CZECH-GERMAN CRISIS AGGRAVATED

Reich Plans To Intervene For Slovaks

German Officials Acknowledge that Brown-shirt and Blackshirt Troopers Are Moving to Southeast as Government Controlled Press and Vienna Radio Station Carry on Violent Anti-Czech Campaign.

Official disclosure that Germany would intervene in the Czech-Slovak issue caused fear today of new tension in Central Europe.

A Foreign Office spokesman indicated in Berlin that even if only a diplomatic step were taken in the conflict between the Czech-Slovak Government and agitators for Slovak independence, the language would be sharp and unequivocal.

He acknowledged that not only Brown-shirt and Blackshirt troopers but also army detachments were moving to the southeast. He declared, however, that they were en route to participate in a parade on Wednesday in Vienna when Chancellor Hitler will appear at a celebration of German annexation of Austria which occurred March 13th, 1938.

The German press used phrases reminiscent of the attacks on Czechoslovakia during the Sudeten-German crisis last September. The Vienna radio broadcast anti-Czech propaganda, including a defiant speech by Dr. Ferdinand Duranovsky, Slovak Communications Minister who was ousted on Friday in the dismissal by Czech-Slovak President Emil Hacha of the Slovak Autonomous Government, including Premier Joseph Tiso.

Official quarters in Prague said the Czech-Slovak Government had decided to protest to Germany the activities of the Vienna radio and of the minority Germans within Czechoslovakia. Czechs and Germans clashed yesterday at Brunn and further disorders were reported today in Iglau and Olmuetz.

In London it was learned in official quarters that the British Government has made no commitment regarding the frontiers of Czechoslovakia. The Czech-Slovakian Government has made no request for a binding guarantee by the powers as provided for at the time of the Munich settlement.

CZECH AUTHORITIES PROTEST BROADCAST

Prague, March 13.—(P)—Czech official headquarters reported today that the Czech-Slovak Government had decided to protest to Germany against activities of the German minority within Czechoslovakia and of the Vienna radio station.

They said the protest would be made within twelve hours against "the attitude of the German minority in Brunn (Brno) and Bratislava and the interference of the Vienna radio station in the Republic's internal affairs."

Although officials said no formal demands had been made by Germany, continued on Page 2, Col. 2.

British Ministers Complete Final Plan For Settling Holy Land Issue

London, March 13.—(C.P.—Havas)—Key Ministers of the British Cabinet today were reported to have approved a final plan for the future of Palestine which was submitted to them by Colonial Secretary Malcolm MacDonald.

It was believed that Prime Minister Chamberlain, who presided at today's meeting, would officially close the Palestine Conference Thursday.

The House of Commons is expected early next week to have an opportunity of debating the results of the conference when budget estimates for the Colonial Office are presented.

Today's meeting was attended by the heads of the National Defence Departments as well as by the Foreign Secretary, Viscount Halifax, and Sir John Simon, Chancellor of the Exchequer.

Mr. MacDonald reported on his latest conversations with Arab delegates, and particularly on his meeting last night with Jewish representatives, to whom he presented the major points of the British plan, which provides for measures of political and administrative autonomy.

TWO MINERS KILLED IN KIRKLAND LAKE SHAFT EXPLOSION

Kirkland Lake, March 13.—Two miners, Michael Harrington and George Seimer Braaten, were killed and two others, Herbert Levon and Russell Bates, entombed for about four hours last night when a rock blast occurred between the 3,500 and 3,700-foot level of the Lake Shore Mine here. The entombed men suffered from shock, cuts and bruises when rescued but did not require hospital treatment.

Oust Communists As Miaja Seeks To Terminate Civil War

Republican Government Announces that Complete Wiping Out of Communist Revolt Will Prepare Way for Opening of Negotiations with General Franco—Extent of Communist Rout Is Disputed.

Madrid, March 13.—(P)—The Defence Council, as a precondition to seeking peace with the Nationalists, removed Communists from civil positions today to consolidate a military victory for them.

The Council announced last night it had wiped out the six-day revolt of the Communists against the peace policies of General Jose Miaja, head of the Council Government.

(Reports reaching the Havas News Agency in Paris said Communists had seized control of the seaport of Cartagena.)

Miaja's Minister of Interior, Wenceslao Carrillo, ordered Madrid Municipal Communists removed from office and replaced by men of other parties. It was understood that many Communists hunted by the Council were in hiding. Some sought refuge in foreign embassies and legations.

The Government reported two chief leaders of the revolt were captured: Lieut.-Colonel Francisco Bueno, former Commander of the Second Army Corps, with his general staff, at Ciudad Litoral, five miles east of Madrid, and Lieut.-Colonel Jose Barcelo, former Commander of the First Army Corps, at La Pedriza, in the Guadarrama mountains north of Madrid.

The last Communist stronghold in Madrid fell yesterday when Miaja's troops followed up a fifteen-minute artillery bombardment with an assault on the unfinished Government offices at the top of Castellana avenue.

ABERHART REPEATS HERRIDGE SUPPORT

Edmonton, March 13.—(P)—Premier Aberhart of Alberta urges election of "a new and progressive Government at Ottawa of the New Democracy type under Herridge and his cohorts."

In a speech last night at the Edmonton Prophetic Bible Conference Mr. Aberhart referred to the New Democracy movement, announced recently by Hon. W. D. Herridge, former Canadian Minister to Washington, as one of "three things that we need."

Premier Aberhart predicted his Social Credit Government would be able to boast of twelve great achievements five years from now, one of which would be "protected development of our great oil fields with pipe lines delivering the oil both to the Coast and to Fort William."

Quebec, March 13.—(P)—A fire of unknown origin swept through the four-storey Jacques Cartier Hotel here Saturday, causing an estimated $15,000 damage.

CLAIM REVOLT IN DEMOCRAT RANKS ENDED

Straight Party Vote on Government Reorganization Bill Brings Hopes of Party Unity for Remainder of Present Session.

Washington, March 13.—(P)—Encouraged by the straight party vote by which the Government Reorganization Bill passed the House of Representatives, Democratic leaders predicted today there would be no more revolts in their ranks at this session of the United States Congress.

Representative Rayburn of Texas, Democratic leader, and Representative Boland of Pennsylvania, party whip, said they regarded the almost unanimous Democratic support of the controversial measure as an indication that Democrats no longer would join Republicans in rejecting important Government proposals. Only five Democrats voted against the bill.

PARLIAMENT TO START DEBATE ON RELIEF ACT

Actual Opening of Probe into Bren Gun Contract and Continued Trade Treaty Debate to Feature House Sittings this Week.

Ottawa, March 13.—(P)—The House of Commons today will return to discussion of the Canada-United States trade treaty and in the Committee of Ways and Means will debate the numerous changes in the tariff schedule.

The treaty itself has been adopted but each of the nearly 500 tariff changes must be covered by separate resolutions. It is unlikely there will be any changes, however, as any revision would necessitate the sanction of the U.S. Government.

Labor Minister Rogers is expected to introduce two Government measures connected with unemployment relief, one bill provides for the annual continuance of the Unemployment and Agricultural Assistance Act and the other provides money for the youth training project.

The youth training bill would place the scheme on a three-year basis and Parliament will be asked to vote $4,500,000 for the three year period beginning next April 1st.

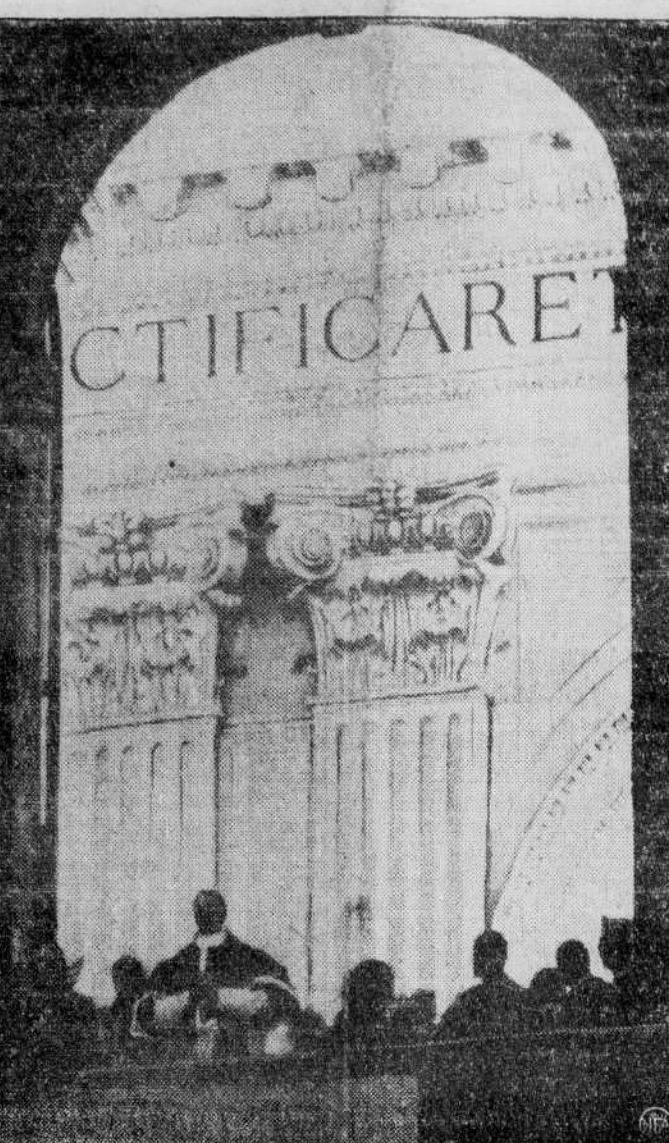

The Public Accounts and Radio Committee will be the centre of interest on Parliament Hill tomorrow. L. W. Brockington, chairman of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation Board of Governors will continue his testimony before the Radio inquiry and will be followed by Gladstone Murray, C.B.C., general manager.

It is expected the Public Accounts Committee probe into the Bren gun contract will be outlined at the meeting likely to be held tomorrow and plans made for the fifty-member committee to visit the John Inglis plant in Toronto where the Bren guns are produced.

The Senate will discuss details of the Government's Penitentiary Bill when the Upper House resumes its sitting tomorrow night.

TWO JEWS KILLED IN HOLY LAND AS LAND MINE EXPLODES
Jerusalem, March 13.—(P)—Explosion of a land mine today killed two Jews and gravely wounded two others as they were walking along a trail near the Gilboa hills.

A scene such as this was witnessed yesterday, as framed in a majestic archway reminiscent of Rome's ancient glory, Pius XII stood on a balcony of St. Peter's to bless weary but happy crowds who had waited for hours to witness the impressive coronation ceremony.

CLAIM ILLEGAL ENTRY ON PART OF SPY CHASER

Reported United States Seeks to Send Self-Claimed Uncoverer of Spy Ring Back to Native Germany Following Arrest.

Los Angeles, March 13.—(P)—Arrest of a former public relations officer at the United States army base at March Field and proceedings to deport him to his native Germany were disclosed today.

Heinze Hartmann-Wrede, thirty-year-old ex-soldier, has been held in jail here a week on a charge of illegal entry, pending a federal hearing.

The Los Angeles Examiner quoted him as claiming to have uncovered a German spy ring for the army intelligence and expressing fear of violent death if he is deported.

A one-time seaman, Hartmann-Wrede came to the United States in 1936 and joined the army after applying again for citizenship papers.

"At March Field I was approached by a German fellow I had met in Shanghai," the Examiner quoted him as saying. "He reminded me I was still a German citizen and that I should help him get important information."

"Pretending to agree with him, I informed superior officers of his plans and was instructed how to proceed. For months, I obtained full workings of this spy ring, obtaining copies of photographs and negatives they had in their possession—all of which I turned over to intelligence authorities."

Franklin, Pa., March 13.—(P)—A man appeared at the police station and asked Desk Sergeant John Croover for a night's lodging.

"Sure thing," smiled the officer. He showed the visitor to a cell,

Urges Indian Native Rulers Remedy Legitimate Grievances Of Subjects

New Delhi, March 13.—(P)—The Marquess of Linlithgow, Viceroy of India, in a speech today before the Chamber of Princes urged the rulers of the Indian states to make it their constant care to watch for and remedy legitimate grievances in the administrative field.

The meeting, attended by fifty princes and ruling chiefs, was presided over by the Chancellor, the Maharajah of Nawanagar.

In a statement concerning India's constitutional future the Viceroy said no one had yet succeeded in devising a more satisfactory method of dealing with the problems of the Indian states than the scheme for a federation of the states and the provinces of British India.

JAPANESE AIR RAIDS CAUSE HEAVY DAMAGE

Authorities Claim that 2,500 Chinese Troops Have Been Surrounded in Northern Kiangsu Province Between Nanking and Shanghai.

Shanghai, March 13.—(P)—Japanese authorities announced today their forces had surrounded 2,500 Chinese troops in Northern Kiangsu, the province in which Nanking and Shanghai are located.

In Shansi Province, to the northwest, the Chinese asserted they were making enveloping movements against the invaders and that ten thousand Japanese had been encircled northwest of Taiyuan, where they said the Japanese supply and communications lines had been cut.

A report from Chungking, provisional Chinese capital, said a squadron of Japanese planes bombed Loyalang, Shensi Province with the destruction of nearly four hundred houses. There were fifty casualties. Other Shensi towns along the Yellow River also were attacked.

GERMAN PRESS INDIGNANT AT CZECH ACTION

Indicates that Mildest Form of Intervention May Be Strongly Worded Diplomatic Protests Against Alleged Atrocities.

Berlin, March 13.—(P)—Official sources acknowledged today some sort of intervention would be made by Germany in the Czech-Slovak situation, which involves agitation for the independence of Slovakia from the rest of Czechoslovakia.

The mildest form would be diplomatic representations, but the possibility of "stronger action if necessary" was also mentioned by a Foreign Office spokesman.

The spokesman indicated that even if only a diplomatic step were taken, the language of a German note would be sharp and unequivocal. The spokesman would not commit himself as to whether the desired result of German intervention would be an "independent" Slovakia.

On Wednesday, the spokesman said, Chancellor Hitler will appear at a big parade in Vienna, just thirty-four miles from Bratislava, the Slovak capital.

When asked whether not only army units but also detachments of SS and SA (Nazi uniformed guard units) were moving to the south, he replied affirmatively, but insisted they simply were enroute to participate in the Vienna parade.

He indicated that German officials were in constant touch with Italian officials, their partners in the Rome-Berlin axis.

He said also that nothing was known here about contentions made in Bratislava that a German emissary had made overtures to leaders of the Slovak separatist movement long before the present difficulties developed. He admitted, however, that because Bratislava and Vienna are close together there were frequent interchanges of views between Slovaks and Germans.

Der Angriff, newspaper of Joseph Goebbels, Minister of Propaganda, in commenting on the situation in Czechoslovakia, declared: "May Prague leaders be expressly warned that this condition of affairs is untenable."

The newspaper observed that "the result of this week-end of terror is dreadful."

The controlled Nazi press used phrases today like those employed in the September crisis, to describe what they called "brutal Czech terror" in Czechoslovakia.

Half-Million Crowded In Old Square Of St. Peter For Traditional Display

Foreign Diplomats Guests of Honor Today at Social Functions at Papal Summer Estate Following Coronation—Investiture Held Out of Doors for First Time in Nearly a Century—Old Basilica Crowded.

DEATH TAKES NOTED WOMAN JOURNALIST

London, March 13.—(C.P. Cable)—Miss Gertrude Burford Rawlings, active in promoting the interests of newspaperwomen, died yesterday. She was London correspondent of L'Amite Guerinienne, of Toulouse, France, and secretary and vice-president of the Society of Women Journalists.

During the Great War she was organizing secretary of the Middlesex Division of the Women's "Land Army."

Vatican City, March 13.—(P)—Pope Pius XII opened his old summer estate in the Alban Hills today to the envoys of forty-one nations who saw him crowned with brilliant pomp and stately ceremony in St. Peter's yesterday.

Diplomats, prelates and princes were among the 500,000 or so persons who watched the resplendent scenes of religious pageantry and enthusiasm in the vast Mother Church of Catholicism when the great, golden, jewel-encrusted tiara was placed on the head of the 262nd Pope.

The envoys were invited to be guests of the new Pontiff's Secretary of State, Cardinal Magliano, for a tour of the 100-acre lakeside Papal estate at Castel Gandolfo, and tea in the 310-year-old summer palace.

Scores of ordinary folk nursed bruises and rested over-strained nerves from the four-hour coronation ceremony and the crush when thousands rushed out from the Basilica to see the actual coronation, which took place on a St. Peter's balcony for the first time in almost a century.

It was estimated conservatively that 60,000 persons jammed themselves to near-suffocation within St. Peter's. They had packed it from early morning to an hour before the ceremony began at 9 a.m. Thousands sat or stood for six hours.

Outside in the great square a throng estimated at 350,000 to 500,000 swarmed until it overflowed the fifteen acres of the plaza, bounded by the famous elliptical colonnades.

Inside the church were scenes of brilliance. The appearance of the sixty-three-year-old Pope, who was elected March 2 to succeed the late Pius XI, thrilled many as he was borne on a portable chair in long, slow, solemn procession into the Basilica.

Medieval hauberts and burnished breastplates of the Swiss Guards, the red coats and white buckskin breeches of the Papal Guards, the red capes of the Knights of Malta, white ruffs of the Noble Guards, red robes and white lace and ermine capes of Cardinals, black full dress and gleaming white shirt fronts of the diplomats and dignitaries—all these and more added color to the scene.

Cheers greeted the Pontiff, whose face was immobile. A pallid, betrayed emotion. His eyes were set in a thin line and his eyes showed deep feeling at the acclamation "Viva Il Papa!"

Pierre Cardinal Gerlier, Archbishop of Lyon, France, who was Master of Ceremonies, was escorted. Continued on Page 2, Col. 3.

Great Britain Denies Guarantee On Dismemberment Of Czech Republic

SKELETON PICKETS HIT INDIANAPOLIS

Indianapolis, March 13.—(P)—A skeleton picketing force started shoppers on downtown streets here. Two pickets of the United Cemetery Workers Union of the Congress of Industrial Organizations put on skull-and-bones suits to picket offices of directors of the Crown Hill Cemetery Association. The Union also has been picketing the cemetery in a demand for better working conditions. The skeleton-costumed pickets carried cards which said: "I can't rest my bones in Crown Hill."

TO IMPROVE NORTH SHORE HIGHWAYS

Quebec, Mar. 13.—(P)—Improvements on North Shore highways to attract motoring tourists are planned by the Provincial Government. Hon. Anatole Carignan, Minister of Roads told a delegation here Saturday. The route mainly involved is from Quebec to St. Joachim, Montmorency.

London, March 13.—(C.P.—Havas)—Great Britain has made no binding guarantee of the Czech-Slovakian frontiers as suggested at the time of the Munich settlement, it was learned in official quarters today.

Sir Thomas Inskip, then Minister for the Co-ordination of Defence, told the House of Commons in October that Great Britain felt morally obliged to give an immediate guarantee to Czechoslovakia against unprovoked aggression.

Since then the Czech Government, undoubtedly under orders from Berlin, has not asked Britain to give a binding guarantee.

When Prime Minister Chamberlain was in Rome Premier Mussolini told him Italy was prepared to accept in principle a guarantee for Czechoslovakia against unprovoked aggression, but the Duce believed three questions should be settled first—the internal constitution of Czechoslovakia, establishment of her neutrality, and delimitation of her borders.

Since then nothing has been done to settle these points. Even if the British Government continued on Page 2, Col. 1.

MOVING EARTH MASS SLOWING DOWN JOURNEY

California Officials Convinced that Crawling Mountain
Will Stop Short of Blocking Main Coastal Highways.

Gilroy, Calif., March 13.—(AP)—The moving earth mass which for a week slid ominously toward the main coastal highway near here appeared today to have slowed down to a mere crawl.

Belief that the rock and tree-encrusted slide, after advancing more than 1 1/2 miles in six days, would halt short of the highway was expressed by Thomas Joyce of Salinas, District Superintendent of State Highways, after an inspection tour.

A large area of nearly-flat land and a ravine were in the path of the expansive mass and probably would stop the movement which had not progressed more than ten feet since yesterday, Joyce said.

Thousands of automobiles extending eight miles along the Canada-to-Mexico highway brought sightseers to the moving mountain slide yesterday and taxed efforts of twenty-five State patrolmen to keep the way open for through traffic.

The itinerant slide, a quarter of a mile wide, and about 100 feet high, uprooted trees and moved huge boulders on its way down from the "Dead Hills," a high country along the San Andreas earthquake fault.

Simon testified he had no knowledge that the fire escapes had wooden platforms, nor did he know there were no ropes in the rooms. He recalled, in fact, there were ropes in some rooms.

Major J. S. Roper, counsel for the Fire Marshal, questioned Simon about inventories of hotel property and Simon said several had been made. The last had been taken "three or four months ago," but he did not remember whether ropes had been mentioned in the listings. There were two fire extinguishers on each floor, he thought.

took the view that a "moral guarantee" was in effect it would be concerned with unprovoked aggression against Czechoslovakia and not the secession of one of its component parts.

The Munich settlement called for Great Britain, France, Italy and Germany to guarantee the frontiers of Czechoslovakia after the Sudeten areas had been ceded to Germany. It was to be done at the request of Prague.

Reich Plans To Intervene For Slovaks

many concerning Slovakia fear had increased here that Berlin planned to force the Republic to cut loose both the Slovak and Carpatho-Ukraine autonomous provinces.

Franz Karmasin, leader of the German minority in Slovakia, and Dr. Joseph Tiso, dismissed Slovak Premier, left for Berlin to confer with Chancellor Hitler.

Further disorders were reported to have taken place this morning in Igla, a strong German "island" forty-nine miles northwest of Brunn and in Olmutz.

Czechs and Germans clashed yesterday in Brunn and the Vienna radio broadcast a defiant anti-Czech speech by Dr. Ferdinand Durcasky, Communications Minister in the Slovak Cabinet ousted last Friday.

(There are 377,830 minority Germans in the whole of Czechoslovakia, or 3.9 per cent of the population. The number in Slovakia alone is 134,317, or 5.69 per cent of the population.)

The official Czech-Slovak agency charged that the German minority in Brunn and Bratislava had misused the regulation for flying the German flag set by law.

Separatist propaganda in the Slovak language continued to be broadcast by the Vienna radio station. Ferdinand Murgas, fugitive chief of the Hlinka Guards, political staff, spoke at mid-day, assuring Slovak people that "Europe's greatest man, Hitler, holds his protective hand over the Slovaks."

"Be prepared for the independent Slovak state," he said.

Growing German displeasure with the Central Government of Czechoslovakia and the possibility of repercussions from Czech-German clashes raised the question today of further German intervention in Czechoslovakia.

The question was asked whether Chancellor Hitler would move to upset the new regime for autonomous Slovakia and, as the Nazi press suggested, "establish order in the Republic."

Today was the first anniversary of Hitler's annexation of Austria and the Fuehrer was scheduled to spend the day at Vienna, only a short distance from Bratislava, capital of Slovakia.

Three persons were injured yesterday afternoon at Brunn, in the Czech part of Czechoslovakia near the border of German Austria, when Germans paraded with Swastika celebration of German Memorial Day.

In Bratislava Nazi Storm Troopers were reported to have fired on an automobile carrying Czech army officers.

It was reported unofficially that General Jan Syrový, former Premier of the Czech Republic and now Defence Minister, along with General Alois Elias, Minister of Communications, might resign under German pressure in a shake-up of the Prague regime.

Syrový incurred Nazi dislike when as Premier he ordered mobilization of the Czech-Slovak army in the pre-Munich crisis last September.

The soldier-politician again fell afoul of the Republic's powerful neighbor last Friday when as Defence Minister he carried out military occupation of Bratislava to put down a Slovak separatist movement which Germany supposedly was supporting.

The clash at Brunn broke up a parade of Germans wearing the black uniform of the Nazi party in Czechoslovakia. Twelve Czechs and Germans were arrested, but only three were held after the Nazis massed before the police station and demanded release of five of their fellows.

The parade continued later to the singing of the Horst Wessel song, a Nazi anthem.

The Nazi headquarters at Bratislava—the Brown House—was said to have been barricaded because the Nazis feared attack.

The possibility of further German intervention in the Republic, arose as the Czechs and Slovaks seemed to have hatched up their differences, at least for the moment.

Four members of the new Slovak cabinet, a Government expected to keep Slovakia within the framework of the Republic, were scheduled to arrive in Prague today to take their oaths of office from President Emil Hacha.

He swore in three members of the "conciliation cabinet" yesterday. Today's group was headed by Karl Sidor, Vice-Premier of the Central Government, who succeeded Dr. Joseph Tiso, ousted last Friday for tolerating an alleged plot to separate Slovakia from the republic.

Die Zeit, official Nazi newspaper in Sudetenland, published reports of a proposed "Benes putsch" in Prague. The newspaper said rumors were spreading in Leftist circles that friends of former President Eduard Benes's week planned to attempt a comeback.

(Dr. Benes resigned as President October 5, 1938. At present he is in the United States.)

Part of the general staff and members of the Czech Legion, the paper said, were taking the lead. Die Zeit added that the "putsch" was to include Slovakia.

intended to lead to the setting up of a new Palestine state.

The length of the period of transition would depend upon the willingness of Jews and Arabs to consider the collaboration London considers to be indispensable.

The Jewish Agency has asked the British Cabinet to give formal assurances that future policy will not be harmful to the development of a Jewish national homeland. The attitude of the British Government has been that guarantees to be provided during the period of transition are sufficient.

TWENTY BOYS ENTERTAINED

Twenty boys were present at the "Pleasant Saturday Afternoon Club" held in the Y.M.C.A. Saturday and enjoyed singing a number of hymns under the leadership of W. H. Wolter with Ernie Rive at the piano. Mr. Wolter then told the boys an interesting story entitled "The Rainbow."

The story went back to the building of the Ark by Noah and his three sons, Shem, Ham and Japheth. After the flood had receded the sun shone and a beautiful rainbow appeared in the sky. This was God's way of reminding them of His faithfulness.

Mr. Wolter said. After the meeting the boys enjoyed a supper prepared by B. Butler and a short programme under the direction of W. Peak.

LATEST GARMENTS MODELLED AT FASHION SHOW

A colorful fashion parade was held in St. Andrew's Hall Saturday afternoon on behalf of the Alumnae Association of the Sherbrooke Hospital, when the latest models of frocks, evening gowns, suits, hats and shoes were displayed, giving a striking idea of what Madame Fashion is presenting to her followers for the spring of 1939.

The parade of fashionable garments, many of which were presented through the courtesy of Mrs. L. Blais, 96 Wellington street north, revealed that fashion designers have this year excelled themselves in the handsome coats and the line of the gowns, coats and hats. As pointed out by Mrs. P. D. Mathias, as commentator, for some time past there has been a definite swing back to the mid-Victorian line of fashions which give that subtle, feminine touch so dear to the heart of all women.

The models for the afternoon were Mrs. Farnham, Mrs. Wood, Mrs. Mackay, Mrs. Burke and Mrs. Burt and the Misses Davey, Mandigo, Coote, Goff and Swanson.

SKID — CRASH — MAN DOWN — CAMERA TELLS STORY

Skidding automobiles, frantic efforts of drivers and pedestrians to escape injury—then a body hurled across the street by the impact of wheel or bumper. It's a common occurrence in the daily drama of city traffic, but rarely is the camera on the spot to register the story as strikingly as in the above picture taken in Ogden, Utah. Glen Stamos has just been knocked beneath a parked car by the laundry truck that has skidded to a stop at left. Stamos escaped serious injury.

Dust Communists As Mijia Seeks To Terminate Civil War

General Jose Mijia was reported ready today to make immediate peace with General Francisco Franco to forestall a threatened Nationalist offensive to take the rest of Spain by force.

After a five-hour session in Madrid last night the Defence Council, headed by Mijia, announced that, with the six-day Communist uprising suppressed, the Government would go ahead with "the plan drawn up before the rebellion."

That plan, border observers believed, would mean the end of the Civil War by virtually unconditional surrender.

Border observers, however, were skeptical of the Defence Council's announcement that the Communist revolt against the peace plan finally had been suppressed.

Dispatches from Burgos, Franco's capital said Nationalist scouting planes flying over the Republican capital reported a desperate battle still in progress yesterday. These reports said the Communists and Mijia supporters seemed about evenly divided.

While Mijia's men apparently had cleaned out the centre of the city, the Communists were said to control an almost solid ring of fortified buildings in outlying sectors. Only on the southeast, these reports indicated, was there a break in the Communist cordon—a battle line within the twenty-eight-month-old defences raised against the Nationalist siege.

Dispatches from Madrid this morning said some 30,000 Communist soldiers from the Madrid area alone had been involved in the fight with Mijia. They formed units of two army corps defending Madrid. Their core commanders were said to have ordered them into action against the Defence Council.

There was some indication that Franco, losing patience at the delay in Mijia's cleanup in Madrid, was preparing to strike in force against the disordered Republicans.

Throughout the six days of incoherently advanced his lines extending more than half way around the capital. Over the week-end his artillery shelled the Republicans heavily in what Nationalists described as a test of strength.

All civilians, including newspaper correspondents, were ordered out of the front line zone—a move usually preceding a general attack.

French reports were that Franco had given Mijia just a week to get the revolt under control and surrender.

REFUSE TO REMOVE WIRE ENTANGLEMENTS

London, March 13.—(AP)—British officials said today the Japanese Government had refused to remove a live wire entanglement from around the British concession at Tientsin, North China.

Japan's answer to three British protests against the entanglement, which was being studied at the Foreign Office, charged that British officials had permitted anti-Japanese elements to operate at Tientsin. This was denied and it was understood a sharp British note would be sent to Japan soon.

YOUNG GIRL SAVED LIFE OF COMPANION

Phillipsburg, Kas., March 13.—(AP)—The presence of mind of seven-year-old Lydia Alonzo Demotte probably saved the life of her cousin, Mary Lynn Graves, seven. The two little girls were standing in front of a stove, Mary Lynn's coat caught on fire. "Stand real still," Lydia Alonzo told her, then dashed to the kitchen for a pan of water. She made three trips before the fire was put out.

MASSAWIPPI

A delightful house party was held at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Browne, when about forty relatives and friends met in honor of Mr. Robert Carr and his bride, nee Doris Lillian Cairnes, recently married. The time was spent in games, following which refreshments were served. The young couple received a large number of gifts of various kinds useful in beginning house-keeping and for which they expressed their appreciation and thanks for all kindness shown them.

Mrs. Donald Holden and two children, of Rock Island, spent a few days as guests of Mrs. Holden's sister, Mrs. A. Dezan.

Mr. C. E. St. Dizier, of Asbestos, spent the week-end with his parents. Miss E. Stevenson was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. C. Whitcomb at Hatley, for a few days.

from Vienna by Dr. Ferdinand Durcasky, Communications Minister in Dr. Joseph Tiso's deposed cabinet in Slovakia, was interpreted as showing the official German sympathies to be on the side of Tiso, ousted Friday in connection with an attempt to separate Slovakia from the rest of Czechoslovakia.

Headlines and the tone of news dispatches today also showed Nazi sympathy for Slovakia, where a new cabinet headed by Karl Sidor was appointed Saturday to replace Dr. Tiso's Government. (A high source in Bratislava, the Slovak capital, said the separatist attempt there was preceded by a German promise to support Slovakia.)

In Berlin Foreign Office circles it was said Czechoslovak President Emil Hacha's action in deposing Tiso and two other ministers in its repercussions were being watched with the "gravest concern."

Durcasky called on Slovaks to reject the new Slovak cabinet and "to prepare for the decisive hour which may come at any moment."

The newspaper Voelkischer Beobachter, the leading Nazi party organ, spoke of "Czech outrages hostile to Germans" and other newspapers headlined dispatches thus: "Brutal Czech Attacks on Germans in Brunn," "Monstrous Czech Terror" and "German Nationals Clubbed Down."

Foreign Office sources said week-end developments in Czechoslovakia reminded them of the "Benes System"—referring to former President Eduard Benes—and added that the fact that the Czech action in Slovakia "again has involved the remainers Germans there" was noted particularly here.

As a result, the possibility of new German intervention in Czechoslovakia "to establish order" became a moot question, especially after the reminder by Admiral Erich Raeder, Chief of Staff of the German Navy, that Germany is the "protector" of all Germans on both sides of the frontier.

Admiral Raeder praised Germany's armed strength and declared that "Germany strikes quickly and hard." He delivered a memorial address honoring Germany's Great War dead, Chancellor Hitler and other officials were among his listeners.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

The coming visit of the King and Queen to Canada has instilled added interest into the ranks of Sherbrooke District Troops and Packs, with strong attendance reported from all units with enthusiasm the keynote of all meetings. The prospect of a Scout and Cub Hobby Show next month has added a greater stimulus to the various meetings and competition is expected to run high.

Two new Scouts were invested into St. Peter's Troop. Herbert Bell and Wyatt Reid, the new Scouts, became members of the Lion Patrol under Patrol Leader E. Sharpe. The ceremony was taken by Scoutmaster Earl Turner, assisted by Q.S.M. Trussler.

The members of St. Andrew's Troop have been working steadily on tenderfoot tests and an investiture ceremony is expected in the near future. Acting Scoutmaster D. Jones reports good attendance and keen interest on the part of the boys.

Activities of the 7th Troop have included advancement in 2nd class work and a social evening. Scoutmaster Benches expects to have a number of 2nd Class Scouts before the Royal Visit.

Under the supervision of Cubmaster G. Giroux rapid progress is being made by the St. Patrick's Cubs. Two members are to receive their first star badges next week and others are expected to pass the test in the very near future.

The Life Saving Scouts are reported very active again. With Adjutant Williams and Instructor S. Loke in charge, this troop is planning an early investiture ceremony and keen interest is being taken in the approaching Hobby Show.

All-Day Festivities To Mark Their Majesties' Visit Here

Duration of Visit in Sherbrooke of Their Majesties Increased to Forty Minutes—All-Day Celebration Planned, with Over 100,000 People from Various Parts of E.T. Expected to Be Present.

Elaborate plans for the reception to Their Majesties the King and Queen upon the occasion of their visit to Sherbrooke June 12th next were discussed Saturday afternoon at a meeting of the executive committee in charge of the Royal reception. June 12th will be proclaimed as a civic holiday and provisions will be made to accommodate upward of 100,000 people expected to converge upon Sherbrooke from various parts of the Eastern Townships and other points to catch a glimpse of Their Majesties upon this memorable and unique occasion.

Duration of the visit of the Sovereigns has been extended from half an hour to forty minutes, it was announced at the meeting by Charles B. Howard, M.P. for Sherbrooke, and these additional ten minutes, short as they are, will nevertheless allow for a more extensive programme than at first planned.

Pomp and ceremony attending the event will not be lacking, and no stone will be left unturned to make the reception in keeping with the august nature of the visit. Prominent Canadian Government officials and Governors from nearby American States will be in Sherbrooke for the occasion. In addition, about 1,000 members of various militia units in the Eastern Townships will also be present.

According to the plans discussed Saturday afternoon, Their Majesties will be met as they disembark from the train by His Worship Mayor Marcus Armitage and his daughter, Miss Margaret Armitage, and escorted to the reception platform. On the platform will be in addition to the Mayor and Miss Armitage, Charles B. Howard, M.P., Col. the Hon. Johnny Bourque, Minister of Public Works and Lands and Forests, Mr. Justice Charles D. White and Mr. Justice Hector Verret of the Superior Court; representatives of the Protestant and Catholic clergy and members of the Committee. Rev. A. O. Gagnon, Lord Bishop of Sherbrooke, will be asked to appoint Msgr. P. S. Desranleau, Bishop-Coadjutor of Sherbrooke Diocese, and the Minister of the Protestant church to form part of the reception group.

Places of honor along the line of parade to be followed by the King and Queen will be reserved for various religious, patriotic and charitable groups, ex-service men and children.

An elaborate plan of decoration of commercial, public and private buildings in the city will be made, it was indicated when it was agreed to appoint a special committee to look after this important phase of the visit. The route Their Majesties will follow during their defile through the city streets has already been planned so as to give the greatest number of people an opportunity to see the Sovereigns.

In view of the large number expected, the committee will at future meetings consider plans for an all-day celebration with sporting events, fireworks, military demonstrations, etc., featuring largely in the programme. To mark the event special buttons or medals will be given to the children and will be distributed during the day.

Among those who attended Saturday afternoon's meeting were Col. the Hon. Johnny Bourque, Minister of Public Works and Lands and Forests, Charles B. Howard, M.P., Mayor Marcus Armitage, Aldermen and a representative group of military and business men.

QUINTS TO MEET THEIR MAJESTIES

Ottawa, March 13.—Olivia D'Onna has accepted the invitation of the Ontario Government to take his quintuplet daughters to Toronto May 22 to meet the King and Queen. Le Droit, Ottawa French language newspaper, says in a newspaper story.

The newspaper publishes the text of a letter Mr. D'Onna wrote Hon. Harry Nixon, Ontario Provincial Secretary March 9 accepting the invitation. A translation of the letter, which was written in French, follows:

"I have just received your favor of the sixth instant inviting me, with my wife and my quintuplets, to meet Their Majesties on May 22 at the House of the Legislative Assembly and to be present at a luncheon at Hart House.

"Mrs. Dionne and myself are pleased to accept your kind invitation and we are grateful to you for placing at our disposal a special train for the trip and also the offices of the Prime Minister during our stay in Toronto.

"Please accept, Honorable Sir, the assurance of my highest consideration.

"Olivia D'Onna"

Decision of the quint's father to take them from the vicinity of the farm where they were born five years ago this May 28 ends weeks of speculation over whether they would see the royal couple. It was proposed at first that Their Majesties travel to Callander but their official itinerary made no provision for a stop there and efforts were started to bring the quint to them.

The youngsters will travel to Toronto on two private cars and will meet Their Majesties in the Lieutenant Governor's chamber at Queen's Park. They probably will be in Toronto only the one day though the couple are there.

It will be the first time they have been more than a hundred yards from the farm house where they were born. On September 28, 1934 when they were less than four months old their physician, Dr. Alan Roy Dafeo, moved them in a living room from the D'Onna home to the new Dafeo nursery across the road.

A SUCCESSFUL TEA, MUSICALE AT LENNOXVILLE

Enjoyable Event Held Under Auspices of Canadian Girls in Training of United Church Saturday Afternoon.

Douglas Hall, Lennoxville, was gay with green and shamrocks on Saturday afternoon for the successful tea and musicale held under the auspices of the Canadian Girls-in-Training of the Lennoxville United Church.

The numerous guests were extended a cordial welcome by the president, Patricia Watt, and the vice-president, Eileen Everett, and a most enjoyable time was spent by those who were privileged to be entertained by the group.

The hall presented an artistic effect with its green and white paper streamers, tall lighted green tapers in various parts of the room, shamrocks and white pipes hung across the top and bottom of the stage, and the name "Thandara" chosen by the group as their insignia, meaning, "Welcome," in letters on a large shamrock suspended in the centre of the stage. The long tea table, presided over by Mrs. Nellie Everett and Mrs. James Watt, was decorated with shamrocks, chocolate pigs with bright green eyes, and a model of Killarney Castle. The girls had charge of their own tables, and were allowed to decorate them in their own way. Thus, the tables were all the same color although not the same design. All were centered with large paper shamrocks. On some of these were potted shamrocks, while others had perky little pigs or flowers. St. Patrick's serviettes completed the decorations. The girls wore their maroon and grey uniforms.

Thelma Crawford, superintendent of the C.G.I.T. group, supervised the entire tea and programme, and it is largely due to her that the event was such a splendid success, although the other officers and members worked willingly and tirelessly in this, their first public activity of the year. The assistant superintendent, Miss Jean Campbell, was unable to be present, due to illness.

Marjorie Hillard acted as convener of the programme, and was assisted by Helen Cook and Marion Prince. Miss Hillard introduced the items on this varied entertainment, which were warmly applauded, and opened with a Hawaiian guitar solo, "My Wild Irish Rose," by Phyllis Statton, after which the lovely old English ballad, "Drink To Me Only With Thine Eyes" (Johnson), was sung as a duet by Eileen Everett and Mary Stewart, with Eleanor Leach as accompanist.

Throughout the programme, at the piano, a bright "Cabin Dance" was offered as a piano feature solo by Catherine Pierce, and Patricia Watt, who was heard in the popular song, "Did Your Mother Come From Ireland?" The lilting Mendelssohn's "Spring Song" was played as a piano duet by Patty McKinnon and Marion Prince, after which another guitar solo, "Let Me Call You Sweetheart," by Catherine Pierce, brought the programme to a close.

Mary Stewart acted as tea convener, assisted by Eileen Everett and Phyllis Statton. The following girls had charge of tables: Catherine Pierce, Wilma Wallace, Fay Butler, Evelyn Shuffelt, Helen Cook, Patty McKinnon, Jacqueline Stewart and Muriel Melver.

Mrs. Martin Merrill, Mrs. L. B. Pierce and Mrs. J. A. Crawford and the Misses Muriel Getty, Marion Prince and Phyllis Statton assisted in the kitchen.

Marjorie Hillard acted as treasurer.

FINE LENTEN SERMON

From the subject, "The Divine Remedy," Rev. F. R. Matthews preached a fine Lenten sermon to his congregation at the Lennoxville United Church yesterday morning. Rev. Mr. Matthews took the text for his sermon from the thirteenth and fourteenth verses of the twelfth chapter of Exodus, "And the blood shall be to you for a token upon the houses where ye are; and when I see the blood, I will pass over you, and the plague shall not be upon you to destroy you when I smite the land of Egypt. And this day shall be unto you for a memorial; and ye shall keep it a feast to the Lord throughout generations; ye shall keep it a fast by an ordinance for ever," and from the twenty-ninth

District Roads Blocked As Eight-Inch Blanket Of Snow Covers E.T.

What may prove to be the last large snowstorm of the current winter broke over the Eastern Townships last night and today the district was covered with a white blanket ranging in depth from eight inches to a foot.

Starting slowly, the snowfall increased in intensity during the night and at noon today the storm showed little, if any, indications of stopping. A total fall of eight inches was reported at the Dominion Experimental Farm at Lennoxville, but the snow was reported even heavier in some sections of the district.

Total snowfall so far this year has been eighty-three and one half inches, nine and one half inches more than at the same time last year and but five inches less than the amount recorded all last winter.

The majority of roads in the Eastern Townships were blocked by the snowstorm, although in a few cases ploughs were put to work this morning in an effort to restore traffic conditions to something approaching normalcy. Trucks arrived in Sherbrooke from Montreal this morning, but only after considerable difficulty in battling drifts.

Approximately one hundred men using fifteen trucks were sent out of Sherbrooke this morning to begin the task of removing the snow from the streets. This number was increased by sixty more workers in the afternoon. Road Department officials wish to remove the snow as quickly as possible because of the difficulties which would arise in sewers if the weather should suddenly turn milder and the snow begin to melt.

A case slated to be heard in Court of King's Bench today morning was postponed when the accused and witnesses were unable to reach Sherbrooke from Magog because of the condition of the road.

MONTREAL TRAFFIC TIED UP Montreal, March 13.—Eight inches of snow swirling down on Montreal district today as a moderate storm moved into the east.

LENNOXVILLE CITIZEN DIES AT AGE OF 76

Edward Sterling, Who Passed Away at His Home Saturday Afternoon, Was Life-Long Resident of Lennoxville.

The passing of Edward Sterling at his home on Belvidere street on Saturday afternoon at the age of seventy-six years, brought to a close the life of a fine Christian gentleman, who spent his entire life in Lennoxville, where he was born on January 8, 1863.

Deceased was the son of the late William Henry Sterling and Mary Ann Moore, of Lennoxville. On December 20, 1888, he was united in marriage to Miss Ann Yates, daughter of John Yates and Ellen Horton, of Liverpool, England.

Of this union there were born four children, three of whom survive, John Edward, of Lennoxville, Archibald Roy, of Montreal, and Edna Grace (Mrs. Harold Best), of Verdun. A daughter, Ida, passed away when a child. Mrs. Sterling predeceased her husband on December 17, 1934.

Mr. Sterling followed the trade of carpenter until several years ago when he retired. He was a member of St. George's Church, and also a member of the Order of Foresters. He was highly respected by all who knew him. A devoted husband and father, he had deep and sincere religious convictions.

Besides his three children, Mr. Sterling is survived by two grandchildren, the Misses Audrey Sterling, of Lennoxville, and Barbara Best, of Verdun; two daughters-in-law, Mrs. J. E. Sterling and Mrs. A. R. Sterling, and one son-in-law, Harold H. Best, of Verdun, besides other more distant relatives and many friends.

Prayers will be said this afternoon at his late residence by Venerable Archdeacon Albert Jones, rector of St. George's Church, after which the funeral cortege will proceed to St. George's Church for the funeral service, which will again be conducted by the Venerable Archdeacon Albert Jones. Interment will take place in the family lot at Malvern Cemetery.

SIXTEEN DEATHS BLAMED ON STORM

Chicago, March 13.—(P)—Heavy rain, sleet, snow and floods in the northern half of the United States, the week-end hampered traffic, crippled power lines and left at least sixteen dead today.

Snow continued today in the Eastern States, but rain and sleet had ceased in the Middle West. Temperatures were rising in the plains states and the Rock Mountain area.

Snow fell today in Massachusetts, Vermont, Rhode Island, New Hampshire, Maine and New York. It reached a depth of 11.4 inches in Boston. Skies were overcast in New York, where from four to fourteen inches of snow fell overnight.

About three inches of snow fell in New York City and three deaths were attributed to weather conditions there. Two died in upstate New York, where snow and ice covered the highways of the western and central portions. The heavy snowfall was being driven by a high wind in the upper central section. Temperatures were slightly below freezing.

The snowstorm increased in fury today in central Vermont and New Hampshire, where from two to four inches had fallen. Snow had reached a depth of six inches in Rhode Island and six to twelve inches in Connecticut, where it turned to rain.

Istanbul, March 13.—All buildings here are to be painted grey as camouflage against air raids.

Recognition of his services to rugby and to sports as a whole was made when Mr. Wolfe was presented with a handsome gold watch by Izzie Eichenberg. The guest of honor for many years a player on Sherbrooke football teams, was more recently connected with the organization in an executive capacity and had coached many a squad to the championship of the district.

The toast to Eddie Wolfe was made by Dr. A. N. Dupuis, director of the Athletic Association, who expressed the regret which Mr. Wolfe's departure will occasion. Referring to his activities in all branches of sports, Dr. Dupuis paid tribute to the fairness and consideration which has characterized the guest of honor's participation in and connection with local athletics.

Saturday's affair, held in the dining room of the Magog Hotel, was presided over by Lyman Tomkins and was attended by players and officials of the Athletic Association. After the dinner and presentation a sing-song was enjoyed by the gathering.

ASSIZE TRIAL IS DELAYED BY BLOCKED ROADS

Hearing of Theft Charge Against Fidele Couture, of Magog, to Be Inaugurated This Afternoon in King's Bench Court.

Trial of Fidele Couture, of Magog, on a charge of theft, scheduled for this morning, was postponed until two o'clock when it was learned that snow-blocked roads had prevented the accused and his advocate from reaching Sherbrooke.

Couture was arrested last summer on a charge laid by John Peters, manager of the Magog mill of the Dominion Textile Company, who claimed that the accused had from time to time removed considerable quantities of rayon, cotton and silk materials from the plant. Peters set $500 as the value of the goods allegedly stolen by Couture.

During the preliminary hearing, as a result of which Couture was ordered to stand trial, it was brought out that about thirty dollars' worth of material supposedly belonging to the textile firm had been found in possession of the accused, who, it was alleged, was disposing of the goods through the medium of a Magog woman.

Couture and other out-of-town people connected with the case are expected to arrive on the noon train. Indications are that the hearing will be quite lengthy, as the English jurors were freed this morning until Thursday.

Local "Seventh Son" Cleared Of Unique Witchcraft Charge

King's Bench Jury Frees J. A. Desfosses After One Hour's Deliberation—Verdict Greeted with Applause from Crowded Court Room—Addresses to Jury Heard Saturday.

Amid the acclaim of a crowd that filled the Court room to the doors, J. Anatole Desfosses stepped out of the prisoner's box at about five o'clock Saturday afternoon freed of a charge of practising witchcraft, so-called fortune telling.

A Court of King's Bench jury deliberated about an hour before they returned their verdict of "not guilty" and brought to an end a hearing believed without precedent in Canadian judicial annals. During the six-day trial a steady stream of witnesses testified they had been cured of various ailments by the "Seventh Son."

Evidence of four investigators for the Quebec College of Physicians and Surgeons who laid the groundwork for the charge against Desfosses was a feature of the hearing, during which contradictions and declarations that certain depositions were false were entered into Court records.

Taking of evidence was completed Friday afternoon, and all of Saturday morning and most of the afternoon were devoted to the pleas of Defence Counsel Emile Rioux and of Crown Prosecutor Antonio Drole.

Remarking that the Desfosses hearing was unique, Mr. Justice Charles D. White, who presided over the trial of Sherbrooke's "healer," stated in his charge to the jury that the questions of fact involved in the case were quite difficult and complex.

Reminding the panel that the claim to possess a supernatural power must be proven before the accused could be found guilty of the charge laid against him, Mr. Justice White stressed the importance of the testimony of the four religious called to the witness stand, all of whom expressed the belief that Desfosses cured them of their ailments because he was an intermediary of Providence which acted in a special manner through him.

Basing his case on three basic elements of proof, Mr. Drole opened his address to the jurors by pointing out that the claim to a possession of supernatural power was sufficient to make a person indictable to an offence under Article 443. The Crown Prosecutor stressed the fact, however, that any offence under Article 443 need not necessarily be punishable by a prison term but might make the person found guilty liable to a fine.

In his discussion on the evidence adduced, during the six-day hearing, Mr. Drole admitted that certain portions of the depositions of important Crown and defence witnesses were contradictory but that it was up to the jury to judge on the credibility of those who testified.

In reference to Desfosses' book, "He Is Known by His Deeds," and to the apparently miraculous cures which the accused was stated to have made, Mr. Drole claimed that many supposed ailments were merely illusions and the influence of a strong will on a patient was often sufficient to change the mental attitude and effect a "cure." He also stated that the fact that Desfosses distributed his book, even though no charge was made for it, indicated that the accused claimed power to cure and was trying to capture public imagination in creating an impression he had this power.

In his plea for the defendant, Mr. Rioux put forward five claims: (a) that the investigators for the College of Physicians and Surgeons had given contradictory testimony; (b) the reports submitted by the investigators were false; (c) Desfosses acted in good faith without any intention to defraud; (d) the Crown had not proven the guilt of the accused; and (e) benefit of the doubt must be given to Desfosses.

Comparing the accused to Pasteur, Galileo, John of Arc and other famous people who suffered persecution because of their deeds, Mr. Rioux remarked in closing that Desfosses, while "persecuted" by the medical authorities, should deserve their praise for his work among the sick.

Remarking that the Desfosses hearing was unique, Mr. Justice Charles D. White, who presided over the trial of Sherbrooke's "healer," stated in his charge to the jury that the questions of fact involved in the case were quite difficult and complex.

COURTESY IS STILL GOOD

The recent gesture of the United States Government in assigning a heavy cruiser to carry home to Japan the ashes of Hiroshi Saito is a generous and fine one.

In a world in which international relations are more and more carried on by nose-thumbing and abuse, it is pleasant to see courtesy carried beyond minimum requirements. Saito, former ambassador to the United States from Japan, did not literally "rate" this respect, usually paid only to actual incumbents who die while in office. But Saito had not left Washington since being replaced as ambassador, and the Government decided to grant the courtesy.

There is no use concealing the fact that many, many people disapprove Japan's Chinese adventure. Saito himself, while still alive, was first to admit it. But Saito was the type of ambassador who lessens the tensions and antagonisms between his own and the country to which he was accredited.

Courtesy is never out of place. Because Saito never gave way to belief in that "inevitable" Japanese-American war, but worked always for friendship, none need regret that the United States has gone out of its way to say a fitting good-bye to a true friend.

BACKFIRING PROPAGANDA

One of the dangers of propaganda is that it usually is a two-edged sword. Swung just right, it cuts in the right direction. But swung with the slightest ineptness, it may lop things never intended by the man who yields it.

Italy has found that to be the case in its broadcasts to South America. At least that is the implication of remarks by Philip L. Barbour, of the international division of the National Broadcasting Company, who told New York advertisers that Latin-Americans' indifference had caused Italy to abandon her effort to woo Central and South America via the ether.

Germany continues her efforts with six hours a day of solid propaganda, Barbour said, but is getting surprisingly small results.

American broadcasting southward, Barbour indicated, was less spectacular but more effective, being based on giving the listeners what they want. And they do not want, any more than anybody wants, a mess of sheer, undigested propaganda.

It would have been, and it is now, a mistake to try to launch a counter-propaganda forward in South America. Offer them good, amusing programmes of the kind they prefer. The good-will follows as a by-product.

SERENITY OF MIND

By Grenville Kleiser.

Serenity is a quality usually associated with saints and old people. But it can be acquired by ordinary people of all ages. It is true that in the process of acquiring it they will have taken to themselves some of the attributes of saintliness, but that is by the way.

Some people, especially the young, think mistakenly that a life of rushing about and excitement is the fullest kind of life, and they are apt to despise serenity, confusing it with vacancy and insensitiveness.

But the serenity of mind at which we should aim is a state of mental equilibrium, intensely alive and sentient, and so balanced that there is no jarring disturbance. The word serenity comes from the Latin "serenus" which means clear, and it carries the two-fold meaning of calmness and clearness, the two qualities depending one on the other.

Some fortunate people are endowed by nature with a serene disposition. But for the majority serenity is a blessing that has to be gained, partly by discipline and endeavor, but far more by faith. If we can really bring ourselves to trust in the goodness of God, we shall attain to a state of wonderful peace—the peace which passeth understanding. If we can really consider the lilies and all that their loveliness rising up out of the brown earth signifies, we shall be released from worry and fear, not only for ourselves but for those we love also. There are many unselfish people who, although they do not complain at their own misfortunes, torture themselves with anxiety for others. They not only show a lack of faith, but also a distrust in the courage and endurance of their friends.

Not all of us possess the faith that brings serenity.

But the process can be reversed, and in seeking serenity we can gain faith. We can discipline ourselves to think and act calmly, and accustom ourselves to see things in proportion. Temperate habits will give us a body which does not act as a disturber on our minds. Every time we control our anger or irritability we are forming a habit of composure. We can often induce a mental state by assuming its physical counterpart, and if we relax our bodies and smooth out our faces we shall have taken a first step towards mental tranquility.

We can develop a sense of proportion by looking around at the troubles of others and comparing them with our own. The reading of tragic literature will help us, for it will lift us out of ourselves. It has the power of raising calamities to the level of grandeur.

It is a helpful practice to withdraw ourselves for short periods from the busy world and to be alone and quiet. An hour or two of solitude, especially if spent out-doors, will often restore badly frayed nerves. Being alone with nature is a spiritual experience that far too many people shun.

We should make a habit of meditating at least once every day. We should choose periods when we are carried out of ourselves by something beautiful—scenery, music, poetry, art, or human goodness, or when we experience moments of spiritual insight. When we return from these brief visits to our work-a-day world we shall find that we have gained power to face with calmness its worries and problems.

With the approach of old age all our functions begin to slow down, and our reactions become less acute. It is then that we shall reap the full benefit of having cultivated serenity of mind. Then there will be no war between our wills and our physical and intellectual powers. Instead of fretting ourselves over what we can no longer do, we shall be able to enjoy a rich inner life. We shall have stores of thoughts and meditations on which to draw, making us independent of the pleasures and duties in which we can no longer share.

Thirty Years Ago Today

From the Files of the Sherbrooke Record.
March 13th, 1909.

Charles Murphy, general superintendent, C. P. R.; N. Dunlop, tax commissioner, C.P.R., and T. Williams, Montreal, divisional superintendent, Farnham, held an informal meeting with the Board of Trade officials, the Mayor and members of the finance committee in regard to the proposed changes and improvements intended for Sherbrooke. One important fact definitely developed, namely, it is proposed to make this a divisional point.

Setting a new production record, machine No. 5, of the Canada Paper Company, Windsor, turned out forty-nine tons of paper one day last week.

An innocent looking sleigh drove up in front of a Highwater establishment the other day and vigilant High Constable J. Boisvert, of Sweetsburg, jumped out and rushed into the building. He found a group of men drinking to his health. The matter was settled with a fine.

Henry Bourassa has signified his intentions to sit as the member from St. Hyacinthe. Mr. Bourassa was successful in winning in St. James, Montreal, against Hon. Lomer Gouin, at the last elections.

The re-organized 53rd Regimental Band made its first public appearance before a capacity audience in the Clement Theatre. The members of the band looked very attractive in the regimental uniforms and throughout the evening patriotic enthusiasm was strongly manifested and when the final number was being rendered and the Union Jack lowered into view, the cheers were almost deafening.

At a regular meeting of the Coaticook Council, 1887, Royal Arcanum, last week, the following officers were installed: Regent, P. H. Armitage; past regent, A. Rousseau; treasurer, O. G. Webster; secretary, H. O. Shurtleff; collector, H. J. Orcutt; orator, A. L. Dupuis; chaplain, H. C. Fontaine; guide, George Henderson; sentry, H. Barrett; warden, R. H. Gooley.

A SNOW SONG

Drifting down, drifting down;
Light as a dream, from the far off sky,
Flitting gaily o'er field and town,
Ever the wild, white dancers fly.
Tenderly touching the ragged trees,
Veiling their sombreness, drear and brown,
With a mantle fair, which a King might please.

Drifting, drifting, drifting down.
All that was left of her torn array,
Ragged and brown, unkempt and old,
When the autumn laughed and danced away
With her fairy hosts of red and gold,
All is veiled with a covering light,
Withered blossoms, and leaf's brown mould.
Still they sleep through the long, long night,
Till spring shall come with her kiss of gold.

Fields enchanted, and woods a-dream,
Ermine crested, royal and still,
Hushed in silver piece each stream,
Tall and proud each ivoried hill.
Hush! Like some late bird that lingers,
Strange wild voices come and go,
As the wind, with fairy fingers,
Harps the wild dance of the snow.

—Christine Kerr Davis.

PRECAUTION AGAINST SPREAD OF GRIPPE

To the Editor,
Sherbrooke Record.
Dear Sir:—In last Saturday's edition of the Record it was stated that all persons were barred from the public wards in the Sherbrooke Hospital, a very worthy decision on the part of the Hospital authorities, especially at this time of the year when so much grippe is flourishing in and around Sherbrooke. I was recently informed that action might have to be taken and may have been taken by this time, to bar visitors from the private wards also.

Now, I think, and I expect that many other people think the same way, that in due respect to the health of many, many citizens, the theatres should be closed for awhile, a few days at least, until this cloud of grippe passes away.

For, why should people be barred from the Hospital who go there to see their loved ones who are sick, any more than people who go to theatres for nothing more than amusement?

Thanking you for the space in your worthy paper,

I am,

Yours truly,

INTERESTED.

INFORMATIVE RESPONSE TO TWO-BID DOES NOT PROHIBIT ADDITIONAL BIDS

(This is the last of a series of six articles discussing a modern system of response to the opening bid of two of a suit.)

Many bridge players, urged to that course perhaps by unfortunate past experience, will not show a suit after an opening bid of two, unless their hand is a fairly good one. Of course, without the requisite honor strength for a suit response, the first call must be the disheartening and unilluminating two no trump. After that, however, there is no reason why information which may prove important cannot be exchanged.

This was the successful bidding of a slam which cannot be defeated.

CANADIAN PRESS

EMULATING GERMANY

(Sarnia Observer)
The Quebec Provincial Police may overstep the bounds of good judgment if they proceed under the terms of an order which they are said to have served on Louis Finkelberg, relief resident of a Laval street tenement flat in Montreal, to the effect that he must evict his son-in-law, Muni Taub, or have the place subjected to the padlock law which the Government of Quebec has enacted to restrain the activities of Communists in that province.

Apparently Taub is regarded by the police as active in the interests of the Communist party and therefore comes under the restrictive potentialities of the padlock law. But the suspect has a wife and small baby and the family objects to being evicted from the home on the ground that it could not find lodgings anywhere else, as other landlords must refuse to harbor this family, knowing that they would invite the operation of the anti-Communist regulation.

The police warning was sent to Taub, in the form of a registered letter under date of January 17, and the family is given until next Monday to move. It is said that legal advice has been taken and the eviction will be fought, on the ground that it attempts to deprive a Canadian citizen of his constitutional rights, by driving him into the streets. The Canadian Civil Liberties Union is the organization that has called the attention of Premier Duplessis to the case. That probably does not help much since this organization may be regarded as having Communist affiliations. What the Quebec Government need fear most is the public opinion that would be given stimulus from any undue hardship inflicted on a woman and a baby by forcing them into the streets in the inhospitable Montreal winter.

Communism may be poison to all decent Canadians, but they are all soft-hearted when it comes to a matter of cruelty to human beings. The proposed police action suggests that Quebec is emulating the German theory of government and that it is not going to rally Canadian sentiment to its support, even if the offender happens to be a Communist.

SECESSION TALK IN WEST IS HALTED

(Lethbridge Herald)
The U.F.A. convention made short shrift of the secession resolution. It had a hard-headed Scotchman, Robert Gardiner in the chair, and he put some questions to the delegates that could not help but have an influence upon their decision.

"Do you think Western Canada could even come to one mind on the question of secession?" he asked. "Would British Columbia join? And if you haven't outlets on the Pacific or at the head of the lakes what are you going to do about it?"

That was not all. He pointed out that even if secession were achieved a still greater problem would be unifying opinion on the pro secession solution to the economic ills which would continue to exist with secession a reality.

Secession isn't any remedy for our troubles. The people who advocate it haven't thought through to where it would end. Let the three prairie provinces secede; let them repudiate all their debts; then let us have two or three crop failures in succession. Where would the relief come from; who would finance the relief that would be necessary? Western Canada having destroyed its credit, wouldn't be able to borrow money and its people wouldn't be in the position to raise what would be required by taxation. This is merely one illustration of what Western Canada separation from the Dominion would have to face. As it is, no matter how resentful people may be towards Eastern Canada, we must recognize that that part of the Dominion in sharing our burdens, is enabling us to keep going. If we were separated from it entirely, what would happen to us in a series of emergencies such as those we have had to contend with for the past few years.

LONDON'S WORRIES

(St. Catharines Standard)
There is $200,000,000 of British money locked up in Germany, and confidence of British financiers is shaken in the good faith of Germany following the dismissal of Dr. Schacht, key man of all German financing and a supporter of economic laws as against political predominance. What is going to happen in Germany no one can foretell, but there can be no doubt of an economic crisis, something which will bring any other country to the brink of ruin. The insistent drive of the political leadership for greater and faster production in the face of almost complete exhaustion of all material, financial and labor reserves, is a situation which faces the Nazis, the blood and iron rulers who tell their people to prefer tanks to butter. There was a failure of a 1½ billion mark loan, and there has been a deficit of 432.4 million marks in Germany's foreign trade. The banks are saturated with German issues. All these factors would be highly important in a normal world, but with the war psychosis as existent in Germany, they may portend a real outbreak within the coming months. In history, rulers have been known to resort to war to heal an internal condition; to make a digression for the people that they may forget lesser worries for greater achievement. This potentiality doubtless exists in Germany today, and in less measure in Italy.

And it is now realized in Britain that Germany has no intention of maintaining the naval treaty with the United Kingdom. Submarines are being built up to parity and greater, and other tonnage is being increased. The dispatches say London is jittery. Submarines can only be used against Britain and France, and War by Germany may come from internal combustion and the dismissal of Dr. Schacht may well be interpreted as the discarding of all ideas of moderation. Seizure of all foreign money in Germany may be the last stroke.

QUEBEC NOT FASCIST

(Sydney Post-Record)
The statement made recently by Mayor Houde of Montreal that the people of Quebec were "Fascist by blood if not by name," that they always followed some master-mind, that in the event of war between Britain and Italy their sympathies, mainly for religious reasons, would be with the enemy, has called forth a veritable torrent of protests from all over the Province. Mr. Houde's assertion has been indignantly repudiated by French-Canadians of various political schools, by members of the Legislature and of Parliament, by journalists and authors, by Ministers of the Crown, and even by the Chairman of the Mayor's executive committee in the Montreal City Council. Without a dissenting note this chorus of public opinion has proclaimed French Canada's loyalty to the British Crown and Empire, and has found voluntary and daily expression in the press ever since Mr. Houde's remarkable speech in the Montreal Y.M.C.A.

A pupil was asked the following question by his teacher: "Do the American Indians have full citizenship?" After a moment's consideration, he replied: "No, they have canoes!"

"You have my sympathy, Jones."

"Why?"

"My wife has a new spring outfit and she's calling on your wife tomorrow."

LARGER-SIZE AFTERNOON STYLE

MARIAN MARTIN
Pattern 9994

Pointing out a new way to look slimmer and more charming this Easter, Pattern 9994 will catch the eye of the smartest matrons! "Soft" and "Feminine" are its keywords. Scalloping rounds off the daintiness of the yoke, which is really an extension of the bodice back. Then there's a long panel sweeping down to give the hem a comfortable flare—and nice fullness in the bodice. The Sew Chart of Marian Martin's creation makes light work of such details as the sleeves—graceful either flared or moulded to the arm. Choose a shadowy lace-trimmed print, or a dark crepe with panel contrast!

Pattern 9994 may be ordered only in women's sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48 and 50. Size 36 requires 3½ yards 39-inch fabric.

Send twenty cents (20c) in coins (stamps cannot be accepted) for this Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your size, name, address and style number.

Send your order to Sherbrooke Record, Pattern Department, Sherbrooke, Que.

GOOD TEA ECONOMICAL
Good quality teas are always the most economical in the long run. Not only is the flavor superior, but more cups per pound can be made of a choice grade than an inferior. Tea will retain its fine flavor until the last leaf is gone, if kept in a tightly-covered container.

COMFORTABLE, LIGHT BACK REST
Sickroom furnishings need to be comfortable, attractive and easy to keep absolutely clean. A new metal and canvas back rest, light in weight, yet comfortable and sturdy, has a luxurious cover of quilted rayon satin, which can be removed and dry cleaned as often as necessary. And if you are addicted to reading in bed, you don't need to be ill to enjoy its easy support.

A Successful Tea, Musicales At Lennoxville

verse of the first chapter of St. John, "The next day John seeth Jesus coming unto him, and saith, Behold the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sins of the world." The anthem, "Rejoice, the Lord is King" (Couper), was sung by the choir, with tenor solo part by Frederick Fox, and a bass solo part by Charles Greenfield, during the service.
In the evening, Rev. Mr. Matthews chose the subject, "The Bible and the Day of Worship," based on the text to be found in the fifth verse of the sixth chapter of St. Luke, "And he said unto them, The Son of Man is Lord of the Sabbath." The Misses Maude Cote and Thelma Crawford were heard in the duet, "Softly and Tenderly." Miss Patricia Watson presided at the organ at both services, owing to the absence through illness of the organist and choir directress, Miss Jean Campbell.

General Notes.
Mr. Archibald R. Sterling, of Montreal, and Mrs. Harold Best, of Verdun, are in town, called here by the illness and death of their father, Edward Sterling.

Her many friends are indeed pleased to learn that Miss Jean Campbell is feeling better after being confined to her home on Belvidere street for the past few days through illness.

At the annual meeting of the Lennoxville Women's Institute held on Thursday, the sum of five dollars was voted to the Sherbrooke County School Fair, and not to the Lennoxville High School Fair, as was announced.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph E. Mosher at their home on Clough avenue yesterday included Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Davidson, Mr. and Mrs.

TRAVEL KITS SHOULD HAVE ITEMS FOR CLEANSING

Cleansing cream or a liquid cleanser if her skin is oily, hand lotion, soap that will lather in hard water and a tiny manicure kit are just about the most important cosmetic items for a woman to take on any trip.

There are beauty shops galore in the average town either here or abroad, of course, but travel being what it is, you'll be surprised at how seldom you find time to get into one. By all means take a manicure kit, containing enough equipment for a home manicure. And be sure there's a bottle of polish to match that which your own manicurist put on your nails before you left home. Otherwise, you won't be able to do neat little repair jobs when the polish chips or cracks.

If you have cleansing cream handy you'll be able to clean your face several times a day instead of having to wait until you can assemble wash cloth, soap and towels and lather some water.

Don't make yourself unpopular at hotels by removing makeup with their towels. Wrap a few pieces of cleansing tissue around your cleansing cream, fasten with a rubber band and keep the little package in your purse.

If you're planning a trip to San Francisco's Golden Gate Exposition, you might as well know that the water in the western part of the country is hard. In fact, very hard. You'll need a water softener for your bath and you'll probably find some kind of special hard water soap pretty handy for washing out stockings as well as scrubbing your face and hands.

If you go in an automobile, how about tucking a little waterproof case, containing cleanser, hand lotion, orange stick, comb and make-up, into the pocket of the car? Select a small one which will be easy to carry in and out of tourist's stations. And fill it with miniature jars of everything you think you'll need. This will keep you from having to open a bag and locate your regular size jars each time you stop.

WOMEN STILL LACKING IN ECONOMIC WISDOM

"I never sign anything. My father signed me about that, and so did Duncan." They used to say, "Grace, never sign your name to anything."

Those words of Mrs. Duncan Phyfe, widow of the grandson of the famous cabinetmaker, recently told to Helen Worden of the New York Herald-Telegram, are a sharp reminder of how short the time is since the women were entirely dependent on men.

"Never sign anything," intelligent husbands and fathers used to caution their women-folk. They thought if a woman learned that lesson well, she would be able to get along in a world full of unscrupulous business men.

It never occurred to them that a woman might learn enough about business methods to know what to sign, and what not to sign.

It apparently didn't occur to women, either—until they got into offices and found out that the feminine touch was a business like a duck to water.

Even now, though, when women are all over the place in the business world, and have their hands on seventy per cent of the country's wealth, they still don't know a woman's thing is likely to depend on it.

The only thing that is holding women back is their own laziness and indifference—and the belief of many that it is charming for a woman to make a mess of her check book, a hang-over from the old days.

CHILD'S "I WANT" MUSTN'T ALWAYS MEAN "CAN HAVE"

Tommy comes in and asks for money for a kite. Mother says, "I wish I knew what to do."

Tommy's mother is not the only person confused by the fear of frustrated impulse. In fact, the idea has taken hold more firmly than almost any other paragraph in child training. Writers who know their children nearly always modify their dicta in another chapter, however. As usual in such matters, there are always the "however's" and the "but's."

Controlling Impulse
Some place else in the home, if she looks carefully, the mother of a growing boy or girl will find words to this effect: "Resist that impulse."

This seems to be completely opposed to the policy of leniency. But it isn't. Impulse should be controlled or it goes haywire indeed. Unbridled impulse becomes a handicap. It spurs the child for maturity. Growing means control. Those who have never felt the bit of restraint remain forever immature and weak.

Children are very intense. They want things so desperately when they want them. They must get used to some disappointment, and accustomed to frustration. Not all the time, naturally, but part of the time.

SPRING SHORT CAKE SHOULD GO LONG WAY TOWARD SATISFYING YEN FOR NEW DESSERT

Spring makes its official bow shortly. Let's return the courtesy with a spring dinner ending with this delicate new cake created for the occasion.

It's made in one of the brand new layer cake dishes, 8½ by 2 inches, of heat-resistant glass, with large convenient handles.

Spring Short Cake (6 servings)

One-quarter cup butter or other shortening, ½ cup granulated sugar, ¼ tea-spoon almond extract, 2 egg yolks, 1½ cups cake flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ¼ tea-

TOMORROW'S MENU
BREAKFAST: Tomato and grapefruit juice, French toast, honey, bacon, coffee, milk.
LUNCHEON: Toasted cheese sandwiches, raw vegetable salad, frosted cup cakes, apple-sauce, tea, milk.
DINNER: Casserole of lamb shoulder with vegetables, steamed rice, spring salad bowl, spring shortcake, minted pineapple sauce, coffee, milk.

leaspoon salt, ½ cup milk. For topping use two egg whites, ½ cup granulated sugar.

Cream butter. Add the ½ cup of sugar gradually, then add extract. Cream thoroughly. Add egg yolks one at a time and beat after each addition. Sift and measure the cake flour. Then sift together the flour, baking powder and salt and add to creamed mixture alternately with milk. Blend thoroughly.

Pour into a well greased glass

A new white spring short cake with meringue topping and minted pineapple sauce, baked in one of the new cake dishes—all set to greet the first day of spring.

layer cake dish.

Topping: beat the egg whites stiff.

Add the other ½ cup of sugar and again beat until stiff. Spread the meringue over the cake. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) for about forty minutes.

Serve warm topped with ice cream and a fresh pineapple mini sauce.

Minted Pineapple Sauce for Spring Shortcake

Two cups chopped fresh pineapple, 1-3 cup sugar, 1 glass mint jelly (6 ounces).

Mix sugar with chopped pineapple. Chill. Slice jelly with a knife so that it comes from the glass in small cubes. Fold into the chilled pineapple and serve.

Crushed fresh strawberries, slightly sugared, would be another delicious sauce, especially if accompanied by a bowl of slightly whipped cream.

SALMON WIGGLE

One small can peas or fresh peas in season; 1 pound can salmon, flaked; 1 pint chopped fine, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 2 cups milk. Seasoning. Melt butter, add flour and seasonings. Stir in milk slowly and cook until thick and smooth. Add salmon, peas and pimiento. Serve hot on toast or in puff paste shells.

Scalloped Salmon
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
1½ teaspoon salt
1½ teaspoon pepper
1 pound can Salmon
2 hard cooked eggs
3 cups buttered crumbs
2 cups milk

Melt butter, add flour, seasonings and milk slowly. Bring to a boil, stirring constantly until thick and smooth. Add 1 can salmon, from which skin and bones have been removed; and 2 sliced hard cooked eggs. Place half the buttered crumbs in the bottom of a buttered baking dish. Pour over this the white sauce mixture and cover with remaining crumbs. Bake twenty minutes in a hot oven or until crumbs are browned.

Baked Salmon Loaf
1 lb. can fish flaked coarsely
½ cup bread crumbs
½ cup milk
1 egg
2 hard cooked eggs
1 teaspoon butter
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup chopped sweet pickles or stuffed olives

Mix thoroughly all ingredients except the eggs. Place in a buttered casserole and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for one hour or until loaf becomes firm. Unmold on a platter. Garnish with slices of hard cooked eggs and stuffed olives.

Baked Noodles Yukon
Combine two tablespoons melted butter, one tablespoon flour, one teaspoon salt and one cup milk. Cook, stirring constantly until thick. Add two cups flaked salmon. Fill well oiled casserole with alternate layers creamed salmon and cooked noodles (2 cups). Sprinkle each layer with buttered crumbs (1 cup). Bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.) twenty to thirty minutes.

How Women in Their 40's Can Attract Men

Here's good advice for a woman during her change (usually from 38 to 42), who fears she'll lose her appeal to men, who worries about hot flashes, loss of pep, dizzy spells, upset nerves and moody spells.

Just get more fresh air, 30 minutes a day, and you'll feel like a new woman. It's not just a "WOMAN'S" tonic take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made especially for women. It helps Nature build up physical resistance, thus helps give more vitality to enjoy life and assist calming jittery nerves and those disturbing symptoms that often accompany change of life.

Pinkham's is WELL WORTH trying.

DEATHS REPORTED

JOHN HARDEN, KNOWLTON

Knowlton, March 13.—Funeral services for John Harden, who passed away at his home here, on Thursday, March 2nd, following a lingering illness, were held at the Knowlton United Church on Saturday afternoon at two p.m., Rev. E. D. Mitchell officiating.

Born at Knowlton September 15, 1865, the deceased spent his entire life in this vicinity and consequently had made many friends, who will deeply regret his passing.

A son of the late Eliza Cousens and John Harden, he is survived by his wife and one brother, William Harden, who resides here. A sister, Mrs. Stephen Money, and a brother, George Harden, predeceased him several years ago.

The funeral service was largely attended by relatives and friends and two favorite hymns of the deceased were rendered by the choir, "Rock of Ages" and "Abide With Me."

The learners were John Smith, E. W. Moran, Clarence Bullard and George B. Dryburgh. Interment was in the Knowlton Protestant Cemetery.

ROY BERTON PERKINS, DANVILLE

Danville, March 13.—Funeral services, conducted by Rev. Walter S. Bezonson, pastor, were held in the Advent Christian Church here March 6 for Roy Berton Perkins, who died of pneumonia at the Highland Park General Hospital, Detroit, Michigan, Friday, March 3.

Mr. Perkins was born in Asbestos, April 11, 1894, the son of Norris and Jane (Gifford) Perkins. At the age of twenty-one he was baptized by Rev. A. H. Kearney, and united with the Danville Advent Christian Church.

A year later he went to Detroit, where he was employed by the Ford Motor Company. On November 13, 1917, he enlisted in the 310th Trench Mortar Battery, and saw service in France till the close of the war.

He retained his membership in the Danville church till July 1920, when he was transferred by letter to Advent Christian Church of Detroit, Mich. At the time of his death he was pastor of the church, and local commissioner of the Boy Scouts of America.

Funeral services were conducted in the Detroit Advent Christian Church Sunday, March 5, by his pastor Rev. A. P. Ferrell, who was assisted by Rev. C. M. Perkins, Rev. Ray C. Pratt and Rev. George A. Ferguson, a former pastor of the Advent Christian Church in Detroit.

A delegation of the Boy Scouts of America acted as honorary pallbearers.

Frank H. Perkins, brother of the deceased, was the only relative present at the service in Detroit. He accompanied the body to Danville, where the second service was held. Relatives and friends of his boyhood days gathered to pay their tribute of love and respect.

Besides his mother, Mrs. Jane Perkins, he leaves to mourn his loss, a brother, Frank H. Perkins, of Asbestos, two sisters, Mrs. A. C. Webb, of Danville, and Mrs. Stanley Bell, of Montreal, and a large circle of other relatives and friends.

The day following the funeral an expression of sincere sympathy, in the form of a large basket of beautiful flowers, was received by his mother from "The Boys of Department 917" of the Chrysler Corporation, Detroit, where Mr. Perkins worked many years.

Interment was in the Danville Protestant Cemetery.

DANIEL H. GREENE, KNOWLTON

Knowlton, March 13.—The sudden passing of Daniel H. Greene on February 24th came as a great shock to this entire community, as he was in his usual health on retiring.

Of light-hearted disposition, a friend to the young, the poor, and aged, he met one and all with smile and cheering word.

Born in Chateaugay, New York State, on December 8, 1859, a son of the late Harriet Lamb and Luther Greene, he came to Bolton Centre with his parents to reside at an early age and with the exception of four years spent in Holyoke, Mass., the rest of his life was spent in the Eastern Townships, twelve years of which were passed in the township of Sutton, where he carried on an extensive lumber business. From there he moved to Knowlton, where he resided until the time of his death.

A councillor of the Village of Knowlton for eighteen years and an active member of the Brome County Agricultural Society for over thirty years, the deceased always showed a keen interest in the welfare of the community and its surrounding district. He had constructed several roads that will stand as landmarks for a great many years. For the past five years, he had given up outside activities but had still been able to attend to daily tasks about his home.

The funeral service was held at the United Church, Knowlton, on February 28 and was conducted by Rev. E. D. Mitchell, assisted by Rev. E. M. Taylor. Two appropriate hymns, "Abide With Me" and "Peace, Perfect Peace," were rendered by the choir. The floral offerings were both numerous and beautiful and bore silent tribute of the esteem in which the deceased was held.

Sutton Lodge No. 39 A.F. and A.M. of which the deceased was a member, held a Masonic service at the residence, and was assisted by Brome Lake Lodge No. 35 A.F. and A.M. The bearers were Messrs. C. Wilson Percy Cowin, Sydney Smith, Clarence Bullard, Frank Mizner and Luke Turner. Interment was in the Knowlton Cemetery beside his late wife, Eliza Cousens, who predeceased him December 7, 1921.

In spite of inclement weather a large cortege of friends and neighbors turned out to pay their respects. Friends from Sutton, Brome, Farnham, Sherbrooke and Bolton Centre were present.

Of a family of seven, only one sister, Mrs. Lizzie Cousens, of New York City, survives. He is also survived by his widow, nee Lizzie Shufelt, and George Ward, who has spent nearly all his life with the deceased, besides several nieces and nephews.

Synopsis — Brooks Mason, film star, having exchanged names with a double, George Smith, Hawaiian planter, has gone to Hawaii for peace and quiet. He is violently in love with Dorothy March, a dancer he met on the ship, but George Smith's girl, Cecilia Grayson, falls more in love with him more than ever. Her father has Brooks jailed, claiming that George Smith stole $50,000 from him. When that is straightened out, Grayson gives his consent to his marrying Cecilia. As a means of bringing Smith back to Hawaii, Brooks has his wedding date to Cecilia announced over the radio for June 12. The day comes, and Brooks waits impatiently for the Clipper ship to arrive.

CHAPTER TWELVE

CECILIA'S WEDDING

Brooks was at the 'phone before Millie got the door shut. He barked into it: "Hello! Hello! Give me the air port. If the Clipper travels as slow as your mind Wong, I'm sunk. Hello! Any news of the Clipper? What? Nothing definite yet. What do I care about headwinds! Get that ship in!"

He hung up as there came anlently on the door, crying: "Dorothy! Dorothy, let me in!" There was no answer. "Please, Dorothy, I want to talk to you."

"Go away. I don't want to talk to you," at length came her tearful rejoinder.

"You must let me in! I must talk to you. Please."

He was still pleading when he heard her say: "Wait a minute," and at the same instant heard the roar of an airplane. "The Clipper! It's in! I'm saved!" and he dashed away so hurriedly that when the door was opened and Dorothy's tearful face appeared he was nowhere in sight. Dorothy burst into tears and slammed the door shut.

It was the Clipper. George Smith was the first passenger to alight.

Back of him was Joe Duffy's anxious face. George sped through the welcoming crowd and was seized by Brooks who rushed him to the latter's room, explaining the situation hurriedly. Before the door had closed he was divesting himself of his wedding garments and tossing them upon the bed for George to don.

"Hurry, George. There's just a minute," he implored. "Boy, I'm glad you got here! It was terrible. I was afraid I'd have to marry your girl."

Brooks hurriedly interrupted. "I didn't mean that. I mean, if I turned his head from the bridegroom to his double at the door, his head and his thoughts whirling until he collapsed in a faint in the arms of a woman near the aisle.

Brooks made a last desperate effort to find Dorothy. She was not in her room. He had recourse to the desk clerk.

"Where is Miss March?"

"She's not in her room. I've had her paged all over the hotel."

"She just can't disappear."

"I'm sorry, sir," said the clerk, but Brooks had dashed away at sight of Dorothy and Millie just emerging from the elevator.

"Dorothy! Dorothy darling! Now I can prove it to you! George Smith arrived a few moments ago, and was married to Cecilia. Now will you believe that I am Brooks Mason?"

Her only answer was a puzzled look, and he cried in desperation: "What must I do to make you believe me? I tell you I'm Brooks Mason."

"Why, that is Brooks Mason!" cried a fat woman, just about to enter the elevator. Other women repeated the name, and the rush of the autograph hounds was on again. There was no stopping them. Again Brooks was crushed against the wall, went down before the surge of his admirers.

When he came to, he was in bed at a hospital, an ice pack on his head.

But Dorothy was at the side of the bed, her eyes shining with happiness.

"Well, they finally got me," he smiled weakly.

"Don't you care honey," said Dorothy. "We'll be out of this in a few days, and we'll spend our honeymoon where there's peace and quiet—in Hollywood."
