Scherzoso.*

In happier hours.

In hap= pier hours, my pleasure all day; Was to rove with the thoughtless or dance with the gay. Through life as I sported no clouds could I see; And the espress:

hearts that were gayest, were dearest to me: But now in af= fliction, how

2^d VERSE.

Though some come a-round us to laugh and to jest; In sickness, or sorrow, they shrink from the test; Their love and their friendship endure for a= while When Fortune is smiling, they al-so can smile. Like blossoms that wither when day-light is gone; And lose all their sweetness when
