Death Sentences Commuted To Life Imprisonment For Two Huntingdon Youths

The Announcement Came on Wednesday As Hanging Set For the Friday

KENNETH BEVIN

GERVIN PATENAUDE

Department of State officials announced on Wednesday at Ottawa that the death sentences of two Huntingdon, Que., farmhands, scheduled to be hanged on Friday, Aug. 25th, at Montreal Jail, Bordeaux, had been commuted to life imprisonment.

The two farmhands, Kenneth Bevin, 18, and Gervin Patenaude, 19, were found guilty in February of the hammer slaying of taxi driver Lucien Brunette last Dec. 10. The youths were convicted at Valleyfield.

Sheriff Paul Hurteau, K.C., said he had been advised by the department of justice that an official letter regarding the commutation was arriving by mail.

"When the letter is received, we can make arrangements for the transfer of the prisoners from Bordeaux to St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary," he said.

It was largely through the efforts of Rev. Gordon Phillips, Protestant chaplain at Montreal Jail, Mrs. Phillips, and Mrs. J. M. Rudel, a past president of the Foster Home Centre which cared for Bevin in his youth, that justice department officials intervened in the case.

More than 500 persons signed clemency petitions circulated in Montreal and Huntingdon by Mr. Phillips, and a delegation travelled to Ottawa to present the petitions to the justice department.

The petitioners said that the prisoners were products of "unfortunate environments."

Mrs. Phillips said she felt "wonderful" about the news. Mr. Phillips, ill in hospital, was notified of the commutation of sentences by his wife.

Aunt Maggie Thompson 92 Years Old Today

Still Enjoys Great Interest in Huntingdon Fair — Enjoys Visits With All People

Today, August 30th, Miss Margaret Thompson is celebrating her 92nd birthday. On this occasion the people of Huntingdon wish her the best and hope that she will have many more years of health and contentment.

Among Huntingdon's older generation few are regarded with more affection than "Maggie" Thompson of Henderson Street. A way of forgetting the problems of a world beset with a high cost of living and communism is to spend awhile listening to Miss Thompson tell of the "old days" on the farm and the time when the Huntingdon Fair was the biggest show east of the Toronto Exhibition. Since she first came to Huntingdon 64 years ago, Miss Thompson has been an enthusiastic supporter of the Fair, still looks forward to it eagerly, and has claimed more than one prize for her crochet work or pastry. But Miss Thompson looks longingly to the past. She remembers when the house on Henderson Street was, at Fair time, open to anyone who cared to drop in for a cup of tea or a bite to eat. She acquired a love of company, misses the large gatherings of long ago, is glad of anyone who pays a friendly call.

MISS MARGARET THOMPSON

"Aunt Maggie", as she is known to nearly everyone, was born on her father's farm on the Gore, August 30th, 1858. The daughter of James Thompson and Liza Jane Wilson Thompson, she was one of a family of three children. Miss Thompson recalls with some nostalgia the early days on the farm when husking bees were the order of the day; she remembers the cold winter mornings, the hard work, and the pleasant evenings. To attend the school at Herdman's Corners she would walk three miles through the fields. Rarely would Miss Thompson miss any of the social activities of the countryside. If there was a dance or a husking bee within a radius of ten miles, "Maggie" was sure to be there.

In November, 1885, the Thompsons sold their farm and moved to Huntingdon. A public auction was held, conducted by Andrew Philps, a close friend of the family and, after a considerable struggle with the weather, Mr. Thompson finally managed to settle the family and the furniture in a house built, a short while before, on Henderson Street. Miss Thompson remembers the event very well. During the auctioning of their cattle and farm implements, the weather had been unusually hot. Summer temperatures prevailed and everyone in Eastern Canada came to the conclusion that, for the month of November, the elements had gone seriously awry. This, however, was an understatement. A week or so later, the district was digging out from one of the worst snow storms within living memory. It was hardly the time to move furniture but the job had to be done. Back and forth to and from the farm they went, upsetting once on the way, until at last, the Thompson family and all their belongings were safely installed in their comfortable home in Huntingdon. Miss Thompson has lived there ever since.

James Thompson, after leaving the farm, soon became a prominent, well-liked citizen of Huntingdon. He was employed by the town as a superintendent of works and for thirty years took an active part in the Huntingdon Fair. At Fair time it was "open house" at their place on Henderson Street. Guests would come and go as they wished; one person recalls having seen as many as thirty horses in front of the Thompson home. In her own way, Miss Thompson too contributed, not only to the Huntingdon Fair, but to many others in the district. Her pies, cakes, bread and pastry have brought her numerous prizes. She is still regarded as one of the best cooks in the Chateauguay Valley.

For a woman in her early nineties Miss Thompson is remarkably active. While she still takes time to make pies, knit and look after the chickens, she is fond of reading (although lately her eyes have been failing her somewhat) and, over the course of the last three years, has done a great deal of crocheting.

Surprisingly enough, Miss Thompson is a devout hockey fan. The Montreal Canadiens have never had a more staunch supporter. Miss Thompson never misses the broadcast of a game, regards the Canadiens with a great deal of patriotic pride. If, for instance, they are playing a team from the United States, the match for her becomes not merely a routine game of hockey, but an all-out battle between one nation and another with the reputation of the country at stake.

Despite the fact that she has plenty to do, however, Miss Thompson longs for company. Although she does not play cards, she enjoys a game almost as much as the players. At parties of this sort, she is invariably in the center of such activity and often coaches from the sidelines.

Miss Thompson is a member of the Presbyterian Church and has always been generous in her support of that institution and in her donations to the poor.

Citadel Band Is to Visit Huntingdon

Concert to Be Given In Prince Arthur Square, Wednesday, Sept. 6th, 8.30 p.m.

Huntingdonians have always enjoyed having a band in the community. Bands seem to have come and gone. In recent years Mr. Don. Moore has met with considerable success in organizing and training school bands. At the present moment he has a junior boys' band which will quite likely be sufficiently advanced in their training as to be able to do public playing in 1951. When the Chateauguay Barracks Band, under the direction of Sergt. Moland was here, the public really got a great lift as the band was heard daily pounding the streets in Huntingdon or at the Barracks.

Mr. George Dixon, an old bandsman, has arranged on behalf of the Rotary Club through Major Carswell and Mr. George Fisher, Band Special Effort Secretary, to have the great Salvation Army Citadel Band of Montreal give a concert in Prince Arthur Square on Wednesday evening, Sept. 6 at 8.30 p.m. This band is credited as being the largest and best in Montreal. It is but fitting that the people of Huntingdon and surrounding community turn out in large numbers for this particular evening of Band Concert entertainment. The Salvation Army appreciates the generosity accorded them in the various appeals they have made in the past, an they naturally feel they should reciprocate, consequently the bandsmen are giving of their time so that the concert can be given without any great amount of expense. A collection will be taken to defray some incidental travel and entertainment expenses.

The Rotary Club has sponsored this musical evening and they suggest that the public come in numbers and at the same time bring along individual folding chairs, so that they will be better able to enjoy the evening. In the event of bad weather the band concert will be held in the Huntingdon Skating Rink Arena.

Loses Hand While Fixing Baler

On Thursday Mr. John Tennant met with an unfortunate accident while working on a baler on the farm of Mr. R. Bruce Ness, of Howick. Mr. Tennant noticed that the press was not working properly, that the knot was not being tied. He went to correct the machine, using his right hand to do so. Somehow his hand became caught and was taken off about three inches above the wrist. Dr. Davidson attended the injured man and he was later taken to the Barrie Memorial. Mr. Tennant is 53 years of age and has been employed by R. Bruce Ness and Sons for a number of years.

Huntingdon Fair to Open Thursday With Circus

Jersey Field-day on Thursday — Horse Racing Friday and Saturday — Largest Number of Entries — Fast Track

Thursday, Friday and Saturday will again see Huntingdon in a state of excited activity when the Huntingdon Fair gets underway. The program offers a great deal of variety and promises to provide three full days of first-rate entertainment. It was recently announced that an important addition has been made in the form of a circus. The Dunlop troupe consisting of acrobats and horse acts and many other items will present a two-hour show, expected to be one of the most thrilling performances to take place at a County Fair. To accomodate this talented show, a special platform has been erected before the grandstand directly over the baseball diamond. Other events will include Highland Dancing by Mrs. Sherrington's dancing class and the music of the Chateaugay High School Band along with the Majorettes.

Those who have seen Mrs. Sherrington's dancers have agreed that they are well worth watching and will add considerable colour to the fair. The Chateaugay High School Band is already well-known to this locality for their excellent performance during old home week; the fair will offer another chance for them to be heard. Again the majorettes with their skillful baton twirling should, along with the other events, make the Huntingdon Fair an exciting spectacle. To add gaiety to the whole proceeding there will be two of the most hilarious clown acts to be found in eastern Canada.

While the fair this year is to contain much entertainment there are others who, with their enteries for the judging, are seriously determined to win one of the prizes. Horses and cattle are being groomed for the occasion and the ladies are preparing to submit some of their best fancy work and cooking.

The races this year are to be spectacular for enteries have been received from Richelieu Park, Montreal, New York State and Ontario. The track is in first-rate condition, ideal for speed. Some very fine horses will be seen in action. More enteries have been received than at any other time. All things considered the races will be best ever to be presented in Huntingdon and, given good weather, the turnout of spectators should be high.

A summary of the scheduled events follows:

Thursday — The Chateauguay Valley Parish Jersey Show and Field Day will start at 10.30 a.m. to be attended by the Jersey Breeders of the District. The judging of Holsteins and Ayrshires will start at 10.30 a.m. Heavy and general-purpose horses will be judged beginning at 1.30 p.m. In the afternoon, the Dunlop Circus will be presented and the Highland Dancing. The milking contest starts at 3 p.m. In the evening under the floodlights, there will be a performance of the Chateaugay High School Band and Majorettes, the Dunlop Circus, Highland Dancing and Clown acts. There will also be pony potato races.

Friday — Light horses will be judged at 10.30 a.m. calf judging at 11 a.m. In the afternoon the horse races will take place with pony races between heats. In the evening the circus, clowns, band and majorettes will again provide the entertainment. A feature attraction will be the Fair Night Dance to be held in the Agricultural Hall. The music will be provided by "Haw Bailey's Hillbilly Hoedowners from Cornwall for both modern and old-time dancing.

Saturday — Horse racing will take place at 2 p.m. There will also be a grandstand performance Saturday afternoon and evening.

The Gleaner has received a last-minute report that a special midway will be arriving today (Wednesday) for the Huntingdon Fair. There will be rides, games and many other amusements.

Rotary Holds Ann'l Meeting

Speaker Strikes Keynote of Good Humour

Mr. J. E. Ubald Rouleau, Cornwall, gave the Rotarians and Rotary Anns an evening of laughter at the Rod and Gun Club on Monday evening. This annual social gathering of the Rotary Club was well attended and was full of pleasure and humour, a contrast to some of the previous meetings. Evidently the spirit of good fellowship is sinking more deeply into the Rotarians and the Rotary Anns, and the stiff-shirt attitude often in evidence at such gatherings has been replaced by the free and easy.

Mr. Rouleau of Cornwall has had a career a bit out of the ordinary in that he was first brought up in a hotel, managed a hotel for two years, is the travelling ambassador for Calverts Distillery in Ontario and has been in municipal affairs for twelve years, seven as Mayor of the Township of Cornwall. Only last April he was elected 1st Vice-President of all Mayors in Ontario at Toronto. The Township of Cornwall surrounds Cornwall proper and the Township population exceeds that of Cornwall, there being 27,000 people in the Township. It has a police force of 14; occupies an area of 12 square miles, has nine industries, a municipal valuation of $19,500,000 yielding a tax revenue of $643,000.

Mr. Rouleau with marked rapidity told one yarn after another for forty-five minutes and had his audience rolling in laughter. This may have been Mr. Rouleau's first visit of this nature to this community but we feel quite certain there will be occasions in the future when his services will again be prevailed upon. Such an evening of refreshing chatter certainly tends to make people relax and forget themselves for at least one evening. We are sure most people will agree, this is about the best tonic that can be had for the human spirit.

Toe Blake Remains On Valleyfield Job

Officials said the Braves will play three pre-season exhibition games against National Hockey League teams this year.

On Sept. 24 they will play the Montreal Canadiens, Oct. 3 the New York Rangers and Oct. 10 the Chicago Black Hawks. They open their league season against Ottawa Senators, Oct. 8.

Valleyfield Man Found Hanging

Pierre Reid, Age 51, Takes Own Life

On Wednesday, August 23rd, Valleyfield police reported finding the body of 51-year-old Pierre Reid of Valleyfield, hanging by his neck in the cellar of his home.

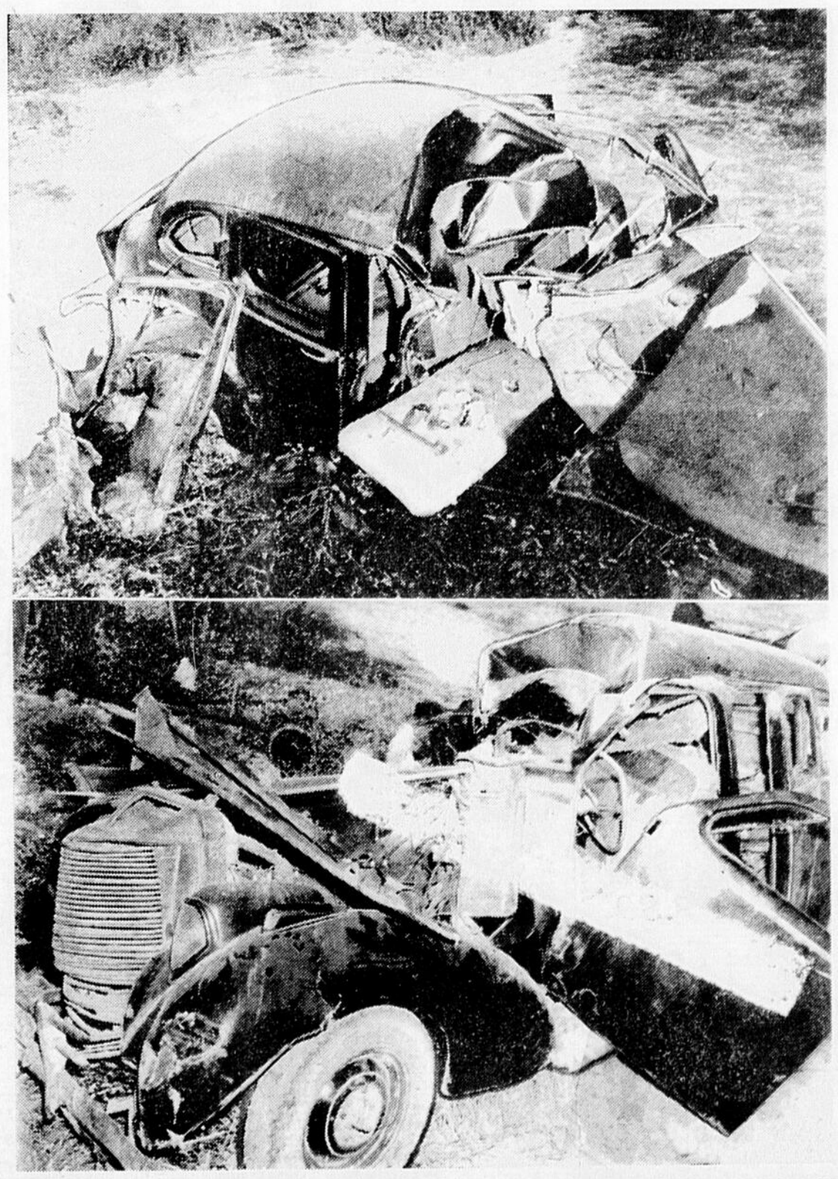

According to reports, Mr. Reid, who owned a restaurant, went about his work as usual during Tuesday. When the milkman came on Wednesday morning he failed to get any response to his usual call and for payment of the milk. He awakened the children and asked for payment for the milk. The children missed their father and later an elder sister called to see her father whom she had been visiting regularly. It was then that the body was discovered and the police were asked to help. Mr. Reid had been despondent for some time prior to his death.

An inquest was ordered and Dr. Simon of Beauharnois, in absence of Dr. O. E. Caza of Valleyfield, conducted the enquiry.

Mr. Pierre Reid was the husband of the late Laurette Thibault, and father of four children: Gaston, 13; Marcel, 12; Pauline, 9 and Jean-Louis, 6. Surviving also are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Theophile Reid; two brothers, Albert and Paul-Emile; five sisters, Mrs. Joseph Labelle (Antoinette); Mrs. Phidelem Laberge (Virgine); Mrs. Lucien Crete (Marguerite); Mrs. Charlemagne Sauve (Adeline); and Mrs. Lucien Fournier (Yvonne).

Because of winter's extreme cold, the railroaders consider the Hornpayne division of the C.N.R., in Ontario one of the toughest on the continent.

MAN MEETS DEATH IN HIGHWAY ACCIDENT

This grim, blood-spattered wreck is all that remains of a 1938 Studebaker in which Leopold Cumming died after the car in which he was riding crashed into a telephone pole. The accident took place early Thursday evening. The driver, Rene Blanchette, suffered cuts about the face and numerous bruises.

Man Held Responsible For Fatal Accident

Mackayville Man Dies After Car Hits Telephone Pole

One of the worst accidents in recent years took place on the Athelstan Highway on Thursday evening, shortly after six, when Leopold Cumming, age 21, of Mackayville was fatally injured after the car in which he was riding crashed into a telephone pole. The driver, Rene Blanchette, 23, also of Mackayville suffered cuts and bruises.

The accident occurred a short distance from Hayter's when their car, a 1938 Studebaker failed to make the curve, ran off the road for about 60 feet and crashed head on into a telephone pole. Blanchette was thrown clear but the other lad suffered a fractured skull and numerous injuries. Nurse Marjorie Goodfellow, who had heard the crash came immediately to the scene, administered first aid until Drs. McCrimmon and Cameron arrived. The two were taken immediately to the Huntingdon County Hospital but little could be done for Cumming who died approximately one-half hour later.

Blanchette, who remained in the hospital and who appeared to be in a perfectly normal state of mind, stated that the car had run over a rock causing him to lose control of the vehicle. He also said that the front door of the car on the driver's side would not close and that undoubtedly he owed his life to this fact. He was immediately thrown clear.

Cumming's body was taken to the Kelly undertaking rooms and on Friday a preliminary inquiry was made by the Coroner, Dr. Edouard Simon of Beauharnois.

The testimony taken at the Coroner's inquest on Monday evening brought other important facts into the open. It was established that Blanchette had been at least partially under the influence of liquor. Other persons testified to the time the pair left Mackayville. The conclusion was inescapable that to reach the point of the accident by early evening they must have been travelling quickly. Numerous persons had seen the car going by; they stated that it was speeding in every sense of the word. A witness on the Athelstan Road said that when he saw the car going by he was sure it was going too fast to round the curve, was not surprised that it crashed shortly afterwards.

Blanchette stated that he had only taken a drink or two earlier in the day, that he and his friend had stopped to eat at Caughnawaga. He said that his mind was perfectly clear and that he had lost control of his car after it had struck a rock on the road. Step by step, however, his statement was refuted. A medical opinion emphasised that Blanchette had taken enough liquor to affect his driving. An autopsy performed upon the deceased revealed that he had taken no food as Blanchette had stated. Finally a person who had made a thorough investigation in the area of the accident said that there were no loose rocks to be found either on the road, in the field or anywhere near the scene.

The jury of six men decided that Rene Blanchette be held criminally responsible for the accident.

N.Y.C. Caboose Burns

BEAUHARNOIS,—A New York Central Railway caboose was extensively damaged here on Wednesday as it caught fire while standing in front of the New York Central Railway station. The caboose arrived at 11.30 a.m., took fire at noon and was gutted within minutes. Police believed a stove inside exploded when a brakeman opened the door, causing a draft. No one was inside when flames enveloped the car and no one was injured. Firemen prevented it from being burned down to its wheels.

MEETS 'HIS BOYS"

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. -(CP)- Rev. L. F. Farrel, padre during the Second World War of the 59th Newfoundland Regiment, arrived here from California recently to meet again the men he knew overseas. The American priest had never seen the island and said: "I was wearing Newfoundland badges so long that I just had to visit here."

BEAVER VICTORY

LAC LA RONGE, Sask., (CP)— Road Boss Emil Fournier seems to have come out second best in a war with some beavers. For almost a year Fournier has been demolishing beaver dams on a creek near a road because the creek keeps backing up and flooding the road. As fast as he demolished them the beavers built them again. Now the Game and Fisheries branch says they will trap the beavers alive and ship them elsewhere.

Accident On Highway 52

Neglect of Roads Causes Inconvenience and Expense

Just who would you say is most to blame for an auto accident that occurred on Saturday afternoon on Highway 52, at the turn of the road near the Norman Fennell farm? Would you say it was the Provincial Roads Department, Township of Hinchinbrook, a Hinchinbrook farmer or woman driver of a new, small sized automobile from Ontario? It so happens the weeds grow so thick and high along Highway 52 that road signs in this area are obliterated. Is it the responsibility of the Quebec Roads Department to look after the Highway road sides or is that still the lot of the Township of Hinchinbrook? In any event the weeds are growing in a prolific manner in that area and for weeks road signs have been, literally speaking obliterated.

Now the Hinchinbrook Farmer and the Ontario woman were evidently driving in the middle of the road and at right angles to one another when about to make the turn at the Norman Fennell corner. The middle of the road is no place to drive. As a rule people who drive on the crown of a road would not likely pay much attention to road signs, but quite likely selfishly think only of themselves and feel that, if an accident occurs, it must be the other fellow's fault. Well, the two cars on Saturday afternoon clashed; the small, new auto driven by the woman hit the farmer's car on the side of the front fender. Did the woman fail to apply the brakes on her car or did she get excited and forget to do so?

The pay off of the accident was that a Provincial Traffic Policeman was not procurable for a long time. A passenger of one car came to Huntingdon looking for a traffic officer only to find he was reported to be away fishing, evidently Saturday afternoon being his time off duty. He returned to the accident scene with his auto and, after considerable waiting, an officer did arrive and made observations as to what happened.

A number of people lost a lot of time. Traffic was not held up as the accident occurred in the centre of the road with ample room for traffic to circulate at one side of the collided cars. But all of this inconvenience and garage expense might well have been saved had the drivers of these two autos been accustomed to driving to the right side of the road. Of course the accident might not have occurred had the weeds been cut down weeks ago by either the Quebec Roads Department or the Municipality of Hinchinbrook, if they are the responsible party or parties for this neglect.

Weston of Maisonneuve, Montreal, to Mr. Raymond Francis Douglas of Huntingdon, son of Mr. R. B. Douglas and the late Mrs. R. B. Douglas, of Rockburn, Que., on Saturday afternoon, August 5, at three o'clock, in Trinity United Church, Maisonneuve. Rev. Q. A. McDowell, M.A., B.Th., officiating. Mr. W. P. W. Finch was the organist. Mr. R. Booth, the soloist, sang "The Lord's Prayer" before the ceremony and "Because" and "I'll Walk Beside You" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white satin and Chantilly lace, with a full skirt ending in a circular train, the bodice having a Peter Pan collar, a row of tiny self-covered buttons to the waistline, and long sleeves terminating in points over her hands. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion was held by a Chantilly lace cap and clusters of orange blossoms and she carried an arm bouquet of American Beauty roses and baby's breath.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas have taken up residence in Huntingdon, Que.

NO POULTRY SHOW

VANCOUVER, (CP)—Pacific National Exhibition officials have decided to cancel the poultry show at the fair this year for the first time in history. They felt the Newcastle disease hazard was too great and it was not worth endangering the prize fowl.

Yes, friends, you get twice as much done when you cook electrically. Because electrical cooking is fully Automatic it saves you valuable time and energy, and leaves you free to do other things, to enjoy extra moments of relaxation and pleasure.

And speed is only one of the many exciting advantages you get when you cook electrically. Here are some of the others:—

SAFETY—No fumes or flames. No matches. Extra-safe for children.

CLEANLINESS—No more dirty pots, walls or kitchen drapes. No discoloring carbon fumes.

EFFICIENCY—Concentrated heat. No waste of cooking heat. It's 100% efficient—the only cooking fuel that is!

ECONOMY—Foods go farther. Vitamins stay in. You save on cooking time and food waste.

Yes, folks, no matter how you examine it, nothing compares with cooking electrically. Before you buy a stove . . . INVESTIGATE the economy and efficiency of Electric Ranges and the Combination Stoves that cook electrically and heat by fuel. You'll be glad you did.

TOM GARD'S NOTE BOOK

One of the best things about going away for awhile is coming home. Roughing it in the wilds or with fussy relatives sure makes you downright appreciative of your own comfortable furnishings . . . and you see your dwelling with more discerning eyes. When you live with your things continually they seem to fit like an old shoe and you do not see their shortcomings. As I came up the front walk I decided I just had to get busy and finish up those boxes for the veranda pillars. Artistically planted, they will take away the bareness of the front steps.

Sit In The Shade

Is shade at a premium in your yard? One solution to the problem seen on our holidays was a portable canvas shade. Inch water pipe joined by standard fittings had been used and painted dark green. Bright awning material covered the top and was held in place by short tie strings. This particular shade was moved from place to place to avoid wear on the grass and to catch any breeze that was blowing. By covering the sides with the same material the shade could double as sleeping quarters for the young fry.

Dual-Purpose Barrel

Of all the things that puzzle a gardener, possibly more are confused by the statement, "Give liberal applications of liquid manure" than any other. This is not a difficult procedure when handled properly. Bury a water-tight barrel in the ground to the rim. Fit a tight lid to the barrel and place a strong hook near the top from which a burlap bag can be hung. Fill the bag with well-rotted manure (preferably sheep manure) and place it on the hook. Almost fill the barrel with water and allow it to stand for 24 hours before it is used on your plants. Place the barrel directly under the down spout from the eaves or in a secluded corner of the garden if you don't mind carrying the water a little further. Refill the barrel as the liquid is used.

Coconuts

Empty coconut shells can be put to many uses. The best one I have seen lately was helping overcome the housing shortage—for robins. Placed in the right spot, half a shell makes an ideal base for a robin's nest

Huntingdon's Annual Fair

TOMORROW, The Annual Huntingdon Fair will open and continue until Saturday night. The Agricultural part of the fair will be officially concluded with the dance on Friday night, but the fun will be carried on the next day also.

We believe that patrons should support their local fair and make the attendance better than ever. A great effort is being made this year to provide the public with entertainment as well as good agricultural exhibits. The programme will include at least three rides, a shooting gallery and several other items that should provide plenty of fun for all. An innovation this year, as advertised, is a circus which will give a two-hour show in front of the grandstand every afternoon and evening. In addition to this the Chateauguay High School band will be in attendance to provide music and also a presentation of Highland dancing by the pupils of Mrs. Sherrington of Franklin Centre, Que.

It would thus appear that there will be an abundance of entertainment this year and the fair should prove a popular place for everyone to enjoy a real three days of holiday and fun. The Huntingdon Driving Club has also arranged for a number of horse races which always provide thrills and excitement and have been a drawing card for the past while.

Fair officials are quite enthusiastic that this year they have secured attractions that will please everyone and that the fair will be well worth attending on any or all days. it is hoped that the public will give the fair their greatest support by attending in large numbers each day as there will be something doing from the first day until the last.

Sentences Commuted

ON Wednesday evening, August 23rd, word was received that the sentence of hanging which was to have taken place on August 25th, for Kenneth Bevin and Gervin Patenaude, was commuted to life imprisonment. This commutation of sentence was brought about by the efforts of the padre at Bordeaux Jail on the grounds that the boys never had a chance and therefore were not fully aware of the crime they committed.

Despite the terrible crime committed and the brutal methods used, we cannot feel but that the final decision is a wise one. During their term of imprisonment these boys will have much time to meditate on the consequence of their actions and, given the proper guidance, may have the opportunity to improve their knowledge of what is right and what is wrong. It is rather unfortunate that some children are born into the world under circumstances over which they have no control but which are to their detriment in the years that follow. One of these boys was born into a family of low mentality, while the other had the misfortune to lose the guidance of fond parents. These two came together in a way that could never be foreseen and they were almost brought up together. The influence would naturally take over and exercise control. With no parents to provide those little things that children need and the natural tendency to do and have what others have--a spirit is born that is hard to fathom. Thus we have a collection of circumstances brought about that could mold for good or bad. Unfortunately in this case they formed the bad tendencies with the result we all know.

The words of Jesus upon the cross keep echoing in the ears of many---"Forgive them Father, for they know not what they do."

In the ten commandments is one which says--"Thou Shalt not kill", but if these Christian principles have never been properly taught or absorbed, then it is not likely they will be obeyed. The fault then lies with the society that abounds. More attention should be paid to individuals who through no fault of their own have been made a prey to bad influences. If society took more care of such individuals than shunning them because of their apparently mental incapacities, then we believe we should be a long way on the road toward preventing crimes of this nature. There is an old saying which goes--"Prevention is better than cure." You cannot cure a person who commits murder, for the crime has already been done, but it is possible that it could have been prevented.

Job Providing Capital

CAPITAL investment in industry understandably leads to an increasing number of jobs and is therefore a major means of fighting unemployment. The Marshall plan recognized this fact and poured huge sums into industrial development of Europe in order to ward off large-scale unemployment and consequent Communist trouble-making.

In Canada it is fortunate that industry attracts adequate investment per capita and that this has made Canadians relatively safe from unreasonably high unemployment.

It is interesting to check which kind of industries contribute most to this welcome state of affairs. A comparison of employment given per $1 million capital invested was recently published by the Financial Post, this country's leading weekly on trade and industry. According to this survey, textiles and textile products provide 347 jobs per million dollars, all other manufacturing industries, except textiles, only 184 while the second best figures are 271 for animal products and 235 employees per $1 million invested in iron and its products.

In a world which apparently will always be short of available capital for investment purposes the Canadian textile industry's record for providing the largest number of jobs per dollar invested should be recognized as an extremely valuable asset to the country as a whole. In view of this record, there can be no better way to stave off unemployment than by expanding Canadian textile plants while any policy detrimental to this industry should be energetically prevented.

The Hurricane's Epicentre ?

CONTROL officials relinquish posts, reads a recent press despatch from Ottawa reporting the impending winding up of Canada's import control machinery. Another press despatch, also from Ottawa, reads "Controls seen in emergency". So it looks as if the respite which industry has so long awaited will in reality be little more than an interlude of a few weeks at most before resort is had once again to the mechanisms of a controlled economy.

Warning that economic controls may be just around the corner comes from Trade Minister Howe, Canada's wartime economic boss, who says that if the need warranted it, the Government would not hesitate to reassemble Parliament and once again ask for the controls it obtained during World War II. In view of Mr. Howe's own assertion that industry is presently producing all the goods currently required by the fighting forces in the light of developments in Korea, thoughtful citizens will be prone to regard his warning as somewhat premature.

Trouble is that Mr. Howe and his cabinet colleagues are so accustomed to the methods of a controlled economy that they become positively panicky at the first sign of trouble. Despite the fact that industry and agriculture may have been running smoothly, they fear the consequences of throwing the economic machine into high gear without the supervision of government. They pay lip service to individual initiative and enterprise, but at the first sign of an adverse breeze get in a tizzy and want to regiment everyone.

It would be an unhappy paradox were the conflicting press despatches from Ottawa to but mark the epicentre of an economic hurricane with the worst yet to come.

Insurance Not Saving

UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE is making bums out of some young men. They would rather take $18 a week in insurance than go where work is available.

This statement was not voiced by any reactionary, conservative industrialist. It is the considered opinion, recently expressed, of a man intimately acquainted with the operation of our Unemployment Insurance Commission, and one who is entirely sympathetic to the plight of those who are jobless through no fault of their own ..... He must remain anonymous because he is a senior civil servant. But his views are worthy of study.

Far too many Canadians look upon jobless insurance funds as money which they, themselves, have saved and, therefore, money which they have a right to dispose of as they see fit. That, of course, is far from the case.

Jobless insurance funds are not the sum total of the savings of all Canadian workers. If each contributor decided to quit work and draw all the unemployment insurance to which he or she is "entitled", the fund would be speedily broke.

While there are 585 million dollars in the federal unemployment insurance treasury, it is worth noting that in 1949, a year in which Canadian employment was at a high, the fund staged a very "close race" between costs and income.

Unemployment insurance is insurance and nothing more. It is intended to cover short term emergencies. It is paid out of funds contributed only one-third by the employee, and the balance by the employer and general tax-paying public.

Insurance is only good if it is paid out under sound, business principles. It is not designed, and never was, to bonus idleness.

The most important case decided at the Superior Court last week was that of Robert Graham vs. Alex. Anderson "et al", which has been pending for several years. The action consists in an allegation of Mr. Graham's that he has received injuries from the canal which feeds the Hinchinbrooke from the Chateauguay, which passes through a portion of his farm, and in consequence he sought to get the said canal closed. After having the case a long time "en delibere", Judge Johnson gave his decision last week in favour of Mr. Graham. The judgment has been appealed against, and, should it be sustained in the higher courts, the result will be that the grist mill and tannery at Athelstan will be rendered useless, not only to the loss of their proprietors but to the farmers of the district who resort to that mill, while any prospects that Athelstan may have of becoming a village will be destroyed.

BY THE ATLANTIC TELEGRAPH: Naples, Nov. 20 — The eruption of Mount Vesuvius is still very threatening. All the cones of the volcano emit rumbling sounds and eject large quantities of lava. A whole forest of chestnut trees has been set on fire causing immense devastation. Houses and farms are overwhelmed with ruin and the populations of the nearer villages are leaving their houses in great destitution. Nov. 21—Many houses and farms have been destroyed; the market town of San Giorgo is in imminent danger.

Tom Teeham got drunk in Toronto, but stopped at Hamilton in passing. He was taken in for drunkenness and swearing. To the first charge he answered that he had become drunk not in Hamilton but Toronto and therefore the police in Hamilton had no right to arrest him for an indiscretion committed elsewhere. The magistrate could not see the force of his plea and he was fined.

Among the strangest features of Napoleon's rule is his persistent attempts to stifle all free discussion on the part of the press. When a paper is started, the publisher has to give heavy bonds that he will observe the laws regulating the press. If the paper criticizes the Government or even the conduct of the pettiest of its officials, he is liable to be fined and imprisoned. The news he received must be read and passed by a government officer. The consequence is that the French papers are meagre and unreliable. Does not this conduct show to the whole world that Napoleon feels he holds his position by an uncertain tenure; that he is conscious of being so insecure that he dreads the effects of the weakest attack of the most paltry in his Empire? What strength can there be in a Government with a muzzled press?

Mr. Whyte and Miss McGarvey, with the aid of their scholars, intend giving, in the academy, an entertainment of a miscellaneous and amusing character, on Wednesday evening. We doubt not that there will be a large attendance, the more so, that the proceeds are to be devoted to a laudable purpose—the purchase of prize books.

On Wednesday evening, a lecture on Temperance was delivered in the Methodist Church, Mr. John Gillies in the chair. The Rev. Mr. Williams, Sr., delivered an animated, extemporaneous address on the subject. He advocated total abstinence on the grounds of the danger of those who tasted unwittingly becoming drunkards and of the injury alcohol always inflicted. Quoting the authority of medical men he asserted it was a poison as truly as arsenic.

A despatch has been published from the home government in which it is stated that Her Majesty has been pleased to alter the Order of Knighthood of St. Michael and St. George so as to be applied to members of the British colonies. We hope Her Majesty and her advisers will be very sparing in dealing out these distinctions in Canada, for here every man is, or should be, as good as his neighbor. To endeavor to build up artificial barriers between man and man in a new country can only result disastrously.

The Iroquois, the ferry boat between Caughnawaga and Lachine has not been running since Thursday week, being laid up owing to an injury to her boiler. Travellers have been compelled to cross in canoes which, at this season, is disagreeable and dangerous and has resulted already in a number of frost-bites. Of course the freight traffic has been entirely stopped. It is to be hoped that the Grand Trunk will either give the Iroquois a thorough overhaul or else replace her by a newer boat.

Are We All Wrong?

By LEWIS MILLIGAN

While on my holidays at Muskoka I sat at the dining table next to a United Church minister named Calvin McQueston. With a double-barrelled Scotch name like that you would be correct in assuming that he was formerly a Presbyterian with a Scotch accent; although I believe he was born in Canada and had inherited the burr from his parents. He had also inherited a love for the poetry of Robert Burns, and he quoted to me the following lines which he had thought were from one of the poems of that bard:

"Ye're a' wrang. Ye're wrang.
Ye're a'together wrang!"

He said he had been unable to trace the quotation and asked me if I could locate it. I said that I did not think it was from Burns, and the question was dropped.

But the words continued to ring in my mind for days afterwards while I was fishing, and I put their truth to the test by applying them to the present state of the world in general and the conflict between Soviet Russia and the Western Democracies in particular. Is it possible that we are all wrong, and altogether all wrong? I recalled a passage somewhere in Scripture which runs: "There is none righteous; no, not one." That is good Christian doctrine, and it is because we realize its truth that we go to church and confess: "We have erred, and strayed from Thy ways like lost sheep." In this we, at least, acknowledge the existence and supremacy of a moral law in human life which cannot, in the long run, be broken without retribution. Nations as well as individuals suffer for their wrong-doings, but there is hope and promise of redemption for the nation that acknowledges its imperfections before God and can sincerely sing:

"Still stands Thine ancient sacrifice,
An humble and a contrite heart."

This reminds me of Burns' lines in his "Epistle to Davie," in which he says:

"The heart aye's the part aye
That makes us right or wrang."

Say what they will about the British Empire, although it has blundered and occasionally been in the wrong, the heart of the British people was always in the right place. As a world power Britain preserved the freedom of the seas and maintained general peace among the nations for a hundred years, and at the same time extended the bounds of civilization by her explorers, traders and colonization. Wherever she went she brought good government, education and ultimate freedom to the peoples who came under her rule. She did not promise them any Utopia or impose upon them any cast-iron system, but taught them how to govern themselves and advance culturally and industrially under a free democracy.

In comparing Russian imperialism with that of Britain, it must be remembered that the world today is very different from what it was a hundred years ago. The British Empire was a comparatively slow growth, and Britain did not start out with a mighty and highly organized military force to dominate and impose an ideology upon the civilized nations of the world. British statesmen and immigrant settlers were building bigger and better than they knew. Right and wrong may have been intermingled in their policies and actions, but that was because they were only human and they found themselves in a world in which it is impossible to separate totally the wrong from the right.

In the present world situation, the truth is that we are all more or less right and wrong. Ideally the pacifist may be perfectly right in advocating non-resistance to Communist aggression because war is wrong. But we do not live in an ideal world, and however much we may hate war and strive for international peace, we would be cowards and moral paralytics if we refused to defend ourselves against the forces of evil and to fight for what we believe is right.

OTTAWA, Aug. -(CP)- Ultimate focal point of the national railway strike, the capital was on tenterhooks this week.

It was, perhaps, the greatest national crisis Canadians have had to face, even in peacetime, and its effects on the average Canadian threatened to be much more drastic than any that Canada has had to face, even in war.

To meet the crisis, members of Parliament from every corner of the country headed back to Ottawa by car, bus or special airlift, for an emergency session.

The week started quietly enough, although with an evident air of tension. Most people did not believe a railway strike could happen, and the main reason was because a strike of this nature would be so serious that the parties involved just wouldn't allow it to happen.

The unions, involving the non-running trades, sought a 40-hour week with no reduction in take-home pay from the 48-hour week they now work, plus increases of seven cents an hour in some cases and 10 cents in others. The railways offered pay increases so that the take-home pay for the 44-hour week would equal that for the 48-hour week.

A government-appointed mediator, Dr. W. A. Mackintosh, vice-principal of Queen's University, slept little over the week-end as he sought to bring the parties to agreement in Montreal meetings. As the deadline--6 a.m. local standard time--for the strike neared, the tenseness grew.

The mediator met alternately with both management and labor throughout the night of Aug. 21, but at 5.30 a.m. EDT, Aug. 22, it had become apparent there would be no agreement.

Legal Strike

Prime Minister St. Laurent, whose cabinet held emergency meetings morning, noon and night, that morning announced that parliament would meet as soon as possible. The implication was that legislation would be considered which would eliminate the threat of strikes which could tie up the entire nation and bring hardship to all. The number of employees involved directly in the strike was 124,000, but it could if prolonged, have drastic effects on the lives of every Canadian.

Mr. St. Laurent emphasized at the same time that the union men had broken no law. It was a legal strike.

Almost immediately, the effects of the strike began to make themselves felt throughout the country. Isolated communities found their supplies of milk, bread and fresh meat disappearing.

When parliamentarians had to be summoned, there were no telegraphs by which to summon them. The leased wire system of the Canadian Press was used for the an-

Franklin Centre

Presentation to Mrs. R. W. Jackson.

On Tuesday evening, Aug. 22, 1950, the home of Mrs. R. W. Jackson was the scene of a delightful gathering.

Perhaps it might be mentioned that since Mr. Jackson's death, she had found it a difficult matter to operate the farm alone, so she decided to sell it. This summer it was bought by Mr. Ross Brooks, a promising young man of Franklin Centre, Que.

It then became evident that, in all probability, Mrs. Jackson would leae the Hill permanently. So the congregation of Lion United Church decided it would be an opportune time to show their appreciation of Mrs. Jackson's long and faithful service as their organist.

As the idea went into action, a hearty response followed, not only from the congregation, but from all neighbours, as Mrs. Jackson was known as a good neighbour.

The night chosen was an ideal one, and in the quiet friendly atmosphere that prevailed, as the neighbours gathered, Mrs. Jackson was given ample time to enjoy her guests. A few games were played which were enjoyed.

The main feature of the evening was when Rev. Mr. Davis gave a suitable address in which he spoke of Mrs. Jackson's valued service to the community. He emphasized the fact that informal gatherings of this kind tended to draw the community together. As he extended best wishes to her from all neighbours, Mrs. Melvin Carson, with neat remarks, presented her with an Eveleigh Twin Set of suitcases. This was followed by best wishes from the Ladies' Aid, accompanied by a gift travel set, nicely presented by Mrs. Curtis Carson. The singing of "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow" then followed. Nine bouquets of beautiful flowers, all gifts, adorned the rooms.

Although genuinely surprised, Mrs. Jackson expressed her appreciation of the gifts and thanked every one. Later she expressed her sentiments in these lines.

"Unlooked for are the joys we value most,
Dear daily happenings, nothing really planned.
The unexpected gift, the flowers, the note
That comes to us, sent by a well-loved hand.
These weave a pattern into daily life.
And later, we look backward down the years,
And see how sweet and ordered the design,
How balanced were its sunshine and its tears."

A dainty lunch of sandwiches, cake and coffee brought a pleasant evening to a close.

Don McNair Passes Away

Dies at the Age Of Eighty

THE LATE DONALD McNAIR

A sudden and easy death came to Donald McNair, 80, of Huntingdon, on Saturday morning. Norman and James Shearer operate the farm of their late father, Wm. Shearer, on Highway 4, about two miles south of Huntingdon. Mr. Donald McNair, uncle of the boys, went to the farm to help them with threshing on Saturday morning. Shortly after dinner, he stretched out on a load of grain coming in from the field, and passed away.

Donald McNair was in many respects a remarkable craftsman. He was a stone mason far beyond the average. Stone work that he has built about this country is to be found in all directions and such will stand forever and a day as a monument to a man who built well. Not only did he build from firm foundations with solid walls throughout, but he displayed good taste in arranging sizes and types of stone to be used. Perhaps the finest bit of stone masonry to be admired as a piece of his craftsmanship is that of the stone fence on the north side of the Huntingdon Protestant Cemetery. Though 80 years of age, it was only a few weeks ago that he took on a contract to complete the building of this stone fence in the cemetery but unfortunately only about 40 feet of the work was completed before he was taken.

Cement work of all types was done and likewise brick laying. All his work was done in an admirable way. Should a customer wish a job done in a cheap manner, he was not at all interested in doing the work as it would not stand to his credit in years to come. In executing his work, such as building extensions to the Leach Textiles property, he thoroughly enjoyed meeting the challenges as to when such and such a bit of work would be completed. Donald was equal to the challenges and picked up the wagers that might have been made. He was indeed a true friend of people he worked for and never stinted in giving of his personal effort to do things right.

Mr. McNair, whilst a contractor, liked to do some sideline work, perhaps as a hobby or to make an honest dollar. Years ago he made a great amount of cedar oil. Each year he made it his business to operate a sugar bush on his farm at Clyde's Corner. On this same farm there were at one time a great number of wild apple trees. Again Donald arose to the occasion and did a great amount of grafting upon these trees. Of late he had been taking a great deal of enjoyment out of the farm and it was with marked regularity we observed him riding a tractor up to the farm and work all day and then return home in the evening. Though the farm is five miles away from his home, it was not long ago we saw him walking to the farm, hoe in hand, and intending to do a day of hoeing before walking home for the night. Though Donald McNair never sat on the Town Council he was greatly interested in corporation work, particularly that of the water filtration plant where he had done so much of the cement and brick construction work himself. This was one of his most regular Sunday afternoon stopping places where he would have a visit with the men who might be present.

He was long a faithful and regular attendant of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church and also of Chateauguay Lodge No. 36, A.F. & A.M.

His wife, the late Janet Elder McGibbon, predeceased him, passing away in August, 1936. To the union two sons, Emerson and Kenneth, were born and reside in Huntingdon. A brother Thomas McNair, Clyde's Corner, and sister Mrs. Alfred Pepper of Vankleek Hill, Ont., survive.

To the bereaved, heartfelt expressions are extended.

Prize Winners Chateauguay Horticultural Society

CHATEAUGUAY, Que. — The Chateauguay and District Horticultural Society held their 16th Annual Exhibition in St. Andrew's Church Hall, Chateauguay Basin, on Saturday afternoon, Aug. 19, and despite adverse weather conditions proved to be one of the best shows ever held. Credit for this being due to the President, Mr. Haynes Davies and his executive who have spent time and effort to make the exhibition a success. Friends and visitors from Montreal, Lachine and Ville Lasalle commented favourably on the artistic arrangement and the beautiful floral display.

Upon entering the hall, the outstanding feature that caught the eye, was the platform which had been transformed into a bower, with asparagus fern, representing "Christmas in August", a society fantasy for 1950. There were two evergreen trees on the platform and one at the right side, beautifully decorated with flowers and spotlighted, a miniature Santa Claus in the background and gifts were piled at the foot of one of the trees, the other tree rotated. Those responsible for this unique feature were Mr. Haynes Davies, Mrs. G. W. Horsnell, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Williams and Mr. Frank Mason.

The Gladioli were particularly beautiful. This display was divided into two sections: A. for those members growing over 500 bulbs and B. section devoted to those growing not over 500 bulbs.

In the vegetable section two new varieties of squash were noted, a butternut squash which when cooked has a butternut flavour and the other a combination of butternut and pepper squash, the stem end was yellow and the other half was mottled green.

Mr. E. J. Hanlon won the Blue Ribbon for the best gladiolus in the show, also the aggregate in the Flower Classes, while Dr. W. R. Foote had the best Dahlia and Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Williams won the aggregate in the Vegetable Classes.

Master Bruce Davidson had an original display, his interpretation of the story of Jack and the Beanstalk, which attracted the attention of young and old alike.

In the evening the flowers were auctioned off. Mr. W. J. Davidson proved a very persuasive auctioneer.

A basket of flowers donated by Mr. E. J. Hanlon in aid of the Children's Community Garden Fund was won by Mrs. Kenneth Bonnell, and a child's Laurentian chair and wheelbarrow donated by Mr. Hugh Burnett in aid of the same fund were auctioned and went to Mrs. Desmond McCutcheon and Mrs. Kenneth Bonnell respectively.

Presentation of flowers was made to Miss Anna Sproule, Mrs. Haynes Davies and to Mrs. Bonnell for her son, Mr. Paul Bonnell. The flowers in the chancel of St. Andrew's on Sunday were the gift of the Society.

She wore an heirloom petticoat which was worn by her great-grandmother at her wedding, and her finger-tip veil of tulle illusion was caught with a Juliet cap of organdy. Her bouquet was of white carnations tied with white satin ribbon and her only ornament was a three strand choker, the gift of the bridegroom.

The maid of honor was wearing embroidered pale mauve nylon organdy over taffeta with matching headdress and carried a colonial bouquet of yellow tea roses tied with mauve satin streamers. The bridesmaid in a similar dress of pale green, carried baby pink tea roses tied with pink satin streamers.

Mrs. Read, the bride's mother, was in a street length dress of pink crepe, fashioned with a drape and a slight bustle, with which she wore a black feather cloche with coq feathers at the side and carried a small purse covered with cornflowers and Pinocchio roses. Mrs. White, the bridegroom's mother, gowned in navy blue crepe, wore a velvet hat with white feather trimming and a corsage of white carnations.

SIXTEEN-YEAR-OLD GIRL SAVES NON-SWIMMING BOY FRIEND

96-pound Loretta Leger, of Cornwall, Ont., dives into canal to rescue drowning youth

1. A group of teen-agers had been seeking relief from the heat in a shallow part of the Cornwall Canal. Suddenly, after a bit of good-natured horseplay, Lucien Lavigne, 17, stumbled and fell into deep water off the canal coping. A non-swimmer, he immediately began to choke and splutter — and then disappeared beneath the surface! His girl friend went into action.

2. Pretty, blonde Loretta Leger dove into the canal and succeeded in getting a hold on the young man under water. But she was in for a struggle. The frantic victim, as so often happens, didn't cooperate. Grasping his rescuer by the hair, he thrashed about—making Loretta's task all the harder. Finally, however, she managed to bring him to the surface.

3. It was not easy for the 96-pound girl to get the youth — who weighed around 150 pounds — in to the canal bank. But she succeeded. He was grabbed by another non-swimmer on the bank and, after much pulling and pushing, was hauled up to safety. We are indeed proud to present THE DOW AWARD to this brave young Canadian girl.

THE Dow AWARD

THE DOW AWARD is a citation presented for acts of outstanding heroism and includes, as a tangible expression of appreciation, a $100 Canada Savings Bond. The Dow Award Committee, a group of editors of leading Canadian daily newspapers, selects Award winners from recommendations made by a nationally known news organization.

Franklin Centre

FRANKLIN CENTRE—The Sept. meeting of the Franklin Centre Women's Institute was held a week ahead of schedule on August 25th at the home of Mrs. Murray Blair with Mrs. Willard Blair as joint hostess and an attendance of 13 members and visitors.

The meeting opened with the Ode and Creed. The roll call was answered by telling an amusing school day incident.

It was decided to send a collection of Christmas cards to the Children's Memorial Hospital and to inquire if Dr. Sutton would take them in for us.

Mrs. Goldie informed the members that David Beaudin had won the dancing competition at Ormstown Fair Grounds.

A petition was signed by members concerning the conditions at the Protestant Women's jail in Montreal. Petition to be sent to the Hon. Maurice Duplessis and our M.L.A. at Quebec.

Our guest speaker for the afternoon was Dr. Davidson of Ormstown. The subject of his talk was Conditions in Malta during the seige of '40-'43 and in Berlin in '48, and how the women reacted to these conditions during that time. He told of lack of food in both places and how he never heard the women of Malta complain and that it was mainly their courage that prevented the surrender of the Island. He also told of the difficulty of heating and cooking in Berlin. Two hundred pounds of coal had to last four months, consequently very little cooking and washing could be done. The population lived mainly on dried foods. His talk was greatly enjoyed by the members and a vote of thanks was voted by the President, after which questions were asked the doctor about blood transfusions, blood banks, etc., at the Barrie Memorial Hospital. At the close of the meeting the hostesses served a delicious lunch.

Athelstan

ATHELSTAN — The Southern Division of the Woman's Missionary Society held its August meeting at the home of Mrs. Reese on Wednesday evening. The usual Worship service opened the meeting. Items of business were then dealt with.

The programme for the meeting was under the direction of Mrs. George Boyce. Community Friendship Secretary, who together with seven other members presented a most interesting playlet entitled "People Grow Older". This program was meant to show the problems and the responsibilities facing us as Christians in connection with the increasing number of older people in Canada. We have more older people now than at anytime in our history and a life expectancy that far outstrips that of our forefathers.

What does this mean to our Country, our churches, our homes? It means more stability, longer years of service, an increased population, housing difficulties — to mention just a few matters. The problem of older people is a problem that is present in every community. It is a problem in which nearly everyone is concerned. What responsibility has the Church for older people? What can be done about it? Do we realize that there are 8,000 women living in Canada today who are over ninety years of age? That 40,000 women over sixty years of age are gainfully employed? The questions and facts were discussed and answered in this interesting Program written in the form of a short play by Mrs. Russell Harris.

Do those of us who are younger and active realize that the feelings of being placed on the shelf, or being without social status, or of having no significance, rob life of its joy and meaning? Naturally older people will look to the church as it is the most accessible agency in any community, whose function is to interpret the deeper meaning of life.

The usual items on the departments of Christian Stewardship and Temperance were given by Mrs. Graham and Miss Wilson. It was decided to send a layette and other children's clothing to Japan. A social hour was enjoyed at the close of the meeting when delicious refreshments were served by this month's hostess, Mrs. William Irwin.

AROUND THE CORNER

Around the corner I have a friend
In this great city that has no end;
Yet the days go by and weeks rush on,
And before I know it a year is gone,
And I never see my dear friend's face,
For life is a swift and terrible race.
He knows I love him just as well
As in the days when I rang his bell
And he rang mine. We were younger then.
We were not busy, tired men —
Tired of playing a busy game,
Tired of trying to make a name.
"Tomorrow," I say, "I'll call on Jim,
Just to show that I am thinking of him."
But tomorrow comes and tomorrow goes,
And the distance between us grows and grows.
Around the corner! Yet miles away!
"Here's a telegram, sir." "Jim died today."
And that's what we get and deserve in the end —
Around the corner, a departed friend.

The Week At Ottawa

nouncement, in the hope that members of the Commons and Senate would be informed in that way.

There were no trains for the members to come to Ottawa, and so airplanes were pressed into service. What would happen when the members reached Ottawa remained to be seen. Many live at the Chateau Laurier Hotel, one of the Canadian National Railways' largest. There, because of the strike, they would have to walk upstairs, change their own beds, get no room service and find their meals elsewhere.

In every part of the country, people were finding out for the first time just what the loss of railway and telegraph service meant to them. In some cases it was life and death.

While parliamentarians were getting to the capital as best they could, the prime minister tried a personal approach to settle the dispute. He called to Ottawa the representatives of both groups.

Urgent Business

Should the strike be settled before Parliament got together so much the better; Parliament had other urgent business as well.

The emergency session is slated to discuss Canada's participation in Korea, the use of the Special Force--now fully recruited for use in Korea or elsewhere--and Canada's further commitments to the United Nations and the North Atlantic Pact.

Members also will receive a report from the government on its plans for national defence. These are expected to be long-range plans which will provide a larger and better-trained navy, army and air force as well as civilian organizations for defence against atomic, bacteriological or other forms of warfare.

Meet Attack

At a meeting this week, authorities agreed on the basic points of division of responsibilities in the organization of the country to meet any attack. This was achieved at a one-day meeting between dominion and provincial authorities.

First steps in the plan will be to train key civilian personnel and then build local organizations around them. The plan lays down certain strategic or "target" areas, and less-strategic "reception" areas, to which people could be evacuated. In between are "cushioned" areas. Special plans are being laid down for all three.

These plans will eventually touch almost every Canadian home. They will be useful in the event of war or any other emergency, such as the Manitoba floods last spring.

In several cities across the country civil defence plans were in the blueprint stage. In Vancouver, a co-ordinated program involving the police, fire departments, harbor authorities and Red Cross had been formulated and meetings were underway to add the details.
