Poor food cause of jail riot

SWEETSBURG — (Staff) — Claims by prisoners of poor food seemed to be the reason for the outbreak at the Bedford district jail here Tuesday evening.

Prisoners claim that although they get three meals a day, the food they receive is either burned or cold when it is served to them.

According to Jail Warden Henri Campbell the prisoner behind the outbreak was Rene Baillargeon, who two weeks ago was sentenced to 15 years in the penitentiary for his part in June 6, $2,000 bank hold-up at Clarenceville.

Baillargeon was scheduled to be transferred to St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary the day following his sentence, two weeks ago. He was not transferred however, because of crowded conditions at the federal penitentiary.

Warden Campbell told The Record Wednesday that in addition to smashing light bulbs prisoners had broken the benches in the dining room of the jail.

A total of 12 prisoners are considered responsible for the outbreak. There are 28 prisoners in the jail at present.

Cowansville Provincial Police are still investigating the riot.

K not complete master?

WASHINGTON (CP) — Some of President Kennedy's top advisers feel Soviet Premier Khrushchev is not complete master in the Kremlin and that he tends to reach decisions faster than he is able to carry them out.

These advisers suggested this appeared to be the reason why Vyacheslav Molotov is returning to his diplomatic post in Vienna despite Khrushchev's bitter condemnation of the Old Bolshevik before the Communist party congress last October.

Khrushchev has embarked on a bold plan to eliminate the Stalin image from Soviet society but U.S. informants said that while they lack clear information of what is going on in the Kremlin, they have a feeling Khrushchev is meeting resistance.

The informants also said the U.S. administration has adopted a policy of "neither war nor surrender" in the Far East, placing greater emphasis on economic co-operation and less on military pacts as a means of containing Communist expansion.

WOULD MATCH OECD
A new study of how the United States can accelerate economic expansion in the Far East is under way. It is expected to be a big project, somewhat along the lines of the 20-country Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development linking North America and Europe, and the study is likely to take a full year.

Touching on Communist China, the informants said the more gold and currency China spends for wheat in Canada, Australia and other countries the less money the Chinese will have for industrial growth. They said there is evidence that the supposed "great leap" in the mainland's industrial expansion has been overrated and is slowing down.

There also is evidence, they said, that Russia is more in favor of peace in Laos than is China.

Pressed for an opinion as to what the reason might be, the advisers suggested Khrushchev was concerned about the possibility that President Kennedy would send U.S. troops into Laos.

Trapped coal miners are discovered dead

CARTERVILLE, Ill. (AP) — Eleven coal miners trapped since around 6 p.m. Wednesday night in a small coal mine 168 feet below the surface were found dead today.

Two rescue crews located the bodies. They said it appeared that the men were killed by an explosion that rocked the mine and shot twisted steel and debris out of the shaft.

One body was found at the bottom of the shaft; two others were nearby and eight bodies were located some 500 feet from the shaft, where the coal vein was being worked.

William Orlandi, director of the Illinois mines and minerals department, said the bodies would be brought up in about three to six hours after carbon monoxide fumes had been cleared from the tunnel.

Ray McCloskey, a state mine inspector, said he had checked the mine Monday and pronounced it safe at the time.

Orlandi said "all of the miners trapped have been accounted for and they are all dead."

A member of the rescue team said the men apparently were killed in an explosion. The cause of the blast was not determined immediately.

The men were trapped in the mine Wednesday night and police earlier said it appeared unlikely that any had survived.

SMOKE BARS WAY
The explosion shot twisted steel and debris out of the shaft opening, breaking the windshield of a parked auto. Heavy smoke poured out at first, keeping rescue teams from entering the mine.

Claude Jentry, owner of the mine, said it appeared the explosion occurred at the bottom of the shaft. It wrecked the tipple building which housed the elevator mechanism and machinery used to unload coal from gondola cars.

Dale Horsley, a son of one of the missing miners, said his father considered the mine "one of the most modern he had ever seen." He said his father Alpha Horsley, had been a miner for 30 years.

Since the mine has been open only a short time it does not have an extensive network of tunnels. It has a ventilation shaft about 16 inches in diameter running from the 500-foot tunnel to the surface.

Police brutality alleged

OAKVILLE, Ont. (CP) — A strike at the Ford of Canada assembly plant here continued today amid charges of police brutality.

George Burt, Canadian director of the United Auto Workers (UAW), said Wednesday night police beat up and arrested several pickets at the plant.

He said in a statement at least one picket was attacked by a policeman when he took a picture of another incident.

"He was slashed over the head with a billy and taken to hospital," Mr. Burt said.

Insp. Edward Heath of the Oakville police department denied Mr. Burt's charges. He said three pickets were arrested and one, John McLaughlin of Cooksville, was taken to hospital with head injuries he suffered when he slipped on ice.

McLaughlin was kept in hospital overnight.

The pickets were charged with obstruction and creating a disturbance. They were released on $100 bail.

SAYS PICKETS ROUGHED
Mr. Burt also said pickets were prevented from speaking to people driving through the picket line "and were roughed up and thrown into ditches when they tried."

Ordered to trial
GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (CP) — Senate President Stan Chas has been ordered to stand trial for aiding and abetting the impersonation of a voter during British Guiana's general election.

At preliminary hearing Wednesday in Providence magistrate's court, Magistrate Horace Mitchell ruled that sufficient evidence had been offered against the Senate president to warrant a trial. He was allowed bail of $150.

CAUGHT UNDER HOOD — Reporter-photographer Mike Rembridge heard a faint squeak from under the hood of his car while driving to work in Dartmouth, N.S., from his Tufts Cove home two miles away. It was louder later in the morning as he drove about the city. On his way home for lunch it was almost a howl. He pulled up at a garage, had the hood thrown up and found the family kitten-suffering only a scorched paw. (CP Photo)

Motion of censure in offing

To debate Gizenga

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP)—The Congo Parliament scheduled debate Friday on leftist Deputy Premier Antoine Gizenga's refusal to return to Leopoldville to answer charges of secessionism.

Members of parliament were far from pleased with Gizenga's rejection of their demand that he quit his headquarters in Stanleyville, capital of Oriental province 775 miles northeast of Leopoldville. Observers predicted a motion to censure the former favorite of the Soviet bloc would be introduced.

Parliament's approval of a censure motion presumably would be followed by his dismissal from Premier Cyrille Adoula's government. There were some predictions his arrest might be ordered, but an arrest order would be difficult to carry out as long as he remains in Stanleyville.

Parliament by a vote of 66 to 10 Monday ordered Gizenga to return to Leopoldville within 48 hours to take up his post. During heated debate deputies accused the leftist political heir of the late Patrice Lumumba of secessionist activities in Stanleyville.

In a telegram to Adoula, Gizenga said he will not return to the capital until Adoula's government "entirely and faithfully executes" a parliamentary resolution of last September calling for an end to the secession of Katanga province and the arrest of three top Katanga ministers.

Adoula's office replied with a statement that Gizenga "was not entrusted with any mission in Stanleyville or any other part of the Congo" by the government and his activities are not in accord with the government.

Gizenga's references to Katanga appeared to be an attempt to whip up dissatisfaction with Adoula because the rich province's secession has not been ended. But the Katanga assembly now is debating the unity agreement Katanga's President Moïse Tshombe signed at Kitona last month.

Katanga deputies have taken their seats in Parliament in accordance with that agreement and a Katanga delegation is discussing changes in the Congo constitution with the central government, another provision of the Kitona agreement.

With such signs pointing to an eventual return of Katanga to the Congo fold, Adoula's stock is rising with Congolese politicians and Gizenga's is going down steadily.

Legislature adjourned

QUEBEC (CP)—The Quebec legislature stands adjourned until Tuesday when Daniel Johnson, elected leader of the Union Nationale opposition four months ago, opens the throne speech debate.

Mr. Johnson spoke briefly Wednesday the first time as opposition leader—in congratulating the two new Liberal members of the assembly who moved and seconded adoption of the throne speech.

The motion to adopt the throne speech was made by Pierre Laporte (L-Charly), a long-time legislature correspondent before his election last month, and seconded by Mrs. Claire Kirkland (Cagrain (L-Jacques Cartier), the assembly's first woman member.

Forest fire research device made

OTTAWA (CP)—The National Research Council has developed a special instrument for the forestry department for research into factors that cause forest fires and keep them burning.

Increased emphasis is being placed on forest fire control by both federal and provincial forestry departments following the worst forest fire year on record in 1961.

Forest fires last year rose in number to a record 9,900 from 8,749 in 1960. They devastated an estimated 9,000,000 acres of forest land, compared with 1,500,000 acres the previous year.

He said he will recommend a whole new public welfare program stressing "rehabilitation instead of relief." Details will be submitted in a separate message, but Kennedy said he will call for a mass immunization program aimed at "such ancient enemies of our children as polio, diphtheria, whooping cough and tetanus."

The president promised "a massive attack to end adult illiteracy" and bills to improve the quality of education. He emphasized derally-financed college scholarships and loans for money into public works if necessary to meet the threat of recession.

Kennedy came out as vigorous as he did in 1961 for federal aid to public school construction and teachers' salaries.

His bill to provide such assistance ran into a wall of religious controversy in the House Catholic committee — the Roman Catholic president hostility of conservative-minded congressmen to federal school aid.

LIMA (AP) — A giant avalanche of snow and water caused by a thaw roared down on the town of Ranahica and several ranches in northwestern Peru Wednesday night and authorities said they feared between 3,000 and 4,000 persons lost their lives.

The avalanche rushed down the Huascaran Mountains, ripping up trees, crushing farm houses and sweeping aside live-stock in its destructive path.

The village of Ranahica, about 200 miles northwest of Lima and 30 miles north of the commercial centre of Huaraz, was feared to have been wiped out.

The town has a population of about 3,000, and police there said about that many persons were missing.

One unconfirmed report said a small mountain lake was pushed from the side of Mount Huascaran, at 22,205 feet the highest peak in Peru, is 30 miles north of the city.

Meagre information from the scene said enormous ice chunks were torn from the side of Mount Huascaran, a 22,205-foot peak, highest in Peru.

The ice melted, and at 6:40 p.m. Wednesday night a great mass of ice, snow and water broke loose and tumbled like thunder down the mountain and crashed onto the agricultural community below.

It sped to the edge of the Santa River and smashed into Ranahica.

Communication lines were destroyed in the deadly swath, hampering rescue and preventing accurate reports on the extent of the disaster.

The first news reaching Lima just after midnight said the avalanche was more than half a mile wide and 12 yards deep.

Rescue forces were hurried from Lima.

The area of the disaster is an agricultural region in the foothills of the Huascaran Mountains. There also are silver, lead, copper and coal mines in the region, and hot springs in

Vital issues

Canada-US meeting to discuss trading

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian and United States cabinet ministers are expected to concentrate on one vital issue—foreign trade in two days of talks starting here Friday.

Four cabinet ministers from each side will be present for the seventh annual meeting of the joint committee on trade and economic affairs.

Previous meetings — the last was held in Washington last March — have usually ranged over a variety of subjects. This one will deal primarily with the snowballing trend to European economic unity produced by the European Common Market.

Canada's chief interest will be in learning more about the U.S. administration's proposal to reduce Common Market tariff walls in exchange for cutting American tariffs. This proposal is to be submitted soon by President Kennedy to Congress.

Where it will face a tough battle from protectionist forces.

Finance Minister Fleming, who will be the main Canadian spokesman, isn't underestimating the importance of this new policy.

The scope and character of the new U.S. trade law, as finally shaped by Congress, "may well influence the course of history, both economic and political, for years to come," he said in a recent speech.

The prime Canadian concern has been over markets in Britain if Britain decides to join the six-nation Common Market. One of the main problems is to arrange concessions and safeguards for Commonwealth export markets in Britain.

BBC offers aid
LONDON (Reuters) — The BBC said Wednesday night British technicians will help the United States in beaming transatlantic television signals off a satellite.

A BBC spokesman said the first picture likely would be a still photograph transmitted from the U.S. technicians in a special receiving station in Britain will attempt to pick up the picture.

The plane was on a routine training flight.

Plane crash kills five
PITTSBURGH (AP)—A C-47 Pennsylvania Air National Guard plane crashed and burned on a farm 15 miles south of Pittsburgh Wednesday night. All five crew members were killed.

The twin-engine plane was reported to have had one engine ablaze shortly before it swooped toward earth, clipped some trees, flipped over and burned.

Ross B. Duggan, Allegheny County fire chief, said all five bodies were recovered. One had been thrown about 40 feet from the wreckage.

The plane burned fiercely. Firemen were hampered by a lack of foam or water to battle the flames.

An Air National Guard spokesman at Greater Pittsburgh Airport identified the dead as Capt. Charles N. Griffin, the pilot; Maj. Ivan Allen, co-pilot; Majors Frank Connelly and Leroy E. Smith; and Lieut. David Sloan, all of the Pittsburgh station in Britain will attempt to pick up the picture.

The plane was on a routine training flight.

Rampaging epidemics
CHAOS WORST DANGER IN A NUCLEAR ATTACK

OTTAWA (CP) — If a nuclear attack should be launched against Canada, the most fearful toll might well result from causes other than blast, heat and radiation.

Combined, these three highly-publicized hazards could take fewer lives than rampaging epidemics caused by the breakdown of public health and sanitation facilities, say federal officials.

About Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Tele-hour-long golf show, NBC has vision's once - sacred Sunday afternoon culture klatch has been quietly disbanded. But, strangely enough, a lot of television's sternest critics inside and outside the industry don't know it.

More than anything else, it indicates that many of them don't watch much television or they would know that what used to be called "egghead shows" now are thoroughly dispersed in the networks' evening schedules.

Both CBS and ABC have long sports "spectaculars" on Sundays, each devoted to a different game. CBS follows with an

GET LATE SPOTS

Whether from fear of Washington interference or a genuine desire to balance their programming content, all three networks have been putting frequent public service shows into valuable evening spots on the schedule — where most of them have been taking bad lickings in audience polls from rival entertainment programs.

Most of the programs that gave Sunday afternoons their reputation for uplift have died from sheer, uncomplicated neglect by the viewing audience. Omnibus, for instance, was given every possible chance by the networks before it went down for the count.

Last season NBC had a disastrous experience with a high-level debate show, The Nation's Future, which drove so many viewers to CBS that its competing westerns hit the peak of the popularity polls.

CARNIVAL

By Dick Turner

"What do you have for a father who insisted he wasn't too old to learn the Twist?"

Derby Line couple feted on diamond anniversary

DERBY LINE — The home of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Selby was the scene on New Year's Day of a delightful event, when a family gathering and dinner took place honoring Mr. Selby's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Orry Selby, on their 60th wedding anniversary.

The home was prettily decorated for the occasion and the table with New Year's decor. The dinner included a tiered anniversary cake, made and decorated by Mrs. Lloyd Selby, and topped with a miniature bride and groom.

The bride and groom of the sunset years were presented with a bouquet of roses from their sons and wives, Mrs. Selby with a corsage of red Sweetheart roses and Mr. Selby with a carnation boutonniere from their grandchildren as well as other bouquets of flowers and numerous congratulatory cards, and gifts of money.

A poem, composed by Lloyd Selby, was read by Miss Suzanne Comeau, this being a tribute to the couple and touched upon their 60 years of life together, its blessings and happiness.

Attending were the couple's four sons, Howard S. Selby, Mrs. Selby and Vaughan, Lynndown, Dalton Selby, and Mrs. Selby, Derby, Homer Dean, Holland, Lloyd Selby, Cleland and Jane, Mrs. Richard Wood, a sister of the groom, who was bridesmaid at the wedding, Mrs. Earl Jacobs, sister of the bride and Miss Comeau, of Canterbury, N.H., fiancée of Cleland Selby, whose engagement had been announced on Dec. 30.

Mr. and Mrs. Selby have seven grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Orry Selby and Mary Elizabeth Cleveland were married on Jan. 1, 1902, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Cleveland, in Barnston. They began their married life on a farm in South Barnston, later moving to West Holland, and to Holland Center. Of their 60 years in about 45 were spent on a farm in Holland. After retiring they came to reside in Derby Line.

The honored couple expressed appreciation to all for the pleasure given them on their diamond anniversary.

Holiday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Gedeon Gagne were Mr. and Mrs. Y. Robillard and family, Miss Edna Gagne and Mr. Herbie Gagne, all of Sherbrooke, and Mr. Leonard Gagne, of Baie Comeau.

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Arthur Miller is at work on his first full-length play in nine years.

Miller was willing to talk because of his enthusiasm for the film version of A View from the Bridge, taken from his one-act play which was produced in 1955 and later expanded.

"I think it's very good," he admitted. "It's the best of the films produced on the basis of any of my plays."

A View from the Bridge reversed the trend of usual film-making. Interiors were filmed in English and French in Paris, and locations were shot during three rainy weeks in Brooklyn. Miller said producer Paul Graetz and director Sidney Lumet did the film without his aid, except in casting matters.

The leading actors are Italian Raf Vallone, Maureen Stapleton and Carol Lawrence.

I asked the playwright for opinions on his other plays filmed (dates are play debuts on Broadway).

All My Sons (1947)—"Just all right. I never got any enthusiasm over it."

Death of a Salesman (1949)—"I didn't like it. They made him (Willy Loman) seem mad from the start. Nobody wants to see a drama about someone who knows is mad. Also there were technical matters I didn't like, but that is theatre talk."

The Crucible (1953)—"I liked it, but not as much as A View from the Bridge. Both were produced by Frenchman Graetz."

Miller's sole screen play was The Misfits, the only major work he produced during his five years of marriage to Marilyn Monroe. Some critics termed it minor.

His reaction to The Misfits? "That's hard to say, because I have nothing to judge it against—there was no play version. But the finished film was not the vision that I had."

He said he planned no more screen plays. "They take too much time—two years," he explained. "I think I will stay in the theatre."

He is working seven days out of 10 at his home at Rosbury, Conn., on the new play, as yet untitled. Some days he gets eight hours of work done, some days two.

He said the new play concerns contemporary America.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy LeRoux entertained at dinner on Christmas Day, Mr. and Mrs. D. Kerr, Danville, Miss Jean Kerr, of Montreal, and Mr. and Mrs. Andrew LeRoux.

Judge opposes granting of easy bail

COWANSVILLE. — (Staff) — Justice Louis-Philippe Cliche, of the Bedford and St. Francis Districts Superior Courts categorically opposed the granting of easy bail for persons brought before the courts, when he was questioned by the Record Wednesday.

The general rule that has always been applied at Sherbrooke and Sherbrooke is to grant bail to no one until they have at least had their preliminary hearing, Justice Cliche said.

"As far as I am concerned," the judge of 10-years experience said, "I don't grant bail until after the hearing and then sometimes I don't even then."

He said that persons detained in connection with offences should await their trial in jail, and did not consider this an injustice to the accused should he then be found not guilty.

"I have been a judge here for the past 10 years," he said, "and I have never heard of a judge in either Bedford or St. Francis district who has granted an accused bail before his preliminary hearing."

In many instances at Montreal however, it has been known that as soon as an accused is arraigned, bail is set.

When queried about Montreal's court procedures, Justice Cliche said that Montreal had a slightly different problem than country courts have.

Many of the accused appearing before Montreal courts have criminal records while here in the country most people appearing before the courts are first offenders, the judge said.

Preparedness is common sense

Lt. Col. Douglas W. Ward, commanding officer of the Sherbrooke Regiment, Wednesday night gave a speech entitled "Shelter or Not to Shelter," at the Sherbrooke Snow Shoe Club.

Lt. Col. Ward stated: "The business of preparedness is only common sense," and suggested that people read more information available about nuclear attacks to be ready when the time comes.

The Commanding officer stressed the necessity of preparing fallout shelters and military alertness in time of disaster. He spoke at the club's annual armed services night.

A presentation of colors was made by Syd Hart, Fred Bilton and Alfred Simpson, of the Canadian Legion at the opening of the meeting.

A short memorial service followed the meeting with the reading by Ernie Kimmis and

Sherbrooke man Negligence is 1st case in Assizes

A 23-year-old Sherbrooke youth, Andre Brousseau, was the first person to be arraigned during the present term of the Sherbrooke Criminal Assizes. The young man was scheduled to appear on a charge of criminal negligence at the wheel of his car.

Brousseau, who has been in prison since September 29 last, was the owner and driver of a car in which young Claude Boucher, 15, of Sherbrooke, was killed last September 24. The car careened off the highway leading to Beauvoir at about one mile from Bromptonville.

In a case of criminal negligence in which a person is killed, the accused has no option. Following his preliminary hearing, Brousseau was ordered to stand trial on the criminal negligence charge which was laid by a coroner's inquest the following Monday.

Boucher, 15-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Boucher, 245 Alexander street, Sherbrooke, was instantly killed when he was pinned under the car.

ST. HYACINTHE: The men were taken into custody by Constable A. Denault of Sherbrooke late Tuesday night in Eastman after the constable spotted a car answering the description of the vehicle that the St. Hyacinthe Provincial Police had sent.

Constable Denault said the two men did not offer resistance. Police said that the two men were not armed but had about $2,000 in their possession, at the time of their arrest.

Sgt. Ralph Allen, head of the St. Hyacinthe police branch and they arrived late Tuesday night to pick up the men. The robbery occurred early Tuesday evening when three masked and armed men walked into the local caisse populaire in the small community about 15 miles east of Actonville, tied up the bank manager and escaped with $4,000 in cash.

The manager, Jacques Lamarche managed to free himself 10 minutes later and contacted the police. According to Lamarche there were three men who walked into the bank and possibly a fourth waiting in the escape car.

St. Hyacinthe police are now conducting investigations as to the whereabouts of the other two men.

Level crossings need better marking

A coroner's inquest held in Cowansville last weekend recommended that the railways install illuminated signals at all level crossings in the province.

The inquest was probing into the death of a Sweetsburg man, killed when the grader he was driving was struck by a CPR train at a West Shefford level crossing.

The suggestion made by the inquest jury is not a new one, but it bears repeating until such time as something is done.

Fatal level crossing accidents in this province are all too numerous. They are, in fact, among the most grisly commonplaces regularly in the news in Quebec.

Their frequency, and the fact that so often, they are apparently inexplicable are the best proof that present arrangements for marking many level crossings are not adequate.

In the West Shefford accident, the engineer of the train testified that he blew the train's whistle and had the train's headlight on about a quarter of a mile before the crossing. Yet, the collision still occurred.

Graders being the kind of vehicles they are, it is entirely possible the victim neither heard, nor saw the train approaching, and in the absence of any other warning, assumed it was safe to cross.

Flashing lights at the West Shefford crossing may have prevented the tragedy.

It is true of course, that level crossing accidents do occur at places where proper warning devices function. The human factor in driving will always be present, and cannot be completely guarded against.

But the chances of someone being killed at an inadequately marked crossing are too great to be gambled on.

The drawback to entertaining a crowd is lugging the dishes back to where you borrowed them from.

Margarine output overtakes butter

Statistics compiled for November, 1961, provide little comfort for the hard-pressed Canadian butter industry, indicating that the production of margarine is rapidly equalling that of butter in Canada.

For November, the production of margarine amounted to 18,146,000 pounds or an increase of twenty-two per cent over the corresponding month of 1960. In the same month, November, 1961, production of creamery butter was 21,660,000 pounds.

At first glance, these figures might indicate that the majority of Canadians still favor butter to margarine. But this conclusion is deceptive.

The actual test of popularity is consumption. And here the odds are all in favor of margarine. Apparently factories only produce margarine in sufficient quantities to meet immediate demand, with stocks on hand December amounting to barely five million pounds or eight days' supply.

On the other hand, a large part of the butter was sent into storage under the government support program.

With the demand for margarine increasing from month to month, largely because of the great price advantage it enjoys over butter, it is obvious the government and the dairy industry must evolve a more realistic price structure for butter.

The price support system, devised to meet a supposed temporary emergency, has only aggravated the situation by increasing the tremendous surpluses already held by the government.

If the price differential were reduced to ten or fifteen cents, the demand for butter should increase substantially.

But who will foot the bill?

Spring styles are showing and the more change in women's clothes the less in men's.

Watching the weather a new hobby?

The weatherman has been forced to broaden his field of work, according to a recent report from the United States.

In addition to being a forecaster—a privilege which he wrested from people with weather-sensitive lumbago—he must now be something of a librarian and director of a weather-data mail order house.

The U.S. Weather Bureau's National Weather Records Center at Asheville, N.C., says it receives about 20,000 requests each year for information about past weather.

Over 525,000 copies of publications, 450,000 miscellaneous copies of weather data and over half a million feet of microfilmed data were sent out by the center.

No reason is given for this inordinate public interest in old weather, but it may be the start of a whole new fad.

Perhaps, we will see clubs springing up across North America with such names as Fair Weather Friends, Precipitation Pr' Low Ceiling Sighters, Cold Front Colleagues, Forecast Fanciers—the possibilities, like the weather are unpredictable.

Other papers say:

Communism here is like an iceberg

Are Canadians too easy on Communists? Are Americans too tough?

This question must be going through a good many minds as we watch our neighbors across the line start chasing their Reds underground. In this country we take a fine tolerant attitude toward our fellow travellers. A good many of us say we don't discriminate between races, religions or political parties and that we shouldn't do so in the case of Communists just because they hold different beliefs.

Besides, it is better to let the Reds operate freely where we can see them and keep tab on them. Why make them register as Russian agents under an Internal Security Act when all this does is make them take to cover?

All this has a fine, democratic ring about it. But it seems to us the time has arrived when we should assess the situation more realistically. The plain fact is that whether the Reds are obliged to register, or whether they are allowed to go their free-wheeling way, the key people in their organization always stay under cover.

In this respect North American communism is very much like an iceberg. Most of it lies under the surface. Party "front men" do their spelling and agitating, paid malcontents parade and petition, but the real directors of the movement stay under cover.

These are the men who should be exposed. They are the master traitors who decide where and when the Reds should take advantage of our gullibility and our love or personal freedom which makes it so easy for them to try to undermine our system.

Registration or no registration, the mass of the communist iceberg stays below the surface. If we are going to expose it and deal with it we will have to do more than chase Red messenger boys and front men.

PCs feeling bitter

Government gets all the gravy; civil servants get the blame

Many federal Progressive Conservatives are bitter towards the senior men in the civil service.

This is neither guessing nor gossiping nor agitation on my part. A conviction grips backbench MPs that the ineptitudes, the misfortunes large and small, which have befallen their government are mainly ascribable to civil servants. Through cunning or collusion or being non-committal, these officials have balked the fine intent of the party.

The Diefenbaker win was total; he was unusually free to act, to change, to demote, to fire, to bring in new blood. If many PCs believe the administration is "riddled" or "fat" with Liberal party supporters, why hadn't something drastic been done about it?

The explanations are usually rather lame. "We wanted to be fair" or "The Chief didn't want to terrorize the civil service like R. B. Bennett."

WHATEVER THE FUROR over departures such as Coyne, relatively few top officials have left the federal service. More striking, only one top man has been whisked into a senior post from outside the service.

James Roberts, now deputy to George Hees, was called in several years ago by a suspicious Gordon Churchill. Roberts was an open party stalwart from Toronto. Shortly after his arrival as associate deputy, Roberts moved up to the deputy slot, where to quote Mr. Hees: "He's a terrific success," or to quote another civil servant "Roberts hasn't been the disaster we anticipated."

IT IS ASTOUNDING. Only one open Tory to get a job of substance in the permanent administration. Some plums in judicial, crown corporation, and commission work have gone to party-liners, but where it really counts — only one!

When Mr. Diefenbaker slipped Arnold Heene out of the Civil Service Commission to the Washington embassy he replaced him with a Conservative judge, Sam Hughes. But what an analogue to party chafe! In his speeches, comments, and committee evidence, Judge Hughes makes a fetish of neutrality and non-partisanship, not only for himself and the Commission, but for all civil servants.

We know from international affairs that neutrality breeds suspicion. Last year the stew of it was so warm along Commons corridors that I phoned a number of ministers and civil servants about it.

HAD THEY THE impression that Conservative backbenchers distrusted the civil service? Each confirmed his awareness of the feelings, and then set out to discount them. They didn't apply to his department. Each minister contacted, with one exception, insisted he had excellent advisers whom he trusted. David Walker put it typically: "They're clean as a whistle or I'd fire them. I've a great staff."

A politician's comments are easier to come by than those of a senior civil servant. The latter may acknowledge the existence of Tory bitterness but calls it mistaken or the error of green men who misunderstand the function of a public official or the nature of the modern civil service.

IN MOST CASES, I found the civil servant would praise his own minister highly but leave the impression that this was a rare talent.

Several ministers see merit in the U.S. practice where each new executive brings in his own key men or task force. Unfortunately, it is not that easy in Canada.

ONE SARDONIC MINISTER said: "Neither in big business nor in universities can we find many men who are loyal Conservatives and suitable for top jobs. Frankly, most university men who could convert most readily to government service are Liberal or CCF in sympathy."

He went on with the view that the distaste among the majority of the civil service for the Government was largely a reaction to the PM, rather than to the cabinet as individuals. This might have been met by ruthlessness in the first year or so.

PERHAPS THE LARGEST irony I met in checking this theme was that the most praiseworthy and respected minister to the civil servants is — Donald Fleming. This man whom recent speculation said was to be shifted out by the PM really has the confidence of the top bureaucracy.

A basic dilemma of Canadian politics is embedded in this predicament of the Government as party vis-a-vis the Government as civil service.

None of the parties has a cadre of able men available for senior administrative posts. Until such cadres exist, each new government of any stripe must put inordinate dependence on civil servants for ideas and policy.

Credit taken for Canadian work

Radio-active strontium removed

By JOHN E. BIRD

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian government scientist read the American news report and put it on his desk with a sigh of resignation.

The report was one of a number published recently, announcing that U.S. scientists have found a way to remove radio-active strontium-90 from milk. The process talked about in this news report was developed under direction of Dr. B. B. Migicovsky, chief of the biochemistry and nutrition animal research institute of the federal agriculture department. He announced it in Ottawa early in 1959.

The work was done under auspices of the agriculture department. Dr. Migicovsky developed the method to the point where a pilot plant could have been built. However, the Canadian government decided against further development work and the process was turned over to the U.S. department of agriculture.

The American scientists are using this Canadian process in an attempt to develop facilities for removing strontium-90 from milk on a commercial basis in the event such action ever should become necessary.

Dr. Migicovsky has received credit for his work in scientific journals. However, recent news reports from the United States persist in giving credit for the development to American scientists.

Strontium-90 is an isotope produced by nuclear explosions. After it falls to earth from the stratosphere and settles on plant life, it enters the human body via the food chain.

A sufficient quantity of strontium-90 deposited in the bone can cause cancer.

Present levels of strontium-90 in the world are so minute they can hardly be measured. As a result there is no present need to remove strontium-90 from any food products.

Dr. Migicovsky tackled the problem that would relate to milk in the event of a nuclear explosion. Either could cause contamination of milk.

He developed a highly technical filtering process which leaves treated milk relatively unchanged with respect to composition and flavor. The method involves the use of certain chemicals known technically as ion-exchange resins.

The federal government decided against pilot - plant development work because of the high costs involved. When the U.S. learned that no more work was to be done in Canada it offered to take over the task of developing a pilot plant in the hope that this would lead to development of a commercially feasible process.

This work now is being conducted by the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission, the U.S. public health service and the U.S. department of agriculture out-

Gerald Waring REPORTING

OTTAWA — Indonesia's decision to use force in its dispute with the Netherlands over West New Guinea raises the question of Canada's attitude towards a government that so rashly puts world peace in jeopardy.

Admittedly the thought of losing Colombo Plan aid from Canada would not stay President Sukarno's hand. Admittedly the Indonesians morally are no more wrong than were the Indians in conquering Portuguese Goa, and Canada did nothing to reprove Prime Minister Nehru. But strong Canadian disapproval of Indonesia's aggressive course might help persuade Sukarno to think again, in spite of his bitter assertion that he cares not for world opinion.

If Indonesia's victory in Dutch New Guinea were sure to be as quick, complete and bloodless as the Indian coup at Goa, the issue would be only a moral one. But the success of an Indonesian invasion of New Guinea is by no means certain. The Dutch forces will not be a pushover. The invasion could be a fiasco, like last year's assault on Cuba, or it could turn into long drawn out fighting in jungles, swamps and mountains.

The danger of the conflagration spreading would be great. The Dutch could unleash retaliatory attacks on Indonesia, but this does not appear likely in view of popular attitudes in the Netherlands and international political realities. The Dutch people have no heart for a war against their former colonies, and the might and power of the United States also would be against this course.

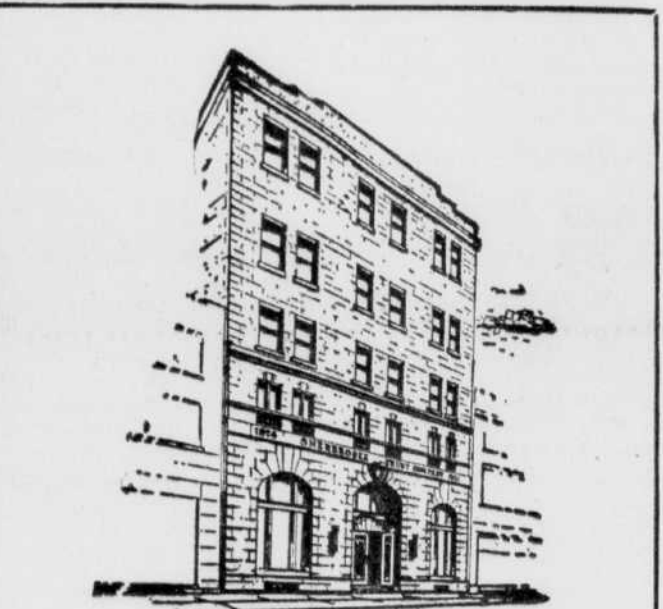

The greater danger is that if Indonesia's assault were to fail or bog down, the Communist bloc might come to Sukarno's assistance with weapons and "volunteers".

This would immediately promote the conflict from a war of colonial independence to an East-West war. It would enhance fears in the non-Communist nations of the South Pacific, including Australia, of a Communist takeover in Indonesia. It would be difficult to keep such a war localized.

Canadians are so detached from this part of the world that few know the basic facts of the dispute, and fewer can sort out the rights and wrongs of a situation in which neither the Dutch case nor the Indonesian case is all right or all wrong.

The Indonesians regard the accession of West Irian (Dutch New Guinea) as the completion of their 1945-49 war of independence. They won't negotiate except on the terms of their takeover of the disputed territory.

African nations support Indonesia. They were indifferent towards this dispute until they learned that the natives of New Guinea have black skins. But it is precisely because the Papuans are blacks that the Dutch refuse to hand them over to the brown-skinned Indonesians.

Bank president:

New world emerging from post-war period

The 87th annual general meeting of National Canadian Bank was held in Montreal, on Tuesday, January 9, under the chairmanship of Mr. Wilfrid Gagnon, chairman of the Board. Mr. Ulric Roberge, president of the bank, paid a tribute to the member of Mr. Auguste Desilets, Q.C., who passed away at Grand-Mere on October 20 last. "Mr. Desilets," he said "was the dean of the bank's board of directors of which he had been a member for twenty-five years, and he always served the interests of the bank with an untiring devotion." At the beginning of this new year, remarked Mr. Roberge, there are several indications of an improvement in business conditions, but in 1961 the recuperation has not been as substantial as we had hoped. An inadequate increase in employment has had results which are the more serious because it coincides with an ever-growing labor force. The contrast between unemployment in North America and full employment in several European countries reveals that a new world is beginning to emerge from the post-war period. The evolution of Europe, which began about ten years ago, is a new chapter in the economic history of the world. When the Marshall Plan had paved the way for the recovery of Western Europe, several nations soon realized that, despite the upward trend, they could not face world competition except by integrating in vast units. Hence the formation of the European Steel and Coal Community and, a few years later, the establishment of the European Economic Community, the Common Market. The United Kingdom, which solicited its admission to the European Economic Community, is carrying out negotiations which will probably lead to the breaking up of the Commonwealth as an economic bloc. The displacement of the traditional trends of international trade will compel most countries of the free world to revise their commercial policies. Thus, President Kennedy is going to ask Congress for very extensive powers to negotiate the lowering of tariffs in favor of Europe. Moreover, President Kennedy has for a long-term objective the gradual integration of the United States in an Atlantic Community which could not exclude our country. Whatever policy Ottawa will deem it advisable to adopt, it must take into consideration the changing conditions of the world economy. The Common Market countries have available today an improved equipment and a vast domestic market. In Asia, in Africa and in South America, underdeveloped countries are witnessing an inflow of foreign capital for the exploitation, at little expense, of their tremendous potential resources. Several of these countries are in process of being industrialized thanks to outside technical and financial assistance. The scarcity of a great number of manufactured goods and of raw products has given place to surpluses. Therefore, among the most urgent questions which we will have to solve, without any doubt the outstanding one is that of cost prices.

building college facilities. Kennedy said the last 12 months have been marked by both successes and setbacks. In that period, "our military posture has steadily improved... the peace-keeping strength of the United Nations was reinforced... the united strength of the Atlantic community has flourished."

UNITY STRENGTHENED

"Thus," Kennedy said, "we in the free world are moving steadily toward unity and co-operation, in the teeth of the old Bolshevik prophecy, and at the very time when extraordinary rumbles of discord can be heard across the Iron Curtain. It is not free societies which bear within them the seeds of inevitable disunity."

Kennedy recalled saying on his inauguration that few generations had been granted the role of defender of freedom in its hour of maximum danger.

"This is our good fortune," he said today, "and I welcome it now as I did a year ago."

Delay in establishing a new trade policy after the present Reciprocal Trade Act expires this year would cut off the U.S. from its major allies, handicapping industries, farmers, consumers and workers.

"The United States did not rise to greatness by waiting for the world to lead. This nation is the world's foremost manufacturer, farmer, banker, consumer and exporter. The Common Market is moving ahead. The Communist economic offensive is under way. The opportunity is ours—the initiative is up to us—and the time is now."

Designers open five new dress houses in Paris

By PEGGY MASSIN

PARIS (Reuters)—It should be an exciting January in the Paris fashion world.

Five new dress houses will open in the fashion capital—including two run by designers who have already attained worldwide recognition.

The established personalities taking the plunge in new ventures are Roberto Capucci and Yves St. Laurent, one-time golden boy of the fashion world. St. Laurent, now 25, took over at Christian Dior after the famed designer died in 1957. When he went into the French army and suffered a nervous breakdown, he was replaced by Marc Bohan as head of Dior.

Bohan's success in showing his fall collection last year confirmed him in his new post and St. Laurent now has opened his

The other three designers launching new houses are Philipe Venet, Jean-Marie Armand and Michel Tellin.

Venet was once right-hand man to Hubert de Givenchy; Armand was an assistant at Nina Ricci and Madeline de Ricci and Madeline de Rauch, and Tellin was a well-known assistant designer in Paris.

Financial experts in the couture syndicate and leading buying offices here already are speculating on whether there is enough business to support five new firms in Paris.

Before the war, the major turnover of the couture houses came from the custom of private clients. Today, professional buyers far outrank the handful of women who can afford to buy original models in the famous Paris dressmaking houses.

St. Laurent's staff includes 70 workers, together with sales staff and six models. He intends to keep his firm working on a relatively small scale, and will specialize in the gay young fashions which he made famous at Christian Dior.

St. Laurent opens his first independent collection Jan. 23. Fashion experts here expect him to make the biggest fashion comeback since Chanel reopened her salon five years ago.

CONFIDENTIALLY YOURS

—by Byrne Hope Sanders

MONTREAL, January 11th—How much is that fur coat in the window? Seasonal reductions are now in full swing, so now's the time to get your coat out of the furrier's window and onto your back. You can finance the coat of your choice right now under the BANK OF MONTREAL Family Finance Plan. To borrow under this low-cost, life-insured plan, all you need is the ability to repay—and payments can be spread over two, or even three, years. Whether it's a new fur coat or something else you need, chances are you can get it with a B of M Family Finance Plan loan. Why not drop into your neighbourhood branch of "My Bank" soon?

DO YOU SPEND THE DAY cooking, cleaning, and shopping? Well, I've found the most pleasant remedy for "four o'clock fatigue". You'll actually feel the tensions of the day disappear in a warm bath, delightfully scented and conditioned with CALGON BOUQUET. You'll call it "Heavenly". Your bath water feels wonderfully "silky"; your ordinary bath soap lathers luxuriously, rinses away cleanly. Nothing relaxes me like a Calgon Bouquet bath, and, furthermore, it leaves no "bathtub ring". If you keep half as busy as I, you owe yourself the inexpensive luxury of a daily Calgon Bouquet bath. P.S.—and it doesn't need to be at four o'clock!

IN THE KITCHEN, IN THE BATHROOM, in the laundry . . . save extra steps by keeping a bar of SUNLIGHT SOAP always handy in each of these rooms. You can afford to! . . . Sunlight, the complete cleaning bar, costs less than any other bar soap or cleaner . . . and does so many jobs so well. It's perfect for extra soiled collars and cuffs—they come beautifully clean when rubbed with Sunlight before dunking in the washing machine—mild on the hands and gentle to fabrics, yet does a good hard-working job. That's because Sunlight Soap is all soap—guaranteed pure and undiluted. Ask for it in the handy, twin-bar pack. . . I know you'll agree it's the most economical cleaner in the house!

SWEET AND SIMPLE with Sherriff—make your own homemade maple syrup with SHERRIFF IMITATION MAPLE EXTRACT. Use it to top Sunday morning pancakes, pour it over hotcakes or spoon it over vanilla ice cream. It has that extra touch of true flavour only Sherriff Extract could give! That's Sherriff—the quick way to better flavour.

Homemade Maple Syrup Mix together 2 cups granulated sugar, 1 cup of hot water and $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon of Sherriff Imitation Maple Extract. Boil for 2-3 minutes, then cool. Makes 2 cups syrup.

AN ALL-CANADIAN FAVOURITE . . . and no wonder! I'm sure your family will agree with mine . . . RED RIVER CEREAL has everything! It's as delicious as it's nourishing, with a delightful nut-like flavour. And just between us, mother, active youngsters and oldsters alike need the extra energy values provided by Red River Cereal. And they love its wholesome blend of cracked wheat, rye and flax.

Red River is so easy to prepare . . . cooks in just a few minutes. It's no wonder that the fame of Red River Cereal is spreading around new thousands of happy Canadian breakfast tables every morning of the year!

I'VE FOUND THAT WHEN I SERVE WINE at dinner . . . that even a quite ordinary meal suddenly becomes a festive occasion. And my favorite of all wines is Bright's MANOR ST. DAVIDS Claret, a delightful "wine of the country" available at a low enough price so that all of us can enjoy it, often. You too, I know, will be proud to serve this good Canadian red table wine. You will find Manor St. Davids Claret is a wonderfully pleasant wine which is particularly delicious when served with steaks, chops, hamburgers—red meat of any kind. Let Manor St. Davids Claret give your meals that festive, gourmet touch!

Social and Personal

Mr. Ronald Garfat, has returned to Portland, Ontario, after spending some time with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Garfat, Spring Road, Lennoxville.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Langevin and children, Judy and Keith of North Hatley were recent guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Sargent, Rock Island. Miss Judy Langevin spent a few days of her Christmas holidays in Cookshire as a guest of her cousin, Miss Colleen Matthews.

Today's thought

If you want knowledge you must toil for it; and if pleasure you must toil for it. Toil is the law. Pleasure comes through toil, and not by self-indulgence and indolence. When one gets to love work, his life is a happy one. (Ruskin)

Food Tips

Fruit cake slices best when it's quite cold. First refrigerate the cake, then use a sharp, straight-edged, thin-bladed knife for cutting—never a saw edge. Dip the knife into hot water before each cut, and slice with a slow sawing motion. Do not try to cut the cake into wafer-thin slices.

Fashion Tips

If you own a charm bracelet, don't be in a hurry to collect charms for it. Take your time; hunt for the really unusual. Some shops make charms to order.

Junk shops yield others; stickpins, odd earrings and seals, for instance. You'll be rewarded with a really handsome bracelet.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

TRUMPS: TO PULL OR NOT TO PULL

Legend has it that 10,000 men are walking the streets of London with no soles on their shoes because they failed to pull trumps. My guess is that at least twice that number are walking the streets of New York in the same dilapidated condition because they pulled trumps too soon.

A trump opening by West and subsequent trump leads by East every time he got the lead would have defeated the four spade contract in spite of all South could do about it, but West opened the king of hearts (you can't really criticize that opening), and South should have made the hand by the simple expedient of winning the trick and playing the ace and another diamond immediately. After that start the defense would have had no way to keep South from ruffing his last two diamonds in dummy and five trump tricks, plus two ruffs, plus three side aces adds up to ten.

Unfortunately from the North-South standpoint, South was one of those players who believed that trumps should be pulled immediately. He won the ace of hearts and promptly cashed the ace and king of spades. Then he looked around, saw that he would have to ruff two diamonds and went after that suit, but was too late. East won the second diamond and led his last trump and since only one diamond ruff was possible, South was down one.

CARD SENSE

Q—The bidding has been: West North East South 1 Club Dble. Pass 2 Clubs Pass 2 Spades Pass 4 Spades Pass 5 Hearts Pass ?

You, South, hold: Spades Q-6-5-4, Hearts Q-6-5-4, Diamonds A-K-2, Clubs 7-3.

A—Bid five spades only. You cannot afford to show your diamond control at the six level, because you have two potential club losers.

Vics meet Beavers tonight, Olympics at Drumville

Locals and Montreal deadlocked for third spot, Rockets will be seeking revenge, Olympics have new players

Granby Vics will be gunning for revenge this evening when they tangle with the Sherbrooke Beavers at the local arena. On their last trip here the Vics were down to a 5-2 loss at the hands of the Dube squad.

In the other fixture on tap the unpredictable Olympics of Montreal will journey to Drummondville to clash with the second-place Rockets. Third place in the E. T. Intermediate Hockey League is at stake as the Beavers and the Olympics are deadlocked in the standing and with only nine games remaining to be played both clubs will be battling to try and earn a victory.

The Beavers will be out to try and duplicate their win they posted over the Vics last week when they stopped the league-leading Granby crew 5-2. It is the fourth visit of the Bedard club here and they have only one more before the end of the schedule.

Coach Dube plans to use the same lineup which stopped the Vics last week. The only doubtful starter for the Beavers is Luc Gregoire, who is in Montreal on business, but Coach Dube is hoping he will be back in time.

Gilles Dube will pivot Albert Moore and Roger Picard while Rejean Hamelin will work between Real Rousseau and Ray St. Cyr with the third line having Marc Bouvrette filling in at centre between the two young stars, Claude Gendreau and Louis Arpin. On the blueline it will be Bourassa, Gregoire, a Black, Bourbonnais and the new addition Armand Lemaire.

Frank Mahovich paces Maple Leafs to 7-5 win over Bruins, take on Canadiens in big game tonight

Toronto Maple Leafs finally have attained what coach Punch Imlach insists is their destiny, sole possession of first place in the National Hockey League.

They made it Wednesday night by slapping down Boston Bruins 7-5 on a pair of late goals by young Dave Keon.

The win gave them a one-point edge over the idle Montreal Canadiens and set the stage for a meeting between the two teams in Montreal tonight.

It shapes up as the game of the year as far as coach Toe Blake of the Habs is concerned.

"If we let the Leafs get the jump on us, they'll be hard to catch for the league championship," he says. "In other words, we'll be in trouble if we lose tonight."

The Leafs were given a battle by the Bruins before 13,012 fans at Toronto.

They never trailed but couldn't hold a lead until Keon scored on a low 20-foot shot at 15:45 of the third period and sewed up the game with his second goal three minutes later.

The goals were the 21-year-old centre's 14th and 15th of the season.

BUYS HIS OWN GIFT
Frank Mahovich, celebrating his 24th birthday, also scored twice for the Leafs, his 19th and 20th goals, making him the third player to reach the 20-goal mark this season.

Bob Nevin, Eddie Litzenberger and Dick Duff also scored for the Leafs.

Boston got its goals from Doug Mohns, Cliff Pennington, Don McKenney, Jerry Toppazzini and Dick Meissner.

About the only consolation the Canadiens could derive from the Toronto win was the five goals allowed by Leaf goalie Johnny Bower.

They gave Montreal's Jacques Plante a three-goal lead over the Toronto veteran in the race for the Vezina Trophy—awarded to the goalie who plays the most games for the team that allows the fewest goals.

Plante, who won this trophy five consecutive seasons before Bower took it last year, has given up 93 goals in 39 outings for a 2.38 goals-against average. Bower has been touched for

YWCA posts win over Bishop's

Y.W.C.A. rolled to an impressive 36-20 victory over Bishop's University girls in a regular fixture of the E.T. Women's Basketball Association.

The Y girls jumped into an early lead and set the pace the whole way. At half-time they were out in front 21-8 and dropped 15 more in the hoop while their opponents scored 12 to finish on the long end of a 36-20 count.

D. Wielgus and T. Bennett paced the winners with 17 points each while R. Muir notched the other two. For the losers J. Dando was tops with seven while A. Fitzgerald picked up six with J. Woodard four and N. Knapp three.

Y.W.C.A.: D. Wielgus (17), T. Bennett (17), R. Muir (2), V. Rawlings, L. Sawyer, D. Hodge, G. Reid, J. Cathcart, J. O'Connor, L. Morin. Total—20.

Bishop's: J. Dando (7), A. Fitzgerald (6), J. Woodard (4), N. Knapp (3), S. Linwinko, A. MacInnis, N. Turke, A. Warner, J. Turner, A. Collins, C. Donald, J. McMoran, D. Holt, J. Evans, E. Howie. Total—20.

Paper Makers play Asbestos while Braves travel to Border tonight, each team allowed one new player

Action in the St-Francis Valley Intermediate Hockey League continues tonight with two games on tap.

Windsor Paper Makers travel to Asbestos to take on the Miners and the Richmond Braves will play the Rock Island Jets at the Border Arena. Both games are slated for 8:30.

Second place in the league standings will be at stake when the Paper Makers play the Miners. The Asbestos team is now in second place with a slim one point lead over Maurice Bachand's squad. Coupled with a Richmond loss at Rock Island, both the Miners and Paper Makers could take over the coveted top spot, with a victory.

The Paper Makers seem to be in the best position in the league at the moment. All teams have played more games than Windsor, but still the Paper Makers are in third place, only two points behind the league-leading Richmond Braves. The Windsor team has come up with a 6-3 victory over the Miners earlier in the season and will certainly be looking for a victory tomorrow night.

The Miners, however, will provide no easy two points for the hungry Paper Makers. The Jets who have lost some squeakers in the last couple of weeks are surely due for a victory and nothing would please them better than to have it come over the league leaders.

The Braves will be out to add to their slim one point lead at the top of the standings. If they lose tonight's game against the Border team they will no longer be perched at the top of the pole. If they lose over Asbestos the Braves will be tied with the Paper Makers.

Each of the five teams of the St-Francis Valley Intermediate Hockey League has received the right to acquire a new player for the remaining games of the season. This was brought out last night at a league meeting held in Sherbrooke.

Enjoy Skiing

By ANNE HEGGTVET

Many pleasure skiers often ask: Why don't racers ski parallel? The answer is that they do. However, a racer must be an opportunist. If he can devise a manoeuvre that will give him more speed or put him in a more advantageous position to negotiate a turn that is ahead, he will do so.

SPLIT SKIS

For example, a competitor running open gates will often separate his skis as he passes a pole. He allows his inside ski to run freely upward while the downhill or outside ski continues in its arc. When the skis form this angle, the weight is shifted up to the inside ski bringing the lower one with it.

As the skis are once again parallel, a strong double-pole push provides acceleration and facilitates execution of the following turn.

This manoeuvre is known as skating. It is done so that the racer's position to the following set of flags will be high. In other words, he will have plenty of room to complete the following turn correctly. If the skate is left out, he will grad-

Paper Makers play Asbestos while Braves travel to Border tonight, each team allowed one new player

Action in the St-Francis Valley Intermediate Hockey League continues tonight with two games on tap.

Windsor Paper Makers travel to Asbestos to take on the Miners and the Richmond Braves will play the Rock Island Jets at the Border Arena. Both games are slated for 8:30.

Second place in the league standings will be at stake when the Paper Makers play the Miners. The Asbestos team is now in second place with a slim one point lead over Maurice Bachand's squad. Coupled with a Richmond loss at Rock Island, both the Miners and Paper Makers could take over the coveted top spot, with a victory.

The Paper Makers seem to be in the best position in the league at the moment. All teams have played more games than Windsor, but still the Paper Makers are in third place, only two points behind the league-leading Richmond Braves. The Windsor team has come up with a 6-3 victory over the Miners earlier in the season and will certainly be looking for a victory tomorrow night.

The Miners, however, will provide no easy two points for the hungry Paper Makers. The Jets who have lost some squeakers in the last couple of weeks are surely due for a victory and nothing would please them better than to have it come over the league leaders.

The Braves will be out to add to their slim one point lead at the top of the standings. If they lose tonight's game against the Border team they will no longer be perched at the top of the pole. If they lose over Asbestos the Braves will be tied with the Paper Makers.

Each of the five teams of the St-Francis Valley Intermediate Hockey League has received the right to acquire a new player for the remaining games of the season. This was brought out last night at a league meeting held in Sherbrooke.

Enjoy Skiing

Many pleasure skiers often ask: Why don't racers ski parallel? The answer is that they do. However, a racer must be an opportunist. If he can devise a manoeuvre that will give him more speed or put him in a more advantageous position to negotiate a turn that is ahead, he will do so.

SPLIT SKIS

For example, a competitor running open gates will often separate his skis as he passes a pole. He allows his inside ski to run freely upward while the downhill or outside ski continues in its arc. When the skis form this angle, the weight is shifted up to the inside ski bringing the lower one with it.

As the skis are once again parallel, a strong double-pole push provides acceleration and facilitates execution of the following turn.

This manoeuvre is known as skating. It is done so that the racer's position to the following set of flags will be high. In other words, he will have plenty of room to complete the following turn correctly. If the skate is left out, he will grad-
