet the fate of "The Firebrand."

Excalbur and the Mystic Mere proclaim at once the supernatural, while Arthur's dream gives a clue to the whole plot. Like that other dreamer of fair women he found "Beauty and anguish walking hand in hand. The downward slope to death."

The argument may be summarized as follows: At the dawn of a day when Arthur was led by Merlin to the Magic Mere he saw a great sword rising out of the water, and while he looked upon it there came voices from the Mere saying unto him that the name of that sword was Excalbur, which had been forged beneath the waters of the sea, and that it should be given to the son of Uther Pendragon, who in after time should rule over a kingdom that should rule the sea. And while Arthur wondered, Merlin declared the truth unto him that he was Pendragon's son albeit he knew it not; and Merlin bade Arthur take the sword, telling him also that although the blade was of such temper that no man could withstand its stroke, yet was the scabbard worthier than the sword. And at the same time there appeared a vision of Guinevere, and seeing her Arthur desired her for his Queen. But while he gazed upon her there came other voices which declared unto him that, by reason of her beauty, great evil should fall upon his kingdom; yet Arthur heeded them not and resolved to make her his Queen. And in after time when they were wed Arthur bestowed him of the sword of Merlin, that the scabbard was worthier than the sword; for with the coming of Guinevere's peace fell upon the land after a long season of havoc and war, and therefore Arthur likened his Queen unto the scabbard of Excalbur. But there dwelt at the Court one Morgan Le Fay, who loved not Arthur, for she desired the kingdom for her son, whose name was Mordred. And this same Mordred had learned from Merlin that he alone might slay Pendragon's son, who was born with the May. And this thing she kept in her heart, for Mordred had been born to her on May Day. Now at this time a strange thing happened at the court, for the cup of the Holy Grail, which in long time past had been brought to this Isle, and had since been snatched away no man knew whither, appeared again to Arthur's knights in the great hall at Camelot; yet was the cup so veiled that no man might see it with his eyes. Then a great company of Arthur's knights took upon themselves a vow to seek this Holy Grail through all the world till they might openly behold the cup itself. And Sir Lancelot, who was the bravest knight of all the court, would have joined himself to this holy quest; and Queen Guinevere was willing he should go, for she knew of his great love for her, and would not that they should bring shame upon the King. But Arthur withstood them both, for he loved Lancelot better than any other knight, and so it chanced that Lancelot stayed. Whereat Morgan Le Fay was well content, for knowing of the loves of Lancelot and Guinevere, she hoped thereby to bring ruin upon the King. And yet mindful always of Merlin's words that the scabbard of Excalbur was mightier than the sword, she bethought her of how the king had likened the scabbard unto his queen; and so one night while Arthur slept she stole away the scabbard of Excalbur and left him only his naked sword. Whereafter followed great evil to the kingdom, for at this hour Camelot was besieged and Arthur, who had learned that his Queen was false to him, cared no more for his scabbard that was gone, but with his naked sword went forth to make war upon his enemies. And when the King had departed, Mordred gave out that he had been slain by Lancelot, and would have made Guinevere his wife; and when she spurned him, he cast her into prison and condemned her to be burnt; and although Arthur came to fight in her cause, he could not save her, for Excalbur had availed not against the blade of him who had been born on May-day. Yet Guinevere died not then, for Lancelot saved her from the fire and slew Mordred, who had slain the King. And after he was dead Arthur was borne by the three Queens of Night to that sweet Isle of sleep, which is called Avalon; yet, ere he went, he commanded Believers to take Excalbur and cast it into the water, so that when his day was ended England should find her sword again in the sea.

Sir Henry Irving has had parts which suit him better than "King Arthur." His mannerisms of speech and gait are not heroic. But every detail of the character was worked out with the care which has made him famous. Miss Terry was a charming Queen Guinevere. Her natural grace rarely showed to greater advantage. To many in the audience, however, the greatest interest attached to the first appearance of Miss Julia Arthur as Elaine, the Lily Maid of Astolat. It is safe to say their expectations were realized. She has a sweet voice, a sympathetic face, a fine figure and has evidently made good use of her opportunities with two such artists as Irving and Terry. The passages in which she urges the Queen to keep Lancelot from the quest of the Holy Grail were admirably done.

Mr. Ben Webster made an ideal Sir Lancelot—equally strong in love and angry scenes. Mr. Frank Cooper also calls for special mention as the audacious traitor, Sir Mordred. It is on these that the whole work rests.

Sir Henry Irving must be congratulated upon the superb stage setting of "King Arthur." Anything more lovely, for example, than the vision of Guinevere in the prologue it would be difficult to imagine. The whole of the second act was work of idyllic beauty. The passing of Arthur in a barge, with the Queens of Avalon kneeling over him was a fitting climax to the series of magnificent views. The scenery and costumes were specially designed by Sir Edward Burne-Jones. The choral and incidental music was especially composed by Sir Arthur Sullivan. The play was well received throughout. Several times the curtain had to be rung up again. Three additional glimpses of the passing of Arthur at the close of the performance did not satisfy the audience, and Sir Henry had to make a speech. He thanked the house for the favor with which the play had been received. It was the first time it had been produced outside the Lyceum Theatre, and he would sit once cable to his friend, the author, Mr. J. Comyns Carr, the flattering reception the play had received in Montreal.

SOLDIERS OF FRANCE.

THE REVIEW BY RUSSIAN AND FRENCH GENERALS.

An Evidence of the Franco-Russian Alliance—Opinion of the London Times.

Mirecourt, Sept. 19.—Enormous crowds witnessed the great review to-day of the French army which has been manoeuvring during the week in the Department of the Vosges. The Russian General Dragomiroff has been with the troops throughout the manoeuvres. To-day Prince Lobanoff, the Russian Minister of Foreign Affairs, joined General Dragomiroff. The presence of these two representatives of Russia with the French army is regarded as having exceptional significance, and is taken as evidence of the Czar's desire to emphasize the existence of an alliance between Russia and France on military grounds. Prince Lobanoff is the closest confidant of Czar Nicholas. At a banquet which was given Wednesday night General Dragomiroff gave the following toast: "To fraternity on the field of battle, to union in combat, and to the little French troops who sometimes move me to tears."

London, Sept. 19.—The Times' correspondent at Mirecourt, in a long despatch to-day, points out the significance of the presence of Prince Lobanoff, the Russian Minister of Foreign Affairs, and General Dragomiroff at the French army manoeuvres. The correspondent says that without exaggeration Czar Nicholas commands the armies of both France and Russia. The despatch continues: "At 8 o'clock to-day the troops were in position. The foreign officers arrived on horseback, when the spectators broke out into enthusiastic shouts of 'Vive Russie!' Soon afterwards M. Hanotaux, the French Minister of Foreign Affairs, and Prince Lobanoff arrived in a landau, followed by General Dragomiroff, with General Dabesset on horseback. Their appearance was the signal for renewed shouts of 'Vive Russie!' President Faure, accompanied by M. Ribot, Min-

THE DURANT TRIAL.

Evidence of the Organist Who saw the Prisoner in the Church that Day.

San Francisco, Sept. 19.—The prosecution in the Durant case will complete its direct case early next week. The opening statement of the defence is waited with much interest. It will be the first intimation of what the defence expects to prove. It has been said "Lobanoff is the closest confidant of Czar Nicholas. At a banquet which was given Wednesday night General Dragomiroff gave the following toast: 'To fraternity on the field of battle, to union in combat, and to the little French troops who sometimes move me to tears.'" Miss Emma L. Turner testified that on April 3 she was not with defendant in Emanuel Church. Mrs. Leake yesterday testified that the girl she saw walking into Emanuel Church with Durant was either Blanche Lamont or Miss Turner.

Organist George King was then put upon the stand to prove that he saw the prisoner in the church at 5 p.m. on April 3, almost an hour after Durant was said by Mrs. Leake to have entered the church. King proved an unwilling witness, apparently shielding Durant whenever possible. He admitted that the defendant and his attorneys advised him to give his testimony as given at the preliminary examination. This created a tremendous uproar, but on cross-examination he said that he had not been asked to change his evidence. He told how he had come into Emanuel Church to play a new piece on the organ, and when he had been play-

SOME AUTHORITIES AND THE LIBERAL LEADER.

Mr. Laurier's attitude on the Manitoba schools question has just been discussed from two points of elevated view.

Perhaps some excuse may be accepted for non-political confusion of thought upon political affairs.

Having located with sufficient clearness the elevation from which something old has been said, attention may now be directed to that other elevation, the source of something new.

The majority of these schools are in the old French parishes along the Red, Assiniboine, Seine and St. Eustache, and an examination into the conditions of these and the schools which have come in would be more to the point than means of argument or lawyers' pleading on either side.

Mr. Laurier has always said that the school question was one mainly of fact. He has said that if the fact were found to be that the schools were Protestant then it followed that there was a grievance, and the statement of a grievance was a pledge to remedy it.

duty it is to have a policy and to declare it. Or how would it be were others, who are circumbulating about the great fountain of patronage, to be specific? Take our neighbor, the Star, for example. It would be refreshing to the readers of that great organ of parance if not of public opinion, to find it for once itself free from the embrace of the "demons of indifference."

THE ECONOMIES OF MR. TAILLON. Last winter the Herald obtained copy of an official report made by Mr. E. J. Barbeau, of this city, to the Provincial Government in October, 1892, on the many reforms and economies which it was possible to operate in the Provincial Administration.

Speaking of the Revenue Office in Montreal, Mr. Barbeau said: "Under the present system, the cash and bank account balance only approximately. No account could be declared to me. The receiver deposits the collections in the bank in his name, and can draw them out on his own signature."

For years it has been stated that these collectors in Montreal have an income which exceeds that of the ablest judges and most responsible men in the public service.

In the same report Mr. Barbeau recommended that the Crown Land office in Montreal should be abolished, as the work could be done in Quebec.

MR. McDONNELL'S CANDIDATURE. The people of Montreal Centre cannot forget that the last act of their late representative in the Legislature, whom they all esteemed for his sterling personal qualities, was a condemnation of the Tailleur Administration on its most important financial transaction.

But of all the humiliations to which the present Ministers have submitted to retain office, there has not yet been one such as this. In every country district where people were not supposed to be very familiar with the technicalities of finance and where the burden of taxation was not felt, the Tailleur Ministers proudly boasted that the French loan was a good transaction.

And now, only a few months later, when it must face a metropolitan constituency, this same bragging, boorish, backbiting Government becomes as mild as the lamb, and tries to make peace with the so much abused voters by accepting a candidate, who declares in his first public appearance, that he would have voted against Mr. Laurier's pet loan.

But the electors of Montreal Centre will not be caught that way. They know that the only practical way of showing their disapproval of the Government's policy is to vote against the Government's candidate.

dependence. The hide bound Conservative would not vote for an independent candidate, as Mr. McDonnell discovered when he was kowling his requisition papers. And the independent voters in St. Ann's are not likely to go to Mr. Tailleur's candidate this time.

"The pleas offered were the necessity for the extension of certain public works, the creation of particular industries which would yield untold blessings on future generations, but these are merely paltry excuses which will not bear the scrutiny of an enquiring electorate and which cannot be regarded in any other light by every man who possesses a spark of public sentiment but as being the very worst kind of patriotism."

A COWARDLY SLANDER. Military circles all over the Dominion have been discussing with much interest an item which appeared recently in the military column of the Toronto Evening Telegram. It ran thus: "Many rumors are current, other than those already given in these columns, as to the cause of the sudden return of one of the Canadian permanent officers, who was detailed to the 1st Battalion of the Federal Government to Manitoba on the school question. Before the Citizen printed the extract from it which appeared in these columns the precaution was taken to ascertain from authoritative sources whether or not it could be relied on as the genuine article."

THAT BACK-DOWN.

THE SECOND ORDER ON MANITOBA IS CONFIRMED. SIR MACKENZIE BOWELL RETURNS TO THE CAPITAL. Angry With Angers for Giving the Order to the Public Press.

(Special to the Herald.) Ottawa, Sept. 19.—Sir Mackenzie Bowell, who returned to the city last night, has lost no time in making it perfectly plain that the order of council on Manitoba of July 27 last, which conditionally revokes the remedial order and throws the Dominion Ministers at the feet of Mr. Greenway, is precisely as was published in L'Electeur some time ago.

The Citizen, the Government organ here, makes the following official announcement to-day: "It has been attempted to throw doubt upon the authenticity of the document which was recently printed in La Verite, purporting to be the re-order of the Federal Government to Manitoba on the school question. Before the Citizen printed the extract from it which appeared in these columns the precaution was taken to ascertain from authoritative sources whether or not it could be relied on as the genuine article."

Questioned yesterday about the Montreal interview in which he was credited with having said the document printed in La Verite was spurious Sir A. P. Caron replied: "I certainly never said anything of the kind. The article in question refused to state whether it was a correct copy or not."

LORD DUFFERIN REPLIES.

He Will Send His Picture to the Canadian National Gallery. The national gallery and museum for Montreal seems now to be an established fact.

Some time ago Mr. de Lery Macdonald wrote to the Governor-General and his predecessors, asking them to present the gallery with portraits of themselves. Lord Aberdeen has already replied in the affirmative, and this morning Mr. Macdonald received the following letter from England:

My dear Mr. de Lery Macdonald, I have the pleasure of sending you the likeness which you have done me the honor of wishing to possess, and at the same time I cannot help expressing my warm sympathy with you and your colleagues in the efforts you are making to establish a national gallery and museum in the Chateau de Ramezay and to restore so interesting a building to its pristine condition.
