PRICE—THREE CENTS

LOCAL BUSINESS ASS'N MEETS

Ice Manufacturing Co. Wins Door Prize

The meeting held by the Westmount Business Men's Association at Victoria Hall, Wednesday evening, was attended by approximately 200 members, and proved to be a successful session.

Mr. C. James, President, opened the meeting by stating that out of a possible 200 members, the Association roster now numbers 150, and that he had been informed that on a percentage basis, the Westmount Association has better representation than any other organization in Greater Montreal. It includes members from 15 countries, including native Canadians, and is a democratic organization in which all members are expected to take part.

Since one of the purposes of the meeting was to acquaint the members with one another, each member got up and identified himself at the gathering early in the meeting.

Door Prize

During the meeting a draw took place for a door prize, which consisted of a half page of advertisement in the Examiner, contributed by the Association by the paper. The prize was won by the Ice Manufacturing Company.

Mr. James stated that the Association was formed with one purpose in mind, i.e., to educate the people of Westmount to the fact that its businessmen are ready to serve its citizens as well in the community as elsewhere, in all types of business except two — no furniture dealers represented, and Westmount is a very live community, because there is no undertaker.

The executive of the Association, elected in March for the coming year, was announced as follows: president, C. James; vice-president, Phil Page; 2nd vice-president, A. Smithers; treasurer, A. Ross Grafton; directors: Miss Josephine Evans, P. Golden, Leo Grafton, Don Ross, Eric Ohman, Ed Robson, Gordon Kenwood, Sacoransky, Jack Carleton, and V. Vau.

Group Insurance

The question of group insurance was on the agenda, and Mr. Hefner, of the Great-West Life Insurance Company, explained the details of a suggested Group Well-Plan drawn up by his company for members of the Westmount Business Men's Association. He answered several questions on the floor, and mimeographed copies of the Great West Life and the Mutual Life Assurance Company plan which had been discussed previously were distributed among the members for further consideration.

Following this, discussion took place on the agenda.

Foodhandlers' Instructional Lecture

The first of a series of three foodhandlers instructional classes was given Monday by the Dept. of Health to persons employed in food establishments, and was appreciated by those who attended. The enthusiasm displayed showed that explanation of correct methods in preparing, storing and protecting foods for human consumption against contamination is most important in the food industry. The basic rules of health and sanitation necessary for the safeguarding of themselves and their patrons was fully explained to the audience. In view of this fact, it goes beyond the ordinary occupational skills and becomes a vital programme in the interest of Public Health, and as such has the full co-operation of the Dept. of Health.

Clean wholesome food is vital to all of us in maintaining health; it is estimated that today about 5,000,000 Canadians "eat out" every day, and the number of outbreaks of food poisoning has increased every year. Therefore, the Dept. of Health is conducting these educational classes in an effort to cut down the number of cases of persons who suffer from the effects of contaminated foods. Food poisoning occurs in many ways; the more common forms are caused by bacteria contaminating improperly processed foods, or foods prepared hours before it is to be eaten and then not protected by proper storage or refrigeration.

The next class will be held in the Victoria Hall next Monday at 3 p.m. At this meeting two films will be shown with discussions of personal habits, physical fitness and its relationship to everyday life, and your job. Correct methods will also be discussed in washing, rinsing and sterilizing of dishes, glasses and utensils. The Medical Officer of Health, Dr. J. J. Day, extends to all residents of Westmount a cordial invitation to attend any of the meetings; no admission is charged and the meeting will be conducted by Mr. A. G. Macnab of the Dept. of Health.

SOFTBALL MEETING

The Senior Section of the Municipal Softball League is to hold a meeting at Victoria Hall, tonight at 8 p.m. All those interested are invited to attend.

Time to Take Part in the Spring Clean-Up Campaign

Monday saw the opening of the annual Spring Clean-up and Beautification Campaign, which is to run until May 24th. Initiated in 1909 under the auspices of the City Improvement League, the Clean-up Movement has increased and spread yearly. Last year, 160 communities took part, and it is hoped that more than 200 will participate in the Campaign this year.

Since its inception 38 years ago, the Movement has been strongly supported by the League, which has worked hard to organize every interest that could contribute toward making the metropolitan district clean, attractive, and healthy.

City Held Liable For Rink Injuries

Stephen Frost, attendant at the Westmount skating rink at Sherbrooke street and Wood avenue, and the City of Westmount were sentenced jointly and severally by judgment of the Superior Court, last week, to pay damages amounting to $4,189 for injuries suffered by 14 year old Andre Touchette, whose head was fractured when struck by a hockey stick allegedly thrown by Frost, while the boy was skating in the rink, February 5, 1943.

The defence claimed that Touchette and his companions were teasing the attendant, who, not intending to injure the boy, threw a hockey stick in his direction and told him to go home.

Mr. Justice C. A. Bertrand held that the attendant was responsible for the injury to the boy, and since he was in the employ of the City of Westmount, the City was jointly liable.

The boy's mother, a widow, had claimed $10,000 in damages in action against the defendant.

TENNIS TICKETS AVAILABLE

Tennis tickets are now available to Westmount citizens, free of charge, for all Westmount public tennis courts. They may be obtained at the Westmount Parks Department office. Satisfactory proof of residence in Westmount is required.

ADDRESSED MEETING

Major D. E. Fulton, Member of Parliament for Kamloops, B.C., who last night addressed a large meeting in the Victoria Hall, Westmount, under the auspices of the Progressive Conservative Association of St. Antoine-Westmount. Mr. C. S. Medill, President of the Association, presided.

The Clean-Up and Beautification drive this year is sponsored by the Montreal Junior Board of Trade who are out to make the citizens of Greater Montreal "clean-up conscious." The object is to clean away the winter's accumulation of rubbish from every corner of the metropolitan district. The hundreds of miles of streets and lanes, the many parks and squares, and the thousands of residences, stores, warehouses and factories, etc., all fall within the scope of this activity, which to be successful must have the active support of the citizens themselves.

Enviably Reputation

The City of Westmount has long been recognized as an advanced community. For instance, in 1913 it was the first city in Canada, and one of the first on the continent, to adopt the Council-City Manager form of municipal government. Since that time, the system has changed and developed greatly, and Westmount has developed with it, retaining its position in the van.

Success in the huge Spring Clean-Up and Beautification Campaign is possible only with the co-operation of the citizens themselves, and it is the duty of the citizens of Westmount to personally take part in maintaining their City's enviable reputation.

In addition to making your City a clean, attractive place in which to live, the Clean-Up Movement has broader aspects — i.e., the lessening and possible elimination of fire hazards from combustion of accumulated rubbish and the improvement of health conditions due to increased cleanliness.

Remember to do your part in keeping Westmount clean, not only during the present Campaign but also throughout the year, by refraining from littering the streets with rubbish and lidless garbage cans.

Keep Your City Clean!

WESTMOUNT WHIMSIES

By Oliver Towne

Readers with an exceptionally long memory (six months or so to be exact) may recall a lengthy item in this corner on Friday, November 21st of last year. At that time, we saw fit to condemn the landlord who was leaving an empty store and two flats above empty, for no apparent reason, and they had been that way for about twelve years. The buildings are on St. Catherine Street West, numbers 4105 and 4109, near the corner of Wood Avenue.

Well, passing that way yesterday, we observed that some construction work is actually going on now, whether it is merely alterations, redecorations, destruction, or who-knows-what, it's too early to tell as yet. One thing is sure, anyway, that with the housing shortage still as critical as it is, something should be done at once to make the buildings habitable, and we hope that is what is underway now! Time alone will tell.

So, Westmount is to have another Theatre, on Victoria Avenue. We say another one because the one on Greene Avenue is slated to open sometime within the next three or four weeks, according to the latest reports.

Some complaints reaching us about the trees, long a beauty mark of Westmount, being cut down along Sherbrooke Street, from Roslyn Avenue west to the city limits. It does seem a shame to cut down such old staunch warriors, but then, it would be an even greater shame and danger trying to dodge in and out of these trees after the road has been widened. Maybe it's all for the best!

Have you tried driving up Clarke Avenue, from Sherbrooke street up to Montrose Avenue and even up to the Boulevard. If you do, be sure your insurance is paid up to date. The road, particularly the first block of it, is far more like a country road that was paved some fifty years ago and has not been touched since. It is a mass of holes, bumps, stones and other things designed to do your car no good. Perhaps the city fathers are going to start on it soon. At any rate, we hope so.

Two cartons, large ones at that, were stolen from outside the Westmount Stationery Store on Sherbrooke near Victoria, and, sadly enough, they contained a large amount of children's toys. They were taken from right in front of the store, between 3.10 and 3.25 p.m., and they were too large for any youngsters to walk away with... that's pilfering right in the open.

Roslyn News

By Douglas Turner and Ross Southward

On May 8th, the boys of Grade VI had a delightful surprise. They had a trip to the Pepsi-Cola Company plant. They left early in the afternoon by chartered bus. The trip was a noisy one, as each boy was doing his share of singing, yelling and laughing. On arrival, the boys were divided into two groups and were shown all through the building by guides. They were interested in seeing the way the drinks were made and bottled. The machines seemed to do all the work and the bottles marched around like soldiers. After the tour, free drinks were provided and everyone took full advantage of this. The next day dominoes, blotters and rulers were teachers who arranged the trip. Everyone wants to thank the teachers who arranged the trip and the Pepsi-Cola Company for their great hospitality.

Last Wednesday there was a softball game between the Roslynites and the Thunderbolts. The girls on the Roslynites Team won by the score of 15-6.

Elizabeth Vale, of Room 20, came back last Saturday from a trip to England.

Last Thursday a softball game was played between the Tigers and the Cats. Cats won 13-12 in a very exciting and close game. Tigers were up first, and at the end of the half of the first inning, the score was Tigers 1, Cats 0. Then Cats went ahead 2-1, and kept their lead all through the game. At the end of the last inning, Tigers got to within one run of tying the game, with the bases loaded. Then the team's all round good playing kept the Tigers scoreless.

place which involved a possible assessment of the members to enable the Association to deal with the many individual advertising appeals which the members frequently encounter. This point was set aside for further consideration. It was then pointed out that not one member of the Westmount Municipal Council is a Westmount business man, and in the discussion that followed, certain steps were proposed to remedy the situation. The meeting concluded with the serving of refreshments.

Scouts & Cubs

BY REG GROOMER

Well, we're all set for the Scout Show on Saturday evening at The Forum, or, at least, we hope we are. The Circus Committee seems to be very pleased with the way things are turning out, and all indications point to the overwhelming success of Montreal's largest Scouting event of the year. However, we must all remember that it will take the combined efforts of every Wolf Cub, Scout, Sea Scout, Senior Scout and Scouter to make sure of the success we are hoping for.

We trust every Scouter will read through, and thoroughly, the folder of final instructions issued by Scout Headquarters on Bishop Street. There must be no hitches during the operation of this large scale event and remember that the whole Montreal public will be judging Scouting in Montreal, Westmount and the different suburbs around Montreal by what they see at the Scout Show Saturday. Don't let them or yourself down! And how about those ticket sales? Have you got yours sold? Try to have all your money in for all tickets by the day of the Show!

One of the crowning disappointments of the year in Canadian Scouting was announced at Dominion Headquarters in Ottawa last week when it was made known that there will be no Canadian Delegation attending the International Jamboree in Paris this summer. Reason given was that it was due to a lack of shipping space and passenger accommodation. It seems rather strange, in view of the above, that the United States has been able to complete arrangements for over EIGHT HUNDRED representatives to attend and Britain is sending over SIX THOUSAND delegates to the Jamboree. The Canadian party was to have consisted of thirty-three Scouts and 3 Scouters, making a total of only THIRTY-SIX members. Let the above facts speak for themselves.

The Annual Meeting of the Scouters' Club of Montreal will be held next Wednesday evening, starting at 8.15 p.m., at Scout Headquarters, 1523 Bishop Street Montreal. Reports for the year will be heard, election of officers for the ensuing year will be held and any other business arising will be dealt with. Scouters should have received, or will very shortly, the report of the Nominating Committee and, of course, further nominations may be made at the meeting.

The entertainment will include the showing of training and natural history films. We sincerely hope every Scouter in Westmount Area will make a very determined effort to attend this last meeting of the Scouters' Club for this season.

The Staff for Camp Tamara-canta for this summer has been all lined up and we have one Westmount boy on the staff this summer, Bill McCrudden of 2nd Westmount Troop. Bill will work as Cyril Dendy's Office Assistant, Mr. Dendy again being the Factor this summer. We expect to see many of the Westmount Troops attending Camp this summer. Reports have it that 2nd Westmount Troop will camp on the far side of the lake this year, making the first camp-site on that side. Hope everything goes well!

Four hiking Scouts of the Brant-Ensign Troop in Alberta discovered a bridge caved in by spring floods and they immediately took action to stop all traffic to the bridge. Two Scouts stayed behind to act as guards while others took the information to Municipal authorities and, on their own, made signs warning traffic not to use the bridge. Congratulations to Scoutmaster Art Holmes of St. Matthews Troop and Assistant Scoutmaster Alex Bramson of Iona Troop, both in Western Area, for their saving a woman's life on Royal Avenue, N. D. G., last Thursday week. The woman was being asphyxiated by gas and they gave her artificial respiration for five minutes to revive her.

Westmount Highlights

By Arthur Voronka

It was a hard day at the office... very hot... very boring... same routine day after day... year in and year out.

He wouldn't mind taking a nice long holiday for a while... get away from it all... but he's got too much responsibility now... a wife... and kids.

It's night, now, and it's rather nice sitting by the fire... pipe in mouth... slippers on feet.

No, he's not so young as he used to be... nor so carefree.

He's going grey at the temples... and to-night he is sort of grey at the heart.

It's just one of those nights... his head full of old memories.

He picks up his scrap-book that's nearly as old as he is and opens it.

"Well, the old football picture," he says to himself as he gazes down upon the first page with shoe-button eyes, "first time I ever played for W.H.S.!"

He puts on his eye-glasses and brings his head back until his face is level with his Adam's apple... many years have passed since he's last seen this photograph.

"Ah, there I am... squat in front of Dryden... it's too bad about him... gaining all that weight I mean... and then being unable to play anymore... and he loved football so much... well, we warned him about those ice cream sundaes at Sol's... used to sit there for hours - eating... hear he's bought the place now."

"Here's an old ticket stub to the first Air Cadet dance... the Moderns used to 'dish out the jive' in those days... yes, that's the word... 'jive'... haven't heard it in years... let's see... who did I... oh, yes, I went with Mary Smith... Bob Grant married the girl, they say... poor guy, how she can talk... well, he never did go for this weather up here and she had a house in Florida to offer... wonder what he did with his Alpacama coat?"

That was quite a while back... way back when show business introduced a young singer named Frank Sinatra and when aging but colorful Al Jolson was getting ready for a comeback... when a guy had to be over eighty and accompanied by his parents before he could cash a check at Sol's Stationery... way back when people went up north to ski and before "Week End Love" took the country by storm... when teachers at W'mount High told student how to avoid the problems of life which they themselves had tried to avoid by becoming teachers... way back in the "good old days."

Again he flips a page over.

"Wee, my name in Westmount Highlights... celebrates his eighteenth birthday... let's see, now... Cochrane wrote the column then... yes, before he got big and lazy and got those two jerks to help him out... hear he's doing the lovelorn column for Canadian High News, now... and Dickins is now doing a magician's act at Rock-head's Paradise... he was always good at making beer disappear... Claude Root, Jr., is in the act too... a rabbit pulls him out of a hat."

He's not to be disturbed to-night... no, not tonight... for he's reminiscing... reminiscing about the "good old days" and old friends... about his carefree and fearless days at "good old W.H.S."

And so it goes: It seems that there's no end to some things.

Westmount High has just received a letter from Verdun High which asks the Westmount students to join the happy eight-cent-chocolate-bar strikers in Montreal. Ever try pep pills? The Arnaud Magg semi-formal last Friday night had Ed Minto congratulating Arnaud on his twenty-first birthday: "You are now old enough to read the ladies' side of the laundry list... Among the happy crowd who were very fortunate to be invited were: Claude Root, Jr. a student; Bert Grindly, an electrician; Di-di Read, a woman; (Continued on Page 4)

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

"See all the Swallows in a row on the telephone wire," Alice said pointing down the road.

"How do you know they are Swallows?" Vera inquired. "They are too far away to tell."

"Oh, I can't see them very well," Alice admitted, "but ever now and then one leaves, flies down swallowlike, and returns to the wire. Birds can frequently be identified by their behavior. Swallows love wires; flocks of them often sit like that. When a small grey bird clings upside down to the trunk of a tree you can't pretty sure it's a Nuthatch; when a Sparrow perches on a fence beside a country road it might be a Vesper or a Song Sparrow, though the latter would probably be on a post."

"Yes, I understand," said Vera. "And birds pick localities suitable to their special habits. We find Meadowlarks in fields, Hermit Thrushes in deep woods, Sandpipers on beaches, Gannets on cliffs, and Flickers in forests where there are big, old trees."

"They need big, old trees because in those trunks they make their homes. A Rose-breasted Grosbeak often chooses its home near a running stream; a Redwinged Blackbird prefers to build in a marshy spot. A House Wren generally comes close to residences you know that by the name. We love it for that very reason and its friendly ways. But a Catbird, though far from shy otherwise, objects to having its nest discovered, and promptly deserts the family."

"How interesting it is to find that birds can be differentiated by their actions! Redstarts have a habit of opening and shutting their beautiful tails, Canada Jays are noted for their curiosity, Goldfinches talk as they fly."

"Yes, and even when a bird sits in the twilight something about the characteristic pose helps us to tell its species. Haven't you noticed the angle at which different kinds perch? Of course every one knows Owls sit absolutely vertically. But though most song birds are about diagonally when at rest, some sit up straight - like Cedar Waxwings and Least Flycatchers. Cuckoos seem to lie across a branch almost horizontally."

"And you might add that Chimney Swifts hardly perch at all. No, I suppose what they do is scarcely be called perching. They hang on to a perpendicular inside, brick wall with their hooked claws."

Do birds ever fly south in spring?

History Of Royal Montreal Regiment Described To Local Rotarians

Lieut.-Col. Richard Peirson, M.C., Officer Commanding the Royal Montreal Regiment, was guest speaker at the Westmount Rotary Club luncheon on Wednesday, when he delivered a highly interesting address on "The History of the Royal Montreal Regiment".

Introduced by Cecil Medlar, Col. Peirson commenced by saying that the Royal Montreal Regiment is Westmount's home regiment, the only one represented in Westmount. In this connection, he invited interested Rotarians to witness the R.M.M. Church Parade, to St. Matthias Church this coming Sunday afternoon.

In First War

The Royal Montreal Regiment was formed in 1914 by the union of three Montreal Regiments, the Canadian Grenadier Guards, the Victoria Rifles, and the Carabiers de Montreal. They trained at Alcatraz, and went overseas as part of the First Div. in the first anti-submarine convoy in history. After spending a period of time camped on Salisbury Plains in England, during which certain reorganizations were made, the regiment proceeded to France where it fought through many actions, which included the first gas attacks, through to the end of the war. They established a brilliant record for themselves and for their country. After it marched into many, the Regiment was presented with its regimental colours by Prince Arthur of Connaught. The first time it is claimed, that the British Regiment was presented with its colours on a foreign soil. After returning home, said Col. Peirson, the Regiment had no time to rest, as it was ordered to present site of its armory at Westmount.

In 1939, it was the first Quebec Regiment to be called. It went overseas with the First Division as an M.G. unit. It made an excellent record in England and on the Continent, and was given a tumultuous reception upon its return to Westmount. After the war, Col. Peirson pointed out that the regiment is only as good as the men who serve in it, and that the R.M.R. has been fortunate in the high calibre of the men who have joined it, and mentioned a few of its outstanding members and their achievements past, and present. He incidentally informed his hearers that upon his own retirement in November, the command of the Regiment will be assumed by Major Robert Schwob, M.C.

In closing his address, Col. Peirson stated that the reserve force, which has proved invaluable in the past, must be maintained if the Regiment is to remain effective.

There is a plaque on the north wall of the Armoury to commemorate the fallen of the First World War, and the last one. It is his fervent hope that no further need will arise to add to the list.

SUBMARINE'S PEACE TASK

The British submarine, Tudor, which did valiant service in the Pacific during the war, has gone into action again.

Instruments aboard the submarine will enable scientists to form a picture of what the ocean bed is like. They hope to be able to determine if there are deposits of gold, iron, coal or oil beneath the sea.

One of the most important places on the scientists' list of "must study" is Rockall, bank of rocks 200 miles west of the Shetlands. In the vicinity of these rocks, navigation compasses swing wildly, sometimes as much as thirty degrees from true.

If the cruise can find out the composition of the base of Rockall, scientists will probably determine why compasses are affected, and invent some means of counteracting the effect.

Boys' Brigade Companies Unite

The first of a series of joint meetings of Westmount and Mount Royal Companies was held last Tuesday and proved to be an outstanding success. Both units drilled together, conducted a joint P.T. class and band rehearsal, ending up the evening by a thrilling game of floor hockey, taken by the Westmount boys with a score of 6-5.

This week another such meeting will be held, and a few special features will be added to the evening's programme. On Sunday next, the Company will attend the Battalion's Special Church Parade and Service being held in Divinity Hall. Captain J. H. Richardson will preside at the organ with Pte. Hadden Whitelaw rendering a soprano solo. The band will not take part in the afternoon parade, however, as the 8th Company are planning a special entertainment service for new recruits. The 1st will be their guests for supper, following the afternoon parade, and will turn out with them in the evening, led by the joint band. Rev. C. W. Coleman of the First United Church will officiate.

George Hamilton New Scottish Schools Head

George Hamilton was elected president of The Scottish Schools Club of Montreal at the annual meeting of that organization held on Monday of this week.

Dan Gavin was re-elected vice-president and C. Norman Winter was elected honorary treasurer while D. C. Kidd was re-appointed honorary secretary.

H. G. Davidson, J. Roy Weir and Robt. Young were re-elected to the board and C. D. Fairweather, Craig Nairn and John Stroyan were elected to replace retiring directors. A. R. W. Young, retiring president, was elected honorary president.

In his report to the meeting, retiring president stated that club had had a good year, both as to number of new members and average attendance at meetings, while Andrew Gemmill, chairman of the education committee, announced plans for the granting of another $100 scholarship to a university student. This will make two such scholarships being financed by the club the first, granted last year, being continued.

DeForrest Kelley was borrowed from the Army to appear in a Navy training film. The film was seen by Paramount executives and Kelley landed a contract, plus leads in "Fear In The Night" and the 36-star "Variety Girl."

Funeral service was held in the chapel of D. A. Collins, 5610 Sherbrooke street west, at 4.15 p.m. on Monday for Mrs. Robina (Ruby) Alexander, 5156 Sherbrooke Street West, well-known former church soloist, who died at Homoeopathic Hospital on Friday evening after a lengthy illness.

Mrs. Alexander, a daughter of the late John and Isabella Wright McCulloch, of Dublin, came to Canada with her mother in 1912, and was contralto soloist for many years at St. James Methodist, Erskine Presbyterian and Dominion Douglas churches. She also sang in concerts, and was active in many local musical endeavors.

The funeral service was conducted by Rev. J. D. Wilkie, of Stanley Presbyterian Church, and burial was in Mount Royal Cemetery.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Alexander is survived by a daughter, Audrey Lois; four sisters, Mrs. Richard Manicorn, Mrs. A. M. Baird and Miss Effie McCulloch, of Montreal, and Mrs. Elizabeth McKelvie of London, Conn., and by two nephews and five nieces.

The six schools which participated in the league this year, were Lower Canada College, Strathcona Academy, West Hill High, Westmount High, Montreal High, and Verdun High Schools.

Bookie Joint Brings Fines

As the result of a raid, May 6th, by Westmount Police on what they claimed to be a bookie establishment located in a restaurant situated at 3003 St. Antoine Street, seven persons were arrested, charged, and allowed out on bail.

When they appeared in court on May 8th, Morris Magid, of 29 Brook Avenue, charged with "permitting the operation of a bookie on his premises," pleaded guilty, and was fined $200. Edward Belsher, of 39 Prospect Street who pleaded guilty to receiving and recording bets, was also fined $200. The five found-ins were each fined $20 and costs.

Canadian Help Appreciated By Greek Parents

Since November, 1940 the Greek War Relief Fund shipped more than $4,276,600 worth of supplies to Greece. These consignments of medical supplies, food parcels, clothing and health-center equipment were purchased in Canada with the money donated by generous Canadians.

Under its new name of Canadian Relief to Greece a 1947 appeal is being held to raise $1,500,000 for the maintenance of this vital work.

Just how much the assistance already given is appreciated is shown by the letters arriving from Greece and which were released today by the national headquarters of the campaign.

A widow in Athens writes: "I am a mother who lost her oldest son in the Albanian fighting. Since this sole support of our family was taken away from us my younger children and myself have known nothing but want and misery. The medical help and the food parcels were like manna from Heaven. My emotion and the joy of my children is such that I cannot find words to thank the Canadian people for their kindness nor to express to your organization my appreciation for the work it is doing."

All supplies will be purchased in Canada through the Canadian Red Cross Society. Contributions will be welcomed at the local headquarters of the Canadian Relief To Greece Appeal or at any branch of the Royal Bank of Canada.

Rhodes' Scholars Live Up To Ideal

Announcing recently that for the first time he had received two nominations from India for Rhodes Scholarships, Lord Elton, Secretary of the Rhodes Trust, spoke of how Rhodes scholars of the past have lived up to the ideal of Rhodes—that they should make public service their aim.

Of the 2,196 Rhodes scholars before 1940, between 600 and 650 have taken some part in educational activities, nineteen former Rhodes scholars have become judges, and twenty King's Councils, and some have become the most distinguished lawyers in the United States. The two best brain specialists today and also Sir Edward Florey, the co-discoverer of penicillin, are among the 150 in the medical profession. Four Rhodes scholars became Fellows of the Royal Society.

Of nineteen German Rhodes scholars who came to Oxford after 1929, eight managed to get out of Germany and served against that country in the war. Some even won decorations for bravery.

"Show Of Shows" Another Speirs-Miller Smash Hit

Victoria Hall, Friday evening, was the scene of another successful recital by the Speirs-Miller Dance Studios. The opening feature was "There Are Fairies" in which the tiny tots were given unlimited scope. From the rise of the curtain they had the audience won over. The natural and naive manner in which the children performed again proved that Betty Speirs deserves her splendid reputation as teacher of young children. Marion Edwards opened with the theme recitation, closely followed by Emily Ann Robertson as the Fairy Queen, and Sandra Van der Haeghe as the Littlest One. Others that shone were the Pink Roses, represented by Alexandra Weil, Marion Edmonds, Constance Shibley, Beverley Herron, Vilda Winkler, Marilyn Bateman, Erica Schenker, Kay Ann Beattie, Marion Stewart; The Golden Fairies, represented by Andrea Leigh, Gail Kennedy, Micheline Lebreche, Gail Tolhurst, Virginia Conner, Carol Poulter, Susan Poe, Ruth Payne, Mary Blickstead, Jean MacArthur; The Elves, represented by Hillier Denman, Joan MacArthur, Jennifer Trower, Joan Richardson, Anne Fairhurst, Maureen Colligan, Susan Roberts, and the Silver Fairies, represented by Marion Robertson, Elizabeth Yorkers, Patricia Grant, Margaret Wallace, Eileen Price, Barbara Palaisy, Heather Jean Neil, Joanne Miller, Barbara Ann Pringle.

Also to the fore were the Nursery Rhymes soloists Joanne Miller and Barbara Ann Pringle, with the following support: Susan Mendlesohn, Jill Timmins, Susan Robertson, Doreen Dorion and Louise Bissonnette, Beverley Bronfman, Beverley Murray, Eileen Price, Micheline Viau, Gail Kennedy, Pamela Ayers, Mary Black, Elizabeth MacDonald, Jane MacFarlane, Jean MacArthur, Joan Melkman, Ruth Payne, Maxine Streat, Gail Tolhurst, with the excellent performance of dainty little Sheila Edwards as the Fairy Belle.

The Junior Ballet showed to advantage in the Rainbow Ballet and Warsaw Concerto. The soloists, Helen Holbrooke, Margaret Nelson and Carroll Guerin were ably supported "Trees"—Mary Blickstead, Catherine Caven, Margaret Fisher, Annabella Fairbanks, Sally Kemp, Anne McNally, Olive Marguerite McEwen, Suzan Mendelsohn, and the Sun Rays: Joan Currie, Adella Dumalo, Audrey MacDonald, Joan O'Dell, Christine Ohman, Catherine Ross, Frances Street, Helen Szabad and Heather Anderson.

Tap, ballroom and acrobatic numbers were seen in profusion. Smooth tap routine "April Showers" with Betty Madden and maestro Miller was to the taste of the audience. Those shining in their various solos were Sheila Edwards and Béth Hannen in their song duet "If You Were the Only Girl in the World"; Susan Mendelsohn, Donald Kujan, Norma Stodola, Marion Grant, Carole Hammond and Peter Plouffe, Rayette Schachter, Helen Regush, Dorothy Mendelsohn, Bill McManus (Mr. Miller's latest protege) Emily Ann Robertson, Mary Quinn, Beverley Houghton, and the Boys' Class including Roger Dafeo, Ben Hannen, Steve Szabad, Peter O'Dell, Eleanor Kyle, Susanne Moseley, Jean Dryburgh, Joyce Atterbury, and Naomi Taylor.

Comedy routine, which brought down the house was "The Bowery" as portrayed by the Senior Class, Carole Hammond, Jean Dryburgh, Catherine Ross, Noreen Sandison, Connie March, Eleanor Kyle, Martha Quinn, Joan O'Dell, Marjorie Ann Payette, Paula McParland, Barbara Hischeimer, Kathleen McCann, Jean Carruthers, Joyce Bolduc, Monique Archambault and Barbara Crompton.

Special mention must be made at this time of the great work of Therese Daly, Miss Speirs' Assistant teacher and Peter Miller, who not only directed the proceedings but were continually on and off stage, their vocal and exhibition ballroom melange Song of Songs proving one of the major hits of the evening.

The Business Girls' Group was seen to advantage in two snappy routines. Most of these young ladies are locally known, and their names are as follows: Joan Blanchetiere, Mildred Degras, Queenie Gropper, Skippy Harrison, Betty Madden, Nancy Dawson, Grace Sharman and Sheila MacMillan.

Closing this colourful evening of entertainment was the Lake Placid scene, an intriguing ballet with the theme of the Skaters' Waltz threading its way throughout the entire production. The soloists in this were exceptionally good: Emily Ann Robertson, Helen Holbrooke, Carroll Guerin, Therese Daly and Sheila Edwards, and were aided by the smoothest exhibition of ensemble work we have seen for some time by Carroll Guerin, Maure Gorman, Beverley Houghton, Darryle Baxter, Paula McParland, Connie March, Jean Dryburgh, Joyce Bolduc, Alice Guerin, Martha Quinn, Katherine Ross.

The lighting, which was under the supervision of Mr. Oneson, Recreational Director of the Military Hospital (Queen Mary Road) was magnificent, while the strong support given to the various artists by Harold Morris at the grand piano was outstanding.

Such a long programme may just mean to the Speirs-Miller organization another feather in their illustrious hats, but to the audience it was a demonstration of showmanship at its best.

One of the most intricate time-pieces ever devised for films plays an important part in the Paramount suspense drama, "The Big Clock," starring Ray Milland and Charles Laughton. It has 25 faces showing the time in all parts of the world

Salvation Army Brings Relief To Unfortunates

"While on the surface it may appear that there is enough employment for all, things are different below—the number of unfortunates are on the increase." Brigadier Peter Forbes reported in the annual report of the Salvation Army which he presented to Arthur B. Wood, president of the Sun Life Assurance Co., and chairman of the Advisory Board of the Army, today.

The Salvation Army performed 283,645 acts of service and compassion in Montreal during 1946, 22,000 more than during the preceding year, Brigadier Peter Forbes told the Board.

In almost all of its activities there was a noticeable increase in service rendered, the Brigadier reported. The changing times and conversion from war-time to peacetime endeavours could be blamed in part, he said. Another great difficulty facing many people today was the lack of adequate housing, he said.

Army help for the hungry and homeless resulted in 81,218 meals being supplied; 68,646 were given lodgings; employment was found for 5,450 persons. Of the latter, 761 positions were of a permanent nature.

A total of 3,934 needy families were supplied with food and with 4,959 articles of clothing. Twenty-four of these families were given furniture, and 506 were the recipients of Christmas parcels.

In the prison and police court department, Army Officers paid 935 visits to local courts and interviewed 6,865 persons, the Brigadier said. A total of 1,132 were "spoken for" to judges, and 807 were received by the Salvation Army. The number which were sent to friends totalled 515 and employment was found for 428.

Prison visits by Army Officers during 1947 totalled 100, with 1,111 interviews; 55 services were held; 661 visits were made to prisoners' families; 194 letters were written on behalf of prisoners, and a total of 538 came to the Salvation Army from prison. Every effort was made to find employment of a steady nature for the latter. "We are proud to report that many of these men and women are already off to a good start in rehabilitating themselves as good citizens," Brigadier Forbes said.

The report tendered by the Officers covered the complete activities of the Army, taking in the Montreal City Field Work; Welfare Officer's report; Catherine Booth Mother's Hospital, which, it was noted, has a more complete laboratory service and which has kept up its high standard and tradition for good patient care; the Montreal Men's Social Service Department; The Montreal Industrial Centre; The Women's Receiving Home and Prison Department; The Men's Eventide Home; the Young women's residence and the Fresh Air Camp for children at Lac L'Amichigan.

In closing his report, Brigadier Forbes pointed out that this year's campaign for $125,000 was one that would require the full cooperation and generosity of all citizens of Montreal and district.

THE ONLY SAFE MILK

In view of the scientific fact that pasteurization makes milk fit for human consumption, it is an appalling revelation that of 366 municipalities reporting in a recent survey in the eight provinces outside Ontario, only 13 per cent were revealed to have compulsory pasteurization by-laws. Ontario was not included because it is the only province in the Dominion which has a province-wide law in force.

Saskatchewan headed the individual provinces in the matter of cities and towns reporting safe milk by-laws, 20 per cent being in this category. Quebec was next with 15 per cent reporting compulsory pasteurization by-laws.

Of the 366 reporting municipalities, 90, or approximately 25 per cent, reported their entire supply was unpasteurized. Sixteen revealed that while they had no compulsory by-law their supply was 100 per cent pasteurized.

Forty-one municipalities, including 15 in Quebec and eight in Alberta, revealed that 90 per cent or more of their milk supply was pasteurized.

From the results of the survey, it would appear that many thousands of Canadians are drinking raw milk despite the fact that raw milk can be dangerous — despite the fact that milk-borne diseases have caused much needless, killing and crippling illness. Pasteurized milk is the only safe milk.

"A BUSINESS OF MY OWN"

That's the theme of a little booklet for veterans which has just been issued by the Bank of Montreal. It is called "What's the Score on these Veterans' Loans?" and is about the new Veterans' Business and Professional Loans Act. In it the bank answers, in the straightforward words of one of their managers, a series of questions put by a veteran who wants to know "the score" for himself and for his friends. Copies are, we understand, freely available at the local office of the bank.

There has been a certain amount of doubt and misapprehension as to what the Veterans' Loans Act would enable banks to do in the way of making loans to veterans who have started, or who wish to start, a business of their own. An unfortunate delay in the supplying of the government's printed forms and details of the regulations did not help matters.

Now the Bank of Montreal has brought out this attractive little volume which really answers the question put on its cover. It dispels, too, any idea that the bank is less than enthusiastic about advancing money under the terms of the act.

Running through the foreword and the answers to the veteran's questions is a wholehearted endorsement of the widespread desire for "a business of my own". But the bank does not hesitate to impress veterans with the fact that they must have a sound business proposition. With this we agree. Besides their money, veterans are investing their time, effort, and their very future in these new businesses, and the government and the banks would not be serving these citizens well if they assisted in ventures which had no reasonable chance of success.

WHIPPING CREAM COMES BACK

It is with a happy smile that homemakers across Canada welcome back their menus more and better cream. For several years, due to war conditions, the use of heavier creams has been prohibited as a means of conserving the butter-fat for more essential purposes. Butter is an indispensable item of both war and peace-time menus.

Cream is not pure fat, but rather that part of milk which contains the most fat. It is usually according to the percentage of fat it contains. The kinds of cream commonly sold on the market are cereal cream, coffee or table cream, and whipping cream.

The home economists of the Consumer Section, Dominion Department of Agriculture say that there are several factors which influence the successful whipping of cream, such as age, temperature and richness. Cream for whipping should contain about 30% butter-fat and should be from 12 to 24 hours old. It will whip more easily if thoroughly chilled to below forty degrees, Fahrenheit. Do not whip for too long a time, otherwise the fat globules may collect and form butter. Cream should at least double its bulk when whipped.

WEEKLY REVIEW

BERNARD SHAW— BASHFUL EGOTIST

By LEWIS MILLIGAN

I have just started to read Hesketh Pearson's life of Bernard Shaw, and in glancing over the photo illustrations of his friends in the latter years of the nineteenth century, it struck me that they were all men who took themselves very seriously. This may be said with even greater emphasis of Shaw himself, for although he usually assumes a jocular air in his pictures and in his writings, he leaves no doubt as to his personal opinion of his importance. In the frontispiece portrait taken at the age of 82, he sits, with his arms folded and his brows knitted, against a background of books. It is obviously a pose, but the portrait is very revealing of the underlying serious nature of the man.

We all have two sides to our nature, and portrait painters tell us that most people are two-faced—that one side of our face is more or less different from the other. In Bernard Shaw, as in most men of genius, this difference is accentuated. In his young manhood Shaw not only took himself very seriously, but he took life in general seriously in his writings. He was well versed in the Bible and Pilgrim's Progress, studied and played classical music, tried to write a Passion Play in blank verse, and wrote several novels. He thus had a thorough grounding in the serious side of life, but it was not until he let the lighter side of his nature have free play that he began to cut a figure in the political and literary world.

But it was not without a struggle with his more serious self that he emerged into the limelight. Pearson tells us that when Shaw made his first plunge into Public controversy, "he rose to his feet, shaking with nerves, and heard himself speaking. He was pitifully self-conscious and felt certain when he sat down that he had made a fool of himself." That is a common experience with young aspirants to public speaking—except with those who are naturally glib of tongue and are not bothered with any depth of thought or temperament. Although the young Shaw felt that he had made a fool of himself in his first attempt at speaking in public, Pearson tells us that he "there and then resolved that he would never miss a meeting and never miss an opportunity to speak, however much he might suffer in the process. He kept his resolution, suffering agonies before his turn came, and wondering whether anyone could hear the painful hammering of his heart. He was so nervous, that he could not read his notes, so apprehensive that he could not remember them. He assumed that everyone realized his condition, was amazed when asked to take the chair at his third appearance, guessed that he had been able to cover his fright with an outward semblance of calm, but gave the imposture away to the secretary when his hand shook so much that he could not sign the minutes of the last meeting."

I have quoted the above at length for the comfort and encouragement of those who are suffering from the birth-throes of public utterance, and also to show that Shaw's apparent flippancy is merely a mask for the emotional side of his nature. As a young man Shaw says he was tormented by "an abnormal shyness" which made him "unmanly and arrogant in social intercourse." He tells of how he used to visit a house in Cheyne Walk on Sunday evenings: "I suffered such agonies of shyness that I sometimes walked up and down the Embankment for twenty minutes or more before venturing to knock at the door; indeed I should have faked it altogether, and hurried home asking myself when it was easy to run what was the use of torturing away, if I had not been instinctively aware that I must never let myself off in this manner if I meant ever to be anything in the world."

And this was the bashful young man whose name has become the synonym for self-assertiveness and literary impudence. The odd thing about Shaw is that although he professes to be a socialist and opposed to individualism, he is himself one of the greatest individualists and literary capitalists of modern times. Some people regard him as an insufferable egotist, and he has made considerable capital out of that. He owes everything he is and has to the free democratic system, for he would not have existed under the Marxian system of socialism he has advocated. If he had lived in Soviet Russia he would have been "liquidated" long since. That he has lived so long is perhaps one of the greatest tributes to British democracy and the capitalist system.

Once alcoholism is recognized as a disease entity, we are able to proceed in a scientific manner to isolate its cause and to find a cure. After much research the Yale clinic has concluded that the only way for the chronic alcoholic to arrest his alcoholism is to abandon alcohol in all forms. He must stop drinking completely and the public must help him. Instead of trying to solve the many medical and social problems caused by the use of alcohol, it would seem much more effective to treat the cause. We must put danger signals everywhere that alcohol goes. All other drugs which are dangerous carry a warning that they are not to be used except on the advice of a physician. Alcohol is a dangerous poison and should be treated as such.

"Alcoholism—A Medical View"
By Regner W. Kullberg, M.D.
(Practising physician of Astoria, Oregon.)

From aloof Eire came a reminder that history, even in its moments of crisis like the Moscow disagreement, is fleeting. The Dublin Theatre Royal's weekly quiz program offered one hundred dollars to anyone who could name all Foreign Ministers at Moscow. No one could.

Our population at the last census in 1941 was 11,507,000, now it is 12,307,000. Our province has added 298,000, Ontario 319,000. Sask., Man. and P.E.I. showed a net loss.

Premier Macdonald recently stated that Provincial House, before long, will be enlarged or replaced. The venerable grey-stone building is the oldest Parliament Building in Canada and probably in the Empire. It was erected in 1818, sixty years after Nova Scotia became the first region to obtain responsible government in Canada. I have pleasant recollections of the dignified old building as I had a part time position in the Crown Lands Office while an undergraduate at Dalhousie University Law School. Hon. J. W. Longley was Attorney-General and Minister of Crown Lands and Hon. George H. Murray, to whom I was articled as a law student, was Premier of Nova Scotia for many years.

Our port, although ice-locked from December to April, handles a third of Canada's commerce and exports more grain than any other port on the North American continent. It is closer to Liverpool than any U. S. seaport and is the nearest ocean port of any size to Central Canada and the U. S. Midwest.

Recently a ship loaded 1,071 cases of Canadian whiskey, for Britain. "That's for our poor blokes," sighed a bosun. "They're sending the Scotch over here."

One solution of the parking problem is called "fringe parking". Atlanta, Ga. has a big municipal parking lot a mile and a half from the business centre, with a "park-ride" service for 35 cents that includes both parking charges and round-trip fare. At Denver, Colo., a shoppers' parking service has been started by two veterans with station-wagon service direct to seven large downtown department stores. A returning shopper notifies the attendant at the store, and he telephones the parking lot. The shopper steps out of the station wagon to find her car ready for her.

There is much in the press now about the lack of dollars dislocating British trade. This, British writers say, is one of the most serious features of that country's post-war trading. Because of the shortages of food and raw material in other areas, 42-percent of British imports must come from the Western hemisphere while only 14-percent of British exports go there. Britain must buy in many countries or go without. Once the American and Canadian loans are used up, probably in 1948, the only major source of dollars for Britain will be their current exports. That means reduced British business for North America. Sir Stafford Cripps said recently "we must try to get back to purchases in soft currency, or sterling markets as soon as ever the goods are available and we must send the maximum possible amount of our exports to the hard-currency countries."

It is found that trading surpluses in the Eastern hemisphere cannot be freely converted into dollars and some are drained off in repayment of debts incurred by Britain during the war. It is realized now that in all the Socialist Government's planning, the lack of dollars is a retarding influence and Sir Stafford says the shortage will "be with us permanently anyway for the next 20 years."

Those of us who are interested in the work-unit-dollar are hoping that the damage being done by having different kinds of money will lead Socialists to become more interested in the money question than they usually are. How simple it would be if the world had a work-unit-dollar and if people gave work for work, hour for hour, according to time and with mutual banking! But the difficulty seems to be that most people do not understand a new system. The hope is that they will begin to see that it is all-important to have a just medium of exchange if we are to have a social order based upon abundance rather than upon artificial scarcity. Until there is an equitable medium of exchange it seems quite clear that we will go round and round in a vicious circle, with the net result very unsatisfactory and with inevitable.

Archimandrite Anthony, Rector of the Russian Orthodox Church of St. Peter and St. Paul in Montreal, was consecrated Bishop of Montreal and Eastern Canada at a 3-hour service held in New York recently in the Cathedral of Holy Virgin Protection.

Branch Rickey, President of the Brooklyn Club in the National League, is an active layman in the Methodist Church and, it is believed, values his church membership service and this seems to be some of the sports writers. Some of the sports editors seldom refer to him without managing to make some disparaging reference to church interests, although they always admit that he is one of the most resourceful executives in the game. Recently it was this "pious" Mr. Rickey who has the courage to defy one of baseball's oldest and most unjust taboos—signed a Negro, Jackie Robinson, to play first base for the Dodgers. Now that Brooklyn has broken the taboo and the press reports that the fans have greeted the appearance in a Brooklyn uniform with cheers, other clubs may be expected to give Negro athletes their fair chance. But in all this mess it should be remembered that it was Branch Rickey who made the first decisive step. One happens Mr. Rickey's religion is such a humbug after all."

History Of The Gideons Adventure Narrative

The Dominion President of The Gideons, Bernard E. Aldridge, together with other members of the Association from Hamilton, Kitchener, Peterborough, Brantford, Sherbrooke and Toronto, will be in Montreal on Sunday to tell congregations of 24 churches about the Bible and Testament distribution ministry, and included in the program are Calvary United Church, Westmount, Snowdon Baptist Church, Grace Chapel, Draper Avenue, and Rockfield United Church, 1150 St. Pierre.

All Westenders were elected as officers of the Local Association at the annual meeting held Tuesday night, E. Lloyd Loveless, President, W. McGardner, Westmount, Vice-President, F. Hoskins, Chaplain and Secretaries, F. Little and C. Simpson.

Officers of the Ladies' Auxiliary are: President, Mrs. E. L. Loveless; Vice-President, Mrs. Griffling; Secretary, Mrs. L. Crimp; Treasurer, Mrs. H. Hart and Secretary, Mrs. Russell McKenzie.

The first members of The Gideons were confined to Christian commercial travellers who carried their wares from place to place, an occupation that deprived them of the fellowship and inspiration of meeting fellow Christians in their home Churches. To overcome this disadvantage a group of three commercial travellers met in the year 1899 and formed the Gideon Association.

At that time the ministry of the Gideons was one of personal evangelism through witnessing to the grace of God. In the year 1908 it was decided to enter upon a programme of Bible distribution and this ministry was initiated by giving some 25 copies of the Word of God in the guest rooms of a hotel in the State of Montana. To the Gideon Bible is as familiar as any of the equipment to be found in a standard hotel guest room. The compensations the members of the Association receive are to be found in the common hope, courage and strength the Bibles have imparted to multitudes who have made use of them.

With encouraging results achieved by hotel room distribution, The Gideons later enlarged their scope to include distribution of Bibles to hospitals. This ministry has extended to general and special hospitals, sanitariums and Cross outposts from coast to coast and as far north as Baffin Bay. One hospital official remarked that there is no more appropriate place for the Bible than in a hospital ward.

In 1933 The Gideons entered the distribution field in their own right and a few hardened criminals have been reclaimed for God and society through reading the Word in the direction of the Holy Spirit and thereby discovering the power of conversion through the Word.

More recently the Association has been placing Bibles in the Schools of the teachers and pupils of devotional and regular classes. More than 700,000 copies have been placed in school classrooms across Canada.

During the war years The Gideons served military training camps and the ships of His Majesty's Canadian Navy. In addition to this particular program, 10,000,000 Service Bibles, with Psalms included, were presented on the Continent to members of the Armed Forces.

This year The Gideons entered the field of service in launching a School Testament Program, the greatest single project ever undertaken. It is planned to place in the school children of Canada with the vital teachings of God's Word by presenting an attractive and durable copy of the Bible Testament, with the Books of Proverbs and Psalms added. An objective of covering one copy of the Bible across Canada is being set for the year 1947. 150,000 copies of this issue will be needed annually. Four hundred copies of this special issue have been presented to 150 pupils in Montreal and 150 schools this year.

Members of the executive of the Gideons are: President, W. McGardner; Secretary, Gilbert Scott.

Many Marriages Are Rescued By Family Welfare Counsellors

The seed of success lies in almost every marriage, needing only patient cultivation to bring it to full bloom. This view is held firmly by the marriage counsellors of the Family Welfare Association, a Red Feather Service of Welfare Federation, despite rising divorce figures.

Much can be done to help young marriages which are foundering. A happy marriage isn't the natural sequel to the wedding recession, although the fact that it takes a great deal of co-operation to keep a marriage going catches many bewildered newlyweds unaware.

Since few couples apply for advice before taking the big step, the marriage counsellors are not usually given an opportunity to help until problems have multiplied and the disillusioned husband and wife despair of ever finding a way out of their difficulties.

Even then it is seldom too late, for real love dies hard, and most couples are sincerely anxious to keep their homes together. They realize how disastrous a broken home is for children, and many still feel that the marriage itself is basically sound, but circumstances have clouded their original bright hopes of a happy future together. When both husband and wife can be convinced of the need for a strong mutual effort, the hardest part of the marriage counsellor's job is done.

G. B. Clarke, executive secretary of the Family Welfare Association, has found in years of experience that lack of money is the constant source of trouble. Second to that these days is the housing

Sacred Heart Assn. Plans Breakfast And Closed Retreat

Final plans were discussed regarding the forthcoming annual Communion breakfast of the senior branch of the Business Women's Sacred Heart Retreat Association at its executive meeting held recently. The guest speaker for the occasion will be Rev. E. M. Brown, S.J., Rector of Loyola College.

in comfortable circumstances as it is to those who must manage on very little. Knowing how to manage is the key to success, and advice in this regard is always available.

Sometimes there is in-law trouble disturbing the household. This is becoming a more common problem with so many families doubling up for lack of places of their own to live. Jealousy is another threat. Whatever the reason for the discord, a willingness to make compromises and to try again and again will almost invariably bring success.

There are of course a few marriages which should never have taken place. For those hopeless cases, the Family Welfare Association offers legal advice. But by far the great majority of marriages are potentially successful, and it is these which make for a stable community. The work of straightening out difficulties in such promising unions is a large and inspiring task for the counsellors of Family Welfare.

"Oh promise me that some day,"

By this time the June bride is probably all 'a-flutter' over her bridal gown — whether it is to be white or a pastel shade — and also gowns for her attendants. There may be some brides-to-be who do not know that Gladys Norman, of SIMPSON'S Fabric Dept., is the Fashion and Bridal Fabric consultant, and has a wealth of ideas at her finger tips, as to the right material for the bride's gown, and the most attractive styles and shades for the bridal party.

You will be enchanted with the brocaded satin in Eggshell, Cream, and White, and for the bridesmaids there are soft shades in Nylon crystal sheer, Marquise, Brocades and printed Ververay. When passing through this department last week, I found it a pleasure to envisage the summer days ahead, with the beautiful assortment of fabrics that are available this year. I can't imagine a finer fabric to select for a smart summer suit, or a sports outfit, than the imported Tootal's Lystav fabric. It is crease-resistant, washable, and non-shrinkable, 38" wide, and only $1.19 a yard. You will find it very difficult to pick out your shades, as they are all gorgeous — Apple Green, Sky Blue, Scarlet, Rose, White, British Navy, Beige and Black.

There is no shortage of materials, so ladies, get out your fashion books, and with a little patience, you will be amazed at what you can save on your summer wardrobe.

"We'll tak' a cup of kindness yet"

When one begins to see the different American license plates downtown, one feels that SUMMER can't be far off. Our cousins from across the border will again be visiting our speciality shops, many of which we can be very proud of, such as The C.S.L. Gift Shop, 1480 Sherbrooke St. W., near Mackay. The quietness and dignity of this shop is what continues to impress me, regardless of how often I visit. Here is a spot to spend some leisure time browsing around, and if you are able to resist buying something, you may walk out feeling that you have not transgressed upon the good nature of the very charming attendants. The June crop of weddings will soon be upon us, and take my advice and see first the many attractive gifts that are to be found here. There is no end of variety, and prices are far below what you would expect in an exclusive shop, such as The C.S.L. Talking of "brides", the lucky girl who can afford at least one superb piece of lingerie should by all means see the Italian Silk nightgowns, slips, and panties, exquisitely hand embroidered, and all drastically reduced. They are too precious to be kept on display, but if you ask for Miss Morton, you will be shown to the mirror room, for a private view of these rare pieces. Here is an idea for a practical gift for the bride; A wooden cook book stand. It has a metal tongue for the place mark, so that the frustrated bride will not start to bake an angel cake and end up with a waffle mixture. When Bobbie Burns wrote: "We'll tak' a cup of kindness yet" I'm sure he must have had in mind the giant coffee cups that The C.S.L. have. They are blue pottery with old-fashioned figures, and when filled with the right brew, should thrill the heart of any recipient.

House cleaning time has arrived

Here we are in the middle of May, and come rain, or shine that means "SPRING HOUSE CLEANING". This calls for the curtains to be taken down, the paints and windows to be washed, and the doing of a dozen of odd jobs around the house that we have been putting off, but which have finally caught up with us. House cleaning today in some ways, is not the easy job it was years ago, in that one could run up to the corner grocery store and buy a well-known dirt solvent. Today the wise housekeeper has to look elsewhere for a substitute, and you ladies who have not already used ATOMIK CLEANING POWDER, are in for a real pleasant surprise. Here is a powder that makes house cleaning a cinch; a few table-spoons in warm water on your walls and wood-work, and they will return to that well-kept look; and it is unequalled for washing outside paint work. You will be delighted with the condition of your hands after all your cleaning is done, because unlike some powders, there is no harsh substance in ATOMIK to harm your skin. You will find it very effective in removing that "family ring" around the bath tub, excellent for washing dishes, in fact for every household use where a good cleaning powder is necessary. You may purchase this wonder cleaner at Hardware Stores, Department Stores, and The Empire Wall Paper Co., LA. 4281. If your grocery store has not received his stock, ask him to procure it for you. Any dealers requiring information as to this ATOMIK CLEANING POWDER, phone EL. 2804.

A New Chatelaine

Last week I had my first Breck Method Hair and Scalp Treatment at Francis Ladies Hair Dressing Parlor, Sherbrooke St., corner of Claremont Ave., and after the shampoo and wave, my permanent had taken on a new softness, and a deeper wave than before. Miss Jobin has studied this method for years, and has attained a proficiency that rates her amongst the best in the city. After hearing about some of the cases she has treated, it would seem as if there is none too bad for her to cure, as for example, bald spots restored to normal. If an oily, loose, scaly dandruff condition is present, the Breck lotion will be thoroughly massaged into the scalp, then a very light application of Breck Ointment is lightly applied to the scalp, to be followed by an excellent shampoo. The charm that lies in beautiful hair is priceless. Nothing is quite so attractive as shining, lustrous swirls of clean and healthy hair, and this can be yours after taking a short series of The Breck Treatment, given by Miss Jobin, the waving being done by her sister. These sisters have operated their salon at the above address, for twenty-one years, a record that speaks for itself. By the way, have you seen the new Chatelaine at the salon? Her name is "PATSEY". She has beautiful black hair, that I'm sure will never need a BRECK treatment, and already she has made many friends, and by the summer will be welcoming all the old and new friends of the Jobin sisters. In fact, she is now, one of the family. Miss Jobin would appreciate if you would not delay too long in making your appointment for your summer permanent, so phone DE. 5686, while it is still "COOL".

Your Shining Hour

Mme Joel, the well-known corsetiere has just finished redecorating her attractive shop; it has been done in a pale green, which is in keeping with her dainty lingerie, etc. Mme Joel has a wonderful collection of foundation garments, having stocked all the best names. This is the first item for the young girl who is considering a bridal gown. Her foundation garment must have a magic fit above and below, so that her figure line will be one of perfection. Before buying her gown she should visit Mme Joel's, where an expert corsetiere will fit a garment to give that beautifully molded look that is so important for such an occasion. If the young bride wants to have a complete Nylon outfit she may do so, as this fabric is like a cat . . . it has nine lives and the strength of ten. You may choose your slips, nighties, and a sheer Nylon negligée, in lovely pastel shades of blue, tea rose, pink and white. You may also purchase here the famous Franco-Canadian de Luxe lingerie; their slips are made of the finest crepes trimmed with matching satin, and also the panties to match. You will be enchanted with this shop, and thrilled with what you come home with. Mme Joel Ltd., 4888 Sherbrooke St. West. DEXter 1850.

Roll on the Paint with a Roller-Koater

This week I feel very optimistic, for I am sure that the real warm days are "just around the corner", and any day now, we will be able to open the windows wide and get to painting and decorating in earnest. This reminds me of all the lucky people who have summer cottages, that may this year need a new coat of paint, and here is where you can help the "BOSS" out. To make painting a pleasure you should have one of the New Kem-Craft Roller-Koaters; this gadget has revolutionized painting, by cutting in half the actual painting time, besides giving a professional effect. It is faster than a brush on walls, floors, ceilings and all flat, smooth surfaces and may be used with oil paint, enamels or varnishes. The beauty of this Roller-Koater is that the roller may be purchased separately as the Handle will outlast several Rollers. The New Kem-Craft Roller-Koater is equipped with a lock-nut which permits you to remove the cylinder. The Roller-Koater Kit consists of the Kem-Craft Roller-Koater for paint application, the Tray for holding paint and the Edging Pad for filling in near woodwork. The tray is handy, and can be placed on top of a step ladder, all you have to do is to dip the Roller-Koater into the paint at the shallow edge, roll it upwards a few times, to get the Roller evenly coated, and then roll the Roller-Koater up and down the surface being painted. Coat from four to six feet at one time. When you have finished with the roller, it can be washed and used over again. The Roller-Koater Kit is a "MUST" for the home decorator, and can be purchased from any of the dealers who handle paint products of, The Canada Paint Co. Ltd., The Lowe Bros. Co. Ltd., The Martin-Senour Co. Ltd. and The Sherwin-Williams Co. Ltd.

Price Control And Rationing

All questions regarding rationing and information concerning the Wartime Prices & Trade Board should be addressed to the Information Branch, W.P.T.B., Room 910, Aldred Building, Montreal.

Q. Just who are eligible for the new ten percent increase in housing rentals?
A. Landlords of houses, duplexes and apartment blocks are eligible for the new ten percent increase, providing they were built prior to January first, nineteen forty-four. Each living unit must be self-contained, with private bathroom and complete living facilities.

Q. If a landlord converts a house which he owns into self-contained living suites, is he eligible for the increase?
A. Yes, he is . . . providing, of course, that the accommodation is self-contained.

Q. How should landlords go about increasing their rentals?
A. They should apply to the nearest rentals office of the Prices Board and ask for a special two-year lease form. Duplicate copies should be secured for each tenant, who, if he accepts the conditions, will return one completed form to the landlord.

Q. What happens if the tenant refuses to sign the two-year lease?
A. In that case, if the tenant does not accept within thirty days of the offer, his right of occupancy ceases, and he can be forced to vacate under provincial law.

Q. Suppose the landlord does not ask the tenant to sign the two-year lease?
A. Then he cannot collect the ten percent rental increase.

Q. The landlord isn't compelled to offer a two-year lease, is he?
A. No, he isn't. But, in such a case, the tenant is still protected from eviction.

Q. What happens if a landlord sells his property before the lease expires?
A. As there is no sales clause in the lease, the new owner would have to accept the existing tenants and rentals at the time the property is taken over.

For and About Women

WOMEN WITH IDEAS

MISS I. HALLSON

By HELEN B. SANDWELL

Spic and span in their Brownie uniforms a troop of little girls came into the hall the other day when I was visiting at the Mackay Institute School for the deaf on Decarie Blvd. Their shoes clattered on the polished floor, but one missed the sounds of whispering and chattering as they informally grouped themselves for these little ones are only now learning to speak. Some of them had been born deaf, others had lost their hearing as a result of childhood diseases. Many of them can speak a few words, but speech to them is something to be undertaken carefully—not a spontaneous outpouring like that of children who can hear. I was interested in these smart little deaf Brownies, and one of the Mackay teachers, Miss Ingibjorg Hallson, very kindly gave up her leisure time to tell something of the difficulties encountered by deaf pupils and their teachers.

Miss Hallson, blond and petite, led me to her own classroom where small desks for boys and girls of ages 9 to 10 are fitted with ear-phones, and where the Northern Electric Group Hearing Aid, one of the latest pieces of equipment for the deaf, was installed only last March.

"When the children arrive at this school," said Miss Hallson, as we settled ourselves at the desks, "they don't know what a school is. They don't know the names of things—such as 'chair,' 'ball,' 'pencil,' because they have never heard them. When, after enrolment, their parents leave them in our charge, the kiddies don't know whether or not they'll ever see their parents and homes again, because no one can tell them so. Normal children hear about school from their parents or companions, long before they become pupils themselves. Their education in words has gone on, day by day, from babyhood, but the deaf child has to learn words, and what they signify, after he becomes a pupil.

Miss Hallson admits that she found her first year of teaching the deaf very difficult indeed. But the work was a challenge and her interest in the children deep. She began to see how rewarding the work was as young minds were brought out of lonely frustration to enjoy wider interests. The deaf kiddies, she stressed, are alert,

His Life Brighter

Scholars at the Mackay Institute School for the Deaf are taught by specially trained teachers, such as Miss Hallson, and fitted to lead happy and useful lives.

and though they can't say "Why?" they have a big bump of curiosity, and want to know what is going on around them. The teachers capitalize on this, and bit by bit, word by word, knowledge is imparted. It becomes a kind of game, sometimes, with teacher and pupils sharing a feeling of exhilaration at difficulties overcome. "It is such a worthwhile job," says Miss Hallson. "It's hard work, yes, but fascinating." Certainly it requires a great deal of patience, for the deaf child never picks up information from the talk of his parents, brothers or sisters, or at church, or from the radio. He only learns what he is taught at school.

Pupils Begin Oral Method Early
From the age of five onwards, says Miss Hallson, the children are taught by the oral method—speech and lip reading. Many of these youngsters at the Mackay are not dumb, but only unable to speak because they have never heard the spoken word. However, if after a few years they do not respond to the oral method, they are then placed under the instruction of a teacher fluent in sign language.

The Mackay pupils use the public school text books. Miss Hallson teaches a straight academic course including arithmetic, spelling, language, speech and lip reading. I poked through bundles of well written copy books and gay art work on the desk, and saw for myself that these pupils have already left the dark, dull pre-school life far behind.

Probably your curiosity has been aroused about Miss Hallson's first name—Ingibjorg. It is Icelandic. She came to Canada from Iceland

Consumer Branch Closes. Had Fine Co-operation From Women

Yesterday marked the official closing of the Consumer Branch of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, one of the most unusual organizations ever established and one which has, during the war years and since, played a vital part in maintaining the economic stability of Canada.

Known as the "nation's shoppers", these women watched prices and quality, warned against black markets, explained shortages, taught clothing conservation, gave voluntary help in the distribution of ration books, worked in housing registries which found accommodation for nearly 100,000 people, and perhaps most important of all, advised the Board in the formation of policy.

The present director of the Branch, Mrs. Rene de la Durantaye will continue for a further period to serve consumers generally as well as women's organizations. As of tomorrow, Mrs. de la Durantaye becomes assistant to the Chairman of the Prices Board.

Started early in the war purely as a voluntary effort, the Consumer Branch organization, whose aim was the protection of the Canadian consumer, transcended all racial, religious, and political differences, numbered 17,000 in its final membership.

Recognizing the fact that price control could succeed only with the full co-operation of the women of Canada, Rt. Hon. J. L. Ilsey, then Minister of Finance, in December, 1941, called the presidents of women's national organizations to a conference in Ottawa with himself and Donald Gordon.

Shortly after, a Consumer Branch headquarters was established at Ottawa to work with the liaison officers appointed by women's organizations in cities, towns and villages across the country.

The Old Hen Gets In A Stew

Chicken has become a frequent "must" on Canadian menus. It is the most versatile of meats and may be served with the simple, economical meal or for "company" dinners. Chicken has few equals when it comes to delicious flavour and appetite appeal.

The time of the year is almost at hand when the old birds will be culled from the chicken flocks. These birds may be used in several ways. They may be steamed, stewed, fricasseed or canned for later use.

These older birds are prepared as for roasting, but require a long, slow cooking using moist heat to soften and make tender the tough connective tissue. Chickens cooked in this manner will lose some of their juice and flavour, but this is regained when the broth is served as gravy with the meat.

Fowl is usually cut into serving pieces before stewing and then placed in a kettle, half-filled with lightly salted water. It should be simmered, covered, until the meat is tender. It should never boil. The pieces should be turned occasionally to ensure even cooking throughout. A tablespoon of vinegar added to the water helps to make the meat more tender. It is sometime necessary to replenish the water during the cooking period. A young fowl will require from 2-3 hours to cook tender.

Fricasseeing is another method of cooking fowl. The bird may be cut into serving pieces, rolled in flour and browned on all sides in hot fat. Then simmered in a small quantity of water or tomato juice.

If stewed fowl is to be served cold, it should be allowed to cool for an hour or more in the broth—when a baby, and lived for years in the west, at Eriksdale, Manitoba. After teaching in public schools, she taught for a year at the Manitoba School for the Deaf under the supervision of Mr. M. S. Blanchard to see if she "had what it takes," and then took a course at Wayne University, Detroit.

Mrs. T. B. Shea will sing, accompanied by Mr. John Cook. This annual meeting will also mark the installation of new officers.

The tea will be under the convenship of Mrs. E. Thibodeau.

the meat will be more moist. Three to four cups of cooked meat will be obtained from a four-five pound chicken.

There are many ways in which the meat from stewed or steamed chicken may be used in appetizing combinations. The home economists of the Consumer Section, Dominion Department of Agriculture, suggest chicken shortcake, chicken pie, or chicken croquettes if you like it served hot. For those who like it cold, a chicken salad, sandwich or jellied aspic may be appealing.

HOME EDUCATION

What Is This, Mother?

By M. Louise C. Hastings

If we live with our children according to Froebel's plan, we shall be confronted with the question "What is this, Mother?" every time we walk out with them into Nature's ever changing treasure gardens. When we do not know the answer, it does no harm to admit it; but it should be with the promise "I will try to find out."

Have you an Explorers Club in your home? Have you a space in the play-room called "Our Nature Corner"? Is there a cloth strip fastened across the children's room on which pictures of birds, trees, and flowers are exhibited?

Children love to walk out-of-doors with Father and Mother. They love the idea of clubs—even small children of kindergarten age—especially when it is a family affair. Most Explorers' Clubs are in evidence every time there is a walk or drive; though sometimes a club will prefer to meet for an expedition at a regular time on each Saturday afternoon—without regard to the season or the weather. "What do you suppose we'll find today?" arouses sufficient interest in almost any child, of any age, to go forth and listen to Nature's teachings.

Do you encourage the children to bring home specimens for their "Nature Corner"? If you do, be careful to have them understand that they must not take from Nature anything she may need, nor anything that will make her less attractive to her next visitors. Specimens brought home should always be given care. It is a good plan to buy several dozen test tubes and fasten them by strings to a screen or cloth strip. They will prove particularly convenient for sprays of flowers, weeds, and twigs. One benefit of having these tubes is they increase the interest in collecting small specimens—in the spring, little sprays of buds and leaves; in the summer, sprays of wayside weeds and grasses; in the fall, collections of seeds or twigs and weeds. All these should be gathered sparingly and carefully preserved.

A "Nature Corner" should have low shelves where children can keep many of their treasures not needing the test tubes. There will be stones, shells, and many kinds of seeds, as well as different forms of seaweed washed up by the tides. Did you ever take your children on a seeing-icicles walk? Last year I saw some of the queerest, yet really most exquisite icicles that I had ever seen, on the house next door to ours. I realized then that here was another bit of Nature to introduce to our children. These icicles did not hang in single inverted spires as most icicles do, nor were they vertical, but gracefully slanting, for the wind had done its part in increasing their beauty. They were fantastically massed and it was not difficult to trace shapes of flowers, fruit, and even tropical birds in bas-relief upon their surfaces.

A walk after an ice storm is full of interest for the children. They will enjoy shaking an ice-coated bush or a branch of an ice-coated tree. The ice falling on the crusted snow makes pleasing music. Caution the children to shake gently, so that not one of the very faint tones shall be lost and, too, so that no branch shall be broken. Winter has many different melodies for us if we have ears that hear them.

Another winter walk should be to a house or store window where Jack Frost has done some of his remarkable sketching. Not only individual giant ferns and trees will be found but often complete pictures—lovely beyond words.

There is no limit to the delightful ways by which parents can introduce their children to the world about them. Whatever the season, it can be made so pleasurable that it will seem at the time, the best. And we never know how far the family-shared joy of a single season may reach.

Mother-Daughter Breakfast Held By Ascension Sodalists

In speaking on the subject of "Mother" at the annual Mother and Daughter Communion Breakfast sponsored by the Young Ladies' Sodality of Ascension Parish on Sunday in St. Leo's School Hall, Rev. Christopher Keating, S. J., guest speaker, emphasized the tremendous debt both Church and State owe to mothers.

Father Keating was introduced by Miss June Farrell, general convener of the event, and a vote of thanks was extended by Miss Carol Melvin.

Miss Jean Curran sang two selections in honour of the mothers present and was accompanied by

Chapter Honors Mrs. A. W. Myers

Following the monthly meeting of the Earl of Bessborough Chapter I.O.D.E. held at the home of Mrs. C. T. Groome, Decarie Blvd., on Thursday evening, the members paid tribute to Mrs. A. W. Myers for 12 years Regent of the Chapter.

Mrs. Myers who had held office all during the war years, retired in February and was appointed Honorary Regent.

The members, gathered round the tea table, centred with tall red, white and blue candles, presented Mrs. Myers with the first Life Membership bestowed in the Chapter. The Breakfast was preceded by a special Mass celebrated by Rev. Father McDonagh in the Parish Church, during which the mothers and daughters received Holy Communion in a body.

Galt Revue Scores Again In "One Night Of Rhythm"

It has long been established that when it's a "Hilda Galt Show" it's a good show, but last Thursday night at Victoria Hall, Miss Galt and the many pupils of the Hilda Galt School of Dancing, far surpassed any professional performance this city has seen in a long while. "One Night of Rhythm" proved a tremendous credit to the youthful teacher who again amazed the capacity audience by the fact that one person can teach and produce such a spectacular production which included tap, ballet, toe, toe-tap, acrobatic, musical comedy, character, interpretative and authentic Hawaiian routines, all of professional calibre, costumed exquisitely and executed in a manner only associated with top-ranking professionals.

The curtain rose promptly at 8 p.m. with a brilliant overture by Ozzie Goldman, the audience was welcomed by the all-time star of "One Night of Rhythm"—Terry

Goodwin. Terry is a seasoned showman and his Al Jolson impersonation coupled with the grand style and ease of his dancing highly commendable. Terry is an extremely gifted boy. Nancy Telfer, Ted Smalley, Joyce Chiang and Ann Gregory contributed outstanding numbers and they can be assured of a brilliant dancing future. The latter two, Joyce and Ann, displayed remarkable versatility and the fact that they did several different types of dances, all with equally splendid technique, is a great credit to them and to Miss Galt.

Among the long list of stars special mention must be made of Jacklyn Adams, Barbara Davidson, Ted and Vivian Smalley, Marilyn Lipsey, Lenore Chesmer, Barbara Walker, Doreen Lacelle and Miriam Wilkinson.

In the Ballet department lovely Mary Willdig, Constance Baker, Barbara Millar, the beautiful Porteous sisters, Eunice and Shirley, Lois Jefferies for her impressive portrayal of "Adoration to the Moon" and the Blue Fairy, Barbara Smith for her beautiful "Swan Queen" and "Hungarian Csardas", all deserve honorable mention. Other soloists who were well received were Carl Rollo, Ruth Kilmomis, Jacquelyn Michaud, Gordon Harlow, Joan Michaud, Monique Dufresne, Shirley and Estelle Goldman, Shirley Porteous, Julia Anne Holden, Beryl Light and Eunice Porteous.

The first portion of the programme was appropriately entitled "The Children's Hour". Little David Middleton, a mere mite, delighted the huge audience with his singing and tap-dancing, as did Marsha Mendelman, Sandra Duchow, Vivian Smalley and Miriam Wilkinson, who presented fine solo dances. The younger pupils who appeared in "Pretty Babies" were Constance Golfman, Deanna Dean, Carol Dean, Claire St. Aubin, Michelle St. Aubin, B. Deckelbaum, Donna Kerner, D. Kolber, C. Katz, and Freya Zabitsky. In "Timed for Tots", Claire Jerome, Shirley Jerome, Carol Packer, Phyllis Rosenberg, Caroline Quom, Lincia Nadler, Caroline Cowan, Barbara Lavigne and Donald Butts, and the "Kutie Kapers", Barbara Brown, Maria Shroder, Judy Gordon, Carol Freeman, Emily Banibiger, Dolores Dines, Anita Lands, Shari Wexler, Edith Wexler, Diana Brewer, Bunny Carli, and David Middleton.

The Junior Galt Girls: Lenore Chesmer, Miriam Wilkinson, Lois Jefferies, Barbara Smith, Doreen Lacelle, and Ann Elizabeth Woodcock are a splendid sparkling little line who put their heart and soul into clever Toe-tap and beautiful ballet routines and plenty of nip movement in their amazing conception of authentic Hawaiian dancing. The "Pinochio" scene brought forth another very clever little group who are following close in the footsteps of the Junior Galt Girls. This was a delightful number starring vivacious Jacklyn Adams as Pinochio and dainty Barbara Millar as the Blue Fairy who finally wins the admiration of the mischievous Jiminy Crickets who were Ellen Joy Lewis, Marsha Mendelman, Jane McCann, Winnifred Hopkins, Elaine Nadler, Carol Shiller, and Frances Fogle.

"Mountain Jive" opened with a song and tap dance by Carol Bedard, Judith Gold, Carol Mendelsohn Sandra Cimmings, Dorothy Goldin, Phyllis Leibovitch, Phyllis Tishler. One of the evening's highlights was a line of teen-age girls endowed with pep and personality who appeared in "Gals in Calico". This number was preceded by a clever harmony trio, Julia Anne Holden, Beryl Light and Barbara Davidson, in their version of "Friendship", the best of the line comprised Eunice Porteous, Marilyn Lipsey, Mary Willdig, Lillian Thompson, Nancy Telfer and Shirley Porteous.

"Ballet Variations" was a breathtaking ballet scene, exquisitely costumed in traditional long blue ballets with beautiful scenic and lighting effects. The toe work and arm movement were of the very highest calibre.

WITH GRACE PLAYERS—C. Gordon Hynes, who is playing the role of "Roger Van Vleck" in the production "June Mad" on May 28, 29, 30 in Grace Church Lecture Hall.

A very novel tap number was "The Bubble Dancers" consisting of Judy McEwen, Diana Johnson, Diane Blumer, Nichole Painchaud, Patricia Butler, Edith Cohen, Heather Stewart, Eleanor Schacter, and Thelma Bogante.

"Club Rendez-Vous" was a sophisticated presentation featuring many excellent soloists and one of the best scenes of the talented evening was "Classical Interlude".

The Finale of the Show was the impressive "Hawaiian Rhythms" featuring the best-loved authentic hulas.

The outstanding feature of the entire evening was the appearance of Hilda Galt and the renowned Galt Girls in an elegant production "South Americana".

Miss Galt, the accompanist Madge Dawson and Harold Morris, the drummer, Sid Cohen, the entire cast and backstage crew deserve the highest praise for a brilliant, fast-moving show that proceeded without a hitch and certainly lived up to its title "One Night of Rhythm".

Small Town Story Available To Show

"The Mapleville Story", a film depicting life in a typical Canadian small town, is available now for general distribution in 16mm. size to fit non-theatrical projectors. Produced by Associated Screen News of Montreal, featuring a cast of well-known on screen and radio under the direction of Gordon Sparling and with music by Lucio Agostini, "The Mapleville Story" is suitable for presentation to service clubs, church groups, schools and other organizations.

The film gives you a 20-minute glimpse of life in a Canadian town, of its business life and social forces. The basic truths of the town's economy, its business, social life, the country store, the bank and the school are worked into a background of good entertainment.

Prints of "The Mapleville Story" can be obtained from community film libraries and film councils; or you may ask your local bank manager for information as to the addresses of such councils or film libraries.

IDLENESS IS ILLNESS

"If we simply sit down on the sands of life, we must expect to be caught on the incoming tide of time", warn the health experts. They advocate a positive approach, and a concerted drive, to health.

Idleness, when it comes to maintaining personal fitness, means, in the long run, illness. For, to secure and maintain health, constant striving is essential. If we do nothing—just sit by and wait for life to do with us what it will—disease and decay may overtake us.

At a Chamber of Commerce banquet, a school teacher was called upon to respond to the toast, "Long live our teachers!" Her response in full was, "On what?"

Grace Players To Present "June Mad"

Ever since one can remember the theory has always been that "in the spring a young man's fancy turns to love" but in the case of the Grace Players forthcoming production, it is in the month of June that a young girl turns her fancy towards love, forgetting all about her wishes to become a writer or a great singer. But many things happen to her before she finally makes up her mind, with the help of her mother and father.

Then too, there is the "boy next door" with whom she has been raised and brought up and his interests in building planes rather than discussing the finer things with the female sex. But then, many things happen to him too before he decides on his future.

All this put together . . . with the decisions of the respective parents, the young uncle who is also torn between friendship and love, the visiting college "killer-diller" who tries to impress the young ladies with his "line" and his contention that "love is the sweetest thing", the antics and so-called helping hand extended to the household by the housekeeper and handyman . . . is the general theme upon which is based the three act comedy "June Mad" which is to be presented in Grace Church Lecture Hall, corner Wellington and Fortune Sts., on Wed., Thurs. and Friday evenings May 28, 29, 30 at 8.15 p.m., sharp.

One of the main features of this production is the part of little "Milly Lou" played by 11 year old Gail Phillips.

Those in the cast are: Doris Richardson, Mary Hynes, Mary Godbehere, May Williams, Gail Phillips, Joan Sabre, Gordon Woolard, C. Gordon Hynes, Leonard Starke, Geoff Williams, Fred Devlin, Arthur Wall, Robert MacLachlan.

DANGER OF DAMP

Dampness invites disease of the rheumatic type, particularly in undernourished children. Parents, therefore, are advised to make sure that the children's wet and cold shoes, stockings and other garments which may become damp, are changed as soon as they come inside.

"Rebecca", Laurence Olivier Starred, Returns To Monkland

Gripping mystery and a haunting quality of suspense are the outstanding features of "Rebecca", winner of both the Academy Award and the National Critics' Poll, the year of its release, which is now playing at the Monkland United Theatre until Friday night.

Directed by Alfred Hitchcock, master of melodramatic thrillers "Rebecca" co-stars Laurence Olivier and Joan Fontaine, with a stellar supporting cast including Judith Anderson, George Sanders, Nigel Bruce, C. Aubrey Smith, Reginald Denny, Gladys Cooper, Florence Bates and Leo. G. Carroll.

"Rebecca" is based on the novel by Daphne du Maurier, one of the biggest sellers of the past decade. It tells the absorbing story of a young, reticent girl who becomes the second wife of a handsome young Englishman, owner of a Cornwall estate known as Maderley. When the couple return to this huge, rather forbidding home, which seems to throw out an aura of ominous mystery from the past, the new Mrs. de Winter has a feeling that her life is being strangely dominated by the dead Rebecca, her husband's first wife. Rebecca was admittedly beautiful and fascinating, and her most zealous admirer, Mrs. Danvers, the housekeeper at Maderley, is determined to make life miserable for her successor. Mrs. Danvers from the start resents the presence of the second Mrs. de Winter and does everything in her power to harass her.

After an elaborate ball given at Maderley for the mistress of the house, stunning and overwhelming disclosures are made. Following some unexpected developments in which suspicion of murder is in the air, the story moves to an explosive climax.

Mtl. Festivals Summer Opera Season Readied

Final plans were completed this week for the coming summer opera season to be presented out of doors by the Montreal Festivals at the Molson Stadium from July 23 to August 13, it was announced today by the Board of Directors, with the return to New York of Laszlo Halasz, artistic and musical director of the New York Opera Company.

Mr. Halasz has spent the past week in Montreal putting at the disposal of the Montreal Festivals his vast experience in helping to organize an open air operatic season which promises to be comparable to the best given on this continent today. Using every resource to be found in this city supplemented by the complete co-operation and direction of the technical staff of the New York City Opera Company, the roster of leading singers will be drawn from the Metropolitan Opera Company as well as from the New York City Opera Company.

The full symphony orchestra as well as a chorus of 100 well trained singers will be drawn from Montreal. The corps de ballet will also be recruited from local talent and will be trained by one of the most outstanding ballet masters in the theatre. Stage and scenery will also be constructed locally under the supervision of the noted scenic designer H. A. Condell.

Opening on July 23 with Aida, such noted singers as Marjorie Lawrence, Daniza Ilitsch, Camilla Williams, Winifred Heidt, Ramon Vinay, Eugene Conley, James Pease, Gean Greenwell, Robert Merrill and Hubert Norville appear on the roster of those scheduled to sing in the operas to be presented.

Laszlo Halasz himself will conduct the opening performance of Aida, and other conductors who have been engaged are Thomas P. Martin and Jean Morel. Such noted stage directors as Theodore Komisarjevsky, of the Russian Moscow Art Theatre fame, Leopold Sachse and John S. White are also listed.

But most important, it is stressed by the Montreal Festivals, is the fact that every resource in the City of Montreal will be used by the organization in order to further the training of Canadian talent under the direction of some of the best technical experts available on this continent.

Belmont Park Open Saturday

The official opening of the Outdoor Season at Belmont Park takes place on Saturday. All attractions, some new, others—favorites of yesteryear—will be in operation, and there will be dancing every night as well as weekends to Benny Louis and his Casa Loma Orchestra. The Free Outdoor Attraction, to be presented daily at 5 and 11 p.m. will introduce to patrons of the park, the internationally famous Barretts, three perfectly developed young men who indulge in some fancy hand-stands and other aerial gymnastics on a high rigging.

Belmont Park which will operate daily, rain or shine, is the only place of its kind in Montreal that provides the fun, the thrills, the laughter, the recreation and relaxation so essential to the tired mind and body. So plan now to attend the opening of Belmont Park on Saturday—the picnic facilities are many for an entire day's outing for the family.

People occasionally stumble over the truth, but most of them pick themselves up and hurry off as if nothing had happened. —Winston Churchill!

STORY OF A BOY AND HIS HORSE! George Tobias and Clem Bevans are trying to console Marshall Thompson when his beloved mare "Bess" is ill in the Cinecolor film, "Gallant Bess", which starts at the Westmount United Theatre, on Sunday, playing until Tuesday night.

HELD OVER FOR SECOND WEEK! Rachel Kempson and Michael Redgrave are co-starred in "The Captive Heart", which is having its Montreal first run at the Snowdon United Theatre.

Montreal Scouts And Cubs Present Big Show At Forum

Amongst the most surprised people having anything to do with The Scout Show, to take place in the Forum on Saturday evening, will be just those people! From news available thus far, the whole thing will be quite impressive; and it is known that there will be visitors in town from near and far to see the Show.

To give the reader some idea of what is taking place, here is a rough outline. Item 1, a parade of colours with quite some pomp and circumstance. Item 2, a really smart Sea Scout show calling for the setting up of a dummy ship including basic appointments, officers, etc.; and in addition some flashy signalling with morse and semaphore flags, lamps, blinkers, etc. Following this, the Wolf Cubs present their Grand Howl and the Gremlin show, described elsewhere. Item 4 is a sort of five-ring event of physical training, first aid, signalling, trek-cart races and camping.

The next item will be dimly reminiscent of the recent animal show and should be good. Imagine Scouts and Scouters working in their spare time assembling various sizes and shapes of wood, burlap, rope, glue, etc., and produce a horse or an elephant, or a tiger for The Scout Show. Imagine, too, the fun of learning how to behave inside the "animal", and the excitement of taking part on Saturday! Valois, Rushbrooke, Chalmers, Lions Boys Club and St. Laurent troops have elephants; St. Laurent and Willingdon have lions and tigers; Greenfield Park have raised giraffes and Barclay troop cycling bears. St. Matthew's and Woodlands will feature horses, circus horses. And of course, there will be the usual assortment of odd stunts, comic policemen and bands, pony and rider and the ever-present clowns!

The pageant, by contrast will be impressive, leading off with our earliest visitors, Lief Ericson, then Jacques Cartier, Missionary Fathers, etc., and of course our "forefathers" the Red Indians. This item will end with the finale, a monster "council fire" which will have to be seen to be appreciated.

The whole show is scheduled to run through two very enjoyable hours, and it is felt that those attending will be well satisfied.

If one can believe his ears, this Scout Show, will be something to remember. And next to seeing it, one can only go on what one is told—and we have heard plenty. Take, for example, the Grand Howl and the Gremlin show offered by the Wolf Cubs. The Mackay Institute has a good pack under the leadership of Miss Winnifred Cory, and they are staging Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs. Three Western Area packs, Rosedale, Wesley and St. Ignatius, under Cubmasters Dewitt Clinton, W. R. Gold and Miss Alva Boyd, have a poodle show planned.

Two dances which should draw at least some interest will be the jungle dance of Kaa (the snake in Rudyard Kipling's "Jungle Book", the source book for all the "atmosphere" in Cubbing); and the old-fashioned Maypole dance. The "snake" from St. Hilda's pack will feast himself on ten "monkeys" from St. Cuthbert's pack; and about 50 Cubs from the packs of the Southern Area (Verdun, etc.) will take part in the Maypole dance, under the direction of W. R. Millen, district Cubmaster. And, of course, there will be clowns!

Naturally, being Wolf Cubs, there will be the Grand Howl, as it is called. This is an impressive ceremony before the Council Rock, when one of the older Cubs calls on all the D.Y.B. (do your best), to which the Cubs reply "We'll DOB (do our best) DOB, DOB, DOB." That, with some hundreds "howling" their pledge, should be good. And that is only a glimpse of the Cubs' part. In another column are some highlights of what the Scouts and Sea Scouts have to offer.

PLAY AND LEARN

A new game "Eat Right—Score High" based on Canada's Food Rules, has been produced for use of children, and provides information as well as entertainment. Through Provincial Health departments and local health units, teachers and parents may obtain these cards, which will help in teaching children how to choose the right foods.

You can get along with women if you let them think they are having their own way. But the only way to do that is to let them have it.—Quebec Chronicle-Telegram.

Excellent Double Bill With Comedy, Drama At Westmount

Teaming dynamic John Garfield with talented Geraldine Fitzgerald makes for grand entertainment in the hard-hitting, fast-moving film "Nobody Lives Forever", now playing at the Westmount United Theatre until Saturday night.

As Nick Blake, a veteran trying to regain his lost reputation as a "big shot" in the rackets, Garfield assumes a role which is a "natural" for him. His task is made difficult by a deceitful girlfriend, Toni (Faye Emerson), who attempts to withhold a $50,000 bankroll he left in her safe-keeping.

Nick changes her mind in typical fashion and teams up with a mob intent on absorbing the better part of a young and beautiful widow's fortune. But the scheme backfires as Nick's conscience makes itself felt and the fireworks begin to fly.

Co-starred with Garfield, in the role of the beautiful widow, is Geraldine Fitzgerald. A capable supporting cast features besides Faye Emerson, Walter Brennan who plays "Pop" Gruber, a sharp-witted oldster who has seen better days; George Coulouris as "Doc" Ganson, a cheap, unscrupulous mobster; George Tobias as Al Doyle, Nick's faithful side-kick; Ralph Peters, James Flavin and others.

Providing the comedy on this excellent bill is the modern comedy-romance "Never Say Goodbye", which stars Errol Flynn in a comedy role. It tells the mirth-filled tale of an estranged again after a year's separation, couple who fall in love all over. It boasts an important cast headed by love'y Eleanor Parker as Flynn's co-star and with Lucille Watson, S. Z. Sakall, little 8-year-old Patti Brady, Forrest Tucker and Donald Woods in supporting roles.

St. Leo's Preps for Football

1947 Situation Said Precarious

With but three full months left before the football season will open for training, coach Andy McGillis is wrestling with the $128.00 question confronting him, and that is what team or teams will the school be able to enter into competition. A couple of football meetings were held this week but even this did not throw much light on the subject. The Bantam set-up looks anything but promising, as only eight boys over a hundred pounds reported as candidates for football next Autumn. The Senior B picture is a little brighter but by no means a sure thing, as coach McGillis is plainly disgusted with the efforts of some of the boys to condition themselves for such a rugged game as football, and unless these boys show a willingness to prepare themselves before the brief training period starts early in September, then it is felt it would be a folly to expect them ready for heavy practice which precedes a ten-day light workout. St. Leo's with its small high school student enrolment, has never been in a more precarious position of dropping out of football than it is now. The Senior B football meeting produced enough names listed as candidates, but as the Academy coach pointed out "names are not enough, I must be convinced that these names represent boys who are willing to make sacrifices for the game in order that they will present themselves in good condition for the initial practice."

SPORT SHORTS:

St. Leo's will be well represented at the football rally at Sir Arthur Currie Memorial Gym tonight. Most of the Senior boys will be in attendance to hear Columbia University's noted coach, Lou Little.

The Pee Wee and Junior boxers closed their season with their own little show in the school hall last week. Nineteen bouts, all local affairs, comprised the card, and it produced two hours of interesting fistic action as these youngsters pulled no punches in their enthusiasm to impress. Francis Jago won the trophy for the best Pee Wee bout, and Bob Lafontaine earned a medal as the pick of the Juniors.

The cream of the winter crop of local school athletes were guests of honor at a luncheon last Saturday morning held at Eaton's store and under the direction of Eaton's Junior Council. A beautiful framed diploma recording their outstanding athletic achievements of the past season, was given to each boy. The popular Jimmy McCarthy was St. Leo's selection for the award, and he well deserved the honor for having led the school's Senior B hockey team to another City Senior B hockey championship. Jimmy received a similar

DOW AWARD GIVEN OTTAWA MILKMAN

Failure to put out empty milk bottles saved an Ottawa woman's life and won a milkman a Dow Award for bravery.

Gerald Sperberg, Ottawa division, The Borden Company, Ltd., noticed Mrs. J. A. Clark had neglected to put out any bottles. "I thought it was strange," said Sperberg, "as it was the first time in six years Mrs. Clark had failed to do so."

Opening the unlocked front door, Sperberg smelled gas. Rushing in he found Mrs. Clark unconscious in the kitchen. Carrying her to the open door, he called a doctor and police, who rushed her to Ottawa General Hospital.

Sperberg was chosen by a group of editors as worthy recipient of a citation and $100 Savings Bond.

AMATEUR AUTHORITIES BURLESQUE SPORT

Most Canadian fans are very much annoyed, we imagine, at the manner in which Barbara Ann Scott automobile gift incident was treated by the amateur authorities. One would think that Barbara Ann had got herself involved in a crooked professional wrestling deal, or had accepted a bribe to throw the next Olympic skating championship to the Ukrainians, judging from the fuss that has been kicked up over the honour that her native city bestowed upon her.

PICKING ON A NATIONAL HERO

But then amateur authorities generally are like that. They overlook the most obvious professionalism in some sports, and pick on a wholesome young girl whose exploits thrilled the whole country. It's quite all right for Canadian hockey players, for example, to go to England, sign an agreement to play hockey for an agreed sum of money, and then be permitted to play hockey for England and eventually take the world championship away from their native land. Everyone knows that truly amateur athletes with ability are as rare as broadminded amateur officials these days. But even so, one would have thought that Barbara Ann, of all people, would have been free from any accusation of professionalism. Only the most narrow-minded of people could see in that gift that the City of Ottawa gave her any suggestion of payment for her winning of the skating championship.

IS THIS AUTHORITY LEGAL?

The opinion has been expressed from time to time that these amateur officials are wielding a power over the activities and movements of people that is illegal. The case of George Dufresne comes to mind. George was a hockey player of considerable ability whose services were sought by professional and amateur clubs all over the east. He valued his freedom of movement and exercised it to the full, changing cities nearly every hockey season. One year he played in Boston, and the next year was to play in Sudbury. But the amateur authorities refused to give him a card, which would have barred him from playing, charging violation of the residence rule.

George was nobody's fool and promptly hired a lawyer. He haled the amateur authorities to court to show cause why he shouldn't be allowed to play anywhere and at any time he wished. The case went to trial, but the trial was never concluded. After the judge expressed the opinion that the power the amateur moguls were exercising might be unconstitutional, the case was settled out of court. Dufresne was given his card.

IT'S TIME THIS FARCE WAS DONE WITH

It's high time this entire amateur farce was wiped off the slate. The amateur authorities, either in this country or any other, are in no position to decide who is a simon-pure and who isn't, and their efforts to do so are just ludicrous at times.

Mr. Avery Brundage would do a lot better investigating the purity of some of his U.S. college football players instead of sticking his long nose all the way from California to Ottawa into the affairs of a young lady we all think a lot of.

UPSETS FEATURE RACING

They ran the Preakness at Pimlico, Maryland last Saturday, and for the second consecutive Saturday, the favourite didn't have enough to win the race. In the Kentucky Derby, Jet Pilot, second horse in the betting at 5-1, won the mile and a quarter race by a nose, edging out the favourite, Phalanx, in a photo finish. Last Saturday, Faultless, favoured only behind Phalanx and Jet Pilot, turned the tables by winning the mile and three-sixteenths race with On Trust second by a half a length. Close behind the California second placer came the favoured Phalanx, and then Jet Pilot, a badly-winded fourth, two lengths off at the wire.

And so, the mud horse, Jet Pilot, who seems to revel in the slippery going, ran out of the money only a week after his sensational victory that netted Mrs. Elizabeth Arden Graham, the horse's owner, $92,500.

However, neither of these races can be considered as a real test of form for the three year olds, as the Kentucky race and the Preakness are well short of the distance accepted as the best test for a young horse — a mile and a half.

BELMONT STAKES WILL BE BETTER TEST

The horses get a chance at this distance in the next of their races, the Belmont Stakes, run off at beautiful Belmont Race Track, near New York City. Once again, the favourite will likely be Phalanx, to be again ridden by wily Eddie Arcaro. This reminds us of last year, when in both the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness, Lord Boswell, also ridden by Arcaro was the favourite. Assault won both of these races and the experts finally condescended to give him top ranking in the Belmont Stakes, which he also won. There will be no triple crown winner this year, but in Faultless, Phalanx, On Trust, and Jet Pilot, are four of the most evenly matched three-year olds to ever run-in the same race. And so, they will be running over the mile and a half distance in the Belmont, and may the best horse win!

MUSIAL BEATS THE BALL FOR A CHANGE

The Cardinals' Stan Musial, most valuable National League player last year, came out of his 1947 slump with an in-the-park home run against the Giants at the Polo Grounds. Here he slides home just ahead of the ball (arrow). He led the league's hitters last year, but until he connected with this one was batting only 1.53 for the season. It didn't help the Cards, though; they lost, 4-3.

Yacht Champs Return From Sailing Win

Sun tanned and happy, the members of the Royal St. Lawrence Yacht Club, who won the International 14-foot dinghy team races off Bermuda in competition with crews representing the Essex Yacht Club of Connecticut and the Bermuda International 14-Foot Dinghy Association, arrived back in Montreal last Tuesday.

John Schwab, skipper and chairman of the Royal St. Lawrence Yacht Club sailing committee, his crew Dr. Bob Townsend, and Dick Stevenson, skipper and chairman of the Club's entertainment committee, his crew Ian MacLean, all expressed the pleasure they had in sailing at Bermuda, and were loud in their praises of the hospitality extended to them by the Bermudians.

As for the racing, they agreed that they had never encountered such keen sailors in all their world-wide experience of yacht racing. They reported that the Bermudians practically live for their sailing and have a wonderful opportunity to indulge in their favorite sport. Right at their front door they have ideal sailing conditions, although in one or two races the Canadians found the going fairly tough.

However, apparently the harder it blew the better the Lake St. Louis tars liked it, for, of course, their greatest success was scored in the first race when with well reefed sails they scored a first and second. This substantial lead they protected by excellent team tactics in the following two races to win the series by 25 1/4 points to the Bermudians 20 1/4 and the Americans 17 1/4.

Of the hospitality accorded them they could not speak too highly, for not only did the yachtsmen entertain them, but apparently everyone in Bermuda knew about their coming and put themselves out to see that the visitors had a good time.

Everyone of them expressed the hope that an opportunity would be afforded the Bermudians to sail on Lake St. Louis, for they felt certain that the members of the Royal St. Lawrence Yacht Club would welcome the opportunity of repaying in some little part at Dorval, the wonderful welcome their representatives had received on the Island. Of course they themselves would not be adverse to a return visit to Bermuda in the future.

Fish And Wild Life

R.C.M.P. Busy

With the return of migratory birds to Canada, the R.C.M.P. has its hands full these days patrolling sanctuaries in various sections of the province, to prevent so-called "sportsmen" from shooting the birds illegally in their mating season.

The hunting of birds in established sanctuaries is forbidden at all times but especially at this time, when shooting the birds, far from being a sport, is nothing more than a massacre, police officials are on hand.

Under the provisions of the Migratory Birds Act of Canada, numerous arrests in various parts of the province which have resulted in dozens of hunters facing court recently and being fined from $10 to $25, while their gear was confiscated.

Infractions have been committed mostly at Ile aux Hérons, St. Lawrence, Cap Tourmente and Anne de Beaupré, where birds aggregate on their last lap to the northern regions, Inspector Noël Carrois reported.

Important Changes

There are important changes in Quebec fishing regulations in 1947, which every angler must observe. In respect to all game fish, the possession limit is now one day's catch; not two day's bag, as formerly.

The minimum legal length of 15 inches and a daily bag limit of one fish or 30 pounds, has been set on Grey (Lake) trout; north of the St. Lawrence and Ottawa rivers, while there is no closed season on Northern Pike, there is a minimum size of 17 inches and a daily bag limit of 30 pounds. (This applies to rivers as Des Prairies and Mille Lacs which are north of the St. Lawrence.)

Fishing for Rainbow trout and Striped Pike (dore) opens on May 16; for smallmouth bass and Rock Bass on June 16, (except in the Ottawa River from Montreal to and including Lake Temiskaming, bass fishing opens on May 1.)

Taking a Beating

The Weather Man this year is a pessimist, so far as trout in Quebec waters are concerned. The fishing season for brown, brook, sea, Quebec red and (lake) trout opened at the earliest date of April 1. But fishing for these species through ice is prohibited, and lakes in reach of Montreal fishermen were still ice-locked until a few days ago.

Unless there is considerable rise in temperatures, it seems likely the majority of fishermen will not get out until mid-May or perhaps later, before making their first trip.

The majority of Montreal district fishermen seek speckled, Quebec red or grey trout. These fish are available in public waters, but not within 50 miles of the metropolis. Generally speaking, one must go beyond such points as Weir, Joliette and Ste. Agathe to find good trout fishing. But there are lakes and streams which will prove fruitful, if the fisherman does not mind walking over bush roads for perhaps a few miles to reach them.

New Crops To Try Lures Enthusiastic Experiment

Vegetables which have not been grown before offer, as the very least of their lures, horticultural adventures this spring. Some might turn out to be extremely good to eat and become permanent additions to the seed list.

Kohlrabi is easy to grow. This plant is an interesting one to watch, for its habit of growth is unlike that of any other crop in the vegetable patch. Seeds are sprinkled in a shallow drill in late April and the plants thinned to stand three inches apart. The kohlrabi itself, the edible part, forms a ball an inch or so up on the stem and the leaves circle out and up from this enlarged root. Plants grow about a foot high, so for general placement and spacing they are like carrots and beets. Kohlrabi is very good to eat raw or cooked.

Swiss chard, according to the nutrition expert, is most healthful when picked fresh. Seeds of this look like their relatives the beets and need to be sprinkled very sparingly — about one-half inch apart. The plants look a good deal like rhubarb and are usually about sixteen or eighteen inches high. They need not be pulled up entirely when the leaves are large enough to use. With a sharp knife the outside stems are cut off at ground level and the center left to grow. Thus cutting can be made from the same plant all summer. The leaves are most flavorful when they are young.

Tomatoes are usually a successful home-garden crop. Having gathered experience with the large varieties, one might like to try the small sorts. Cherry, pear and plum varieties are named according to their sizes and shapes. Seeds must be started indoors in March, but seedlings can be bought in late May from some nurserymen. Yellow types are also available. They need to be spaced about two feet apart each way. One pleasant way to use them is whole in salads.

Small Peppers

One plant of pimento pepper, the seed sown early like tomatoes or the seedling bought in May, will produce enough hot fruits for flavoring throughout this crop's August and September picking season. The seed is barely covered, kept moist and shaded until it sprouts and set in the garden with two-foot spacing in May.

Peanuts can be grown most years in the vicinity of New York. There is always the danger that frost will overtake them before the nuts have ripened, but the chances are quite good that this will not happen. Seed is sown in late April and the row covered with hot caps or newspaper tents. Seedlings are sheltered until the warm weather they prefer arrives.

Low-growing varieties are best for Northern gardens, and the six-inch plants make an attractive edging for the vegetable plot. Bright yellow flowers looking like small sweet peas, appear in summer. According to the peanut's

To-day's GARDEN-GRAPH

By DEAN BALLIDAY
Released by Central Press Canadian

If your garden pool has been uncovered and cleaned and water lilies planted, some thought should be given to the many miscellaneous plants which can be used to add bloom or foliage interest to it. Such plants, you will find, can be used to do double duty.

At this time, Marsh Marigolds can be potted up and set in the pool on a tile or bricks to bring them up to the desired height, as illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph. Their bright yellow flowers, incorrectly called Buttercup and Cowslip, will give the first gay note of color to the pool.

Since Marsh Marigolds are hardy perennials they can be taken from the pool and planted in the garden after they have finished blooming. Place them in a moist spot in partial shade. The following year they can again be brought to the pool at flowering time. Calla lilies can be handled in the same way. Another double purpose plant is the Cardinal Flower, whose brilliant red blooms will prove effective when displayed at the water's edge. It grows naturally along the banks of shady streams or in marshy places.

The umbrella plant, often called umbrella palm, is a splendid plant for both the house and at the shallow edge of the outdoor pool. This plant looks like a miniature group of palms, as illustrated. It can be potted and placed so that the edge of the pot is just at or above the water surface. In the fall, it can be taken indoors.

Cat-tails also are effective in pools where tall plants are desired. They spread rapidly and may become pests unless restricted in root-growth by being potted.

ostrichlike custom, "stems" from the flowers go under ground and the nuts are developed there. In late September plants are pulled up to reveal as many as one hundred peanuts on a single small plant. A cool, dry, airy place is the spot for them for several weeks before roasting. They are hung, spread out, to dry.

Pumpkins and watermelons, like peanuts, are not guaranteed to ripen in our climate, but many years they do manage it. Anyone who has grown cucumbers successfully has a good idea of what to do for these crops. Seeds are planted shallow in foot-wide hills that are spaced three feet apart. Plenty of fertilizer is put under each hill. As fruits begin to form, straw is spread on the ground around the vines. Comparatively new midget watermelons are good for this climate and for small families.

Kale is a good crop to put on the spring planning list if the aim is to extend the harvest season as much as possible. Although some kales are ready in midsummer, Blue Curled Scotch will last and can be picked for three months of cold weather, and Siberian is hardy enough to keep all winter. The flavor improves with frost, and many a gardener who thinks he dislikes this vegetable finds it much more flavorful once he has grown it properly himself and waited to harvest it until after frost has touched the leaves.

Kale seed is sown sparsely in drills one-quarter inch deep, and plants are later thinned to stand two feet apart. Three or four bushels can be harvested from a thirty-foot row. If plants are left in the ground over winter, they will send up new sprouts in spring.

Parsnip is another crop not often grown in home gardens, which tastes much better than the market product if it is harvested at the right time. Parsnips should be dug up after frost has touched the roots in late fall, or else left in the ground until early spring. Ones used in spring after mellowing in the earth all winter are the mildest kind of all.

Parsnip seed is grown about an inch apart, in deeply dug and enriched soil. When the seedlings are about four inches high, they are thinned to stand about a foot apart. The slowest plant in the vegetable patch, this crop must occupy its row all year before yielding a harvest.

Another crop to consider now is sorrel. If the plan for the vegetable patch shows any vacancies

Dr. Bunta Tells About Geniuses

Many people are perfectly willing to become geniuses if someone would kindly show them how. Scientists haven't yet developed a formula for this, but Dr. Emile Bunta, prominent Chicago neurologist, laid down a few hints the other day. And in so doing he rudely upset a lot of popular misconceptions about the origin of genius.

A genius reported Dr. Bunta, seldom transmits his or her special gifts to an offspring. Most geniuses are seldom born to non-genius parents.

Geniuses are seldom born into poor families. "The vast majority of men of genius seem to belong to the rich and middle classes," he observed.

It's a myth that life in some seacoast picture-book village or beautiful mountain retreat helps produce unusual mental powers. Cities, though drab, produce 13 times as many geniuses as the country.

You need not have an oversized brain. Its not size, but the nerve fibers, depth of cerebral convolutions and a number of gray cells that count.

Nor need any genius resort to liquor or drugs. It's a mistaken belief that they increase creative capacity. Addicts who have turned out great work had the ability to do so before they leaned on false crutches.

For any in doubt about their status, Dr. Bunta offered a list of what he considers the four chief hallmarks of genius. To strut your stuff in the genius league, he suggests, you must have:

1. Ability to produce new ideas, whether artistic, literary, scientific, philosophic or practical.

2. A complete disinterest in personal gain.

3. Achievements with both quality and permanency.

4. Worldwide appreciation of your work.

"Many persons rate high in two or even three of these essentials," Dr. Bunta said. "Only the rarest individuals rate high in all four."

"I believe that if 20,000 well-known leaders in the world were listed, true genius would be found in about one of them."

SAFE CONVALESCENCE

Pointing to the unnecessary prevalence of heart disease among people of comparatively early years, health authorities in Canada issue a warning against over-exertion, particularly during the period of convalescence from illness.

Heart disease in Canada is by no means confined to older people. It is far too common among the youngsters, and over-exertion is blamed.

After a serious illness, experts advise a medical examination to determine whether, and to what extent, the heart has been affected.

After a child has had a bout with rheumatic fever, diphtheria, measles or scarlet fever, parents are urged to have the child examined before being sent back to school or allowed to return to strenuous play activity.
