We bespeak for him a liberal patronage at Hotel Stanstead Junction.

Considering the prompt settlement of the claim and the very courteous treatment he received from the company and being a believer in life insurance, Mr. Whaley has made an application for a policy on his life in the same company. # Liquozone Cost $100,000

Yet We Will Buy a 50c. Bottle and Give it to You.

This company, composed of business, professional and medical men of ability, paid $100,000 for the right to make Liquozone. That is the highest price ever paid for the rights in one country on any scientific discovery. It was paid by us, after years of experiment with it, because Liquozone alone can kill inside germs without killing the tissues, too. Nothing else can destroy the cause of any germ disease.

and an excess of oxygen—the very life of an animal—is deadly to vegetable matter. Liquozone is employed in the largest hospitals, and prescribed by the best physicians, the world over. It is essential in any germ disease, for the cause must be destroyed, and nothing else can do it. Liquozone then acts as a tonic to bring back a condition of perfect health; for oxygen is Nature's greatest tonic. Its effects are exhilarating, purifying, vitalizing. It does something that all the skill in the world cannot do without it.

Fever—Dall Stomach
Gout—Gout
Gonorrhoea—Gonorrhoea
Malaria—Malaria
Typhoid—Typhoid
Tuberculosis—Tuberculosis
Whooping Cough—Whooping Cough
Worms—Worms
All diseases that begin with fever—all inflammation—all catarrhs—all contagious diseases—all the results of impure or poisoned blood. In nervous debility Liquozone acts as a vitalizer, accomplishing what no drugs can do.

Liquid Oxygen.

Liquozone is simply liquid oxygen—no drugs, no alcohol in it. It is the discovery of Pauli, the great German chemist, who spent 20 years on it. His object was to get such an excess of oxygen in staple form into the blood that no germ could live in any membrane or tissue. Liquozone does that. We spend 14 days in making each bottle of it, but the result is a germicide so certain that we publish on every bottle an offer of $1,000 for a disease germ that it cannot kill.

Kills All Germs.

Any drug that kills germs is a poison to you and it cannot be taken internally. Medicine never destroys inside germs. Liquozone kills them with oxygen—a tonic to you—the very source of vitality. It kills them because germs are vegetables.

Germ Diseases.

These are the known germ diseases. All that medicine can do for these troubles is to help Nature overcome the germs, and such results are indirect and uncertain. Liquozone kills the germs, wherever they are, and the results are inevitable. By destroying the cause of the trouble, it invariably ends the disease, and forever.

VERMONT ITEMS.

Hon. Joseph Bartlett of Middlebury has forbidden deer shooting on his extensive land holdings in Ripton and Hancock. Mr. Bartlett's action is said to be prompted by his desire to test the right of a man to shoot deer against the wishes of the owner of the land even in the open season.

Mildred, the fifteen months' old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Spooner of Barre, was accidentally poisoned on Tuesday, Oct. 27. The little girl's brother, aged four years, found some 1.60 grain strychnine tablets in the house and fed some to his sister at the same time partaking himself. The little girl lived only an hour, but the boy's dose was too small to do harm.

Burglars broke into Denison Brothers' general store in Pittsford on the 26th ult., breaking the glass in the front door. The post-office in the store was evidently what the thieves had planned to rob. Postmaster Denison's dog made a noise which awakened the postmaster next door who drove the burglars away by firing a revolver. The dog was found badly beaten and bruised. It appears to be the work of experts.

The residents on the east side of the village of Northfield have been greatly annoyed for a long time by a young man peering into the windows about the time of retiring for the night. A week ago Tuesday night he was bolder than ever and was caught looking in at Mr. Bullock's and George Davis'. The men chased him but the fellow succeeded in making his escape, not, however, until he was identified. The matter is in official hands and further performance of the kind is likely to result in serious trouble for the young man in question.

P. T. Kellogg of Whitefield, N. H., has leased of the Molly's Falls Electric Light and Power Co., at Marshfield, the privileges of its plant for the term of ninety-nine years, with the exception of a 400 horse power reservation which the company retains for electric lighting purposes. Mr. Kellogg has also secured options on other property available for reservoirs and has purchased another fall farther up the river. About $60,000 are to be invested and although the final arrangements have not been made, the indications are that Marshfield will soon be added to the list of boom towns.

William Harris, of Pownal, had an unusual experience the other night when returning from North Adams, Mass., where he had disposed of a load of wood. At a late hour he started on his return and when some distance from that city the team turned into a field to take a drink from a spring. In coming out the wagon was overturned, Harris being under it. He was unconscious for a few moments and when he regained consciousness crawled out from under the box and found out that his best horse had been choked to death by the rein becoming tightened around its neck.

The annual meeting of the Vermont Bar association was held at Montpelier on the 27th ult. M. P. Maurice of Montgomery, W. H. Fairchild of Fairfield and H. A. Burt of Swanton were elected members. President John H. Seneter of Montpelier delivered the annual address on "Shakespeare as a Lawyer." This was followed by memorial sketches and a banquet at the Pavilion. At the banquet were Senator W. P. Dillingham, Gov. J. C. McCullough, Lieut. Gov. Z. S. Stanton, Speaker J. H. Merrifield, Secretary of Civil and Military Affairs E. L. Bates and Assistant United States Attorney General Charles H. Robb.

The dead body of a male child was found on the 23rd ult., in the cellar of the residence of Miles Foley, a slate teamster, who lives about two miles north of Poultney. Mrs. Foley, while going down cellar, stepped on something, and upon examining it and finding what it was she was so overcome that she fainted. The Foleys own a large dog that it is supposed found the body and brought it in. The child was nude and its skull was crushed in. The body was taken to undertaker Carrigan's rooms and an investigation begun Monday, by State's Attorney William H. Preston. The Case was postponed to November 9.

The October term of the Supreme Court at Montpelier has disposed of the railroad case known on the docket as James D. Bell and others against Vermont division Portland & Ogdensburg Railroad and others, which railroad is now the St. Johnsbury and Lake Champlain. The case has been on the docket 23 years, and the judgment against the railroad in favor of a score or more claimants is close to $30,000, and costs and interests from 1892, amounting in all to $30,000. The creditors were contractors, laborers and farmers who furnished material for building the road, and who did not enter their claims when the road went into a receiver's hands. Later they tried to enter but were denied. The claim of one of the creditors, Warren, was disallowed, as it had outlived. The case has been one of the most stubbornly fought railroad cases ever tried in the state. Judge Rowell read the opinion.

VERMONT ITEMS.

The order dismissing from the United States Supreme Court the petition of Charles Doherty, a Washington County murderer, has been received by Clerk M. E. Smille. The case went to the higher court from the Vermont court on a writ of error, but before the case was heard the Vermont legislature in 1902 commuted Doherty's sentence from death to life imprisonment. The United States court was then asked for a dismissal of the case, but no order was received until a week ago Saturday. Doherty is now believed to be insane, and it is probable that he will spend the remainder of his life in the Waterbury asylum.

Flora Porter, the fifteen-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Porter of Walden, was unintentionally shot by her younger brother on the 25th ult., dying fifteen minutes later. The girl was handling an air gun which she playfully pointed in the direction of her brother exclaiming as she did so, "I will shoot you." A loaded rifle, the property of the hired man, was resting against the house near by, and the boy catching the spirit of his sister's fun, seized the weapon and pointing it at his sister, answered: "I will shoot you, too." As he spoke the rifle was accidentally discharged, the bullet entering the body of the girl. Her brother said that he did not suppose the gun was loaded.

"MONTHLY BUDGET."

Ayer's Flat Oct. 14th.—Union met with Mrs. Hill, eleven ladies in attendance, two being visitors, Mrs. W. Robinson and Mrs. Rexford the latter becoming a member before the meeting closed. The President read the 12th chapter of Corinthians, Mrs. Vaughn offered prayer, singing, Sowing the seed. Roll call responded to by quotations. Verbal report of last meeting given. Decided to order leaflets from Prov. Supt. Mrs. J. Robinson gave a reading from "The Voice." Suggested that we subscribe for a temperance paper. Proposed to visit the school and hang up maps purchased. Mrs. Vaughn gave a good report of the Prov. Con. at Quebec which she attended. Voted resolutions of sympathy to Mrs. Putney, Co. Pres., in the loss of her husband and to Mrs. Alex. Kezar in the loss of her son. A vote of thanks offered Mrs. Davis for accompanying Mrs. Vaughn to Quebec as a delegate and defraying her own expenses. Tea served by Mrs. Hill at the close. Adjourned to meet with Mrs. Davis in November.

East Hatley, Oct. 21st.—Met at the Secretary's home. Present seven, two visitors. Mrs. Putney opened the meeting with devotional exercises. Minutes approved. Roll call responded to by scripture texts. It was suggested that we also, in line with the other Unions, raise a sum of money for the same friend in need. With the A. F. Union we feel to sympathize deeply with those who are passing through the deep waters of affliction. May they be sustained by power Divine. If the "greatest thing in the world is love" let us not be chary of it for the supply is unlimited if we go to the fountain head. Regrets expressed that Mrs. Putney is soon to go away for a time and trust it may not be for long. Many kind friends have remembered her in her sad bereavement, she having received twenty-five letters of sympathy.

Miss Brown of Montreal Union sends word clothing is much needed. Will try and collect for her. Suggested clubs be raised for the White Ribbon Leaflet of 5 at 15c each. Tea served.

Massawippi Oct. 28th.—Several members unable to attend the meeting thus a small number, five, met at the home of Mrs. S. Colt the regular day. Opened in the usual way. Regretted that our delegate, Mrs. McLaughlin was prevented from attending and giving her report of the Prov. Con. on account of the bad weather prevailing. A letter of thanks received from one who had received aid from us. Some readings given by different ones. All much pleased with the progress of the A. F. Union in adding so many new members to their numbers of late. Glad to see the women waking up to duty and to work and trust to enlarge the membership "all around." Little things mean a great deal sometimes and the little "white bow" worn by a woman means self sacrifice, loyalty to a good cause, faithfulness, truth of purpose, consistent living, helpfulness, charity, loving kindness and many other good things, and the wearers themselves are blessed. At the close Mrs. Colt served an excellent repast. Not decided at this time where next meeting will be. Notice later.

Town Recording Secretary.

REMOVING DIFFICULTIES.

JOHN LLOYD LEE, D. D., Pastor
Westminster Presbyterian Church,
New York City.

Take ye away the stone.—St. John, xi, 28.

On the one side of the stone door of Lazarus' tomb stood the dark messenger we call death; on the other, the mighty King of all life; for Lazarus had been dead four days, and Christ had come to undo the work of death and to give to the young man the most precious of all gifts—that is, life.

He who had created the worlds and had kept them in right relations through all the ages so that they go singing on their journey could have hurled that stone away with a word. But, since he was working from the human side, He must needs respect human conditions and give man a share in His glorious work and also a chance to learn the lessons of His great life on earth, for Christ's mission was not so much to make eternal impressions on matter on the outer world, as to make impressions on mind—the human soul.

It happens, then, that the chief service of man to his fellow-men is to clear away difficulties that the Divine Person and power may work, as on that day human hands had to roll away the stone from before the tomb that Lazarus might feel the thrill of life. Difficulties are of various kinds, but all alike prevent the free working of divine power in the soul. A non-conductor has come between God and man, and this must be removed from the human side because of human sin. This is why Christ came around from the side of divinity to the side of humanity, bringing His divinity with Him to give effectiveness to salvation. The business of discovery in the natural world is to clear away hindrances and to make channels for forces which were long ago reposed in nature right under our hands and so near that they actually touch us. Just as the great discoveries in electricity consist in giving direction to that mighty power that it may become a thing of service rather than a means of destruction, so the chief business of religion is to clear away the difficulties in the divine path so that God may work naturally in the hearts of men. Martha was unhappy in the incident of the text because she was not willing to make way for the full working of the power of God. Most of the unhappiness of the world is on the same account. Every day we pass by a thousand graves of buried hopes of other people and never once stop to see if we may roll away the stone that the light of God may shine in to give life to the dead.

How wonderful it would be if we could fully realize that Christ stands on the human side of every trial and every trouble and every disappointment and every sin and says—"You do your part and I will do Mine! You remove all that the human hand can take away and I will banish the rest, as with a word I put death to flight at Lazarus' tomb." It may not be much that you can do, but if it is ever so little it must be done before the divine power can work. The world can never be made better without positive effort. The cheerful face, the willing heart, the forgiving spirit, the helping hand and the godlike purpose make the journey of life a grand march of triumph.

But we are also to remove the stone of indifference. Many people were there that day who did not seem to care much whether Lazarus ever lived or not; and even Martha seemed indifferent to any effort on the part of the Saviour. So we find in the world to-day the head-shaking and hand-wringing people who say—"It will do no good; there is no use in trying." It is your place and mine to lift hard at this world's weight of sorrow that the resurrection power of God may give life to a dead world. Martha and those who were with her have taught us how we may roll away the stone of unbelief and have the power of new and greater life; for when they hesitated and doubted He asked: "Said I not unto thee that if thou wouldst believe thou shouldst see the glory of God?"

Then can we not see the glory of God without believing? No, we cannot. It is the only way. There is many a dark grave of departed faith sealed forever because we do not believe enough to reach out a hand to help. There are thousands of them in this city.

When they believed and removed the stone, what matchless glory did they see! It is only by faith that you may see the glory of God. When we hear that an astronomer has discovered a new comet we do not read that he found it with the unaided eye. He saw it with his telescope long before the rest of us knew anything about it. When a man announces a mighty truth of God, that he has seen its beauty and felt its power, though we do not see it, we know that it has been made known to him by the wonderful reach and revelation of faith. When we were in the observatory searching for the stars and could not find them the teacher said—"Get the focus; see that you are on the right line of vision; then you will see."

Then do we in religious things turn and ask—"What has the focus to do with it? Can I not see? Have I not eyes?" The answer comes:—"Yes, you have eyes; but they are for nearby service; use the telescope for the sweep of the universe."

So say we who teach the high and eternal things of the everlasting kingdom. First clear away the difficulties in the divine path, obeying the command, "Take ye away the stone," then turn and use faith, God's eternal means by which you may look into the surpassing glories of heaven. For, "Said I not unto thee that if thou wouldst believe thou shouldst see the glory of God?"

WHAT CANADA THINKS OF CHAMBERLAIN'S PLAN.

(Canadian Correspondence of the London Times.)

It is not a simple matter to ascertain the opinion of the average business man in Canada on the fiscal relations between Canada and the Mother Country.

But when we pass from the region of sentiment to the hard aspect of business it must not be forgotten that Canadians of all ranks are violent protectionists, and that their watchword is "Canada for the Canadians."

To the Canadian the proposed duty on wheat appears an advantage which he would accept with thankfulness, provided he is not expected to give too much in return.

Take the case of woollen goods, on which the tariff with Great Britain is declared to be altogether insufficient.

As to these two cardinal properties, however, I will speak further, later on. I regret much having missed Edna's article, but I gather from what "K" says, that her suggestion was "Lakewood" or "Lakewood Park."

Mr. Percival's article was most pitifully irrelevant, and was, I feel certain, written from a mistaken conception of the point at issue; for as has been already said, "this is not a question of morals, but of a name."

Some do not seem to adequately grasp the reason why we wish to change the name. When Mr. Beebe Langmayd owned the ground, it was only natural that people should refer to it as Langmayd's flat—conditions demanded it—it was Langmayd's flat.

The law library of the late Hon. H. T. Duffy, devised by his last will to the Bedford Bar Library, has been transferred to the rooms of the latter in the court house, where it is strewn around with careless regard to value or position.

"GLENAYER GLENAYER!"

Mr. Editor: Apropos the much mooted change of the name "Ayer's Flat" I crave room for a word. But before I delve down into its history, or proceed to prove the priority of claim which "Glenayer" possesses as a name for so beautiful and attractive a spot, the home of so intelligent and kind hearted a people, I beg leave to give answer to those correspondents pseudonymous and otherwise, so ready with adverse criticism.

In "H," "K," "Common Sense," et al., I would that I might know whom I address, whether they be men or women, residents or outsiders, individuals or companies, so might I give their suggestions a truer value, their arguments (?) a juster weight.

The effusion from "Common Sense" was as sorrowful an exhibition of puerility as ever I had opportunity to witness. Such inane twaddle was wholly unworthy the notice it received in these columns.

The Georgeville correspondent objected to our using the word "glen" at all because his little old dictionary said a glen was a narrow valley. I suppose he thought Ayer's Flat was too wide.

It has been said in answer to this objection that we did not look it up in the dictionary at all, but selected it for its sweetness and appropriateness as it seemed to us; and in consideration of the fact that I, with many others, (bright children that we were!) through the kindness of Mr. Daniel Webster had made the acquaintance of the word (glen) before I left "The little red school house" under the hill; that I have come in contact with it several times in subsequent years, and even used the word in conversation a few times; and that before suggesting "Glenayer" as a name for our pretty, sequestered village I made a thorough study of the topography of many towns whose names have "glen" in combination, I am sure Mrs. Thompson was not one whit wrong in saying it was chosen for its sweetness and appropriateness.

As to these two cardinal properties, however, I will speak further, later on. I regret much having missed Edna's article, but I gather from what "K" says, that her suggestion was "Lakewood" or "Lakewood Park."

Mr. Percival's article was most pitifully irrelevant, and was, I feel certain, written from a mistaken conception of the point at issue; for as has been already said, "this is not a question of morals, but of a name."

Some do not seem to adequately grasp the reason why we wish to change the name. When Mr. Beebe Langmayd owned the ground, it was only natural that people should refer to it as Langmayd's flat—conditions demanded it—it was Langmayd's flat.

When the surrounding community became sufficiently settled to require a post office it was decided to locate it at the hotel, if I mistake not, on Ayer's flat, and because situated there the post office was called "Ayer's Flat" as also the town which has since sprung up around it. The original flat is now cut up into homesteads—divided into streets and lots—a town is there.

The law library of the late Hon. H. T. Duffy, devised by his last will to the Bedford Bar Library, has been transferred to the rooms of the latter in the court house, where it is strewn around with careless regard to value or position.

NIAGARA FALLS.

Canadian Company Buiesh Work on What Will be Largest of Power Plants.

One of the most striking examples of the utilitarian spirit of the twentieth century is to be found in the present rate of water power development at Niagara Falls.

There are two requisites which any name, to be used, should possess: First, it should insofar as possible, give an idea of the beauties of the place (town), the latter part of "Glenayer" answers this requisite perfectly.

A few points in favor of "Glenayer" are: 1st. It meets the two above named requirements, and gives the proper precedence to the former one.

2nd. It is a complete word, round and full. This rotundity and completeness will be destroyed if the word be divided.

3rd. It is euphonious—sounds well. There are in our alphabet four letters called "liquids," so called because the sound flows so smoothly from the mouth; these letters are l, m, n, and r. Glenayer contains three of the four, and is, in consequence, as smooth and euphonious a name as could be desired.

4th. "Glenayer" looks well. "Glen Ayer" does not look well, looks like some girl's name, and the capital A is quite as objectionable and quite as suggestive of that individual proprietorship or single ownership which does not now exist, as is the "s" in "Ayer's Flat."

5th. It is an attractive name; and is bound to assist in that advertisement and development of its great beauties and advantages, which we are now watching with so much interest and admiration, yes, even pride, for we are glad the place is beginning to be recognized at its true worth both as a place of residence and as a resort. So call it Glenayer.

FRED VAUGHAN. Denver, Colorado, Oct. 30, 1903.

THE SAM PARKS CASE.

Sam Parks, the New York walking delegate of the Householders' and Bridge Builders' Union, has been condemned to spend two years in prison for extortion. The conviction is the second which has been registered against him. The facts of the offence were briefly told by one of the witnesses, an employee of Tiffany & Co., who was sent to see why the company's men had been called from their work. The witness found Parks seated in a Third Avenue saloon. The rest of his story was as follows: "Parks said, 'Who the — are you?'"

"I am the outside superintendent of Tiffany," replied he. "Well, I will tell you," said Parks, "you are fined $500."

"What for?" asked the young man. "Now, don't ask so many questions," said Parks; "You are fined $500. You have no authority to settle this matter. Tell Tiffany to come up here or send the main man. I am not doing business with peanuts."

The "peanut" retired and the treasurer of the company had to come and hand over $500 before the men were allowed to go to work. The men went back, it seems, with the knowledge that any one who refused would be fined $50. Parks averred that the money was paid into the union treasury; but the court did not consider that this altered the situation, the imposition of such penalties not being recognized as a legal prerogative of trades' organizations. That the condemnation of Parks will put an end to such work as he carries on is not at all sure.

Although its charter was granted only three months ago, it has already begun operations to the extent of building a cofferdam near the proposed situation of its power house. Four years is the extreme limit allowed to this company for the installation of machinery to generate 25,000 horse power out of the total 125,000 that it is entitled to develop. The shareholders are all Canadians, and it is their intention to transmit most of the power to Toronto. The company is to pay the Park Commissioners a minimum yearly rental of $15,000.

Any description of the use made of the 100,000 horse power at present available necessarily abounds in superlatives. At the Niagara Power Company the largest transformer in the world is used to transmit electric power to Buffalo.

There is little doubt that Lord Kelvin's prophecy will ultimately be fulfilled says a writer in the New York Herald, and that the brink of the great cataract will some day be as bare of water as on that memorable Sunday in March of the present year, when the ice jam held back the water above the American falls and left the edge of the precipice a safe highway for the many foot passengers crossing from the mainland to Goat Island. However the date of this event will depend wholly upon the demands of the manufacturers.

We, the undersigned, do hereby agree to refund the money on a 60-cent bottle of Green's Warranted Syrup of Tar if it fails to cure your cough or cold. We also guarantee a 25-cent bottle to prove satisfactory or money refunded. J. T. Flint.

WHEELS IN SOLID ROCK.

The intake canal and power houses are situated at a point a mile and a quarter above the falls, where two wheelpits, each 180 feet in depth and 400 feet in length, have been excavated out of the solid rock.

The water is directed from the intake canal into huge penstocks, through which it is dropped to the turbines 140 feet below, and is thence carried off to the lower river by means of a tunnel, a mile and a third long, running beneath the city at a depth of 200 feet.

On the same side of the river the Niagara Falls Hydraulic Power & Manufacturing Company develops 40,000 horse power and is increasing its plant to utilize 60,000 more.

The intake is made about half a mile above the falls, and from this point the water is conveyed through the city in an open canal to the edge of the cliff below the cataract, where it is dropped through large steel penstocks to turbines just above the level of the lower river. This company is limited to 7,700 cubic feet of water the second.

Most interesting of all from an engineering point of view will be the works of the Toronto & Niagara Power Company, which is the third corporation privileged to develop power on the Canadian side. Its intake is situated up the stream midway between those of the Ontario Power Company and the Canadian Niagara Power Company.

Its power house will be built out partly over the river, and in order that it may not interfere with the works of the other two companies, it will excavate its tunnel tail race under the bed of the upper river, beginning at a depth of about 180 feet below the surface.

I look forward to the time when the whole water from Lake Erie will find its way to the lower level of Lake Ontario through machinery, doing more good for the world than the great benefit which we now possess in the contemplation of the splendid scene now presented by the waterfalls of Niagara.

Although its charter was granted only three months ago, it has already begun operations to the extent of building a cofferdam near the proposed situation of its power house. Four years is the extreme limit allowed to this company for the installation of machinery to generate 25,000 horse power out of the total 125,000 that it is entitled to develop.

U. S. POULTRY.

The Poultry and eggs raised and eaten in the United States last year were worth more than all the gold or the silver produced in the world in the same year.

According to the latest available tables, the value of all fowls on farms is $85,794,000. About $15,000,000 is deducted from this sum to represent fowls under the age of three months, so that the balance embraces the stock that is kept for breeding and laying.

The estimated number of chickens in the country is 250,000,000, producing for market in one year poultry worth $136,000,000 and eggs worth $144,000,000, a total value of about $280,000,000. This represents an income of 400 per cent. on a similar investment.

In seeking for the causes of this situation one must not overlook the great amount of work done by the mechanical incubator which is not only fully as successful as the hen, but does its work on a very large scale. The use of the incubator has made it the duty of the hen to devote her whole time to the production of eggs.

How well the hen performs this duty may be gathered from the statement that in the last year for which statistics are available 1,290,000 dozens of eggs were produced in the United States. This allows for the consumption of 303 eggs by every man, woman and child in the country during that year, and makes the value of the eggs per capita $1.89.

Money plentiful in Manitoba. The Winnipeg Free Press says: "A careful canvass of many bank managers, implement men and jobbers regarding payments justifies the most optimistic conclusions. It is generally recognized that the money movement is much better than last year. Although the cash proceeds of the crop are not yet in the storekeepers hands, the heavy paper out for settlement on November 4 was admirably met. As a matter of fact payments were proportionately better than they have been."

New York City's civic budget for next year contemplates an outlay of $106,674,955.

BLACK LIST IN N. H.
 Ex-Governor Goodell Stirps up Men's Meet.

A despatch from Antrim, N. H., says: A storm of protest has followed the action of Governor David H. Fassett of this town, in placing the names of all male residents of Antrim of legal age on the black list served upon a hotel at Hillsboro, senior member of the only agency selling liquor in this section. Two conferences have already been held by a number of citizens to discuss the situation, and several leading men advocate calling a public indignation meeting. Not a few men called on Mr. Goodell personally and demanded that their names be withdrawn, but he invariably refused to scratch their names. He stood his ground imperturbably and insisted that the names on the list be drawn, but that the names must remain posted.

The Democratic town committee at a meeting Thursday night adopted long and bitter resolutions, protesting against the list.

Ex-Governor Goodell says that he is not at all provoked by this commotion. He admits that the posting of the black list is put out as a sort of feeler, and says that if it proves successful undoubtedly the same thing could be done in every city and town in the State, making to all intents and purposes a more rigid and effective prohibition than ever existed under the law. He says:

"About three weeks ago I received a letter from the chief of police at Hillsboro asking me to have the name of the resident of Antrim placed on the list of those not to be sold liquor. The man undoubtedly deserved to be restricted, but up to that time it had not occurred to me that I had the power to prevent anybody from securing liquor at Hillsboro. The more I thought over the matter and studied the law, I believed that as a justice of the peace I could proceed, not only with the man I was requested to attend to, but with all who ought to be included on the list. I am sorry to say that there are quite a number of men in Antrim who are intemperate, and when I began to list the list I did not know where to stop. While all the men I should, of my own knowledge, place on the list would be amenable, there might be others who were fully as bad, or worse than I knew nothing. Then those listed would be just in asserting discrimination. I have consulted with good legal authorities about my rights in the matter, and they have told me that, according to the law, I could serve such a list as I have served on the hotel-keeper at Hillsboro Bridge." It is understood that legal proceedings will be taken in the matter.

After a remarkable campaign, in which there was united against him nearly all of the newspapers and practically every minister of religion in the city, Geo. B. McClellan, son of Civil war general, was on the 3rd inst., elected third mayor of Greater New York over Seth Low, financier, the present mayor, by the large plurality of 61,616. Edward M. Grout was elected comptroller, and Charles W. Felt was elected clerk of the board of aldermen. These two men were originally on the fusion ticket and were endorsed by Tammany whereupon New York changed their names from the low ballots and nominated other candidates.

The United States Government has practically recognized the rebel government of Panama. Reports show that the United States and armies were landed to overawe the Colombian federal troops when they were coming into the city to maintain their government's authority. If the first reports do not show the revolution to have been planned in the United States it will be a case of surprise.—Montreal Gazette.

HE PREFERRS DEATH.

THE ITALIAN FINANCE MINISTER COMMITTED SUICIDE.

Was Apparently Afraid of Charges of Corruption Lodged Against Him by the Socialists.

Naples, Nov. 10.—Minister of Finance Rosano committed suicide by shooting during the night. He was found dead yesterday in his room, a revolver at his side.

Signor Rosano was given the position of Minister of Finance in the new Italian Cabinet, the formation of which was announced only last Wednesday. Since the formation of the new Cabinet the Socialists had attacked Signor Rosano, charging him with corruption during his political career, challenging him to disprove the charges and adding that otherwise they would bring the matter up at the opening of the Chamber of Deputies.

A LAWYER'S LIABILITY.

Canadian Express Co. Paid Money to Wrong Party.

Toronto, Nov. 10.—Judge Morrison yesterday reserved judgment in the interesting action of the Canadian Express Company against Frank W. McLean, barrister. In January last a money order on the company for $48.93 was mailed to John W. Carter of the Sons of England. The order was presented at the company's office by a man representing himself as the payee. The company demanded his identification, and he sought the defendant's assistance. Mr. McLean suggested that, if he were the proper party, he should make a statutory declaration to that effect. Mr. McLean telephoned the company's manager, who consented to accept this identification. The declaration was made by the claimant and the money was paid over to Mr. McLean's stenographer, who took the document to the company's office. After deducting legal charges the balance was paid the claimant, who then disappeared. Mr. John W. Carter, the person properly entitled, later traced the payment to the company, and on making application for the money learned that it had been paid out. The company now sued Mr. McLean on the ground that he had guaranteed that the man who received the money was the party entitled.

KEEP BRITISH CONNECTION.

Mr. Aylesworth at National Club Dinner.

Toronto, Nov. 10.—The annual King's birthday dinner of the National Club last evening was a most enjoyable social affair. Covers were laid for about ninety. The chair was occupied by Mr. Noel Marshall, the President, and the proceedings were of a purely domestic and informal character. The royal toast was honored by the singing of the national anthem and "God save our noble Emperor." The toast of "The Empire" was responded to by Mr. A. B. Aylesworth, K.C., and Col. Geo. T. Denison. Mr. Aylesworth spoke strongly of the advantages from the Canadian standpoint of British connection, and said there should be a scheme of Imperial unity. Col. Denison again advanced arguments for Canadian contributions toward Imperial defence. He said that while general taxation for that purpose could not be undertaken without representation, yet we might undertake the defence of our own shores without demanding Imperial representation. The toast of "Our Own Special Birthday" was happily responded to by Mr. J. F. Ellis and Mr. J. S. Willison, whose natal anniversaries also fell yesterday. The toast of "Ourselves" was responded to by Mr. Frank Arnoldi, Mr. J. F. Ellis and Mr. G. T. Irving, while Dr. Paton, a Canadian, now of Cologne, Germany, spoke in reply to an impromptu toast. The songs of Mr. Arthur Blight constituted one of the features of the evening.

UPTON WILL DIE.

Fanny McGarvey, the Prisoner, May be Examined at London.

London, Ont., Nov. 10.—At a late hour yesterday Patrick Upton, who was so frightfully injured by his niece, Fanny McGarvey, was still alive, though unconscious, and no hopes are entertained for his recovery. The mental condition of the prisoner remains the same. She did not rest much last night. She will come up for preliminary examination on Friday, and it is said by the jail officials that if her condition does not improve, the examination will be held at the court house here. If her condition warrants her removal, she will be taken to Stratford for examination.

Anthony S. Rowe's Case.

Toronto, Nov. 10.—The fate of Anthony Stanley Rowe is in the hands of Mr. Justice Britton, who will give judgment on his application for his release at Osgegoe Hall to-day. Yesterday Mr. T. C. Robinette, K.C., made a last effort to save his client from being handed over to the English police. Rowe is charged with forgery and theft from the Great Fingall Consolidated Company of London, England, was committed for extradition by Magistrate Denison on October 19. Deputy Attorney-General Cartwright and Crown Attorney Curry appeared yesterday for the Crown, and Mr. C. W. Kerr for the Great Fingall Company. Inspector R. Sager of Scotland Yard arrived in the city yesterday to take Rowe back to England.

A Royal Betrothal.

A CHANCE FOR GERMANY.

Colombians May Make Request for Protection.

New York, Nov. 10.—Arturo De Brigard, Consul-General for Colombia in this city, said he heard yesterday that it had been proposed to his Government to appeal to Germany for protection in regard to Panama, offering in return certain territorial concessions. Mr. De Brigard said: "I have no official advice from Colombia. From an official source, however, I learn that the people in the interior have appealed to our Government to send a delegation to Germany to offer the Emperor certain pieces of land on both seas in return for Germany's protection. Of course I do not know whether this will be done, but if it is I imagine the land conveyed to Germany will be that lying next to the Panama border on both sides of the isthmus." Washington, Nov. 10.—Embarking of Colombian troops from Buena Ventura or any other Colombian port for the isthmus will not be permitted by the Washington Government, and United States warships will be ordered to any port upon receipt of an intimation that Colombian troops will attempt to sail for the isthmus. The Washington Government holds that this policy is in the interest of the general good. The State Department has been informed by an agent of the Panama Canal Company that the provisional Government of Panama has designated a commission of three members, who will leave Panama to-morrow for Washington, to begin immediately the negotiations of a new canal treaty. The commission, it is stated, is clothed with full powers to conclude that instrument.

FARMER SHOT DEAD.

A Stray Bullet From a Hunter's Rifle.

Ottawa, Nov. 10.—Noel St. Pierre, a farmer of Wolfe Creek, near South Indian, was shot dead near his home on Saturday, supposedly by a stray bullet from a hunting party. St. Pierre had gone to the bush to cut cordwood, and was felling a tree when he received the fatal shot. Several parties of hunters were in the vicinity at the time, and some of them heard a report, followed by the cry, "Oh, my God, I am killed." Search revealed St. Pierre's body. The bullet entered his left shoulder and passed through the body. The man leaves a widow and two children.

INVADED CAPE COLONY.

THOUSANDS OUT OF WORK.

Chicago Steel Works Dismiss Many Men—Curtailling the Output.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—Two thousand men have been laid off by the Illinois Steel Works at South Chicago. In addition to this reduction, 1,200 men who were discharged two weeks ago and who expected to return to work today have been informed that there is no work for them.

The officials of the company refuse to talk about the retrenchment going on, but it is said by the men that they are being laid off because of curtailment in the output.

SIR CHARLES DILKE'S VIEW.

Canada Should Have the Power of Making Treaties.

London, Nov. 10.—Sir Charles Dilke, in an interview with a representative of the Canadian Associated Press, as to his views on treaty-making powers for Canada, replied: "I have always been in favor of such power for the colonies. It will not lead to separation, but will prevent it. When Australia took strong ground regarding the High Court, I defended her action, and Canada has a good case also. You may say I sympathize with Canada's movement, but would rather not go into details just now."

ANOTHER EXTORTIONER.

Walking Delegate of New York Stonemasons' Union is Charged.

New York, Nov. 10.—James Hickey, a walking delegate for the Stonemasons' Union, was arraigned in the Harlem Court, charged with extortion, and held in $1,000 bail for examination to-morrow. It is charged that Hickey obtained $30 for calling off a strike on a work in charge of Henry E. Fox, a bridge contractor.

To Prosecute the Publishers.

Windsor, Nov. 9.—Mayor Drake this morning consulted Chief Willis about prosecuting the publishers of The New Era Success, a weekly paper published by the Flying Rollers of Windsor. Mayor Drake says its vicious tone attracted his attention, and he will fight the publication to a finish.

LABOR PROBLEMS.

Gompers Discusses Questions of Interest.

Boston, Nov. 10.—With nearly 500 delegates in attendance the 23rd annual convention of the American Federation of Labor commenced, President Gompers occupying the chair. He spoke of the proposed Canadian Senate bill aimed at foreign organizers, and defended the Federation from charges of strife-stirring made against it. Concluding his remarks thereon, he said that the report of the Royal Commission which investigated labor troubles in British Columbia reflected on some organizations, "but we can proudly declare that not one scintilla of shadow could be thrown reflecting upon the honor, integrity and faithfulness of any organization affiliated to the American Federation of Labor." An interesting conversation with Mr. W. L. M. King, chief of the Bureau of Labor for Canada, a member of the commission, and he substantially repeated this to me. We have the right, then, to insist that the bona fide labor movement and its men shall not be ostracized or outlawed, particularly when it is the aim and work of the American and Canadian trade unionists of Canada and the remainder of the American continent to make for the well-being, the good citizenship, the loyalty and the fraternity of all. We urge upon our fellow-trade unionists of Canada to use their utmost endeavors for the maintenance and perpetuation of the fraternal bonds existing between us, and to submit to all fair-minded people of the Dominion, including their Government, that unjust legislation, discriminating against the guiltless, must react to the disadvantage of its promoters, and do that which all enlightened men condemn when injustice is inflicted upon anyone."

A SPUNKY MAYOR.

Knocked a Russian Official Down for Striking Him.

London, Nov. 10.—Russian correspondents of the Times say that a systematic agitation has been organized in the Russian provinces of Armenia, where the confiscation of the church property has converted the whole of the native population into rebels. Enormous crowds assemble at the churches, and violent speeches are made, followed by the singing of revolutionary hymns. At Achalkalsky, in the Tiflis Government, after midnight Mass was celebrated a young woman delivered a fiery harangue, and the proceedings were concluded by solemn maledictions upon the Russian Government. At a village near Erivan the villagers were summoned to give up the church property, and the Commissioner of Police, in order to terrorize the crowd, struck the Mayor in the face. The Mayor replied by knocking down the Commissioner and tramping upon him. It was all the police could do to rescue their chief.

KAISER IS PROGRESSING.

Bulletins of Physicians Are Reassuring.

Berlin, Nov. 10.—The latest news regarding the condition of Emperor William, who was operated upon on Saturday for the removal of a polypus from his larynx, is that it remains satisfactory. He worked several hours this afternoon on government business, and wrote a long telegram to King Edward, congratulating him on his birthday.

A bulletin issued at the new palace, Potsdam, is as follows: "Inflammation, which naturally follows as a reaction from the operation, already is diminishing. We can, therefore, be satisfied with the appearance of the left vocal chord. Nevertheless, the healing of the little wound probably will require another week."

"The Emperor's general condition is good. His temperature and pulse are normal. (Signed) Von Lauthold, Schmidt, Iberg."

Professor Bernhard Fraenkel, the eminent throat specialist of Berlin University, in an interview to-day with the correspondent of the Associated Press, said: "The public concern about the Emperor's condition is unwarranted. The facts are absolutely as stated in this morning's bulletin. The people are only agitated because they remember that the first reports about Emperor Frederick did not disclose his true malady, but this time the bulletin is correct."

TELEGRAPH BREVITIES.

The Grand Trunk station at Stratford was ransacked by thieves.

Mr. W. Albert Lockhart, collector of customs at St. John, N.B., is dead.

The organization of the Canadian Telephone & Telegraph Co. was completed at Ottawa.

Mr. John Redmond denies the report that he is to resign the leadership of the Irish party.

A Revival of Roque.

An outdoor game for old men has shown a marked revival in popularity this year in the United States. Roque is its name, and it is interesting and gentle. Croquet is the parent of the word roque. Take away from the term croquet its first letter and its last, and the term roque remains. In like manner, take away from the game of croquet its foolishness and its inaccuracies, and the game of roque is left, say the roque experts.

Roque is a game as scientific as billiards, but its rules resemble croquet's rules. There is a peg, like a croquet peg, at each end of the court; there are nine wickets, like croquet wickets, set in a regular croquetlike pattern; there are balls to shoot through the wickets; just as in croquet, and there are mallets; like croquet mallets, where-with to hit these balls. But the roque court is as firm and smooth as a billiard table, and its boundaries are of rubber, so that balls may carom from them as from a billiard-table's cushions. The wickets, of bright steel, are only one-quarter of an inch broader at their base than the balls that must be shot through them. The short mallets are tipped with rubber and bound with brass or silver, and the material used in their making is rosewood or Turkish boxwood or lignum vitae or amaranth.

Roque, in a word, is croquet, but croquet perfected, croquet made scientific. Rare is the skill that its disciples acquire, and admirable are the improvements that the game makes in their health. It is interesting to consider the care with which a roque court is made. The soil first is dug out to a level about two feet below the one which the court will ultimately have. A base is then made of big stones and cinders, and on this base layers of smaller and smaller stones are set, until finally there is a top layer of fine gravel. The gravel is covered with a four-inch coat of richest, purest clay, and after this has been mathematically levelled, and rolled to a bricklike firmness, it is sanded with a tiny sifting of white sea sand. The court's dimensions are seventy-two by thirty-six feet, and its boundaries of wood have rubber cushions, shaped like pool or billiard-table cushions, which present to the ball a sharp edge, so that it will rebound from them briskly. The court is rolled daily, first with a heavy, and afterward with a light roller. It is daily watered and sanded, and after every game the ground about the wickets is levelled with a pinewood levelling board.

Fireflies for Sale.

In Japan there are established firms of firefly dealers, each employing sixty or seventy catchers, and exporting their catch chiefly to the large cities where fireflies are in adjunct to all grades of social festivity, from the private garden parties of nobles to an evening at a cheap tea-garden. Sometimes they are kept caged, sometimes released in swarms in presence of the guests.

The firefly-catcher starts forth at sunset with a long bamboo pole and a bag of mosquito-netting. On reaching a suitable growth of willows near water, he makes ready his net and strikes the branches, winking with the insects, with his pole. This jars them to the ground, where they are easily gathered up. But it must be done very rapidly, before they recover themselves enough to fly. So the skilled catcher, sparing no time to put them at once into the bag, uses both hands to pick them up, and tosses them lightly into his mouth, where he holds them unharmed till he can hold no more, and only then transfers them to the bag.

He works thus till about two o'clock in the morning, when the insects leave the trees for the dewy soil. He then changes his method. He brushes the surface of the ground with a light broom to startle the insects into light; then he gathers them as before. An expert has been known to gather three thousand in a night.

Besides being a business, firefly-catching is a sport. Little girls pursue it with their fans, boys with wands to which a wisp of yarn is fastened, and they sing an old folk-rhyme as they follow the glistering insects: "Firefly, come! firefly, come! with your lantern-light. All the boys of Seiki are wanting you to-night."

Nor do the elders disdain to join the sport. They also organize festival parties to visit certain spots, long known and famous, to witness the beautiful spectacles of the fireflies swarming. Special trains, carrying thousands of visitors, are run during the season to Uji, the most renowned, to behold the Hotoke-Kassen, or Firefly Battle.

Myriads of fireflies hovering over a gentle river so swarm and cling together that they appear at one time like a luminous cloud, again like a great ball of sparks. Cloud or ball, the wonder soon breaks, and thousands of the fallen insects drift with the stream, while new swarms form, reform and sparkle continuously above the water. So marvelous is the sight that a Japanese poet wrote: "Do I see only fireflies drifting with the current, or is the night itself drifting, with all its swarming stars?"

The Correct Attitude.

A collision has occurred. The driver of the motor applies his brake and comes to a full stop and an easy, half-turned attitude of interrogation.

The companion of the injured pedestrian stoops over the insensible form and makes a brief yet searching examination. Then, cap in hand, he approaches the vibrating car, and simply says:—"On behalf of my friend, who has dislocated his vertebrae, fractured his tibia, sprained his ankle, and is evidently suffering from concussion of the brain, I beg to offer you my humble apologies."

And the motorist, with a haughty inclination of the head, accepts the explanation and immediately proceeds to re-urge on his wild career.

For such is the rule of the road.

Sympathetic.

Young wife (rather nervously)—Oh, cook, I must really speak to you. Your master is always complaining. One day it is the soup, the second day it is the fish, the third day it is the joint—in fact, it's always something or other. Cook (with feeling)—Well, ma'am, I'm truly sorry for you. It must be awfully awful to live with a gentleman of that sort.—"Punch."

CANADA NOT AFFECTED.

Industrial Conditions Here Not Likely to be Disturbed by Depression in States.

Although prices on the stock market seem to be reflecting a severe industrial setback, Canadian trade conditions as a whole continue very satisfactory.

In the States things do not seem to be particularly encouraging, however, and with many mills closing, the railroads drawing in their horns and a cut in steel prices in spite of the diminished production many are feeling apprehension.

A leading Montreal business man who is in close touch with a large retail trade informed the press that business is excellent for this time of year, particularly when it is considered that we have had a month of warm and unseasonable weather.

"I doubt," he said, however, "that the Christmas trade will be as large as last year's and if it is not I do not think we will have to go very far to find the cause. A recent tremendous slump in the stock market has hit thousands of pocketbooks and I am afraid a good many people find themselves poorer to-day than this time a year ago.

People, however, who have let the markets alone and have stuck to legitimate pursuits should buy as much as ever for I think business as a whole has been good."

So much for the retail end.

THE STATES AND CANADA.

In the wholesale and general business circles the majority of merchants have no doubt given some thought to the new industrial setback in the States and its effect upon Canada. The Toronto Globe recently collected the opinions of many business people upon this point. All unite in admitting the great amount of business being done at present and the large number of orders to be filled. Many are extending their plants, and the only complaint is the scarcity of labor to carry on their necessary operations. There is nothing in our own country to indicate any misfortune, and the building of the new transcontinental railway and the continued rapid development of the North-West are pointed to as factors that will make for good times for many years to come. Some of the Canadian manufacturers, however, express a dread, which they have already voiced, that Canada would be made a dumping ground for American products at slaughter prices, in case depression decreased their home consumption. As an indication of this one or two centres report the presence of commercial travellers representing United States manufacturers, who are paying their first visit to Canada. These Canadians, however, are proceeding on the assumption that the commercial and financial interrelation between the United States and Canada is still so great that whenever the people of the great Republic begin to trim their sails for financial depression Canadian interests should imitate them; and whenever American mill owners begin discharging employes many Canadian industrial establishments are almost certain to pursue the same policy, believing they must of necessity do so.

OUR INDEPENDENCE.

"There was a time," says the Globe, "when that was very much more true than it is to-day. If one goes back to the time preceding the McKinley tariff of 1890, one will find that a very large proportion of Canadian exports, especially of the field and forest, was going to the United States and that naturally whenever the demand fell off from that great market, Canadian exporters have felt the pinch of hard times, curtailed their purchases, and brought about considerable depression. Since the passage of the McKinley bill, followed as it was after a short period of more liberal fiscal arrangements under Mr. Cleveland by the adoption of the Dingley tariff in 1896, there can be no doubt at all that Canada's industrial, commercial and financial relations with the United States instead of becoming so intimate that any disaster on the other side must at once have a secondary effect here, have drifted away from those of the United States until to-day there is no reason in the world why either a commercial or an industrial panic in the United States should affect us very much more severely than a panic in France or Germany.

"Canadian agriculture, which is the backbone of the country, is in a position of security such as never before. A long-continued depression in the United States would undoubtedly affect the lumbering interests of Canada, but it must be remembered as an offset to this that the home demand for lumber in recent years has been an exceedingly active one, and that in railway construction work alone within the next five years enormous quantities of lumber must be used in Canada."

TRADE WITH STATES.

"If one will turn to the statements of exports to the United States from Canada, it will at once be discovered that that market has not nearly the relative importance to us that it had fifteen years ago. The following table shows the gradual decrease of our exports to the United States as compared with our total exports, the amount having fallen, roughly, from 50 per cent. to 33 1/2 per cent. from the days preceding the McKinley tariff to the present, showing that trade currents have found new channels and are not so susceptible to the depressions which visit the United States:

Year	Exports to U. S.	Total Exports.
1885	$35,566,510	$ 79,131,735
1886	34,284,490	77,759,704
1887	35,269,922	80,980,909
1888	40,707,453	81,382,072
1889	39,519,940	80,372,456
1890	40,426,858	128,452,987
1900	59,686,556	170,642,989
1901	67,983,673	177,431,386
1902	65,567,784	196,016,763
1903	71,783,919	219,082,933

OUR IMPORTS.
"Now, it may be said that if our exports to the United States fell off very greatly under the stress of an industrial panic there, we would not be in a position to pay for the imports we take from that country. That is where our very large credit balance in Great Britain would be of advantage. We are exporting to Great Britain now more than twice as much as we import in return. This means that a very large amount of Canadian credit is available in London for the liquidation of these very balances that we shall owe in the United States for goods imported from that country. That our importations from the United States will continue on a large scale is an undoubted fact. These goods are being brought into Canada because we need them, and because, in many cases, there is no other source from which the articles imported can be drawn. Such things as raw cotton, crude rubber, tobacco, (not produced in Canada) bituminous coal and other articles that are the raw material of great industries must continue to be brought into Canada for the use of the manufacturers, and it will be a bad sign when this importation falls below the level of recent years.

FACTORIES MOVING TO CANADA.
"In other departments, where the United States competes against Canadian industries, there is no reason to anticipate very seriously the slaughter campaign which has attended previous industrial crises in the United States. Many great American industrial concerns have given hostages for good behavior to Canada. One of the greatest sources of undue competition in former periods of extreme depression in the agricultural implement trade was the International Harvester Company, the huge amalgamated implement trust, which to-day is building one of the greatest factories in Canada in the city of Hamilton. That it will prefer to operate this factory and so compete with the Canadian manufacturers on the most advantageous terms, rather than cut profits to a minimum by making implements across the border and forcing them in over our tariff wall seems a reasonable conclusion. The International Harvester Company is not the only great American concern in this position. Branch plants in very many industries have now been established in Canada by large American companies and it scarcely probable that a cut-throat competition, regardless of the value of the article involved, which was the feature of recent industrial panics, will be repeated.

CUSTOMS AND FORMS AT A WEDDING.

St. Johns News.
The Beebe Plain correspondent of the Stanstead Journal, in reporting a wedding held there last week, takes the opportunity of making some timely observations on customs and forms at a wedding. He says: "While the service is very impressive it was remarked that it would enhance its dignity and value were not the old and time-honored words 'to obey' conspicuously absent. We in Canada can afford to set our faces against every effort to modify the marriage service or to regard the bond as less binding, in view of the fact that such a concession is merely the introduction of the thin edge of the wedge, has destroyed the sanctity of the marriage tie in the United States and degraded marriage to the level of a convenient civil contract." He also goes on to criticize in a wise way the excesses attending wedding festivities, and concludes: "It is to be regretted that the ancient custom of a newly married couple talking leave of family and friends followed by the tossing of a little rice and a few old shoes, should be carried to such an extent that for fear of ill treatment, young ladies after subscribing to one of the most honorable and sacred of sacraments, should have to leave the parental roof as though they were fleeing from justice." Both of these contentions are most practical and supply food for candid thought.

One large Quebec shoe factory has closed down, and another is threatening to move away from Quebec because of the exactions of the unions. Unionism assisted in strangling Quebec's shipping business and is doing its best at the present time to keep it down. If the Quebecers are not careful the same thing will happen in the shoe business, about the only manufacturing industry of any importance in the city possesses.—Montreal Gazette.

VERMONT ITEMS.

James Bruten, the oldest resident of Rutland, died recently at the age of ninety-five years. He leaves three sons and four daughters. He was born in Ireland and had lived in Rutland 55 years.

Dell Edwards of Waterbury is boasting of having killed the largest deer of the season, having tipped the beam at 470 pounds. The animal was shot on Stiles Hill lying between Waterbury and Middlesex.

Albert Ross, a young unmarried man of Bennington has been notified by a lawyer in New York that according to the terms of the will of his grandfather, who died in that city recently, he was heir to about $11,000 from the estate.

Bartelmi Croteaux under indictment for the murder of Peter Vorren in East Montpelier, Sept. 8, is either insane or shamming. He talks in a rambling way, says acid he drank is issuing from his skin and will cause his death. When court returns November 17, Judge Haselton may be asked to commit him to Waterbury to be watched. Croteaux can neither read nor write and has nothing to occupy his mind. He continually begs the officers to let him out so that he can work.

W. Nichols, agent of the Grand Trunk at St. Hyacinthe for over twenty years, was instantly killed Saturday morning by the ballast train at the siding past the bridge across the Yamaska River. The body was found shortly afterwards by some of the section men, and was frightfully mangled. It is supposed that in endeavoring to run across the track on the approach of the ballast train he slipped and his feet caught between the rails.

The result of last week's elections in the United States except in New York city, was not particularly threatening for the Republicans. They seem to have done as well as usual in New York State outside of the city, to have done better than usual in Ohio, and to have fairly held their own in Pennsylvania and Iowa. They lost ground in Massachusetts, but not enough to endanger their hold in a presidential year. Maryland was carried by the Democrats, but its traditions are Democratic, and its influence in national politics is small. The Democratic presidential nominee of next year will have much work to do to win.

When No. 2 express left Island Pond, Vt., one day last week the customs officer entered the first-class car and made a bee-line for Mr. Jack Wilcocks, of Richmond. Now Mr. Wilcocks could not by any means be taken for a Chinaman, Syrian or Russian Jew. He is the typical English gentleman from the tip of his toes to the top of his blonde English head. All through the train were Canadians of all sorts and conditions, but Mr. Wilcocks was singled out and asked to produce on the spot certain papers establishing the fact that he was not all sorts of unimaginable things. Of course Mr. Wilcocks could not do so, and consequently he was taken off the train at North Stratford. Mr. Geo. A. Pierce, of Richmond, offered to give bonds for any amount that Mr. Wilcocks was only an excursionist, as his ticket established, and that he would return to Canada within ten days, but this offer was refused and Mr. Wilcocks' pleasure trip was postponed.

Expensive Saws.

Diamond teeth for saws seem a rather costly experiment, but in some manufacturing it is necessary to have the saw teeth fitted with cutting diamonds in order to accomplish their work. The Detroit News Tribune says that anyone who has visited the factories of Pennsylvania where various articles are made from slate will have seen 20 horizontal saws 22 feet in length, each of which is furnished with 75 cutting diamonds, each saw being worth $1,000. These are also in the factory jigsaws, a circular saw, planers and other slate-working machinery in which there are valuable diamonds. The slate used which furnishes the material for these costly saws to work upon was once so little valued that the tract upon which the famous Chapman quarry in Pennsylvania is situated was once sold for a pint of whiskey. Its subsequent owners have taken millions of dollars from the land. The most valuable slate deposits in the world are found in the central and eastern parts of Pennsylvania. In the neighborhood of the Pennsylvania quarries there are houses whose walls are entirely of slate. The blocks of which they are made are exceedingly saved and are certainly most substantial. Slate is put to a variety of uses nowadays, out of it being made floors, stairways, sidewalks, bath tubs, manhole covers, mantel pieces, blackboards, door and window sills and many other things. When slate is blasted in the quarries the rough slabs are taken to the shanties of the "splitters." The stone forms naturally in layers and the "splitter," following the grain or "rib" with his large chisel, separates the blocks into strips. Then these strips are passed through a trimming machine, where by the blows of a heavy knife they are cut into rectangular "shingles." Afterward they are piled up into the "squares" ready to be used for roofing purposes. When slate is cut up for use in other ways the procedure differs. The huge horizontal saw, with its scores of diamonds, in the factory is called into play; it is lowered upon one of the blocks of slate by a ratchet at the rate of a quarter of an inch a minute. The saw would cut through iron or steel at the same rate. The workmen play a stream of water upon the slate to keep it cool and wash the dust away. After the sawing the block is planed by being moved back and forth by machinery, and a fairly faced chisel. It is afterward polished much as marble and granite are by means of a rapidly revolving wheel called a rubbing bed, which is kept covered with a fine sprinkling of sand saturated with water. Then the slate is bored by means of diamond-drills. The value of the slate comes from the diamond.
