MUSSOLINI AGAIN RATTLING SABRE

Italian Army Greater Than Ever Before

Claims That Country Can Mobilize in Short Time Greater Number of Units Than That Engaged in Battle of Vittorio Veneto——Urges That Population Move to Smaller Towns to Avoid Air Raid Menace.

Rome, March 30.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini called on the Italian people today to meet the menace of aerial warfare by moving from big cities into small towns, villages and the countryside.

Before a crowded, intent Senate, the Duce told of Italy's readiness for war in a speech broadcast to all Italy and many countries abroad.

He told his people they should quit the cities before it was too late to escape the consequences of war in the air.

He lauded Italy's war-making power, asserting the nation could "completely mobilize in a short time a number of units greater than that engaged in the battle of Vittorio Veneto"—Italy's Great War victory in which fifty-seven divisions fought.

He warned his Fascist followers, however, this must not lull them to sleep.

"Precisely because much has been done, it is necessary to tell ourselves that still more remains to be done and that we shall do it, whatever the cost," he declared.

Beginning his speech, devoted to Italy's arms programme, at five p.m. (11 a.m., E.S.T.) Mussolini finished forty minutes later.

Calling for emigration from the cities, the Duce said:

"From this moment I say that all of those who can oraganize their existences in small towns, in villages and the countryside would do well not to wait until the twelfth hour.

"In case of war everything which prevents mobilization (such as civilian movements from the cities) might be prohibited. So much the worse, then, for those who have not foreseen this and are late.

"War from the sky is destined to assume an even greater importance in tomorrow's war."

Intends to Assure Peace

By arming further, at whatever cost, Mussolini said "we intend to assure general peace, but above all 'our peace.'" He continued:

"We reject illusions and Utopias; and for this reason we left the shop that sells them, in Geneva.

"That which has always counted and still counts among peoples is their war-making ability."

He recalled that Napoleon once said the Italians would become one day the world's best soldiers.

"That's what we want," he declared. "We desire that Napoleon's prediction will become a Fascist and Roman reality of our time."

This brought the four hundred black-shirted Senators to their feet, cheering. They had greeted him with shouts of "Duce! Duce!" as he strode into the Senate to speak.

879 Factories Are Producing Armaments

Il Duce started his speech by recounting Italy's equipment for war. He said the nation had 876 factories employing 580,000 workmen producing armaments. The workers, he said, "have displayed perfect discipline."

Vigorous applause greeted his declaration he intended to keep in his own hands full direction of Italy's armed forces in war time, although the king would continue to be titular head.

He then swung into a review of the navy, asserting Italy had the world's strongest submarine fleet.

He declared the country's naval building programme, largest in its history, would be completed "by 1940 or 1941, and perhaps earlier."

Mussolini assured the nation that

BANK ENJOINED FROM VOTING RAILWAY STOCK

New York, March 30—(AP)—Guaranty Trust Company, third largest bank in the United States, was restrained today by Federal Court injunction from exercising stock voting rights which would give it virtual control of the vast Van Sweringen rail empire.

The temporary injunction, returnable Friday, was issued by federal district Judge Albert Coxe on allegation of Robert R. Young, forty-one-year-old Texas and Cleveland financier, that his control of the Van Sweringen roads was menaced by a combination of Morgan banking interests and prominent General Motors officials.

URGE AID BE GIVEN GOVERNMENT OF SPAIN

London, March 30.—(C.P.-Havas)—A manifesto urging the British Government to aid Government Spain in its efforts to obtain arms abroad was issued today by a group of Conservative, Liberal and Labor Members of Parliament.

The document, signed by the Duchess of Atholl and J. H. Wills, Conservatives, Sir Archibald Sinclair, Liberal, and Major Clement Attlee, Labor leader, also recommended the dispatch of funds to the Spanish Government and measures to check the bombing of open towns by the insurgents.

The Labor party, meanwhile, decided to launch a new attack on the Government's policies of bargaining with Italy and non-intervention in Spain. It will take the form of a motion of censure and probably will be made early next week in the House of Commons.

Duplessis Renews Opposition To Deep Waterways Proposals

Declares that Development of River for Power Purposes Not Logical as Long as Quebec Has "Unlimited Electricity Resources" and Is Willing to Export Power to United States—Flays Federal Government for Placing Ban on Sales.

Quebec, March 30—(CP)—Developments of hydro-electric power from the St. Lawrence waterways would not be logical as long as Quebec has "unlimited electricity resources" and is willing to export power to the United States, according to Premier Duplesssis.

He told the Provincial Legislature yesterday Quebec's Union Nationale Government frowned on the St. Lawrence waterways plans and he criticized the Federal Government for "having laid down the principle that export of power by the province must be authorized by Ottawa."

The Legislative Assembly discussed various angles of the power question for more than an hour after Leon Casgrain (Liberal, Riviere du Loup) presented a motion for the Provincial Government to produce all orders-in-council and correspondence on power export since August 1936.

Premier Duplessis saw no reason why the St. Lawrence waterways plan should be considered when Quebec Province already possessed "hydro-electric resources beyond our needs."

He noted that Premier Hepburn of Ontario has stated there was no need of electricity from the St. Lawrence and a few moments later Agriculture Minister Bona Dussault warned the waterways plan was a "trap."

Mr. Dussault charged that for years the plan had been "camouflaged as a navigation matter" and that the United States wanted and needed the electricity which could be developed, Quebec Province could meet all needs "at better conditions."

The Agriculture Minister asked Quebec authorities to stand with the Ontario Government against the project he said was "not in conformity with Quebec interests."

Then Premier Duplessis asserted that no matter what action the Federal Government took on electricity export, "Quebec will remain mistress of her natural resources."

"We consider natural resources belong to us," he declared. "When Confederation was made it was the intention every province would have the authority of administration as it saw fit."

"If we are autonomous we can dispose of our resources as we see fit," he added. "Federal governments, Liberal or Conservative, who say export of power depends on Ottawa are enemies of provincial autonomy."

T. D. Bouchard, Liberal Opposition leader, charged the Premier with changing his stand on electricity export since 1933 when, according to Bouchard, he had fought against an export bill of the Taschereau Government.

"Then leader of the Opposition, Premier Duplessis vigorously condemned the government of that time for passing a measure to permit power export," Bouchard asserted.

He quoted a speech made by the Premier in 1933 and said the then

BRITAIN CONSIDERING U.S. PROPOSAL

London, March 30.—(AP)—The British Government is giving "prompt and sympathetic" consideration to the United States proposal for an international committee to aid Austrian and German refugees, Richard Butler, Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, told the House of Commons today.

"It is hoped to return a reply at a very early date," he said.

REVIEWED ITALY'S ARMED STRENGTH

Lauding Italy's war machine before an intent Senate, Mussolini today declared the nation could mobilize more units than took part in the battle of Vittorio Veneto, Italy's Great War victory.

"SPIRALLED SWING" NEWEST DANCE MUSIC

Boston, March 30.—(CP)—As if the world isn't dizzy enough already, a Boston dance orchestra leader has "invented" something new for dancing—something called "spiral music."

The purpose, says Cliff Natalie, the band leader, is to "beautify" swing. It's done by having the melody predominate, instead of all the fancy trimmings as in swing. Whether there will be a new dance craze, too, to keep pace with the music remains to be seen.

Drought Aid And Railway Costs Dimming Hopes For Balanced Federal Budget

Supplementary Estimates Tabled in House of Commons Last Night Call for $22,390,000 for Drought Relief and $6,890,000 to Make Up Canadian National Deficit—Supplementaries Totalling $36,717,608 More than Offset Excess of Current Revenues Over Expenditure.

Ottawa, March 30.—(CP)—One of the reasons why, in spite of a heavy increase in revenues, Finance Minister Dunning would find it difficult to balance the budget this year was disclosed last night with the tabling of further supplementary estimates for the fiscal year ending tomorrow.

In addition to the money voted last session for the current fiscal year, supplementary estimates were tabled calling for an additional $36,717,608, the bulk of which was needed for drought and agricultural relief, mainly in Saskatchewan.

With the revenues for the current fiscal year $27,000,000 ahead of expenditures up to the end of February, there remains the possibility that after the accounts for the full year are known a balanced budget may be possible. This will not be known definitely until the budget is brought down after the Easter holidays.

Additional money already spent by Governor-General's warrants accounted for $29,371,500 of the total in the estimates tabled last night. Of this amount $22,390,000 was required for drought relief and expenses in connection with feeding and marketing cattle in the drought areas.

Another large item in this group was the additional sum of $6,890,000 to make up the Canadian National Railways deficit, while $70,000 additional was necessary for the Royal Commission on Dominion-Provincial relations.

Last year the Government made provision for temporary grants to Saskatchewan and Manitoba to enable them to carry on the functions of government during the crop failures. Saskatchewan got $1,500,000 and Manitoba $750,000. Last night's supplementaries provide an additional $2,000,000 for Saskatchewan.

First provision was made for the deficit of trans-Canada air lines to the extent of $111,000. A further sum of $275,000 was needed for coal subventions.

WILL DIVIDE THREE WAYS ON S.C. MOTION

Ottawa, March 30.—(CP)—Members of the House of Commons will divide three ways when a vote is called on a Social Credit want-of-confidence motion which has been hanging fire for several weeks. Indications are the vote may come today.

By an amendment moved yesterday, Conservative leader Bennett extricated his followers from the necessity of either voting confidence in the Government or supporting the Social Credit motion.

That motion, proposed by John Blackmore, Social Credit leader, was that "for the effective removal of poverty from Canada this Government has neglected and is now neglecting to use the resources of the Dominion as adequately as the people of this country have a right to demand."

Mr. Bennett said he had no objection to the terms of the motion but did not like the way it has been linked in the debate with Social Credit theories. So he proposed to add the words, "but that the adoption of Social Credit as enunciated by followers in this House will afford no immediate remedy."

So on the Bennett amendment the Social Crediters will vote with the Liberals to defeat it and on the main motion the Conservatives will vote with the Liberals to defeat the Social Crediters.

Debate was adjourned last night by J. J. Kinley, Liberal, Queens-Lunenburg, who will continue today. Just before the House rose Finance Minister Dunning tabled further supplementary estimates for the present

Carol Gathering New Leaders About Him To Replace Cristea Government

Patriarch of Rumanian Orthodox Church Commissioned by King to Form New Government—Cabinet of "Old Men" Has Served Its Purpose.

Bucharest, March 30.—(C.P.-Havas)—The cabinet of Patriarch Miron Cristea resigned today.

The Cristea Government, headed by the Patriarch of the Rumanian Orthodox Church, came into power in February following the fall of the anti-Semitic government of Octavian Goga.

A cabinet reorganization has been forecast for some time in view of the dissatisfaction of the Liberals with the present distribution of portfolios.

The sixty-nine year old Patriarch was commissioned by King Carol to form a new government and it was expected formalities would be completed before evening.

It was stated at the palace that Rumania's cabinet of "old men" had served its purpose and that, at the request of many members of the ministry, the King was gathering new leaders about him.

In informed quarters it was said Georges Tatarescu, Foreign Minister, and other members of the Liberal party would be excluded from the new government.

The same sources said it was likely that several members of Juliu Maniu's now inactive Peasant party would receive portfolios.

It was emphasized, however, that Rumania is no longer ruled on a party basis and that parties, while existent, are dormant.

The King had members of the resigning cabinet to the palace for lunch where he expressed thanks for its emergency service in bringing order to Rumanian affairs after the shortlived anti-Semitic government of Goga.

Cristea's first government gave the country a new constitution cen-

SPRING STORM CAUSES HEAVY LOSS IN WEST

Two Persons Missing as Worst Spring Storm on Record Blankets Western Provinces Under Snowdrifts Five to Ten Feet Deep.

Calgary, March 30.—(CP)—One of the worst spring storms on record in Western Canada continued unabated early today, burying farmlands of southern Alberta and southwestern Saskatchewan under snowdrifts from five to ten feet high, blocking highways and damaging buildings in districts where the wind reached a velocity of forty to sixty miles an hour.

Dozens of automobiles were stranded in giant drifts on rural highways, bus and train schedules were disrupted. At least two persons were unreported and others suffered from exposure or met accidents in traffic as the blizzard cut visibility to a minimum. Heavy loss of rangeland livestock was feared.

Mrs. K. Brown, driver of a school bus in the Parkland district seventy-five miles south of Calgary, was unreported since she set out in the bus yesterday morning to pick up children along a ten-mile route. Austin Nixon, Parkland garage operator, who went at noon to look for Mrs Brown, also was unreported.

Drifts as high as eight feet lined Medicine Hat sidewalks and bread deliveries in the city's outlying districts were impossible although milk trucks got through earlier yesterday. A twelve-year-old Medicine Hat boy lost his way to school in the storm and was found in a snowdrift, exhausted and suffering from exposure. He was given first aid and taken to his home.

Four cars of a Canadian Pacific Railway freight train were derailed near Stavely, ninety miles south of Calgary, but no one was injured. Roofs were torn from several buildings in Gleichen, seventy miles east of Calgary, where the gale reached cyclonic proportions.

Reports from the Blackfoot Indian reservation near Gleichen said large herds of cattle on the reserve were endangered.

All Available Tanks, Guns And Planes Called For Major Tilt

Chinese and Japanese Rushing Reinforcements to Central China in Effort to Record Decisive Victory—Rapidly Executed Pincher Movement Threatening Complete Encirclement of Japanese Force Estimated at 5,000.

Shanghai, March 30.—(AP)—Chinese and Japanese high commands dispatched reinforcements of all available planes, tanks and artillery into the 100-mile triangle bounded by Yenchow, Suchow and Lini today in an effort to tilt decisively the seesawing scales of battle north of the Grand Canal.

Offsetting Chinese victories in the past ten days, Japanese recaptured Tsining and Lincheng, keypoints on the Tientsin-Pukow railway system down which the Japanese have been endeavoring for three months to march to Suchow, junction point with the east-west Lunghai line.

Fresh Kwangsi Province divisions were launched into the central China struggle by Chinese commanders in a counter-attack and bitter fighting was in progress.

A rapidly executed pincher movement was threatening the complete encirclement of a Japanese force estimated at five thousand at bay between Yihsien and Taierchwang, points on a feeder line of the Tientsin-Pukow railway, according to a telephone report received at General Chiang Kai-Shek's headquarters from General Li Tsung-Jen.

ASKS FOR INFORMATION CONCERNING LOTTERIES CONDUCTED HERE

Ottawa, March 30—(CP)—Details of the government's knowledge of hospital lotteries conducted in Sherbrooke, Que., in 1933, 1934 and 1935 are sought in a question appearing on the Commons votes and proceedings today by Dr. Hermas Deslauriers (Liberal, Montreal-St. Mary).

The member asks for a copy of all papers, letters, telegrams, reports and other documents exchanged between the Government or any officer of the Government and other persons with respect to the lotteres.

SUPPLYING TROOPS FROM THE AIR

Washington March 30.—(AP)—United States cavalry manoeuvres in Texas next month will test under wartime conditions the feasibility of supplying troops from the air. Isolated units operating near the Mexican border will receive food for both men and horses from bundles dropped by parachute, War Department officials said today. Italy used this method extensively in its Ethiopian campaign, and Japan has employed it in China.

Blum Threatens Closing Of Bourse If Financial Reforms Are Delayed

French Premier to Take Drastic Action Against Excessive Speculation Unless Senate Passes Plans Before Monday—Senate Refusal Would Mean Fall of Popular Front Government.

Paris, March 30—(AP)—Premier Leon Blum planned today temporarily to close France's stock exchange, the Bourse, unless his new programme for financial reconstruction is adopted over the week-end.

The Premier emphasized to a delegation of Radical-Socialist deputies yesterday that new finance bills, which he is expected to introduce in Parliament after the closing of the Bourse Friday, must be passed before Monday. Otherwise he is prepared to keep the Bourse closed to prevent excessive speculation.

He told the deputies trading would be stopped during protracted debate or until a solution could be found to the cabinet crisis that might result from rejection of his proopsals. Details of the bills were kept secret.

Among a welter of rumors was one that the Premier again would

Autonomy Demands From Minorities Aggravate Czechoslovakian Issues

Policy of Watchful but Anxious Waiting Adopted in Czech Capital as Minorities Agree to Discontinue Agitation Until Government Stand Is Announced.

Berlin, March 30.—(AP)—The cry for autonomy from four minority groups echoed through Czechoslovakia with increasing vigor today and met continuing assurances of protection for Germans beyond the borders from Nazi bigwigs.

Germans, Slovaks, Hungarians and Poles put their cards plainly on the Government table during yesterday's tumultuous Parliament session in Praha. At the same time greater Germany moved toward the April 10 plebiscite on annexation of Czechoslovakia's former independent neighbor, Austria.

Parliamentary circles in Praha said today a policy of watchful but anxious waiting would be observed the next few days. The minorities, it was said, will refrain from further agitation until they have a chance to hear the Government's new proposal for dealing with minorities, expected to be submitted to Parliament shortly.

Official circles in Germany failed to offer a clue as to what Chancellor Hitler might have in mind to safeguard the rights of the 3,500,000 Sudeten Germans following the declaration of the Slovak Deputy Tiso in the Czech Parliament yesterday: "It is not the army alone that defends the state."

Meanwhile Vienna prepared for its biggest day since Hitler's triumphant entry on March 14. Thirty thousand Austrian legionnaires who have not seen their homeland for years will return Saturday and march into the former imperial capital.

Plebiscite campaigning was carried on yesterday by Hitler, Field Marshal Hermann Goering and Pro-

FRANCO'S ARMY CLOSING IN ON LERIDA TODAY

Insurgent Leader's Troops Encircling Besieged Key City to Spanish Government Capital, Barcelona, Eighty Miles to East.

Hendaye, France, March 30—(AP)—General Franco today assumed personal command of the insurgent army closing in on Lerida, key to the Spanish Government capital, Barcelona, eighty miles to the east.

With the main body of troops reported at the outskirts of the city on the highway from Fraga, the insurgent leader threw other units forward in sweeping movements designed to encircle Lerida, which has been deserted by its civilian population.

Insurgent reports said huge clouds of smoke darkened the environs of the besiege city.

Franco's plan apparently was to strike Lerida from its two southern corners, his main body driving along the Fraga highway from the southwest, and part of Yague's command striking for the southeastern corner, where the Segre enters the city.

Insurgent officers at Irun said they had received additional news from their aviators "confirming" yesterday's reports of fighting in the centre of Lerida. The Government denied earlier reports of an insurrection.

There were three air raids on Lerida yesterday, but insurgents indicated the big push would be withheld until recent gains had been consolidated.

Scenes of confusion about Lerida were described. Abandoned military equipment and dead soldiers littered the roads. Toward the coast, streams of refugees and disorganized troops clogged the highways.

The Government was mobilizing hastily organized recruits and throwing them into the struggle. The international brigade, including Canadian and United States volunteers, was sent to the front.

In Barcelona, Defence Minister Indalecio Prieto said ten thousand volunteers had enlisted in the last five days. Warning against the "idleness of a single man," he said threatened insurgent occupation of important hydro-electric plants south of Aytona would paralyze Catalan industries.

Dispatches from Barcelona said it was admitted the insurgents had succeeded in crossing the Cinca at

Mexican Congress Summoned As Near Revolt Sweeps Oil Industry Ranks

"We Are All Discontented, We Were Far Better Off Before," Union Leader Declares in Commenting on Expropriation of Oil Companies—United States Lodges Protest.

Mexico City, March 30 — (AP) — President Lazaro Cardenas, summoning an "urgent" session of Congress to help him, was confronted today with near-revolt by a segment of labor, and a vigorous United States protest against expropriation of the $400,000,000 oil industry.

The protest was presented to the Foreign Ministry yesterday by Ambassador Josephus Daniels, and a high Mexican official indicated it was an energetic note demanding explanation as to how Mexico intended to pay for the seventeen United States and British oil properties.

The indications of labor dissatisfaction came from Carlos Flores, Labor Department inspector in Tampico and member of the powerful union there which controls six thousand ex-employees of the Aguila (Royal Dutch Shell) Company.

Flores contradicted assertions by union headquarters in Mexico City that all was peaceful among the workers. The Tampico union ousted a Government-approved administrative council and demanded wage increases and other benefits.

"We are all discontented," Flores said. "We were far better off before."

Tampico reports said every storage tank there was filled with oil, and there was no place to put crude or refined oil since the loss of foreign

De Valera Supporters Given A Clear Majority In New Free State Senate

Boast Twenty-Five of Forty-Nine Elective Members of Upper House—Government to Name Eleven Others—Cumbersome Voting Methods Liable to Be Discontinued.

Dublin, March 30—(CP-Cable)—As vote counting for forty-nine elected members of the new Senate of Eire was concluded early today, party officials estimated Prime Minister de Valera's party took twenty-five places to twenty-four for all other groups.

As the Prime Minister will fill eleven seats on his own nomination, he will have an opportunity of providing his Fianna Fail party with a substantial majority, even though it is difficult to define the politics of many of the senators elected today.

Total strength of the body, which replaces the Senate eliminated by Mr. de Valera in 1936 as "obstructionist," is sixty members.

Those hopeful that a new sort of non-political Senate would emerge from the novel method of election were disappointed. Only twenty-four of the forty-nine elected had not been former members either of the Dail (Lower House of Parliament) or the old Senate. Some others were termed straight politicians.

Many candidates regarded as highly desirable additions to the Senate were lost in the unprecedented lobbying scramble, not even getting first preference votes.

For instance, the poll in the Culture and Education section of the ballot was headed by a well-known horse breeder and dealer, while the noted Irish scholar, Seamus Haug-

WORLD AFFAIRS AFFECT FASHIONS

Chicago, March 30.—(AP)—Thelma Roberts, New York fashion expert, said here yesterday:

"Give women an economic or war scare and the first thing they do is to cover up their legs and go into sober unlovely clothes. Let women see happier times ahead and they immediately shorten their skirts their sleeves, lower their necklines and go into youthful clothes in gal colors—just as they are doing now."

CATHOLIC BODY RESIGNS FROM YOUTH PARLEY

Archbishop Coadjutor of Montreal Prohibits Catholic Association of French-Canadian Youth from Further Participation in Canadian Youth Congress.

Montreal, March 30.—(CP) — The Catholic Association of French-Canadian Youth has decided to withdraw from the Canadian Youth Congress because of "the strong influence exerted in that body by subversive and radical elements," Paul Leblanc, general president, said today.

"Mgr. Georges Gauthier, Archbishop Coadjutor of Montreal, prohibited our association, which has 60,000 members, scattered through every province but British Columbia, from further association with the Youth Congress," said President Leblanc. He added he understood Mgr. H. Mozzoni, Papal Charge d'Affaires at Ottawa, had instructed the Roman Catholic Episcopate throughout Canada to prohibit Catholic organizations from participation in the Congress.

"We took part in the Congress here last year," said Mr. Leblanc, "and noticed the strong influence of the radical, or Communist, if you like, element. We will not participate in this year's Congress.

"We would be glad to collaborate with the Congress if the influence of the radicals could be diminished," he said.

There was no restriction on Roman Catholics participating in the Congress as individuals as far as he knew, but there was a strict edict against them representing the church or Catholic movements.

At the Congress here last year, he recalled, Roger Ouimet had been named French-Canadian chairman, but had later resigned.

The association he headed was laying plans for a Roman Catholic Youth Congress in Ottawa next autumn, said Mr. Leblanc. Catholic Youth organizations of both French-speaking and English-speaking memberships would be invited to attend

WOULD STORE GRAIN IN CANADA FOR WAR

Leeds, England, March 30.—(CP)—Storage of huge supplies of grain in Canada for British use in war-time was proposed today as the best means of overcoming the threat of a food shortage.

The risk of bringing this grain to Great Britain in convoyed fleets would be less than that of aerial attacks on granaries in Britain, S. Lineham said in a debate on the problem at a Leeds Chamber of Commerce meeting.

He said large sums of money would be required to build in England granaries to hold a two-year supply, as was proposed by Alderman A. R. Bretherick.

DECLINE IN TAXABLE PROPERTIES MOURNED

Edmonton, March 30.—(CP)—Steady decline of the number of taxable city properties at a time of expanding needs was termed "calamitous" by the cities of Alberta in a brief to be submitted today before the Rowell Commission.

Of almost equal importance was the general shrinkage in value of real estate resulting from excessive taxation imposed in recent years to finance relief and other social services, the cities asserted.

"It is hardly necessary to say that a transfer of these extraneous burdens to those authorities logically responsible for them would at once result in substantial relief to the present overburdened city taxpayer and a rapid recovery in real estate values," the cities said.

They recommended that the Federal Government assume responsibility for social services, with the cities remaining responsible for twenty per cent of the total cost of the services "during a period of transition."

They advocated equal division of the educational burden between province and cities, with the provincial contribution building gradually to that point, and suggested the Dominion should "credit" the cities with all monies spent on relief either by capitalization of debt or in cash.

fiscal year which ends tomorrow. They total $36,717,668.

Mr. Bennett wound up his speech on the Blackmore motion with a warning to the Government that the distress signals of another depression were apparent. Canada's exports were shrinking, the favorable trade balance was diminishing and unemployment was increasing.

The same signs were on the horizon as in 1929 when the former Liberal Government declined to heed them. The present Government was doing nothing to avert the blow, he charged.

Mr. Bennett recalled the long battle his administration waged after taking office in 1930 to keep Canada's credit sound and turn an adverse balance of trade into a favorable one. He suggested some similar action to that taken by the former Government to restrict imports through tariffs and dumping duties might have to be taken soon to maintain Canada's integrity.

The Conservative Government had used tariffs more in an effort to provide employment in Canada than to secure a favorable balance of trade, replied Revenue Minister Ilsley.

He did not believe a favorable balance of trade in the sense of always exporting more than was imported was any guarantee of prosperity. In the long run exports and imports would equal each other and any temporary excess of imports over exports would be corrected by exchange fluctuations.

Mr. Ilsley also set out to answer criticism levelled by Mr. Bennett at the administration of the Bank of Canada in an earlier part of his speech.

This criticism concerned changes made in the form of the bank's weekly statements whereby Dominion and provincial short term securities formerly separate were lumped together and a similar change in reporting the bank's holdings of sterling and United States currency.

Mr. Ilsley said the former change had been made because at times only one province would be dealing with the bank and to report holdings of provincial short term securities separately would unnecessarily disclose that province's transactions.

The change in reporting currency holdings was made to prevent speculators obtaining the bank's opinion on trends in exchange rates.

He denied Mr. Bennett's suggestion the change in the short term securities item was made to conceal a loan of $3,000,000 to a provincial government which had not been repaid.

There was no secret about the loan which was made to Saskatchewan. All details had been revealed. Two advances, one of $2,000,000 and one of $1,000,000 had been made to Saskatchewan in 1936 when the Loan Council plan was being put forward.

INDIAN NATIONS FORM LEAGUE

Montreal, March 30.—(CP)—Formation of the "United League of Indian Nations" in Canada and the United States is well underway, Chief Joseph Delisle of nearby Caughnawaga reservation said Monday. The League, organized at a Caughnawaga pow-wow of Eastern Canadian tribes a month ago, is aimed at the "welfare of the Red Man."

URGES RAILWAY PROBE BE OPEN TO THE PUBLIC

Senator Marcotte Does Not Believe in Success of State Operations in a Democratic Country Such as Ours.

Ottawa, March 30.—(CP)—The Senate was scheduled today to continue its marathon debate on Canada's railway problems with the impression growing that the matter would be referred to a Senate committee for detailed consideration.

Senator Arthur Marcotte, Conservative, Ponteix, last night resumed the railway debate which has been in progress for several weeks and condemned proposals for unification of the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railways.

He urged that a suggested Senate committee inquiry be conducted in public and not behind closed doors as was a previous Senate railway investigation in 1925.

The current railway debate involved a resolution moved by Senator C. P. Beaubien, Conservative, Montreal, urging the Government to seek a solution to Canada's railway problem. Senator F. B. Black, Conservative, Westmoreland, moved an amendment to permit the whole problem to be examined by a select committee of the Senate.

A sub-amendment by Senator James Murdock, Liberal, Ottawa, urges that the committee devise a plan to relieve the country of the railway burden and assure an annual return of $75,000,000.

"I never believed and do not believe yet in the success of state operations in a democratic country such as ours with ten governments, each one anxious to grab as much as possible from such immense sources of power, prestige and suffrage," said Senator Marcotte.

"I believe in co-operation and fair competition and both are possible at the same time."

He urged that the proposed inquiry be conducted by the regular Senate Railway Committee and not by a select committee as urged by Senator Black

Senator J. A. McDonald, Conservative, Shediac, agreed with Senator Marcotte that a special committee was unnecessary.

After the railway debate was adjourned until today, Senator W. A. Griesbach, Conservative, Edmonton, urged calm recognition of a troubled world situation and advocated taking such steps concerning conscription and training of officers.

He was discussing the proposed amendments to the War Veterans' Allowance Act which would add about five thousand Canadian ex-service men to the present twelve thousand now receiving the monthly grant of twenty dollars for single and forty dollars for married men.

He said one-third of the casualties suffered by the Canadian forces in the Great War were due to lack of training and employment of men not fit to bear the ravages of war.

"We are probably faced with another Great War," he said. "We are engaged in a rearmament movement of sorts and discuss matters of policy and the like but no one seems to worry about the fact that whatever we do involves trained man power. If we would avoid the mistakes of the past we would be well advised to face the issue of conscription."

hey, scraped the bottom of the panel.

The six university representatives were elected separately. For the first time a Roman Catholic candidate, John Fitzgerald, contested Trinity College but he was at the bottom of the poll.

In the National University, regarded as a de Valera stronghold, the Government elected only Mrs. Helen Concannon while the Fine Gael party headed by W. T. Cosgrave elected Professor Michael Tierney and Henry Barniville, a surgeon.

The most picturesque figure in the new Senate is McGillicuddy-of-the-Reeks who owns the famous Kerry mountain as long as snow appears on its highest peak on June 1 annually. He was a Fine Gael candidate of the Agricultural panel.

Others elected include J. J. Parkinson, well-known race horse owner; Professor Michael Hayes, Speaker of the Dail during the Cosgrave Government, and General Richard Mulcahy, a Cosgrave supporter.

Allegations of abuses during the election already are current and it is believed doubtful the present cumbersome method of election will be retained. The constitution provides for election of a new Senate whenever a new Dail is elected.

The Senate balloting, cast by mail, was most complicated.

Picture a ballot paper about 1¼ yards in length by nearly a yard wide!

That was what the 354 members of the Electoral College had to wrestle with. They had to make up their minds among the claims of 132 candidates for forty-three seats. Trinity and National University each elected three members, to complete the forty-nine elected.

The Electoral College was composed of all members of the Dail and 217 representatives of County Councils. The election was conducted on proportional representation.

While it was first hoped to get a non-political Senate, lobbying and canvassing reached tremendous proportions. With the exception of the Labor party, all political groups were disciplined into voting their own particular ticket.

Labor boycotted the election on the ground it did not get "a square deal."

markets created by expropriation of the companies March 17.

Asphalt, packing, shipping, marine and other departments of all shipping termini were closed, and nearly three thousand part-time workers were released. From Poza Rica came reports workers there were not paid Saturday or Monday, although the Oil Labor Syndicate asserted "payments were effected normally throughout the industry" last week-end.

Congress probably will meet early in April. Cardenas' request for the session was coupled with a list of bills to be considered. High among them was one for modification of import and export duties, increased as much as 500 per cent, in January to the concern of the United States.

The Government still was gravely concerned whether the United States Treasury would cut the price of silver another cent an ounce. Mexico produces about 80,000,000 ounces of silver a year, and a great many mines are "marginal," unable to operate profitably if the price is much below forty cents an ounce.

Duplessis Renews Opposition To Deep Waterways Proposals

Opposition leader had "strongly opposed" a Taschereau Government measure for power export on the ground Quebec Province should "keep her natural resources to herself."

"Now the Premier uses that five-year-old law to raise his cry," added Bouchard.

Premier Duplessis replied the "Taschereau Government had sought to authorize the sale of electricity without condition. We have unlimited hydro-electric resources. We have millions of horsepower of electricity, enough for all our domestic needs and more.

"We should be allowed to use the surplus and obtain concessions in return," the Premier insisted. Last March representatives of Beauharnois Power Corporation had conferred with the Quebec Government on a plan to export 40,000 hydro-electric horse power to Ontario, he declared.

"They said Ottawa was ready to agree to the export if Quebec would agree and 40,000 horse power is not a drop in the ocean, compared with our electricity resources," he continued.

The Government had agreed to the plan on condition Quebec Province received $1.50 a horsepower, the buyers would not compete with Quebec, Montreal labor was used on transmission line construction and the City of Montreal was accorded a $300,000 annual reduction in electricity rates.

"But Mr. King and the Federal Government put their hands on our natural resources and we have said 'no' we will not endure it," Premier Duplessis declared.

"We do not want them to administer Quebec or Quebec's resources when they cannot run themselves or handle their own problems. Do we realize what administration of our resources means," the Premier asked. "We want to make Quebec great and prosperous by administering our own property. We are masters and will remain masters."

Bouchard mentioned that President Roosevelt had ruled against importing electricity until the St. Lawrence waterways matter was settled. The Dominion Government's stand on export was "for the protection of Quebec interests," asserted Bouchard.

Premier Duplessis said in 1933 he had opposed the provincial power export bill because "300,000 horsepower were to be sold abroad without condition."

When Bouchard declared the Taschereau bill had included "definite conditions," the Premier replied "the law said the conditions decided on—those are expensive conditions, electoral fund conditions. But there are no blank cheques with us."

The Premeir said then he favored co-operation—"we are rich and why should we not say to Ontario we will give you a small part of our natural resources, you need electricity and what you need is only a small part of what we have in Quebec."

A number of minor bills were introduced during the sitting and the Lower House voted $2,567,220 of the budget estimates for agriculture and colonization.

KEEN INTEREST IN PROBE INTO U.S. RAILROADS

Report to Be Submitted to President Roosevelt May Have Important Bearing on Proposed Canadian Senate Investigation.

Ottawa, March 30.—(CP)—The report to be presented to President Roosevelt, possibly this week, on recommendations "for immediate action by Congress in regard to the whole railway situation, which is critical," is being awaited with almost as much interest on Parliament Hill as in Washington.

The railways in both countries have the same trouble, inability to make ends meet in a financial way. The Canadian Senate doubtless will shortly launch a committee to study the railway situation in this country and it should be a great help to have the view of Mr. Roosevelt's conference.

The body invited to advise the President of some method to save the railways in United States was composed of fourteen of the leaders from rail, industrial and financial circles. It included three members of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The Association of American Railroads asked the Commission for a fifteen per cent freight rate increase and was awarded 5.3 per cent. However, the railways there as in Canada are in the unhappy position that if they get rate increases sufficient to make profits, the competing services, water and truck traffic take away business and the advantage after is lost.

PARLIAMENT IS STUDYING AIR LINES REPORT

S. J. Hungerford Thinks Objective of First-Class Air Transport Service Across Canada Will Be Achieved this Year.

Ottawa, March 30.—(CP)—Parliament was scheduled to receive today the first annual report of the Trans-Canada Air Lines. It will be tabled by Transport Minister Howe.

"There is every reason to expect that the objective of a first-class air transport service across Canada, forging another link between the Atlantic and the Pacific, will be achieved in the year 1938," said S. J. Hungerford, president of the Board of Directors.

The report will be considered by the House Committee on Railways in the same manner as the Canadian National Railways report is considered. Operating organization has been carried on vigorously, the report said, and the training of personnel is well advanced.

The report, for the period ended December 31, 1937, recalled that since the Trans-Canada Air Lines Act received assent on April 10th last, most of the activities have necessarily been preliminary to operation. Shortly after his appointment as vice-president, Philip G. Johnson made a survey by air and on the ground of the entire proposed route between Vancouver and Montreal and a survey was later made of the section east of Montreal.

SUGAR PARTY ATTRACTS PARLIAMENTARIANS

Sherbrooke To Receive Large M.P. Delegation

Fifty Parliamentarians Expected to Be Present at Sugar Party Next Week—Will Pay Overnight Visit to Sherbrooke After Plessisville Event — City Council Will Tender Luncheon to Visiting Members.

Sugar on snow, the favorite spring treat of thousands of Quebecers, is expected to attract some fifty Members of Parliament to the Eastern Townships next week. On the invitation of Charles B. Howard, M.P., for Sherbrooke, the party will visit Plessisville on Friday, April 8th, where they will be guests of the Provincial Government at a sugaring-off.

In the evening, the party will arrive in Sherbrooke where they will be accommodated for the night. On Saturday morning, members of the Chamber of Commerce will act as hosts, taking the visitors on a tour of the various industries located here. At noon, the delegation will be entertained at a civic luncheon at the Sherbrooke House prior to their return to Ottawa.

The arrangements for the civic luncheon were completed at a meeting last evening between the City Council sitting as a committee and a delegation representing the Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Howard's invitation included the entire membership of the House but acceptances have been largely confined to members residing a long distance from Ottawa who are not in the habit of returning home for the week-end. Thus the visitors will be largely westerners or representatives from the Maritime Provinces.

HEAT CONTROL FILM SHOWN TO ROTARIANS

Graphically illustrating the dramatic story of man's long struggle to control heat and turn its energy towards the advancement of civilization, interesting sound films entitled "Heat And Its Control" were shown by Percy Amey, of Montreal, before members of the Sherbrooke Rotary Club at their meeting last evening in the New Sherbrooke House.

Mr. Amey, who has been associated with the Canadian Johns-Manville Company for the past twenty-one years, remarked that the films were the first of their kind to be made. It took over two years to complete them and the filming was described as extremely costly.

As shown by the pictures, in ancient times man worshipped the sun as his only source of heat and light. Later, when the secret of kindling fire was discovered, the flame became the object of his veneration. In 1769 James Watt, a pupil of Joseph Black, brilliant Scottish chemist, perfected the first practical steam engine which usefully converted heat into mechanical work. The steam engine had been invented some thirty years before by Thomas Newcomen, but until Watt improved it the steam engine was a crude affair too imperfect to have any wide practical application.

As defined by John Tyndall in a work published in 1863, heat itself is of molecular motion. "It is an oscillation of ultimate particles." The transfer of heat can take place in three ways, by conduction, by convection and by radiation, and the films illustrated the manner in which these transfers are accomplished.

The first use of insulation for the purpose of conserving heat to do useful work was recorded when James Watt bound strips of wood around the boiler of his steam engine. Since that time industry has learned more and more how insulation can be used to advantage, the commentator with the films stated, and today, wherever heat or refrigeration is used in industry, insulation is very important.

From four basic materials—asbestos, magnesium carbonate, diatomaceous silica and rock or mineral wool, a great number of insulating materials are manufactured to provide the proper type and form for every insulation requirement.

Mr. Amey was introduced by Rotarian Raymond Wood and thanked by Rotarian Reford Stewart. Others seated at the head table with President Rosaire Samson were Rotarians Louis Rosenbloom and Louis Rouleau.

In tribute to Rotarians Ned Page and John McConnell, two highly respected members of the Club who died yesterday, the members observed two minutes silence and cancelled the usual songs. Mr. Page was a past president of the local Rotary Club, while Mr. McConnell had been an active and valuable committee worker.

Guests introduced to the members by President Samson were Gordon Carpenter, G. H. Bullis and S. Wilson, of Montreal; Dudley Fletcher, of Lennoxville, and Don Allen, student of Lennoxville High School.

DIXON SPEAKING —

When I was a lad I was fully possessed of the conviction that Spring arrived on the twenty-first day of the month of March; the twentieth day was sill winter and there was a distinct separation between the two seasons. Later I grew to think of Spring as being the season that followed the passing of Winter, the weather conditions seeming to govern the time of the blending of one season into the other. But now I think it is generally agreed that the demarcation comes on the day that the newspapers get out their Spring Fashion Editions and the ladies become acutely aware of the fact that they simply "haven't a thing to wear" and won't have until they have re-outfitted in the very latest style. Far be it from me to argue whether styles and fashions have for their object the envy of women or the admiration of men.

But this I do know — that women who take a pride in their cooking, women who take pleasure in serving delectable dinners to their families and friends, almost invariably depend upon Dixon's Market for their meat supplies. I am mighty careful to see that that only tender, nutritious, dependable meats are delivered in response to your orders, whether by telephone or over the counter.

E. J. PAGE MAY BE INTERRED NEAR BOSTON

Funeral of J. C. McConnell, Who Passed Away Yesterday, Will Be Held Tomorrow Afternoon.

Preparations were under way today for the burial of two prominent Sherbrooke citizens, valued members of the community who closed successful careers within a few hours of each other yesterday.

As far as could be learned this morning, it is improbable that E. J. Page, a life long resident of this community who made his mark in the printing industry, will be brought to Sherbrooke for interment. Mr. Page died suddenly early yesterday morning at Kerrville, Texas, where he had undergone an operation over the week-end. Mr. Page, accompanied by his wife, was returning to his home here after spending the winter months at San Diego, California. In all probability his remains will be taken to Malden, Mass., near Boston, Mrs. Page's former home.

J. C. McConnell, well known local optician, who passed away after a long illness at his home yesterday afternoon, will be buried tomorrow afternoon. The funeral will take place from his late residence, 159 London street. Rev. F. A. C. Doxsee will officiate at the service, assisted by Rev. Dr. G. Ellery Read. Interment will take place in Elmwood cemetery.

VOLUNTEERS' BADGE

With Britain concentrating on the expansion of her Air Force and the protection of civilians against raids, volunteers accepted for Air Raid Precaution services are being equipped with the special badge shown above, the three letters plainly signifying the particular branch of service. Sir Samuel Hoare called for 1,000,000 such volunteers.

"How did you learn to walk the tight rope? Just pick it up yourself?"

"Oh, no. It has to be taut."

Protests Extravagant Government Spending

Local Chamber of Commerce Hears Plea for Reduction in Demands of Individuals and Municipalities on Governments—Annual Dinner for City Council Postponed—Action Deferred on Sherbrooke-Norton Mills Highway.

Strong protest against the extravagant manner in which governments generally are handling public funds was voiced before the Council of the Sherbrooke Chamber of Commerce yesterday afternoon by Dr. Ludger Forest in proposing that the body register its disapproval of this excessive government spending. The time had come, declared Dr. Forest, when to preserve the financial solvency of the country, individuals and municipalities will have to stop running to federal and provincial authorities every time that they want something.

It was finally decided that a formal motion be prepared and introduced at the regular monthly meeting of the Chamber to be held tomorrow evening.

The request received from the Coaticook Chamber of Commerce that a motion be passed supporting the proposed Sherbrooke-Norton highway via Coaticook was also referred to the general meeting.

Due to the lateness of the season, it was decided that the annual banquet tendered the City Council be postponed until early fall.

Considerable discussion ensued on proposals for a building zone by-law but no definite action was taken.

CITY HALL SALARIES REVISED

Members of the City Council, meeting as a committee of the whole, last night studied and revised the salaries of City Hall and department head employees.

Municipal officials stated this morning that only a few changes were made in the scale of salaries for the coming year.

MOREUIL WOOD LAST CAVALRY BATTLE OF WAR

Twenty Years Ago Today Canadian Cavalry Brigade Smashed Great German Offensive in Last Large-Scale Cavalry Operation of Modern War.

In an age when mounted soldiers have become an anachronism, with horses replaced by gasoline engines, it is not inappropriate to recall the last large-scale cavalry action of the Great War on the Western Front. Of interest is this to Canadians, since it was Canadian cavalry-men who fought that battle.

On March 30 the Canadian Cavalry Brigade, comprising the Royal Canadian Dragoons, the Lord Strathcona's Horse and the Fort Garry Horse, commanded by Brig.-Gen. J. E. B. Seely (now Lord Mottistone) removed the German threat to Amiens in the battle of Moreuil Wood.

Reviewing the terrific battles of March, 1918, some historians do not hesitate to laud this engagement as the turning point of that great German offensive which had opened on March 21. Its purpose was to breach the British and French armies. And the place where this could most effectively be done was Amiens.

"We ought to have shouted into the ear of every single man: 'Press on to Amiens. Put in your last ounce. Perhaps Amiens means decisive victory.'" Thus wrote Marshal Paul von Hindenburg, Supreme Commander of the German armies, in his later "Memoirs."

"Press on to Amiens!" That is exactly what the enemy was striving to do, and with imminent success. Intelligence of this fact roused the Canadian Cavalry Brigade from their bivouac west of the Noye River, ten miles south of the city, early in the morning of March 30.

"The Germans have captured Mezieres, and are rapidly advancing on Amiens. The brigade is to cross the Noye and Avre rivers as quickly as possible, and engage and delay the enemy." Thus read the orders. The Canadians moved off northward, continuing to the fringe of bush known as Moreuil Wood. Heavy firing disclosed large enemy forces, well entrenched and having numerous machine guns. The brigade decided to attack.

Two squadrons of dragoons were sent to the northeast face of the wood, while a third rode at the southern edge. Raked by heavy fire, the R.C.D.'s charged into strong concentrations, and stiff fighting ensued. A squadron of the Strathcona rode to support the Dragoons and, after heavy losses, the enemy were ejected from cover. The engagement became general. Round the northern flank rode the other two squadrons of Strathconas, struggling up a steep bank before they crashed into a double line of firmly-entrenched Germans. Despite blasts of fire, the Canadians charged, cutting down the enemy and crumpling their line. Here it was that Lieut. G. M. Flowerdew achieved the Victoria Cross. A bitter struggle followed, with one squadron losing seventy per cent of its personnel. But the enemy were routed.

The German advance was checked. Amiens was saved. Four months later Canadian infantry completed what their comrades of the cavalry had done in that triumphant onslaught of August 8.

TOTALITARIAN STATES FLAYED IN "Y" SPEECH

Francis Hoye, Jr., Told Speaking Club Fascism and Communism Are Expressions of the Same Fundamental Philosophy.

While Fascism and Communism may differ in origin, they are both expressions of the same fundamental philosophy, that is, the absolute supremacy of the state over the political, social, economic, cultural and religious life of the individual, Francis Hoye, Jr., told members of the "Y" Speaking Club at their weekly meeting last night. The individual lives wholly for the state, whereas, in the speaker's opinion, the state should exist for the individual.

Taking "Fascism and Communism" for his subject, Mr. Hoye incorporated Nazism into his remarks because of the similarity of that political movement to Fascism. Outwardly, Fascism and Naziism appear to be only political dictatorships without legitimate constitutional action, he said, but they actually go much deeper than that as absolute authority is vested in one man to such an extent that all individual rights and liberties are suppressed and the individual exists for the state alone.

Mr. Hoye pointed out that while in Nazi Germany Hitler had openly fought with all religions, Catholics, Protestants and Jews alike, Mussolini had not done so openly in Italy, although he has shown a determination to dominate the consciences of the young. He told the meeting that Communism meant one thing, and one alone, and that was that Communism, as it is now being preached, is Marxian Communism. That is to say the doctrines of the manifesto of Marx and Engels as interpreted by Lenin and Stalin and practised in Russia since 1917. The speaker then showed how complex the subject of Communism was, especially as regards religion.

Militant atheism is the essence of Communism, he said. Its energies are entirely devoted to destroying all those things that tend to make up the spiritual side of man. One of the aphorisms of Marx was: "Religion is the opium of the people." Lenin said: "The best country is a Godless one." The speaker then quoted a press despatch from Russia showing how successful Communism is at present in its fight against religion. Dr. David Kinley, president-emeritus of the University of Illinois, was quoted to the effect that "Communism is economically unsound, religiously atheistic, socially destructive, ethically indefensible and morally debasing."

Following the address, an open discussion was held, with Mr. Hoye in the chair. Due to the Mock Parliament next week, there will be no regular meeting of the Speaking Club. However, on April 15th there will be open discussion by the members on the methods used in preparing their speeches.

This Country's Divorce Laws Topic Of Debate

Recommendation that Divorce Laws in Province of Quebec Should Be Revised Turned Down in Debate Held Last Night Between Representatives of Trinity and Plymouth United Young People's Groups.

Extension of the grounds for divorce as advocated in the Canadian Senate recently was turned down in a debate staged in Plymouth Church Hall last evening between representatives of Trinity and Plymouth United Young People's groups.

Miss Margaret Sutherland, of Trinity, leader of the affirmative, opened the debate on the resolution "Resolved that the divorce laws in the Province of Quebec are in need of reform." She pointed out that divorce comes within the jurisdiction of the Federal Parliament under the British North American Act. The present system permits a petitioner to present a bill of divorce which is considered by a special committee of the Senate and, if acceptable, enacted into a special statute. The only ground now recognized is adultery.

"Our complaint against the present system," declared Miss Sutherland, "is based on one ground: it defeats its own end in that it does not act for the happiness of the individual, does not provide for the happiness of the community and fails to remove the dangerous domestic friction which endangers society as a whole."

She quoted from a speech made by the Lord Bishop of Birmingham in support of the recently enacted English divorce law in which His Grace said: "The law is, I am convinced, a careful attempt to bring our marriage law into harmony with opinions now held by an overwhelming majority of enlightened Christian peoples in this country. No practical alternative to it has been proposed." The speaker would enlarge the present grounds so as to include permanent or incurable mental illness, unnatural conduct and cruelty, desertion for three years and imprisonment for life.

Arthur Ryder, for Plymouth, the leader of the negative, opened with a strong defense of marriage. "Our whole attitude is quite wrong," warned the speaker. "Instead of considering broader grounds for divorce, we should see to it that there are less hasty marriages." He strongly advocated a course in the public schools on preparation for marriage to prevent hasty and ill-considered marriages.

"We should look upon marriage as something sacred and permanent and not to be entered into with the prospect of an early dissolution through divorce. The word 'divorce' should find no place in our language," affirmed Mr. Ryder. He warned his listeners that an extension of the grounds of divorce would lead to more frequent divorces and thus wreck havoc on that most precious institution—the home. "We should seek to solve our domestic difficulties," the speaker declared, "rather than try to avoid them by divorce."

The second speaker for the affirmative, Forrest Lord, Jr., specifically answered most of the points raised by the leader of the negative. He denied that divorces would be more frequent under the proposed reforms and asserted that the object of his proposals was to secure more happy homes. "Modern young people entering marriage are pretty practical," averred Mr. Lord. "The number of them who look forward to divorce when contemplating matrimony is pretty negligible," he continued in condemning Mr. Ryder's pessimistic outlook on modern morality.

Mr. Lord touched on the cumbersome machinery now in use for obtaining divorce. "The cost is exorbitant and affords no relief for poor people," asserted the speaker. "The cost of a divorce obtained at Ottawa is seldom less than $1,000—an absurd sum." He would favor the establishment of regular divorce courts so that these matters could be settled expeditiously, inexpensively and in accordance with recognized judicial standards.

The last speaker for the affirmative, Miss Gwen Nixon, declared that divorce was abhorrent to ninety per cent. of the population of Quebec. "Why force these unnatural provisions upon such a large number of people who by their religious conviction are opposed to the whole principle of divorce?" asked the speaker. Miss Nixon was concerned with the fate of children in the event of a divorce. The stigma attaching to them from the divorce of their parents should be spared them, she believed. Insanity and imprisonment as additional grounds for divorce did not appeal to her, as opening themselves to abuse and suffering under certain conceivable circumstances.

Rev. F. A. C. Doxsee and Rev. Fred Williams acted as judges and the decision was rendered in favor of the negative team. Gordon O. Rothney presided over the debate.

At a brief subsequent business session, it was decided that the two societies should participate in a sugaring party at Nutbrown's on the Waterville Road Saturday, April 2nd. Those wishing to attend should meet at Wesley Hall on Saturday at 2:30 sharp, where transportation would be provided.

SHERBROOKE, WEDNESDAY, MARCH 30, 1938.

And this I do for the gospel's sake, that I might be partaker thereof with you.—I Corinthians 9:23.

Sherbrooke Loses Two Valuable Citizens

Weep not that their toils are over,
Weep not that their race is won,
God grant that we may rest as calmly
When our work, like theirs, is done.

Sherbrooke mourns the passing of two worthy citizens, Edwin John Little Page and John Cavendish McConnell, two gentlemen of the highest order and two citizens who had played an important part in the life of the community and contributed in no small way towards the progress and betterment of Sherbrooke and of the Eastern Townships.

Word of the passing of E. J. Page came as a great shock to the entire community yesterday. Having sojourned in the South during the winter months, as was his custom for many years past, his friends here were eagerly looking forward to his return.

There are few men who were more popular than was "Ned" Page. Blessed with a keen sense of humor, public-spirited, broad-minded, a Christian and a gentleman in every respect, "Ned" Page has long been associated with the public life of Sherbrooke. He gave of his best and anything he put his talents to was certain of achieving success.

The founder and builder of one of Sherbrooke's leading business houses, Mr. Page also was a staunch supporter of the Sherbrooke Rotary Club, the Eastern Townships Agricultural Association, the Eastern Townships Associated Boards of Trade, and many other civic and community movements.

He was keenly interested in the progress of Sherbrooke and the Eastern Townships and whenever called upon to lend his support to any worthy project was not found wanting.

The loss which the community has sustained can hardly be realized. It does not seem possible that "Ned" Page will never again be seen on our streets. His friends cannot realize that his familiar voice is forever stilled and that his cheery word and friendly smile are but a memory.

The death of J. C. McConnell early yesterday afternoon did not come as such a shock, as he had been in failing health for several months.

Mr. McConnell had also played his part in the life of the community for many years, being particularly interested in tourist promotion work. He was familiar with all sections of the Townships and his offices were for many years the locale for the local tourist bureau.

He, also, was a prominent member of the Sherbrooke Rotary Club and took keen interest in the activities of the Sherbrooke Chamber of Commerce.

Confined to his home for many months, Mr. McConnell fought valiantly against heavy odds and his friends and admirers could not but marvel at the manner in which he came back. Only a few weeks ago he was able to spend part of the day at his place of business. It was hoped he would again be restored to normal health. However, his constitution was unable to stand the strain and a relapse set in from which he failed to rally.

The loss of these two citizens is felt among citizens of all classes, creeds and stations in life. They were two good citizens, tried and trusted. They were men who were a credit to any community. They were respected and they were admired.

While they lived they lived well and good. Generously did they contribute to the general good. Their services are valued. Their names are remembered. Their memories are cherished.

No call nor clamor can wake them,
From slumbers so pure and deep,
For only His voice can reach them
Who giveth His loved ones sleep.

Sticking Out The Japanese Chin

The unpleasant news from Europe has pretty well obscured the equally unpleasant news from China the last few weeks. But the news from China that was not crowded out of the papers has added to the growing belief that Japan is getting herself into an increasingly precarious position.

The Chinese continue to demonstrate their legendary cleverness to the great discomfiture of the invader. The war costs millions of dollars that Japan is hard put to raise—and on one knows this better than the Chinese who have discovered that it costs the Nipponese about as much to repel one raiding plane as an entire fleet. Consequently, the Chinese send out lone raiders several times during the night. They have other tricks with which they provoke painfully expensive fireworks on the part of the Japanese.

Especially effective have been the guerrilla tactics of the Chinese. The farther into China the Japanese push, the longer their thin line of communication stretches out, and the Chinese have been making it very tough for the scattered garrisons in the territory claimed by the Japanese.

But the prize manoeuvre of all was the formation of a midget Socialist state two hundred miles behind the Japanese lines. This government, backed by seven million Chinese farmers, supports a huge guerrilla army that has paralyzed Japanese communication lines in north China. And all this activity goes on in Hopeh province, which theoretically is in Japanese hands.

Meanwhile hatred for the Japanese has become something of a fanatical religion among China's millions. True, the casualties on the Chinese side have been tremendous, totalling at least twelve fatalities to one for the Japanese. But Japan cannot kill all the Chinese any more than she can conquer all of China.

Japan had hoped to grab off a big piece of territory quickly and with the use of only a hundred thousand troops. She now has more than half a million soldiers fighting on foreign soil. And those soldiers must all be provisioned.

So Japan finds herself in the middle. She cannot turn back. Further invasion costs dearly in men and money. And as her soldiers make their expensive gains, powerful Soviet Russia waits for the chance to settle an old account.

SHEEP-BELLS

The sheep-bells of the sky
Thrill through the tingling night,
As the stars sheperdless go by;
And then—they fade from sight
Within a fold whose wattles are of light;
And dawn throws wide her gate,
That all the gathered messengers who wait
May come in concourse bright
To throng the glistening meadows of the morn,
With ministrelsy and pipe of faery horn,
And hope and love reborn.

O days and years, your buffetings are vain,
If every morn I see that light, I hear that strain.

MR. ARMITAGE EWING EXPLAINS HIS STAND

To the Editor,
Sherbrooke Record.

Dear Sir:—In a recent issue of your paper appeared a letter from me summarizing and making certain comments on the Quebec Padlock Law. In a later issue of the Montreal Gazette appeared a letter from Mr. R. L. Calder, K.C., criticizing and disputing a number of my statements. In some instances he attributes words to me which I did not use. I stand by all that I said in my letter. Hon. P. B. Mignault has written saying that he agrees with me in toto; here is his letter:

"Dear Mr. Ewing: I have read with great interest your letter to The Gazette the other day in relation to the so called "Padlock Law." I heartily approve all you say. Some fifteen years ago, in a case in which I sat, Bedard vs. Dawson, 1923 S.C. R. 681, the Supreme Court upheld the constitutionality of a statute differing only in details from the law in question. You may rest assured that the opinion of Quebec is overwhelmingly in its favor.

'Of course it is a measure of police, and police measures are rarely to the taste of those against whom they are directed. That, however, cannot be helped.

"Believe me, Yours sincerely,
"(Signed) P. B. Mignault."

I leave it to your readers to judge which is more likely to be right, Hon. P. B. Mignault, K.C., LL.D., ex-Judge of the Supreme Court of Canada ex-Professor of Civil Law of McGill University, Docteur Honorifique de l'Universite de Paris, author of many authoritative legal works; or Mr. R. STREET CONDITIONS IN MONTREAL

(La Presse, Montreal)

Under the pressure of public opinion, it has at last been decided to undertake street cleaning. Money was lacking but some was found, doubtless not enough to complete the city's toilet but enough to carry away the worst of it, as they say.

Why was it necessary to wait until they were compelled, in the meantime leaving citizens to splash about in a muddy mixture which cannot be described? Could not the $80,000, which was finally discovered have been found a week ago, when the approach of spring made it reasonable to suppose that Montreal would soon be subjected to annoyances of a kind which have furnished the subject of complaints?

That would have been an example of civic pride and good administration.

A little while ago, a former Lord Mayor of London and his wife visited Montreal. The former expressed his surprise to see that so little care was taken of the streets, while his wife said that she did not wish to go to the stores because of the dangerous condition of the sidewalks. These are not comments which will increase the civic pride of the people of the metropolis, any more than we have reason to be proud of certain meetings of the City Council in the not distant past.

RELIGIOUS DENOMINATIONS OF RUMANIA

(Le Journal, of Quebec)

Recent events in Rumania have drawn attention to that country. It is not untimely therefore to consider the part played by Roman Catholicism among the Rumanian people, whose faith is divided among a number of beliefs.

According to latest census the number of Orthodox Schismatics in Rumania is twelve million. There are also 1,300,000 Roman Catholics and one million Protestants.

Rumania also has 161,000 Mahometans and the census mentions 1,200,000 Jews. But the totals seem to fall short of the impressions really given.

WORDS OF WISDOM

We need to learn that physical courage is a grand and precious thing, that it has strong and subtle connections with all the finer forms of courage that we value most. There is great danger with the habits of our civilization lest we grow physically timid, and the highest mental and moral courage must suffer it they are tied to physicial timidity.—P. Brooks.

There are but three ways for a man to revenge himself of the censure of the world—to despise it, to return the like, or to endeavour to live so as to avoid it. The first of these is usually pretended, the last is almost impossible, the universal practice is for the second.—Swift.

As ships at sea, a moment together, when words of greetings must be spoken, and then away upon the deep—so men meet in this world; and I think we should cross no man's path without hailing him and, if he needs, giving him supplies.—Henry Ward Beecher.

No endeavour is in vain—
The reward is in the doing;
And the rapture of pursuing
Is the prize the vanquished gain.—

PRESS COMMENTS

SHOULD EQUALIZE THE BURDEN

(St. Mary's Journal-Argus)

In spite of the fact that it can be proved conclusively that the cost of Education in Canada is very moderate, there are many communities which know only too well that the amounts which they themselves spend for education are exceedingly burdensome. What is the reason for this? It is that the burden of the cost is spread very unevenly throughout the country.

Education is supported almost entirely by local taxes on real estate. In Ontario the richest city is three times as wealthy per pupil as the poorest, the richest county is twenty times as wealthy as the poorest, and the richest school section is one hundred times as wealthy as the poorest.

The natural result is that many communities can support with relative ease a fairly adequate school system, while others, less fortunate, must tax themselves to the point of confiscation to pay for a very meagre school programme. And all this taxation is on real estate, which is already heavily burdened by municipal services, from relief to fire protection.

The Government of Ontario pays only about twelve per cent. of the cost of Education. This is one of the lowest shares of the cost borne by any government in the civilized world. If our school system is not to continue to be hampered by this obsolete system of taxation, the taxpayers of Ontario must protest against this foolish overburdening of the real property tax and must insist that a greater share of the cost of education be borne by the Provincial Government. Such a change would not mean any increase in school costs. It would mean only a shifting of the burden to sources which are fed by taxes on those who can best afford to pay them. The burden and the privileges of education should be equalized.

MORE WANTED LIKE THIS

(Toronto Telegram)

This is the sort of story we wish we could come across every day. A Toronto tailoring firm has had a girl on the office staff for the past six years, whose face is completely disfigured by burns. The accident occurred when she was three years old, blinding one eye and wholly distorting her features. She has never had enough money to pay for facial surgery. But recently the staff of the company started a raffle and the firm donated prizes of suits and coats for men and women. People became interested and gave donations as high as $100 and $200. The venture was so successful that at the end of the month the girl will be going to New York to see a famous facial surgeon. The operation may take six months and we wager the whole company from the president to the office boy will hardly be able to wait for her return.

GETTING ON

(Hamilton Spectator)

The great inventor, Thomas Alva Edison, the anniversary of whose birth was commemorated at Menlo park yesterday, is credited with the saying that genius is ninety per cent. perspiration and ten per cent. inspiration. If ever there was a human being whom the word "genius" fitted, it was surely Edison, who ought to know better than anybody else to what to attribute his marvelous success. When one thinks of it, the statement does not seem so improbable as it looks at first blush. First of all comes the inspiration—the idea; but what a lot of labor is involved in working out the idea! In Mr. Ford's famous Greenfield village, at Dearborn, there are many historic Edison relics among them a clock, or rather the case of a clock, which has neither face nor dials. It is explained to the visitor that Edison did not count the hours and minutes when he was engaged in his researches. He went on with his experiments till he had reached his objective, regardless of time. He was no "clock-watcher."

FREEDOM OF THE PRESS

(Danish Foreign Office Journal)

To Danish mentally the right of free public literature, that is to say the right to publish one's thoughts stands as one of the most important individual rights. The form of free utterance to which attention is traditionally directed is the right to publish in print, and particularly through the daily press. Recent years have seen radio broadcasting grow up as an organ which, no less than the daily press, permits of rapid and far-reaching publication; but as far as Denmark is concerned the broadcasting authorities on principle shut out all forms of agitation, particularly political agitation. They depart from that principle only on very special occasions, such as election campaigns, and even then only within strict limits and with equal treatment for all parties alike. In other words, in Denmark the daily press is still the principal medium for those who wish to criticize, to agitate for an opinion, or otherwise to publish their thoughts on one or another subect.

SEASON'S REVIEW.

The month that is for Janus named,
As herald of the year is famed;
It passes, white with frost and snow,
Blue skies and old Sol's golden glow.

The snows of February melt,
Where'er the sun's soft kiss is felt;
Marked by St. Valentine's heart-red,
Too soon this short, cool month has fled.

March hates to see the winter go,
And blusters in with gales and snow,
But dawns St. Patrick's gold and green,
She sweeps the snow right off the scene.

Sweet April, like a trembling maid,
Sends smiles and tears throughout the glade;
The Easter sunrise opens wide
The floral gates of glad springtide.

May with her hills of emerald hue,
Her silver waters, skies of blue,
Breathes all the sleeping buds awake,
The birds begin their nests to make.

Fair June's month, with roses wreathed,
The wealth of summer has unsheathed;
Beneath her smile the wedding bells,
New homes, new heart-string tyings spell.

July's warm month is ushered in
By firecracker's cheerful din;
Thenceforth, in slumbrous calm her time,
Bee-hum marked, strays through summer's prime.

Augustus Caesar's month creates,
The harvest home the world awaits,
With fire borrowed from the sun,
Which cools as fall winds have begun.

September's mellow month is fair,
Gold is her harvest, sweet her air,
The lofts grow big with her supply,
While crickets chirp, and blue's the sky.

October's moon and gorgeous leaves,
A bit of summer's loss retrieves,
Ending in orange Hallowe'en,
When witches and her like are seen.

November's solemn gloom gives way,
Armisticed by Thanksgiving Day,
And Book Week, when in rosy glow
We live in worlds no dark rains know.

December dawns with snow-white flakes,
Of all months highest honor takes,
For Christmas, marked by green and red,
Marks birth of One Who for us bled.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS
Author of "You Can," "Up," "Just Among Friends."

What Is Life About?

Over and over again I have heard the question asked what is life about? To me it seems a simple one to answer. Life is about love, romance, sorrow, struggle, defeat, disappointment, thrills and joy. It's about babies, and birds, and flowers, and blue skies, and storms and beauty.

It's about growth, change, business, friends, books, nations and ruins We know what life is about. Our knowledge stops with the grave. Through the eyes of hope and faith alone do we see beyond. Secreted within in the heart is the dream of Heaven, and the knowledge of that country from which no traveller has yet returned to tell.

Ever being wound about our consciousness are the threads of experience, and into this woven fabric enter every thought, desire, and action of our earth adventure, and there is no need for us to speculate beyond. He who calls the birds at dawn to sing, and the flowers of the field to open their fragrance to the most deserted land, will take care of the rest.

Life is about work, about the tilling of the soil, and the harvesting of crops, about tending gardens, and running errands for others—to make them happy. Life is about the wonder of the stars, the moon, and the travel of the sun, and about words beyond worlds.

Life is about doctors, and lawyers, and store-keepers, and people coming out of mines and factories, about experiments and inventions and discoveries. Life is about everything that touches the consciousness of the mind, the heart, or the feeling.

Life is about you and about me. Not why we are here, but why we should not be happy since we are here, and why we should not leave this world better off because we have been privileged, through Providence, to be here.

RUMANIAN MINISTER BECOMES VEXED

Bucharest, Rumania, March 30.—(C.P.-Havas)—Nicholas Iorga, Minister without portfolio, announced today he would take legal action before a military court against Cornelin Zelea Codreanu, leader of the Fascist Iron Guard, for writing him an allegedly insulting letter.

A SLIGHT RALLY ON WALL STREET 'CHANGE TODAY

Leaders Came Back Fractions to a Point or More, but Extreme Advances Were Reduced in Many Cases During Second Hour.

New York, March 30—(AP)—Stocks dug in for a moderate rally today and many of Tuesday's sinking market leaders came back fractions to a point or more.

Activity was pronounced in the first few minutes of the proceedings, with the ticker tape two minutes behind for a brief interval. The pace slowed later and, near the second hour, extreme advances were reduced in many cases.

Prominent on the forward tilt were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown, Chrysler, General Motors, Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Anaconda, Kennecott, Du Pont, U. S. Rubber.

Bonds and commodities were uneven, although few weak spots were to be seen. Foreign securities markets steadied.

Evidence of a vigorous spring business upturn continued scarce in mid-week statistics.

Weekly electric power output figures showed the widest year to year loss in recent months. The decline for the nation, the Edison Electric Institute reported, was 10.2 per cent, compared with 8.7 the preceding week.

Partly accounting for the poor year to year comparson, analysts noted, was the fact recovery at this time last year was approaching a peak.

PRICES CONTINUED LOWER AT MONTREAL

Montreal, March 30—(CP) — Prices worked lower at the opening of the stock market today but the decline was not as serious as yesterday's slump.

Smelters eased a small fraction, but there was some firmness to Nickel, which gained ½. Brazilian held steady in the utilities, and Montreal Power and Shawinigan moved narrowly lower. Canadian Pacific was unchanged.

Price Brothers hit a new low at 8⅝, off a small fraction.

INCREASE MARRIAGE LOANS IN GERMANY

Berlin, March 30.—Dr. Fritz Reinhardt, state secretary in the Finance Ministry, yesterday announced a plan for further expansion of marriage aid loans and subsidies for large families. The aim of the new measures is not merely to equalize the burden of raising the children demanded by the National Socialist State but also and especially to halt "flight from the land" and to promote the education of National Socialist leaders from the poorer classes.

According to Dr. Reinhardt, since August, 1933, the National Socialist state has granted more than 900,000 marriage aid loans averaging 700 marks each and totalling 600,000,000 marks, which he claims have produced 450,000 marriages and 1,200,000 more children than under the prevailing rates at the beginning of 1933.

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

DOING THE "IMPOSSIBLE"

Charles H. Goren Makes Six-Spade Contract, With Two Apparent Losers in Trumps

BY WILLIAM E. McKENNEY
Secretary, American Contract Bridge League

This is the third of a series of twelve articles portraying the play of the ten leading bridge players of 1937 who made up my two All-America teams. Today's article is written by Mrs. Ralph Young, herself a member of the first team.

Charles H. Goren won more Master Points and more championships in 1937 than any other bridge player. He is equally at home in the play of "impossible" contracts, where his partner's confidence in his skill frequently lands him, and in the play of lay-down hands where the search is for an overtrick to better the duplicate score.

The way in which he made this six-spade contract, with two apparent trump tricks off the hand, shows in a striking manner how great bridge players sometimes achieve the apparently impossible.

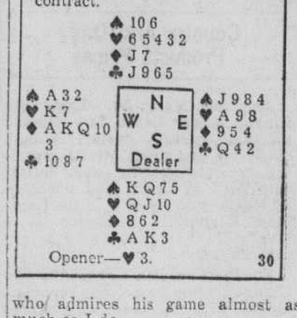

The hand was played at the hunting lodge of Hawley Quier in the Pocanos. Goren's partner was a lady who admires his game almost as much as I do.

The double seemed to place the spade honors in the West hand. The diamond queen won the first trick, and the ace of clubs was cashed. Now a low heart was led, and the apparently needless heart finesse was taken. Had West gone up with the king, the hand could not have been made; but he played low and the jack won. A club was returned and ruffed. The diamond king was overtaken with the ace and another club ruffed.

Now South's heart queen was led and taken with the ace, and a heart returned and ruffed. The last diamond was won with the jack in dummy, and the fourth heart was led and ruffed with a low trump. Goren now had only three trumps, the ace, jack and nine. He led the nine, forcing East into the lead. East, with only the king and three remaining, was forced to concede the last two tricks.

Contract Problem
(Solution in next issue)

Arthur S. Goldsmith of Cleveland, only middle westerner to gain a position on either of my All-America teams this year, played the West hand at three no trump. South had bid a spade, and the opening lead was a heart. See if you can find the play Mr. Goldsmith made to fulfill his contract.

In the absence of the pastor, Dr. S. W. Boyd, members of the Young People's Union conducted evening service at Emmanuel Church. The president, Gilbert Brown, conducted the service and preached the sermon. The Scripture lesson was read by David Christie and Suzy Stowe led in prayer. The speaker took for his text Eph. VI chapter and XIV verse "Stand Therefore Having on the Breastplate of Righteousness." Four things were noted about righteousness, he said. It must be preceded by pardon, it is of partial character, progressive and perceptible to others. Just as it is impossible for a man to fulfil the law while he is under the ban of the law, so it is impossible for an unpardoned sinner to do right in the sight of God whose law he has broken. The fact that we still sin even though we hate it proves that righteousness will always be partial, but an encouraging thought is that whether gradual or rapid, righteousness may be progressive, perceptble to others and ultimately victorious, concluded the speaker.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

HILLS PROVIDE DEFENCES FOR WESTERN COAST

Military Men Point to Rocky Mountains as Greater Barriers to Invasion than Any Man-Made Defences.

(By Charles Nichols, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Vancouver, March 30.—(CP)—Canada's basic Pacific Coastal defences are as old as the hills—exactly.

"God supplied the principal defence for Canada's west coast," was the way one responsible military man put it referring to the mountainous battlements that protect British Columbia's shoreline for a distance of more than 500 miles. "Anything we do would be supplementary."

But there are vulnerable spots in the coast's rock armor and it is to protect these that the Federal Government is spending approximately $8,000,000 on fortifications, guns and other armament.

Two vital spots, the urban centres of Victoria and Vancouver, can be approached by naval craft only by a semi-circular waterway leading from the Pacific Ocean. By protecting the entrances of this waterway—formed by the Straits of Juan de Fuca and Georgie—access by sea to the two main nerve centres of the province is blocked.

Early this year the Federal Government made provision for protection of British Columbia's third vulnerable point. An air base will be constructed at Prince Rupert to guard that northern city which forms the north coast terminus of the Canadian National Railways.

In between Prince Rupert and the southern cities of Victoria and Vancouver, 500 miles of rugged mountains form a barrier against naval invasion of the mainland.

Guns are being placed to guard the entrance of the Strait of Juan de Fuca and on Yorke Island to guard the Strait of Georgie to the north against menacing naval craft. Assuming attacking vessels could get past these guns, placed strategically at narrow points on the waterway, guns at Ferguson Point could fight an attack upon Vancouver harbor while planes from Jerico base could attack from the air.

Gun emplacements could give similar protection to naval attack on Victoria while anti-aircraft emplacements could protect the capital to some extent from planes.

Some informed military sources here explain that the coast defence is not planned to meet the full force of a strong attack but to guard against menacing naval craft in the event of war involving other parts of the Empire.

During the World War German naval craft menaced various parts of the Empire in an attempt to break down morale but without attempting invasion. It is understood the Pacific Coast defences are to offset operations of just such roving vessels.

This theory was supported by a remark by Defence Minister Ian Mackenzie when he told the House of Commons that sporadic raids, designed to cripple communications or destroy supply bases, were the threats against which Canad's forces were being strengthened.

"The entire conception of Canadian naval, military and air defence, is based on the action of sporadic raiders or upon aircraft carriers," he said at that time.

Four destroyers—two already in service and two contracted for—also would be employed to stop any hostile craft from approaching the province's urban centres.

DECLARES CHURCHES NOT PROPERLY RUN

Ottawa, March 30.—(CP)—William Perkins Bull, Toronto lawyer and author of religious works, said in a interview yesterday that if every church was "properly run" they would be full all the time.

"Religion is the easiest thing to sell," he said. "People want it—but not the way it is dished out today. You never saw a man who did not wish his children to attend church or Sunday School. But they don't want to go and listen to the uninviting 'tripe' which is coming from many pulpits."

Bull said he was not laying the blame particularly on the ministers, many of whom were poorly paid and were "intellectually starved." The fault was with the Church as an organization.

MRS. BLACK NOT TO SEEK RE-ELECTION

Ottawa, March 30.—(CP)—Mrs. George Black, Independent-Conservative House member for the Yukon Territory, has given indications she does not intend to run for re-electionat the end of the present Parliamentary term.

In an address before an Anglican women's audience she said: "I won't always be here. If Mr. King (Prime Minister Mackenzie King) stays for another year and finishes his term, I shall be here, too, but after that I shall return to being an ordinary wife and mother."

Mrs. Black spoke of her noted collection of wild flowers and said, smiling: "Now that I'm trying to save the country I haven't time to save wild flowers." She displayed part of her collection to the audience.

E.T.A.A. ANSWER BASEBALLERS SATURDAY

Expected To Give Ten Year Lease On Ground

E.T.A.A. and Sherbrooke Baseball Club Officials Had Brief Meeting Yesterday to Discuss Terms—City Aldermen Looked Over Ground—City Will Definitely Not Give Free Labor for Work on Park.

On Saturday afternoon the Eastern Townships Agricultural Association will give the Sherbrooke Baseball Club their decision on whether or not they will grant them a ten year lease on the baseball ground, belonging to the E.T.A.A.

In past years the E.T.A.A. has taken a percentage of the gate receipts, as they do in hockey, from the baseball club. This season the baseball team officials feel that it would be more satisfactory for all concerned if a ten year lease was signed, with the cub getting an option to sign for five more years at the same conditions.

E.T.A.A. officials said today that they felt there would be no difficulty in meeting the demands of the baseball club, and said that they were sure the lease would be agreed to. Representatives of both the baseball club and the E.T.A.A. would not divulge the amount to be paid for the leasing of the park, but it was very strongly rumored that the baseball officials had offered an annual fee of two thousand dollars.

There was a brief meeting of E. T. A. A. and baseball officials yesterday afternoon and plans were discussed. A definite answer will be given to the baseballers on Saturday, but it is almost certain to be in the affirmative.

CITY HALL NOT CONTRIBUTE TO BASEBALL CLUB COFFERS

It was learned today that the City of Sherbrooke will not contribute to the Sherbrooke Baseball Club in the form of providing free labor for the levelling of the baseball field and the installing of electric light and sewers.

Aldermen Ross, Cinq-Mars and Thibeault went over the ball ground yesterday with Roland Dugre, president of the Sherbrooke Baseball Club, Dr. N. A. Dupuis and Rosaire Gagne, directors of the club. Plans for draining and levelling the field were discussed, and approximate costs given, although an estimate was difficult to figure out as the field is still partially covered with snow.

The Council will definitely not vote funds or labor to the baseballers, but would be willing to do the work, using city unemployed men. In this way the work would probably be done at less cost than if it was undertaken by a private concern.

The baseball club expect a grant from the Quebec Government and this money would be turned over to the city for the work on the field, to be done by the unemployed, thereby helping the unemployed and the baseball club at the same time.

At the present time there are about three hundred unemployed men in Sherbrooke and if the money for the improvement of the baseball park is forthcoming from Quebec then these men would be put to work.

It is expected that the whole affair will be settled before the end of the week. Officers of the baseball club are hopeful that the Provincal Government will see fit to grant the city money for the relief of unemployment, with the stipulation that the work be done on the baseball field, thereby satisfying everybody.

Baseball Training Camp Briefs

Clearwater, Fla.—It may or may not be the result of Larry MacPhail's bonus system, but Brooklyn Dodgers are doing some smart fielding along the inner defence line this season. They pulled off three double plays against Detroit yesterday, and that used to be "par" for a long road trip.

Baton Rouge, La. — Bill Terry's answer to recent criticisms of National League baseball was two hours of "skull" practice for his New York Giants. "That's my answer," he said, adding further, "A man who can bust up a ball game with a hit is a great asset, but he is worth twice as much if he can also save a game by being a fine defensive player."

Lakeland, Fla.—Manager Bucky Harris, of Washington Senators, is beginning to vision old "Goose" Goslin as a distinct asset. Against Columbus yesterday, the "Goose" came through with a homer with two on in his only time at bat, which didn't hurt his chances of winning a Washington contract.

CANADIENS NOT YET READY FOR EUROPEAN TOUR

Cecil Hart Claims that, in Spite of Promoter Armand Vincent's Statement, All Arrangements Have Not Been Completed for Trip—Must Have $2,500 Deposit in Bank Here.

Montreal, March 30.—(AP)—A few arrangements still remain to be straightened out before Montreal Canadiens and Detroit Red Wings embark definitely on a European tour, Canadien Manager Cecil Hart said last night.

Hart was commenting on a London dispatch quoting Armand Vincent, Montreal promoter, as saying arrangements for the tour had been completed.

"That's funny," Hart said. "They announce over there that the trip is all set, and we don't know anything about it over here. Well, as far as we're concerned, it's not settled yet.

"There is still the matter of $2,500 that must be deposited with our bank here, and there is still the matter of a contract to be approved by our representative in London before we go. We won't move out of Montreal until these things have been straightened out, and they'll have to be settled very soon if we are to make the trip."

Q.A.H.A. WILL MAKE DECISION ON JUVENILES

Albert Reid to Suggest that Montreal, East Angus and Quebec Play Sudden-Death Games Here Over Week-End for Bourque Hockey Trophy.

Albert Reid, vice-president of the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association, is going in to Montreal for a Q.A.H.A. meeting tonight in an effort to settle the Provincial Juvenile play-off question.

Mr. Reid will suggest that Montreal and Quebec be invited here for the week-end to play-off with East Angus, the third team left in the hunt for the Bourque Trophy, given for Juvenile hockey supremacy. Mr. Reid's plan would have East Angus and Quebec playing in a sudden-death game on Saturday, with the winner playing Montreal in a sudden-death game for the title on Sunday.

ROYAL MONTREAL REGIMENT BEAT LOCAL MARKSMEN

SOUTH AFRICA WINS MINIATURE RIFLE TROPHY

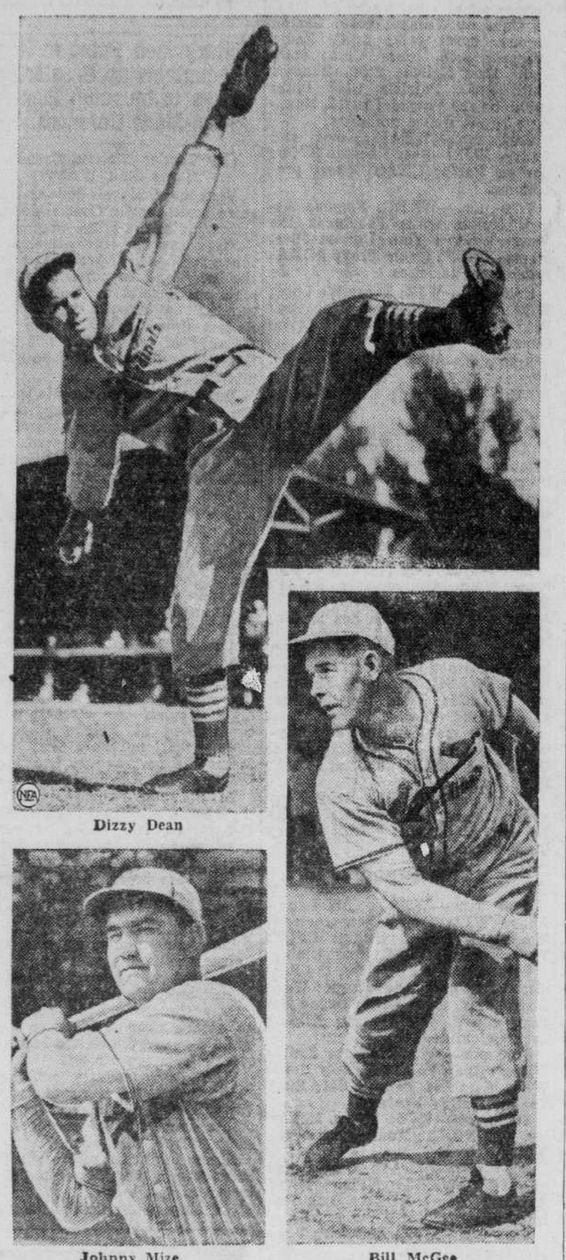

Bisley, England, March 30.—C.P. Cable)—South Africa wins the King George V Trophy for miniature rifle shooting for boys of the Empire.

For the eighth time, it was announced today, the South Africans win, their score being 86.847 points out of a possible 100. The United Kingdom scored 82.484 and New Zealand 77.133. Canada, Australia and India did not qualify.

The United Kingdom won 174 silver and bronze medals for individual high scores, South Africa, eleven, and Canada sixty-five. A total of 3,488 boys qualified as Empire marksmen, averaging ninety points and over.

The Senior Imperial Challenge Shield for the best large senior unit in the Empire was won by the 44th Battalion, Claremont, Western Australia, averaging 101.102 with a strength of fifty-five.

MARKED CARDS

Dizzy Dean

Johnny Mize

Bill McGee

Once again the ticket appears to read, "As Dean goes, so goes the Cardinals," but just in case the big right-hander's arm fails to show its old-time pep, the Red Birds may be salvaged by young Bill McGee, promising rookie up from Columbus. Johnny Mize, star first sacker, still retains his batting eye, which is very important from the Cards' offensive point of view.

BUCKY HARRIS SAYS AMERICAN LEAGUE TOUGH

Manager of Washington Senators Claims that an Injury to Any Yankee Regular Might Put Them Out of First Place — Figures His Own Team Has a Good Chance if Rookies Come Through.

Orlando, Fla., March 30.—(AP)—Let Stanley "Bucky" Harris tell about the approaching American League baseball race. Stanley is the still young and handsome manager of Washington Senators.

"Here," said Bucky, "I have a much better ball club than I had last year, when we finished sixth. That is a cinch, because we now have Zeke Bonura on first base. He drove in one hundred runs for the White Sox last year, while Joe Kuhel was knocking in sixty-one for us.

"This American League right now is the toughest I've seen in my experience. The Yankees naturally are favorites. Then there are Detroit, Chicago, Cleveland and Boston Red Sox, all of whom finished ahead of us. The least thing could make a difference of three or four places in any of these clubs.

"It's so close, in my opinion, that an injury to anyone of the Yankee regulars, like Gehrig, Dickey or DiMaggio, could throw them out of first place. And this Detroit bunch is hot.

"So where does that put us? I don't know, honestly. I wouldn't be surprised if we finish second—or sixth again. I've got two young southpaw pitchers, Ken Chase and Joe Krakauskas, a Montreal boy. Both have all the stuff in the world, but both are wild as hares. If both of them settle down and hold the opposition, we'll be up in the race. Otherwise, probably not."

ST. HYACINTHE MAN TO RUN IN BOSTON MARATHON

Boston, March 30.—(AP)—The entry of Gerard Cote of St. Hyacinthe, Que., was announced today for the annual Boston Amateur Athletic Marathon April 19. Cote finished seventh last year and 23rd in 1936.

Lakeland, Fla.—The "guessers" in Detroit Tigers' camp already are nominating Elden Auker to pitch the opening game of the American League season. The submarine ball hurler, who handled the job a year ago, is the only Tiger flinger to go as much as six innings so far, taming Boston Bees over that distance Monday.

ARMSTRONG HAS TOUGH "SQUARED RING" SCHEDULE

Meets Lew Feldman Tonight, Battles Barney Ross for Welter Title on May 26 and Lou Ambers for Lightweight Crown in July or September.

New York, March 30.—(AP)—Henry Armstrong, the dark bit of dynamite who rules the featherweights, takes on Lew Feldman at the Hippodrome tonight in a match that is a prelude to one of the stiffest spring and summer campaigns any fighter ever faced.

After nearly three hours of debate yesterday the New York State Athletic Commission issued the following schedule for Henry's summer title appearances. All of them in New York:

(1) The negro will meet Barney Ross for the welterweight championship May 26.

(2) If Ross beats Armstrong he will defend his title against lightweight champion Lou Ambers July 26 and Armstrong will meet Ambers for the 1935 pound title September 14.

(3) Should Armstrong beat Ross on May 26 he will get a shot for his third title against Ambers July 26.

This boils down to the fact that Henry has great opportunities. If he wins all three titles he eclipses the deeds of such stalwarts among the little fellows as Joe Gans and "Terrible" Terry McGovern.

Only Bob Fitzsimmons, the Cornish heavyweight, has held three titles, middleweight, light-heavy and heavyweight, and Fitz didn't rule all three divisions at one time.

So the boys are not talking about the Feldman fight, but about Armstrong's schedule.

Why were Judge Landis and Judge Bramham trying to hide that "Cardinal purge?" Neither would say a word until an enterprising newspaperman went to Florida, talked to them, put two and two together and wrote the yarn. Then the story broke.

Young Calvin Griffith, foster son of Clark "Old Fox" Griffith, owner of Washington Senators, is making good with a bang as president as president of the Charlotte Club of the Piedmont League.

THOMAS SERVES AS DOUBLE FOR MAX SCHMELING

Champion Joe Louis Says He Is Going After the Eagle Bend Fighter Just the Same Way He Intends to Stalk "Der Maxie"—Claims that Thomas Has Awkward Style.

Chicago, Mach 30.—(AP) — Swing man Harry Thomas is going to serve as a double for the only man ever to stop him—Max Schmeling—when he faces champion Joe Louis in a fifteen round battle in the Chicago Stadium Friday night.

Louis revealed today that he is going to imagine that he is fighting Schmeling, so he can prove a few things to himself and correct mistakes he made when the German knocked him out in eleven rounds two years ago. This will be his last engagement before a return match with Schmeling somewhere in the United States next June 22.

"I'm going after Thomas the same way I expect to go after Schmeling," Louis said. "Thomas has an awkward style. He does everything wrong. He fires his shell from any old place and knows nothing about boxing but that won't stop me from practising on him with some of the stuff I will use on the German."

S.H.S. JUNIOR CHAMPIONS WON OVER ALL-STARS

Chalked Up Three to Nothing Victory Last Night—Ross Campbell Tallied Twice and Played Outstanding Game for Winners—Tilt Was Very Clean with Only Three Penalties.

Sherbrooke High School's Interscholastic League junior team handed the Sherbrooke High Midget All-Stars a sound three to nothing lacing at the Sherbrooke Arena last night in a one-sided affair that showed the league juniors to have a distinct edge over the All-Stars.

In the opening canto, the school juniors skated around the All-Stars with their superior passing attacks and steadier defence. Jimmy Anderson put the league team out in front after ten minutes of play in a very rugged chapter. Anderson skated through on a solo rush to tally on a low drive to the left corner of the net.

In the second session, the juniors went to work but had tough luck around the nets. Ross Campbell, however, flashed through for two cleverly obtained tallies. On the first he outwitted the defence and fired from close in to give Milne no chance on a hard, short drive for the back of the net. He gave a nice display of stick-handling in getting his second goal, going in on a solo play.

The final frame saw the All-Stars hold the powerful junior team scoreless as they stayed back and waited for the breaks.

Standout of the game was Ross Campbell, with his two sparkling goals and effective backchecking. Pettigrue played well to get a shutout and Lorne Campbell was a continual threat on the juniors' ace forward trio.

Lorne Arnold and Lloyd Millar did well for the All-Stars with Pete Miller and A. Stewart also playing fine games.

The teams were:

Leafs Beat Boston Three to Two in Overtime to Win Hockey League Championship — Gordie Drillon Starred with Winning Goal—Americans Head for Stanley Cup Finals with Three to One Victory Over Hawks.

Reconstruction doesn't often pay dividends so quickly as it has for Toronto Maple Leafs, who held the National Hockey League championship today at the culmination of a two-year new deal.

It's the quality of the material that has made Leafs what they are, though, and whatever the other managers may try they'll have a hard time finding so lush a crop of youngsters as Conny Smythe has gathered. The outlook is altogether gloomy for anyone anxious to stop the Smythe forces in the next couple of seasons.

The best of the second-year men, Gordon Drillon, fired the winning goal last night as Toronto stamped to the N.H.L. title with a third straight victory, three to two, over the mighty Bruins, of and at Boston, in overtime.

The same Drillon decided the second game of the best-of-five series Saturday with a third-period goal that brought a two to one win at Toronto.

And George Parsons, just up from the Minors, rattled in the only score when Leafs won the series opener at home. Syl Apps, voted most valuable rookie in the League last winter, helped Drillon get an early goal last night and aided him again on the winner. Another second-year player, Turk Broda, was a miracle man in Leafs' goal all through the series.

New York Americans have come to within a step of Stanley Cup finals with Toronto through a rebuilding programme of their own and—more immediately—through a three to one triumph over Chicago Black Hawks last night in the first game of Cup semi-finals. Americans can qualify to meet the dashing Leafs by winning the second match of the best-of-three round at Chicago tomorrow.

But the Gotham club's plan of strengthening has been different. Manager 'Red" Dutton has made Americans a contender by grabbing up veterans who had passed their peaks and making them into a heady unit. It's a case of now or never with Dutton, for some of his stars are bound to slip away back next season. For instance Johnny Sorrell, who shot the winning counter in the first play-off game with Rangers and the winner again last night, was discarded by Detroit in mid-season after years of service.

Toronto began to make over last winter with the retirement of goalie George Hainsworth and "King" Clancy. Jack Shill, now with Chicago, and "Happy" Day, were shipped to Americans to make way for newcomers last fall. But as the young blood poured in few foresaw quick development of a championship combination.

The sweep of the Boston series was as brisk and startling as the team itself. Highly favored beforehand because of five wins over Leafs in six schedule starts, Bruins lashed all their power at the young machine and each time yielded to an inspired rally in the third period or overtime. Harvey Jackson, Leaf star, was out of the third battle with a sprained arm.

Again last night Eddie Shore, game warhorse of the defence, led charge after charge on Broda's citadel. Three minutes from the finish he set up the play for the tying goal—Bill Cowley's second of the night—and he was still driving the Bruins when "Bingo" Kampman started a play that Apps and Drillon carried through to completion after ten minutes of overtime.

Drillon whipped home Apps' pass early in the second to put Toronto ahead one to nothing and, after Cowley clicked for Bruins as the third began, "Pep" Kelly put the visitors up again with Parsons' aid. Then Shore gathered steam.

Time after time he sparked fourman and five-man drives and finally, when those failed, he took a face-off near the Leaf goal, won it and passed to Cowley. Bill smashed at the puck and it caught an upper corner behind Broda to send the game into extra time.

Goalie Tiny Thompson didn't see Drillon's pay-off marker. Apps picked up the puck as Kampman dropped it at the Bruin blue line and whipped it to Drillon flying along the right boards.

The Moncton meteor's shot sped through a group of players before the net.

"Long Jawn" Sorrell has been second only to Drillon among play-off heroes, yet early in the season Detroit had him playing with its Pittsburgh farm club—and Detroit never not out of last place in the big league. Another Red Wing castoff, "Red" Beattie, helped unobtrusive Johnny to the deciding goal last night, Sorrell's fourth score of the play-offs.

Americans, just out of their terrific "Subway Series" with Rangers, had to come from behind to beat Hawks, who finished off Montreal Canadiens Saturday. That's the way the star-spangled oldsters like to do it, though.

Carl Voss converted Roger Jenkins' pass to give Chicago a first-period lead and big Nels Stewart levelled the score in the second by punching in a forward pass from Lorne Carr.

Sorrell's money drive came four minutes from the end, when Beattie darted behind the goal and emerged with the puck. Less than a minute from the finish "Sweeney" Schriner added Americans' third goal, to make their win so impressive the fans decided Hawks wouldn't be back for a third game Sunday.

"Y" GREENS WIN CHAMPIONSHIP IN BASKETBALL

Beat Bishop's College Last Night Twenty-Two to Eight to Take Ladies' Basketball League Title for Second Successive Year—Winners Undefeated All Season.

The Y.W.C.A. Greens gained the championship of the Sherbrooke Ladies' Basketball League for the second successive year when they took the measure of Bishop's University twenty-two to eight last night, to finish up an unbeaten season.

Emily Von Berg and Dot Miller starred for the winning team, getting six points each, while Irene Bachelder and Ruth McMillan scored four each. Patty Wiggett and Dot Martin divided the Co-eds' points, each getting four.

At quarter time the score stood two to nothing for the Greens, and at half time it was eight to four. A last period scoring splurge made the win decisive for the Sherbrooke girls.

The teams were as follows:

Y.W.C.A. Greens: The Misses Miller 0-6, McCabe 1-0, Von Berg 2-4, Bachelder 0-4, McMillan 4-0, Hall 1-0, Gaffney, McIntyre. Total 8-14—22.

Bishop's: The Misses B. McDougall, Wiggett 2-2, Martin 2-2, Everett. Richardson, Baker, N. McDougall, Brennand. Total 4-4—8.

Referee, Harry Gray.

RED RAIDERS WILL NOT PLAY IN BOSTON BEFORE THE 9TH OF APRIL

Art Lapierre, manager of the Sherbrooke Hockey Club, said this morning that the Red Raiders had given up the idea of matches in Boston on April 3, 9 and 10, as expenses would be too high. However, Mr. Lapierre went on to say, the Red Raiders might play against the Olympics over the week-end of 9 and 10.

Archie Wilcox, coach of the club, is coming to Sherbrooke today and will discuss ways and means with Mr. Lapierre. As plans for a game on the 3 at Boston have fallen through, the Sherbrooke Hockey will hold a banquet on Saturday, April 2, to celebrate the fine season enjoyed by the squad.

RAMBLERS AND STARS WIN INTAM LEAGE PLAY-OFF GAMES

Conny Smythe had more to be happy about today than the way his Toronto Maple Leafs eliminated Boston Bruins from Stanley Cup play-offs. The "Little Corporal" can take a bow for signing up rookie "Red" Heron only a few days ago for Syracuse Stars.

For it looks as if canny Conny made a strike when he got hold of the red head, who starred all season with the amateur Toronto Goodyears until their elimination from Allan Cup playdowns. Heron paced the defending champion Stars to a three to two overtime victory last night against Pittsburgh Hornets in an International-American Hockey League play-off game.

The victory might have been called a surprise because Hornets finished in second place in the Western division to Stars' third place in the same section, but there was nothing unexpected about a two to nothing licking Philadelphia Ramblers handed New Haven Eagles in a similar play-off in the Eastern division.

ALLAN CUP SURVIVORS

Red Lake Thunderers, Flin Flon Bombers and Chatham Maroons were knocked from Allan Cup contention last night and Maxville Millionaires were declared "out" by President Cecil Duncan, of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association. This left five teams still in the running for the trophy, as follows:

East:
Quebec—Quebec; Ontario—Falconbridge, Cornwall.
West:
Ontario—Port Arthur; British Columbia—Trail.

MEMORIAL CUP SURVIVORS

No Memorial Cup playdown game was played last night, with the result six teams still are in the running for the prized Dominion junior hockey crown. They follow:

East:
Quebec—Verdun; Ontario—Sudbury, Oshawa, Perth.
West
Manitoba—St. Bonifice; Alberta —Edmonton.

MEMORIAL CUP PLAYDOWNS TONIGHT

East
Sudbury versus Oshawa at Toronto. (Second of best of three game series, Sudbury won first.)

Seems a bit strange to see our old pal Max Baer up there in second place among the heavyweight challengers, but you can't deny that the fellow earned the spot.

Fashion Swings into Spring

LADYLIKE COATS AND ENSEMBLES ARE THE STYLE

The Bizarre, the Sophisticated, the Crudely Showy or Boyishly Sportsy Are Gone this Spring.

With Fashions for 1938 becoming increasingly feminine and flattering, a gay Spring Season opens with a muted rainbow of colors blending in costume ensembles. The bizarre, the sophisticated, the crudely showy or boyishly sportsy are gone. Smart women turn to a mode so youthfully gay and yet so lady-like that the new styles seem more flattering and wearable than ever.

There is an "air" about new coats and ensembles. They demand a more erect posture, in the lady-like manner, for they are boxy and slim, or fitted and flaring. Boxy lines in "little" coats, slim straight lines in new swaggers, and fitted collarless lines in dressy casual coats all accentuate the straight slim silhouette.

But while the simplicity of line and detail give youthful naivete to this season's coats, the new fabrics more than make up for the lack of trimmings. Their lovely textures and colorings concentrate attention on the new mesh and lacy open-weave woollens, the new twills and ribbed coatings, and the smoother softer fabrics with a delightful suede texture.

Coats Create New Ensemble Mode

The spirit of the 1900's persists in the lady-like combination of coats and dresses to create a whole new ensemble mode. Perfect blending of colors, the discreet accent of color on dark ensembles, the moulded look of the new silhouette give a feeling of elegance to Spring costume ensembles. High-bosomed detail and new pocket treatments on many coats as well as the intricate use of stitchings and similar trimmings also emphasize this refinement.

Military Capes Step Into Fashion

Swinging along gracefully in Spring breezes, the new slim-lined capes have their own special claim to fashion attention. Bright braidings and buttons enhance their military look, while adding the touch of youthful chic. Some of these are softened by the use of shirred shoulder lines, and many have gay print linings or front facings to give them a dressy look.

Long capes, buttoning straight down the front, look very new and will be worn by the more daring women of fashion. However, shorter capes which may be matched with several dresses will be a popular fashion.

Toppers Swing Into Spring Again

Most popular with the younger crowd are this year's pastel jigger coats and the gay little "swing swaggers" with their casual lines. Called "toss-on coats," they match or mix brightly with print frocks or the lovely pastel wool dresses. Trimmed with stitching in tailored fashion, they are collarless and slim or full and swinging. Pockets and buttons give amusing variation to their simple lines.

SUITS IN PARIS TAKE ON A SCHOOLGIRL COMPLEXION

FOR EASTER: NEW SILHOUETTE AND TUNIC-LIKE TOPCOATS IN CONTRASTING COLORS

Pin stripes are smart this season. And longer suit coats are widely discussed. This outfit, by Mainbocher, emphasizes both of these style points and promises to be one of the most successful models in his spring collection. Known as the "schoolgirl silhouette suit," it is carried out in medium brown wool with the pin stripes in white. The turtle-neck sweater blouse is of lightweight beige and brown jersey.

Right: Mainbocher launched two-colored coats which do not look like coats and, of them, this is one of the most striking. It's of high gray and black wool, trimmed with a lei collar of platinum fox which is removable. Suzanne Talbot designed the black felt toque.

HATS SWEEP UPWARD TO SHOW HIGH CURLS

With a dashing tilt to her new Spring hat, milady piles her curls high and ties her veil in a crisp bow under her chin. Bandanas fly gaily out behind the new Mexican roller hats, and wide Spanish sailors. Scarf turbans in gay colors perch forward to display the new coiffures. For it is a millinery mode of dash and color and youth!

Veils are more flattering than ever. Flowers bloom in profusion atop new crowns, and peep brightly from beneath tilted brims, or flaring bonnets. Fine straws in shining dark colors and rustic straws in a whole range of new sunny yellows, give variety to the most colorful hat mode in many years.

There's a definite Youth Movement abroad this Spring, and its gayest expression is in the millinery mode. Many new shapes and colors adorn the smartest heads. Forward pitching bowl bretons are anchored with snood veils at the back, and show clustering curls piled high. Fluttering scarfs are wound around softly padded pill-boxes, and then draped in enchanting lines around the neck.

Sombreros with peaked crowns are tied on with firm chin straps and wide brims crowd the fashion picture. Stiff-brimmed new sailors and high profile brims are flattering to frame the fact. Bonnets tie naively beneath the chin, and high padded berets bend gracefully back from the youthful forehead.

NEW CHILD STUDY SEEN IN CLOTHES

Allowing the children to have more voice in the selection of their own clothes is said to be one of the scientific developments in child-raising this year. Surprising amount of good taste and practical judgment shown by these youngsters has encouraged teachers and parents to give them greater leeway.

One of the points stressed by children in choosing their clothes is the practicality of garments. In trying on garments, children take many liberties with the new merchandise, in testing its strength and comfort. Their special pleasure is in the choice of gay colors, yet extreme good taste is shown by many and a definite feeling for matching colors indicates that school children are color-wise and sensitive to hues at an early age.

Color is said to influence girls more than boys in selecting clothes, but even small boys show an amazing ability to choose the gayest colors in ties. Red is a favorite with boys and girls; blue is very popular. Brown is liked more by boys than girls, perhaps from habit. Greens and yellows are liked by older girls, possibly due to their subtler hues. All the primary colors are popular.

GYPSY BOLEROS TO BRIGHTEN FROCKS

With a dash of Spanish red, and a gay sprinkling of flowers, new printed boleros tie their gypsy sashes about dark Spring frocks. Perfect accents for the simple tailored frocks so popular this year, these beloro accessories often have matching turbans draped in flattering high lines. Others are worn with colorful accessories that pick up the bright color.

In a season of many boleros, the new print accessories are combined in other ways, too. Gay print blouses are worn with bolero suits, and gypsy sashes are tied about wide waistlines. Young and flattering to the figure, the new boleros are liked by old and young.

Gypsy stripes make popular bandings on dark bolero frocks, in line with the gay youthful mode this Spring. And a whole series of floral stripes are shown in colorful array. With pleats so popular, these are effective in entire dresses, or are used in bolero tops and sashes with the new navy frocks.

Pike's Peak undoubtedly is Colorado's best known mountain, and Long's Peak runs a close second, but both of these must look up to numerous other summits of Colorado.

Mount Elbert and Mount Massive, two of Colorado's little known mountain peaks, hold the record for height in that state, with 14,420 feet of height each. They tower more than 300 feet above Pike's Peak.

IN THE WOMEN'S SPHERE

A huge, three-tiered fern stand—as cool looking as a fountain and summery as a garden is the chief decorative note of this lovely dining room. White leather coverings make the heavy chairs seem more in the summer mood. The same effect could be achieved with white chintz or white linen slip covers. The tall white screen is decorated in two shades of green.

Roast Is Investment, So Cook Carefully

You don't invest a fortune carelessly, nor should you cook a gilt-edged roast without thought to its returns in taste and value. Over the two highly satisfactory ways of roasting meat—the searing method and the constant temperature method—there is a minor controversy.

Searing Method

Wipe meat with damp cloth. Never immerse or allow to stand in water. That draws out the juices. You paid big money for the juices, better use them yourself. Season roast with salt and pepper. Have oven heated to very hot (500 degrees F.) Place roast in open pan with fat side up. Run roast into very hot oven and sear for 20 minutes. Then reduce oven heat to slow (300 degrees F.) and continue roasting at that temperature until done.

Constant Temperature Method

Wipe meat with damp cloth. Season with salt and pepper. Place fat side up in open pan. Pre-heat oven to slow (300 degrees F.) Place roast in oven and continue roasting at this same temperature until done. For fresh pork, increase the constant temperature to 325 degrees F.

Meat cooking researchers prefer the constant temperature method. About small roasts they have this to say: "A small piece of meat does not make so satisfactory a roast as a large one. The fact remains, however, that many one and two-rib roast of beef are used. A one-rib roast would be called a thin roast. Searing may improve the appearance of the meat, but a low temperature for the greater part of the cooking is advisable. Putting the roast under the broiler flame at the end of the cooking period is one good way of accomplishing the desired browning. A small roast requires shorter total cooking time than a larger one, but more minutes per pound. A moderate temperature with quick browning at the end rather than a high temperature, seems more desirable."

Roast beef always reminds me of a book published in San Francisco in 1914 and now out of print. It contains this nugget of wisdom: "Fine for roast beef is this Delmonico Raisin Sauce. Brown butter in a skillet and stir in a teaspoon of flour, forming a smooth paste. Add 1 cup of hot soup stock, stirring constantly. While boiling, put into this a handful of raisins, a handful of blanched almonds, pounded, half a lemon, sliced thin, a few cloves, a pinch of cinnamon, and a little horseradish."

ALMOND COOKIES FOR THE TEA TABLE

What could be finer than almond cookies when it comes comes time for a cup of tea? Perhaps it's the Mandarin influence or perhaps it's just a desire for "match-making food." At the any rate almond cookies are preference number one when tea is served.

The recipe for Oatmeal Almond Cookies is as follows:

½ cup butter
1 cup sugar
1/3 cup almonds blanched and chopped
½ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon cloves
1 egg
1 cup Quaker Rolled Oats
½ teaspoon nutmeg
Grated rind of ½ lemon
⅛ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons milk
1 cup flour
2 teaspons baking powder

Cream butter and sugar together well. Add well beaten egg. Sift flour with spices and baking powder, then mix into this the oats, nuts, finely chopped, and lemon rind. Add this mixture and liquid to batter. Then drop by spoonfuls on buttered cooky sheet. Press half of an almond meat on each and bake in a quick oven—400 degrees.

To fillet a fish, clean and skin first. Then bone, beginning at the tail and working up.

Marriage Put In a Class By Itself

Grandmother learned all she knew of marriage in one duty talk from her mother. And in the odd bits she was able to over-hear.

Her granddaughter, if she is a student at Cleveland College, Western Reserve University, is getting the complete lowdown from a formidable list of pedagogues.

Instead of a mother's brief enlightening, she is getting pointers from two psychologists, two biologists, a sociologist, a psychiatrist, a physician, a home economics instructor and a parent education specialist.

They are analyzing every side of marriage and every imaginable stumbling block of love.

There is no excuse for her if she enters marriage thinking that budgets and cooking are non-essentials, and that a house can become a home without the wife's putting forth continual thought and effort.

When the specialists get through telling her what's what, she should look on the wedding ceremony much in the frame of mind of the person hired for a new job. Getting the job—or getting married—is only the beginning. Making a success of it is what takes thought and work.

She couldn't come through such a course expecting to marry a perfect man, or find marriage an ideal state.

And she shouldn't come through it unaware that disappointments, adjustments, and worry are a part of every marriage.

When daughter gets through she way not be ready to deal with every marital problem that comes her way, but she should know enough to expect them when they come.

If she ends up in Reno—like her mother before her—it won't be with the cry, "Why didn't anyone tell me?"

Beauty Tips

There is a problem that all of you who wear gloves during the cold weather have found embarrassing. After a few days a new pair of gloves will acquire a sediment of dust and lint in the fingertips which readily transmits itself to the nail tips, leaving them grimy looking and unkempt. Try turning the tips of your gloves inside out and brushing thoroughly, then sprinkle a little talcum into the tips. Your nails will emerge looking as neat as if you had just left your manicurist's.

* * *

A good foundation garment will cover a multitude of figure faults. Do not buy your foundations off the bargain counter without having them especially fitted. Have all the adjustments made before you leave the store—garters moved if necessary, hipline shortened or lengthened and shoulder straps adjusted. Buy the best quality you can afford.

Modes and Manners

Question: "Please let me know how the bride and groom leave the house. Does the bride go with the best man and the maid of honor with the bridegroom? I say the bride goes with father and maid of honor, and that the groom and best man wait at the altar. I am planning a church wedding for my daughter and there has been quite a bit of confusion over this problem. Thank you.—J. M. K."

Answer: The bride's mother leaves the home of the bride for the church first, going with the maid of honor. They are followed by the bride and her father. The bridegroom and best man are at the church, where they await the bride at the altar. The wedding party should plan to arrive a few minutes before the time scheduled for the ceremony.

Question: "Is it correct for a bride to acknowledge a wedding gift in a typewritten letter?—Mrs. William L."

Answer: Courtesy demands that such notes be written by hand. They need not be long, but they should be written as promptly as possible.

LIPS ARE ROUNDER

Have you ever noticed Louise Rainer's lovely mouth? Her lips are nice to start with but she makes them appear even warmer and fuller by using her lipstick to give a rounded effect at the corners. It is a trick that you might try. Instead of tapering your lipstick off to practically nothing as you approach the corners of your mouth, round it slightly to make the upper lip appear fuller.

"Meticulosity"

That's the Word for "Smartness"

You can be pretty, maybe beautiful, even though slightly make for smartness.

You can be pretty, maybe beautiful, even though slightly sleepy or quite listless. But you can't be smart. Not unless you're a better than average actress.

Because smartness—that "all-in-one-piece" appearance, that business of looking as if your clothes really belonged to you and of carrying yourself with an air—goes hand in hand with a certain amount of vigor. It takes a little energy to stand, walk and sit correctly. No one whose posture is poor is smart looking.

Be definite about the business of getting into your clothes. If you aren't, they're likely to hang on your figure instead of molding it. In the first place, everything you own ought to fit. No smart woman ever begrudges alteration fees or bills from the little tailor who knows just how to take in seams here, let them out there.

Pull your stockings up until they have that snug, neat look. Seams straight, please, and clean stockings every morning, of course. Don't tolerate a slip which sags or any piece of underwear which creates wrinkles under your dress. Powder your face and comb your hair before you put the carefully pressed dress on. Then pull it into place before you leave the mirror. The belt ought to be just long enough—not so long that you have to turn the end back.

As you go through each motion of dressing, consciously hold your body erect. Even when alone, you ought to practice standing in such a way as to set off your clothes to best advantage.

Social and Personal

Mrs. J. Keith Edwards left yesterday for Boston, where she will be a guest of relatives and friends until after Eastertide.

Miss Margaret Rider, nurse-in-training at the Sherbrooke Hospital, is leaving on Thursday for Montreal to continue her studies at the Royal Victoria Maternity Hospital.

Mrs. Lennox Wilson entertained at bridge yesterday afternoon at her residence on Quebec street for Mrs. O. R. Webster, of Boston, who is spending a few days in town. Contract was played at three tables and afterwards tea was served.

Mrs. J. A. Tate, Brampton, Ont., formerly of Sherbrooke, Que., announces the engagement of her daughter, Mabel Estell, to Mr. Carl Stedman Huxtable, of Fort Erie, Ont., son of Rev. and Mrs. Charles Huxtable, of Granby, Que. The marriage to take place in Toronto early in May.

Mrs. J. Nelson entertained delightfully at the tea hour yesterday afternoon at her home on King street for the benefit of the Ladies' Guild of St. Paul's Church. The hostess was assisted in receiving the many guests who attended her enjoyable tea party by Mrs. J. Halliday, the Guild's president. The pretty tea table, over which Mrs. Henry Saunders presided, was daintily adorned with spring flowers. Miss Margaret McDonald assisted in serving.

Members of the Sir John Sherbrooke Boy Scouts Mother's Auxiliary were pleasantly entertained at last evening's meeting by Mrs. J. W. Cotterell at her home on St. Charles street. Under the presidency of Mrs. Agnes Holly, final plans were made for a rummage sale on April 26th, and tentative arrangements were made for a card party next month. There followed a pleasant social hour during which the hostess served dainty refreshments, assisted by Mrs. T. Nutbrown, who will entertain the members for their next meeting at her home on Fabre street.

Mrs. David Echenberg and Mr. Hubert Johnston occupied the important roles of "auctioneers" at the Penny-Salè sponsored by the Y.M.C.A. Ladies' Auxiliary in the Y's Men's room last evening. Mrs. Alex. Johnston acted as cashier and Mrs. Garnet Ross sold the envelopes, each containing ten numbered paper pennies, which were equivalent to an entrance fee at the door.

The many and varied articles for the auction were arranged on long tables at one end of the spacious room, Mrs. Charles Ross, Mrs. E. A. Tomkins, Mrs. Z. W. Griffith and Mr. A. C. Stevens being in charge. This new method of paper penny auction sales proved most intriguing and great excitement was evinced by the "bidders" as the paper money was put in a box and they awaited the announcement of the lucky numbers. The door prize, a twenty-four pound bag of flour, was won by Mrs. A. C. Stevens.

The members of the Ladies Auxiliary are deeply grateful to all who contributed articles for the auction, to the many generous patrons who attended the Penny-Sale and to each and every one who helped to make this amusing event such a splendid success.

Mrs. Frank Edwards and Miss Noreen Dunsmore entertained the members of the Ladies' Aid Society of St. Andrew's Church delightfully last evening at the latter's home on Portland avenue. Mrs. Oscar Stenson, the president, presided over the brief business period which was opened in the customary manner with devotional exercises, Mrs. Bert. Jones being in charge last evening. Future activities were discussed and Miss Margaret Robins, treasurer, gave a gratifying report on the sums realized from the Silver Minstrels and the guest-tea and food sale recently sponsored by the Society, the proceeds from both these successful events far exceeding the expectations of the organizers.

At the close of the social hour which followed the business meeting, delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses. Mrs. Bert. Jones presided at the pretty table which was centered with pink and white snap-dragon in a silver bowl and ivory candles in silver holders. Assisting were Miss Gertrude Imrie and Mrs. M. F. MacKay.

Mrs. R. B. Rowley and her children, Helen Ann and Peter, who have been visiting the former's father, Mr. George Armitage, left yesterday for their home in Montreal.

Mr. E. M. Armitage left this morning for Montreal en route for New York, whence he sails on Saturday by the Empress of Australia for a cruise to Havana. Mrs. Armitage accompanied her husband as far as Montreal.

Members of the Women's Auxiliary of Trinity United Church and several visitors were entertained by Mrs. E. Hodge yesterday afternoon at her home on London street. Following the devotional exercises, conducted by Mrs. F. Cathcart, plans were made for a waffle tea in the near future. At the close of the meeting the hostess served delicious refreshments, assisted by the Misses Isabel Moore, Alice Poirier and Eleanor Hodge.

Members of the Young People's Society of Trinity United Church were the guests last evening of their sister society in Plymouth Church Hall, when the chief feature was a debate between the two organizations. The discussion was based upon the resolution "That the Divorce Laws of Quebec Need Reform."

The affirmative was upheld by Trinity Y.P.S., with Miss Margaret Sutherland and Mr. Forrest Lord, Jr., as representatives, while the negative, Plymouth Y.P.U., side was upheld by Miss Gwen Nixon and Mr. Arthur Rider. Rev. Fred Williams and Rev. F. A. C. Doxsee acted as judges and later announced their decision in favor of the negative or Plymouth side. The success of the United debate rather influenced the Young People of both societies in their decision to again join forces and attend a sugaring-off party at the Nutbrown farm, near Lennoxville, on Saturday afternoon.

Afterwards games were played under the direction of Mr. Raymond Stevenson. The jolly party was concluded by the serving of refreshments under the supervision of Messrs. Stewart Dunbar, Fred Fleming and Bruce Lothrop. Prior to dispersing Mr. Doxsee led the gathering in a sing-song which concluded with "God Save the King."

A French bedroom, with all the furniture in mellow brown walnut typical of the period, is another lesson in cool comfort for summer. The sparsely figured paper with cloud-blue ground and sprays of gold makes an ideal hot weather backdrop. Sheer, peach colored batiste finished with ball fringe falls in ruffled cascades over the Venetian blinds. Notice the summer implications of the handsome flower painting, the ivy and fresh flowers here and there.

You And Your Child

EVEN BABY MAY BE TAUGHT INDEPENDENCE

Baby's voice rose gleefully. "Just listen to Billy," the caller exclaimed. "Who's in there with him?"

"No one," the mother said. "He is alone. I leave him with a rattle or a stuffed toy and he amuses himself."

"And when he tires of play," the friend supplied, "I suppose he cries and then you go and pick him up." The mother shook her head. "That was grandmother's formula for training baby. You're 'way behind the times. Now, if you'll excuse me, I'll go to Billy. He is very quiet."

"That doesn't make sense," the friend teased. "Why do you have to go to him if he is quiet?"

"Well, in the first place it is almost time for him to be fed, and if I don't go to him soon he may start crying from hunger. That's a legitimate reason for crying. But even so, I try to avoid it whenever I can. Right now, however, I want to play with him. Billy has earned entertainment, don't you think? He has been such a good little boy."

By this time both women were in the nursery. Mother took baby from the crib and played with him. After a while, she sat him in the high-chair to be fed. There were no tears.

The mother explained: "Some children learn early in life that crying gets them attention. Billy was deliberately taught the reverse. Always when he cried, I'd first make sure he was dry and comfortable—and leave him alone. He was never played with or fondled if he cried."

DRIVE ON DRIVING

The year 1938 will be distinguished by the greatest concerted drive against traffic accidents since the automobile came into being. Many national fraternal organizations have laid aside other issues to campaign for safe driving.

THE INFERNAL MATCH

The first friction match is said to have been evolved by an English druggist, John Walker, in 1827. Today, the carless use of matches shares with careless smoking the blame for more destructive fires than any other single cause.

NOT A SWING ADDICT

St. Louis, March 30.—(AP)—Professor Joseph E. Maddy, of the University of Michigan, president of the National Music Educators' Conference meeting here this week, said today: "swing music is all right in its place—if you don't take it any more seriously than the newspaper comic strips."

Mannequins Step Out— of Windows!

SWIRL SKIRTS PREDOMINATE SPRING STYLE

Softer Blouses Also Serve to Make 1938 Frocks Freest Offered Since Carefree 1920's.

Smart women of fashion have adopted whole-heartedly the animated silhouette in Spring frocks. Swirl skirts and rhythmic swinging pleats give youthful verve in the youngest mode we have seen since the carefree 1920's. Action is the new work in fashion, whether it is expresesd in fan pleat sleeves, rippling skirts, or flying sashes. For it's a mode of youth and charm and gaiety!

Softer blouses distinguish the new frocks. Emphasis is placed on high shirrings and flattering draped necklines, frilly lingerie trims in pastel tones, or lacy yokes. Sleeves, too, are softer, pushed high in girlish puffs, or worn bracelet length with shirred elbows. Sashes and ribbon bows are favorite trims, again accentuating the youthfulness of the Spring dress mode.

As carefree as a Spanish dancer, the new bolero frock has won its way to fashion fame. In dark frocks it tops a gay printed or pastel blouse; in print frocks, the bolero may be of contrasting color. Because of their slenderizing lines, the bolero frocks of Spring, 1938, are worn by women of all ages and types. The new shorter boleros, amusingly cut to bust length, are especially youthful to the figure. With pleated or gored swirl skirts, the bolero jacket makes a costume ensemble of the simplest frock.

With a dressmaker mode for Spring, Fashion turns attention to the new balloon blouses, the newest expression of a lady-like mode. Bloused frocks, daintily shirred to their snug little belts, and skirts shirred to give emphasis to the blouse, are expressions of this very new looking silhouette. Bloused sleeves are also shown in high fashion circles, and are especially smart and flattering to the arm. The possibility of a blouse-and-skirt vogue is forecast for summer, following this trend.

In the Annamite language of southern Asia, the term "ma" has six different meanings, depending on the inflection used: young rice, but, horse, ghost, tomb and mama.

EXOTIC COLOR IS KEYNOTE OF SPRING FASHION

South Sea Colors Enliven Spring Mode — Undersea Pastels, Tropical Radiance, and Technicolor Hues Blend in Muted Rainbow of Color.

Inspired by the recent vogue for South Sea travel and movies, "Technicolor Hues" brighten and blend in the most beautiful color mode seen in many years.

Half-tones and muted pastels are keyed in strange new color harmonies; and bright soft colors accent the many navy and black costumes chosen by fashionable women.

A very new expression of this artistic new handling of colors is seen in the blending of several gradations of the same color, with undertones of mist gray or overtones of sunny yellows, creating a lovely symphony of color within the costume ensemble.

Tropic Gardens in Spring Prints

Expressing the mode for crowded colors, with the blending of many tones and hues, Spring prints in daytime frocks have a gay tropical garden effect that is new and lovely. Many real-like flowers are sprinkled in profusion over dark or pastel grounds.

Wildflower prints in realistic designs; quaint daisy and other old-fashioned patterns give amusing relief to black or navy grounds of tailored frocks. Panels of flowers make lively stripes especially lovely in pleated dresses or blouses.

Under-Sea Pastels in New Suits

Blending perfectly with the flattering prints in dresses and blouses, new coats and suits are shown in a delightful range of pastels. So muted and closely harmonized are these colors that they might have been borrowed from the enchanting hues of undersea gardens. And in the new soft woollens, they blend so perfectly that a whole series of costumes may be assembled with separate skirts, jackets and coats.

Soft bluish greens, golden shades of green, rosy pinks, misty yellows and bluish violet shades are worn in this year's Spring suits and coats. Furs, too, find their own delightful color blendings, and are tinted in flattering tones to harmonize with coats or suits.

More exotic Mexican colors are effective in gay colored accessories with neutral tweed suits. With the new oatmeal tweeds, and soft gray suits, gay printed blouses, turbans and scarfs add a youthful touch which is very flattering. A whole range of tans and rust hues, or rose tones are especially effective with the neutral beige or gray tweeds, too.

With the revival of fan pleats and shirrings, new frocks are also trimmed with old-fashioned quilting and embroidery or braid. Never heavy nor bulky in treatment, these trimming details are especially effective on new sheer dresses. Pastel laces and dainty fagotting are other trims liked in new pastel frocks, giving an exquisite femininity to Spring dresses.

FASHION TAKES A "LONG LOOK"

Perfect under a fur coat now and sure to be useful all spring, this handsomely tailored frock of sheer, all-wool crepe, in navy or black, has a braided belt, fly front, short, fitted sleeves, buttons down the front. It gives the figure that new "long look" through the waistline, flares just enough at the hemline to be flattering to the legs.

See to it that linen is kept in a closet that is dry but not hot. It is good to use old sheets to cover the various shelves of snowy linen no matter how immaculate your linen closet may be.

A heavy bedspread that has become old will give valuable service as a sounding cloth for the dining-room table.

Stockings for children will feel more comfortable and wear better if bought half a size larger than the foot.

MEN DON'T KNOW WOMEN'S STYLES BUT THEY KNOW WHAT THEY LIKE

Simplicity Wins A Male Jury Verdict

New York, March 30—The smartest new spring costumes for every hour of a woman's life are practical, conservative. They are, indeed, according to a poll of doctors, lawyers, merchants, chefs and radio announcers, conducted recently in New York, exactly the kind of clothes men like to see woman wear.

Men, it seems, usually are unaware of high style points, but they instantly spot careless tailoring and object violently to bad grooming. They see women—not their clothes. Which brings right home again all the things we've learned about the importance of having a few dresses and one suit which fit perfectly. Even if this means spending money on alteration fees equal to the cost of another dress.

For "Background" Frocks

The one hundred men who answered the questions of the fashion staff of Rockefeller Center's magazine voted unanimously for the type of dresses women know as background frocks. These have simple necklines that lend themselves admirably to a variety of collars, jewels and so on. Their bodices flatter the figure. Their skirts mold hips, often flare slightly at the hemline.

When asked about a simple street dress of pale blue wool, appropriately named "Nine-to-Five," fifty men said "Swell."

The remaining fifty thought it too dressy. And of this group, forty added that they preferred women in business in suits.

For cocktails and tea, the men picked a simply cut black skirt and crisp pique lace blouse with a dramatic hat with flowing veil. For country week-ends, they liked a tweed suit — comfortable, informal. Seems they prefer jackets, blouses and skirts to sweaters and skirts.

The jury went one hundred per cent in favor of an evening gown with fitted bodice and flowing skirt —one of spring's most important silhouettes. The dress they liked best is of blue chiffon with an off-the-shoulder neckline finished with a yoke of huge, many-colored poppies.

Want No Mannequins

"We want the women we take out to attract admiring attention, but we don't want their clothes to make us—and them—conspicuous," they threw in for good measure. "There's a great difference between being dressed to attract admiration and wearing clothes that attract attention."

All in all, just to simplify the matter, the kind of clothes men like are the kind easy to find this season. Watch for the bloused silhouette in tune with the trend toward easy-fitting, comfortable styles.

Evening gowns are feminine but not fussy or frilly. The best street dresses are ever so simple. In fact, they encourage one to start haunting the costume jewelry counters. Country suits are made of handsome tweeds that really are hard and strong but look and feel soft. It's a spring when it's really easier to find clothes in good taste than in bad—a year when a girl doesn't have to look far to find perfectly tailored, simple costumes that will flatter her and please her beaux.

Feminine to the Nth degree, this new spring evening gown of blue chiffon has an off-the-shoulder decolletage, fitted bodice and flowing skirt. It is trimmed with a yoke of huge varicolored poppies.

Though highly decorative, this pique lace blouse is essentially simple of line, as is the plain black skirt worn with it. The ensemble, excellent for cocktails or dining, gets its one dramatic note from the hat and flowing veil.

ROOMINESS AND COMFORT MEN'S FASHION TREND

Drapes, Which Hang Casually, Give More Room and Freer Swing to Men's Spring Clothes.

New spring suits pay strict heed to the demands of well-dressed men the country over... they're a direct response to the call for more comfort and more style. Thus the popular drape style has been extended and emphasized to give increased roominess and freedom of action.

The popularity of the drape is proved, and it is now as necessary to fashion style as the custom of dressing itself. Waistlines have been lowered, lapels are almost shoulder wide in both single and double breasted models, tailoring emphasizes wider shoulders tapering in soft lines to a narrower waist.

The whole effect excludes severe lines and gives the impression of unaffected, untailored casualness.

Drapes More Flattering

Special soft construction flatters every figure, developing good points and minimizing bad.

The easy lines give all models a chesty appearance, and the added length of the jacket allows freer action with no binding across the shoulders or under the arm. The trousers are worn high on the waist and drape to an inch below shoetops.

This spring fabrics are lighter than ever, which aids in the desired drape styling. All fabrics feature patterned design with new colors and combinations.

A light worsted tweed has been featured at this winter's Southern resorts and is very popular for its adaptability to the new drape.

Spring flannels are featured in assorted patterns and colors for suit and odd-trouser sets. This fabric is successfully tailored in drape and lounge styles. Gabardines in all colors and patterns are worn from spring into summer. They combine beauty with unsurpassed duty, and are now acceptable for business and formal wear. Shetlands, cashmeres and homespuns are gaining in popularity because of new lightweights and selection of colors and patterns.

Patterns Feature Color

With the stamp of approval from custom tailors both here and abroad, stripes for spring prove a real tonic from the drab winter. In wide, pinpoint and alternating patterns, stripes are laid on backgrounds of dusty shades of blue, grey, tan and popular mixtures.

Always essential to the complete wardrobe are plaids. All plaids are subdued in design and color. There is a soft blending of pattern and color that gives a rich, luxurious tone to the drape styles.

Light fabrics, rich colors, subdued patterns, new lines... all sum up to the one big style hit of the season: Casual Drape! Its universal appeal makes it the unanimous choice of all men who are keyed to selections of style and quality. It's casual... all the way!

SPORTS SUITS TO GO PLACES THIS SPRING

Originally designed for the man whose custom it was to follow the hounds or flush a grouse or two, sport suits have finally received a degree of acceptance which is surprising in view of their former social status. For today they are found on the sports field, in offices, at informal parties and for general city wear. In other words, it is a "to the city" movement, and new easy drape and loose fit find universal acceptance wherever they might go... and they're going everywhere during this spring and the coming summer.

Surveys conducted both here and abroad show that sport-back suits are at last settling down to definite pattern-designs. Thrown out are the exaggerated pleats, gussets and trick-backs. Retained are the sporty lines and fresh out-of-doors flavor. Sport backs reflect restraint with no sacrifice of sportiness or untailored, casual appearance.

Stripes, checks, plaids, herringbones and combination patterns all show new and lighter fabrics in a wide choice of new colors. Gabardines, flannels, shetlands, cashmeres, homespuns and tweeds all have mixtures of dull, dust greens and greys; powder blues; taupe shades and off-shades of grey. These in addition to the regular neutral shades of brown, blue, grey, and tan. These are new colors and are more flattering and adaptable to new drape and lounge models for spring.

The longer jackets and looser lines combine with lightweight fabrics to assure real comfort. All fabrics from tweeds to flannel are lighter in texture and in actual weight. In almost every case the lines of the draped suits allow for the elimination of built-up padding and heavy supporting linings... and the total effect is real comfort. Soft construction, soft fabrics and soft lines equal an easy style that is in keeping with the desire for "casualness."

FASHION LOOSENS UP AND SPRINGS A NEW ONE FOR EASTER

The "Free-'n'-Easy" Silhouette

A shining example of the new loose lined silhouette is this wonderfully flattering spring coat of nubby wool in navy blue. Its hemline swings. Its armholes are wide and comfortable, sleeves full. Its back, as shown at right, is generously bloused. The suave fabric plus the loose lines and the crisp white pique collar make it one of the handsomest models in current collections.

New York, March 30—This is the spring of springs for the woman who never has been quite happy in man-tailored suits or coats which are figure-hugging — often figure-binding. For, in addition to severely tailored togs — always chic and always right — there's a new silhouette in the Easter fashion picture. It is called, variously, loose-fitting, easy-lined, "free-'n'-easy."

Fullness swings forward in a black wool afternoon coat which Paris couturier Bruyere features. And it swings from the waistline, giving hips and legs complete freedom. Fullness swings from all directions in many of American couturiere Elizabeth Hawes' coats. As a matter of fact, in every collection, easy-fitting clothes vie with figure-molding ones.

If you have had a slim reefer every spring for years, ask to see a few coats with bloused backs. Maybe you'll decide to try one for a change. Look, too, at coats with elbow-length sleeves. And with full cut armholes.

Derive From Gibson Blouses

In evening as well as daytime dresses, fullness often begins at the waistline instead of just below hips. Many redingote ensembles include dresses with pleated skirts and easy-fitting coats with backs that swing and sleeves which end anywhere between elbow and wrist.

The vogue, talked about early in the winter, for separate skirts and Gibson girl blouses and ballerina skirts with full blouses such as Spanish bullfighters wear, was a forerunner of the new silhouette. Couturiers may have figured that the woman who has been wearing a loose blouse and flaring skirt under her winter coat might not like to discard them in favor of a perfectly straight skirt and a snug jacket.

The majority of hats seem to be less difficult to keep on the head, too. Large numbers of them have crowns that are a little deeper. And wide ribbons instead of narrow elastic bands across the back are evidence that no girl really will have to walk in the Eastern parade with one hand on her hat.

So softly tailored that it achieves — without being obvious — the new easy-fitting look that many fashionables like this spring, this dressmaker ensemble is as refreshing as spring breezes. It includes a navy blue, sheer wool dress and topcoat, the coat lined with polka dot silk and the ties on the dress matching the lining. Notice that the pleats in the skirt start at the hipline. Also the elbow-length sleeves, full-cut with slightly widened shoulder lines carry out the "free-'n'-easy"-motif.

CHECK TWEEDS, GIANT PLAIDS GAINING FAVOR

New Mixit Suits Presented by Great Britain Win Special Support Among College and Sportswomen.

Fashion checks the British Entries in the fashion race this Spring! Plaids, houndstooth checks, nubby Scotch tweeds and plaids have all gained favor with the American sportswoman. Backed by the college group, these new "mixit" suits combine in every color and type, with special favor shown to the mannish jackets and simple pleated or gored tweed skirts in blending hues. Norfolk jackets, double-breasted or single-breasted styles are all in favor. Patch pockets in many amusing shapes give the only variation to these classic styles.

Being as young as possible, the smart woman this Spring will vary her mixit wardrobe with bolero jackets. Looking very girlish and chic, she wears these in plain soft colors or colorful tweeds, with pleated skirts; for more tailored moods, she combines the bolero with a simply tailored skirt and a skirt with matching tie. And for country wear, she may even use a bolero jacket with her neatly tailored slacks, or with a tweedy skirt and sweater.

With soft suits favored for all daytime occasions, the more feminized versions in twill jackets and other light woollens, are worn with matching or contrasting skirts to create smartly tailored daytime suits. Three-piece suit costumes are also created by the addition of a classic tweed reefer coat or a dressy casual topcoat.

Variety in blouses ranges from the strictly tailored shirt blouse with bright studs and matching tie, to the most feminine and frilly creation of chiffon or lace. Gay little taffeta blouses in prints are especially liked with boleros and skirts, and give a bright accent to simple jacket and skirt ensembles, as the "mixit" mode goes merrily on its way through Spring.

SPRING CHECKS IN IN PARIS, SHARING MODE WITH STRIPES

LOOM IMPORTANT IN FRENCH STYLE FOR CASUAL WEAR

Fresh as a breath of spring and smartly tailored, but not severely so, is Maggy Rouff's spring suit which shows masterly handling of stripes. The jacket is of bright pink flannel with hair-line stripes in black and a black slide fastener closing. The skirt—a trim, slenderizing model—is of black wool.

Checks loom importantly on the fashion horizon in Paris this season. It's a year to consider them, and stripes, too, ever so carefully when shopping for country suits or ensembles for casual wear. This model, signed Molyneux, includes a youthful pleated skirt in red and black checked wool and a trim black wool jersey jacket with rounded revers.

MISSION WORK WAS REVIEWED AT KNOWLTON

Inspiring Address Delivered to Congregation of St. Paul's Church at Knowlton — Lantern Lecture Proved Interesting.

Knowlton, March 30.—On Sunday morning, March 26th, in St. Paul's Church, Rev. Dr. F. A. Robinson, of Toronto delivered an inspiring sermon, "Gospel Triumphs Around the World," which included experiences with Missionaries and others in his recent visit to Japan, China, Ceylon, India, Egypt, Palestine etc.

The following hymns were sung, "Praise My Soul The King of Heaven," "Thou Whose Almighty Word," "Dear Lord and Father of Mankind," "Stand Up, Stand Up For Jesus."

The 122nd Psalm was read by the rector, Rev. A. E. Rollit and the lesson Isaih the sixth chapter and the fourth chapter of St. Luke was given by Dr. Robinson.

The guest speaker at the outset, stated that it was a joy to be associated with Rev. A. E. Rollit in this service and referred to other services to be held Sunday and Monday evening. His desire above all others was to speak a good word for the Master. Dr. Robinson remarked that he had gone up and down this Dominion for over thirty years telling the Gospel story in different ways and in difficult places. He had seen the storms that had raged around the Bible, and heard the criticism that had been hurled against the church, some deserved and some underserved. However, the church is still the greatest influence in the life of a community and that he was never more sure of Jesus Christ and his power to meet the individual and national needs than today.

At the evening service an illustrated address was delivered by Dr. Robinson on "Scenes in Palestine" and "Scriptural Masterpieces.

The hymns, "Abide with Me," "Oh, Beulah Land," "Jesus Keep Me Near The Cross" and "In the Cross of Christ I Glory" were sung.

The slides of Palestine pictured the Sea of Galilee; the Capernaum Synagogne; scenes on the bank of the river Jordan; court of Ancient Japho, a great orange industry here, nine and one half million oranges being exported from this port yearly; Hukkok Harbor; the great walls of Jerusalem; Hebrew university on Mount Scopus; the ancient gateway known as the "Needle's Eye"; the city of Jerusalem as pictured inside and outside the great walls; beautiful Y.M.C.A. building in Jerusalem; the American colony in Palestine; scenes depicting the simple methods of tilling the soil as used for three thousand years and are now being discarded in several districts and the modern tractor may be seen in use; a typical village home in Palestine and the Potash Works of the Dead Sea.

The Scriptural Masterpieces revealed Jesus speaking to his disciples just before the feast of the Passover; His agony in the garden of Gethsemane; Peter's denial of Christ; the Master delivered to Pilate; Juda's repentence; the crucifixion; Christ's death and burial; the visit of Mary Magdalene and the other Mary to the tomb; Christ's resurrection and ascension to Heaven.

Forward Tilt Gives Hats Classic Slant

REIGN OF "MAD HATTER" ENDED BY SIMPLER SILHOUETTE

Easy on most profiles and decidedly flattering is the golden straw canotier trimmed with an upstanding bow of black moire ribbon shown at left, above. It is a Legroux Soeurs models. At right is a charming pale pink straw trimmed with fluttering emerald green felt ribbon and a posy of cyclamen blossoms in front. Created by Rose Valois, it is quite 19th century in spirit.

Paris, March 30—The note which distinctly stamps this year's hat is the tip-tilted movement—back to front, of course. This movement appears also in hats where the brims are asymetrical, leaving one side of the hair uncovered. The era of the mad hat is decidedly a thing of the past. Despite this, the latest creations are far from being devoid of character and all have something of a gay, piquant, sometimes even provocative air about them, whether they evoke Nattier's princesses, Watteau's shepherdesses, the Empress Eugenie's favored styles, or the somewhat sentimental 1900's. Even the essentially modernistic halos, bretons or sailors have it.

The breton or sailor is the natural complement to the tailored suit—more or less classically tailored — which promises to become a uniform for informal wear. The diversity of styles in these, however, will obviate any idea of monotony or uniformity, with brims varying in size from the very small to the almost shoulder-wide proportions, sometimes flat, sometimes slightly rolled or giving an impression of several thicknesses of straw. Trimmings here also differ almost as widely as brims.

To accompany the very feminine afternoon dresses suggested by the couturiers, either the youthful "schoolgirl" silhouette with swinging skirt, drawn-in waist and bloused bodice, or the molded sweater-top affair, hats are correspondingly fussy and betrimmed. Here you have the choice between the 18th century shape with flowers and trailing ribbons, and the modernized Second Empire scoop with delicately tinted ostrich tips or long, trailing "amazon" nestling on curls. It is also on the afternoon hats that flowers blossom in all their glory and are used unstintingly—in huge posies massed at the front, sides or on top of shallow crowns. Little round toques, pillboxes, or flat coolie hats are smothered in them; roses, primroses, lily-of-the-valley, white voilets, field flowers and other stylized blooms.

Everything for afternoon wear seems to be veiled in some way or other. Veils vary from the short, eye-length one to the airily voluminous affair, cascading mantilla-wise over the shoulders, or else draped over the crown and tying under the chin in a huge bow, reminiscent of the pioneer days of motoring. Suzy shows a charming toque in fine black straw, with the new back-to-front movement to its medium, rolled brim, the trimming consisting of a bunch of red roses on the shallow crown and the whole thing veiled in a wide-meshed fuchsia-colored veil.

Pastel-colored straws—pink, blue, yellow, green and even mauve—are smart, and navy blue, black and brown are usually trimmed with a vivid color. Very fine, silky straws vie with the rough paillassons for favor, and milans, bakous and panamas are present in great numbers. The fabric hat or toque is usually expressed in satin or grosgrain, although faille is sometimes seen, as well as wide-ribbed ottoman. Maria Guy's and Suzy's collections include amusing turbans in striped silks or ottoman which are most attractive.

With its back-to-front tip-tilt lines, this attractive lime green straw is distinctly 1938, yet it is quite suggestive of a Watteau pastoral scene. Marie-Alphonsne made it and trimmed it with black satin ribbon.

This Suzy "scoop" straw illustrates how even asymetrical hats have a back-to-front slant this year. And it also indicates that ostrich feather trim is back, among other second Empire features. This one is in fine black straw, with pink ostrich feather.

it's "Woolcraft" time again!

The "Woolcraft" perfectly tailored garment again comes to the fore in chic two-piece suit with jigger coat or cape of matching or contrasting colors.

One or two-piece Spring wool dresses in rose, turquoise, dusty blues and light beige.

A variety of beautiful blouses, scarves, gloves, hosiery, neckwear, handkerchiefs, a gorgeous line of house coats, all of the latest cut and design.

BIG SISTER STYLES FOR LITTLE FOLKS

Because it's definitely a "Suit Spring," smart little people are wearing suits—miniature suits for tots of four to six, decidedly smart suits for girls copying their big sisters, Bolero suits and trim little fitted suits in Eton effect are preferred by very small people, while classic tailored suits with reefer topcoats are the popular choice of bigger little girls.

Boxy jigger coats are the perfect topcoat for Spring, little fashionables declare, and they wear these in every lovely pastel color in this rainbow mode. Brother and sister coats in classic tailored styling are preferred by mothers, and sister coats in trim fitted styles are also a popular fashion.

Swirl skirts and the gay swing pleats of this year's frocks are shown in bright prints and lively pastels. Dainty shirrings and crisp white trims give these an especially pretty effect. Much hand-work is used on all frocks, especially in the new peasant styles richly smocked in color, worn by little tots.

Little men march into Spring in neatly tailored suits of mannish tweeds. Sailor suits are smart again, as are sailor coats.

Fresh fish retains its full food value and flavor if cooked rapidly at high heat, as when fried in deep fat, baked, broiled or pan fried.
