

Bruins, Hawks and Rangers continue pace

Boston Bruins have won 40 of their 57 games played so far this season in the National Hockey League, and tied nine. They also have a comfortable eight-point lead in the East Division over New York Rangers.

But coach Tom Johnson is still worried. The Bruins dumped California Golden Seals 6-3 Tuesday night and extended their home unbeaten streak to 23 games. Why then is Johnson worried?

His team is embarking on a six-game road trip and that is what has the Boston coach uneasy. He considers that trip "crucial."

"You bet your life it is," Johnson said Tuesday night after his Bruins disposed of the Seals before the usual sellout crowd at the Boston Garden.

"New York is still close enough to run right up our backs and we can't afford to lose any hockey games right now," Johnson said. "There's still a way to go in this race."

STAY IN RANGE

New York apparently feels the same way too. The Rangers downed Vancouver Canucks 5-1 Tuesday night to stay within range of the Bruins. In another game, Chicago Black Hawks edged St. Louis Blues 3-2.

Tonight, California visits Montreal Canadiens, Toronto Maple Leafs meet the Penguins in Pittsburgh, Detroit Red Wings are at Minnesota against the North Stars, Philadelphia Flyers are at Chicago and St. Louis visits Los Angeles Kings.

Defenceman Bobby Orr picked up four assists in the first period to lead the Bruins to their victory over the Seals. The victory moved the Bruins within five games of tying the NHL record for the longest home-ice unbeaten string. Montreal set the mark of 28 in the 1943-44 season.

"We aren't thinking of any records, we're just trying to win games," Johnson said.

Orr's blistering shots set up goals by Johnny Bucyk and Derek Sanderson in the first 4½ minutes. Sanderson got another goal later while Mike Walton also collected two goals, his 20th and 21st, with the help of rebounds of Orr shots. Orr now has 62 assists, tops in the league.

FORMER BRUINS SCORER

Two former Bruins figured in the scoring for the Seals. Wayne Carleton got California's second goal in the second period and Ivan Boldirev got the third Seal goal in the third. Gary Crofteau was the other California scorer.

Defenceman Don Awrey, who suffered a broken ankle in Boston's last home loss to Montreal in early November, is expected to return to action Thursday night in Philadelphia against the Flyers, the first game in Boston's road trip.

Jean Ratelle, enjoying one of his most productive seasons, scored three goals—his 37th, 38th and 39th—in pacing the Rangers to their win over the Canucks.

Ratelle scored the first two New York goals, his first coming at the 13-second mark of the game when he knocked in Rod Gilbert's rebound. His second came in the final minute of the second period when he scored on the short side from 20 feet. His final goal was in an empty net when Vancouver pulled goalie Dunc Wilson for a sixth attacker.

Ratelle's three goals gave him 94 points, one fewer than scoring leader Phil Esposito of Boston who earned only an assist in Boston's win.

RANGERS COME BACK

Bobby Schmautz scored Vancouver's goal, tying the score 1-1 early in the second period, but New York came back with four unanswered goals—three of them in the third period.

The Black Hawks, leaders in the West Division, slipped by the Blues on the strength of two goals by Stan Mikita although St. Louis outshot Chicago 42-25.

The Black Hawks opened a 2-0 lead on Mikita's first-period goal and one by Darryl Maggs in the second period but St. Louis narrowed the gap when Gary Sabourin scored his 100th NHL goal, capitalizing on a rebound from a Bill Plager shot.

Hebner sees Pirates division repeat

SHERBROOKE (LH) —

"What's the worst type of injury a baseball player can get?" repeated Pittsburgh Pirates third baseman Richie Hebner when the question was put to him yesterday.

"Getting hit by a Mack truck I suppose," he answered... "but if I broke my leg today, I don't know what I'd be doing tomorrow."

Both Hebner and Steve Demeter, the newly appointed manager of the Sherbrooke Pirates baseball team, were in Sherbrooke yesterday for the annual Sports Celebrity Dinner held last night in the Wellington Hotel.

Yesterday afternoon, Hebner and Demeter visited The Record offices and chatted informally on professional sport generally and the new Sherbrooke Baseball franchise in particular.

"I had a chance to play professional hockey," Hebner related yesterday. "I was drafted by the Bruins (Boston) and when I played for the Flyers (Niagara Falls) I think the Detroit Red Wings were scouting me too."

"But I was offered four times as much money to play baseball so... But Milt Schmidt was quite nice about it, he told me if I didn't make the major leagues in baseball I could come back to him in two or three years," he said.

Hebner, 24, was born in Norwood, Mass., about 15 miles south of Boston and now lives in Pittsburgh.

"I enjoy playing ball in places like Montreal and New York because the fans really know the game and they cheer a lot. You go into some places with only 3,000 at the game and it's like a funeral parlor, no one says anything."

"Hey, I hear you're getting a new organ player for the Expos games in Montreal. What happened to the old guy, he was really great. He used to come into our dressing room before a game and ask us if we had any songs he could play for us."

Hebner predicted that Houston or Los Angeles would win the western division of the National League, Baltimore and Oakland would repeat in the American League divisions "and I guess we better say Pittsburgh in the National League Eastern Division."

Steve Demeter, the new manager of the Sherbrooke Pirates, played professional baseball for many years, including stop-offs at Montreal and Toronto in the international league.

"In the minors, you've got to fit your philosophy to suit the ball park," Demeter said yesterday.

"If it's a small park, you've got to go for home runs, if it isn't, well you change your game to make up for it. We hope to have a real exciting club this year," he said yesterday.

Paduano decisions Marcotte

MONTREAL (CP) — Donato Paduano of Montreal weathered an early knockdown Tuesday night and came back to pound out a unanimous decision over Fernand Marcotte Jr., of Quebec City in a 10-round bout before 11,208 hometown fans Tuesday night.

Marcotte, 22, decked the Montreal fighter after only 15 seconds of the first round, but Paduano, 23, came back with an effective display of jabbing and counterpunching to claim the fight.

Under Quebec boxing rules, three judges ruled on the outcome. Jean-Claude Theroux gave Paduano a 49-45 point decision. Judges Armand Brissette and Bruno Beaudry ruled 48-46 and 49-44 respectively in his favor.

Three preliminary bouts were on the four-fight card.

In the first, Marshall Butler of Montreal claimed a unanimous decision over Antonio Durango of New York in a six-rounder. Joey Durelle, another Montrealer, defeated Juan Ramos of New York via the same route in an eight-round bout and Raynald Cantin of Montreal made it four unanimous decisions on the card when he beat Pierre Deschene.

Fourth session of 28th Parliament opens

OTTAWA (CP) — As opposition MPs displayed a feisty pre-election mood, the government offered a summary of the just-ended parliamentary session Wednesday, barely noting issues likely to get top billing in the campaign expected this year.

The fourth session of the 28th Parliament was to open today. Under procedure set by the government, the Commons returned from its winter recess just long enough for the ritual call to the Senate for the prorogation speech delivered by Chief Justice Gerald Fauteux.

The 20-minute speech, written by the government, cited the bills passed in the last session and called on Parliament to continue the pace of legislation to meet the challenges of the future.

But the Commons sitting was interrupted by Conservative and New Democrat House leaders who objected to opposition MPs being prevented from quitting the government on such issues as unemployment and trade disputes with the United States.

CHARGES GOVERNMENT

Conservative Gerald Baldwin accused the government of trying to "defraud the members of this House of their traditional rights."

New Democrat Stanley Knowles said that after the six-week break there was plenty for the House to do. The government was "hiding behind the royal prerogative"—the Senate call to hear the prorogation speech.

Commons Speaker Lucien Lamoureux rejected Mr. Baldwin's request to clear the House of strangers, including the messenger from the Senate, the public and the press.

Opposition MPs expressed no satisfaction with the speech, boycotted by all Conservatives except Leader Robert Stanfield, who said the speech was "as dry as last year's bird's nest."

On the issue of unemployment, the speech said:

"It is a matter of continuing concern to the government that the rapid increase in the labor force has left many Canadians out of work notwithstanding the impressive increase in the number of jobs created."

"The rise in output and in employment has been attained, however, without jeopardizing Canada's unmatched achievement in the area of price stability."

NOTES GROWTH

It said the growth rate of Canada's real gross national product has exceeded that of any industrialized country in the world.

On the current trade deadlock with the United States, the speech referred only to the $80-million fund created to aid industries hit by the U.S. import surcharge, imposed in August and removed in December.

On foreign ownership of Canadian industry, another expected campaign issue, the speech referred to the establishment last year of the Canada Development Corp. "to help develop and maintain strong Canadian-controlled and Canadian-managed corporations in the private sector."

The speech noted that the session, which opened Oct. 8, 1970, and spanned 406 days, was the longest in Canadian history—20 days longer than the 1966-67 session.

The session had begun when the peace and order of the country was threatened by Quebec terrorism—a reference to the October, 1970, kidnapping crisis in Montreal.

The emergency measures passed by Parliament had discouraged the use of violence and maintained the rule of law. Also mentioned in the speech were:

—Revisions of the tax laws, and reduction of personal and corporate income taxes.

—Laws to improve credit positions of farmers, fishermen and small businessmen.

—Changes in old age and veterans' pensions.

—Laws to protect consumers and the environment.

—Authorization to increase the size of the cabinet.

"Though we have accomplished much, we have yet much to do," the speech concluded.

The pace of legislative reform and innovation must continue rapidly if we are to meet the challenges of the future.

In the field of foreign affairs, the speech listed the diplomatic recognition of China and Canada's United Nations vote to give Peking the UN seat formerly held by Taiwan.

merely held by Taiwan.

It mentioned Prime Minister Trudeau's visit last spring to the Soviet Union, and the return visit last October of Premier Alexei Kosygin.

It noted Mr. Trudeau's December trip to Washington and said President Nixon indicated he will visit Ottawa this year.

Consultations with the enlarged European Common Market, and Canada's new observer status in the organization of American States were cited.

In agriculture, the speech took note of the passage of the farm products marketing bill, fought for months in the Commons by the opposition.

It did not mention that the government Prairie income stabilization bill—intended to replace the Temporary Wheat Reserves Act—was withdrawn under a stunning opposition attack.

Terrorists kill soldier, civilian

BELFAST (AP) — Terrorists dragged a bus driver away from his screaming passengers Wednesday night in Londonderry and executed him in the getaway car. A British soldier was slain near Belfast, bringing Ulster's death toll in 2½ years of violence to at least 245.

In Newry, Bernadette Devlin and 25 other Roman Catholics won a court victory by gaining postponement of a hearing on charges that they participated in illegal marches. Placard-carrying crowds cheered the decision.

Gunmen pulled 47-year-old Thomas Callaghan, a part time militiaman in the Ulster Defence Regiment and a Catholic, from his bus in Londonderry's Creggan district. His body, shot through the head, was dumped later at the edge of a road on the other side of the city.

The soldier died when terrorists riddled a jeep with machine-gun fire. He was the 51st British trooper to die in Northern Ireland's factional strife.

Earlier Wednesday, a bomb was found aboard the ferry Duke of Argyle, which brought 300 British soldiers and an equal number of civilians to Belfast from England. The 40-pound suitcase bomb, powerful enough to knock down a five-story building, was found a half-hour before the ferry arrived and was defused at the dock.

The case involving Miss Devlin and other civil rights activists was put off for a month.

There were tumultuous scenes outside the Newry court when the judge adjourned the case. The court said the lapse of time would allow passions to cool and permit the gathering of evidence.

The defendants are accused of taking part in an illegal march in Newry 10 days ago to protest the killing of 13 men in Londonderry's "Bloody Sunday" when British paratroopers broke up a Roman Catholic parade.

The accused strode out into the rain after the hearing and waved to the cheering crowd.

"GOT WHAT WE WANT" — "We got what we wanted to get," said Rory McShane.

Among the accused with Miss Devlin, a member of the British Parliament, were Frank McManus, also an MP, and Austin Currie, Ivan Cooper, and John Hume, members of the Northern Irish parliament.

Mayor won't comment

SHERBROOKE (LH) — Mayor Bureau would not comment yesterday on the recent resignation of Mrs. Vivienne Matte from the executive council of the municipal Civic Action party.

In a letter sent to City Hall last week, Mrs. Matte tendered her resignation because she felt she could no longer make an important contribution to the city through the party.

and her children in 1968 and 1969, and which were offered in evidence Wednesday.

PRISONER AT HOME — Mrs. Onassis's lawyer, Simond Rifkind, charged in his opening statement that Galella's "maniacal and unremitting efforts" had made Mrs. Onassis "a prisoner in her own home."

Galella, a 41-year-old bachelor who claims to have taken nearly 4,000 pictures of Mrs. Onassis in the last 3½ years, is under a temporary court order not to go within 100 yards of her Fifth QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Robert Bourassa accused the British Columbia government Wednesday of showing signs of separatism in an attack on federal equalization payments earlier this week.

"If what its attorney-general said expresses an official position, the British Columbia government is giving proof of separatism," Mr. Bourassa said.

He was referring to statements by Attorney-General Leslie Peterson in the B.C. legislature that the Pacific province will challenge the equalization payments program in court.

Mr. Bourassa said either the B.C. government is entering the next federal election campaign or it "is rejecting the spirit and the letter of federalism, a system whose essence is to eliminate regional economic disparities through equalization of resources within a political entity, in this case Canada."

If the attack on equalization was a foray into federal politics, the premier said he had no comment "since, as I have already announced, I have no intention of participating in any way whatsoever in the next federal election."

Mr. Peterson's attack on equalization payments said the "have" provinces of Ontario, Alberta and B.C. are assessed a form of social welfare to benefit the remaining seven "have-not" provinces, including Quebec, "whose noses are in the public trough."

The Quebec statement said Mr. Bourassa wondered about the "off-hand manner with which the leaders of British Columbia seem to be preoccupied with the fate of less-favored Canadian provinces."

Mr. Bourassa did not mention the effect of equalization payments in Quebec, but said:

"The Maritime provinces would find themselves forced to raise their taxes by 30 to 50 per cent if the principle of equalization was abandoned as seems to be desired in Victoria."

Suspect found

DERBY LINE, VT. (IH) — Robert Lee Sykes of West Charleston, Vt., was arrested yesterday by the Springfield, Massachusetts, police department as a fugitive from justice in Vermont.

A warrant was issued by Orleans county Circuit Court on Feb. 15. Sykes is charged with attempted murder of Miss Verna Marshall, a resident nurse at North Country Hospital in Newport, on Feb. 14.

Miss Marshall was held hostage in her Newport apartment for eight hours on Monday by a man armed with a knife.

She also expressed dissatisfaction with the way in which the city handled Sherbrooke's recent shopping centre debate, and the subsequent rejection of the recommendations by Sherbrooke aldermen of important documents and reports prepared by city employees on the question of the location of Sherbrooke's new regional shopping centre.

He said Galella followed Mrs. Onassis all over New York, to Athens, Ischia in Italy and the Greek island of Skorpios, trailing her into her hairdresser's, restaurants, onto tennis courts, out riding, and into stores where she shopped.

It strikes me that just about every developed federal state in the world has some form of equalization payments to offset at least in part the disparities in per-capita income," he said.

In Regina, Saskatchewan Premier Allan Blakeney said he sees no basis in law for the B.C. assertion.

B.C. criticism spreads

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A contention by the British Columbia government that federal equalization payments to the provinces are unconstitutional has no grounds at all and is based on imagination, says Senator Eugene Forsey.

Sen. Forsey, an acknowledged expert on constitutional law, called the suit threatened by B.C. Attorney-General Leslie Peterson "pure moonshine."

The province has said the payments violate equal-treatment principle of the British North America Act, a principle Sen. Forsey said is non-existent. Federal subsidies to the provinces have been unequal since 1867, he said.

"I can't imagine any lawyer who values his reputation taking the case. He'd need the skin of a rhinoceros and the head of an ostrich."

COULDN'T GO ON

In St. John's, Nfld., Finance Minister John Crosbie said his province would have to "close up shop" if the payments were ended. Newfoundland receives more than $105 million annually in payments.

In Charlottetown, P.E.I., Premier Alex Campbell said his province would meet any challenge to its right to payments with all the abilities, arguments and finances it can muster.

He said he would have hoped "that the government of any Canadian province unhappy with equalization would have sought political solutions to a constitutional problem at the provincial or federal-provincial conferences."

Nova Scotia Premier Gerald Regan said he doubts that B.C. is serious in the matter.

"British Columbia should realize that equalization payments are a necessary way of life if our country is to stay together and grow," he said.

Premier Richard Hatfield of New Brunswick said he was "surprised and disappointed" to hear of the challenge. He said B.C. Premier W.A.C. Bennett, born in New Brunswick, "knows of our need for these equalization payments and the benefits they provide directly to the people of his native province."

In Toronto, Ontario Premier William Davis said his province "is not contemplating a similar suit."

"We agree with the principle of equalization. We've never dispute it."

Manitoba Premier Ed Schreyer said the B.C. position runs counter to the federal system.

"It strikes me that just about every developed federal state in the world has some form of equalization payments to offset at least in part the disparities in per-capita income," he said.

In Regina, Saskatchewan Premier Allan Blakeney said he sees no basis in law for the B.C. assertion.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

Excess anxiety explains problem

Dear Dr. Lamb—I have a very embarrassing problem. Every time I get ready to go out or do go out or just have close friends or relatives in for a visit, I am in the bathroom with diarrhea. This happens almost every time. I can't go shopping without having to go home and use the bathroom. I am only 27 years old and it is really wasting my young years.

My poor husband has to go places alone as I can't make it. I have been to the doctor and had complete physicals and X rays and he says I am in excellent health and that it is my nerves, O.K., I realize it is my nerves, but I don't want to sit home the rest of my life.

I have two small children and they like to go places, but we can't go anywhere. My neighbors think I don't like them because I never go to their house. I know where every bathroom in town is. I thought maybe I could go to a psychiatrist but really can't afford one and I don't know if it could help me and it is just an embarrassing problem. I am at my wits end and it is making a wreck of me. Please try to help me.

Dear Reader—It probably is your nerves, as you have stated. The most likely explanation for this type of problem is an excess amount of anxiety. The bowels easily respond to anxiety and diarrhea is a typical response. You know the triggering mechanism is contact with other people, but why you should have this type of problem requires a little more searching to discover. Then there is the question of overcoming it. I really would recommend going to a psychiatrist for help if you can possibly do so. It might not take too long or too much effort to be able to work through your problem and to enable you to be less anxious about contacts with people.

There are a few things which add to the difficulty and you might make sure they are not a contributory factor. Many people cannot tolerate the lactose in milk and milk products. This is a straight chemical problem and the usual manifestation is diarrhea. Why don't you stop using milk and all forms of any dairy products or any foods made with any milk for a few weeks and see what happens to your diarrhea?

You'll know within a few weeks whether this is a problem or not, because you will be remarkably free of symptoms which sound like they have been all too frequent.

Townships report

By LEWIS HARRIS

MAGOG — Two of the three candidates running for alderman in the Feb. 20 by-election in Magog's ward no. 1 appeared on closed circuit television in Magog last night, but Oliva Hamel stayed at home.

"I'm not really an orator," Hamel said yesterday.

The television debate was seen on closed circuit television last night through the city's cable television company and viewers were invited to call the candidates and ask questions.

But one of the candidates, Oliva Hamel, didn't show up and the Magog Junior Chamber of Commerce, sponsors of the debate, criticized him for his "morbid fear of criticism...and unwillingness to face the voters."

The show, which lasted two hours, will be repeated for the benefit of Magog voters on Friday, Feb. 18, and Sat., Feb. 19, at 8:30 p.m.

The Sunday by-election has sparked some controversy in Magog because one of the candidates, Oliva Hamel, was forced to resign his post as alderman just before Christmas after lengthy court proceedings ruled him ineligible.

About five years ago, a slot machine was found in a restaurant belonging to Hamel thus disqualifying him from holding public office for five years. His five-year term has expired however, and earlier this week, the mayor of Magog, Maurice Theroux, published a letter in support of Hamel.

Hamel, a truck driver, was an alderman for many years before his suspension last Christmas.

Serge Cabana, a sales representative, another of the candidates for alderman, said on television yesterday "25 per cent of all

Gala planned

LENNOXVILLE — The music department of Alexander Galt Regional High School embarks on a new venture this year. The school will hold its first Band Clinic and Band Festival Feb. 25-26, culminating with a Gala Band Concert Saturday night, Feb. 26, in the school auditorium.

The instrumental clinic will be conducted by James Ranti for students studying brass instruments. Leo Cochrane will be clinician for the woodwind instruments, while John Pille will hold clinics for students of the percussion instruments.

On Saturday evening, Feb. 26, a public Gala Concert will be given by the mass Festival Band. Approximately 125 students from New Hampshire, Vermont and the Eastern Townships will be under the baton of the guest conductor, Morley Calvert. This conductor of international reputation will rehearse previously distributed music with the band members on Friday and Saturday and present the closing concert.

Carlton Show Band to appear

COWANSVILLE — The Carlton Show Band will appear Friday evening, March 24, at Massey-Vanier Regional High School.

"A clap-your-hands, do-a-jig-kind-of-join in deal" is the way one Toronto critic describes their music. And that about sums it up.

It's the urge fans from Windsor, Ont. to Gander, Nfld., feel when these stars of CTV's highly rated Pig In Whistle show take to the stage.

The music is a mixture of raucous rollicking tunes and pure blarney. It's served up by six honest-to-goodness "paddies" and two "pretenders" from Nova Scotia.

A show band is something purely Irish covering a variety of styles and giving its members freedom to "do their thing."

These eight singers and truly a Canadian showbusiness phenomenon!

And there doesn't seem to be any signs they're slowing down. The Carlton Show Band is booked solid months in advance.

While other forms of music change almost daily, the Carlton Show Band remain content to do that clap-your-hands, do-a-jig-kind-of-join in deal.

And so do their millions of fans!

LRA: quite a past, some future

LENNOXVILLE — The Lennoxville Recreation Association, sponsor of the annual Lennoxville Carnival, was originally organized as the Lennoxville Parks Commission in 1960.

The association's present name was chosen as it was felt that its main goal was the expansion and maintenance of recreation facilities in the town of Lennoxville rather than, as the former name would indicate, the building of parks only.

The LRA is made up of one delegate from each of the organizations, groups or service clubs in Lennoxville. Its monthly meetings, however, are open to the public. Since its inception, the association has been responsible for the growth and increased interest in the local Lennoxville Optimist Community Park. It is active in the overall operations of the annual Tombola.

In the association are several committees made up of members of the LRA who look after the LRA hockey league comprised of atoms, mosquitos, pee wees and bantams under the direction of Duncan Bruce and his assistants who look after the managing and complete organization and operation of their 10 hockey teams. There is much involved, such as the purchase and care of necessary equipment, finding referees, allotting ice time, arranging schedules, transportation, exhibitions, games, trophies and the annual banquet.

FINANCE PROJECTS

A great deal of time is given by Bruce and his men to keep this operating smoothly. Though helped financially to a certain extent by the LRA, they hold raffles and tag days and charge small fees to pay for added expenses incurred.

In the summer, there is a recreation director in charge of activities for those months. Included in his duties are scheduling of Little League, minor league and Pony League baseball, girls' and men's softball, special outings, canoe trips, water sports, tennis, golf and all those activities which go to make a successful summer for the youth of Lennoxville.

He is the coordinator of all recreation activities in the town, and last year's recreation director Don Montgomery, pursued these programs with excellent results. It is anticipated that this summer, with the addition of a municipal wading pool donated to the town by the local Optimist Club, plus the addition of a beautiful new semi-Olympic outdoor pool in the Lennoxville Centennial park, things will be even better.

Yet another committee handles the four-team Pony Baseball League, while another handles the midget team which plays in the Sherbrooke League along with Magog.

PLAN NEW POOL

The LRA was instrumental in the procuring of Centennial Park by the town of Lennoxville in 1967. Today it is the site of the municipal wading pool and will shortly be the location of the semi-Olympic swimming pool.

Situated in the centre of Lennoxville, this park is an ideal site for recreational facilities for both young and old. It is hoped that this year there will be added to this park a shuffleboard court and park bench for those who want to relax.

Since its inception the LRA has accomplished much for the entertainment of young and old. Its goal is the continuing improvement and expansion of these facilities in the town, and it works hand-in-hand with the mayor and council to attain these goals.

It is hoped that this year's winter carnival will be a big success and that the local citizens will support it to the utmost of their ability.

WORK OF MANY

There are many active members in the association, where language poses no barrier. Many deserve special mention but, without the active help of each and every member, its past and present goals could never be realized. It is an important part of the successful operation of Lennoxville's recreational facilities and requires the full support of all the citizens of Lennoxville.

For those who have lived a few years in Lennoxville and look back, it is gratifying to see the results attained, though it must be realized that the present condition constitutes only the beginning of what could become one of the most beautiful and complete recreational facilities of any town of its size.

Theological colloquium planned

LENNOXVILLE — A theological colloquium featuring three outstanding North American theologians will be held in the Bishop's University Centennial Theatre Wednesday, Feb. 23 at 2:30 p.m. and again at 8:15 p.m.

The problem How Can We Speak of God in Today's World? will be discussed by Rabbi Emil Fackenheim, professor of philosophy at the University of Toronto; Prof. Thomas Altizer, chairman of religious studies at the State University of New York; and Prof. Charles Davis, chairman of religious studies at Sir George Williams University in Montreal.

Locally-known participants in the discussion will include Rev. Ronald E. Reeve and Rev. Dr. William P. Zion, both of Bishop's University, and Rev. G. Dandenault and Rev. Jacques

Doyon from the University of Sherbrooke.

The colloquium is under the auspices of the Bishop's University and Champlain College Chaplaincy Committee and is open to the public. Admission is free.

For further information, please contact Rev. Barry McGrory at 569-9551, ext. 369.

Management courses held

SHERBROOKE (LH) — A second series of courses in business management and retail sales offered by the Sherbrooke Chamber of Commerce began on Monday and the Chamber is planning to offer other business courses as well.

A course in marketing will be given in the near future and this course is open not only to members of the Chamber of Commerce but to the public as well. The Chamber feels that a course in marketing is of special interest to owners of small business, industries and services.

Anyone interested in attending courses offered by the Chamber of Commerce should contact the local manager of their bank or Caisse Populaire or phone the secretary of the Chamber of Commerce in Sherbrooke.

Set up

President Nixon, in his State of the Union address and by other means, is setting the Democrats up for a fall. They would not be wise to underestimate his skills in such an enterprise.

As is already well remarked, his speech to Congress was mostly not a thing of new proposals, but a temperate statesmanlike call for action on old proposals. Included, of course, are his plans for welfare reform, higher Social Security benefits, revenue sharing, reorganization of the federal bureaucracy.

What lies only thinly veiled is the threat to lay it on the Democrats hard if they, who control Congress, fail in this presidential election year to approve his major measures.

It was no accident that Mr. Nixon reminded lawmakers that they are sitting on some 90 of his legislative suggestions. It was no accident that he took public note of the many Democratic presidential prospects in the U.S. Senate. He was inviting the nation's voters to hold them heavily responsible for what happens there in 1972.

The evidences are slender and subtle, but signs do exist that the President feels new personal confidence today. Certainly there is more assurance in his public manner.

He can't be taking all that much heart from the public opinion polls. They continue to show that only about half of the American people think well of his performance. Measured one-on-one against his possible Democratic rivals, he usually beats them. But he never gets to the crucial 50 per cent level.

Nevertheless, the indications mount that he believes he has his rivals in a box. They are providing the country with a confusing battle of voices. There are too many Democratic contenders. And since some of them are simply engaged in self-puffery or are jockeying for pieces of power, the Democrats' quest for the presidency is being cheapened.

The great, unprecedented rush of top-level endorsements for Sen. Edmund Muskie is partly an effort to get quickly past this foolish, self-destructive stage, and partly a move to consolidate strength and avoid the blood-letting which hobbled the Democrats in 1968.

Against this backdrop, Nixon's "strategy of statesmanship" may work unusually well.

It is, of course, quite customary for the incumbent to seek reelection by playing lofty president while his rivals grub around in the dusty arena of politics.

Even before State of the Union the President had this plan in full swing. He'll be on key primary ballots, but won't be actively campaigning. While the Democrats are flailing about in political thickets, Mr. Nixon will be sitting on brocade chairs in Peking and Moscow uttering soft sounds of peace amid the clink of teacups.

The January 20th speech underscored it all. The obvious part is the open bid for a setting aside of partisanship. What really makes the point is not his eight-page television version but the 36-page written version.

It is a low-toned recital of problems and proposals, done in the manner of the man who is above the fray, working for the history books. "Intemperate words," he tells the Democrats, "are the great enemy of reason."

But people who think they know Mr. Nixon will say watch out. If the 1972 Democratic nominee takes a lead this fall, old gut-fighter Nixon could come roaring out of the dust-free Oval Office, toss away the statesman's rapier and start wielding the big machete.

Tradition

It has been remarked that the ancestors of innumerable Americans were draft or war resisters or political or religious dissidents who fled to this country to escape military service or life under oppressive governments.

The idea is that our present-day draft evaders or Army deserters, some 70,000 of whom are said to be in Canada alone, are following in an honored American tradition and that the stigma is not on them but on the nation which was and is prosecuting an "immoral" war in Vietnam.

The comparison might be valid except for one thing: Those who came to America in search of freedom came for keeps, renouncing and abjuring all allegiance to their native lands forever.

They did not, from the sanctuary of America, demand that the king or the kaiser or the czar grant them amnesty or meet certain conditions as the price of their return. They had no thought or desire to return to their former countries. Neither did those countries desire to have them back.

The Vietnam war dissenters protest a little too much. If "Amerika" was so far sunk into imperialism and fascism as to be unlivable for them, if they felt they could not in conscience serve its government, why do we hear these self-righteous proclamations from Toronto and Stockholm rejecting anything short of absolute and total amnesty before they will consent to come home?

Why do they want to come back to this terrible country at all?

Let them stew. Let them stew until they accept the fact that they will have to meet the American people at least part way, and that when they come back, if they do come back, it will have to be as something less than full-fledged heroes.

China emerges in post-war world

By William L. Ryan

Joseph Stalin, the story goes, once sent Mao Tse-tung a long treatise on how a revolutionary war should be fought.

Mao is said to have turned the document over to Lin Biao, then a close revolutionary comrade-in-arms, for his comments. Lin read the Stalin essay, says the legend, and then remarked: "If we had this as our text, we would have been wiped out 10 years ago."

Stalin watched the development of the Chinese Communist rebellion with jealousy. Considering himself the fountainhead of all Marxist-Leninist wisdom, Stalin felt his recommendations to be nothing less than immutable law.

But often Stalin's advice to the Chinese was dictated less by his concern for the movement than by Soviet national interests. This was the case in the 1930s when Stalin, dreading the potential of a dynamic and aggressive Japan, ordered the Communists to join a united front with Chiang Kai-shek's Kuomintang.

The fear of Japan was shared by Chiang and the Communists. Japan's invasion of Manchuria and north China in the 1930s left Chiang's shaky Kuomintang army confronting the perils of a two-front war. Chiang had been industriously engaged in an annihilation campaign against the Communists and had, in fact, driven them into hiding in remote Shensi Province.

Chou En-lai, Mao's right-hand man, arranged for a mid-1936 meeting in Shanghai with Kuomintang representatives. There he offered to integrate the Red army with Chiang's command. He proposed that the Chinese "Soviet" in Yen-an co-operate with the Kuomintang.

Talks broke down, but later, as Japanese forces moved in to Shantung province, Communist-Kuomintang negotiations were resumed.

In July 1937, Japan attacked the Marco Polo bridge near Peking.

Chiang, fully aware of the risk, accepted a Chou compromise offer. The Communists would forgo revolutionary violence and dismantle their "Soviet." The Red army would integrate with Kuomintang forces under Chiang's over-all command.

The alliance was rooted in quicksand. Chiang hoarded his reserves with the idea that Mao eventually would be his main enemy.

The Communists, under Chou Teh's command, began a policy of fighting Japanese only when necessary and directing much effort toward subversion, infiltration and harassment of Kuomintang forces.

TIDE SHIFTS

As the tide of the Second World War began to shift in East and West alike against the Axis powers, the United States urgently sought unity of the contending political factions in China in the interest of more effective prosecution of the conflict on the mainland. President Franklin D. Roosevelt sent Ambassador Patrick H. Hurley to China in search of unity.

The dreadful thunder of the U.S. atom bomb brought the American war with Japan to an abrupt end.

Mao's forces now made great progress. They moved in behind withdrawing Japanese and methodically set up local authority.

The United States continued its efforts toward reconciliation. With a U.S. guarantee of safe conduct, Mao for the first time in his 51 years boarded an airplane. It took him and Chou En-lai to Chungking, Chiang's capital, where Chou did all the talking with Chiang's representatives.

Each time it appeared that agreement was possible, Chou would up his demands. Hurley resigned his mission in indignant frustration, claiming both sides sabotaged his efforts.

President Harry S. Truman sent Gen. George C. Marshall to China.

RECEIVED WARMLY

Marshall was hailed by Mao Tse-tung and toasted warmly by the Communists during a visit to their Yen-an headquarters, but he had no more chance of success than his predecessor.

Having infiltrated Manchuria heavily, the Communists now were moving swiftly through north China in the wake of Japanese withdrawal. The civil war had come in earnest, and Marshall, after desperate attempts to bring about a truce, pronounced a pox on both houses and gave up.

Chiang's Kuomintang forces ran into one disaster after another. Despite about $1 billion worth of American arms aid, the Kuomintang was no match for the now well-armed Communists. Internal corruption, weak leadership, little discipline, plus lack of public support and Chiang's reputation for dictatorial rule, all combined to make the Kuomintang's defeat inevitable.

Chiang's rule of the mainland ended in the fall of 1949. What was left of his forces fled to Taiwan. On Oct. 1, 1949, Mao Tse-tung stood atop the Gate of Heavenly Peace at the entrance to the 500-year-old Imperial Palace.

In his heavy Hunanese peasant accent, Mao announced to the world:

"The People's Republic of China is now established."

"A machinist, I think — what did YOUR Dad used to be?"

A plan for Alberta

By Walter Krevenchuk

EDMONTON (CP) — Oil and gas make Alberta a "have" province but Premier Peter Lougheed says it has become "overly dependent" on its natural resources.

His new Progressive Conservative government wants to diversify the province's economy with money from increased natural gas exports, he said in an interview with The Canadian Press, but the national energy board has thrown up a roadblock.

The board ruled last November that an extra 2.7-trillion cubic feet of gas worth about $1 billion could not be exported because sufficient reserves were not available.

This decision, said the 43-year-old Calgary lawyer, will keep Alberta's natural gas "underpriced" because it ensures the majority of buying will be done by TransCanada Pipe Lines, a monopoly transmission company.

He had a "feeling" that customers in Eastern Canada and the United States Midwest were not paying a fair price for Alberta gas.

Deciding that there's more than one way to skin a cat, his government has ordered an investigation into the "underpricing" of gas now being sold.

CITES ADVANTAGES

Higher gas prices, the premier said, "would have many, many effects on the economy."

In addition to increasing government income through royalties, "it would stimulate the producer to explore for new fields, to go into areas where there is a high degree of sour gas and build a processing plant and could lead to a higher degree of processing in Alberta."

Meanwhile, the Conservative government is reviewing oil and natural gas royalties and plans, for the first time, to give the public "an opportunity to express their views."

The existing 10-year royalty agreement expires March 31 and Mr. Lougheed anticipates the government will come up with a new figure "six to nine months from now." The royalty now ranges up to 16.23 per cent depending on a well's production.

There also will be an increase in the royalty on coal — now 10 cents a ton — but Mr. Lougheed declined to say how much.

Switching subjects, Mr. Lougheed said his government is dissatisfied with the federal economic expansion program, which he said "comes right into our backyard in areas where we have responsibility and starts to manipulate our priorities."

DECLINES TO HURRY

Meanwhile, he said Alberta has a right to be consulted before federal decisions are made regarding natural resources. The province has asked for observer status at energy talks between Canada and the U.S.

"We don't ask to be a participant, we just want to know what's going on."

"Now" was the key word in the Conservative campaign that produced victory in the Aug. 30 provincial election, sending the Social Credit party to the sidelines after 36 years in power, but Mr. Lougheed said the new government isn't going to hurry.

"The public doesn't want us to do everything overnight," he said in outlining the work done so far by the Conservatives.

"They want us to do it properly and well and in the right sequence."

Take for example, the party's tantalizing campaign promise to remove education costs from property tax.

Mr. Lougheed said the government is aiming for 1973 because "we're talking about residential property tax only and we have to come up with a realistic way of dealing with the industrial and commercial property tax and assure there is fair treatment."

Financially-strapped municipalities want the government to speed things up but the premier said it's a complicated matter which needs more study.

There was some concern the government move may be negated by increased municipal taxes but Mr. Lougheed said all the provincial government can do is "create, as best we can, a fair municipal-provincial tax arrangement."

"From then on, the show lies between the municipal voter and the municipal government."

So far, the Conservatives have concentrated on five areas — organization, long-term planning, their first legislative session starting March 2, budget preparation, and priorities.

Budget preparation, Mr. Lougheed said, has taken "an intense amount" of time with the target a balanced operating account.

SAILS TRIMMED

"We inherited the most expensive government in Canada and we have to do some phasing out so we can come up with the money for our priority program."

The Conservatives have already scrapped the Alberta advisory council and the human resources research council and reduced the budget of the task force on urbanization and the future and are reviewing other Social Credit programs.

Provincial Treasurer Gordon Minely has announced there will not be a tax increase in 1972.

The budget's capital account is another kettle of fish and appears deficit-bound. Mr. Lougheed sees nothing wrong with governments borrowing money for capital projects.

"If the services are needed and interest costs are not too high we should be borrowing," he said. "People are going to pay some portion of it today but the people who are going to use that road or bridge 10 or 15 years from now, they pay too."

Stopping inflation

Dear Sir,

It is exactly 48 years ago that I arrived in Canada from one of the most democratic nations in the world.

We were taught to think and judge for yourself, to be independent, working to the best of your knowledge for the good of your family and country wherever you are. We do not believe in somebody else doing the thinking for you. If you see something is wrong, speak up and say so.

As a Canadian citizen I take the privilege to voice my opinion and impression of the past and present. Canada had at the time of my landing exactly 8 million people. All through these past 48 years I followed the progress of my new country, Canada. Progress has been tremendous until the past 10 years. No matter what party is in power, it never was any good by the opposition, but the population got the best in the long run. I cannot see why the people as a whole forgot the facts, where those benefits came from.

Right now we have a Liberal government elected fair and square with a big majority. Everything that went wrong is blamed to Trudeauism. It is all very well for Mr. J. Zink to blame Trudeauism for the economic conditions and problems Canada has at the present time. For your information it is not exactly like that.

Right after the election of the new Liberal government, I wrote to Prime Minister Trudeau, advising him to stop inflation by invoking wage and price control as quick as possible. I personally have seen the effect of what inflation will do to a nation. The Labor government of Great Britain invoked price and wage control to get the land out of the economic depression, although the labor unions were against it, but the measures taken were a success.

Prime Minister Trudeau had it in his hand to do it with his big majority government, but he was hoping in vain to get voluntary agreement by the labor unions to stop inflation. Prime Minister Trudeau was too gentle.

Drastic measures are the only way to bring results and stop the inflation. Put the blame where it belongs, to those who would not cooperate with the government. I doubt very much that a change of government will stop the inflation very much.

We, the people of Canada, have so much to be thankful, due to excellent governments of the past. It is easy to condemn. Let us be more tolerant and fair play, please.

Hermann C. Ommerli, Dunkin.

History today

Riel opposition captured

The last local resistance to Louis Riel's Metis government of Manitoba ended 102 years ago today — in 1870 — with the capture of Maj. Charles Boulton and his 47 men. The "Canadian party" of settlers opposing Riel were a small minority and have been identified with the less law-abiding part of the community. This did not mitigate its vehemence and one member, Thomas Scott, was shot two weeks later when he refused either to leave the province or submit to Riel's government. At the time, Hudson Bay Co.'s sovereignty had expired and negotiations for union with Canada were incomplete.

1955 — Britain announced it would make H-bombs.

1954 — Britain announced food rationing to end.

1950 — Thirty persons were killed and 105 injured when two Long Island Railroad commuter trains collided head-on at Rockville Centre, N.Y.

1948 — Iman Yahya of Yemen was murdered.

1919 — Sir Wilfrid Laurier died at Ottawa.

Townships annual congregational meetings

Christ Church, Brompton

WINDSOR — The vestry meeting of Christ Church, Brompton, was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Robinson following the afternoon church service on Jan. 30. There was an attendance of thirteen. Rev. W. Walker, of Richmond, presided over the meeting. Minutes of the last meeting were read by Mrs. Mildred Holliday, who was re-elected as vestry clerk.

The people's warden, Guy Robinson, read the financial report showing a cash balance. He also reported a satisfactory cemetery fund on hand.

Rev. Walker read Canon XI — Duties of the Church Wardens, and re-appointed Harold Robinson as his warden.

The election of officers followed with these results: people's warden, Guy Robinson re-elected; sidesmen, Harold Robinson and Billie Holliday; auditor, Mrs. O. Daigneault and Miss Marion Mackey, re-elected. Guy Robinson was elected as delegate to Synod with Harold Robinson elected as possible substitute.

The Ladies Aid gave their report, showing yet another gratifying year.

Despite the decrease in the number of members it was decided to try to send the usual amount for assessment and budget to Quebec again this year.

The amount of fifty dollars was voted to the wardens of St. George's Church in Windsor to help on their expenses. The congregation of Christ Church has been joining that of St. George's for services during the winter months. Christ Church will re-open at Easter.

Preliminary steps were taken in preparation for the 100th anniversary of Christ Church coming up in the autumn of this year. More meetings will follow when further plans will be made.

Rev. Walker closed the meeting with prayer.

Refreshments were served at the close of the afternoon.

Mansonville-Bolton

Charge

MANSONVILLE — The annual congregational meeting of the Mansonville-Bolton Centre Pastoral charge of the United Church of Canada was held on Sunday evening January 30 in the basement of the Mansonville church. The minister, Rev. Carl J. Gustafson was in the chair.

Copies of the annual reports of all committees, as well as the financial statements of both churches, had been prepared and circulated to all present. The minister's report showed that there had been a total of eleven baptisms, ten marriages and nine burials during the past year. Eleven new members had been received at Mansonville and one at Bolton Centre.

He made special mention of the many special worship services during the year; the service of Tenebrae at Easter, Candlelight service at Christmas, an ecumenical-bilingual service in January, in which all the local denominations participated; Lenten cottage meetings at various homes as well as the annual service of the Bible Society, held in the Mansonville Church.

A Junior Choir was organized and sang in the Choir Festival held at St. Mary's Church in Newport, Vt., in December. We were fortunate, largely through donations to the Memorial Fund to purchase new Hymn books and Service books, which are in use in both churches.

Mrs. Gilda Clark, Sunday School Superintendent, reported forty five children were enrolled in September, with a teaching staff of seventeen. She made special mention of Award Sunday, a congregational picnic, the Choir Festival, White Gift Sunday, a Christmas party and the participation of the Sunday School children in Christmas Candlelight service. Mrs. Agnes Heath, Sec.-Treas., of the Church School, prepared the financial report.

Mr. Hermann Ommerli, Chairman of the Mission and Service Fund, reported a general increase in giving in 1971 over the previous year.

Mrs. Roseleen George, President, reported on the activities of the U.C.W. of Mansonville and Vale Perkins. As usual, this group had raised a considerable amount of money to help in the local expenses of the church, through two church suppers, a wedding reception, Church Auction and Rummage Sale. We also hosted the Regional Fall Rally of the Presbyterian United Church Women.

Programmes at meetings had been Bible Study, two showings of coloured slides by the Minister, a tour of the Brome County Historical Society at Knowlton; Mrs. Ruth Fullerton, Treasurer for Mansonville and Mrs. Viola Knowlton for Vale Perkins, reported on the financial picture.

They also contributed towards the purchase of hymn books.

Mrs. Ruth Fullerton, Treasurer for the Charge and also for Mansonville congregation, had prepared the financial reports, which had been duly audited by the Charge auditor, who reported the books to be kept in an excellent manner.

The report of the Mansonville Committee of Stewards was submitted by Mrs. Merton Bailey, Sec. and Mr. Kevan Heath, Chairman, and made special mention of the way in which expenses had been cut by the use of volunteer labour in the shovelling of snow, cutting grass, and cleaning the church. An every family visitation had been made during the year. The budget for the coming year is once again increased, so continued support is requested. Mrs. Orma Jewett, Sec. for the Board of Trustees, reported that the major project for the year had been the painting of the church building at Mansonville and the Manse, which had been accomplished by volunteer labour. A few other minor repairs were completed.

Mrs. Hilda Cousins, Sec., reported on the financial position of the Bolton Centre Church, as well as the activities for the year. The Trustees main achievement for 1971 had been the installation of an oil furnace in the basement of the church, as well as several minor repairs, all accomplished by volunteer labour.

Weds new wife in old church

By Ann
Landers

Dear Ann Landers: After 23 years of marriage my husband and I were divorced. He wanted a new life. That was seven months ago.

Last week I learned he is engaged to marry a girl young enough to be his daughter. I was not surprised because I knew he had been seeing some young girls. What bothers me is that they plan to be married in the same church, at the same altar where we were married. Our children were christened in that church, attended Sunday school and were confirmed there. We had our first date at the Youth Fellowship Dance in the social hall.

Some of my relatives have made a formal protest to the pastor. (He is new to the community and rather young.) The pastor has indicated that he does not feel it would be appropriate for him to take sides, and that his duty is to perform the ceremony at the place selected by the bride and groom. Please understand that I am not attempting to prevent the marriage. Ann I object only to having it take place in the church that holds such meaningful memories for me.

Do you feel the pastor is conducting himself in a Christian manner? I do not believe he is, nor does my family.

Heartbroken Former Wife
Dear Former Wife: Three distinguished Protestant clergymen support the new pastor. They say it is his responsibility to remain neutral and to perform his duties.

Your former husband obviously feels warmly about his church but in a strange and sick way he has blocked you out of his memory insofar as the church is concerned. This may be difficult to accept, but accept it you must. My own opinion is that he is grossly insensitive and inconsiderate but you must not condemn the pastor for your former husband's inadequacies.

Dear Ann Landers: I am having a big argument with my mother. I will be 15 in May and I want to let my girlfriend pierce my ears. My mother promised me last year that I could get my ears pierced for my 15th birthday but she wants a doctor to do it. I say it is not a medical thing, it's a beauty thing. My girl friend uses ice cubes and a needle and it's a lot easier than making a major operation out of it. My friend has done her own ears as well as her sister's, and nobody had any trouble. Please say yes. Thank you.

New Haven
Dear New Haven: I'm saying NO. Too many things can go wrong when ear-piercing is done by a friend. For example, infection, allergy to the metal and keloid problems. Putting a needle through a part of your anatomy is a medical thing — not a beauty thing — and it should not be done by a friend, unless that friend is a doctor.

Dear Ann Landers: Why is it that the people who are tone deaf are always the ones whose voices can be heard above all the others when they are singing the National Anthem at a public gathering, hymns in church or "Let Me Call You Sweetheart" at a Kiwanis meeting? I have never been able to figure this out. My husband is one of the guilty parties and when I mention it to him he gets insulted and denies that he is off key. Please explain.

—Juilliard Graduate
Dear Julie: Tone deaf people are just that. Tone deaf. My own husband can't carry a note with a co-singer, but he loves to sing loud and it's O.K. with me. One of the secrets of a decent marriage is to save the criticism for something that matters.

Fire victims showered

HATLEY — On Tuesday evening, Feb. 8, in spite of the stormy night and below zero temperatures about 35 relatives and friends of Mr. and Mrs. William Bolton and little Carolyn gathered at the Anglican Church Hall where the Anglican Church Women held a miscellaneous shower for them. Mr. and Mrs. Bolton lost all their possessions in a fire two weeks previously. Mrs. Bolton was assisted in opening the gifts by Carolyn and after all had been passed among the ladies she thanked all for their gifts and best wishes. The gifts consisted of bedding, linens, towels, electrical appliances and two sets of dishes. Those who did not wish to give separate gifts contributed money and a set of pots and pans and a large box of groceries was purchased with the money. Refreshments were served by the ladies of the Church at the close of the evening. The best wishes of the community go out to this young couple in their new home in Coaticook.

On Friday afternoon, Feb. 11, 20 ladies of the community gathered at the Cutler home for a surprise birthday tea for Mrs. Sally Moulton and also to present her with a radio and several other gifts as she too lost her home and contents by fire. Although taken completely by surprise when the ladies arrived, she enjoyed visiting with each one and thanked all for their gifts and best wishes. Refreshments, including a birthday cake were served and a pleasant time spent.

Negotiations resume

OTTAWA (CP) — Negotiations resumed but air traffic continued to deteriorate as the strike of electronic technicians who service radar and other equipment in airport control towers moved into its 12th day Wednesday.

Improved flying weather in Eastern Canada produced grumbles from officials of Local 2228 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, but in fact it did little to relieve the problems facing the federal transport department and the airlines.

The strike has prevented serving of radar and navigational equipment, which has had to be withdrawn from use at a number of major airports, including Toronto, Montreal, Ottawa, Gander, Nfld., and, most recently, Vancouver.

The effect has been to reduce drastically the number of landings air traffic controllers are able to supervise each hour and has produced long delays and some cancellations even on days when visibility is good.

In Ottawa Wednesday, Air Canada cancelled 23 flights, although some aircraft were able to operate between the capital and Winnipeg, Quebec City, Montreal, Halifax and Toronto.

In Montreal, Air Canada said two-thirds of its flights got off the ground. All international flights operated.

IGNORE ON-JOB LAW

Vancouver airport was hit most recently by walkouts by technicians required by law to stay on the job throughout the strike. Designated technicians at Toronto, Montreal, Ottawa and Gander have refused to work since last Friday.

Union spokesmen said they have ordered the Vancouver technicians off the job because they had been working for the last 15 days. The action reduced the airport's skeleton crew to five technicians instead of 13.

Walkouts by the designated employees are illegal, but so far the federal treasury board has given no indication of what counter-action it intends to take.

Representatives of both the union and treasury board met during the day with mediator Gordon Simmons. The meetings followed a vote by the 2,200-member union Monday to reject a proposed settlement put forward by Mr. Simmons.

Salaries are the issue in the dispute. The technicians, who now earn up to $10,000 a year, are demanding an increase that will raise their incomes to 60 per cent of the rate for air traffic controllers. The controllers were earning $14,600 before a strike settlement last month which guaranteed them a minimum raise of 17.4 per cent in a 27-month contract.

Wallace Sparling, the organist and choir of St. James Anglican Church, the pall bearers, and the director and staff of the Funeral Home were also deeply appreciated by all. A special thank you to Mrs. Geo. Newman and Mr. Alford Peters, who devoted so much time to the family when so sorely needed.

Itinerant Vendors Vendors of Used Automobiles

Ask for a permit application form

According to the Consumer Protection Act, itinerant vendors and vendors of used automobiles must hold a permit to operate in Quebec as of April 1, 1972.

You are a recognized itinerant or door-to-door vendor if you finalize or solicit a contract with a consumer elsewhere than at your business address. If you have representatives, they are authorized to operate under your permit, carrying a card which identifies them as such.

You are a recognized vendor of used automobiles if you sell various types of used vehicles which can be of service on public roads, fields, or in forests. For example, an automobile, tractor, snowmobile, motorcycle, or trailer are all in the used vehicle category.

To comply with the legislation, you should, as soon as possible, apply for your permit as prescribed. In order that your permit conform with the regulation, the Consumer Protection Bureau has made a special form available to you, as well as excerpts from the Act and regulations which apply to permits.

Ask for your permit application form at the following addresses:

Seals tie Canadiens in Forum

The National Hockey League's new rule on delay of game has fired the tempers of numerous penalized players this season but probably never so many at one time as in Montreal Wednesday night.

Referee Bruce Hood called the penalty twice against California Golden Seals and once against Montreal Canadiens as the teams battled to a 1-1 tie with Montreal's goal coming on one of the delay-of-game sentences against Seals goalie Gilles Meloche.

"It is a bush-league rule, the way it was called tonight," said an angry Vic Stasiuk, Seals coach.

In other games Wednesday, Pittsburgh Penguins whipped Toronto Maple Leafs 4-2, Minnesota North Stars downed Detroit Red Wings 4-2, St. Louis Blues beat Los Angeles Kings 3-1 and Chicago Black Hawks tied 3-3 with Philadelphia Flyers.

The new rule adopted this season calls for a minor penalty against any player who deliberately delays the game by firing the puck out of the playing area.

STASIUK BEEFS

But Stasiuk contended Meloche did not shoot the puck into the crowd deliberately.

"On the call against Meloche, the puck is rolling, there is a race for it between Meloche and Yvan Cournoyer. Meloche gets there first, and just tries to clear the puck away. It goes over the boards and we are penalized."

The second such call against the Seals came in the third period when Seals forward Gary Jarrett was about to get a minor penalty on a delayed interference call. When play stopped, Seals defenceman Carol Vadnais shot the puck into the crowd and was immediately penalized.

The Canadiens failed to score despite the two-man advantage but Vadnais was still unhappy about his penalty.

"How can I be accused of delaying the game when play was already stopped?"

"The play had been whistled down, there was no play in progress, I didn't mean to shoot the puck into the crowd. I just cleared it toward the boards. It hit something and went over, and I can't see how you can delay a game that's already been stopped."

BOWMAN NOT SORE

Montreal coach Scotty Bowman was not bothered by defenceman J. C. Tremblay getting the delay of game call.

"I don't know whether Tremblay shot the puck out deliberately, but he was penalized," Bowman said. "As for the complaints by California, like I said, the rule is there so the referee has to call it."

"And anyway, what was Vadnais doing with the puck when the play was stopped? It is not his job to do anything whatsoever with the puck once the referee has whistled down the play."

Meloche said he was upset about the call against him, saying it was the second such penalty he has taken this season.

Tremblay was not available after the game for comment but he was obviously upset about his penalty as he argued the point with Hood, earning himself a 10-minute misconduct for his trouble.

The Seals went ahead with Gerry Pinder's goal early in the first period and Pete Mahovlich's score in the second period power play tied it for Montreal.

WINGS LEAD EARLY

In Minnesota, Detroit took a 2-0 first-period lead on goals by Tim Ecclestone and Red Berenson but the North Stars came back to tie it in the second period with scores by Murray Oliver and Bob Nevin.

Jude Drouin's goal with five minutes left in the game was the winner for Minnesota and Danny Grant added an insurance goal.

The loss meant the Red Wings remained tied for fourth spot in the East Division with the slumping Maple Leafs who skidded to their 13th loss in 16 games.

The Penguins outshot Toronto 42-29 and defenceman Bryan Watson set up two Pittsburgh goals with hard shots from the blue line. Both of Watson's shots rebounded off goalie Jacques Plante and Ron Schock scored with the first and Syl Apps with the second.

Al McDonough scored the winning goal with a deflection of a shot by Penguins defenceman Duane Rupp.

PAPPIN NETS TWO

Philadelphia's Simone Nole, Bobby Clarke and Bill Flett beat goalie Tony Esposito at Chicago to give the Flyers the 3-0 lead in the second period but two goals by Jim Pappin and one by Stan Mikita earned the tie for Chicago.

In the Flyers goal for his first NHL game was goalie Bob Taylor, working in place of Don McLeod who is sidelined with a knee injury.

Garry Unger and Gary Sabourin scored third-period goals to secure the victory for St. Louis at Los Angeles.

The victory moved the Blues into a tie with third-place California in the West Division, each with 48 points. Philadelphia remained in the running for a playoff spot by staying within three points of the Blues and Seals while Pittsburgh was not out of the race with 43 points.

Tonight, New York Rangers are at Los Angeles, Boston Bruins at Philadelphia and Pittsburgh at Buffalo.

Weather causes havoc

KNOWLTON (TS) — Officials involved in the Knowlton minor hockey program are watching the mercury rise in the thermometer with an increasing amount of concern.

The balmy temperatures may come as a source of delight to most people, but it threatens to curtail the hockey activities of more than 200 youngsters if conditions persist.

As the various mosquito, pee-wee, and bantam squads attempted to resume playoff competition last Sunday, the outdoor rink on which their games are played, had succumbed to the mild temperatures, thus forcing cancellation of all contests.

"I haven't seen the ice conditions since Sunday," minor hockey president Doug MacKenzie said Tuesday, "but once the sun hits the asphalt surface, it really soaks it up."

The mercury shot well above the freezing mark both Monday and Tuesday, causing the situation to deteriorate, and further dampened the hopes of completing the remainder of the playoff schedule.

"About the only thing we can do at this moment is wait," mused MacKenzie.

When queried as to the possibility of completing the games in nearby indoor facilities, the minor hockey president expressed interest, but doubted his group could secure ice time, since most arenas are booked solid.
