PARLIAMENTARY INTELLIGENCE.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

Wednesday, July, 21.

The SPEAKER took the Chair at three o'clock.

REPEAL OF THE UNION.

Mr. MACKENZIE, seconded by Mr. RYMAL, moved, that as representation by population has met with only one favorable vote from Lower Canada in the present session; that as the double majority had always been abandoned in the Executive Council; and that as the political union which was formed between Upper and Lower Canada in 1840, under the authority of an Imperial Act, had occasioned great discontent in the minds of Her Majesty's subjects in this Province—

Mr. POWELL [Carleton] had you not better postpone that until next session?

Mr. DUNKIN rose to order. Was this a motion of which notice had been given? The hon. member had given a notice three months ago, but this motion embraced the event of a few days since.

The SPEAKER thought the hon. member was not tied down to any particular form of motion.

Mr. MACKENZIE then said that he was sorry to find that the union would not work. It made the Upper Canadians slaves and the Lower Canadians tyrants. There was, besides, no check to illimitable debt. But they had a system of rambling Government which was plunging the country in debt and taxes. The only peaceable solution of these difficulties would be found in the course he intended to propose,—namely, a repeal of the Union.

Mr. GOWAN said that as one of the members of Upper Canada at that time opposed to the Union, he would now protest against a dissolution. That union had brought with it great advantages, and nothing more detrimental to the interests of Upper Canada could be done than to carry out the course proposed by the hon. member for Haldimand. A dissolution of the Union would in fact be giving the Lower Province not only the control of her own territory but of ours also. By and by they would be adding to their territory the great and powerful territories of the Saskatchewan and Red River—and it was not a time like this that the proposition before the House was likely to be viewed favorably. The disadvantages complained of, were, at least, but temporary, while the advantages were permanent. He would therefore vote against the motion.

Mr. BROWN said that even if the motion were put in the shape of directly calling for a repeal of the union—the proposal would carry with it no alarm whatever to a large majority of the people of Upper Canada. In fact it was now gladly discussed by them as a means of relief from their difficulties. There was the certain conviction in the minds of the people of a large preponderance in population over the Lower Province, while their representation was most unequal; and they saw gentlemen occupying the Treasury Benches who had lost their confidence and were not supported by them. He thought, however, that constitutional changes should not be hurried on. It was, no doubt, a lamentable fact that the people of Lower and Upper Canada were now further apart than before the union. [No, no.]

Mr. GALT—How has this arisen?

Mr. BROWN—There are divisions of race, language and religion.

Mr. DRUMMOND—Does the hon. member expect the people of Lower Canada to change their language and religion, and ignore their race?

Mr. BROWN was going on to explain. They wanted to assimulate their institutions. As to language, the representatives of the people, at least, should know both languages. He did not expect either people to change their language. The motion before the House was correct in stating that discontent existed amongst Her Majesty's British subjects.

Mr. M. CAMERON said there was no evidence whatever that the people of Upper Canada were discontented with the union. On the contrary, the universal belief was that the union had been a most beneficial and wise measure. Its effect was to give us credit with Great Britain to enable us to carry on our great public works. Charges of corruption had been freely grounded on the erection of these works. But which of them had been proven. Not one. The union was working well. It developed the resources of both Provinces and showed how much they were dependent on each other. Were all the British American Provinces united from the Atlantic to the Pacific, there would be formed one of the greatest empires the world has ever seen. The differences of religion and language were not of such a nature as to create any difficulty. But out of them was manufactured the difficulty. Hon. members opposite had raised a religious cry. In their warfare they had broken down all the bridges which might have secured their retreat. And now they dreaded the consequences and were seeking to extricate themselves from the dilemma. (Hear, hear.) One of their leaders, the senior member for Toronto, was particularly fierce against Separate Schools, during the election; but the other night he had to confess that after all he saw no harm in the matter.

Mr. BROWN protested against the hon. member's repeating that statement. He had always condemned the principle, and never made use of the statement that he saw no harm in it.

Mr. CAMERON said it was a great pity the hon. member's speech on that subject had been crowded out of the Globe—though it was very remarkable that in a long series of years such a thing had never happened before: it being generally the case that the hon. member's speeches crowded out every other. (Laughter.) Reverting to the proposed repeal of the Union, he could not too strongly denounce such a project. It was not true that the people of Western Canada sought a dissolution of the Union. (Cheers.)

Mr. FOLEY said if it were true the people of the Western country were satisfied, why did the hon. member for Lambton bring in his measure for representation by population—which struck at the root of the constitution.

Mr. M. CAMERON explained that this measure was not to come into effect till after the next census had been taken. If then there were found to be 400,000 excess of population in Upper Canada, he would bring in his measure and trust to the good sense and fair dealing of the people's representatives on the subject.

Mr. FOLEY said that that mode of dealing was in accordance with the hon. member's usual mode of dealing. He dared that hon. member to show any inconsistency in the views held by the senior member for Toronto, and those expressed by the Government and its supporters on the separate school question. He would appeal to the hon. member for South Simcoe on the subject.

Mr. FERGUSON said he was very happy to be able to inform the hon. member, that when he (Mr. F.) showed his measure on separate schools to the hon. senior member for Toronto, that hon. member approved of it. But what was his (Mr. Ferguson's) astonishment to find that hon. gentleman afterwards rising in his place and speaking and voting against the bill. (Cheers and laughter.)

Mr. FOLEY denied that the hon. member for Toronto approved of the principle of the bill. Having denounced the hon. member for Lambton and the Government, at great length, the hon. member resumed his seat.

Mr. McDOUGALL went at some length into a sketch of the history of the Reform party which, he contended, had been deserted by the hon. member for Lambton.

Mr. HARWOOD said it was notorious that at the time of the union, Upper Canada was almost in a state of bankruptcy. On the consummation of the union her debentures rose from 60 to par. And now Canada, united, was a great and prosperous country; and to this progress Lower Canada had largely contributed. He trusted therefore to see the project of a dissolution fall through.

Mr. DORION complained of the members from Lower Canada forcing measures on the members of Upper Canada, and it was evident that unless a remedy was found for the evil, the union would not work.

Mr. FERGUSON said his belief was that the union had been most beneficial, and he was not prepared to say that the union ought to be dissolved. The project of a federation was one which required much more consideration than had hitherto been given it. With respect to the dissatisfaction between Upper and Lower Canada, one of its causes was the rebellion losses bill, by which Upper Canada had to pay the losses of the Lower Province as well as her own. He supposed if such a measure were brought forward again, the hon. gentleman opposite would be found to vote for it.

Mr. FOLEY said he would vote for it.

Mr. FERGUSON—Yes, or for a rebellion either. (Laughter.)

Six o'clock having struck the Speaker left the chair.

EVENING SESSION.

The Speaker took the chair at half-past seven.

PROVINCIAL LIENS ON RAILWAYS.

Hon Mr. SICOTTE introduced the bill (from Legislative Council) for facilitating the enforcement of the claims of the Government against Railways.

DISSOLUTION OF THE UNION.

Mr. FERGUSON resumed his remarks. He accused the oppositin of deserting him on the separate school bill; condemned the present system of carrying on the administration of justice, and denounced the system of supporting acclesiastical institutions. If these things were abandoned he thought there would be little necessity for the continual agitation of the member for Haldimand on the question of a dissolution of the Union. He said the opposition had made this an opportunity of abusing the Government and their supporters. He defied them, however, to show a single instance in which the money of the Province had been improperly spent. He had not seen a single instance as yet in which these charges of the opposition had been proved, and they were now brought forward in order to prejudice the elections which were going on in Upper Canada. Then with reference to the Government measures, the opposition were continually denouncing the Administration, yet when the municipal bill came before the House, they dare not oppose it. Those they did oppose were not with argument, but declamation.

Mr. THIBAUDEAU said they would not stand such abuse from gentlemen no matter who they were. He was not in the habit of hearing such abusive language as that used by the last speaker, who said that the separate schools were a curse. What would be thought of the Roman Catholics of Lower Canada if they said such a thing of the Protestant separate schools in that section of the Province? If their institutions were such a curse would the member for Chicoutimi (Price) be in the House to-day by a county where there were not ten Protestants? Would the member for Rowville (Campbell) be returned to the House by a county of altogether French Canadians? (Cheers.) Because they wanted a law in Upper Canada to instruct their children as they desired, were they to be debarred that right? Were it not unparliamentary he would say that the man that uttered such language was a curse to the House and the country. (Sensation.) Yet the hon. gentleman made appeals for Lower Canadian support. Pretty liberal truly! Wonder he did not introduce a bill to keep all Roman Catholic members from the House. But he (Mr. Thibaudeau) was happy to say that there were men on both sides of the House—numerous and not educated in those cursed institutions—who repudiated such views as those enumerated by the hon. gentleman. He (Mr. Ferguson) might abuse the Roman Catholics again as he liked, but he (Mr. Thibaudeau) would never again answer him. Then the member for North Oxford (Macdougall) had said that the members from Lower Canada would sacrifice their principles for the sake of power. But he (Mr. Thibaudeau) defied the hon. member to cite an instance in which they had done so. In 1845 why did Messrs. Lafontaine and Caron join the Administration? Because they would not sacrifice their principles. And a thing had been said by a member his side of the House, which really made him believe that wonders would never cease. What did they think it was? He was sure they would never guess—that the member for Toronto was too kindly disposed to Lower Canada. (Laughter.) What a kindly feeling it was, indeed! He (Mr. Thibaudeau) never knew that hon. gentleman to speak a kindly word for them but in 1849. (Laughter.) Returning again to religion he enquired was it those members who were most religious who spoke the oftenest of religion? He thought not. With respect to the motion before the House, he would rather it had been referred to a select committee. He would be disposed to support it.

Mr. MACKENZIE—If the resolution is carried I have no objection. (Laughter.)

Mr. THIBAUDEAU was not disposed now after such an Union of the Provinces to break it up and leave Lower Canada in rags and poverty, when she was rich and wealthy at the Union. After having pressed the fair companion to their bosom—and now that they had made her happy—they were not disposed to cast her off. (Laughter.) He should vote against the resolution.

Mr. FERGUSON said the hon. member for Portneuf misunderstood his language.

Mr. FOLEY—He speaks better language than you do.

Mr. FERGUSON—The hon. gentleman is only a judge when he is out of his cups. (Hisses from the Opposition.) Gentlemen might hiss in Parliament, but they dare not do so outside. Confusion.

Mr. SPEAKER—Order. Please confine yourself to personal explanations.

Mr. FERGUSON would endeavor to do so. When he used the word "curse," he meant that it had been made a curse. He never spoke a word against his Roman Catholic friends or their religion. The hon. gentleman then alluded to a meeting in Middlesex in which the Clear Grits had been defeated at their own meeting.

Mr. McKELLAR rose to explain about the Middlesex meeting.

Mr. SHERWOOD thought they should not discuss this matter.

The SPEAKER thought not, as the member for Simcoe only made a personal explanatiion.

Mr. McKELLAR said the meeting was not a Clear Grit meeting. It was a convention to choose a conservative candidate. How then could it be a Clear Grit meeting?

Part of the gallery here fell down, near the gentleman speaking, causing confusion.

Mr. McKELLAR said it was only one of the planks of the Ministerial platform. (Laughter.)

Mr. DUNKIN—I beg to correct the hon. gentleman. It happens to be on the Opposition side. (Renewed laughter.)

Mr. McKELLAR proceeded. He said the member for Simcoe felt he was in his own fort in Middlesex, and there made extravagant statements. He (Mr. Ferguson) said that he would vote for a Ministry that would be altogether and thoroughly Protestant. If that was liberalism, it was very strange liberalism indeed. The hon. gentleman was proceeding to speak about the meeting, when

Mr. FERGUSON rose to order. If the member for Kent was misrepresenting the whole thing—(Order, order.)

The SPEAKER thought it would be well not to refer the meeting.

Mr. McKELLAR said he was speaking to the resolution. He was endeavoring to prove that the language and course of the member for Simcoe tended to destroy the Union. (Laughter.) The hon. gentleman then spoke of the evils of raising sectarian cries. If such a course were not pursued there would be no necessity for such a motion as that of the hon. member for Haldimand.

Dr. CONNOR said that though the mover of the resolution might not find a supporter in the House, yet it was of the highest importance, and he was sorry to say was supported by many out of doors. For his part he would cling heartily to the present Union. It was a statesmanlike measure and one in which their interests were ultimately wound up. He spoke of the evils to which they were subject by the majority from Lower Canada, who voted them down on every measure; and this was driving them fast—faster than they were thinking—to the very thing they wished to keep clear of—a dissolution of the Union. Fatal as that measure would be, British feeling would not stand it. He was therefore not surprised at the motion of the hon. gentleman, though he should oppose it. He would therefore move in amendment "That all the words after "That" be expunged and the following substituted—"The Union of the two Canadas cannot be attended with the happy results anticipated at its formation, so long as territorial at its formation, so long as territorial distinctions are maintained between Upper and Lower Canada, and the inhabitants of one section can with justice complain that they occupy an inferior position to their fellow-subjects in the other—that the continual rejection of the demand of the people of Upper Canada for a just influence in the Legislature, and the manner in which certain of their local institutions have been molded according to Lower Canada views—that the maintenance in the Executive Government, as representatives of Upper Canada of gentlemen who do not possess the confidence of the people of that section of the country have produced great discontent in the minds of a large portion of Her Majesty's subjects in that section of the Province, and an earnest desire for constitutional changes which would secure to Upper Canada the control of Upper Canadian affairs."

THE REDUCTION OF SALARIES.—There is something excessively Cayleyish in the proposed reduction of salaries of the Government employes. Here the Inspector General who has been spending £800,000 more than his revenue in a single year, and who is still spending at that rate—proposes, as a great step towards economy—as a way of stopping the mouths of all objectors, to cut fifteen thousand a-year off salaries! Not a word of retrenchment in other matters—not a movement to save in the public works—no thought of pruning the militia—nothing but a reduction of the salaries of clerks. The amount to be saved is small; but that is not all. There are some of the clerks who have talents and acquirements, and large families to boot, who are not over paid. There are othrrs who are paid three times too much; and there are many whose services could be entirely dispensed with. To reduce the salaries of one class, and dismiss the other, would be a real reform; but Mr. Cayley is incapable of such a step. It is easier to strike ten per cent. off everybody, good and bad, rich and poor, capable and inefficient—and off it goes. Everybody says it is just like Cayley.—Toronto Globe.

The English Army in India.

[Fureedpoore (May 15th) Correspondence of the London Times.]

MARCH TO FUTTEHGHUR—HOW SIR COLIN CAMPBELL STANDS THE WORK—SUFFERINGS FROM THE HEAT.

Although the works necessary for the defence of Bareilly are not yet completed, Sir Colin Campbell, unwilling to lose time when his presence is so urgently required at some station on the main trunk road, where he can be in communication with the numerous columns whose movements he directs, made his first march towards Futtehghur this morning, leaving behind him a respectable force under Brigadier Walpole, for the security of the city and district.

Sir Colin, who stands this extraordinary life better than any one of his force, ordered us off at half-past one in the morning, and we commenced our practical existence just at the hour that the members in the smoking-rooms in London clubs begin to think of going to bed. Fortunately the nights are bright starlight, and the plains are so white that there is little difficulty of keeping to the road. I have already endeavored to describe the course of an Indian midnight march, and I have nothing to add to the description. Both Sir Colin Campbell and General Mansfield have knocked up their Aides-de-Camp completely. Sir D. Baird is ill of a fever. Captain Alison is just recovering from smallpox, and both of them shared my hasty flight from the doolies at Bareilly, and rode away almost equally destitute of covering from the charge of the Sowors. Murray has gone to the hills, quite done up and exhausted, and only Hope Johnstone still struggles on, with a wet towel round his head, writing memorandums amidst an army of "punkahwallahs." From all sides we hear of casualties caused by the heat. Sir Edward Lugard writes that his men have suffered severely in Rose's attack on the enemy at Koonch; eight men fell dead in the ranks, and upwards of twenty officers and men had to be carried from the field through the heat of the sun; and nineteen of our casualties at Bareilly—ten of which were fatal—were caused in the same way. In fact, every march henceforth, after ten o'clock in the morning, must be attended with loss of life; and under such circumstances the prolongation of operations in the field becomes a very serious question for the Commander-in-Chief, who is exceedingly anxious to get the men under cover before the rains commence, as soon as it can be done consistently with the public service. If you could look into the head-quarters camp between twelve and four o'clock, and visit the various tents, you would see Sir Colin, perhaps busied with maps and papers; Gen. Mansfield equally occupied; the indefatigable Adjutant-General Major Norman struggling with a mound of returns; Colonel Pakenham, with a mild expression of endurance, contending with red tape and general orders; the Quarter-master General McPherson sharply interrogating his emissaries and spies; and Captain Goldsworthy incessantly arranging his commissary returns. But a peep into most of the other tents would discover many of the head-quarters staff panting on their charpoys, in the nearest possible approach to Adamite costume, and gasping for breath like carp on the banks of a moat. It may readily be imagined if officers, each of whom has a tent to himself, with "kuskus tatties" and punkahs, and similar appliances to reduce the temperature, suffer so much from heat, what the men endure, packed ten or twelve in a tent, or in some regiments eighteen and twenty, without such resources, and without change of light clothing, and how heavily picket duty, outlying and inlying, presses upon them. But as yet the army is singularly healthy. The fever which prevails is of a light type, and most of our casualties are caused by the direct action of the sun; but this cannot last, and we must expect great mortality if the troops are much longer exposed at this season of the year.

STRENGTH OF THE ARMY—ITS STATIONS AND DUTY.

By the last return of our effective strength the British army in India presented a total of 48,571 officers and men; of whom 44,514 were effective, and 4,057, or less than 10 per cent., were sick. Our artillery numbered 355 pieces effective; and you will be surprised to hear that the grand total of native troops mustered no less than 121,906 non-commissioned officers and men, being in the proportion of about three to one of the European troops; but there is a still more striking item in the strength of our force, under the head of disarmed native troops of all ranks; there is a return of 20,227 men; these men are receiving pay, and, more than that, they are paralyzing the action of a certain number of British soldiers; for instance, there are upwards of 3,000 Sepoys of the 2nd, 19th, 32nd, 34th and 43rd regiments Native Infantry at Barrackpore, who require the attention of Her Majesty's 19th regiment and of a detachment of sailors. There are others at Calcutta under a similar surveillance; the 63rd Native Infantry and the 11th Irregular Cavalry are watched by part of the 35th at Berhampore; at Benares the disarmed Sepoys of the 17th, 25th, 37th and 50th Native Infantry require the care of part of Her Majesty's 97th. At Jullundur, 1,056 disarmed Sepoys of the 6th Light Cavalry, the 32nd, 36th and 61st Native Infantry are watched by Her Majesty's 52d, a Punjaub regiment, and a troop of horse artillery; and 2,140 of the 16th cavalry, 26th, and 49th Native infantry, require the presence of her Majesty's 7th fusileers, and strong detachments of artillery, &c., at Lahore. At Moolton there are 1,504 of the 62d and 69th native infantry in the same case, and at Umrilzir, 1,707 of the 35th and 59th native infantry are under the wing of a light field battery, a Punjaub regiment, and part of her Majesty's 24th regiment. The 39th native infantry, 766 strong, encumber Dera Ismail Khan; 779 of the 53d native infantry are stationed, with part of her Majesty's 24th and her Majesty's 87th regiments, and a battery, at Rawul Pindee; the 5th light cavalry and the 64th native infantry; numbering 1,327 men, are protected, poor fellows, by 1,650 of her Majesty's 81st and of the 8th Punjaub infantry, at Noosherah; and 1,577 of the 24th and 27th native infantry are stationed, in presence of an overwhelming force of Europeans and Punjaubees, at Peshawur. Without reckoning the troops employed in the various field forces and moveable columns, there are no less than 107 military posts and stations in the Presidency of Bengal, among which English regiments or detachments are stationed. Some notion may be formed from that statement of the mode in which an English army is absorbed in India, and of the cause which diminishes the active force in the field to numbers so insignificant when compared with the troops sent out from England. I fear it is only the truth, that if we had 30,000 additional English soldiers landed in India by the last week in September, we should have ample employment for every man of them.

SIR COLIN CAMPBELL ROUTED BY A SWARM OF BEES—SHELTER IN THE MANGO GROVES—THE NATIVE BIRDS FLY FROM THE SUN.

Camp Tilhur, Rohilcund, May 17, 1858.

* * * * * * *

We passed through the large village of Tilhur, and encamped about eight o'clock in a large manso tope to the south of it, not without considerable opposition from some of the inhabitants, for it so happened that the first camp fire that was lighted disturbed a community of the most vindictive bees in the hollow of the tree above that I ever heard of. They at once descended to the assault, and in a few minutes most of their enemies were utterly routed. The Commander-in-Chief himself was attacked and driven right out of the field, or rather out of the tope, for the enemy did not desist until they had forced him to take refuge in the open plain. The chief of the staff too was attacked, and utterly defeated in a few seconds. Colonel Althorp, after a gallant stand, was obliged to fly, with the loss of his spectacles. Mr. Mackinnon, using a large mango branch as a claymore, resisted his foes with great activity and courage for some time, but finally he was obliged to fly, wounded in several places, and to take refuge in a neighboring tank. The guard over the treasure was also obliged to abandon their post; the natives wrapped themselves up in their cotton robes, and lay flat on the ground, and in a short time the bees were completely victorious. During the struggle all the head-quarter staff armed themselves with green boughs, so that it looked as if they were rehearsing a second march to Dunsinane. As soon as the tents were pitched we had shelter from our enemy. These mango groves are, indeed, most welcome shelter to man and beast, and bird, and every living thing, from the relentless cruelty of the Indian sun. The trees attain a great size, and they stand as close together as their massive branches, clothed with rich dark green umbrageous foliage will permit. At this season of the year they are laden with fruit, each hanging from a long slender stem, and resembling in size and color an unripe greengage plum. The fruit is not considered ripe until after the rains have set in, but the natives eat it even now. I tried the experiment very unsuccessfully, for it struck me that the fruit was like a lump of inspisated turpentine. The mess cooks, however, make a very respectable compound, called "mango fool," out of the fruit. The tree seems subject to a curious sort of decay, which is betokened by large deep holes in the trunk and upper branches, without any apparent influence upon its foilage or vitality. In these recesses large and beautiful bright blue jays, small green parrcquets, three or four kinds of gaudy woodpeckers, bees, snakes, and the small brown horned owl, reside during the greater part of the year. A dust colored squirrel with brown bars, and a large bat covered with dark brown fur, and having fine and extremly delicate membranous wings also frequent them—in fact, these topes abound with life. All day they are mute, but at night become vocal with discordant sounds, not reedemed by the call of the gaudy mango bird, the pleasant note of the bulbul, or the incessant chattering of the minors. It may be easily imagined how anxiously each man surveys the trees about his tent as the site is marked out, and calculates what shelter it will give him, and at what time the sun will find out his weak points during the day; and, indeed, the rays do strike through every interstice like red shot. There is no indecision of shadow, no infirmity of outline, for wherever the suns falls on the side of a tent it seems to punch out a fervid blazing pattern on the gray ground of the canvass. It is a poor consolation to see that the birds themselves "to the manner born" though they be, suffer inconvenience from the sun, as well as ourselves. The gray headed black pie, uncommonly like our own mag. and properly called a crow or rook, comes from the fields during the heat of the day, and seeks shelter in the tope, and there he sits with his bill wide open and his tongue out, uttering sultry calls from time to time, gasping for breath, and looking decidedly as if he wanted some iced claret. Parrots, kites and all the natives of the groves, give similar evidence of their sufiering from the heat and the natives seek for shade wherever it is to be found.

REST IN THE CAMP TENTS—AN ALARM AND FIGHT.

[Camp Shahjanpore (May 18), Correspondence of London Times.]

We had all lain down at 6 o'clock P.M., to rest in the tents, and although at midday another thunderstorm somewhat cooled the air, all were glad to rest after the march. Sir Colin, too, was anxious to give the men as long a rest after fatigue as possible. Our delusions on the subject were, however, rudely broken. Col. Percy Herbert went out reconnoitring; part of his regiment occupied the village an the right of the camp, and it was his duty to make himself acquainted with his post. With his natural feverish and fitful activity, excited by the sun, and aggravated, too, by reminiscences of the Crimea, Colonel Herbert went out reconnoitering, which is his supreme delight. Of course the thing could not be done quietly, and so the gallant Colonel took with him a small body of cavalry—quite sufficient, however, to kick up a dust and attract attention. About two miles off, or a little more, there is one of those small mud forts the very existence of which in Rohilcund proves how little power we have in the country, or how small were the pains taken by the officials of the country to civilize and secure order in the land. It was occupied by the enemy, who also, as it turned out, had four guns there. As soon as the Colonel and his party came well in view they were saluted by those four guns, fired in slow time, one after the other, and immediately the enemy's cavalry advanced from the rear and showed in large numbers all along our front. The report of those guns aroused the whole camp; horses were saddled on the instant, the staff mounted at once, and Sir Colin, the first of them all, galloped down to the ford and rode toward our pickets. The Lahore and Mooltanee Horse, the Lancers, the Carabineers, the troop and the battery of artillery, the 60th, 64th and 79th were at once turned out and proceeded to take ground in front of the camp. The cavalry of the enemy displayed themselves in great force, and brought down some five or six pieces of field artillery, as if preparing for an attack upon our position. The 79th, under Colonel Taylor were at once advanced on our right front to support our pickets and the party of the 82d, and to hold some slightly elevated ground covered mango topes on the road to Mohumdee. Tombs' guns advanced with him, supported by a body of cavalry. The field battery took post upon our left, supported by a portion of the Rifles and a detachment of Horse, and the Sixty-fourth were posted in the same direction, with their left flank covering the road from the upper ford; to their right, on a spur of rising ground, were posted two eighteen pounders, in front of the ruined bungalow occupied by two companies of the Sixtieth. For nearly two miles on the other side of the river, along our front, were displayed the enemy's Sowars, some in very loose order, in very small groups of twos and fours, others in regular formation, wheeling to and fro in clouds of dust, and menacing us on both flanks. Presently the two eighteen pounders began to speak to them. The range was considerable, certainly over a mile; but one shot, with a heavy rush through the air, plumped, throwing up pillars among them, and then bounded away towards the fort. The enemy's horse were rather more steady than I expected under this iron shower, and seemed determined, as the day advanced, to get down to the ford upon our left; here, however, our field battery met them, and opened with shot and shell, while a party of the 80th advanced along the front in open skirmishing order towards the river, and drove back the enemy on the other side till they were beyond rifle range. The latter were now sent down upon their right, which took post near a small village, and opened fire upon us; but after ten or twelve rounds they retired or ceased firing. Notwithstanding my crippled leg, I managed to get on horseback, and sitting lady fashion, get to the rifle picket, from which I had a good view of the enemy and ourselves. Fortunately for our men the day was uncommonly cool, and the sun was veiled by white fleecy clouds which had been left in the sky by the departed thunder-storm.

APPEARANCE OF THE MOUNTED ROHILLES—SIR COLIN CAMPBELL IN ACTION AND HIS ESCAPES FROM DEATH.

It was not my first sight of the Rohilla horsemen, but I confess I watched with great interest the aspect of these wild cavaliers, and I could have admired their aspect, as like leaves careering in the autumn breeze, they whirled in light eddies along our front, if it had not known that among them were the cruel assassins of the Twelfth Cavalry, and the troopers of other corps equally false, cruel, and murderous; but for the most part they seemed very well mounted. The Rohillas are a nation of horsemen; the native stock of the country is crossed with Arabs and with stud-bred horses, and some of the chargers on the field seemed models of symetery. Although the great bulk of the cavalry wheeled round and round, as if to avoid the shot which plowed up long lanes along the ridge in our front and searched out the mango topes small bodies from time to time rode down towards us, almost within musket range, as if to examine our position. In their last attack upon our position the other day a small body of them rode right up to our guns. De Kantzow sought to lead his men against them but he was not well supported. He rode forward, however, almost alone, and encountered the leader of the enemy; his pistol missed, and he instantly received two severe cuts, one across the face and another which severed the flesh from his elbow to his wrist. The Rohilla rode forward, struck the gun with his sword over the muzzle, as if claiming it for his own, and was shot dead there, as he stood calling on his followers to come on. With somewhat similar spirit a few of the enemy to-day congregated round a tree, which again and again was covered with dust from the shot of our eighteen pounders. But they held their own with persistency. It is said, indeed, that the Moulvie and Feroze Shah, both of whom were in the field to-day, are gallant and desperate men, and that our task would not be so easy if their followers partook of their spirit. The Moulvie is described as a tall, lean and muscular man, with lantern jaws, long thin lips, high aquiline nose, deep set large dark eyes, long beard and coarse black hair falling in masses over his shoulders. Feroze Shah is said to be a handsome, but sinister, looking man, of fine person, and is reputed to be a most admirable horseman. The old Khan Bahadoor Khan was present at the first, and some of the natives say that the Begum herself was a spectator of the day's proceedings. It is probable enough that the enemy were merely acting on the defensive. However, when these demonstrations on our left were encountered by the fire of our heavy artillery and field battery they directed their attention to the right. They opened their guns from several topes, and caused some casualties among Toombs' artillery. One of their shots very nearly deprived us of our Commander-in-Chief. Sir Colin is a very cool and cautious leader; he is chary of the lives of his men almost to a fault; but amid the noise of the captains and the shoutings he is careless to a fault of his own life. I would not wish to do so gallant and so brave a soldier an injustice but it is felt by those about him that on the day of battle the Commander-in-Chief does not sufficiently appreciate the value of his own existence. At Bareilly he was almost among a crowd of fanatics, who swept through the rank of the 42nd. A sabre cut might have destroyed forever the delicate web of combinations the key of which is in his possession alone. To-day a round shot passed so close to him and the chief of the staff, striking the earth at their feet, that those of the staff who were near thought an escape impossible. Had Sir Colin Campbell wished to make an offensive movement, no doubt he should have compelled the enemy to retire precipitately, but it was late in the afternoon when the affair commenced, and even if our men had been in a condition to pursue, nightfall would have checked them. Sir Colin, therefore contented himself with occupying the hamlets and topes in force, and with ordering up a 24-pounder and a heavy howitzer from the siege train, under Captain Todd Brown, which, acting in conjunction with the rapid services of Toombs' troop, soon prove the enemy off the field out of range, and forced them to withdraw their guns, one of which at least was disabled by our fire. Some time after sunset the commander-in-chief and his staff returned to camp, and the greater part of the troops returned to their tents. We have ascertained that our fir killed and wounded upwards of fifty of the enemy. Our own casualties were but five or six not including a few cases of exhaustion.

BOGLE'S HYPERION FLUID.

Is the best article for the hair in use. The following speaks for itself. A letter from the Rev. Mr. Chapin, Sandwhich, Mass., late of the "Olive Branch."

BOSTON, April 6th, 1846.

MR. BOGLE—SIR:—I consider it a duty I owe you as well as to those who may be troubled with their head and hair as I have been, to acknowledge the efficacy of your Hyperion Fluid, by the use of which I have derived so much benefit. For twelve years I was troubled with a disease on the head, the skin of which was covered with a thick coat of scaly humor, or dandruff in its worst form, which entirely covered the pores of the skin, caused severe headache, and entirely unfitted me for study; my hair also grew dry and dead, and at last began to turn bald and grey; to cure which I tried all the advertised articles of the day, (and their name is legion,) without deriving any benefit. I heard of your Hyperion Fluid, and although it was highly praised by those who had used it, yet I was afraid that it was but another humbug of the day, but was induced by you to give it a trial upon the system of no cure no pay; and I am glad to say it has entirely succeeded. The skin of my head is now clear from humor or dandruff, my hair is daily growing thicker, and is in a fine healthy state. It is therefore with the utmost confidence I recommend your Hyperion Fluid to be all you represent it.

I am, yours truly,
SAMUEL CHAPMAN.

PROF. WOOD'S HAIR RESTORATIVE.—This Restorative, for making the hair grow, stopping its falling out, and restoring grey hair to its original color, is becoming celebrated. All the quack nostrums are giving way before it. Three-fourths of the mixtures for restoring and beautifying the hair, do it more injury than good. They burn it up—destroy the life of its roots—make the hair fall off, and produce premature baldness. But Prof. Wood's Restorative may be relied upon as containing nothing which can in any manner be injurious to the hair, while its success in accomplishing what it pretends to do has been verified in hundreds of cases. We advise gray heads, and heads getting bald—all who wish to save their wool or obtain a new stock—to get a bottle of Wood's Restorative.—N. Y. Democrat.

THE TARIFF.

We are informed that a telegraphic message was yesterday received from Toronto, stating that, to-day (Saturday), the Governor-General will visit the Upper House, at four o'clock, P.M., to give assent to the bills which have been sanctioned by the Legislature since he last exercised the prerogative, and that the New Tariff may be expected to be amongst the number.

THREE DAYS LATER FROM ENGLAND.—We have three days later from England by the arrival at New York, yesterday, of the R. M. S. S. America. A telegram containing the leading features of the news, which is unimportant, will be found under the appropriate heading.

The details of the operations of the Army in India, on our first page, will be found interesting.

PROVINCIAL PARLIAMENT.

LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

Toronto, July 23.

Last night, the Grand Trunk Bill was finally reported by the Committee, without amendment, and was read a third time. Three several amendments were moved and lost, by 5 to 20.

To-day, the Surrogate Court Bill was read a first time.

In reply to Col. Prince, Mr. Vankoughnet said the Government had received communications from the Imperial authorities, respecting the Frazer River gold mines, and but for a passage in them, relating to the people on the other side of the water, they would have been laid before the House. He might, however, inform the House that before we became aware of the discovery of these mines they were known to the Imperial Government, and the Colonial Secretary had introduced a bill into the House of Commons for the purpose of organizing the territory West of the Rocky Mountains into British Colonies, and an efficient staff of British Engineers had been sent out for the purpose of defining the boundary line between the British dominions and the United States territory. A war steamer, with an adequate force, was also to be despatched to enforce order, &c.

A number of Bills were read a third time and passed.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

Toronto, July 23.

After our report left last night, the Inspector-General moved the third reading of the bill to amend the law relative to Duties of Customs and of Excise, and to impose new duties, and also to impose a Tonnage Duty, and a Duty on Tavern-keepers.

Mr. Cauchon moved, in amendment, that the said bill be not now read a third time, but that it be resolved, "That this House regards that all facilities extended to the navigation of the St. Lawrence are calculated to attract shipping and commerce from other countries to our shores, and directly affect the prosperity of every part of Canada, and that it is expedient to refer the said bill forthwith to a Committee of the whole, with an instruction to strike out the provision imposing a new tonnage duty on vessels coming by sea to our ports.

Messrs. Dorion, Brown, and McGee spoke in favor of the amendment, and Attorney-General Cartier against it.

On a division, the amendment was carried:—yeas 50; nays 48; majority against the Government 2.

The Yeas were Messrs. Aikens, Bell, Biggar, Bourassa, Brown, Bureau, Burwell, Cauchon, Christie, Cimon, Clark, Connor, Cook, Coutlee, Desaulnier, Dorion, Dorland, Fortier, Fournier, Gould, Hartman, Hebert, Hogan, Jobin, Laberge, Langevin, Lemieux, J. S. Macdonald, McKenzie, Mattice, McDougall, McGee, McKellar, Merritt, Morin, Mowat, Munroe, Notman, Ouimet, Papineau, Patrick, Piché, Walker Powell, Ross, Rymal, Short, Sommerville, Thibadeau, Walbridge, Wright.

The Nays were Messrs. Alleyn, Archambault, Benjamin, Burton, John Cameron, Campbell, Carling, Cayley, Attorney General Cartier, Daly, Daoust, Dione, Dufresne, Dunkin, Fellowes, Fergusson, Ferrier, Galt, Gauvreau, Gill, Gowan, Labelle, Lacoste, Laporte, Leboutillier, Loranger, Attorney General Macdonald, McCann, McMicken, Panet, Playfair, Pope, W. F. Powell, Price, Robinson, Solicitor General Rose, R. W. Scott, W. Scott, Sherwood, Sicotte, Simard, Simpson, Sincennes, Sidney Smith, Terrill, Turcotte.

Mr. Brown hoped an explanation would be made by the Ministry as to the defeat which they had just sustained on so important a point as their financial policy.

Attorney General Macdonald—Of course the order of the House is that it go into Committee of the Whole, for the purpose of striking out that part of the Bill.

J. S. Macdonald said the vote placed the Ministry in a most humiliating position; he did not see how they could treat amendments as mere technical matter.

The House went into Committee according to the instructions contained in the amendment, and struck out the part of the Bill relating to tonnage duty on shipping.

On the motion for receiving the report, after the Committee had risen, J. S. Macdonald denounced the Government for making such a change in the Bill as a mere verbal alteration. A change which struck directly at their financial policy, and which involved no less a sum than £17,500, the House was certainly entitled to some explanation.

Attorney-General Macdonald said the only explanation to be given was this: The Inspector General came down with the Estimates of the probable expenditure for the year and the probable amount of revenue to be collected. He specified the means by which he expected to raise a revenue sufficient to meet the expenditure. The item of tonnage dues was one, but it was one of no great importance; it was only a matter of £17500 for continuing the improvement of the Lower St. Lawrence and the maintenance of light-houses there. The House having expressed its disapproval of the item, it had been struck out on Committee. The Tariff, in all its main features, remained intact. The member for Cornwall said the course of the Government was without precedent. This was not the fact. It would be remembered that the Chancellor of the Exchequer, in Lord John Russell's administration, proposed a duty on Irish distilleries, that Lord Vane's amendment thereto was against the Government, and that the only result was that the Government was obliged to forego that item of revenue. This year the Chancellor of the Exchequer had returned to the charge, and the duty had been imposed.

Mr. Brown expressed his astonishment at the cavalier manner in which the Premier treated this vote. The course pursued by the Ministry wus certainly unprecedented, so far as Canada was concerned. The English precedent cited did not apply here. The duty proposed on the Irish distilleries was indeed a very trifling matter compared with the whole revenue of England. But in this case a great commercial change was proposed, and the amount to be raised was important to our revenues. It was consequently not a simple matter of pounds, shillings and pence, as the Premier wished to make it appear, but it was one which should be viewed with great gravity and should not be treated in the non-challant way in which the Premier had treated it. The position of the Government was most degrading. They had had a large Upper Canada majority against them (since the very commencement of the session; and the majority of the whole House, with which they had set out, has gradually wasted away until until they were now in a minority, defeated on an important commercial proposition.

Mr. Cayley maintained that the vote was quite accidental: had it been taken five minutes later it would have been reversed. In 1850 a similar accidental vote had occurred, and the government of the day had been deprived of their majority for the evening, but they had not gone out of office. The present Government, therefore, in his opinion, had taken a proper course. Mr. Cauchon said he was fully persuaded it was no accidental vote, for he knew that several gentlemen who had supported the Ministry hitherto and who were absent, had declared their intention to vote for his amendment.

Mr. Mackenzie spoke at some length, and strongly against the course of the Government.

Mr. M. Cameron said the defeat of the Government was the result of a dishonest coalition between the Quebec members and those in the opposition.

The report of the Committee was then received, and the amendment concurred in.

The Bill, as amended, was then ordered for a third reading to-morrow.

The House then went into Committee on the Fishery Bill of the Commissioner of Crown Lands. Some of the details underwent much discussion, but amendments were reserved until the question of concurreace came up.

The Committee rose and reported the Bill.

The House adjourned at 1 o'clock.

To-day, the Bill relating to the admission of Attorneys was read a first time.

The Bill relating to the duties of Customs and Excise, and to impose new duties on the tonnage of vessels and tavern keepers came up for a third reading.

Mr. Thibadeau moved in amendment that the Bill be referred back to the Committee of the Whole for the purpose of amending it by striking out the item of 20 per cent. on Woollens, and substituting therefor 15 per cent. Lost by 58 to 28.

Mr. Thibadeau then moved in amendment, that the bill should be referred back to the committee of the whole to be amended by striking out the duties imposed on anchors weighing under 6 cwt., cordage and canvas. The bill was then read a third time and passed. Several amendments were made to the passing of the bill, but they were rejected by large majorities.

DEFEAT OF THE MINISTRY.—We were much gratified to learn by telegraph, yesterday morning, from Toronto, that, on the night previous, the Ministry had been defeated, on that most objectionable and impolitic feature of Mr. Cayley's budget, the imposition of a tonnage tax on shipping. We have not, while we write, received any information beyond the naked fact of the Ministry having been left in a minority of two, on the division; but we shall, doubtless, receive a list of the yeas and nays in time for our present issue, and shall then be better able to judge of the importance of the event. In the meantime, we may remark that, with any other men than his Excellency's present responsible advisers, we could have no doubts as to the consequences of such a manifest and unmistakable evidence of non-confidence, on the part of the House of Assembly, as such a vote implies. We need not remind our readers, for it has been reiterated ad nauseam, alike by the Ministers in the House and by their supporters of the press out of doors, that to throw the Ministry into a minority, on any question whatsoever, would be viewed by them as a non-confidence vote; to which threat alone they owed their recent narrow escape on the Seat of Government question. Now, on that particular question, on which the general interests of the country have to contend with the local and individual interests of members on both sides of the House, it is manifest that the Ministry might have been defeated by the votes of men who approved of their general policy, while they disapproved of the Downing Street selection of Ottawa as the future capital of the country. But what can be said of a defeat, by which a majority of the House not only refuse to grant the Ministry the means, which they declare are necessary to enable them to carry on her Majesty's government, but, at the same time, put on record their disapproval of the policy, by which the Ministry sought to secure these necessary means? If such a vote is other than one of non-confidence, we confess our inability to conceive what particular features of any vote, by which the House refuses its sanction to the measures of the Government, can entitle it to that name and character. With British statesmen, we repeat, there could be no room for doubting as to the course they would pursue on finding themselves in a minority, on a matter such as Mr. Cayley's tonnage duties, involving not only a refusal of the revenue sought to be obtained from them, but a distinct and unequivocal condemnation of the principles and policy, which dictated the imposition of a tax so manifestly injurious to the commercial interests of the country—a tax, which would act as a direct premium in favor of United States ports against those of Canada. Such a defeat would, in Enland, be inevitably followed by resignation; but in Canada—quien sabe, as the Spaniards say, who knows? Only those who know the "species of humbuggery," (I thank thee, John, &c.,) which Mr. John A. Macdonald informed his constituents at Kingston, he relied upon when pressed by doubts or threatened by dangers.

GRAND TRUNK SQUABBLING.—On Wednesday night last, at Toronto, the long-threatened attack was made upon Mr. Hogan, the member for Grey. He has been charged with, while acting as the editor of the Colonist, offering his services to the Grand Trunk Company as a firewood contractor, expressing his willingness to throw his political interest into the bargain, in favor of Mr. John Ross, the President of the road. What is called the proof of these charges was presented on Wednesday night. They made, however, no proof at all; being, at best, assertions on the part of Mr. Hogan's political enemies respecting remembered private conversations of eighteen months or two years ago. When the subject was first mooted, it was alleged by Mr. Hogan's assailants that Messrs. D. Morrison and John Ross could establish the fact. Instead of that, all we have is the assertion from these gentlemen, not that Mr. Hogan told them he was willing to sell himself, but that Mr. Morrison told Mr John Ross, and Mr. John Ross reciprocated the confidence. Here is the important part of Mr. Morrison's statement, in a letter appealing to the Hon. John Ross:—

> You will no doubt recollect the circumstance of my having casually mentioned to you, sometime in the end of 1856 or the beginning of 1857, that Mr. Hogan was in a position to tender for a supply of wood for the Grand Trunk Railway. You may also remember my saying that Mr. Hogan represented himself as having been badly treated by Mr. Cameron and other of his Conservative friends, and as I was then under the impression that Mr. Hogan was a martyr to his principles [a foolish enough impression no doubt] I should be glad to see him served if it could properly be done. You replied that personally you would be disposed to serve Mr. Hogan, but that you could not, in the interest of the Company accept Mr. Hogan's tender unless it should prove to be more advantageous than others.
>
> You will probably further remember stating to me that Mr. Hogan repeatedly made personal application to yourself for the contract, offering to carry it on in connection with a person named McGaffey, and promising at the same time a quid pro quo in the shape of newspaper services.
>
> It is needless to add that, whatever may be your opinion of Mr. Hogan at the present time, I have lived to regard him, instead of being a martyr to principle as a treacherous, unreliable person.

Mr. Ross replies:—

> MY DEAR SIR,—I have received your note of this day's date and in reply beg to state, that I have a very distinct recollection of your having spoken to me, about the time you mention, on behalf of Mr. Hogan, for a wood contract on the Grand Trunk Railway.
>
> Mr. Hogan subsequently made several applications to me personally on the same business, and from him I learned that Mr. McGaffey was to be connected with him in the contract if obtained.
> I did not think it for the interest of the Grand Trunk Company to recommend the acceptance of the proposals made, but the facts in relation thereto, as stated in your note, are substantially correct.

Thus the only assertion directly bearing on the case is that Mr. Hogan applied for a wood contract, and said that McGaffey—the friend of the then Receiver-General, gambler, and now refugee from justice—was to have a share in it. All the rest is conversation between Morrison and Ross. To eke out this evidence, a Mr. Robert Davis has been called into the field, and he says:—

> I had repeated conversations with Mr. Hogan with regard to Grand Trunk matters. In these conversations he unreservedly expressed his willingness to throw such influence as he possessed upon the Colonist, as editor, in favor of the President and Company if he succeeded in getting the contract. From this and other disappointed expectations from the same source arose, I presume, the virulent opposition of the Colonist to the Grand Trunk interest.

Now, it is pretty evident that any man's public character may be taken away if loose assertions, like this, of political opponents are to be received as proof. Beyond that we say nothing as to the fact of the offer of political service or not; knowing nothing whatever about it. We have a very fair idea, however, from Mr. Morrison's own letter, of the ideas which he had about the connection between newspapers and Grand Trunk contracts, and also of the style of bargain which would be likely to find acceptance with his friend Mr. John Ross, at once President of the Grand Trunk Company and Minister of the Crown. There can be no mistake about his views; and when it is recollected that he has been himself a contractor on the Grand Trunk, and at the same time a government newspaper writer—when it is remembered, moreover, that after the able President of the Bytown and Prescott Railway had failed to get an advance from Government by his own advocacy, he secured it by paying Mr. Morrison £700, it will not be thought unfair to judge him by the standard he applies to another, and which he adopted in his conversation with Mr. Ross, reported by himself. The last paragraph in his letter is very amusing. When he represented Mr. Hogan as willing to sell himself, he did so under the idea that the latter had been ill-treated by his friends, and was a martyr to his principles, so that he considered it laudable to make a golden bridge to facilitate the revenge against the first and desertion of the other. As Mr. Hogan, however, adhered to his principles—either because he did not want to sell, in spite of the opinions of the broker, or because the purchaser was not willing—he was looked upon as a treacherous and unreliable person. For our own part, we think that the President of the Grand Trunk ought, out of self-respect, to keep out of such squabbles and charges as these. If there is reason to consider any one as bought by Grand Trunk influence, certainly neither himself nor his colleague, Mr. Cartier, will be exempted from the category of the bought men. Decency should make him and his contractors hold their tongues about other people, who have not; but might—if we would take their words for it—have done what they have done.

MORE ABOUT THE ATLANTIC TELEGRAPH.—We find, in the New York papers of Thursday, a letter from Cyrus W. Field, Esq., to the Directors of the Atlantic Telegraph Company in London, giving a daily journal of operations on board the Niagara, together with his views as to the failure of the enterprise. From examinations made of the logs of the Cunard steamers for a number of voyages in the months of June, July and August, Mr. Field comes to the conclusion that July is the best month in which to make the experiment, there being only one day of gales in twenty five in that month, while in June there is one in seven, and in August one in nine. There is ample cable left on the Niagara for another experiment, though, until the Agamemnon should be heard from, it was impossible to say whether it would be made. The machinery on board the Niagara worked in the most perfect manner.

ACQUISITION OF CUBA BY THE UNITED STATES.—In the telegram of the Washington correspondent of the New York Associated Press, published in the New York papers on Thursday morning, it was said that:—

> There is good reason to believe, from recently received information, that our Government is now in a fair way to acquire the Island of Cuba. This is derived from an unquestionable source.

THE ST. GEORGE'S PIC-NIC.—Thursday last was a day sufficiently moist to damp the aspirations of any but very enthusiastic people for out-of-doors enjoyment. The St. George's Society were, however, sufficiently enthusiastic to set out at half-past nine o'clock, in considerable numbers, for the property of the Hon. Mr. Harwood, at Vaudreuil; and after all, though there were some showers, fortune, as usual, favored the bold, so far as, excepting a few showers, to send a day when one might enjoy the fair scenery at the confluence of the St. Lawrence and Ottawa. Nunn's band was in attendance, and made sweet music as the company got on board the cars. On arriving at the classical spot immortalized by Tom Moore—the little church by the side of the rapid, where the voyageurs of the song were to sing their parting hymn—the appropriate air of the Canadian boat song was played. From that to the scene of the intended fête, the road lies across the two beautiful bridges, which connect the Isle Perrot with the Island of Montreal on the East, and the Mainland on the West. Close to the Station, which is itself close to the bridge, there is a fine piece of sward descending to the rivers edge and affording a splendid view of the many Islands on the estuary of the two rivers, and here the company took up their quarters for the day. There were swings and promenades out of doors for those not afraid of wet feet, and there was a fine roomy apartment within for dancers. Mr. Harwood, junior, shortly came down to welcome the party, apologizing for the want of preparation, on account of the wet weather which had made him believe that the festival would be postponed. The good things brought with the party were then discussed, and after the repast, Mr. Ireland, the Vice President, made a short, excellent and appropriate address, in the course of which he thanked Mr. Harword for the permission to occupy the grounds, and the preparations made for the reception of the guests, who could, he said, hardly have been expected in such weather. After the address three cheers were given for Mr. Harwood, Mr. Ireland, the Grand Trunk, the St. George's Society and the Queen. At seven o'clock the party re-embarked and arrived in town in first rate spirits. On the road an accident happened by running over a hand car; but fortunateiy the men on it saved themselves before the concussion.

WEST MIDDLESEX ELECTION.—We cut the following amusing account of the proceedings at a convention, held this day week at Strathroy in West Middlesex, for the purpose of nominating a successor to the late Mr. Scatcherd, as representative of that county, from the London Free Press:—

> On Saturday afternoon the Ministerialists gathered their forces at Strathroy, for the purpose of nominating a candidate by means of a convention. The whole affair was most ludicrous, and shows how completely disorganized that party is the west. Out of forty delegates chosen, only seventeen attended, and these had such drooping spirits that they looked more like men going to an execution than to an exciting political meeting. T. B. French and James Fergnson, Esq., (we won't call him Big Jem any more) were there, trying to do all their little possibles on behalf of the Government. Mr. Arthur was called to the chair, and the room cleared of the public for the purpose of allowing this wonderful convention of seventeen out of forty, to discharge the important duty of nominating a candidate. Mr. John Ferguson was chosen Secretary, and after being requested to read the certificates of the delegates, refused to do so. Mr. A. P. Macdonald was not present, but Mr. Gowan protested that the convention had been packed and that it was unfair, unlawful and not binding. The convention then proceeded to ballot, no discussion taking place cn the claims of the candidates, and resulted as follows:—
>
> | | |
> |---|---|
> | A. P. Macdonald | 12 votes. |
> | Thomas Moyle | 2 " |
> | N. C. Gowan | 2 " |
>
> The public were then allowed to re-enter, but no declaration was made of the result, all being seemingly ashamed of the contemptible affair.
>
> Ogle R. Gowan then addressed the meeting and expressed the hope that if A. P. Macdonald had been their choice, they would support him to the utmost. He also delivered himself of a panegyric on the Government, which proved very distasteful to the meeting, but quite sufficient to mark his friend A. P. Macdonald as an out-and-out ministerialist. An interesting scene here arose between Gowan, sen., and Gowan jun. The latter gentleman protested against the decision of the Convention, and declared that neither his father nor the Convention should sacrifice him. The father retorted on his son, and told him, Nassau, that he thought he had brought him up better than to be so saucy to his father. The delinquent son did not seem to relish this paternal chatisement, but persisted against his father taking Macdonald under his protection. If the days of the birch rod were not over, there is no doubt that an a posteriori argument would have been administered to naughty Nassau by this stern "parient."
>
> After this scene with the "happy family" had terminated, Mr. Wilkinson, Mr. McKellar, and Mr. White spoke, and were received with tremendous applause. Mr. Fergusson, M. P. P for Simcoe, then delivered an harangue in favor of the ministry and A. P. Macdonald, and indulged in a good deal of personal abuse. The proceedings did not terminate till near Sunday morning, when all parties went home by moonlight. The election of Wilkinson by a very large majority is now more than ever certain. The Gowan party will support Wilkinson if the former retires.

Ottawa Correspondence.

OTTAWA, July 21, 1858.

You will remember, doubtless, my repeated assertions that the Bishop of Bytown had much to do in the late Parliamentary elections in this section of the country. These references to his Lordship's intrigues were not acceptable to many here, and at one time occasioned some uneasiness. Still, knowing that what I had written was true, I held on to the facts, and allowed his Lordship's partizans of the press to spit firey indignation at me unheeded. Not long since, Mr. Scott foolishly felt the spirit move him to make a speech on the school question. He was reported in the ministerial papers in the following concise manner:—

"Mr. Scott, [Ottawa] hoped the question would be settled now, so that it might not continue to agitate the public mind. It had undoubtedly been used as a political cry at the elections, but by whom? by political demagogues. [Hear.] Political demagogues made capital out of the question, and used it at the polls to serve their party purposes. He hoped the vote that night would be so decisive as to set the question at rest."

One of the local papers in the interest of Mr. Scott took exception to the manner in which the Ottawa members have been reported in the Toronto journals, and points particularly to the report of this speech of Mr. Scott as a sample of the injustice done to the Ottawa representatives. The authority is good on this point, for the writer is a Roman Catholic. He says:—

"All who know the character of Mr. Scott, for veracity, will see at once that injustice has been done him in the report. Mr. Scott would not offer a gratuitous insult to the revered clergy, and the leading laymen of his own church, by styling them political demagogues. He was aware that through their exertions every member from this quarter was pledged upon the school question—the Hon. President of the Council—the Hon. Inspector General—the member for Carleton—the member for Russell—the member for Prescot—the member for Pontiac, and Mr. Scott himself; and that their promise of support of the Separate School system was in every case required and obtained."

The plain English of this is, that Vankoughnet, Cayley, Bill Powell, Fellowes, McCann, Heath and Scott, are pledged to the priests and their measures!—their promise of support was, "in every case, required and obtained!!" Put a pin in there;—it may stick to the shirt collar of some Orangeman in Carleton or Pontiac.

At the political meeting lately attempted to be held in Toronto, one of the chief orators declared that "Mr. Cayley was an honest man, and if they gave him time to prove his position, he would come out as honest a man as George Brown. If Mr. Cayley had done wrong, the laws of the country would hold him answerable. Every farthing's worth of property, he could tell them, that Mr. Cayley owned, was in the city of Toronto." The last is an incontrovertible fact, to which I draw the attention of the people of Renfrew. It was not Mr. Cayley that was elected for Renfrew—it was the Inspector General—and this they took no trouble to conceal. Mr. Cayley, it is now well ascertained, will have to retire from office, as he is incapable of grappling with the great commercial questions of the day. Then, how will the electors of Renfrew be situated? When he is no longer Inspector General, will he be the representative of Renfrew? And they have the pleasing fact to fall back upon, that he owns not one farthing's worth of property in this section of the country, and that his interest lies in the West! Please put another pin in here—it may have some effect up in Renfrew.

The deputation of lumberers which lately went to Toronto for the Ottawa trade, were politely received and liberally treated; but "soft words butter no parsnips." They saw Mr. Scott, and he "sided" with the Commissioner of Crown Lands. They saw nothing of Powell; Fellowes, they felt they could have nothing to do with;—Mr. Dawson is virtually, the only representative of the trade of the Ottawa, in the House. Where was Cayley?—"they had no heart to bother him in his affliction."

The Grumbler says that "the Ottawa district has the reputation of sending the greatest rascals in the country to Parliament." How far wrong is the Grumbler?

OTTAWA AND HURON CANAL,—ITS POSITION AND PROSPECTS.

To the Editor of the MONTREAL HERALD.

SIR,—The Ottawa and Huron Canal Company has not yet been organized, the Capital Stock not subscribed, and the deeds, grants, and trusts, not executed.

The basis of this enterprise will be founded on Imperial and Canadian legislation. The powers delegated will be ample, and the titles perfect. It is of its merits as a public work, of its capabilities as a great thoroughfare, of its success as a commercial operation, and its consequent estimation as a medium of investment, that I now propose to make some remarks.

If to make two blades of grass grow where but one grew before, be worthy the high commendation of the philosopher and patriot, it will not be deemed an act altogether unimportant or useless to the country to open to the approach of industry, millions of acres of the most fertile soil the sun ever shone upon, and to make available at once, the alluvial deposits of countless ages. An enterprise that will thus bring into use wealth heretofore buried, that will lighten the burthen while it will increase the rewards of labor; that will add to the resources of the poor, and offer new and valuable investments to the rich, will hardly want friends, when such pretensions shall be established. The construction of a Canal, connecting the waters of the St. Lawrence by means of the Ottawa and French rivers, and bearing on its surface the various productions of the West and North West; the corn of Illinois and the minerals of the Mackenzie, will, it is believed, accomplish these objects.

Its practicability, with the means at the disposal of its projectors and friends, is an important consideration. This, it is evident, must mainly depend on the ultimate value of the work when completed, and of the effect on the property which forms the basis of all its financial operations. The value of the work may be estimated by the use that can be made of it, or rather by the extent of production to which the ability to use it will give birth. The sources of income will be found:

1st. In the produce of the mines and forests, for these furnish articles ready for use and of general consumption everywhere.

2nd. In the produce of the soil, which requires easy and cheap transportation to induce, as much as it does sunshine and rain to perfect, its cultivation.

3rd. In the supplies requisite to those who may be engaged in occupations connected with or incident to the above named branches of business.

4th. In the movements of persons for purposes of business or pleasure.

5th. In the transit of goods for which the route will afford the most convenient and expeditious passage.

6th. In transportation of mails and in other miscellaneous operations.

Having settled these points with as much precision as the nature of the case admits, it will be easy to estimate the value of the canal as an investment, and consequently as a security per se for the means necessary to construct it. If it cannot be shown that it will yield some income beyond its current expenses, no one will probably take the trouble to carry on the enterprise, and consequently no means will be required for its construction. If, therefore, these means are sought, it will be proof that its projectors believe it will be of some intrinsic value. It may be more or less, or they may be altogether mistaken.

If the latter be not the case, then the property which they receive for carrying out the plan must also be worth something. How much, will depend on the demand for it, and the demand will be proportionate to the number of persons who may be induced, by the prospect of success, to cluster about it. We come back, then, to the great question of population. In estimating what it may be some four, or five, or six years hence, in the region to be traversed by this canal, or in that where the land grant is to be made, we have the same lights to guide us that are always used by prudent men in their daily operations.

The merchant embarks in a well know traffic with confidence, because he knows the number and wants of his customers. The manufacturer trusts, without question, the most valuable material in the hands of the operative, because he believes that, in its new form, it will have acquired a new value, from the fact that there are people whose comfort will be increased by its use. The farmer casts his seed into the ground, with little doubt of eventual repayment, not only in crops which must ensue, but in his ability to exchange them for other things of which he has more need. So, if we offer a richer soil and greater facilities for disposing of its produce, than can be found elsewhere, we may fairly calculate on drawing to it a portion of the vast body of the men that are always in motion, seeking rest, and competence, and wealth; and just in proportion as are the inducements will be the rapidity of its settlement and the value of the property.

How rapid it will be, and how great the appreciation, we can judge when we know the whole case from analogy and experience. These are the true prophets. No man can be called speculative, in the opprobrious sense of the term, that bases his operations on these as a foundation, and legitimately forms his opinions, and acts on them from an accurate knowledge of the facts. In doing this, however, we should weigh carefully all the conflicting circumstances, giving no heed to the dictates of interest or the fascinations of a favourite theory. On the contrary, we should always assume that there will be difficulties we have not discovered, and some points on which we have been deceived by false information, or misled by specious pretensions.

SASKATCHAWAN.

To the Editor of the MONTREAL HERALD.

MR. EDITOR,—Do you think you can do anything to get us poor fellows a few hours on Saturday, the same as the wholesale clerks? I am sure we need it as much as them, if not more, for we have from eleven to fifteen hours duty a day, while they have only from eight to ten hours. Why, the alacrity with which we would work with such a prospect before us would amply repay our employers for the few hours on Saturday, not speaking of the many it would deter from going on parties of pleasure on Sunday, as they say they have no other time. But there are a great many who would rather do without either excise or pleasure than break the Sabbath Day, so that they have little or no time from one year's end to the other for any kind of pleasure. Do, Mr. Editor, put in a few words for us and I think they would have a good effect.

A RETAIL CLERK.

MONTREAL, July 22, 1858.

P. S.—Is it not hard to see our confreres of the wholesale establishments starting on boating, fishing and pleasure excursions without us?

("All work and no play"—those appealed to in the above epistle know the rest. If they believe in the truth of the time-honored adage, they will need no "words" from us to procure for it their favorable consideration.—Ed. Hd.)

FRANCE.

From the Paris Correspondent of the Manchester Guardian.

Paris, June 29, 1858.

No inconsiderable number of people think that the state of affairs generally in this country has sunk into what may be termed almost a hopeless condition. They remark, with some truth, that every step made by the government is a move in the wrong direction, which is usually the sign of the downfall of a dynasty in France; for, unfortunately for the French, they have so arranged their affairs, that it is never with them merely the question of a ministry; it becomes at once a question of the entire establishment, whatever may be its form. Now, even with so apparently secondary an event as the nomination of Prince Napoleon to the new "ministry of Algeria and the colonies," it is a mistake that has been made. But this is what comes of perpetual, and indeed constitutional hesitation and uncertainty of purpose. The Emperor had taken it into his head to "do something;" he had set about doing it; it had got publicly talked about; and then all at once that which has seemed so sure was looked upon as problematical; and public opinion began to occupy itself with the incessant vacillations of the Imperial mind. What exactly to do was not then so distinctly seen, and keeping, I firmly believe, always in reserve, the intention of making his cousin Viceroy of Algeria, Louis Napoleon gets it into his head to turn him, meanwhile, simply into a minister, and doing something with him ad interim, that is, less and worse than nothing. Here is the man who, if he is to be considered anything in the present organization of France, is an Imperial Highness and a member of the reigning house, what would elsewhere be called a Prince of the blood. Well, here he is made a mere "Excellency," and the equal of M. Magne or M. Rouher. I am glad to see that very generally the public are opening their eyes to these inconsistencies, and are beginning to penetrate in the Emperor the secret of a character that has stood revealed for several years to those nearest about him, and I trust you will do me the justice to avow I have attracted your attention to this for a very long time past.

Alarm is showing itself amongst a certain set here too, at the attitude that seems likely to be assumed by the Anglo-French alliances. The temper of a certain part of the army, the tendencies of a certain part of the population, the hostile articles of the official press,—all these features of the position are now seriously striking such men as MM. Fould and Morny; and I am authorized to relate to you what occurred the other day in a very small and intimate re-union in a very high official place. The talk was of a war, &c., and the two persons I mention both exclaimed, "There is no doubt of the every-day increasing tension of the situation; but sooner than such a war should break out, I would throw myself at the Emperor's feet, nor rise till he had given up his fatal plan." A great personage standing by said, "Yes, just as the Duc de Montpensier did to his father, Louis Philippe, to entreat him on the eve of the Revolution, of 1848, to allow the offensive passages in the Address to be cancelled." The impression of these words is reported to me as having been profound. But it is undeniable that the whole situation looks dark enough to frighten those men whose fortunes would be destroyed should the empire be so.

Another bad effect of the nomination of Prince Napoleon is, that it puts in the hands of a man thought to be by no means devoted to the Bonaparte dynasty the power of tampering with and corrupting the best portion of the French army, the army of Africa. Besides this, two very efficient ministers are deeply affronted by it. Marshal Vaillant is furious at having the administrative portion of the government of Algeria taken from him; and Admiral Hamelin is so, at the fact of the "Colonies" being also subtracted from his control. It is but a small incident, certainly, this same nomination of Plon Plon, but it one more "move in the wrong direction," small as it is.

THE LATE MR. JOHN SHAKESPEAR.

It was stated in a provincial journal a few days ago that this gentleman had just thrown off "this mortal coil" at an advanced age. Mr. Shakespear was an extraordinary man in many respects, and his recent public act of doing honour to the birth place of the Bard of Avon alone entitles him to public gratitude. Mr. Shakespear was in the 85th year of his age when he died. When young he was connected as a teacher of languages with an educational establishment at Marlow, and afterwards was transferred to Addiscombe College, and for a number of years filled the office of professor of oriental languages in that institution till 1832, when he vacated his position. During his connection with Addiscombe College he published "an English and Hindustani Dictionary," royal 4to.; a Grammar of Hindustani Language; an "Introduction to the Hindustani Language," royal 8vo.; and "Selections in Hindustani," in two volumes. Some curious stories are told as to Mr. Shakespear's carefulness, if not penuriousness, in money matters, and this passion for the accumulation of wealth, with the successful issue of his works, enabled him to leave behind him at his death upwards of a quarter of million of money. His death took place at Langley Priory, near Loughborough, Leicestershire, a large estate which he purchased some years ago for £70,000. His library he has bequeathed to Professor Bowles, of Addiscombe College, with other property. Mr. Shakespear's connection with the Shakespear House at Stratford-upon-Avon may be told in a few words. That national property was bought in 1847, by public auction, for £3000 by the Shaksperian Club, out of a fund obtained by public subscription, and was conveyed to Viscount Morpeth (the present Earl of Carlisle,) Thomas Amyott, Esq., (since dead,) J. P. Collier, Esq., and Dr. Thos. Thompson. In May, 1856, the London solicitor of Mr. John Shakespear wrote to the parties residing at Stratford upon-Avon, who were interested in the preservation of Shakespear's Birthplace, that his client was desirous of doing honour to the cherished place where the poet first drew breath, and ultimately he signified the intention of Mr. Shakespear to give to the trustees £2500 for the purpose of purchasing and taking down the buildings adjoining the birthplace of Shakespear, so as to effect a perfect isolation, to prevent risk from fire, and then of restoring the house to the state in which it is represented in an old engraving, (a copy of which is in the British Museum), and as it is supposed to have been at the birth of the poet. The deed of trust was immediately executed by Mr. Shakespear. He never professed to be related to the great bard, but thought it probable that he was descended from a branch of the family. He was very particular in spelling his own name in the way we have given it.

BRITISH LETTERS FROM FRAZER'S RIVER.—A correspondent of the London Times, writes from Victoria, Vancouver's Island, May 9, as follows:—

"Yesterday the Hudson's Bay Company's steam propeller Otter arrived here from Fort Langley, one of their trading posts on the Frazer river and brought gold dust valued at $35,000—judging from the fact that its weight was as much as one man could conveniently carry. Heavy gold is found ten miles from the mouth of Thompson's river, at a place called Necowman. The heaviest nugget yet found was $8 25. Bank and river mining is going on between the forks and big falls of Frazer river, into which Thompson river runs, or in other words, is a tributary to the former. The number of miners now working is estimated by one of their number, from whom I received the above at 1000—all of whom he assured me, were doing well. To quote figures, they were making from $10 to $40 per day.

The following are given as the distances from Victoria to the trading posts of the Hudson's Bay Company, en route to the gold fields, viz: from Victoria, Vancouver's Island, to Fort Langley, 80 miles; from the latter to Fort Hope, 60 miles; Fort Hope to Fort Yale, 15 miles; Fort Yale to mouth of Thompson River, 110 miles; thence to Big Falls on the Frazer 75 miles; total, 340 miles to the diggings as yet found to be the richest.

Light steamers can go up to the very gold mines fifteen miles above Fort Hope.

It is understood that the Hudson's Bay Company will make provisions for the conveyance of passengers up the Frazer river by means of suitable steamers. This river is navigable a distance of 150 miles for vessels drawing four feet of water, all which will greatly facilitate getting to the new El Dorado.

The Indians are said to be behaving, on the whole, very well, engaging themselves in the labor of working canoes and trading freely. In a few cases they prohibited white men from digging in their places, but in other instances showed a spirit of commendable liberality.

A miner on the spot says, "The Indians are friendly, and will continue so as long as they remain unmolested.' This report is corroborated by others. These Indians are brave and warlike, well armed with 'shooting irons,' and skilled in the use of them. They have been accustomed to just treatment from the Hudson's Bay Company, and will exact justice from their new neighbors. The only vice they are charged with is, that they give a very loose interpretation to the doctrines of meum and tuum—certainly an inconvenient weakness to travelers adrift among them. They seem, however, to be very civil and obliging thieves."

RAILWAY ACCIDENTS.—Railway trains are run too fast. Look at the recent disasters, says the Albany Journal. "It was a train going half a mile a minute, that made the fatal plunge through the Sanquoit bridge. It was a train, running forty miles an hour, that was precipitated down the Shin Hollow embankment, killing and maiming. The train that went crashing into the river on the Lafayette and Indianapolis road was a Cincinnati express train. The train that pitched off the track at Penn Yan, was New York express train. All these disasters have happened since the summer time-tables were adopted in May increasing the average speed. It is always so. One of these wholesale, frightful sacrifices of life and limb rarely happens except to, or by means of, a train at high speed. But the travelling public love to ride in one of these 'lightning runs,' which whizzes them over the track at a rate as dangerous as it is delightful. They love a speed which grinds the rails, racks the axles, strains the timbers, renders it impossible to stop in time to avoid accident, and insures death and destruction when accident does occur. So the danger is incurred to please the passengers.

> 'The Drama's laws the Drama's patrons give
> And those who live to please, must please, to live.

And by a similar necessity railway managers are forced to adopt time tables to suit public opinion, though they know the hazard of accident, and the certainty of ruinous 'wear and tear' which they involve. Speed should be proportioned to strength of material. This is not a matter of chance, but of calculation. Given the speed of a train, and the strength of wood and iron, it is a mere sum in arithmetic to determine whether a car can be crushed to atoms, or can only be wrenched and jolted, by going off the track. Speed should be secondary, safety the primary consideration. Better arrive an hour later, than run the risk of being killed or maimed for life, on the way."

THREE LADIES DROWNED.—A sad calamnity says the New York Times of Thursday, occurred yestesday, resulting in the death of three ladies by drowning, and probably the death of a fourth lady. A large number of the Attorney-street Methodist Church and Sabbath School went on a pic-nic excursion, in the steamboat Isaac Bell and a barge, to Davids' Island, off New-Rochelle. After landing on the Island, a party of four ladies and one gentleman started to take a sail in a small sailboat, managed by its owner. They had not proceeded far, when a flaw of wind capsized the boat as she was rounding a point, throwing them all into the water. Three of the ladies were drrowned, despite the efforts of many persons who rushed to rescue them. The Ladies who were drowned were Mrs. Isabela Fergusson, of No. 115 Lewis-street, and Mrs. Emma Demilt, of No. 113 Lewis-street, and Mrs. Ann Elizabeth Jacobs, of No. 57 Gouverneur-street. The bodies of the last two had not been found last evening. Miss. Magnum, of No. 258 Delancey-street, was rescued alive, and taken to her residence, but her recovery is deemed highly improbable.

A VERY LIKELY STORY.—The Daily News says that Mr. William B. Astor has determined to build three large steamships, at a cost of about a million of dollars each, for the philanthropic purpose of giving employment to our idle mechanics; and after they are built he intends to sell them to the Government, or to any other purchaser that will come forward, and divide the profits, if their should be any after deducting interest for the capital employed, among the workmen employed in building them. If Mr. Astor should be disposed to employ three millions of dollars for the benefit of New-York mechanics, we are very sure he will not do it in such a wild manner as that indicated by the News. To build steamships, for which there is no demand, would be about as absurd a waste of money as could well be conceived of. There has been rather too much capital sunk in such costly undertakings already.—New York Times.

THE COMING ECLIPSE.—The fact that the English Government was generously offering every facility for such of her astronomers and scientific men as desired to observe the Solar Eclipse, in September next, from the most desirable points on the Western shore of South America, has been generally noticed in this country, and much regret has been expressed by astronomers that our government, or our scientific institutions, have not seen their way clear to take some part in the proposed expedition, or to send out a separate expedition for the same purpose. The Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia Inquirer says that an expedition from this country has become a certainty, through the generous and voluntary assistance of one of our own patriotic citizens. The correspondent says that the last steamer brought a communication from Mr. Wheelright, of Newburyport, Mass., now in London, authorizing a friend to draw on him for a sum sufficient to pay the expenses of an American Astronomer to Peru. He offers it as his cheerful contribution for the promotion of science.

THEATRE ROYAL.—The patrons of this establishment have a splendid entertainment offered to them this evening. The thrilling Scottish Drama of Wallace, The Hero of Scotland, and one of the cleverest Burlesques ever offered on any stage—Shylock, or The Merchant of Venice—Preserved. In the former Mr. Elmore will sustain the character of Wallace, and in the latter we find Hale as the Hero—Shylock. The music and singing, we are informed, is calculated to make a sensation. The piece is full of telling points, and will doubtless make a great hit. As to-night may be the only opportunity our playgoers may have of witnessing it (other novelties being in preparation for next week) we anticipate a full house.

ARRIVALS AT THE DONEGANA.—Amongst the distinguished arrivals at the Donegana Hotel, we notice the following:—Le Marquis et la Marquise de Montholon, Consul-General de France at New York; le Vicomte de Freilhard, of the French Legation, Washington; and le Comte Frenfanilli.

FRENCH LESSONS.—Mr. H. E. Chevalier, one of the Editors of the Pays, and French Translator to the Geological Survey of Canada, having a few hours of leisure to dispose of, is willing to devote them to the teaching of the French language and literature.

LARCENY.—Yesterday morning a boy named Emilien Beauvin was brought before Mr. Coursol, charged with having, on the 20th instant, stolen from the person of an individual, named Charretier, a plug of tobacco of the value of two pence, and a pocket knife of the value of six pence. The offence was proven, and the prisoner being unable to pay a fine of 20s. was sent to jail for eight days.

NEW YORK MARKETS.

MONEY MARKET.

Business generally continues dull—money plenty and Stocks tolerably well sustained. The Bank statement of last week shows an increase in the specie line. The undrawn deposits have increased about five hundred thousand dollars during the week, and now amount to the round sum of ninety millions; and as only a small proportion of this draws interest under the late agreement entered into by the banks, such an accumulation of means returning no profit to the owners, affords a forcible commentary upon the general prostration of business, and the difficulty of finding any satisfactory medium of investment for capital. The discount line shows a small increase, about three hundred thousand dollars, and has only been secured by considerable effort on the part of the banks, and the absorption of large lines of paper at a material deduction upon the legal rate of discount. The line is now within $2,911,521 of the maximum of 1857, on the 8th of August, $24,202,601 beyond the point of extreme contraction on the 28th of November last.

The discoveries of gold on Frazer River, are likely to have a serious effect on the production and population of California. According to the last accounts, the mint at San Francisco, and the private essay offices, had suffered in deposits of gold dust to the extent of $400,000 a week, at the rate of nearly $21,000,000 a year. It will be in vain for the Hudson Bay Company to interpose their authority against this movement. Their charter expires next year, and will probably not be renewed. In the meantime, this exodus from California has led to some investigation here, as to the rights of our citizens, and to the true character of that vast monopoly, which is held by charter from the British Crown. At all events, it is manifest that, in the present stagnation of business in the Atlantic States, a large emigration to the Pacific is inevitable, and will be beyond the control of any opposition which the Company may strive to make.

DRUG MARKET.

DRUGS AND DYES—The market remains quite dull, the only feature of interest being the speculative movement in Cream Tartar, referred to in our last. The business embraces 1 case of Opium at $5; 1 tin Vanilla Beans, $12; 1 can prime Oil Cassia, $7.50: 50 oz. Morphine, $4.25; 6@8 ceroons Honduras Cochineal, $1.05; 850 lb English Hyd. The movement in Cream Tartar, noticed in our last, embraces within a week some 250 casks, beginning at 25 and closing at 26½ cents, now held at 27, with a very slight stock. Hyd. Potash has been mostly bought up by manufacturers at $3.25@$3.37½, and is now generally held higher. Sal Soda is very scarce. Refined Camphor is now held at 24½@25 cents.

FURNITURE.

Important Notice.

THE SUBSCRIBER, grateful for past favors, begs to inform his friends and the public, that he has leased those extensive First-Class Premises, opposite Messrs. Rodden & Meilleur's Iron Furniture Store, in Great St. James' street, and that he will keep constanly on hand, a select stock of the very best description of Furniture, at prices that will compare favorably with those of any other Establishment in this city. Owing to the principle on which the subscriber conducts his business—that of Cash sales, at very small profits—he finds it necessary to keep on hand a stock so large, that his already extensive premises in Notre Dame street, will not contain the half of his stock, which comprises a Large Assortment of Household Furniture and House-Furnishing Goods. He is already enabled to fulfil all orders committed to him in a few hours; but in order to be able still better to satisfy the demands of his customers, he has leased the above premises, where he will have the aid of a competent salesman, of long experience in some of the largest Furniture Houses in Boston, as well as in Canada. The one-price system, always carried out at his establishment 244 Notre Dame Street, will be strictly adhered to in the new establishment in Great St. James' Street; but he will keep a still better variety of First-Class Furniture, of the best styles and workmanship. The New Store will be for Retail business only; but at the Old Store, in Notre Dame Street, he will continue to sell by retail as well as wholesale, up to the 1st of May next, after which time, the Notre Dame Street Store will be devoted exclusively to the Wholesale Trade, and the whole stock for Retail Trade will be kept in Great St. James' Street. He believes that this arrangement will be found most convenient to both classes of Customers.

The stock is already the most extensive in the Province, and though his small profits do not justify a large outlay, in enumerating details, by way of advertisement, he will mention a few leading articles, to give an idea of the character of the goods on hand:—

100 SOFAS of different Woods and Styles from $14 to $75.
40 CHAMBER SETS—$30 to $160.
200 BEDSTEADS—$3,50 to $50.
100 MAHOGANY CHAIRS—$3,50 to $12.
2000 CANE SEAT CHAIRS—24 different Patterns—from 90 cents to $4.
4000 WOOD SEAT CHAIRS—7 different Patterns—40 cents to 80 cents.
300 CANE and WOODEN SEATED ROCKERS—$1,50 to $5.
IRON BEDSTEADS, REFRIGERATORS, CLOCK CRADLES.
100 MATTRASSES—Hair, Moss, Palm-Leaf, Excelsior, and Wool—from $4 to $27.

In conclusion, he would beg the public to call at both stores and judge for themselves. It will be found by those in want or FURNITURE that there is no place, where they can get as good value for their money.

Every article sold is warranted to be as represented. If it do not prove so, it may be returned within one month after the purchase, and the money refunded.

Goods delivered on board Steamboats or Cars, and at the Residence of the Parties inside of the Toll-Gates.

All Goods carefully Packed for Shipping, and Way Bills taken so that the Purchaser may have no trouble till they arrive at the place of destination.

$500 REWARD.

THE Proprietor, Dr. FRANCIS TUMBLETY, has deposited $500 with the Bank, the same to be forfeited if the Vegetable Compound fails to cure a single disease mentioned in this circular, if used according to directions.

Rheumatism, Pains in the Back, Breast and Side, Palpitation of the Heart, Toothache, Headache, Cramps in the Stomach, Frosted Hands or Feet, Sprains or Bruises, Stiffness of the Joints, Fever and Ague, Cholera Morbus, Coughs, Colds, Loss of Appetite, Summer Complaints, Bruises, Sore Throat or Quinzy, Swellings and External Injuries, &c. &c.

☞ "Its efficacy has been fairly tested, and its virtues pronounced unparalleled." Price 50c. and $1 per Bottle.

Vegetable Cathartic Pills.

For Habitual Costiveness, Weak Bowles and Stomach, Slow Circulation, Impure Blood, Pimples of the Skin, Too Full Habit, Determination of Blood to the Head, Indigestion, Over-loaded Stomach, Disturbance of the Stomach or Bowels, from unripe or indigestible food; Palpitation of the Heart, from indigestion or wind; Torpid Liver, &c. &c.

I have never known a person who, having once used these Pills, ever abandoned them for any other. They are, though gentle and mild, very efficient, carrying off the humors of the body, purifying the blood, correcting the stomach, giving activity to the Liver, and a healthy tone to the whole system. 25 cents per box.

The above Medicines, which Dr. TUMBLETY employs in his private practice, should not be classed with the multitude of quack nostrums that flood the country. "They are not Patent Medicines." They are not "got up to sell," nor are they extemporised compounds put out in the hope that they will benefit somebody—nobody knowing whether they will or not. Far from that, they are the remedies carefully prepared by himself, by which Dr. Tumblety has accomplished the cures of those various disorders for which they are severally recommended. No one of them is pretended to cure all diseases, but it is claimed, by seeing their effects in an extensive practice, that they will do just what is promised for them.

DR. TUMBLETY'S
Medical Depot,
212 NOTRE DAME STREET,
Montreal.

MILITARY DISTRICT. NO. 9,
LOWER CANADA.

MONTREAL, 17th July, 1858.
District Order No. Nine.

COLONEL the HON. GEORGE MOFFATT, having obtained the permission of His Excellency the Right Honorable the Governor General to Resign the Command of this Military District, is desirous of conveying to the body of Militia composing it his best thanks for the cordial support afforded him while in the Command, and expressing the favorable opinion he entertains of the manner in which the general duties have been discharged.

Colonel MOFFATT feels called upon especially to refer to the Active Volunteer Force of Montreal; as, having been honored with the Command of the District from the commencement of the Volunteer system under the existing Militia Law, he has had the satisfaction of observing its steady progress from its first formation to its present state of efficiency, as well as the opportunity of knowing the many disadvantages under which that efficiency has been obtained, and which has called forth the reiterated commendation of competent military authority.

To Lieut.-Colonel DYDE, Commandant, the Officers Commanding the respective Corps of Cavalry, Artillery and Infantry, and the Officers of the District Staff, Colonel MOFFATT is indebted for the able assistance which they have uniformly afforded him; and to all the Officers; Non-Commissioned Officers and Men of the Active Force, he offer his best thanks for the zeal, cordiality and orderly conduct which has distinguished the Force since its formation.

In relinquishing this Command, Colonel MOFFATT feels that he is taking leave of a body of Citizen Soldiers, who will on all occasions uphold the reputation and honor of their country, and he now expresses his warmest wishes for their happiness and prosperity.

By Command,
(Signed,) J. R. SPONG,
Major,
Asst.-Adjt.-Gen. Militia.

SYSTEM IN TRADE.

SOMETIMES parties thinking of purchasing five or ten pounds worth of Dress Goods, will feel undecided as to which Store they will purchase at, especially if they have only lately arrived in the City. In such cases they frequently take up one of the city papers and glance through the Advertisements. From the over complimentary style of one, and the pitiful soliciting tone of another, they will at once say—" Gentlemen you won't do—there is neither system nor confidence about you." They pass on till they meet with some matter of fact, —broad and independant announcement. The inducement is favorably received, the bell rings, the carriage is ordered to the door in twenty minutes, and within one hour, the whole performance is gone through. Magnificent display of Merchandize; splendid acting of the accomplished Salesman; polite attention of the Storekeeper towards the closing scene, and the honest approbation of the man's conscience who sells, with a few pleasing looks from the Proprietor, the sale is made and the interesting performance is brought to a close.

Is it not remarkable, for instance, the stand which the NEW MART has made in this city. Its success has been mainly owing to system. Their advertisements are clear, demonstrative and business-like, and such as would induce any sensible customer to call. They not only announce but strictly adhere to the "one price system."

In a city with a population of nearly Eighty Thousand, not one person can come forward to say they have ever in one instance deviated from this rule. The manager pledged himself to this system and has kept his word to the letter. They import extensively from the best European Markets, so that those who desire the latest Novelties of the Season at the lowest remunerative profit, will do well to visit the New Mart, St. Lawrence Main Street.

The Gentlemen's Department, which they opened lately, has given general satisfaction in this city.

Eligible Investment FOR Agricultural Settlers.

FOR SALE,

THE FIEFS HERTEL and DUBUC, situated in the COUNTY and PARISH of CHAMPLAIN, District of Three Rivers.

These Fiefs extend for nearly one mile along the Shore of the River St. Lawrence—in the Parish and above the Village of Champlain—and for six miles inland. The land is good, has been long settled, and the rentes, which are very low, are regularly paid. The lods et ventes have been estimated and commuted, under the Seigniorial Tenure Act, and, with the rentes, yield a secure income of £30 a year. The unconceded land [now held, under the abovenamed Act, in Free and Common Soccage,] consists of about 500 acres in one block, well watered, covered with valuable timber, and admirably adapted for settlement.

This Property is within a few miles of the ancient, but flourishing, Town of Three Rivers, and, consequently, within a few hours of Montreal, by daily steamers. It offers a most eligible investment to any agricultural settler, with moderate capital.

For further particulars and terms of Sale apply to the undersigned Proprietor, at this Office; or to Mr. A. MARTINEAU, N. P., at the Village of Champlain, District of Three Rivers.

AS this Company was ESPECIALLY established for the transaction of Life Assurance Business in British North America and the other Colonies, and their attention being wholly devoted to that class of business, they are enabled to hold out great advantages to assurers. They would direct particular attention to the large bonus declared in 1854; as an example, a policy taken out in 1847, for £1,000, was increased to £1,160, and if the next Division in 1859 is on a like scale, the same policy will be of the value of £1,260, although the party only pays the original premium.

The income now exceeds £90,000 Sterling, and the Accumulated Fund to £258,000.

The Colonial has already paid to the heirs of parties deceased, assured in Canada the sum of £30,000 Currency.

Funds invested partly in England and the Colonies.

This Company also grant Assurances on the following plan:—Half of the annual premium need only be paid for the first seven years, with interest, the remaining half being charged as a debt on the policy, [without security] to be deducted at settlement of the claim, or sooner if convenient.

Prospectuses and every information as to [illegible] Assurances will be given at the Company's Office, or at any of the Agencies.

DIVISIONS OF PROFITS.

THE LIFE ASSOCIATION OF SCOTLAND differs essentially from every other Scottish Assurance Office in its system of dividing the Profits,—a share being allocated every year to participating Policy holders of five years' standing, in a manner simple and equitable, and so as to reduce the expense of Life Assurance. The participating Policy holders [viz., those of the 1st series,] have thus for some years past been allowed a reduction of 35 per cent on their premiums, that is, they have been required to pay only $3.16 per $4.87 (£1 Sterling) of their premiums.

HALF CREDIT SYSTEM.

Until the time of his participating in the Profits, a Policyholder of £500 Sterling or upwards need pay only one-half of the stipulated premiums, the remaining half being allowed to remain unpaid at interest so long as the Policyholder pleases.

ADDITIONAL ADVANTAGES.

The Association's Policies, as now being issued, are free from several of the Restrictions commonly imposed on Assured Lives, and confer unusual facilities and privileges. The Policies are thus more valuable as Family Provisions, as Securities for Money, and indeed for every other purpose, than the Policies of most other Assurance Offices.

The Policyholders are entirely free rom the risks of Partnership, and the Sums Assured are guaranteed.

Copies of the last Annual Report, with Prospectuses and Tables, and every information necessary, will be furnished gratis to parties residing in any part of Canada.

A BEAUTIFUL COMPLEXION,

AND SOFT AND FAIR HANDS AND ARMS are fully realised and sustained by the use of

ROWLAND'S KALYDOR,

An Eastern Botanical Preparation, perfectly free from all mineral or metallic admixture. It is distinguished for its extremely bland, purifying, and soothing effects on the Skin; while, by its action on the pores and minute secretory vessels, it promotes a healthy tone, alays every tendency to inflamation, and thus effectually dissipates all redness, tan, pimples, spots, freckles, discolorations, and other cutaneous visitations. The radiant bloom it imparts to the cheek, the softness and delicacy which it induces to the hands and arms, its capability of soothing irritation and removing cutaneous defects, render it indispensable to every toilet.

It obviates all the effects of climate on the skin whether with reference to cold and inclemency, or intense solar heat, and affords immediate relief in cases of sunburn, stings of insects, or incidental inflammation. Gentlemen after shaving will appreciate its softening and ameliorating properties.—Price, 4s. 6d. and 8s. 6d. per bottle.

CAUTION.—The words ROWLANDS' KALYDOR are on the wrapper, and their signature, "A. ROWLAND & SON," in red ink, at foot.

Sound and White Teeth

Are not only indispensably requisite to a pleasing exterior in both sexes, but they are peculiarly appreciated through life as highly conducive to the purposes of health and longevity, by the proper mastication of food.

ROWLAND'S ODONTO,

OR PEARL DENTIFRICE,

Compound of Oriental Ingredients. This Powder is of inestimable value in Preserving and Beautifying the Teeth, imparting to them a pearl-like whiteness, Strengthening the Gums, and in rendering the breath sweet and pure.

Its anti-septic and anti-scorbutic properties exercise a highly beneficial and salutary influence; they arrest the further progress of the decay of the Teeth, induce a healthy action to the Gums, and cause them to assume the brightness and color indicative of perfect soundness; while, by confirming their adhesion to the Teeth, they give unlimited enjoyment and fresh zest to appetite, by perpetuating effective and complete mastication.

CAUTION.—The words ROWLANDS' ODONTO are on the label, and A. ROWLAND & SONS, 20 Hatton Garden, on the Government Stamp.—Price 2s. 9d. per box.

Sold in MONTREAL by CARTER, KERRY & Co., and LYMANS, SAVAGE & Co.; and in TORONTO by BECKET & Co

Joy to the Admirers of A FINE HEAD OF RICH GLOSSY HAIR.

Talk of beauty, it cannot exist without a fine head of hair, then read the following, and if you ask more, see circular around each bottle, and no one can doubt.

PROFESSOR WOOD'S HAIR RESTORATIVE.—We call the attention of all, old and young, to this wonderful preparation, which turns back to its original color gray hair—covers the head of the bald with a luxuriant growth—removes the dandruff, itching, and all cutaneous eruptions—causes a continual flow of the natural fluids; and hence, if used as a regular dressing for the hair, will preserve its color, and keep it from falling to extreme old age, in all its natural beauty. We call then upon the bald, the grey, or diseased in scalp, to use it; and surely the young will not, as they value the flowing locks, or the witching curl, ever be without it. Its praise is upon the tongues of thousands.

The Agent for Prof. Wood's Hair Restorative in New Haven, received the following letter in regard to the Restorative, a few weeks since:

Deep River, Conn., July 23, 1856.

Mr. Leavenworth—Sir: I have been troubled with dandruff or scurf on my head for more than a year, my hair began to come out, scurf and hair together. I saw in a New Haven paper about "Wood's Hair Restorative" as a cure. I called at your store on the 1st of April last, and purchased one bottle to try it, and I found to my satisfaction it was the thing; it removed the scurf and new hair began to grow; it is now two or three inches in length where it was all off. I have great faith in it. I wish you to send me two bottles more by Mr. Post, the bearer of this. I don't know as any of the kind is used in this place, you may have a market for many bottles after it is known here.

Yours with respect,
RUFUS PRATT.

Philadelphia, Sept. 9, 1856.

PROF. WOOD—Dear Sir: Your Hair Restorative is proving itself beneficial to me. The front and also the back part of my head almost lost its covering—in fact BALD. I have used but two half pint bottles of your Restorative, and now the top of my head is well studded with a promising crop of young hair, and the front is also receiving its benefit. I have tried other preparations without any benefit whatever. I think from my own personal recommendation I can induce many others to try it.

Yours respectfully,
D. R. THOMAS, M.D.,
No. 464 Vine Street.

Vincennes, Ia., June 22, 1853.

PROF. O. J. WOOD: As you are about to manufacture and vend your recently discovered Hair Resrorative, I will state, for whomsoever it may concern, that I have used it and known others to use it—that, I have, for several years, been in the habit of using other Hair Restoratives, and that I find yours vastly superior to any other I know. It entirely cleanses the head of dandruff, and with one month's proper use will restore any person's hair to the original youthful color and texture, giving it a healthy, soft and glossy appearance, and all this, without discoloring the hands that apply it, or the dress on which it drops. I would, therefore, recommend its use to every one desirous of having a fine color and texture to hair.

Respectfully yours,
WILSON KING.

N. H. Downs' Vegetable Elixir,

IS acknowledged by all to be the best Medicine for Coughs, Colds, Croup, &c., in market.

As this Medicine has been before the public for nearly thirty years, and always given satisfaction when the genuine was procured, I shall give no fashionable "puffs" but simply say, that I warrant it as usual, to give entire satisfaction.

Be sure and get the genuine, which has my name written with Pen on every wrapper, together with the number of each bottle.

There is an article sold in Canada, put up by Jasper Curtis of St. Albans, Vt., which retails for 37½ and 75 cents per bottle, being a "base counterfeit!"

The said Curtis has no right at all to use my name to sell an article of his own manufacture. Therefore I caution all buyers and venders of DOWNS' ELEXIR to beware of J. Curtis' counterfeit. Remember that the genuine is warranted.

LYMANS, SAVAGE & CO., Montreal, are general Wholesale Agents for Canada.

I have appointed J. M. Henry, Waterbury, Vt., my General Agent for New England, New York and Canada. Therefore people living in places where this article is not kept, will please ask their Merchants or Druggists to order supplies of said Henry, or L. S. & Co., Montreal, C. E.

For Sale by all first class Druggists in Montreal, and throughout Canada, Put up in two, four and eight ounce bottles. Price 38 cents 50 cents, and one dollar per bottle.
