Quick action saves six in lake tragedy

A weekend drowning incident on an Eastern Townships lake which claimed the lives of three young boys was prevented from being an even greater tragedy by the quick thinking and action of three Westmounters Saturday.

Peter Swift, 29, of 459 Mount Stephen avenue, and two friends, Richard Clarke, of 410 Victoria avenue, and Michael Barnard of 327 Melville avenue, while weekending at Swift's cottage on Lake Bowker, rescued six of an estimated 15 Boy Scouts whose boat capsized when returning from a camping trip.

The Scouts were members of the 11th Troup of Ste. Therese D'Avila Parish of Sherbrooke, Quebec, who had spent a week or so camping at Lake Bowker, situated about 75 miles from Montreal, halfway between the town of Waterloo and Sherbrooke, east of Mount Orford.

"We had seen three boatloads of camping equipment by that morning," said Mr. Swift. "I guess the boatload which capsized was the last, bringing the campers themselves down the lake."

ANNOYED AT REPORTS

Mr. Swift was annoyed at what he termed "the inaccurate reporting" of the incident in a Montreal daily. "They made me out to be the hero of the accident. I was not. My two friends played just as important a part in the rescue."

"At about 1.30 p.m. Mike and I went up to the cottage to start lunch, and Richard, a non-swimmer, remained on the wharf. It was he who saw the boat overturn and called me. I went down to the wharf, Mike following, and although we didn't know whether it was serious, we thought we'd better investigate."

"We set off, Mike running the boat engine, I in the front, while Richard rushed to get my underwater mask and call my brother John Swift who has a cottage next-door."

"We got there in time to see one fellow going under. There were five youngsters clinging to the boat, and one near the front. We got there in time to see one fellow going under — I jumped in and grabbed him, brought him over to the boat, and handed him up to Mike, who pulled him in. He was unconscious."

BOYS PANICKED

After that, said Mr. Swift, he is not too clear as to what happened. He remembered trying to establish some order among the panicked youngsters, who were "crawling all over him". He still bears scratches and bruises inflicted by the heavy Scout boots the boys wore. "The boys were fully dressed," he recalls, "boots, heavy woollen pants and hats."

"After a while it looked as if a regatta were in progress," he said. The purpose of the boats which gathered at the scene was anything but gay, as people dragged the lake with long-handled rakes and dove in search of the small bodies.

A priest who had been in charge of the Scout group was absent at the time of the tragedy, administering communion to a sick woman.

Five of the children in the capsized boat were able to swim to shore, the rest were reported to be non-swimmers. None of the boys wore life-jackets. Mr. Swift estimated that the accident occurred 40 to 50 feet from shore, at a depth of nearly 55 feet. The bodies of the three boys were found at a depth of about

Next week's weather

By ERIC NEAL

July 11 to 18

Warm days and cool nights with light winds. Morning mists for many places and widely scattered thundershowers, then improving generally. Temperature range 50-85°F with 60 hours of sunshine this week. A heat wave will be followed by tornado conditions in Ontario and Abitibi, and for some places along the Ottawa Valley, including Montreal Island, with risk of flash floods.

Playgrounds program boon to mothers too

School is out, but children in Westmount who haven't a chance to spend their holidays out of town will have no lack of activities in which to expend their bounding energy.

Westmount's parks and playgrounds summer program was in full swing this week as the first round of scheduled activities began — a boon to mothers as well as children.

Inter-playground sports schedules for boys and girls got underway, and youngsters began work on arts and handicraft.

The children gather each morning at the various parks throughout the city, to work and play throughout the morning. After adjourning for lunch at their own homes, they return for the afternoon.

The summer program lasts nine weeks, with a new project each week to keep the program varied and balanced.

A week ago the children registered; next week they will be deep in nature study, tours of the city, and lessons on good citizenship. This includes a trip to Westmount police and fire stations, to industrial plants, to Westmount Mountain and the conservatory; lessons in health, safety and cleanliness, first aid and traffic rules.

In the week of July 20 to 24, the youngsters will work in a handicraft competition, each playground working on a project. The following week, July 27 to 31, special events are in store

Whee-e-e!

Linda Aspler and Doone Patch make no bones about it. They love to slide. They also like wandering over to Prince Albert Park on summer mornings to see what's doing with Westmount's summer program — anything from weaving baskets to messing about with paints — which is fun, but doesn't beat sliding.

At Unity Boys' Club

Unity clubbers tour Regent Knitting Mills

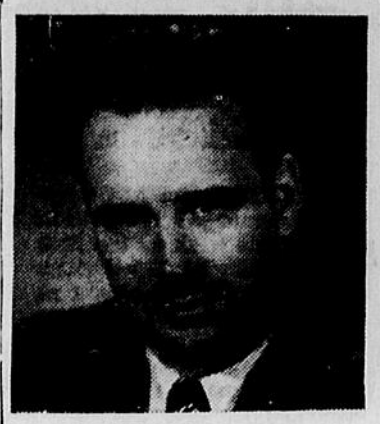
The 1959 Unity Boys' Club summer program got underway last week with a trip to the Granby Zoo and the commencement of a series of tours and trips to places of interest in and around the Island of Montreal. The first tour was to the Regent Knitting Mills and many others are to follow. A highlight this year once again will be the "Learn to Swim" project sponsored by the Montreal Parks and Playgrounds and conducted at the YWCA every Thursday morning. Some 70 youngsters have enrolled in the 'Learn to Swim' program.

BI-WEEKLY TRIPS

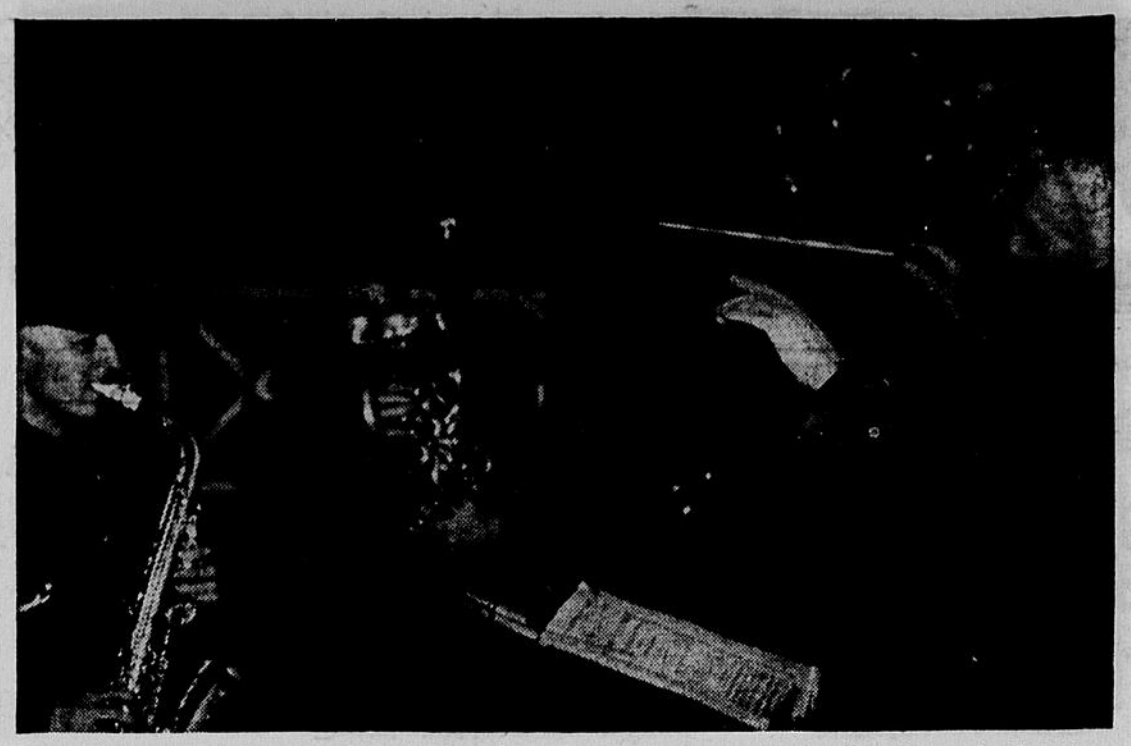
Last week was also the begining of a series of bi-weekly trips to St. Helen's Island where the youngsters will swim and picnic from 10:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. every Monday and Friday. The boys and girls will also participate in inter-club softball and field games.

NEXT WEEK

The week of July 13th, promises to be a busy week for the youngsters. In addition to Monday's and Fridays picnic at St. Helen's Island, arrangements have been completed to take the boys and girls to Lafontaine Park and Zoo, the Westmount Park Library and Greenhouse and to the Fry-Cadbury Company. Also during the week, the members will be participating in the puppet theatre, figurine modelling and the regular learn to swim at the YWCA.



CIL APPOINTMENTS: George R. Whiston, MBE, ADC, of 640 Lansdowne Avenue, who has been appointed refinish sales manager of the paints division of Canadian Industries Limited. Born in Halifax, Mr. Whiston was educated at High School of Montreal, Sir George Williams College and McGill University. He joined C-I-L in 1928 and his entire career with the company has been in paint sales. Mr. Whiston is Lieutenant Colonel commanding the Canadian Grenadier Guards and is an honorary aide-de-camp to the Governor General. During World War II he served five and one-half years with the Canadian Army and was a major on headquarters staff, 5th Canadian Division, at war's end. He took command of the Canadian Grenadier Guards in 1957.



THE SWEET SOUND OF MUSIC: Musicians of the band of the Fusiliers de Montreal, which plays frequently at summer concerts in Westmount Park, take their work seriously under the baton of bandmaster Captain Maurice Meerte, who in the old vaudeville days conducted the pit band at the Capitol Theatre. With him is Sgt.-maj. J. A. Bernardin, and bandsmen Harry Cummins and D. Wolfe.

An apartment on Thornhill?

A faint murmur was heard this week on the question of an apartment building on Stanton avenue, when a resident of Thornhill avenue, a residential street immediately above Stanton, was approached by an alleged real estate representative.

W. H. Brunini, 60 Thornhill avenue, told The Examiner that a man stating he was a representative of "Duke Enterprises" asked him whether he wouuld be interested in selling his roperty.

Mr. Brunini stated that the man also said he represented the interests who wished to construct an apartment on Stanton avenue, and that they were interested in purchasing Nos. 54, 56, 58, and 60, Thornhill avenue, thereby obtaining a six-storey frontage on that road.

He made no offer to Mr. Brunini, although he said that the people interested hoped to acquire the four properties at $25,000 apiece.

"A ridiculous offer!" was Mr. Brunini's opinion.

The properties at 54 and 56 Thornhill avenue, owned by out-of-towners, are administered by the Royal Trust Company, Mr. Brunani stated; No. 58 is an estate, the executor of which lives on the property.

Assistant city manager Norman Dawe said that no one had approached city hall on the question of a Thornhill avenue frontage, and that under the existing by-law, it was not permissible.

An apartment building could be constructed on Stanton avenue within strict city specifications, and permission has several times been obtained for such a venture, but no action has been forthcoming.

A further obstruction to a six-storey apartment on Thornhill avenue is the Quebec law of "abus des droits" (roughly "right of view"), which prevents construction of buildings which impair existing properties in the area in any way.

Obituaries

W. J. RUTHERFORD

Funeral was held Wednesday for William Jackson Rutherford, 4322 Montrose avenue, for 20 years vice-president of the Rutherford Ltd., who died accidentally Monday following injuries sustained in a 35-foot fall from a trestle connecting the company's premises on Atwater avenue. He was 66.

A native of Westmount, Mr. Rutherford attended Westmount High School and McGill University. He cut short his university education with the outbreak of World War I, enlisting in the Royal Canadian Signal Corps. He later became a commissioned officer in the Canadian infantry, following which he also served in No. 60 Squadron of the Royal Flying Corps.

At the close of the war, he returned to McGill University, and upon graduation joined his father at the Rutherford Company Ltd.

He is survived by his wife, the former Catherine Howard, daughter of Rev. Canon Roger S. W. Howard; a son, Ian; a daughter, Janet; his mother, Mrs. William Rutherford; a brother, A. S. Rutherford of Westmount; and two sisters, Mrs. J. H. D. Ross of Hamilton, Ont., and Mrs. R. H. Wallace of Cardinal, Ont.

A. De V. HUNT

A funeral service was held at Rockport, Ontario, Saturday morning for Aubrey de Vere Hunt, 4300 Western avenue, vice-president of W. C. Pitfield and Company, who died July 2 at the Montreal General Hospital.

A prominent figure in Montreal financial circles, Mr. Hunt was born in 1901 at Alexandria Bay, New York, graduating from St. Lawrence University as a Bachelor of Science in 1924. He was employed for three years with Electric Bond and Share Corporation of New York.

Mr. Hunt came to Canada in 1929 and joined W. C. Pitfield and Company, Limited in Ottawa. He served the company in various capacities and from 1935 to 1939 represented it in Chicago and in New York where he opened W. C. Pitfield and Co., Inc., a subsidiary of the Canadian firm.

He returntd to Montreal in 1939 and was appointed Sales Manager in 1940 and named a director of the company. During the war years he was very active in Victory Loan Campaigns and travelled extensively on their behalf.

Since 1952 he has been a vice-president of the company.

Mr. Hunt was also a director of Canadian International Investment Trust Ltd., Pacific and Atlantic Canadian Investment Co. Ltd and R. L. Crain Ltd.

He is survived by his wife, the former Jean Cornwall of Alexandria Bay, and by two daughters, Ann (Mrs. Georges Samson) of Montreal, and Linda, also of Montreal. A sister, Mrs. Ethel Weller of Alexandria Bay, also survives.

Disturbed man given 30 days in penitentiary

A 43-year old man apparently the victim of a persecution complex was sentenced to 30 days in Bordeaux Penitentiary recently when he appeared before Westmount deputy municipal judge A. Stalker on a charge of common assault.

Joseph Charles Berthoud, 5025 Sherbrooke street west, was found guilty of having attacked Mrs. J. J. Mulhern, belaboring her with a short stick about the head and body, while she was sightseeing in Westmount Park with her husband.

Mr. and Mrs. Mulhern, of England, were in Montreal visiting their married daughter, a resident of Pointe aux Trembles.

Berthoud claimed that the couple were watching him while pretending to read a newspaper.

Chain reaction 3-car collision at intersection

A three-car collision occurred early Monday afternoon at the Sherbrooke street west-Prince Albert avenue intersection when a driver from York, Pennsylvania, stopped suddenly to let a taxi pass, thereby starting a chain reaction.

Last in line was Claude Tessier, 26, of 10377 Parthenais street, whose auto bumped into that of James H. Davidson, 49, of 422 South Cook avenue, Trenton, Ohio, causing him to collide with the lead car, driven by Oscar J. Moberg, 47, of Pennsylvania.

Mr. Davidson maintained that he was stopped when the car behind him hit his auto.

Place des Arts as boost to civic pride unequalled, states architect Hazen Sise

By E. C. GANNON

As a boost to civic pride there will be nothing to equal the present development and completion of the forthcoming Place des Arts now being built in Montreal, stated Hazen Sise, one of Canada's leading architects and a member of the firm of Affleck, Desbarats, Dimakopoulos, Lebensold, Michaud and Sise who have been working on the design of the project soon to be completed in the east end of the city.

The general design and innovations to be incorporated in its construction are so unique as to make it one of the outstanding pieces of architecture in the world today and will be the envy of every great art centre throughout the world, he told Westmount Rotarians Wednesday.

Mr. Sise opened his remarks by commenting on the two great architectural projects at present under way in Montreal, Place Ville Marie and the Place des Arts, proving to all that now Canada is taking care to improve the design of its buildings. The economic situation which has been reached at present, he said, proves that the time is at hand for the city to improve itself.

He alluded to the present 'rhubarb' going on in civic circles concerning the danger of spoiling some of the most beautiful sites in the city, particularly the mountain area and questioned the furthering of such projects the development of which would block present views and act as a wall shutting out the beauty of landscape.

He blamed the present wrangles voiced in the press on the breakdown of civic services—a sad situation. Unfortunately public opinion is slow in rising, he stated and he feared that now it may be too late to prevent the intrusion. In this respect he emphasized that the longer it takes to settle hassles of this nature the more things were going to cost.

In explaining the new project, Mr. Sise urged his listeners not to be caught up by the tyranny of labels. Some people call it 'Place des Arts', others 'Music Hall', but the primary purpose behind the project was to give the greatest degree of pleasure to all levels of society in the city.

The Place des Arts is to be used by all the citizens, a sort of forum or rialto. The move to erect such a centre he said should have started years ago because the music life of the city has grown amazingly in the past fifteen years. But be that as it may, coming at this time, Montreal has now something to put into it as a result of the cultural advancement in music and the arts.

It was the prime purpose of the designers to make it a place of activity with stores and a plaza leading to the 'grande salle' where there will be a theatre with a seating capacity of 1250, with another building in tht vicinity offering smaller accommodation to all for small meetings and conferences.

The main concert hall seating 3,900, is equipped with what is known as 'continental seating' where every row will act as a lateral aisle. Thert will be three balconies to be reached by escalators and a fully equipped stage wider than that used by the Metropolitan Opera company in New York.

The Montreal Place des Arts will be equipped with the latest electronic equipment and will be able to accommodate spectacles larger than the Bolshoi Ballet, at present the world's largest endeavor theatrically.

A garage to accommodate over 500 cars will be part of the project with a first class restaurant fully equipped for the benefit of patrons.

The project had now been institutionalized, he stated with the Quebec government subscribing 2½ million dollars while the public subscription would equal another three million dollars.

Public subscriptions to the project were still being received he said and were open to lovers of arts.

Firemen stand by as welding begins on public library

Westmount firemen stood by as welding operations began on an addition to the Westmount Public Library in Westmount Park earlier this week.

The week was a quiet one for the fire department, disturbed only by a rubbish fire on the empty field opposite the Westmount Athletic Grounds, where children had been playing.

Two fire alarms were rung in: one by a seven-year-old girl who was tearfully waiting with her mother when fire trucks arrived; the other by an unknown person at one a.m. Wednesday morning, at the corner of Metcalfe and Western avenues.

The speaker was introduced by Frank Sharpe, newly elected president, who urged the members to attend the meeting at the Queen Elizabeth Hotel next week in honor of the International President, Hal Thomas who has chosen Montreal as the initial city in starting his world tour of Rotary clubs.

Next Wednesday evening members were requested to attend the reception at the Queen Elizabeth to meet the International President and his wife.

President Sharpe felt honored in having been chosen to introduce the International President to the Montreal clubs. It was a great honor for Westmount Rotary he said.

WE SAY

What's cooking on Stanton?

APPARENTLY there was a faint flutter this week in the Stanton street situation — and it may have been only someone flying a kite to see which way the wind is blowing.

Surely with the city of Montreal in a fine fix over the Cedar avenue property tangle and the 35-storey building in another location being roasted, to say nothing of a half-dozen other building controversies raging at the moment, Westmount can keep its skirts clear.

There has been much said, pro and con, about the Stanton property and its suitability for an apartment site.

Frankly, the wind has all been blowing against, as far as public opinion is concerned.

Let's see how much public opinion counts in this case.

Obscenity law now has teeth

ANYONE who is affronted by the filth-purveying tabloids on the news-stands and the paper-back pot-boilers with their lurid covers will take heart in the ammendment to the Obscenity Law.

There are such papers and such books in Westmount, and it will be interesting to see if and when the new law is used to crack down on those who pander to such tastes.

The new definition concerns itself with the intent and ordinarily this is not too difficult to discern.

Censorship is an awkward to handle.

The danger is that it may go too far. Freedom is a wonderful thing, but the danger is that liberty too soon becomes license.

We do not believe the new amendment will deprive readers of any worth while material.

Longtime resident answers newcomer

Sir:

In reply to the Rev. William Morris' letter of the Examiner of June 19th inst., I would like to state my views: the City of Westmount does a magnificent job, against the odds the Department works under.

All I can see is this: that the children get far too much and are by no means appreciative of what is done for them; all they seem to be interested in is damaging people's property.

Selby Park had a lovely drinking fountain when first opened, that of course had to be broken, all the rockery, electric lights also. Is it any wonder that the Department does not replace same? Even Prospect street is invaded and trees broken, in spite of the fact they have two playgrounds and a Club.

As regards the sand boxes, they should be abolished altogether. Most unsanitary, loaded with germs, I personally have seen them used as a latrine by some youngsters.

What is needed is a spot where older people can sit and relax with a little quietude.

"Enough Said."

Royal visit effort applauded by judge

Sir:

Westmount did itself proud on the occasion of Her Majesty's brief and historic visit to the little city that has earned a well-deserved reputation as a municipality that is not only well and efficiently governed but has many points of interest. Its flower clock is admired not only by Westmounters but visitors. It is a tribute to the horticultural skill of those who annually renew it.

The visit enabled the Mayor, council and general managers as well as those who comprise the higher administrative personnel to demonstrate they could dress the city in a manner that would awaken appreciative comment. The bunting and standards were properly placed and pleasing to the beholder.

The Mayor wearing his chain of office accompanied by his colleagues and their wives and the general manager smiling and wearing the appropriate morning coat gave the junction a dignity that I am sure pleased her Majesty and her Royal Consort.

The gift was one that was typically Canadian and a constant reminder of the pleasing liquid that we regard as Canadian.

The greeting that Her Majesty received was evidence of not only the loyalty of the patriotic residents of Westmount but the pleasure they derived in being able to meet

Host to pediatricians

Two thousand pediatricians from 59 countries will gather in the Queen Elizabeth Hotel July 19-25 for the ninth International Congress of Pediatrics.

By CYNTHIA JONES

We caught up with Dr. Denton in his office in the hematology department of the Montreal Children's Hospital which he has headed since 1946.

"This is the first time the conference, which occurs every three years, has been held in Canada and the only possible time for the next 40 years," said Dr. Denton who has been organizing the conference for the past year and one half with his chief at the hospital, Dr. Alan Ross, who is president and chairman. (Dr. Ross and Dr. Denton are professor of pediatrics and associate professor respectively at McGill.)

Dr. Ronald L. Denton

As a delegate of the Canadian Pediatrics Society of which he was secretary from 1947-52 and president in 1954, Dr. Denton attended the 1950 and 1956 congresses in Zurich and Copenhagen. "I extended the invitation on behalf of Canada at Zurich and was turned down but was accepted at Copenhagen," he said.

Theme of the conference is "Child Health in a World of many Nations" and 535 experts in their fields will give papers. Although Dr. Denton gave papers on the RH blood factor and the accidental poisoning of children at Zurich and Copenhagen he feels that as a host it is not proper etiquette to deliver an address this time.

17 Russians

"We have a strong delegation of 17 Russians headed by the world-famed pediatrician, Professor Maslov," said Dr. Denton, a soft-spoken, mild-mannered, friendly man of 46. "He will speak on delinquency, on the management of abnormal behavior in children and the rearing of children in large groups. They have delinquency problems in Russia, too, and as both parents in many families go to work there are problems of bringing up children in groups. Other Russians are tackling the topics of nutrition of large populations, child psychology and the psychological handling of children."

Pediatricians from Australia, Nigeria, Pakistan, Iran, Iraq, Poland, and Finland will be on deck. "The only major countries not represented will be Communist and Nationalist China. Both figure if one comes, the other can't," said Dr. Denton. "We also expect 800 wives and 300 children for whom programmes have been arranged."

Dr. Denton believes that the general state of health of the world's children is good and much improved since the war when the requirements of food rationing and distribution necessitated a type of uniform nutrition in countries, raising the standards of a large part of the population.

"Here in Canada we do not appreciate the extent of unwellness that exists in children in underprivileged countries," he said. "Thousands of children die of malnutrition every year in India, Central America, Africa and China. The pressing problem in these countries is still malnutrition but here on this continent and in other parts of the world the new born infant is the problem."

As a result the conference is devoting six sessions each on these subjects.

Dr. Denton was born in this city, the younger son of K. C. Denton, retired mathematics teacher at Montreal High School, and the late Mrs. Denton. His older brother, B. K. Denton, is manager of the Monsanto Chemical Corporation in Tokyo. His two sisters are Mrs. Dorothy Chamberlin, an editor of Copp-Clark publications in Toronto, and Mrs. Marjorie Dancey, of Ottawa.

Dr. Denton received his elementary and high school education at Montreal High School. He was awarded his BSc, from McGill in 1933, and his MD in 1937. He interned at the Montreal Children's Hospital for a year and one half and at the Children's Medical Centre in Boston before joining the navy in 1940 and a surgeon lieutenant. "Did you know that the Canadian navy had more pediatricians than any other specialists?" asked Dr. Denton. "I was shipped to the base hospital at Halifax and that year we were rushed off our feet with a flood of epidemics — many cases of scarlet fever, meningitis and diphtheria."

Author

The next year he spent in the Ottawa office of Surgeon Captain A. McCallum, medical director general, who subsequently prefaced the two books Dr. Denton wrote while in the navy and one of which is now regular issue to every Canadian officer and seaman, the other to the medical personnel. (The titles are "First Aid RCN" and "Instructions to Sick Berth Staff of RCN". Dr. Denton's wife illustrated the books.)

For nine months he was the only doctor aboard the armed merchant cruiser Prince Henry with a crew of 380 men. The Prince Henry assigned to the U.S. Navy, carried arms and men and convoyed ships to the Aleutian Islands. After 18 months at the Cornwallis, N.S., training base in charge of the naval hospital, Dr. Denton finished up the war as a surgeon lieutenant-commander in Halifax, discharging men from the navy as a physician at the naval hospital.

At the end of the war Dr. Denton returned to the Children's Medical Centre in Boston for eight months' post graduate work in hematology with Dr. Louis Diamond, famed children's hematologist and author of "The Blood of Children."

Dr. Denton has written the section on blood in "Pediatrics" edited by Drs. Donald Paterson and Jon Ferguson McCreary, of the University of British Columbia. He is a chartered member of the International Society of Hematologists and a Fellow of the Royal Cancer Society of Physicians. From 1947-1952 Dr. Denton was the medical director of the Canadian Red Cross Blood Transfusion Service in Quebec province.

He is married to the former Diana MacDougall, daughter of the late Montreal lawyer, Gordon W. MacDougall. Mrs. Denton is chairman of the board of Miss Edgar's School. They have three children, Susan, 17, off to Switzerland for a year of French, Derek, 12, at Sedbergh School, Montebello, and Timothy, 9, at Lower Canada College.

The family's hobbies are fishing, skiing and photography.

By VALENTINA RAHR

"Sir George Williams College is being flooded with applicants" declares DOUGLAS BURNS CLARKE Lansdowne avenue registrar and vice principal. "We are literally snowed under with evening students." Enrollments are rising at colleges all over Montreal at an unprecedented rate and many educators expressed the fear that Montreal is falling behind in the race to provide additional facilities for higher education.

Colin M. McDougall, Lansdowne avenue, registrar of McGill said: "No student who meets the entrance requirements of he undergraduate faculties will be refused for lack of space . . . McGill will institute no changes in the present requirements. Some change are being planned for the 1960-61 session. There will be no increase of fees in the coming session."

The congestion is being caused by the wave of students who were born during the baby boom of the war years. Elementary schools and high schools coped with the situation by building additional classrooms or in some areas, building new schools entirely. Some colleges in the Montreal area are rushing through completion of new additions, which they hope will be ready for occupation early next fall.

Dr. Alan Knight, acting for Dr. Bram Rose, Victoria avenue, accepted a $3,000 grant from the Montreal Association for Multiple Sclerosis at its annual meeting at the Queen Elizabeth Hotel. Dr. Rose is director of the allergy division, and the grant is to be used to aid research intc the cause and cure of multiple sclerosis.

Clinic researchers at McGill would use the grant to isolate in blood, serum and other body fluids, the protein factors which appear to cause changes in the system and produce symptoms similar to those of multiple sclerosis. Some researchers are begining to think that it may be caused by a form of protein production in the victim's own system, according to Dr. Knight, of the allergy division of McGill University Clinic. They do not know yet, what the protein is, or why the patient is "hypersensitive" and reacts the way he does. It is possible normal persons manfacture such a substance — but do not get sick.

If the "guilty" protein may be isolated and studied, there may be hope for victims of a disease which attacks the nervous system, causes progressive loss of limb and body functions, and is still incurable. "It looks like a promising tack to take in the search for the basic cause of what has been a very obscure disease", said Dr. Knight.

Miss K. Lamont, of The Study, shortly to be moved to 1 Braeside Place, was teaching for some years at Bishop Strachan's School, then located at 354 Jarvis street, in Toronto. This same building is now being used by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation of Talks and Public Affairs, the latter recently prominent in the news.

Mrs. Alan Bourne, Strathcona avenue was the lucky winner last week of a trip to New York and a weekend at the Waldorf Astoria, all at the expense of Jas. A. Ogilvy's Ltd. as part of their present promotion campaign. Mrs. Bourne bought a $1.29 terry cloth cover for her toaster, and her ticket was drawn. She was accompanied on the trip by her husband Dr. Alan Bourne, and their 16-year old son. Mrs, Bourne is Chairman of Women's Publicity for the Ninth International Congress of Paediatrics to be held at the Queen Elizabeth July 19 to 25, inclusive, under the patronage of Her Majesty The Queen.

Westmount's fire chief, E. C. Harper, leaves shortly for a two week vacation at Hampton Beach on the Atlantic seaboard, for a well-earned rest far away from the noisy demands of fire alarms and sirens.

3 Westmounters honored for promotion of first aid

Douglas W. Ferrier, 630 Carleton avenue, former vice-president of personnel of the Bell Telephone Company of Canada, has been named Knight of Grace of the Order of St. John in an honors list released by the authority of Governor-General Vincent Massey, Prior of the Order.

Mr. Ferrier is one of five Canadians to receive the highest honor of the Order, commonly referred to as the St. John Ambulance. He is a past president of the St. John Council for Quebec, and a member of the Dominion and Quebec councils of the Boy Scouts Association.

Similarly honored were deputy Federal Health Minister, Dr. G. D. W. Cameron; managing director of Henry Birks and sons Ltd., Col. George W. Cavey of Ottawa; former justice of British Columbia Supreme Court, Hon. J. V. Clyne of Vancouver, chairman of MacMillan and Bleodel Ltd.; and Senator Stanley S. McKeen of British Columbia.

Also honored in the list of 120 Canadians are Marcel Vincent, 351 Lansdowne avenue, and Lt.-Col. Frank Ritchie, 3089 The Boulevard.

Mr. Vincent, who is vice-president and general manager for the eastern area of the Bell Telephone Company, was honored for his work in connection with the first aid program at the Bell. He is admitted to the Order as an officer brother — a double honor, as members are usually admitted at the rank of serving brother.

The Church

By
The Venerable
R. Kenneth Naylor, D.D.,
Rector, Trinity Memorial Church

When St. Paul wrote to his disciples in Corinth 1,900 years ago he addressed them collectively as "the Church of God which is at Corinth", and individually to "them that are sanctified in Christ Jesus, called to be Saints". He did not imply by the word "Saints" that they were perfect, for he went on to tell them, without pulling any punches, what a poisonous lot of Saints they were. In calling them Saints, however, he reminded them that they were dedicated to a new life in Christ Jesus, and that it was up to them to live according to their dedication, and he warned them to avoid certain things which were unbecoming to Saints, and to do certain things which their Sainthood required. He used the word half a dozen times in the lettet.

The word Church is another matter. He used the word twenty-two times in the letter, more frequently than in any other of his letters. For example, in his letter to the Romans he did not use the word Church till he came to the salutations in the last chapter, and there it was always used of the Church from which he was writing, not of a church in Rome. Perhaps in Rome there were only individual Christians without a ministry or an organized Church.

Again it may be that the Church is emphasized in Corinth because Paul was so worried about the Christians there, and he felt he could best deal with them collectively in order that he might reach them individually. So he talked "to the Church of God which is in Corinth."

Church is not the easiest word in the world to interpret; and St. Paul used various metaphors to describe it just as our Lord used various similes to explain the Kingdom of God. The kingdom is like a grain of mustard seed; it is like a dragnet; it is like a merchant man. It cannot really be described for the Kingdom of God is infinite and cannot be limited in its nature. That is what define means — limit. You cannot point to something and say "That is the Kingdom of God", anymore than .you .can point to an idol and say "That is God." You cannot define or limit infinity.

St. Paul was not so careful about the words "Saints" and but when they truly hear the "Church" for they are human groups and societies and you can see them and say "Those are the Saints" or "That is the Church." But he did use metaphors to explain what the church is. In this letter he used three such metaphors. He said "Ye are God's husbandry or farming; Ye are God's building or temple; Ye are the Body of Christ."

I should like to take those three words and see what they mean in terms of the church of our own day.

Paul had been reproving the Saints for their divisions—their cliques. He had preached the Gospel in Corinth, then Apollos had come and possibly Peter, and each of them had a following and the church was divided. The divisions were not due to Paul or Apollos or Peter. They were due probably to the fact that one man became a leader, and another objected and set up a clique of his own and claimed Apollos or Peter as his authority. Paul reminded them that he and Apollos had each played a part; he had planted and Apollos had watered but the work was entirely God's; God gave the increase and that is what mattered. Ye are God's husbandry. The whole work is his and we are merely agents.

What do you look for in good farming? What is implied in Paul's metaphor? When I farm I want good clean deep soil; like the soil our Lord spoke about in the Parable of the Sower, a soil which brought forth some thirty, some sixty, and some a hundredfold. In the second place, I look for order and color in the garden; as we find it in the Feeding of the Five Thousand. I easily imagine the multitudes in their colorful robes, sitting in companies as they were bidden. They reminded the Evangelist of garden beds. And I look for happiness and the song of birds in the garden, a reminder of the joy that was found in the Early Church. Lastly, I look for fruit — the food of man; the aromatic herbs that are most highly perfumed when they are bruised; the leaves of the trees that are for the healing of the nations. Something of this, and much more is implied in His expression "Ye are God's husbandry".

Red Cross picks conference song

A new song composed in Bruno, Sask., will greet the delegates of 40 nations at the Junior Red Cross International Study Centre next August, in Toronto.

Some 70 Canadian Junior Red Cross members who have been selected to attend the Study Centre are now learning the new all-Canadian song "Welcome to All Nations" and will use it to pay tribute to their 108 colleagues from overseas and from across the border.

Last Winter, Canadian Junior Red Cross launched a nation-wide competition to obtain a theme song that would be sung at the International rally. Hundreds of lyrics put to music were received and judges had a hard task selecting the winning number. They finally awarded top honors to a song written by Andrea Nenzel, Grade 12, put to music by Sister Mary Michael Lux, both of the Ursuline Academy, Bruno, Sask.

'Sacrament' is subject of Christian Science

The spiritual power of Christ Jesus' teachings and example will be emphasised this Sunday at the services in all Christian Science churches, in the reading of the week's Lesson-Sermon on the subject "Sacrament." Bible selections will include Jesus' statement (John 6:63): "It is the spirit that quickeneth; the flesh profiteth nothing: the words that I speak unto you, they are spirit, and they are life."

Correlative passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will include: "Implicit faith in the Teacher and all the emotional love we can bestow on him, will never alone make us imitators of him. We must go and do likewise, else we are not improving the great blessings which our Master worked and suffered to bestow upon us."

Police force gets no holiday from weekend traffic mishaps

The July 4 weekend was no holiday for Westmount policemen, as traffic accidents continued to occur throughout the city. No one was injured, although in one case a driver was taken to hospital and treated for shock and fright.

Slavko Hosjam, 26, of 3996 Hotel de Ville, was released from the Montreal General Hospital after being treated for shock following an accident which occurred Sunday at 6.11 p.m. on the corner of Sherbrooke street west and Claremont avenue.

Mr. Hosjam told police he was travelling east on Sherbrooke street, and that as he approached Claremont avenue, the traffic light changed to amber. The car in front of him stopped suddenly, he stated, and he struck it.

Driver of the other auto involved, James Warwick, 38, of 1555 Summerhill avenue, stated that he was stopped at the corner, waiting for the red light to change, when another auto struck the rear of his car.

TRUCK AND AUTO

Early Sunday morning a pickup truck and an auto collided at the corner of Atwater avenue and Dorchester street west.

Jean Noel Fournier, 24, driver of the pickup truck, stated that he was cut off by an auto proceeding in the same direction south, on Atwater.

Robert Patt, 41, 2780 West 36th street, Brooklyn, N. Y., maintained that he made a hand signal indicating a right turn, and that his car was struck by the pickup truck as he started to make the turn.

NO LICENSE

Joseph O'Donohue, 34, of 435 3rd avenue, Verdun, was taken to Westmount Police Station and charged with driving without a permit for the current year following an accident in the small hours of Saturday morning at the northeast corner of Dorchester and Atwater.

O'Donohue had collided with an auto driven by Arthur Theriault, 49, of 424 Beaubien street east. A passenger in Theriault's auto, Miss M. R. Scott, 30, of 119 Greene avenue, complained of a bruise on the left elbow following the accident, but refused medical attention.

O'Donohue told police that he was driving north on Atwater, and was turning east on to Dorchester at the time of the accident. An auto travelling west on Dorchester was also turning on his right side, he stated; he misjudged the distance and struck the auto.

An automobile driven by Mrs. George Sheridan, 49, of 51 Chesterfield avenue, collided with one driven by Miss Anita Polger, 26, of 5721 Terrebonne avenue shortly after noon, Saturday, at the intersection of Victoria avenue and St. Catherine street west.

Mrs. Sheridan stated that she was t lling west on St. Catherine street on the inside lane, and that while turning onto Victoria avenue an auto travelling in the same direction, in tht outside lane, pulled in front of her car, striking the left front bumper.

RUNAWAY TRUCK

A truck and two cars were involved in a collision later in the day, when the truck, a Dionne grocery delivery vehicle, rolled down Victoria avenue, striking the parked autos of Mr. Gorden MacCormack, 48, of 645 Victoria avenue, and Mr. Louis Cohen, 49, of 642 Victoria avenue.

The truck's driver, Claude Abel, 27, of 4228 Christophe Colomb, stated that he had parked his vehicle in front of 663 Victoria avenue while making a delivery to that address. The front wheels were turned toward the curb, he told police, the handbrake off, and the motor running.

The owners of the two cars involved heard the crash and came out to find the truck collided with their vehicles.

Friday drivers, non-residents up accident rate

Friday drivers hurrying home for the weekend helped raise Westmount's 1958 accident rate to a new high of 1,296, according to the city's recently released annual report.

Not only was the frequency of accidents higher on Fridays (210) but figures on the drivers involved show that out of 2,079 drivers, 261 were resident, 1,818 non-resident.

For no apparent reason, accidents also occurred at a high rate (171) on Tuesdays.

In the past 5 years, the highest accident previous to 1958 was stacked up in 1957 when 1,117 accidents were reported.

1,138 of the accidents were traffic, 19 street, and 139 other types of accident. 328 persons were injured, four fatally.

Oddly enough, only one accident was reported to have occurred in a school yard, a place where there is a large concentration of active children.

Chickenpox high in health survey of 1958 report

Chickenpox was the worst offender among communicable diseases reported in Westmount for 1958 with a total of 236 cases. It was the highest incidence of the disease since 1949, when 239 cases were reported.

Runner-up for the top place among communicable diseases was measles, with 150 cases reported.

In the past 10 years the highest incidence of communicable disease was a rash of German measles in 1956, when 675 cases were reported.

The lowest incidence in the 10-year span was diphtheria. No cases have been reported in Westmount since 1949. At the turn of the century, diphtheria was one of the most feared child killers in Canada. Over twenty years ago, when widespread innoculation against the disease came into force, medical science gained in the battle against it, and in this country it may be considered to have been virtually wiped out.

No cases of poliomyelitis, also a feared disease until the discovery of Salk vaccine, were reported in Westmount in 1958. The highest incidence of polio in the last 10 years occurred in 1951, when 16 cases were reported.

Tuberculosis, in spite of modern methods of treatment and free X-ray clinics held in the city, continues to occur, 18 new cases having been reported in 1958. This is less than half the incidence in 1948 (46 cases).

In 1958, 2,054 persons were x-rayed, and of the 18 new cases reported, none were hospitalized, and no deaths were reported, although 52 families were under hospital supervision.

The crude birth rate for 1958 stands as 8 per thousand population, with 238 registered live births, 3 still births. Deaths reported were 305, giving a death rate of 10 per thousand population.

The highest death rate occurred in the 70-100 age group (186); leading cause of death were diseases of the circulatory system including heart disease (147), cancer (54), and diseases of the nervous system and sense organs (29).

Snow? we had it.. all 277,000 tons

Nineteen fifty-eight will be remembered as the year of the "big snow", especially by city administrators who were faced with a deficit of $31,274 because of the extra funds demanded for clearing the nearly 277,000 tons of fallen snow.

A total of 135.9 inches fell on 78 days — almost 150 per cent increase of the 1957 total of 50.4 inches. The average fall within the last 84 years has been 109 inches.

The month of February was the biggest offender, 40.8 inches having fallen within its 28 days. 15 storms within the year, of three inches or over, tied up traffic and taxed the city's snow-fighting facilities heavily.

Nearly 42 thousand man hours were required for the mammoth task, involving diesel graders, heavy, light and medium duty blowers sidewalk tractors and trucks. Hired trucks, graders, bulldozers and shovel loaders were also called in to help remove the approximately 277,000 tons of snow which fell.

Icy sidewalks and streets required 4969 tons of salt — over three and a half times to amount used in 1957. In adition 806 tons of "roughing materials" were spread on roadways, and 3288 tons on sidewalks.

Assault on boy draws $100 fine for perpetrator

A 34-year old man, charged with common assault of a 14 year old boy in Westmount Park recently, was ordered by Westmount deputy municipal judge A. Stalker to pay a $100 fine or spend 15 days in jail.

The man paid the fine.

Joseph di Gregorio, 4145 St. Antoine street, was arraigned on three charges: carrying a concealed hunting knife; causing a disturbance in Westmount Park, and common assault.

The incident occurred on June 23 at 5.40 p.m.

Westmount police officials stated that there was no indication that the man had been drinking, and he gave no plausible reason for his action beyond saying that "he thought the boy had said something that he did not understand."

He was fined $25 on each charge, and $25 costs.

HUNTING CRY

The fox hunters' cry of "Tallyho!" is of uncertain origin, but probably is the English form of the French "taiaut," which is pronounced "ta-ee-oh." It is the cry of a dog handler when he sights the fox and is intended to urge on the hounds.

Glider duo readies for world meet

By DEBORAH WOODWARD

Two West End members of Canada's Nordic Glider Team — part of the Model Aeronautics Association of Canada — will fly to Brusten, Belgium, on August 15 to compete in the international model glider contest.

This is only the second time in history that Canadians have entered the world-wide competition. The problem of raising funds to send contestants to Europe has long been, and still remains, a mighty obstacle to the aeronautical association's growth and accomplishment.

"Our real competition will come from the state-sponsored satelite countries — Hungary, Poland, Czechoslovakia, and Russia herself," declares B. V. Haisman, 5282 Montclair, chairman of the glider section.

The two West Enders — W. R. Thompson, 725 Landsdowne and C. R. Foster, 6707 Cote St. Luc road — are Canada's top men in the field. Frequent, almost daily, sessions on the glider field in Hawkesbury have put them in top shape.

The Nordic Gliders that the men will fly have a 75-inch wingspread and slender, long bodies. Built to international specifications of maximum total wing and tail surface, the models vary only in the turn-up of the wing tips, the balance of weights, and other slight individual innovations.

Mr. Haisman who is accompanying the competitors, explains that plane-building in this case is only a means to an end. With considerable knowledge of aerodynamics, these men attempt to construct planes which will take optimum advantage of air conditions.

"Our object is to construct planes which will be the top competitors," says Mr. Thompson succinctly. "We work as a team and it's our composite score at the end of all our flights which counts."

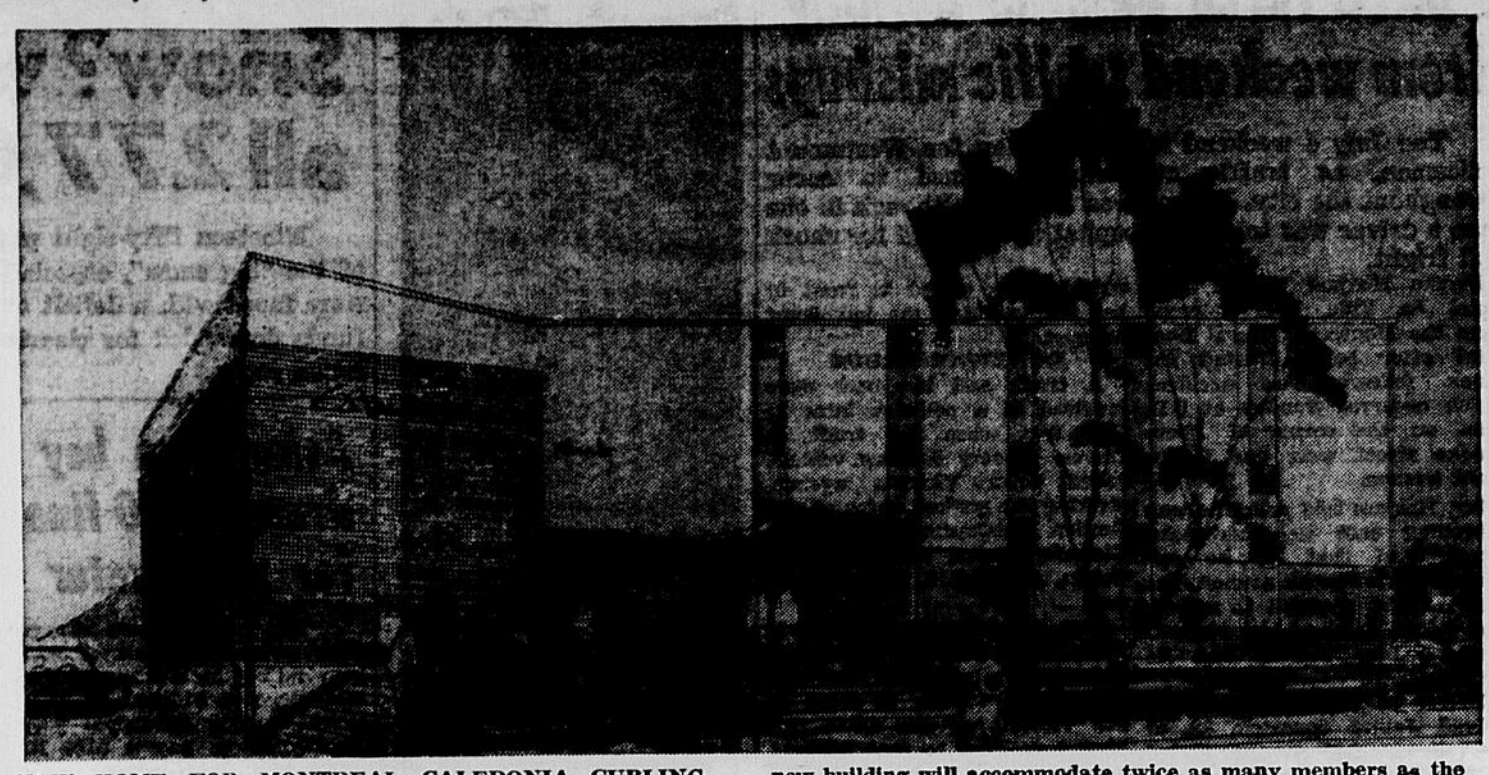
LAUNCHING

Launching of the Nordic Gliders is as tricky — and as spectacular — a project as getting a full-sized glider into the air. One man holds the plane over his head, nose upward, while a second holds the winch with 50 metres of line and begins to run away from the rising model. When the glider is at 164 feet it levels off and the line slips off.

Maximum flying time for a model glider is three minutes; if it stays in the air any longer than that the flyers assume that it is flying on favorable air currents rather than its own merit. Therefore, at the end of a three-minute period, if the model is still in flight, a fuse lodged in the tail detonates and brings the plane earthward.

Besides the Nordic Glider Team, the Model Aeronautics Association of Canada boasts a Wakefield (gas motor) team and a rubber-driven plane team. The latter will also enter the international field when they fly to France for high competition on August 19.

President of the national association is Scotland-born M. Segrave, 6440 Decarie, who was also to have entered the Belgian contest before a change of plans.



NEW HOME FOR MONTREAL CALEDONIA CURLING CLUB: The contemporary building shown in the architect's sketch above will be the new headquarters of the Montreal Caledonia Curling Club to be located on Hillside Lane. The new building will accommodate twice as many members as the old rink on Burnside near Peel, and the club's president has extended an invitation to members of the Westmount High Schools to use the club as guests. —Tedd Church Photo

Historic curling club breaks ground for contemporary rink on Hillside site

On Monday ground was broken on the new quarter-million-dollar curling club to be located on Hillside Lane, on the site of the old Quinlan stone yard. This beautiful contemporary building will replace the old Montreal Caledonia Curling Club, recently demolished, which stood on Burnside near Peel street.

"The new curling club will have four sheets instead of two" commented A. Frederick Hutchingame, newly elected president of the Montreal Caledonia Curling Club. "New facilities for ladies will be provided, such as locker rooms, showers, etc. We formerly had 150 members, but will be able to accommodate 300 members as soon as the new club is finished." Curling matches are already scheduled for the end of November, when the construction of the rink is expected to be completed. Architects for the project are Ouellet and Vincent; construction by Vermont Construction Co.

"We are planning to allot specified hours during the week when the rinks will be open to students of the new Westmount Composite High School," continued Mr. Hutchingame. "There will be no charge for them of course, we shall be glad to have them as guests of the Montreal Caledonia Curling Club. Up to now we have had many students take advantage of this arrangement, from Sir George Williams College and Montreal High School."

There is strong reason to believe that curling originated in Scotland during the fifteenth century, but it was also popular on the continent of Europe. During that time handle-less stones were used which weighed about 25 lbs. By 1650 a handle was added, and a heavier stone came into use. About two centuries later, the stone weighed up to 100 lbs. It needed a hefty Highlander to heave such a formidable missile across natural ice in the rugged Scottish outdoors! Yet to a nation of stalwarts to whom "tossing the caber" was an easy sport, curling with 100 lbs. stones might be child's play.

"Irons were used instead of granites up to 1951, when the last iron competition was held in Canada", Mr. Hutchingame went on. "Granites are used across Canada now and the average weight of a stone is about 42 lbs. A long time ago, about the period of 1790 to 1810, cannonballs were cut in half by troops, handles were put on, and thus the first curling matches were held in Montreal, on the ice on the St. Lawrence River, or other ponds. The games were usually held during the day because there was insufficient lighting at night, and the equipment was transported to the playing ice on sleighs. Today all the stones are made from granite which comes from Scotland, the best for this use in the world."

The Montreal Caledonia Curling Club is the third oldest curling club in Canada. It was founded in 1850, and a second club was built on Mountain street at the cost of $974.70, for which fifteen members contributed advances to expedite matters. Prince Arthur came to inaugurate the club, and took part in one of the first games. A great number of admirers of the "roaring game" were invited to the opening, and they came accompanied by their lady friends.

The game is played with stones and besoms or brooms on a smooth ice sheet. In Scotland, during 1842, shortly after the Grand Caledonian Curling Club was formed with its aim "to unite curlers throughout the world into one Brotherhood of the Rink, and to regulate the Ancient Scottish game of Curling by General Laws" — Queen Victoria and the Prince Consort visited the president of the organization, who was the Earl of Mansfield.

They planned to have a special demonstration of curling for the Queen. Unfortunately, the weather was mild for the Royal visit. Undaunted, the ingenious Earl had a part of his spacious ballroom floor waxed, and gave a creditable curling demonstration before the Queen. It is recorded that the Prince Consort was enthusiastic and graciously accepted a pair of stones, becoming a patron.

When the Canadian Branch was instituted, its honorary president was the Governor General of Canada.

CALGARY: The Canadian Federation of Music Teachers' Associations ends an eventful four-day biennial Convention today. About two hundred attended from the East to West coast and we have had the entire program in one of the most beautiful structures in Canada and a wonderful reception at the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. R. Long, "Longwood Manor" following the recital by the Seattle pianist, Randolph Hokanson, who was at the Convention to give a Piano Master Class.

The Calgary Jubilee Auditorium, which has a twin in Alberta Province in the city of Edmonton is, as the saying goes, "out of this world". We in Quebec province feel the lack of concert facilities when two smaller cities possess such impressive and gorgeous art centres before us I am told that there are no finer places anywhere and the stage of the main auditorium is one of the largest on this continent. The hall that is being used for the Convention concerts and lectures is the Main Social Hall and seats 450. The large auditorium holds 2750 persons. I shall write more about this remarkable building when I return from my complete trip.

THE SETTING FOR THIS CONVENTION is so inspiring that one cannot helf feeling very proud of Canada and its inhabitants. Calgary is a very lovely city, extremely clean and everywhere people are so friendly. I met the Mayor of Calgary, Don MacKay at one of the banquets, being seated right near him at the head table. We had quite a chat, and have a friend in common, that energetic communal worker, Mrs. Don Heywood, who comes from Calgary. The Mayor is a jovial family man with seven children, six girls and a boy.

OF PARTICULAR INTEREST was the fact that the Invocation of the Convention was delivered by Brigadier Wm. O'Donnell, CO Calgary Citadel, Salvation Army. One could not meet a nicer man, and his wife was equally charming

London farce at Stowe, Vt.

"Will Any Gentleman?", a Vernon Sylvaine farce, opened a five-day run at the Stowe Playhouse, Stowe, Vt., last night.

The play, which enjoyed a long run in London, was written up by critics there as "mirth-quake farce at its ridiculous best." The plot, concerning a hypnotist named Mendoza and his art, revolves around a meek bank clerk who blossoms under the effect of hypnotism.

SALUTE TO SUMMER THEATRE

Lorraine Sheehan, Westmount, and Pauline Rousseau, N.D.G., dining at the Hotel St. Louis, Quebec City.

Hand in glove with golf courses, tennis courts, beaches and swimming pools, the Summer Theatre — replete with bucolic glamour and the talented and dedicated persistence of producers, directors, resident actors and such — is finally taking its rightfully assessed position in resort areas, coming within the scope of this department, during these warm and balmy months.

Many a "beat" vacation spot has been re-invigorated by the salutary activities and presence of these groups; and their "delightfully different" live performances have enhanced the enjoyment and stimulated the enthusiasm of vacationers, who have for the most part been dulled by lack of opportunity or time in their work-a-day city lives for similar entertainment.

It is no small wonder, then, that local merchants, tavern and inn keepers and others gaining profitable lucre from well-heeled pleasure-seekers in the holiday communities, are coming to the full realization and appreciation of the "little" straw hat movements and their drawing powers.

Rurally, even the pretty farmers' daughters are secondary attractions, these days.

This week—while bowing gratefully to David Garmel at the Barn in Ste. Agathe, Ray Hatrick at North Hatley and Ken Rockefeller with the Chase Barn Playhouse at Whitefield, N.H., for their great and worthy efforts in a like direction — we have singled out Nancy Graham and Marie Risso of the Playhouse at Stowe for what we hope will be construed as sincere editorial applause. Not only for what they are doing in the way of assisting the Muse, but for the extra measure of graciousness they have added to the appeal of summering in that section of Vermont.

Physically and intellectually, the combination of Graham and Risso is an attractive one. Further, they possess uncommon good business acumen, fine perceptive abilities in casting and well-developed senses of publicity and showmanship.

Nancy Graham, born in Pennsylvania and educated at Providence, Rhode Island, first became infected with stage fever while in school, and devised her own therapy (guaranteed not to cure) by writing and producing her own plays for the cultural advancement of the rest of the student body.

Later, after graduating from school and the talented-amateur status, Nancy put in time as a newsgal and photographer; and subsequently did a stint reviewing U.S. touring plays for a European magazine published at Dormsdat, Germany, for the benefit and enlightment of English speaking troops stationed in the vicinity.

NANCY GRAHAM

MARIE RISSO

Marie Risso, smitten at an early age too, by footlight fantasies and the smell of grease paint, approached her stage-producing metier, equipped with nothing, as she puts it, but a burning desire and an unlikely background of "teaching equestrian arts in Florida."

Whatever the path or procedure Marie followed, she wound up a very astute young lady around a box office and back stage.

The girls met while touring Europe, and so began — as they used to say in the old Horatio Alger stories — a lasting friendship and close business association. Upon their return home, and as both were ardent and expert skiers, they decided to settle in Stowe and open a ski lodge. This they did successfully.

Three years ago, the acquisition of an 1829 vintage barn, gave them the idea of a summer theatre. The old cow stables were converted into suitable facilities, retaining all the original charming antique effects. Even to including, (according to perfectionists Nancy Graham and Marie Risso) the faint but pleasant gamey odor of former bovine occupancy for true atmosphere.

As producers and management, aided by directors Stephen and Baird Hall with a solid professional company, they are doing a swell job of presenting first-rate plays.

And let's not delude anybody! They're also making a very constructive contribution to Stowe's summer program, as do other straw-hat operators in their respective locales!

Dominion Drama Festival aids Canadian authors

The Dominion Drama Festival executive committee recently decided to go all out to support Canadian-written plays.

In the jubilee year of Canadian Confederation, 1967, only Canadian-written plays will be accepted for the finals.

Two of the former winners of the Sir Barry Jackson Trophy for the best Canadian play have already been won by N.D.G. residents, Patricial Joudry for 'Teach Me How to Cry' and Marcel Dube for 'Zone'.

However, for next year's Festival, the committee is leaving it up to the Canada Council to make tangible monetary awards for Canadian playwriting.

The Council announced recently that it will award $400 for the best production of a play by a Canadian and $100 to the author at each of the eight zone festivals next year.

A further $500 prize may be awarded to a Canadian playwright if his play is entered in the Dominion final in Vancouver's new civic auditorium next May 16-21.

Only plays not presented previously in a Dominion Drama Festival will be eligible for the cash awards, thus placing the emphasis on new plays.

The Festival executive also announced a change in the award of the Bessborough Trophy and put a prohibition on such musical productions as operas, operettas, musical comedies on and the like.

In future, only productions that qualify under definitions of the international theatre institute as "theatre dramatique," plays without music, will be accepted.

Next year Regional Festivals in each zone will be adjudicated by a Canadian or possibly an American, instead of having a European adjudicator make a cross-country swing to all 14 Regional Festivals.

THE JUNIOR PROBLEM

Most parents find that children are a problem. If they behave badly they can be troublesome to family and neighbors; if they are too docile and quiet, the parents worry about that. To help with the solving of training problems, there is a series of folders entitled "Child Training series", which is available free upon request to local or provincial health departments. There are prepared by authorities in this field and the subjects range through mental and physical health and the welfare of youngsters.

Tsadilas-Lallemand

The marriage of Grace, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lallemand, of Montreal and Huntingdon, Que., to Mr. Nicholas Tsadilas, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. Tsadilas, of Outremont, took place on Friday in the Church of the Advent, the Rev. Alexander Mellor officiating. Summer flowers were used to decorate.

The bride, who was given away by her father, was in a gown of white Chantilly lace over white poult de soie, with a fitted bodice having a round neckline and a full skirt. Her short veil of tulle illusion was held by a bandeau of lily of the valley and she carried a semi-cascade bouquet of peach-pink roses and stephanotis.

Mrs. John K. A. Pollard, as matron of honor, and Miss Viola Lallemand, as bridesmaid for her sister, were in frocks of cornflower blue silk, fashioned on princess lines with fitted bodice having short sleeves and full skirts. They wore matching bandeaux, and carried semi-cascade bouquets of yellow shasta daisies.

Mr. Fred Roberts acted as best man for Mr. Tsadilas, and the ushers were Mr. Charles Hone and Mr. James Martin.

Following the ceremony the reception was held in the Vice-Regal Suite of the Ritz Carlton where chrysanthemums and gladioli were used as decorations.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Tsadilas left by plane for Florida, the bride travelling in a suit of yellow linen and wearing a matching hat, beige accessories and a corsage of beige orchids.

Dorothy Sproule writes poem welcoming the Royal Couple

Dorothy Sproule, renowned Canadian poet was chosen to write a poem, to welcome the Royal Couple for a booklet entitled "Montreal Historical Review", commemorating the opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway. The poem was placed on the front page of the booklet and reads:

We are listening for the coming of their feet,
Upon our shores,
And throughout our fair Dominion
We have opened all our doors,
When all the trumpets sounding,
And all the flags unfurled,
We shall give our warmest welcome,
And best of our new world.

For Queen in all her beauty,
And her consort by Her side,
Who have left their Royal Children
And crossed the ocean wide;
In the midst of world confusion,
And the cares of British State
To visit our new nation,
How can we compensate?

By showing we are loyal,
And united in one band
To greet Her Royal Highness,
And for Commonwealth to stand.

Miss Margaret Norine Sparks weds Mr. Trevor Harding Caron

The marriage of Margaret Norine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hector Mc.D. Sparks, of Hampstead, to Mr. Trevor Harding Caron, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Caron, of Westmount, took place on Friday, July 3, in Queen Mary Road United Church, the Rev. Eric D. Errey, officiating. Mr. Kenneth Gilbert played the wedding music and Mr. John Grant sang during the signing of the register. Large baskets of white delphinium and gladioli and chrysanthemums arranged with woodwardia were used as decorations.

The bride, who was given away by her father, was in a gown of white poult de faille and Alencon lace, fashioned with a fitted empire bodice having a portrait neckline outlined with lace embroidered with seed pearls, long sleeves and a very full skirt appliqued with lace extending in a chapel train. Her fingertip length veil of tulle illusion, worn over the face, was held by an Elizabethan coronet of seed pearls and she carried a small nosegay bouquet of lily of the valley, stephanotis and white feathered carnations.

Mrs. Samuel W. Stevenson, of Princeton, N.J., as matron of honor, and Miss Melodie Caron, and Mrs. Larry Shick, of Toronto, sisters of the bridegroom, Mrs. Robert Sparks, the bride's sister-in-law, and Miss Joyce Bentley, as attendants, were in frocks of white sheer printed in periwinkle blue and white embossed flowers over delphinium blue taffeta, with fitted bodices, having scoop necklines, and full skirts caught with taffeta cummerbunds forming bows at the back. They wore matching picture hats and carried tiny nosegay bouquets and feathered white carnations.

Mr. Gordon Clark acted as best man for Mr. Caron, and the ushers were Mr. Derek Caron, brother of the bridegroom, Mr. Robert Sparks, the bride's brother, Mr. Larry Shick, of Toronto, and Mr. Charles E. Frosst, jr.

Mrs. Sparks, mother of the bride, was gowned in Dior blue organza printed in deeper blue flowers. She wore a large picture hat in matching velvet, and had a spray of gardenias pinned to her velvet handbag.

Mrs. Caron, the bridegroom's mother, wore a sheath gown of embroidered beige rose lace over pale blue taffeta, with an organza hat of the same shade faced in blue, and had a spray of cymbidium orchids fastened to her small blue velvet handbag.

The reception was held at the Montreal Badminton and Squash Club, where white flowers were used to decorate.

Later, Mr. and Mrs. Caron left for the Elbow Beach Club, Bermuda, the bride travelling in a sheath frock of navy blue and white printed silk, under a short matching jacket, and wearing a white straw hat and navy blue accessories.

Among the out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Larry Shick, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Foster, of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Samuel W. Stevenson, of Princeton, N.J.; Col. and Mrs. Graham Hamilton, of Ottawa; Mr. Edgar McCoubrey, of Riverside, Calif.; and Mrs. Gerald Walsh, of Miami, Florida.

SAFE CONTAINERS

Corrosion-resistant finishes developed by chemists have made the modern can perfectly safe as a container fc left-over food.

In Grandma's day food had to be taken out of the can as soon as it was opened because of the danger of contamination. But today, the "tin" can, which is really sheet steel and not tin at all, is as safe for storing left-over food as a glass jar or any other container.

Miss Myra Davidson Riddell marries John Douglas Wilkie

The marriage of Myra Davidson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Rodger Riddell, of Baie d'Urfee, to Mr. John Douglas Wilkie, son of the Rev. and Mrs. James Douglas Wilkie, of Westmount, took place Saturday morning at half-past eleven o'clock in Stanley Presbyterian Church, the Rev. J. D. Wilkie, father of the bridegroom officiating. Mr. Ted McLearan played the wedding music. Standards of yellow and white gladioli and white stocks were used to decorate the church.

The bride, who was given away by her father, was gowned in white silk faille with a fitted bodice having a square neckline with an inset of Guipure lace, long sleeves, and a full pleated skirt ending in a chapel train. Her tiered fingertip-length veil of tulle illusion was held by a bandeau of the same lace, and she carried a semi-cascade bouquet of yellow Sweetheart roses.

Miss Kay Craib, as maid of honor, Miss Diana Beattie, as bridesmaid, and Miss Andrea Davidson, as junior bridesmaid were in frocks of mimosa yellow silk organza over taffeta with draped bodices having square necklines, short sleeves, and bouffant skirts. Miss Craib and Miss Beattie wore open crown picture hats of matching organza trimmed with cornflower blue velvet ribbons, and Miss Davidson wore a bandeau of cornflowers and stephnotis. They carried semi-cascade bouquets of cornflowers and stephanotis.

Master Peter Davidson, as page, wore the Hutchison tartan.

Mr. Donald Wilkie acted as best man for his brother, and the ushers were Mr. Ross Wilkie, also a brother of the bridegroom, Mr. Alistair Riddell, the bride's brother, and Mr. Derek West.

Mrs. Riddell, the bride's mother, was gowned in pale grey Alencon lace over petal pink poult de soie, and wore a pink hat and accessories, with a cluster of pale pink Sweetheart roses pinned to her handbag.

Mrs. Wilkie, mother of the bridegroom, was in a gown of pale green silk shantung with a white hat and accessories, and had a spray of gardenias fastened to her handbag.

The reception ws held at the Mount Stephen Club, where yellow and white gladioli and stock were used as decorations.

Later, Mr. and Mrs. Wilkie left, by motor for the New England States, the bride travelling in an ensemble of delphinium blue linen and wearing a yellow hat and accessories and a corsage bouquet of yellow Sweetheart roses.

Among the out-of-town guests were: Miss E. Cleghorn, of Elora, Ont.; Mrs. R. L. Cross, of Ayers Cliff, Que.; Mr. R. Green, and Miss L. Leigh, of Kingston, Ont.; Mr. and Mrs. D. Halkett, and Mr. and Mrs. S. Wilson, of Quebec; Mr. and Mrs. L. MacBean, and Miss M. Wilkie, of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. C. MacPherson, and Dr. and Mrs. G. Wilkie, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Is Skin "Marked" By Permanent Removal Of Unfeminine Hair?

By Zenaida Prado
Hair Removal Technician

Almost any woman can see the advantages of having unfeminine hair growth removed once and for all. The benefits are so perfectly obvious.

No more time-wasting, painful tweezing, shaving, waxing, or use of depilatories! Not ever.

No more worrying over whether you should have done it the day before.

But many women do not enjoy such freedom for one reason. They're vaguely afraid that permanent removal will somehow scar or coarsen their skin. One of their first questions is always this:

"Will your Gregory treatment leave any marks on my skin?"

"None whatever," is the only possible answer.

No scars, no blemishes, no coarsened skin, no pits, no increased sensitiveness . . . no damage to the complexion of any kind.

Gregory treatment leaves your skin just as it was before — but without the unwanted hair. Often the treatment actually improves the appearance of your skin, especially if you've been tweezing a long time.

Our method is recommended by physicians and used by fastidious women the world over, so you know there's no room for hesitation.

What It's Like

Let me tell you how it's done. You walk into the Gregory clinic without any advance preparation. You lie down in complete comfort. The skin area to be treated is cleansed with alcohol. The electronic wire, microscopically thin, is sterilized. Then the skilled Gregory technician deftly applies the tiny wire to a hair follicle, taps a high frequency switch with her foot, withdraws the free hair from its sterilized papilla . . . and goes on to the next hair in a fraction of the time it's taken you to read about it! Simple, isn't it?

Painful? Not at all. There's a slight feeling of warmth from the current — which can't be uncomfortable, judging from the number of women who sleep through treatment.

Low Budget Terms

Many women also have an exaggerated idea of the cost of permanent hair removal. Originally, it was quite expensive, a luxury most women could not afford.

But the era passed when the Gregory "sterilization of the papilla" method was introduced. Our method is so fast, our technicians so deft, they can and often do remove many hundreds of individual hairs in an hour.

As a result, almost any woman can now afford to have unwanted hair removed permanently.

And think what you've gained! Permanent freedom from what used to be a permanent worry. Many future hours to spend doing pleasanter things than tweezing, shaving, or using depilatories.

Why don't you phone Gregory System now to arrange for a free demonstration treatment?

Large crowd enjoys picnic at Orange Children's Home

On Dominion Day approximately 200 members of the Loyal Orange Association, their children and friends, journeyed from Montreal, Greenfield Park, Lachute, Harrington, etc. to enjoy the annual picnic at the Orange and Protestant Home for Children at Rosemere, Que.

Six members of the Harrington-Kilmar Pipe Band were on hand to entertain the picnicers — the balance of this band, as well as the Fife and Drum Band of Prince of Wales LOL Montreal, were in Ottawa for the Queen's visit there.

Rev. J. W. Patterson, of St. Andrew's United Church, Lachine, addressed the gathering, congratulating the Board of Directors and the Auxiliary for their continued success in providing a home for nearly 100 children during almost ten years of operation. President Royal E. C. Werry, QC, treasurer R. H Butler, past grand mistress of BA Ethel Erskine, and past provincial grand mistress Gertrude Hoyle also spoke briefly. County secretary Alex Lough was MC and recorded music was provided by Lloyd Burke throughout the day.

Provincial Secretary Ellen Helm was in charge of the refreshment booth in the Reid Pavilion, all proceeds going to the Home. Mrs. Avis Burgess presently is in charge of the Home.

and see her at close quarters as well as her handsome and smiling helpmate. It would of course been pleasanter if they could have stayed longer but brief though the visit was it was certainly a compliment to Westmount since no adjacent suburb was as singularly favored.

Westmount's elite turned out in full force and every available seat on the reserved platform was taken.

The spectators gave as I predicted they would, the gracious couple a royal welcome. The fine little Westmount Police force aided the RCMP and other constabulary members had no difficulty in maintaining order. On the whole it was a gala day that will long be remembered. Your own paper gave the event excellent coverage and its report will, I am sure, be kept as a souvenir. It was thoughtful and kind on the part of the municipality following the departure of the Royal guests to act as hosts to the representative group that occupied seats on the special platform.

Many a little Westmounter will be able in the years to come to tell their offspring that they saw the Queen and Prince Philip. Westmounters are an overwhelming majority loyal subjects of her Majesty and proud Canadian citizens. They appreciate living in a commonwealth that supports a constitutional monarchy which in two world wars they fought to defend and preserve.

Hamilton drives Porsche on Sunday at St. Eugene

Richard "Dick" Hamilton, Vancouver-born sports car enthusiast is considered by many of his friends and competitors as the "Juan Manuel Fangio" of Canadian driving.

Fangio the greatest driver in history is known as the man with ice water in his veins. He has won the greatest races in the world with a dare-devil, nerve-shattering technique that has left the spectators gaping with awe and pride.

Hamilton, now living here, has taken a leaf from Fangio's book and drives with the same dare-devil style and in doing so has won many important races in North Americe.

He will be heavily favored to win the second race for cars over 1500 cc. in the sports car races taking place at St. Eugene Airport Sunday.

The handsome young man has set an enviable record since he first saw a sports car event in England 10 years ago. His first experience with sports cars was a hill climb in Luton Hoo, England in 1947.

In 1950 he entered his first race in a stock MG at Thompson, Conn. He won and won again four times in a row in the next two years. Since then he has raced in MG's, Triumphs, Renaults and Jaguars, winning many important races including: the Mont Gabriel Hill Climb, the Keene, N.Y. Mountain Climb, the Great American Winter Rally, the Canadian Winter Rally and races at Ellenvale and Harewood, Ont.

In addition, Hamilton held the lap record at Thompson, Conn. for three years while competing in a stock MG.

Besides being acknowledged as one of the top drivers locally Hamilton is an avid mechanic and owns a repair shop in Westmount. His thorough knowledge of autos and engines, combined with that of his pit crew Al Black and Cesar Penenta, will make him a formidable threat on the asphalt runways of St. Eugene Airport next Sunday.

He will be racing in the HWS, a Porsche special of his own design.

One of the greatest thrills for sports addicts is the famed Le Mans Auto race in Europe. To a European this is the sports event of the year. It compares to our own Stanley Cup playoffs and World Series in baseball. It matches the soccer Cup final in popularity and no event in the world draws as many spectators as the Le Mans road race.

The organizers of the MG car club races, have taken a page from the Le Mans book and will use a Le Mans start in two of the six races scheduled. The other four races will be from a grid start.

A Le Mans start basically is that all competitors race to their autos from a standing start 20 feet away. The fastest man afoot thus can get a head-start on the rest of the field and in this type of close competition every second counts.

In the Le Mans start the auto's ignition is off. The racer must enter the car through the door, clip on the safety belt and switch on the ignition before racing away. In addition to being a racing test it also is a test of reliability. Starter trouble or ignition failure can mean costly seconds and the race.

In a grid start, the competitors are in their autos, with their motors running. All they need is the starter's flag before blasting away.

The St. Eugene track is different from race tracks such as we know them here. It is not circular with the cars going 'round and 'round. It is triangular in shape, featuring a hairpin turn, sharp left and right turns, a half-mile straightaway and a decreasing radius turn.

John Craig wins track numerals

One hundred and thirty-one spring sports awards at Bowdoin College, at Brunswick, Maine, are announced by director of athletics Malcolm E. Morrell. A total of fifty-seven men received varsity letters in five sports, baseball, track, golf, tennis, and sailing. Seventeen more were awarded varsity numerals, and fifty-seven freshmen earned their Class of 1962 numerals.

The list included John E. Craig who received his freshman track numerals in track. A member of Theta Delta Chi fraternity, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carleton Craig of 344 Metcalfe avenue.

Adastrians beat Westmount to take three point cricket lead

Adastrians won two points from the cellar dwelling Westmount team in the Montreal and District Cricket League, to take over sole possession of first place three points better than Canadair.

The aircraft boys beat Wanderers for their second place win. Wanderers and Mount Royal are tied for third place with eight points apiece. West Indians, who were idle along with Verdun are fifth with seven points. The other clubs, Rolls Royce, Verdun and Westies follow.

In the 'B' division, Canadair, by winning on Saturday while Westmount drew with Adastrians have a one point lead.

The West Indians Cricket Club defeated Boston in their first match on Saturday 160 to 103. H. Farley and R. Sandeford led the winners with 40 and 28 respectively, while J. Hall was outstanding for Boston by getting 5 wickets for 45 runs in addition to scoring 10 runs.

SOME OF YOU followers of paddling must shake your heads and wonder how Cartierville and Lachine are piling up such high aggregates. Carts have won all three Eastern meets, but on Sunday at Grand Trunk, their point total was cut into by Ottawa Rideau and Chateauguay. These two clubs almost picked up 50 points between them. The high aggregates are not going over too well and speaking as a traveler with the paddlers, this corner goes on record that it is not helping the game as first thought it would.

At first it was going to help the smaller clubs, who also ran, to pick up a few points, but instead, the stronger clubs, like Carts and Lachine are picking up points in the double figures. As one club coach put it," If a crew if only lacing fourth and fifth for two and one points respectively, then they are not doing the club any good. We would like the crew to come first and if that fails try for second or third." His remark has some senses. For a crew to get better as the season prolongs, they must make third, to get any points in the old system. They used to get half a point for coming fourth.

It was pointed out to this writer that in last year's Dominion which Cartierville outscored Lachine by some seven points or thereabouts, they picked up 14 points on fourth and fifth places. Under the old system they would have had 51 points and Lachine 52. The year before, that was in 1957, Lachine and Carts had to share the burgee. This new point system is for the birds. We all agree that the smaller clubs are picking some points, where under the old system they might have none, out it is not helping the smaller club that much, and the old system should be brought back.

There is a move afoot that the old system, 5, 2, 1 and a half for fourth will go into effect after the semi-annual meeting set for Ottawa next month, prior to the August 1 Dominion meet. It can't be changed halfway through the season, but it can at the semi-meeting. There is enough strong feeling in the east to go back to the old system, now they have to win other clubs.

EAR TO GROUND

The report is that the Canadiens NHL softball team have a fee that they charge, and the price is around $200 per event . . . Jim Brodie, Verdun Lawn Bowling club won the men's double Ritchie Memorial competition on the week-end over a large field. He also skipped a Verdun team to two other match wins two weeks ago. Many N.D.G. and Westmount players were on hand to watch and to take part. One was John Henderson, president of the Provincial body who is also a member of Westmount.

* * *

At the Grand Trunk regatta, the following ear to the ground notes . . . Fred Hollingworth reports son Bucky hard at work at his Hampton Beach Hollingsworth Hotel . . . He has Scotty Bowman as a member of his staff working at the front desk. Scotty, in his spare time, uses his boat and motor that the people of Peterborough gave him last winter at his special night. . . Fred also reported, "I have to work when I go and visit my son, who by the way is the hotel chef." Bucky will report to Hersey in the fall for hockey.

Toupin makes good Davis cup impression

TORONTO. — John Bassett of Toronto won both his matches as play opened in the Davis Cup trial matches here.

Bassett whipped Yvon LeBlance of Marieville, Que., 6-1, 6-0 and then defeated Jim Ioanidis 6-3, 10-8. All matches in the round-robin series among the eight youngsters are two sets.

Francois Godbout of Waterloo, Que., also impressed as he split 6-3, 3-6 with Andre Toupin of Saint Laurent, and then downed Harry Fauquier of Toronto 6-3, 6-4.

Other results:

Toupin defeated Reider Getz, Vancouver 6-3, 6-4; David Woodworth, Halifax, and Ioanidis split 6-3, 3-6; Woodworth and LeBlance split, LeBlanc winning the first 6-1 and Woodworth the second 10-8

Ray Denoncourt, Al McCoy will play in All-Star game

Ray Denoncourt of the Pepsi team in the Snowdon Fastball League will be the only Montreal representative in the World All-Star softball series at Stratford, Conn. next Friday and Saturday.

The all-stars selected at the 1958 World Championships at Minneapolis will meet the Raybestos Cardinals, the World titleholders in two games at Raybestos Memorial Field.

Ernie Rochon, genial Pinky Stamps bossman, who takes more than a passing interest in World softball play, will journey to Stratford for the games and to renew old acquaintances with A.S.A. officials Bob Martin, Ford Hoffman and George Dickstein.

Denoncourt was selected as All-World catcher last year in the tournament and he will catch both games. Al McCoy, the league's leading hitter and All-Star runner-up second baseman will play second base in the tourney, replacing All-Star Frank Williams who will play with Raybestos.

McCoy played for Steinberg's last year and was loaned to Dow for the tourney. This year he is performing with the Burry Biscuit club, Elizabeth, N.J. the same club that Peerless Percy McCracken is pitching for.

The All-Stars will line up four top pitchers against Raybestos' fabulous Johnny Spring. They are Bob Fesler, Bobby Spell, Roy Stephenson and Bill Massey. Denoncourt will have his hands full catching this blistering foursome.

John Elias, former West Hill High School footballer and hockey performer, is back in town after a couple of years in sunny California. John played hockey with the Los Angeles Canadians and Class C baseball. He is currently pitching and doing a good job of it, in the Royals Junior Baseball League.

. ."Los Angeles has become the Sports capital of the World," Johnny said. "I saw the Yankees play the Dodgers before 93,000 fans. They're averaging 40,000 for every home game and the racetrack is drawing 50,000 punters a day.

"In a couple of years, LA will become a hot hockey town too. The interest shown in hockey is unbelievable and with the Western League moving in, the fans will be demanding National League hockey five years from now."

NOTES FROM HERE, THERE AND EVERYWHERE: —The Snowdon League, through Parks Supervisor Roger Bastien, has distributed 14 sets of sweaters to minor softball teams in the West End . . . The latest issue of Balls and Strikes, the softball bible, shows Ricky Tomlinson batting a low .258, seventh in the Clearwater Bomber lineup . . . Pepsi's Al Beaubien worked out in the heat with the Alouettes last week for one night only. "All I want to do is kick for them," said Al "and they had us doing blocking and tackling the first night. I'll stick to fastball. It's easier in this hot weather." . . . Just a reminder, Harry The Hoarse picks Archie Moore over Durelle when they meet.

Unranked tennis play set July 10

Officials of the Papineau Tennis Club announce that the 3rd annual tournament of unranked men players will start July 10.

This tournament, sanctioned by the PQLTA, is open to all players of the province except the first 10 players named by the Ranking Committee of the Association.

The winners in past years were Maurice Gaudet and Ronald Raymond both of the Papineau Tennis Club.

There will be also a tournament open to the Ladies of the Province including the first six players named by the Ranking Committee of the Association.
