Frogmen killed diving

AVALON, Calif. (AP)—Two British skindivers lost their lives Monday in an attempt to set a record diving with conventional frogman gear.

One diver, Christ Whittaker, 22, of London, was lost when he tried to repair a faulty hatch on a diving bell that had taken two men to a depth of 1,000 feet.

A few hours after the bell had surfaced, one of the two men who went down in it, Peter Small, 35, also of London, died aboard the hospital ship USS Haven.

Small and Swiss mathematician Hannes Keller, 28, were brought to the surface in their diving bell, but both were reported unconscious for a time.

The pair were kept in the bell for the two-hour boat trip back to Long Beach naval shipyard where they were hurried to a recompression chamber. But doctors, noting the men's condition, took them to the hospital ship instead.

TEST NEW MIXTURE

Keller, who had hoped to demonstrate that man can manoeuvre deep under the ocean by breathing a secret mixture of gases he had blended, was reported in fair condition.

Bell and Keller were lowered one mile north of Avalon harbor, Santa Catalina Island, about 20 miles off the California coast. The ship was the drilling vessel Eureka, loaned to the men for the dive by Shell Oil Company.

The two divers in the bell descended to 1,000 feet and a television camera observed that one of them stuck his foot out of the hatch in the bottom of the bell and then withdrew it. The men then signalled the ship to haul them up.

When the bell was at a depth of about 200 feet, Whittaker and skindiver Dick Anderson of Gardena, Calif., jumped into the water to help guide the bell back to surface.

The men inside the bell signalled that the bell's bottom hatch was leaking. Whittaker, in his first dive, attempted to repair the hatch, but had to surface with a bleeding nose.

Questions resolution

Council rapped by Liquor Board on tavern stand

A letter from the Quebec Liquor Board questioning the validity of the city council decision taken last week that no more tavern permits be issued in the city of Sherbrooke was read before the council Monday night.

By JAMES DAVIES
(Record staff reporter)

The letter, signed by the Liquor Board President Lucien Dugas, said that the city council could not take a general resolution on the matter of the issuance of tavern permits, but rather that each individual application should be considered on its own merits.

Only in this manner could the council then protest the issuing of the permit to an applicant.

Furthermore all reasons for the protest must be specified by the council, said the letter.

The reason for the note from the Quebec Liquor Board to the council was the resolution passed by the municipal body last week to the effect that no more tavern permits should be issued in the city.

The question of tavern permits was first introduced to the council by Mayor Armand Nadeau at the regular meeting of the municipal body last week.

At this time, Mayor Nadeau asked that the council

Hotel keepers laud council's resolution

City council last night received a letter from the Hotel Keepers of Sherbrooke Inc., congratulating its members on the resolution that they had taken last week to issue no more tavern permits in the city of Sherbrooke.

The letter, signed by the association president Claude Genest, and representing 11 of 14 member hotels, expressed from various prominent businessmen, the clergy and other organizations in the city urging that the council take a stand on the issuing of more tavern licenses in Sherbrooke.

Backing the Mayor's suggestion that no more tavern permits be issued were Aldermen Felix Thibault and Alderman Carl Camirand.

Alderman Antonio Pinard and Ald. Everett Nicol requested that the mayor make known the names of those who had protested, but no names were forthcoming.

Mayor Nadeau said last week that he had received protests

Government filibuster claimed

Parliament has one of its better days; whips through five pieces of legislation

OTTAWA (CP)—In one of its most productive days of the session, the Commons Monday whipped five pieces of government legislation through various stages. A Liberal front-bencher indicated production would have been even better if the government hadn't staged a filibuster for the last hour of the night sitting.

"An unfair suggestion," said government House Leader Gordon Churchill after Lionel Chevrier (L—Montreal Laurier) said it was "unfortunate" that business had bogged down on a filibuster.

Half a dozen Conservative supporters along with several from opposition parties, had spoken on a government bill to amend the Coal Production Assistance Act.

Other Liberal members said later outside the Commons it was obvious the government had no other legislation ready for the night session if the coal bill had been cleaned up before adjournment at 10 p.m.

The bill, which received second reading just before the House rose, would allow easier repayment of loans given to assist the movement of coal. The basic act would not be substantially modified.

Prior to this, the government's transportation policy—which a New Democratic Party member said was bankrupt—was given a roasting by opposition spokesmen.

Before Transport Minister Balcer told members that the government is preparing legislation to settle the financial problems of the CNR and the CPR for "a long time," he had been told the government was "weak-kneed" and "spineless" in its failure to formulate a sound transportation policy.

Frank Howard (NDP—Skeena), who used the terms, said the government sticks its head in the sand like an ostrich and hopes its transportation problems will disappear.

Under debate was a resolution to extend provisions of the Freight Rates Reduction Act from April 30 this year to April 30, 1963. The act involves a $20,000,000 annual railway subsidy to hold back a freight rate increase.

The government is bankrupt of transportation policies, charged Douglas Fisher (NDP—Port Arthur). There had been nothing but confusion for five years, and he wondered whether he could support the measure without being given a statement by the transport minister on government policy.

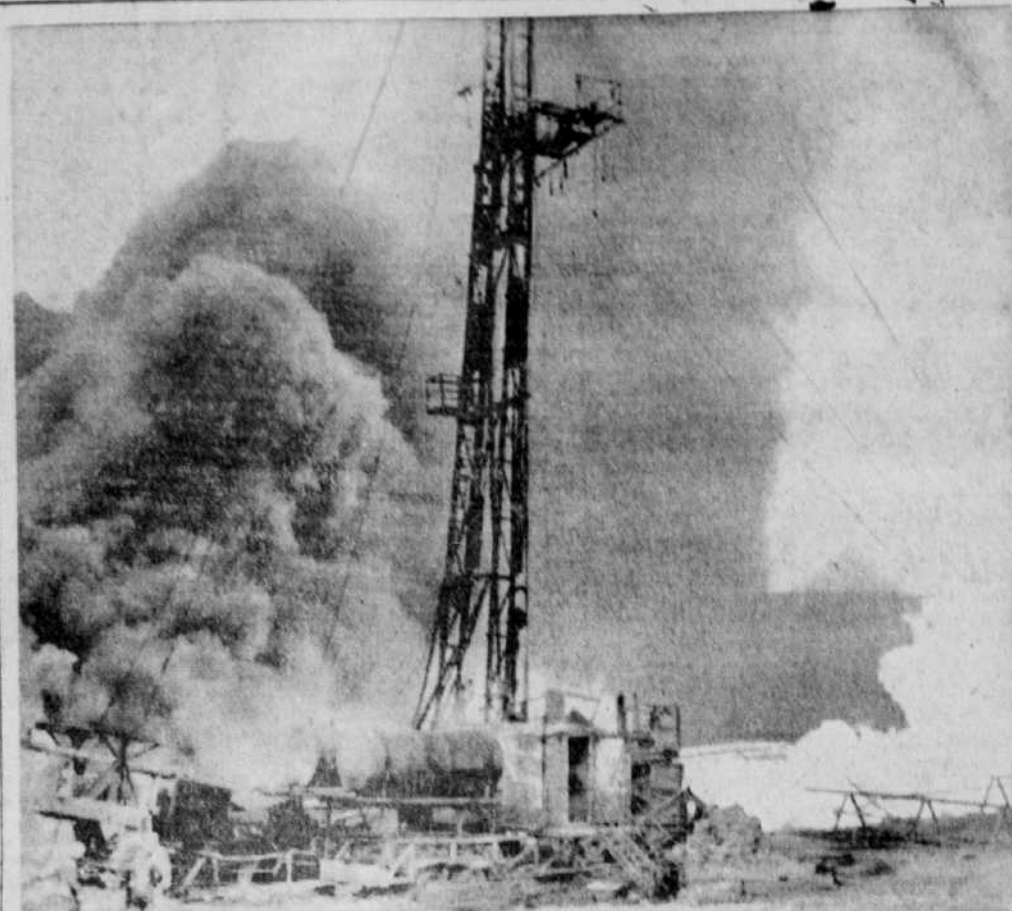

Mr. MacRae said the government had advised farmers to store their potatoes until the price improves. Long-range prospects were good because of crop deficiencies in central Canada and the United States.

Some growers already were getting 95 cents a bag for their shipments.

He contended a $1 minimum would tend to encourage speculators and keep the winter price at that level. Without it the law of supply and demand could be

Begins negotiations

Adenauer seeks coalition

BONN (Reuters)—West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer today began negotiations aimed at securing a coalition between his Christian Democratic Party and the opposition Social Democrats.

A Social Democratic spokesman said Adenauer asked the Social Democrats to bring a full negotiating commission to the talks to meet his own Christian Democratic commission. But the Social Democrats sent only three men — party Chairman Erich Ollenhauer, Deputy Chairman Herbert Wehner and Fritz Erler, deputy chairman of the parliamentary party.

Observers said the 86-year-old chancellor's attempt to seek an alliance with the Social Democrats, his inveterate Socialist enemy, was a remarkable twist in his political career at a time of serious threat to his personal leadership brought on by the Der Spiegel affair.

The West German news agency DPA said Adenauer would meet Socialist leaders, including West Berlin Mayor Brandt, for a first "informative" talk on coalition possibilities.

After this meeting he has arranged to see members of the smaller Free Democrat Party (FDP), with which his party maintained a coalition until five Free Democratic ministers resigned from the cabinet.

The mass resignation was a move to force the ouster of Defence Minister Franz-Josef Strauss for his part in government action against the news magazine Der Spiegel, accused of treason by obtaining defence secrets.

Christian Democratic sources said first soundings of the Social Democrats—the country's second biggest party which has not had a taste of power in the 13-year life of the federal republic—revealed a basis for discussion on a wide range of topics.

The Social Democrats, in the past labelled a "national disaster" by Adenauer, were believed ready to support his leadership and leave the question of his successor to the Christian Democrats. Basic agreement on foreign, finance and defence policies also seemed attainable.

Patronage, potatoes hold PEI spotlight

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP) — Patronage, potatoes and promises held the spotlight Monday as the Prince Edward Island election campaign approached the home stretch.

Liberal Leader Alex Matheson accused Premier Walter Shaw's Conservative government of ruining the province by "payments to friends" and failure to call tenders for all public works projects.

He nailed another plank to the Liberal platform by promising potato growers a floor price of $1 a bag on bulk sales between Dec. 15, five days after the election, and March 15.

Government spokesmen were quick to reply. Provincial treasurer Melvin McQuaid said the only financial mess he knows anything about is "the one the Liberals left us when we assumed office in September, 1959."

Agriculture Minister Andrew MacRae termed the potato price-support scheme, "a ridiculous vote-getting promise" that would keep prices down rather than up.

URGES BOLD FACTION

Mr. Matheson, in announcing the potato plan, said the current price of about 75 cents for a 75-pound bag is less than the cost of production. "We believe that bold, imaginative action is required on the part of the government to provide the necessary spur to potato prices."

Mr. MacRae said the government has advised farmers to store their potatoes until the price improves. Long-range prospects were good because of crop deficiencies in central Canada and the United States.

Some growers already were getting 95 cents a bag for their shipments.

He contended a $1 minimum would tend to encourage speculators and keep the winter price at that level. Without it the law of supply and demand could be invited.

Bows out of federal field

By CUTHBERT JONES
(Record staff writer)

Jean Jacques Bertrand, Union Nationale MLA for Missisquoi, has formally bowed out of the federal political field with a statement at his Sweetburg home this weekend that he did not think he could leave the provincial field unless circumstances were "truly exceptional."

Thus he apparently disposed of reports emanating from Ottawa to the effect that he would enter the federal cabinet and become first lieutenant for Prime Minister Diefenbaker in Quebec province.

During an interview he declared that he had never been approached "officially, semi-officially or otherwise, by any federal Conservative of any sort with regard to the possibility of joining the federal cabinet as a Diefenbaker chief lieutenant or in any other capacity."

"Can I be more emphatic and clear-cut than that," he asked. On his possible reaction if such an offer were made, Mr. Bertrand said:

"I cannot see how I could readily switch to federal politics when I have made my whole career in provincial politics; after all, I have just been re-elected again with a definitely provincial mandate."

Then he added his qualification "unless circumstances were truly exceptional," outlining his idea of truly exceptional circumstances as:

"The man who would accept such an appointment would have to be given a really prestigious cabinet post, not a figurehead job as is usually the case for French-Canadians."

"He would have to have a real say in the development of policies and their implementation. Again, the people should be made to understand that this cabinet minister is not just a figurehead."

"We French Canadians cannot content ourselves with crumbs anymore. English and French Canadians must work out a real partnership, for the Indians claimed fired on

CP from Reuters-AP

NEW DELHI—Prime Minister Nehru said today the Chinese Communists had fired on Indian stragglers on several occasions in the Northeast Frontier Agency since the cease-fire announced by China Nov. 21, but there had been no casualties.

Nehru was asked after his announcement of the Chinese firing if any instructions had been given to Indian personnel not to open fire after the cease-fire, and if so, whether the stragglers had observed these instructions despite the Chinese "provocation."

The prime minister said there was no question of the government giving any instructions. He said it was open to Indian troops to defend themselves when attacked.

Another questioner asked if these Chinese actions did not betray the "deception involved in their so-called unilateral cease-fire" announced by China Nov. 21.

The controversial 66-year-old named five times Canada's newest woman, Monday won another two-year term in city hall with an increased, 6,000-vote margin over the same man she beat out in 1960.

In her hour of victory over two male opponents, she chanted these lines to the tune of Old Man River:

"She don't plant ballots and she's not forgotten Old Mayor Charlotte just keeps rolling along."

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Vatican sources said today that Pope John, steadily recovering from a stomach ailment and serious anemia, might be able to resume holding audiences Monday.

The 81-year-old pontiff was reported to have left his bed this morning to pray in his private chapel. He also did some work at a desk in his room. He watched the morning's session of the ecumenical council over a TV circuit from St. Peter's Basilica.

Eugene Samson, district fire chief, said the woman had died of asphyxiation on the third floor of the building. Her body was found by firemen at 6:20 a.m., little more than an hour after the fire was brought under control by 130 firemen.

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto's era of Nathan Phillips ended Monday night in a landslide of mayoralty votes for Donald Summerhille, 47-year-old controller and advocate of business-like civic government.

After an unprecedented eight years in office, the 70-year-old mayor, known far and wide for whooping up publicity for his city but under fire from opponents for easy-going administration, was snowed under by a plurality of more than two to one.

About Television

BY CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Writer Jerome Ross reworked the same naval episode of 1842 that led Herman Melville to write his classic Billy Budd to make Sunday night's NBC show of the week, Mutiny.

It was the story of a 17-year-old apprentice seaman who was executed for fomenting mutiny aboard a training ship.

But where Melville made his book a sort of psychological morality tale exploring the many faces of evil, Ross converted the episode into a psychiatric exploration.

In Philip Cantrell, Jr., the young apprentice (well-played by Robert Walker), we had a senator's son, disobedient, scheming and—obviously from the outset—deeply disturbed. In other words, a juvenile delinquent.

In the end, however, the fascinating build-up led only to let-down. In good, traditional television style, it turned out the boy was not really executed, but stumbled overboard into the sea. And that he wasn't really a bad boy—just a sick one. Melville never would have settled for such a watered-down windup.

W. Shefford fire

Bus and garage destroyed

WEST SHEFFORD — (Special) — Fire destroyed a school bus and a garage and threatened a nearby home here early Monday morning.

The fire destroyed a garage owned by Eugene Lequin on the main road and a Central School bus.

Cause of the fire is unknown but it is believed that it started on the greasing rack while the garage men were working on the school bus. The fire is believed to have begun by a cigarette of a garageman or from a spark.

Damage to the garage is estimated at over $5,000. The garage was partly insured.

Firemen from Granby were called in to fight the blaze when it threatened the house of Mr. Lequin which is about ten feet from the garage.

West Shefford's volunteer firemen and Granby firemen were able to save the home, however, which suffered only a few fire blisters.

No one was injured in the blaze.

QPP to patrol highways

Staff-Sgt. Ralph Allen, head of the Quebec Provincial Police sub-headquarters in Sherbrooke, said Monday special highway patrols will be on duty throughout this week and weekend during Safe Driving Week.

"We will have extra highway patrols, and car safety checks during the week," Staff-Sgt. Allen said.

He said "police officers have been notified to help enforce safe driving, especially where school children are concerned, by being on the lookout for drivers who attempt to pass stopped school buses, and by checking motorists speed in school safety zones."

Dr. Glass in Montreal

Youth more responsible, rational than their pre-war counterparts

MONTREAL — (CP) — Dr. Ogden Glass, principal and vice-chancellor of Bishop's University, said Monday Canadian youth "are more responsible, more genuinely interested in cultural affairs and more rational than were their counterparts" before the Second World War.

"While they may seem more exhibitionist in their conduct than we were," Dr. Glass told the Canadian Club, "the best of them are better than we were, and the poorer certainly no worse."

Because of this "there is no need for discouragement, but there is a pressing need for acceleration" of the progress made in education.

Dr. Glass said both public and independent school systems "have their advantages... they should exist side by side, complementary and competitive, undisturbed by petty quarrels which tend to sap our common strength."

"Undoubtedly they are competitive, but surely this is an advantage. No one system can pretend to perfection, and it is in the very lack of competition that the greatest weakness of any autocratic system lies."

He said one issue between the two systems "involves whether a person should be permitted to pay for the education of his children at the secondary level or be compelled in the interests of so-called democracy to take what the state provides."

"This strikes me as degeneration of democratic theory... because it constitutes a threat to the prestige of excellence in society generally, and that is no service to anybody. My point is that the state should not be permitted to pay for the education of his children at the secondary level or be compelled in the interests of so-called democracy to take what the state provides."

Ex-Chief Paquin appealed to Quebec under new municipalities legislation, but the town contended he was not "fired" and therefore could not appeal his firing.

"It has been postponed many times by the lawyers' mutual request," said Judge Sheehan, "but I understand it will be open Thursday at 11 a.m. At that time we will render our ruling on the objection of the town that this was not a case for an appeal. Depending on that decision, the case will proceed or be dismissed."

Ald. Gervais protests decision

To poll owners on water question

Sherbrooke council has decided that cards should be mailed to property owners asking them to indicate their preference between two methods of providing Sherbrooke with water.

Alderman J. M. Jeanson made the suggestion at the regular meeting of the city council Monday night.

The two plans from which the property owners will be given the choice are that the city draw water from the Magog River and have it purified in a municipality built filtration plant or that the city pump water from the Lake Memphrémagog by pipeline into the city reservoirs.

Along with this card will be sent an accompanying note detailing cost of both projects.

During discussions on the matter, Alderman Paul Gervais opposed this procedure and stated, "I feel that the city council is shirking its responsibility in not making the decision."

"After all," he continued, "we have each received reports from the experts who have given serious and detailed study on the projects and the population has not received the expert information that we have."

"In this instance, how do you expect them to be in a position to make the proper selection when they have not been supplied with all the facts, as we have?"

"If we are to let them decide the matter, then we must also provide each and every one of them with the detailed reports that have been compiled, otherwise, through no fault of their own, they will not be qualified to make the choice."

"I suggest that the only question to be submitted to the public is whether or not they want purified water and then we should accept our responsibility and make the selection of which system is to be employed, if the decision is to be made at all."

Supreme Court ruling for Montreal

Coin wash firms obliged to close Sunday

Despite the determined efforts of certain aldermen, the Sherbrooke council Monday night decided that all coin washer firms operating in Sherbrooke are a must close Sunday.

Council gave the reply to an operator of such an establishment, Eugene MacDonald, Monday night after they received a letter from a lawyer in Montreal stating that the Supreme Court had ruled that similar establishments must close in the Montreal area on Sunday.

Council had earlier decided to seek the advice of the Montreal lawyer concerning the situation regarding these coin wash firms in Montreal and then reply to Mr. MacDonald.

Among those opposing the decision taken by the council was North Ward Alderman Everett Nicol who said that "if it is a good thing for the people, then why not allow the establishments to remain open."

"Is it any different from the bowling alleys and car washes that operate on Sunday?" he said.

Alderman Paul Gervais was in agreement with Mr. Nicol on the matter.

Alderman Pinard said that he had no objections to the coin wash establishments remaining open on Sunday but added that they should cease operations during the hours of Mass.

Alderman Savard proposed that the city order the establishments to remain closed on Sunday and added "It's a business, therefore I want it closed."

The motion was seconded by Alderman Marcel Jeanson who in the past also has objected to the operation of laundrettes on Sundays.

Mr. MacDonald who appeared at the City Hall Monday night had visited the council on several previous occasions after he had been ordered by the city to close his establishments on Sunday or face the legal consequences.

His coin wash establishments had been operating in Sherbrooke for over one and one half years at the time of his receipt of the letter.

Mr. MacDonald had expressed surprise at the city action. He claimed that prior to the construction of his coin wash places in Sherbrooke, he had spoken to Mayor Nadeau on the matter and received his personal assurances that he had no objection to the establishments operating on Sundays.

According to Mr. MacDonald, stated his stand on the question when it was discussed before the council at the meeting one week ago, but voiced no opinion on the matter Monday evening.

According to Mr. MacDonald several hundred requests have been made to him by people laundrettes, asking him why he did not open his establishments on Sunday.

LAND SURVEY IS APPROVED

Lennoxville Town Council Monday night approved in principle a suggestion by town engineer L. G. Carignan that a topographical plan of the town be made and purchased at a cost of $2,300.

Council approved the proposal on the condition that Bishop's College School and Bishop's University agree to share the cost of the plan in proportion to their respective holdings.

Mayor Ernest Gilbey, who backed the proposal, explained to council that the expansion program at Bishop's College

School had earlier prompted B.S.U. to inquire into the cost of a survey for their own purposes.

Council felt that sometime in the future, Bishop's University would also require the same description of its property.

The survey would be made by Photographic Survey's (Quebec) Ltd. Starting with an aerial survey the company would prepare a plan showing the actual location of existing buildings, the contour of the land and the contour of the land at five-foot intervals.

Alderman Archie Mitchell, chairman of water works, told council members that the project was definitely worthwhile.

"It was the modern way of doing planning and if the project can be fitted into next year's budget I think it is worth doing."

Mayor Gilbey urged council to give the survey due consideration. "With three parties splitting the cost it would save us all some money," he said.

"It is up to us to give future councils the best possible guidance we can," he said.

Alderman Mitchell reminded council that a ground survey of equal price would only cover a very small part of the town.

"A good survey of the town of Lennoxville is going to be needed in the near future anyway," Alderman Mitchell remarked.

Council is not to take steps to determine if BCS and Bishop's University are willing to co-operate in the matter.

Twenty-six tickets were issued for motor offences during the month.

According to provincial law and to regulations adopted by many Eastern Townships communities last year, motorists may not pass a stationary school bus from either direction.

Bomber burned

LONDON (AP) — A Vulcan bomber ground-testing the mill rate for the projected British-French supersonic Concord airliner caught fire and burned up Friday. The wrecked plane had cost $2,800,000.

Lennoxville orders crack down on school bus law infractions

Lennoxville's Mayor Ernest Gilbey has issued instructions to members of the municipal police force to crack down on motorists passing stopped school buses.

Mayor Gilbey ordered the crack down after Alderman Hugh Brown, chairman of the police and fire committee, told council in his November report that three motorists had been fined for passing school stop signs.

According to provincial law and to regulations adopted by many Eastern Townships communities last year, motorists may not pass a stationary school bus from either direction.

"This is a law which will be rigidly imposed in this town," said the Mayor.

In his monthly report, Alderman Brown reported police answering 17 calls and investigating 12 accidents. He also reported that the police car, involved in an accident last month, had an estimated $700 damage.

Twenty-six tickets were issued for motor offences during the month.

Taxes are unchanged

Lennoxville town council passed by laws 218 and 220 Tuesday night setting the mill rate for the municipality for the coming year at 14 mills general and 8½ mills farm lands. The mill rate is unchanged from previous years. Rental tax is 5 per cent and poll tax $2 per person. The garbage removal tax, fixed at a set rate at an earlier date is $6 per family.

Council, Tuesday night, also passed a resolution to collect school taxes within the municipality for the Protestant School Commission. The mill rate is 21½ mills general and 3½ mills special tax.

Lennoxville Council Tuesday night approved payment of $17,300 to contractor Dorilas Grenier for work done to date on the reservoir.

Council tabled a request from the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals for $56 to cover the cost of caring or disposing of 56 animals picked up in Lennoxville during the past year.

The president of the SPCA

Sherbrooke council Monday night decided that a commission in intra-town planning be formed consisting of the mayor of Sherbrooke and representatives of the communities surrounding the city.

The purpose of the commission will be to study and regulate matters of zoning and urbanism that affect two or more of the members towns.

Director of City Services Charles Langlois was authorized by the council to proceed with the formation of such a committee following the adoption of the motion by Alderman Antonio Pinard.

Mr. Langlois will contact the mayors of these municipalities in an attempt to form the committee.

Safe driving an individual concern

Provincial safety groups, industry, business, governments, police departments, the clergy and the legal profession are among the many groups which have joined forces to promote Safe-Driving Week this week.

Despite their efforts, the Canadian Highway Safety Council, which is instrumental in sponsoring this coast-to-coast endeavor, fears that 50 people will die on the roads and streets in Canada.

The Eastern Townships has already contributed to this figure when one person was killed as the result of an accident in Coaticook Saturday night, the day the week was inaugurated.

Although the estimate is less than the average of 77 deaths for this time of the year and less than the seven year average for Safe-Driving Week of '53, the loss of even one human life is deplorable and cannot be viewed as a simple statistic.

Traffic safety officials believe that of Canada's 6,500,000 motorists, less than 500,000 are involved in accidents or law infractions each year. As W. Arch Bryce, executive director of the council, noted "these are the people we must convert and convince."

In a plea for good driving and good walking, another official remarked, "If you can go for a week without an accident or an infraction of the traffic regulations, you can do it for a year."

A car check up is the first step in assuring that all mechanical conditions are favorable for safe driving. Car lights, ignition, exhaust system, horn, windshield, rear window glass, windshield wipers, heater, brakes and tires should be examined.

Just as a car must be in top working order, so should a motorist be in prime physical condition and alert at all times when at the wheel.

The tendency toward smaller autos has eased the strain on pedestrians.

To arm or not to arm our Bomarc

The government has come under increasingly heavy fire during the past few weeks for its non-nuclear policy. Criticism — both expert and partisan — has centred on the government's refusal so far to arm our Bomarc missile bases with anything more lethal than sand.

Since the Cuban crisis, criticism has revolved mainly around two considerations:

- It is obvious that the missiles cannot be armed with adequate speed in the event of a deterioration in the world situation, as the Diefenbaker forces have said they might be. If the Cuban affair had blown wide open, any nuclear war would have been over long before the first nuclear warhead for our Bomarc had even crossed the border from the United States.

- Only a nuclear warhead will do the job the Bomarc are designed to do. They are short range weapons which are supposed to knock out manned bombers. A nuclear explosion will destroy both a bomber and its nuclear payload without setting off a large nuclear explosion. A conventional payload will only destroy the bomber. Its nuclear device will explode

France develops new taxation plan

Hungry Canadian tax collectors, especially at the federal level, reportedly are eyeing with envy a new tax originated recently in France — the home of the income tax. Known as the value-added tax, it applies at the manufacturing and wholesale levels and according to observers is enormously productive and is easily collected.

Basically the French impost is based on the difference between the price a concern receives for its products and the amount it pays for raw materials. For instance, if a manufacturer charges a dealer $1,000 for an article in which raw materials represented an outlay of $400, the dealer is required to pay a tax on $600. When the dealer sells the article, he charges the tax on the full retail price, less the cost of raw materials. From this he retains the tax he was charged by the manufacturer and remits the balance to the government.

Proponents of the added value tax claim it has several important advantages over the present manufacturers sales tax as levied in Canada and which supposedly it would replace if adopted here.

The chief argument for the tax is that it would provide greater revenue at less cost to the consumer. The Canadian sales tax is incorporated in the price of the article at the manufacturing level and all customary profit write-ups are based on the producer's price plus tax. As a result, the consumer might well pay an additional $50 for an article on which the government receives only $15 or $20 in tax revenue. The added value tax is a form of direct taxation, the entire proceeds of which go to the government in theory at least.

But in Canada it must be essentially a federal tax, as its imposition by a provincial or municipal government would place an undue burden on producers in a particular area.

Some observers claim this added value tax is one of the sources of France's remarkable activity. A sign of its effectiveness is that tax collections in France amount to 33.3 per cent of the gross national product as compared to 24.5 per cent in Canada.

Other papers say:

Austerity program risky vote issue

Finance Minister Nowlan's fear of the adverse effect which a general election in the near future might have on the country's finances should not be dismissed as merely a political manoeuvre to keep his party in office, although no one believes Mr. Nowlan so naive as to have failed to take that aspect of his stand into consideration.

We agree that, on one issue, it would not only be poor politics but bad statesmanship to defeat the government — that is, over the method and necessity of imposing and continuing in effect the austerity measures of June 24 when Parliament was not in session. Equally, we cannot agree that an election fought on other issues would necessarily damage the country's financial position.

Specifically, what Mr. Nowlan objected to in the House of Commons were the Liberal and NDP claims that the government's subsequent failure to seek parliamentary approval for import surcharges (the major and most contentious emergency financial measure) violated the right of Parliament to impose taxes. Correctly, the Finance Minister feels that debate over the surcharges might leave the implication outside Canada that the austerity program was ill-advised and should be discarded.

It should be remembered that loss of confidence in the Canadian dollar, reflected in increasingly rapid depletion of our exchange reserves, was responsible for the pegging and devaluation of the dollar and the later measures of June 24. These government actions were, in part at least, dictated by the International Monetary Fund, and the central bankers of Britain and the United States, in return

Only two men appear to be left

Davie Fulton leaving Ottawa; Diefenbaker succession is open

OTTAWA — (TNS) — With scholarly Davie Fulton quitting federal politics, the list of potential successors to Rt. Hon. John Diefenbaker as Progressive Conservative leader appears now to have narrowed to two men.

The two: Trade Minister George Hees, 52, of Toronto. Premier Duff Roblin, 45, of Manitoba.

The Prime Minister, now 67, has given no indication as to when he may decide to call it a day and step aside in favor of a younger man. But when that time comes, Mr. Hees and Mr. Roblin will be very much in the running.

Another possible candidate may be Justice Minister Donald Fleming, 57, who made a bid for the leadership in 1956. That was the year the convention selected Mr. Diefenbaker. Mr. Fleming placed second and Mr. Fulton, who is now seeking to carve out a new career in British Columbia, was third.

That Mr. Fleming still harbors leadership ambitions is no secret. But many Conservatives seem to feel the main contest will be between Mr. Hees and Mr. Roblin.

Will Mr. Fulton return someday to federal politics? "I won't anticipate what may happen 10 to 12 years ahead," he replied, smiling. "Right now my main task, if chosen provincial leader in B.C., will be to form the next government there."

The decision by Mr. Fulton to turn his back on the federal scene came as a surprise, even though it had been rumored on various occasions. Unquestionably he was one of the more able men in the federal cabinet, giving the government both energy and efficiency.

He was one of the crop of World War II veterans who left the battlefields in Europe after the fighting ended to fight on the political front at home. Among them were Lieut.-Col. Cecil Merritt, VC, of Vancouver; Lieut.-Col. Harkness of Calgary; and Major John Bassett of Sherbrooke, Que.

It was in Italy in 1944 when Mr. Fulton, a young major of the Seaforth Highlanders of Canada, opened a letter from a friend back in Kamloops. It read:

"Some of us here have been wondering if you would be prepared to consider accepting the Conservative nomination in the next federal election."

Reading on, the officer came to:

"We hope you don't mind, but as a matter of fact we nominated you at a meeting last night."

And so Edmund Davie Fulton, 38, lawyer, Rhodes Scholar and a member of a long line of Canadian politicians, himself was in politics.

Shortly after VE Day he flew home, ran a short, sharp campaign and was elected to Parliament by a scant 177 votes. When he first appeared in the Commons, veteran politicians saw a six-foot, 180-pound man with a pompadour of reddish-blond hair and a quiet disarming manner.

POLITICAL FAMILY
He was written off by some as just another bright young lawyer — Rhodes Scholar who, perhaps, had an inflated idea of his own importance.

But Prime Minister Mackenzie King soon spotted genius and talent in his keen, bright eyes, outburst jaw and determination to put across his point. He predicted during a debate one day that Mr. Fulton would go far, "perhaps be Prime Minister of Canada some day."

The Fulton family roots go deep in British Columbia, and that's another reason why he decided to take a fling at provincial politics.

"It's traditional for a Fulton to be mixed up in British Columbia in some way," he grinned.

His father, Frederick John Fulton, served in the cabinet of Sir Richard McBride from 1901 to 1909. His grandfather, A.E.B. Davie, and his grand uncle, Theodore Davie, were Premiers from 1887 to 1889 and 1892 to 1895 respectively.

An uncle, C. F. Davie, was speaker of the legislature.

Although Mr. Fulton's name in recent years was frequently mentioned for the B.C. leadership, few believed he had any intention of going, up to recent weeks. He always wrote off such speculation as "idle talk."

But of late he had been under strong pressure to return to his home province to contest the No. 1 post.

It was well known that Mr. Fulton has not been entirely happy in the federal cabinet over the past year. This became even more apparent when, in August, he was shifted from the prestige post of Justice Minister to what is regarded as the secondary portfolio of Public Works Minister.

Reports for some time have suggested that he and the Prime Minister have not seen eye-to-eye on a number of matters, among them the Columbia River power project. As chief negotiator for the federal government, Mr. Fulton was charged with the responsibility of getting Premier W. A. C. Bennett to accept Ottawa's terms so the treaty could be ratified.

POLITICAL FOOTBALL
Mr. Bennett has used the project as a political football, much to Ottawa's annoyance. So far he has refused to agree to the federal government's terms.

Mr. Fulton's political intimacy with the Prime Minister was first seriously strained during the 1959 Newfoundland loggers' strike. As Justice Minister, Mr. Fulton was responsible for the RCMP. Premier Joey Smallwood appealed to Ottawa for RCMP reinforcements. They had reached Sydney, N.S., when they were suddenly recalled.

For loans of some $650,000, 000 to bolster our precarious low reserves.

The immediate concerns at that time were to build up the exchange fund to its former level and to restore international confidence in the dollar. The first goal largely has been reached, as can be seen in the gain of more than one billion dollars in reserves within the last five months.

But the restoration of confidence, being a more intangible and longer-term factor, is uncertain. For that reason, we believe it would be un-

Reports at the time said that the Prime Minister, over the protests of Mr. Fulton, ordered the RCMP to return to their bases. As a result, Commissioner Leonard Nicholson resigned.

But Mr. Fulton looks back on his five and one-half years in the ministry, he says, with particular pride on several pieces of federal legislation.

One was the revision of the Penitentiaries Act which climaxed the program of penal reform he launched soon after becoming Justice Minister. Another was the enactment of the Bill of Rights.

COMICS CRUSADE
One of his best-known crusades when a private MP in Opposition was that of the "crime comics." So forceful was he in this campaign that the St. Laurent Liberal government made the unusual concession of allowing an Opposition member to have what he wanted. Legislation was introduced to check the sale of this type of literature.

Another high point in his career was his performance in the Pipeline debate in 1956. He and Stanley Knowles, CCF parliamentary expert, led a concerted attack on the government. For days the two, through skilful interpretation of the rules, were able to hold up passage of the controversial legislation.

"It has been an interesting 17 years," he says. "I'm going to miss it as well as my friends and my associations. But there's a big job to be done in British Columbia."

Mr. Fulton is married to Patricia Mary MacRae, daughter of J. M. and Mrs. MacRae of Winnipeg. A Roman Catholic, he has three daughters.

Of her husband's decision to enter provincial politics Mrs. Fulton says:

"I always knew that someday he would go back home."

Antarctic becomes popular spot

CHRISTCHURCH, N.Z. (CP) — The Antarctic, long regarded as the last unexplored frontier, is rapidly becoming civilized. No longer is it the exclusive preserve of hardy explorers.

The southern summer now approaching will see bases on the polar continent thronged with cabinet ministers, parliamentarians, scientists, university students, reporters, and sightseeing notables in great variety.

Visitors will even include 84-year-old Mortimer McCarthy of Lyttelton, New Zealand, who last visited the Antarctic as an able seaman in 1910 with Captain Scott.

The winter isolation of the southern continent is becoming steadily shorter. The airlift to the Antarctic now begins in mid-September, followed by ice-breakers and supply ships in November. The last ships leave about March.

Much of the communication with one side of Antarctica now goes through New Zealand's Christchurch. Largest city of the south island, it is not the nearest to the Antarctic, but it has been chosen as advanced base because its excellent airport facilities for the big globemasters and other heavy supply planes which make regular flights to McMurdo Sound.

Gerald Waring REPORTING

(Editor's Note: Today Columnist Waring pays an imaginary visit to Paris in the wake of our NATO parliamentary delegation.)

PARIS — The 24 hours since my arrival here have been a disappointment. I had believed Canadians were beloved by Frenchmen—the old ties of blood and history and whatnot. But we're not.

Like when my plane landed at Orly. When you go through immigration there's a newly painted sign over a desk apart from where most of the passengers go through. "Canadiens Ici," it says.

Behind it is a grim looking functionnaire of the immigration flanked by a gendarme.

"Your papers, monsieur," the immigration man said. I offered my passport. He flicked through it disdainfully.

"Are you a deputé?" he asked.

"A deputé? You mean a member of Parliament?"

"Oui."

"Non."

"Bon."

"Why?"

"Deputés Canadiens," he explained, puffing his chest, "are no longer permitted to enter France unless accompanied by their parents or legal guardians."

When I registered as being from Ottawa at the hotel where our NATO parliamentary delegation stayed last month, a peculiar expression came over the clerk's face.

"We require," he said smoothly, "a small key deposit."

"How much?" I asked, fumbling for a 100 franc note.

"Fifty thousand francs," he replied.

A half hour later, leaving what must have been the hotel's meanest room and passing a hotel dick posted down the corridor, I went out into the lovely city I was prepared to take to my heart. My first call: The Canadian embassy. As I arrived workmen were replacing glass in two of the windows, and others were scrubbing paint daubed on the door. The daubs read:

"Canadiens rentrez chez vous!"

Life in Paris, they told me inside, had not been pleasant the past fortnight.

That night I went out to see the bright lights . . . Place Pigalle . . .

"Allo, American," a pretty girl said softly as I sauntered by. With Canadian courtesy I replied "Hiya, babe."

"You from New York? Texas? Hyannisport?" she asked.

"Non," I replied in my best bilingual French. "Je suis d'Ottawa, Canada."

"Canadian!" she squealed. "Marie! Marie!" she cried to another girl nearby. "Un autre Canadien" Marie came over and they both babbled at me. Did perchance I know—and they named an MP of the Condemned Party. I did, and they marvelled. Wasn't it a small world, and wasn't he so much fun, and have I visited his ranch in Toronto, and would he return soon?

Warned by their affection for Canada, I returned to my hotel — and next morning got down to business. My first call was to Air Vice Marshal Larry Wray, who commands the RCAF's air division in Europe.

I identified myself, and said that members of the Canadian parliamentary delegation to the recent NATO meeting had asked to be remembered to him. Suddenly the telephone operator broke in:

"Monsieur," she said, "it is not only forbidden to curse or use abusive language on the French telephone system, but it is also forbidden to incite others to do so." And the line went dead.

Lennoxville Liberals celebrate vote win

Addressing a complimentary dinner in his honor at St. Anthony's parish hall in Lennoxville Monday night, Carrier Fortin, newly elected member of the Legislative Assembly, declared that Sherbrooke County provided an example for the rest of Canada for the manner in which the citizens of all races and creeds lived and worked together for the advancement of their community.

The dinner, arranged by the Liberal committee of Lennoxville and area, was scheduled to celebrate the first time since Confederation that the town has given a majority for a successful Liberal candidate.

Guests included party workers in the Nov. 14 provincial elections, the mayors and councils of Lennoxville and Ascot and the members of the Protestant and Roman Catholic School Boards of the two municipalities. Master of ceremonies was Rene Monty.

In urging continued co-operation between English and French speaking residents for the development of Sherbrooke County, Mr. Fortin said close proximity to the United States border posed special problems for the economic progress of the district which could be offset only by the close collaboration of all residents.

However, the county possessed important educational advantages that should serve to attract new industry to the area, said Mr. Fortin, chief of the Liberal committee.

take a definite stand in the matter, since he felt that he had received many requests from prominent businessmen, the clergy and other important organizations in the city on the subject.

The mayor had refused to answer a question posed by Alderman Everett Nicol during the heated debate as to the identity of those who made the projects about the taverns.

Council last week resolved that no more such permits should be issued after Mayor Nadeau and Alderman Carl Camirand had expressed their doubts of the necessity of more of these outlets in the city.

which were two universities, Bishop's and the University of Sherbrooke.

For over a century Bishop's had made a great contribution to Canada he said and its existence in Lennoxville had done much for the community. He pledged continued support of the provincial government for both institutions.

A short resume of the political history of Lennoxville was given by Dr. D. C. Masters, head of the department of history at Bishop's University.

The political history of Quebec could be divided into four general periods, he said. The first from Confederation to 1897 when the Conservative party was predominant; the second from 1897 to 1936 when the Liberals were in control; the third from 1936 to 1960, the era of the Union Nationale and "we hope the fourth which opened in 1960 with the re-emergence of the Liberals under Premier Jean Lesage," said Dr. Masters.

The first half-century after Confederation was featured by acclamations in Sherbrooke County, he continued, so the determination of the voting habits of the individual areas was difficult, he said.

But when contests were staged, Lennoxville had always voted against the Liberal party, he said, with the exception of 1927 when it gave a slight majority to the Provincial Liberal candidate.

"However, in that year Sherbrooke County elected a Conservative deputy, so 1962 is the first time we ever voted for a successful Liberal candidate," he said.

Mr. Fortin was introduced by Cecil Dougherty, chief Liberal organizer for Lennoxville and Ascot.

THREE VILLAGES —

Mr. Reginald Gray, who has been in Hazardville for four months has returned to his home here.

Miss Jane Selby, student at Champlain College, Burlington, Mr. Cleland Selby, student at Plymouth Teachers College, Plymouth, N.H., and Miss Susan Commie, Canterbury, N.H., were Thanksgiving guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Selby, Derby Line, where Mr. and Mrs. George Weller and family, of Convent, N.J., at their summer home in Stanstead for the holidays, were also visitors.

Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Brown, Stanstead, are visiting their daughters, the Misses Kathleen and Nancy Brown, in Guelph, Ont., for an indefinite time.

Mrs. Edgar Hill has returned to her home in Rock Island from the Sherbrooke Hospital, where she was a patient for a week, under observation.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Curtis and family and Miss Sharon Yetter, Stanstead, spent a weekend in Montreal and attended the Ice Capades.

Friends honor Janet Marsh at surprise party

WATERLOO — Mr. and Mrs. Fred Marsh held a surprise party on Nov. 24, for their daughter Janet, in honor of her approaching 16th birthday.

The party was a surprise to Janet, who had been invited out for supper, and on returning to her home on Dufferin Avenue found 40 school friends waiting to welcome her. Several of the boys and girls have been with Janet from kindergarten days.

The young people spent a happy evening dancing and playing games in the rumpus room. Mr. and Mrs. Marsh were assisted in the planning and serving by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Reed and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Corthorn.

The table for the buffet supper was centered with a floral arrangement of bronze and white mums and white lighted tapers.

benefit of all, not of one group in particular.

"Until now the English-speaking dominant majority has been willing to give us crumbs from time to time merely in an attempt to pacify us when we are becoming too vocal. This must change. I do not say that most English-speaking fellow citizens do this through ill-will. In most cases it is through sheer ignorance. They naturally tend to compare us with all other minorities."

Mr. Bertrand also discounted reports prevalent from time to time that he would co-operate with certain other French-Canadian political leaders, including Mayor Jean Drapeau of Montreal, in setting up a new Quebec party of nationalistic and progressive tendencies.

"It is nearly impracticable to set up new parties under our system," he said. "I doubt this would be practical, either, when there is actually a much greater possibility of achieving one's ends by working within the party one has been associated with all along."

Discussing his future relations with the Union Nationale, Mr. Bertrand described his role as opposition leader within his own party. Ever since his defeat for the party leadership, he had worked for the cleansing, the rejuvenation and the adaptation of his party to the needs of 1962, he said.

Miss Donna Draper, of the Sherbrooke Hospital staff, spent a long weekend at home with her mother, Mrs. Percy Draper. Mrs. E. Knutson of Lennoxville was also a guest at the same home.

Mrs. Charland was a guest of her daughters, in Sherbrooke, for a week.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Dustin spent a few days with relatives in Vermont.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Morrison, of Schenectady, N.Y., were at R. H. Draper's recently, as were Mr. and Mrs. Galvin, Miss Crosby, Mr. and Mrs. J. Green, of Lennoxville. Mr. Draper has returned home from the Sherbrooke Hospital.

Miss Ural Dustin, Ayer's Cliff was at her brother's for a weekend.

Alicia Hart's Christmas coiffures

Christmas hair styles add beauty to social whirl

Every year, special Christmas hair styles add beauty and fun to the holiday social whirl. And this year, Christmas coiffures will sparkle with hair jewelry.

One leading hair stylist has created three Christmas coifs that take on the silhouettes of a tree, a holly wreath and a big gift bow.

Designed for chin-length length hair, all three require considerable body to maintain their carefully arranged lines.

The Christmas tree hairdo is cone-shaped. To create this effect, he pulled the back hair into a French twist. Then bangs were brushed down on the forehead and secured with tape until the coiffure was completed.

Next, the crown hair was combed forward in upward strokes and held high by twisting a hairpiece around it, until a bandlike effect was formed. The crown hair was then worked until wispy tendrils sprayed over the band.

Finally, a string of petite Christmas balls of gold and silver were fastened in hanging loops around the hairdo.

The second Christmas hair style brings the hair down in sweeping arcs, falling from a center part, to frame the face. This suggests the silhouette of a Christmas wreath and is outlined with sprigs of holly berries and leaves.

To achieve the effect of a large gift bow in the third hair style, the stylist created three pony tails, one at top-center and two at the sides. Pinning the top hair out of the way, the stylist separated the pony tails at the sides into two switches and folded them into figure-eights over the ear.

Then the topknot tail was separated into two hanks and twisted into two large loops. To create the knot of the bow, a strand of hair was brought from the back and wrapped around the center between the loops.

Only the loosest of waves is needed for any of these styles. To get this effect, a pushbutton type of home permanent can be used, and the waving lotion should be left on for only 10 minutes.

Spices transform ground beef into something exotic

"Why is it that poets tell, so little of the sense of smell of fragrant coffee freshly ground or onions fried and deeply browned?"

The rhymster who penned those lines must have lost his senses of smell or he would have mentioned spices of which the air is redolent when the chill of winter is in the air. Robust soups combining meat, vegetables and spice are in the making, hearty main dishes with spice fill the platter and desserts take on a more spicy role.

Spice is the magic wand that transforms ground beef into something exotic. So serve this ground beef roll with raisin stuffing topped with pineapple slices, banked with sweet potatoes—make a delightful dinner. It's especially good when apple dumplings spiced deliciously serves as dessert.

GROUND BEEF ROLL RAISIN STUFFING

Combine and mix well but lightly

1½ lbs. ground beef
¾ pound ground pork
2 tsp. salt

¼ tsp. pepper
1 lightly beaten egg

Spread out on wax paper into a square about ½ inch thick

RAISIN STUFFING

Rinse ½ cup seedless raisins, dry and add 4 cups toasted bread crumbs, 1½ tsp. parsley flakes, 1 tsp. or more of salt, ¼ tsp. pepper, ¼ tsp. sage and 2½ cup water or soup stock.

Spread evenly over meat, roll up jelly roll fashion and place in greased meat loaf pan and brush with cooking oil. Bake in moderate oven (350°F) for 1½ to 2 hours. Serve on a platter garnished with broiled pineapple slices and glazed sweet potatoes.

SPICED APPLE DUMPLINGS

Peel and core 6 to 8 medium size cooking apples. Put in saucepan and cover with boiling water and cook 5 minutes.

Sift 2 cups pastry flour and measure 2 cups into sifter. Add 4 tsp. baking powder, ½ tsp. salt and ¼ cup sugar. Sift into a bowl. Cut in 6 tblsp. chilled shortening until like fine meal.

Gradually add milk mixing lightly with fork and using just enough to make a soft dough—about 2½ cups should do. Dough must not be sticky. Turn out on to a lightly floured board and toss to coat flour evenly. Knead 8 to 10 times.

Roll out to ¼ inch thick and cut into 5-inch squares. Place a cooked apple in centre of each square. Sprinkle each with 1 tsp. sugar and a little cinnamon and nutmeg, chopped raisins and walnuts.

Moisten edges of dough with water or cold milk and fold so corners meet in centre. Press edges lightly together brush tops with melted butter and sprinkle with sugar.

Place in a greased pan with enough boiling water to cover bottom of pan and bake at 450°F. until crust and fruit are cooked deliciously. Serve with cream or butterscotch sauce.

I. O. D. E. Annual Sherry Party held

The Sir John Sherbrooke Chapter I.O.D.E. Annual Sherry Party was held in the Officers Mess of the William Street Armoury, on Saturday, December 1.

Receiving the guests at the entrance to the Mess, which was appropriately decorated with Christmas trees, in keeping with the festive season, were Mrs. Douglas Ward, wife of the commanding officer of the Sherbrooke Regiment, and Mrs. Gordon B. Loomis, Regent.

Over 275 guests gathered for an informal get-together, where old acquaintances were renewed and new friends made, making the Sherry Party a social success.

Pine boughs were used to decorate the windows and upon the mantel-piece were arrangements of pine, fir and a log holding green and red lighted candles. The buffet table was arranged with a white linen cloth, centred with a large brass bowl, containing an arrangement of pine boughs and cones, flanked by red candles in wrought iron candelabra.

Miss M. M. Haight, Mrs. D. Johnston and Mrs. J. Fennell acted as cashiers and Mrs. A. M. Swan, Mrs. G. Ranshouan, Mrs. L. Rasberry and Mrs. W. Charlebois were in charge of the refreshment tickets.

During the evening a drawing was held under the supervision of Mrs. L. Thomson, the winners being: No. 384, Mr. Stan Gallinger; No. 59, Mr. W. Fuller and No. 247, Mrs. W. Fuller.

The door prizes were awarded to No. 233, Mr. Garth Smith; No. 248, Mrs. A. Kyle and No. 259, Mr. G. Ranshouan. Mrs. L. Rasberry supervised for the door prizes. The food convener was Mrs. H. Leslie and the decorations were arranged by Mrs. B. Fletcher and Mrs. I. Saunders. Proceeds of the Sherry party are in aid of the chapter's educational and other charitable works.

By organisation you can find time for yourself

Some women who are putting off doing all the things they really want to do until they have "a little time for themselves" could find that time right now if they would—

Drop out of any organization to which they are giving nothing and which is giving nothing to them.

Put a sensible limit on the amount of chauffeuring they do for their children.

Stop doing things for their children that the children should be doing for themselves.

Learn to say "No" to many of the outside demands on their time and energy.

Use their labor-saving equipment to actually save themselves time, instead of setting higher and higher standards just because the equipment is there to help them maintain unnecessarily high standards.

Organize their job of homemaking so that they can accomplish more in less time.

Stop frittering away their leisure time in ways that give them no real satisfaction.

Spend some of the evening-at-home hours doing something more stimulating than watching television.

Sometimes put their own needs first instead of last when they are deciding what they have time for and what they can't manage.

Set aside, perhaps, one day a week to do with as they please. (This can nearly always be managed once the youngest child is in school.)

Do just as much as they want to socially, and no more. Have some respect for their own time, even if nobody else seems to, simply because they are housewives.

R.C.E.M.E. PIPE BAND

On Friday, November 30 the Rand employees and their guests attended a St. Andrew's Ball, the first of its kind ever to be held in Sherbrooke.

To the playing of the bagpipes the head table guests were escorted to their seats in traditional fashion. The piping of the Drumbie to the head table, a colorful and ancient custom, was next celebrated. The people in attendance saw a page boy carrying a bottle of Drumbie on a silver tray to the head table for the Chief of all Clans, Mr. Alexander MacDonald to propose the usual "Slant-a-agh" toast. The 24th R.C.E.M.E. Squadron Pipe Band acted as the escort while pipers Andy Forret and Sam Grier preceded the page boy.

The guests then participated in the traditional "Grand March," a further tribute to the Chief of all Clans. The "Diane Johnson Scottish Lassies" next entertained to the sound of a bagpipe, closing their great performance with the Sword dance.

The evening continued to progress satisfactorily under the leadership of the Master of Ceremonies, Tom Walker of the Sherbrooke Hospital, who was dressed as a typical MacClurg for the occasion. The program was carried through without interruption and after the R.C.E.M.E. Pipe Band, conducted by Jim Moore, put on their show of pipes and drums music, the specially invited "Captain Hamish Dancing Troupe," got a well-deserved round of applause for performing through their "eightsome reels."

Among the special guests were Mr. and Mrs. Alexander MacDonald, Chief of all Clans, Mr. and Mrs. Carrier Fortin, deputy to the Provincial Legislature, Mr. Ed Lynch, Mayor of Ascot Township, Mr. and Mrs. John Daly, General Manager of the Canadian Ingersoll - Rand, Sherbrooke; Lt. Post 5-3 win over Indians while Tech ekes out close 2-1 victory, Jean-Guy Papillon gets hat-trick

Mush Morehouse's Maroons, paced by Jean-Guy Papillon's hat-trick, posted their fourth consecutive victory in the Sherbrooke Junior Hockey League last night when they came through with a 5-3 win over the Indians. In the other half of the twin-bill in President Ivan Dugre's circuit the Tech ekes out a close 2-1 victory over the Beavers.

The win allowed the Maroons to extend their lead to three points over the second-place Tech while Beavers are in third spot, one point in the rear of Normie Dussault's crew, with the St. Francis and Indians following in order.

In the first game the Tech's victory may turn out to be a costly one as Marcel Caron was tagged with a misconduct and a match penalty for shoving the referee. His case will be turned over to the QAHA and a decision will be handed down from Montreal in the mean time Coach Dussault must go along without his star player.

Manseau opened the scoring in the first frame and this stood up until the third stanza. The Tech came up with a wide open affair while the Beavers were having trouble in getting the puck behind the Tech's new goalie, Auclair.

The middle session was scoreless although both sides had good scoring opportunities. Raymond extended the lead for Tech but in the closing minutes of the game Andre Boisvert came up with the Beavers' lone tally to rob Auclair of his shutout.

In the second tilt Papillon was the top man with his three goals which Butch Doyon and Sean Denis accounted for the others. Auger was the best for the Indians as he snared two tallies while Vincent got the other.

The Maroons were playing the Tech until Monday, Dec. 10.

Baseball former stars have sued present crop over pension plan, asks court to wipe out new scheme

NEW YORK (AP)—Some of baseball's former stars have sued the present crop over the bulging pot in baseball's prosperous pension plan.

The suit was filed in Federal Court Monday. It asks the court to wipe out a new pension scheme that gives increased benefits to current players but leaves out the oldtimers. The increases went into effect this year.

The suit was filed in the names of Frank Crosetti, former New York Yankee shortstop and now a coach, and John C. Schulte, a onetime journeyman catcher.

Backing up Crosetti and Schulte are such former stars as Joe DiMaggio, Bill Dickey, Bucky Walters, Mel Harder, Mike Tresh, Ernie Lombardi, Mace Brown, Doc Cramer, Billy Herman, Mike Higgins, Joe Kuhel, Spud Chandler, Thornton Lee and Hank Greenberg.

"Very few of these men need the money, of course," said lawyer J. Norman Lewis, who filed the suit. "But it is the principle of the thing."

The baseball players' pension committee has two days to answer the suit. Then it will probably go to court, perhaps by next June.

Peter Schmidt of Toronto earns split decision over Joey Durelle to win welterweight championship

MONTREAL (CP) — "Your faddy hits awful hard." Through bruised lips, Joey Durelle uttered those words to little Susan Schmidt at midring Monday night.

The tot was hoisted up after her dad, Peter Schmidt, won the vacant Canadian welterweight boxing title with a split decision over Durelle in 12 lively rounds.

There were no knockdowns and neither fighter was hurt until the final round when Durelle was shaken up by a two-handed flurry and was left reeling at the bell.

Schmidt, 29, a Romanian immigrant living in Toronto, drew the votes of two of the three judges with sharper punching and a strong left hand.

At the outset, most of the crowd of 3,732 at the Paul Sauve Sports Centre — they made a gross gate of slightly more than $10,000 — were obviously with the French-speaking Durelle. But Schmidt's polished work evidently made a good number of conversions, and they were rooting for him at the close.

OULMET FAVORS JOEY

Under the five-point scoring system, judge John Gow had Schmidt in front 56-54 and judge Bobby Leitham 57-56. The third judge, Rene Oulmet, turned in a 58-51 card for Durelle, 24, a native of Baie Ste. Anne, N.B., who now lives in Trois-Rivieres, Que.

The Canadian Press had Schmidt in front 58-56. Ottawa's Gale Kerwin vacated the title last spring to go into retirement. Both boxers battled to a 12-round draw last July 16 in Trois-Rivieres.

Schmidt and his manager, George Sheppard, said they are prepared to meet any challenger designated by the Canadian Professional Boxing Federation. The federation's national commissioner, Gene Letourneau of Quebec City, mentioned two possibilities, Don Ross of Toronto and Lennie Sparks of Halifax.

Before the fight, Durelle talked about quitting the ring if he lost. But he quickly quashed any suggestion that he would afterward in spite of the outcome.

"I'll just have to punch a little more," he said.

CAUSES BLEEDING

Durelle had Schmidt bleeding from the nose in the third, fourth and fifth rounds. But it was only a trickle and was quickly stemmed between rounds. Over-all Schmidt was much the sharper puncher. He cut his stockier opponent over the left eye in the third round. Durelle's seconds treated it and the gash gave him no trouble.

It was Schmidt's 42nd fight and his 20th win against 16 losses and six draws.

Durelle's record now is 24 wins, three losses and one draw. Schmidt was elated with the fan reaction to him.

"I'd rather fight here than in Toronto anytime," he said.

Once a milkman in Toronto, he has no job now. He said his employer fired him because he took time off last summer for the Trois-Rivieres bout.

Yankees to play 26 night games

NEW YORK (AP) — New York Yankees have 26 night games, the largest number ever scheduled, on the 1962 home card announced Monday.

The World Series champions will play 81 home games on 71 playing dates. The 10 double-headers on the card include a July 4 twin bill with Chicago White Sox, and a two-night affair against Kansas City, Friday, Sept. 20. The others are on Sunday.

The Yankees open at home on Thursday, April 11, against Baltimore Orioles.

The Yankees scheduled 24 night games last season.

National Football League drafts takes 17 hours, 280 players are picked, Rams get top quarterback

CHICAGO (AP) — The National Football League completed its marathon draft of 280 collegians early today and at least two of the first round picks have already been signed.

The draft took 17 hours and 18 minutes. Detroit and Baltimore grabbed a pair of Ohio State tackles and signed them. The Lions picked Daryl Sanders and the Colts came up with Bob Vogel.

Terry Baker, the quarterback from Oregon State and Heisman Award winner, was the No. 1 pick. The left-handed passer selection of San Diego in the AFL, which apparently felt he would play in the NFL of Canada.

DRAFT AFL PICKS

Four first round picks of the rival American Football League, made Saturday in Dallas, also were drafted in the first round by the NFL. They were halfbacks Jerry Stovall of Louisiana State, picked by St. Louis and the New York Titans; Kermit Alexander of UCLA, San Francisco; and Denver's choices; centre Dave Behrman of Michigan State, Chicago and Buffalo, and tackle Ed Budde of Michigan State, Philadelphia and the Dallas Texans.

Baker was the 12th round pick. The left-handed passer draft rules say the player must sign with the club that picks him if he wants to play in the league.

The draft was restricted to seniors and men whose original college class will graduate in June.

Twelve of the first 28 drafts were tackles. Among them were Mississippi's Ed Dunaway and Minnesota's Bobby Bell, both picked by the Minnesota Vikings; Purdue's Don Brumm, St. Louis; Washington's Ray Mansfield, Philadelphia; Oregon's Steve Barnett, Chicago and Miami; and Ohio's Tom Nolina, Los Angeles.

Pat Richter, Wisconsin's fine pass-catcher end, went to Washington and Tom Hutchinson, Kentucky end, was picked by Cleveland Browns.

Other ends picked early were John Mackey of Syracuse (Baltimore), Paul Flatley, North western (Minnesota) and Hugh Campbell of Washington State (San Francisco).

Centre LeRoy Jordan, Alabama, was taken by Dallas, and Georgia Tech guard Rufus Guthrie by Los Angeles.

Canadiens' power play has been defused, lost the kick when they traded Doug Harvey to Rangers

Montreal Canadiens' power play has been defused. This could be a big reason why the Habs are finding it hard to get to the top of the National Hockey League standings.

The irony is that Canadiens themselves knocked the punch out of the attack two years ago when they let defenceman Doug Harvey go to New York Rangers. At least that's the conclusion one arrives at when scanning the figures.

Including games of last weekend, the Montreal extra-man attack had scored the fewest goals of any of the six NHL clubs and its percentage was the second-lowest in the league. The Canadiens scored on nine of the 65 times they held a man-power advantage for a scoring percentage of 13.8. Only the fifth-place Rangers had a poorer rating—10 goals in 80 chances for 12.5 per cent.

Surprisingly enough, Toronto Maple Leafs—a team that has a reputation for being weak with a man advantage—has the most potent power-play so far this NHL season. The Leafs scored 12 goals in the 66 times they held the man advantage in the first 20 games for a percentage of 18.2.

CHANGED RULES

Detroit Red Wings were second with 13 goals in 74 chances and a 17.6 percentage. Then followed Chicago Black Hawks with 13 goals in 86 chances for 15.1 per cent and Boston Bruins with 10 goals in 67 chances for 14.9.

For most of the 1950s, it was akin to suicide for rival clubs to get caught with a man in the penalty box against Canadiens. The Montreal power play was so devastating that the minor penalty rule was changed prior to the 1956-57 season to allow a penalized player to return to the ice once the opposition scored.

Even with the chance of scoring only once on each minor penalty, however, the Canadiens' power play still crippled the opposition for another four seasons and was a major force behind Montreal's league championships in each of those terms.

Canadiens finished atop the standings again last season for a fifth straight time and they had the most effective power play again. But in the 1961-62 season their extra-man attack wasn't head and shoulders above the rest of the league. Montreal scored 46 goals in 24 chances for a percentage of 18.9.

Last season Chicago matched Montreal's output in power-play goals but the Hawks had more chances—262—and, therefore, a slightly lower percentage—17.6.

Slid into first place following top performance during past week, Terry Sawchuk still top netminder

MONTREAL (CP) — A good little hockey player may not be any better than a good big hockey player. It just looks that way at this point in the current national hockey league season.

Stan Mikita, diminutive sparkplug of the Chicago Black Hawks, leads the individual scoring race with 24 points on eight goals and 16 assists.

But he's not the league's best marksman. That honor belongs to another Chicago player—an even smaller one named Ken Wharram.

Official NHL statistics released today show the 155-pound right winger, far down the scoring list in a four-way tie for 30th place, needed only 15 shots on goal to score six times. That makes him the best shot among the NHL's top point-getters, scoring on 40 per cent of his attempts.

Mikita, by contrast, needed 46 shots for his first six goals. He was successful on only 13 per cent of his tries.

HENRY FOLLOWS

Second to Wharram as a sharpshooter is New York's Camille Henry, who has weighed between 138 and 151 pounds as the NHL's smallest player since he made the big league in 1953. Henry scored on 30 per cent of his attempts, six goals in 20 shots.

How are the bigger boys doing?

Bobby Hull of Chicago, last season's leading goal scorer with 50, needed 89 shots on goal to score his first six this season—a percentage of only 6.3. Montreal's Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion scored six in 52 tries for 11.5 per cent and Detroit's Norm Ullman netted six of 60 shots for an even 10 per cent.

Mikita's capture of the scoring leadership is the more remarkable since he scored his 24 points in 19 games.

New York's Andy Bathgate, in second place with 23, averaged one point a game this season.

THREE TIED FOR THIRD — Tied for third with 22 are three players — Geoffrion, Ab McDonald of Chicago and Alex Delvecchio of Detroit.

Toronto's Big M, Frank Mahovlich, is all alone in sixth spot with 20. He also leads in goals scored with 13.

The Hawks have taken over first place in the standings with 28 points.

Detroit, Montreal and Toronto all have 26, but are ranked in that order since Montreal has played one more game than Detroit and Toronto two more.

New York is fifth with 18 and Boston last with 10.

Terry Sawchuk, Detroit's talented netminder, still ranks as the best in the league although Chicago's Glenn Hall has tied him for most shutouts with three.

Sawchuk has allowed 44 goals in 21 games for a 2.10 goals-against average.

The Hawks are the most penalized team with a total of 344 minutes and Detroit defence-man Howie Young the most penalized player with 73 minutes.

Bruins acquire Forbes Kennedy in deal for Pronovost with Red Wings, swap two with Kingston farm club

BOSTON (AP) — Boston Bruins acquired wing Forbes Kennedy from Detroit Monday and sent defenceman Pat Stapleton and winger Wayne Connelly to a farm team to make room for two new young players.

Boston gave Detroit left wing Andre Pronovost in exchange for the 27-year-old Kennedy, 57. The next season he was involved in a multi-player deal the Red Wings' Edmonton farm in the Western Hockey League.

Connelly and Stapleton were sent to Kingston of the Eastern Hockey League, making room for rookie centre Bob Leiter and defenceman Eddie Westfall who came up from Kingston.

Leiter, only 21, played with Boston in its two weekend games, scoring once against Toronto Saturday night. Westfall, 22, who joined the team Monday, was with the Bruins last season, playing in 63 games.

WITH WINGS 5 YEARS

Kennedy, five-foot-six and 195 pounds was with the Red Wings five seasons back, scoring 27 points in 70 games. He has been back and forth between the National Hockey League and the minors since then, playing in 14 Red Wings games at the tail-end of last season. He broke into the NHL with Chicago in 1956-57. The next season he was involved in a multi-player deal that sent Ted Lindsay from Detroit to Chicago.

Kennedy of Dorchester, N.B., was property of the Montreal Canadiens, as was the 26-year-old Pronovost, who came to Boston two years ago in exchange for Guy Gendron. The Bruins since have reacquired Gendron.

Pronovost scored 15 goals a year ago but has accounted for only two assists in 21 games this season with Boston.

Both Pronovost and Kennedy, who scored seven goals and assisted on four at Edmonton, will join their new clubs Wednesday.

AAU's action meet with resounding criticism from track officials

DETROIT (AP)—The American Athletic Union's action in declaring a large group of athletes ineligible for competing in unsanctioned meets met with resounding criticism today from track officials across the country.

The athletes were found ineligible for future American open and international competition including the Olympics, the AAU announced Monday.

It was the first hard blow struck in the AAU's bitter struggle with the U.S. Track and Field Federation for control of the sport. Until the AAU's move its annual convention that wound up here Sunday, the battle had been fought mostly with words for more than two years.

Col. Don Hull, the AAU's executive secretary, said the athletes were declared ineligible because they competed in meets that included both collegians and non-collegians. In such open meets, the AAU claims it has

CALLS IT RIDICULOUS

"It is completely unreasonable and ridiculous for the AAU to rule ineligible fine young men merely for running in track competition conducted by the nation's high schools and colleges," said Walter Byers, executive director of the NCAA, which supports the Federation.

"They can't do this to good American college kids," said Larry Snyder, Ohio State track coach and host at the Columbus meet.

"This AAU is a group that has grasped power and is trying to hold onto it by this action. They will go to any means, even to destroying American track and field to retain this power."

Snyder coached the U.S. track team in the 1960 Olympics.

The long verbal slugfest between the AAU and Federation—a group consisting mainly of track coaches—has jeopardized U.S. chances in the 1964 Olympic Games at Tokyo.

Blue Bombers given big welcome on arrival home with Grey Cup, 40-car cavalcade comprises parade

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg's remarkable Blue Bombers took their bows Monday night to the noisy acclaim of a hometown audience.

The occasion was the Bombers' return from Toronto where they defeated Hamilton Tiger-Cats 28-27 in Canada's annual football drama.

Although the Bombers have won the Grey Cup four of five times against Hamilton in past years, Monday night's welcome by more than 5,000 fans at the 10,000-plus seat arena appeared to be the most spontaneous yet.

The team's chartered aircraft was greeted by wives and families, with the exception of Mrs. Clare Rauhaus who earlier in the day presented her Bomber husband Norm with a baby boy.

A 40-car cavalcade took players, coaches and officials along the 10-mile route to the Winnipeg Arena. Knots of people—mostly children—cheered as they went by in the early dusk.

As the Bombers entered the arena, cheerleaders led the yelling crowd in chanting "go, go Bombers" and "Grey Cup, Grey Cup, Grey Cup."

RECEIVE OVATION — Co-captains Herb Gray and Steve Patrick, each holding a handle of the coveted cup, emblematic of Canadian professional football supremacy, walked to the centre of the arena where a miniature canvas football field had been laid down on the ice surface.

Almost all the players received a standing ovation as they were individually introduced to the crowd, but were overshadowed by head coach Bud Grant, whose name was chanted almost continuously from the time he entered.

Lieutenant-Governor Erick F. Willis said one of the players told him "we used to play for money. We now play for Bud Grant."

Speaking first for the players, Steve Patrick thanked fans for "the telegrams which gave us the heart to win the game."

CFL officials studying closed TV circuit plan

TORONTO (CP)—Officials of the Canadian Football League have been discussing the possibility of a closed circuit television to show home games in theatres, Eugene Fitzgibbons, president of Trans-Canada Television, said Monday night.

He said club officials, including Ted Workman of the Montreal Alouettes, Herb Capozzi of British Columbia Lions and Lew Hayman of Toronto Argonauts, attended a showing of last Thursday's Toronto-Montreal National Hockey League game in a theatre.

Toronto Argonaut home games also are shown on Pay-TV in Etobicoke.

UP IN THE AIR — There was plenty of daylight between Yves Saint-Martin and his mount as the French horse Match 2d pulled ahead of America's Kelso, left, to win the Washington, D. C. International from a field of 13 at Laurel.
