A LITTLE BODY ENGLISH — The unfortunate ball carrier is shown the proper way to get knocked to the ground during the Bishop's football camp this week. The boys need all the practice they can get, because coach Bruce Coulter says the season will be the toughest ever played. The regular season starts Sept. 14 at the BU stadium. See story on page 15.

Samson in prison

MONTREAL (CP) — RCMP Constable Robert Samson began serving a 60-day sentence at Bordeaux Jail Thursday for refusing to testify a second time at a fire commission inquiry into a July 26 bomb explosion.

Jail director Roger Des Rivieres said a decision would soon be taken as to whether Constable Samson requires surgery for a partial hearing loss suffered in the explosion.

"Our prison doctor has examined him, and he will decide whether to refer him to a specialist for further consultations," Mr. Des Rivieres said.

"Should the specialist agree that Constable Samson requires an operation, he will go to hospital," the director said, adding that time spent in hospital would count towards his sentence.

Fire Commissioner Cyrille Delage declared the constable in contempt of court Wednesday after he told the inquiry he could not testify again because of memory lapses and physical fatigue caused by injuries he suffered in the explosion at the suburban Mount Royal house of Melvyn Dobrin, Steinbergs Ltd. president.

The 26-year-old member of the RCMP anti-terrorist squad lost the fingertips on his left hand and told the inquiry he suffered 45-per-cent loss of hearing for which he needed surgery.

ADJOURNS INQUIRY

Commissioner Delage adjourned the inquiry at least 60 days until the constable has served his sentence.

"After that," he told Constable Samson Wednesday, "you will appear before the fire commission inquiry again and tell the court the relevant facts. The public has a right to the truth."

Constable Samson told the inquiry last week that he went to the scene of the explosion after receiving an anonymous telephone tip that he would find something interesting there. He was injured, he said, when a package he saw lying on the back patio of the Dobrin house exploded.

Other witnesses testified that Constable Samson knew a man who was a business associate of a reputed underworld leader. A Montreal police detective told the inquiry that Samson, while being treated in hospital following the explosion, admitted he was promised $1,000 to plant the bomb by a man he met in a bar.

5000 demonstrate

MONTREAL (CP) — Solidarity was the theme of a march through city streets Thursday night as the 175,000-member Confederation of National Trade Unions (CNTU) kicked off a concerted campaign to have wages tied to the cost of living.

Police estimated 5,000 people participated in the 90-minute march through the downtown area before gathering behind city hall to hear speeches by Michel Chartrand, president of the CNTU's Montreal central council, Yvon Charbonneau, president of the Quebec Teachers Corp. and Marcel Perreault, president of the Montreal local of the Canadian Union of Postal Workers.

Leading the march were members of the Montreal Transport Union whose 1,600 garage and maintenance workers have been on strike since Aug. 7 against the Montreal Urban Community Transit Commission. The strike has paralysed the subway system and curtailed bus service.

Strike report due

MONTREAL (CP) — A report by investigator Lucien Saulnier on Montreal's troubled transit situation was to be released today.

Le Devoir says the report recommends that existing contracts for all Montreal Urban Community Transit Commission workers be amended to provide cost-of-living wage increases.

The newspaper says the report also recommends that the Quebec government review its financing of the urban community when the national assembly reconvenes this fall.

A strike by 1,600 garage and maintenance workers, members of the Montreal Transport Union, has closed the subway since Aug. 7 and restricted bus service.

Flood inquiry set

HULL, Que. (CP) — The legal aid centre here has offered $2,500 and it, know-how to help set up an inquiry into the Gatineau River flooding earlier this year that ravaged homes from Maniwaki to Pointe Gatineau.

George Marceau, a legal aid lawyer in Maniwaki, a town of 6,600 about 80 miles north of here, said in a telephone interview Thursday the plan is to have municipalities affected by the floods contribute toward the estimated $35,000 cost of hiring engineers and specialists to make the study. The Roman Catholic diocese has already contributed $3,000.

He said that if responsibility can be established for the flooding, court action could then be taken to compensate victims in full for damage suffered during the floods.

The Quebec government is providing some financial assistance but only "to give them a hand" getting back on their feet.

"This inquiry would only make proof available for people who couldn't pay for a study themselves," Mr. Marceau said.

Quebec Hydro took much of the criticism for the flooding when they opened the flood gates at a dam on the Baskatong Reservoir.

Bell fears intervention

Government reacts to phone increase today

OTTAWA (CP) — The government is expected to respond today to public pressure for a rollback of price increases for telephone service planned by Bell Canada.

A company source said Thursday night that the industry is braced for some form of rollback or delaying order on the pattern of government intervention in a rate increase last year.

Communications Minister Gerard Pelletier told reporters earlier in the day only that the cabinet discussed the pending rate increases and a statement would be issued today. He declined to say what the cabinet had decided.

But a Bell Canada source said the company fears government intervention in the rate-increase decision.

Egg board under fire

OTTAWA (CP) — Already reeling under heavy public, government and industry criticism, the Canadian Egg Marketing Agency (CEMA) took another solid blow Thursday.

An agency official confirmed that at least three million more surplus eggs held by the agency had been found to be unsuitable for use.

Late last month CEMA acknowledged that nine million eggs in Quebec warehouses had become contaminated and had been destroyed.

The agency, middle-man between farmers and egg processors, buys marketable eggs that farmers have offered for table use but that have not been purchased.

The eggs it buys, CEMA either sells to processors or stores for future sales; but it has been buying more eggs than it can sell to the extent that normal warehouse facilities have been exhausted. The eggs found to be rotten had been stored in facilities without temperature and humidity control.

Thursday, Mr. Whelan announced a $1.3 million purchase of 40 million surplus eggs for the World Food Plan, at the same time reiterating his defence against charges last week by Mrs. Plumptre that the government was bailing the egg industry out with 10 million taxpayer dollars.

He said the $1.3 million came from normal World Food Plan funds, but "only after it was determined that the WFP had a use for the product."

Mr. Whelan also said Thursday that it was a misconception to think that egg prices were too high for consumers. He said egg prices had dropped six per cent since January. He did not mention the 37 per cent jump in egg prices between January, 1973 and January, 1974.

QUARRELS SPREAD

Meanwhile, the brawling between federal officials involved in the food industry spread Thursday to the provinces, with accusations that the rules of CEMA were being violated.

In British Columbia, the executive secretary of the provincial egg marketing agency said inquiries are being made into the sale of Manitoba eggs on B.C. market at prices 12 cents a dozen below B.C. prices.

Ed Morgan said his agency has asked CEMA for assurances that the eggs coming in from Manitoba are not in excess of the quota set for Manitoba by CEMA.

In Quebec, an official of the Agricultural Producers Union blamed Ontario egg producers for undercutting prices set by the Canadian Egg Marketing Agency and said that was the reason nine million eggs rotted in warehouses in Quebec last week.

Jack Kirouac said that in 1974 Ontario didn't respect the price level and sold eggs 17 cents under the 60-cent level.

QUOTA AVOIDED

"Because of national agreement, Quebec has a limited quota to produce, which is 55 per cent of the provincial needs. It happens that other provinces don't respect this quota and get rid of their surplus illegally elsewhere and in Quebec particularly."

But an executive member of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture said Thursday that CEMA was failing because too many people do not want it to work.

Delmer Bennett, speaking in Belgrave, Ont., told about 75 members of the Huron County Federation of Agriculture that business and government leaders do not want farmers to receive a fair return.

Mr. Bennett said said the federation must stand behind CEMA and said federation president Gordon Hill is expected to make a major statement next week supporting the agency.

Ford fights economic woes

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford has launched his public search for a way out of the economic woes of the United States and has received assurances from the Democratic Congress that it will stay in session as long as he has proposals for it to consider.

The word from Capitol Hill came as Ford met Thursday with about 30 economists who offered a wide range of suggestions, including an apparent majority view that the money supply should be expanded to bring interest rates down. There was less agreement on how to moderate the wage-price race.

"There is no question but that we will co-operate with the president," House Majority Leader Thomas O'Neill (Dem. Mass.) said in a telephone interview from Cambridge.

"We have got to instill confidence in the public and if remaining in Washington will do it, then we have to stay."

U.S. CAN'T WAIT

Earlier, after a caucus of Senate Democrats, Assistant Leader Robert Byrd of West Virginia told reporters: "The country cannot afford to wait until next year. We want to debunk the idea that Congress is getting ready to go home and stay home because of the election."

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield (Dem. Mont.) concurred, with the observation that Congress alone cannot act on the economic problem.

"If you want to get something done, you have to have the co-operation of the White House," Mansfield said.

Earlier plans for final adjournment by Oct. 15 apparently died. O'Neill said leaders already had tentative plans for a post-election session to complete action on the nomination of Nelson Rockefeller to be vice-president, as well as on any economic legislation Ford might propose.

At the end of the day-long session, about half of which he attended in person, Ford told the economists: "I couldn't agree more that we have to act. We have to act on sound and responsible recommendations."

He made no commitments on the suggestion that the Federal Reserve Board be urged to ease its tight-money policy or on any other specifics.

LENNOXVILLE (CC) — There was no school today at Alexander Galt Regional High.

As buses arrived at the Lennoxville institution filled with students they were forced to reverse their trail and return home. First reports were that a broken water main forced cancellation of classes.

No other details were immediately available.

Heavy fire in Cyprus

NICOSIA (AP) — Machine-guns and mortars blazed across the ceasefire line in Nicosia Thursday night, but there was no indication the shooting would block Greek and Turkish-Cypriot talks scheduled for today.

The Greek-Cypriot government reported an "intense exchange of fire" for an hour and a half at three points along the so-called Green Line dividing the Greek and Turkish-Cypriot sectors of the capital.

It was the heaviest firing in Nicosia since the ceasefire Aug. 15. The government said the shooting stopped after United Nations peace forces arranged a truce.

Thousands of Greek-Cypriots fled from the city in panic, filling the roads to the south with cars and tractors piled high with luggage.

Gas and oil: not yet

Draper Dobie and Co. Ltd. says investments in oil and gas stocks should be delayed until federal proposals for taking a larger tax bite out of the industry take final form.

The investment firm predicts the tax changes will be significant but the industry will survive.

Federal Finance Minister John Turner proposed higher tax levels for the industry in his spring budget. They were set aside by the government's defeat in Parliament, but the Liberals were re-elected and indications are that Mr. Turner will re-introduce his proposals, probably this fall.

Draper Dobie says Mr. Turner is not likely to modify his proposals "very significantly." But the firm says even with "a full Turner tax" there should be no slowdown in exploration and it would not "spell the end to our Canadian oil and gas industry."

However, if the Turner proposals are adopted "in full" there may be small price reductions in some oil and gas stocks.

A sampling of companies by Draper Dobie indicated there has been only a partial discounting of the effects of the Turner proposals.

Despite some statements to the effect that the oil and gas securities have fully discounted Turner, we could find little evidence to support that contention.

An example was oil and gas reserves of Aquitaine Co. of Canada Ltd., worth about $17 a share under current tax legislation. Draper Dobie says that under Mr. Turner's proposed new taxes "these reserves are worth approximately $10 per share."

New charter bank not like the rest

TORONTO (CP) — The 300-member Dominion Chartered Customs House Brokers Association is tightening up on credit to importers for payment of import duties and sales and excise taxes.

"The situation has been getting entirely out of hand," William Kearns, president of the association's 60-member Toronto division, said in an interview Thursday.

The association asked importers, through advertisements in Toronto and Montreal, to make advance payments to customs brokers for outlays involved in the release of shipments from customs.

The brokers charge about two per cent of the shipment value to arrange for release from customs, delivery and tracing where required. They say they have to borrow large sums to pay import duties and other taxes, often waiting a month before being reimbursed by the importer.

"We're talking of about $500 million a year," said Mr. Kearns.

STRESS INTEREST RATES

In their advertisements, brokers stressed that high interest rates have caused "immediate curtailment of duty and tax financing by customs brokers."

If importers do not make advance payments or arrange for payment, the association would introduce a "disbursement schedule," the advertisements state.

Mr. Kearns said the disbursement schedule would involve financing charges by brokers over the period they have to wait for reimbursement of payments made on behalf of importers.

"We don't want to be in the loan business," he said.

He said most customs brokers have accounts outstanding of at least $100,000.

Mr. Kearns said the national association made a similar appeal a year ago and the initial response was favorable, "but the importers began to slip."

Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto stock market's western oil index moved higher for the first time in 10 sessions Thursday. Trading in all sectors was light.

The western oil index gained 1.53 to 138.23 while the industrial index, widely-based indicator of market trend, rose 2.64 to 162.30, and base metals 5.1 to 68.14. Golds fell 12.4 to 468.44.

Eight sub-components of the industrial index rose while eight declined. Industrial mining and bank stocks made the greatest advances while utility and merchandising stocks suffered the greatest losses.

Observers attribute the gain to the influence of a higher New York market. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was sharply higher for the first time in four sessions.

At Toronto, advances outnumbered declines.

Wilson works with unions in Britain

LONDON (CP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson has won what appears to be a smashing last-minute victory in his battle to shape an anti-inflation program acceptable to Britain's militant trade unions.

As a result, in the view of many observers, the Labor leader now has all the ammunition he believes necessary to call a snap general election and perhaps win an outright Commons majority.

The critical moment in the development of Wilson's strategy came Wednesday at the climax of the annual conference of the 10-million-strong Trades Union Congress (TUC).

The main issue was the Labor government's controversial social compact, a euphemism for voluntary wage restraint by the unions in return for major government concessions.

But just before the conference opening, one of the biggest unions, the Amalgamated Union of Engineering Workers (AUEW), bolted and said it would bring forward a motion opposing the social compact outright.

REVOLT THREATENS
Several smaller unions started to waver as well and it appeared that a major revolt was forming. Frantic efforts by senior cabinet ministers and union moderates succeeded in heading this off, however, and by Monday it was clear a majority would support the social compact.

Nevertheless, it was still obvious that Wilson's fortunes would be tarnished by the strong opposition from the AUEW.

In the end, it fell to TUC general secretary Len Murray to save the day for Labor.

In a powerful, eloquent speech just before the voting, Murray warned the unions that failure to agree on the social compact might destroy the Labor government and Britain's chances for economic recovery and eventual return to prosperity.

No one union, he argued, had the right to snatch the opportunity for a better future from all the others.

The AUEW was stung by its implied criticism and its militant leader, Hugh Scanlon, hastily consulted his colleagues. To wildly cheering delegates he then announced that his union was withdrawing its opposition motion although its members still had reservations about the use of wage restraint to curb inflation.

BACKS DOWN

"We have presented our views and reserved our position," Scanlon said. "No useful purpose would have been served by continuing with the motion."

He promised that the AUEW would fulfil its part of the anti-inflation bargain but maintained the government should do more to help lower-paid workers.

New York

NEW YORK (AP) — A technical rally abetted by hopes for easier money carried the stock market to its best gain in nearly a month Thursday in another session of volatile activity on Wall Street.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials rose 22.76 to 670.76, its largest advance since a 23.78 surge Aug. 7 on the eve of Richard Nixon's resignation as president.

It was the fourth day in a row, and the seventh in the last 11 days, that the Dow moved more than 10 points in one direction or the other.

Last Friday the Dow climbed more than 21 points, only to fall back more than 15 on Tuesday and again on Wednesday.

Gainers outnumbered losers 996 to 441 among the 1,795 issues traded Thursday on the New York Stock Exchange.

Volume was active at the outset, then slowed markedly and totaled only a moderate 14.21-million shares for the day.

The NYSE's composite index of all listed common stocks rose 1.11 to 37.04.

Brokers gave a good part of the credit for the advance to the Federal Reserve Board's reduction late Wednesday of the amount of funds banks are required to hold in reserve against some large certificates of deposit.

Several experts said the step was not likely to have any marked effect on interest rates and tight-money pressures generally, but it appeared investors still welcomed it as a new hint of a possible easing in the board's restrictive monetary policy.

A sign of investors' focus on the credit situation was the sharp advance recorded by many of the so-called "interest-sensitive" stocks.

Federal National Mortgage, the volume leader, rose 1 1/2 to $13 1/4 in trading marked by two separate 102,000-share blocks, at $13 3/8 and then at $14.

Among mortgage guarantee issues, MGIC Investment was up 1 1/2 to $10 1/2 and CMI Investment 1 1/4 to $7 1/4.

FINANCIALS ADVANCE

In the savings and loan group, Gibraltar Financial was up 1 1/2 to $8 1/4. First Charter Financial 1 1/2 to $7. Great Western Financial 1 1/2 to $9 1/4 and Golden West Financial 1 to $6 1/4.

Glamors also advanced, with Xerox up 4 1/2 to $82 1/4. IBM 2 1/4 to $182 1/4 and American Home Products 1 1/2 to $33 1/4.

S. S. Kresge, which posted a 20.8-per-cent sales increase for August, rose 1 1/2 to $26 1/2 in active trading to lead a broad advance in retail issues.

The day's biggest percentage jump was Wells, Rich, Greene, up 2 1/4 to $7 1/4. The advertising agency, in an apparent step toward a return to privately held status, offered to swap cash and debentures for 1.40 million of its common shares.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index was up 93 to 68.31.

ETRSB STAFF APPOINTMENTS

Despite late August hirings of teachers for courses in commercial cooking, mathematics, construction, special education and business education, the ETRSB still lacks personnel for its instrumental music and photo-lithography options at Alexander Galt Regional High School and for its Protestant chaplaincy at Richmond Regional High School. ETRSB director-general Wendell Sparkes reported yesterday. Consequently, some rescheduling of classes is being done for AGRHS.

ETRSB FOOD VENDING

During the 1974-75 academic year, the Eastern Townships Regional School Board will be making a departure from its traditional practice in the matter of food sales through vending machines.

According to ETRSB director-general Wendell Sparkes, the commissioners have directed the administration of Alexander Galt Regional High School to stock the machines with foodstuffs with higher nutritional value than chocolate bars and potato chips. Mr. Sparkes pointed to such items as raisins, peanuts and fruit in order to indicate which types of merchandise will be sold during the present school year.

With regard to the vending machines at Richmond Regional High School, Mr. Sparkes reported this week, the board members have left to the discretion of the administration the degree to which a change-over in merchandise will be effected.

Serving hours at both schools will be extended from previous operations in order to reduce overcrowding and in the hope of improving dietary habits, the director-general noted.

Food prices, however, will be increased from $0.85 to $1 for a full-course meal at AGRHS to cover rising overhead expenses.

ETRSB COST OF LIVING PAYMENTS

The Eastern Townships Regional School Board will pay its teachers a government-authorized lump sum of 3.01 per cent of the teachers' 1973-74 salary during October.

ETRSB director-general Wendell Sparkes told The Record this week that the payment falls in line with the recently-determined rate of payment authorized by the provincial government in order to adjust its employees' salaries in accordance with the rise in cost of living. The percentage payment, added to the five per cent payment paid the teachers at the outset of the summer, brings to 8.01 per cent the extent of the cost of living adjustment awarded government-paid employees for the 1973-74 year.

ETRSB WORKSHOP FOR ADMINISTRATORS, COMMISSIONERS

The Eastern Townships Regional School Board recently sponsored a successful workshop for administrators, commissioners and school committee chairmen. Held at Bishop's University, the three-day seminar attracted as many as 50 persons at given times.

LDSB, SPFSB, ETRSB ATTENDANCE OFFICERS

Local school boards have authorized certain individuals to serve as attendance officers on their behalf for the 1974-75 academic year.

Clarence Kendall, director of educational services and assistant director-general of the Eastern Townships Regional School Board, has been designated ETRSB attendance officer; C.R. Perkins, secretary-general of the St. Francis Protestant School Board has been named SPFSB attendance officer; and Hugh Auger, director-general of the Lennoxville District School Board, has continued in the post he assumed during the 1973-74 academic year.

ETRSB BUS SALE

Commissioners of the Eastern Townships Regional School Board have formally authorized the initiation of procedures for the sale by tender of five surplus school buses belonging to the school board.

RRHS LOCKER FINANCING

In light of an accepted tender of $19,681 for installation of full-length double lockers at Richmond Regional High School, the council of commissioners of the Eastern Townships Regional School Board has resolved to amortize over four years the payments. Although the board had previously anticipated a higher cost, and had consequently expected to make the capital budget payments over a five year period, commissioners have found it desirable to pay the amount in the following manner: $4,921 during 1974-75; $4,920 during each of the 1975-76, 1976-77 and 1977-78 academic years.

ETRSB CONTINUING EDUCATION OPERATING BUDGET

The commissioners of the Eastern Townships Regional School Board have approved for presentation to the provincial education ministry a proposed operating budget of $191,252 for the board's continuing education department for the 1974-75 academic year.

The department, which must have its budget approved by the board and authorized by the provincial government, occupies a virtually autonomous position regarding the board because it is required to be self-supporting financially.

AGRS, RRHS ACCOUNT AUDITS

Commissioners of the Eastern Townships Regional School Board have resolved to perform audits of the school accounts during the 1973-74 operations at Alexander Galt and Richmond Regional High Schools.

The audits, which will be performed by the board's auditors — Lyon, Noble, Stafford and Cilles — and paid for by the board, will precede payment by the board of the accounts for the two regional schools administered by the ETRSB.

SPFSB DELEGATION TO ETRSB

The ministry of education has formally authorized the proposed delegation of powers by the St. Francis Protestant School Board to the Eastern Townships Regional School Board for the 1973-74 and 1974-75 academic years.

The delegation, which involves primarily the areas of general and pedagogical planning and administration, preserves for the SPFSB the powers of acceptance of operating and capital budgets and the financing thereof.

ETRSB INADMISSIBLES 1972-73

The Eastern Townships Regional School Board spent $71,771 in inadmissible expenditures during the 1972-73 academic year, some $6,577 less than the $78,348 the board had budgeted for these categories.

Inadmissible expenditures are costs which are permitted, but not subsidized, by the government. They are paid for by taxes collected from local ratepayers.

During 1972-73, the ETRSB spent the following inadmissible sums: general administration, $22,144; instruction services, $6,319; guidance, $36,168; sports and student services, $15,695; transportation, $4,541; boarding allowances, $690; school facilities, $30,769.

Official opening of new TV station full of excitement

By ROSA HARRIS
Record Reporter

SHERBROOKE — Most ships are launched with a bottle of champagne. Last night, at the University of Sherbrooke, the new French television station, CKSH channel 9, inaugurated its broadcasting service with its own brand of sparkle in the form of Lise Payette, moderator of "Appelez-moi Lise".

The talk show was the first official program to emanate from the new Radio-Canada affiliate.

If audience reaction plays any kind of a role in the mysterious world of television officials, "Appelez-moi Lise" promises to enjoy a long run. And if the program last night indicates the quality viewers can expect from the station, then all augers well for the success of CKSH TV.

Mayor Marc Bureau stated in opening remarks at the official ceremony, that the city will offer its full co-operation and collaboration to ensure the success of the new communications outlet. "It is always to the benefit of the residents to expand the media industry," he said, "and, of course, we look forward to seeing some fine local talent put to good use."

Guest speaker Paul-Emile Lamy, a representative of the Canadian Radio and Television Commission (CRTC), said that he was impressed that the station had opened on schedule. "The station experienced some minor technical difficulties that could have justified a delay," he marveled, "but it's indicative of the spirit of those involved that it managed to begin its broadcasting service on time."

Radio-Canada Vice President Raymond David expressed his satisfaction that the CBC will continue to serve the Eastern Townships area through CKSH, and Mr. Henri Audet, President of the station, mentioned in his address that one of the channel's goals will be to further the cause of objective television journalism. "It is for that reason I welcome the opportunity to serve the Eastern Townships community," he said, "and am especially glad that Sherbrooke can boast two TV stations."

The guest line-up on the program itself, coupled with the effervescent Madame Payette, proved to be an unbeatable combination.

Jean Besre, a native of Sherbrooke, and a comedian of no mean talent, provided many a laugh when he performed a slightly satirical Sherbrooke ditty. The high point of the evening, however — and Madame Payette is to be commended for her tact in bringing the event about — was the vocal performance of former mayor Armand Nadeau.

It was a delight to watch the coy ex-mayor overcome his shyness and burst into song as the direct outcome of Madame Payette's skilled cajoling. The audience loved every minute of it. The music, provided by Francois Cousineau and his orchestra, was up-tempo but low-key enough not to interfere with the lively action elsewhere on the set. It would be difficult to find a more professional group of jazz performers in Quebec and they are indeed an asset to the station.

The program's co-host, Jacques Fauteux, seemed to know precisely the point at which to enter his comments during the interviews with the guests. His sense of timing is so perfect that he is perhaps the only one who can complement Madame Payette and not be overshadowed by her.

Another local performer, Clemence Desroches, brought her unique talent to the screen as well. Miss Desroches, a well-known French Canadian poetess, was clearly having the time of her life behind the cameras. Her boundless energy was symbolic of the entire evening.

Madame Payette proved herself as an interviewer with her deft questioning of the Archbishop of Sherbrooke, Jean-Marie Fortier. She asked his views on recent dissidence among the clergy in the U.S. and wondered whether he saw the possibility of priests striking in the near future.

"I doubt it," he rejoined, "when you consider who the management is."

If the style and professional acumen exhibited by the new TV station last night is maintained, viewers can expect a very good performance out of channel 9.

NATIONAL BALLET IN SHERBROOKE — The National Ballet will present four pieces at the University of Sherbrooke Cultural Centre on October 8-9. The above picture is a scene from the ballet

Stanstead Council

STANSTEAD (IH) — Under the leadership of Mayor Roland Rodrigue, with five of the councillors attending, (Paul Tellier was absent), a great deal of routine business was handled at the monthly meeting of the Stanstead municipal council held on Tuesday evening, September 3.

A report on the continued improvements of Stanstead Park was presented by councillors Denis Parent and Allen Wing.

This caused quite a bit of discussion as to how much money should be spent and so forth. It was suggested a park committee under these two councillors be named, but that idea was dropped. However, it was agreed, that with the costs rising, to immediately purchase the steel fence and posts for a baseball back stop and fencing to enclose the park at an approximate cost of $700 maximum.

Once this is done, there will be a safe place for the children to play baseball. In years to come council hopes to have a tennis court and possibly a swimming pool. Of course it is hoped there will be public financial support, especially if there is a special project for their benefit. Already a man from Sherbrooke has made a gift of money towards this park.

The fire committee was authorized to have the attic of the fire hall insulated in an attempt to save heating costs.

Policing Stanstead has been done the past several months by the Quebec Police Force. Although they have done a good job, they have a wide coverage area, so it is not always to the satisfaction of many of the people that reside in Stanstead.

There is a great deal of speeding on the main street and many of the side streets. Drag races on the service road are noted.

All this action including complaints of dogs barking have been brought to the attention of council. Roger Smith, back from his summer holidays, who was absent for two council meetings, chairman of the police committee, gave his report on the situation since last June.

He said he had met with Rock Island's mayor, Edouard Girard concerning police coverage. He noted that Rock Island does not wish to amalgamate but would rent the services for $9000. Stanstead "could take it or leave it" was Mr. Smith's impression of the meeting. The matter was discussed in depth but no decision was reached, although study of the matter will continue by Mr. Smith and his committee.

Beyond Nationalism

Two articles in the September issue of University Affairs again raise the issue of "American imperialism" in Canadian universities. One, by an anonymous contributor, sets out steps which, he or she says, should be taken in order to "Canadianize" our universities. Some of the proposals seem, to put it mildly, a little odd.

One would ensure that a Canadian would be hired in preference to a non-Canadian, if the Canadian were better qualified, if he were equally qualified, or even if he were less well qualified. A second would require a university to justify its employment practices to all Canadian candidates for a teaching position. A third suggestion is not just odd but downright dangerous. The writer says that, to be effective, the guidelines must have the force of law and so urges the federal and provincial governments to pass legislation to regulate and control the hiring practices of universities.

It is surprising that an academic, no matter how badly he wants Americans out of Canadian universities, could advocate government control of university staff. This principle could allow a government to prohibit the hiring of known socialists — or of known anti-socialists. It would give government a precedent by which it could create universities where academic freedom would be no more than a fond memory.

The second article, by a sociologist from the University of Toronto, S. D. Clark, also deals with the American infiltration of Canadian universities, but deals specifically with departments of sociology. He also raises questions about academic freedom and about the nature of sociology itself.

Professor Clark admits that between 1958 and 1968, when sociology departments mushroomed in Canadian universities, the only source of staff for these departments was the United States. Now, however, many Canadian graduates could fill these positions. Mr. Clark does not advocate a Uganda-style expulsion of Americans — although how else the imbalance could be redressed except by natural attrition over a period of 20 to 30 years, he does not say. He feels that simple recognition of the problem will be a major step toward a solution.

His main concern is the influence of American professors on the study of sociology here. The preponderance of outside teachers has resulted in a lack of a distinctively Canadian sociology. Canadian sociologists, he says, have taken too seriously the idea that sociology is a science in search of universal principles; that it knows no national boundaries; and that a principle, if valid, will be valid anywhere — West Africa, the United States or Canada. This is true, Mr. Clark claims; but any sociologist worth his salt studies his own society; and Americans in Canada cannot do this — a strange criterion of a science.

The writer further claims that the problem is aggravated by the fact that Canadian graduate students in sociology study at U.S. universities. This is unfortunate, in his eyes, and he puts part of the blame on the Canada Council for giving grants which permit students to study in the U.S. Such grants, he feels, should be available only for study in Canada.

The concept of a university has changed in the past decade. How much it has changed, at least in the minds of some educators, is demonstrated by these two articles: one academic advocating that universities be forced to hire whom the government tells them to, the other advocating that action be taken to ensure that students study where they are told to.

It is to be fervently hoped such ideas are not prevalent. One would like to think that Canadian universities were staffed by good scholars and good teachers, perhaps even by good people. To make the main qualification for a university teacher that he be a good Canadian goes beyond nationalism; it is intellectual treason.

Prospect of Italian bankruptcy
when West German loan expires

LONDON (CP) — The Italian economy, sinking into a worsening financial malaise, has received a desperately-needed injection of cash from affluent West Germany to sustain it through the next few months.

In addition to the current $2-billion loan, West Germany also favors a three-month extension of a European Common Market loan to Italy of roughly $1.9 billion due to expire Sept. 12, a measure now likely to be accepted.

As a further offer of aid, Bonn also supports another Common Market medium-term loan of about $3.5 billion to Italy, a move which meets stiff resistance from Britain and several other member countries who fear Italy simply cannot support such huge indebtedness.

PROSPECTS DARKEN

The question being asked in international circles is what happens when the loans run out? Answers range from the stark but unlikely prediction of bankruptcy to disturbing but less drastic forecasts of a major depression.

There seems little doubt the current $2-billion loan will see the Italians through the next three or four months, both by discouraging further capital outflows and by helping to finance the country's huge trade gap, expected to reach $9 billion this year.

But it does little to solve underlying difficulties besetting the weak Italian economy, problems made worse by a chronic instability of government, torn between forces of the right and left and faced with a growing public distrust of all politicians.

Italy's economy has suffered badly this year from the increase in oil prices, particularly since it has no energy reserves of its own to soften the blow. Roughly half the trade deficit is estimated to be the result of the oil crisis.

But even without this, the country would still be in desperate trouble and in a frantic search for foreign loans.

Its credit rating has been slipping badly and it dropped even further recently when United States bank examiners were ordered to look on loans to Italy as "problematical."

The Italians, like the British, are suffering severely from a dash for growth which misfired badly. It has been followed by a payments crisis, stagnation and rampant inflation which reached an annual rate of 19.3 per cent in Italy in July.

Eastland and pot

WASHINGTON — James Eastland of Sunflower County, Miss., one of the Senate's crustiest conservatives, is walking proof that an old dog can learn new tricks.

The veteran Judiciary Committee chairman is working quietly to relax marijuana laws so young students and workers and other "pot" smokers will not be jailed for simple possession of the drug.

Eastland, whose closest contact with drugs is a good cigar and a tot of whiskey, has become convinced that jailing those caught with a few "joints" is not the way to stop marijuana traffic.

The contumacious senator underwent his metamorphosis after his old friend, ex-Marine Commandant Lewis Walt, conducted a world survey on drugs for Eastland's Senate Internal Security Subcommittee.

After talking earnestly with Walt and listening to dozens of witnesses at various hearings, the senator came to the conclusion that "pot" may cause genetic, brain, lung and other damage. He also decided that traffickers still deserve stiff penalties and that even possession should not be completely "decriminalized."

But the possibility of a year in jail and a $5,000 fine for a youth caught by federal agents with a single marijuana cigarette is excessive in Eastland's view. As a result, his Internal Security staff is conferring regularly with the Drug Enforcement Agency on possible legislation. Shortly after Labor Day, Senate staffers will meet with DEA's legal office to hammer out a formal draft.

Eastland has not made up his mind entirely, but he is toying with the idea of setting a fine for a first "possession" offense, and explicitly banning jail. A second offense would bring a stiffer fine.

Since state laws tend to follow federal statutes, and since Eastland's Judiciary committee writes federal laws, it may be that a whole generation of marijuana dabblers will praise Jim Eastland's name.

Footnote: On Eastland's Mississippi plantation, state narcotics agents found a marijuana patch near the Sunflower River. The senator cooperated in a stake-out, but the "pot" planters, who had been harvesting by boat apparently learned of the surveillance and abandoned the crop.

Jack Anderson's

Washington Merry-go-round

Natural Gas: In letters to many newspapers, the American Petroleum Institute (API), whose members own much of the nation's natural gas, cites numerous figures to try to disprove our disclosures that Big Oil is driving up natural gas prices with faked figures.

It is worth noting that we sent our own figures to the API statisticians before we wrote our story. The API did not quibble with them then, and does not now in its letter. In fact, the API ignores the crucial figures.

To repeat them: Big Oil reported exploratory natural gas strikes from 7.9 to 9.4 per cent of the time off Louisiana until 1972 when they began to connive for price increases. Then, mysteriously, the strikes dropped to 2.4 per cent in 1973 and to a mere one per cent in 1974. This allowed the oil companies to demand more consumer money, supposedly so they could carry out more exploration.

It is small wonder that Federal Power Commission experts told us they had "never seen such a gross aberration" and the Senate Commerce Committee staff suggests the oil companies are "simply lying" in order to get more money.

A few other figures are glaringly omitted from the API letter: Some of its members with natural gas holdings report profit increases in excess of 100 per cent since the energy crisis began. Such profits are possible because gasoline and natural gas prices are up from 60 to 100 per cent and likely to climb still higher.

Critical Punishment: The federal judges in Baltimore who stepped aside in the Agnew case to avoid any possible charges of cronyism have nevertheless tried to punish one of Agnew's most vocal critics.

The target of their unsuccessful action was John Banzhaf III, a prominent consumer advocate and law professor in Washington. The Baltimore judges were incensed because Banzhaf had announced in a press release that he had filed suit to block then-Vice President Agnew from subpoenaing reporters and to force appointment of a special Agnew prosecutor.

One of the ringleaders in the unusual effort to punish Banzhaf was Federal Judge C. Stanley Blair, an Agnew pal and aide who was given a lifetime judgeship by President Nixon at Agnew's bidding. The other was Judge Herbert Murray, personally cleared for his job in 1971 after a 30-minute interview with Agnew.

Claiming Banzhaf was in "apparent violation of the Code of Professional Responsibility," the Baltimore judges urged legal disciplinary authorities in Washington to investigate Banzhaf. After much waffling the Washington disciplinary unit threw the judges' request out.

Book Picks: "The Palace Guard" by CBS newsmen Dan Rather and Gary Paul Gates expertly catches the piranha quality of the Nixon White House. There, H. R. Haldeman manipulates Spiro Agnew, John Ehrlichman sneers at honorable men like Bob Finch as "the Pasadena Hamlet," and Pat Moynihan as "our Oscar Wilde," and a Secret Service man loathingly confides that "We say...come the revolution, be sure and save two bullets: one for Haldeman and one for Ehrlichman."

"The Politician Primeval," by Hubert Humphrey's doctor and advisor, Dr. Edgar Berman, is so outrageously candid about the press and politicians that the book took three months to clear the libel lawyers. Still, Berman omits one of his most ribald true tales: the names of the famed reporters who, on the way home from an Asian tour with Humphrey, had to be shot with massive doses of penicillin because they pursued Asian pleasures more zealously than they did news stories.

SPN spells life sentence for vets

By Don Oakley

When it comes to amnesty, a lot of Vietnam war veterans may need it as much as those young men who refused to serve — amnesty from bum rap discharges, that is.

Penthouse magazine has published a list of confidential "Separation Program Numbers" (SPNs) which the Defense Department placed on the discharge papers of hundreds of thousands of Vietnam-era veterans. Previously available to employers but not to veterans themselves, the SPN codes have often been used as grounds for denying veterans jobs outside the service, even though no court martial or other judicial process was followed in assigning them.

The list includes such personal failings as 41A — "Apathy"; 41E — "Obesity" (or 41C — Apathy AND Obesity). Such catchall shortcomings as: 469 — "Unsuitability"; 261 — "Inaptitude" (or 260 — Unsuitability AND Inaptitude). Such nebulous items as: 265 — "Character disorders"; 271 — "Unsanitary habits" or 461 — "Inadequate personality."

Also included are a range of numbers indicating homosexuality, suspected homosexuality, "mental deficiency" and a list of psychological terms, such as "Cyclothymic personality."

"More than half a million young men are bearing millstones that weigh heavily on them throughout their lives," writes Michael Pousner in the magazine.

In addition to encountering discrimination from potential employers, veterans with adverse SPN codes may also be illegally denied their veterans' benefits under the G.I. Bill. Each negative entry is also a potential stumbling block to home loans, life and medical insurance, mortgages, bonding and consumer credit.

The disadvantages of the adverse SPN codes are compounded by the fact that these numbers are assigned not as the result of a court martial or perhaps not even an offense but at the discretion of senior officers who may wish to rid themselves of "unsuitable" soldiers, says Pousner.

Because getting an SPN changed is a long, laborious and seldom successful project, he adds, for most veterans an adverse number amounts to a life sentence.

A hymn to city life

Despite the fact that churchgoers in America are overwhelmingly urbanites, the hymns they sing each Sunday morning that have environmental references are mostly rural in nature, according to Dr. Stephen Stephan, professor emeritus of sociology at the University of Arkansas.

Analyzing hymns from several books used by different denominations, he found that the verses are "replete with rural thought forms and imagery."

For example, of 72 hymns in The Methodist Hymnal that contain environmental references, 66 are rural in nature and only six urban. Much the same ratio is found in the 1956 hymnal of the Southern Presbyterian and (Northern) United Presbyterian Churches. Even in the hymn book used by many Unitarian churches, the rural emphasis is pronounced.

Stephan's research showed that "the more fundamentalistic and 'old timey' the hymn books are, the more rural is the imagery." He points out that many urban worshippers, particularly in fundamentalist faiths, have been uprooted from rural heritages in recent years. The hymns may assuage their feelings of alienation and loneliness.

Another reason for the emphasis on rural themes is a bias against city and urban life growing from the early-day association of rural areas with "the good life" and of cities with that which is bad — sin, vice, poverty, crime and the more recent ills of pollution, noise, waste and ugliness.

Hymns are more than just the music of the church, says Stephan. Rather, they reinforce what he terms "the teaching ministry." He suggests that the ecological movement could benefit from new hymns that are "relevant to modern urban man."

Ray Cromley

West joins forces behind Iran

By Ray Cromley

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — It has been unofficially decided by influential men in Western Europe, that Iran will get heavy aid in building its munitions industry and over-all military capability. The assistance will be in the form of technical assistance, not money.

The first objective is to assure an Iranian force able to handle both a Soviet-dominated Iraq, now being strengthened by a heavy influx of Russian arms, and groups of unhappy northern tribesmen infiltrated by Soviet organizers. This should guarantee for now the independence of this oil-rich ally.

The second stage calls for heavy technical assistance in the building of assembly plants for small arms artillery, anti-tank weapons, anti-aircraft pieces and for producing a variety of military equipment and ammunition. The third stage calls for plants to assemble tanks and some types of military trucks.

The arrangements now under way by which Iran will acquire a one-fourth interest in the Krupp steel empire are a first step, providing for West German technical aid. Discussions are progressing now in Britain, Italy, France and Sweden on arrangements aiming at implementing the three stages in technical assistance to Iran outlined above.

There will be U.S. participation in this buildup but much of it will be indirect. Some of the American assistance, at the start at least, is more likely to be channeled through Britain or Italy.

The military buildup of Iran may be only part of the stepped-up role of the Western allies in the Middle East. As is well known, discussions between the United States and other Western countries with Egypt and Saudi Arabia have been proceeding for some months.

The reason for the buildup is obvious. It is hoped that if Iran, Saudi Arabia and Egypt can be armed militarily, particularly through the establishment of domestic arms industries, then Russian ties can be further weakened and Russian pressures resisted.

There is a strong conviction here and in Western Europe that the Russians, despite recent diplomatic defeats in Egypt and Saudi Arabia, are mapping new plans for gaining indirect influence over Middle East oil. Moscow's objective, is to control the flow of that oil so as to influence Western Europe without firing a shot. Indications are that the men in the Kremlin were pleasantly surprised at the effectiveness of the recent oil boycott even though it leaked like a sieve.

The dangers of a Middle East arms buildup are great, which is why the United States officially is standing well off from the discussions with Iran. Officials remember with sorrow that arms supplied Pakistan and India to hold off the Chinese, were used instead against each other. This country's strategists are worried therefore that strengthening one or another of the Middle East countries could lead to an arms rivalry, and possible war between the countries we most want to help. Saudi Arabia is suspicious of Iran and the danger of Iranian expansionism. So are other lands nearby.

Nevertheless the Russian threat is real. The Kremlin has been investing agents, organizers and arms in Syria as well as Iraq, and strengthening its ties with terrorist groups through the Middle East. Even today, Iran has military forces helping an Arabian sheik against infiltrating Communist guerrillas from a neighboring state taken over by the Reds some time back. What is all too clear is that a coup in Iran, Saudi Arabia or Egypt could have disastrous effects on the West's oil supplies and stability in the Middle East.

Bridal shower

MANSONVILLE — A lovely surprise bridal shower was held in the Mansonville Town Hall for Miss Roberta Newell of Ville d'Anjou and Highwater, recently. Roberta arrived at the hall to attend what she thought was going to be a town meeting on rural road paving and animal conservation with her future husband Mr. Neil Blackie of Montreal and one of her friends, Miss Rosie Vorseila from Alma, Que., and Ottawa, Ont. These subjects interested her, so it was not difficult to get her to attend.

She was a very surprise young lady when she was met at the door by her grandmother, Mrs. Leon Lamothe and presented with a corsage of red roses. She was seated between her mother, Mrs. Robert Newell and her future maid of honor, Miss Nancy Nolan of Montreal.

The hall was decorated by her aunt, Mrs. "Pete" Norway of Barre, Vt., and Mrs. Diane Lamothe, an aunt by marriage, and Diane's daughter, Buffy. Decorations were in shades of mauve, purple and white with a large wishing well filled with gifts awaiting Roberta.

The buffet table was centered by a beautiful cake shaped in the form of a bride's skirt and centered with the body of a real doll with the appearance of a bride in white with mauve roses at the edge of the skirt, made by Mrs. Johnson of Barre, Vt.

After Miss Newell opened her gifts and passed them around to be admired, she thanked the guests for their gifts and good wishes, then she was asked to stand and read a copy of the letter which was used to lure her to the hall, after which a game was played and four prizes given out to the winners. A delicious lunch was served by the hostesses, Mrs. Leon Lamothe, Mrs. Diane Lamothe and Mrs. "Pete" Norway.

Out of town guests were from Montreal, St. Hubert, Sutton, Vale Perkins, locally and from Barre, Vt., and Ottawa, Ont.

Bridal Shower

ULVERTON — Miss Cheryl Ann Porter, a September bride-to-be was guest of honour at a miscellaneous shower on Saturday afternoon August 24, held in the Ulverson Church Hall.

The hostesses for the shower were Mrs. W. Potts, Mrs. A. Dunn, Mrs. J.L. Macey, Mrs. W. Patrick, Mrs. D. Norris, Mrs. U. Massey, Mrs. V. Lowen, and Mrs. E. Coote.

Miss Porter was met at the door by Mrs. Patrick and presented with a corsage, then escorted to a decorated chair while Miss Audrey Millar of Melbourne played "Here Comes The Bride".

Mrs. Thomas Porter mother of the bride-elect and Mrs. F. Morin, mother of the prospective groom were seated on either side and assisted in opening the many gaily wrapped gifts.

Cheryl Ann thanked the hostesses and everyone for their gifts.

Following a buffet lunch, a large shower cake was presented to the guest of honour, who made the initial cut. The cake was then served to guests.

Sister causes marital disharmony

Dear Ann Landers: I have tried everything I can think of to solve this problem myself, but I hit a stone wall every turn I take. Please help me.

I am 28. My husband is 33. We've been married eight years and have a two-year-old daughter. We also have my 13-year-old sister living with us. We took her seven years ago when my parents were divorced. Neither Mom nor Dad wanted her. Although I was just a bride I decided it was my responsibility to take her in. (My parents really messed up their lives.)

My husband has always felt Dee belongs with her father. He resents her being here and it is making trouble between us. She was a good student until last year, when suddenly she took an "I don't care" attitude and her grades went way down. She used to confide in me but now she refuses to talk about what's bothering her.

Dee hit our little boy several times even though I've told her she is not to lay a hand on him. "He makes me nervous," is her answer. "I can't help it."

A few months ago I took her to a mental health clinic. After one interview I was told I didn't have a problem, that she was a normal 13-year-old.

This girl is giving me stomach trouble and ruining our marriage. My husband says we should send her to her father, but just can't do it. I know she'd get into real trouble out there. He doesn't want her and has never sent us a dime for her support. What do you advise?—A Sad Sister

Dear Sister: When school starts, go to see the guidance counselor. Ask his or her advice. Perhaps a foster home would be the best place for Dee. Many loving couples take such children. And incidentally, are you aware that the girl's father is liable for her support until she is of legal age? I suggest that you see a lawyer or consult Legal Aid about this.

Dear Ann Landers: I wonder how many people identified with that teen-ager who hated supertime because there was always fighting at the table? I went through the same thing for years. My father was the one who did the yelling. Someone always left the table in tears or with a sick stomach. Two of my brothers have ulcers but I beat the rap by getting psychiatric help. Please tell parents once more that meal time should be peaceful or the children will really suffer.—Beena There

Dear Beena: You did, and I thank you.

Dear Ann Landers: My boyfriend and I are planning to get married. The problem is that he wants a very big wedding and I want a small, intimate one.

We get along beautifully until someone brings up this subject.

then we end up mad at each other and the evening is ruined.

I am a nervous person and the thought of a great big wedding scares me to death. It would seem more like a theatrical production than a sacred ceremony. And another point, Ann—my folks are not very well off financially, and they can't really afford a big bash, but they are awfully sweet and will stretch to the limit if I say I want one. Please tell me what to tell my boyfriend so he will understand.—Embattled Betty

Dear Betty: The point about your parents' limited finances is enough. You don't need any other arguments.

Leavitt-Cote United

GLEN SUTTON — The marriage of Miss Sandra May, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle W. Leavitt of Glen Sutton, Que., and Mr. Russell Eric Cote, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Levi Cote of Mansonville, was solemnized at a double ring ceremony on Saturday, August 17, 1974 at 7 p.m. in the Church of the Good Shepherd at Glen Sutton. The Rev. Roy Darcus officiated. The wedding music was played by Mr. Karl J. Randsepp and the Chancel was decorated with multi-colored garden flowers with white tapers lit on the altar.

The bride, escorted down the aisle on the arm of her father, wore a gown of white nylon and lace over peau de soie, made in Empire style with a high lace collar, long sleeves of nylon lace gathered to a lace cuff and having a semi-cathedral length train which draped from the back waist. Her shoulder length veil of tulle was held in place by a white velvet bow. She carried a colonial bouquet of red and pink sweetheart roses.

The maid of honour, Miss Dawn Cady of Montreal, wore a floor length gown of polyester crepe made on Empire lines tied in the back; it was of a turquoise, green and white flower print on a beige background. She carried a colonial bouquet of mini carnations in turquoise to match her dress.

The bridesmaid, Miss Kersti Kohlap of Montreal, wore the same style gown as the maid of honour, in coral, red and white flower print on a beige background. Her colonial bouquet was of dark red mini carnations.

Mr. Rupert Cote was groomsmen for his brother and ushers were Mr. Roger Cote, brother of the groom, and Mr. Donald Leavitt, brother of the bride.

The bride's mother wore a long dress of blue polyester crepe with a short jacket; the dress was sleeveless and made on princess lines. She wore a corsage of pink sweetheart roses.

The groom's mother wore a street length dress of polyester crepe and lace in blue with pink sweetheart roses for her corsage.

The groom's maternal grandmother, Mrs. Hazel Jones of Mansonville, wore a street length dress of sand and mauve print and had a mauve mini carnation corsage. The reception was held at Owl's Head Chalet where the head table was centered with a magnificent waterfalls — type wedding cake made by the groom's Aunt, Mrs. Archie Cote of North Troy, Vt. After a delicious buffet supper an enjoyable evening was spent dancing to the music of the Darling Brothers of Waterloo.

The bride's bouquet was caught by Miss Joyce Cote of Vale Perkins, and the garter was caught by Mr. Barry Mann of Montreal.

The bride changed into a navy blue pant suit and white flowered blouse. They spent two days of their honeymoon in Vermont then went by motor car to Calton Place, Ont., where they planned to visit the bride's grandmother and other relatives.

Out of town guests were from Carlton Place and Smiths Falls, Ont., North Troy, Vt., Millbrook, N.Y., Montreal, Greenfield Park, Calumet, Cowansville, Sutton Junction, Bromes, South Bolton, the Pottow Townships and locally.

Mrs. Cote will commence teaching in the Butler Elementary School at Bedford, Que., this fall.

Birthday Club

BEEBE — The August gathering of the birthday club met at the home of Mrs. Margaret Langevin.

During the evening several games of bingo were played, several prizes were awarded. Mrs. Mary Tetreault claimed the special prize.

Mrs. Stella Eryou was the celebrant and was presented with a gift from the group. She was welcomed back after being in hospital following major surgery.

The hostess served dainty refreshments to terminate a pleasant evening. Due to an accident the co-hostess, Mrs. Rachel Baril was unable to attend.

The September gathering will be at the home of Mrs. Lena Mueller.

Dr. Lamb

Time to prepare for retirement

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband has just celebrated his 52nd birthday, and since he turned 50, I notice he has seemed depressed. He is in good health with a good head of black hair, no gray yet. He seems to get headaches across his forehead.

It seems to me he is going through the menopause. He refuses to see our doctor saying he is not sick, just under the weather. I try to cheer him up, but feel helpless when he is so depressed and won't even take aspirin.

I think he also worries about retirement in about eight years time. He is an accountant and in recent years quite a few of his colleagues collapsed and died shortly after retirement. I reckon one cannot run away from retirement, but rather prepare for it. Could you please recommend literature on 101 ways to occupy one's self in retirement?

DEAR READER — You are very wise. Most people go to great lengths preparing for death. They have insurance for death, estate planning for their heirs and even plan where they are going to be buried, but all too few plan for living. You are absolutely right, the best way to survive and enjoy retirement is to plan for it properly.

You may be interested in my book, "Stay Youthful and Fit," (Harper and Row). It provides a complete guide of what changes occur as you get older, and what we know about how to prevent such problems. That most definitely includes plans for keeping occupied.

Your husband is probably having a true middle-aged depression. If it is any worse, he may need some professional counseling or even some medicine to perk him up. Men do get depressed when they realize that the major span of their supposedly productive years is behind them. Our society isn't very helpful here because the retirement system often makes people quit being useful members of society.

In fact, many people in their 60s and older have the best years of their lives before them, if they use them properly. I pointed out in my book that the Abkhazians often are working in the fields from age 90 to 100. And, they keep a vigorous interest in community affairs and family affairs. In short, they continue to feel needed.

It is important to increase social contacts. Get into organizations that will keep you active and involved. Each person has to choose his own area of interest, but the point is to choose something. It may be a garden club-type activity and learning to raise your own food. That might come in very handy after retirement or, the way things are going, even sooner.

Good hobbies are great for maintaining interest and promoting social contact. Making small furniture and photography turn some people on and may turn into a second career with good financial return.

You may think I'm just dreaming, but that is important. Part of depression and aging is simply losing your dreams. Having something to look forward to or to strive for is important in the psychological aspects of staying youthful and enjoying every year of it. So, dream the impossible dream and then set out to make it come true. Youth is often a state of mind. Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's booklet on balanced diet, send 50 cents to the same address and ask for the "Balanced Diet" booklet.

MRS. ELLEN FULLER

It is with great pleasure that we remember one of our senior citizens, Mrs. Ellen Fuller, (Aunt Ellen) a former resident of South Bolton. She has lived in and about South Bolton most of her life. On September 5th she will observe her 91st birthday.

It was on a bright and sunny day in the year 1883, on September 5th that a baby girl was born in East Bolton. Her parents were Solomon Ward and his wife, Sarah Willey. She was christened, Ellen Eunice Ward. She was a sister of Sylvester, James and William Ward. Carrie, Mrs. Philip Willey and Addy, Mrs. Martin Gaylor. Her childhood days were spent in and about Bolton Pass, and the vicinity of East Bolton.

On Nov. 16th, 1898 she married Arlie Fuller of South Bolton. Of this union two children were born, Hazel, who died in the flu epidemic of 1918; and Gordon. There was an adopted son Alex, who was killed in World War I.

As a young woman she was the first one to deliver the mail by horse from South Bolton to Potton Spring, then on to Tuck's Landing, now known as Knowlton's Landing. Often she was accompanied by the late Argyle Lane who was a young boy then.

Later in 1915 she and her husband and family moved to Bolton Centre where once again she delivered the mail to Austin, Millington, and St. Benoit Du Lac. After living there for awhile they bought a farm in Potton near South Bolton.

After Mr. Fuller passed away, Mrs. Fuller sold her home and went to keep house for the late Rev. E.F. Macklin, Mansonville.

Now she has a small house near her son, Gordon, and daughter-in-law, Sadie. She does most of her own house work. Being fond of plants her windows are full of beautiful blooming plants.

She has 8 grandchildren, twenty-three great-grandchildren and 7 great-great-grandchildren.

Being of a quiet nature and a friend to so many her home is always welcome to callers.

All of her relatives and friends wish "Aunt Ellen" continued good health and many more birthdays to come.

Laid-up Dick still has that old Burton touch

By Dick Kleiner

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — Direct from a nurse, who should know, comes the report that Richard Burton is currently in a Santa Monica hospital, "drying out."

He has a guard posted at his door, to keep all visitors out. But he has ingratiated himself with the patients by sending some of the more seriously ill ladies bouquets of roses. He may be having problems but he hasn't lost the old romantic touch.

One of Hollywood's brightest nights ever was the lavish premiere of MGM's nostalgic look at the old musicals, "That's Entertainment." The guest list was a walking history.

Before I developed writer's cramp, I wrote down these names of people I spotted in the crowd: Ruth Buzzi, Keenan Wynn, Eva Gabor, Alexis Smith, George Hamilton, Jackie Cooper, Gloria Swanson, Merle Oberon, June Allyson, Elizabeth Taylor, Charlton Heston, George Burns, Richard Anderson, Terry Moore, Ann Rutherford, Rod McKuen, Jkloin Hyglmpx. (That last one was when the old west began to go.)

At the dinner party after the screening, Sammy Davis and Liza Minnelli sort of hosted an impromptu thing, which had Debbie Reynolds singing, Fred Astaire and Gene Kelly and Adele Astaire and Ginger Rogers dancing, and Donald O'Connor doing a little of everything.

Poor Donald stayed on too long, but Debbie Reynolds, with her usual directness, got him off tactfully — she danced him off the stage.

I sat with the O'Brien girls — unrelated. Margaret has lost weight and looks great. Virginia was holding hands with her husband of five years, Harry White. When they got married, they each had four children.

THE PSYCHIC STARS: Bobbie Gentry

Bobbie Gentry has moved now, as befits a very successful performer. But she used to live in a small house way up in the hills, and her roommate, she believes, was a poltergeist.

RICHARD BURTON: To be or not to be the ladies' man?

She could never leave anything out in the bathroom — it would knock them over.

There was one door the poltergeist preferred to have open. Bobbie took to sliding a rod across it, to keep it closed. It didn't help. It would always be open.

Other doors and windows would rattle. Once, the door rattling was so bad Bobbie hammered the door closed. It still rattled.

One visitor, Jonathan Lucas, then her accompanist, saw the figure of a woman. Bobbie never saw anything but she often heard the rustle of taffeta skirts.

After she moved out, a recording company executive moved in. One day, he fell off the patio — 200 feet — and was killed.

"Draw your own conclusions," says Bobbie.

Program line-up promising

TORONTO (CP) — Ten new shows will be seen this fall and winter on the CTV Television Network during evening hours, including a new Thursday night documentary series.

Michael Maclear, former CBC foreign correspondent, will star in the series which CTV says will emphasize highly-visual personal reporting and investigation.

The privately-owned network apparently is concentrating its new programs on Thursdays to compete with the CBC's fall and winter program schedule, featuring some of its headline new shows that night.

The CTV Thursday night line-up, effective Sept. 9, also features Excuse My French, a situation comedy series based on an English-speaking Montreal law student married to a French-Canadian girl, Funny Farm, a family show employing live actors and animated cartoons; and a new western drama, Nakia, set in New Mexico.

The mainstays of the CTV network's news and information programs return in the 1974-75 season—Canada AM, going into its third full season, the CTV National News with Harvey Kirk, and W5, the television magazine show now entering its ninth year.

SEVERAL RETURN
Question Period, with Bruce Phillips as moderator and Charles Lynch and Doug Fisher as regular panelists, also returns to the CTV network Sunday afternoons. Ian Tyson and the Pig and Whistle are back on Mondays, Marcus Welby MD, on Tuesdays, and live hockey telecasts or movies will again occupy most of Wednesday evenings.

RICHMOND — The Street Fair which will be held here Saturday evening stands for much more than a good time. The annual event shows just how much the people in Richmond, Melbourne and surrounding areas volunteer to help their community.

The Street Fair, which will be held in the arena, is one of the local Legion's main fund-raising activities. The funds raised are used to support the many worthwhile social projects which the veteran association undertakes every year.

The people in the area know what Richmond Legion Branch 15 has done for the community and they come in record breaking numbers to the fair. They have a great time and many take home worthwhile prizes.

But the prizes are secondary. They come to support the Legion branch. The members have been working hard to prepare for the four hour event. Materials and prizes had to be collected.

Organizers had to get volunteers to work in the various booths but that really wasn't a hard task. Saturday the Legion members and other groups will work to set up their wares and different games of chance.

Later, in the evening, thousands will attend the event which will be declared open by various local dignitaries, as has been the case in the past.

The old arena will become a beehive of activity as the crowd swells.

The fair is a sight to behold. It is something out of the ordinary in the Eastern Townships. It could easily be compared to the Lennoxville Tombola.

There is plenty of action. There is even more community spirit.

The Legion needs support. But they don't want charity. They are willing to test your skills. Why don't you try to attend?

Fun and games offered Saturday at 25th Richmond Street Fair

RICHMOND — The annual Richmond Street Fair sponsored by the Royal Canadian Legion Branch 15 was held in the coliseum on the grounds of the old Richmond Fair site, Saturday, September 11.

Officiating at the opening ceremonies was the Hon. Patrick T. Asselin, MP for Richmond County. Mr. Asselin was introduced to the participants by comrade Guelph Husk, branch president.

Mr. Asselin in his opening remarks said, "It is heart warming to see those comrades who are here tonight keeping up the faithful duty of providing for the less fortunate who derive help from the Legion branch through the funds raised by the Richmond Street Fair."

"The support of the community in patronizing the Legion effort is well appreciated, as one may see by this splendid gathering. In conclusion, I proclaim this twenty-fifth Anniversary Canadian Legion Branch 15 Street Fair, officially open."

Comrade Husk thanked Mr. Asselin for his remarks, after which a presentation of a corsage was made to Mrs. Asselin by Miss Norma Husk, daughter of the branch president.

There were sixteen booths offered for fun for young and old. There was a fish pond which drew the attention of the youngsters as did the concession with the toy dolls, teddy-bears and dogs. Attracting for mom and dad were the crown and anchor, where the bets paid off. Then, to be won, there were hams, baskets of peaches and grapes, boxes of chocolates, clothing and household sundries, which all attracted their share of the crowd.

The "bingo" table was well crowded and cleared out the allocated prizes well before closing hours.

And, for those who were in the habit of a midnight snack, the Ladies Auxiliary of Branch 15 Canadian Legion, served hot tea and coffee along with homemade doughnuts, sandwiches or hot dogs.

According to comments made by Comrade Husk and Arthur Bieber, organizer of the Fair, "the receipts for the event were gratifying" and "we wish to extend our whole hearted thanks to the many people who contributed and helped in many ways to make this fair, the 25th anniversary fair, sponsored by the Richmond Branch 15, a success."

The special prize donated by the Legion, a young lamb, was won by Mrs. Leo Delaney of Richmond.

The Ladies Auxiliary special prize, a bridge table and chairs, was won by Mrs. E. Hampton of Melbourne.

Winners of the drawing of the twenty-five door prizes were as follows:

Legion Branch 15 serves community

RICHMOND — When the only one way of enlisting aid for those who survived and may be in need.

Branch 15's president Orin R. Taylor hopes that all of the residents of the region will take the opportunity to come out and see some of the 15 booths that have been set up at the Coliseum, take the chance of winning some of the fine door prizes... and know that they are assisting in an extremely worthy endeavor.

Established in 1927 under the leadership of Colonel Harkom, the Richmond Branch of the Legion has been exerting its efforts for that 47 year period on behalf of the veterans of both world wars — and their dependents.

As the plaques outside the branch demonstrate, the Richmond-Melbourne area paid heavily in its contribution in two world wars — the Street Fair is

Set Saturday night aside

RICHMOND — The Richmond Street Fair, open from 8 p.m. to midnight on Saturday, September 7, and sponsored by the local Legion, diverges from the run-of-the-mill this year by offering articles to look at, but not to buy.

And according to organizer V. Ignatieff, there will be plenty to gander at, from hens, if you'll pardon the pun, all the way to dolls and chocolate.

The fair, celebrating its 34th birthday this year, enjoyed a huge success in 1973 when 3,000 people turned up for the fun and games. Mr. Ignatieff hopes to better that record of customers this year. "In principle, our exposition will be much the same as it was then," he explained. After all, who would argue with success?

Undoubtedly, many people will be misled by the term "Street", because the street in this case is inside the coliseum. At one time, the annual event was held outdoors on a roped-off section of an avenue, but as it grew in popularity, so did the need for larger space. The admission, a mere 0.25 a head this inflationary year, has traditionally been used by the Legion for welfare work and other charitable enterprises.

"There will be 15 booths at this year's event," Mr. Ignatieff elaborated, "but we won't be selling a thing. There will be handmade crafts on display and a wide variety of other things as well."

"And don't forget to mention the bingo sessions," he laughed, "they're always popular with the crowd."

Ten door prizes will be given away during the course of the evening, and Mr. Ignatieff assured the Record that the items are bound to please the customers. "We know our neighbors and we think we know what they'd like to win," Mr. Ignatieff concluded elusively.

The fair has always attracted people from far and wide. There are those who measure the demise of summer by the advent of the Richmond Exhibition.

Fair-goers are invited to let their hair down one last time before the cold weather sets in for good, this Saturday, at the Legion Hall in Richmond, from 8 p.m. until midnight.

A number of people from this area have received postcards, during the Summer, from Austin Bailey who is presently doing Missionary work on the Island of Aruba. It is a comparatively small island situated in the Caribbean, off the northern tip of South America. It is one of the islands known as the Lesser Antilles group. This particular island belongs to the Dutch. Austin tells us that he expects to be home around the end of August. We shall be eagerly awaiting his homecoming to find out more about Aruba and his work on the island.

One section of our town seems to be plagued by the noises of the oncoming traffic from the main Highway. For the past month the traffic has been rerouted through the lower part of town, while much-needed repairs are being made on the Highway. It appears that this construction work will be in progress for another month or more. Progress has its advantages but it does have its disadvantages, as well. Temporarily, at least.

Obituaries

MRS. ERNEST CORK of Cookshire

Mrs. Ernest Cork, a resident of Cookshire, whose death occurred at the Sherbrooke Protestant Hospital on August 3rd, 1974 was in her 69th year.

She was born in Cookshire, daughter of the late Arthur Hearn and his wife the late Flora Labaree, and received her education at the Cookshire school.

Mrs. Cork, nee Ruby Hearn, was united in marriage to the late Arthur McVetty, second son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James McVetty, and of this union four children were born.

They spent many years of their wedded life on a farm in High Forest, later purchasing another farm in Maple Leaf where they resided until ill health forced Mr. McVetty to give up farming. They sold their farm and purchased a house in Eaton Corner.

After a few short years of town living, Mr. McVetty predeceased her. Mrs. McVetty remained living alone in their home until she met Mr. Cork and they were united in marriage on the 25th day of August 1978, and moved to the farm of Mr. Ernest Cork where she resided until her death.

Mrs. Cork leaves to mourn her passing her husband, four children, Dorothy, Mrs. Herbert Loveland, Sawyerville, Mabel, Mrs. James Hall, Lennoxville, James of Sawyerville, and Malcom of Cookshire, two sons-in-law, two daughters-in-law, eight grandchildren, two great-grandchildren, a sister and several other relatives.

The funeral service was conducted from French's Funeral Home, Sawyerville, August 6, 1974, where relatives and friends gathered to hear the comforting words spoken by Rev. C. Lokhorst of East Angus. A hymn, "Take my hand, precious Lord," was rendered. The bearers were relatives and neighbours of the deceased: Herbert, Raymond and Barry Loveland, James Hall, Kenneth Hodge and Waymond Little.

Interment was in the Cookshire Cemetery, beside her first husband, where the beautiful warm sun shone down on her last resting place.

MRS. HENRY CORRIGAN of Bury

After a long illness, Mrs. Henry Corrigan entered into rest at the Sherbrooke Hospital on August 2, 1974, at the early age of 58.

Mrs. Corrigan, nee Dorothy Mary Sargent, was born March 27, 1916, at Gould Station, the youngest of three children born to the late Amos Sargent and his wife Mary Forbes Sargent. She received her education at the rural school near her home.

In 1935 she was married to Henry Corrigan, who with their three daughters, Ruth, Rita and Mary, survives her.

Mrs. Corrigan, better known as Dolly, was a most unselfish person, not rich in this world's goods, she was devoted to her family, giving all of her best to their welfare, even to the end. She will be greatly missed and long remembered for her many kindly acts of sympathy and love.

Her remains rested at the Boynton Funeral Home from where the funeral service was held in St. Paul's Anglican Church on Monday, August 5, with Rev. M.C. James officiating assisted by Glenn Coates, who also played the organ for two of her favorite hymns, The Old Rugged Cross and Nearer My God to Thee.

She was borne to her last resting place in the Bown Cemetery by six old friends, Clarence Miller, Edgar Coates, Shirley Bennett, William French, Ronald Stokes and Osborne Allison.

Left to mourn are her husband Henry Corrigan and daughters, Ruth, Rita and Mary, her mother, Mrs. Mary Springings, sister Esther, step-sister, Mrs. John Cass (Ruth Sargent) brother William of Missouri, sister-in-law Gertrude and daughter Mary and family of Vermont, aunts, sisters-in-law, sisters, nieces and nephews and many friends.

She was predeceased by her father Amos Sargent, her brother Joseph and step-father Fred Springings.

Those attending the funeral from out of town were from Eaton Corner, Island Brook, and Austin, as well as those from Bury.

Sunday Evel's big day

THE BIG ONE — Evel Knievel makes his toy stunt cycle perform like his big one. Evel jumped 13 Mack trucks at the CNE on August 20th, and makes Snake River Canyon jump on September 8th.

Town wants Evel to win

TWIN FALLS, Idaho (AP) — "It all looks pretty silly to me," said Jerry Hunt, 90, a retired barber. "But it's all right with me, he can do what he wants and I wish him good luck."

Most of the residents of this peaceful town can't understand why Evel Knievel would want to jump over the Snake River Canyon in his Sky-Cycle, but they wish him well with his attempt Sunday.

Promoters said they expected 50,000 people to attend the event. So far, they estimate that less than half have arrived. But hotels in the area report that their rooms are sold out and some are already taking advantage of the influx of city slickers to double their room rates.

Interviews with more than a dozen local residents reveal mixed emotions about the jump. Some think it is just a big publicity stunt, some say it's good for business and tourism in Twin Falls, and others say they're more excited about the county fair that is going on this week.

Mayor Winston Jones, who said he will be at the site Sunday, said he is sure Knievel's jump will be successful. "With all that engineering know-how he has working for him, I assume he knows what he's doing," the mayor said.

Like several others, Jerry Swensen thinks the whole business is a publicity stunt. Several weeks ago Swensen, who owns a meat market, ran an ad saying Evel Knievel was full of baloney.

"Knievel's been saying he's going to jump the canyon for years, and he's always backing out. He also gave the impression he would do it on a motorcycle, and what's the big deal in going across the canyon in a jet-propelled rocket? It's all a put-on," he said.

Riggs bets Evel

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Bobby Riggs, equipped with a newly acquired driver's licence, left Las Vegas Thursday for Twin Falls, Idaho, where he hopes to collect $25,000 from stuntman Evel Knievel.

Riggs, 57, made a $25,000 bet with Knievel that he could ride a 175-c.c. motorcycle the 646 miles to Twin Falls by the time Knievel attempts his jump Sunday across the Snake River Canyon on a steam-powered Sky-Cycle.

Riggs, who said he had never been on a motorcycle until a few hours before he left the Tropicana Hotel at 1 p.m. PDT (4 p.m. EDT), called the ride a "piece of cake."

He lacked a valid driver's licence, so picked one up at the motor vehicles department Thursday after taking written and driving tests.

Riggs planned to spend the night at Cedar City, Utah, 175 miles east of Las Vegas. He must be at Twin Falls by 2:20 p.m. MDT (4:20 p.m. EDT) Sunday to collect the bet.

Knievel made the challenge after Riggs won $5,000 from him in a golf game last weekend. He said Riggs would not have the stamina to complete the trip.

Science wants jump to work

TWIN FALLS, Idaho (AP)

— The scientist behind Evel Knievel's attempt to hurdle the Snake River Canyon figures his client's chances of success are "about the same as a test pilot trying out a new aircraft for the first time."

Robert Truax, a veteran engineer in United States guided-missile programs, gave his estimate Wednesday, moments after a crane delicately deposited Knievel's X-2 Sky-Cycle on the 108-foot ramp from which the stuntman will be catapulted Sunday.

"I'd say the chances are less than the space agency gave the astronauts," Truax, 56, said at the launch site at the edge of the 500-foot-deep canyon. "Our statistics are two tests in the drink, so if you take a pessimistic view, our chances are zero."

"But we feel they're considerably better than zero."

At the foot of the dirt hill forming the base of the launch ramp was the tangled wreckage of the X-1 Sky-Cycle which plumped to the bottom of the canyon last November. At the side of the hill was the comparatively unbroken shell of the second test vehicle that failed to make it across the 1,600-foot gap a week and a half ago.

Knievel will strap himself into the toylike Sky-Cycle at about 4:30 p.m. EDT Sunday for the stunt. Fifty thousand people are expected to watch the attempt here, with millions more in theatres for the closed-circuit telecast. Knievel, who made his name by jumping motorcycles over Mack trucks and the like, will be carrying a $100,000 cheque made out to Truax.

It's dated Sept. 9, the day after the jump, and Truax said, "We get him across or we get nothing. That's our deal."

Beavers ready for exhibition opener

SHERBROOKE (GB) — The first real test of the young season for the Sherbrooke Beavers comes this evening when the Sorel Hawks, coached this year by Rod Lemoyne, come to town.

Lemoyne took over the reins of the Hawks towards the end of last season but despite his presence behind the bench, the team faltered against the Quebec Remparts in the league finals after leading for most of the season.

Both teams have a number of new faces. The visiting Hawks have about 11 players from last year's squad back.

Defensively, however, they must be considered weaker due to the absence of their policeman, Carlo Torresan, who was drafted in June.

For the Hawks, it will be their first away exhibition game of the season. The Beavers will return the compliment when they travel to Sorel September 22nd.

The Beavers have been working out all week since their intra squad game Tuesday. Coach Ghislain Delage has about 28 players in camp still vying for positions. He may cut two or three after tonight's game but he is in no hurry for the moment.

Beavers received some good news yesterday when it was learned that defenceman Larry Matunis had joined the club. They had signed him earlier but he decided to go to Kitchener of the OHA major Junior A. But George Guilbault stepped in. The team's general manager made a few phone calls to convince Matunis that language would be no problem with the Beavers. As matters stand now, the team is divided fairly evenly between French and English speaking players.

Matunis is only 17 but stands 6 feet three inches tall. He weighs 185 pounds. He comes to the Beavers highly recommended by Pat Stapleton of the Chicago Cougars and the club's trainer Eddie Swiss. Local fans will have an opportunity to see him in action tonight beginning at 8 o'clock.

The burly defenceman played hockey in a summer league in the Chicago area. The Beavers at the blue line have not been consistent since joining the Quebec Major Junior A but this season, Delage and his scouts, were on the lookout for strong rearguards.

Richard Mulhearn who carried most of the load last year is in his last year at the Junior level. He undoubtedly will be the team leader this season. Mulhearn has recovered from his shoulder separation that sidelined him during the late stages of last season. Robert Desormeaux, Floyd Lahache, Kerry Kane, Francois Robert, Andre Leduc and Howard Sidewater are battling for the other blue line jobs and their play in the days ahead will be a determining factor for Delage's final choices.

At centre, the Beavers are counting heavily on Syd Veysey this season. This will be his second and final Junior season.

Newcomer Mark Green has impressed Delage since camp opened. Green has all the makings of becoming a fine player according to the local mentor. For a 16-year-old, he handles the puck with authority. Delage is pleased with his work to date.

The club has good potential at left wing with Jere Gillis, Peter Marsh, Fernand Leblanc, Richard Dubreuil, Alain Chaput, and Joe Carleval.

Right wingers are also in abundance at the camp. Daniel Chicoine, Benoit Plouffe, Michel Brisebois and the two Alain Belangers have looked good in workouts this week.

Twenty players will be in uniform tonight and Delage will likely use all of them against the Hawks. Nick Saza and Richard Sevigny will likely share netminding duties.

At a news conference last evening, the media visited the new Beavers residence at 263 Park Street, a two minute walk from the Sports Palace.

The 20 or 22 players will be living together this winter instead of in private homes scattered throughout the city which cost the Beavers on the average about 35 dollars weekly last season per player.

Management suggested during last year's campaign the possibility of a residence. Several meetings were held to discuss the matter. Finally it was learned that the Sherbrooke Catholic school commission owned a property on Park Street which was vacant. The Beavers looked into the matter and came away impressed.

Then there was the question of furniture, beds, TV's, kitchen facilities etc. Generous donations were made by various business men, individuals and a radio appeal made over CJRS Radio.

Now the residence is in operation. Bunk beds were made possible through Henry Crocheteire and the St. Pat's Old Boys Camp.

Wash rooms, two television sets, a playroom downstairs, a study room, a dining hall and laundry facilities are all part of what is known as "La Hutte Des Castors".

Felix Lavigne has been hired as cook and according to the players, the meals have been excellent. The food bill runs in the neighborhood of $300-$350 weekly. Thus far the players have reacted more favorably to the idea. As Nick Saza put it: "The Montreal Junior Canadiens never treated us like this."

Another player commented: "A wonderful opportunity to get to know one another."

Management does not plan to interfere with its operation. The players will form a committee and handle problems should any arise. "Curfew is 10:30," said Delage. "I won't be around to check every night. The players know their responsibilities." Girl friends will not be allowed in the residence but this does not prevent them from seeing their friends said the coach. Guy Bureau president of the Beavers is persuaded that the players will enjoy every minute at the residence and after visiting the building anyone would have to agree.

Homer drops Bosox to second

Gorman Thomas took up where he left off in the minor leagues when he joined Milwaukee Brewers for an American League baseball game in Boston Thursday night.

The outfielder, who hit 51 homers for Sacramento of the Pacific Coast League this season, hit another against the saging Red Sox to give the Brewers a 4-3 win.

Thomas failed to get the ball out of the infield in his first three times at bat, but hit one out with a man on base and one out in the ninth to break a 2-2 tie.

The defeat dropped the Red Sox a half game behind New York Yankees in the American League East, knocking them out of the lead for the first time since July 14.

The Yankees and Baltimore Orioles, who remained two games behind New York, both were idle Thursday.

In Thursday's other American League games, Minnesota Twins trimmed Kansas City Royals 4-1, Oakland A's blanked Texas Rangers 3-0, and Chicago White Sox nipped California Angels 1-0.

Philadelphia Phillies edged Chicago Cubs 6-5 in 11 innings in Thursday's only National League game.

Homer's home-run production at Sacramento was helped by a 233-foot fence in left field but at Boston his homer cleared the screen atop the 37-foot wall near the left-field foul pole, 315 feet away.

Mike Hegan and Pedro Garcia had hit solo homers for Milwaukee in the seventh to tie the score against the Red Sox, who lost their seventh in a row.

Steve Busby failed in his third bid for his 20th win for the Royals when he threw the ball away on a pickoff attempt with the bases loaded in the sixth inning.

The Twins scored twice on the play, breaking a 1-1 tie, and the Royals lost their eighth in a row. Jim (Catfish) Hunter limited the Rangers to four hits as he picked up his 22nd win for Oakland.

Ken Henderson's double in the sixth inning drove in Jorge Orta with the only run of their game against California.

Bob Boone drove in two runs with a bases-loaded single in the top of the 11th for the Phils after the Cubs forced the game into overtime with a run in the eighth.

Hunter said there was no significance in the fact they didn't play. Gordie Howe, Kirk and Croix continued to play well and Serge Bernier had his best outing of the camp. However, Jim Harrison and Mike Walton—unofficially designated the fourth and fifth centres—were among those who sat out the game.

Toughest season ever for Gaiters

By BRUCE PORTER

Record Reporter

LENOXVILLE — While Bishop's University students only return for the fall session of classes next week, some 45 athletes have made the journey back to the Lennoxville campus to take part in the football Gaiters training camp.

For two hours, twice a day since last Saturday, the players have been put through rigorous drills to get them back in top shape for the fast approaching season. Team meetings have also been held during the evenings to work over plays and strategy for the year.

"The guys have been working very hard in camp preparing for the toughest competitive season Bishop's has ever had to face," said Bruce Coulter, head coach of the Gaiters in an interview yesterday.

Three Ontario colleges have joined the BU grid league for this season and should provide some exciting football for the local enthusiasts. University of Waterloo, Carleton University and McMaster University will participate from Ontario, while the Quebec schools involved are Loyola College, McGill University and Bishop's.

With the small number of players in camp, Coulter admitted the task of selecting this year's squad is somewhat easier than has been the case in past years. The time served in evaluating the prospects allows for more specialized practicing.

The group has been cut to 39 players and the coach says that only one or two more will be cut. The number of players allowed to dress for each game is 36, and Coulter suggested that probably the extra one or two players would alternate with other teammates, dependent on injuries.

Many Gaiter veterans are back in camp for the upcoming season, including quarterback Mike Munzer, tackles Bob Gillies and Doug Murray, defensive safety Jeff Salvis, cornerback Brian Roy, as well as Jack Latter, Rod Ward and Peter Sorenson. An unexpected surprise to the coaches was the return of Phil Oughton and Peter Laughton.

Those players as well as the rookies on the BU squad will meet the UQTR Patriots in Trois-Rivieres Saturday at 2 p.m. in a controlled scrimmage. The meeting will be the lone exhibition contest for the Gaiters this year, as the regular
