Mayors concerned by changes in ambulance service

Two weeks ago the Outaouais regional health and social service council (CRSSO) asked for tenders to establish an ambulance service for the whole of Pontiac County replacing the two which now divide the county. The tenders have to be submitted by this Friday, the 1st of August. Representatives of the two ambulance services now operating in Pontiac spoke to County Council about the changes at its regular meeting on Monday, July 28th.

The eastern end of the County, Shawville, Otter Lake, Campbell's Bay, Calumet Island and Quyon, is served primarily by Quebec Ambuance. Claude Larose, an owner, and Ron Richardson, the Shawville area operator, discussed the effects of the proposed changes with the mayors. Roland Vallieres, the owner-operator of Vallieres Ambulance, talked about the difficulties of serving his area, which includes the entire west end of Pontiac, from Fort Coulonge to Sheenboro to Allumette Island, and the effects the CRSSSO policy would have on his business.

The Quebec Ambulance representatives described the service they now provide, noting that because of the resources of the company, excellent backup services are available for situations such as recently occurred when an ambulance on an emergency trip to Ottawa developed engine problems. A radio call went out and within minutes a second ambulance was following the first in case the problem worsened. They said that the tenders were open only to Pontiac residents, and that this backup would not be available to a small Pontiac company.

The mayors were concerned that the service in the Shawville area might be diminished. At the moment the average response times are excellent: 5 minutes in Shawville, 14 in Bryson, 16 in Calumet Island, and 19 in Ladysmith and Quyon. 753 trips were made last year of which half were transports between Pontiac Community Hospital and other hospitals. This volume of work makes the service profitable and permits the company to provide such excellent service.

Although Vallieres Ambulance serves a larger population than Quebec Ambulance in Pontiac, 9000 people versus 6000, it has much fewer calls, 189 last year. There are at least two reasons for this. First is the ambulance service that is also provided to the area by a company based in Pembroke. A trip to Pembroke from Fort Coulonge costs $45 due to Ontario subsidies to the company. Roland Vallieres charges the tariff of $150 set by the Quebec government for a trip from Fort Coulonge to Shawville. The second reason is the absence of the inter-hospital transports that makes the Shawville operation profitable.

The representatives of the two ambulance companies said they felt there was no need to amalgamate the two territories, and that doing so would be to the detriment of the service offered now. The mayors agreed that there was no need to change the system now operating since the service was so good in the Shawville area, and as good as could be expected in Fort Coulonge. The Warden, Hector Soucie, noted that the County administrators tried to encourage Pontiac based operations becasue in general this resulted in better services and in decisions being made to help the County rather than some other area.

The mayors voted to send a telegram to Geraldine Hutton, the head of the CRSSSO, to Bob Middlemiss, MNA, and to the minister responsible for ambulance services. The telegram is to indicate the Council's concern with the proposed changes, and ask the CRSSSO to delay opening the tenders until the concerns can be dealt with.

Drilling for gold in Calumet Island

Mark Tindale, owner of Tindale Diamond Drilling, oversees the drilling taking place on Grand Calumet Island in the search for gold.

They're drilling for gold on Calumet Island.

Lacana Mining Corporation of Toronto has contracted for ten thousand feet of drilling on the site of the New Calumet Mines to provide rock samples which will be analysed for the precious metals, gold and silver.

Chris Bishop, a geologist on contract to Lacana, explains that the owner of the property, John McClatchy, had been talking with the company during the last few years regarding the possibility of drilling for gold on the site. Last year Denis Villeneuve, a project coordinator with Lacana, re-examined the old records of the mine to see whether the previous analyses included significant amounts of gold and silver.

During the operation of the lead and zinc mine from the discovery of the ore body in 1893 until its closing in 1968 due to poor lead and zinc prices, many samples of rock had been analysed for a variety of metals. At the time the gold and silver contents were too low to make it worthwhile to mine these exclusively, but the increase in the price of gold since then has changed this.

Significant production at the mine really began in 1942 when the company was reorganized and the name changed to New Calumet Mines Ltd. A concentrating mill was built of 500 tons daily capacity, which was increased to 800 tons in 1949. Four shafts were sunk, No. 1 to 745 feet, No. 2 to 687 feet, No. 3 to 1539 feet and No. 4 to 2205 feet, to follow the ore deposit. By 1960 the rate of production had been reduced to 300 tons daily and in 1968 the mine closed.

What made the New Calumet Mine site so interesting to Lacana was the experience of another mining company near Quebec City. There, in an abandoned lead and zinc mine located in a rock formation similar to that of Calumet Island, sufficient gold has been found recently to justify re-opening the mine.

Lacana is especially interested in the rock which lies beside the seams that were previously mined for lead and zinc. The old mining documents indicate the existence of both silver and gold, and it is this combination that makes it so interesting, says Mr Bishop. "The gold is good but not great...It's the silver combined with the gold that could make this profitable."

The entire area, about 6200 hectares including the mine site and surrounding farmland, has been staked and the mineral rights claimed. Most of the area has been surveyed by several different techniques. Surface samples have been collected and analysed chemically. Although it is unlikely that large amounts of gold would be found at the surface, increases in concentration in the surface rocks and soil "might point out a new zone where gold could be found," says Mr Bishop.

A magnetometer survey to measure the earth's magnetic field then followed. Anomalies in the magnetic field are sometimes related to the occurence of the proper kind of rock where gold is found. A VLF (very low frequency radio) survey was also done to give some indication of the faulting of the area and possible location of mineral deposits.

The drilling has just begun, and so far one core of three hundred and forty-eight feet has been drilled and another started. The drilling rig is operated by Tindale Diamond Drilling of Midland, Ontario, and by the time they have finished in late August they will have ten thousand feet of cores. The drill is a medium size diamond drill which can go down 12,000 feet into the rock if needed, although such extreme depths are not planned here. After splitting the cores in two, one-half will be sent to a laboratory for analysis, and the results should be returned within a week.

The current drilling program is primarily to confirm the results of the New Calumet Mines' analysis. "It allows us to verify the old results, to figure out what they mean when they say things. It is also to do some drilling on our own for new information," explains Mr Bishop. If their analyses and their interpretations are born out by this more recent work then it is quite probable that exploration for gold will continue in the area. Eventually a productive gold mine could result.

Mr Bishop emphasizes the project is at a "semi-developed" stage now. The drilling project will "give us an initial outlook on what we're going to do." He explains there are four terms in describing drilling potential: protor (not enough potential), possible, probable and proven. At the 'probable' stage, bulk sampling is done with tons of rocks being taken out for surveys. At this time, the Calumet Island site has not yet reached the 'possible' stage.

For now, everything hinges on the results of the samples currently being collected by the drill. Project Coordinator Denis Villeneuve states, "There is no question of going underground now because the cost would be between 1 and 2 million dollars. The mine is full of water and this would have to be pumped out first. This is just the first pass."

Rotary Club loans hospital beds

by David Fraser

The Shawville Rotary Club has recently acquired 15 used hospital beds from the Pontiac Community Hospital and is making them available to people in the County who might need them.

The beds became surplus to the hospital's needs when they received a government grant to replace some of the furniture in the rooms. Several beds have been kept by the hospital in case of emergency, but it was felt that the rest would be of more benefit to the community if they were available for home use.

The Rotary Club was approached by hospital staff to see if its members would be interested in the project. This followed the club's collaboration with the hospital in arranging for the shipment of surplus equipment and supplies to a hospital in Jamaica. In addition to the beds there are 15 bedside tables and 15 overbed tables. All of the equipment has been leased to the Rotary Club for ten years at a cost of $1.

The Rotary Club will be lending the beds free of charge throughout Pontiac County. The club has contacted other service clubs about the beds, and is counting on them, the C.L.S.C. and P.C.H. to refer people who might need them.

Already the benefits of a hospital bed have been experienced by one County resident. Gordon Bruce of Shawville is now sleeping comfortably at night on the first one loaned out by the Rotary Club.

Following a motorcycle accident in the Spring Mr Bruce has found he can no longer sleep in a normal bed due to a back injury. He must sleep in a tilted position and this has not been easy to arrange. "It's the only bed I've slept in since I came home from the hospital. Before I got the bed I was sleeping on the chesterfield," Mr Bruce said. "It's a good service. The used beds are being put to good use. People, like myself, that need one can use one."

The beds feature adjustable height, tilt, and have guard rails. They are in excellent condition and are easy to manage. They are fairly heavy though, and if they have to be moved, Mr Russell says, the Rotary Club will move the beds for those not able to do it themselves.

Mr Russell knows that the service will be appreciated because of his own experience. The Russells use a hospital bed provided by the Civitan's Club to care for their daughter, Sandra, whose left side was paralysed by a brain tumor. "The beds are easier than normal beds because they are higher," Mr Russell says. "The patient is also more comfortable in the beds."

In addition to hospital beds, the Rotary Club also has several wheelchairs which it lends out as needed in the County. If people need a bed they can contact Rotary Club members or Eason Russell at 647-5646.

Hospital hires recreation consultant

by Michelle Tessier

The Pontiac Community Hospital (PCH) in Shawville is losing personnel due to social boredom and has hired a student in the hopes of doing something about it.

After about a year working at PCH, many young, single hospital staff members quit their jobs and move to bigger centres because they find there is nothing to do here when it comes to their social life, explains PCH Director General Dr Gérald Desaulniers.

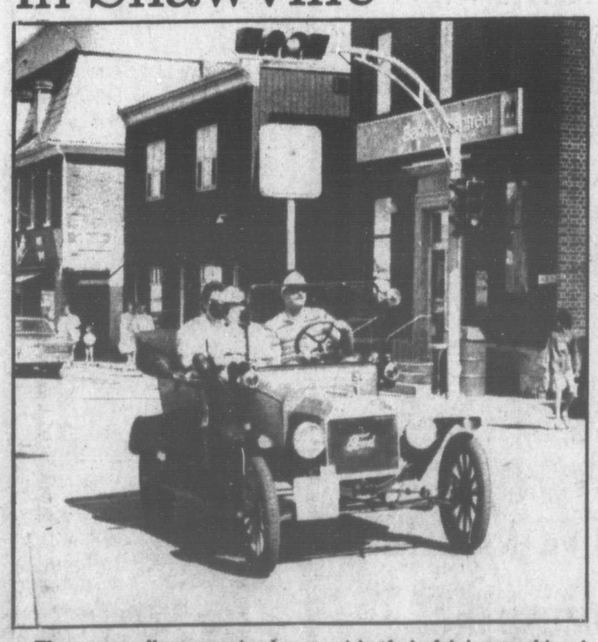
In an attempt to remedy the situation, 19-year-old Leslee Murphy has been hired to make a sort of inventory of the social and cultural events in the region. Miss Murphy began working at the hospital Tuesday, July 22 for a six week period.

Miss Murphy describes her task as finding out "what is offered in Shawville (and the area). There's quite a long list of things they can do. They just have to know what's going on." She points out the existence of such activities as the squash club, the tennis club, recreational hockey and ball, school workshops, Equinox Adventures and golf.

She plans to send a letter to social organizations and clubs asking for the donation of "a free membership, lesson(s), tour or cruise as an incentive to offer probable applicants for various medical positions. We feel this will be a good way to expose the facilities which could be very profitable at a later date."

The letter expresses the desire that "something must be done to change this situation (of personnel leaving) if we hope to employ good, well trained professionals."

Antique cars in Shawville



Those marvellous men (and women) in their driving machines! Thanks to Ray Sheppard Shawville's Main Street was transported back in time. This Model T Ford, owned by Don, Susan and Nicole Adam, escaped the hands of time and runs as smoothly now as it did in 1915.

Gun handling courses rescheduled

The course on gun handling, which must be taken to obtain a hunter's permit, will not be given between September 15 and November 15. The Quebec fauna federation and the Ministry of recreation, fish and game (MLCP) made the decision to insure the educational quality of the course.

The period in the Fall coincides with the hunting season when conservation agents cannot teach the course because they must survey their territory.

Those wishing to obtain a hunter's permit are advised to register for the gun handling course as soon as possible.

There is a minimum delay of six weeks upon completing the course before obtaining a hunter's permit. Organizations recognized by the federation are presently offering courses in all regions of Quebec.

Rebuilding the Culbute Locks

The C.O. Kelly (1874-1885) approaches the Culbute Locks (1876-1889) located a few miles west of Chapeau, by-passing rapids on the Chenal de la Culbute, the north channel of the Ottawa River at Allumette Island.

Almost 100 years ago a canal linking two great reaches of the Ottawa River was destroyed. Boat traffic from Bryson to Rapides des Joachims via Chapeau had become possible with the construction of the Culbute Locks on the Culbute Channel in 1876. Then in 1889 the locks were closed and, for reasons unknown, a coffer dam at the top of the locks was blown up, and the locks themselves were burned.

Now plans are being made to rebuild the locks. Members of the Council for the Champlain Waterway described the lock site, its history and their ideas for its future to the mayors at a regular meeting of County Council on Monday, July 28th.

According to Terry Murdock, who made the presentation, the project would cost about $500,000, most of which would be labour. The channel cut for the locks, two basins and three doors, still exists, though overgrown. A lot of the hardware and the wood liner of the locks can still be seen as it originally was. The complete blueprints for the project are available from the National Archives.

One bit of information which surprised some of the mayors was that the bridge at Chapeau was built as a horse-powered swing bridge to allow boats to pass. The machinery has been removed over the years, but the CCW representatives believe that a lift bridge powered by electric motors could easily be created.

He asked the mayors to consider appointing two members to a planning committee which will also include representatives of the CCW and the Native Alliance of Quebec. Mayors Gerald Dempsey and Jerome Sallafranque were nominated. The Native Alliance is interested in the project because it would improve tourist access to the Oiseau Rock, a historic site across the river from Chaik River, and to the Rocher Fendu, a potential theme park below the rapids at Calumet Island.

Some concern was expressed about the current logging practices on the Upper Ottawa. According to Mr Murdock, logs are brought down to Allumette Island in booms. At the island the booms are broken and the logs are allowed to float free to below Portage du Fort. A lot of damage occurs to shoreline property, wharves, buildings and boats as a result and tourism on the river suffers.

Another concern is the lack of regulation of the river levels. A meeting of the Pontiac Tourist Association and the CCW is planned for September 3 to discuss the problems. The Ottawa River Regulatory Agency will be holding a regular meeting at the County Building on September 9. The plan is for County representatives to bring some of these problems to the Agency's attention at that time.

Soft Ball. During the past week two very thrilling soft ball games have been staged at the Fair Grounds between the married men and the young ladies of town. The first engagement held on Thursday evening of last week, resulted in a win for the "old lads", the score being 14 to 7. In the second battle on Monday evening, the dazzling and very variegated array of "shorts" worn by the opposite sex, so affected the vision of the benedicts that their batting fell far below normal and misjudgements in fielding occurred frequently. The "femes" emerged on the long end of a 13 to 9 score. Winners of Monday's game have challenged the local bachelors and the first game will likely be played on Thursday evening of this week.

Field Day. A field day under the auspices of the Junior Farmer's Association of Pontiac and Hull was held at the farm of Wyman MacKechnie, at Wyman on July 23rd.

About one hundred junior farmers were present from Chapeau, Sheenboro, Campbell's Bay, Shawville, Renfew and Hull. Results of the judging were:

Dairy: boys under 16 — Fred Davis, Chapeau; Frank Mulvihill; Lionel Chartrand, Campbell's Bay. Boys over 16 — Lee Hodgins, Shawville and Earl Mousseau, C. Bay.

Beef: Under 16 — Harold Keon, Chapeau; Raymond Poupore, Francis Carroll, Sheenboro. Over 16 — M Keon, Chapeau; Arnold Donnelly and M J Donnelly, Sheenboro.

The judging teams chosen for the Ottawa Fair were: Earl Mousseau and Marcy Stran, C. Bay; M. Keon and A. Donnelly, Sheen; Dennis Carroll and Walston Landon, Chapeau.

Charteris Notes. Mrs Gerald Lang was hostess at a delightfully arranged miscellaneous shower on Thursday afternoon of last week, in honour of Miss Ethel Lang, whose marriage takes place next month.

The guest of honour was the recipient of many beautiful and useful gifts which were presented on a decorated toy wagon, drawn by little Willie Lang, nephew of the bride-to-be. Although completely taken by surprise, Miss Lang thanked her friends gracefully.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs Henry McCord, Mrs Irvine Woods, Mrs Jas Murphy, and the Misses Hazel Lang and Mabel Dagg.

Travel Night. A "Travel Night" will be given by the Literary Society at No 1 School, Clarendon Front, on Tuesday evening, August 1st, at 8 o'clock. Miss Grace Mc Kechnie will tell of her travels in Germany, Switzerland, Austria and Italy. Refreshments will be served. An admission fee will be charged.

Bryson Mill Burnt. Bryson suffered the loss of one of its two industries on Saturday — the grist mill — which was destroyed by fire during the afternoon, and also the miller's residence adjoining. This building has had rather an unfortunate record. It was built and completed during the years 1872-3 by the late Dr Purvis. It was not long in operation till fire, starting in the adjoining saw mill, quickly enveloped the new mill and reduced it to ruins. The wall, however, being of substantial masonry, withstood the heat and remained intact. The structure was refitted, and shortly again was in operation. The high water of 1875 demolished the dam from the main land to tne island, which supplied the mill with power. This exposed the end wall to a great force of water and a stream of sawlogs which kept pounding against the masonry till it finally gave way and once more left the mill a ruin. After some delay the damage was repaired, new machinery installed, and the mill again put into operation. Since then several changes and improvements have been made to keep abreast of the times in the line of equipment.

Picnic at McCorriston's Grove. The Orange demonstration held by L.O.L. No. 46, B Bristol, was a complete success. The day was beautiful, and by the hour of ten am, fully 130 people had assembled in the grove.

The following lodges were present: Stark's No. 1350, Radford No 29, Yarm No 750, Knox's No 34, North Onslow No. 38, Steele's No 1096, Upper Eardley No 70, Bristol No 46.

Calumet Bridge. A large force of men are at work building No. 1 pier to the required height, and making such alterations in the approach as are rendered necessary by this elevation.

The work of scaffolding between No. 2 and 3 piers came to a stand-still for a day or two last week, owing to the greatly increased depth of water which was encountered as the temporary work was projected towards the centre of the river. Finding that it was impossible to proceed farther out, Mr William Hastler, the gentleman in charge, conceived the plan of overcoming the gap between the scaffolding already erected and the centre pier, by building projections from the latter on the cantiliver principle. With this view the company were telegraphed to send up an engineer to make the necessary calculations upon which to base the plan of each cantiliver. The engineer came and we are pleased to say the work is again progressing.

Large Fish. On Wednesday, Mr James Ingram caught a pike in the vicinity of the foot of Calumet Rapids which turned the beam at 11½ pounds. It is the largest fish of its kind caught in this neighbourhood for some years past.

Monstrosity. A winniped taxidermist has on view a monstrosity in the form of an animal, the lower half of which resembles a calf, while the upper half looks like a human child. It was found on the prairie and was alive at the time. A doctor examined it and pronounced it a monstrosity. It was subsequently killed.

PP&J RY Stage Line. Only reliable through route from Shawville to Bryson daily. (Sundays excepted). With the view of giving greater extension to the facilities afforded by the advent of railway communication with the village of Shawville, the undersigned have commenced to run a first class line of stages between the above mentioned points. Bryson to Shawville — 10 miles, 75 cents. Shawville to Ottawa — 45 miles, $1.25. Leave Shawville on arrival of the train at 8:30 o'clock pm, arriving at Bryson at 10 o'clock pm. Leave Bryson at 5 am, arriving in Shawville at 6:40 am to connect with train which reaches Ottawa at 11 o'clock.

25 years of service

On Thursday, July 24 Irene (Ginger) McKenny celebrated 25 years with the Royal Bank. McKenny began her career with the bank in 1961 in Ottawa. At age 16 she worked at the main branch of the Royal Bank in Ottawa in the proofing department. She worked at three branches in Ottawa before being transferred to Shawville in 1968. McKenny will be invited to a supper in Montreal to celebrate her quarter century with other 25-year employees of the bank. She will also receive a mantle clock and a 14 carat gold Royal Bank charm, gifts chosen by her, awarded by the bank. The floral arrangement was given to her by fellow employees at the Shawville branch. McKenny plans to stay with the Royal Bank until she retires.

Norway Bay Regatta

by David Fraser

The 1986 Norway Bay Regatta was held on Sunday, July 27 at the pier in Norway Bay. The sun was shining and the water was fine, fortunately because many of the racers ended up in the river! The Honorary Referee in Chief for the regatta was Peter Mac—Kechnie.

The canoe hands only race for 14 and over ended with a swim for many of the racers. The races were held Sunday at the pier in Norway Bay.

The canoe tandem for boys 14 and over was won by Mark Kelly and Dave Nugent, Dave Hill and Jamie Barr were second and Tom Bothwell and Robin Steed third. The canoe tandem for boys 13 and under was won by Jeff Starr and Tyler Bothwell, Mark Robertson and Chris Mackie placed second, Chris and Tim Last third. The canoe tandem mixed 14 and under was won by Kristin McNiell and Robin Steed, second were Tyler Bothwell and Lisa Morrison, third Trish Lynch and Geoff Minielly. The canoe tandem mixed 15 and over was won by Julie Power and Doug Workman, second was Mollie Starr and Barry Starr, third was Jamie Alexander and Susan Lynch. The canoe tandem for girls 14 and over was won by Lisa Towlan and Cara Fraser, Nancy Osborn and Susie Lynch were second, Kim Shaw and Nancy Steed third.

What is really going on with Pontiac's ambulance services?

Editorial

"Shawville has the best ambulance service in Quebec," claims Claude Larose, an owner of Quebec Ambulance, the company providing this service. No doubt his assessment could be somewhat biased by his involvement, but the mayors of Pontiac, to whom he was speaking, generally agreed that it was excellent.

The reason for the remark in the first place was a meeting of Mr. Larose, Ron Richardson, the Shawville operator of the ambulance, and Roland Vallieres, of Vallieres Ambulance of Fort Coulonge with the mayors to discuss the recent call for tenders for an ambulance service to serve all of the County. At the moment the County is divided into two regions, 701 in the west, centered in Fort Coulonge, and 702 in the east, centered in Shawville.

The concern for the changes seemed to hinge on the claim by the Quebec Ambulance representatives that the tenders were being restricted to Pontiac residents. They said that this would result in poorer service being offered to the Pontiac since the resources of a larger company would be lost, and since the Fort Coulonge area could not be served adequately.

According to the guide issued by the Outaouais Regional Health and Social Service Council (CRSSSO) to help those proposing to provide the ambulance service the proposer must be a resident of Quebec, or if a company, have its head office in Quebec. It adds that there could be a preference for a proposer now living in the County, and that if a non-resident is chosen, he must undertake to establish a residence in Pontiac. In the case of a company, the partners or the administrators and staff must do the same.

At the moment the staff and administrator of the Quebec Ambulance service in Pontiac live in Pontiac, so there seems to be no residency requirement stopping Quebec Ambulance from submitting a tender. Why was this objection raised then? Hector Soucie, the Warden, noted that in the many problems that County Council has to deal with, it is often the lack of local owners and managers that causes Pontiac to be left out. He said he agreed in general with attempts to have organizations serving Pontiac based in Pontiac.

The grouping together of zones 701 and 702 could be of more concern. The low volume of work in the Fort Coulonge area could reduce the overall profitability of ambulance service in the County, and reduce the service in Shawville. This would depend on how the subsidy now given to the two ambulance companies by the Quebec government is calculated in the future. The CRSSSO has decided that the two zones should be served by one company in order to improve the service given to the Fort Coulonge zone, rather than to detract from that now provided in the Shawville zone. Experience gained with amalgamating the ambulance service zones in the Gatineau Valley and those in La Lievre Valley indicates that this will work well in Pontiac also, and that the regions benefit from local ownership.

By stipulating that the identity of the two zones will be retained the CRSSSO implies that each zone must have at least one ambulance available and that the subsidies will continue for each zone. In the Fort Coulonge zone the subsidies are quite significant, amounting to several tens of thousands of dollars. This information was not mentioned at the County Council meeting, although it seems quite relevant to any discussion of the cost of providing service to the County.

As several of the mayors asked, why change the regulations concerning ambulance service in Pontiac now when everything seems to be working well? It is often the sign of an overstaffed and underworked bureaucracy when processes that are working well are changed. It is apparent though that not all of the significant information was provided to the mayors when they were asked to support the status quo, and the motives of those making the presentation must also be questioned.

Rustic Rhetoric

by E.B.W. Mulligan

When I retired a few years ago my wife and daughter bought me a Treasure Hunter — an electronic apparatus that seeks out metal covered or hidden in the ground.

The thing cost quite a bit and I didn't know how to operate it, even after the detailed instructions that come with it. The salesman from Richmond, Ontario, suggested that I attend a meeting of the "Treasure Hunters Club of the Ottawa Valley". I attended one meeting and found out how to operate the thing. Someone then asked me if Luskville was close to Quyon. I said it was — why? They told me that they had old reports of two stashes of gold hidden within four miles of Quyon.

I didn't say anything but then I remembered an old family story about Matt Duggan (I've mentioned his name in the story about the passenger pigeons) who had come back from the Cariboo in 1863 or 64.

Matt Duggan, a native of Ireland and a cousin of my grandfather, was single, a rambler, didn't like Canadian winters and cutting logs but liked going down the river on square timber rafts.

Matt Duggan had struck it rich in the Upper Fraser near Barkewill on the Cariboo. My aunt told me often about his trip back loaded with gold sewed into his underwear and a turkey loaded too (a pack sac). He took a stage coach from the Pacific Coast in Oregon across Idaho, Wyoming and Nebraska and caught a train from there (a train track had been built to Omaha by that time) back through the States and no one knew which route. He arrived in Aylmer in April or May 1963 or 64 and took the boat at Aylmer.

My grandfather was a pilot on the Emerald under a Captain Brittan and often he was in command of the boat because Captain Brittan and his alternate, Captian Cumming, were involved more in management of the supplies and passengers than in the mechanical aspects of the boats.

To keep this story in perspective and not abuse my space in The Equity, I may have to complete this story in two weeks instead of one.

Now — Matt arrived back in Pontiac Village and hid his loot in four places according to my informants and others.

If you have Wyman MacKechnie's first book — "Well Remembered" — you will see a name close to the Mulligans — M. Duggan — this was his brother Michael and he had eight children.

Michael worked as a sawyer for Owen O'Connor who had a sawmill at the bottom of Wrights slide. O'Connors Mill was one of the first in Pontiac and he made lumber out of the culls that were originally perfect timber but got broken going through the slides or spare logs that were missed the year before.

Keep in mind for next week that Michael was one of the first permanent residents of Pontiac Village. Four of his eight siblings were born in Ireland.

Matte, his brother, had arrived back in 1863-64 and the family really enjoyed the uncle. He always seemed to be able to add that little extra that counted so much to the early Irish settlers.

On the way back through United States territories he had to prove he was a British subject before he was given a seat on the various stage coaches because the organized states were in the midst of the Civil War.

Next week we'll continue with my Treasure Hunter and Matt Duggan's gold.

The Chiropractic approach to health care

by Ed P Chicoine

With the establishment of a chiropractic clinic in Shawville, many questions have been raised by members of the community. What is chiropractic? What does a chiropractor do? What conditions do they treat? Can chiropractors help children? Can senior citizens benefit from chiropractic care? Why is it so popular with athletes? etc... To help answer many of these questions and provide general information on health matters, the following is the first part in a series, and will deal with the chiropractic approach to health care in general and the chiropractor's education.

Historically 'chiropractic' is merely a modern label attached to a very ancient healing art which dates back thousands of years. Hippocrates, often called the father of medicine, said, "At the first sign of disease look to the spine"; that was in 470 B.C.In fact ancient Greeks, Chinese, Hindu, Egyptians and Aztecs, all have records of treating the spine by hand.

Chiropractic is most simply defined as the 'science and art of treating disease without the use of drugs or surgery'. The term chiropractic is derived from 'Cheirpraxis' which means 'with the hands'. It places special, though by no means exclusive emphasis on spinal disorders, and working with the hands it restores normal neuromechanics allowing the body to heal itself. As a science it is based on the premise that good health depends in part upon a normally functioning nervous system.

With the use of special examination procedures, the most important one being palpation, the chiropractor can detect areas of malfunction in the spine, pelvis and other joints of the body. After proper diagnosis a treatment program is instituted which makes use of various techniques, manipulation being the main form of therapy. A more elaborate explanation of examination and treatment procedures will be provided in future articles.

Manipulation which many people refer to as 'cracking the back' is the way in which chiropractors correct the abnormal body mechanics. A precise definition of manipulation was adopted by the American Medical Association Orthopedic council at their conference on February 26 - 29, 1980. "It involves the application of accurately determined and specifically directed manual forces to the body. The objective is to improve mobility in areas that are restricted whether the restrictions are within joint, connective tissues, or in skeletal muscles. The consequences may be the improvement of posture and locomotion and the relief of pain and discomfort, the improvement of function elsewhere in the body, and the enhancement of the sense of well being."

Chiropractic Eduction. To become a chiropractor you must complete a 4-year program with a pre-requisite of 2 years pre-professional university education in the basic sciences. There is only one chiropractic college in Canada, Canadian Memorial Chiropractic College, and it is located in Toronto. Of the students entering the college, 67% already have a university degree.

The academic program is divided into 4 divisions; biological sciences, chiropractic sciences, clinical sciences and clinical training. Some of the courses provided include human anatomy, physiology, pathology, neuroscience, nutrition, mechanics of human motion, chiropractic principles and skills, orthopedics, rheumatology, X-Ray, bone pathology, child care and geriatric care. A full year internship is required in the 4th year of study.

The college faculty comprises individuals with diverse qualifications: chiropractors, medical doctors, masters and PHD graduates. A large number of existing staff also hold appointments in a university faculty of medicine.

The graduate Doctor of Chiropractic is well trained in the diagnosis and treatment of musculo-skeletal disorder. He is part of a profession which is the largest natural health care provider in the world and the second largest primary health care provider in North America after medicine.

In summary, chiropractic involves the detection and correction of aberrant body mechanics. Since the spine acts as the central axis of all body motions and most nervous system activity it has the effect of restoring and maintaining better health.

[Mr Ed Chicoine is a Doctor of Chiropractic with clinics in Shawville and Wakefield.]

Father Costello transferred to Astorville

by Michelle Tessier

After 13 years as Pastor of St Edward's Church in Bristol, Father Michael Costello is moving to Astorville, Ontario to become the Pastor of the parish there August 1.

Rev L J Gauthier, the Pastor of Astorville, resigned due to ill-health. When Bishop J R Windle of the Diocese of Pembroke asked Father Costello if he would accept the appointment, Father Costello said he was "very happy" to.

Father Costello was ordained priest in 1962. He worked at the Teacher's College in Chapeau for seven years and also lived and worked in the Bishop's house in Pembroke. He also served the Mission of Waltham during those seven years. From 1969 to January 1973 he worked at Our Lady of Lourde's Parish in Pembroke before coming to St Edwards in Bristol.

The 50-year-old priest is originally from Arnprior, Ontario so is quite familiar with the Ottawa Valley. Astorville is near North Bay.

His role as Pastor in Bristol went along the normal lines of church functions in "trying to be a Pastor and a leader in the community to help them in their spiritual life." This included meeting the needs of the sick, visiting people in their homes, religious education and "generally being interested in the families in terms of their whole relationship with God."

Father Michael Costello stands in front of St Edward's Church in Bristol. The church's new facade is one of the parish's accomplishments Father Costello is proud to have been involved with.

Father Costello admits that some people's attitudes to religion have changed. "I think we're always sort of creatures of our times and the Church is not an exception to the change that takes place in all levels. There is, of course, always the need to hold the basic truths and practice of our faith which really are not changing. They are for every age and will be until the end of time.

"I think in the midst of change we have to hold firm to those things that really count which are our relationship with Christ in prayer and daily contact with God. I think that basic approach to the faith and religion and life will bring us through whatever changes we face at any time. I guess change is a part of existence and we just have to work with it and at the same time be strong in those things that will bring us though any and all change."

St Edward's Parish has been involved in change as well but Father Costello maintains the faith is still strong and growing here. "The good faith that we here is still here and is continuing to deepen. One of the joys of my life here over the past 14 years is to have shared in the faith life of the people. It has enriched me and strengthened me too."

His deeply religious family background provided the incentive for his choice in entering the vocation of priesthood. "For me, the priesthood was always the first choice and has remained my firm choice....God calls the individual and you respond to that call but it was also my choice too in the sense that I responded willingly."

Father Costello says he accepted the position in Astorville to serve the needs of the Church. "The priest is ordained to serve the Church and the Bishop, as the leader of a Diocese, calls you to serve at a given parish and I was always willing to respond to whatever needs were presented."

However, Father Costello admits this is a time of mixed emotions. "Well, you're certainly sad to leave all the people whom you've worked with over those years and grew to know and love. You become, really, part of their family and that's always difficult."

On Sunday, July 27 the people of the parish held a gathering in honour of the priest. He was given money collected by the people as well as a video cassette recorder. "I'll have to get into the technological age now and learn how to operate that!" he says.

"That was a total surprise. I didn't know what was happening until the 11 o'clock mass. The church was filled with people including my own family whom the parishioners invited without my knowledge. It was a great surprise to see all the people....It was very generous of them. The remarks were very kind expressing appreciation. It was nice of them to do that."

Keeping the past in mind, Father Costello is preparing for his future in Astorville. "I think I have to look over the last number of years at what I've done in terms of living my own faith and serving the Church. You sort of see the things that are needed for people in terms of their spiritual life and you work at those. Those goals always remain the same in whatever parish you work.

"It's basically to be a good priest in serving the people wherever you happen to be called to serve."

An introduction to appropriate technology

by Peter Alvo
Extension Service,
Macdonald College

Now that summer is upon us and gasoline prices have dropped substantially, few of us seem concerned about energy consumption. Nevertheless, the staff of the Brace Research Institute of McGill University, under the direction of Tom Lawand, continues to develop ways to reduce the world's dependence on conventional energy sources.

The original mandate of "Brace" was to develop techniques to render arid lands useful for agriculture. Today, the keywords at Brace are "appropriate technology". These words define a methodology that seeks to provide low-cost alternatives for the energy needs of individuals and communities both here and in the developing nations. An important component of the Brace approach, besides using solar, wind and biomass energy as alternate sources, is to rely as much as possible on locally-available materials for the design of alternate energy systems.

The Brace Research Institute is presently working on a plan with the RONA hardware association to provide standard designs and components for solar systems to the Quebec homeowner. This "build-your-own" concept could mean substantial savings on fuel bills for the consumer. Engineer Chris Ives, a Brace affiliate, is currently perfecting a roof solar collector that can supply most of the energy required by a domestic hot water tank without the use of electric circulating pumps.

Aside from research, Brace is actively involved in lectures, workshops, student training and employment training programs in appropriate technology. Brace has an extensive library with information on solar greenhouses, wind energy, small turbine generators and biogas energy to name a few. The Brace Research Institute and field station are situated on the Macdonald College Campus in Ste Anne de Bellevue, Quebec.

Joanne Dubeau, 19 years old, from Shawville, was selected one of the 10 finalists in the 1986 CKBY Talent Search. Joanne sings because she loves it.

CKBY Talent Search finalist

by David Fraser

Joanne Dubeau entered the CKBY Talent Search after friends talked her into it. She admitted wanting to enter all along but needed a little encouragement. She sent a tape of two songs to the radio station in May. While at work on June 7 she got a phone call from CKBY. On air Joanne was informed that out of 147 entries she had been selected one of the 10 finalists. This weekend she will be competing with the other nine finalists at the Gatineau Clog in Tucker Lake (Low, Quebec).

This is the second year in a row she has entered the contest. Last year she made it to the semi-finals but the competition was held differently. Contestants performed at a club in Ottawa and there was a winner chosen every night. The nightly winners competed and finalists were selected.

Joanne has been singing since she was three years old. She learned to sing by singing with her father, Gerry Dubeau. She says she used to depend on her father being present to perform. "My Dad would always have to be there for me to sing when I was younger." Joanne said. She says that it will be important to see her father among the crowd this weekend.

Joanne plays guitar and bass guitar in addition to singing. Her father taught her how to play the bass guitar while she took lessons to learn how to play the guitar. She has her heart set on the $1500 Ovation Cutaway guitar which will be given to the winner of the Talent Search. Other prizes include a recording session to cut a 45 record.

The most appealing aspect of winning the contest for Joanne is to be able to sing. Fame and fortune are common lures to a singing career but Joanne just wants to sing. "The applause is great. It's worse when they don't do anything. You never know if they like you or not."

Joanne belongs to a group called First Things First. Other members of the group include Noel Chevrier from Shawville, Dean Howard and Murray Tait from Quyon. The band plays in bars and hotels in the Pontiac. She also belongs to Country Wanderers, a group that includes her father.

Songs which she likes to perform include "He Stopped Loving Her Today" by George Jones, and "Momma He's Crazy" by The Judds. One of her favourite artists is Reba McIntyre. For the contest Joanne recorded "I Won't be Blue Anymore" by Dan Seals and "Now There's You" by Shelly West. Bob Webb helped Joanne record the songs. She admits she was not familiar with the two songs and had to read them off sheets while recording. She is nervous about having to perform the songs live this weekend.

Joanne works part-time at Bob Smith's Restaurant in Shawville. "You can make more money in one night singing than working all week at the restaurant but I have to do something," Joanne admitted.

The CKBY Talent Search finalists will be performing at the Gatineau Clog, August 2 and 3, with Bobby Lalonde's Band. The winner of the Talent Search will be announced at the Clog.

Tragedy!!

by Eric Smiley

A friendly chipmunk free to roam the lot
A hungry weasel searching for some food
A boy playing in the beach sand, hot
A setting where tragedy did intrude
A lesson to the boy of Nature's way
Population control was shown to him that day.

He'd fed that little chipmunk from his hand
Watched him hurry, cheeks bulging, to his hole
On a nearly hillside, where in the hard sand
It had dug a hole close to the flag pole
Was stocking it with food for leaner days
It never got to use its store; victim of Nature's ways.

The weasel was patrolling the lake shore
A tiny beast, perhaps on its first hunt
This search for food may have been its first chore
And the little chipmunk fondly called "The Runt"
Was its first victim; the boy witnessed the deed
Saw his small furry friend brought down with speed.

Such horrow for a little boy to see
The first death he'd ever witnessed. What a shock!!
He'd watched his little friend, sometimes with glee
Besting a greedy squirrel to get its stock
Parents, close by, battled with his tears
Hugged the little boy and calmed his fears.

Told him Nature's Way was hard to understand
That none of us knew just what she planned
Said food for chipmunks might soon be hard to find
And a quick death for poor Runt, might be kind
Said that never the aims of nature we can know
That animals, like we humans, all must go.

Charter boat to cruise waterway

by Michelle Tessier

The Blue Angel is getting ready to cruise.

The Blue Angel is a house boat which is being converted into a charter. It will be available for rent to cruise the Ottawa River between Chats Falls and the Chenaux Dam for such activities as tours, birthday parties, anniversaries, dining, entertainment, meetings and fundraising events.

"We can offer virtually anything because it's for charter," explains operator Noel Mead. "It's a unique way to celebrate a birthday party or shower."

The boat will be operated by three 'captains': Sher Ansley, who is one of the few women operating boats on the Rideau water system, Bob Morrissette, who has operated a 110 foot cruise boat on the Ottawa River, and Noel Mead, who has raced hyroplanes all his life and was World Champion in 1975.

Mr Mead says the idea of having a charter boat is to help tourism in the Pontiac and the Ottawa Valley. The operators see it as "one of the steps in opening up the Ottawa River and helping the tourist industry prosper and grow."

The boat, owned by Sher Ansley's business The Rarest Group, is 40 feet long, 14 feet wide and weighs 10 tons. It has the capacity to sleep eight people and has four different decks. As a charter boat, it will take groups of anywhere from four to 30 people.

There will always be a captain and 'first mate' operating the boat when it is used as a charter. "We have as much fun on charters as those who go on charter. "We will have as much fun on charters as those who go on he charters," notes Mr Mead.

The group will charge an hourly running rate of $75 and an hourly down, or docking, time rate of $30. People are beginning to approach the group and it is depending on posters and word-of-mouth to get itself known.

Future plans include connecting with other boat tours, such as the Pontiac Princess, and widening the booms to allow for travel from Fitzroy Harbour to Portage-du-Fort.

The group is hoping to book local entertainers to perform on board.

The boat should be ready to cruise the Ottawa River soon after its safety rail is installed.

Captain Bob Morrissette and Noel Mead prepare to dock The Blue Angel. Captain Sher Ansley is at the controls.

Summer festival in Portage-du-Fort

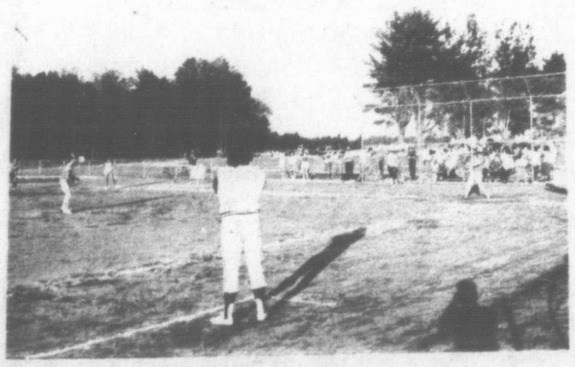
Portage-du-Fort ball tournament



Mitel and Ladysmith play in the Portage du Fort Summer Fesitval Three Pitch Tournament. Mitel won the game. The A division of the tournament was won by the Portage and Shawville Combines. The runner up was Kelly's Bar from Bryson. The B division was won by Bluebell from Renfrew. Gauthiers from Bryson were the runners up in the B division.

Antique cars in Shawville

This 1960 Messerschimt attracted curious looks. The car is owned by Lloyd Watson. The cars left the fair grounds to tour Don New's tobacco operation, Campbell's Bay, Otter Lake, Ladysmith and returned to Renfrew through Shawville.

Ray Sheppard described this 1928 LaSalle, owned by Edwin Forrest as the "cream of the crop". Mr Forrest bought the car at a flea market in Stittsville seven years ago. Mrs Forrest said that everything has been kept authentic, even the motor is original.

This Model T Ford which dates to 1912 is owned by Bill and Gloria Hamilton. The 130 antique cars parked at the fair grounds after parading down Main Street. Ray Sheppard estimated the parking lot to be worth several million dollars. The municipality of Shawville hosted the drivers, who had travelled from Renfrew, to coffee and doughnuts.

More raspberries with better management

by David Wees,
Macdonald College

The raspberry, that delicious mid-summer treat, is known for its bright red colour and thorny stems. It has also become quite expensive. Horticulturalists at Macdonald College are improving the way we grow raspberries.

Fresh raspberries are available for only 3 or 4 weeks in July and early August. Once picked, the berries last only 2 or 3 days. The fruit is so delicate that the berries at the bottom of a basket will be crushed under the weight of the berries on top. This is why raspberries are sold in very small containers.

Raspberries have been grown in Quebec for many years but have always been a minor crop. According to Stewart Leibovitch, a graduate student at Macdonald College, one of the main constraints is labour: it takes a lot of workers to pick and maintain a commercial raspberry field. A grower may need up to 25 pickers per hectare in the peak season.

Fruit and flowers grow only on two-year old canes. The first year, canes with no fruit develop: these are the "primocanes". In the second year, the previous year's primocanes become "floricanes" and bear fruit. At the same time, new primocanes grow and will become floricanes the next year. And the cycle continues.

The floricanes die once they have stopped producing fruit. At this point they should be removed. This will give more room to the growing primocanes.

Overcrowding is a big problem in raspberry patches. According to Stewart Leibovitch's experiments it is best to thin the primocanes in the spring, leaving only 10 canes per meter of row length. More than this and the canes will be too crowded. Crowding makes it hard to pick the fruit. Also, the plants are more likely to get diseased.

A common insect pest in raspberries is the cane borer. Fortunately it is easy to recognize signs of the cane borer. The tip of an infected primocane wilts; a few inches below the tip are a pair of brown rings around the stem: this is where the cane borer lays its eggs. To control this pest, cut the infected canes 6 inches below the rings and throw them out or burn them.

There are many thickets of wild raspberries in southern Quebec, but their yields are very low. Both the gardner and the commercial grower should plant high yielding cultivated varieties. "Boyne", "Festival" and "Carnival" are some of the best. "Boyne" and "Festival" are very winter hardy, an important trait in our area. The fall-bearing variety "Heritage" produces berries in late September.

The raspberry research program, supervised by Dr Deborah Buszard, involves counting and weighing thousands of berries. In addition, the Macdonald Horticultural Research Centre sells raspberries to the public from mid-July through early August.

Plans for River View North

by Michelle Tessier

Country jamborees are not the only events planned for River View North.

Owner Don McCredie wants to turn his farm, near Norway Bay, into a tourist area. When he bought the farm in 1978, he "had an idea." He cleared the land and had plans for a hotel across the waterfall, a sugar bush, a riding stable, a campsite, a mini-put, a golf driving range and jamborees. Then the Quebec government froze the land into agricultural zones and many of the plans fell through.

Today there is the sugar bush, honey and the jamborees. The first Country Jamboree at River View North was held last year with about 2,000 people in attendance. This year's jamboree, held July 11 — 13, had a list of entertainers which included Wayne Rostad, Carroll Baker and Lucille Starr.

Mr McCredie began to hold country music jamborees because he simply likes country music. He has gone to many himself and figured it would be nice to have one held in the area between Pembroke and Gatineau.

From August 1 - 3 a Rock Jamboree will be held at River View North for the first time. Although not a rock music fan himself, Mr McCredie says he is doing it "for the kids." Afterall, they are the ones who spend money.

"There's really no rock concerts around," he notes. "This is partly for business and partly for the kids."

Such acts as Doug and the Slugs, Teenage Head, New Gleneagle and Nu Members are scheduled to perform. Mr McCredie says he is not worried about trouble brewing amongst the youth during the concerts. "I have great faith in the kids. I have a hotel (River View Inn in Norway Bay) and the kids are pretty good. They're not as bad as people make out.... It's a great place here. They can't hurt too much out here. They can have a good time."

Weather plays a very important role in jamborees, admits Mr McCredie. One day of rain during this year's country jamboree probably brought down the attendance.

Mr McCredie worked as an insurance agent in Ottawa for 20 years before deciding to come back near the place he was born and buy the 100 acre farm. He took out the bush, levelled part of the land and built a stage for the concerts. To avoid trouble with the railroad crossing, he recently built a road and bridge to the jamboree sight.

He began building the road in April and finished a few days before this year's country jamboree. After clearing the land for the road, he put on sand and gravel. He emphasizes the amount of work which went into building the sturdy bridge over the creek and waterfall. "It will be there as long as I live!"

His sap house sits away from the sugar bush in a dry area so people do not have to march through mud to get to it. In the Spring, horses and sleighs carry the syrup to the house. He usually produces 100 gallons of syrup a year. This is his third year cultivating honey. He now has 15 hives.

Another attraction at River View North takes place in the Fall. Snowmobile drag races are held on grass.

Along with the River View Inn, Mr McCredie also owns a campsite in Norway Bay. He first owned the Big Old River View Inn in Norway Bay but that burnt down in 1980. He bought a barn which he rebuilt into the present inn in 1982.

Mr McCredie still has plans to turn his farm into a tourist area. Zoning and money are the obstacles he faces. Along with the recreation facilities on his farm now, he also raises animals such as cattle, horses, wild turkeys and pheasants.

"It's a hobby but a business," he states. However, it is a business he enjoys. "I wouldn't keep them (the animals) if I didn't like them."

A new bridge and road on the left allows easier access to the site of the music jamboree held at Riverview North.

A dream come true

At its Annual Meeting July 22 - 24 in Moncton, the Holstein Association of Canada awarded a Master Breeder Shield to a man that has fulfilled a life-long dream of one day owning a farm and breeding elite Holstein cattle.

Clayton R Pirie of Lanark County was born and raised on his father's Elmside View Holstein farm. Edwin was a Master Breeder award winner in 1962 and again, in partnership with Clayton's younger brother, George, in 1982. Although Clayton worked in construction from the age of 18, he never abandoned his quest, and quotes the old saying, "You can take the boy away from the farm, but you can't take the farm away from the boy".

With the help and encouragement of two Holstein breeders, namely Allan Boese, Madawaska Holsteins, and William Carss, Sandy Crest Holsteins, both of Arnprior, Ontario, Clayton, in 1962, bought his first female calf. For the next few years, his friends housed his purchases until he and his wife the former Bev Bailey of Shawville bought a farm in Pakenham. After renovating the old house, they moved in 1969, and built a new barn and milk house. August 1971 witnessed the first five milking cows. Boese and Carss loaned this new breeder additional animals in order that 10 could be milked to enroll in R.O.P. They adopted the herd prefix "Claverley", which was a combination of Clayton and Beverley.

One of the original purchases from Sandy Crest was Ideal Norma. She was classified Good and sired by Glenalcomb Pabst Ideal. Ninety points towards the achievement of the Master Breeder Shield come from descendants of this foundation female. One Very Good Two-Star grand-daughter of Norma is Claverley Nanette. She has calved regularly and produced 105,985 kilograms of milk in 13 lactations. Clayton states that she still carries a good udder and has never had mastitus. Nanette herself has 3 Very Good daughters, 1 Very Good son, 1 Good Plus daughter and two daughters not classified in the herd, as well as an increasing number of granddaughters.

The Piries have stayed small, milking on the average, 20 cows. However, showing has attracted their attention and cattle have been displayed at the County and Ottawa Championship shows. Red ribbons have been won at these events.

Clayton is an avid hockey enthusiast as a player and a coach. He has also been director of the Lanark County Holstein Club for 16 years and is a Past President. He was a 4-H leader for 10 years. They own no farm machinery and all crops (alfalfa, barley and corn) are custom done.

Our new Master Breeder registers, on the average, six females per year. He required 160 points and earned 178 by breeding 1 Very Good bull and 5 Star Brood, 2 Excellent, 20 Very Good females.

Hot July in the Valley

Helen Armstrong (Enright)

There are lazy, breezy days in July,
When butterflies, flit and wander about,
And the sun shines hot on a field of rye,
Then summer is here, there is no doubt.

In July, grass and leaves lose their freshness,
The insects' hum fills the air with a tune,
Poppies and sweet peas all have their sweetness,
And over the burnt meadow shines the moon.

In July, the bales lie in the meadow,
And a big maple stands with branches spread.
The daisies nod and the sweet breezes blow,
And in the lane the strawberries are red.

July has the hottest days of the year,
Even the smallest breezes can cool you.
On days like these, thunderstorms will be here.
Then rainbows come out in the sky so blue.

In July, the weather is dry and clear,
The grasshoppers jump and wander around,
In the meadows, black-eyed susans appear,
And by the river the cattle are found.

In July, orange lilies bloom on the lawn,
And the beans are green in the garden tall.
On a tree-top, a robin sings a song.
Then down by the lane, a loon gives a call.

I hate to say good-bye to hot July,
It means the end of hot summer days.
The greens fade and the grain grows high,
And the sun beats down with its weaker rays.

Two new doctors arrive in Pontiac

by David Fraser

Dr Luc Bherer and Dr Andrée Yergeau are two doctors who have just arrived in Pontiac. The two have been in the Pontiac one week exploring the region. Their first day at work was Monday July 29.

Both Dr Bherer and Dr Yergeau met Dr Desaulniers in Quebec City. Dr Desaulniers was representing the Pontiac in a meeting held to encourage doctors to work in the outlying regions of Quebec.

Dr Bherer graduated from Laval University in Quebec City and is certified by the Canadian College of Family Physicians. He is from Alma in the Saguenay Lac St Jean region of Quebec.

After graduating, Dr Bherer worked for two years in the emergency room at the general hospital in Thetford Mines, Quebec. He then worked for the CLSC Frontenac, also in Thetford Mines. His job with the CLSC was two part. Half of his time was spent working in the office clinic while the other half was spent in factories and plants preventing sickness due to working conditions.

Dr Bherer's job in the Pontiac is to visit industries and prevent sickness due to conditions at work. He describes his work as "a consultant to industries for the prevention of sickness and maintenance of health." He says that employers and workers often are not aware that working conditions can hurt them. "When you were young you didn't know that a red stove element burns so you stuck your hand on it. My job is to access the degree of sickness due to conditions and spreading information on how to prevent it."

A technician and a nurse work with Dr Bherer. The technician measures noise levels, dust in the air, and other relevant conditions. Dr Bherer uses the readings to decide where to concentrate his work.

Dr Bherer explained why he is not like a doctor hired by the company. "I'm hired by the government. I'm not involved in any conflicts of interest."

The commission on working conditions grouped the industries of Quebec into six categories. The most urgent industries were mines, foundries and heavy industries. In the Pontiac, Dr Bherer will be working with the second group, lumber mills and pulp and paper industry.

In addition, Dr Bherer will be working on a new program at the CLSC aimed at helping families deal with seniors at home. "The Pontiac has a lot of old people, 12% of the population as compared with 8% for the province," Dr Bherer said.

Dr Yergeau graduated from Laval University also. She too is certified by the Canadian College of Family Physicians. She visited the region before and thought she would like to return sometime, although she didn't think it would be to work.

Dr Yergeau will spend 3 days a week at the head office of the CLSC in Fort Coulonge at a maternity and infant clinic. She will also spend 2 days either in emergency at the Pontiac Community Hospital or the CLSC office in Campbell's Bay.

Dr Luc Bherer and Dr Andrée Yergeau are two new doctors in the region. The two doctors have been impressed by the warm welcome of the people in the region.

"I will be integrating the different parts of my job over the next while. In about two weeks I should be at the Campbell's Bay office."

The new doctors spent their first week in the region exploring and discovering the beaches, islands, falls, and towns of the Pontiac. They have been impressed by the hospitality of the people in the region.

"We'll have a good time here," both doctors said, "because we enjoy the outdoors and the people are very welcoming." The doctors enjoy activities such as boardsailing, cycling, and skiing. They also enjoy squash, photography, music, theatre and going to movies.

Electricity - safety first

Electricity is beneficial when used properly. It can become dangerous, however, when rules of safety are ignored. Every year in Quebec a large number of people sustain electric shock injuries because they don't follow these rules.

Here are some hints from Hydro-Quebec to help you avoid many unhappy moments:

Fallen Power Lines. If you see a power line fall from a pole, move away from the area, notify Hydro-Québec immediately and wait for the emergency team. A fallen power line should always be considered as being live. If the cable touches anything made of a conductor material, such as a metal fence, for example, the fence will become live and thus as dangerous as the cable.

Television Antenna. When a television antenna comes into contact with a power line following high winds, the television becomes live as well. Do not touch the television and call Hydro-Québec immediately.

Wires on Motor Vehicles. If a live electrical wire should happen to fall on a car, the people in it are safe as long as they stay inside the car. This is because the entire car is live but the rubber tires prevent the electricity from reaching the ground. Don't do anything until the Hydro-Québec experts arrive on the scene. Anyone who touches the car will receive a serious shock. If this happens to you, you shouldn't leave the car unless you catch fire. The correct procedure is to jump with your feet together and tiptoe away, so as to avoid simultaneous contact with the car and the ground. Bear in mind, however, that this is extremely dangerous and should only be used as a last resort.

High Clearance Vehicles. If part of a high-clearance vehicle, such as the jib of a crane, comes into contact with a power line, the entire vehicle becomes live, and the operator of the vehicle is in danger of sustaining a serious shock. You should always make a careful check of the clearance of the electrical lines and the height of the vehicle.

Excavation Work. Excavation work poses a number of risks in areas served by an underground distribution system. Check with Hydro-Québec regarding the location of underground lines before you begin digging.

What are Automobile Emissions?

Motor vehicles that used unleaded gasoline emit carbon dioxide, water vapour, carbon monoxide and nitrogen oxides. They also release a complex mixture of gaseous hydrocarbons and trace amounts of other chemicals such as lead, sulphur and phosphorous.

Motor vehicles that burn leaded gasoline emit the same pollutants as well as substantial amounts of tetraethyl lead.

Vehicles that burn diesel fuel emit the same substances and carbon-based particles which are sometimes visible as black sooty smoke.

A vehicle engine which has worn piston rings, valve guides or seals may emit an oily blue smoke caused by the combustion of lubricating oil.

Automobiles account for about 60 per cent of the total lead emissions in Canada.

Automobiles and light-duty trucks contribute to the acidity in rainfall.

In Canada, automobile emissions cause 20 per cent of the overall nitrogen oxides, 24 per cent of the hydrocarbon emissions and 45 per cent of the carbon monoxide created by human activity.

Some of these pollutants, through further chemical reactions in the atmosphere, produce ozone (smog) and acid rain.

Just in your judgment, always right,
Honest and liberal, ever upright;
Loved by all, our pride they share,
Pride in the wonderful one you were.
Always loved and remembered by daughter Sharon and granddaughter Tara. XJY30

CARTIER — In loving memory of my dear mother, Doris, who passed away July 31, 1982.
I do not need a special day
To bring you to my mind
For the days I do not think of you
Are very hard to find.
If all this world were mine to give
I'd give it yes and more
To see the face of my mother dear,
Come smiling through the door.
Sadly missed by Jeff, Brenda and Justin. BJY30

OBITUARY

James Thomas Wall

Surrounded by the love and warmth of his family and friends, little James Thomas Wall, who died accidently at home on July 17, was laid to rest on July 20, 1986.

"J.T.", as he was affectionately known by his loved ones, was born on July 29, 1983 in Renfrew. He was the beloved son of David and Cathy Wall of Haley Station (formerly of Bryson).

His cherished memory will also be kept by his two loving sisters, Tammy, age 9 years and Janie, age 7 years, and his dear grandparents, Mr and Mrs Tommy Mathers and Mrs Margaret Wall of Bryson.

The funeral service was held on Sunday, July 20 at 1:00 pm in Immaculate Conception Roman Catholic Church in Bryson. Father Leo Pelletier, both clergyman and friend to David and Cathy, conducted the service with the assistance of Father Bertrand of St Francis Xavier Roman Catholic Church in Renfrew. Father Pelletier's gentle message, based on the timeless story of Jesus gathering the little children around his knee, was comforting to J.T.s family and many friends and acquaintances in attendance.

As the choir sang "Jesus Loves the Little Children", pallbearers Tommy McTiernan, Brian Charbonneau, Bobby Germain and Paul Gauthier lead the recessional to the interment in St George's Anglican Church Cemetery in Campbell's Bay. J.T. was laid to rest beside his paternal grandfather and namesake, James Elmer Wall.

J.T. was a charming, loving, little red-headed boy, who during his short life, touched the hearts of many. His memory will be cherished forever by all those who knew and loved him.

He was born July 12, 1896 on the farm at Stark's Corners where he lived all his life until 1982 when he moved into the home on the death of his wife Elizabeth whom he married in 1916. He is the father of ten children of whom nine are still living. There are now 110 direct descendents who live from Halifax in the east to Vancouver in the west and Fort McMurray to the north.

About thirty of his children and grandchildren gathered to wish him well on his birthday at the home where he now lives.

Rivet - Ethier wedding

Constance, younger daughter of the late Germaine Ethier and Elizabeth Burnie and Patrick, son of Mr and Mrs Robert Rivet of Fort Coulonge, exchanged marriage vows at Our Lady of Perpetual Help Church, Waltham, on Saturday, July 26 at 4 pm with Reverend A T Harrington performing the ceremony.

The bride, given away by her godfather, Paul Pilon, was lovely in a floor length white chiffon gown with tight fitting bodice, featuring a sweetheart neckline and long puffed sleeves. The skirt was flared with a long train. She wore a large veiled picture hat and carried a flower trimmed umbrella.

Her sister, Paulette, as maid of honor, chose a Southern belle floor length pink taffeta gown. Jeannette Pelletier and Gail Rivet as bridesmaids wore long Southern belle gowns in wine taffeta. They all wore flower trimmed combs in their hair and carried fans to match their dresses.

Flower girls, Jordan Evans and Lindsay Harkins, were replicas of the bride's other attendants and carried tiny umbrellas.

The groom and ring bearer, Christopher Evans, wore white tail coats and white pants with pink bow ties and cumberbunds. Steve Rivet, best man, wore a white suit with pink accessories. Ushers Yvon Peiletier and Gabriel Rivet wore white suits with wine accessories.

Soloist was Robert Burnie, Cornwall, cousin of the bride, who sang Ave Marie — Evergreen and another hymn.

The choir under the direction of Mrs Helen Perry with the Rochon boys on guitar and organ rendered appropriate hymns.

The readings were by Jeannette Pelletier in English and Gail Rivet in French. The offerings were carried to the Altar by Paulette Ethier and Steve Rivet.

The pews were marked with white satin bows with pink roses. The Sanctuary was decorated with baskets of pink and wine colored summer flowers.

Mrs Elizabeth Burnie, mother of the bride, was gowned in a street length robin egg blue dress with contrasting corsage. Mrs Robert Rivet, mother of the groom, chose a light blue street length gown with contrasting corsage.

The reception was held in the Town Hall.

The happy couple will reside in Fort Coulonge. Guests attending from out of town were from Cornwall, Marysville, Gatineau, Rockland, Toronto, Smith Falls, Hull, Hamilton, Renfrew, Cawley, Quebec and local areas.

No doubt we complained about all the hot weather we have been experiencing lately but that along with the rain showers is really bringing gardens, corn, etc ahead with a bang. At first we thought we weren't going to have any summer at all but then we are sometimes quite the complainers.

Visiting with Hermonie Sharpe recently were Mr and Mrs Donald Sharpe and children Scott and Stephanie of Ear Falls, Mrs Craig Robinson, Bob Knobb and friend Alicia of Deep River, Mrs Connie Mc—Gee of Osgoode, Marj. Corrigan, Joyce Warren, Neil Sharpe and boys Tom and Cory, all of Shawville. Donald and wife and family spent a week with us and we motored to Osgoode to visit with Mr and Mrs James McGee, Natasha and James. This past Wednesday, they left to visit Mr and Mrs Ronnie Melonson at Orangeville and then arrived Sunday at Manitouwadge to visit James' parents, Mr and Mrs Bill Harvey and then back home next week.

Mr Donald Thompson and son Coty of Logan Lake are visiting with Mr and Mrs Rae Thompson for a week. We were quite pleased to have a visit with Don and sons Coty and Matthew on Saturday.

Fred and Susan Wilson have just returned home after a three day camping trip to Picton, Ontario.

I was quite pleased to have a letter from Jim Crate from Paris Island, South Carolina, where I am glad to report he is doing nicely in the marines. It is quite hot there and the training is tough but we know he can do it. His mail from Canada has not been very swift as up until last week he hadn't received any. I sure hope by the time he reads this that his mail will be coming in better as there's no news like news from home.

Mr and Mrs Denver Bretzlaff and Mr and Mrs Sydney Stevans spent the weekend with Mr and Mrs Rueben Orr at Mississauga.

They saw a few changes in Quyon.

Congratulations to Glenda and Glen Provost whose marriage took place in St Mary's Church on Saturday July 26th. The dinner and party was held in Fairbanks Hotel.
