"TOO MUCH WATER" WAS PLAINT OF SUPERINTENDENT JANIN AND PUMP HAD TO BE SHUT DOWN

The Supply Was Exceeding the Demand by Several Million Gallons Daily—New Mains Laid in Congested District Since Board of Trade Fire.

Too much water! One of the pumps had to be shut down at the lower level station for fear the reservoir would overflow and flood the town.

This was the reassuring news Superintendent Janin had at the City Hall this morning. Ever since the big pump was started the water supply has steadily exceeded the demand, and this morning, everything being full, the small pump was shut down and a few minor repairs are being made. The repairs, however, are so light that the pump could be started again at half an hour's notice.

Yesterday the pumps forced 29,000,000 gallons of water into the reservoir, and could have made it 35,000,000 if it had been necessary.

The officials at the City Hall were delighted this morning at this emphatic quietus to the alarming reports as to the condition of the city water supply.

Everything is going on in the usual way. The city fountains are playing, the streets are watered from the hydrants, and everyone who wants water gets all he needs—yet the pumps have to lie idle to prevent an overflow. Seldom has an ill-considered cry of alarm had so effective a reply as the present.

The Mayor is Delighted.

Mayor Laporte was particularly pleased with the news, as it bore out his statement that the city's water supply is ample for all emergencies.

Mr. Janin said that the situation had been a good deal eased by the recent cool weather and copious rains, which have much reduced the use of water on the streets.

Chief Benoit also remarked that not much water was being used for his department either. In fact, he remarked that fire alarms came in so seldom that he was at times inclined to suspect that the automatic alarms were out of gear.

But the fact remains that the city has plenty of water, and could have millions of gallons more every day if it were needed.

The chief point of interest, of course, is the water supply of the congested district, which was severely condemned after the Board of Trade fire, and criticized in his reports since by Inspector Howe, of the Underwriters' Association. It is, of course, only the congested district that is affected by the raised insurance rates.

Mains in Congested Districts

The new large mains that have been put in since the Board of Trade fire are a twelve-inch main on St. Peter from St. James to Recollet; a twelve-inch main on St. Nicholas from Commissioners to St. Sacrament, and a twenty-four inch main on Commissioners street from St. Sulpice to McGill. These were a considerable addition to the large mains already laid along Notre Dame, St. James and other main streets. They were in each instance connected with the smaller main on the side streets, such as St. Francois Xavier, Hospital, etc.

These, of course, greatly increased the supply in case of emergency, and there is a hydrant at every block in a convenient spot to run hose in every direction and down side streets if needed. The hydrants average about 250 feet apart.

The deamnds of the underwriters that ten-inch mains should be laid along St. Sacrament Street, St. Farncois Xavier, Hospital and other side streets, were not complied with, the city authorities holding that the supply from the hydrants on the adjacent streets was ample for all purposes.

Mr. Johnston's Opinion.

Mr. E. F. Johnston, of the well known insurance firm of Evans & Johnston, did not take this view of the subject. He considered it nonsense to imagine that a supply 400 feet away from a fire, as might happen now in various places, was sufficient. The fire might occur exactly when it could not be got at.

"It is absurd to argue that a large main along say Notre Dame Street, would be sufficient for fires along the neighboring lanes. The trouble is the councillors argue from the standpoint of dollars and cents, while all the insurance companies want is adequate protection, so they can pay losses. With the enormously valuable properties along these streets it is absurd to say that that hydrants are not needed near where fire might break out.

Asked as to the effect upon their clients, Mr. Johnston said that as a rule their policyholders, although they did not like to pay the increase, supported it. "They seem to feel that the City Council must be taught that something more is necessary in the way of fire protection. After all what does Mr. Janin's report amount to? He makes it one day and contradicts it the next. But it is practically borne out by Inspector Howe's report."

Not Enough Water.

As to the resolution passed by the City Council stating that there was enough water to drown out any fire, another insurance man said this was an absurd statement, and that the Council had better stick to facts. The record of fires this year, with disaster such as the Gault fire, showed that this was not the case.

Insurance business in Canada was not very profitable, and it was exceedingly hard to get people to invest in new companies, as was shown by the last company floated in Montreal. In fact fourteen Canadian companies had at various times gone to the wall, involving a loss of over $2,000,000.

ground. It was said to have been the most beautiful and expensive camp in the Adirondacks. The cause of the fire is unknown. The loss is estimated at $75,000.

QUEBEC OFFICIAL DEAD.

Quebec, August 19.—(Special.)—Mr. Theophile Lamontagne, aged sixty years, a clerk employed in the immigration buildings in Quebec, died suddenly this morning at his residence in Levis. Deceased had just returned from Fall River, where he went some days ago to visit his daughter. His death is due to heart disease.

FALSE PRETENCES IS THE CHARGE

Warrant for the Arrest of I. Duquette of St. Hubert Street.

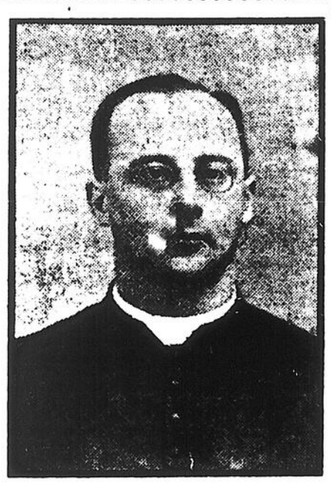

A warrant was granted to-day for the arrest of I. Duquette, residing at 102 St. Hubert Street, on a charge of having received money by false pretences.

The complaint is laid by Mrs. Cardinal, 107 Panet Street, who alleges that Duquette, through the intermediary of an agent, Emile Lefebvre, of 263 St. Hubert Street, obtained from her the sum of $2.50 in exchange for certain articles on the representation that the money went as a subscription to the funds of a charitable institution known as "The Orphan's Bread," the headquarters of which was represented to be in Worcester, Mass. Mrs. Cardinal also alleges it was claimed that the peddling of the articles was being conducted with the permission of Archbishop Bruchesi, who, it may be added, denies that the matter had ever been brought to his notice, and states that he had not heard of the institution referred to previous to the action of the police.

When Lefebvre was arrested by Detective Viens he was peddling religious emblems alleged to have been blessed by the Pope, and crucifixes of plaster of paris which were represented as containing precious stones that had been found by the Pontiff at Venice, which stones Lefebvre explained had not only the property of shining in the dark with much brilliancy, but were, besides, possessed of certain curative virtues.

It is charged that there is no such institution as "Le Pain des Orphelins" either in Worcester, Mass., or anywhere else.

Lefebvre, who pleaded guilty to a charge of having obtained certain moneys under false pretences, will come up for sentence on Tuesday.

PLUMBERS' UNION ISSUES STATEMENT

Still on Strike and Mr. Verville Says They Will so Remain.

From the following letter it will be seen that the plumbers' strike, which originated fifteen weeks ago, is not yet over, so far at least as the union is concerned. The following statement has been given The Herald by A. Verville, business agent of the local union:

"Some two months ago the newspapers in the city were taking a very active interest in our movement, and as our local was not giving any news, the papers were in no position to enlighten the public on the actual situation.

"After fifteen weeks of lockout, we believe that the public should know that the plumbers are still out, and intend to stay out until such time as masters and men come to some understanding.

"We must say that the men have tried to arrange meetings with the bosses, and even asked them for a conference, but were turned down, as they have been since the 1st day of May.

"The men are to a certain extent satisfied with their situation, as the following list of masters have signed our agreement, and are employing skilled mechanics, thus being in a position to satisfy the public. We claim without exception that the only place to get such mechanics is from our local. The best men now idle are fighting the same way as fifteen weeks ago, and by a resolution passed on Aug. 16 decided unanimously that the strike or lockout be carried for an indefinite period.

"We want the public to know that the trouble is still existing between masters and men, and to prove that although the masters are stating that the trouble is over, the contrary is true.

The following is the list of bosses who have signed our demands, and who are employing skilled mechanics: Jos. Giroux, Gardner Bros., Alex. Fisher, R. Morand, A. Raymond, J. A. Vaillancourt, James O'Rourke, J. Foster, F. F. Taylor, W. Quipp, L. Ecuyer & Daniel, Poitras & Poitras, A. St. Jaques, Larock & Callistyne, U. Sigoin, Jos. Jean, A. T. State & Co., V. Lapointe, F. Lepine, Chas. Belisle, R. Fraser, P. Leclerc & Son, P. Lemay, F. Bilodeau, Z. Pigeon, A. Belaire, L. R. Bourbonnaire, H. Lamarche, P. A. Dubord, W. Desormeau, W. H. Dance, J. Gagnon, Hickey & Aubut, R. E. Handfield, Kyle & Aitchison, A. Lacasse, E. G. Maghire, A. Maisoneuve, Paquet & Gauth Allen Pope, James Rodgers, J. Sigou and J. Skinner.

CANAL CLAIMS A VICTIM.

Old Man Drowned Near Wellington Bridge.

A splash was heard in the canal near Wellington Bridge last night, and upon investigation it was discovered that a man had been drowned. William Supple, of 105 Richardson Street, and James Donahue, 127 Centre Street, recovered the body about nine o'clock.

The corpse was removed to the morgue, where it awaits identification. It is that of a man between fifty and sixty years of age, with gray hair and moustache, and wearing a brown suit. Evidently it is the body of a laborer.

POLICEMAN ROUGHLY USED.

Ottawa, August 19—(Special.)—Policeman McManus got into trouble with a crowd of roughs near the Byward market last night and is now in the hospital. Henri Dumoulin, Eli Gagnie, Charles O'Connor, and one other man are under arrest. They were members of a gang which handled the officers so roughly. When arrested Gagnier was wearing the policeman's helmet and belt.

RUSSIAN ADMIRALTY IN DESPAIR OVER NAVAL REVERSES IN FAR EAST

Official Report of Admiral Skrydloff on Latest Engagement Was a Crushing Blow—Russian Gunboat Struck Mine and Sunk—Renewed Fighting on Land Imminent.

St. Petersburg, August 19.—A feeling almost akin to despair reigns in the much-tried Russian Admiralty. The official report of Vice-Admiral Skrydloff (coming on the heels of the known losses sustained by the Port Arthur squadron in its desperate sortie of August 10, and the anxiety over the fate of the warships still unaccounted for, not only confirming the sinking, but showing that the injuries sustained by the Gromobol and Rossia in the fight with Vice-Admiral Kamimura's squadron were even greater than anticipated) completes the crushing nature of the blow to Russia's ill-starred naval forces in the Far East. So far as the immediate future is concerned, the Admiralty does not disguise the fact that the Vladivostik squadron is destroyed. The effect upon the public is also most depressing. The only consolation found is in the words of praise bestowed on the officers and men and the unequal character of the fight, Russian naval experts, by the system of co-efficients, figuring that the inferiority of the Vladivostok squadron in armor and guns was 69 to 200.

In some quarters of the navy there is also a disposition to censure Rear-Admiral Jessen for abandoning the Rurik, even though standing by her would have meant that the Gromobol and Rossia would have shared her fate. The chief mystery at the Admiralty here is why Vice-Admiral Kamimura drew off when Admiral Jessen's ships were at his mercy. The only explanation is that his squadron must have suffered such frightful damage that it could not continue the battle.

It is confirmed that the losses of officers and men on board the Rossia and Gromobol were 50 per cent. of the former and 25 per cent. of the latter, showing the dreadful havoc caused by the fire from the Japanese ships even at a range exceeding three miles. Private reports say the decks of the Rossia were veritable shambles.

To Unite Fleets is Hopeless.

The hope of accomplishing the cherished plan of the Admiralty of uniting the two Russian far eastern squadrons to await the coming of the Baltic fleet seems now almost hopeless. Nevertheless the Admiralty expects that the battleships, if they returned to Port Arthur, to sally forth again, even to certain destruction. But the whereabouts of the battleship division and of the protected cruisers Diana and Pallada are not considered to be absolutely established. The weight of opinion continues to correspond with the foreign reports that the battleships are back at Port Arthur, but some of the officials at the Admiralty cling to the hope that they escaped. Che Foo reports received here to-day apparently leave no doubt on this point.

The authorities here are without information in regard to the reported torpedoing of a Russian cruiser of the Pallada type, which they say, must mean the Diana.

Both the official Russian reports agree as to the main details of the engagement and the manner in which the big ironclads "in the form of a gridiron, tacked and counter tacked," as they delivere dtheir broadsides, but a veil is drawn when the cruiser division escaped and the Czarevitch was disabled.

Russian Gunboat Sunk.

Tokio, Aug. 19.—A Russian gunboat of the Otvajni type struck a mine and sank off Laoti promontory, the extreme southern point of the Kwang Tung peninsula ,on which Port Arthur is situated), at 8 o'clock on Thursday night.

The Otvajni is an armored gunboat of 1,500 tons displacement. She carried one nine-inch gun, one six-inch gun, and ten quick-firing guns. She has two torpedo tubes, has a speed of fifteen knots and carries a crew of 142 men.

Washington, Aug. 19.—The State Department has received a cablegram from Che Foo, dated to-day, the substance of which is as follows: "This morning seven Japanese destroyers entering, which they captured. Two Japanese cruisers are outside the harbor."

Japanese Terms to Fortress.

Tokio, Aug. 19.—Major Yamoka, representing the Japanese forces besieging Port Arthur, met the Russian chief of the garrison staff about 600 yards north of Shoshi Ying at 10.30 a.m. Aug. 16 under a flag of truce and delivered to him the Emperor's offer to remove non-combatants to a place of safety. The tender included women and children under 16 years of age, priests, diplomats and officers of neutral powers.

The conditions of the answer requiring that on Aug. 17 at 10 o'clock the non-combatants should advance under a flag of truce. At five o'clock Aug. 17 a detachment of Japanese infantry would accept their delivery at the conference point and convey them to Dalny, together with a limited amount of baggage, the examination of which was to be optional. Non-combatants were forbidden to bring books, writings, documents and articles relating to the war. The Russians were required to answer either yes or no.

The Emperor of Germany has requested the Japanese to direct Commander Hopman and Lieut. Gilgenheim, the German attaches at Port Arthur, to withdraw in accordance with the Japanese offer. The Emperor's order was delivered to the Russian chief of staff yesterday.

Land Battle is Imminent.

Mukden, Aug. 19.—A battle is regarded as being imminent, as the Japanese on the Russian east front are only twenty miles from Liao Yang. The advance posts are not more than four miles apart and small skirmishes are of daily occurrence. On the south side the Japanese have retired to Hai Cheng.

Japs are Drilling Chinese.

San Francisco, Aug. 19.—Wm. Martin, U.S. consul at Nankin, China, who arrived from the Orient on the steamer Siberia, is quoted in an interview here to the effect that immense bodies of Chinese troops are now drilling in the central portion of the kingdom under the direction of Japanese officers well versed in the modern art of warfare. The soldiers have been supplied with the Mauser type of rifles and the most up-to-date machine guns obtainable are now being purchased for their use. In the vicinity of Nankin alone there are about 5,000 soldiers drilling constantly.

Russia Will Defy Agreement.

New York, Aug. 19.—The Odessa correspondent of the Times cables:—In spite of the feeling aroused in England and elsewhere by the action of Russia in sending the Petersburg and the Smolensk through the Dardanelles, I learn on good authority that she intends to challenge once more the clauses of the Black Sea agreement by sending the Sarafoff, a sister ship of the Petersburg, out of the Black Sea on a similar errand. The Sarafoff is the last of the six volunteer fleet transports and has just been fitted with various naval appliances including ammunition hoists.

Report is Officially Confirmed.

Paris, Aug. 19.—The report that the Japanese consul at Shanghai has been ordered to inform China that she will be held responsible for the disarmament of the Askold and Grozovol is officially confirmed. Well-informed circles have no doubt that China will fulfill her obligations and then consider that the presence of numerous warships of various nationalities at Shanghai is sufficient guarantee that Japan will not attempt to violate the neutrality of the port.

YOUNG WIDOW LEAVES IN SEARCH OF A FORTUNE

A fortune of between $50,000 and $100,000 is a most powerful magnet and is sufficiently large to draw claimants from the very ends of the earth.

It was on such a journey as this that Mrs. Perrault, a very young widow, and her child started from the Windsor Station yesterday morning. She left for Australia on the Pacific Express, taking boat at Victoria, and before she returns she will have covered over 15,000 miles and will have consumed more than fifty days on the trip.

The fortune which this young widow is on her way to claim was made by her deceased husband's uncle, who went to Australia from a small village below Quebec in 1852, at the time the gold fever in that colony was at its height. That he was fortunate in his search and that he prospered beyond even his most sanguine dreams was soon made known to the family that remained in the little Quebec village, for the sums they received made them look forward to a life of comparative ease.

For some unknown reason, however, the letters began to grow less frequent and finally they stopped altogether, and his relatives heard no more from him until about a week ago when they received a letter from a firm of lawyers in Melbourne stating that Perrault had died some time ago, leaving a large fortune to his relatives in Canada, but that it would be necessary for one of them to go on and claim it in person, and enclosing passage money. As Mrs. Perrault was the youngest and most robust of the remaining relatives it was decided to send her on to Australia.

The parting at the station between the mother and her young widowed daughter was most affecting. They had lived together all their lives and the mother's mind seemed to conjure up all sorts of dangers that would await her daughter at every step, and it was with difficulty that she tore herself away as the train pulled out.

The Con. Cabinet.

As some of the Con. papers announce that the Cons. are going to win this year, we are tempted to save Mr. Borden a whole lot of trouble by picking a Cabinet for him from the peerless assortment of massive brained and eagle-eyed statesmen now decorating the ranks of his party.

Canada is to wake up some morning and find itself ruled by the following ping-pong experts:

Premier .....Hon. R. L. Borden
Minister of Rough House..Hon. R. L. Gourley
Minister of Scraps .....Hon. Sam Hughes
Minister of Finance .....Hon. $. $. Gamey
Minister of Trouble.....Hon. J. I. Tarte

Other artists and party stars Mr. Borden would have to pick from are. R. H. Pope, Dr. Sproule and Willie Maclean.

MANUFACTURERS AND INSURANCE

Committee Now Considering Plan for a Mutual System.

Mr. Geo. E. Despatches received at the meeting show that the executive has decided that such a company would be of special benefit to members of the association, and they would be given an opportunity of deciding whether they wanted such a plan or not at the annual meeting to be held in this city next month.

A large manufacturer in conversation with The Herald said that if a satisfactory plan could be found he would have no hesitation in placing his insurance with the association, and there would be lots of others who would do the same thing.

WHEAT SENSATION; JUMPS OVER $1.14

Reports of Rust in Manitoba Sets the Markets on Fire.

There was quite a sensation in local grain circles this morning, when grain men here began to get reports that rust had actually attacked the Manitoba wheat crop.

Wheat soared to $1.14 1-2 for the May option in Chicago, while in Winnipeg August wheat jumped to $1.08 1-4 and $1.08.

A couple of days ago stories of bad damage from rust in Manitoba were circulated by Mr. H. V. Jones, the well known Minneapolis grain man.

Local and Winnipeg people were inclined to doubt these stories, and no confirmation of them was received until to-day.

H. D. Metcalfe & Co. received the following wire from its Winnipeg office:

"Reports on rust are getting fierce. In one place 50 per cent. of the wheat is gone."

Another wire said:

"Very bad samples of wheat just received here."

The day's reports from the Western States were even worse than this, and when the report came in that the weather forecast was for cooler weather and possibly frost to-night, the wheat markets fairly soared.

Late this afternoon the Manitoba millers were reticent on the situation, and hesitated to say anything until they had heard full reports from their own agents.

VICE-REGAL PARTY HAD CLOSE CALL

Automobile Got Beyond Control, and Dashed Into Sidewalk.

Quebec, Aug. 19.—(Special.)—Lady Eileen, Lady Ruby and three other members of the Governor-General's household had a narrow escape yesterday evening. They were on a pleasure trip out on the St. Louis road in one of Lord Minto's automobiles, and on their way home Lady Eileen, who was acting as chauffeur, lost control of the vehicle, which commenced to run wild. Realizing the danger of an accident that might have serious results, Lady Eileen, who never lost her presence of mind, acting under the impulse of the moment, ran the automobile right into the sidewalk in close vicinity to the Price residence, about three miles west of the city. The automobile was badly smashed, but the occupants all escaped unhurt.

STEAMER CANADA CAUSES TROUBLE IN RAISING

Contractors are Still at Work Though Negotiations With Company are Going On.

The steamer Canada, of the R. & O. Company, has not been raised yet, although Gagnon Bros., of Quebec, have been endeavoring to do so for some time. The work is proving more difficult than anticipated and a rumor was spread that the contractors had withdrawn and that the R. & O. Company would themselves finish it.

When seen this morning an official of the company stated that such a report was premature ,as no arrangements had yet been made for taking over the work from the contractors. Negotiations are in progress, but nothing has yet been decided. The work is still going on under the arrangement with Gagnon Freres, and nothing will probably be changed for a couple of days anyway.

WILLIAM O'BRIEN ELECTED IN CORK

He May Not Accept Seat Owing to Differences With Party.

Cork, Ireland, August 19.—William O'Brien to-day was re-elected member of Parliament for Cork city unopposed. It is not known whether he will accept, but the local executive of the United Irish League will use every effort to induce Mr. O'Brien to return to Parliament.

Mr. O'Brien, November 5, 1903, resigned his seat in Parliament for Cork city, and as a member of the governing body of the United Irish League, owing to differences of opinion with members of the Nationalist party.

MAY MAKE NEW DIVISION FOR THE INTERCOLONIAL

Newcastle May be Divisional Headquarters for the New Section.

Newcastle, N.B., August 19.—(Special.)—The Intercolonial hopes to take over the management of the Canada Eastern by September 1st. The details of the management of the new section of the road are now being discussed and it may be necessary to establish a new division. The idea would be to end District Supt. Price's division at Newcastle instead of Moncton as at present and make Newcastle the divisional headquarters for the newly acquired section as well as the section between there and Moncton. In this event a desaptcher's office would be established at Newcastle and in all probability the Indiantown branch extended to Blackville.

FAREWELL DINNER TO LORD MINTO

He Was Entertained by the Garrison Club of Quebec.

Quebec, August 19.—(Special)—Leading citizens of Quebec and members of the Garrison Club entertained His Excellency the Governor-General Lord Minto, at a farewell dinner last night, in the Garrison Club. The following occupied seats at the table of honor: Lieut.-Col. Oscar Pelletier, D.O.C., president of the club, presiding, and on his right Lord Minto, Sir Louis Jette, Sir Alphonse Pelletier, Senator J. Tessier, Wm. Power, M.P., Hon. R. Turner, General Henry, Capt. Browning, Lieut.-Col. Forsyth, Sir F. Carrington. On his left Vice-Admiral Sir A. Douglas, Hon. Charles Fitzpatrick, Hon. Mr. Archambault, Hon. A. Robitaille, Hon. L. P. Pelletier, Surgeon-Colonel Neilsen, Captain Grogan and Sir A. P. Caron.

Lieut.-Col. Pelletier, on proposing the health of the honored guests made a pleasing speech in French on the able manner His Excellency had represented His King in Canada and had endeared himself in the hearts of the people.

On rising to respond, His Excellency was greeted with great applause. He spoke with much emotion, and referred to his pleasant official experiences in Canada, a country which he began to love, when as military secretary to the Marquis of Lansdowne in 1883-4, he first visited it. He at once felt that he was among friends, though when he went to Rimouski to meet his chief, the news that greeted his ears was not of a very cheery nature. He spoke warmly of the French-Canadian population, and referred in touching terms to their fealty and loyalty to the Empire. He urged closer sympathy between the races and hoped that nothing would disturb the entent cordiale which at present existed. His Excellency said that there was no more beautiful or no more picturesque city in the world than Quebec. There were no more hospitable people in the world than the people of the Ancient Capital. He had veneration for the antiquities of Quebec, love for its beautiful scenery, sympathy for its historical traditions and admiration for its surroundings.

He loved to look upon the Plains of Abraham, hallowed by time and rich in historical allusion. He regretted that vandalism seemed to be entering the usurping wedge, and that a glorious battlefield full of heroic memory, and annalistic lore, was in danger of being sacrificed. Improvements were all well enough in their way, but there was such a thing as destroying too ruthlessly old landmarks, landmarks which made Quebec to-day, one of the most picturesque and beautiful spots on earth. He hoped to return to this city some years hence. He trusted that Quebec would remain true to herself and keep ever in view her ancient traditions. The close of Lord Minto's remarks evoked great applause.

LUCK OF THE HORSESHOE.

The origin of the belief in "horse shoe" luck is so ancient that it never has been determined with certainty—and no superstition is more universal. Ever since horses began to wear shoes these crescents of iron have been accounted lucky emblems by all peoples, races and nations that have been acquainted with their use. In England, up to comparatively recent times, horse shoes were extensively used as anti-witch charms, and the custom is not even yet an extinct one.

The origin of this particular belief is referable to the old legend of St. Dunstan. This versatile English ecclesiastic was a skilled farrier, and one day while at work in his forge the Evil One entered in disguise, and requested Dunstan to shoe his "single hoof." The saint, although he at once recognized his malign customer, acceded, but caused him so much pain during the operation that Satan begged him to desist. This Dunstan did, but only after he had made the Evil One promise that neither he nor any of the lesser evil spirits, his servants, would ever molest the inmates of a house where a horse shoe was displayed.

GRANT'S MARVELLOUS MEMORY.

(From the National Magazine.)

General Grant's retentive memory was simply marvellous, more especially to those most closely associated with him from day to day. In the midst of absorbing thought, and with apparently unobservant manner, his quick ear and eye seemed to hear and notice everything, and two weeks or months later the slightest details had not escaped his attention or memory. This power was unmistakably demonstrated in a game of whist with his guest, Major-General Doyle, of the British Army, between Baltimore and Fortress Monroe. The two staff officers completed the players. With Gen. Doyle at his right, it was simply amazing to discover Grant's ability to discover strategic points. He never failed to remember every card that had fallen, whence it came and who was to deliver to him all remaining, which he scooped in as a matter of course, although he never seemed in the least absorbed in the game. He was indeed an enigmatic composition in this as well as in other respects.

HE KNEW.

She—I suppose he laid the foundation of his power by taking time by the forelock.

He—No; it was by taking the Senate by the deadlock.

REV. J. D. MORROW NOW A BENEDICT

Famous Athlete Married Miss Ives at Compton Yesterday.

Compton, Que., Aug. 19.—(Special.)—A very pretty nuptial was celebrated at the residence of the bride's parents yesterday afternoon, when Rev. J. D. Morrow was united in marriage to Miss Edith Ives. A large number of guests were present, including Mrs. J. B. Anglin, of Verdun, a cousin of the bride.

Rev. J. D. Morrow is known in Montreal by a good many more people in Montreal than known by him. Hundreds upon hundreds have cheered him as he breasted the tape at the M. A. A. A. grounds, winning medals and championship badges. It will be remembered that when Oxford and Cambridge athletes visited Montreal Morrow was the only Canadian to win his event.

Morrow was good at 100 yards, 220 yards, 440 yards and broad jump, but his best work was at 440 yards. He has a mark of 50 seconds in championship events, and has bettered that in minor races. Perhaps his best performance, though not his fastest, was in the Divinity College games in 1900, on a soft track, and after standing for almost half an hour in a bitterly cold wind, he ran his 440 yards in 51 seconds flat.

On McGill and M. A. A. A. grounds he won admiration for his speed and respect for his own sterling worth.

ARCHBISHOP FARLEY PASSES THROUGH THE CITY

Is En Route to Summer School at Plattsburg, of Which He Speaks in Glowing Terms.

His Grace Archbishop Farley, the Roman Catholic Archbishop of New York, arrived at the Windsor last evening en route to the Catholic Summer School at Plattsburg.

His Grace expressed himself as greatly surprised and pleased at the numerous improvements which had taken place in Montreal since his last visit here some years ago. He referred particularly to the wonderful change from an architectural point of view.

His Grace stated that the Plattsburg Summer School, which had been founded for the purpose of giving Catholic teachers and other an opportunity of attending high class lectures, had been most satisfactory, and had even surpassed the expectations of the most optimistic of its friends and promoters.

On being asked if the socalled Americanism really existed in the Church in the United States, Archbishop Farley, who has eighty suffragan bishops under him, and who is, naturally, in touch with the most populous centres of Roman Catholicism in America, stated emphatically that no Americanism whatever existed in any section of the clergy or people. If it had ever existed its disappearance had followed the Pope's letter on the subject.

Regarding educatinal matters, the college and seminaries of the archdiocese, His Grace declared, were making most satisfactory progress, and priests of the several nationalities were being trained to take charge of the newcomers from the Old World. Mgr. Farley said that among the whole foreign population, the Italians were the most anxious to become Americans, in fact as well as in name.

Archbishop Farley was coadjutor to the late Archbishop Corrigan, and was twelve years private secretary to Cardinal McCloskey.

HORSES WORKING WITH RAW SORES

Recorder Weir is Disposed to be Severe in His Fines.

It is unfortunately the case that many horses are worked on the streets of Montreal while in an unfit state. There have been several cases brought before the Court recently, and to-day Mr. Recorder Weir had to handle four more. In one it was shown by an inspector of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals that this was the second occasion during the present month he had found the horse at work while suffering from an open wound under the collar. The previous driver had been convicted at that Court eight or ten days ago. On hearing this, the Recorder caused the owner to be summoned by telephone, and a charge sworn against him of aiding and abetting a breach of the by-law.

A consultation also took place between Recorder Weir and Chief of Police Legault, and that officer has arranged for a number of constables being put on special duty until the end of the summer, so that there might be more thorough supervision of the animals at work in the city. Chief Legault will also issue instructions to the entire staff of constables to devote closer attention to the matter in the course of their ordinary duties. The cases disposed of to-day were:—

Edouard Thibault, carter, horse with raw sore under saddle, $3 or fifteen days.

Narcisse Dulude, carter, horse with raw sore under collar, and whipping without necessity, $5 or a month.

Napoleon Lachance, carter, horse with raw sore on back under the saddle, $5 or a month.

Moise Proulx, mail waggon driver, horse with raw sore under collar; sentence suspended on account of accused having the horse with the knowledge of the foreman carter.

Amedie Meunier, owner of the horse driven by Proulx, said the animal was out without his knowledge, and that he had discharged the previous driver for the same cause. He had plenty of horses, and it was his distinct injunction that none be allowed out while in an unfit condition. He would deal with the stable foreman when he returned. Fined $5 or a month.

Costs were added in each instance.

JURISDICTION MAY BE TRANSFERRED TO DAWSON

Effort Will be Made to Open Road From Dawson to Mackenzie River.

Ottawa, Aug. 19.—(Special.)—An effort is to be made to establish communications between Dawson and the police post at the mouth of the Mackenzie River. At the present time the police sergeant and the two constables under him who constitute the force to compel obedience to Canadian authority among sealers and whalers report to the department at Ottawa. Their supplies and mail have been taken to them on a thousand miles trip down the Liard and Mackenzie rivers to the post on the Arctic. This post is only about 200 miles from Dawson, and if communication can be established overland it will be placed under the jurisdiction of the police commanders on the Yukon and receive its supplies and mails from Dawson. The Mackenzie river route has its perils. In the spring a load of supplies was sent in and was lost at Athabasca landing. A second load was forwarded and lost in a rapid, a third attempt was made and is supposed to be on its way down to the Mackenzie river.

At present he was inclined not to accept, even if he got it, but he did not care to make any statement without consideration. Personally he did not expect to be chosen.

CHINA WILL RESIST ENTRY OF RETREATING RUSSIANS

Force of 40,000 Armed Chinese Are Concentrated Near Mongolian Border—Washington's View on the Latest Japanese Seizure at Che Foo.

Washington, Aug. 19.—The despatch from Che Foo this morning to the effect that seven Japanese destroyers had entered the harbor and took possession of an unknown steamer, is so worded as to leave in doubt one of the most important points connected with the seizure, namely, the exact spot at which it took place and whether within or without the three mile limit. The impression here is that the seizure took place within the Chinese territorial waters. The incident is regarded as an evidence of the determination of the Japanese naval officers to attack and cut out any Russian ships that lie in Che Foo harbor provided they are not dismantled to the absolute satisfaction of the Japanese naval officers.

Some apprehension has been expressed in other capitals that these apparent breaches of Chinese neutrality by Japan may extend to the land operations of the hostile army. This feeling is not shared in Washington, and although the officials will not make public the sources of their information on this point, there is reason to believe that they have been assured by both Japan and Russia that there will be no extension of the war field beyond Manchuria and perhaps Corea. The danger of a breach of neutrality, so far as land operations are concerned, is said to centre at a point on the border between Manchuria and Chinese Mongolia, which would naturally be the place where General Kuropatkin would seek to make his escape with his army in the event that the Japanese under General Kuroki succeed in executing the plan which is now afoot of surrounding him on the northeast and south, thus cutting him off from the Siberian railroad and his line of communication. Apprehensive of this movement, Yuanshi Kai and Ma, the famous Chinese generals, with their foreign drilled troops, have concentrated a force of about forty thousand men in Mongolia near the border, and it is feared that there may be a clash between these men and the Russian troops in the event of the retreat of the latter across the line.

CUT IN STEEL.

The announcement made by the U.S. Steel Corporation that reductions of from $5 to $12 a ton in wire products will not have any effect on the prices quoted in Canada, according to the statement made to The Herald to-day by a leading merchant. It was pointed out that while there were pool prices in the United States, the cut prices that had been quoted to Canadian manufacturers right along had been quite as low as the reductions now brought in on the U. S. market. It was on this account that the reductions would not make any difference here.

THE WRATH OF THE GOD

—By Arthur H. Adams.

I have talked the thing over and over with Lady Chatterton, and yet neither of us has come to any conclusion about it. Candidly, I don't see how we could come to any satisfying solution of the affair. We don't know yet whether the thing actually took place, or whether we both imagined it; and yet there is no record of two people being under the same hallucination at the same time—in a West End drawing room, too, on a bright sunny afternoon in the season. And then there is the death of poor Penyris. Heart disease, the papers said. The evening papers had the thing in big type, "Shocking Death in a Duchess's Drawing Room!" and there were various veiled hints, suggestions from unknowns, queries semi-official, talks of a coroner's inquest, whisperings of a post-mortem—all very terrible to us, knowing what we did.

But it came to nothing. We took care of that, Lady Chatterton and I, or rather I did it all, for the poor woman's nerves went altogether under the strain, and when I was allowed to see her a month afterward she was just a trembling, pitiable thing of fear. I had poor Penyris's body taken away, wired his relatives, and kept the thing from the public. And Penyris is buried—he died from heart disease, to which, the doctors said, he had always been subject—died in Lady Chatterton's cosy drawing room, just after we three had had afternoon tea. I wonder what the doctors made of that mark on Penyris's forehead?

But it is no use speculating. The thing is finished with—at least, I hope it is. Perhaps I am presumptous to believe that that unknown force, or whatever it was, that Penyris so unconsciously invoked, could be so easily placated. And yet there is Penyris's dead body. Often I wake in the night with the conviction that it is in the room with me, playing with me, grimly waiting for me. And though Lady Chatterton is reticent I sometimes catch a sudden terror in her glance, a frightened appeal, a cowering fear. Of what? I fancy I know. I dare not tell her. The terrible thing about it is that it is so outside ordinary experience that we have no weapons with which to combat it. And yet poor Penyris's body, with that mark on the forehead, ought to be sufficient explation. But how can we Westerners, with our crude materialistic notions of the universe, tel what may lie behind what we term sensation?

But let me tell the story as it happened. I break silence now because it is safe from discovery. Lady Chatterton—I might as well tell the truth about her once for all—Lady Chatterton is dying from some obscure nervous disease that has put that indescribable terror into her once beautiful eyes. She guesses what the end must be, but she never hints at it, even to me. We dare not take Lord Chatterton into our confidence. We feel so horribly isolated; we move about in our world—as far as we can see, it is our only world—a world of drawing room and yacht, of carriage and motor, of the ballroom and the moor; and all the time we are conscious of that other world that lies so awfully close; but if I tell the thing plainly some one might suggest to us what to do. Only it must be soon—Lady Chatterton is dying, and there is my own case.

Well, here's the thing as it occurred.

It had been a cosy little affair. I had met Lady Chatterton in the park, and she had insisted on carrying me home with her to tea. When we got to her house we found Penyris there. I never cared much for Penyris. He was a strange, reserved fellow—a professor of some Eastern language at Oxford, quite a young man, too. A good-loking fellow, with a great white, broad brow, reaching up like a dome.

For the rest, Penyris was a reserved man, buried in his books, poking round in the British Museum and writing Oriental dictionaries in his spare time. In his vacations he used to go off to India alone; and the only occasion on which I ever suspected him of enthusiasm was when he told me the wish of his life was to penetrate Lhassa, the forbidden city of Thibet.

"One day," he said, "I'll make that journey. Wouldn't it be splendid to be the first white man to reach Lhassa and find out the last secrets of the Buddhist faith!"

I laughed. He disliked me from that day.

He explained to us when we came in that afternoon that he was really waiting for Lord Chatterton. It semed the Duke had just received some loot from China, taken by a cousin of his, an officer who had been through the Boxer campaign. Among the collection was a number of articles taken from the great Buddhist temple at Paoting-fu, which had been blown up by the allies.

Penyris said that the Duke had communicated with him, referring to a rumor that this was one of the oldest temples in China, and that it had for centuries been in the closest touch with the Living Buddha at Lhassa.

Lady Chatterton asked him to stay to tea, adding that Bob would be in soon. And I asked him politely who was the Living Buddha he seemed to know so well.

"The Living Buddha," he said, with a glance of contempt at me, "is the most important personage in the whole Buddhist scheme. He represents in himself the reincarnation of the first Buddha. He's the pope of the faith, and he lives, shrouded in mystery, in his unknown capital of Thibet. Nobody has ever seen him except the high priests of his faith. When he dies another Gagen, as he is called, is selected as chief of the hierarchy, and in him in turn the god is supposed to be re-embodied."

We were duly impressed.

"I'm sorry," said Lady Chatterton, "that Bob has not had all those things unpacked yet; but," rising and crossing the room, "here's a curiosity that perhaps you'd be interested in."

She lifted a little bronze Buddha from a table and brought it across to him.

"Bob was so taken with the placid ferocity in the poor chap's face," she laughed, "that he brought it in for me to see."

Penyris put down his teacup at once. And never took it up again. Afterward, when his body lay in that horribly lax heap on the couch, I remember noticing that the tea in Penyris's cup had not been touched. It was still warm, I believe, then.

The idol was a little figure of Buddha, seated crosslegged on a pedestal. In his eyes, narow and heavy-lidded, was a look of calm, inhuman cruelty. It differed in this implacable gaze from other Buddhas that I had seen, and—a more important peculiarity—instead of the arms being folded on the stomach, one hand was raised—it seemed to me—threateningly. But perhaps the thought occurred to me afterward.

Penyris took the idol into his hands eagerly and scrutinized the Chinese ideographs inscribed on the base of the pedestal.

"Why, this is realy valuable!" he said, with a trace of excitement. "This is a Buddha of Lhassa, sent as a gift to the chief bonze of the Paoting-fu monastery from no less a person than the Living Buddha himself."

"Oh, how perfectly lovely," she fluttered.

"There is one thing, though," added Penyris. "This Living Buddha who sent the present must be a very dead Buddha by now, because the date on it is about our seventh century."

Meanwhile Penyris was examining the idol.

"Here's a curious thing," he said, unceremoniously turning the Buddha upside down and tapping the base with his finger. "The base is hollow, and there's something packed inside it. I wonder if I might——"

"Open it?" laughed the host. "Of course. I wonder what it can be? I hope it will be bars of gold, or diamonds, or—Oh, do open it, quick!"

"You don't think the Duke would object?" began Penyris, though I could see him feeling in his pocket for his knife as he spoke, and his hands were trembling.

"No, no; be quick!"

"But there is someone who might object," I ventured.

Penyris wheeled round on me. "Who?" he snapped.

"The old chap himself, the Living Buddha, or the very dead Buddha, as, I think, you characterized him."

"One never knows"——he began, and broke off.

He had put the idol down on the table before him. It confronted him with uplifted hand, threateningly. I was suprised to see how grave Penyris had become. He was looking past the bronze image, past me, past Lady Chatterton—and Lady Chatterton is not a woman one usually looks past. He seemed to be seeing something not apparent to me. I noticed his lips move, as it were in a question, and his hand passed caressingly across his broad white forehead.

Lady Chatterton's teacup suddenly slipped, and the clatter of the saucer woke us all from that little reverie. Penyris came to himself with a start.

"Anyhow," he said, almost in a tone of defiance, "I'm going to take the risk."

With his penknife it was an easy matter to prize the base open. It was of thin metal. We crowded close, eagerly watching. The base came off, revealing a mass of chocolate-colored dust.

"Opium," he pronounced; then, with a keener look at it, "No, I believe it's some kind of incense."

He poured the stuff out into a plate. In the clotted mass was a little roll of bright yellow silk. It had evidently been packed in the head of the idol. Penyris, with a cry, took it up.

"It's a prayer," he explained, opening the silk covering and unrolling a long strip of paper, along which in red characters a legend was inscribed.

"This is in the Thibetan language—the ancient Thibetan language. Orientals are fond of printing their prayers; possibly it saves them the trouble of repeating them. Now this," he inspected it very closely, "this is evidently very valuable, else it would not have been concealed so carefully in such a sacred place as the head of this precious idol. No Oriental would ever venture on the sacrilege of exploring this old gentleman's inner works. The bonze who packed this prayer away believed it would be safe from disturbance for eternity. And now we Westerners, with our blatant——"

He inspected it closely for few minutes with a growing intentness. Even Lady Chatterton refrained from interrupting the silence.

"It isn't a prayer at all," he said at last. "It's an imprecation, a curse. And a pretty thorough-going curse, too! It deals with anybody who—I say, the curse is on me! It is directed against anybody who dares to displace this—— Why, it's not incense at all; it says here distinctly that it is a bit of the sacred earth on which Buddha stood when—— Why, this is one of the most sacred relics of the Buddhist faith! I've done something I'm sorry for. I had no right to meddle in this way with these things; they're sacred things to every Buddhist in the world, and we never know——"

He was in terrible earnest, speaking gravely in interrupted sentences, as if overmastered with his thoughts. Lady Chaterton and I looked at each other. Despite the feeling that we were, as it seemed, walking over graves, we both thought Penyris rather childish.

He read the scroll through to the end. Then he looked up, and in his eyes I saw—Fear! The thing was absurd, of course; here was a cultured Englishman of the twentieth century afraid of an old idol—in a London drawing-room with the afternoon tea on the table. And yet Penyris was really afraid.

He rolled up the paper strip and carefully replaced it in its yellow covering.

"Better put this all back, I think," he said quietly. "Perhaps that will placate, avert the calamity—whatever shape it takes."

"Nonsense!" I said. "The old Thibetan who made the idol put that curse in there to frighten off intruders. It's merely a sort of 'Trespassers will be prosecuted, beware of the dog' notice. You don't mean to say that you——"

Penyris' eyes blazed. "Look here," he said, "don't you laugh at things you don't understand. I tell you that——" He stopped there; that was the nearest that Penyris ever came to the disclosure of what he knew or feared.

Lady Chatterton laughed outright. "I don't believe the stuff is sacred earth at all," she said, picking up a pinch of the chocolate-hued dust. "I am certain it is incense. Let's see if it will burn."

I doubt if Penyris heard her. He seemed lost in gloomy thought.

She put a little heap of the brown earth on a plate and held a match to it. It smouldered, giving off a faint smoke. A strange perfume came from it, and with the perfume there seemed to come into the room a faint and pleasant lassitude. I had the feeling of having dined well and smoked a good cigar. Lazily I settled back into my chair. It occurred to me comfortably that this was the occasion for a doze.

As through a haze I looked at the others. A faint film of smoke swam slowly up from the little plateful of smouldering dust. Lady Chatterton was lying back in her chair, a faint smile on her face, her eyes heavy, as with a reminiscence.

And Penyris?

When the first hint of the fragrance reached him he stirred slightly. Then he seemed to pull himself together with an effort, looked sharply up, saw what she had done, and moved clumsily to his feet.

"I say," he said, slowly and dreamily, "what are you doing with that infernal stuff?"

Neither of us answered. I was too comfortable to think of stirring. Lady Chatterton's face looked as if she were lost in a dream.

"You know," Penyris said, and his voice seemed to come from an infinite distance, "you're taking awful risks, fooling with things you don't know anything about. One never knows—I'm afraid—afraid, I tell you!" Then his voice rose to a shriek, thin and childish. "Put that infernal stuff out! For God's sake, put it out!"

He took one step toward the table, stood swaying in the middle of the room, raised his hand in an astonished way to his forehead, and staggered back onto the couch. As he sang down he raised both arms as if to ward off something that followed him. Then his arms fell heavily to his sides.

I fancy I heard him mutter, speaking, as it seemed, to some one. He was staring at the stuff that still smouldered on the table. I was too drowsy to turn my head, but my eyes followed his gaze. Then I saw those faint whirling wreaths of smoke take on form—a vast indefinite figure that seemed to rise up into the room and spread great arms threateningly. Lady Chatterton confirms me in this vision. She saw it, too. It reminded her of a picture she had seen as a child in an edition of "The Arabian Nights" of a great genii whirling vastly out of a small bottle, overshadowing the wide seashore with its sinister bulk.

Sudenly Penyris shrieked—a thin cry, full of terror. And then he huddled back limply onto his couch, both his hands on his forehead.

The cry thrilled through the room, and the great smoking thing broke into shapelessness again. In a moment it was mere smoke. A scientists to whom I told part of this story murmured something about the theory of atmospheric wave-lengths, and vibrations, and musical pitch. A more commonplace person said something vague about smoke-rings. I do not know. But the cry resolved that sinister presence with its threatening arms into utter formlessness. Only the thin wreaths lay level in the quiet, cool, secluded drawing-room, and everywhere was that faint, strange perfume.

In a moment all the languor had left me. I leaped to my feet, but Lady Chatterton was before me. With a frightened glance at each other we ran to poor Penyris.

He was quite dead—a black, dragging mark, like the print of a great claw, disfiguring the white expanse of his splendid forehead.

THE HERALD
Established 1863.

THE EYES OF THE WORLD ARE ON CANADA

The Herald now has in Preparation a Mammoth

PROGRESS EDITION

which will have direct reference to the recent great industrial development of Canada, and to conditions which underlie this revival.

Especial attention will be given to the city of Montreal, the value of its location, commercial and manufacturing importance, and residential advantages. This will be the statistical issue of the year, and the facts will be presented so clearly that the world may "read as it runs."

JAPAN BUILDING WARSHIPS.

Should Russia decide to run the risk of sending out another fleet from Europe, now that those in Japanese waters are in such a battered condition, by the time such reinforcements arrive they will find that not only will the Japanese vessels have had time for a thorough overhaul, but that there numbers will have increased instead of diminished since the war broke out in February.

As London "Engineering" points out, the fact seems to have been lost sight of that the great Japanese naval arsenal at Saseho is now a veritable Portsmouth where vessels of the type of armored cruisers and powerful torpedo boat destroyers can be built. Seven years since the Akashi, of 2,800 tons, carrying two six-inch quick-firing guns and six of smaller calibre, was turned out by Japanese artificers, and since then armor factories have been added, larger docks built, and the general equipment for shipbuilding increased; indeed Admiral Sa Sow, who superintends this branch, calculates that a protected cruiser of from 3,000 to 6,000 tons displacement with a twenty-one to twenty-two knot speed can now be built nearly fifteen per cent. cheaper than in Britain. At Yawata the Government has steel works, but the production of the armor plating and immense castings used in the battleships is as yet impossible.

The most reliable information conveys the impression that Russia will not be able to send out more than one or two battleships, and the Japanese Mikasa, Asaki, Shikishima and Fuji should be able to take care of these in addition to the Retvizan, Poltava, Pobieda, Peresviet and Sebastopol which have received such injuries as to handicap their efficiency. As regards the other classes the superiority of the Japs is as likely to be maintained numerically as it most assuredly has in marksmanship, manoeuvring and general efficiency. As regards the future, Japan has four battleships building in British yards of the very latest type which though unavoidable so long as the war is in progress will give her such an assured superiority at its close as should enhance her prestige as a naval power. If the discussion of the terms of peace led to a squabble among the other powers, of course, the vessels building for Japan would, like the British fleet, become a serious factor in the situation.

BETTER SURE THAN SORRY.

In justice to the insurance companies, it perhaps ought to be pointed out that a good deal of the condemnation to which they are being subjected is more or less irrevelant, or more or less inaccurate. Civic officials, for example, lay much stress upon the statement that since 1901 a lot of money has been spent, and a lot more appropriated. So far as it argues a willingness to do what is required to put the city in a good state to fight fire, the argument commends itself. But these appropriations, where they have anything to do with the case, have admittedly been made only after strenuous urging by the insurance men. Considering the circumstances attending it, there is not much credit to the city in this last vote for boilers, for the vote would not have been made except for the compulsion. The vote, therefore, instead of involving any reproach to the insurance men, is really a tribute to their intelligence. If, then, they say, as they do, that still other things ought to be done, why not honestly examine whether they may not be right? If they are right, it is no answer at all to say, "We will not do these necessary things because we have already done some other necessary things." A shoemaker might as well argue that there was no need to put on the sole because he had already made the upper.

Neither is the position bettered any by such totally misleading arguments as that advanced by the Witness yesterday, which blundered into assuming that a government calculation of a million dollars passing from company to company for reinsurance was a million taken from the public and "thrown to the winds" on agents. Neither the public nor the agents was in any way concerned, and the companies are wholly guiltless of the formidable charge made against them. The arbitrary brokerage charge is, in many cases, an outrage, and conceded to be so by the managers, but it is only fair to recognize that the insured have, in the mass, their share of responsibility for it. The public might, it seems to us, very well claim that the companies, when they agree together to a special extra charge like this, should also agree not to pay any brokerage on the special addition. But to charge, without knowledge or discrimination, that good business men are recklessly throwing to the winds millions which do not exist is not likely to accomplish much, except to bring the critics into ridicule.

The main point is for the city authorities to honestly determine what ought to be done to avert the danger of serious fire, and then to do it. We have ordered three boilers, but ordered them two years after they ought to have been up and working. Why not spare ourselves the attendant humiliation in other cases? We understand the official position to be, in respect of the demand for mains with greater carrying capacity on St. Francois Xavier, St. Sacrament, and Hospital streets, that there is abundant water available from nearby mains for any ordinary fire, and that Mr. Howe's apprehensions could only be justified in case of a conflagration. But it is precisely the conflagration danger that ought to be provided for in this district of narrow streets and high buildings. Toronto burned by blocks in a district where the streets were wide and the buildings of solid brick, scarcely so high. Obviously, the one hope of preventing a conflagration in that section of Montreal is to be sure there is water enough for every possible demand. It is impossible to be satisfied with half a supply, particularly when, as was shown in the Toronto case, pressure and supply are both apt to be dissipated by taps burning off and pipes breaking in the burning buildings. One would suppose the men whose property is at risk on these streets would object to the prospect of the water running out in case of a big fire, and as the bigger the fire the greater the danger to those whose places are some distance off, it is natural to suppose that others cannot like the prospect any too well either. Would it not be the part of wisdom for the city to take this question seriously and to lay such mains as are recommended? By what was done on St. Peter and St. Nicholas streets after the Board of Trade fire, the city admitted the claim that that fire would not have reached the proportions it did if there had been water enough. Must we show ourselves no better than Lamb's Chinaman, who burned down a house every time he wanted roast pig? Must we wait for another big fire for proof that these four-inch mains ought to be replaced with ten-inch?

VALUE OF THE BATTLESHIP.

Before Parliament adjourned Lord Brassey instituted an interesting discussion regarding naval policy in the light of the lessons learned during the present war, and though he expressed general satisfaction with the position he strongly urged the construction of a less costly type of battleship, inasmuch as superiority in number had been practically proved a great factor and that the largest vessels besides being just as vulnerable below the water line, were also equally liable to the risks from stranding, collision and fog. The cost of the latest battleship, the "Edward VII." class, of 16,350 tons, had reached £1,500,000 each, while the contemplated Nelsons, of 18,000 tons, would doubtless cost more, while the Swiftsure and Triumph, purchased from Chili to prevent them falling into the hands of either Russia or Japan, had only cost £950,000 each, and though of only 11,800 tons, had proved themselves in speed and general efficiency a remarkable success.

The First Lord of the Admiralty, in his instructive reply, made the emphatic statement that Mr. Goschen and Mr. Ritchie had made definite offers to France "that if other nations would agree to diminish the rate of shipbuilding England would join in the movement," and that this offer had never been withdrawn. Unfortunately the situation which induced Britain to limit herself to the "two-power standard," that of keeping her navy equal to any other two powers, had changed. Other powers are rushing forward large ship-building programmes, and it would be impossible for any one of them to maintain such a fleet as should preponderate over possible combinations in all its types.

Dealing particularly with the lessons of the war it is the opinion of the expert advisers of the British Admiralty that now, as in Nelson's time, much will depend upon the personnel engaged, in their accuracy of shooting and their ability to handle their ships so as to expose the least target to the enemy. One of the secrets of the success of the dispositions of Admiral Togo has been the care with which he has used superiority in range. Only in the case of the battleship Hatsuse have the Japanese sustained a dangerous loss, and that was caused by a mine explosion in a fog. He has manoeuvred his ships so that in several instances they have been put out of range of the enemy, while the latter were reached by their own superior armament. Consequently after six months of incessant strain in patrol duty as well as in action, the Japanese find themselves with their base of defence—the battleship class—almost intact.

The consensus of opinion is that the power which has the biggest ship with longest range gun and the most expert marksmen, will always hold the key to final victory. The brunt of the work may, in nine cases out of ten, fall upon torpedo boats, small cruisers, and, in certain cases, smaller battleships, but all these only gain their importance so long as their mother ships, the big battleships, preponderate over those of the enemy in a crucial action.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Canada is with Laurier.

The provincial bye-election in Lillooet, B.C., caused the Gazette to remark: "The Conservatives are winning bye-elections in British Columbia. The claim that the West is with Borden has justification outside of, as well as in Manitoba." Seeing that the Lillooet election was a provincial one, and that the Conservative candidate, who now gets in with a majority of sixty-four, was elected by acclamation at the general elections, the encouragement of Mr. Borden is somewhat microscopical.

MINISTER WU'S REBUKE.

Mr. Wu, former Chinese Minister, noted for his sharp wit and ready repartee, was on one occasion honored by a visit from a delegation of women interested in the cause of foreign missions. From the Minister they desired some complimentary remarks in reference to the indebtedness which China owed the efforts of the missionaries. The Ambassador was reluctant to give credit to the foreigners, asserting that China's progress was due to Chinese effort and patriotism. Said one of the ladies:

"Why don't you relieve your women from the cruelty of tight shoes?"

"Because," answered the Ambassador, resentfully, "a small shoe is preferable to a small waist, and it is easier to keep such a foot out of the affairs of other people."

THE GAME IN MANCHURIA.

BLOCKADE RUNNING

The young gentlemen of the St. Petersburg and the Smolensk have realized in the lifting of mail boats in the Red Sea some of the older delights of freebooting or getting through the blockading Federal cruisers before Charleston.

The adventures of the volunteer fleet armed like cruisers and built like the Empress liners of the Canadian Pacific Company, stand out distinctly as the best of the Russo-Japanese war. And whatever the captains of the St. Petersburg and the Smolensk may say as to the glory or success of their "captures," the must admit that they have had a good time.

The modified scheme of piracy which flourished in the sixties, to the anger of Brother Jonathan, Englishmen were content to call "Running the blockade." There is a good deal of the same kind of sport going on in the Far East now, and it may some day be revived nearer home.

The extraordinary features of the game as played in the sixties were found in the social rank of the men who took part in it. They belonged, indeed, to almost all ranks who could get a berth aboard. It was well known in St. James's that Lieutenant Hobart, afterwards Hobart Pasha, was in command of a blockade runner from Nassau to Charleston and other South American ports.

Half the young cadets of Park-lane and Belgravia sought permission to join. He did take a few, but the famous "Captain Roberts," to recall his nom de guerre, was a sailor, and he gybed a bit at his mother's friends and the boys of his father's club cronies.

Blue-Blooded Adventurers.

They tumbled aboard, however, in all sorts of characters—as lumpers of cargo, deck hands, furnacemen, and stewards. Some of Hobart's crew lapsed later into the life of their port of origin, and took stations high in the services, as well as in politics and diplomacy.

In another blockade runner was an Oxford man, who later in life became a Colonial Bishop. In another was a colonel of Engineers, whom I subsequently met on the road to Modder River via Belmont and Enslin.

But I might cite a third of the aristocracy whose boys either served or desired to serve as blockade runners. It was the best "sport" then going.

America itself was a closed book, a land of mystery; the Rocky Mountains were geographical expressions, the prairies were synonymous with the "Grand Trail," otherwise the saddle and the tent carts, in lieu of the modern railway, and the six-shooter or the repeating rifle instead of the dining-car or the "sleeper."

Also, adventurous Englishmen then had to go to India if they would meet big game.

America was in the throes of war, the Southern ports were blockaded by a Federal fleet, and it was to get munitions of war and supplies to the beleaguered garrisons and communities that "Captain Roberts" made himself a hero, and went out for the merry game with the comforting "red badge of courage"—"Never caught."

I went into the offices of Messrs. Frazer, Trenholme and Co., who traded under the rose as Confederate agents in Liverpool. My object was to ask permission to join the Jessie, a famous Isle of Man steamer, previously known on the station as the Douglas.

"Blockader" Fever.

As I walked out, a famous British sailor, who died Admiral Inglefield, mounted the steps to the same end. We represented the social extremes of enthusiasm for the "blockader" fever.

The ship of "Captain Roberts" was the most easy going, because successful, of the whole fleet of "runners." There was little discipline aboard beyond what sheer necessity ordained. "Roberts" spent the day at the narrow end of a long telescope, sweeping the seas for Federal cruisers.

The mates "booted" the engineers to force up more steam to the point of "bursting the boilers"; the engineers kicked the stokers to the same end—the patricians, haply, of Park-lane—the stokers kicked the boys, who were probably rascals who ought to have been "fagging" at Eton ,and, in the poetry of reprisals and the phrase of the deck, the boys "kicked hell."

It was a merry time, and we have never seen the like of it elsewhere. It made men of the youngest boys aboard. The English blockade runners were the best part of the campaign. Liverpool throve upon them, and waxed rich just as old Knickerbocker New York, nigh a century earlier, thrived on letters of marque with a wink of the eye at freebooting as the cousin of piracy.

Every blockade runner had an interest in the cargo he carried; every man, therefore had an interest in "getting through." The port was approached in the night. All lights were out, the grey hull was low and mastless, the paddles were oiled and muffled, smokeless Welsh coal only was burned.

The Critical Moment.

The steam pressure at the critical moment of the dash was at the highest possible. It was "bursting" point. Yet it was the choice of chances of Sing-Sing prison or death from the shrapnel of an exploded boiler.

Men stood at their stations, grimy and grim, their teeth set, every nerve strained as Brother Jonathan's big hookers rose dimly, yet too plainly too view. The heat from the overwrought engines penetrated the half-inch iron deck and made us dance in our boots like parched peas in a frying-pan.

But save for a sleepy "Who goes there?" hailed from one of the dark-lob-sided cruisers the silence would be unbroken. Then would come the firing of a warning pistol, followed by the impassioned treble of a boatswain's pipe, and hell would burst forth, and shell shriek in the direction of the port.

But the blockade-runner, never pausing, ran on at the rate of sixteen knots, the highest speed possible in those days, through and past more challenges, all the Yankees being now aroused to action, and up to the protected zone. The boiler, still sound, jaws were relaxed to a grin, and a cheer would go up to the "old man," on his bit of a bridge, and the old man, erstwhile "Captain Roberts," would grin, too.

Yes, it was fine sport—even when the picture was sadly different, and showed capture or wreckage—this feeding, clothing and comforting a beleaguered port at your own life's risk, and to your exceeding profit when it ended all right—and you got through.

Canada's Baptism

England now includes South Africa. We know it by our shedding heart's blood to help christen it. We have sent a Girouard to help cement it, and Anglicize it. We have sent from Prince Edward Island a Superintendent of Agriculture for Orange Free State, to help its practical farmers. We have sent teachers to help its education. Railroading, education, agriculture, are three great necessities to prosperity and advancement. England first fought for, then conquered, then claimed the country known as the Transvaal. Perhaps, if there had not been the mines, the wealth, perhaps, who knows if she would have fought? However she did fight. We helped her. Some of our brave Canadian soldiers died to help her. In the end she won.

Now we help build the railroads, teach the children, assist the farmers. Peace has come to a conquered people. The leader of the vanquished enemy has gone to the God in whom he believed, in whom his enemy believed, even while they fought in the name of Him who said "Peace be with you," and "Thou shalt not kill." Truly the Christian religion is an anomaly.

Now the British Government has presented Canada with souvenirs of her struggle, souvenirs of the time when we stood about all day waiting anxiously for lists of the wounded and killed; when a khaki suited soldier started a cheer; when we sang "The Soldiers of the Queen," every time two or three of us were gathered together; when "Bobs" and Baden Powell, and Kitchener, and those many other well-known names called forth audible appreciation on every possible occasion. Have we forgotten the day when news came of the relief of Ladysmith? Have we forgotten Paardeburg?

We are to have souvenirs, four large guns and seven hundred Mauser rifles, in recognition of our assistance, to help us to remember. They tell us "these trophies will be of great benefit in preserving the memory of the war and Canala's baptism of fire." So we will take them, and keep them and remember.

But it is not remembering that need trouble one. We shall never forget. The big guns and the Mauser rifles which were captured from our enemy are now really property of a sister colony, which we hold by right of conquest. The war needs no captured armaments to live in our hearts and memories. We have mementos that stand in the Transvaal that we would gladly take in exchange for guns and rifles. We have graves out there. "Gat" Howard sleeps there, and no braver Canadian ever lived. Three Canadian privates are buried at the battle ground of Paardeburg. Gravestones stand at Cronje's laager over three more Canadian soldiers. Lieut. Borden, son of Sir Frederick Borden, died out there, and a monument stands to his memory at Reitvele. Cotton, Birch, Ross, Lewis, Burns, Jackson, Living, Brady, Thomas and many others have gone to their last sleep in South Africa. We have a "God's acre" there, a Canadian God's acre, where our dead lie. They are the true rosemary for remembrance, not the guns and rifles. We would rather stand by the graves of our brave soldiers than marvel at the weapons that killed them. We would rather feel the touch of our child's hand than look with hopelessness at the poison which took him from us.

So, we will take the guns and rifles and put them in our squares and museums. We will label them properly, and be curious over them. We will appreciate the fact that they represent a conquered people—but we do not need them for mementos.

—Francis Daor.

"The paper says there's fourteen million people in Italy who can't read or write."

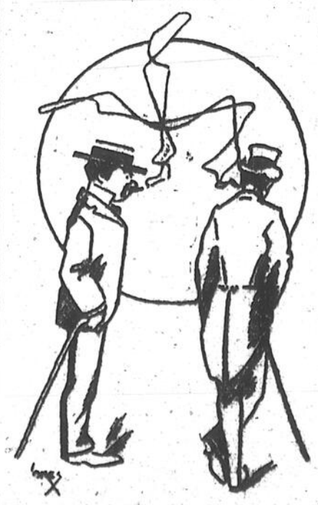

"Well, that must have been week before last. They're most of 'em over here now or on their way."

"So old Dumps has joined our company?"

"Yep."

"But I didn't know he ever played comic parts."

"You forget that this is a 'musical comedy.'"

SPOKE TOO QUICK.

"Can you change a dollar for me?"
"Sure."
"Thanks. I'll give you the dollar in the morning."

Disappearing Female Beauty

"Auld nature swears, the lovely dears,
Her noblest work she classes,
Her prentice hand she tried on man,
And then she made the lasses."

Thus the man who was blown in with that memorable blast o' Januar wind, and so, even in those later more prosaic days, re-echoes more than a bare majority of the civilized sons of Adam. And this granted, it will be recognized very generally that anything which tends in the slightest degree to make woman lose her beauty, is matter of much concern to the world. That sweet loveliness, both of mind and feature, is a something which none of us wish ever to see disassociated from the fair form divine, as somebody or other named her. Both in the aggregate and as an individual, man is content to travel through the Vale without claim to personal prettiness. But with no shrine of female beauty at which to worship, and at whose feet to lay the humble offering of bon bon or gloves, man would be likely to pine away into a much more ordinary build of mortal.

This being so, then—and the chorus of approval sounds world-wide in its volume—the recent deliverance of an eminent scientist that "the tendency of too much education, or intellectual development in women is to make them lose their beauty," is one that calls for serious consideration, and ought to be set on the winter syllabus of every Young Men's and Young Women's Association or Guild. Can it be that in cramming our daughters with all sorts of "extras" in the way of learning, in thus enticing them away from the home life and the crotcheting and patch-working of the mother's and the grandmothers' days, we have started her out on the road that leads to plainness of feature, to a time when the term, "woman, lovely woman" will only be as a memory of the things that were.

We seem to be taking chances in that direction. For the eminent one—whose name and address is, in mercy, withheld from a female world that is prone to anger as the smoke flies upward—speaks not without chapter and verse.

The Laro women of India, he points out, are supreme in their section of the world's foot-pace. They take command of the sweethearting arrangements, fix up the happy little outings to the sad but soothing sea waves, doubtless also satisfying the expectant ice-cream-soda man, and what stands in those parts for niggers on the sand. Later on she controls the affairs of the home life, sorts up the plumber troubles, and fights it out with the gas-making robbers, handles the affairs of government, and—and in fact leaves the men folks with nothing to do but eat, drink, be merry, and dizzy around pretending they are good-looking.

Result. They are the ugliest women on earth.

Can we afford to take such risks?

—Roxburgh.

These Snakes Were Real.

A rather remarkable recovery from snake bites is reported by a Bhowanagar correspondent, who states that a postal peon named Kasam was bitten by a venomous snake at Jetalsar. After sixteen hours alarming symptoms developed, and the man began bleeding from the ears and nose, and felt giddy. His leg was tremendously swollen. He was taken to the Bhownagar Hospital, and treated by Dr. Desa and his assistant, Mr. Ramji, with "Anti-Venomous Serum," prepared by Dr. Calmutte, and has recovered though he has not yet been allowed to leave the hospital.

Another curious escape from a snake bite is reported from Verawal. A fireman was sleeping on the floor of the engine-shed covered up with a blanket. A cleaner, who had also been sleeping near him, awoke about midnight and, getting up, noticed a snake resting on the sleeping fireman with its hood up. The cleaner cautiously aroused his comrade and told him to throw off the blanket as there was a large snake on it. The fireman, thereupon, threw off his covering and got rid of the reptile, which was afterwards killed, and found to measure five feet.

When the Brain Gets Tired.

There are five things to remember to help rest the brain: 1, a healthy indifference to wakefulness; 2, concentration of the mind on simple things; three, relaxtion of the body; four, gentle, rhythmic breathing of fresh air; five, regular nourishment.

If we do not lose courage, but keep on steadily night after night, with a healthy persistence in remembering and practising these five things, we shall often find that what might have been a very long period of sleeplessness may be materially shortened, and that the sleep which follows the practice of the exercise, is better, sounder and more refreshing than the sleep that came before. In many cases a long or short period of insomnia can be absolutely prevented by just these simple means.

"Where Did You Come From?"

Where did you come from, baby dear?
Out of the everywhere into here.
Where did you get your eyes so blue
Out of the sky as I came through.
What makes the light in them sparkle and spin?
Some of the starry joy left in.
Where did you get that little tear?
I found it waiting when I got here.
What makes your forehead so smooth and high?
A soft hand stroked it as I went by.
What makes your cheek like a warm, white rose?
I saw something better than any one knows?
Whence that three-cornered smile of bliss?
Three angels gave me at once—a kiss.
Where did you get that pearly ear?
God spoke, and it came out to hear.
Where did you get those hands so wee?
Love and joy gave them both to me.
Feet, whence did you come, you darling things?
From the same box as cherubs' wings.
How did they all just come to be you?
God thought of me, and so I grew.
And how did you come to us, you dear?
God thought of you, and so I'm here.

Whatis Going on in the Political World

Ottawa, Aug. 19.—(Special.)—Now that the House of Commons has prorogued, Mr. Alexander Smith, barrister, Ottawa, Liberal secretary and Dominion organizer during the years 1893 to 1903, is being deluged with letters and inquiries from all directions, and to prevent confusion has issued a circular letter to candidates and others. In this statement he points out that in the general election contests of 1896, 1898, 1900 and 1902, all of which resulted in the return of the Liberals to power, the Liberals had three bureaus of information in the Province of Ontario, and from now until the next Dominion general election is held the same centres of information will be maintained. The secretary of the western bureau is George Reid, London, Ont.; the secretary of the eastern bureau is W. J. Harvey, 48 Sparks street, Ottawa. The secretary of the central bureau is James Vance, 34 Victoria street, Toronto.

VACANCIES IN THE SENATE.

Ottawa, Aug. 19.—(Special.)—When the two new senatorships for the North-West Territories and the three existing vacancies are filled the Government will command a majority of seventeen in the Upper House of Parliament. Eight years ago the Conservative party commanded a plurality of more than sixty, or, in other words, had the Red Chamber practically to themselves. The three existing vacancies are for Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Ontario respectively, caused by Mr. Rufus Currie, of Windsor, to accept a proffered appointment; the death of the Hon. Wm. Dever, of St. John, and the death of Hon. Mr. Aikins, of Toronto.

MR. MARCIL'S MEETINGS.

Caplan, Que., Aug. 19.—(Special.)—Mr. Charles Marcil, M.P., yesterday visited the new parish of St. Alphonse de Caplan, and held a very successful meeting outside the parish church. Mr. Marcil in his address reviewed the work of the Government during the past session. Mr. Marcil left for St. Bonaventure, where he will address a meeting to-night.

ST. MAURICE LIBERALS.

Pointe du Lac, Aug. 19.—(Special.)—Dr. L. P. Fiset, M.P. for the County of St. Maurice in the local House, yesterday addressed a meeting at this town, and though it has always been a Conservative stronghold it would not be surprising if a substantial Liberal majority was secured.

DENIAL BY MR. LAPOINTE.

Fraserville, Que., Aug. 19.—(Special.)—Mr. Ernest Lapointe, member for Kamouraska, has issued a public statement denying that he raised racial issues in his address at St. Alexandre on Sunday last.

MR. TALBOT WILL RUN AGAIN.

The report published that Mr. O. Talbot, M.P. for Bellechasse, had been appointed to succeed Mr. Gregory in the Marine Department, is incorrect. Mr. Gregory has not resigned, and Mr. Talbot will again be a candidate in Bellechasse.

ESSEX CONSERVATIVES.

Windsor, Ont., Aug. 19.—(Special.)—A Conservative convention for the selection of a candidate to oppose R. F. Sutherland, K.C., in the next election will be held soon. Among those mentioned as candidates are E. S. Wigle, Attorney J. W. Hanna and Dr. H. R. Casgrain. It is likely that Ernest Wigle will decline the nomination on the ground that his brother, Lewis Wigle, mayor of Leamington, is to oppose M. K. Cowan in the south riding of Essex. Attorney Hanna has stated he would not be a candidate, and the selection consequently rests with Dr. Casgrain.

Thoughts of the Other Side.

I've been thinkin' o' meetin', an' lovin', there
—by the jasper sea,
But I'd ruther the woman-Jenny, than the angel she's goin' to be!
I'd ruther hear her singin' over the fields of dew,
Than the harp of the handiest angel back of the bendin' blue!

I make no doubt, when it's over—this life, with its songs and sighs,
We'll change the green o' the clover for the gold o' the glistenin' skies;
But give me a little cabin, where the dear earth-lights I see,
An' there, with the roses 'round her, Jenny to welcome me!

We'll all be changed in a twinklin', but I'll say, when I reach that shore:
"Don't want no change in Jenny for ever an' ever more!"
To think of her as a spirit, all made out o' the mist—
The smile that made my heaven—the red lips I have kissed!

Let 'em take the shinin' palaces, an' keep the harps o' gold!
Jenny's jest all o' heaven that the arms o' me would hold!
Give me the little cabin, where the lights o' love I see,
An' 'stead of a thousan' angels, Jenny to welcome me!

—Frank L. Stanton, in Atlanta Constitution.

ONE KIND OF WEDDING NOTICE.

The following strange wedding notice is going the rounds, variously credited: "The bride was born of honest but well meaning parents and could walk alone at six months, at ten she could run real fast, and has never slackened her gait. She has many friends—most of them dead ones. The happy couple tok a bridal trip to Westly, and will be at home with the old man until they are kicked out."

NOT COMBED ENOUGH.

(From the Kansas City Star.)

A travelling man found a hair in his order of honey at a Muscotah hotel and complained to the landlord about it. "I can't help it," the landlord replied. "I bought it for combed honey."

To be a successful wife, to retain the love and admiration of her husband should be a woman's constant study. Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Potts tell their stories for the benefit of all wives and mothers.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will make every mother well, strong, healthy and happy. I dragged through nine years of miserable existence, worn out with pain and weariness. I then noticed a statement of a woman troubled as I was, and the wonderful results she had had from your Vegetable Compound, and decided to try what it would do for me, and used it for three months. At the end of that time I was a different woman, the neighbors remarked it, and my husband fell in love with me all over again. It seemed like a new existence. I had been suffering with inflammation and falling of the womb, but your medicine cured that and built up my entire system, till I was indeed like a new woman.—Sincerely yours, MRS. CHAS. F. BROWN, 21 Cedar Terrace, Hot Springs, Ark., Vice President Mothers' Club."

Suffering women should not fail to profit by Mrs. Brown's experiences; just as surely as she was cured of the troubles enumerated in her letter, just so surely will Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cure other women who suffer from womb troubles, inflammation of the ovaries, kidney troubles, nervous excitability, and nervous prostration. Read the story of Mrs. Potts to all mothers:—

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—During the early part of my married life I was very delicate in health. I had two miscarriages, and both my husband and I felt very badly as we were anxious to have children. A neighbor who had been using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advised me to try it, and I decided to do so. I soon felt that my appetite was increasing, the headaches gradually decreased and finally disappeared, and my general health improved. I felt as if new blood coursed through my veins, the sluggish tired feeling disappeared, and I became strong and well.

"Within a year after I became the mother of a strong healthy child, the joy of our home. You certainly have a splendid remedy, and I wish every mother knew of it.—Sincerely yours, MRS. ANNA POTTS, 510 Park Ave., Hot Springs, Ark."

If you feel that there is anything at all unusual or puzzling about your case, or if you wish confidential advice of the most experienced, write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., and you will be advised free of charge. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has cured and is curing thousands of cases of female troubles—curing them inexpensively and absolutely. Remember this when you go to your druggist. Insist upon getting

The appointments take effect immediately, and the commission should assemble at the capital within a few days.

MR. SCHREIBER WILL STAY.

There is no truth in the report that Mr. Schreiber is to be retired from his post as deputy minister, and made consulting engineer. Mr. Schreiber will continue at the Railway Department.

TRENT VALLEYE CANAL SURVEYS.

Mr. E. J. Walsh has been selected to make the surveys of the Trent Valley canal. He will at once organize his staff and proceed with the work. There will be two gangs, one to survey the Port Hope route to Lake Ontario, and the other to determine the best route between Lake Simcoe and Georgian Bay. The whole project will be thoroughly gone over, and the reports will enable the Government to make a selection of the route. The whole project is to connect the Georgian Bay with the St. Lawrence System of canals.

OUT MAP CORRECTING.

Prof. Adams, of McGill, With the Surveying Party.

With the purpose of correcting the maps issued by the Geological Surveys of the United States and Canada, and to see how the notes of each compare generally, Professor Frank Adams, of McGill University, has joined a party of prominent Canadian and United States geologists, who are making a tour of the iron ranges of Northern Minnesota and parts of New Ontario. After leaving Minnesota the party will cross the lake to see the road outcropping at Fort Frances. The Lake of the Woods will be next visited, when they will go last over the Canadian Pacific road to Port Arthur. It is also their intention to visit the north shore of Lake Huron, near Bruce mines, to investigate what is called the Huronian area.

Besides Prof. Adams, the party includes President C. R. Van Hose, of the Wisconsin University, in charge of the United States Geological Survey; Professor C. K. Leith, of the University of Wisconsin, author of the maps of the United States survey; Dr. C. Willard Hayes, general supervisor of the U. S. Geological Survey; Dr. A. C. Lane, State Geologist of Michigan; Dr. Robert Bell, director of the Canadian Geological Survey, Ottawa, and who explored the coast of Lake Superior forty-five years ago; Donald Bell, his son, and Professor W. G. Miller, the provincial geologist of Ontario.

THE M. S. R. PICNIC.

Large Attendance at Second Day of Employes' Fete.

It is estimated that fully 4,000 people were present at Riverside Park last evening, the second evening of the first annual picnic of the M. S. R. Mutual Benefit Association.

The grand tombola and dancing in the moonlight proved the most popular last evening. During the intermission the walking of the greasy pole on the river's edge caused much merriment among the spectators. L. Dunlevey, conductor of the Cote street depot, was the only one who reached the flag, and he won the contest.

The 100 yards handicap, open to members of the sick and picnic committees, was won by E. Drinkwater, scratch, with W. Butler, three feet start, second; W. Gates, six feet start, third, and J. Donald, fifteen feet start, fourth.

Drinkwater won by nine feet.

The fire drill competition was won by the St. Denis depot. Time, 3 min. 9 se .

THE GREAT RUBY

By T. W. Hanshew, Author of "The World's Finger," "The Mallison Mystery."

CHAPTER XXIV.—(Continued.)

She did not sleep for a long time, however—her brain was too active for that and for several hours she lay awake wondering, not of the Great Ruby, and if it was really to be found at last, but what had happened to keep Jack Tredennis away, and what news the morrow would bring her from her faithful allies downstairs.

The latter query was the first to be answered, and when Hola came in the next morning with breakfast, and she saw again the little basin of crushed instead of lump sugar beside the teapot, she was so excited she could hardly wait for the man to go. When he finally did go, she fairly flew to the sugar basin and plunged the spoon into it. Yes, the expected note was there—smaller and briefer than last night's note, but oh! so much more important.

"You may remember my brother Bob, who was drowned some years ago," the brief message ran. "His orphan daughter, Tilly is in service with a recluse who lives in a lonely farmhouse on the other side of the town. If I can manage to steal out to-night, I will go there. I know nothing of the place nor the owner of it, but she certainly cannot run a farm without men to work for her, and I will bring those men to the rescue, never fear. If you hear the sound of a dog barking on the downs to-night, it will be a sign that I have succeeded in leaving the house and am on my way to those men.

"Betty."

Helen put the little scrap of paper to her lips and kissed it ardently.

* * *

The long dreary day had worn itself out at last, and once again night was upon the world—a pitch-black night, with scarce a star to lighten it.

All day Helen had been restless and excited, and had fought successfully against her father's determination to have Jemima Ann proceed with the recital of what was on the parchment; but now as the thick darkness settled down, and the stillness was suddenly broken by so good an imitation of a dog barking on the downs that, had she not been prepared for it beforehand, she would have honestly believed it to be the yapping of some stray cur, all her pent-up feelings found relief in a little hysterical laugh, which puzzled the listening Mr. Luttrell and made Sir Nigel grow cold with sudden dread, the awful dread that her mind had broken down under the strain of the past forty-eight hours.

"Helen, my dear child," he said nervously, "hadn't you better go and lie down a while? I—I really think you are in need of rest, dear, and if you will let the old dad prescribe——"

"Oh, no! oh, no!" she answered, rushing down upon him and kissing him effusively. "I know what you think, but it isn't so, dad; it isn't so. I am not losing my senses, I am finding them, and I am so happy I could scream. Didn't you hear that sound just now—the sound of some one imitating a dog's bark out there on the downs? Dad, dear, dear old dad, it was a signal."

"A signal?"

"Yes, yes; I did not dare to tell you before for fear of raising hopes which might never be fulfilled. Betty Millet has gone for help, and that 'bark' was the signal she was to give if she escaped from the house undetected. Jemima Ann may tell all she knows now about what was written on the parchment—I'll listen, I'll listen, I'll listen!" And so Jemima Ann did tell all she knew, repeating from memory all that had been written on the parchment she had destroyed and disclosing like this the hiding-place of the Great Ruby.

"It is ours at last, dad; it is ours at last," said Helen when all was told. "We shall be rescued to-night, never fear for that, and the Great Ruby will be dug up and in our hands before—What was that? It sounded like somebody running downstairs."

"Fancy, I think, dear; I heard nothing. Your nerves are all unstrung by excitement, Helen, and you hear sounds where none exist."

"Very likely, dad," she answered. "I am 'daft' enough to fancy anything to-night. Only think, dear, we shall be free soon, and by this time to-morrow the 'Jewel of Death,' as poor mamma used to call it, will be in the hands of a Forrester at last."

"I hope so," said Sir Nigel fervently; and from the other side of the door that separated her from them Jemima Ann chimed in with a delighted "Wot oh!"

FIRE AT FORT ERIE.

Race Track Barns Burned With Loss of $25,000.

Fort Erie, Ont., Aug. 19.—Fire broke out in B barn at the Fort Erie race track last night. There was no fire protection, and consequently the village firemen, who were on hand with their engine and reels, could do nothing until the fire had burned up to what they could reach, when they did effective work and saved one of the short barns built last spring. This, with the barns in the Irish row, are all that remain, all the Short barns, A. B and C barns, and the kitchens being burned. Loss is estimated at $25,000. This is the second fire that has occurred at the track this summer, and has a bad appearance, as no horses were stabled in the barn that first took fire.

TRADES COUNCIL TO SUPPLY LABOR

Appoint a Committee to Confer With the Manufacturers.

UNABLE TO DO IT AT PRESENT

Manufacturers Are Waiting for a Number of Employes Promised by the Council Two Weeks Ago.

At the meeting of the Trades and Labor Council in St. Joseph's Hall last night, the matter of furnishing the labor which the Manufacturers Association recently claimed they had need for was taken up. Secretary Tardif read the correspondence between the association and the council, and after some discussion a committee consisting of Messrs. Rodier, Tardif and Letrielle were appointed to confer with the manufacturers.

It will be remembered that some time ago the Manufacturers' Association stated that they found it impossible to procure all the skilled labor they required, and that altogether in Canada they thought that thousands of laborers could find immediate employment.

To this statement the Trades Council took exception, and the day after it appeared a letter was written to the Manufacturers' Association offering to supply all the labor required.

Mr. Cooper, secretary of the association, replied to this letter on Aug. 8, expressing the pleasure the association felt in seeing an opportunity of procuring the men needed, and asking for seven or eight skilled mechanics at once.

To this the secretary of the council replied that the matter would be brought up at the next meeting of the Trades and Labor Council, to be held on Aug. 18. The matter could not be arranged on such short notice.

ASK FOR MORE MEN.

The next letter from the manufacturers expressed regret that the council was unable to carry out its promises, and suggesting that they arrange machinery by which they would be able to supply men needed by the association. The association had made their first statement in good faith and not with any idea, directly or indirectly, of flooding the labor market, as the council had appeared to think. They could furnish work for fifty skilled operatives in shirt factories, and for many others in other lines, a list of which could be furnished the council on request. In the meantime the association begged to remind the council that many of the benches in their factories were without occupants, and if the council could fill these positions every help would be given them by the association.

A rather hot discussion took place over a reply from the Premier's secretary acknowledging the receipt of a communication from the council requesting reasons why the stationery from the department at Ottawa did not bear the union label.

INCREASE IN LICENSE FEES.

It was announced that a special meeting would be held in St. Joseph's Hall next Sunday afternoon to protest against the action of the City Council in increasing the license fees of stationary engineers, and also against certain other claims affecting them.

The sum of $5 was voted toward Butchers' Union 188 of Toronto, who are on strike against the Harris Abattoir Company.

A meeting of the executive of the council will be held in St. Joseph's Hall next Thursday at 8 p.m. to discuss important business.

Local Painters' Union 349 have elected Messrs. T. Fisher, J. A. Dupuis and E. Pelletier delegates to the Dominion Congress, to be held in Montreal on Sept. 19th.

RIOT IN STOCK YARDS.

Police Had All They Could Do to Handle the Mob.

Chicago, Aug. 19.—The fiercest riot of the stock yards strike occurred last night when hungry dwellers in the packing house district sought to capture and kill eight steers which had escaped from the yards. The mob numbered 4,000 persons, and the streets were cleared only after 120 police, in five squads, had charged the rioters on four sides. Shots were fired and scores of rioters were clubbed. A bullet grazed the cheek of Police Lieutenant Prime and a police sergeant was stripped of his star and club by a woman. One man was so severely battered that he was sent to a hospital. Few arrests were made. The temper of the police was shown, however, when a call for reinforcements was answered by a number of patrol waggons, followed by an ambulance. In no previous riot were clubs used so freely.

DECLARED AGAINST STRIKE.

Resolution of the Socialist Congress in Session at Amsterdam.

Amsterdam, Aug. 19.—The Internationalist Socialist and Trades Union Congress adopted a resolution declaring in effect that the proletariat was not yet sufficiently organized to make practicable a general strike involving the complete cessation of work, because such a strike would render the existence of the proletariat itself impossible. The Congress, therefore, submits that although a strike affecting a large number of trades might be used as a last means of effecting changes or protecting workmen against reactionary attacks, workmen should be warned not to allow themselves to be influenced by the propaganda advocating a general strike—the propaganda used by anarchists to divert them from the real struggle—but should seek to increase their power and strengthen their unity by developing their class organization.

GLASS OF WATER

Upset Her.

People that don't know about food should never be allowed to feed persons with weak stomachs.

A little over a year ago a young woman who lives in Mercer, Me., had an attack of scarlet fever, and when convalescent was permitted to eat anything she wanted. Indiscriminate feeding soon put her back in bed with severe stomach trouble and inflammation of the kidneys.

"There I stayed," she says, "three months, with my stomach in such condition that I could take only a few teaspoonfuls of milk or beef juice at a time. Finally Grape-Nuts was brought to my attention, and I asked my doctor if I might eat it. He said, 'yes,' and I commenced at once.

The food did me good from the start, and I was soon out of bed and entirely recovered from the stomach trouble. I have gained ten pounds since my recovery and am able to do all household duties, some days sitting down only long enough to eat my meals. I can eat anything that one ought to eat, but I still continue to eat Grape-Nuts at breakfast and supper and like it better every day.

"Considering that a year ago I could stand only a short time and that a glass of water seemed 'so heavy,' I am fully satisfied that Grape-Nuts has been everything to me, and my return to good health is due solely to it.

"I have told several friends having nervous or stomach trouble what Grape-Nuts did for me, and in every case they speak highly of the food." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

BRITISH ASSOCIATION HONORS MR. C. A. PARSONS

Premier Balfour, Who is President, Presented Him With Gold Medal.

Cambridge, Eng., Aug. 19.—Chas. Algernon Parsons, the English inventor, who developed the steam turbine and made it suitable for the generation of electricity and the propulsion of war and mercantile vessels, addressed the engineering section of the British Association for the Advancement of Science yesterday. Mr. A. J. Balfour, the Prime Minister, who is president of the association this year, on behalf of the Associated German engineers present, presented a gold medal to the president of the section, Charles Algernon Parsons, in recognition of his merits as an inventor.

Mr. Parsons' address was a long and interesting one, dealing with inventions and patents. He urged that greater encouragement, assistance and protection be given the British inventor and patentee by the state along the lines adopted by Germany and the United States. He strongly advocated changes in the patent laws of all countries, especially in regard to an extension of the time limit, but he pointed out that it would be useless for Great Britain alone to make these changes if capitalists were to be induced to invest money in the development of great undertakings dependent upon patents from which the world would reap immense benefits.

As an illustration Mr. Parsons gave details of a scheme for the sinking of a shaft to a great distance in order to explore the lower depths of the earth. He submitted estimates of the cost and the time of sinking a shaft from two to twelve miles. To sink the shaft to the latter depth, he said, would cost $25,000,000 and take eighty-five years. If such an undertaking depended upon a patent it would, under the present laws, be impossible to secure the necessary capital.

SPORTING GOSSIP OF THE DAY

In a Contest Full of Hits and Errors the Clamdiggers Win Out

The Telegraph Co's Bulletin Service Played a Very Dizzy Game.

THE enterprising bulletin service operated by a telegraph company in the interests of baseball ran off the rails yesterday and tumbled down the embankment.

This was not the first accident that has occurred, but yesterday's wreck was a little out of the ordinary.

The world at large, and the fans in particular, were informed that Montreal had cleaned Providence up by a score of 10 to 8.

We also heard that "Patanaude" was pitching for Montreal.

"Barrow must have signed a new pitcher," said Tom Martin, who was absorbing the returns.

Mrs. Pappalau, wife of the Montreal pitcher, came along and thought the same thing.

Both agreed that he must be a good one.

Barrow is a corker at picking up new men," said a fan.

The service had Rochester shutting out Baltimore, and rolling up a big score.

It also had Toronto knocking the daylights out of Jersey City.

The fans awoke this morning, and turned the glad eye on the correct returns.

Providence had beaten Montreal 10 to 8. Pappalau, alias Patanaude, pitched.

Jersey City beat Toronto, Baltimore beat Rochester.

Let us anticipate the returns for tonight:—

At Providence.

	R.	H.	E.
Montreal ....000000000—32	1	96
Providence ....00000000—81	3	34

Batteries—Kuropatkin and R. L. Borden; Ellen Terry and David Harum. Umpire, Jim Corbett.

At Jersey City.

Toronto ....643712060—	0	66	32
Jersey City ....330003333—	0	33	44

Batteries—Dundonald and Hughes; Trilby and Jim Cochrane. Umpire, Patanaude.

There is some talk of Providence being taken into the American League in place of Washington.

YESTERDAY'S GAME.

Providence, R.I., August 18.—The home team defeated Montreal to-day in a loosely played game. Both Milligan and Pappalau were hit freely, but the locals were more fortunate in bunching their hits. The fielding of both teams was ragged. Dyer and Aubrey proving the worst offenders. McManus is still on the sick list, but may get into the game shortly.

Wagner has managed to reach the top among the National League batsmen, with .352.

When you see it on the bulletin, put salt on it.

Joe Corbett is now barred from playing with the big clubs.

Baltimore edged up on Buffalo yesterday.

Slugger Vinson, of Clamtown, made three hits, one of which was good for three cushions.

New York is getting back at Pittsburg, and the Pirates yesterday were shut out .

Dutch Hartman stole three bases yesterday. How's that, umpire!

Eleven errors in the game. It must have been pretty dizzy.

BOUQUET FOR BILL.

Clancy, of Montreal, comes pretty near being in a class by himself on first base.—Toronto Star.

INFIELDERS' THROWS.

Infielders possessing a short, snappy underhand throw do not receive the attention of managers of ball teams that they once did, and to-day the old style of the full, round-arm throw receives their approbation. Reasons for this are obvious, though the player with the underhand throw is more valuable than the one possessing only one form. But, while the underhand throw is good for a third baseman fielding bunts, the throw is not so accurate and has not the speed on it that the player using the overhand throw is able to use. At critical moments the underhand throw is liable to go wild. The same is true, of course, of the overhander, too, but the proportion of successful ones is in favor of the latter, according to the judgment of close observing managers.

Yeager and Hartman use the overhand throw altogether, but Dyer uses the underhand when the throw is a short one.

Outfielder Jake Gettman of Buffalo, may not be able to put on a uniform again this season. He is just convalescent from a severe illness.—Exchange.

Eugene McCann, of Jersey City, who has been out of the game some time with inflammatory rheumatism in his pitching shoulder, expects to get back in the game next week.

There have been nine killed in baseball accidents this year and something like fifty seriously injured. Never in the history of the sport have so many men been hurt by pitched balls as this season.

An exchange remarks that the National League batting disappointments this year are Barclay, Bransfield, Casey, Geier and Kling. Yes, and a number of others; and there will continue to be disappointments so long as the foul strike rule is in existence.—Buffalo Enquirer.

When the Buffalo team was here in June Manager Stallings told the writer that he missed Charley Atherton, who was then managing Montreal. He remarked that Atherton's ability to connect safely for extra bases had scored many runs for Buffalo. And now Stallings has Atherton with him again.—Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

R. A.—Dan Brouthers is at Wappinger Falls, N.Y. He was a member of several league clubs, among them Boston, Baltimore, Troy, Buffalo and Detroit.

Wagner is the king base-stealer of the National League with 41.

DOYLE IS OUT.

Jack Doyle, the Phillies' first baseman, has evidently outlived his usefulness, for he has been given his ten days' notice of release by Manager Duffy. Doyle has played on more National League teams than any other player in the major league. At one time Doyle was one of the greatest ball-players in the profession. He was a star first sacker, and besides was a splendid hitter. Doyle played fine ball while a member of the champion Baltimore, but since leaving that team he has never been the same great player. Doyle will probably be sold to some minor league team. He is suffering with rheumatism, to which he attributes his poor showing.

Saratoga, August 18.—To-day's big stake event—the Albany—was easily won by Jack Lory, the favorite by a length and a half. CANADIAN DRIVER WINS.

Saugus, Mass., Aug. 19.—The 2.17 trot at old Saugus track yesterday produced more speculation than any race over New England tracks this season. Bert S. won out in straight heats with Annabell W. second and Whitten Wilkes third. Both the 2.11 trot and the 2.06 pace were won by Harry James, the Canadian driver, with Gracie Keller and Vice Regal. The track was heavy and the times poor.

LACROSSE

CORNWALLITE IN CALIFORNIA.

Cornwall, Aug. 19.—(Special.)—Wm. Degan, son of Alex. Degan, is playing lacrosse with the Talalgoos of San Mateo, Cal., and is referred to as the stonewall defence man whose brilliant work has won several matches. Recently the Talalgoos, after beating San Francisco, went to Los Angeles and defeated the team of that town by the score of 6 to 1.

THE CORNWALL TEAM.

Cornwall, Aug. 19.—(Special.)—The Cornwall team to play Montreal to-morrow will be selected from the following players: J. Hunter, M. Broderick, B. McDonald, W. Burns, W. Broderick, R. Degan, L. McAteer, J. Seymour, J. Reynolds, F. Cummins, A. E. McMillan, D. Miller and Guy R. Roach.

NOTES.

The game between Cornwall and Montreal on the M.A.A.A. grounds to-morrow afternoon promises to be a sharp, keen contest. The last match between these teams resulted in a tie, so each will strain every nerve to win to-morrow.

In the Intermediate series Sherbrooke will meet the Shamrocks to-morrow afternoon on the Shamrock grounds. The Sherbrooke team has been playing particularly good lacrosse, and the struggle will be a hot one.

Brantford still has hope of winning in the C. L. A. series, and they are now in the same position as before the Chippewas beat the Tecumsehs. If the Indians are beaten at Brantford to-morrow and at Toronto a week later, they will have to play off the tie game at Brantford. Brantford has to win a tie game from St. Kitts, and to beat the Chippewas later, but they are sanguine of doing this without much trouble.

MR. BROWN WILL HOLD A WATCH

E. Herbert Brown, secretary of the Canadian A. A. Association, has been appointed one of the timekeepers for the Olympic games at St. Louis.

GOLF AND GOLFERS

THE WESTERN CHAMPIONSHIP.

Chicago, August 18.—In the second round of the Western golf championship at Highland Park to-day, former national champion Louis N. James was defeated by D. E. Sawyer, a former caddy, who was 1 up at the finish, with a medal score of 77.

Fay Ingalls to-day had a lead of 2 on J. C. Vandemark at the turn, but Ingalls, playing steadily, won the match, 4 up, 3 to play.

H. Chandler again easily disposed of A. C. Perry, going out in 36, and getting a lead of 4 up at the turn. This he increased to 4 up, which gave him the match 5 up, 4 to play.

THE WEIR MEDAL.

The Outremont Golf Club will hold a competition for the Weir gold medal on the club's links to-morrow afternoon. The best sixteen scores qualify for competition, and the medal must be won twice before becoming the property of any player. Mr. D. C. N. Hogg is the present holder.

MISCELLANEOUS

PREPARING FOR THE FRAY.

The polo matches between St. Lambert and Toronto will be held on the St. Lambert polo grounds Sept. 1 and 3. Both teams have been practicing hard and regularly and both have a number of new ponies. The games, when they meet, should be fast and exciting.

GOOD GAME AT ST. LAMBERT.

Good polo was played at St. Lambert a few days ago, when two local teams tried conclusions.

A team was composed of W. R. Miller, A. E. Ogilvie, Major Hooper and Major Meighen.

B Team was made up of Dr. Mignault, G. A. Simard, B. McLennan and H. Watson.

The result was a tie, each team having scored four goals when time was called. The first period of play was a little loose, neither side having settled down to their game. But the second period showed a decided improvement, a feature being Dr. Mignault's powerful hitting and brilliant run by him nearly the whole length of the ground.

YACHTING.

A CRUISING RACE TO-MORROW.

The Royal St. Lawrence Yacht Club will have a cruising race to Windmill Point to-morrow afternoon, in which yeachts of all classes will participate. The race will start from the club pier and finish between the steamer St. Louis and the pier at Windmill Point. Two raters will start at 2.30 p.m. and other classes as soon after as possible, the last not later than 3 o'clock. Flags will be given as first, second and third prizes.

VALOIS WILL CELEBRATE.

The Valois Boating Club's celebration of the Seawanhaka victory will be held to-morrow night. There will be an illuminated boat parade, bonfires on shore and lake and an illumination of houses and grounds. Prizes will be offered for the best results. The judges are Messrs. Sutherland, Jas A. Taylor, Hon. J. D. Roland and W. A. Coates.

ROWING—AQUATICS

WESTMOUNT'S BRAVE SHOWING.

There was gloom on the Westmount bowling green last night when the news came from Toronto that the local team, which had gallantly won its way to the finals in the Walker Trophy Competition, had lost the match by twenty to seventeen. The Westmount team was composed of Messrs. James Brown, skip, and David Williamson, W. Brown and Jas. Wilson—all enthusiastic and skilled bowlers, as well as curlers of renown. Oddly enough, the Messrs. Brown and Williamson come from the same Scottish village, which seems to be the home of first class curlers and bowlers, and the fine position they have taken in Toronto, in a tournament where some forty clubs participated, shows that they are well sustaining the reputation of their native heath. Their opponent in the finals was a team of the Canada Club, Toronto, skipped by Dr. Moore.

LAWN TENNIS

Toronto, Aug. 19.—(Special.)—Dr. Moore's rink, Canada Club, won the trophy in the Dominion Bowling Association's tournament. The scores in which Westmount figured were as follows:

Trophy semi-final: Westmount, J. Brown, skip, 19; Canada, S. Jones, skip, 14.

By ends—Brown....3020214001000220—19
Jones .....0101010012011500l—14

Trophy final: Canada, Dr. Moore, skip, 20; Westmount, J. Brown, skip, 17.

Stocks and Money.

WHEAT WENT OVER $1.13; STOCKS WERE FIRM HERE, UNSTEADY IN WALL STREET

Stocks and wheat were mixed today and the strength in both puzzled many who were trying to get a line on what was thought of the crops.

May wheat in Chicago soared to $1.13⅝.

This was the top figure on the boom and many thought in view of the comparative strength in the stock market that wheat's spectacular position was due largely to manipulation.

The fact remains, however, that cooler weather is predicted for the West to-morrow, and this, no doubt, helped wheat to stand up the way it did.

Here is a characteristic message from Chicago:—

"I am afraid we will get frosts and heavy rains before we get through. Predictions are this for to-morrow."

After this message came out it was noticed that the stock market took an easier turn.

Canadian Pacific recovered strongly in the early part of the session and sold up to 128, but lost a fraction later on and sold under 127¼ around one o'clock.

The people in touch with Manitoba conditions did not appear to be anyway anxious this morning, and although reports were very conflicting in the main, there is still strong talk of a fine crop. What millers and others really fear most is the appearance of frost in the next ten days.

The general impression is now that Manitoba will have over 60,0000,000 bushels.

The Montreal stock market held in very good shape and most of the leaders ruled on the strong side.

One of the features was Steel bonds which opened at 64 and worked to 65¾ on scattered sales of $21,000. This demand for bonds seems to have extended over a long period and the volume of business is big enough to afford some foundation for the theory that a good many people think extremely well of the property and the value of the bonds.

Detroit holds to the firm side, and Steel common and preferred, although comparatively inactive, worked in sympathy with the bonds.

Pacific held somewhat better here than it did in Wall street.

The sales to noon in Wall street today were 198,800 shares.

FORGET'S CABLE.

L. J. Forget & Co.'s London cable quoted Grand Trunk first at 99 3-4, second at 85 3-4, third at 37 7-8, Canadian Pacific at 131 3-8, Hudson Bay at 39 1-8, and Anaconda at 3 7-8.

MONTREAL EXCHANGE.

Montreal exchange quotations to-day are reported as follows by Marler & Hodgson: New York funds, 5-64 to 1-16 discount, 1-16 to 1-8 premium; sterling sixty days, 9 1-8 to 9 5-32 discount, 9 1-4 to 9 premium; sterling demand, 9 23-32 to 9 3-4 discount, 9 7-8 to 10 premium; sterling cables, 9 27-32 to 9 7-8 discount, 10 to 10 1-8 premium; Paris, francs short, 5.16 7-8, less 1-16.

WHEAT HURT STOCKS.

A noon wire to Mr. C. D. Monk said: The market was quite strong at the opening. Pennsylvania, Mexican Central and some of the Grangers hung back on the bad outlook in the Northwest. Some of the wheat buyers admit severe damage, which has had a bad effect on the whole market. There are many who think the stories of damage are not true.

CANADIAN PACIFIC.

A wire to Mr. C. D. Monk said: The conflicting reports as to the damage reported in Northwest was considered serious enough to cause some hesitancy in Canadian Pacific yesterday, as the large holders of the property abroad would seek the truth. We take it that damage is not serious, and result is that stock is well thought of. The market is held well in hand, and different stocks reach new high prices each day, with but little recessions throughout the list.

GOLD IN MEXICO.

A wire says: E. C. Creel, a prominent banker of Mexico has been elected Governor of State of Chiehua Hua, Mexico. Creel is a champion of gold standard, and is also connected with Mexican Central. His election can only result in final acquiescence to the gold standard for Mexico. In that case Mexican securities would be very valuable.

BANK FAILS.

Washington, Aug. 19.—The People's National Bank at Swanton, Vermont, was closed to-day by order of the comptroller of the currency. National Bank Examiner Fisk has been appointed receiver.

The resources of the bank as shown by its last report of condition dated June 9 amounted to $258,380. Its liabilities included capital stock, $50,000, and deposits $142,886.

THE MARKET.

A wire to Robert Meredith & Co. said: "The sales of Sugar and break in price below 130 caused bears to sell the balance of the list, believing a reaction was due. Prices, however, failed to give more than 1-4 to 1-2 per cent., and at these declines became very dull. There was evidence of support in all good stocks, and surprising was the resistance shown by Union Pacific. An attempt to break Steel pfd. was also unsuccessful."

LONDON CLOSING.

London Close:—Open market discounts shaded off to 2⅝ for three months, and 2⅝ to 2⅞ for three months bills. Money closed 1⅝ to 2 per cent. Anaconda, 4 and 7⅞; Atchison, 83½ and 81½; C.P.R., 131 and 127⅝; St. Paul, 154⅛ and 151; Erie, 28⅝ and 27⅛; Erie first, 65¼ and 63¾; Ill. Cen., 139½ and 136¼; L. N., 124¼ and 121¼; N. Y. Cen., 123½ and 120½; Penna., 63½ and 124; Reading, 29⅛ and 56⅞; S. P., 57¼ and 56; U.P., 101¾ and 99⅝; U.S.S., 12⅝ and 12⅜; U.S.Q., 60⅝ and 59⅛; Consols, 83 3-16, advance 1-16.

PROFIT TAKING.

Noon Letter:—The tone of our market this morning is not quite up to the standard which it has maintained during the past week. While there is a fairly good trade, the tendency to realize is evident and profits have been taken on stocks bought some time since. The weakness of Sugar has created a feeling of apprehension. Steel pfd. fell off nearly a point. Union and Southern Pacific also show declines. Private advices from the West indicate unfavorable weather developments in the rain districts. There is less animation in our market and a decided falling off in the volume of business.—E. & C. Randolph.

BOSTON MARKET.

Boston, Aug. 19.—The local market has been generally very weak this morning, led by Sugar, which broke to 129⅝ in this market. The Coppers are rather quiet except for a few specialties. Amal. opened strong at 55¾, but settled to 55. Winona is strong at 8¼. Telephone quiet at 138⅞. Mass. Gas lost half point to 43½. Mass. Elec. Securities still weak; common sold 15½, preferred at 62. No sales of Coal, Iron sold 8⅛ and is 9⅛ bid at present.—Chas. Head & Co.

TRADING IN STEEL.

A wire said: The decline of less than a point in U.S.S. pfd. disappointed traders who had expected some aggressive selling on the discouraging trade reports which appeared this morning, and the bears endeavored to make some capital out of the sterling by McDonald, which it was said represented the position of important market interests. The buying by Shearson, Hammle & Co. is good, as it has important Pittsburg connections.

MONTREAL AND BOSTON.

New York.—Montreal and Boston Consolidated showed a greater volume of transactions on Tuesday than in any day in the recent past, with estimated total of 73,000 shares. The underwriting syndicate which undertook the financing of the merger of the different copper companies now combined in Montreal and Boston Consolidated has already, it is stated, paid over a large sum in cash, and the balance is to be paid in instalments, the next one if which falls due September 10.

COMMISSION BUSINESS.

Commission business has been falling off steadily since Monday of this week, when for several hours there was exhibited a more genuine outside buying in the market than perhaps at any previous time since the upward movement started.—E. & C. Randolph.

FINANCIAL CHIPS

American stocks in London easier, 1-8 to 3-8 per cent. below parity.

Lackawanna Steel Co. reported cutting prices on steel beams and plans. No confirmation of fraction consolidation rumors.

Fourteen roads for second week Aug. show average gross increase 4.58 per cent.

Scarcity of O. W., Pennsylvania and Sugar shown in loan crowd.

No change in New York building strike situation.

Interest on Wabash debenture's likely to be paid at end of this year.

Banks gain from sub-treasury since Friday $1,506,000.

S. R. earnings second week Aug. increase $15,815.

Twelve industrial stocks advance 17 per cent.

Twenty active railroads advance .33 per cent.

MARKET NOTES.

It is thought that the bull pool in Atchison common will have to advance the price of the preferred if it expects to make satisfactory progress upward from this level with the common.

It is understood that the big bulls in U. P. and S. P. have gone into those stocks for the long pull, and that comparatively little stock accumulated by them recently is likely to be returned to the market at this level.

The borowing demand for stocks yesterday was somewhat smaller than on Wednesday, but there was a special and very urgent demand for Sugar and Pennsylvania which loaned at slight concessions from the money rate.

The impression seems to be that the sale of 25,000 shares by one broker yesterday was for the same interests which sold 10,000 on Tuesday. A great mystery was made of the whole operation. The fact that so much of the stock was absorbed at 131 and that the price afterward recovered, led some to think that the selling was not as good as it looked.

HUSBAND TO WIFE.

Look through mine eyes with thine, true wife;
Round my true heart thine arms entwine;
My other dearer life in life;
Look through my very soul with thine!
Untouched with any shade of years,
May those kind eyes forever dwell;
They have not shed a many tears,
Dear eyes, since first I knew them well.

Yet tears they shed; they had their part
Of sorrow; for, when time was ripe,
The still affection of the heart
Became an outward breathing type,
That into stillness passed again
And left a want unknown before;
Although the loss that brought us pain,
That loss but made us love thee more.

With farther lookings on. The kiss,
The woven arms, seem but to be
Weak symbols of the settled bliss,
The comfort, I have found in thee:
But that God bless thee, dear—who wrought
Two spirits to one equal mind—
With blessings beyond hope or thought,
With blessings which no words can find.

A New York View of C.P.R.'s New Scheme

Respecting the reported decision to place the Canadian Pacific Railway steamship service on the southern route between European ports and Galveston and Texas during the coming winter, the Wall Street Journal remarks: "At its best, the turning of these Atlantic liners into tramp steamers to gulf ports is more or less of an experiment, dependent for its success on the volume of tonnage offering. The coming year promises to be a bumper year at these ports, which is perhaps fortunate. The question of the hour in shipping circles is whether or not this invasion will hurt the rate situation. With a decided weakness, say the ship people, for making its own rates, and with nothing particular at stake, the new line is a dangerous looking competitor. The fact is that the ships would make no money up north, so if they make any at all down south, their owners will be satisfied. This is the view of the people who operate lines from the gulf ports. The Canadian Pacific is to be congratulated on its resourcefulness in this respect. Montreal and New Orleans are the two great competitors that have ruled the grain trade of New York in recent years. The Canadian Pacific has the trade of one port safely in hand, and is now going after a share of the heavy winter traffic of the other.

Wool Prices

Local wool dealers report that most of the American wool buyers who were making bids for Ontario wool have withdrawn from the market owing to the prices asked for the wool. The holders are getting a better demand from the domestic mills than in former years.

The Drop in Wire

The present price of wire products compared with a year ago is as follows:—

	Now.	Year ago.
Wire rods, Pittsburg, ton	$28.00	$35.00
Wire, barb, Pittsburg, 100 lbs.	2.40	2.60
Wire nails, Pittsburg, 100 lbs.	1.80	2.00

With the cut authorized by the Steel Corporation, the price of rods will be reduced to not less than $22 per ton, or $13 per ton below the price last year, while wire nails will be reduced to about $31 per ton, compared with $39.60 per ton this time last year.

Market Reports.

HERALD'S CROP REPORTS SAY LITTLE ABOUT THE RUST SEEN BY MR. H. V. JONES

The reports on the Manitoba wheat crop are now so much at variance that the position is one of the most confusing in years.

Upon one hand we have the leading Manitoba millers in Montreal, and many of the principal grain men of the West, protesting that the reports of rust in the wheat fields are greatly exaggerated.

They virtually substantiate the reports sent out by the Canadian Pacific and the Canadian Northern.

On the other hand we have the people who saw the rust "with their own eyes."

The gratifying feature, however, is in the knowledge that these observant gentlemen are Americans who are greatly interested in the price movement in the Chicago market.

Mr. H. V. Jones, of Minneapolis, is one of the experts who saw most of the rust in Manitoba, and the telegram he sent out gave the Chicago market a boost.

Of Mr. Jones' exploits and investigations a wire from James Carruthers & Co.'s Winnipeg house said:

"Jones, of Minneapolis, is here. He has been up to Portage Plains, and claims the growing wheat is covered with black rust. Says dealers and farmers don't know black rust when they see it. Give you this for what it is worth. Our reports show no frost; probs., warmer. Jones very bullish on black rust. No frost in Dakota, Minnesota, Manitoba and Territories last night. Just had talk with Jones, who states positively that rust is in our wheat."

The Herald's Winnipeg man wired: "Wheat threshing in Manitoba started yesterday afternoon. At Napinka, on the farm of William Forbes, the yield averaged 22 bushels per acre, graded No. 1 hard. Crops excellent, neither rust or frost."

The Herald received the following reports by mail:

Crystal City.—The prospects for a banner crop in this district were never better. The wheat stands at about five feet high and is beginning to ripen. Almost every field looks good for 30 bushels to the acre.

Beausejour.—Crops are all maturing very rapidly, some of the farmers having completed their barley cutting and are now about ready to start on the wheat.

Gladstone.—J. J. Stewart, near Gladstone, has wheat five and a half feet high and well filled.

Melbourne.—The crops in this settlement are very good, and have not been so heavy for some time.

Dominion City.—Crops look very good. A splendid sample of oats is on view, grown by W. Hepburn. The sample is well headed and stands over five feet high.

Melita.—A number of farmers are commencing to cut the early crop this week, but wheat cutting will not be general for a week or two yet.

Montgomery.—Crops are looking exceptionally well out in this quarter. Old settlers say that, with ordinary luck, the present crop ought to be the record.

Norden.—By reports from different parts of this district regarding the crop, it is learned that the wheat is looking good. The season is a little late, and fears are entertained in some quarters that the frost may catch some of it.

Baldur.—Though a little late, the grain crop is ripening rapidly. Wheat is headed out and filling well; it is exceptionally heavy and will be an abundant crop. Oats will establish a record yield in this vicinity.

Greenway.—The advantages of cultivation of crops on attaining the height of two or three inches has been demonstrated on a farm a few miles south. In the early spring a large portion of the crop was harrowed, which has turned out to be the finest piece of land. Prospects are excellent.

Dauphin.—Within a radius of three miles of this town are to be seen some of the finest wheat fields anyone could wish to lay eyes on. The wheat is from three and a half to four feet in height, of even growth and well headed out. The grain is now fast taking on a golden tint, and is expected to be ready for the binder by the 25th of this month. It is estimated by those who are capable of judging that much of the grain in this vicinity will average 40 bushels to the acre.

Grenfell.—The weather of the last week could not possibly be better for the growing crops. There has been moisture for those that needed it, and warm sunny days for those whose grain has passed the filling stage. There was a lack of rain in the south country, but even this portion of our district was visited by the rains two weeks ago, and everywhere the prospects are bright.

Manitou.—The weather during the early part of the week has been just what is needed for hastening the ripening of the crops, which are exceptionally heavy.

Another wire to-day from The Herald's Winnipeg correspondent said:

"Experts who have visited the western wheat fields all agree the crop promises a splendid harvest and the quality will be high. H. V. Jones, the Minneapolis expert, has found some black rust, which he thinks will affect later grain. He says Western Canada has the finest stand of wheat for so large an area he has ever seen."

Cheese Declines at the Country Points

Cheese in the country was about 1-2c a pound lower than last week.

A Brockville wire said: There was a disappointing attendance of salesmen at the regular meeting of the Brockville cheese board this afternoon, due no doubt to the farmers being in the midst of harvest. Buyers were out in full force with limits somewhat below what the salesmen had anticipated. The total offerings were 1,570 boxes, of which 510 were white and the balance colored. Though there is a noticeable falling off in the make, and the above is no criterion of the output of this section, compared with June, it is at least one-third less. An increase is looked for in the month of September, when the cows are turned loose in the meadows, which have not yet matured sufficently for pasturage. From the moment the bidding opened to-day until the last call was made, buyers displayed no live competitive spirit, and were content to take things in a free and easy fashion, putting very little spirit in their attempts to purchase offerings. The opening bid was 7 3-4c, it was afterwards raised 7 7-8c and 8c, Derbyshire fixing the last mentioned price, which was offered on many hands. The salesmen were not prepared for a decline of five-eighths from last week, though they expected a drop, and consequently no sales were made. On the street the situation was not bettered, the buyers holding to their guns. The salesmen were also firm, and outside of possibly 1,000 boxes, which were bought at 8c, all went home to hold for an advance. About 7,500 boxes of cheese were ready to change hands.

Vankleek Hill, Ont., August 18.—There were 1,045 white and 105 colored cheese boarded here to-night; all sold on the board except 180 boxes, which were withdrawn. McGregor started bidding at 8c; McRae raised the bid to 8 1-8c; at this figure he got 813 boxes, McGregor got 40, and Welsh got 117 boxes.

Winchester, Ont., August 18.—At the regular meeting of the cheese board here this evening 1,621 cheese were registered, of which 555 were colored and the balance white. Prices bid for both white and colored, 8c; no sales on board.

Kingston, Ont., August 18.—At the cheese board to-day there were 645 boxes of colored and 575 boxes of white registered. Bidding began at 7 3-4c, and advanced to 8c. At that figure 350 boxes were sold.

Tweed, Ont., August 18.—There was 549 white cheese boarded; all sold at 8 1-8c; Magrath and Bird, buyers.

Madoc, Ont., August 18.—There was 875 cheese boarded; all sold at 8 3-16c.

Barrie, Ont., August 18. — Cheese board met here to-day; 480 cheese were boarded, which sold at 8 1-8c for August make, and for July make 8 1-16c. All the cheese was sold.

Country Produce

Eggs—There is a prospect of larger receipts from now on. The demand for straight gathered stock in a wholesale way was fair and sales of some fair sized lots were made at 16¾c to 17c per dozen. The demand for selected stock in a jobbing way was quiet at 20c to 21c and No. 1 candled sold at 17½c to 18c per doezn.

Beans—In a jobbing way sales of choice primes were made at $1.30 to $1.35 and primes at $1.25 per bushel, while car lots of choice primes were quoted at $1.20 to $1.25, and primes at $1.15 per bushel.

Honey—Extracted white clover honey, 8c to 8¼c per 10-lb. tin, and 7¾c to 8c in 60-lb. tins; buckwheat honey, 5½c to 6½c, and white clover comb, 10c to 10½c.

Maple Product—Syrup, in 15-gallon casks, 5¼c to 5½c per lb., in tins, 55c to 60 per wine measure, and 70c to 75c for Imperial, and Beauce sugar 8c to 10c per lb.

Ashes.—Pearls, $3; first pots, $5.75; and seconds, $5.30 per 100 lb.

Local Sugar Prices

The demand has been good for the season, and quite an active business is reported.

The selling prices now are as follows:—Extra granulated, $4.60; Phoenix, $4.50; bright coffee, $4.40; bright yellow, $4.35; No. 3 do., $4.30; No. 2 do., $4.05; No. 1 do., $4; extra ground, $4.95; powdered, $4.80; and Paris lumps, $5.10 per 100 lb, in barrels and boxes, and granulated in bags, 10c per 100 lb., less the above figure.

Wheat Jumped to Even Higher Figures

Wheat was very strong again to-day and new high figures were made.

While the weather was not unsatisfactory in the West to-day in regard to temperature there were some pretty general rains.

The feature, however, was the prediction of frost for to-morrow, and that is what stirred the market up.

The lowest temperature reported at 7 a.m. in the whole country was 46, the highest, 74.

The various options in Chicago to-day were quoted as follows:

	Open.	High.	Low.	12.30
Wheat, May	111	113⅝	110¾	113½
Wheat, Sept	108	109⅝	107⅞	109⅝
Wheat, Dec	109¼	111	108⅞	111
Corn, Sept.	54½	54½	53½	53⅞
Corn, Dec.	53	53	52½	52⅞
Oats, May	37⅝	37⅝	37½	37⅝

Serious Crop Report

The reports that gave the market its chief impetus came from B. W. Snow, who had devoted most of his attention to Minnesota. He wired from Grand Forks: "Drove fifty miles through best wheat lands in Polk county, Minnesota. Rust in every field. One-third destroyed is a conservative estimate and spreading like prairie fire. Wheat a week to ten days to harvest. Saw thousands of acres that will hardly make seed. Fields that owners tell me were clean last Friday were black and dying to-day. Any estimate of yield would have to be discounted to-morrow." A later message from Hillsboro said: "Drove from Hillsboro to Blanchard. Rust in every field. Dead in one-third. Crop late and rust developing faster than wheat plant. Gamble whether the valley gets eight bushels or five or nothing. Cutting some green wheat ten days ahead of ripening. Hope to save something out of the wreck."

Ontario Wheat

The offerings of Ontario wheat are very light. The demand from the millers is active and prices are advancing in keeping with Manitoba wheat which is relatively higher than Ontario. The farmers are busy with threshing, and when that operation is completed they will be engaged with the root crops, so that deliveries to the country markets are not likely to improve for some weeks.

Grain Prices

The export trade in grain is very dull. Oats are firm but there is not a great deal doing. No. 1 white are quoted at 39½c to 40c. In new crop oats there has been some business done on spot for future delivery, and one purchase of 10,000 bushels is reported, but the price is kept private. There was nothing new in other lines of coarse grains, and in the absence of transactions prices are nominal. We quote: Peas, at 71c to 71½c; No. 2 rye at 62c to 62½c; No. 2 barley at 50c; No. 3 extra at 49c; and No. 3 at 48c; No. 2 white oats, 38c per bushel, afloat.

Feed—Owing to the increased demand for millfeed the undertone to the market is very strongand the inside price for Manitoba bran is $18, and for shorts $20. Manitoba bran, in bags, $18; shorts, $20 per ton; Ontario bran, in bulk, $17; shorts, $19; and mouillie, $24 to $28 per ton, as to qaulity.

Hogs and Provisions

There was no new feature in the market to note. The demand for freshkilled abattoir dressed hogs was fair and prices were unchanged at $8 for light weights and at $7.75 for heavy per 100 lbs. A fairly active trade continues to be done in all lines of cured meats and prices rule steady.

Cattle Markets

The last couple of days offerings at the East End abattoir included 1,000 head butchers' cattle, 200 calves, 1,000 sheep and lambs and 400 hogs. Although there were no really prime beeves among the offerings, yet pretty good cattle were more plentiful than usual, and the prices of these declined considerably, and a number have been sent out to pasture until next week's markets. Several small lots of the best cattle were sold at 4 1-4c to 4 1-2c per lb.; pretty good cattle sold at 3c to 4c, the common stock at 2c to 2c, and a lot of small cattle were sold at 1 3-4c per lb. Calves sold at from $2.50 to $15 each. Milch cows sold at from $35 to $45 each. Shipping sheep sold at 3 1-2c and the others at 3c to 3 1-4c per lb. Lambs sold at $2.25 to $4 each, or 4c to 4 1-2c per lb. Good lots of fat hogs sold at about 5 1-4c per lb.; mixed lots at 5c, and heavy fats at 4c to 4 1-2c per lb. The price of select hogs to-day is $5.60 per 100 lbs.

A FALSE PROPHET

On a renovated throne in the centre of the gorgeously-decorated chapel of the Agapemonites at the "Abode of Love" in picturesque Somersetshire, "Messiah" Pigott yesterday received the worship and adoration of his disciples. In return he bestowed on them his blessing.

It was a remarkable service. None but the faithful were present, the great oak gates of the retreat being closely guarded.

It was a calendar day of the sect, the chief disciples having been summoned from far and wide. Norway was, perhaps, the most largely represented, but the worshippers included at least one Russian countess and many handsome young Englishwomen.

There were women there dressed in the height of fashion, endowed with wealth, health, beauty—with everything in this world that is prized. But there were other women there who had given their wealth and beauty to the "Abode," and were now in the evening of life. English, French, Russian and Norwegian were there, all awaiting the self-styled "Lamb of God."

The men were either old, decrepit specimens of humanity, or else youths to whom aestheticism appealed rather than athletics. Some were fashionably dressed, while other wore long hair and velvet jackets.

Quietly, with his face set firm as a rock, the "Messiah," dressed in ordinary clerical garments, entered the great room. A second before all was chatter and gossip. On his appearance a great stillness prevailed.

"Behold the Lamb of God!" was his salutation to his faithful flock. Then the whole congregation rose and chanted these words of welcome:—

Shout, brothers, shout, let the echoes fly!
Behold he cometh, the Lord is nigh!"

As these words rang through the room the "Messiah" raised his hand and blessed his people, who, falling on their knees, did homage.

Then followed the service, which in parts was like the Church of England service, and consisted of prayers, hymns, and a sermon by the "Messiah." This, however, did not contain any utterances other than those which might come from a newly ordained curate.

The "Abode of Love" at Spaxton is not new, for as long ago as 1836 it was founded by some divinity students of St. David's College, Lampeter.

A certain Henry James Prince was the leader of this body, who were known as the "Lampeter Brethren." Ordained to the Church at the age of twenty-eight, he served as a curate to Rev. James Starkey, at Charlynch, in Somersetshire. Prince converted the latter to his views, and the two organized a revival, which caused not a little disturbance, eventually resulting in Prince being silenced.

Pigott was trained originally for the Church, he drifted through the Salvation Army to the new body. "Johnnie" (it is one of their customs to speak of each other among themselves in this way) naturally soon became their leader, and, whether through his influence or not, the London contingent became so numerous that the sanitary authority objected to their meeting place.

This moved them to building the "Ark of the Covenant" just off Clapton Common.

It was finished and opened within twenty-four months, every detail complete and lavishly executed. The entire church is floored with marble; the same material is used for pulpit, communion table and reredos; oak is the wood used for the seats, and both internally and externally the walls are profusely ornamented with weird allegorical sculpture. The building was opened by Prince himself, but this was the only occasion he saw it, for not long after, and to the amazement of all the faithful, he died!

Not a word was divulged, but on Sept. 7 of that year Pigott electrified any casual and uninitiated hearers present in the "Ark" by stating in his address:

"I, who speak to you to-night, am that Lord Jesus Who died and rose again and ascended into Heaven; I am that Lord Jesus, come again in my own body to save those who come to me from death and from judgment. Yes, I am He that liveth and was dead, and, behold, I am alive for ever more, the Lord from Heaven, a life-giving spirit, etc."

The following Sunday great crowds gathered to hear this self-proclaimed "Messiah," not a hundredth part of whom could gain access to the 450 seats the little church contains. Again he declared himself "the Son of Man."

Passing through the church grounds after this announcement Pigott was mobbed and found difficulty in reaching his carriage.

The Sequel.

A pitiable spectacle of nervous fear and trembling terrors, says the London Express, "Messiah" Pigott has made a secret flight from his hiding-place in sylvan Somersetshire.

"The Abode of Love," the Spaxton home of the Agapemonites, was though to be invulnerable. Its guards, composed of beautiful women and handsome men, have exercised a vigilance worthy of their devotion to their hero, the pale-faced Pigott.

Although newspapers are taboo in the "Abode," bundles of them containing accounts of Sunday's great festival of the faithful penetrated into the rustic fastnesses of the retreat. On reading them the "Messiah" developed acute nervous prostration. He did not appear in the grounds on that day, and his disciples were alarmed at the pathetically human form which the illness of their "divine master" assumed.

Suddenly he announced his intention of shaking the dust of Spaxton from off his feet, and of returning to the unknown wilderness in which he has wandered for the last eighteen months.

The flight was deferred until yesterday morning. Elaborate precautions were taken to ensure the secrecy of the escape, and only a few of the elect knew what was happening.

Just as the sun was warming the glorious tree-lined Quantock Hills a carriage drove up to the great prison-like doors of "the Abode." Scouts had already patrolled the district to give warning of possible scoffing onlookers, straw-hatted heads peered over the walls, and when it had been satisfactorily concluded that the "Messiah" would not be exposed to the gaze of a mundane multitude the doors suddenly opened, and, with nervous glances to the right and left, the "Messiah" bolted into the carriage, and in a moment he was lost behind the hedgerows.

ANTON CHECHOFF VENETIAN.

The untimely death of Anton Chechoff, at the age of forty-five is mourned as a severe loss to Russian literature. He was regarded as one of the foremost, if not the foremost, of the younger writers of his country, and he is pronounced by the London Times Literary Supplement "the most typically Russian of the modern Russian writers whose names are known beyond the Muscovite dominions." The same paper says further:

"He differed from Tolstoi in not being pledged to a stereotyped fanaticism; from Gorky, in that he had not been made acquainted with strange bedfellows by poverty. He was first a doctor in the service of a municipality, and afterward a country gentleman. He was not trouble by the censor, or the police, or the procurator of the Holy Synod. He had neither grievances nor enthusiasm to distort his vision, and no personal reasons that we are aware of for pessimism. That is the principal reason why his pessimism is interesting and instructive. He grew into it gradually as his art evolved, as he observed life, and, looking beneath the surface, found that there were riddles which he could not answer. At first, indeed, he was quite superficial and merry. He wrote for comic papers, and his vein was roaring farce, indulged without much consideration for the proprieties. In his second stage he was still farcical, but the farce was merely the grotesque setting of tragedy. The third and last stage was gloom, illuminated indeed by lambent rays of irony, but not by any sallies that can fairly be considered jocular. The writer had discovered, not that life was real and earnest, but that it was futile—that nothing could be made of it, even by the most earnest and brilliant of men.

"'L'impuissance de vivre' is the graphic phrase in which M. Ivan Strannik has summed up Chechoff's attitude toward life. One may alter it for English use and say that the moral of all Chechoff's narratives is the necessity of throwing up the sponge. Life is for him a battle, but a battle in which it would be foolish to engage if there were any means of avoiding it, because there is no possibility of victory. The average man is a besotted and ignorant creature, who gets drunk and beats his wife, has his price and is anxious that it should be offered to him, neglects his duties and plays cards, has no ambitions, no intellectual pleasures, and no interests that are not absolutly commonplace. All the conditions of life are determined by the existence of this swarming multitude of average men. They provide the environment in which the superior man has to live. By the nature of things he is a round peg in a square hole. He cannot escape from the environment, or alter it, or adapt himself to it. He tries to adopt one or other of the three courses, and failure reduces him to despair. His intelligence produces no more effect upon the banality surrounding him than a bucket of fresh water produces when poured into the salt ocean. So, after a struggle more or less prolonged, he throws up the sponge, ceases to try, or goes mad, or kills himself. That is the typical Chechoff story, told over and over again with many minor variations."
