Pioneer Rebekah Lodge No. 1, Huntingdon, 50th Anniversary

Church Service to be Held at St. Andrew's Church, on Sunday, in Celebration of the Event

The Pioneer Rebekah Lodge, No. 1, of Huntingdon, will hold a special church service at St. Andrew's Church, on Sunday, at 8 p.m., in celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the Lodge. The special speaker will be H/Capt. L. E. Mason, Protestant Chaplain at the Chateauguay Barracks, Huntingdon.

The celebrating of this fiftieth anniversary of Pioneer Rebekah Lodge No. 1, is worthy of note because it also signifies the fiftieth year of the founding of the order in Quebec Province. As the name of the Lodge implies, it is the pioneer lodge of the Province. The Rebekah movement first began in the United States, in 1850, when a Ladies' Degree was made. Hon. Schuyler Colfax formed the Rebekah Auxiliary Lodge in 1858.

The pioneer Rebekah Lodge No. 1 was instituted in Huntingdon, on June 16th, 1893, by the late Bro. J. J. Reid, Past Grand Master of Montreal, in the absence of Grand Master J. C. Brown of St. John's, Que. At this institution, Past Grand Master Bro. Andrew Philps was present and a Degree Team from Neshobah Lodge, Malone, N.Y., put on the degree work and initiated the following members: Mrs. J. A. Hunter, Mrs. Mary Hastie, Mrs. Andrew Philps, Miss Mary Moir, Miss Maggie S. Hunter, Miss Mary G. Hunter, Miss E. M. Ross, Miss Helen Brown, Miss Jenny S. Cunningham, Miss Martha Hunter, Miss Martha Shaw, Mr. J. J. Reid, Mr. Andrew Philps, Mr. John Finlay, Mr. M. J. Boyd, Mr. John A. Hunter, Mr. George W. Cunningham, Mr. Finlay Bell, Mr. William Walsh, Mr. William C. Hunter, Mr. John A. Brown, Mr. P. A. Kemp, Mrs. M. J. Boyd and Mrs. Kate Burrows. All of these were the Charter Members.

Sister Mary Moir was the first Noble Grand of Pioneer Lodge No. 1.

During the past fifty years, Pioneer Lodge has provided three Presidents for the Quebec Rebekah Assembly, these being: Sister Mary Hastie, Sister Maggie S. Hunter and Sister Maggie Ross. Of these, Sister Maggie S. Hunter is the only one living. Of the Charter Members, only two remain attached to the Lodge at this time, they are: Sister Maggie S. Hunter and Bro. William C. Hunter.

The Lodge has been quite active in war work both during the last war and during the present one. In the last war contributions were sent to the Red Cross Society, Patriotic Fund, Halifax Relief Fund and a sum of money was sent for furnishing a special room in connection with war work. During the intervening peace period the following sums were sent to the Grand Lodge of Quebec, $70.00; Flood Relief in U.S.A., $5.00; I.O.O.F. Room in Toronto, $10.00 During the present war this Lodge has contributed $100. to the Rebekah Ambulance Fund; $85.00 to Queen's Fund; $58.00 to Mobile Canteen Fund and $16.67 for blankets and quilts for the Red Cross. As the war continues, further contributions will no doubt be made from time to time.

The financial position of the Lodge is very good and special funds are maintained for specific purposes among which are the following: A fund for flowers and fruit which provides fruit and flowers for the sick and needy members and aid is also supplied to the sick where this is found necessary. An emergency fund operates for use for anything that the Lodge wishes to vote the money for. A general fund is used for Lodge purposes. During its period of functioning, the Lodge has presented Rebekah Jewels for fifteen and twenty years service to twenty-one sisters at a cost of $252.00.

The members of Pioneer Lodge have assisted in instituting two other Lodges in the district, these being: Ormsdale Lodge No. 30, at Ormstown, Que., and Bayview Lodge No. 46, at Valleyfield, Que.

Miss Maggie S. Hunter, one of the Charter Members still belonging to Pioneer Lodge, has been financial secretary since 1920 and is still holding this position. Mrs. Allan Dawson has been organist for the Lodge for the past thirty years and has assisted in this capacity at a number of important Rebekah gatherings. The present membership of the Lodge is eighty-five and Sister Isabel Cogland is the Noble Grand for the present term and will be in charge of arrangements for the anniversary services this Sunday.

The occasion will be a memorable one in the life of Pioneer Lodge No. 1 and will be an outstanding one in the annals of the Rebekah Order in the Province of Quebec.

Five Sons, Including Twins, Serving in Armed Forces

SGT. A. A. McCAIG

PTE. N. A. McCAIG

A.C.1 W. R. McCAIG

A.C.1 M. K. McCAIG

PTE. J. C. McCAIG

Mr. and Mrs. Archie McCaig of St. Louis de Gonzague, Que., are proud of their five sons who are serving in Canada's Active Forces, three of whom are already overseas. The family comprises eight sons and one daughter, the eldest son Donald, is manager of the Moco Dairy, Valleyfield; the next five sons are in the forces; there are two at home on the farm, James 17 years and Stanley 14 years; the daughter Robena, (Mrs. Walter Leverette) is living in Montreal.

Among the sons serving in the forces are twins, Keith and Walter. Both are serving with the Air Force as airframe mechanics, Merril Keith is overseas and Walter Roderick is stationed at Yorkton, Sask. They both joined the R.C.A.F. in Montreal, on October 8th, 1941, and had never been separated until sickness caused Walter to be left in this country, while his twin brother was drafted overseas. The twins were born at St. Louis de Gonzague, Que., on January 15th, 1922.

Archibald Arnold, was born at St. Louis de Gonzague, February 21st, 1919, and enlisted at Montreal, in the R.C.A.F., on October 8th, 1941. He holds the rank of Sergeant Air Gunner, and went overseas in November, 1942. He is married, and Mrs. A. A. McCaig lives in Toronto, Ont.

J. Clifford, the eldest of the five sons serving their country, was born at St. Louis de Gonzague, on October 6th, 1917. He enlisted and reported for duty on July 4th, 1940, and was drafted overseas in November, 1941. He is a Private in the Westminister Machine Gun Regiment.

Norman A., is the youngest of the five boys and is stationed at Camp Borden. He is a Private in the R.C.A.S.C. and enlisted in Montreal, on November 5th, 1942. He was born at St. Louis de Gonzague, on September 13th, 1923.

Both Mr. and Mrs. McCaig are proud of their sons, for as Mr. McCaig told the Gleaner, all the boys enlisted voluntarily and wanted to go and do their bit in the fight against the enemy. When one of the boys told his father that he was going to join up, Mr. McCaig told him that if he was as young, he would be doing the same thing.

Mr. and Mrs. McCaig reside on a farm in the St. Louis de Gonzague district, and Mr. McCaig was born and raised on the farm which he now works. Mrs. McCaig was formerly Emphema Rember, of Tatehurst, and was married thirty years ago. Incidentally, Mr. and Mrs. McCaig celebrate their thirtieth wedding anniversary this month, on Friday, June 25th. They feel that they are doing their bit in the war effort, both in their work on the farm and in giving their boys to serve their country.

Distribution of Prizes at St. Joseph's Boys School

Final Examination Results, Promotions and Prize-winners

On Monday evening, Rev. Father A. Pigeon, pastor, and Dr. J. E. Caza, chairman of the School Commission, jointly presided at a very interesting distribution of prizes at St. Joseph's Boys School.

Many parents of the children and a number of admirers of educations wished to show their interest in the cause and to encourage our boys by honoring them with their presence and by generously applauding the successful crowning of the pupils' attainments. Our heartfelt thanks go out to them.

It was possible to distribute valuable letters describing conditions were, to representatives of the people. "You should consult personally with your member or write to him when some action appears to be wrong or you think something should be done." Mr. Pouliot councelled his hearers not to be swayed by propaganda, but to make their own decisions. "Decide what concerns you without prejudice, if you can. Think of your own interest; of the interest of your farm. Think of the progress of your farm and the future of this country.

Mr. Pouliot offered to the ladies the consolation of his sympathy, when he told them that the fate of the farmer is not so bad as that of his wife, even if he is an exceptionally good husband.

One of his great-grandmothers was born in Ireland, and he had been made an honourary Scotsman with the name "MacPouliot," by Ian Meckenzie, at a function where they partook of the ceremonial haggis together, said Mr. Pouliot.

At the large gathering in Maple Leaf Grange Hall, for the purpose of initiating twenty new members, Mr. Pouliot witnessed the preliminary drills by the Ladies' Degree Team. They were dressed in white costumes and wore corsages of red roses, with gold hair bandeaux centered by maple leaf.

Mr. Pouliot was introduced by Mr. W. L. Carr, Chairman of Legislative Committee of Maple Leaf Grange, and was thanked for his interesting and instructive address by Mr. George Paul, Warden of the County of Huntingdon.

Mr. Pouliot was greatly impressed by the evident educational and cultural possibilities of the Grange as a rural organization.

Council of Farm Forums Meets

Conference Held at Macdonald College Under P. D. McArthur, Howick

If it is to succeed in its mission of usefulness, the Canadian Federation of Agriculture must expand its program so as to include in it such problems as that of the "appalling difference between educational opportunities in the country and city," Dr. E. A. Corbett, director of the Canadian Association for Adult Education, told over 100 farmers gathered at Macdonald College for the third annual conference of the Quebec Council of Farm Forums, on Saturday, June 19th.

Earlier in the day the part played by education in the Farm Radio Forum program was stressed by the president of the Quebec Council, P. D. McArthur, of Howick, in his annual report, when he said, "the primary work of the forum is education, made possible by group study."

"Farm people," he declared, "must be able to share responsibility in building the world we want after the war; we must not step back to things as they were, we must revalue our position and put ourselves in a different place in society."

Commenting on the Quebec council, Alex Sim, secretary stated that he knew of no Canadian university other than McGill which "has ever so fully placed the fortunes of its extension work in the hands of the people. It was designed to serve. To be building a program solidly and democratically up from the bottom not only insures wise procedures but it will also produce the men and women we shall need in the days that lie ahead."

The financial statement, given by Mr. Sim, showed that there was a balance on hand of $214.73.

The early part of the afternoon session was taken up with a panel discussion on the Farm Forum program, led by Frank Sheffron, of the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, Mrs. Donald MacElrea, Lennoxville, Leonard Harman, national secretary of Farm Radio Forum, Jack MacPherson, of the CBC farm broadcast department, J. M. Winter, Ormstown, and Alex Sim.

"Upon the recommendation of the resolutions committee, it was decided to ask that farmers have more representation on the different government boards, and that the question of procuring radio batteries be brought before the proper authorities."

The following were elected as members of the council: Honorary president, Dr. W. H. Brittain; president, P. D. McArthur, Howick; vice-president; Wm. Frank, Richmond; secretary, Alex Sim, Macdonald College; district representatives; Argenteuil, Stewart Armstrong, Lachute; Ottawa-Pontiac, Wyman McKechnie, Wyman; Chateauguay, Geo. Collum, Ormstown; A. H. Crutchfield, Huntingdon; Wm. Frank, Richmond; Stanstead, Reginald Connor; Compton, Ted Bennett, Bury; Sherbrooke, Norman Cameron, Lennoxville; members at large, Mrs. Chas. Drummond, Sherbrooke, Mrs. D. MacElrea, Lennoxville.

Canvass For Hospital Funds Instituted in Rural Areas

Greater Response Required to Guarantee Early Opening of Huntingdon County Hospital

Canvassers are out in many districts soliciting subscriptions for the Huntingdon County Hospital and are meeting with some success, although there seems to be some misunderstanding as to the amount of the contributions. Contributions are being received by some of the canvassers for sums as low as 25c. While all contributions are acceptable, according to a person's means, it was hoped by the Finance Committee of the hospital project, that most contributions would be for at least $10.00. It was figured out that if each family in the district gave $10.00, the sum of $20,000 would soon be raised. To make this possible more easily, the idea of contributing on an installment basis was suggested. By this means, such a sum could be paid by an initial payment and the balance spread over a period of ten or twelve months, payable either quarterly or monthly.

If the Hospital project is going to be a certain thing this fall, contributions will have to come much faster than they are at the present. While the Hospital Committee does not want to discourage the smaller contributions, it would like the people to make contributions of $10.00 or better according to their circumstances. These contributions can be paid on a plan of installments and the pledge card can be made out in such a manner. The committee wishes to emphasise that this does not mean that small contributions will not be accepted, all are welcome, but they are anxious to have the objective reached in the shortest time possible.

If people could but realise how necessary a hospital is going to be to this large district, they would not hesitate one moment in making a contribution to such a worthy local cause. If people would realise how much this means to the doctors of the district and to themselves, in making available the services of the doctors, they would readily agree that their contributions are an urgent necessity.

Some correction in the figures quoted are necessary as some amounts previously subscribed were included in the amount given in the last issue of the Gleaner. Two sums of $500 were included in last week's figures which had previously been reported in a lump sum. Thus the figure quoted last week was $1,000 higher than it should have been. The correct figure including contributions reported in this issue, is $7,432.00. The following is the list of contributions received this week:

Mr. and Mrs. G. M. McMillan	$100.
D. G. Macfarlane and family	50.
Anonymous	50.
Albert Dupuis	50
Sisters and Pupils of Huntingdon Cohvent	41.
Elie Leger	25.

Mrs. M. C. Brown	10.
Thos. J Whealon	10.
Stanley Hamilton	10.
Miss Margaret Barrie	10.
Mr. Douglas C. Moore	10.

Mrs. C. Roman, Valleyfield, Addresses Ladies at Dundee

Mrs. C. Roman, Valleyfield, President of the Regional Advisory Committee of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board for the surrounding district, held a meeting in the Community Hall, Dundee, on Tuesday afternoon, June 15th. Fourteen ladies were present, and listened with interest to Mrs. Roman as she described her work and gave many helpful suggestions on canning.

The speaker answered questions, particularly on the egg situation, which seems to be a real headache both to farmer and retailer at the present time. Some ladies felt their allowance of 10 lbs. of sugar a person for canning was not sufficient, but there was no remedy.

The following officers were appointed for Dundee district:

Fraser.

Corresponding member, Mrs. Chas. Fraser.

Liaison for W.I., Mrs. Jos. Platt.

Liaison for Red Cross Society, Mrs. Ernest Therrien.

Liaison for W.M.S. United Church, Mrs. Robt. Steven.

Mrs. Joseph Platt presided and Mrs. Chas. Smallman thanked the speaker.

Fire Destroys Farm Home

House on R. Johnson Farm Lost in Fire Tuesday Afternoon

On Tuesday afternoon, the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Foster was lost in a fire which caused its complete demolition. Shortly after dinner, Mrs. Foster noticed the stove pipes were burning and very soon the fire was taking hold in the chimney. Mr. Foster and Gordon, who had been away, arrived home about this time and took action to subdue the fire, while Mrs. Foster called for more help. Messrs. George McCracken and Sam. Herdman, who were working in a field nearby, saw the fire and at once went to help.

On getting up on to the roof, it was found that the fire had such a hold, that nothing could be done to save the building. Other help arrived and they at once started to save the contents. The main part of the house being built of brick, enabled the contents of this part to be saved. The kitchen being of frame construction, burned very quickly and a large amount of the contents were lost.

The farm belonged to the late Robert Johnson, and was purchased by Mr. Foster about three years ago, when he and his family moved to this district to live. For the present, the Foster family are living in a house belonging to Mr. Robert Howe.

Montreal Regional Congress Of Chambers of Commerce Held at Valleyfield, Sunday

Over 200 Delegates Attend First Congress Held in Valleyfield — Hon. Oscar Drouin, Guest Speaker

Over two hundred delegates attended the regional congress of the Senior and Junior Chambers of Commerce, for the Montreal Region, held at Valleyfield, on Sunday, June 20th, and were wecomed at the City Hall by His Honor, Mayor Louis VI Major. Later the visitors adjourned to the Salaberry Club and the Knights of Columbus Hall, where they signed the register. A reception for the ladies took place at Chateau Salaberry and was well attended.

An address given by Rev. Father Emile Bouvier, S.J., on the Marsh plan for social security, at the Knights of Columbus Hall, was greatly appreciated.

At 7:30 p.m., a banquet was held at the Larocque Hotel, where the invited guests sat down to tables suitably arranged and decorated for the occasion and enjoyed the meal prepared for them.

At the conclusion of the meal, Mr. Laurion, President of the Congress, expressed a few words of thanks to the guests and pointed out that this was the first time the congress had ever been held in Valleyfield, and felt that honour had been done to the city in selecting it for the occasion. He further stated that it was a prelude to greater co-operation between the Senior and Junion Chambers of Commerce in the City of Valleyfield.

Mr. Marcel Picard, President of the Chamber of Commerce for the Montreal Region, congratulated the organizers of the Congress on its success. He remarked that the total of nine Chambers were represented and that he was very happy since the presence of these representatives showed the co-operation existing between the Chambers of Commerce in the region.

Mr. Edmund Aubin, Director of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, at Valleyfield, introduced the guest speaker, the Hon. Oscar Drouin, Minister of Commerce and Exterior Relations of the Quebec Legislative Assembly. Mr. Drouin spoke on the new Tax on Machinery, which has been under discussion so much of late and which passed the House recently. The speaker stated he had received a number of letters asking for an explanation of the tax and he gave the reasons which prompted him to propose the Act, as it was adopted. He explained that this Act put the method of taxing machinery on a more equitable basis, which before had occasioned many complaints of injustice. To the argument that industrial concerns and manufacturers would be more inclined to establish in Ontario, the Minister declared that such would not be the case, for in Ontario the manufacturers have a tax in excess of that now to be imposed on machinery in this Province.

Mr. Gontran Saintonge, President of the Chamber of Commerce, at Valleyfield, thanked Mr. Drouin, and expressed the wish that his visit to Valleyfield would be fruitful in bringing about the realization of the wishes of the population of the city and its district: i.e. the construction of a highway between Montreal and Valleyfield, and the construction of bridge between Valleyfield and Coteau.

After the banquet the visitors left for a visit to the military camp where they were greeted by Lt.-Col. Levesque, O.C. of Fort Salaberry.

Saint Jean Baptiste Day, Tomorrow, June 24th

French Canada's national day, Saint Jean Baptiste Day, will be celebrated with brilliance on Thursday, June 24, and national societies have prepared elaborate programmes in honour of the day. While the main celebrations will take place in the Province's leading cities, religious and civil ceremonies, as well as rejoicing in general, will be general.

Canada's Metropolis, Montreal, will dedicate the traditional parade to the glorification of French Canadian mothers, with the various floats portraying the different roles the average mother is called on to play. In Quebec and in many other cities, the parades are generally featured by floats and allegorical cars portraying outstanding figures and important chapters of Canada's history.

Before the outbreak of war, the Saint Jean Baptiste parade in Montreal annually attracted thousands of visitors to Montreal, but travel restrictions will prevent tourists from witnessing this year's parade. Residents of the Metropolis, however, will undoubtedly turn out in large numbers, to pay tribute to "French Canadian mothers."

Bridge to Connect Valleyfield and Coteau May be Built

M. C. Milo, assistant chief engineer of the Ministry of Public Works at Quebec, was in Valleyfield recently, where in company of Mr. Raphael Belanger, engineer for the city of Valleyfield, he inspected the place where the bridge which is to connect Valleyfield to Coteau will be built.

This visit would seem to indicate that work will begin shortly, and the two shores will finally be connected by a bridge which will render valuable service.

3c. Premium For Fruits to Producers

Fruit to be Used in Manufacture of Preserves

Mr. Alcide Sabourin, deputy for Vaudreuil-Soulanges, has received from Mr. G. C. Fletcher, controller of sugar at Montreal, the news that the Federal Government has decided to pay a premium of 3 cents a lb. on strawberries, raspberries and blackberries to be preserved by manufacturers.

Mr. Sabourin had suggested that if the farmers possessing a provincial manufacturer's permit could obtain more sugar they would benefit by the premium. Mr. Fletcher responded in the affirmative and announced the premium on fruits manufactured.

Honourable J. G. Gardiner, minister of agriculture announced that this premium is necessary to maintain the manufacturing of preserves at a level as high as in 1942-43. It has as objective, to permit the manufacturer to procure the necessary fruit provisions, in spite of the insufficient crop and to encourage the producers to augment their plantations in 1944. The manufacturers of preserves, having on March 31st, a license for sales tax for the manufacturer, will pay the premium to the producers at the same time as the fruit is purchased and will be reimbursed by the minister of agriculture. In Quebec and Ontario and the other provinces in the East the premium is 3c. a lb. for strawberries, plus the minimum price of 9c. a lb. or 11½c. a pint—the sales made by pints are calculated as 20 ounces; it is 3c. a lb. for raspberries in addition to the minimum price of 10c. a lb., or 11¼c. a pint—the sales of raspberries by the pint are calculated as 18 ounces; and 3c. a lb. for Logan berries (blackberries).

No limit is imposed on the amount of fruit bought by the manufacturer for the manufacturing of pectin preserves, that is preserves in which pectin has been added; but for preserves such as those made from apples and other fruit, "the quantity is limited to that which was employed by the manufacturer in 1941."

J. F. Pouliot, M.P., Addresses Members Maple Leaf Grange

Guest Speaker Remarks on Beauty of the District and Discusses Farm Problems

"You live in one of the most beautiful parts of Canada," J. F. Pouliot, Member of Parliament for Temiscouata, Que., told the members of Maple Leaf Grange, at Kensington, County. "Perhaps you do not appreciate the fact as much as one who visits you for the first time," he continued.

Mr. Pouliot was on a brief tour of the Southern Counties of Quebec on his way from Riviere du Loup to Ottawa. He noted generally the very late season, delayed seeding and other misfortunes of the farmers. Contrasting the life in the army with that of the boys remaining on farms to produce food, he said the boys in the army from his section much preferred it to farming. Unfortunately, the padlock would be on the farms if only the unfit physically were left to operate them. The farmer's life was so hard that at 50 or 60 he was no longer able to work the land efficiently. Consequently in most sections they were cutting down herds and reducing operations to an alarming degree.

Mr. Pouliot described the attitude of govenments towards the farmer as different to the statements of approval heard in Dominion Day speeches. On June 2nd, he was greatly disturbed by the report on the crop situation, issued by Department of Trade and Commerce. The next day he took the drastic action of moving the adjournment of debate in the House of Commons for the purpose of considering a matter of urgent public interest, namely, the state of agriculture. His motion was opposed by the Prime Minister and the Leader of the Opposition. The Speaker ruled, however, that if more than twenty members supported the motion the debate should continue. There were twenty-seven members in favour, the support coming from all sides, including ten Liberals, Social Creditors, C.C.F. and independent members.

One of the immediate outcomes of the discussion that followed was the greater activity of Department of Labor in announcing proposals to remedy the lack of labour. Mr. Pouliot remarked that a letter from a Huntingdon correspondent was read to the House by the member for Bow River, Alta., Mr. Johnson, and greeted with applause.

The speaker pointed out how

50th Anniversary

A UNIQUE event will take place on Sunday, when the Pioneer Rebekah Lodge No. 1 will celebrate its 50th anniversary by a church service to be held at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Huntingdon. We say unique, because not only is this Lodge celebrating it's 50th anniversary as a lodge in Huntingdon, but it is also the first Rebekah lodge to be formed in Quebec Province. Thus it might be said that it is celebrating the 50th anniversary of the Rebekah Fraternal Order in Quebec.

The Rebekah movement was functioning in the United States as far back as 1850, but it was 1893 before the first lodge was instituted in Quebec, which was the Pioneer Lodge No. 1, at Huntingdon. The Rebekah lodge is an affiliation of the Oddfellows Lodge, and both men and women can belong to the Rebekahs. The work of the order and its constitution are based on religious teachings, but it is one of the secret orders, so that very little can be said of the work insofar as the public is concerned. It is known, however, that the principles set down by the order are very high and members who follow them have great ideals to live up to.

The Pioneer Rebekah Lodge No. 1 was instituted on June 16th, 1893, by the late Bro. J. J. Reid, Past Grand Master of Montreal, in the absence of Grand Master J. C. Burrows, St. Johns, Que., and a team from Neshobah Lodge, Malone, N.Y., did the degree work. Twenty-four members were initiated and became Charter Members, of these, two only remain at this time, they are Sister Maggie S. Hunter and Bro. W. C. Hunter. The Pioneer Lodge has the distinction of having supplied three Presidents for the Quebec Rebekah Assembly, during its period of fifty years, these being: Sister Mary Hastie, Sister Maggie S. Hunter and Sister Maggie Ross. Sister Maggie Hunter is the only one of these three still living.

The members of this lodge feel that they have a wonderful background and one of which to feel proud. Although very few of the older members remain, the tradition of the lodge is being carried forward by the later members, who are living up to the ideals of the order and fostering the work.

Sister Mary Moir was the first Noble Grand of Pioneer Lodge No. 1, while Sister Isabel Cogland is the Present Noble Grand and will be in charge of the celebration of the Fiftieth Anniversary.

Auditor-General Lacks Power

A REVELATION which has caused wide comment throughout the Dominion, occurred in the House of Commons, at Ottawa, on Thursday, June 17th, when Watson Sellar, auditor-general of Canada, told of the lack of power over certain departments, etc. Mr. Sellar said he was an officer of the House of Commons, the only body to which he could report his findings. "I have no power," he said. "All I can do is submit the report of what we have found in auditing all public accounts. It is up to the House of Commons to judge if I'm right or wrong and to take the proper measures."

The revelation is a startling one if a person will just stop to consider what it means in relation to ordinary private business. In ordinary private business, where an audit is required, it is made both as a protection to the persons charged with keeping the books, and to the firm, shareholders or directors to whom the books belong. When books are audited, they can be found to be correct and well kept or they can be found to have errors or even show signs of embezzlement of the funds. Under the latter circumstances, it is the duty of the auditor to bring these facts to light in order that the persons guilty of the perpetrations can be punished, and thus prevent losses to the business to whom the books belong. Further, the auditor detects errors or mistakes made in the books, which reflect bad bookkeeping, rather than criminal intent, but which may have a bad effect upon the proper keeping of the books. Thus, it will be seen that auditing provides a protective measure, and gives the auditor the last word as to what he has found regarding the audit.

Now let us look at this in the light of Government bookkeeping. In the first place Mr. Watson Sellar, as Auditor-General, has been placed in that position as a protector of Public Monies and to see that those monies and the supplies bought with same, are used for the public good and with the least possible waste. This is as it should be, and Mr. Sellar should have the power to point out to the different departments where they are erring in the manipulation of these public funds, just the same as the auditor does in private and municipal affairs. Governmental bookkeeping is a much more complicated business than that of private enterprise, it therefore requires a closer check, because it passes through many more hands and mistakes are much harder to check upon. But as Mr. Sellar says, he does not get the last word. The House of Commons is the place where the last word is given and the House of Commons contains a multitude of voices and opinions. Rather than Mr. Sellar being the man responsible for auditing, he becomes responsible for supplying statistics of the audit only. Any recommendations apparently are made by the members in the House of Commons.

Instead of the House of Commons attacking accounts after the audit has been submitted, it would seem that the proper procedure should be that the accounts are attacked when presented and passed by the House after it is satisfied that they are correct. In this way, the Auditor-General would have his chance to check the accounts and make a report as an auditor, rather than as statistician. No doubt more would be brought to light and perhaps an uncomfortable time might develop for some departments.

In his remarks, the auditor-general stated that the weakest points were the lack of control by his department over departmental stores and the income tax division of the Revenue Dept. Through a statute, the income tax division is bound to secrecy, and hiding under this, the department makes it impossible for the audit department to make satisfactory investigations. Due to wartime conditions, some departments have accumulated vast quantities of material of all kinds and they use these stores as they see fit without submitting reports to the audit department for check-up.

It is very easy to see that proper check of the People's Money can not be kept unless the Auditor-General's department is in complete cognizance of all the facts with which to base its report. In view of the foregoing, we believe that Mr. Sellar is quite within his rights in bringing these matters to the attention of the House of Commons and the public generally. The public is of the opinion that the auditor-general has the same power as any other auditor and that is as it should be.

The Lights of London

EVENTS in the European side of the war have slowed down a great deal in one way, yet they have increased in tempo in another. With the fighting in Africa concluded, there is little that ground troops can do until the actual invasion takes place. In the air and on the sea, however, there seems to be plenty to do. Bombers are pounding at different points all over the Axis territory and the ships guarding the convoys are taking steady toll of the German U-boats.

Through all of this, there is an apprehensive tension and a waiting for the flash to come over the wires that the invasion has commenced. Everybody is waiting and hoping that this news will come soon, for they feel that when it does take place, there is a great possibility that the war as far as Hitler is concerned, will soon be over.

There are reports that if the bombing of Germany and Italy is continued in ever increasing velocity, that the ultimate fall of the two countries will take but only a short time. It was reported from one source that the fall could be accomplished in 30 days if this policy was pursued. However, we do not share these views, but we do believe that such action will play a vastly important part in bringing victory closer and make it easier for invasion forces to effect a foothold on enemy territory.

There is one significant fact and that is, that Germany is not carrying out any large scale raids on Great Britain in return for the damage being done to her war industries. Several small scale raids have been carried out by German raiders, but these are insignificant when compared to those carried out by airmen of the United Nations. The point is, does this weak retaliation mean that Germany has received such losses in planes that she cannot make a large scale raid, or is she holding back her planes for defence and protection in case the invasion attack comes? It is reported that the United Nations output of planes far exceeds that of the Axis, yet the number quoted for the Axis is sufficient to use them in larger quantities. It would seem that there is a period in Germany, where a reserve of fighting equipment is being built up, and that time is a factor that will be of great help during this period. Just how much the raids of the United Nations are affecting the building up of a reserve, is of course, not known to the ordinary public, but no doubt the military and naval authorities are aware of it.

If Germany is actually weak in air power, then the surmises of the persons who say that the Axis Powers can be cracked by our air power, may have some weight. Should this prove to be the case, then it will not be long before the Lights of London will shine again.

The people of England will give vent to crys of great joy, if this could happen this year, but judging by Prime Minister Churchill's words, he does not seem to think that such a thing can be accomplished. He seems to hint that the war will be lasting quite a long while before signs of peace are as evident.

Air power has had some successes in the Mediterranean area in recent weeks, but it is hardly likely that the European fortress will fall as easily. It would seem that an invasion is the only way that it will be brought under submission. It will be no easy task, for it would seem that if it would be, the invasion would have begun ere this. Dieppe showed beyond a shadow of doubt that the defences are strong and not to be taken in an easy manner. There seems to be the possibility that an invasion will bring far greater casualties than did Dieppe and we must be prepared for them.

Cost-of-living Bonus as a Subsidy

IN recent weeks the Cost-of-Living index and the payment of the Cost-of-Living Bonus have been much in the limelight. In a recent Gallup Poll, it was found that a large number of people do not know where the Cost-of-Living Bonus comes from or who pays it. Further, a number of people far in the majority are of the opinion that the Cost-of-Living Bonus should be standard to all alike. In the matter of how the Cost-of-Living Bonus is paid, it is paid by the employer from his own funds used in conducting his business, and the Government has nothing to do with it outside of fixing the rate at which it is paid and compiling an index upon which the rate is fixed.

On June 17th, Mr. Lionel Forsyth, K.C., of Montreal barrister, appeared before the National War Labour Board, which is conducting an inquiry into labour relations, and submitted a brief on behalf of the Dominion Steel and Coal Corp. Ltd. and other employers.

In the course of the presentation of the brief, Mr. Forsyth presented a lengthy item on the Cost-of-Living Bonus. He said it had been wrongly conceived and inequitably applied and has been a factor contributing largely to the dissatisfaction which is evidenced in many industries in Canada. In the first place such a payment clearly has no relation to the productive effort of the employee. It plays the same role in wage stabilization that subsidies play in price controls.

In certain industries, it might be that they could not afford to pay the full rate of the bonus as adequate to the increased cost of living. In that event something would be needed to bridge the gap between the wage return and the increase in the cost of living. Mr. Forsyth stated that it was reasonable to suppose that the Government should step in and make the difference up by means of a subsidy. He believed that wage control and price control should be placed under one administration unit and that they should be responsible for fixing the amount of the bonus.

The United Garment Workers were in favor of payment of the full Cost-of-Living Bonus of $4.25 per week. The Toronto Welfare Council submitted a brief showing living costs for a family of five under present conditions and figured that the increase was 19 per cent rather than 16.7 as allowed by the Government.

It would appear that Mr. Forsyth's idea that the Government pay the Cost-of-Living Bonus as a subsidy, might be a feasible solution to this now contentious problem in price ceilings. If employers are forced to pay the increased amount, it will mean that in numbers of cases prices will advance. If the Government is to maintain its ceiling prices under such conditions, they will have to subsidize such industries in order to keep prices at the stated level. So in the final analysis subsidies would have to be paid. Many employers have no pool from which to draw to pay additional amounts in wages, therefore they are at a disadvantage in the payment of the Cost-of-Living Bonus. Other employers can draw upon excess profits for this purpose without depleting their capital funds.

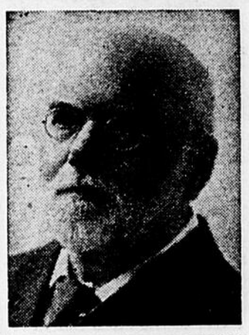

Mr. Forsyth is what one might say a local man, as he owns a farm in the Dundee district, and thus his opinions might be said as coming from one of Huntingdon County.

CHATEAUGUAY, BEAUHARNOIS and HUNTINGDON COUNTIES

From Manuscripts of
The Late ROBERT SELLAR

JOHN FINN—Mullin came from County Derry in '24 I think, Marrow was from Carlow, Furloys and ourselves from Wexford, Kavanaghs and Scully from Queen's County. Michel Tremblay lived beside us and came, I think in 1824. He was the only French Canadian on the river. One Giroux lived on the farm near Huntingdon and owned by James Hughes.

Petition to Hinchinbrook

Council dated March 22/51. Road through lot 1 and north half of 2 in 2nd range, to connect 1st concession with Trout River had been long sought, and on condition that it be left in abeyance Arch. Henderson, who owned the land, promised to keep up bridge at mill and give satisfactory outlet by making a road along east bank of river road from Holbrook's bridge to his mill, and bridge gullies. Agreement made with Henderson to that effect June, 1835. Petitioners alleged agreement had not been kept and road was still unmade. Petition asked that road as originally prayed for be opened. In fall of 1850 there was high water, carrying away part of bank and Henderson's mill yard. Again high water 17th and 18th March, 1857.

Notes About Dundee by John Davidson of Dundee

On the 13th of Nov. 1813 General Wilkinson after his defeat at Chryslers Farm ascended the Salmon River in a flotilla of boats and took his quarters at what was then known as the French Mills until the following February. The soldiers having no covering but tents in the severe weather that ensued they suffered intensely. A morning report was that 75 were sick out of 160.

In Nov. 1812 a British detachment of regulars, Militia and Indians made a descent on the Post at the French Mills from St. Regis through the woods. Capt. Tilden of the American Co. surrendered without resistance and they were marched prisoners to St. Regis and thence to Montreal.

In Dec. they were exchanged for some company the Americans had captured in Oct.

The following is an article in an American paper.

On Saturday, 19 Feb. the enemy learning that our troops had marched, ventured to cross the St. Lawrence with a motley tribe of Regular. Provincials and a detachment of the devils own sedentary militia and brethern, a band of savages. This martial body amused themselves at the French Mills until 10 o'clock p.m. and then marched with 8 pieces of artillery and 2 cartloads of rockets. At the forks of the roads, 11 miles from the Mills, a detachment was sent off to Malone, and the main body passed on to Chateaugay where it arrived about 4 o'clock in the morning of the 20th. There it is reported a scene of plunder began which greatly distressed several of the inhabitants and every particle of flour, beef and pork, with every drop of whiskey which could be found was seized on as public property and carried away. By this gleaning without discriminating between the individual and the public, it is believed the enemy carried off between 150 and 200 bbls. provisions of all sorts, good and bad, public and private."

The foregoing is from an early history of Franklin County, N.Y. by Franklin B. Hough.

The "Jack Downing" was the first steamer that ran between Fort Covington, Dundee and Cornwall. She was built at Carthage, Jefferson County in 1834 and was drawn on wheels to Sackets Harbor and was intended for a ferry at Ogdensburgh but used for a short time for this purpose at Waddington. She was run on the ferry here by a party belonging in Fort Covington (one of them is here yet, Mr. Minkler) for about two years. Year 1837 her engine was transferred to the Henry Burden, a boat built in the shape of two cigars with a wheel between. This boat was run most of the summer when the owner, one P. Boyinton, took her up west again.

The grist mills at Fort Covington then known as the French Mills was built in 1804 but after spending $2,209 in the erection on the 11th Sept. it was swept off in a flood. $4,762 was soon after spent in rebuilding it. It was furnished and leased to Robert Buchanan the person who built it. This grist mill was a great convenience to the early settlers in Dundee, and the grist was carried through the woods on their backs.

At the raising of this mill in 1804 help was invited from great distances in Canada and the States when the Glengarians and Yankees had a dispute which was the "Smartest" and they had a tussle in a good national way and it is said the Yankees rather got the better of them.

The 1st Session of the Dundee Council was held on the 26th July 1855. The councillors were Peter Aubry, Nichelus Farlinger, Michael Bannon, John Cameron, Wm. Millar, John Smith and John Hamilton—Peter Aubry was appointed Mayor and Norman Macdonald Sec.-Treas.

The School Commissioners first appointed were Hayacinthe Masson, 1st Custom House Officer, Patrick Buchanan, John Davidson, Allan Cameron and Monty Long. Commissioner Masson was appointed chairman and Donald McRae, Sec.-Treasurer. First meeting held 1st Aug. 1846.

Dr. John McGibbon came to Dundee in March, 1824, and settled in lot No. 16 Broken Front and leasing 15, 16, and 17 Broken Front and lot 16 1st concession. He was made Justice of the Peace and was a subagent under L. G. Brown agent for Ellice's lands in the neighboring townships. He also had the title of Mayor in the Militia and was instrumental in raising volunteers in this Township for to quell the Rebellion of 1837-38.

FLOOR PRICES ON BEEF FIXED

Announcement that the beef cattle market will be protected from any undue drop in price which might result from meat rationing has been made in a joint statement issued by the Agricultural Food Board and the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. A series of floor prices for beef which will correspond to the seasonal ceiling prices which existed last fall and winter have been established.

Support to the beef market will be given by the purchase of beef by the Department of Agriculture in periods of surplus supply when the prices might ordinarily be expected to fall.

COUPONS NEEDED FOR FARM MEAT

The farmer is less affected by meat rationing than the city dweller, according to the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. They may kill livestock for their own consumption but are asked to turn in to their local ration boards, each month, coupons at the rate of one for each two pounds of meat killed and consumed in their homes. They need not, however, turn in more than half of each month's valid coupons.

Farmers also are permitted to supply meat from their own slaughterings to other farmers for consumption on their farms. However, they are required to collect coupons for this meat at the rate of one coupon for each two pounds of meat, gross weight.

SYSTEM LIVES UP TO ITS NAME

He could have gone free. Instead he chose to remain in custody ten months longer. The reason? He wanted to complete his course of training in the trade school.

It happened at the State Reformatory at Concord, Massachusetts, where officials regarded it as the most remarkable example of human regeneration in their experience.

Nor was it without reward, for when the prisoner's release came, a parole officer found him a job in a war production plant. Now he is earning a living, has the respect and confidence of his employer, and is holding his head high because he has earned the right to do so.

His name is a secret. But his story—the story of a man who insisted on remaining a prisoner long enough to complete the task of making himself into a useful citizen—is one which justifies the "reformatory" system. Here is an ideal example of the aim of state reformatories—as opposed to the old prison system which aimed only at punishment.—Christian Science Monitor.

WHILE THE MEN ARE ABSENT

One good way to show our affection for the men and boys who gone into the armed services, is to keep up the home town in such fine condition that they will be proud of it when they come back. They think of the home town with deep affection. Meanwhile they are seeing fine communities as they go about the country, and perhaps noted places in foreign lands. This will make them more critical when they come back. They know what fine cities look like. If they get back and see that the old home town does not compare well with places they have seen, they will feel disappointment.

Every time we put in good efforts improving the home places, or cooperating for the general improvement of the community, we help give the boys a happy feeling when they finally get back home.—Peel Gazette.

WEEK AT OTTAWA

The production of Canada's wartime industries presents a vast picture of lights and shadows. The lights are obvious, Canada is playing an epic and vital role in the production of equipment for the armed forces of democracy. Aided by advice and direction of the joint production board at Washington, Canadian industry, is keeping abreast of the changing needs of war. Now the call is for further expansion in the output of planes, ships and heavy guns, and Canada swings its massive but flexible production plant into line. The shadows in the picture are the uncertainties whether there may be some elements in wartime industry which the economy of the country in peace time may find indigestible.

Warnings Against Cartels

From opposition benches in the House has come the warning that certain "cartels and combines" may have a stranglehold on the country after the war. In particular the C.C.-F. members have attacked the agreement with aluminum and electric power interests, the price paid by Canada for the aluminum used in the manufacture of aircraft and the growing financial strength of these great companies which, they claim, it will be difficult to hold in check after the war. Mr. Howe, the minister of munitions and supply has just as vigorously defended his agreement with the Aluminum Company which has lived up to its contract to the letter and has made a tremendous contribution to the winning of the war.

Synthetic Rubber

There has been an extremely interesting discussion in parliament on the production of synthetic rubber. A little crude rubber still cames to Canada, but when Malaya and the neighboring regions were occupied by the Japanese the main source of supply was cut off. It is true that most of the 21,000 tons of rubber which had been on order when Singapore fell, after an almost incredible trip by the ships that carried it, finally got to Canada. Canada, however, had to find a substitute for natural rubber which came from Malaya forests. There is also another point to be borne in mind. Even when the Japanese are driven from Malaya, it is most unlikely they will withdraw without playing havoc with the rubber jungles. Canada therefore has to continue for a considerable time at least to make use of the products of the synthetic rubber factories even after peace is restored. After the best technical men of Canada and the United States had probed the matter fully it was decided that the type of synthetic rubber to be manufactured should be what is known as Buna S rubber, with patroleum as a base. In a very few months Canada's new plant at Sarnia, which will have an annual capacity of 34,000 tons will be in operation. This will be sufficient

We thought 1941 was a busy year . . . until 1942 came along! Last year, despite shortages of material and manpower, the volume of Long Distance messages rose to nearly three million a month — almost 50% higher than before the war. And it is still rising!

Timely Recipes ...

APPLE DUMPLING

Temp: 450 F. Time: 30 min.

4 cups raw, tart apples
1¼ cups boiling water
1 tbsp. Benson's or Canada Corn Starch
½ cup Crown Brand Corn Syrup
2 tsp. lemon juice
⅛ tsp. nutmeg
⅛ tsp. salt
1 cup all-purpose flour
2 tbsp. sugar (optional)
2 tsp. baking powder
¼ tsp. salt
¼ cup lard or shortening
½ cup milk
1 egg beaten
1 tbsp. sugar
½ tsp. ground cinnamon

Wipe, core, pare and slice apples; reserve peelings. Place sliced apples in bottom of greased 1½ quart casserole. Pour boiling water over apple skins in saucepan and simmer (covered) for 15 to 20 minutes. Drain off liquid, and blend gradually with the corn starch and corn syrup (which have been well mixed together). Stir in lemon juice, nutmeg and salt; bring all to a boil and simmer 5 minutes, stirring constantly. Pour over apples in casserole. Sift together the sifted flour, sugar (if desired), baking powder and salt; cut in lard or shortening. Combine milk with beaten egg and add all at once to dry ingredients, stirring lightly with fork or knife to blend. Beat well. Drop from tablespoon over fruit and syrup in casserole; sprinkle with sugar-cinnamon mixture and bake in a hot oven (450°F) for 30 minutes. Serve warm, with or without cream. Serves 6 to 8.

VARIATION: Omit egg. The dough will not be quite so light or rich, but the dessert will still be a tasty one.

(If corn syrup is temporarily unavailable, replace the quantity with 1/3 cup sugar).

SURPRISE CREAM FILLING

1½ tablespoons butter
1½ tablespoons Benson's or Canada Corn Starch
¾ cup milk
¾ cup icing sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1½ tablespoons lemon juice
½ cup shredded cocoanut
OR ½ cup crisp cooked cereal
OR ½ cup stale cake crumbs

Melt butter in saucepan; blend in corn starch stir into a smooth paste, add milk and stir until boiling point is reached. Allow to boil for 2 minutes, stirring constantly. Add icing sugar, salt and lemon juice. Blend thoroughly. Cool and stir in cocoanut, crisp cereal or stale cake crumbs, before putting between layers of SALLY'S LAYER SPONGE CAKE.

QUICK BOILED SALAD DRESSING

1 large (or 2 small) eggs
3 tablespoons sugar
1½ teaspoons salt
1½ teaspoons dry mustard
1 tablespoon Benson's or Canada Corn Starch
Dash paprika
Dash cayenne
½ cup milk, water OR fruit juice
½ cup vinegar
1 tablespoon fat

Break eggs into top of double boiler. Shake over them the sugar, salt, mustard, corn starch, paprika and cayenne. Beat vigourously. Add liquid and cook over moderately boiling water until mixture begins to thicken (about 5 minutes). Add vinegar slowly and cook 10 minutes longer, stirring frequently. Remove from heat and add fat. Strain and store. Yield ½ pint.

NOTE: This basic recipe makes a thick salad dressing which requires small space for storing. When required for a salad, it may be beaten up to any desired consistency by the addition of sour cream, or rich milk, to suit taste.

CANADA'S MOUNTIES USE DOGS TO FIND MISSING PERSONS

To help in tracking down missing persons as well as to hunt criminals, the famous Royal Canadian Mounted police are now training police dogs and finding them very useful on difficult trails.

There was the case of the missing doctor who lived at Westford, New Brunswick. The doctor had had a serious nervous breakdown, had recovered sufficiently to go out for a short walk by himself. Near Westford are many wooded sections, and the doctor decided to walk through one that summer day. It was a cloudy, but warm day, with occasional showers. During one of the lulls the doctor went on his walk. He did not return that evening, and his family became worried, set out to locate him, had to return without him.

The occasional showers turned to a steady rain which continued through the night. Next day the neighbors joined the search, failed to find the doctor, then called on the Mounties. They came with police dog "Cliffe." Some clothes of the doctor gave him the scent, and though the rain had washed the trail away for most dogs, Cliffe led the police constable and search party through thick bush and swamps, across creeks and eventually to bush so thick that he was taken off the leash and allowed to push his way through alone. He traveled through the bush quite a distance, followed by the plunging search party. Finally he stopped at a thicket, and there was the doctor, lying on the ground in an exhausted condition. He had become lost in the woods, had thrashed about, plunged into one thicket after another, finally fell down tired out, and had spent the night in that clump of trees.

Then there is the case of the missing boy in the neighboring province of Nova Scotia. This 13-year-old lad had gone for a hike, but had failed to come home. His parents had called the Mounties who came with police dog "Egon". The dog, after sniffing a pair of the boy's trousers, led off past the boy's home, through a neighbor's yard, and into the woods. He climbed some bush covered hills, finally started up the area's mountain. Up on the higher slopes among the trees, the police found the young adventurer.

Athelstan Branch

Considerable work has been done for the Junior Red Cross, by the senior grade pupils of the local school, during the past year. The teacher, Miss L. McCartney, and scholars were pleased to know that the afghans they made and sent before Christmas have been gratefully received by people in England. The following articles are among those recently sent to Montreal Junior Red Cross.

KNITTING: 13 boys' sweaters (sleeveless), 2 babies' sweaters, 4 pairs babies' bootees.

SEWING: 1 child's nightgown, 2 prs. children's bloomers, 3 baby dresses, 3 pair babies' bootees; and other garments sent were: 1 scrapbook, 3 puzzles, 1 box of lead, 1 box of stamps.

The following extract in part, was contained in a letter just received from Mrs. Ruth B. Shaw: "I was simply thrilled to get the pile of boys' sleeveless sweaters, fawn and green, no less than 13. They are just the things to send over to Britain for bombed-out boys, and are beautifully knitted. The knitted and nicely made flannelette bootees, the nightie, little hospital jackets and bloomers are all most useful too and will probably be sent overseas shortly. Do thank the Juniors too, for the stamps and other salvage, as well as the scrapbook and puzzles which will help to amuse patients in hospitals."

The Canadian Housewife And Wartime Nutrition

The following paper was given by Mrs. Dahms at the recent meeting of the Huntingdon Branch of the Women's Institute, and it is believed that the women readers of his newspaper will gain much food for thought after reading the article.

"To-day we housewives have an even greater responsibility than ever before, since correct diet means healthy men, women and children who will be able to take their share of tasks in this "fight for freedom."

Rationing has complicated our buying of foodstuffs, many of the "old familiar" brands have disappeared from the grocer's slim shelves and the weather seems to be further complicating the situation. Let us face things squarely and realize that we can carry on and in spite of everything, improve our family's health, by using every little household hint we hear and by passing along those we are clever enough to discover ourselves. Yes, to-day really is a challenge to all keen-thinking women in the home!

Perhaps I should first of all refresh your memories with a brief outline of the day's food needs. These are for an average woman over 20—1 pint milk (some can be used in cooking if you are not a milk-lover)

1 serving meat, fish or poultry with a serving of liver once a week
2 eggs or 1 egg and 1 oz. cheese
2 servings vegetables (one should be leafy)
1 serving white or sweet potato, eating skin also.
2 servings fruit (one should be citrus)
Dark whole grain bread and breakfast cereal.
At least three servings of butter on bread and vegetables.
6 to 8 glasses of water

Remember all this is the desired diet, but good health can be maintained on less and must be maintained on less before this war is over.

If you are not yet 20 years of age, you should have more of the same foods and at least a quart of milk every day.

A man must eat more of the same foods and would be wise to drink at least 3 glasses of milk a day.

We housewives would need more than I stated above, since we are continually "on the go".

Now for some of our problems of these war days.

The Sugar problem is really not serious from the standpoint of good health. There are no vitamins in sugar, and only brown sugar has any minerals to its credit, and these can be made up by the use of fruits, vegetables and cereals. Sugar is the so-called energy food, but other foods can fall under this heading too, among them grains which we use in breads, cereals, etc. So any lack in sugar can be made up by increased consumption of such foods. Of course, the sugar for canning will be a problem, but we will just have to learn to do without sweet desserts next winter, I guess. I would certainly advise canning of fruit rather than making of jams and jellies, which are lower in vitamin content and will not go nearly so far.

The Butter problem is not really serious either, since any energy we might lose this way may be made up by more liberal use of bread and cereals. When I speak of breads and cereals, I mean the whole wheat bread and the dark cereals. There is some Vitamin A in Butter which must be made up in the use of more leafy green vegetables and carrots.

The Tea and Coffee problem is really not a problem at all, since there is absolutely no food value in either, so we need not fear that we are depriving ourselves of some important factor by their curtailment.

The meat problem is really the hardest for us and yet it is not serious either. We will have to do quite a bit of adjusting of ideas that is all. Pretty soon eggs and cheese will also become "vanishing points" in our ration books, which will mean we will have to use our thinking caps more, and more often in order to make an attractive dinner. Cereals and bread again come to the rescue. These are 15% protein foods and therefore make excellent combinations with meat, as "stretchers". Then we also have dried peas and beans which are 26% protein. They make an excellent subsitute for meat occasionally.

I have some recipes here which might interest you in connection with meat and substitutes. You have also heard of meat rolls that are made with ground meat and gravy on biscuit dough, which is then rolled up like jelly roll and sliced for serving. There are also meat short cake, good old stew with dumplings (which incidentally helps out in potato shortage) and meat loaves and pies.

Some of the very best sources of protein are the unrationed kidneys and liver, which should be used as often as they are available for their high iron content.

Every average woman needs at least 60 grain of protein per day, which is 2-1/10 ounces approximately. This is equal to eating 2 hamburg steaks, about 2" in diameter and ¾" thick per day, which is 4 oz. of meat. If by chance, a person wished to eat hamburg steaks all week she would still have 4 oz. of meat left over from her ration of 2 lbs. per week. So you can see we are not at all badly off because think of all the eggs, cheese, milk and cereals she would eat in that week which we have not considered for protein content at all!

Of course a man needs a few ounces more per week and adolescents need most of all.

We can be cut down a lot slimmer yet and still have perfect health, as is being proved in Britain to-day.

There are many more problems which confront us these days—scarcity of potatoes, high price of oranges, lack of fresh vegetables, etc.

The potatoes can be replaced with cereals and bread for a while, with no ill results. The oranges with tomatoes, remembering that twice as much is required for the same amount of Vitamin C. Incidentally, I would discourage the canning of Tomato Juicy in the home, because most of the Vitamin C is destroyed in the process. It is better to can the tomatoes by the cold pack method and strain them as juice is required, or else buy factory canned juice, which is canned by a special process.

Let us ever try to save every scrap of food and learn to make such attractive "left-over" dishes that they rival the originals in popularity. This will be a real victory in our homes, where "plenty and to spare" was the rule. To further this end I suggest that we pool our ideas, original and otherwise, at the W.I. meetings each month. I feel sure it would be doing the community a real service and hasten the day when we can feel real pride in the healthy nation that we housewives have raised.

So let us on with the task!!!

WOMEN NOT ELIGIBLE FOR SWEDISH THRONE

Stockholm—The ministry of justice tabled indefinitely a proposal that the Riksdag change the Swedish constitution to make women members of the royal family eligible for the throne.

Attorney Sven Montelius, making the proposal, said if Sweden became involved in the war and an heir should be killed it would be advantageous if women members would be eligible to serve as regent. He apparently had in mind the "Princesses of Haga," Margaretha, born in 1934, Birgitta, born in 1937, and Desiree, born in 1938. They are daughters of Prince Gustav Adolf and Princess Sibylla. The Prince is the eldest son of the Crown Prince.

DAHLIA'S WHATNOTS

Under Dr. Howe's tuition, Laura began to comprehend the deep things of time and eternity. Elihu Burritt, the "learned blacksmith" wrote of her: "Her fingers' ends became endowed with faculties almost miraculous, and filled her mind with astonishing revelations of things present, past and to come. Her little white whispering, loving, listening fingers touched the record of the olden years, beyond the flood, till they felt the branches of the forbidden tree, and the locks of murdered Abel, and the surges that beat against Noah's helmless ark, and the cradle of the Hebrew baby in the bulrushes, and the tremulous base of Sinai and David's harp, and the face of the infant Emanuel in the manger and the nails that fastened Him to the cross, and the deep prints that unbelieving Thomas felt after the resurrection, and with his faith on shorter evidence, she too had cried, in the voiceless language of her heart, "My Lord! and my God"!"

Laura became able to receive lessons in geography, algebra and history. She received and answered letters from all parts of the world, and was always employed and, therefore, always happy. One writer records that she learned to write a fair, legible square hand and to read with great dexterity and at last even to think deeply and to reason with good sense and discrimination.

The thought rises in the mind as one dwells on her case that handicapped though she was yet, in having the help of Dr. Howe's sympathy and wisdom, she was privileged in some ways more than the clever, normal children of some well-to-do and supposedly intelligent parents. Take for instance the children who catch their parents lying to them, or who are frightened of the dark by the stories told them when mom's or dad's limited brain power seeks the path of least resistance.

But Laura's experience was not to be all one of acquisition. Even her heart, with but one outlet, was to reap the reward of angels and feel that "It is more blessed to give than to receive". Her biographer says,—Even for her, who might well have been excused from all human effort there was a work to do.... She was to have a share in a work of international goodwill, and was also to help another fellow being afflicted like herself, in his efforts to become educated. Laura was naturally a bright, intelligent child, and even after she was deprived of sight and hearing, she had learned to find her way about her home and neighbourhood, and to sew and knit a little before Dr. Howe undertook her training.

Then when the people of America were moved to send supplies of food to the starving people of Ireland, Laura Bridgman wrought at her embroidery days, nights, and weeks, till her work was sold for a barrel of flour to be sent with thousands more to save those who were perishing from the famine which followed the potato plight.

Furthermore, Laura was to experience the joy of the teacher who feels that his instruction has been assimilated. Oliver Caswell like herself, had been attacked by fever, which in four weeks left him deaf, in a few more weeks blind, and in six months dumb. Dr. Howe undertook his care and training assisted by Laura. The doctor tells us, "I sat down and taking his hand, placed it upon one of the objects before him, and then with my own made the letters k e y. He felt my hands eagerly with both of his, and on my repeating the process, he evidently tried to imitate the motions of my fingers. In a few minutes he contrived to feel the motions of my fingers with one of his hands, and holding out his other hand, he tried to imitate them, laughing most heartily when he succeeded Laura was by, interested even to agitation and the two presented a singular sight; her face was flushed and anxious, and her fingers twined in among ours so closely as to follow every motion, but so lightly as not to embarrass them; while Oliver stood attentive, his head a little aside, his face turned up, his left hand grasping mine, and his right held out; at every motion of my fingers his countenance betokened keen attention, there was an expression of anxiety as he tried to imitate the motions, then a smile came stealing out as he thought he could do so, and spread into a joyous laugh the moment he succeeded, and he felt me pat his head, and Laura clap him heartily upon the back, and jump up and down in her joy." A writer says, Yes, here was the true Christian life—that which she had learned, she would that Oliver should learn also. And as we watch Laura Bridgman and Oliver Caswell let us learn two lessons, one for individuals, another for nations. Let us learn to use limited opportunities with courage and resolution. Let us do what we can to improve the unhappy lot of the people who are suffering to-day in other lands.

Laura Bridgeman died in 1889.

Closing Exercises At Convent School

The Congregation of Notre Dame held its closing exercises on Friday, June 18th, and the promotions for all the grades up to seven, were made. The results showed that the pupils of these grades had made good progress throughout the year. Due to existing conditions the distribution of prizes was omitted for this year. The results for the higher grades and for the Business courses will be announced later in the fall. For the past six months since the disastrous fire which destroyed the convent building, the school has been conducted in the Presbyterian Residence. The graduating pupils while appreciating the accommodation provided them for school purposes, expressed regret that they had been unable to graduate from their school in the original convent building.

Dominion Store Changes To Self-Serve

Commencing on Friday, June 25th, the Dominion Store on Chateauguay Street, Huntingdon, will become a self-serve groceteria with all the modern facilities of this type of store. Due to the lack of help and with the idea of better serving its increasing number of customers, the management has decided to take this step to increase its service to its clientele. The goods will be displayed on shelves around the store where they can easily be seen and examined and wagons will be provided in which customers can place their purchases for checking at the paying and packaging counter turnstiles. Deliveries will still be made on orders over $2.00 in value, but for lesser amounts cash and carry will prevail. No phone orders will be received. In place of the familiar green coloring, the color scheme has been changed to green and red. The management believes that this inovation will bring a new thrill to shoppers and provide them wth a city service they have long wished for. People of the district are invited to step in and see the new self-serve method in operation.

Obituary

The Late John McIntosh

On Tuesday morning, June 15th, 1943, this community was saddened to hear of the passing of one of its most highly respected citizens in the person of John McIntosh. He was confined to bed for eight months and bore his affliction with patient christian fortitude and was tenderly cared for by his wife during his long illness. He was well liked by friends and neighbors alike as he was of a quiet disposition and always welcomed visitors with a smile. He was joined in marriage forty nine years ago with Margaret Cavers of Upper Ormstown concession and lived nearly all his lifetime in lower Ormstown Concession on the old homestead, being a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert McIntosh. He was seventy-eight years of age and has resided in Ormstown for the last few years. To this union three daughters and one son were born, namely: Elizabeth, Mrs. John Baird, Margaret, Mrs. L. Duchesnay of Montreal, Clare, Mrs. Goggin of Moncton, N.B., and Edgar, residing on the farm, who were all present at the funeral, except Mrs. Goggin. The funeral was held on Thursday, June 17th, 1943, and was private from his late residence. The service was conducted by his pastor, the Rev. W. H. Brown, assisted by Mr. J. S. McBride, B.A., of Montreal, the text being "By My Works Ye Shall Know Me", paying tribute to the memory of the deceased for the Christian life he had lived. Robert's mother and other relatives were present.

Several members of the W.M.S. availed themselves of Riverfield Auxiliary's friendly invitation and Mayor Churchill's kind offer of conveyance, and attended the meeting in Riverfield Church Hall last Tuesday. In Memoriam

In sweet and loving memory of John McWhinnie, and his two sons Daniel Raymond McWhinnie who departed this life on June 22, 1936, and John Douglas McWhinnie who died on May 8, 1943.

—Inserted by wife and mother,

Mrs. John McWhinnie.

Here is one bird which doesn't migrate . .

THE ruffed grouse—partridge to us—is one bird which doesn't migrate. Born in the wilds of Quebec, it stays with us.

And here is one great asset of our Province of Quebec which doesn't migrate either—the electrical power drawn from the waters of our river St. Maurice.

Developed right here in Quebec—generated by Quebec workers—every kilowatt from the St. Maurice is used within the boundaries of this Province to advance Quebec industry. It is low-cost dependable power which has made Quebec famous for newsprint, forest products, textiles, chemicals, asbestos and aluminum.

Low-cost dependable power has attracted many other industries to the Province and enabled the people to find profitable employment within its boundaries.

All power generated and purchased by The Shawinigan Water & Power Company and its subsidiaries is consumed within this Province. The kilowatt hours from the St. Maurice River, like the ruffed grouse, are content to stay at home.

SHAWINIGAN AT WAR

The outbreak of hostilities found Shawinigan ready with sufficient power to provide instantly the driving force for the vitally important war industries now in full swing in the Province of Quebec.

Letter Received From Prisoner-of-war Declares Prisoners Still Shackled

There has been much talk on the shackling of prisoners-of-war in Germany and especially those who were taken in the raid on Dieppe. Recently a letter was received by Mr. Lionel Clairmont, of Valleyfield, from his brother Noel Clairmont, who is a prisoner in Germany, giving some light on this subject. Cpl. Clairmont was taken prisoner during the raid on Dieppe, in the month of August, 1942.

In retalliation for the shackling of Canadian soldiers made prisoners in Germany, German soldiers, who were prisoners in this country, were shackled also. But later this order was rescinded on the assumption that similar treatment would be accorded our men in Germany. There have been repeated repor ts that prisoners in German camps were still being shackled, and the letter from Cpl. Clairmont seems to indicate this fact to be true. The letter follows:

Picture above shows Cpl. Noel Clairmont, author of the letter referred to in the article.

April 6th, 1943.

Mr. Lionel Clairmont,
81 St. Cecile Street,
Valleyfield, Que.

Dear Lionel:

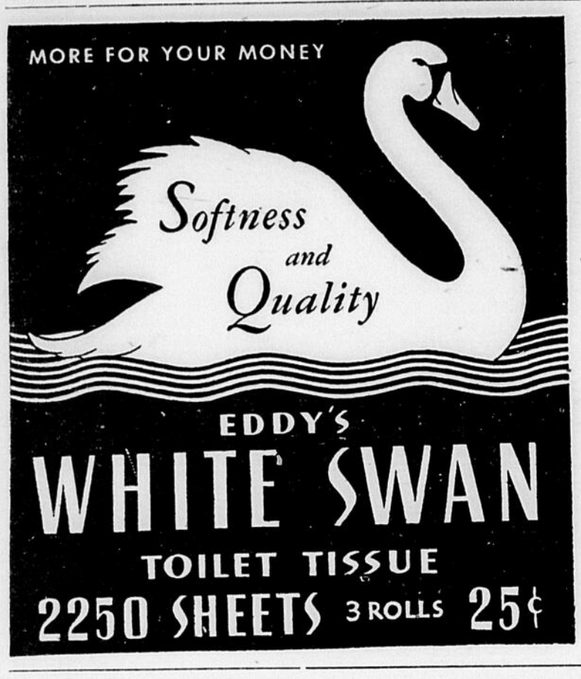

I have received your letters and also received some books from Armand (Dr. Armand Clairmont of Valleyfield). We are always in need of books, as this is about the only passtime we have between our hours of work at the camp. Our hours of work are not too long, and Saturday afternoons and Sundays are free periods.

There are football games, (which I do not like,) and musical concerts are given from time to time by the prisoners-of-war. I am glad to know that you are all in good health. I am also well.

Armand (Dr. Clairmont) was enquiring from me regarding the handcuffs and told me that everything is supposed to be normal here. The newspapers have erred in regard to this report, as the reign of handcuffs is not ended, and I wouldn't be surprised if it lasted until the end of the war. It is a punishment for what was supposed to have been done during the raid we made on Dieppe. But what can we do about it, it is war, and we must resign ourselves to the consequences.

I appreciate all you do for me.

Yours, etc.,
Noel

"We're regular old MISERS —and enjoy it!"

JOE: "Pay day! Boy, I was down to my last nickel!"

ANN: "What do you do with all your money?"

JOE: "Run the house, keep the family, pay my life insurance, and BUY WAR SAVINGS CERTIFICATES AND BONDS."

ANN: "Same here! We're saving money, we've learned to be regular old misers and enjoy it!"

JOE: "That's our job! I heard a fellow say the other day that this war is on the home front, too—that we in Canada have a big part to play in keeping prices down. He said something about buying only the things we need."

TED: "That makes sense to me. If we keep on building up a demand for things we can do without, the people working to produce goods for civilians won't be able to supply them fast enough, and prices will go sky-high."

JOE: "Exactly! This fellow said that inflation was the big fight on the home front and the only way to beat it was to buy just the things we really need, and keep our spending down by saving every dollar we can from our earnings. I figure that's a lot easier to do if I buy War Savings Certificates and Bonds regularly and HOLD ON TO THEM!"

Be sure to maintain your life insurance in force. Your premiums are invested in Victory Bonds that are helping to win the war.

St. Anicet Council

The St-Anicet council met on June 7th with councillor Arice Quenneville absent. Mayor Hidalla Caza presiding.

The following accounts were approved for payment: Alfred Latreille, $4.00; Ulric Lauzon $0.50; Oscar Quesnel $13.00; Huntingdon Gleaner $16.19; Edward McGinn $3.00; Edmond Carrière $3.00; Alcide Latreille $5.00; Denis Latreille $12.44; J. D. Quenneville $7.00; Albini Lapierre $4.25; Charles Trepanier $3.00; Marc Trepanier $7.00.

It was proposed by councillor Jas. A. Leslie and seconded by councillor Ovide Duheme that Mr. W. L. Carr be named auditor for the municipality for the year ending December 31st, 1943.

It was moved by councillor Albert Caza and seconded by councillor Jas. A. Leslie that the changes be made on the valuation roll as read. Also names as read be added to the voters' list.

It was moved by councillor Ovide Duheme and seconded by councillor Albert Caza that the account of Mr. Alfred Latreille, agrarian inspector, be charged to Hormidas Hart, amount of $4.50.

It was moved by councillor Ovide Duheme and seconded by councillor Jas. A. Leslie that the resignation of Romeo St-Onge, special officer for the Casey water course, be accepted and that on the request of Messrs. Leo Goyer and Stanislas Gauthier, Mr. Oliver Bonneville of Huntingdon, be named as his successor.

It was moved by councillor Alcide Carriere and seconded by councillor Ovide Duheme that the resignation of Albert Leblanc be accepted and that Etienne Leblanc be named inspector of roads in his place.

Messrs. Joseph Clark, Andrew McDonald and Maurice Elias requested that a few loads of gravel be spread on the McDonald road. It was decided to ask Mr. Albert Latreille to draw a few loads for this purpose and also to draw a few loads for the McNicol road to cover the stones placed there recently. Mr. Andrew McDonald was authorized to cut the grass twice a year along the McDonald road at the price of one dollar ($1.00) each time.

It was decided to ask Marcus Walsh to remove the Notice sign from the corner of Welsh road and Quesnel concession and the council would pay the charges of transportation. The resignation of Mr. Ovila Rabidoux as corn-borer inspector was not accepted.

It was moved by councillor Alcide Carriere and seconded by councillor Adrien Quesnel that a request be made through the Huntingdon County Council, to the drainage office at Quebec, to continue the digging on the Cousineau branch of the St. Louis discharge. The municipal council of St. Anicet made it known that by continuing the digging of this branch, the waters from the St. Lawrence cannot penetrate and in accomplishing this work many farmers would benefit and ameliorate their property. M. Antoine Sauve announced to the council that he would take under his charge the youngest daughter of Mr. Alfred Malenfant, who is presently a border at Valleyfield convent, his request was taken into consideration.

It was proposed by councillor Ovide Duheme and seconded by councillor Jas. A. Leslie to ask the drainage officer of Quebec, to have the holes filled in where the waters of the St. Lawrence reach the Laguerre bridge on the Lake road.

The three readings of By-law No. 99 were given and approved.

It was moved by councillor Jas. A. Leslie and seconded by councillor Albert Caza that the contract between the Shawinigan Water & Power Co. and the municipality as read be accepted.

It was moved by councillor Jas. A. Leslie and seconded by councillor Adrien Quesnel and resolved that a referendum be held on June 30, 1943, to vote on By-law No. 99, concerning the lighting of the streets in certain parts of the municipality, at the cost of the corporation, as described in the said by-law which was adopted at the regular meeting held this day.

The referendum will be held at the usual place and will be between the hours of 9 a.m .and 6 p.m. inclusive.

It was decided to advise the agrarian inspector to have the line fence repaired between the farm of Messrs. Romeo Hart and Desire Hart, or to construct a new one if necessary.

GENERAL IN ALEUTIANS TAKES UNEXPECTED BATH

With The U. S. Army in The Aleutians—Eight months ago a general stood in the prow of a landing barge—and said "Where I command my men to go, I lead." The barge scuffed against gravel, stopped. "Follow me," he cried and vaulted into the ice-cold Bering. Characteristic of Aleutian beaches, the barge hit a so-called tidal role or false beach behind which was deep water. These false Aleutian beaches are important in military landings—and dangerous.

Dominion Textile Co's. Production Down 15% Below Peak

Reduction in Tariffs is Expected to Have its Effect Upon Cotton Industry

Pointing out that Dominion Textile Company's production was now about 15% below the peak obtained in the Winter of 1942, G. Blair Gordon, president of the company, explained, in addressing the shareholders at the annual meeting at Montreal on Wednesday, that the main production difficulty was that there were now so many untrained employees. "Generally speaking," he said, "the mill management is not at present in a position to obtain good results with the employees available and has to make the best of a very difficult situation."

"You may have noted a few weeks ago," Mr. Gordon continued, "that a special Textile and Leather Control Committee has been created with no less a personage that Mr. Donald Gordon as Chairman. One of the main functions of this Committee is to act as an umpire between the contending claims of the Services and the civilian trade for output of our mills. There are indications already, although it may be merely a coincidence, that a greater proportion of our production may soon be available for civilian purposes; but owing to the falling off which has taken place in our total volume, this may mean little if any increase in the actual quantities of goods which can be shipped to our customers."

Discussing tariffs, Dominion Textile's president said, "You may also have noticed recently that Canada's representatives at the Hot Springs Food Conference were prepared to advocate a further reduction in tariffs. The last vestige of a tariff on cotton goods from England disappeared over three years ago, presumably never to return. There are still duties on American cotton goods, but it would seem that we must adjust ourselves to the idea that these too may be practically removed. The future facing us after the war is a very interesting one in which almost anything can happen. Perhaps I may make so bold as to say that your company stands a good chance of survival as a corporate enterprise, although we may have to effect very radical changes in our set up to adapt it to the surrounding conditions. In the meantime, we can only plan on an 'as if and when' basis. For the general conduct of affairs, the words of Macaulay are worth remembering: 'Nothing is so galling to a people, not broken in from the birth, as a meddling government, a government which tells them what to read and think and eat and drink and wear'."

Mr. Gordon referred with deep regret to the death of Mr. J. G. Dodd, vice-president, who had been head of the sales department from the early days of the company.

The annual report was adopted.

Rockburn

The wheelwright shop of Mr. George Sutton, of Frontier, narrowly escaped destruction by fire one day last week. Mr. Sutton left his shop at 6 p.m. and a couple of hours later a neighbour saw smoke issuing from the building and gave the alarm. The fire department from Chateauguay and the neighbours were at the scene promptly, and by putting up a good fight, managed to save the building from great harm and were able to save the machinery. His many friends and customers share with Mr. Sutton his thankfulness that there was no further loss.

On Sunday next the service at Rockburn Church will be at 7:30 p. m., and will be conducted by Mr. McMillan, of Athelstan.

Rev. A. S. Reid, D.D., and Miss Allana Reid are spending a holiday with friends in Rockburn.

The Bomber Press In Great-Britain ...

Another in a series of articles written by W. R. Legge and C. V. Charters, who represented the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association in a recent tour overseas.

A VISIT TO PARLIAMENT AND PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL

(Article No. 25) By Walter R. Legge

Although our schedule did not include a visit to the British Parliament, most of the members of the Bomber Press party managed to steal enough time to pay a visit to this bulwark of freedom.

On September 11th, the two representatives of the weekly press of Canada, Mr. C. V. Charters and I, paid a visit to Parliament. Our visit was arranged through Sir Drummond Shields, secretary of the Empire Parliamentary Association, who secured for us admission cards to the Dominions' Gallery.

First we visited Sir Drummond Shields' office which adjoins Westminster Hall. This hall is one of the oldest and most interesting sections of the Parliament Buildings. It was built by William Rufus in 1087-1100, and was altered by Richard II in 1377-1399. It was originally part of the Palace of Westminster, was saved when the rest of the palace was destroyed by fire in 1834, and was incorporated in the Parliament Buildings, the balance of which date only from about 1840.

This hall may well be called the birthpace of democracy, for it was here that in 1265 Simon de Montfort opened the first parliament, the model on which all subsequent democratic parliaments have been patterned. It is interesting to note that Simon de Montfort, who is considered to have been a martyr to liberal government, was a French-speaking Englishman. For two hundred years after 1265 the proceedings of the English parliament were conducted in French.

Westminster Hall is 290 feet long, 68 feet wide, and 90 feet high. The hammer beam roof of carved oak, which dates from 1399, is one of the principal features.

Previous to 1882, state trials were held in this hall, including those of Charles I, Sir Thomas Moore, Guy Fawkes, and Warren Hastings. It was also in this hall that King Edward VII and George V lay in state before their funerals.

Next we went to see the ruins of the House of Commons. It is uncanny the way in which this room has been totally destroyed with nothing left but the walls, while rooms next to it have been practically untouched. It is like many other spots in England where one house in the middle of a block is completely destroyed with those on both sides left intact.

We were taken to lunch in the Parliamentary Restaurant, where we found that the Members have no favours so far as food is concerned. It is neither better nor worse than other restaurants in London. On the wall is an electric sign which shows who is speaking in the House.

While going through one of the corridors in the Parliament Buildings we came face to face with the Hon. W. P. Mulock, Postmaster General of Canada, who we were surprised to know was in England.

We were then taken to the temporary quarters of the House of Commons. There are about 615 members, and it must be pretty crowded when all are present at the same time. The debate on the Indian problem was in progress and we heard some very fine oratory. We listened to part of the debate. After hearing something of this vexing problem from authorities who have been in India and understand something about it, we have come to the conclusion that few of those who offer gratuitous advice from a distance of several thousand miles are qualified to offer opinions.

It is not an easy matter to attend a session of the British Parliament at the present time. There were few other visitors when we were there. We were sorry not to have seen the Prime Minister in action but he was not in the House while we were present.

The proceedings were interrupted by a Royal Commission, which is an elaborate ceremony, when bills which have been passed are sent up for approval.

While we did not see or hear Mr. Churchill in the House of Commons, we were given an opportunity to meet him informally at a later date.

As Parliament was in session, his time was taken up more than usual, if that is possible. Our meeting was set for twelve o'clock noon, and needless to say none of our party was late or absent.

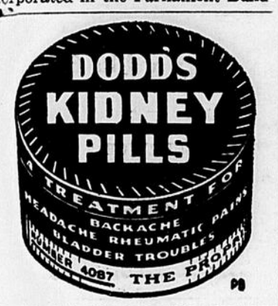

We were shown into his office, and as we entered he came from behind his desk, and shook each one of us by the hand with a firm handclasp. We were introduced individually by the Hon. Vincent Massey. Mr. Churchill made sure he got every name right and the place from which each came.

The Prime Minister was in his usual black double-breasted coat, grey striped trousers, and bow tie, and was smoking the usual cigar. He looked to be even younger than when we saw him at the press conference in Ottawa less than a year before. He exuded health, vitality, strength, and confidence. His complexion was clear, his face unlined, his brow unfurrowed.

It was an off-the-record conference, so his words cannot be reported, but as he spoke in quiet, confident tones, in an informal way, we hung on his every word. Without minimizing the difficulties, he breathed determination to see the war through to ulimate victory.

To meet him informally as we did is a privilege we greatly appreciated.

A day or so later, we heard that at his lunch that day, he remarked that he was sorry he could not have given more time to those Canadian editors, but we were delighted that he was able to give us the short time he did. It was a meeting none of us will ever forget.

The Scouts of the 1st Huntingdon Troop are giving their assistance to the Carnival through the medium of a Fish Pond. The boys intend to make a canvas for small articles, very soon. Persons out of town, or anyone who is overlooked during the canvas, may leave their donation with Miss Norma Lunan. It would be very much appreciated by the boys if each article were wrapped and marked as to value, either 5c. or 10 cents.

The June meeting of the United Church W.M.S. was held on Tuesday, the 15th, at the home of Mrs. Robt. Templeton, with a good attendance. Mrs. Roy Younie presiding. The devotional exercises were conducted by Mrs. Robt. McKell. The text word for the month was: "Peace" and the ladies answered the roll call with a verse containing these words: Current Events. An interesting report was read by Mrs. Robt. Ness—"Cross section of Christendom"—the Dominion Board W.M.S. Mrs. Annie Gruer read an item on Christian Stewardship and Finance. A resume of the 7th and concluding chapter of the Study Book, entitled, "The Church Meeting the Challenge of the City," was given by Mrs. Edwin Knox. A few words were said by Mrs. Woodwark regarding the Japanese-Canadians and all other strangers in our Canadian cities and what our attitude toward them should be, and the meeting closed with a prayer.

HITLER JUST MISSED RAILWAY EXPLOSION

London.—The London Daily Sketch reported that Hitler missed by 10 minutes an explosion which wrecked a French railway line near Laon when Hitler was returning from a visit to his "Atlantic wall" in Brittany recently. The newspaper, quoting a neutral source, said that Hitler, who was accompanied by Field Marshal Karl von Runstedt, Admiral Karl Donetz, and Gestapo Chief Hienrich Himmler, was forced to leave the train and travel by motorcar.

The following letter, received recently, speaks for itself of the pleasure which the Birthday Boxes bring to our own men who are overseas.

England, May 21, 1943.

Dear Mrs. Brown:

Received your nice parcel a few days ago. It was very well packed and arrived in perfect condition. I treated all the other boys in our hut with the candy and eats but made a hog of myself on the tomato juice. I drank it all myself, for it was the first I've had since I came over. It sure was good.

The weather has been wonderful, roses and most of the other flowers are blooming and the early ones that came out about the end of February are dying down.

I've just finished writing to my eldest son, Allan, who was taken prisoner at Dieppe. I find it quite a task, as a lot of the things you would like to write about are not allowed and the things you do say seem unimportant.

Conditions on all the war fronts are greatly improved since I joined up in 1941. All the boys here are very keen and are anxious to get the job done and back home to Canada.

Well, it is getting near time for lights out. Thank the ladies of Huntingdon very much for the parcel and I hope they are all in the best of health.

Sincerely,
Archie Rowat.

Letters received during the week were from: Spr. Wilfred Thibeault, Sub-Lt. Larry Hampson, D. Bruce, Rev. H. C. Charlebois, A. A. Kelly, Sgt. H. de Belle Feuille.
