Youth drowns at Lake Selby, two are killed in E.T. highway accidents

A youth was drowned and two other persons were killed in highway accidents in the Eastern Townships during the weekend.

Twenty-year-old Michel Mercure of L'Ange-Gardien drowned in Lake Selby three miles from Dunham about 7:30 Sunday evening.

The youth, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Georges Arthur Mercure was in a boat with Andre Gerard of Longueuil and Clement Langevin of Montreal.

The boat capsized, Gerard and Langevin were helped to safety by Jean-Marie Boulaie of Rougemont, but he was unable to reach Mercure.

Dragging operations were conducted by Dunham County police and Mercure's body was recovered about 11:30 Sunday night.

The date for an inquest into the death has not yet been set.

A 14-year-old East Hereford boy died Saturday morning when the brakes failed on the truck in which he was riding and the truck went off the road and overturned.

The boy, Jean Paul Chaloux, was riding in the truck with his father, Philias Chaloux and his brother Fernand. The brakes failed on the Ninth Range hill near East Hereford. Fernand jumped from the truck and was not injured but Jean Paul was crushed in the cab of the truck when it missed a turn in the hill and crashed into the ditch.

A coroner's inquest held the day of the accident returned a verdict of accidental death. The inquest was presided over by St. Francis District Coroner, Dr. Louis Gagnon.

A highway accident early Saturday morning near Granby took the life of 43-year-old Marcel Patenaude of Granby.

The accident occurred when Mr. Patenaude was returning from Waterloo to Granby. He collided with an oil truck belonging to W. H. Adam of Sherbrooke.

One other person was seriously injured in the accident and two others received treatment for minor injuries: Mrs. Juliette Moisson of Granby was taken to the St. Joseph Hospital in Granby suffering from shock, lacerations to the face and a broken hand.

Two other passengers in the car Mr. and Mrs. Gerard Cysel of Granby escaped with minor injuries.

Patenaude's car was a total wreck following the accident and damage to the oil truck was estimated at $900.

Two youths were injured early Sunday morning when the car in which they were riding went out of control and overturned on the road near Disraeli.

Injured were Real Vachon, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Vachon of Sherbrooke and Jean Guy Bernard, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dominique Bernard of Disraeli.

Return money with interest

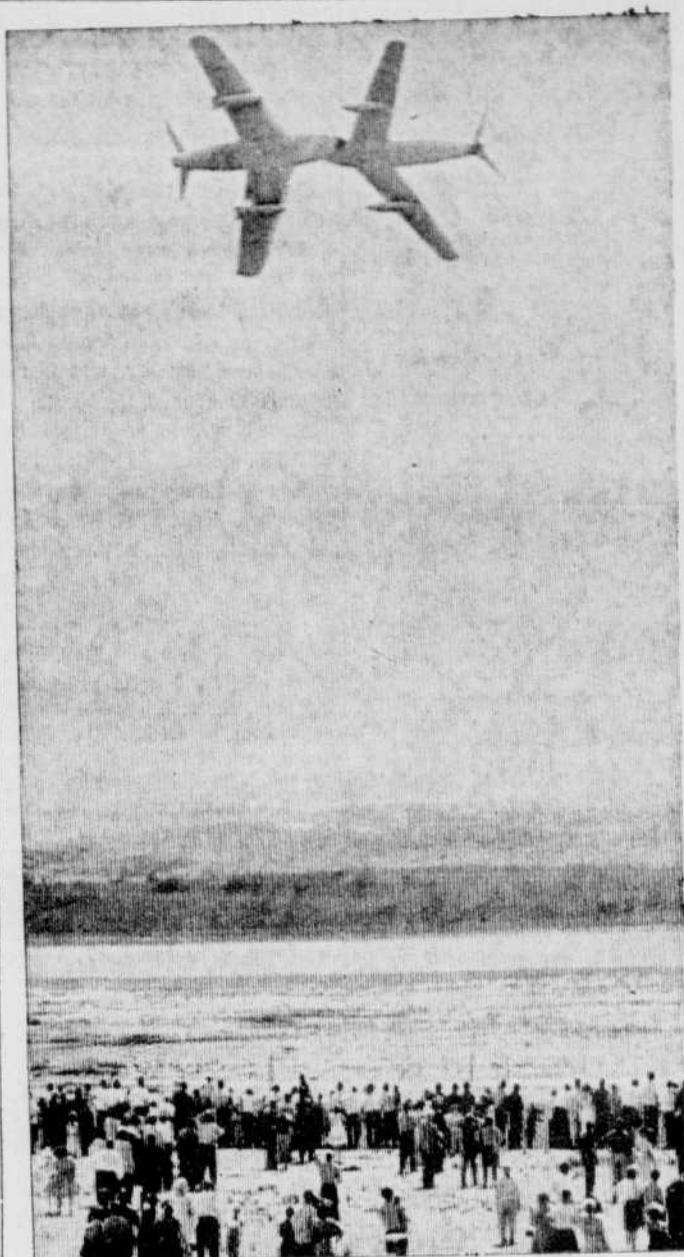

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Television repairman Harry Howard will never forget the day his money blew all over the parking lot.

When he stepped out of his car in the bank parking lot, he dropped the bag that held his receipts. Cheques and bills went fluttering away.

It was like a nightmare but people stopped to help and 30 minutes later Howard sat down with the adding machine tape, which detailed the money to figure his losses.

He had started with 77 cheques. Cheques recovered: 77.

He had started with $220 in cash. Cash recovered: $221.

K. to scrap demob plan

MOSCOW — Soviet Premier Khrushchev's announcement Saturday that Russia is halting demobilization and increasing military spending appears to Western observers to be belated announcement of an established situation.

Khrushchev said the moves were forced on Russia by Western military steps over Berlin and Germany. He said military spending will be increased by one-third.

In January, 1960, the Supreme Soviet announced a plan to reduce the armed forces by 1,200,000 men.

Western observers said that when Khrushchev decided to revive the German question he must have assessed probable Western reaction and taken steps to counter it. Most felt that the move had been under way for months before Saturday's announcement.

In it, Khrushchev reaffirmed his determination to sign a separate peace treaty with Communist East Germany. He appealed to President Kennedy, Prime Minister Macmillan and President de Gaulle to join in concluding a peace treaty at the conference table.

HASTENS CRISIS
In Paris, French government circles saw the move as an indication Khrushchev intends to provoke a Berlin crisis sooner than was expected—probably September rather than November. They thought the invitation to the conference indicated some willingness to reach a compromise on Berlin.

Chances are slim

Vosburgh may never come before court

MONTREAL — (CP) — John J. Gottlieb, attorney for Abel Vosburgh, said Sunday it is "unfortunate" that death may cheat the 63-year-old laborer of his day in court.

An exploratory operation Saturday revealed that Vosburgh, charged with the murder of his wife and 11 of his children at the family shack at Novan, Que., last December, is suffering from extremely advanced cancer in his left lung.

Dr. Roger Paulin, chief surgeon at St. Joseph de Rosemont Hospital, said after the operation that the chances of Vosburgh's survival for any length of time were very slim.

Mr. Gottlieb said Sunday he is not planning any special legal action despite the fact that Vosburgh may not live to attend his trial which is scheduled for the October assizes at Sweet'sburg, Que.

"It is unfortunate that death should cheat him of his opportunity to assert his own innocence and to correct a false impression that the public has acquired from misinformation and rumor mongering."

Mr. Gottlieb said it was also unfortunate that, should Vosburgh not be able to appear, it was "his family that will carry the stigma."

Mr. Gottlieb said it was "most likely" that Vosburgh will remain in the north end hospital and not be returned to the hospital section or Montreal jail at Bordeaux.

"Under the circumstances," he said, "I imagine that he will be treated more as a patient than as a prisoner."

Vosburgh's two surviving daughters, Mrs. Gladys Mayne and Mrs. Gertrude Lockery visited their father twice following his operation this week end.

'Like a gypsy' Gina protests

MOSCOW — (Reuters) — Gina Lollobrigida left the premiere of Moscow's second international film festival Sunday night immediately after the opening speeches.

But the movie star denied that she had staged a walk-out and upset Soviet officials.

Taken to the festival by car immediately upon arriving by air from Paris, Gina said: "Soviet officials pleaded with me to go, so I couldn't disappoint them. I went looking like a gypsy — I hadn't changed and I hadn't even washed."

The officials "understood when I left after the speeches," she said.

"All this makes me feel so sad," she said. "I will be here for a week and I want to take part in as much of the festival as possible."

Films from 51 countries have been entered for the festival and screening of the entries begins today.

LISBON — A telephone call from Lourenco Marques received by the Portuguese shipowners today said at least 230 Negroes and 20 Europeans are known to be dead aboard the blazing Portuguese ship Save.

The number probably is higher, according to a company spokesman.

The ship has been ablaze since it ran aground Friday.

The Save, a 2,600-ton liner which plies the Mozambique coast, was enroute from Beira in the north with 550 passengers aboard and a crew of 53. Two hundred of the passengers were soldiers, and 350 were miners, both Negro and white.

The Lusitania News Agency reported that while rescue vessels were trying to take off the passengers, an explosion occurred in the engine room.

Hospitals in the area near the ship and in Lourenco Marques, 250 miles down the coast, were ordered to prepare to treat cases of bad burns and extreme shock.

The Save, owned by the Portuguese Companhia Nacional, went aground in heavy seas Friday at the mouth of the River Tinto.

She listed badly as flames seared her from stem to stern after a series of explosions. One blast finally broke her back Sunday.

The ship was carrying gasoline, diesel fuel and ammunition.

The passengers were reported to have included 200 African soldiers and 300 African laborers. The laborers were understood to be returning home after working in South African gold mines.

Get venison out of season

Residents of the Wales Home in Richmond will enjoy out-of-season venison because of an accident near Baldwin's Mills Sunday night.

Lyman Peck of Newport, Vt. had just left the cottage of a friend when a deer jumped out onto the roadway and up on the hood of his car. The deer was killed instantly.

A game warden, summoned to the accident, ordered the carcass given to the Wales Home.

Coyne charges 'impeachment'

OTTAWA — (CP) — James E. Coyne, governor of the Bank of Canada today described legislation to oust him as a "bill of impeachment."

Appearing before the Senate banking committee for an extraordinary hearing of his case against the government he said: "There is not one accuser but dozens, but not one would submit himself for examination to a committee of this Parliament."

There were few high offices of state from which the occupant could be removed except for misbehavior. And they could be removed only by parliament, not the government.

It was the duty of Parliament to watch over the government to assure the maintenance of the rights of the people.

Mr. Coyne referred to some of these high offices. The chief electoral officer assured free elections; the auditor-general assured honest accounting; the civil service commissioner assured against political patronage; the chairman of the board of broadcast governors and the president of the CBC assured against political interference with broadcasting.

SEES HIS DUTY
The duty of the governor of the Bank of Canada was "to guard against debasement of the currency."

To remove such officers, misbehavior must be specified and proved.

"I regret that my accusers have not taken the opportunity to make their case known first in my presence and be examined on it" so that he could reply to it.

The government had rejected all demands for a Commons hearing although an officer of Parliament was being removed from office.

Mr. Coyne said there is no allegation of misbehavior. Evidence of misbehavior must be presented in such cases.

No charges had been laid. If one wanted to find the charges, one had to search "hundreds of pages" of the Commons record and speeches by Finance Minister Fleming and other cabinet ministers.

Mr. Coyne said the government bill had been described as a bill of attainder, and a breach of the Bill of Rights.

"It might perhaps be described as a bill of impeachment."

RIGHTS OF INDIVIDUAL
Now it had reached the only body willing to give it detailed examination. History would record Canada's "good fortune" that the Senate on many occasions had upheld the rights of individuals.

The governor said he was not there to assert his rights as an individual. History would record how those rights had been taken away.

"It has been said that I have

A little spice

Snags hit Calgary Stampede

CALGARY (CP) — Sometimes it is planned, sometimes it just happens, but every year a little spice is added to the run of events at the Calgary Stampede.

Last year Prime Minister Diefenbaker threw officials into a flap by arriving 24 hours ahead of schedule and had to be fitted hurriedly into an earlier program.

And one of the flag-bearers in the opening-day parade rode the entire route with his Union Jack upside down.

This year transit workers and the city of Calgary failed to settle a wage dispute, and the possibility of a halt in public transportation threatens the week-long Western exhibition. A strike could be called as early as 5:30 p.m. today.

Meanwhile, another visitor from Ottawa is posing a problem for harassed officials.

AMBITIOUS MINISTER

George Hees, minister of trade and commerce, is here to open the Stampede tonight. He has made it known he would like to drive a chuckwagon. That, any number of veterans will tell you, is not easy.

As one Stampede executive graciously put it: "We wouldn't want anything to happen to George because he has to open the show."

"I'm sure I can do it," says Mr. Hees.

Rather than have him test his skill at a game only professionals try, Stampede executives likely will suggest that he settle for riding a high-spirited steed in the parade. Mr. Hees, who had a distinguished sports career, is an accomplished horseman.

The formula that built the Stampede into a world-famous show, will be used again.

Calgary's Orville Burkinshaw, best of the chuckwagon daredevils last year, defends his Canadian title against 35 other rigs in a nightly scramble after a record $26,000 in cash prizes.

The great names of the North American rodeo circuit will ride and rope each afternoon on their way to another $60,000 in cash, plus a return of $20,000 in entry fees.

Suggest electoral overhaul

MARIEVILLE, Que. — Complete overhaul of the Quebec electoral system was suggested Sunday at a district convention of the Quebec Liberal Federation in this community.

Some 300 delegates from Chambly, Vercheres and Rouville counties urged revision of electoral districts, identity cards for voters and introduction of measures to prevent duplicate names on election ballots.

A committee studying redistribution of seats in Quebec recommended that the average riding number 25,000 persons. The average population of Quebec's 95 ridings now ranges from 5,000 to 125,000.

Redistribution would give the Montreal area 10 more seats.

The delegates suggested that the party name be marked on ballots beside the name of the candidate. This would counter-act dummy candidates who enter an election under the same name as another candidate.

It was also agreed that candidates should announce their entry in an election one week before nomination day.

The group said identification cards should bear the signature and a photograph of the voter.

Dief warns West is serious over Berlin

WINNIPEG — Prime Minister Diefenbaker sounded a firm warning to Russia Sunday not to underestimate the West's determination to stand firm on the West-East Berlin situation.

In a major foreign policy speech at a Ukrainian celebration here, he said Soviet Premier Khrushchev shows "merit" confidence which could lead to "unwise" courses in his precipitation of a political crisis over Berlin.

The prime minister did not elaborate, but he said the last two world wars might not have started had the aggressors known the free world's strength and will to resist.

Mr. Diefenbaker made a flying trip to Winnipeg to help more than 20,000 Ukrainians from Canada and the United States celebrate the 70th anniversary of Ukrainian settlement in Canada.

DEDICATES STATUE
Highlight of the celebrations was the unveiling by the prime minister of a huge bronze monument of Taras Shevchenko, Ukrainian poet-patriot who died 100 years ago.

Mr. Diefenbaker made his warning in a speech at a banquet winding up the celebrations Sunday night.

With Mr. Khrushchev threatening a separate peace treaty with East Germany before the end of the year, it was of great importance that the West avoid the pitfalls of weakness and unreasonable rigidity.

"We need to be strong and unhesitating in our defence of essential Western rights and obligations," Mr. Diefenbaker said. "We need at the same time to maintain a calm judgment so that we will not overlook possibilities of compromise which, without amounting to appeasement, might nonetheless contribute to peace."

The only guarantee of peace was found in the determination of free countries to unite their defence efforts in a common front as a warning of the disastrous consequences which would befall an aggressor.

Canada's policy was to work with its friends and allies to preserve peace and security—a policy, Mr. Diefenbaker emphasized, soundly based on Canadian considerations, Canadian values and Canadian interests.

Mr. Diefenbaker challenged Russia to prove its anti-colonial claims by granting free elections to the people for the Ukraine, Hungary, Latvia, Estonia, Lithuania and other countries under Soviet control.

Show Business

By BOB THOMAS

LONDON (AP)—Van Johnson is working harder than ever in his life—and he's having a ball. Van is in the middle of a year's contract to play trombone salesman Harold Hill in the London production of Music Man.

"It is the most rewarding work I've ever known," he said in his London flat. "That famous British reserve doesn't apply to theatre audiences. They cheer and yell, 'go it, Van!' I love it. You don't get applause when the director says, 'cut.'"

"But it's also the toughest role imaginable. It's as though Meredith Wilson thought, 'now how can I write a part that will tax a leading man to the extreme.' Why did he take the show? 'Because the phone didn't ring,' he said. 'Because the film scripts were getting crumpled and crumpled. Because I sat beside my pool in Palm Springs one day last year and told myself, 'Van, you'll be 45 in August. If you don't start doing something now, you never will.'"

GOT $7,500 A WEEK

Last summer he played Damn Yankees at $7,500 a week in ten theatres. That gave him the nerve to accept Music Man here.

"I was scared before that," he remarked. "I had 14 years at MGM. They were great years, but they didn't equip me for facing the outer world. The studios wrap you in cotton batting."

Unwrapped and set adrift Van fared well for a while, then met with diminishing results. During one period, he tried the "Swiss bit"—residence amid the Alps to protect his income from taxes. He paints a far different picture of the Swiss life than does Bill Holden, who now makes his residence there.

"At first it seemed wonderful," he said. "The scenery was fabulous. We'd have dinner one night with Deborah Kerr and Peter Viertel, then with Audrey Hepburn and Mel Ferrer. I played tennis every day with Charlie Chaplin. I sent smoke signals from Alp to Alp with Paulette Goddard."

Then the life began to pall. The first crack was Van's wife Evie. "I can't stand it any more," she said, leaving him. "I stayed on," Van said. "But I got to thinking. What good was the million dollars in the unmarked safety-deposit drawer if I would end up an old actor with nothing to do but play tennis with Charlie Chaplin and send smoke signals to Paulette Goddard?"

"The climax came when the scenery started getting closer and closer. One morning I woke up and the mountains were at the foot of my bed. That did it. I called Evie in New York and told her I wanted to talk things over. I took the first plane out of Zurich."

"New York never looked so beautiful. The taxi drivers were friendly. 'where ya been, Van? We missed you,' they said. I knew I was back where I belonged."

He patched up his problem with Evie and she is here cooking for him.

Reds seem to relax iron grip on Tibet

By V.M. NAIR

KALIMPONG, India (Reuters)—Communist China appears to have relaxed its iron grip on Tibet and declared a four-year truce in its campaign to impose communism on the Tibetans.

Reports trickling over the Himalayas to this border town say that the Chinese recently announced in Lhasa the suspension of further communization for the next four years.

Simultaneously, some restrictions on the personal life and property of the Tibetans have been relaxed. Tibetans no longer are compelled to work in communes. Part of their personal possessions, at one time taken over by the state, have been restored.

They now are permitted to possess and cultivate small plots of land around their houses to meet part of their personal needs, the reports add.

These relaxations are attributed to the Tibetans' stubborn, though largely passive, resistance to Chinese attempts to transform their homeland into a Communist state.

Nevertheless, Chinese troops are in absolute control of Tibet today. Tibetan refugees and the occasional trader coming here report the Chinese now are engaged in an all-out campaign to win over the people and to round up malcontents.

Teams of Chinese instructors are teaching Tibetan children the rudiments of Communist philosophy. Lhasa radio continues to broadcast Communist propaganda.

To what extent the Chinese have succeeded in converting the Tibetans to communism is still not clear. Reports indicate that the earlier defiance of Chinese authority is no longer in evidence in most parts of Tibet.

Although there are still a few isolated pockets of guerrillas, the Chinese have succeeded in crushing all organized resistance.

According to refugee accounts, most Tibetans have realized the futility of fighting the stronger and better equipped Chinese Army.

Although China has been busy crushing Tibetan resistance, it also has introduced long overdue social and economic reforms.

Serfdom has been abolished,

What is expense account living?

OTTAWA — (TNS) — Note to the man who's planning to write off that mink coat for his secretary as a tax-deductible business expense:

Resist the temptation — the Government's watching for you. Finance Minister Fleming revealed in his budget speech Tuesday night that the Government has become concerned about abuses by some taxpayers of expense accounts when they're working out their tax deductions.

He warned that the National Revenue department is going to be a lot tougher in future when it scrutinizes tax deduction claims for entertainment and traveling expenses.

The minister said he hoped that businessmen would get the idea without making it necessary to pass more stringent legislation.

But the Government, he declared sternly, "has no intention of allowing so-called expense account living to thrive."

ARE HONEST

A senior national revenue official said today the Government feels that most Canadians are basically honest.

Of the roughly 1,000,000 taxpayers in Canada, only about one in 100 is apt to make the sort of expense claim that would be disallowed, he said.

He said the Government has never estimated the amount of tax losses that may have accrued through expense accounts chiseling, or over-generous deductions for high living by wheeler-dealer businessmen.

But the problem, he said, is not confined to Canada. President Kennedy recently put the matter of the U.S. expense account scandal before Congress.

Britain, too, is trying to tighten its measures to deal with the bloated expense account operators.

Here are a couple of examples of the sort of deductions

By GEORGE BRIMMELL

that don't make the grade with the income tax people:

Case No. 1 — A Toronto man who operated a catering concern claimed expenses of nearly $2,500 in connection with his yacht.

He claimed he used the yacht to mingle with the yachting set at the Royal Canadian Yacht Club, and as a result made contacts that led to many catering jobs. So the yacht, he argued, was a legitimate part of his business operation and its expenses should be deductible.

LOST CASE

The Tax Appeal Board ruled against him.

Case No. 2 — Two law partners claimed deductions totaling 85 per cent of the cost of a birthday party and "Bar Mitzvah" celebration for one of their daughters, a girl of 11.

In claiming deductions of nearly $4,000 — for catering, flowers, cigars, wines, printing, an orchestra — the partners contended that many of the guests were potential legal clients.

But the Tax Appeal Board disallowed the claim.

Case No. 3 — A Toronto businessman who hadn't the necessary receipts to back up his contention, claimed that 50 per cent of his automobile expenses should be deductible, because he used his car for business half the time.

The Tax Appeal Board disallowed the deduction because the taxpayer had failed to produce any record of car expenses, or of the mileage — or time — that the car was used for business.

An Income Tax Department spokesman said that this individual could solve his problem by using an oil company credit card and saving his monthly receipts.

NOT ALWAYS

The department is not always hard-hearted, however. There was the case of the businessman who decided to travel to England to buy a certain piece of machinery for his business.

Once there, however, he changed his mind, he did not purchase the equipment, but he charged the cost of his trip to the U.K. as a deductible business expense. And the taxation people okayed it.

The Government spokesman said that most people who claim expenses as tax deductions have a plausible explanation to offer.

The department treats each case on its own merits and tries to judge whether the expenses were reasonable.

"We're not trying to second-guess the taxpayer. Who are we to tell him not to spend the money?" he observed.

There had been cases, he said, where the Tax Appeal Board had allowed automobile capital costs and expenses, but questioned whether it was really necessary that the automobile be a Cadillac.

Entertainment expenses were among the more tricky cases to rule on. "We have to try to assess how much entertaining is worthwhile . . . and how much is being charged because the taxpayer simply likes to go out to fancy restaurants and live it up."

"There are, after all, many businesses which do quite nicely without entertainment costs," he added.

NO OCCASION

Thousands of professional people, such as doctors and dentists and small businesses, such as the corner drugstore or the butcher, have no occasion or opportunity to rack up entertainment expenses as tax deductions.

"It's the man who's trying to sell heavy machinery who seems to feel he has to take the potential buyer out to expensive night clubs."

He said the advent of credit cards for meals, hotel, entertainment, auto rentals and other expenses had assisted both the taxpayer charging such expenses, and the income tax department.

Since the credit card system involved monthly statements, it was easier to keep track of legitimate deductible expenses.

Young winner of JMC competition

Edmonton pianist gives brilliant show

A husky young pianist stole the show with a brilliant display of artistry Sunday night at the Jeunesse Musicales du Canada auditorium at Mount Orford, in a gala windup of the first annual two-week JMC National Music Competition.

Twenty-two-year old Marek Jablonski of Edmonton, Alberta, convincingly demonstrated why he had been named grand prize winner in a rare unanimous decision by the panel of distinguished musical names judging the competition.

Runnerup was blonde Lise Boucher, 20, of St. Vincent de Paul, Quebec.

The national competition brought together an even dozen fine young pianists from a total of six different provinces. In order to qualify for entry, they had to have completed their formal musical training and be ready to enter the rugged professional concert world.

Grand prize, won by Mr. Jablonski, includes a concert tour of 50 JMC recitals, which will begin in the fall; an L.P. recording by the young artist, for release on the JMC label; 10 concerts with Canadian symphony orchestras; appearances with the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation radio and television network; a recital tour for the Jeunesse Musicales de France; and sponsorship of debut recitals in New York and Paris.

Second prize, won by Miss Boucher, consists of $1,000 and a tour of 20 JMC recitals in the autumn of 1962.

In pronouncing the first National Music Competition a "great success," Wilfred Sauve, JMC public relations head at Mount Orford, announced that plans were being made to hold it again next year — this time with either string players or singers competing.

This year's piano contestants each presented to the judges a 45-minute recital of their own choosing, then performed compulsory works by Mozart, Chopin and contemporary Canadian composer Kelsey Jones.

The latter piece was composed especially for the contest by Mr. Jones. The candidates had never seen it before the start of the competition.

Sunday evening's windup concert at Mount Orford was carried live on the CBC's French radio and television network and will be heard on English radio this Wednesday.

An audience of some 450 people, including Ernest Macmillan, new national president of JMC, also filled the auditorium to see the winners in the flesh.

Mr. Jablonski, Miss Louchere and Rachel Martel, who received special mention for her performance of Kelsey Jones' contemporary work, Passacaglia.

Mr. Jablonski unveiled a vigorous style that was technically brilliant and superbly entrancing. He interpreted his selections with skill and emotion, moving — as in Chopin's Andante Spianato and Grande Polonaise, Opus 22 — from pure lyricism to bold, sweeping drama.

Mazurka in A flat by Chopin was short and sweet — but not in the sense of the old cliché. The same composer's Etude in B minor received a bold treatment, bringing forth rolling waves of sound that were always perfectly controlled despite the almost violent playing of the pianist.

Strike right

Municipal, school employees split

Should municipal and school commission employees abide by the decision of arbitration boards, or should they strike? The question was left unanswered as the annual meeting of the National Federation of Municipal and School Commission Employees Ind. drew to a close Saturday.

Delegates decided to take the question back to their locals and set a fall date for a special meeting to tackle it again.

The problem arises from a 1948 law preventing municipal corporation and school commis-

E.T. youths to attend JRC rally

Four Eastern Township youths will be among the 23 delegates from the Quebec Division of Junior Red Cross to attend the 1961 Junior Red Cross Leadership Training Centre for teenage delegates from the five eastern provinces of Canada at Mount Allison University, Sackville, N.B. this month.

Representing their schools are Gloria Bokus of Waterloo High School, Carl Burnell, North Hatley High School; Rebecca J. M. Humphrey, Sunnyside High School, Stanstead; and Robert W. Kerr, Cowansville High School.

From July 18 to the 27 some 90 girls and boys, 15 to 18 years of age, from Quebec, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland will meet together to study both Junior and Senior Red Cross Services.

Each delegate is sponsored by his own high school. The daily schedule included talks, discussions, panels, films and many other activities. Water safety demonstrations and instruction will be featured each afternoon.

Among the guest speakers at the nine-day event will be George Aitken who will address the delegates on the International Red Cross and show slides of India.

On Sunday, July 23, a garden party which the delegates will organize and conduct, is to be held for some thirty crippled children from a nearby community. In connection with this there will be a guest speaker whose subject will be the Principles of Social Service.

A trip to the seashore about 30 miles away has been planned as part of the recreational period as well as swimming at Silver Lake.

To address Lennoxville gathering

Patrick O'Reilly, a minister for the Pentecostal Assemblies of Canada, will tell his life story at the Lennoxville Pentecostal Church on Wednesday evening, July 12, at 8 p.m.

Born in Bangor, Northern Ireland, Mr. O'Reilly grew up in a stout Roman Catholic family and as a young man came to Canada in search of adventure.

A veteran of the Korean war, he later returned to Canada where he spent some time in the Yukon and as a cook with the Canadian National Railways.

During the great Billy Graham Crusade in Toronto, he made his decision for Christ and later studied for the Anglican ministry. His contact with the Pentecostal Assemblies and his present ministry will be told at Wednesday's meeting.

Rev. George Ewald will be in charge of the service.

Nun still on list of critical

Rev. Mother St. Jean des Oliviers, Mother Superior of the Congregation of Mont Notre Dame who was badly burned in the violent explosion that wrecked Ecole St. Michel on King Street last Friday is still on the critical list according to authorities at St. Vincent de Paul Hospital.

Mother St. Jean des Oliviers was taking a summer refresher course at the school in science when the accident occurred.

According to Hotel Dieu hospital authorities the condition of Sister Ste. Germaine des Anges who was also burned in the explosion is very satisfactory.

Girl hurt in mishap at park

A 15-year-old Sherbrooke girl became unconscious for a few minutes and received cuts to her mouth as a result of an accident at "La Claire Fontaine" the olympic-size swimming pool in Sherbrooke's Victoria Park.

The accident occurred at 2.15 p.m. Sunday afternoon when Gaetane Beliveau, of 542 St. Martin Street, tried to climb down from the high-diving tower.

According to authorities at the pool, Miss Beliveau slipped when she was climbing off the high-diving tower as she felt that it was too high for her.

Her fall resulted in her becoming unconscious and receiving cuts to her mouth. She was immediately taken to Hotel Dieu Hospital where she was given first-aid and released half an hour later.

Asks joint action on alcoholism

Emilien Lafrance, Quebec social and family welfare minister, said Sunday night it is time the public be given the facts about alcoholism.

Mr. Lafrance told about 150 doctors, educationists and social workers beginning a three-week course on alcoholism at the University of Sherbrooke that up to now the battle against alcoholism and its problems has been fought without any co-ordination.

Mr. Lafrance, actively engaged in temperance movements for more than 20 years, said "it is essential that we find methods which will permit a direct study of the causes of alcoholism. These causes have two roots — alcohol itself and human attitudes."

6 hurt in auto mishaps

A total of six people were injured in automobile accidents at Sweetsburg over the weekend, Cowansville provincial police reported.

The first accident occurred on the Knowlton-Sweetsburg highway in front of the Sweetsburg airport about 2.15 p.m. Saturday when an automobile driven by Peter Brûl of Ste. Rose, near Montreal, went off the road.

Also in the automobile at the time of the crash were Britt's wife and six month old baby.

The mother and child were taken to the Brome-Missisquoi Perkins hospital by the Wilson Ambulance service where they were treated for lacerations. They were released shortly after their admittance.

Four people were injured about 2.15 a.m. Sunday when the automobile in which they were travelling hit a telephone pole on Main Street, Sweetsburg.

Taken to hospital where they were treated for lacerations were Gerald Cook of Cowansville, his wife Therese and their two-year-old son Gerald Junior.

Rotarians visit crippled children

ROTARIANS AT AYER'S CLIFF CAMP

Pony rides and boat trips highlighted Saturday's visit of the Sherbrooke Rotary Club to the crippled children's camp at Ayer's Cliff. In the upper picture, a group of campers enjoy a trip in Mrs. Bruce Fletcher's pony cart, while in the centre Rotarian Andy Swan takes a group of youngsters for a voyage on Lake Massawippi. The director of the Crippled Children's Camp on Lake Massawippi looked across the field at a pony cart full of laughing children.

"The kids just love it," said Murray MacFarlane. "It's their favorite day of the summer."

For two hours Saturday afternoon, until rain threatened, his words were echoed in the delighted squeals of the campers, as the Rotary Club of Sherbrooke held its annual day at the camp, near Ayer's Cliff.

Pony rides, pony cart rides and boat excursions comprised the afternoon's activities, with plenty of soft drinks to refresh the thirsty.

A dozen Rotarians and their wives helped run things, while cheerful counsellors at the camp pitched in to make everything move smoothly.

Situated on 20 woody acres on the shores of Lake Massawippi, the Camp for Crippled Children is now in its eleventh year of operation. The present session began July 3 and will run till August 21.

Most of the 74 boys and 60 girls at the camp will remain for the full summer. Campers range in age from six to 20.

Nearly all of the children come from the Montreal School for Crippled Children. However, the Rotary Club and the Kiwanis Club of Sherbrooke sponsor seven and five campers annually.

"We try to give them a normal balanced camp program here," said Mr. MacFarlane, who came as head of the camp in 1951 while bulldozers were

Slips burned, hospital tax case delayed

The case of a local restaurateur who is charged with not paying the 5 percent provincial hospital tax on meals came up in Sherbrooke Court of Sessions Friday.

Thomas Hendy, the proprietor of the Luxor Restaurant, is charged with not paying the tax from May 1956 to February 1959.

During the trial evidence was introduced to show that Hendy had actually paid the tax for some of the months in question and that the rest of the bills from which the tax is verified by the wife of one of the revenue department's officials who had taken the bills home to work on them.

With this surprising turn of events, Richard Crepeau, representing the Crown, asked for an adjournment so that he could gathering more facts.

Militiamen with summer kits, issued for use at camp are asked to turn in their bush-uniforms, kit bags, ponchos, coveralls, helmets etc., unless otherwise instructed by their units. This summer camp issue is extra to the normal allotment and must be completely accounted for. By handing stock of this nature in promptly, a tremendous accounting problem can be overcome.

Unbalanced representation

The urgency with which the top brass of the Quebec Liberal party views the issue of redrawing the electoral map of the province is readily explainable by a survey of the June 1960 election results.

Of the ten seats in which there were 50,000 or more registered voters, eight were taken by Liberal candidates with only two going to Union Nationale supporters. On the other hand, eleven of the ridings had registrations of 11,000 voters or less. Of these, the Union Nationale took eight and the Liberals three.

Thus the single Liberal member elected for Laval represents some 116,000 voters while the seven Union Nationales successful in the lower half of the table were named by a bare 60,000 voters. From a popular vote point of view, the Laval member is the spokesman for fourteen times as many voters as in the individual Union Nationale man is the foot of the list.

Admittedly, the rural member has a more difficult task than his city confrere in carrying out his duties, but the present setup makes a farce of any claim to representation by population.

The average registration in the 95 ridings is in the vicinity of 27,000. It would seem that a variation from 20,000, the size of the Richmond county list, to 40,000, the approximate registration in Sherbrooke, should prove a sufficient difference to compensate for the varied problems faced by the urban and rural members.

To restore a sense of proportion by merely increasing the number of urban and rural members would make a top heavy Legislative Assembly, with an additional fifty seats or so being required.

Conventional war?

In the days of gunpowder, the arts of war were understandable to average men.

Most people could grasp how a rifle or a field gun operated. And even strategy — the deployment of men and materials in battle — wasn't beyond their comprehension.

But those days have gone forever. And not only because of the development of nuclear weapons.

Even 'conventional wars' of the future promise to be complicated in the extreme.

This is evidenced by announcement last week of a light-weight, mobile computer for use in forward combat areas.

Known as Basipac, it's encased in an 11-foot, all-weather box and can be mounted on a two-and-a-half ton truck.

According to the makers, Basipac will be able to handle a "variety of combat computations as part of such field operations as logistics, administration, intelligence, command control and fire support. It can calculate weapon target allocations, loading plans and march tables, estimates of weather and nuclear fallout patterns, and reallocation of radio frequencies in the event of enemy jamming."

In other words, it can do more — a lot more — than any number of army specialists.

And here's one displacement of personnel by automation that few people will protest.

The flat look

Outraged male bellows resounded the length and breadth of the hemisphere several years ago when the Paris House of Dior introduced the 'flat look' for women in an apparent attempt to do away with the female bosom.

Comes now from Dior a new 'flat look', but you can bet there won't be too much protest from the men over this one — because this time it's for them.

Pour Monsieur, Dior this year is manufacturing stomach-flattening bathing trunks. The cotton printed swim togs do not look unusual, yet they have a secret cut designed to flatten all but the worst spare tires.

Among women, the new invention may be expected to receive a mixed reception. The married woman will welcome it, since it will make her mate a far more dashing one; but the single girl looking for a husband will no longer be able to trust that the slim, trim bachelor she sees on the beach is indeed such a prize catch.

My road to space: Part 8

Finds port holes on space ship

(Distributed by Toronto Telegram News Service, Copyright United States and Canada, 1961. Reproduction in whole or in part prohibited.)

By YURI GAGARIN
Cosmonaut of the U.S.S.R.

We were at last introduced to the chief designer of the space ship, an event we had long been looking forward to.

He was a merry, witty broad-shouldered man, a real honest-to-goodness Russian with a fine, purely Russian name. He at once made us feel well disposed towards him and treated us as equals, as his closest helpers. He started by asking us several questions. He wanted to know how we had felt during each stage of the training program.

"It's pretty hard, I know. But you've got to go through it all, because otherwise you'll come a cropper up there," he remarked, pointing at the sky.

When one of us complained that it was unbearably hot in the thermal chamber (of the space ship), he explained that during the flight the temperature in the space ship cabin would fluctuate between 15 and 20 degrees C. However, the astronaut must be prepared for any contingency, as when the ship would dive back into the denser sections of the atmosphere, its outer shell might heat up to several thousand degrees. We were flabbergasted. Just imagine it! A man inside a shell heated up to such an enormous temperature. It seemed incredible! And it gave us a mixed feeling of apprehension and admiration.

The chief designer unhesitatingly took us up to his office, the space ship. It was a feat of modern engineering, a creation that had embodied many a scientific achievement.

"Look here," he said, "the outer surface and the pilot's cabin are protected by a reliable thermal shield, which will save them from burning to cinder during the descent." With entranced eyes we examined a flying machine that no living man had ever seen before. The chief designer told us that the space ship would be placed at the tip of a powerful multi-stage booster rocket and upon orbiting would separate from its last stage. Then he told us something which we hadn't heard before. According to the program for the first manned flight, we learned the ship would girdle the earth but once. "However, it can do more," he added.

We were allowed to take proper stock of the ship from outside. Everybody noticed that the pilot's cabin was not the completely enclosed affair we thought it would be, but had several portholes.

"The glass in the portholes," we were told, "is also heat-resistant. They will serve for observations during the flight."

One by one we entered the pilot's cabin. It was much roomier than the cockpit of a plane. Seated in his chair, the astronaut could conduct observations, maintain contact with the ground, control the flight and steer the ship by himself if necessary. The things this unusual cabin had! And it was by no means like that of an airplane!

To the left was a control panel with switches and buttons to operate the radio-telephone system, regulate the cabin temperature and also switch on the manual control arrangement and retro-engine.

To the right was a radio set, food containers, and ship-orientation control gear. Directly in front was another panel with several needle indicators and a signal screen, as well as an electric clock and a globe which rotated in conformity with the ship's orbital motion. Below it was a TV camera for observing the astronaut from the ground. Still further down was the porthole with its optional direction finder.

Each one of us spent a few minutes in the astronaut's seat. It was inclined at an angle in a way that would cause the orbiting and descent overload to act along the optimal direction of the astronaut's chest and back. The seat was a compact but intricate affair. Mounted in it were strapdown and parachuting arrangements and everything required for a forced landing.

"The astronaut is supposed to land, seated in the cabin," the chief designer said. "But we have also made provisions for him to quit the ship if necessary."

Everything we saw was light, sturdy and easy to carry. Everything glinted with the spotless cleanliness of something that is brand new. Nobody had ever touched these things yet. Nobody had ever seen them except those who had invented and made them. We each climbed out in silence.

Meanwhile, classes and training sessions continued. The time came to practice on the vibration stand, a machine that simulates the ship's vibrations when the rocket engines are working. We got onto it and shook for an hour or more as if with fever. The entire body vibrated like a string stretched taut. Still, we got used to it.

We also got used to the thermal chamber, where we stayed for quite a time in conditions of a very high temperature. I must say that this was not so new to me. I had taken vapor (steam) baths before. After all a real Russian cannot get along without a good scrub-down and the vapor bath.

I would come home dog-tired. After playing around with Baby I would begin to nod. Valya pestered me, anxious to know what was the matter with me. Finally, she forced me to say:

"I'm getting ready to fly into space. Pack up my kit bag."

Though Valya took it as a

Fist that held empire tries hard to let go

By BORIS MISKEV
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

The fist that once clutched an empire is trying desperately to let go so that it can be free to find its own destiny.

But the empire, which has mellowed into a Commonwealth with the passage of time, will not be easily dropped.

How long the Commonwealth can keep Britain from fulfilling its apparent wish to sacrifice Commonwealth economic ties in favor of a future with the European economic community will depend largely on arguments by Canada, Australia, and New Zealand.

Duncan Sandys, Britain's Commonwealth relations secretary, who arrives in Ottawa next week, and two other ministers are busy trying to sell to the Commonwealth the idea of Britain's entry into the Common Market.

The new alignment by Britain likely would weaken old Commonwealth ties politically as well as economically. This fear is turning the Commonwealth into an obstacle as Britain tries to go along with the six Common Market countries — France, Germany, Italy, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg.

However, once Britain feels free to join the EC and the 170,000,000 people that it represents, her diplomatic skills will be tested to the maximum if she wants to preserve the Commonwealth as a political idea.

Canada would be affected to a lesser degree economically than would New Zealand or Australia, should Britain join the Common Market.

She therefore could be less of an obstacle than expected when Sandys opens talks in Ottawa, provided that pro-Commonwealth sentiments which helped bring Prime Minister Diefenbaker's government into power are respected.

AUSTRALIAN WORRIES
But opposition is expected. Manufactured goods, which include many semi-fabricated products, constitute more than 40 per cent of Canadian exports to Britain. These would be threatened by loss of preferential treatment as well as loss of free entry to the British market.

The problem facing New Zealand is much more overwhelming. New Zealand sold 89 per cent of its butter, 94 per cent of its cheese and 94 per cent of its frozen lamb and mutton in Britain last year.

And any shrinkage in the British market for Australian produce would create a grave problem for Australia. In 1959-60, British bought 26 per cent of Australia's total exports.

Britain is aware of all these difficulties but as pressure builds up to move her into the EEC Canada and the other Commonwealth countries will have no choice but to find new trading arrangements — ones that are not fastened so tightly to mother Britain's apron.

Our word "wedding" brings back medieval times, when marriage was a business transaction. A father sold his daughter to the bridegroom for money, horses, cattle, or other property. This payment was called the wed. A wedding was the pledging of a bride's troth to the man who bought her. And so we call it today, though brides are no longer swapped for livestock.

U.K. Conservatives in for test

LONDON (CP)—Britain's Conservative government appears heading for a severe test in the coming months if predictions of a deepening economic crisis are true.

"We are passing through very anxious days," said Chancellor of the Exchequer Selwyn Lloyd in Parliament last week.

He was asking the Commons for power to raise the purchase tax and levy a payroll tax on employers without specific parliamentary approval for such moves.

His goal is to reduce the amount of money Britons spend and thus ease the pressure of demand for consumer goods.

The crisis presents a perplexing problem. So far it has had little impact on the lives of most people. They are earning more than ever before. Their refrigerators are full and many are buying television sets and cars on the instalment plan.

But the experts have no difficulty in defining the trouble. Gold reserves have dropped to £990,000,000—below the £1,000,000,000 danger mark; trade is seriously out of balance and foreign money is being shifted out of London banks.

To complicate matters, the individual worker's production rate fell by one per cent last year while his wages rose by two per cent—an indication of difficulties in meeting prices of foreign competitors.

"A decade of Conservative remedies has failed to cure the United Kingdom's economic malaise," says the Guardian of Manchester, a Liberal newspaper.

The newspaper notes in an editorial that the Conservatives tried hard to increase incentives by ending rationing, abandoning controls, reducing subsidies, cutting taxes especially for the wealthy and removing discriminations against dividend distribution.

"Whatever the merit of the government measures, they have evidently not touched on the heart of Britain's economic problem."

The Guardian warns that the current threatening crisis will not be averted unless confidence in the government can be maintained.

"And it will hardly be maintained if the government is not seen to be taking more constructive action than is implied by its old cries of freedom, incentives and restraint."

"These were notions which saw it rather luckily through the 1950s but which are totally inadequate in relation to the problems which can be seen to loom ahead of the British economy now."

Get $200 in benefit for camp

WATERLOO — (Special) — The Knights of Columbus of Waterloo raised $200 recently with a supper in a benefit for Camp Jasna Gora, a summer camp on the outskirts of Waterloo. It is run by Polish Sisters of the Resurrection for Polish children from Montreal.

The Knights of Columbus were joined by members from Knowlton, Sutton and Valcourt in this charitable gesture. They subscribed a sum of $200 towards improvements and expenses of the Camp.

This camp has provided a summer vacation for as many as 100 children from the city, regardless of their ability to pay. Situated on a high elevation, overlooking Waterloo Lake, it is a beautiful location with great possibilities.

A swimming pool, fed by spring waters is on the property. The old farm buildings have been converted into a chapel, dormitories and dining room, as well as living quarters for the nuns.

Magistrate ticks off clergyman

WINNIPEG — A Winnipeg magistrate has criticized clergymen who "lecture" by writing articles in newspapers but do nothing in practice to back up their ideas.

Magistrate Isaac Rice referred in court Friday to an article published in a Winnipeg newspaper dealing with penalties for sale of dope. The article was written by Rev. H. H. W. Egler, a Lutheran minister here.

Mr. Egler's article said a man was recently convicted of selling "goofballs" 8 pills containing barbiturates — and the $250 fine imposed was "a little more than a licence to peddle."

The article further suggested that to counteract the increasing drug addiction "we do not need more law enforcement, bigger jails or more courts, but we need more churches; more real practicing Christians, that we might overcome hopelessness with hope, doubt with faith and despondency with love."

"Why doesn't Mr. Egler himself come down to my court and help these people if he thinks hope, faith and love would do any good to go straight?" said Magistrate Rice.

He said the only two local organizations whose representatives appear in court every day on behalf of the accused in need of help are Alcoholics Anonymous and The Salvation Army.

Hazel Fawcett, principal, returned to her home in Millville, N.B., Mrs. Freda Pattenden to her home at Stanbridge Ridge, Mrs. Kate Blinn and Mrs. Grace Yates are local teachers.

Miss Angela Gage is in St. Martin, where she has a position as mother's helper caring for two small children. Angela, who went to Cowansville High School to write her examinations, has successfully passed Grade IX.

Interviewed after his return here from a two-month visit to La Verendrye Park, 400 miles north of Montreal, he said it has proved to be a difficult process to carry out.

McGill student observes fish in Caribbean

BRIDGETOWN, Barbados

(CP)—A McGill University student is assisting this summer in a survey that may benefit fishermen on this beautiful Windward Island in the Caribbean.

Simon Kriender, honors zoology graduate of the Montreal university and son of a Barbados merchant, is helping Dr. John Lewis in a snapper banks survey being conducted by the Bellairs Research Institute, an offshoot of McGill.

Snappers are a popular edible fish found along the Atlantic coast.

The deepwater snapper banks around this island contain plants living below 200 fathoms, or 1,200 feet.

Kriender plans to return to McGill in September to study medicine.

Warsaw convention limits crash awards

By GERRY McNEIL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—Jane Froman's $1,000,000 lawsuit against Pan American World Airways never really got off the ground, despite a long legal battle in the 1940s.

The popular singer had been injured when a plane crashed near Lisbon while approaching an airfield.

The court eventually awarded her $8,291.

Chances are this same odd amount would be awarded survivors of an accident on a Seattle-Vancouver or Halifax-Boston flight.

That is because the United States and Canada are among the 60 states—Russia included—which have ratified the Warsaw Convention of 1929.

The convention set the limit of airline liability for death or injury of passengers on international flights at 125,000 Poincaré francs, or $8,291.

Only if gross negligence is proved may the survivor sue for more. Miss Froman's lawyers failed to prove gross negligence on the part of PAA.

LIMIT CRITICIZED
Even in 1929, the sum of $8,291 was considered low—especially by North American standards—and there was opposition to it at the convention.

There were also grumblings about the justice of such protective legislation.

A Philippines court brushed aside the limit a few years ago and allowed much higher claims to plaintiffs in an airline suit. This decision was later reversed, however.

A number of countries and several American states have placed liability limits in their air traffic laws. A New York judge recently rejected the limit of another state.

The Warsaw legislation, possibly the most broadly accepted, and practised on international books, has some odd applications.

For instance, two men may board a flight in Montreal, one with a ticket for Toronto and the other Chicago-bound. If both are injured aboard the flight, the Chicago man's suit will be limited by the Warsaw Convention while the Toronto man's may sue for whatever seems reasonable.

Professor Maxwell Cohen, lecturer at McGill University's Institute of Air and Space Law, says there are several arguments for the Warsaw Convention.

Besides protecting airlines from sudden financial ruin, the legislation also helps keep the price of tickets down. Fares would be much higher without the convention.

Professor Cohen notes that "in most actions against airlines, the onus quickly shifts to the defendant to prove its innocence." Thus, gross negligence often is found.

Since gross negligence is not well-defined in the convention, it is left to the court to define it in each case. And lawyers know that in cases of air accidents, juries especially lean in sympathy towards the plaintiff.

The Hague Protocol drafted in 1956 doubles the liability limit to $16,500. It also greatly narrows the chance of proving gross negligence.

Nineteen states so far have signed the protocol and 11 more signatures and ratifications are needed to make it effective. Canada has signed it but not yet ratified it.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker said recently that whether Canada ratifies the protocol depends on the likelihood of other nations doing so.

Spokesmen at the International Civil Aviation Organization here indicate other states may be withholding ratification for the same reason.

CARE OF THE CHILD STARTS DURING GROWTH OF EMBRYO

More and more we are realizing that the care of your child begins at the time of conception. We have banished ancient fears of injuries through fright, bumps, lightning and witches' curses. But we are becoming increasingly aware of disturbances (embryopathies) due to maternal infections, such as German measles, blood incompatibilities (Rh factors) and undue exposures to radiation.

Now, in regard to the growing list of embryopathies, it is obvious that our principal efforts should be directed to prevent them. And in the field of prevention, the principal guardians of the growing embryo should and must be the prospective parents.

Thus a principal responsibility of the medical profession, in general, and of medical columnist, in particular, is that of providing information and instruction for those prospective parents who seek to fulfill their obligations conscientiously.

Before I enter into detail, however, I must warn you that measures for preventive medicine must inevitably arouse some fears. The same is true of campaigns directed against drunken driving, jaywalking or nuclear warfare. Hence what I am about to write of the possible relationship between exposure to radiation and the growing incidence of childhood leukemia should be coolly considered and not cause panic.

Here are the facts: The incidence of childhood leukemia is increasing at an alarming rate. Indeed, in a Mid-west community, a "cluster" of cases has roused local health authorities to inquire into the possibility of some environmental cause.

The incidence of leukemia of Ahuntise, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. S. V. Brooks.

A "good provider" also provides for a FAMILY SECURITY CHECK-UP

Think of the standard of living you want your family to have... and keep on having.

Think of the house, the neighbourhood, the schools, the clothes. Think of the freedom from anxiety that financial security can give!

How can you be sure that the financial provisions you have made for your family will do what you intend? There is a way.

Metropolitan, the company you look to for authoritative information on physical health, now offers a way you can check your financial health—the Family Security Check-Up.

More than an interview—a service

Your Metropolitan representative has been trained in Metropolitan's own schools and is qualified by solid experience to bring you this service. He is equipped with scientifically designed charts and tables that show you, in black and white exactly where you stand.

Call your Metropolitan man for a Family Security Check-Up. There's no obligation—except to those you love.

WHAT IT IS AND WHAT IT DOES FOR YOU

With the help of your Metropolitan man—

1. You check the facts: your pension plan, your home, your life insurance, your savings and other assets. You may be surprised to learn how much you're worth.
2. You weigh your responsibilities: mortgage or rent payments, education, retirement, accident and sickness emergencies; how much it would cost your family to live without you.
3. You learn where you stand. You determine your weak and strong points... whether the provisions you have made for your family will do what you intend. You get the facts in front of you.
4. You plan for the future. Based on these facts, you decide what action, if any, may be needed to give you a family security plan tailor-made to your own needs and ambitions—one which makes good sense for you.

Mary Brooks Picken on sewing For those little girls

Pinafores and matching panties are just right for little girls for summer. Buy percale in beautiful designs with colors especially suited for your little girl—and don't overlook the remnant counter.

Buy pretty fabrics. Buy a simple pinafore pattern, preferably one that buttons to the front on the shoulder, so child can get in and out of it easily. Avoid too much trimming. Bindings, rickrack, no-iron embroidery, all are desirable for finishing.

Use a deep hem. Make pinafore short. Let down hem later if necessary, but avoid, for fashion's sake, a garment that is draggy.

Use elastic sewing thread at waistline and bottom of panties so they cannot be uncomfortable, yet so they will stay in position.

Two pairs of panties for one pinafore is a good idea because little ones sit on floors, in sandboxes, etc., and can use two pairs of panties in one morning. Matching panties give an assist to really short dress.

Pull-over blouses with shorts and with flared or pleated skirts are good for play for lit-

Pinafores and panties.

Tips for parents

By EDITH HENRY
(Parent Education Associates)

A ten-year-old Canadian boy has died after an accident in a Little League Baseball practice or game.

His death (although not directly caused by a baseball) is the first in Canada since the League was organized here. It is, however, the fifth in the past two months in North America.

This tragic incident opens up a discussion on the wisdom of organized competitive sport for the pre-teen-agers, the nines to twelve.

Reichert of Chicago University says, "In the opinion of most doctors, athletics are desirable for pre-teenage children. BUT the matches should be confined within the school or the community."

"Competition is essential to normal growth and development. INTENSITY AND SCOPE SHOULD BE LIMITED."

From the Journal of the American Medical Association comes this comment, "Competitive sport for children under thirteen years of age causing physical and emotional strain may profoundly affect physical growth and even social development."

Criminals shut in prison Cannot be taught to become decent responsible citizens

MONTREAL (CP)—Criminals, says Mrs. J. A. D. Campbell, can't be taught to become responsible citizens by being shut up in prisons.

The slim, salt - and - pepper-haired social worker, who until recently was executive director of Montreal's John Howard Society, feels that perhaps 75 per cent of people now in prisons would benefit by being taken out of them. These are the ones ready for adjustment.

"The fundamental reason people get into crime is that they haven't become part of 'good society,'" she says. "What chance is there of their readjustment in an institution totally removed from it?"

She feels that re-socialization centres such as now are operating in or near a few British and continental European cities would be the answer for the experts' "most conservative estimate of 75 per cent."

HUBBY ANXIOUS

The appointment caused her husband some consternation, she recalled with a chuckle.

"He came down with me to the office and showed me how I should have the bells installed under my desk in case I ran into any trouble."

"I don't know who he expected would answer my ring. I never did have the bells installed, and in 10 years I never ran into any trouble—except once or twice with drunks, and that can happen in your own living room if your door is always open."

Her recent resignation from the society will enable her to move with her husband to Saint John, N.B., where she may continue social work.

"There is such a need for professionals," she said. "The trouble is that the government is not spending more money on scholarships and on training. Any program, without trained workers, is useless."

Her love: producing off-Broadway plays

By DICK KLEINER.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — A tall, exotic, 22-year-old brunette happily rushed in where "angels" fear to tread. The angels are theatrical ones and the brunette is Judy Rutherford, the youngest and best-looking producer operating in New York.

She put on her first show off-Broadway this season, the moderately well-received "Call Me by My Rightful Name." It has whetted her appetite for more.

In the fall, she'll be co-producing for a company that will stage works by preciously untied American playwrights. But how will she exist through the summer? Her own show can't last much longer, so she'll simply have to get a job. Producing off-Broadway isn't as rewarding as on-Broadway.

Miss Rutherford is a Worcester, Mass., girl who first became aware of the lure of the stage at 12. At that point, she overheard someone say to her

How about French toast—a simple combination of egg, milk and bread, served crisp and brown with fruit juice and coffee? Useful household hints

When the bottom falls out of your budget and you just package of cornstarch on the can't see where you'll get the kitchen shelf makes an excellent money for that new dress you lent dry shampoo. Rub it into want, perhaps you can cut a your scalp and hair and then few more unsuspected corners, with an old stocking slipped Take some of the preparations over your hairbrush, brush it out.

Another kitchen shelf product that is an infinite help to depleted budgets, since it has so many different uses is that seven cent package of baking soda. A cupful of it added to your bath water effectively dry skin problems you get in winter from heating systems and in summer from overexposures of sun. Medical authorities advise against scrubbing as it further irritates tender skin and since soda is a mild detergent, you'll come clean as you soak. You can kill the two proverbial birds with one stone, enjoy a treat along with your treatment, if you'll keep the soda in an apothecary jar or similar container with a sachet of your favourite fragrance buried down deep in its midst. Baking soda absorbs odours so your bath will be delicately scented.

Just as baking soda soothes insect bites, so it helps to soothe and heal blemishes. Make a paste by mixing a palmful of baking soda with a few drops of water and apply it at night before retiring.

And take soda's role in general mouth care. Used alone, or spiked with your favourite spice, a half teaspoon of cinnamon, nutmeg or cloves to the half pound of baking soda, it's dentifrice for both "true" and false teeth. For convenience sake, keep it in a salt shaker or a small jar with holes punched in the screw-on lid.

Renowned for its ability to remove odours... it sweetens refrigerators and freshens musty vacuum bottles... it works equally well as a breath sweetener. Being an antacid, it counteracts the acid in your mouth which contributes to tooth decay. Swish out your mouth after eating with a half teaspoon of baking soda in a half glass of water and you'll be sweetening your breath while giving your teeth a break.

If your throat is irritated by too much smoking or smog, just tilt your head back as you rinse mouth and gargle. Here again, it's the acid in smoking and smog that causes the trouble and it's baking soda's gentle antacid action that removes the source of irritation and soothes the delicate membranes of your throat.

In blustery weather when hands tend to be chapped, wash them with baking soda. Wet your hands, pour on the dry soda and go through the washing motions. This leaves them

Senators Romp 12-2 Win Over Yanks Saturday

Senators with a 12-2 win over Yankees Saturday took over top spot in the Sher-Lenn Little League. The win gives them a one point margin over Indians. Tonight the Indians travel to Lennoxville to take on the Yankees and at the Parade Grounds the Red Sox meet the Senators.

Saturday's game was called just at the start of the last half of the fourth inning. At this point Senators, the home team, were ahead by 10 to 3. Senators had jumped into a three-run lead at the end of the second inning.

Yankees came up with two in the top of the third. In the last of the third, Senators, with six hits, tallied nine runs to win their total to twelve runs.

It was at this point that Umpire R. Lacasse called a halt to the proceedings on account of rain. Cote and Thompson were umpire Lacasse's assistants. Yankees 12-2 Senators 039 12-7-1 Desjardins, Doherty (3) and Cathcart; Walker and D. Raban.

Arnold Palmer Seen Top Threat To British Open, Field Of 369 Golfers From 19 Countries Are Competing

BIRKDALE, England (AP)—Arnold Palmer smacked a golf ball 300 yards down a practice fairway Sunday and then muttered miserably: "My woods are not working right."

Palmer of the U.S. and Gary Player of South Africa, the two top money winners of the American circuit, are standout favorites to win the British Open, which starts today.

The bookies rate Palmer 5 to 2 and Player 3 to 1. These are almost fantastically short odds in a field of 369 golfers from 19 countries.

Palmer rounded off his practice with a par 72 — but had some reservations about the way he was playing. "My putting is all right," he said, "but I'm worried about my woods." An admiring crowd of about 100 watched Palmer crack the ball over the practice ground. And few fans saw anything but colossal power and accuracy in his drives. He hit the ball as though he hated it.

Even Player, who has practiced with Palmer over the 3,844-yard Birkdale links littered with sand dunes and clumps of gorse, said:

"Arnie's really hot at the moment. He's dropping the putts from all distances. And when he's on his putting, no man on each can live with him in a championship."

The view was shared by most of the experts on the eve of the tournament. Henry Cotton, the old English maestro and three-time winner of the championship, said: "Palmer's great skill lies in his fighting qualities and golden putting touch."

Cotton summed up the field this way: "The championship boils down to Palmer and Player against the rest."

AUSSIES HAVE CHANCE
The only golfers given a chance of upsetting the two favorites are Peter Thomson, a four-time winner, and defending champion Kel Nagle. Both are from Australia.

Palmer headed a 15-strong American entry — including Frank Stranahan and Paul Runyan. Qualifying rounds will be played Monday and Tuesday with a maximum of 120 golfers advancing for a crack at the first prize of £1,400 ($3,920). Then the qualifiers begin again with a clean sheet. Two rounds will be played Wednesday and Thursday and the final two rounds Friday will be decided by a maximum of 50 players.

Don January Wins St. Paul Open Tourney

ST. PAUL (AP)—Don January had his first golf tournament victory of the season today.

The lean Texan shot an eight-under-par 64 on his final round Sunday for a 19-under-par 269 to win the $30,000 St. Paul Open and $4,300.

January started the day four shots behind Buster Cupit, who finished second with 270. Dave Hill of Denver finished third with 262.

January pulled away from the field in the middle holes where he rapped in four birdies and chipped in for another from the ninth through the 15th.

Most of the younger pros and a few of the more seasoned veterans headed for Winnipeg where they will play in the Canadian Open this week.

McDermott Is Suspended By Manager Keane

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Johnny Keane, new St. Louis Cardinals manager, suspended relief pitcher Mickey McDermott Sunday and ordered him to turn in his uniform because of a curfew violation.

Keane said McDermott, 32-year-old lefthander rescued from obscurity last spring by the Cards, is too young to be in the club.

Solly Hemus, recently fired as manager, last week fined McDermott $500 for a curfew violation in Chicago.

No fine was assessed for McDermott's escapes here Friday and Saturday.

Fires 69 To Win Tourney, 193 Take Part, Young Jean-Guy Pepin Cops Net, Jean-Claude Dussault Cops B

By LEN O'DONNELL

EAST ANGUS — Bert Trepanier, a smooth-swinging amateur from the host club, walked off with the honors in O'Keefe Amateur Golf Tournament held here over the weekend. Trepanier, playing on his home course, fired a neat 69 to pace a field of 193 golfers in the two-day event.

Rain hit Saturday afternoon but not until the majority of the contestants had finished their round. It wasn't until around 5:30 that rain poured down and the late-starters were caught. Prior to that the weather was ideal and the scores indicated it.

Following the final matches Sunday President Jean Jeanfave, Maurice Pontbriand, District Sales Manager for O'Keefe's, and Johnny Costigna, tournament chairman for O'Keefe's, officiated at the presentation of the various prizes.

Jean-Louis Dupuis, local representative for Canadian Breweries, also assisted at the presentation. Marcel Roberge and Russell Reid, chairman of the match committee, looked after the large field in a fine manner and got the majority of the players away in good time.

On Saturday class B and C competed with Jean-Claude "Mut" Dussault walking off with the honors when he fired a 78 gross which gave him a two-stroke edge over C. Roux of Asbestos. The net honors went to M. Savaria of East Angus with a low 65 while M. Healy of Windsor and Bert Tarte of Country Club were two strokes off the pace.

Jean Guy Pepin of Angus took the net honors in class A when he registered a 65. He had finished tied with Don Doe of Granby with a 72 gross, one behind Larry Perry of Cowansville who took second place.

Roger Bessette of Mount Orford Golf Club topped the honors in class C when he registered a gross 85 to edge out his club-mate, E. Provost, by two strokes. The prizes for class B and C were presented Saturday evening while A was handed out Sunday evening.

Claude Provost, of the Montreal Canadiens, was on hand and he presented several of the numerous prizes. Ivan Boivert of La Tribune won the drawing of a matched set of woods and irons. Charlie Lavardiere, pro at the club, and Gerard Bernier also played a big part in the success of the tournament.

Trepanier fired three birds on his first round and two on his second trip around the nine-hole layout. He picked up only two bogies and the rest were pars. The next six players were separated by only four strokes which indicates how close the battle for top honors was.

Low scores were the order of the day as the majority of the winners were close to par figures. The net winners were well below regulation figures and no doubt several players will be cut by their home clubs for their fine showing.

CANTALIA LOSES 4-0
MONTREAL (CP)—Toronto City's Allan Harvey scored twice Sunday to lead his club to a 4-2 victory over Montreal Cantalia in an Eastern Canadian Professional Soccer League game here.

No. 39 — Flat Swing

Most short and heavy-set men in golf tend to take a flat swing—one that is too shallow or on a horizontal plane.

To correct this tendency, these golfers must learn to take a more upright swing. This can best be practiced by placing a club parallel to the desired line of flight, an bringing the clubhead straight back from the ball along this line.

To avoid a too-flat swing, a more restricted pivot should be used. A slightly open stance will help cut down excessive body turn. Don't let the left arm become stiff at the address. Make sure the shoulders come underneath the chin, not out and around it.

To summarize, a too-flat swing can be corrected by bringing the clubhead back from the ball on a straight line, cutting down on the pivot and shortening the swing. Do all this, with emphasis and timing, and the fault will be corrected.

NEXT: Distance drives.

Quinella Of $92.30 Top Payoff On Weekend Racing Card, Wet Track Holds Down Times, No Upsets

Mudders were again in the fore at the local oval over the weekend. Despite the heavy going the railbirds witnessed some good racing. Times were all slow and the prices were on a fair level.

The best time on Sunday's card was in the eighth race when Mrs. R. Claing's Indirect Boy crossed the wire in a close battle with St. Cyr's little Cardinal Prince G. They were clocked in 1:07 2/5 but on the second trip they were slowed down a little.

The Claing entry paid $24.10, $11.50 and $7.00 across the board. The top price on a place bet was in the third when Grindard's Guy Unsell pulled up second and his backers received $13.70.

The double paid $28.60 for Wausa and Peter M. Harvester while in the third the combination of Timmy Lee and Guy Unsell paid $92.30. In the sixth Lady Song and Truly Volo was the winning combination and the sum of $34.50 was picked up.

In the tenth Denis' Ragon pulled home the winner in a close duel with F. Brochu teaming Lassie Land. It was a class of trotters and the seven battled the whole way. The combination paid their backers the sum of $22.10. They were timed in 2:20 after a hard battle.

On Saturday evening the double of Always There and Lohengrin paid their backers the sum of $56.90 while in the third race the quinella of Her Horse and Rugged Lee Volo rewarded their backers $72.00 which was tops for the evening.

In the ninth race it was Algier Boy and Skipper Jay and $37.70 was shelled at parimutuels. The times for the night were slow as the heavy downpour made it hard going. Her Horse paid the best for a straight ticket when $21.40 was collected while Miss Royal K. paid $15.40 for a place bet. The sixth Franchise paid his backers $10.10 for a show wager.

The best time of the evening was in the ninth when Jim Fearnley teamed Raffon's Algier Boy home ahead of the field. They were clocked in 2:21 2/5 after going the first half in 1:10. All the others were all over as the slippery going made it tough and the mudders took the honors for the night.

Paul Pender Is Favored Against Terry Downes

LONDON (AP)—Paul Pender of Brookline, Mass., is a two-to-one favorite to retain his share of the world middleweight title against British champion Terry Downes in their return bout at Wembley Stadium Tuesday night.

Although the rangy Pender gave the stocky Briton a severe drubbing and stopped him in the seventh round in Boston last Jan. 14, a sellout crowd of 12,000 is expected for the 15-rounder.

The 30-year-old Pender floored his 25-year-old rival with a right to the jaw in the first round at Boston and opened cuts on Downes' face that required 15 stitches—12 for a split nose. The referee halted it in the seventh round.

Pender is recognized as king of the 160-pound division by New York, Massachusetts and Europe. Gene Fullmer of West Jordan, Utah, is recognized as champion by the U.S. National Boxing Association.

Bob Smith Is Coming Through For Leafs As Team Moves Into Tie For Third Place, Jets Split Sunday

Toronto Maple Leafs, in the midst of a four-team scramble for third and fourth places in the International League, now are getting something they've needed—winning mound efforts from Bob (Riverboat) Smith.

Smith, who had a 14-6 mark and a 3.04 earned-run average in helping the Leafs to the pennant last year, won only two of his first nine decisions. But in the last week he has pitched two consecutive shutouts, the latest a 6-0 job on Rochester in the first game of a doubleheader Sunday.

The Leafs, who had been languishing in sixth place, have won three out of four games with both Buffalo and Rochester, and are now only one full game behind the Bisons and Red Wings, who are virtually tied for third place.

Tied with the Leafs with 39 wins and an equal number of losses is Jersey City, the fourth team in the scramble for the last two berths in the first division. The Leafs would have climbed ahead of Rochester except for a 6-5 loss in the second game of the twin bill.

Buffalo kept a .001 percentage-point hold on third place, with a second game, 7-3 victory over Syracuse. The Chiefs won their fifth in a row, 8-1 in the opener.

COLUMBUS FIRST
First place Columbus beat Jersey City 7-1 in the first game. The Jerseys came back with a 5-2 nightcap win while Charleston beat Richmond 10-4 in the opener and lost 2-0 in the nightcap.

On Saturday, Toronto staved off a Rochester rally and won 6-6, Syracuse beat Buffalo 9-7, Charleston edged Richmond 3-1 and Columbus beat Jersey City 8-4.

Smith scattered three hits Sunday and walked four. He struck out 11 and got a bases-loaded home run by Lou Jackson in support.

The Leafs blew a 5-0 lead in the nightcap, losing in the ninth when Luke Easter's single rolled by centre fielder Jackson, allowing Ray Barker to score from first.

Granby And Coaticook Win As Other League Games All Postponed

Knights Down Waterloo 4-1, 8-5 To Take Sunday's Bill, Canadiens Edge Acton Vale 6-5 After Close Fixture

Rain put a damper on the activities of the Eastern Townships Baseball loop last weekend, but three games were completed in spite of the inclement weather. Granby downed Waterloo, twice, 4-1 and 8-5, while the Coaticook Canadians edged Acton Vale 6-5. Sherbrooke and Drummondville remained inactive.

In the first half of the Granby-Waterloo double fixture, played in Waterloo, Mike Burak earned Granby's victory by allowing nine hits, and flagging seven batters. Waterloo's hurler, Rejean Plourde, gave up only five hits, but he had some trouble with his control.

The Knights chalked up three runs in the first inning to take early control of the game. Two walks, a double by Dion and a single by Jacques enabled Granby to take an early lead. Waterloo prevented a white washing by collecting three consecutive hits in the third inning for a single run.

Sunday evening in Granby saw the Knights rally for four runs in the seventh and eighth innings to eliminate a 5-4 deficit and turn it into a 8-5 victory. Andre Pate paced the Knights to their win by banging out three hits in three trips to the plate while catcher Lamoureux belted two singles and a double.

Claude St. Vincent collected a homer and a single for the losers while efforts of Bertrand Morin and Rejean Plourde included two hits apiece. Elias started for Granby, but he was relieved in the fourth

Australians Win Three Of Five Wimbledon Titles To Prove They Are Stiff Top Country In Tennis

LONDON (AP)—Tennis officials and sports writers, tidying up after another Wimbledon tournament, once more bowed to Australia as the most powerful tennis nation in the world.

Three of the five Wimbledon titles were won by Australians. Of the 16 players who figured in the finals on Wimbledon's famed centre court Friday and Saturday, 10 were Aussies.

Australia provided all four pairs to reach the semi-finals of the men's doubles. Wimbledon officials said they could not remember any country dominating the event in that way before.

The United States had a finalist in the men's singles for the first time since 1955. Chuck McKinley bounced back to the big time after a period of suspension by the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association and became the top personality of the whole tournament with his hit-at-everything tactics.

But in the end McKinley was

Marblehead-To-Halifax Race Draws Record Number Of Boats As 51 Craft Compete, Get Off To Poor Start

By LEONARD M. FOWLER (AP) CAREY, RCN. She was well placed just astern of Jack Wilton's cutter Contessa at the Halifax ocean race yet started Sunday when the Boston Yacht Club sent away a record 51 craft in the 360-mile ocean contest jointly sponsored with the Royal Nova Scotia Yacht Squadron of Halifax.

The racers were hard on the wind in a six-knot east-northeast breeze as the four classes started after a 15-minute delay to clear the starting line of more than 200 spectator boats. The best start of any Canadian was made by the Class B Tuna sailed by Lieut. Maurice

None of the racers could make good on the rhumb line course of east 1/4 south to Cape Sable after the windward start. Most skippers chose to stand off shore on the port tack, expecting the wind to shift into the northwest during the night. This would permit the racers to reach back up to the rhumb line without trouble.

Late Sunday night, a heavy fog enveloped the fleet and the wind died down.

NINA TAKES LEAD
De Coursey Pales' schooner Nina had a slight lead over James Madden's Gesture and Wells Morse's Legend Sunday night. Also in the leading group, sailing just east of the rhumb line, 25 miles southeast of Cape Ann, were Cyclone, White Mist and Magic Carpet.

Ralph MacDonald's sloop Cyclone from the Armada Yacht Club in Halifax, which started just astern of Gesture, seemed to be doing well but the Canadian Navy's yawl Pickle, skipped by CPO Charles Church, was somewhat buried under the schooner Lord Jim, Boston YC flagship of Commodore Ross Anderson.

Lord Jim and Nina are expected to battle for the honor of being the first boat to finish, although the headwinds at the start could damage the hopes of both to shatter the 50-hour 32 minutes five second record set by the ketch Ticonderoga in 1957.

Lord Jim is the largest and scratch boat of the fleet. Two Canadian craft are the smallest. The 30-foot ketch Skiamsem, a brand new boat from Sydney, N.S., sailed by Lt. Cmdr. John O. T. Lee, RCN, is the shortest craft in length but she gives handicaps to five other boats including A.C. Mitchell's 34-foot Tempress from Chester, N.S., and the 33-foot sloop Rochelle, raced by Richard Glube of Halifax, which receives the biggest handicap from Lord Jim—16:17:35.

Accompanying the fleet as escort craft are the Canadian frigate Swans and the U.S. Coast Guard cutter Acushnet.

Tigers Back On Top By Slim Lead, Sweep 2 From Angels While Yanks Split With Red Sox, Orioles Win

Those Detroit Tigers are back in first place in the American League and their manager, Bob Scheffing, says it couldn't happen to a more deserving team.

With regular action suspended for the all-star break, the Tigers led New York Yankees by the slimmest of margins — a mere .001 in percentages. The Tigers and Yankees now join forces for the American League's battle with the National in tomorrow's first all-star game in San Francisco.

With Frank Lary allowing only three singles and winning No. 13 in the opener, Detroit climbed back into first place by beating Los Angeles Angels 1-0 and 6-3 Sunday while New York split with Boston Red Sox. The Yankees won their fifth in a row in the first game, 3-0, behind the five - hit pitching of rookie Roland Sheldon, who dropped the nightcap 9-6.

Baltimore Orioles gained control of third place, seven games behind, by whipping Kansas City 8-0 on Steve Barber's four-hitter. Cleveland Indians thudded to fourth when Chicago White Sox thumped them twice, 7-5 and 9-8. Minnesota finally won at Washington, the city the Twins fled in their franchise shift, by beating the Senators 7-1.

LARY IN FORM
Lary (13-4), a likely choice to follow Yankee left hander Whitey Ford to the mound in the all-star game, walked just two and struck out 10 while ending the Angels' home run streak at 16 games with his second shutout.

The Tigers handed Eli Grba (5-9) his fifth loss in a row with a second - inning run when Norm Cash walked. Steve Boros was hit by a pitch and Mike Roark singled. Boros, felled by a pitch that struck his helmet, spent Sunday night under observation in hospital.

Detroit wrapped up the nightcap on a two - run homer by Billy Bruen in the seventh inning. Jim Bunning (9-6) gave up a dozen hits but struck out 10 and won it with ninth - inning relief help. Ryne Duren (3-9) was the loser.

Sheldon (6-2), a righthander with just one year of Class D ball behind him, allowed Boston nothing but singles. He walked no one and struck out seven for his sixth straight victory and his second shutout in a row. Elston Howard doubled home the first run off loser Bill Monbouquette (8-7), who also gave up Roger Maris' 33rd home run.

third gross with 88. Despite the weather there were 35 couples on hand for the popular annual event. This event served as a warmup for the Eastern Townships mixed championship to be held at Asbestos next Sunday.

Club captain Doug Loomis handled the scoreboard and assisted club president Doug Davies in presenting the prizes.

Promoter Tom Bolan Charges That NBA Ratings Are Out Of Line As He Seeks Sanction For Patterson Bout

NEW YORK (AP)—Tom Bolan, promoter of Floyd Patterson's proposed fall heavyweight title defence against Boston's Tom McNeely, charged today that the National Boxing Association's ratings are "asinine" and said Patterson "is not going to lose (his title) to a bunch of armchair schemers."

Bolan replied in a statement to the NBA threat last week that it would strip Patterson of his championship unless he signed within a reasonable time for a defence against a fighter listed in the top six of the NBA.

McNeely, unbeaten in 23 bouts, is not ranked by the NBA. Bolan, president of Championship Sports Inc., has said he hopes to announce a date for the Patterson-McNeely bout sometime this week.

Bolan's statement reviewed the fighters listed in the top six by the NBA. The ratings as of June 29 listed Sonny Liston of Philadelphia No. 1, followed by Eddie Machen, Henry Cooper, Ingemar Johansson, George Chuvalo of Toronto and Alejandro Lavorante.

"Though denying sanction to a defence against McNeely," Bolan said, "the NBA would approve a fight with Johansson—a man Patterson has fought three times, knocking him out in the last two matches... the NBA would approve a fight with Liston, yet Pennsylvania, one of its members, is currently investigating his right to a licence."

"It would approve a fight with Chuvalo, who has lost five of 27 fights, including defeats by Howard King, Bob Baker, Pat McMurry, Pete Rade-

Carter To Meet Young Herring

HOUSTON (AP) — Harold Carter, New Jersey veteran of 36 professional fights, meets

Tod Herring, a youngster with only 14 pro bouts, in a 10-round heavyweight fight here Tuesday night.

Herring, a Houston product, is undefeated in his 14 starts. Carter was once ranked as the No. 3 heavyweight challenger. A stint in the service pulled him from the ranks and he has not been rated among the top 10 since he was discharged in 1958.

His most recent fight was a disputed bout with Bob Cleroux of Montreal two months ago. Carter lost when the fight was stopped in the second round.

Frank Robinson Paces Redlegs To 14-3 Win Over Dodgers To Extend Lead To Five, Pirates Edge Braves

Frank Robinson didn't make the starting line-up for the all-star game, but after his ups and downs against Los Angeles righthander Don Drysdale Sunday, there's no one to say he isn't the big gun for Cincinnati Reds, shooting for their first National League flag in 21 years.

Drysdale, the side - arming slinger who thus far has been a disappointment in the Dodgers' bid to overhaul the Reds, knocked down the dangerous Cincinnati left - fielder twice on two pitches and plunked him on the arm with a third.

Not result for Drysdale was a heavy-ho out of the game and a possible fine or suspension by league president Warren Giles. Drysdale must pay an automatic $50 fine for a warning by umpire Dusty Boggess after the first knockdown.

HIT IN SEVEN RUNS
Robinson shrugged off the inside pitches and batted in seven runs on a pair of homers, a double and a single for a perfect 4-for-4.

The Reds won 14-3 giving them a five - game bulge over the second place Dodgers after winning three of the four games in the showdown series at Los Angeles.

Third - place Pittsburgh Pirates made it three straight one-run decisions over Milwaukee, by beating the Braves 5-4. San Francisco Giants split a pair with St. Louis, the Giants losing their sixth in a row, 6-3, in the opener, before beating the Cards 6-1. Chicago Cubs swept a doubleheader from Philadelphia 9-8 and 8-5, with the second game called after eight innings because of darkness at lightless Wrigley Field.

Saturday, Los Angeles snapped Cincinnati's 10 - game win streak with a 10-1 victory; St. Louis defeated San Francisco 9-7; Pittsburgh downed Milwaukee 4-3 and Chicago

ROBINSON TOPS REDS
Robinson, who tops the Reds with a .328 batting average, 23 home runs and 70 RBIs, hit the first of his two - run homers against the Dodgers in the first inning off loser Roger Craig. His run-in with Drysdale came in the sixth, and he then tagged Dick Farrell for his second homer and a three - run double in the ninth.

Gene Freese of the Reds also homered while righthander Joey Jay (12-4) checked the Dodgers on five hits, two of them home runs by John Roseboro and Charlie Neal.

A pair of homers by Walt Moryn drove in the Pirates' first three runs. Bill Virdon then brought the Bucs from behind against a 1-1 Lew Burdette (9-6), who had won five in a row, with a two-run single in the seventh. Al McBean (2-0) was the winner in relief. Clem Labine, a bullpen regular for the Pirates, made his first start since the 1956 world series (when he was a Dodger and beat the Yankees in 10 innings) after Earl Francis was sidelined by arm troubles.

WON OPENER
The Cards won the opener on a two - run homer in the eighth by Ken Boyer for their third victory in four games under new manager Johnny Keane. But the Giants bounced back behind the four - hit pitching of Jack Sanford
