First Art Exhibition Proves To Be Splendid Success

Held in Newly Renovated Old Church Building On F. G. Braithwaite Property

At the first exhibition of the Chateauguay Valley Artists' Association on Friday, May 8th, in Grove Hall, Huntingdon, a large audience participated with great approval in a rare demonstration of individual artistic accomplishment and widespread community endeavor.

Mrs. F. G. Braithwaite, Alberta and Douglas Stephen, who worked so hard to restore and decorate the interior of the old stone church, long used as a storage space, must have been inspired by the ghosts of the Old Pioneers who built the First Presbyterian Church. Let them now rest in peace!

The chairman, Alec Fawcett, gave eloquent testimony to the spiritual effect of his own artistic awakening as a member of the art class that originated in the Ormstown Study Group under the direction of Mrs. F. G. McCrimmon of Huntingdon, last October. He spoke for the subsequently formed groups in Huntingdon and Hemmingford as a witness to the personal satisfaction and gratitude for the inspiration and devotion of the instructors. Mr. Fawcett regretted that he had not an opportunity earlier in life to experience the pleasures of painting.

In his remarks, Mr. H. A. D. Somerville, M.L.A., said that Mr. Carlyle Dickson, chairman of the Ormstown Exhibition, had expressed the hope that the Amateur Artists would exhibit their paintings at the Exhibition and compete for the prizes being offered. The prize list is tempting and much larger this year as a result of the greater interest locally in art. Mrs. W. K. Philps expressed her willingness to supply information regarding the prize list at Ormstown Exhibition.

"It is a remarkable thing to me," said Dr. M. R. Stalker, "to realize that in such a short time you have accomplished such amazing results and I believe that Mrs. McCrimmon deserves high praise."

"The Hemmingford artists in the group and the full class in Huntingdon, were instructed by Miss E. Campbell of Macdonald College and the exhibits displayed promising talent. 'Aquarium', a nude child on a chair fascinated by the fish, and 'Source', a girl drawing water from a spring, by Mrs. W. Beaudin, were interesting as interior and exterior action, with a purpose.

Mr. Gilbert Macmillan, chairman of the Board, Huntingdon County Hospital, said that he was highly pleased with the large turnout. Our hospitals would not be possible without the spirit of unity expressed in a gathering of this character. He noted that there were two surprises; the appearance of "Grove Hall" and the extent of the Art Exhibition, demonstrating the discovery of so much talent in the community.

International Handicrafts

The Trout River Home Bureau, representing a membership of fifty from both sides of the Border under direction of Miss Odessa Dow, had an outstanding display of fine work on tables around the hall, a variety of colored pedestal table lamps, handmade gloves and purses. The fitted sewing screens and hassocks were handsome utility articles bringing exclamations of approval and considerable envy from those lacking instruction and possibly the necessary talent and energy required in production.

The Huntingdon Citizens' Band, from the old choir loft, gave musical selections during the early evening.

The Mayor of Huntingdon, Leo Cappiello, in a capable manner, announced the official opening of the First Exhibition of the Chateauguay Artists' Association. The printed programmes distributed will be cherished as a historical record of the highly dramatic development in the Chateauguay Valley from the arduous pioneer era to a recognized medium for expression of the fine arts. Among the forty-nine artists listed are at least fifteen busy farm women and the great majority, men and women, have their roots firmly planted in the soil.

Mr. D. E. Black, M.P., was detained in Ottawa and sent a message of regret. Beautiful corsages of baby orchids, the gift of Dr. Donald McCrimmon and wife Eva, of Montreal, were presented by Mr. W. U. Hughes to the guest musical artists, Mrs. Helen Joyce Mackay, Mrs. Ruth Fraser of Montreal and Miss Elizabeth Jacques, Art Instructor, School for Teachers, Macdonald College.

A splendid concert pianist, Mrs. Mackay delighted the audience with classical selections. As an encore, on her own initiative, she played two compositions by Mrs. F. G. McCrimmon that she had included in a recent recital in Toronto, "Song of the Sea" and "Flirtation Tango". This surprising demonstration of the possible unity in the Fine Arts brought forth great applause. Mrs. Fraser, accompanied by Joyce, sang delightfully a Negro spiritual, "Goin' Home", "Silently into the Night", "Lilac Tree" and "Come to the Fair".

A notable link with the equally brilliant past was the playing, with verve and style, of "O Canada", as the opening, by Mrs. Norman McCrimmon, then young Lucy McGregor, she was the organist when the old First Presbyterian Church was vacated nearly fifty years ago. Mrs. McCrimmon was present and played several Scotch numbers at the closing of the successful tea given at the Art Exhibition by the Huntingdon Home and School Association, under the direction of Mrs. W. E. Bernhardt, who is also President of the Chateauguay-Huntingdon County Women's Institute.

Miss Jacques gave high praise for the quality and variety of art on display and pointed out some details in the work and development of subject matter. She offered suggestion for further development of talent, larger canvasses made from wallboard for economy, with free use of paints, larger brushes and imaginative treatment from free drawings and practice in use of black and white. Colour is thrilling but you may sometimes feel that your pictures are not good. What is wrong is possibly the drawing, which is part of the necessary skill you need to develop. Go back and work with pencil, pen and ink or draw with a brush. A picture can be made not by what you put in but by what you leave out. As models, she recommended the study of older people, as showing character in more expressive featuers. It is well to go and see other exhibitions. Your Association may borrow exhibits from private or public galleries and there is a splendid film by Tom Thompson, one of the famous Group of Seven that will greatly inspire all artists, said Miss Jacques.

Eric J. Purdie, of Ormstown, who is an enthusiast, thanked the guest artist and speakers, with humor and originality.

The use of the beautiful Willis Grand Piano was made possible through the generous donation of Mrs. D. M. Rowat of Westmount who has always had a great interest in the Hospitals of our District.

The Provincial Government, through Mr. Georges Leveille, Secretary to the Premier, and Mr. H. A. D. Somerville, M.L.A., gave its support to the Art Exhibit with a grant which covered the Advertising expenses. Needless to say, this was a marvelous help.

Other donations were received from Mrs. Ida Ross, Powerscourt, who gave the proceeds of the sale of a painting, $25.; Mrs. F. G. McCrimmon, donation from the sale of a painting, $25.; Mrs. Thos. A. Dillon, Toronto, $10.; Mrs. R. G. Burrows, Toronto, $10.; Dr. M. R. Stalker, Ormstown, $10.; Dr. F. G. McCrimmon, $10.; Mr. H. A. D. Somerville, M.L.A., $5. and Mrs. Acton Braithwaite, Trout River, $1.

The proceeds, after allowing for expenses, amounted to $302. and this amount will be equally divided between The Barrie Memorial Hospital and The Huntingdon County Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. David Booth decorated the Hall with flowers for the occasion.

The members of The Chateauguay Valley Artists' Association and The Home Bureau wish to thank all those who so generously supported their first Art Exhibit. The Huntingdon Home and School Association also expresses thanks to all who supported the tea sponsored by this organization in aid of the Huntingdon High School Library. The gross proceeds for the tea amounted to between $65 and $75.

Canada Dollar Value in U.S. Still Declines

While the value of the Canadian dollar dropped on Friday to its lowest exchange rate in 13 months, only one Malone bank was discounting the Dominion currency, a survey conducted shortly before noon revealed.

One bank reported it was discounting Canadian money at the rate of one per cent for currency and two per cent for silver. The other two banks were accepting it at par and collecting one cent on the dollar when they sold it.

Heavy demand for U.S. dollars was given as the reason for the drop in Canadian money which was quoted at below par with the U.S. dollar in two foreign exchange trading centers.

The dominion dollar was quoted in New York Thursday at 11-32 of a cent above bar, the lowest premium since March 24, 1952.

At the peak in New York last August, it commanded a premium of 4 4/16 cents.

At Watertown, the Canadian dollar fell to 99 cents. It last had been discounted there March 7, 1952.

Massena banks reported a two-cent discount, with the Dominion dollar going at 98 cents. The dollars were par in Buffalo.

Foreign exchange officials in Montreal said Canada's adverse trade balance was partly responsible for narrowing the gap between the two dollars.

However, they said speculators in currency were largely responsible for the added strength of the U.S. dollar in the last few days.

Banking circles in New York pointed out that American investors were switching from Canadian to American securities and exchanging the Canadian money they receive from the sale of stocks and bonds for U.S. currency.

Declaration Re Flash Fire at Howick

The following declaration sent the Gleaner at the request of the Mayor of Howick Village, is published as being the opinions of others who are not in agreement with a report published in a March issue concerning a fire in that village. The Gleaner is always willing to publish contrary views to those reported, but by so doing it is not to be construed that it has changed its own opinion of the report published. In this case the views expressed here are those of the people whose names are attached. Editor's Note.

THE FOLLOWING IS A FACSIMILE OF THE DECLARATION

In view of the Report, published in the Huntingdon Gleaner under date of 11th March /53 regarding the Howick Fire Brigade and its equipment at the Briere fire, we, the undersigned, neighbours who were present at that fire do, before the undermentioned Notary, depose and declare as follows.

THAT the Building which burnt was a wooden one and in a very dry condition and, having been, and at the time of the fire was being used, as a storage of automotive material, some of which was of a very inflamable character.

THAT the fire had made considerable headway before it was noticed.

THAT the Fire-engine was in place and playing water on the fire twelve minutes after the alarm had first been given.

THAT there was no possibility, after the fire was first discovered, of saving the building.

THAT adjacent buildings, situated within 15 and 35 feet respectivly of the fire, were kept from damage by the fire.

THAT considering the fact that the fire-fighters are volunteers, each following his own avocation at the time of the fire,

WE WISH TO GO ON RECORD that it is our opinion that the service rendered by the Howick Fire Brigade was quite adequate to the requirements and quite satisfactory, in fact praiseworthy.

AND WE MAKE THIS DECLARATION knowing the adverse claims made in the Report published in the " Gleaner " and time to correct any erroneous impressions the said report may have occasioned.

Signed. [signatures]

We also declare that Mr. Brault is the one who knows exactly about the twelve minutes referred in the fourth paragraph.

Sworn to before me at Howick, this 30th day of March 1953

Baseball in the Offing -- New Home Diamond For Local Club

by Don Hutton

Huntingdon is going to be back on the baseball map again after several years' absence from organized ball.

A local squad has entered the 16-team St. Lawrence Valley League which assures ball fans of the opportunity to see a real good brand of the summer pastime.

The league is divided into two sections, East and West, with Huntingdon being in the Eastern group which includes Burke, North Burke, Chateauguay, St. Regis Falls, Fort Covington, Hogansburg and North Lawrence, while the Western division will be composed of Massena, Norfolk, Norwood, Potsdam, Raymondville, Russell, Winthrop-Brasher and Cornwall.

Play-offs will be staged between the winners of their respective divisions.

The Huntingdon aggregation is coached by that cagey veteran of many a baseball campaign, Spencer Gavin, who is confident that he will field a team all will be proud of.

Work is progressing rapidly on the new diamond lay-out on John Cluff's property on Fairview Road and the first local appearance of the Huntingdon nine will be there on Sunday afternoon, May 24th. Plenty of parking space is available for cars. Next Sunday, May 17th, the team travels to Burke for their initial contest of the season.

The team is embarking in a well-organized league and it is hoped it receives the support it deserves as it is no small undertaking to enter a club in a league such as this.

Team officials are — president, Myles Tillotson; sec'y.-treas., Gordon Lanktree; directors: George Renaud, J. Proudfoot, Roland Emond and Merrill Smith. Coach, Spencer Gavin.

High School Principals Hold Spring Conference at Gault

Valleyfield Headquarters During Two-day Meeting Last Week-end

The Spring Conference of the High School Principals Association was held at the Gault Institute, Valleyfield, Friday and Saturday, May 8th and 9th.

At 10.30 a.m. Friday this group paid a visit to McGill University. They were welcomed by Dr. Cyril James and were then taken on a tour of inspection, buildings, laboratories, gymnasium, etc. They had lunch at the Faculty Club, afterwards meeting Mr. Mathews, the Registrar and Heads of Depts. to discuss entrance requirements and other items of mutual interest. After this discussion they left for Valleyfield and Registration was the first item on the programme there, followed by an informal dinner at the Chateau Salaberry.

The first speaker at the evening Session was Prof. C. Wayne Hall of Macdonald College School for Teachers, his subject: "What the Community expects of its School." He mentioned that the first yard stick by which a community measures the School is "What the children learn," and the second was "How the children behave."

He concluded with a challenge that now that the units of administration had become larger, buildings more modern and up to date, teachers' salaries greatly increased, the community would expect more from these schools than from the crowded and outmoded schools of the past.

Prof. Hall is an excellent speaker and this topic was most interesting.

After this there was a combined Session of High School Principals and Provincial Association of Protestant School Boards for discussion of mutual problems and was under the joint chairmanship of Mr. E. A. King and Mr. H. E. French.

Mr. French welcomed the Ladies and Gentlemen and explained that Mr. Flood, Pres. and Mr. L. Bradley, V.P. were absent and in England. He then asked for a moment of silence in memory of Mr. Crutchfield and Mr. Whitehead. Following the moment of silence the speaker, Mr. Rinfret of Southern Canada Power Co. was introduced. Mr. French gave a few points of interest concerning Mr. Rinfret re his birth in St. Zotique and that his wife was from Valleyfield. He also mentioned the various organization Mr. Rinfret was a member of, one of which is Society of Professional Engineers. Mr. Rinfret is now Commercial Manager for Southern Canada Power Co.

Mr. Rinfret thanked Mr. French for his opening remarks, and stated he was very glad to have occasion to come to Valleyfield. The subject of Mr. Rinfret's talk was "Electricity and the School"—The cost of electricity in school to provide proper lighting and the value of proper lighting in saving eyesight.

Mr. Rinfret went on to explain the whys of a demand meter rate for schools. The question is: "Why do we use a demand meter rate in schools?" First, how much electricity was required for half hour period? How many K.W. hrs. were used. Answer, The electricity is available when needed instead of after an order has been made out, etc. The power company supply the power whether needed all in 1 hr. or 24 hrs. The rates in Quebec are approved by Provincial Electricity Board, also the expenses of the Company.

Mr. Almond thanked the speaker.

After the Panel discussion a meeting of the School Board Association organized by the P.A.P.-S.B. took place.

Mr. Giles substituted for Dr. Percival and this discussion was on Teachers shortage.

Prof. Munro of Macdonald College, head of school for teachers; Dr. Paton, executive Secretary of P.A.P.T.; Mr. Hobart Greene, Supervisor of Schools for Chambly County; Mr. W. W. Heath, Principal of North Hatley High School. The chairman was Mr. H. E. French. Dr. Jefferis was unable to be present and Mr. Heath substituted for him.

Mr. Lang was requested to forward material for displays, magazines, etc., for Home & School and Teachers Association. Secretary asked for topics to be discussed but as most things seemed to have been covered the meeting adjourned.

At the close of this evening Session refreshments were served in the Gymnasium by the Gault Staff.

Saturday morning: P.A.P.S.B.
Attendance 47

Mr. French opened the meeting and asked Mr. Lang to present his report.

Mr. Lang mentioned that copies of 25th Anniversary magazine and Principals' magazine were available. Congratulated principals on the magazine. Paid tribute to Mr. Flood.

Mr. French mentioned that a cable had been received conveying best wishes from Pres. Mr. Flood and V.P. Mr. Bradley, now in England.

Meeting opened for discussion of topics on agenda.

Report heard from Mr. Redpath, Dr. Turnbull.

Resolve that P.A.P.S.B. shall be shortened and that this Assoc. shall now be known as Quebec Association of School Boards. Accepted at executive meeting of previous day.

Report on membership.

Report on Hockey—Mr. Baglow. Finals of intermediate games.

Richmond vs. Val D'Ore—Richmond won. Huntingdon vs. Shawinigan—Huntingdon won.

The H.S.P.A. held a business meeting at the same time as the above, Mr. E. A. King, the President, in the chair and Mr. John Ferris, Sec.-Treas., read the minutes and financial statement.

A look at our High School Curriculum, was the subject of a panel of discussion by members of the H.S.P.A.

Dr. L. P. Patterson, chairman, spoke about it being the 25th Anniversary of H.S.P.A. and that they had published a booklet on this, giving a brief history of the Association, Feature articles, athletics, etc., and this is a most interesting review.

The panel of discussion then took place with the following taking part and there was a question period afterwards.

1. Mr. Ed. Perry—Complexity of social life with children Children stay in school longer. Possible change of the adolescent due to war. School must and is assuming responsibility formerly done at home. Although college preparation is important we must help the others 90-95%.

2. Mr. W. W. Roberts—Present system useful once but now outmoded. We are now using subject promotion. Advantages—(1) Flexibility; (2) Save pupils' time; (3) Motivation increased; (4) Correlation with capacity.

3. Mr. Ken Willis—Brought up idea of a nine-year general course three-year specializer. Allow for broadening and flexibility in our courses of study. Critical thinking and intelligent social action should have a place in school time. Local community needs should be assured and have their place in the curriculum.

4. W. Dickson—

1. High percentage of school population not cared for.

2. Thinking re problem quite divergent.

3. We should determine that we need a change and whether a change is worth the trouble, convince others.

4. We have sold the idea of Home & School to the public but we do not have a proper curriculum for most of our pupils.

5. A new program must work certain frame work of time.

6. We need language, mathematics, body moral spiritual skills. Then we must decide how much of each.

7. Our curriculum is changing but many changes are narrow in vision and have not been integrated with other subjects and needs of the child.

Miss Ruth Low—

1. Would present work be extended to more years?

Mr. Dickson—No dilution more general value.

2. Are there any areas where local needs have been provided for?

Mr. Willis—Not known if so.

3. What effect will have on staff boards and training?

Mr. Roberts — Depends upon changes but we still need chemistry.

4.—Will grades 1-9 be the same and changes in 10-12?

Mr. Roberts—Yes.

Keith Oxley—

1. Suggestions are long range and Quebec being conservative, needs a long indoctrination period.

2. Possibilities—

A minimum course of more time on fewer subjects.

KIDNEY ACIDS Rob your Rest..

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They turn and toss—blame it on 'nerves'—when it may be their kidneys. Healthy kidneys filter poisons and excess acids from the blood. If they fail and impurities stay in the system—disturbed rest often follows. If you don't rest well get and use Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's help the kidneys so that you can rest better—and feel better. 136

Editorial Notes...

Opinions May Differ

IT will be noticed in this issue that a declaration appears regarding a difference of opinion of a report published in this newspaper about a fire which occurred in Howick, Que. In the newspaper business it quite often happens that persons do not entirely agree with reports published, they perhaps see them at a different angle. Thus it is that the "Letters to the Editor" column often contain letters from readers who do not agree with a report and say so. Newspapers generally have nothing against this, or they probably would not publish the letters. Under our democratic system and with the freedoms that go with it, we can voice our opinions in this way.

But because a newspaper prints these opinions for or against, it does not mean that the newspaper by so doing accepts these opinions as being the right ones. Such are only giving another person or persons an opportunity to pass along their views and that they may not be deprived of making a statement. There is a saying that everyone is entitled to their own opinion, but that does not mean that everyone is going to agree that any one opinion is right.

Newspaper reporters are trained to know what is right to report upon, to observe what is going on and to make sure of what they see and hear. Thus it is not very often that grave mistakes are made when reporting the news. But several reporters may write upon an identical happening and it is not likely the reports will be identical in every detail. One reporter will see one thing, another will hear something different, but as to what the news is about there will be very little difference. The reason for this is that each reporter develops his or her own style of reporting — the individual is asserting itself. This is the same in opinions, each individual forms a different opinion. The reporter however, is trained to get the facts and the facts are what he reports upon, not anything else. He reports upon what he sees and the information given. He strives at all times to give a true report and very seldom is it otherwise, that is why today, we come to rely upon newspapers for reliable reports of all happenings. That is why newspapers are bought by the public and read throughout, if it were not so a newspaper would not long stay in business.

The declaration referred to makes reference to "adverse claims made in the report in the "Gleaner" and thus to correct any erroneous impressions the said report may have occasioned." This is entirely the version of the persons who have signed the declaration and by publishing same, does not mean that the Gleaner accepts or agrees with such.

Art Evidently Appeals

THE Art Exhibition held in Grove Hall, Huntingdon, evidently brought out a number of interested persons to view the exhibits. Still more important, the exhibition brought out a number of paintings which revealed the extent to which people of the Chateauguay Valley have taken up this hobby and in such a short time. The paintings on exhibition were all very well done and showed a talent that perhaps would have lain dormant if the idea of painting for pleasure had not been suggested. Only a very few of the pictures were for sale and from remarks, it would seem that the individuals are loth to sell their works.

While at the moment most of the paintings are from copies of other pictures, it may not take long before the imaginative will be coming out in the paint on the canvas. Art creates pictures in the mind, which the artist can convey to a canvas in the most realistic and weird forms — as some of the modern versions of art. Painting from actual models, persons, scenery, etc., may soon be a part of what these budding artists will undertake. So if we see a canvas set up upon an easel and a painter busily sketching a scene, we will know that painting for pleasure has gone yet another step forward.

There is something to having work publicly exhibited, criticism can be hard, constructive and destructive, but it all helps to correct faults. Upon the whole the work exhibited at Grove Hall the past week, was a very fine example of what can be accomplished if one only wishes to try hard enough. Painting for pleasure is a good name, for we feel that all who have taken part have obtained a great deal of pleasure and will continue to do so.

Those Russians Again

ONCE again the officials of the Western Allies are confused by the tactics of the Russians. In spite of the apparent change in the Russian attitude and their insistence that they only want peace, war goes on and the territory which it covers increases. More acts of aggression are taking place in Asia and more territory there is being swallowed up by the Reds. The Prisoner of War — POW — situation is not what was expected, there have been many hitches and the matter is still not settled. Those of the allied prisoners who have been released have brought back stories of illtreatment and atrocities. The armistice in Korea looks to be just as far off as ever, with continual stalling on many issues. Recent talks among defence officials bring out the fact that there should be no relaxation of defence plans and all arms should be kept well up to date.

If one will take a look at a map of Asia and trace the path of the new outbreaks of aggression by the Reds, an idea of what may be in their minds can be gained. The path they are taking leads them to India, Pakistan, Afghanistan, Persia, etc. The attacks at present at Viet Nam and Burma, with probably Siam which is pincered between the latter two. After Persia, the sweep could go on to Iraq, Syria, Turkey and swing off into Africa. If the attack went on at the same pace as it has been going, it would not be long before the whole of this part of the world would be under Red Rule. What a solid and formidable mass of conquered territory this would present to the Allies. It would be in addition to China, Russia and the other Balkan countries that are presently in the Red fold, thus forming a solid block to the east and practically cutting the world in two. So far as it goes, not a Russian in sight — all, shall we say Chinese coolies — or slave labour, or soldiers. Russia has an immense population of her own — is this being kept in reserve for greater fighter power when the time comes to strike at more formidable foes.

All the time the so called armistice and peace talks have been going on, the Reds have been strengthening their forces and consolidating their supplies. Even now, with peace held out the Reds have taken the opportunity of preoccupation to get their armies into other countries as acts of aggression. No wonder then our military leaders tell us not to let up in defence preparations. Can we afford to ignore what is going on, in Asia? Should we install a steel curtain to stop the iron curtain from expanding with no actual cost to the Russians. They are employing slave soldiers to do their fighting and suffer their losses while new territory is added under their banner. In the path that is now being taken are some rich prizes for which there is practically no defence. Does all of this make it seem that Russia wants peace? Let us not dally over armistice terms, time is a precious commodity and the more we waste, the worse our position is going to be.

Encounter With A Road Block

ONCE or twice The Journal has ventured to warn its readers — such of them as may be interested in that sort of thing — about the menace of that "impaired" clause in the law.

The warning is given fresh point by that week-end news from the Aylmer road, where the police set up a road block between 11 p.m. and 5 a.m., stopped cars carrying people home to Hull and Ottawa from the clubs and pubs. The person who indulges in that other little drink, or concludes that a second cocktail won't do any harm, and then undertakes to drive, runs the risk now of confronting a large and determined constable to explain that he really is not impaired but just excited and nervous. Runs the risk too of seeing his party turned out on the road, perhaps miles from a telephone, while his impounded car is driven away into custody by the police.

Things are getting tough for the man — or woman — who doesn't heed that well-known admonition about not mixing drinking and driving. Reputable citizens every day are making little contributions to the public revenues — fifty here, a hundred there, perhaps $200 if the Magistrate thinks there are too many such cases — not because they are criminals caught in their evil deeds, or because they were driving while drunk, but because they were stopped by a constable (perhaps with the assistance of a road block), had to admit a drink or two, and had to accept the assumption by the court that their normal driving skill had deteriorated under the subtle influence of that last unfortunate libation.

Well, that is the situation. "Driving while impaired" is an elastic sort of charge, hard to disprove with the flavor of Scotch on one's breath. — Ottawa Farm Journal.

November 9

The moving picture show has closed this week to make repairs and to install a gas system of furnishing the light needed for the machine. This company is furnishing a cheap amusement and is making it easier to pass the dull autumn evenings.

Ormstown—The village of Ormstown is highly favoured with a body of progressive councillors. They have built a macadamized road from Mr. Baird's Corner to the Ormstown depot, which can compare with any macadamized road in the Dominion. Our streets would require a top dressing of the same material and, no doubt, they will attend to this next summer, but we must give them time. They have been spending $100 per day lately on public works.

More sales of farms have taken place. Alex. Legault has bought the farm of Robert E. Furey, New Erin for $4,150, (having sold his own to R. Dumouchel of St. Timothy for $4,500). Adelard Carriere of Port Lewis has sold a lot to his son, Ernest, for $2,000. Mrs. Wm. Johnston, has sold her place of 50 acres near Herdman to Wilfred Daoust for $2,000.

November 16

Auctioneer Philps reports that, despite the number of sales, prices keep up, with a keen demand, especially for milch cows. Hay goes at $10.50 to $11.00 for loose and $13.00 for pressed. On Saturday oats fetched 65c for 40 lb. and at another sale 85c was bid for buckwheat.

The canning factory has closed for the season. Considering it was its first year and the partial loss of tomatoes by frost, it has made a good start, having shipped 3 carloads. Had the supply of vegetables been equal to its capacity, it could have shipped 15 carloads. The prospect for next year is, larger deliveries from the farmers. The quality of goods placed on the market has given satisfaction.

November 23

There has been an active enquiry in view of the U.S. Thanksgiving Day for turkeys and 15c per pound live weight has been paid. They are worth 20c across the lines.

November 30

The curling rink is being finished off, and is a credit to Mr. Farquhar. The curlers are having loads of cinders and ashes drawn for a foundation. Mr. Rennie has made the club the present of 10 wagon-loads of cinders.

The work on the new bridge is getting on well. The false work was completed Tuesday, and the iron beams and stringers of the floor are now laid from bank to bank. With anything like favourable weather, the gang, which includes 11 active fellows, hope to complete their task by Christmas.

December 7

Howick — At the International Stock Show held in Chicago, prizes were offered for judging by teams of five students from agricultural schools all over the continent. Macdonald College sent a team which included 3 from here, R. Ness, W. Gibson and A. A. Cameron. Two other Canadian Colleges had teams and there were 7 American. Macdonald College team came first; Manitoba College second, Missouri College third and Guelph's fourth. The Armour Institute offered scholarships to the value of $5000, and the International Trophy becomes the property of Macdonald College for a year, but the Armour Scholarships are paid in cash and no conditions attached as to the college at which the winners must study.

December 14

Wednesday morning, the temporary foot-bridge at the upper end of the village broke, and was carried away by the high water. The posts on which the new bridge stood stopped it, and nearly all the timbers and planks recovered. Passage for those on foot was immediately made on the steel bridge which is nearing completion.

Weekly Review

British-American Commonwealth

By LEWIS MILLIGAN

The young Queen Elizabeth must have had quite a time persuading Mr. Winston Churchill to accept a knighthood and exchange the common title of Mister for the distinguished and semi-lordly Sir. He could no doubt have chosen the loftiest title in the House of Lords if he had desired to step up to that chamber. But to Mr. Churchill, with his marvellous vitality in old age, and his love for the fighting arena in the House of Commons, his transfer to the Upper Chamber would have been a step down. As a scion of the nobility, no one has a greater respect than he for the House of Lords. But Mr. Churchill believed, and we all believe, that he can serve his country and the world best as a commoner in winning world peace as he did in the winning of the last war.

It has been said that Mr. Churchill was essentially a wartime leader, and that peacetime calls for a man of less fighting spirit and more given to persuasion and compromise. Well, Britain had such a man as Prime Minister in Mr. Clement Attlee who, in international politics, at least, went to great lengths to compromise and even placate Soviet leaders, whom he regarded as brother Socialists — until they double-crossed him and treated him as a weakling.

If compromise and pacifism could prevent war, the last World War would never have happened, for there never were greater compromisers than Ramsay Macdonald, Stanley Baldwin and Neville Chamberlain, and the British people were never before such meek pacifists as they were under the leaderships of those Prime Ministers. During those years Mr. Churchill was a voice in the wilderness warning his country to prepare to defend itself in the face of the open threats of a rearmed Germany. Hitler dreaded the rise of Churchill to power and always referred to him as a "warmonger". The fact was that Churchill was the true peacemonger, and if his warnings had been heeded the war might have been averted.

We have an example of the power and safety of preparedness in the North Atlantic Treaty which has undoubtedly restrained the ambition of the Russian Communists for world domination, for the time being at least. There will be no Third World War while the Western Nations are united in strength to resist Communist aggression. A bully will never threaten, much less attack, any one whom he knows to be strong and ready to fight back.

In regard to Mr. Churchill's decision to remain in the House of Commons, it is interesting to note that all the really great British statesmen have been commoners. Although most of them were finally elevated to the House of Lords, they all won their laurels on the hustings and in the House of Commons. William Pitt the Elder was a dying man when he became Earl of Chatham; as a statesman he had earned the popular title of the "Great Commoner" with his powers of oratory and his work as an empire builder. Lloyd George had been long in retirement when he accepted a peerage, and was worn-out with his strenuous life as leader in the First World War. William Ewart Gladstone was, I think, the only great statesman and orator who died a commoner. He refused an earldom at the downfall of his ministry in 1885, and afterwards was twice Prime Minister, latterly when he was past the age of eighty. Sir Winston Churchill, K.G., is now within two years of that age, but with Tennyson's Ulysses he can say:

"Old age hath yet his honor and his toil;
Death closes all; but something ere the end,
Some work of noble note, may yet be done,
Not unbecoming men that strove with gods - - -
To strive, to seek, to find, and not to yield."

Howick

HOWICK—The Graduating Exercises of the Catherine Booth Hospital were held Friday evening, May 8th, in the Wesley United Church, when Miss Audrey Mair received her diploma and pin, also received the Proficiency Prize, a nurse's wrist watch.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren L. Henderson of St. Jerome were week-end guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Henderson.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Smeale, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Smeale, Jr., and Elizabeth and Judy Bell, of Montreal, visited on Saturday at the home of Miss Lillie Muir.

Miss Helen Kerr and Miss Jean McKay attended and were guests at the Graduating Exercises of the Catherine Booth Hospital, on Friday evening.

Howick W.I.

The Howick Women's Institute held their monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Arthur Kerr. Twenty-four members answered the Roll Call with the line they like most in the Creed. Two guests were also present. The minutes of the last meeting were read, followed by the Treasurer's report. A sum of $10.00 was voted to be sent to the Canadian Cancer Fund, also a subscription renewal to the United Nations News.

The President informed the members that the Howick ladies were asked to assist at the W.I. Booth at the Fair on Thursday afternoon, June 4th, also the members are asked to remember the parcels for the Parcel Post at this booth.

Mrs. Fletcher gave a report on Citizenship and hoped that the arrangements would be completed to have a short program in the school on that day.

Reports were also given on Home Economics and Health and Welfare, after which Mrs. R. Tolhurst and Mrs. Roy Younie gave very interesting reports on the County Convention held in Dundee recently. A discussion followed concerning the School Fair which is held in September. Since the Home Economics and Manual Training teachers will not be here next year, it was decided to award prizes to the different classes at the Fashion Show, the end of May, if arrangements can be made with the Teachers.

Mrs. Wallace Kerr then gave a very interesting talk on her trip to Western Canada with her husband and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kerr, showing some pictures of the places visited and the many friends and relatives they saw. Mrs. Lincoln West thanked Mrs. Kerr, stressing the desires of all the members to some day take a trip across Canada.

Mrs. Lang read a poem which she had received from Mrs. Earl Findley of Pontiac County which was much enjoyed by all. The meeting was then adjourned and refreshments served by the Fertile Creek Group and a social time spent. The next meeting will be May 28th, due to the usual day being Show week.

The Week At Ottawa...

OTTAWA, (CP) — The house of commons, clearing up the last of the session's work before prorogation, had previews last week of the campaign battles that will be fought in ridings across the country before long.

The date for the next general election remained uncertain. Prime Minister St. Laurent told the commons he won't decide the date until after the coronation on June 2.

But the way he outlined government thinking on the matter left observers with a growing conviction the election will be in August. Two dates—Aug. 10 and 17, both Mondays—loomed larger than any others in the speculation and Mr. St. Laurent, asked whether the government had picked those dates as election targets, did not rule them out.

The Prime Minister's comments apparently sparked the political instincts of members, and the week's debates took on the earnest tone of electioneering that has been heard — to perhaps a lesser extent — throughout the session.

Members swung some of their heavier political haymakers during consideration of estimates for Defence Production Minister Howe's department.

The debate dwelt often on the Currie report, which criticized administration in the army's works services, and on the report of the Commons defence expenditures committee.

Whitewash Charged

The latter report, by the committee's Liberal majority, approved defence construction expenditures and said weaknesses pointed out in the Currie Report are being attended to.

The Progressive Conservatives termed it a "whitewash job" and, during repeated interruptions by the Liberals, read into the Commons record their minority report of the committee, charging waste, inefficiency and extravagance and urging a full inquiry into the entire defence set-up. They argued the Liberals had used their majority to cover up these shortcomings and prevent an adequate investigation.

The Liberals in turn accused the opposition of making the defence department a political football, and quoted chapter and verse of evidence intended to show there was nothing wrong with the defence program.

The battle reached a personal level when Solon Low, Social Credit leader, suggested that preferred treatment on defence contracts had been given the Alexander construction firm, formerly owned by Mines Minister Prudham.

Mr. Low suggested the firm had "friends at court" when it failed to complete a contract for an RCAF base at Penhold, Alta., on time and yet got another big contract elsewhere while still "stumbling around" at Penhold. Mr. Prudham denied the Alexander firm had ever received special treatment through him or anyone else. He said he had no connection with the firm since he sold it before the Korean fighting began.

Election Timing

Canada has never had a general election in August in the 86 years since Confederation. But newspaper predictions that the next election would be Aug. 10 or Aug. 17 multiplied until Donald Fleming (PC—Toronto Eglinton) asked the Prime Minister about the correctness of the reports.

Mr. Fleming urged against summer-time voting and said "tens of thousands" would be disfranchised because so many would be on holidays or busy with farm work.

Mr. St. Laurent replied he had purposely refrained from reaching "even a tentative decision" before the Coronation because he did not want that event to be disturbed by political controversy.

He said that whether people go to the polls depends largely on themselves. A more important aspect was to see they weren't disfranchised by having their names left off the voters list.

A start on preparing the lists had to be made 49 days before polling date, he noted. And he agreed that a summer-time enumeration would likely mean that some persons would not be home when the enumerator called and their names would be missed.

A post-summer enumeration, the prime minister said, could not start earlier than Sept. 14 and that would shove the election date into November, "an inconvenient time."

His remarks left the issue uncertain but many observers assumed that he left the way open for dissolution in mid-June on his return from the Coronation, in time to start the enumeration for voting Aug. 10.

Criminal Code

Looking back on the session's work, Parliament could credit itself with a big sheaf of major and minor legislation. But one of its biggest jobs never got finished.

A major overhaul of the Criminal Code — the first in a half-century — kept the Commons and Senate and their special committees working hard. But the revision wasn't cleared through committee in time for the Commons to pass it if members were to get away in time for the Coronation.

On four important aspects of the Criminal Code, the Commons criminal law committee recommended even further study. In a report it urged the government to establish either a Royal Commission or joint Parliamentary committee to settle the questions of lotteries, abolition of the death penalty and whipping, and the use of insanity as a defence in court.

The government was not expected to act on these recommendations before the election. Prime Minister St. Laurent indicated that the new Parliament must complete the task of consolidating the code, and it seemed likely those four special points would be dealt with then.

SERVE ASPARAGUS IN MAY

Those lucky people who have an asparagus patch in their garden get a thrill watching the green shoots poking their heads through the ground and no one can tell them when asparagus is at its very best for they know. But for those homemakers who buy asparagus at the market or in the shop here are a few useful pointers from the home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture. Asparagus stalks should be straight and firm, bright green in colour and should have tightly closed tips. If the stalks are tender, they should be very brittle. If the stalks look wilted and the tips of the asparagus are spread, then it is quite possible that the asparagus has been cut too long. After the homemaker has selected fresh, tender, firm bunches of asparagus, she should hurry home and cook it because asparagus toughens rapidly after it has been cut. If all the asparagus is not going to be used immediately, it should be dried thoroughly, then wrapped and stored in a cool place. If the asparagus is stored in a moist condition, it will lose its quality quickly.

The home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture suggest that when cooking asparagus, the stalks should be tied in a bundle, then placed upright in a small amount of boiling salted water and cooked until they are just tender. Young slender asparagus stalks should be tender in ten minutes but large less tender stalks may take fifteen or even twenty minutes. When cooking asparagus pieces, cut the asparagus stalks in one-inch pieces. Place the stalk ends in a small amount of boiling salted water and cook covered. When the stalks are almost tender, place the tips on top of the stalks and cook until they are tender.

Now is the time for those who have either a home freezer or a locker to freeze asparagus for it is plentiful and of good quality. Select young, tender stalks with tightly closed tips, remove any tough butts and scrape off the scales. Wash thoroughly to remove any sand, then cut the stalks in uniform lengths to fit whatever type of container is to be used. The home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture suggest that these ends which are trimmed off be saved and frozen separately. Later on, they can be used in soups or casserole dishes. Blanch the asparagus stalks in boiling water to preserve the natural colour and flavour. The large stalks should be blanched for four minutes and the medium stalks for three minutes. Cool the stalks quickly in ice water then drain thoroughly and pack in cartons. Freeze the cartons of asparagus as fast as possible so as to retain the flavour. Looking ahead to winter when meals are sometimes a little dull, the serving of hot buttered asparagus will perk up the family appetites just as if it were Spring.

Don't you love to go out to a tea where the hostess serves toasted asparagus rolls? The family will love them too if two or three toasted good-sized rolls topped with a cheese sauce are served as a luncheon dish. One easy way to prepare the rolls is to place them in a square baking dish or on a cookie sheet and broil until they are crisp and brown. For a change the cooked asparagus may be rolled in ham or bologna slices, broiled the same way and served on toast with a cream sauce.

Asparagus Pie

2 cups milk
1 large bay leaf
4 sprigs parsley
4 thin slices onions
Pinch of thyme
Pinch of marjoram
6 peppercorns
4 tablespoons fat
4 tablespoons flour
1 tablespoon fat
1 cup canned pork, cut in ¼" cubes
1 lb. asparagus
1-9" baked pie shell
½ cup Cheddar cheese
¾ cup very fine buttered crumbs

Bring milk to scalding point with bay leaf, parsley, onion, thyme, marjoram and peppercorns, then strain to remove seasonings. Make a cream sauce of the fat, flour, salt and strained milk. Meanwhile heat the 1 tablespoon of fat and add the cubed pork. Allow to brown and add to the cream sauce. Cook the asparagus in boiling salted water until just tender. Drain. Line the baked pie shell with half the cooked asparagus, all points leading away from the centre. Pour over them a thin layer of the sauce. Add remaining asparagus, points in this time, on top of the sauce. Combine remaining sauce and cheese and pour over asparagus. Top the dish with the buttered crumbs and brown quickly under the broiler. Yield: six servings.

Asparagus Egg Casserole

1 lb. bunch asparagus
6 hard-cooked eggs
¾ cup minced canned pork
¼ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon grated onion
¾ teaspoon dry mustard
1 tablespoon milk
¼ teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
4 tablespoons fat
6 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 cups milk
1 cup grated Cheddar cheese
½ cup buttered bread crumbs

Cook asparagus in boiling salted water until just tender. Drain. Cut hard-cooked eggs in half lengthwise and remove yolks. Mash egg-yolks and blend with the meat, Worcestershire sauce, onion, mustard, milk, salt and pepper. Fill centres of the egg-white halves with egg-yolk mixture. Melt fat, blend in flour, salt and pepper and slowly stir in milk. Cook, stirring constantly until sauce thickens. Add grated cheese and stir until cheese is melted. Place asparagus in a layer on the bottom of a casserole. Arrange stuffed eggs in a layer on top. Pour cheese sauce over and top with buttered bread crumbs. Bake in a moderate oven, 350°F., until thoroughly heated and crumbs are browned—about 25 minutes. Yield: six servings.

Asparagus and Pork Scallop

1 lb. bunch asparagus
1½ cups cheese sauce
½ tin canned pork (6 oz.)
1 tablespoon grated cheese

Cook asparagus. Pour part of the cheese sauce into an oval or oblong casserole. Add half the asparagus and cover with the remaining sauce. Cut the pork into fingers or cubes and place down the centre of the casserole. Arrange remaining asparagus on either side of the meat. Sprinkle with grated cheese. Place in a moderately hot oven 375°F., until thoroughly heated—25 to 30 minutes if ingredients are cold. Yield: four servings.

Canadian Garden Hints

Plenty of Fertility

Scientists assure us that long before this world runs out of any raw material usually there is a substitute ready. That good fortune has followed us in the past and it will probably keep with us in the future. Even for the old stand-by, barnyard manure, which is still the best plant food, science has a replacement ready in humus, green manure, chemicals and soil conditioners.

Today, and especially in urban areas, it is becoming more and more difficult to buy manure. And even if we are lucky enough to locate a supply, often it is so filled with weeds, that there is a good deal of trouble. More and more the gardener is forced to use a substitute.

Commonest of all, is chemical fertilizer, which comes in bags or boxes with a formula attached showing the percentage of nitrogen, phosphoric acid and potash, the major ingredients necessary. This fertilizer should be used carefully and according to directions. It is best dissolved in water and applied that way or sprinkled or mixed with the soil just before a rain or a thorough watering with a hose. This prevents it burning tender foliage and roots. Where watering is not feasible, one is advised to sprinkle lightly over the soil near but not actually touching roots or plants, and work in with a cultivator.

Humus and Green Manure

Where one uses chemical fertilizer regularly one should also work in humus or dig or plow under green manure. Humus is simply well rotted vegetable refuse, such as leaves, weeds, grass clippings or even clean garbage mixed with fine soil. Every good gardener has a pile of this stuff hidden behind some shrubbery where the rotting process goes on. That process can be greatly hastened by some of the commercial bacteria preparations now on the market and by frequent turning and watering.

Green manure is the technical name for crops of clover, fall rye, buckwheat, oats and similar things that are sown in vacant places in the garden, allowed to grow well and then dug or plowed under lightly. This sort of thing and humus adds fibre to the soil, loosening clay and improving sandy soils and making them more open and friable and therefore more able to retain valuable moisture.

Soil Conditioners

Where the land is very heavy or barren, such as we usually find in the brand new city garden where the original soil has been covered with that taken out of the basement excavation, one is well advised to experiment with some of the new soil conditioners now on the Canadian market. These, like chemical fertilizers must be used carefully and according to directions. When this is done the results are amazing, with heavy impervious clay opened up and made into first class garden soil almost over night. These conditioners, of course, are not to be regarded as fertilizers. Some of the latter should be incorporated too.

Supports

Sweet peas and the taller regular garden sorts and also other climbers will need support. Some people use chicken wire or old tennis nets or strings, but a better material is brush if a supply can be obtained. This is pushed firmly in the ground along the rows and before the plants are more than a few inches high. Depending upon the locality brush from three to six feet high is suitable and the bushier the better.

Most of the taller annual flowers will also benefit from some support especially where winds or heavy rains are liable to do some damage. Often stakes a little shorter than the plant is high and driven in close will be sufficient. The plants are tied to these loosely with soft twine, Raffia or any of the special twisting materials sold by seed stores. With low bushy plants like peonies, sometimes a hoop of wire or wood is placed about them and a foot or so above the ground. In England around delphiniums they stick bits of brush in the ground. Gradually the plant grows about this and hiding it but being firmly supported just the same. Most people nowadays stake their tomatoes. Usually a six to seven foot stake is driven firmly in the ground when the tomato plant is set out. About every foot but securely. All side shoots are nipped off and towards the end of growth the stem is tied loosely the summer to hasten maturity of fruit the main stem is also nipped.

Of Many Things

"What's all the hollering about?"

The other day I heard a man ask that question. He'd been sitting in the smoker of a train travelling across Canada. He'd heard about four different sets of passengers in heated discussions about how to reform this country.

I walked in just in time to hear him ask what all the hullabaloo was about. He was an Englishman, new to Canada, and very much impressed with it. He had spent a week in Montreal and all the good things in the stores had delighted him. In answer to an advertisement, he'd been given a job in a new plant at Edmonton. He was on his way.

"I was given a liberal expense account," he told me. "I bought my ticket and was surprised at how little it cost to travel all the way to Edmonton first class. The food on the diner is fit for a King. My pay — for a starter — is better than I could have wished for. Yet I've listened to more griping this past half hour than I heard at home in a fortnight. And we're pretty good at griping ourselves."

I told him that there was quite a drift in this country toward better social services, more government activity in all fields. I told him that a good many of the men he'd heard in the smoker were sore because the government was starting to be a little more careful about spending welfare money.

"Well," he said, "that's a good one, that is. And I came over to this country because I wanted to get away from too much government. Over there it got so you had to fill out a form before you could go to the bathroom. I do hope these blokes don't talk themselves into the same thing here in Canada, else I shall have to poke off somewhere else again!"

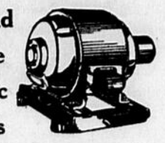

He was quite good natured about it all. And it seemed to me he had a pretty good point. After all, we don't want to tie ourselves up with too many forms and regulations and that sort of thing. And if we're going to keep after the government to do things for us, we're certainly going to wind up by giving the government too much power to do things to us.

It might be a good time to quit hollering. Things aren't so bad that they couldn't be worse.

Covering The Sports

(SPORTS CAMERA)

The man most concerned about the success of minor league baseball says it will take years to determine whether televising games affects attendance drastically.

George Trautman, president of the National Association of Minor Leagues, thinks unlimited television of major league games is hurting some minor leagues now. However, he believes it will be several years before it can be determined whether TV harms or stimulates attendance generally.

There have been a number of cases the last few years in minor league towns where the fans preferred to stay home, and watch major games on TV rather than go to the ball park to watch the local team. That's poison to the local team and some have folded or moved to new territory.

Lessons from Boxing

Trautman thinks baseball can learn plenty from the boxing game about the television "menace."

"They (the boxing promoters) have allowed some television, with closed-TV to theatres and radio broadcasting," he said. "Now they want to see if it will build up a better game by not allowing any boxing fan to see or hear the fight without buying a ticket.

"That may prove something."

You can't deny that the producer of any sports event such as baseball has some rights. It's his show. It has to pay off at the gate.

Trautman mentioned he was on the West Coast when Hollywood and San Diego of the Pacific Coast League played a four-game series.

"There were 8,000 at both of the first two games," he recalled. "The third was televised. There were 3,500 fans for that one.

"The fourth game, which wasn't on video, again drew about 8,000."

The problem about some new medium hurting the box office sin't new. Just about 10 years ago some minor league baseball owners were worried about radio broadcasts of their games.

Trautman had an anecdote about those days.

"Mike Kelly, who then owned the Minneapolis Millers of the American Association, said he would never allow his games to be broadcast. But he soon found out that radio was an attribute, not a detriment. His games were broadcast later."

It didn't snow. It didn't rain. It wasn't too cold. The baseball field wasn't wet.

But a game between two high school teams in West Haven, Conn., recently was called after seven innings: too much sun.

The game ended in a 4-4 tie because the late afternoon sunshine blinded the batters.

How long does an oil well last?

The average well goes dry in 20 to 30 years. To keep your car rolling and your home warm, a new well must be found to take its place. That's why the search for oil never ends; why Imperial, for instance, spent almost $50 millions to find and develop new oil in western Canada last year.

Oil has become one of Canada's important industries How many of these questions about it can you answer?

Which of the following contain petroleum lipstick? binder twine? printing ink? insect spray?
→ Oil is a part of all the products named and of hundreds of others which contribute to our everyday living.

In 1946 Canada produced less than 10% of the oil she used. How much of her needs does she produce now 18%? 40%? 55%?
→ About 40%—and we use twice as much as in 1946. Today's production would meet 80% of the demand at that time.

How many service stations would you say Imperial operates across Canada 19,500? 10,000? 0?
→ None. Approximately 10,000 stations carry the Imperial Esso sign, but they are operated by independent dealers, each in business for himself.

In oil field language, a "roughneck" is one of the crew of a drilling rig. What is a "toolpusher" tool salesman? drilling foreman? motor mechanic?
→ Drilling foreman. Oil field slang is colorful. A "Christmas tree," for instance, is a combination of pipes and valves to regulate the flow of oil from a well.

Opinion surveys show that most Canadians believe a business is entitled to a profit of 15¢ on a dollar of revenue. Last year Imperial earned 7½¢? 11¢? 19¢?
→ In 1952 Imperial earned a profit of 7½¢ of each dollar received. Of this, 4¢ was paid to shareholders; the remaining 3½¢ was used to replace worn-out equipment and to make sure we can supply your future oil needs.

Annual Track Meet of Valleyfield Legion Saturday

VALLEYFIELD— Final plans for the 6th Annual Track and Field Meet at Valleyfield on Saturday, have been completed. Chairman Dave White with planning committee of C. T. Johnson, H. J. Stewart, D. D. Campbell, L. Taylor, and E. P. Burgess have put every effort into making it the finest in Quebec and also a truly community affair. Response from industries has been excellent and competition in the industrial events this year will be the feature of the meet along with the Olympic Athletic Club and the Mercury Girls from Montreal which includes a few competitions represented Canada at the Olympics last summer. There will be racing events, high and broad jumps, tug-of-wars, and these events are open to young and old alike.

The Valleyfield Home and School Badminton Tennis Club closed off their season on April 28th, with a playdown series of Ladies' Doubles, Men's Doubles and Mixed Doubles.

A good turnout resulted in very competitive games and a very enjoyable evening for all.

Winners of the ladies' doubles were Peggy Anderson and Shirley McNicol with Kay Woodhead and Crista Newman as runners up.

The men's play was won by Doc Eddington and Ben Brault, Alf. Woodhead and Don Campbell were runners up.

Herb Jourdain and Iris Amos defeated Ben Brault and Shirley Brown to win the mixed doubles and "Dickie" Trophy.

At the end of play, President Kay Woodhead called on Mr. Dickie, Superintendent of Nichols Chemical Co. Ltd., and donor of the trophy presented to the winners. Individual prizes were given to the winners and runners up of the three events.

The President then thanked Pat Petrie for her excellent selection of prizes and Dave White for running the tournament. The season was then closed with the hope that all would be back as members again in the Fall.

On Monday, May 11th, at 8 p.m. the Valleyfield Toastmasters' Club held a special meeting at the Larocque House when it played host to the two Toastmasters Clubs from Montreal. This meeting saw the inauguration of the first Table Topics Contest among these Clubs and it appears it could become an annual event. Four speakers were chosen from each club in accordance with their speaking abilities and the merits of each speech was judged by a panel of judges consisting of one member from each club and an impartial judge.

Mr. Bill Sadler, Area Governor, who is in charge of the contest put the speakers through their paces.

Table topics provide very good training for every Toastmaster because it does not allow him time to prepare his speech fully and so forces him to think on his feet while he is talking. This training is especially useful because the ability to think on one's feet is one of the most difficult things to master in public speaking.

Mr. and Mrs. Doug. Montgomery sailed from Quebec on Saturday, May 9th, on the Samaria for Le Havre, France. Doug. Jr. has returned home from McMaster University but is leaving for Vancouver immediately and will afterwards go to Banff where he will be on the staff of the Banff Springs Hotel for the summer.

Miss Mary Johnston left Montreal on Saturday, May 9th, sailing on the Laurentia for Glasgow, Scotland where she will visit relatives for two months.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Sutherland of North Hatley, Que., were callers in Valleyfield on Thursday, May 7th on their way back from California.

Dr. and Mrs. C. L. Roman have returned from their trip to California and the Canadian West. Pleased to report that the Doctor's health is much improved.

Three old men were discussing the ideal way to die. The first, aged 75, said he'd like to go quickly and hoped for a crash in a speeding car. The second, aged 85, agreed on a speedy end, but thought he'd prefer a jet propelled plane. "I've got a better idea," mused the third, aged 95. "I'd rather be shot by a jealous husband."

Newspaper Advertising Said Most Effective

TORONTO — (CP) — Howard S. Mark, vice-president of the Robert Simpson Company, said newspaper advertising has no substitute for effectiveness.

Speaking during a forum discussing direct mail advertising at the 48th annual convention of the Association of Canadian Advertisers, he said that, while newspapers are advertising's "big guns", direct mail is only the "rifle fire."

He added:

"Any merchant who depends upon direct mail when he should be using newspaper advertising will surely lose sales, if not his shirt.

"We at Simpson's believe, with all of you I am sure, that there is no substitute for the newspapers."

Would Ban Selling Coffee and Food To Employes on Job

Toronto Builders' Exhange has sent a letter to all its members recommending that vans which sell coffee and food to employes on the job be banned during working hours.

The contractors claimed that the coffe breaks add up to half an hour a day for each man and cost thousands of dollars a year in time.

The recommendation banning the vans came at a time when most of the building trades unions were negotiating with contractors on a new working agreement. Six agreements expire Friday.

The exchange estimated that the coffee vans cost a construction company with 200 men on its payroll about $78,000 a year.

KIPLING, Sask., (CP) — William Sproat, pioneer district farmer, delivered the first grain load to the Kipling elevator in 1927. This year he delivered the first load of grain to the new Saskatchewan Wheat Pool elevator here.

Canada's Farms Made Production Record in 1952

Canadian farms produced more than ever before in 1952, the Bureau of Statistics reported the past week.

The Prairie's enormous grain crops were the main reason production went soaring beyond the record established in wartime 1942. The farm production index, using the 1935-39 period as a base equalling 100, hit 165 compared to 164.2 in 1942 and 155.8 in 1951.

Increased production was also recorded for potatoes, sugar beets, maple products and dairy products. Decreases in output were registered for livestock, fruits, vegetables, tobacco and poultry.

In Memoriam

FRASER — In memory of our friend, Rita, who passed away May 17th, 1952 —
Just a memory fond and true
From us who thought the world of you.
Joe and Ethel.

OVANS — In memory of Ronald Ovans:
"Step by step we go life's way
Yet you are with us every day
So sweet are the memories silently kept
Of one we loved and will never forget."
Inserted by
His Father and Mother.

UPTON — In loving memory of our dear son, Lionel, who passed away May 18, 1952 —
Lionel, you meant so much to all of us.
Lovingly remembered and sadly missed by
Dad and Mom and brother Rupert.

WHEALON — In loving memory of my only beloved son, Clifford, who passed away May 18th, 1952, aged 32 years —
In the glory of youth you were taken
When so many fine things you had planned
And our hopes were shattered and shaken,
These cruel things we can't understand.
Clifford dear I miss you more with every passing hour.
My aching heart finds no relief
The wound just deepens more,
Yet ever in my lonely heart
My love will keep you near,
'Til God in His sweet mercy reunites us evermore.
Missed, loved and longed for not just today but every hour of every day.
His Mother.

WELBURN — In loving memory of a dear mother who passed away two years ago today, May 10, 1951 —

In perfect peace that waits us all
And God will link the broken chain

New Apple Wrapping Machine

A machine which automatically cleans, polishes, grades and wraps apples individually in transparent "Cellophane" cellulose film, has been invented by Paul Jodoin, son of a Rougemont, Que., apple grower.

The machine is designed to cut down labor costs by eliminating hand-wrapping. "Cellophane" gives the fruit "eye appeal" on store shelves and protects it against bruising and soiling. The film is heat-sealed all around, but punched holes on one side assure proper breathing conditions inside the wrapper.

Correct Usage Of Union Jack

(Newmarket Era & Express)

In preparation for the coming Coronation observations, Paul Tobey, president of the Newmarket Branch of the Canadian Legion has given some timely reminders about the flying of flags and how to display them correctly.

During the month of March there were occasions to fly the flag at half mast and in many cases, the flags were too low on poles. A flag flown at half mast is the universal symbol of mourning. The flag should be raised to the top of the pole, then slowly lowered a distance equal to its own width, the president points out.

At public meetings, the flag should be displayed above and behind the speaker but should never be used as a drape for a table or platform. Nothing should be placed on it.

When grouped with other flags displayed from staffs, the Jack should be the centre and highest point of the group. When colours are displayed in a church or other buildings, the Union Jack should always be on the observer's left.

When a flag is displayed in a manner other than being flown from a staff, it should be displayed flat. When drapings or festoons are required, bunting should be used but not the flag itself, except as a centre of a decorative scheme and then it should not be placed lower than a person seated.

In street decorations, the flag should be hung so that it points north on streets running east and west and east on streets running north and south.

In church the Queen's Colours (Union Jack) should be on a staff and on the congregation's right, if on the main floor, and on the minister's right if on the platform.

When standards are draped on occasions of a memorial or funeral service, crepe or mourning ribbon 54 inches long and six inches wide is used to tie a bow below the spike on the head of the standard.

These reminders by the Legion will be uesful for residents and merchants who will be putting up decorations for coronation day, before June 2.

Royal Vegetables Sold in London

Queen Elizabeth II is the proprietor of a truck garden which peddles royal carrots and tomatoes to the London public.

The vegetables are grown at Windsor Castle, where a Scottish gardener who dislikes waste has transformed 30 weed-choked acres into one of the finest market gardens in this part of England.

David Stevenson, appointed head gardener at the castle only 20 months ago, said his yield was so great that the Royal Family and its retinue of servants could eat only 40 per cent.

"I use every up-to-date system known to agricultural science," was the way he explained his surplus.

H.E. Mgr. Percival Caza Visits Ste. Agnes

STE. AGNES — His Excellency Monseigneur Percival Caza, accompanied by his two assistants, Rev. Father Moreau and Rev. Father Dumouchel paid his pastoral visit to this parish on Sunday afternoon, May 3rd. At this time, about 50 children were confirmed, a ceremony which occurs only once every three years when the Bishop visits the parish.

Canon Pigeon, curate of St. Joseph's Huntingdon, and Rev. Father Gagnon, parish priest, assisted His Excellency, the Bishop. The parishoners were also honoured by the presence of their former rector, Rev. Father Paul Deguire, who is now curate of St. Anicet. Rev. Father Marcil, curate of Hinchinbrooke was also among the reverend guests.

The children who received the Confirmation were diligently prepared and directed by Mrs. Edmond Leblanc and Mrs. Jean-Paul Latreille. The grateful thanks of Mrs. Leblanc and Mrs. Latreille go to the children's parents who saw that they were immaculately dressed for this momentous occasion.

Following the Confirmation, His Excellency Mgr. Caza bestowed a special blessing on the assembled gathering and extended an invitation for all to salute him personally and to kiss his pastoral ring which has indulgences attached to it.

Rev. Father Gagnon held a reception at the rectory following the Confirmation Services at which were present His Excellency and the several Reverend Fathers who were present for this special ceremony.

W.M.S. Sponsor Tea

The Woman's Missionary Society of Zion United Church sponsored an enjoyable afternoon tea on Friday afternoon, May 8th. The attedance was smaller than had been anticipated, but all who were present enjoyed the fellowship which one always experiences at these gatherings.

Mrs. John Travis of Franklin Centre was the guest speaker of the afternoon. Mrs. A. F. Armstrong acted as chairman and introduced Mrs. Travis to the assembled group. She also extended a welcome to our friends from nearby Fort Covington, N.Y., as well as to friends who were present from within our own congregation.

In Mrs. Travis's opening remarks she expressed her pleasure at being given the opportunity to address the meeting. She said she planned to base her topic on New Canadians, which, to her way of thinking was indeed a home missionary subject, and one which, in all probability, would be more interesting and could be more profitable than foreign missions.

These new Canadians come to our vast country full of hope and confidence, convinced that here in this New World they will experience fulfillment of their every dream. They are ready to build a new life for themselves on the not too stable foundation of their old one. But in addition to this rosy future they visualize, there is a feeling of fear and loneliness. Everything in their new surroundings is strange, the customs, the language, the whole pattern of living. It is important in our association with these New Canadians to remember the difference in their background and also the difference in their conception of sin and morality. We must show these newcomers a sincere desire for friendship. We must believe in friendship for friendship's sake, and not for what it may profit us. Another point we should try to remember is not to force our friendship on these people, just make advances gradually, step by step. One of the greatest mistakes Church-going people make is to try to store up for themselves self-satisfaction and self-righteousness. hey give material aid to someone, and then sit back and gloat over the occurence, thinking all the while, "If it hadn't been for me . . ." Such an attitude is far from Christian.

Mrs. Travis also mentioned Church life in England. With the forthcoming Coronation, the Church of England has been thrust into the limelight, and one gets the impression that here is a people who are very conscious of their religious ties. Such, however, is not the case. The English people are not Church goers, about only 5% of the total population attend Church services. Their attitude toward the Church varies from complete indifference to a mild interest. Very often, when a person dies and the service of a minister is required the undertaker has to step in and provide a clergyman, for no one around has any idea where one might be found. So that besides furnishing caskets and flowers, an undertaker in England also provides a minister. In some parts of the country clergymen do had no Church affiliation. The English people may know their Bibles and the children may learn their prayers, they are not pagans by any means, but the Church just doesn't hold any relevance for them.

Mrs. Travis said that it would be a wonderful thing if we could all experience the same devotion to religion as did an Angola Christian. One season he had a fine team of oxen pulling his plow for him as he tilled the land. The next season he and another African pulled the plow themselves. On being asked what had become of his animals, he replied that he had sold them and had given the money he had received for them to a building fund for a new Church. This is a true Christian spirit, and what a wonderful world this would be if we could all experience this same unselfish attitude toward God and our fellowmen.

Mrs. Armstrong thanked the speaker for her timely address, and expressed the hope that she would return to us at some future date.

Tea was served buffet style, in the Church Hall. Mrs. Cora Fraser and Mrs. Mayford Colquhoun presided at the tea table and, a social hour was enjoyed by all.

W.A. Committee Meeting

Mrs. Gordon Fraser, chairman of the Finance Committee entertained the members of the Committee at her home on Wednesday evening, May 6th. A numbr of plans were made in connection with the coming Bazaar and Fashion Show which is planned for the afternoon of June 11th. A number of small articles, such as linen tea towels and babies' bibs are to be stamped and ready to embroider at the May meeting. A few quilt block pot holders are being cut out and will be ready to work on at this meeting also. These small items will be sold at the Bazaar.

Two shops in Huntingdon are planning to show their styles and several local models were chosen to show these new spring outfits. It is planned to have two children, two pre-teenagers and two teenagers to model dresses in this younger category. In addition to this, eight adult models have been chosen.

Besides the Bazaar and Fashion Show, afternoon tea will also be served. This show should prove to be an interesting one as well as a pretty one and it is looked forwarded to with keen anticipation.

Personals

Mr. Wm. McPherson returned to his home here on Monday evening having spent a few days in Montreal with Mrs. McPherson in the Montreal General Hospital. Mrs. McPherson underwent a major lung operation on Saturday morning. Her many friends are earnestly praying for her speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Davis of Westville, N.Y., were recent guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Fleming.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond McGibbon of Manchester, N.H., were Thursday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Elder. They also visited with Mr. McGibbon's sister, Mrs. Mary Davidson at the McPherson home.

As Mr. and Mrs. McGibbon motored from their home in Manchester on Sunday, May 2nd, they ran into a heavy snow storm as soon as they entered the state of Vermont. All the way up through the mountains, the snow continued, and by the time they reached Lake Meachan, N.Y., snow ploughs were clearing the roads. The trees were laden with wet snow and their branches hung heavily over the roadway. In every sense it was a "Winter Wonderland", beautiful to look at but very miserable to drive in.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Brunet and family of Green Valley, Ont., enjoyed Sunday visiting with Mrs. Brunet's relatives. They were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edmond Léger and supper guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Damase Léger.

Mr. and Mrs. V. Elder and family and Mrs. Davidson were guests at the home of Mr. John D. Elder in Athelstan, and visited with Mrs. George P. Elder who is still confined to bed.

Picture News from C-I-L

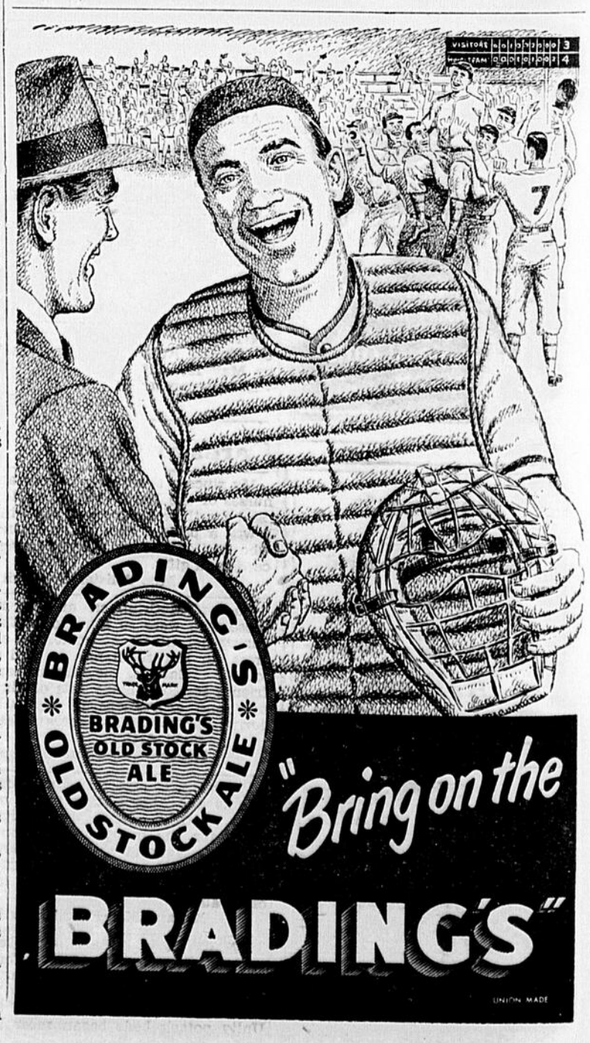

FIGURES of Annual Reports make fascinating reading when they come from the chemical industry. An interesting item from the record $26½ million C-I-L spent on new construction last year is its new Coppercliff Plant. Here is control panel of this "push-button" plant where waste gases are turned into the liquid sulphur dioxide essential to pulp mills in the manufacture of paper.

CONGRATULATIONS to Donald Garrard! This year's Grand Award Winner on the popular, nation-wide radio program, "C-I-L Singing Stars of Tomorrow", receives his award from internationally known musical figure, Dr. Edward Johnson. Over $4,000 in musical awards were recently awarded to eight talented young Canadian singers who topped the 44 contestants heard throughout the past season on "C-I-L Singing Stars of Tomorrow".

Huntingdon Town and District News

At Grove Hall

Huntingdon Citizens' Band had the pleasure of participating in two local functions during the past week. The first, on Friday evening, consisted of taking part in the programme presented at the Art Exhibit opening held in Grove Hall, presented by the Chateauguay Valley Artists' Association in behalf of Barrie Memorial Hospital, Ormstown, and the Huntingdon County Hospital. The bandsmen met at the Masonic Temple, Lorne Avenue, and proceeded in a body to Grove Hall where they played a variety of numbers including marches, waltzes and two overtures. General comments were to the effect that the band sounded very well but seemed a little loud. Evidently the acoustics in this newly-renovated building are excellent and in any future events volume will be cut down. A complete report with regard to the Art Exhibit appears elsewhere in this issue.

In Church Parade

On Sunday the Band took part in the Church Parade from the Legion Hall to St. John's Anglican Church. Led by the Band, the procession consisted of Legionnaires and other Veterans and the Church Parade was part of a full-day programme held at Branch No. 81 — in the afternoon an inter-branch rally comprised of members from Valleyfield, Beauharnois, Chateauguay, Howick, Ormstown and the local branch was held. Reports indicate the Band sounded very well.

Street Practice Held

A street practice was held Monday evening when the bandsmen, in uniform, played on various streets in town. Besides giving Huntingdonians an opportunity to hear and see the Band, Mr. Moore was anxious that the band brush up on marching. It is much more difficult to play an instrument while marching and a few of the new members had not experienced this change as all practices and programmes since November have been held indoors. Out-of-doors practice will probably be a weekly event, either in or out of uniform.

Regular Concerts in Park

Concerts in the park sponsored by a nationally-known brewery will form a regular part of the band's agenda during the summer months. Due to the fact that a couple of the Bandsmen will be unable to attend functions if held Monday through Friday, Sunday nights are anticipated as being acceptable for the regular concerts. One member in particular whose invaluable services in the band would be keenly missed if the concerts were held mid-weekly, is now in Montreal but would be available week-ends; others work in mills and stores Monday until Friday evenings and some on Saturdays — as a result Sunday evening is deemed most appropriate.

New Member

The Band roster shows steady increase in number, the most recent addition being Carman Stark who recently acquired a clarinet.

Ormstown Legion News

Ormstown Branch 196, The Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L. gave a Farewell Party on April 24th last in honor of Dr. Charles Hyndman, its First President, and Mrs. Grace Hyndman, who organized The Ladies Auxiliary in Ormstown. The Hyndmans left Ormstown to take up residence in Edmonton, Alta., where Dr. Hyndman will head the X-Ray Dept. of The Royal Alexander Hospital.

Guests of The Legion for this occasion were His Worship The Mayor of Ormstown, Mr. Carlyle Dickson, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Sault, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Roy, Mr. and Mrs. B. L. McGerrigle, Mr. and Mrs. James White, Mr. and Mrs. Rolland Anderson.

The Ladies' Auxiliary, under the able direction of Mrs. Mildred McCartney, First Vice-President, and Mrs. Angie Barrington, Immediate Past President, served a very delightful lunch. The catering being in charge of Mrs. Ruby Bott. Comrade President, Mrs. Barbara Aldridge sent her regrets at being unable to attend.

Mrs. Hyndman was presented with a corsage by Mrs. Angie Barrington on behalf of The Ladies Auxiliary; and Dr. John A. Davidson, Immediate Past President of Senior Branch presented the Hyndmans with a beautiful table lamp on behalf of Senior Branch and Ladies Auxiliary. The representatives of all groups offered their good wishes to the Hyndmans, wishing them "Bon Voyage" and the best of luck in their new position and in their new domicile. All expressed their regret to see such good solid citizens leaving our fair village; Ormstown's loss being Edmonton's gain. A program of music and dancing, as well as songs by Mrs. Alexa Bryson made it a most enjoyable and successful evening.

With reference to the recent Red Cross Work report, it should read: 721 pieces of work forwarded to headquarters and among those assisting were, Mrs. George Bazinet, Mrs. Adrien Beaulieu, Mrs. Robert Anderson and Miss Irene Brunet.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Leney and Brenda of Scotstown were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Gage.

Miss Sandra Barrington and Master Jim Barrington spent the week-end with Miss Marjorie Oliver and Louis Sherman, Chateauguay, Que.

WANTED

A man for hard work and rapid promotion; a man who can find things to be done without the help of a manager and three assistants. A man who gets to work on time in the morning and does not imperil the lives of others in an attempt to be the first out of the office at night. A man who listens carefully when he is spoken to and asks only enough questions to insure the accurate carrying out of instructions. A man who moves quickly and makes as little noise as possible about it.

A man who looks you straight in the eye and tells the truth every time. A man who does not pity himself for having to work.

A man who is neat in appearance.

A man who does not sulk for an hour's overtime in emergencies.

A man who is cheerful, courteous to everyone, and determined to make good.

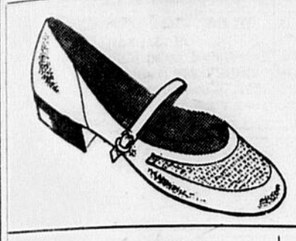

This man is wanted everywhere. Age or lack of experience does not count.

There isn't any limit, except for his own ambition, as to the number or size of the jobs he can get. He is wanted in every business.

CARLYLE DICKSON
Manager Ormstown Exhibition

ORMSTOWN EXHIBITION:

One of the busiest of busy men these days is Secretary-Manager Carlyle Dickson of Ormstown Exhibition. It's quite a chore getting ready for an exhibition, specially so with the limited staff that Ormstown has. And in that respect it might be said that the Ormstown directors are lucky indeed to have the competent services of Carlyle Dickson and his assistants available before and during the exhibition. Specially so since they do not maintain a year round staff as do other exhibitions of the same class. Moreover, in that respect, they do not have the overhead expenses that the others have. Carlyle Dickson, is, of course, on a year round basis as Manager but his pay in that respect would doubtless be considered only a small retainer by others similarly connected with an exhibition.

Carlyle Dickson also has his own feed, grain, coal, etc., business to look after. It therefore is that with the two jobs to look after he is meantime an extra busy man. In this instance union or regulated hours of work, so to speak, do not figure in the picture at all. Perhaps it is that being still a bachelor his love and what would ordinarily be "off-hours" (and that's a fact) are devoted to Ormstown Exhibition.

Part of his and his staff's arduous pre-show duties are accentuated, however, by that some of the exhibitors are rather tardy in making their entries—by the way entries close today, May 13. Have sent in your's?

ORMSTOWN JUDGES:

Several internationally known people figure in the Ormstown Exhibition judges list. The Ayrshire classes will be judged on Thursday, June 4, by Gilbert Muir, Herd Manager of the famous Lippitt Farm Ayrshire herd of Hope, Rhode Island. The Jersey classes will be judged on the same day by Irvine Ambleton, Harvey Station, N.B.

On Friday, June 5, the Holstein classes will be judged by J. Durno Innes of Woodstock, Ont., famous breeder and judge of Holsteins and a past president of the Holstein Friesian Association. On the same day Dr. Adrien Morin, well known former Live Stock Commissioner of Quebec Department of Agriculture, will judge the French Canadian cattle.

We understand that in addition to judging the Sheep, Prof. L. H. Hamilton, Macdonald College, will also judge the Dual-purpose, etc. cattle. Victor Pelchat of Canada Packers, Montreal, will place the Swine.

An outstanding Ayrshire breeder, as also a keen judge of horses, Donald Cumming of Lancaster, Ont., will place the awards in the heavy horse classes. Farrell Vincent of Montreal will be judge of the Light Horse and Horse Show Classes.

JUDGES AT LACHUTE:

A report by Major S. G. Patterson, Secretary-Manager of that Fair, indicates that Lachute Spring Fair, (June 10 to 13) will have quite an array of outstanding livestock breeders deciding the awards in the various sections and classes.

The Ayrshire classes will be judged by that veteran Ayrshire breeder Louis Seitz, Waukesha, Wisc. The well known Fred H. Hubbs of Bloomfield, Ont., and former president of the Holstein-Friesian Association, will judge the Holsteins. W. Elmo Ashton, Foster, Que., outstanding Jersey breeder and judge will not only place the Jerseys but the Guernseys and French-Canadian cattle as well. Dual Purpose and Beef Cattle classes will be placed by Geo. Wiggins, Kemptville, Ont.

Sheep will be judged by D. M. Stewart, Osgoode, Ont., and Swine by Cecil Acres, Osgoode, Ont.

AYRSHIRE BULL REGISTRATION:

The new Ayrshire Bull registration regulation has now been officially promulgated. That is, on and after May 1, 1953, no Ayrshire male can be registered unless his dam has already qualified in the Record of Performance. The R.O.P. record in that respect must be equal to or over the official breed average in both milk and fat.

A rather drastic new departure insofar as Ayrshires are concerned, and time will tell whether it is the forward step its exponents claim it is. However, it's now a "must" and so it behoves all Ayrshire breeders who wish to register and sell their bull calves to enter their cows in the R.O.P.

NATIONAL DAIRY SHOW:

The National Dairy Show is again being revived, as an International event, and the first show held by the new (or revived) organization will be staged at Chicago, October 10 to 17, 1953.

Since Canadian herds figured largely in former National Dairy Shows, especially so as regards Ayrshires from the Howick-Huntingdon Club area, efforts will doubtless be made to organize Canadian exhibits to this year's National Dairy Show.

THE AYRSHIRE SIGN:

It has now been announced that, as the result of a drive in that respect, the new Ayrshire Farm or Gate Sign will soon be in circulation. A considerable number of orders have have already been placed by Ayrshire breeders but Secretary E. W. Richmond, of Canadian Ayrshire Breeders' Association, is still urging that others follow suit. The sign offered is not only attractive but is likewise practical. We are therefore suggesting that it would be good advertising if each and every Ayrshire breeder so grace their gates, etc.

Mental Ills Said Most Difficult Health Problem

"Mental illness is still our largest and most difficult health problem in Canada," says Dr. J. D. M. Griffin, general director of the Canadian Mental Health Association. "About 60,000 mentally ill patients occupy hospital beds— and as far as can be determined the peak has not yet been reached."

Dr. Griffin quoted an estimate that about 50 per cent of the patients comprising the general physician's practice suffer from some form of mental disorder. There is "substantial evidence" to support the statement that poor mental health affects in a significant way the lives of about 10 per cent of the population of Canada.

He reported that an increasing proportion of general medical practitioners are acquiring skill in psychotherapy; and as more practical psychotherapy is utilized "we can expect to see the familiar 'bottle of pink medicine' and the hopeful pat on the back gradually disappear."

Dr. Griffin said that Canada is "still desperately short" of adequate psychiatric hospital facilities. In spite of the best efforts of provincial departments, the building of additional accommodation for mental patients never seems to keep pace with the growing need. He felt the trend to develop psychiatric facilities in general hospitals is "encouraging", and the national mental health grants to aid in the provision of new facilities and the training of more psychiatrists, psychologists, and social workers "have been and will continue to be major factors in our successful fight against mental illness."

People who appreciate fine cars are turning to Monarch

"It didn't take long to convince me..."

"Some of us were talking cars the other day and Doctor Harrison said he was sold on Monarch. I figured a doctor would be pretty particular about the car he drove—so much depends on it. Anyway, I took the hint and arranged with our local dealer to take me out in a Monarch. It didn't take long to convince me—and there's a Monarch in our garage now. It's a beautiful looking car, no doubt about it. It's got more genuine style than any car I've ever driven—and that goes for the interior as well. You can tell by the way people look at it that it makes a good impression. You know what a stickler I am for engine performance—well, this Monarch has a 125-Hp. V-8 that's just about the smoothest thing they ever put under a hood. Lucky thing we had that talk about cars—and I took the cue from my doctor's suggestion."

The same thing could happen to you . . . why not see your Monarch dealer today?

The Gore

The Late Randles Boyd

Although in failing health for the past year, his passing came suddenly on April 29th at his late residence on the Gore where he had spent almost his entire lifetime. He was the youngest son of the late Robert Boyd and Hannah Coulter, born January 16th, 1871. He married Rebecca Coulter Feb. 27, 1901, who predeceased him five years ago, to this union one daughter was born.

A large attendance gathered on Friday afternoon at St. Paul's Church, Herdman, to pay a final tribute to a faithful member. The Rev. W. S. Hatcher gave a most inspiring address taken from St. John 15 - 5th verse "And how can we know the way". Three hymns were sung, "O love that will not let me go", "Blest be the pure in heart", and "What a friend we have in Jesus".

Left to mourn his loss are his daughter, Deanie, son-in-law Josie Moneypenny, four grandsons, one brother Robert in Montreal and several nieces and nephews.

The pallbearers were Cyril Foster, Wm. J. Graham, John Fitzsimonds, Wilalrd Nelson and Carl Anderson.

The floral tributes were numerous and beautiful. Those acting as flower-bearers were Allister Neely, Ross Anderson, Mervyn Graham and Frankie Mason.

They were served a buffet supper at the Manse, as guests of Rev. William and Mrs. Holmes and Miss Sheila Holmes. Mrs. Lynwood Cookman and Miss Sheila Beattie assisted in serving. The visitors then joined the Hemmingford young people in the church for a Worship Service conducted by their president, Mr. J. McLeod. The scripture lesson was read by Miss Maureen Hope and the address was given by Miss Margaret Thompson, assistant to Rev. Dr. G. Cragg, minister of Erskine-American Church. In all there were about sixty young people present.

After the Service all went to the Church Hall where they were welcomed by the Hemmingford Y.P.U. president, Mr. Warren Fewster. A recreation period followed which included square dancing to music provided by members of Fisher's Orchestra. Powerscourt POWERSCOURT—The bulldozer has been busy making changes around Powerscourt Corner. The hill east of the Koski home has been levelled. An old landmark has finally been completely destroyed—the store property of the late James Ross. The present owner, Mr. Schadt of Montreal, has had the old cellar completely filled in and as he is quite a gardener we can expect to see a beauty spot ere too long.

In this day and generation when people are anxious for short hours, big money and do as little as possible in return, it is a pleasure to meet a conscientious, pleasant obliging person. Such a one was Mr. Donald Grant of Cornwall, Ont., salesman for a Bread Co. For 14 years Mr. Grant has faithfully served the people throughout this district, through rain and shine, summer and winter. No matter what the weather or the condition of the roads he always met his customers with a smile and cheery greeting. After these long years of faithful service on a long, hard route he has been transferred to a local Cornwall delivery route. His many customers wish him a happy future and will not soon forget his cheery ways.

Mr. Russel Myatt accompanied Mr. Manley of Dannemora, N.Y., to Saratoga Springs on Tuesday.

Mrs. Henry Wallace spent Thursday in Montreal.

Mrs. George Taylor, Dorothy and Jeanie were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Smallman at Fort Covington, N.Y.

Friends of Mrs. Watchorn (nee Jessie Taylor) will be interested to know that her 12 year old son Garnet was the winner of a silver medal in a public speaking contest at Ajax, Ont., Congratulations to Garnet.

Glad to report that Mr. Thomas Ross is home again from the Barrie Memorial Hospital.

One wonders just how long it will be, before the proper authorities take steps to stop the public from disfiguring the lovely countryside with unseemly garbage. Despite the fact there is ample space in which to dump such garbage on the Powerscourt-Athelstan road, thoughtless people continue to use the roadside instead, and ere long, if this continues it will be a problem to get driving space, as one particular spot. Surely the council can act in this matter.

"Our claperes want beere"

If you heard them, would you recognize Grandsire Doubles, Stedman's Triples, or The Canterbury Pleasure? Bell ringers of old England know them, for they are the names given to the intricate rituals that make up "Change ringing". The men who ring the changes have learned their art from their fathers, who in turn were taught by their sires, and so on, back into the melodious past.

Joyce Warren, in The New Yorker tells of the team of bell ringers of her father's Norman church in Derbyshire, and of the ancient bells they rang. She makes the accomplishment sound like a pleasant one, for, as the bell ropes change hands, the ringer thus relieved takes up, by hallowed custom, a mug of ale from the potman's table and sits with the others, awaiting his turn again, on a bench in the belfry.

Bell ringing and good ale go traditionally together. "Harken do you heare, Our claperes want beere," is the engraving on an old bell in Warwickshire. And it is appropriate that they should be associated. For the brewing of ale is an ancient art too, calling for skill, team-work, and timing, to produce a harmonious result.

In Canada the technique that has gone into every bottle of Molson's Ale, for example, has been handed down from father to son since 1786. And, though Time has rung the changes in popular tastes, the preference for Molson's has never sounded so strong as it does today.

Fatal Reactions To Penicillin Said Increasing

CHICAGO — Severe and fatal reactions to penicillin are occurring with "increasing frequency", three physicians warned in the current issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Because the drug is capable of causing death or profound shock in susceptible persons, its use for trivial or non-infectious conditions should be discouraged, the doctors said.

The physicians reported on nine cases in which they said death resulted in five of the patients who suffered severe side effects called anaphylactic shock.

Two of the doctors who made the study are associated with the department of medicine and the allergy research laboratory of the Northwestern University Medical School. They are Dr. Samuel M. Feinberg and his son, Dr. Alan R. Feinberg. The third physician submitting the opinion was Dr. Clifford F. Moran of the Armed Forces Institute of Pathology, Washington, D.C.

2,000,000 Canadians Carry Excess Weight

Two million Canadians are overweight, and those two million will have more illness and die earlier than the rest of the population, warns Dr. Harold V. Cranfield, Toronto specialist in physical medicine. If you are 10 per cent heavier than your ideal weight, you are obese — and no allowance is made for increasing age. The average gets heavier, but the ideal stays the same.

"Frightful term 'obese'," admits Dr. Cranfield, "and it's a frightening state to be in. It isn't just the load you carry in that extra poundage that does the harm; but that extra 20 pounds means 12 miles of extra blood vessels added to your system for your poor, tired heart to pump blood through! If you have gained 40 pounds, then it's 24 miles of added circulation. No wonder that blood pressure rises to keep the parasitic fat nourished!"

Among the ever-present dangers of overweight, Dr. Cranfield lists in Health magazine increased likelihood of diabetes, hardening of the arteries, high blood pressure, strokes, heart disease and heart failure, cancer. And he adds, "you won't stand surgery, pneumonia or infection as well".

What to do about it? (1) Go to your doctor. (2) Follow his advice.

The doctor will see that you get enough sugars and starches to burn up your excess fat; that you get the right exercise and in the right amount (exercise alone will only stimulate the appetite and build muscle); and he will tell you there are no such things as "thinning" foods. For the corpulent there are the four "Cs"—Counsel, Caution, Curtailment and Courage.

"And it was most certainly in respect to diet that courage was first referred to as intestinal fortitude", concludes Dr. Cranfield.

Milk Factories Work 24 Hours Every Day

TORONTO,—Science and chemistry have achieved miracles in many fields during the past half century. However, even the cleverest of our scientists and chemists must bow to the dairy cow as the world's only perfect milk factory. Never have our great men of science been able to beat the cow at her own game.

The chemist could compound a quart of mixture containing definite amounts of proteins, carbohydrates, calcium, iron and butterfat plus specified amount of riboflavin, vitamins and minerals found in milk. The results would be the compounded prescription of cow's milk, but in all probability it would be a terrible tasting concoction. Even if it were palatable, the cost of providing the nutrients and of compounding the ingredients would be too far out of line with the cost of milk supplied by our dairies.

Fortunately, such procedure is not necessary. On the pasture fields and in the barns of the dairy farms of Canada there are many hundreds of thousands of these efficient milk factories. Science has had to be content to leave the manufacture of milk to them, and they have responded nobly. More than 16 billion pounds of milk are produced annually by these factories.

Like most other factories, the dairy cow requires a constant, adequate supply of raw materials to produce the finished product. In full production the cow's conversion plant uses daily in raw materials about 200 pounds of liquids and solids. From this raw material she extracts proteins, carbohydrates, fats, and all minerals and vitamins found in milk. She processes and blends these ingredients and delivers from 35 to 40 pounds of the finished product which, incidentally, is never improved in quality after it leaves her. The operation requires that these factories work a 24 hour shift and a seven day week.

The dairy cow's product differs from that which the chemist might produce. It has a flavor that is highly palatable and the cow's efficiency in production is such that her product can be marked at a price that places it within reach of all people. From the standpoint of nutrition, no other food provides quantity and quality of the nutrients which contribute to the health of Canadian children and grown-ups.

The Canadian government's department of health long has recognized the value of milk as a necessary food for young and old. In its official food rules, the daily use of milk is a "must" for everyone.

Home Is Oldest Human Social Unit

GEORGETOWN, P.Q. — "The home is our oldest social unit, and it is also our most important social unit. It is the germinal cell from which comes the dynamic that shapes the history of the nation. No race has been able to exist when the family life has collapsed. When the home breaks, the state breaks," Very Rev. C. Ritchie Bell, D.D., professor of pastoral theology at Presbyterian College, said here on Sunday in a sermon at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. The sermon was in recognition of Christian Family Week.

Dr. Bell said that parents had very definite responsibilities and suggested that these were, "to teach the children to live acceptably in society, to set the children an example and to give the children wise discipline."

"Character is not talked, but caught. If we urge our children to be honest, faithful, truthful, pure, sober, sacrificial, and to exercise social responsibility, but do not practice these virtues ourselves, our words to them will go in one ear and out the other."

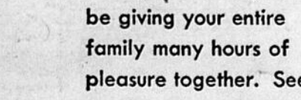

"We train and prune the flowers and plants of our gardens, but have been afraid to do likewise with our families! We have fallen down before the cult of self-expression. In the home and school, we have carried it to the most ludicrous extremes. Every child is entitled to wise discipline. The heart of childhood is good, but its head is bad. Its emotions are creditable, but its judgments are often wrong. On matters of definite principle, parents should be as rigid as a steel bar."

New War Looming in Indo-China is More Critical

France's war against the Vietminh in Indo-China, long overshadowed by the conflict in Korea, is approaching a more critical phase than ever since it started seven years ago.

The Vietminh invaders were steadily closing a 2-column pincers on the Laotian royal seat of Luangprabang in preparation for an all-out assault. French union forces poured in reinforcements and supplies to bolster the troops of the little mountain kingdom of Laos, one of the three states making up the associated states of Indo-China.

Moscow-trained Ho Chi Minh, the Vietminh leader, is believed to have thrown up to 40,000 troops into the Laos invasion, which the French say is being supplied from Red China and is part of the Kremlin's over-all plan for conquest of southeast Asia.

The capture of Luangprabang would give the rebels tremendous prestige and open the way for an invasion of the sister province of Cambodia.

A more cheerful note for the French was the army announcement at Saigon that a Cambodian bandit leader who fought for the Vietminh had surrendered with 700 of his troops. Bandit leader Putch Chkay is held responsible for several atrocities against French military and civilian captives.

The French army announcement said he surrendered because of the "growing success" of the French campaign against the Vietminh and their bandit allies in Cambodia.

Korean Truce Talks

The Communist spokesmen at Panmunjom in Korea named four Asian countries which they consider qualified to take custody of war prisoners who refuse to go home. North Korean General Nam Il said that India, Pakistan, Burma and Indonesia might be considered neutral countries to serve as caretaker for 48,000 prisoners in UN camps who balk at returning to their Communist homeland. The total of Red prisoners is around 132,000.

The UN delegate, Lt.-Gen. William Harrison, reiterated the Allied position that the neutral should take custody of the prisoners in Korea until their future is decided. Asked whether any of the four states named by the Reds would be acceptable, Harrison replied "that is a matter to be settled on levels far above mine."

It is this problem of the Red prisoners who object to repatriation to their homeland that has long blocked agreement on a truce in Korea.

Meanwhile the exchange of sick and wounded prisoners-of-war wound up at the week-end. It was estimated the United Nations would have returned a total of 6,670, or about 800 more than originally promised. The number returned by Reds to the UN was originally 600 but later extended. The difference is because the UN holds many more prisoners than the Reds.

Canadians Returned

Two Canadians long reported missing in Korea were among the prisoners returned by the Communists in the exchange in Korea. They were Lance-Corporal Paul Dugal of Quebec and Private Arthur Baker of Montreal. Dugal brought a list of 16 other Canadians still held by the Reds, and later added the name of Private Bernard Jewar of New Waterford, N.S. That made 17, or 18 if the name of the only previously officially-listed prisoners is included. Removal of Baker's name from the list apparently leaves 17 Canadians in Red prison camps.

The Canadian Army late last week issued first-person stories by Dugal and Baker of their experiences in Communist hands. Both men said they had been treated as well as the Chinese and Korean sick and wounded. Dugal said he had to attend propaganda lectures on "the goodwill of the Communists to make peace." When they asked for books, they were given such Communist publications as the Daily Worker and the Paris L'Humanite.

Conflicting Evidence

Twenty-two British soldiers from the prison camps of North Korea arrived home in England, adding their impressions of confinement under the Communists to the picture gradually being built up from many sources.

From early statements by the freed British soldiers it seemed fair to say they considered they were treated "pretty well." They said the morale of those left behind was 100 per cent.

On the question of attempted indoctrination by the Communists, there was conflicting evidence. Some said lectures on current affairs were voluntary, others that they were compulsory. Probably the majority felt that the lectures had little effect but some said the Chinese viewpoint was listened to with respect.

The War Office at London said it is sending all British prisoners repatriated from Korea home leave in the hope the atmosphere of their family life will cure any who swallowed the Red propaganda during their spell in North Korea prison camps. Some of the returned men had denounced the Korean war and many spoke well of the treatment they had received.

Weapon of Future

Australian Prime Minister Robert Menzies on Saturday launched the British Commonwealth's "weapon of the future" — a robot jet which can "smell out" and destroy enemy planes.

He pressed a button at the Woomera rocket range in Australia, releasing the slim pilotless plane from its base a mile away to streak across the desert wastes at supersonic speed. Also tested was a dart-pointed rocket, about which experts would say nothing. Both tests came at the end of 5½ years of experiments at the $65,000,000 Woomera Range which stretches for 1,200 miles over barren desert country, with 1,000 miles of open sea beyond.

Prime Minister Menzies said the tests, being carried out in co-operation with Britain, are vital for the survival of the commonwealth if war should come.

Merion Blue Grass Of Interest in Canada

Merion blue grass, an improved variety of Kentucky blue grass originally selected and developed in the eastern United States, has recently received a considerable amount of favorable publicity which has led to many enquiries concerning its value under Canadian conditions.

This variety has been tested as a lawn grass, in comparison with other varieties of Kentucky blue by the division of forage plants, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, since 1947, says J. H. Boyce, and has been found to be superior to all other varieties under test in many ways. Chief among its superior characteristics have been its comparative resistance to Helminthosporium leaf spot, a disease which often weakens and sometimes destroys common blue grass—particuarly in cold, wet spring or fall weather; its ability to withstand closer mowing than common sorts because of its shorter growth; its aggressiveness and ability to spread rapidly; its general quality and appearance and its ability to resist the encroachment of weeds including crab grass. There is also some evidence that it is more heat and drought tolerant than the other varieties tested.

Tiny Minnow Deadly Enemy of Game Fish

Millions of dollars' worth of damage has been done to Laurentian lakes and watercourses by indiscriminate use of minnows as bait by anglers, according to the Quebec Biological Bureau, University of Montreal.

To take one example among many: spoilage of just three of the province's countless lake chains, namely, those of the Red, North and Assomption river basins, alone accounts for a round million dollars. This staggering figure is based on the fact that these three readily accessible systems include some 200 contaminated lakes, and that it would cost an average $5,000 each to poison and restock them. This is a conservative estimate, leaving out loss of tourist revenue, etc. There are numerous instances of large lakes, ruined by minnows, which would cost upwards of $25,000 to restore, counting only the materials. Lac des Sables at Ste. Agathe, and Lac Superieur to the north of St. Faustin, are cases in point.

The little fishes commonly lumped together under the name of minnows, but which include young perch, sunfish, bullheads, suckers, etc., have crowded out and, in a variety of other ways, wiped out the very speckled and red trout which the angler prizes most.

Some of these small fishes grow up and eat baby trout and trout eggs, as well as the larvae upon which the trout feeds. And even so lively a predator as the trout cannot take his revenge by eating enough of them to keep their numbers down. They are coarse, tough species in general, more resistant to warm water, low oxygen, or seasonally sedimented waters. Also, suckers, perch and true minnows breed too fast, while sunfish, sticklebacks, bullheads as well as perch have spines to make them unpalatable to trout. The pests survive and the trout vanish.

Disease and parasites too can be introduced into lakes by "foreign" fish. Bass transplanted into certain northern lakes brought flukes and "black spots" from the infected lakes of their origin. So a new fish may be compatible as to species but a hazard just the same.

A few minnows escaping from hooks, or loosed by an angler after his day's sport, may pollute a chain of lakes or an entire watershed. For reputedly placid sunfish, perch, bullheads and suckers get a wanderlust in new waters. They learn to climb rapids and cascades and can spread at an alarming rate. One upset minnow pail can do harm to the tune of hundreds of thousands of dollars.

It is conceded that minnows have their place in nature's balance. They are forage in bass, pike, dore and grey trout waters. But here again, "outsiders" dumped in a lake can produce a breed of mongrels. Or they may multiply, crowd out the natives, flourish for a year or so, then eat themselves out of house and home and dwindle into runts. Just as bad is the frequent case of the more accessible Laurentian lakes which, once famous for a particular species or a balanced assortment, now have picked up an unkempt miscellany of fish, mostly mere bait-ticklers and degenerates.

If you must use minnows, the Bureau advises, don't bring them in from another region. Get a small hook and take them yourself in the very water you wish to fish. The Bureau particularly appeals to those who go flying to distant points to refrain from taking minnows with them.

Ike Calls For Extension of Dairy Products Import Ban

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Eisenhower called on the Tariff Commission to make recommendations for extending existing import restrictions on butter and other dairy products and some food fat and oils after June 30.

Current limitations on such imports are imposed under Sestion 104 of the Defence Production Act which expires June 30. This permits the Secretary of Agriculture to restrict imports.

(Canada has formally protested to the U.S. Government against restrictions on U.S. import of dairy products.)

The Senate Banking Committee has said it does not plan to recommend extension of this section of the act. Thus the restricted products will be free to enter the U.S. in quantities unless the President and Tariff Commission act under Section 22 of the Agricultural Adjustment Act.

This allows the President to impose curbs on imports in event foreign supplies interfere with Government farm-price-support programs. He may act only if the Tariff Commission makes such ercommendations based on hearings and investigations.

Imports of cheese currently are restricted under quotas. There is a ban now on imports of these products: butter, dried milk, dried cream, high fat malted milk compounds, peanuts and peanut oil, flaxseed and linseed oil.

Eisenhower wrote a letter to the Tariff Commission at the request of Agriculture Secretary Ezra Benson. His letter said Benson had advised he believes the article now restricted might be imported "under such conditions and in such quantities as to render ineffective or materially interfere with price support or other programs undertaken by the Department of Agriculture".

Benson had told the Senate Agriculture Committee he favors giving the President power, in an emergency, to impose import limitations on an interim basis, pending a decision by the Tariff Commission.

Queen's Choice of Crown To Be Adopted by Canada

A new crown is going to come into use in Canada.

It is expected to emerge gradually in many Canadian military badges, buttons and insignia, on stamps, on coins, on the Governor General's standard or personal flag and elsewhere. It might even lead to the first alteration in the Canadian coat of arms in 32 years.

The reason is Queen Elizabeth's decision to change the heraldic representation of St. Edward's Crown, the Coronation Crown, which has adorned such things in Commonwealth countries for 52 years.

The change is relatively simple but its effects will range far and its significance is symbolic of the fluid political pattern of the countries that owe allegiance to the Throne.

Omits Imperial Touch

The representation of the Crown that is going out had imperial significance. It stemmed from a decision of Queen Victoria to alter the heraldic representation to make it more in keeping with her status as an Empress. Elizabeth, a Queen but not an Empress, is going back to a design that omits the imperial touch.

The difference briefly is this:

The four pearl-studded arches of gold — symbols of independent sovereignty — form a semi-circle in the design being abandoned. In the new representation, they go back to the downward curve — forming a kind of figure eight cut in two lengthwise — at the point of intersection. They dip at the centre as they do in the real St. Edward's crown. The Queen also is changing the type of lettering in her Royal cypher — E II R — to straight Roman style from the italic script used since Edward VII. This also will mean changes in Canada.

Actually the crown that for years has graced Canadian badges, coins and the like has not accurately pictured St. Edward's crown. It was an heraldic representation, a licenced exaggeration and was known widely as the Tudor crown. The new design will be much closer to the real thing and will be called by the real name, St. Edward's crown.

Coronation Crown

St. Edward's crown is the one which for brief seconds will touch the head of Elizabeth in the Abbey June 2 and never be worn by her again. It weighs five pounds. The crown she will wear on state occasions in the future is another crown, the imperial state crown, which weighs about two pounds.

The Canadian armed forces plan to make the change gradually in their insignia. Broadly, the orders are expected to be that there is to be no sweeping immediate switch, that the change will take place as new badges, colors or other emblems come in or as old badges wear out and the dies or patterns would normally have to be replaced.

Thus two reserve force infantry regiments getting new colors — the Royal Newfoundland Regiment and the New Brunswick Scottish — are both to have the new-type representation of the crown in them.

The Queen herself approved the colors but signified that they should bear St. Edward's crown.

The two Army corps, Engineer and Service Corps, use both the crown and cypher in their badges and will get both changed. The crown that signifies the rank of army majors will be changed, too, and the same sort of alterations will make themselves felt in the Navy and Air Force.

On Stamps, Coins

New stamps and coins bearing the likeness of the crowned Elizabeth are expected to bear St. Edward's crown, too, and the Governor General's standard is also expected to abandon the Tudor representation for its successor.

What the Cabinet will decide to do about the coat of arms, if anything, remains to be seen but it also is topped by the Tudor crown. The original, royally proclaimed in 1921, now hangs in the office of C. S. Stein, undersecretary of state, an ornate magnificence about four feet high. Reproductions are used widely throughout the country.

There are some heraldry experts who feel that if a change is to be made in the coat of arms — or, more rightly, the armorial bearings — the opportunity should be seized to make a general overhaul. They feel the present design is hardly compatible with the autonomy and eminence Canada has achieved since 1921.

In particular, they feel that the maple leaves which signify Canada are in a subordinate position hardly in keeping with Canada's present status.

But there is no sign yet that Cabinet or its top officials are considering any change.

Announce Coronation Program For Boy Scouts

G. Robley Mackay, Provincial Commissioner for Scouts in this province, has announced plans in connection with the celebration of the coronation of Her Majesty, Queen Elizabeth II, which call for beacon fires and Scout council fires throughout the province on Tuesday, June 2nd. Similar observations will be held in all ten provinces. Thus, in the twenty-four districts in Quebec from Gaspe on the east to Pontiac on the west and in the districts in the neighbouring provinces within the Eastern time zone, beacon fires and council fires will be lighted simultaneously at 9.30 p.m.

In the same way throughout the other four time zones from coast to coast, similar fires will be lighted at 9.30 p.m. local time. Thus while it is not practical or possible for a series of beacon fires within visible distance of each other to be started at the east coast and gradually carried on through to the west coast in the way it was done in days of old, in, say, Britain, nevertheless the same effect will be achieved. In that way this event of a life-time — the crowning of a Queen — will be fittingly marked by Boy Scouts throughout one of the countries whose Scouts proudly wear the Queen's Scout Badge.

It is hoped to co-ordinate this observance with any local celebrations planned. The official Scouting council fire programme includes some special guests, one of whom will speak briefly on the subject "Our Queen"; and the closing will take the form of a re-affirmation ceremony at which all Cubs will re-affirm their Cub Promise and all Scouts, Rovers and Leaders will re-affirm the Scout Promise. There will be a roll-call of the Queen's Scouts present, a message from Lord Rowallan, Chief Scout of the British Commonwealth and Empire, will be read, and two short prayers will be said on behalf of the Queen. The council-fire will be opened with the singing of "O Canada" and closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

Lift the Curtain

When you buy shares of a company, you become one of the owners. It is your expectation and your right to be kept fully informed about the operations of the company.

That's the theory. It isn't always the case — by a long shot, says The Financial Post. The Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants has suggested basic revisions required in present companies acts to bring them closer into line with today's needs, and into conformity with current concepts of appropriate business morality.

In general, there are two main themes: fuller disclosure of company information and fair presentation of company reports. This means that the committee wants a great deal more information revealed than is now required.

A most important recommendation is for clear-cut and useful revelations of financial affairs of a company with subsidiaries or affiliates. Under today's requirements there are some notorious cases where company reports tell nothing of importance because information about related companies is withheld. In such cases the investing public can only go on rumor and only the insiders know what's going on, whether and when to buy or sell. The auditors incidenally want directors to be required to tell the annual meeting what each of them have been doing in shares of the company during the year.

Mr. A. Fink passed away last week after a long illness. Deepest sympathy goes to his wife, Mrs. A. Fink.

Lots of Blood at Nitro

On Thursday, April 11th, the Personnel Department of Explosives Division received notification that the Canadian Red Cross was holding their semi-annual Blood Donor campaign in the Valleyfield area.

A general meeting of departmental canvassers was called and voluntary subscriptions were started immediately throughout the plant.

On Tuesday of the following week, volunteer returns indicated that the clinic, on Thursday would require a full afternoon's work.

As usual, the Ladies "Willing Workers" Club of C.A.L. and Nitro Village was available and eager to assist in the refreshment and nursing part of the clinic program.

Dr. Gratton and his 12 charming assistants arrived on Wednesday evening to set up their ten-bed clinic in the Personnel Office conference room which had been scrupulously cleaned by the L. & T. Department.

At 1.00 p.m. on Thursday the first donor received his blood grouping card and immediately was placed on the "blood bed". During the following four hours, a smooth working team of Red Cross officials and local volunteer workers took care of 155 donors with not a casualty reported.

At the conclusion of the afternoon, Dr. Gratton thanked the volunteer workers and the company for "the best organized clinic he had worked with".

No More "Blows" at Nitro

With the close of another bowling season, Nitro held its annual Bowling Dance on May 1st, with approximately 375 people in attendance. Larry Edwards and his melodies" while Larry personally conducted such dances as Paul Jones, the Grand March and last but not least — a Novelty Dance, in which a few selected employees gave an impromptu of the "Can-Can' — much to the amusement of the crowd.

At 11.30, the distribution of awards got under way, with trophies being presented to the League Winners—N/C ACES (men) and SPINSTERS (women).

The Playoff Winners—N/C ACES and DEE VEES, were presented with individual trophies. The captains of these two teams were presented with a League Trophy, donated by J. P. Brodeur of Valleyfield. This trophy is an annual award and will remain in the Recreation Centre. Mike Zakem, Captain of the "Aces", and Ann Furlong, Captain of the "D.Vs" received their first bowling championship trophies. Congratulations folks!

Individual awards were then distributed to Raymond Dandurand for both the High Average — 236 and High Triple—849, Bruce Clarke was the winner of the High Single effort with a score of 370. The most outstanding lady of the evening, Miss Dorothy Hyatt, received the following awards:

(1) member of the winning team
(2) highest single for the year—344
(3) highest triple for the year—773
(4) highest average for the yr.—196

What else is there Dorothy? Nice bowling!

Appreciation gifts were given to A. Dennison, League President, A. Fraser, Secretary, and Bruce Clarke, Chairman of the Match Committee, for the time and effort they have spent in making the League a success.

Mr. A. Dennison was also the winner of the lucky number draw for six cups and saucers.

Not to be forgotten for their efforts are: "Jim" Beattie, who, as Chairman of the Dance Committee, organized and enjoyed a well-run dance; "Lil" Elson, who, very efficiently took care of the prizes; "Louie" Belanger, Chairman of Decorations, our very good friend who always does a terrific job; and "Thanks" to everyone who helped to make the whole year an enjoyable one.

Following the presentation of awards, dancing was resumed until 3.00 a.m. although rumor has it, the orchestra quit at 2.00 a.m. It's cheaper that way!

New Cabbage Variety Wins High Regard

Difficulties in making seed supplies of new varieties of crops quickly available to growers, is well illustrated by the experience of W. Ferguson, division of horticulture, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

Canadian Acre, a new variety of cabbage recently developed at the Farm, shows excellent promise for many Canadian conditions and for the United States—it was highly regarded at Cornell University. It has also had a very favorable reception in Southern England. But seed of the new variety will not be available in quantity until a year later than intended.

After thorough testing at Ottawa, a limited supply of the seed was placed with the Co-operative Seed Growers of British Columbia for multiplication in 1950. The seed was planted that year but the following season the area experienced a severe drought and there was no crop of seed to harvest. Small quantities of seed produced at the Central Experimental Farm provided a sample lot for testing purposes at a large vegetable grower's farm at Ringwood, Hampshire, England, and the new variety was so highly regarded there that prompt requests were received for additional seed supplies.

This year small lots of seed are being supplied to several growers in Canada and to selected growers in Europe and the United States. Additional supplies will also be grown at Ottawa, so that by 1954 it is expected a limited amount will be available for the commercial cabbage grower.

Canadian Acre plants are very uniform, small, with a spread of 18 to 20 inches, and the outer leaves flattened or rosette-like. The stems are very short and the foliage has a pleasing bluish-green cast. Heads are round, small, attractive, and uniform in size. The heads are exceptionally uniform in the date at which they reach maturity, and with a weight of about two pounds. It frequently matures several days earlier than Golden Acre and does very well under irrigation.

Vast Improvement Possible In Hay Crops and Pastures

By W. H. WRIGHT,
Formerly of the Plant Products Division, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa

In the days when governments first commenced to ear-mark funds for agricultural research and investigations, the prime interest was in the development of wheat, oats, barley, rye and corn, the group commonly called cereals.

This is quite understandable in a comparatively new country with a rapidly increasing population and expanding markets for these products. Great strides were made and many new varieties and strains evolved, some of which have made Canada famous. However, the overproduction of cereals had a serious effect on the fertility of many farms. Although the value of grasses and legumes has been appreciated for a very long time in Europe, it is only during the past fifty years that they have been slowly but steadily coming into their proper place in the general economy of the farm, not only as food for livestock but as soil conserving crops.

In Eastern Canada where so much of the land is devoted to raising of beef cattle and dairy farming, success depends greatly on sufficient production of forage crops and pastures of high nutritive value.

Despite the information now available on the value of grasses and clovers there is still an amazing acreage under weedy hay crops and sparsely covered pastures. Perhaps the trouble lies in the fact that grasses and legumes can persist in the face of neglect and indifference displayed by so many farmers. Nature has been very generous in providing grasses and legumes which can be adapted to almost any of the soil or climatic conditions found in Canada.

Essential Factor

There can be great satisfaction in the proper handling of grasses and clovers because they respond so easily and rapidly to correct cultural methods and fertilizers.

The prime object in producing highly nourishing hay and pasture is naturally the feeding of live stock. When the quality of hay and pasture is low the economical production of meat and milk is down in direct ratio. On farms where these commodities are in really profitable production the whole standing of crop raising is high.

Grasses and legumes in addition to providing food for livestock are well-nigh indispensable in keeping up the fertility of the soil and should be regarded as crops of the highest importance, while pastures require almost as much consideration as any other part of the farm.

No other crops provide as much organic matter for return to the soil as grasses and legumes. Their roots harbour beneficial organisms and the legumes furnish nitrogen-fixing bacteria, besides penetrating the soil and improving its tilth. To those who keep in touch with the experimental work which is being done and the information which is available it seems strange that more farmers are not taking the hay and pasture side of their farming operations more seriously. The farmers who have become interested find that it "pays off" in Canada as it has done in England, Europe and New Zealand. There are many questions which the average farmer can ask himself regarding his hay and pasture crops.

As These Questions—

(1) Am I carrying all the livestock which my land is capable of supporting?
(2) Am I carrying too much livestock under existing conditions?
(3) Can my farm be made to produce more forage of high nutritive value?
(4) Is my permanent pasture sufficient for the needs of my stock, or should I consider supplementing it with annual pasture and can such be worked in satisfactorily with my present rotation practice?
(5) Am I growing grasses and legumes which are suitable to all the soils on different parts of my farm?
(6) Are my methods of harvesting hay ensuring fodder of really high nutritive value?
(7) Am I making the best use of what permanent pasture I have, or are the cattle wandering between tufts and large patches of coarse and unpalatable grasses. (In many pastures about one-third of the grass remains untouched).

The answers to all these questions can be found with thought and perhaps a little trouble in obtaining advice and information from the right quarters. If advice is worth asking it is generally worth taking from the right sources.

In spite of the increasing interest in grass and legume production, the writer travelling from the Maritime Provinces to Western Ontario last summer was greatly impressed with the acres of so-called pasture grown up to wild carrot which was being allowed to go to seed.

Weeds and successful cropping do not go together and it is poor practice to cultivate to destroy the former while sowing grasses and clovers which have not been properly cleaned and sold under grade.

At the conclusion of the dinner, Carlyle Dickson, president, commented on the year's activities and called for the minutes of the last annual meeting and the treasurer's report. The latter showed a fairly successful year with a reduction of some $700 in capital debt. A vote of thanks was extended the Ladies Branch for their financial assistance in making this reduction possible.

A brief report was made by the chairman of the match committee and prizes for the various club competitions were presented.

Vice-President's Prize (Donated by Earl Sault) Lyndon Hooker, C. Barrington, Alan Hooker, Stewart Roy skip.

Runners Up in President (Donated by J. Anderson) Arthur White, Milton Gartshore, Melville Roy, Dr. Stalker skip.

The following slate of officers was then elected for the ensuing year:

Brunet and E. Rennie, Joint chairman. Ways and Means: Dr. Davidson, chairman. Refreshment Committee: A. A. McNeil, chairman. Entertainment Committee: B. L. McGerrigle and C. A vote of thanks was extended the retiring officers and Mr. Sault, newly elected president then took the chair and thanked the members for the honour bestowed upon him.

A general discussion followed regarding next season's activities and the meeting adjourned shortly after.

Industry Urges Price Cuts Instead of Wage Increases

NEW YORK — Organized industry struck recently at the principal prop supporting organized labor's demands for higher wages this year.

The National Association of Manufacturers asserted that the benefits of increased industrial productivity should be distributed in the form of lower prices for all Americans, rather than fatter pay envelopes for workers in unionized industries.

With the cost of living edging downward for the first time since the start of the Korean war, major unions have been transferring their emphasis from living costs to productivity in calling for a new round of wage increases in 1953.

The union contention is that the productive efficiency of the American economy has been going up at an average rate of 2 to 2½ per cent each year and that the purchasing power of workers must go up at least as fast if they are to buy the goods they make.

This concept, first embodied in the long-term contract between the United Automobile Workers CIO, and General Motors, is now being used to provide automatic annual wage increases of 4 cents an hour to more than 2,500,000 workers. The bulk of these workers are in the automobile, aircraft and railroad industries.

The National Association of Manufacturers statement opposing any fixed tie between wages and productivity was issued just one week before the international wage policy committee of the United Steelworkers of America, CIO, was slated to gather in Atlantic City to draft wage demands for 500,000 warkers in the basic steel industry.

The committee is expected to instruct the union negotiators to ask for a "substantial" rise in pay which the union will arrange for conferences with the big steel producers. Union economists already are preparing statistics on the rising productivity of the steel industry to help support the wage demand. Last year the steel union won a pay rise of 16 cents an hour and another five cents in "fringe" benefits after a 55-day strike. This year the only issue open for discussion is a general wage increase.

ORMSTOWN — The Presbyterian Evening Auxiliary met on Thursday evening, at the home of Mrs. Alton Barrington, Mrs. Alvin Gruer presiding.

Following the opening hymn, Mrs. Ivan Rember conducted devotions, reading from Proverbs 23 and leading in prayer. Miss Mildred Hay gave an interesting topic on "Mary and Martha — Mothers."

An invitation was received from the St. Paul's Evening Auxiliary to attend their meeting on Thursday, May 14.

Shower for Bride Elect — Miss Ruth English

On Saturday afternoon, May 9th, Miss Patsy Lawrence, Miss Audrey Benson and Mrs. Donald H. McEwen were hostesses at a miscellaneous shower in honour of Miss Ruth English, at the Lawrence home.

Ruth stopped at the Lawrence home for a few minutes to see a set of dishes and on arriving was very surprised to find over 30 of her friends waiting to greet her. She was escorted to a chair decorated in yellow and white and was presented with a corsage. Beside her chair was a decorated umbrella under which was a lovely assortment of gifts. After opening her gifts and passing them around for everyone to admire, Ruth thanked everyone for their kindness and invited them to visit her in her new home.

Two short games were played after which refreshments were served. During this period Ruth was presented with a very pretty decorated cake, which she cut and served. A pleasant social time was spent after which all departed wishing Ruth every happiness for the future.

Hemmingford

HEMMINGFORD — The following is an account of the Red Cross Rally held in Montreal on May 9, 1953.

As we pupils entered the Foyer in Westmount Junior High School we saw two large tables of Red Cross material on display.

On entering the Hall we received questionaires and the programme. The questionaires were to be filled out and put into a box at the door on going out of the Hall.

Mr. W. H. Campbell, chairman, gave the greeting from the Junior Red Cross Provincial Committee.

Miss E. Loraine Howe, Director, gave the greet frim Junior Red Cross, Quebec Division.

The Junior Red Cross donated $1,000 to St. Francio College High School, Richmond for their cafeteria. She said that Grades One and Two were in for lunch at 11:30, Grade 3 at 11:45, Grades 4 to 7 at twelve and Grades 8 to 11 at 12:30. They charge 25c a meal. The children that buy all their lunch had to buy a full meal because some of them might buy candy instead.

If the principal or chairman of the School Board contacted the Junior Red Cross Headquarters we would also be able to receive $1,000 for our new cafeteria.

There are Dental Clinics in six schools throughout Montreal. Miss Patricia McGoun of the Children's Memorial Hospital spoke on Physiotherapy which helps polio cases. Another lady from the same hospital spoke on "Speech Therapy" explaining how they are helping children and parents alike.

The pupils attending Intermediate and High Schools left for "discussion groups" in different classrooms.

Mr. Bob Hundle of Montreal High spoke on "International Friendliness."

We, as a group, can make portfolios and exchange them with other countries. The smallest picture that can be made is 9 inches by 12 inches and the largest being 18 inches by 24 inches. Mr. Hundle also played a record that the Junior Red Cross had translated into German.

Ian Makie of Mount Royal High spoke on Woodworking. He mentioned that the pupils could make a wooden shoe with a lathe, so that people can practice in using their fingers.

Janet LeDain of Trafalgar spoke on Overseas Relief. We pupils could make a kit, placing in it, wash cloths, tooth brushes, tooth paste or powder, nail file, laundry soau and a soap dish. This kit could be made of plastic or flannelette. The soap sent in this kit must not be perfumed soap.

It was also mentioned that School supplies are needed in the East. These supplies are very expensive there, whereas in Canada they are not as expensive. Any one send-in articles must send new ones.

After leaving the discussion period we were all treated to ice-cream.

We then returned to the hall where we saw the film, "Flood Relief for the Netherlands." We then had a period for sing-songs. The meeting came to a close with everyone rising and singing the "National Anthem."

When we got home we were tired but all had had and enjoyable time.

Ontario Population Up Third Since '39

Sinse 1939, Ontario's population has grown by 28.5 per cent, rising from 3,708,000 to 4,766,000 in 1952, it was revealed recently. Over the same period, the number of live births rose from 64,100 to an all time high of 124,600 in 1952, an increase of 60,500, or 94.4 per cent. The natural increase (births less deaths) stood at 26,600 in 1939, rose to 67,200 in 1947 and climbed to a record 80,300 in 1952.

Ontario's birth rate per 1,000 population rose from 17.3 in 1939 to a high of 26.1 in 1947 and, after a moderate decline, again equalled the previous high of 26.1 in 1952. Ontario's natural increase rate has followed a pattern similar to that of the birth rate.

In 1939, Ontario's rate of natural increase was 7.2 thousand per population.

By 1943 it has reached 10.2 and in 1947 rose to 16.1. In the next two years the rate of natural increase declined, but in 1950 it took an upswing and in 1952 established a new high of 16.9.

In 1952, Ontario's birth registrations were 5.2 per cent above those of a year ago; Quebec's registered an increase of 3.5 per cent and Canada's 3.9 per cent. Ontario's natural increase totalled over 80,000, about 9,500 more than the previous high year in 1951. Both the rates of births and natural increase approximated the highest level this province has experienced since 1900.

Offer Tramps Work In Their Own Line

Copenhagen — Denmark's few remaining full-time tramps have been offered employment commensurate with their line of "work."

Axel Duckert, a Copenhagen manufacturer of rubber soles, said he wanted five men to tramp around Denmark's coast line to test the soles.

The weekly wage is 210 kroner (about $30), to which is added a daily food allowance of 25 kroner. The testers will be required to cover about 20 miles a day, facing immediate dismissal in the event of any shirking.
