BIG-4 OPEN TALKS ON ATOMIC ENERGY

World News In Brief

Seoul — AP — In an apparent move to weaken further potential opposition within his own Liberal party, President Syngman Rhee today engineered the removal of 15 influential members from the party. The 15 were close supporters of Lee Sum Suk, one-time prime minister. Lee is the apparent target of President Rhee's action. Earlier Rhee forced Lee's resignation from office.

Cairo — AP — Foad Serag el Din, once one of the most powerful political leaders in Egypt, was sentenced today to 15 years in prison. The former Wafdist party strong man was convicted on charges of spreading corruption in government, abuse of power, illegal profiteering and undermining the influence of the state while holding the key finance and interior ministries in 1951-52.

Taipei, Formosa — AP — Daughters of aboriginal chiefs on this Chinese Nationalist island will have to get along without the title of "princess" from now on. Formosa's provincial government today banned use of the title because China is a republic and on titles of nobility are recognized.

Cairo — AP — Former Queen Narmeen of Egypt today described as "unbelievable, untrue and without foundation," a report that she planned to marry Farid el Atrash, Egyptian crooner and movie star. Atrash was the source of the report. He said Friday he was thinking of marrying Narmeen but had not actually proposed.

MP Indignant At Finger-printing

London — G — The foreign office today announced an investigation into the complaint of a British Labour member of Parliament that during a Canadian-American tour he was twice fingerprinted by United States authorities.

Victor Yates, member of Ladywood, told reporters he was fingerprinted before leaving for the United States last September on a nine-week tour and again at the American embassy in Vancouver after a one-day visit to British Columbia.

"It does seem extraordinary to me that members of the British Parliament should be subjected to such indignities by a friendly power," said Yates. "I do not believe MPs have to submit to having their fingerprints taken when they wish to go to Moscow even."

The American embassy in London commented that fingerprinting is "routine practice."

Wide Resentment Seen To Anglo-Japanese Trade Pact

London — (Reuters) — Britain and Japan signed a new trade and financial pact Friday which will allow Japan to step up her exports to sterling countries of the Commonwealth.

The agreement, completed after seven weeks of negotiation in London, means that certain Japanese goods which have been banned since the Second World War will again be on sale in stores in Britain and some other Commonwealth countries. All will be under a rigid quota.

The goods include textiles, toys, electrical equipment, clothes, pottery, paper goods, lacquer ware and ivory fancy goods. Even Japanese brooms and brushes will come into competition with the British-made article.

There were early signs here, before the pact had time to make its full impact, that it will provoke strong protest in Parliament and in industry.

The agreement envisages a two-way trade this year between Japan and the sterling area of about $1,120,000,000 with the balance slightly in Britain's favor.

Japan also has made import concessions to Britain and Commonwealth countries, guaranteeing to buy $5,600,000 worth of wool and worsted yarns and goods, $166,000 worth of automobiles, and British oil and movies.

Trade between Japan and the sterling area till now has been based on a 1951 agreement which limited Japanese exports. It left

Witnesses Seek Block On New Bill

By JOE MACSWEEN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Montreal. — (CP) — Jehovah's Witnesses moved swiftly Friday in an attempt to block enforcement of a new law aimed at curbing their pamphlet-distributing activities in Quebec province.

Glen How, counsel for the sect, announced the petitions for injunctions against the law were filed just after court opening Friday in Montreal and Quebec City.

The petitions asked that the law, which received royal assent late Friday, after passing both houses of the Quebec legislature without a dissenting vote, be declared "illegal, invalid, ultra vires unconstitutional, null and inoperative."

Filed in Superior Court, the petitions state that "the terms of the statute forbidding statements or writings which are 'abusive or insulting' are too vague, general and indefinite to give a reasonable ascertainable standard of guilt."

The legislation, introduced in the legislature by Premier Duplessis, who also is attorney-general, is an amendment to the province's Freedom of Worship Act, a pre-Confederation statute.

Premier Duplessis said in the House the amendment was designed to prevent licence and abuse under the guise of religion, and that it would not interfere with religious freedom.

The law forbids distribution of literature "containing abusive or insulting attacks against... the religious beliefs of any portion of the population."

Similar attacks in speeches, or their reproduction "by means of radio, television or the press" also were forbidden and fines provided for. An interlocutory injunction could be obtained to prevent any action "which infringes or is about to infringe" on sections of the act.

In introducing the measure, Mr. Duplessis referred to a majority decision last year by the Supreme Court of Canada, which ruled that Quebec municipalities did not have the power to prevent the offending tactics of the Witnesses in this predominantly Roman Catholic province. The ruling was five to four.

Friday's petition questions the right of the province to rule on freedom of worship, indicating this is the prerogative of the federal government.

It said that "a majority of the justices of the Supreme Court who ruled on the point held that legislation in relation to freedom of worship is ultra vires of the province, null and unconstitutional."

Bogota, Colombia — (P) — The government's press department has instructed Colombian newspapers to maintain "absolute respect" for the government in both news columns and editorials.

The directive, which the department said must be strictly observed, also extended the instruction to include "institutions and heads of state, institutions and religious entities, and persons which have diplomatic relations with Colombia."

Molotov And Dulles Agree To Informal Conference In Berlin Tonight.

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Berlin — AP — The foreign ministers of the United States and the Soviet Union meet tonight in the first top-level discussion of President Eisenhower's proposal to put atomic power to work for peaceful purposes.

Over cocktails and caviar Friday night, Russia's V. M. Molotov and John Foster Dulles of the U. S. arranged to come to grips with the problem of how to make nuclear energy and aid to better living instead of a horrible device for sudden death.

Molotov and Dulles will meet again tonight after today's session with the other Big Four foreign ministers, Britain's Anthony Eden and France's Georges Bidault.

From this meeting may come an indication of just how far the Soviet Union is ready to go on Eisenhower's proposal of last Dec. 8 that the world powers principally involved with atomic development pool their energy and knowledge for peaceful purposes.

The decision to hold an atomic meeting was taken Friday night at a dinner in Molotov's headquarters, where Dulles and American staff members were guests.

Only an hour earlier they had left the Big Four conference table where they had battled over whether Germans from both sides of the Iron Curtain should sit with them in discussing Germany's future.

Molotov had demanded that the Germans be seated. But the Western ministers insisted that German representatives could speak in council only after a reunion through honest and free all-German elections. The Soviet Union has refused to go along with the election proposal.

Eden introduced a five-stage plan for German unification beginning with the holding of "genuinely free" elections throughout the east and west zones. As a prelude, he proposed a free movement of people through the country, a free press and free politics. This would amount to a lifting of the Iron Curtain which now divides East and West Germany.

The election would be followed with formation of an all-German government and conclusion of a peace treaty.

Postponed until next week were Molotov's proposals for admitting Red China to a five-power conference on easing world tensions, and a world disarmament meeting with the Chinese Reds present.

Marseille — (P) — A French military tribunal Friday sentenced 22 former German Gestapo agents to death. Twenty of those sentenced were tried in absentia. All were accused of war crimes during the Nazi occupation of France, ranging from murder to torture, arson and pillage. The two who were present were Rolf Muhler, 43, Gestapo commander in Limbach, and Theodore Schorer, 57, Gestapo secretary in Bingen.

Ottawa — G — The world is still "an unsafe place for the weak, the weary and the unwary," External Affairs Minister Pearson said Friday.

This was his general theme in a review of the world situation and Canadian foreign policy in the Commons' first external affairs debate at this session.

He said that though world tension has eased, Soviet "imperialism" remains and the West must not let down its guard.

At the same time, he announced that Canada has turned down the Indian proposal to reconvene the United Nations General Assembly Feb. 9. Outside the House, officials said Canada's decision was regarded as the "pivotal vote."

Mr. Pearson, leading off the debate before a packed diplomatic gallery, said easing of tension in Europe is due to increased unity and strength in the free world, especially within the North Atlantic alliance.

Since the death of Stalin, there had been some indication in Russia of a trend "away from the sterile rigidity of Stalinist policy." There now was more emphasis on collective leadership rather than individual dictatorship.

But though this and apparent Russian stress on increased production of consumer goods seemed to be hopeful signs, there were more factors "stubbornly discouraging." There was nothing to indicate the Russians want to reach reasonable agreements with the West.

Therefore, the West was prepared for a "long haul" in defence.

The plan is to see that the NATO forces which now exist and which will be strengthened are furnished with the most modern equipment possible, including new types of weapons; that they are given adequate support and are ready to go into action rapidly.

"Effective local defence of this kind, plus the certainty of swift and crushing retaliation, including atomic retaliation from the air, is a defence combination upon which we now rely to the terror of the aggressor."

Mr. Pearson received general support from John Diefenbaker, (PC—Prince Albert) opposition foreign affairs spokesman, M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, and Solon Low, Social Credit leader.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the minister had painted a "somewhat picture." Canadians must realize, in that case, that defence expenditures will continue "for a very considerable period of time."

There was nothing to show that the "Russian bear" has indeed become a panda. The Kremlin pattern of 3 years still remained, Mr. Coldwell said "startling changes" have occurred in Russia since Stalin's death.

"... Mankind has breathed a sigh of relief, and countless millions pray that, however slow the process, we may be able to move towards an era in which, little by little and bit by bit, the outstanding problems between the powerful nations will be settled... by intelligent negotiation."

One of the chief means of achieving this was to encourage trade in non-strategic materials between the West and Russia.

The West should maintain its strong position but at the same time not lose any opportunity to reach agreement on issues with the Soviet, no matter how minor they might be.

Montreal's Mad Slasher Is Continuing Reign Of Terror

By JOHN CHADWICK

Washington. — (P) — The Senate internal security sub-committee embarked today on an inquiry of what Chairman William E. Jenner (Rep. Ind.) called "the entire question of dispersal or destruction of files on Communist subversive activities."

Jenner, reiterating his charge that in 1944 a White House order directed the United States Navy to destroy some of its intelligence files on Communist activities, announced Friday night that the subcommittee would start hearings in the near future.

Another likely subject for the investigation appeared in a statement by Senator Styles Bridges (Rep. N.H.). Bridges said an order was issued for the destruction of "all records of a subversive nature about individuals in the army." This happened, he said, about the same time as the incident Jenner described.

Bridges said the order was rescinded after he and other members of the old Senate military affairs committee made a secret investigation.

In the forthcoming hearings by the internal security sub-committee, Jenner said: "All concerned will be given full opportunity to be heard under oath." He did not say who might be witnesses.

Jenner said Admiral Ernest J. King, wartime U.S. chief of naval operations, told Admiral Chester Nimitz, commander of the U. S. Pacific Fleet, that the order to destroy certain naval intelligence files came from the White House.

Both King and Nimitz in separate interviews said they had no recollection of such a conversation. Jenner said the statement quoting King was "carefully checked and has been completely verified."

Vienna — (P) — A Polish newspaper reaching Austria Friday said an influenza epidemic which has held Warsaw in its grip for two weeks is now spreading from the capital to the surrounding country. Recent Polish newspaper said Warsaw doctors were working 16 hours and more daily in a desperate effort to stop the epidemic.

Asia

Mr. Pearson said there must be no compromise with Communist military aggression in Asia or anywhere else. But it must not be assumed that all moves in Asia are Communist-inspired.

Attempts must be made to convince Asians that democracy can do more for the individual than communism.

Mr. Diefenbaker said Canada should not recognize Communist China at this time — but that did not mean "never."

He suggested that Britain would not have recognized the Chinese Communist government in 1949 if it could have foreseen what has since taken place in Korea.

Mr. Coldwell said the West should increase economic aid to south and southeast Asia.

It was "suicidal policy" for the United States to arm Pakistan while India objected. Anything which might drive India away from the West was "dangerous" and might be "disastrous" for the world.

Europe

Mr. Pearson said not too much should be expected from the Berlin conference of foreign ministers.

He acknowledged that some people are "disturbed" about the economic recovery of West Germany.

"But surely it is not realistic to base any permanent policy on the disarmament, the control and neutralization of 65,000,000 Germans inside their present boundaries."

Thus the European Defence Community, which would provide for 12 German divisions in a supra-national European army, was the best method to bring Germany into Western defence without the fear of a revival of German aggression.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the entire concept of European policy will require "tremendous changes" if France does not ratify the European Defence Community.

Germany

The attitude of Foreign Minister Molotov of Russia in his opening address to the Berlin conference "was simply a refusal to meet any of Western arguments for peace."

Mr. Coldwell said Germany is a "festering sore" to the peace of the world. As long as the country was divided, there was little hope of lasting peace.

Growth of German armed forces under EDC should not be accompanied by a revival of the German armament industry. The West should not allow German troops to be commanded by German officers.

Mr. Low said German rearmament is the answer to Western European defence. But the West should make certain that German military strength is never used for aggression.

Asia

Mr. Pearson said there must be no compromise with Communist military aggression in Asia or anywhere else. But it must not be assumed that all moves in Asia are Communist-inspired.

Attempts must be made to convince Asians that democracy can do more for the individual than communism.

Mr. Diefenbaker said Canada should not recognize Communist China at this time — but that did not mean "never."

He suggested that Britain would not have recognized the Chinese Communist government in 1949 if it could have foreseen what has since taken place in Korea.

Appeal Seen Of Decision On Seaways

Ithaca, N.Y. — (AP) — The chairman of the New York State power authority expects three private power companies to carry to the United States Supreme Court their fight to block the state from joining Ontario in a St. Lawrence power project.

The U.S. Court of Appeals in Washington Friday affirmed unanimously the right of the Federal Power Commission to grant the state a licence to be a partner in the proposed $800,000,000 undertaking.

The court had been asked to reverse or rescind the FPC's action by three petitioners, the Central Pennsylvania Coal Producers Association, the Lake Ontario Land Owners and Beach Protective Association Inc., and Public Power and Water Corp. of Trenton, N.J.

John E. Burton, power authority chairman, said he is "optimistic that work will get started this summer." He noted that the firms have 90 days in which to appeal, and said they probably will use the full period in order to delay the start of the project as long as possible.

Engineers estimate that the project will yield more than 12,000,000 kilowatt hours of hydroelectric power annually. It is to be located in the international rapids sections of the St. Lawrence, near Massena, N.Y., and Cornwall, Ont.

Public Power and Water was an unsuccessful applicant for the FPC licence.

Counsel for the three companies said they are uncertain of their next step, but agreed that apparently the only relief will lie in asking the U.S. Supreme Court to grant a writ of certiorari.

The purpose of such a petition would be to call to the high court's attention that the case involved is of unusual importance because it contains constitutional questions.

If the court decides not to consider such a petition—if filed—lawyers would interpret it to mean that the tribunal, in effect, agreed with the decision handed down by the appeals court.

Give Order For Housing Film Board

Ottawa. — (CP) — The government has approved a $5,230,000 tender of the National Film Board at Montreal.

Works Minister Winters said Friday night the treasury board has authorized his department to award the contract to the Hardy Construction Company of Toronto, which submitted the $5,230,000 tender.

The government's decision to proceed with the planned transfer of the film board to the Montreal suburb of Ville St. Laurent follows several months of controversy during which the City of Ottawa asked the government to keep the film board in the capital.

Opposition Leader Drew also has opposed transfer of the film board.

The building will include administration offices and a three-story sound stage encased on a double wall to keep out noises, especially those of jetcraft engines, from the nearby Canadian company.

The project, expected to take two years to build, also will include an auditorium for 300 people and seven smaller projection rooms.

In an attempt to keep the film board in Ottawa, the City of Ottawa several months ago offered to provide a free site for the building in the capital and sponsor a low-rental housing plan for film board employees.

The present operations of the film board are spread among several office buildings in Ottawa.

The film board has about 530 employees, with approximately 400 of them in Ottawa.

Montreal's Mad Slasher Is Continuing Reign Of Terror

Montreal. — (P) — The maniac who for one long week has terrorized this city of more than a million people, struck again Friday night, adding two new victims to his list of razor slashings.

The latest incidents came only a few hours after city police director J. Albert Langlois went on the air to tell the public "mass hysteria" gripped the city leading women to blame practically every injury on the slasher.

He asked co-operation in cornering him.

Nine new incidents were reported Friday but police would confirm that only two of them were the work of the phantom-like slasher.

They said a 32-year-old woman had been trapped by the slasher while taking a short-cut to work through a field in the west-end of the city.

Police did not identify the woman, but said she told them he grabbed her by the throat, threw her to the ground and slashed at her legs five times. The cuts were small but required medical attention.

Most of the suspects were later released. Two were held on charges of drunkenness.

"I am not attempting to minimize the situation," Mr. Langlois told a press conference. "The fact is a dangerous maniac is still at large."

Chamber Urges Catholic Board Withdraw Legislation For Machinery Tax Roll

A demand that the Sherbrooke Roman Catholic School withdraw its request for the right to contest the municipal valuation roll and to prepare its own valuation roll covering machinery and that instead it levy a supplementary three mills for the Roman Catholic School Board in a similar manner as is already being done by the Protestant School Board and applicable to the neutral panel is contained in a resolution passed by the Sherbrooke Chamber of Commerce and delivered to the member of the Roman Catholic School Commission yesterday afternoon.

A part of the text of the resolution reads as follows:

1. As a general principle, in the field of taxation, it is felt that all should shoulder their just share of the burden, provided it be fair and equitable as between categories of taxpayers, bearing in mind that education concerns ALL taxpayers, individual as well as corporate. Legislation which would have for object other considerations would tend to be detrimental to all classes, for the results might well be the contraction of industrial activity within the boundaries of the territory within which such legislation would apply with the result that unemployment would increase in that given territory and therefore material progress curbed, particularly in a field from which emanates the spark of well-organized activities.

2. Industry in the Sherbrooke area with its present burden of taxation, federal, provincial, municipal and school, can, at the moment, barely hold its own in a world of competition which it is trying to meet, so much so that with additional taxes, further inactivity would result—with all the implied consequences;

3. This further inactivity would necessarily offset any gain which the Board might derive if the legislation at present under consideration were adopted and the benefit accrued to it eventually hinder the progress of local industry and possibly prevent the incoming of new industries which are now needed in the Sherbrooke area to provide a well-balanced industrial group;

4. The acceptance of the proposed legislation would prove a departure from the generally adopted concepts of law in the Province of Quebec and undermine the authority and autonomy of the municipalities and further, its enactment would definitely create a greater disparity between rival industrial centres in the Province of Quebec to the detriment of industry in the Sherbrooke Area, etc.

Therefore the Chamber of Commerce of the City of Sherbrooke with due respect to the opinions of all concerned, offers the following recommendations for consideration by the City of Sherbrooke Catholic School Board:

a. That the School Board withdraw its request for the right to contest the municipal valuation roll and to prepare its own valuation roll concerning machinery; and that instead:

b. Levy a supplementary three mills for the Roman Catholic School Board in a similar manner as is already being done by the Protestant School Board and applicable to the Neutral Panel.

The imposition of the additional rate would augment their revenue by approximately $150,000 per year. That, with the additional revenue of approximately $181,000, created by increased municipal valuation would give the Board approximately $331,000 more per year to operate.

Should the above recommendations be implemented, the principle that education is everyone's business would be safeguarded and the additional amount of money made available would be sufficient to wipe out the present deficit and provide a total annual revenue commensurate with the needs of the Board.

ST. PAUL'S JUNIOR AUXILIARY—A happy evening was spent by members of the Junior Auxiliary of St. Paul's Church, Sherbrooke, when parents and friends attended the children's mid-season programme. Recitations, vocal and piano solos and a play were presented. Mrs. J. E. Morkill, who with Mrs. A. V. Ottivill, leads the Juniors, gave the address of welcome and a brief resume of the Junior Auxiliary training.

Membership cards, arm bands and badges were presented by Mrs. H. Lord. The programme ended with a worship period conducted by the Juniors as at their regular meetings. It was led by Anne Morkill, President of the branch, with all present participating.

Those taking part in the evening's programme were: Anne Morkill, Vice-President, Allola Graham, Secretary, Irene Watts, Treasurer, Rosemary Lofthouse, Junior Living Message Secretary, Shirley Valliere, Rita Hough, Joan Hammond, Louise Morin, Dawn Palmer, Wanda Black, Valerie Haynes, Judy Hillman and Anne Ives.

Collie Pup Still Seeks Owner As Other Dogs Go

Do you want a black and white collie—a farm type mongrel—one of the most intelligent of dogs? The local S.P.C.A. still has one to be adopted.

Fifty telephone calls were received by Mrs. J. W. Neilson of the Sherbrooke S.P.C.A. within three hours yesterday afternoon, of the appearance of the story in the Record saying that three dogs were looking for owners. Actually there were five strays before the calls arrived.

Four went in almost no time, one described as a pretty dog was of the Keeshond type. There was a black spaniel, another little black dog and a brown mongrel.

The collie, however, is still going begging.

Reason: he is too big for city apartments.

He is around two years of age and is all black except for a white collar, two brown spots over his eyes and white on the tip of his tail. He loves children and is a good watchdog, but has never shown signs of temper with those around him.

He is a great dog to heel. He still acts, sometimes, like a puppy.

Mrs. Neilson's phone number is 3-3228. "Collie" is now boarding with Noble Smith, 30 Church Street, Lennoxville, phone 3-4373. Mr. Smith says he hasn't seen a better dog for a long time.

Now $50 All 2,196 Entries Fail To Break Crossword

Once again the prize-money continues to mount because none of the 2,196 entries in this week's crossword puzzle competition was correct. Some were close. Some not so close. But all had at least two mistakes. So ten dollars will be added to the pool which thus becomes fifty dollars. Really something worth while to aim for.

As usual, notes short and long accompanied the entries. Some were hopeful, some resigned, some happy and some just wistful. But most of them expressed a common thought—that it was time Finance Minister Abbott did something to enrich the kitty.

For instance:

"This makes $1.05 I have invested in postage to help Mr. Abbott show a large surplus. How about wishing me a little luck this week, providing I am right."

But think of the problems facing this woman:

"Here goes another eight cents. My daughter and myself are still trying. But we aren't the only dumb ones. As for the puzzles, they are puzzles. I see them in my sleep. Anyway, loser or winner, here goes. I'll keep right on trying until the postage goes up."

And Mr. Abbott is also in the mind of this writer, who comments:

"Income tax time is drawing near.

"Numerous debts which cause the chill.

"This forty bucks would still my feet.

"And help to meet the greedy bills."

And then, of course, there is the sporting spirit reflected in many of them, as ably described by one: "I don't know why I did it! But I did. Just can't pass it by. Still hoping I guess."

Well, there's more to hope for this time.

From another:

"Here we are again—and there's some consolation in knowing we're in good company—because there are so many of us! Cheers, dears!—the sillier the puzzles get—the harder they get too! Keep 'em rolling."

We sure will.

One contestant asks if it is permissible to enter two answers under the same name.

The answer is "Yes."

The only restriction is that no more than two answers may be entered from a single household. And, so until next week.

NO. 35

EXPLANATION OF MORE DIFFICULT CLUES:

- ACROSS:
4. HOLD is best. Men working in the COLD do not need any particular toughness, as they can be adequately dressed, and their work can keep them warm. Men working in the HOLDS of vessels must be tough to handle the heavy cargo.
 12. ALIVE is best. Many men are very much ALIVE, and various ways and nothing is thought of it.
 16. TOY is best. The clue says "child" which is a pointer, to TOY "Everybody expects JOY."
 23. A BAND of musicians certainly can; but a BIND in the road may be only a gentle one which can be taken at normal speed.
 25. NONE is best because in baseball no one person (or NONE) constitutes the whole team. NINE is not right because the clue says "the whole team" which includes the spare pitchers, substitutes, etc. Besides the NINE men on the field, thus NINE does not constitute the "whole team."
 26. GATE is best. A good GATE or a poor GATE depends on how much money was taken in, thus money is involved. GAME is not as good since most of the many types of games do not involve money. A GAGE or a pledge need not necessarily involve money.
 27. SOY is best. SOY is a source which the dictionary says is made in China or Japan. Thus an Oriental would make it best. There is no record that an Oriental makes a good SPY.
- DOWN:
2. COUNTING is better. The clue says "unnecessary." This favors COUNTING because if he were "COUNTING" he would probably resent all interference, unnecessary or otherwise.
 6. DICE provides the stronger link with the theme of gambling than does DIVE, a low resort not necessarily dedicated to that purpose.
 7. SPACE is the more comprehensive since using his SPACE would be INCLUDED in the various tasks involved in making good use of his SPACE.
 13. LIVES is best. The true and potentially successful actor is he who "LIVES" the part, quite regardless of the extent to which he LIKES it.
 21. LOSER is a self-sufficient answer without further explanation in the clue. LOWER needs to be "spurred" or "discarded" in order to be a candidate for better disappointment.
 23. BEG is best for the clue infers it is somewhat of a cure. TO BEG may help, but it is no REAL cure. To BET (this is not to say, to WIN) is no cure at all.
 24. DAY is best. "An outing" suggests a picnic or trip out of doors, very dependent on the weather (day). DAD only applies to FAMILY affairs.

Man Producing For A Hoard

The Hon. Lester Pearson, our Minister of External Affairs, has nothing if not the courage of his convictions. He told an audience gathered in London, Ont., this week that high prices were not the road to real and lasting prosperity.

Said Mr. Pearson: "Except from the most short-sighted point of view, it is not in the interest of the farmer in either exporting or importing countries to produce at prices, often supported by government action, which will discourage consumption and involve subsidies which cannot be sustained indefinitely."

Mr. Pearson was speaking mainly about the huge stocks of produce being held by the U.S. Credit Commodity Corporation. Was he addressing business men, or bankers, advertising experts or a meeting of the Bar? No. He was speaking with the calm of a Daniel before the annual meeting of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture.

The Minister has joined hands with the many who believe that government interference with the course of Nature frequently has results far other than those intended.

There are probably few persons who, taken all in all, work harder than the farmer. There are few more at the mercy of the weather. There are few more worthy of help.

But is the buying and the holding of great surpluses likely to help the farmer in the long run? It appears that it is becoming increasingly evident that the buying and hoarding of these huge stocks may in the long run do far more harm than good.

It is easily understood how acceptable and sustaining these purchases are to the farmer whose immediate need for a market must far outweigh in his eyes the farther-off considerations. It is no fun to raise a crop and have it on your hands. Surplus buying on a large scale, however, encourages growers to continue to raise unwieldy crops of the same products. It ignores the age-old rule of supply and demand and keeps the economic scales out of balance.

More, it is not true kindness in the long run. It keeps a man doing a job in a measure that is not necessary. It is like retaining an employee who is manifestly unfitted for his work; a "kindness" which has resulted in the ruin of many a square-peg-in-a-round-hole life.

Surplus-buying is, in some instances, a necessary expedient. Maintained as a policy over the years it frustrates Nature, creates new and often unforeseen problems and keeps men producing for a Hoard instead of for the public needs.

We Agree With Mr. Maugham

Somerset Maugham, still shrewdly observant at 80, finds Britons much better off now than at the turn of the century when "the poor lived in squalid, verminous slums and the rich ate so much that they grew enormously fat."

Mr. Maugham adds his belief that for all the hardships Britain has undergone the great mass of the people are better off than ever before. Too: "We are less class conscious, less arrogant and less prudish."

Better off than ever before? Can this be true of Canada? What about the price rise which has now deprived the 1937 dollar of half its purchasing power? And, so far as the more fortunate are concerned, what about the income tax, in many countries unknown at the century's turn; in others so light as to be laughable?

Somerset Maugham's views come as a bracer; we hope, too, that they may reach some of the people we know.

For, despite the rise in prices; despite the phenomenal spurt in taxes it is our belief that the great majority of Canada's people as well as better off materially than they ever were before.

In the rural districts of our country, as in the cities, many are still poor. But their relative number, according to our observation, has shrunk.

We can remember families in remote parts, and some not so remote, whose ordinary winter diet consisted of bread and potatoes, molasses and rice, milk from the family cow — and little more. Meat was had on occasion but was a luxury; too often the greater part of the family's meat-on-the-hoof had had to be sold.

The sons and daughters of these families sit down today to tables which bear little resemblance to the restricted fare of old. They drive weekly to nearby centres returning with fruits and vegetables, with fresh-grown delicacies and delicacies in the tin. Their children have the benefit of cod liver oil and vitamin tablets and grandparents, now gone, would lift their eyebrows — if not saw something vehement — if they could see how often those children are taken to the neighborhood doctor for a check-up.

Cars and radios are deemed necessities. Where electric power is available the kilowatt brownies do a good part of the household chores.

Many city workers, not all, know a scale of living they have never known before. As for the well-to-do their higher standards and their comforts have increased in like proportion.

Yes, Mr. Maugham, we, too, are better off. Most of us still have a hard time — an aggravating, worrying, a stimulating time — to make ends meet but we know that it is largely because we have placed those ends wider apart. And if we, too, have improved in social qualities this may be the greater gain.

Washington Column

CONFUSING BRICKER AMENDMENT — REWRITE REPORT STATEMENT SPARKS WOMEN — REVEALING STATISTIC
Washington — (NEA) — Delegations of club women from 17 states are in Washington this week to lobby for Ohio Sen. John W. Bricker's controversial constitutional amendment. This is the proposal to limit the President's powers to make treaties and international agreements so that they would not supersede U.S. law. It's a terribly complex subject, and the women aren't too sure what it's all about. Neither are the menfolk, for that matter.

Anyway, at least three women have been trying to do something to simplify the legal language in this business. They don't see why housewives should be expected to understand it, the way it's written.

It all started when Mrs. Louis Barker of Chicago and Mrs. Robert Murray of Oshkosh, Wis., decided they wanted to see the Bricker amendment passed. But they found they were completely stopped because they couldn't understand the meaning. So they have been trying to write it in "kitchen" English.

Independently, another woman, Mrs. Clifford Guest of Bethesda, Md., made the same discovery. She received a Bricker-amendment pamphlet put out by its chief sponsor, Frank Holman, a past president of the American Bar Association. Mrs. Guest took this pamphlet and a copy of the Senate hearings on the amendment to her own lawyer, and told him to simplify it.

The simplification she received filled seven pages. It still wasn't too clear, but the hopeful housewife had 100 copies run off and she has been bravely trying to give them away.

HouseWork's Enough
Ex-newspaper career gal Mrs. John F. Kennedy has let it be known that she has no intentions of trying to juggle a career and her marriage. The recent bride of the young Democratic senator from Massachusetts says she thinks she'll have enough to do just keeping house.

Double Talk Undoubled
A powerful lot of rewriting had to be done on President Eisenhower's economic report to Congress, to make it read like English. The first draft from the experts came up in the usual double-talk jargon which economists always seem to use in writing their reports. When some of the Cabinet officers got hold of it and questioned a few of its apparent conclusions, it was discovered that the economists had meant just the opposite of what their remarks were interpreted to say.

So the whole document was put through the wringer to make sure that the report agreed with the President's policy. Fortunately, this mix-up was discovered in plenty of time for a thorough revision.

Prime For The Job
Donald R. Wilson, former national commander of the American Legion, a former Democrat and a member of the law firm of Steptoe and Johnson of Washington and Clarkburg, W. Va., is reported to have the inside track for the job as chief counsel for Senator Jenner's Internal Security subcommittee. The job was vacated when the able Robert Morris was elected to a New York judgeship.

Wilson, a protégé of former Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson, was a big shot in the Democratic Party for many years. Last year he announced that he was leaving the Democratic Party to become a Republican.

Wilson is 36, a native of Detroit. As Legion head he proved himself a rabid foe of communism. He sparked the Legion's demand for the removal of Dean Acheson as Secretary of State. He once said it was his hope to see the United Nations building in New York slide into the East River.

Remark Sparks Demand
President Eisenhower stuck his neck out, at a press conference by declaring that a woman's brain and heart could be used just as well as a man's to be a President of the United States, but that women had too much sense to take the job.

American Association of University Women has taken the President up on this neat evasion, however, by demanding that he name a woman as one of his administrative assistants.

More Women Immigrants
A new government statistic, which old maids are said to prefer not to think about, is that immigration figures show more women entering this country than men. The ratio, since 1932, has been approximately 60 per cent women to 40 per cent men.

He Knew

By Rev. B. S. Murray, M.A.

Captain John — that's what all most everybody called him. He was friendly, colorful, jolly, different. With him we invariably associated the sea — ships — far-away places — thrilling stories — adventures extraordinary.

His wisdom, well, when you chatted with him you discovered that as well as his aptness as a spiritual conversationalist, all expressed in the language of the sea. With high-sounding phrases he was impatient, making it abundantly clear that he preferred simple, direct homespun words. "Don't you know that the Ten Commandments have strong words and their average is four letters each?" he repeatedly asked us.

Hold On!
Talking with Uncle John was always an event for you never quite knew what he would say. Off he started me, like the day he said: "No man can have two goals," when I thought we could have many. But then Uncle John was paraphrasing the Master's "No man can serve two masters. You cannot serve God and mammon. Surely here is sage January, 1954, advice, isn't it?"

Then I recall his telling me: "When in a tight place, I keep off the rocks by keeping level a-going," and I found myself counselling myself to look unto Jesus the Author and Finisher of our faith knowing that come sickness, need, adversity, anything, we can trust the Divine Pilot who sees beyond the skyline — the goal — and never makes mistakes! So with a record which shows that He never lost a ship entrusted to Him, then why not commit the ship of your life to Him? For this you'll never be sorry!

Put your hand in the Hand of God and trust Him to choose out the path for you. Then shall you walk aright. You see the kingdom that we seek is God's; that way that leads to it must also be God's. In His will is our peace (Matt. 26: 39); therein lies the secret to happy, successful, sunlit living.

Let us then trust the Holy Spirit as our Guide, Strength, Wisdom and All, in things great and small, and so press on with hearts fixed on Him in that track of faith till we come where He wouldst have us. And isn't it both comforting and challenging to know that a ship, loving, heavenly Father or, and all things so unmistakably that we behold therein His Hand?

As He was with our forefathers helping them, so, we beseech Him to so order and hallow, rule and govern us, according to His commandments, that 1954, may be a memorable year, spiritual and otherwise. I can still hear the old Captain say: "Set your soul-ship toward the goal and hold it!"

On Things Above
Well do I remember that other time when he said: "When I get into a fog, I climb the mast and get an outlook above, and set my course according." This was the old captain's way of exhorting, "Set your affections on things above, not on things on the earth." All Will Be Well Yet

As Capt. John and I chatted one evening by the silvery sea I remember how he fascinated me with his knowledge of the stars and their role in navigation. He made a dramatic pause and slowly said: "Should you ever get as dark as tonight, don't forget to look up towards the stars, knowing that the stars still shine somewhere — with a special one for to guide the humble — trust in God and do the right." Yes, trust in God and do the right is the philosophy life on the ocean wave has taught me these 50 years and more. You can't escape from God! Wherever you go, you are still in His Hand. The great Hebrew writer had learned this great lesson — that we are ever in God's Hand — when he wrote: "The eternal God is thy refuge and underneath are the everlasting arms."

"So," the captain went on, "when the dark is so deep I can't see a yard ahead and all seems lost, I join Chiang Kai-shek's army, leaving him to harvest it alone — an impossible task for one old man. A burly figure appeared, running along the raised path between the rice paddies, continually looking over his shoulder as if in fear for his life. Seeing Old Yuan, he loped up the incline and threw itself at the old man's feet. "Hide me, good father! I implore you!"

Old Yuan's grip on the hoe relaxed as he recognized the overgrown lad as the simple-minded but cheerful worker who had been conscripted from a neighboring farm. "From whom would you hide, Lun-ko?" he demanded severely. "The men who took me away. They made us shoot firebrands that kill, I not like to kill, I run away. Hide me from them, I pray you!" Old Yuan wrinkled face tightened. Was it possible the conscription officers had not seen that this one was different from the others? Surely the gods had taken pity on an old man's plight and sent this lad that his rice crop might be saved. The sound of an approaching motorcar cut short his conjecture. "Quick, into the straw crib!"

Scarcely had he latched the rickety door when a touring car containing two uniformed men drew up on the dusty road. One of them alighted and came swiftly along the path. "I look for a farm lad called Lun-ko," he announced, his keen black eyes sweeping the surroundings. "Come he here?"

Old Yuan trembled within himself. Surely this soldier in shiny boots was not one to be easily outwitted. But, summoning his courage and praying that the gods who had already been so charitable would continue to approve, he gestured toward a large bird that soared lazily over his fields. "As you can see, there are only myself and the buzzard."

The officer, instead, brought his gaze to rest on the straw crib. "Dreamed you such an ugly creature could have such grace?" Old Yuan cried hastily. Then, pointing excitedly, "See, it lights!"

The officer turned and looked at the ungainly crimson-wattled bird settling itself awkwardly on a stump. "He appears quite fierce but he is not," Old Yuan pursued eagerly. "He helps me by catching mice and grasshoppers that destroy my grain." Then timidly he asked, "Have you not known like men with strong bodies but no heart for fighting?"

A sneeze from the straw crib caused Old Yuan's heart to contract and brought the officer's attention around sharply. But instead of striding toward it and demanding officiously to look inside, he merely stared at it intently. Then he again turned toward the rice fields that glistened pale gold in the sun, stirred by a gentle breeze. "Just you and the buzzard, eh?" he said finally.

Old Yuan's head sank to his chest. Now he would be manacled and taken to jail for harboring a fugitive. His fields would wither and rot, and many would go hungry.

"In America where I once studied," the officer said, "I read of a general who stated, 'An army even though the Senate approved, such a divorce treaty couldn't go into effect if the states were unwilling to change their divorce laws to conform.'"

The late summer sun beat down on Old Yuan's narrow bent shoulders as he sat in his dooryard. It turned the rice in his paddy fields into fat yellow kernels, but Old Yuan found no pleasure in it. His only son, impatient at working in the fields when there was fighting to be done, had shouted defiance at him and gone off with the others to join Chiang Kai-shek's army, leaving him to harvest it alone — an impossible task for one old man.

MORAL IS CLEAR: WATCH OVERCALLS

A hand that is worth an opening bid is not always worth an overcall. When you open the bidding, it's difficult for the opponents to double for penalties and make it stick; hence your risk is slight. Moreover, you can reasonably hope for game or even slam since neither opponent has shown any strength. You therefore have much to gain and little to lose.

The opposite is true when you overcall. It's easy for the enemy to double for penalties. Such a double is obviously for penalties and not for a takeout. Even if your overcall is undoubted, you can seldom expect a game and practically never a slam against the strength shown by an opponent's opening bid. Hence you have much to lose and little to gain.

The danger of an overcall is greatest when you are vulnerable and when both opponents bid. These facts were overlooked by one of the players in the recent national tournament in Dallas.

During the mixed pair tournament, I bid one diamond on the West cards of the hand shown today. My wife bid two clubs with the East cards, and South bid two hearts with more courage than wisdom.

I naturally doubled, but I didn't really expect to collect a penalty of 1400 points! However, this is just the sort of disaster that can overwhelm a player who makes unsound overcalls.

I opened the four of clubs, and my wife took the ten of clubs and returned her singleton diamond. I took two top diamonds and gave her a diamond ruff. My wife had discarded the nine of spades on the second high diamond, and she led high clubs.

Declarer miserably discarded a diamond on the third high club, whereupon my wife shifted to a trump. Declarer ducked, and I won with the nine. I led a spade for my wife to ruff, and I still had another trump trick coming to me. South made only three trump tricks.

CARD SENSE
Q—The bidding has been: North East South West
1 Heart Pass 2 Clubs Pass
2 Spades Pass

You, South, hold: Spades 7-2, Hearts 8-5, Diamonds J-3, Clubs A-K-Q-J-9-6-3. What do you do?

A—Bid four clubs. The jump bid shows a solid suit, and the fact that you get past three no-trump indicates that you have no stopper in the unbid suit. If your partner has enough strength in aces and kings he can bid a slam in clubs even if he has a singleton club (possibly with no clubs at all).

TODAY'S QUESTION
The bidding is the same as in the question just answered. You, South, hold: Spades K-Q-J-3-2, Heart 8, Diamond 4, Clubs A-K-J-9-6-3. What do you do?
Answer: Monday

Hunters Averaged Kills But Caribou Still On Increase

St. John's, Nfld. — Although every hunter averaged at least two kills last year, caribou are steadily increasing in Labrador.

Native hunters say they never saw caribou so plentiful and some of the herds sighted along the coast had as many as 150 animals. Some say the animals are being driven to the coast by the construction of the Labrador railway, but others say the increase in general throughout the territory.

Caribou was almost extinct in Labrador a few years ago when herds were slaughtered wholesale. At that time hides were drawing high prices in Europe.

Capt. Harry Walters, director of wild life services, says the present rate of kills does not affect the natural increase.

BISHOP'S BULLETIN BOARD

Practical joking at Bishop's took a traditional turn last week-end when some patriotic-minded student or students decided to bring the Bishop's crest back to the University. Inspired no doubt by the fact brought to light at the last Association Meeting that the University possesses no crest of its own, since the present crest is not registered with the College of Heralds in London, the pranksters absconded with the huge gold, red and white Bishop's crest which normally stands at the entrance to Bishop's College School across the river, and mounted it majestically at the top of the Old Arts Building tower.

As a matter of fact, it looked rather impressive, and many were in favor of leaving it there. The idea was that since the crest was originally the University's and was only taken by the school many years after the founding of Bishop's University, it would be only right and proper that it should be returned to its lawful domicile after years of absence.

However, wiser heads prevailed and lest a university vs school war should be precipitated, the crest was removed after a few days.

ACTIVITIES

Scottish dancing under the direction of Dr. N. Wilson, head of the department of philosophy is still going strong at the university. The only prerequisites are a pair of running shoes (of any description), and no previous experience. The class proved their worth at the Drama Night staged last night.

Four entries were received at Bishop's for the NFCUS national art contest, and the Bishop's winner is Jane Quintin, third year Arts student, Jane, who has been painting for some time in oils carried off the honors with a surrealistic effort of an orange stump flaming in front of a windswept sky.

Bishop's University contingent of the COTC held an annual meeting in the William Street arm, amid general signs of festivity. It was the first such gathering for the contingent since its reformation three years ago, and it was claimed such a success that it will probably become an annual affair.

Before the thaw set in at the beginning of the week, the natural waters of the Massawippi and St. Francis rivers provided many students with excellent facilities for long distance skating. The frozen surface of both rivers, swept clean of snow were dotted with many flying figures early in the week-end, and some reports indicated many skaters ranged far afield in their wanderings.

The chapel choir Friday night sallied forth to enjoy the full moon and the smooth ice surface in a mixed party, while reports of a very successful midnight expedition Sunday night were also heard.

SPORTS

Last Saturday night's 4-2 victory over C.M.R. was a sweet one for Ivan Dugre's pucksters who have not won an intercollegiate hockey game for two years. Last year, the Purple and White team skated through a winless season, so the victory ended a drought. At the time, the win might have been more convincing than it was, for Frank Boland scored what he thought was sure goal in the second period. He claimed that the puck went in the net cleanly, hit the middle post at the back of the netting and bounced out. But the goal judge and the officials ruled that the puck hit the goal post. Either way, it was tough luck for Frank.

Tuesday night, the Gators were beaten in a rather poor display by Ecole Superior in the Junior B league. The Purple and White squad blew a 3-0 lead in the 64th minute, but were unable to hold it. However, with another big intercollegiate game coming up against Sir George Williams at the local arena tonight, Ivan Dugre and his charges are aiming to improve their performance and pull off another win. Last year, Sir George beat the Gators 7-3 in Montreal, so Bishop's is out for sweet revenge.

On the basketball scene, John Rochon's Purple and White cagers split a pair over the week, defeating Magog Lakers 53-39 in Magog, and then in a sudden reversal of form, losing out to the Orleans High School quintet 50-38 at the Memorial gym on Wednesday night. A proposed trip to Laval University scheduled for tomorrow afternoon had to be cancelled, but it is hoped the Bishop's will get down to Quebec to play Laval some time in the near future.

The St. Francis Valley badminton match versus the Fusiliers, a return engagement, had to be called off through uncontrollable circumstances and a practice was held Thursday night instead. In the last meeting between the two clubs, Bishop's two teams, the A and B soundly trounced the soldiers 4-1 in both matches.

DRAMATICS

The "amateurs" put on an excellent show for Drama Night last night at the Memorial Gym, and showed that there is still much dramatic talent to be had in the university. With casts composed of aspiring thespians who were not in any of the university plays, the short productions brought universal satisfaction, both to actors and spectators.

Featured were a play in French, "A Louer Meuble," a short excerpt from Noel Coward's "Cavalcade" and an original skit by Don Keuhner, entitled "Love in the Library." This last selection showed an imaginative touch, inasmuch as it was conducted in complete silence, regards dialogue. Music by a travinsky accompanied the actors and actresses in their gestures,

The Doctor Says

CHANGES IN ADOLESCENT GIRLS MAY COME AT DIFFERENT AGES

By Edwin P. Jordan, M.D.
A correspondent writes that her 15-year-old daughter has not yet shown signs of maturity, although most of her companions have. The physical changes associated with adolescence in girls do not always come at the same age, nor are they completed at the same rate. Generally speaking, there is no cause for undue concern if there is delay until 14 or 15, or if they start before the age of 13. Apparently, these changes are affected by family background, racial descent, climate, and other influences.

The appearance of the physical changes of adolescence in girls can be quite a shock to the girls unless properly managed. Every girl approaching 12 should be properly instructed, preferably by her mother, and made to realize that about one and one-half million other girls in the country are going through approximately the same experience at the same time.

The changes of adolescence should be accepted as a step towards maturity by the girls and by their parents. When this is not done an unexpected event may cause some emotional distress.

It should be explained that the changes about to take place are the result of increased activity on the part of those hormones or internal glands which have to do with femininity.

Girls Become Nervous

After adolescence begins, and usually for two or three years thereafter, girls are normally somewhat more nervous and less consistent in their behavior than they were before or will be later.

Parents should not worry about the seeming personality change which often occurs. When an adolescent girl is unreasonable, parents do well to ignore it altogether, take it calmly, and yet continue to be firm about those things which are really important.

If then God so clothe the grass, which is today in the field, and tomorrow is cast into the oven; how much more will he clothe you, O ye of little faith? . . . Fear not, little flock; for it is your Father's good pleasure to give you the kingdom.”

African Mission Work Described At Cowansville

Cowansville, Jan. 30.—Speaking of the missionary work in Africa at the January meeting of the W. M. S. of Emmanuel United Church, Mrs. Gerald Fee said that in previous years Africa had been known more by the flash of diamonds and the gleam of gold until the Bible came to be read and taught among the natives.

In the northern part of Africa the people are mostly Moslems and in the south of this vast continent the people are mostly whites and Negroes. They are slow to convert but very faithful Christians once they learn the love of Christ.

One new member was enrolled at this meeting. Mrs. W. J. Beattie, who kindly offered to entertain the meeting of February 18 at her home.

New "Sherbrooke Apartment" Feature Of North Ward

Fourteen Residential Units Contained In Recently-Completed Apartment House

Sherbrooke Apartments is the name given one of the most up-to-date residential buildings in the North End of the City. This attractive building is owned by Armand Nadeau, Q.C., successful lawyer and prominent citizen of Sherbrooke.

The Sherbrooke Apartments are situated on the corner of Prospect and Ontario Streets.

The building measures 120 feet by 34 feet, stressing length so that it may afford a view of Ontario Street, beautiful and lined with trees characteristic of many of the streets in this vicinity.

Residents also enjoy many other conveniences. Churches and schools are nearby. Buses run at ten minute intervals to the centre of the city.

This three-story building contains fourteen units two in the basement and four on each other floor. They are situated so that tenants may use either of the entrances with equal ease. The building itself is on a small terrace and is very pleasing to the eye mainly due to the excellent choice of materials used in the exterior construction and the sobriety of line in design. The whole exterior is made of brick which are installed for the general safety and well being and comfort of the tenant, proving that the ultra modern exterior is not deceiving.

There is also a back veranda for each tenant. Artificial stone and ornamental ironwork combine to make the exterior most attractive.

The interior decoration is both sensible and tasteful. The ceilings and floors are finished in plaster and painted white and the corridors are done in gay pleasing colors. The stairways are low and wide. To insure safety, they are illuminated by glass squares which run the full height of the building. There are openings at each landing which are framed in wrought iron.

The basement is all cement. It contains the central heating system and also storage lockers for the added convenience of the tenants. The floors of the units are varnished hardwood and the doors of laminated wood, whitened and varnished.

There are convenient and discreet little niches in the walls of each apartment so that one may install telephones and other appliances. The bathroom (tub and shower) present pleasing spectacles done tastefully in colors which are in contrast with the rest of the apartment.

The kitchens are also gems of convenience. They have white porcelain sinks, large roomy cupboards and concealed ironing boards. The kitchen-

except for a small space beneath the ground floor windows and the entrances which are made of artificial stone. Iron railings flank each cement stairway and they blend effectively with the wrought iron balconies attached to each front unit. Attractive marquees grace each entrance. The apartments are built so that each has either a front or rear balcony adjoining. A unit consists of four rooms and a bathroom.

These apartments were built by Castonguay and Cayouette well known contractors and is so constructed so as to admit the maximum amount of lighting during the day. The windows are the "demier et" framed in aluminum, easily adjustable to seasonal temperatures, and which allow more daylight to enter the home than any other type window. Towards the end of the day a simple automatic device automatically turns on all the entrance, corridor and stairway lights and turns them off again in the morning.

These are but a few of the many modern conveniences

National Health Week In Dominion Is Opening Tomorrow

World Health Organization Offering Hints For Poliomyelitis Prevention

As part of a worldwide battle against polio, the World Health Organization Expert Committee on Poliomyelitis is considering worldwide distribution of printed polio precautions for laymen and health officers. This action would be merely part of a worldwide investigation of the mysterious disease, which the committee hopes to inaugurate in the near future.

The investigation program would also involve setting up of a number of research laboratories in all continents to act as WHO regional laboratories. To date, the committee points out, polio is a disease that can neither be prevented nor cured. The majority of people who are stricken by the disease throw it off before they show any symptoms but not before they have passed the disease to others. This, of course, makes the progress of polio almost impossible to chart. The transformation of the relatively uncommon "infantile paralysis" of the nineteenth century into epidemic poliomyelitis of almost worldwide distribution presents today one of the most formidable problems of public health, according to the committee.

The following suggestions are made for action by health authorities in times of epidemics:

1. Avoid operations for removal of tonsils and adenoids during epidemics.
2. The activity of people suffering from an illness in which polio is suspected should be restricted for a week.

3. People in intimate association with polio cases should take the minimum amount of exercise from five to 21 days after exposure. Fatigue from any cause, including travel, should be avoided.

4. Diphtheria and whooping cough vaccination should normally continue during the polio season, but not in time of severe epidemics, especially if the combined absorbed vaccine is used.

Avoid large-scale use during epidemics of intramuscular injections of irritant character, e.g., organic arsenicals and heavy metals.

The public should be advised to take the following precautions:

1. Wash hands before eating and after toilet.
2. Keep flies away from all food, and thoroughly wash all uncooked food, such as fruit and vegetables.
3. Avoid intimate association (shaking hands, common utensils, common towel, etc.) with members of a family in which a case of polio has occurred within three weeks.
4. Treat all febrile illness with caution. Rest in bed, or at least the avoidance of over-exertion for a week, is advisable.
5. Avoid over-exertion.
6. General movement of people into and out of communities where the disease is prevalent should be discouraged.
7. Schools need not be closed nor public gatherings forbidden. Swimming pools with adequately chlorinated water should not be closed, but should not be over-

Every Citizen As Ambassador Of Health Urged

Good health is one of the primary aims of present day education, says the Canadian Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation. It is important that we should bring our problems to the fore in an effort to discover if something concrete can be done to eliminate them.

Our true objective—the promotion of health—has become secondary in many cases because we have become so involved in non-essential details. While parents have the first responsibility for the health of their children, the co-operation of others who work with children is required. One of our greatest problems is how best to obtain and to maintain this co-operative effort. We must put forth every effort not only to interest people in health but must create a desire within them to promote health among the people they themselves contact. This spreading and putting into practice adequate health knowledge will lead to more satisfactory living for all concerned. It is our inability to convince people that living a certain way influences their state of health for good or bad that presents a very vital problem.

A co-ordinated effort on the part of the schools, community and government could lead to the creation of desirable health habits which will be practiced throughout life. Improved teaching methods, in-service training, greater allotment of time to health teaching and a more adequate follow-up program to ensure correction of remedial defects, would all add up to a more efficient program. Ways must be discovered to give a place of importance to the subject of health in the minds of young people and to provide opportunities for them to use the knowledge which they are given. Health education will be meaningless and useless unless the health educator stresses to the pupil that they must practice and preach the knowledge which they receive. Improved teaching methods, greater allotment and more adequate follow-up methods would greatly strengthen health teaching in the Schools.

We are able to offer you our high quality service and workmanship as before.

The Canadian National Institute for the Blind

Sherbrooke, January 30th, 1954.

Dear Friend:

Just think of what it means to a sightless person to know that there is an organization of trained experienced people upon whom he or she can rely for advice or help, at all times.

The Canadian National Institute for the Blind is such an organization of men and women whose every effort is directed towards assisting the blind in every way possible.

Theirs is not a spasmodic service but one which continues day after day, throughout the whole year.

All Canadian National Institute for the Blind field secretaries and home teachers who are blind themselves, are given extensive preliminary training to fit them for their various important duties in the districts which they service. In turn, these teachers train sightless persons to be self-reliant, and in many cases, self supporting.

During the last 23 years the Institute has been developing a system of aid to the sightless that become more and more efficient and helpful as new methods of instruction have been developed and applied.

The Work of the Institute also includes constant efforts in the prevention of blindness especially with school children with defective sight. Corrective scientific methods are used.

Institute teachers go to the houses of the sightless to instruct in braille reading and writing, handicrafts, domestic science and the care of children in addition to imparting advice and encouragement.

The pamphlet which you will receive in the mail describes the many services that are available to all blind persons in Canada regardless of race or religion.

In the six counties in this district there are 280 registered blind persons to whom services are now being given, and as you may well imagine, the expenses of the Institute in providing this and other services are very heavy.

Our annual campaign for funds occurs this year during the week starting February 1st, 1954.

The canvasser who will call on you and all the Campaign officers are giving their services voluntarily to help in this excellent cause.

Please give as much as you possibly can, remembering that your contribution will be carefully used to bring relief and happiness into the lives of those who are so severely handicapped. This is an opportunity for us who are blessed with good sight, to help our fellow citizens who are blind.

Yours sincerely,
C. G. BRYANT,

N. L. AMIRALTY,
Co-chairmen.

National Health Requires Public Consciousness

The Canadian Medical Association launched Health Week, 1954, with the following statement:

The Canadian Medical Association is glad to endorse the efforts of the Health League of Canada and to commend that organization on its sponsorship of National Health Week. We all require to be reminded of the advances which have been made in the conquest of disease and disability, for Canada's record in this respect is a matter of pride.

Pride without complacency should be our attitude because there remains much to be done before all of our fellow citizens can claim to enjoy that state of good health which we plan for them.

Public health is largely a matter of the knowledge and the services which are available, personal acceptance and an act of the individual's will are required. The Chief Medical Officer of Health for Great Britain recently expressed this concept in the following words: "It is not sufficient that the man in the street should rest in a quiet acceptance of all the benefits of a steadily improving environment as if they were part

They are not so; they require each one of us to make efforts on behalf of ourselves and our families. This is the message of National Health Week.

999,999 Faces All Look Alike To Joe Kaliff

By WARD CANNEL
NEA Staff Correspondent
New York.—(NEA)—Joe Kaliff, as it is said on Broadway, was giving them the once-over-lightly. Each girl in her turn—hurry, lagging, loping, mincing, striding, meandering—came under the Kaliff scrutiny.

"Nothing," he said. "Absolutely nothing. It's getting to be that a profitable to many companies, Joe said. Cosmetics and tweezers manufacturers were called in. Jewelers and hair-stylists were needed. The false-eyelash trade was probably rushed to death. All the girl needed, he said, was a face and the will to diet.

"If I wanted to make a million dollars," Joe sighed, "I'd get out of this business and start manufacturing identification necklaces. American women are going to need them."

In an effort to turn the deadpan tide, the Caricaturists Society each year draws up a list of the faces that stand out from the crowd. These are the faces, the experts say, that have helped their owners to fame.

High on this year's list: President Eisenhower; New York Yankee manager Casey Stengel; actor Clark Gable. Among the women: UN's Madame V. L. Pandit; actress Tallulah Bankhead; and comedienne Lucille Ball.

"The personality," a Society statement claims, "comes through."

This was a considered, professional opinion from Joseph Kaliff, president of the Caricaturists Society experts who earn a good living in the revival of an ancient art form.

The object of caricature: to capture facial expressions with as few pencil lines as possible. A good caricaturist can set his impressions on paper to the count of two faces per minute. And you'll find more and more of them doing it at conventions, meetings, conferences, colleges and parties across the nation.

"It's a snap," Joe said. "Once you realize that faces follow fashion trends you get to work automatically. It's that one-in-a-million, warm, honest, intelligent face that shakes you and makes you work a little harder to capture it."

The remaining 999,999, he said, are more than happy to follow face fads. He blamed the movies for setting the face and the beauty shops and schools for following it.

"We've been taught," he said, "to value a blank look and a straight nose over a kindly expression. It's a vicious circle of mirrors all reflecting the same thing."

The look-alike business was very real face comes along once in a million these days. And as soon as she opens her mouth she tells you she wants to look like Marilyn Monroe or some other vacant Hollywood babe."

The look-alike business was very real face comes along once in a million these days. And as soon as she opens her mouth she tells you she wants to look like Marilyn Monroe or some other vacant Hollywood babe."

This was a considered, professional opinion from Joseph Kaliff, president of the Caricaturists Society experts who earn a good living in the revival of an ancient art form.

The object of caricature: to capture facial expressions with as few pencil lines as possible. A good caricaturist can set his impressions on paper to the count of two faces per minute. And you'll find more and more of them doing it at conventions, meetings, conferences, colleges and parties across the nation.

"It's a snap," Joe said. "Once you realize that faces follow fashion trends you get to work automatically. It's that one-in-a-million, warm, honest, intelligent face that shakes you and makes you work a little harder to capture it."

The remaining 999,999, he said, are more than happy to follow face fads. He blamed the movies for setting the face and the beauty shops and schools for following it.

"We've been taught," he said, "to value a blank look and a straight nose over a kindly expression. It's a vicious circle of mirrors all reflecting the same thing."

HERE'S SAME GAL if she followed face fads, Joe has also added identification necklaces.

Back on Broadway, Joe was going over them lightly again. His eyes went just a moment to a shooting gallery, a restaurant. He said suddenly: "See? On the corner?"

A dark-haired girl, waiting for the traffic light to change, was reading an advertisement. Nothing spectacular. Just a girl reading with disbelief on her face.

"Ah," said Joe in his professional voice, "a raised eyebrow. Not a shout or a shrug or a pointing finger. But a quiet, subtle, expressive raised eyebrow."

He took his pencil and sketchpad from his pocket and hurried toward the corner.

"That," Joe Kaliff said, "is the millionth face."

SAINTS FACE TOUGH WEEK-END

● JAKE FORBES AND HIS SQUAD left town this noon on what can well be described as the "suicide trip" of the Quebec Hockey League from the viewpoint of the Saints. Tonight they tangle with the Senators in the Capital City while tomorrow afternoon they move back to the Forum to meet the reinforced Royals.

The Saints will be after their first win of the season in both rinks. They have dropped two to the Senators, while in Montreal they have failed to register a win in three starts. These are the only places where the locals have failed to post a victory this year. In all other rinks they have emerged the winner at least once.

The Chics and the Royals are stalemated for top spot in the standing with 55 points, four more than the Saints, but the locals hold two games in hand over the pace-setters, which goes to show just how important the week-end bill is for the Forbes' crew. The locals are three points ahead of the Senators, and also have a game in hand over the Barber Poles which presents another tough problem for the Saints.

The race is the closest it has ever been in the history of the league and if a team should happen to drop a couple they could find themselves falling from the top to fifth in short order. We think that the Saints will break their jinx and divide the week-end bill, which they must do, if they wish to remain in the thick of the fight.

Following the week-end the locals will move down to Springfield on Wednesday before returning home to be hosts to the Aces on Thursday. So from the look of things it is not going to be an easy road for the next few days. It seems that every game from now on can be considered in the "must" class with the chips down at all times. The locals, in our mind, are a fighting outfit and keep plugging all the time and this type of hockey definitely pays off. So boys, keep driving and everything will be fine.

● SEE WHERE ARNOLD PRICE rolled string of 396 for five pins which from the look of things seems to be pretty fair from our viewpoint. Not many misses in that string, in fact we think that he had everything falling his way. Keep them falling Arnold and perhaps you will reach that one that everyone is aiming for, the perfect string.

● THEY SAY THAT ONCE you get the fishing bug that it is worse than everything else. You think about the big ones you missed last summer and you are anxious to get back at it again even when the temperature is down around the zero mark.

How people can think about fishing when it is ten below zero is beyond us, but that is what happened this week at Earl Stewart's home in Lennoxville. He had a few of the enthusiastic members of the sport in and showed some colored films pertaining to last year's catches and misses. We weren't told just how they figured up but we understand that the figures were good and no doubt that is what counts, regardless of the cold weather.

● BASKETBALL MOVES TO LENNOXVILLE tonight in a big way as a doubleheader is slated to take place commencing at 7:30. Three of the teams taking part are undefeated, so the fans should be in for a good evening of entertainment.

In the first game at 7:30 Windsor Rockets will meet the Lennoxville girls, while in the second the Lennoxville Grads and Sherbrooke Independents will clash. So the followers of the hoop game should witness some very fine playing by the teams.

● A MEETING OF THE MASSAWIPPI Valley Hockey League was held this week and the main item on the agenda was the discussion of the playoffs. Members of the league voted for a six-team playoff so it looks as though everyone will be around for a little longer. It was a toss-up regarding a four-team affair or let everyone in and the latter was adopted — which in a way is good for the league providing that the ice situation holds up. On the other hand when it comes to the playoffs all games will be played in covered rinks, if the weather is mild, which will help the brand of hockey.

President Mac Wilson has a good league and one thing about it is that everybody seems eager to see that everything runs along in good shape. The meeting only took a couple of hours, which in our mind is quite a record in itself, and speaks well for the circuit. The teams are giving the fans a good brand of hockey and is worthy of support, so fans, drop up and see some of the games.

● A CLUB WHICH SEEMS to be having a very successful season although very little is heard about them is the Sherbrooke Skating Club. We remember a few years back when it was first started but we must say that it has definitely moved along in leaps and bounds which speaks well for the various executives who have held office and put in hours of work in helping to build it up.

We watched the skaters in action the other day and looking back we see that there has been a lot of work behind the movement. We understand that there are 260 members in the club today, of which 167 are juniors under 10 years of age, which shows how the youngsters have gone for the sport. Miss Hedy Spremborg is the pro with the club again this year and she is helped by Ann Goode, who looks after the younger members.

They hold practices three times a week on Monday, Wednesday and Saturday afternoon and it is something to see the members going through their paces. We think that the executive of the club deserves a lot of credit for their untiring work in this movement. Congratulations, keep up the good work, we are sure that the kiddies are enjoying every bit of it.

East Angus Here Tomorrow Afternoon

Important Tilt For Intermediates; St. Francis Clashes With Superior And Optimist; Reid Leads Scorers

Things will be pretty busy in the juvenile circuit this week-end, as Pat Murphy's Saints, meet the league, Superior and Optimist, on Saturday night and Sunday afternoon respectively. Both games will be played at the arena and will commence at 7:00 and 1:00 o'clock.

The league leading St. Francis club, idle since last Sunday, held a stiff workout last night, and coach Murphy has plans for winning game number seven. The Saints have suffered only two defeats this season, to Optimist 3-2 and Superior 3-1.

PIRATES HERE TOMORROW

East Angus Pirates will try to move into a fourth place tie with Sherbrooke Intermediates, when they tangle with the local squad in one of the two games scheduled at the local arena on Sunday afternoon. The game is slated to commence after the juvenile tilt, around 2:30.

This will be another important game for the local team, as the season is drawing near, and the Saints are fairly close to the top. The game will be played at the East Angus club, and a win for the latter team would mean a tie for fourth position in the Massawippi Valley Hockey League.

Superior, the you-never-know squad, have been practising regularly and you can count on coach Doucet's boys to bring out to share this important match. St. Francis, who recently added one of last year's team veterans to the roster, will see the same squad.

On Sunday afternoon, Vitel Scheib's juvenile puckchasers will attempt to win their second game. The team seems to be revitalized, as they pulled a 5-3 surprise upset over Superior, last Sunday at the arena.

According to the individual scoring standing, the players and teams are working hard in hand. St. Francis leads the league followed by Superior and Optimist. In the players standing, Reid of the Saints is in top position with 21 points, Jacques Dupont, Superior's top wingman with 15 points, and Gagnon of Optimist on his heels with 14.

Amateur hockey fans should witness two very good games this week-end, as these juvenile games are rated the best for your money anywhere. The Saints' high-scoring line, Reid, Martel and Therrien, who rank within the top five marksmen, will be in uniform. Here is how they stand:

Reid, St. Francis	21
Martel, St. Francis	19
Dupont, Superior	15
Gagnon, Optimist	14
Therrien, St. Francis	13
Lebel, St. Francis	12
Fontaine, Optimist	11
Coates, St. Francis	10
Gregoire, St. Francis	9
Leger, Optimist	8

Bert Bell Given 12-Year Contract With NFL Owners

Philadelphia — (AP) — Bert Bell Friday was given a new 12-year contract as commissioner of the National Football League.

The 12 NFL owners voted to tear up Bell's current $20,000-a-year contract, which would not have expired until 1959.

Walter Halas, owner-coach of the Chicago Bears, said there will be no increase in salary at the request of the commissioner.

"Bell said he was not interested in any increase in salary due to the fact that the league has been under heavy expense, especially as a result of the recent government suits," Halas said.

The Chicago owner added that Bell will continue to receive a $10,000 yearly pension in addition to his regular salary. This pension has been in effect for three years.

Trabert Leaves For Home; Plans To Talk With Tennis Body

Sydney, Australia — (AP) — American tennis star Tony Trabert left for home yesterday saying he's keeping his chapter-and-verse report on his grievances during nearly three months of tennis in Australia until he talks with the United States Lawn Tennis Association, world governing body.

"I'm going to put my recommendations and suggestions to the association in New York," Tony said as he boarded a plane with his wife and two Davis Cup teammates, Bob Perry of Los Angeles and Ham Richardson of Baton Rouge, La.

"I'm going to tell them everything I think has happened down here so they will understand the situation," he declared.

Among his suggestions, Tony said, would be one that the Australians either change the date of their national championships or that the American team should not be forced to remain for the tournament.

"Australians don't do anything but play," he said. "We have to go to college."

Trabert isn't alone in thinking the dates of the Australian championships should be changed.

Team-mate Vic Seixas, who'll be leaving for the States Tuesday, agreed with him and so did Jack Crawford, former Wimbledon champion who now writes for the Sydney Sun.

The bookies made Hoad a 2-to-1 favorite to win next summer's Wimbledon championship.

Seixas, defending Wimbledon champion, is 5-to-1.

Bishop's University Hockey Squad Hosts To Sir George William College Tonight In Intercollegiate Fixture

Bishop's University hockey Gators tangle tonight with Sir George William College at the local arena in their second Ottawa-St. Lawrence Valley Conference tilt. Game time is scheduled for 8:15.

In their initial intercollegiate tilt of the season last Saturday night at the arena, the Dugrems downed College Militaire Royale 4-2 for their first intercollegiate win in two years, and they plan a repeat for tonight. Sir George is reported to have a strong team this year, even stronger than the one which last year threw the Gators for a 7-3 loss in Montreal.

Last year, in fact, the Purple and White squad didn't end up too well in the Ottawa-St. Lawrence Valley Conference standings, finishing sixth in a seven-team league. This year, under new mentor Ivan Dugre, former Sherbrooke Saints coach and with increased fire power on the forward line, the Gators expect to improve their position.

The Gators have been operating in the Sherbrooke Junior B league since last November, and despite a 6-4 loss sustained at the hands of Ecole Superior Tuesday night, expect this superior conditioning to pay off tonight.

Expected to start tonight on the forward line for the Gators will be the Ross-Powell-Whittemore line which has proved to be the big scoring gun for the Bishop's men in past games. Rookie centre Blair Whittemore was responsible for the Gators' win last Saturday, as he broke a 2-2 deadlock. In the same game, winger Andy Ross

Melbourne Will Put On Good Show, Say Two Key Men In Olympic Games; Early Troubles All Ironed Out

Melbourne — (AP) — The two key men in the organization of the 1956 Olympic Games, a crisp, efficient army general and a grey-haired Briton, are ready to guarantee that Melbourne will put on a "good show."

"There is no doubt in my mind these games will be among the most successful event," said Lt.-Gen. William Bridges, chief executive officer. "We have wiped out all our early bickering and everybody is intent and enthusiastic about making a real go of it."

"I won't say these will be the best games ever," added E. J. Billy Holt, 70-year-old Olympic veteran who was chief organizer of the 1948 games in London. "We have tried to incorporate the best features of all the past games. I think we have modelled our planning more after the 1932 games at Los Angeles than any other."

Director In Loan
Holt was borrowed by Melbourne to serve as technical director. He is assisted by Leonard Curnow, 49, an engineer in the department of defence, an amateur athletic official for some 20 years and arena manager for the Melbourne Olympics.

Bridgesford and Holt are the field executives, while chief of staff of the entire operation is chairman of the Olympic organi-

Eddie Stanky Joins Ranks Of Stars Who have Ended Playing Days; Moves To Make Room For Pitcher Jim Walsh

New York — (AP) — Eddie Stanky has joined the list of stars who have ended their major league baseball careers since the 1953 world series.

Stanky, manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, said he would go off the Redbirds' active roster to make room for right-handed pitcher Jim Walsh, conditionally purchased from Hollywood. Walsh won 16 games and dropped nine with the Pacific Coast League club last season.

"I played in only 17 games last year," Stanky declared. "I feel that Walsh can help our club either as a starter or in relief."

In recent months, Johnny Mize veteran recently released by Boston Red Sox, and Stan Musial, 33, also played for the St. Louis Browns and Chicago White Sox.
