Sixteenth Parliament Of Canada Concluded Last Evening

Safe Landing Was Made In Spain By French Aviators

Yellow Bird Landed at Eight O'Clock Last Night (Four p.m. Sherbrooke, Daylight Saving Time) on Beach at Oyamers, Near Camillas, Spain—Airmen Intend to Leave for Le Bourget Flying Field This Afternoon.

(Associated Press Despatch) OMILLAS, June 15.—The French trans-Atlantic monoplane Yellow Bird took off from its landing place on the beach here this afternoon, but returned shortly afterwards. On their return the aviators said they had only made a test flight.

The aviators explained through an interpreter that they had decided not to leave for Le Bourget before three or four o'clock this afternoon (between 9 and 10 a.m. E.S.T.).

The Yellow Bird made a safe landing at eight o'clock tonight (four p.m. Montreal daylight saving time) on the beach at Oyamers near Camillas thirty-four miles west of Santander.

INTRODUCED STOWAWAY AS "OUR UNLOOKED-FOR PILOT"

COMILLAS, Santander, Spain, June 15.—Youthful Arthur Schriber stowaway on the Yellow Bird was perhaps the most interesting individual in all Spain when he stepped to the beach at Camillas yesterday after his stolen trip across the Atlantic. He seemed perturbed until he felt the ground beneath his feet and then his face became wreathed in smiles. The smiles faded and were replaced by a look of blank astonishment as he heard hundreds of voices about him clamoring in Spanish, which he did not understand, and the aviators in French, which he did not understand either.

Armeno Lotti, financial backer of the flight, and one of the three others aboard, introduced him to the crowd as "our unlooked-for pilot," a single French resident serving as interpreter. A Lotti was smiling but Jean Assolant, the pilot, took the matter more seriously.

"We considered turning back during the few minutes we were circling over Old Orchard after we found him with us, but when we saw the accident to the Green Flash we thought we would better keep on our way."

"Once we were in the air we stuck him in a corner where he concealed himself before the start and he remained there all night. We shared our sandwiches and fruits with him, of course."

"We had not calculated gasoline to carry him but here he is, the little rascal."

During the visit to Santander this morning Schriber spoke of himself and the three aviators as "we" and even his French companions smiled. Assolant was explaining to him in his limited English what the spectators had to say about the failure to reach Paris. "Oh well," the youth remarked, "I'll tell the world we are on the other side of the Atlantic, aren't we, how about that?"

Then he added: "Any way we have plenty of time to get to Paris after we get some gas."

Insist Report Of Russian Troop Movement In Manchuria Correct

Despatch Today Stated There Were Reports in Peking of Soviet Military Demonstrations From Two Directions on Northern Frontier of China.

(Associated Press Despatch) LONDON, June 15.—A Peking despatch to the Daily Express today insisted upon the correctness of despatches yesterday which stated Russian troops had begun military movements against the Province of Manchuria, China. The despatch today said there were reports in Peking of Russian military demonstrations from two directions on the northern frontier of China, from a line between Irkutsk, Siberia, and Urga, Mongolia. The Soviet was said to be sending skeleton organizations as a basis for Mongolian native mobilization. The Express correspondent then

NEW U. S. AMBASSADOR PRESENTS CREDENTIALS TO KING GEORGE

(Associated Press Despatch) LONDON, June 15.—General Charles G. Dawes, new ambassador to Great Britain, presented his credentials to the King at Windsor Castle shortly before noon today. In doing so the former vice-president acted with an ambassadorial speed almost without precedent, having only yesterday landed at Southampton after a trip from America.

The ambassador was accompanied by Mrs. Dawes and eight Hon. Arthur Henderson, Secretary for foreign Affairs.

Customary Pageantry Marks Prorogation Of Parliament After Eighty Day Sitting

Third Session of Sixteenth Parliament Prorogued Yesterday Afternoon — Speech from Throne Reviewed Improved Financial Position of Country and Railways, Trade Expansion and Recovery of King.

(Canadian Press Despatch) OTTAWA, Ont., June 15.—After being delayed for several days by last minute divisions the third session of the sixteenth parliament of Canada, was prorogued with all time honored ceremony by the Governor-General at six o'clock yesterday, after a sitting of eighty-four days.

The final item of the session was the passing of the general supply bill, voting the sum of $243,168,000 for carrying on the government until March 31st next.

The Governor-General, preceded by his escort of a troop of the Mounted Grenadier Guards, drove to Parliament Hill from Rideau Hall. He was received with a salute of 21 guns. A company of the Governor-General's body guard was drawn up on the Plaza, outfitted in their pre-war scarlet and gold.

The proceedings in the Senate Chamber were lengthy, all announcements being duplicated in the two official languages, but a few minutes before six, the booming of the artillery again proclaimed His Excellency's departure, proclaiming also that the parliamentary session had now passed into history.

The Speech from the Throne with which His Excellency Viscount Willingdon prorogued the third session of Canada's sixteenth Parliament last afternoon, reviews the work accomplished during the session concluded. It expresses appreciation also for the application with which the proceedings of Parliament had been conducted.

Addressing the members of the House and of the Upper Chamber, who had assembled in the Senate, His Excellency struck a note of thankfulness for the recovery of His Majesty.

"The progress of His Majesty's convalescence has given cause for deep thankfulness during recent months," the Governor-General declared, "I share your sincere hope that the complication which has lately developed, may be of brief duration, and that His Majesty's health may soon be completely restored."

Text of Throne Speech. The text of the Speech follows: Honorable Members of the Senate: Members of the House of Commons:

I desire to express my appreciation of the expedition with which you have conducted the proceedings of the Session of Parliament now concluded, and of the attention given by you to its exacting duties.

It is gratifying to observe that it has again been possible to effect a further reduction of taxation, and also a substantial reduction in the public debt.

The improvement in Canada's financial position has been paralleled by a continuous improvement in the financial position of the Canadian railways, and by a steady growth in manufacturing and in domestic and foreign trade. The acts making provision for another

WILLINGDON ARRIVED IN QUEBEC CITY

Governor-General Has Taken Up Residence at Quarters at Citadel—Expected Duke of Gloucester Will Visit Their Excellencies Towards End of Month—Garden Party on June 25.

QUEBEC, QUE., June 15.—Hopes of many for the revival of customs of former days, when the representative of His Majesty in the Dominion passed some time each year in Quebec, were realized this morning, when His Excellency Lord Willingdon, governor-general of the Dominion, arrived in his private car from Ottawa at 8.30 a.m. His Excellency was attended by Captain R. T. W. Fieness and Mr. E. C. Miville.

His Excellency has taken up his residence at the governor-general's quarters at the Citadel, where Lady Willingdon has been for the past few days or so. It is expected that His Royal Highness the Duke of Gloucester will visit Their Excellencies towards the end of the month, and invitations for a garden party, to be held at the Citadel on June 25th, have already been issued by Lord and Lady Willingdon.

LLOYD GEORGE REVIEWS BRITISH ELECTION

(Copyright 1928 by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. Copyright 1928 in Great Britain by London Chronicle. Exclusive World Rights Held by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. Reproduction in Whole or in Part Prohibited. All Rights Reserved.)

(By David Lloyd George)

LONDON, June 15.—(By Cable) —Difficult as it is for one of the actors to write a fair, impartial criticism of the play or of the performance, nevertheless I will do my very best to give a fair and impartial survey of the general election in Great Britain—its result and its probable effect.

It must be obvious to all who have the figures in mind that as between parties it has ended in a stalemate. It has been hailed in some quarters as a Labor or Socialist victory. The Socialists have enormously improved their position both in votes and in numbers and to that extent they can legitimately claim a triumph. But they failed to capture the House of Commons and as far as votes are concerned they are in a minority of 5,500,000. Britain is a long way off being converted to Socialism. The vagaries of our electoral system which has hitherto favored the Conservatives, this time gave advantage to the Socialists. Although second in number of the aggregate votes recorded in their favor, they are first in number of members returned to Parliament. Once more the luck of the tables went heavily against the Liberals. Although nearly one-fourth of the electors voted Liberal the number of Liberal members returned is not one-tenth of the total.

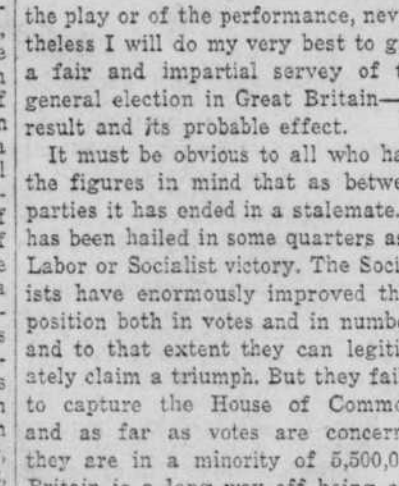

The Socialists succeeded in returning a member for every 20,000 votes recorded for their party. Conservatives obtained one for every 34,100 votes. But the Liberals obtained in the grotesque electoral gamble one member for 91,000 votes.

All the same a complete change has been effected in the Parliamentary position of the Liberal Party by the last general election. In the last Parliament they were too small a body, even if they had acted together, to make any impression on the huge Tory majority that rode down all opposition with ease. As one-fourth of their members voted consistently for the Government and were for all practical purposes an integral part of the ministerial phalanx, they were a still more insignificant party.

In this Parliament, on the other hand, the Liberal members will hold the balance between the Socialists and the Conservatives, and as the party is united—the factionists having been almost wiped out at the election—the fact is this government and this parliament will be in Liberal hands. This fact is the key to any prognostication of the immediate future of British policy in home and foreign affairs. What is likely to happen?

Everything turns on the extent to which the new premier realizes that the life of his government depends on averting Liberal hostility. The

The delivering of the annual speech to the boys and visitors by Mr. Charles B. Howard, M.P., of Sherbrooke, and the presentation of the prizes for the year were features of Speech Day at Bishop's College School yesterday morning.

There was a large crowd of people present from Montreal, Quebec, Sherbrooke, Lennoxville and other places for the closing day of the school year, and one of the most pleasing events of its kind in the school history was held.

The warm, sunny morning was favorable to Speech Day, and everyone gathered on the lawn of the beautiful Lennoxville school for the athletic sports, which were held as the first part of the programme. Following the sports, Mr. Howard made his address and distributed the prizes, and at one o'clock luncheon was served to the visitors.

The outstanding prize presented was the Walter Mitchell Medal for the boy who, through his industry, prominence in athletics and influence with his school fellows, has been of the greatest service to the school during this year. This award went to E. S. Coristine, of Montreal.

The headmaster, Mr. S. P. Smith, M.A., before introducing Mr. Howard, referred to a letter he received from Mr. Grant Hall, chairman of the school directors, expressing disappointment at not being able to be present, and added that all in any way connected with the school would deeply regret the prolonged illness which prevented Mr. Hartland MacDougall, vice-chairman of the directors, from attending. Mr. Smith thanked for sending special prizes, Dr. F. E. Meredith, K.C., chancellor of Bishop's University, Messrs. H. B. and R. E. MacDougall, Mr. Allan Horn, Mr. R. C. S. Kaulbach, K.C., of Lunenburg, N.S., Mrs. S. C. Black, Mrs. T. T. Stoker and Hon. Walter Mitchell, K.C.

Mr. Howard's Address: In opening his address, Mr. C. B. Howard, M.P., expressed himself as being honored at being asked to make the annual speech and at following, in this task, Hon. James Robb, Mr. Grant Hall and other notables. He also congratulated the management of the school and the results obtained by the students during the year.

"There are two classes of boys here today," he declared, "those going on to a higher education and those who are going out to take their places in the world. I want to say a few words to you boys who are going out now to make your place. The world welcomes you because it needs healthy, intelligent boys of good breeding, coupled with a fairly good education. The world needs you. Pick up any newspaper and read the current news on deaths, failures and poor health, and you will realize that the world needs you."

"I sympathize with you boys more because I stopped school where you are stopping. My advice to you is to work and find your places. Some of you are going to start in your father's business, and you are lucky; but be sure that the business suits you and that you like it."

The speaker continued by advising the boys not to "know it all," for they would learn something every day, and yet to have confidence in themselves. If these rules were followed, it would not be long before their employers would be relieved of their business, and they would be able to do it better than they could now.

Mr. Howard then quoted the following extract from a speech by Sir Wilfrid Laurier at the University of Toronto in 1910: "My young friends," Sir Wilfrid had told the Toronto students, "go out into this world to service. Make the highest thought of service your inspiration. Problems there are—big problems. Tomorrow, the day after tomorrow, I will be your turn to grapple with them. Serve God and your country. Be firm in the right as God gives you to see the right. You will not always succeed; progress is often punctuated with reverses. You may meet reverse, but the following day stand up and renew the conflict, for truth and justice shall triumph in the end."

The recent speech of Sir Robert Borden on the occasion of his retirement as Chancellor of Queen's University was also quoted, in which Sir Robert said: "In the splendor of your youth, you go

Stock Market Traders Today In A More Hopeful Frame Of Mind After Very Dull Week

Majority Waiting for Leadership, and Especially Waiting Until There Is a Definite Tendency Visible in Money Rates in New York.

(Written for the Canadian Press by Wellington Jeffers)

ORONTO, Ont., June 15.—In a week of dull trading and sagging prices which closed with an outburst of strength yesterday, the chief items of interest were the advance of Maple Leaf Milling common stock from $170 a share to $195 a share, with the close at $190; the feverish trading in Ajax Oil, which ran up from $1.30 to $1.75 a share at the close on Friday after reaching a high mark of $1.95, increasing interest in Wainwell as it went steadily up from 49 cents to 54 cents a share; lower prices in industrial stocks. Without these features the week would have been dull indeed, with the majority of traders waiting for leadership, and especially waiting until there is a definite tendency visible in money rates in New York. Most traders in Canada are convinced that things are not likely to move in Canada until this sore spot in the international situation is cured, but anxiety is notably less than a few weeks ago.

Split in Maple Leaf Stock After the close of trading yesterday announcement was made of a plan to split Maple Leaf Milling Company common stock five for one, with one of the new shares of class "B" preferred stock of no par value, and the financial statement was issued showing earnings on the common stock as high as $31.70 a share. These very favorable developments were evidently anticipated to a considerable extent in the advancing price of the stock. This stock has been advancing with impressive strength for more than a week against the trend of the market.

Ajax has been more of a football than ever with a background of favorable sentiment, and daily turnover of the standard stock and mining exchange alone of from two to more than four hundred thousand shares daily. Home Oil was stronger yesterday than for days, but on the week was down from $23.50 to $20.50 a share. Foothills dropped from $8 to $7.50; Alberta from $4.25 to $3.50; Calgary and Edmonton from $9.75 to $9.40; Dalhousie from $4.05 to $3.55; East Crest from $3.05 to $2.25; and Royalite, the Turner Valley leader, was down from $140 a share to $135.

Activity Lower Than Usual Both on the Montreal and Toronto stock exchanges total activity was lower than usual International Nickel, Walker's, Brazilian, Montreal Power and Massey Harris were active.

GIRL DROWNED AT QUEBEC WAS OF COATICOOK

Body Found in St. Lawrence Near Quebec Bridge Positively Identified by Father as Armand Patenaude, of Coaticook—Said to Have Formerly Worked in Sherbrooke.

(Special to the Record)

COATICOOK, June 15.—Mystery surrounding the identity of the body found floating in the St. Lawrence River near the Quebec Bridge last Sunday morning was cleared up yesterday by Mr. Edmond Patenaude, of Coaticook, when, at the inquest held in Quebec, he stated that it was the body of his daughter, Armand, aged twenty. No details of the nature of the drowning accident are known as yet, and until yesterday the name of the young girl whose body was found was not definitely known. Mr. and Mrs. Patenaude had heard that it might be their daughter, but had awaited further information, hoping and believing that the first report was wrong. Yesterday, however, they received a telegram stating that it was almost certain Miss Patenaude's body, and they immediately left for Quebec.

Miss Patenaude, it is said, formerly worked in Sherbrooke, but latterly is thought to have been a bookkeeper in Quebec. Her father said at the inquest that he had last seen her about a month ago, when she visited her home in Coaticook. The coroner's inquest returned a verdict of "found drowned."

It was stated by witnesses who lived in the vicinity of the Quebec bridge that the young girl had arrived at the bridge station by train and had registered on Saturday evening last at the hotel there as coming from Coaticook. She left instructions to be called in the morning, but when the hotel people called her, they found her already fully dressed and on her knees saying her prayers. She left the hotel at once, stating that she never took any breakfast, and that she was anxious to see the famous bridge. Nothing more was heard from her until about ten o'clock that morning, when some workmen near the bridge saw her body floating, and recovered it.

A Quebec radio broadcasting station sent a message about the finding of the body, with the statement that it was reported to be that of a young Thetford Mines girl. The latter, however, was listening in at Quebec at the time, and received a shock at hearing herself reported as being drowned. She immediately telephoned to her parents in Thetford to tell them she was well, in case they too had heard the message. It was later reported to be the Coaticook girl, after the evidence of the bridge hotel manager had been obtained.

Improvement Of Zoning Laws Was One Of Main Items Discussed By Delegates To Municipal Meeting

Conclusion Reached Was that Canada Is Not Abreast of Other Countries in Respect to Zoning Movement—Although All Provinces Except Quebec Had Zoning Laws, These Were in Most Cases Rendered Abortive Through Lack of Technical and Educational Staffs and Suitable Technical Advisers—Other Resolutions Also Passed at Yesterday's Session.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

THREE RIVERS, June 15.—A paper on public utilities by J. Prendehomme, K.C., City Solicitor of Winnipeg, which gave rise to a debate turning mostly on public ownership; a report by the committee on fire protection; an address on zoning by F. H. Plant, controller of Ottawa, and the passing of a series of resolutions on matters of interest to municipal governments, these were the main features of yesterday's sessions of the 29th annual convention of the Union of Canadian Municipalities, held in the city hall of Three Rivers.

At the afternoon session it was decided to hold the next convention in Hamilton, Ont.

One of the resolutions adopted called on the Department of Immigration to furnish the cost of maintenance to immigrants who become chargeable to a municipality within two years of entering the country. Controller Plant's paper on zoning in Canada as regards zoning regulations, came to the conclusion that Canada is not abreast of other countries in respect to the zoning movement, is in fact lagging behind, and strongly urged that this organization, by resolution or otherwise, should draw the attention of the Federal Government to this matter, urging it to take such measures as may suggest themselves.

He cited by way of comparison that more than 27,000,000 people in the United States, living in 578 cities, towns and villages, comprising three-fifths of the urban population, have the protection afforded by zoning regulations.

Although all the provinces of Canada

NERVE TORTURES

A Condition From Which Both Men and Women Suffer.

Hardly any condition of ill health causes more real suffering than a nervous system. And often, unfortunately, but little sympathy is shown for the sufferer, from the mistaken notion that nerves can be controlled. Men and women with nerves out of gear often become irritable and are blamed for ill temper, when it is not their fault. Their poor health is the cause. The tired, over-busy wife and mother, whose household cares have worn her thin; the breadwinner whose anxieties have worried him until he is really ill; are among the nerve sufferers who become run-down. Their nerves, like all bodily organs, need rich, red blood. In all such cases the best and simplest treatment is a course of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which enriches the blood and builds up the nervous system and brings good health and cheerfulness. Mrs. M. Cross, Richmond, Que., tells how this medicine ended her nervous troubles. She says: "I suffered from nervousness and dizzy spells, and the hundred and one things which in such a condition make life a misery. The first thing I found to help me was Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Under the use of this medicine I found my nerves grew sturdier, the dizzy spells grew less frequent, and I became brighter and more cheerful. I took the pills for some time and found that they enrich the blood, build up the nerves and are a fine medicine for both old and young."

You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

"The Fast Way to Health"

Questions To Be Answered To Health and Diet Will Be Answered By Dr. McCoy, who can be addressed in care of this paper. Enclose Stamped Addressed Envelope For Reply. 1225 McCoy Health Service, Los Angeles, Cal.

DR. MCCOY'S MENUS SUGGESTED FOR THE WEEK BEGINNING SUNDAY

Breakfast—8 ounce glass of orange juice thirty minutes before breakfast, cold eggs, melba toast.

Lunch—Potato on the half shell, string beans, salad of lettuce with olive oil.

Dinner—Jellied tomato bouillon served in cubes, roast pork, spinach, cooked celery salad of cold cooked asparagus (canned), baked apple.

Monday
Breakfast—Cottage cheese, pineapple (fresh or canned) melba toast.

Lunch—Buttered beets, squash, salad of chopped raw cabbage.

Dinner—Vegetable soup, Broiled steak, cooked beet tops, egg plant, salad of stuffed beets, cup custard.

Tuesday
Breakfast—French omelet, small piece of broiled ham, melba toast, applesauce.

Lunch—1 pint of buttermilk with 10 or 12 dates.

Dinner—Roast mutton, baked small turnips and carrots grated together without removing the peel, green peas, salad of shredded lettuce, apricot whip.

Wednesday
Breakfast—Waffles, cold eggs, stewed prunes.

Lunch—Stewed corn, cooked lettuce, ripe olives.

Dinner—Baked chicken, string beans, salad of grated raw carrots, jello or jelly-cream.

Thursday
Breakfast—Poached eggs on toasted shredded wheat biscuit, pear sauce.

Lunch—Glass of grapefruit.

Dinner—Vegetable soup, Salisbury steak, cooked tomatoes, cooked lettuce, salad of tender raw spinach leaves, pineapple sponge.

Friday
Breakfast—Wholewheat muffins, peanut butter, stewed prunes.

Lunch—Generous dish of junket, said 1 or 2 dates.

Dinner—Tomato and celery broth.

Saturday
Breakfast—Baked eggs, melba toast, stewed figs.

Lunch—Cornbread, spinach, raw celery.

Dinner—Broiled lamb chops, asparagus, baked ground beets, salad of shredded lettuce, peanut butter dressing, carrot pudding.

Stuffed beet salad: Select beets of uniform size, scrub with a vegetable brush, and boil until tender. Remove from the fire and place in cold water, then the skin will slip off very easily. Cut a slice from the stem end of each beet (to make the beet flat) and scoop out a portion from the center with a sharp knife. Fill with a mixture of finely chopped celery, cucumber and tomatoes and put in the icebox for an hour or two before serving one or two of the beets on crisp lettuce. Do not discard the scooped out portion, but use on the following day by cutting into small pieces, reheating, and serving with butter.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Tuberculosis
Question—Mrs. S. S. writes: "For the last three years my husband has been in the hospital suffering from tuberculosis. My little boy was born three weeks before my husband went to the hospital. That was my first knowledge that he had tuberculosis. Now, what chance has my boy? Will he inherit the disease, or how can I care for him so that he will be saved from it?"

Answer—The tendency toward tuberculosis may be inherited, but it is not considered that the disease, itself, can be transmitted in this manner except in very rare cases. If your little boy is fed upon a well balanced diet, allowed plenty of sleep, and perhaps given sunbaths, there is not much danger of his contracting this disease. I believe that it is quite easy for one to avoid contracting this disease by the proper hygienic measures.

Salisbury Steak
Question—Mrs. J. C. writes: "I missed your article stating what Salisbury steak was and why it is superior to hamburger, etc. How is it prepared? I am learning much from your column each day."

Answer—Salisbury steak is made by grinding only the red, lean part of round steak after having removed all gristle and fat. This may seem similar to hamburger steak, but it is really more palatable and more easy to digest; it has an entirely different flavor than when the fat is included. Allow three-quarters of a pound for each person serving when purchasing the steak. After grinding the meat, press flat into an ungreased cake tin to a depth of about one inch, and place in a hot oven for about five minutes after which time turn down the fire. A tasty addition is made by grinding parsley or spinach with the meat. Do not season until ready to serve, then use only a small amount of salt.

Children's Cozy Corner

Uncle Jim's Letter

Dear Corner Children:

The weeks are slipping by and very soon all the summerhouse doors will be closed, books put away, and boys and girls having jolly times out-of-doors. Of course there is work to do, but we must remember that "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," and divide the hours of the day into work-time and play-time.

I must tell you about two dogs that are great friends. One is a small white dog and the other a large collie. The little dog will hold a cookie in its mouth and allow the collie to take a bite off it. The white dog's mistress has given it a cookie several times and watched to see if it would happen, and it did. Don't you think that is friendly?

I have been in the country and near my cottage a rabbit must have a home for he is around the house a lot, and comes into the garden. I am afraid he will eat my lettuce and best. I talk to him sometimes and he will sit up and listen, but doesn't seem afraid, but if I stamp my foot he will run away.

I know the corner children will like the little story about Fuzzy-tail, and I hope every one likes to "keep busy." Have you noticed how thickly the strawberries are blossomed? If blossoms count there will surely be strawberries for all of us.

After school closes I hope some of the cousins will write and tell us what they are doing. The corner uncle is going on a holiday trip and will write to the corner folk from another part of Canada next week. Until then best wishes to all from

UNCLE JIM.

Since I Used the Nerve Food.

"Isn't it great to be well in the springtime—to get out into the sunshine and fresh air when all nature is renewing its youth?"
"How fortunate it would be if all women, and men too, only knew about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and realized the benefits to be obtained from its use when they are tired out and run down in health, nervous, irritable, sleepless and restless."
"It is wonderful how quickly tired, languid feelings disappear when this great restorative is used."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food
The greatest of nerve restoratives.

Write for folder entitled "What a Joy is Good Health." It describes the symptoms and treatment of nervous disorders. The Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co., Limited, Toronto.

Before and After Baby Comes

STRENGTH and tranquil nerves are most important during this critical period.

The mother should be cheerful. Her vitality should be high. For nature demands that she nourish two instead of one.

The expectant mother is usually weak and nervous, and often continues so after baby is born.

A reliable tonic is then of definite help, for labor and strain always deplete the body's supply of mineral salts.

Fellows' Syrup helps to replenish these, increases the appetite, aids digestion, and improves the general health.

Born in Canada—this fine old tonic now prescribed by physicians in 58 countries of the world.

TEXTS OF SERMONS AT PLYMOUTH CHURCH TOMORROW

The services at Plymouth United Church on Sunday will be conducted by the minister, Dr. Ellery Read. At the morning service the subject of the sermon will be "Conformation and Transformation" and the address to the children will be "A Little Boy's Trust." The subject of the evening sermon will be, "A King's Epitaph." The choral music will be appropriate to the services.

ANNUAL FLOWER DAY SERVICES

The annual "Flower Day" services will be held in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church tomorrow. Flowers of the children's own finding will beautify the interior of the sacred edifice, and the minister's message will be about "The Lilies of Prayer." There will be praise and music of suitable character.

The Sunday School and class for men will meet at 10 a.m. The Primary Department always meets at 10.45 a.m.

There will be a short summer service in the evening at the usual hour, with Mrs. J. G. Trenholme as special soloist. Rev. C. Ritchie Bell will be in charge of the service and Rev. Joseph Cordner will preach the sermon, which will be on "The Voice of the Garden."

COL. AND MRS. BRUCE PAYNE ATTENDED ENGLISH DERBY

FAREWELL TO MISS F. M. FROST AT ASCOT SCHOOL

Representatives of the Ascot W. L. staff of the Ascot Consolidated school and mothers of primary pupils, met on Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Walter Browne to tender a farewell to Miss F. M. Frost. During the past eight years Miss Frost has faithfully filled the position of primary teacher in the Consolidated school. Apart from the usual curriculum, Miss Frost has continually imparted to her pupils a fund of general information has held before them the highest ideals and tried in every way to achieve the higher aims of education in laying the

LENNOXVILLE

All Scouts and boys who wish to join are reminded that a meeting for re-organizing the troop is called for at 7.30 o'clock Saturday night at the Lennoxville High School. Parents are asked to notify their boys of twelve years and over of this meeting.

A successful bridge, under the auspices of the I. O. O. F., was held on Tuesday at the home of the regent, Mrs. A. O. Beck. Cards were played at twenty-one tables and tea and refreshments concluded a pleasant afternoon.

The Ladies' Aid of the United Church held its annual summer sale on Wednesday afternoon in Douglas Hall. Spring flowers were used in decoration of the various tables, and an attractive assortment of home-made cooking, aprons, and fancy articles was well patronized. The Philathea class of the Sunday School had a table of goods, with members of the class in charge. A salad tea was served, during the late afternoon. The president, Mrs. J. A. Seal, received the guests, while members of the Aid formed committees who had charge of the various booths and of the arrangements for the tea.

Mrs. Ray and Mrs. Swanson were hostesses for the tea which followed the regular meeting of the Women's Institute on Thursday afternoon. Routine business occupied the time, and the programme included an excellent paper on "The Value of Foods," by Mrs. Robert Seal, and which contained valuable suggestions and information for the housekeeper, particularly during the warm weather.

Mr. R. W. S. Nutbrown, of the Eastern Townships' Immigration Society, has issued a number of invitations to local people to attend the summer meeting of the E. T. Associated Boards of Trade and the E. T. Immigration Society at Magog on June 18th.

Miss Doris Arnold has returned from a visit to her brother and sister in Concord, N. H.

Mr. and Mrs. Spry and family and Miss Perry are spending the week-end with Mrs. Spry at Lynedoch.

Mr. H. A. Austin and Mr. R. C. Burley, of the Inspectors' Department of the Royal Bank of Canada, Montreal, were in Lennoxville this week in connection with the regular annual inspection of the local branch.

foundation for future good citizenship. The decorations of the primary class room and the flowering plants always in evidence have contributed both to the enjoyment and education of her pupils. At all school entertainments those present have listened with pleasure to the various items given by her pupils, which in every instance showed painstaking and careful training.

Miss Frost has also taken charge of the Junior Red Cross and much good work has been done in this department.

Many expressions of appreciation of her work and regret at her departure were voiced by those present. Mrs. Ashe presented Miss Frost with a pair of gloves from the W.L. as a slight token of their friendship.

A social time was spent, and lunch was served. Mrs. Browne was assisted by Mrs. Billings and Mrs. Lupton.

LORD'S SUPPER WILL BE CELEBRATED AT TRINITY CHURCH

The regular quarterly administration of the Lord's Supper will occur tomorrow morning in Trinity United Church. The pre-Communion address by the pastor will bear the title "At the Cross." The choir will render Bowles' anthem, "Come Unto Me," in connection with the morning hour of worship.

As usual in the summer months, the Sunday school and Brotherhood will meet at 10 a.m. In the evening the subject of the sermon will be "Indissolubly Joined." During this brief evening service music will be rendered by a mixed quartette.

EXAMINATIONS AT BISHOP'S UNIVERSITY COMPLETED YESTERDAY

June examinations at the University of Bishop's College were completed yesterday afternoon when a few final papers were written in the faculty of Arts. These examinations, written at the close of each academic year, have been progressing since the first of this month. Students have been completing their individual course at different times throughout the week.

The social activities will close next Wednesday night, when the Convocation class will be held by the graduating class. The final Mitre of the year is expected from the press during the next few days, while the Year Book will come out about Convocation day, next Thursday. Many of the students have already left for their homes for the summer recess.

NATIONALISTS HAVE LEAD OF SEVEN SEATS

With Only Two More of 148 Seats to Be Heard from, Returns Give Premier J. B. Hertzog Majority of Seven Members Over All Other Parties.

CAPETOWN, Union of South Africa, June 15.—With only two more of the 148 seats in the Legislative Assembly to be heard from, returns from last Wednesday's general election give the Nationalist party, led by Premier J. B. Hertzog, a majority of seven members over all other parties.

The Nationalists have elected 76 members, the South African party, whose leader is former Premier J. C. Smuts, 61 members; the Cresswell Laborites, supporters of the Government, 5 members; the anti-Government wing of the Labor party, known as the "National Council Laborites," 3 members, and Independents one member.

The solitary Independent is Dr. W. P. Steenhamp, who represents the sparsely populated desert region of Mankwaland, where he gained the seat from the Nationalists.

The Nationalist Minister of the Interior, Hon. Dr. D. F. Malika, more than doubled the poll obtained by the South African party candidate, H. J. Mel, in Calvinia, Cape Province.

forth affluent in your wealth of time and opportunity. Oh, be mindful of both. There are abundant locks upon the brow of the Goddess Opportunity which may be seized as she passes; but otherwise there is nothing to grasp and if she once eludes you, she is gone forever. So do not neglect opportunity, and be mindful of time. When you shall have reached the age of three-score years and ten, you will realize, as you cannot possibly realize at present, how short is the span of even the longest human life. So neglect not opportunity and squander not time, for these are your talent."

"Keep always an abiding faith in Canada, its institutions, its leaders and its destiny," were Mr. Howard's closing words. "Do not fail to make your influence felt in the political affairs of your country. Do not stand aloof. I would rather have you a Tory than nothing at all. Study Canadian questions with an open mind, and you will be a good citizen."

The annual programme of athletic sports, consisting of twenty-eight events, was run off on Wednesday and yesterday and provided keen competition. The feature race was undoubtedly the 220 yards section in which Hadfield and Dale ran a dead heat, while in many of the other events the contestants were well bunched at the tape.

The premier honors of the two day meet went to Dale, Hadfield and Doheny, all winning four events.

The headmaster, Mr. S. P. Smith, acted as referee and Sgt. Major Fisher as starter. The other officials were: Judges, Messrs. Young, Shupe and Rev. E. K. Moffatt; timekeepers, Messrs. Pattison, Lund and Dustin; clerk of course, Mr. Hawkins; and stewards, Messrs. J. R. Simms, C. M. Drury, P. W. Blaylock, F. G. Taylor, E. L. Coristine, T. R. Kenny, D. A. Markey, J. W. Meakins, I. Breakey, H. L. Duggan, H. M. Howell, I. Ogilvie, and P. G. Sise.

The results of the events were: Half mile handicap, 30 entries—1, Dale, 2 min. 13 sec.; 2, Bishop; 3, MacDougall.

High jump, junior, 11 entries—1, Rankin, 4 ft. 8 1-2 in.; 2, Devlin; 3, Gurd.

SHIPTON MAN GUILTY OF ASSAULT
Ludger Beaudin, of the Township of Shipton, appeared before Judge J. H. Lemay in the Magistrate's Court yesterday afternoon on a charge of simple assault made by Miss F. Mayette, also of Shipton. The accused was found guilty and was ordered to pay the costs of the case.

BOYS' CAMP
The time is drawing near for schools to close, when boys and parents will be interested in what to do for some of the time in summer. The Y.M.C.A. Boys' Camp, which will be held on the Y's Men's camp ground, should be an ideal place for all boys. The camp will open on July 3rd, and all who are interested should register immediately at the "Y."

NEW INCORPORATIONS
New companies to the number of 174 with an authorized capital of $7,754,290 were reported to The Monetary Times during the week ended June 8, 1929, as compared with $26,456,885 of capital in the preceding week, and with 115 with a capitalization of $80,451,180 for the corresponding week of last year.

From week ended January 7, 1928, to week ended June 8, 1929, new companies totalled 2,731 with a capital of $1,336,051,066, and from week ended January 6, 1929, to week ended June 8, 1929, there were 2,482 with $796,587,888 of capital.

THREE ARRESTS YESTERDAY
The comforts of the hotel operated by the city on Marquette street appear to be appreciated by some of its guests, judging from the frequency of their visits. Fred Watson, of Toronto, who spent Thursday night there and was released his bill of three dollars and costs, yesterday morning on payment of was again taken in last evening charged with vagrancy. His companion, George Lambert, of Island Pond, also spent the night there on the same charge.

Adam Samson, of Chateaufort, was arrested yesterday morning, charged with being drunk and disorderly on Wellington street. Samson was fined three dollars and costs or three days, while Watson and Lambert were assessed seven dollars or seven days.

LEARN TO SWIM CAMPAIGN
Nearly a hundred registered for the intensive swimming campaign that lasted for two weeks and yesterday fourteen boys received medals, having been successful in swimming the length of the Y.M.C.A. tank. These were: C. Carrigan, E. Sundberg, H. Atchison, E. Fuller, C. Willis, D. Woodson, E. Adams, R. Burroughs, D. Byham, K. Wilks, G. George Fisher, C. Mayotte, J. Buck, A. McEwen, eight from Cambridge School, two from Lawrence, two from St. Patrick's, and one each from East Ward and Lennoxville. Of the remaining eighty-six a large proportion have the elementary ideas and considerable confidence that should make them swimmers during the coming summer.

EASTERN TOWNSHIPS CONFERENCE CAMPAIGN
With the success that has attended the efforts of those responsible for the Eastern Townships Older Boys' Conference, a meeting of the executives of the Y's Men, Omega Alpha and H-Y Clubs was held last night to consider the feasibility of running a Young Men's Conference. The purpose is to get together the young men of the Eastern Townships from centres such as Quebec, Three Rivers, Granby, Waterloo, Knowlton, Richmond, Asbestos and other centres, to consider and discuss life problems, church problems, and other problems that enter into the life of the young men of today.

Such conferences have been held all over Canada for the past few years, and have been rich in results.

The idea was very favorably received, it being felt that possibly young men's organizations might be set up throughout the whole constituency, and the young men led into activities that might be very much worth while for themselves and the community.

Mr. E. D. Otter, gave a large amount of profitable advice, and promised that whatever he could do to help in the set-up he would be only too pleased to do. The present expectation is that the members who were present at the meeting will pass along the information received to other members of the groups interested, and a meeting of the Boys' Work Committee and executive officers of the clubs represented last night will likely be held to determine definitely what action is to be taken. This meeting will be held in the near future.

He is engaged in the building and realty business in California.

A very successful bridge party was held on Thursday afternoon in North Hatley, when Mrs. T. S. Somers generously opened "Highland Lodge," Mrs. Spafford's summer home, for the benefit of King George Vth Chapter I. O. D. E. Mrs. T. S. Somers and Mrs. W. E. Loomis received the guests. Bridge was played at ten tables and a lovely bouquet of flowers was given at each table for a prize. At the tea hour Mrs. Alex Hutchison poured tea. The table was centered with a large vase of darwin tulips, honey suckle and lilac and flowers were also used in great profusion in all the rooms. Mrs. Somers was assisted in her duties as hostess by Mrs. W. S. Allen and Miss Ruth Loomis. The whole affair was very enjoyable and the Chapter greatly appreciates Mrs. Somers' kindness. The receipts were very gratifying.

CONVENTION OF INSTITUTE AT STE. ANNE ENDS

Dr. H. M. Tory and Prof. B. K. Sandwell Speakers on Thursday Before Meeting of Women's Institutes—Address on Immigration Also Heard.

ST. ANNE DE BELLEVUE, June 15.—Women's Institute's recognize that their very interest in home and family demands an interest in the larger family of the community and the nation. Mrs. W. J. Fowler said in opening the session at Macdonald College of the sixteenth annual convention of the Women's Institutes of the Province of Quebec, which Dr. H. M. Tory, of Ottawa, addressed Thursday afternoon on "Canada's Place in the League of Nations." The session featured the two departments of activity which come more particularly under the second half of the Women's Institute motto, "For Home and Country," including the report of the immigration convention, Mrs. W. H. Holmes, of Stanstead, and that of the convenor, on Canadianization and national events, Mrs. McQuat, of Cowansville. Mrs. Jean Muldrew, of the home department of the Soldiers' Settlement Board, Ottawa, read the paper on "British Families on Canadian Farms," by Col. J. G. Rattray, chairman of the Soldiers' Settlement Board, who was to have been a speaker at the meeting.

The final programmes of the convention included addresses by A. Desjardis, chief of the home economics division of the Quebec Department of Agriculture, and by Mlle. Durant, who brought greetings from the Cercles de Femmes, and told of the activity of women in French rural settings.

The League of Nations was not brought about by the Great War, but represents an intellectual and spiritual development that has been going on for many years. Dr. Tory told the Women's Institutes. The war gave it a double inspiration, however. It crystallized the thought that hatred and prejudice were not only unnecessary to national success but were positively incompatible with the best ideas of the day on progress.

The war also shook the old systems that were the strongholds of intolerant ideas and thus gave an opening for the establishment of international machinery of democracy in which Christian ideals of brotherhood could be given a place. Because it was in keeping with the progress of intellect and spirituality the League of Nations would be a permanent thing, the speaker claimed, pointing out that to resist such progress meant decay. He urged upon the audience the necessity of taking into every community an appeal for support of the work of the League of Nations Society.

Address on Immigration.
Eighty-five per cent. of the families brought out by the 3,000 British family scheme to Canada are not only carrying on but are making a valuable contribution to the communities in which they were placed, it was stated in the paper of Col. Rattray. Only three per cent have been failures and the others have been found unsuited to farming but suitable for other employment. The address recalled the happenings by which the Soldiers' Settlement Board found themselves with a number of vacant farms following the deflation in agriculture in the critical years around 1928. The British and Canadian Governments, co-operating with the railway and steamship companies had then entered on the British family scheme of land settlement in Canada.

These families settled in Quebec had led in payments on their farms. Seventy-five per cent. of the amounts due will have been collected this year. By adapting themselves to new conditions with courage, and because often they tried new ideas without the old prejudices of the community or would not produce, they had been valuable additions to agricultural Canada. Of five hundred families visited in the past year Col. Rattray had found only two with serious complaints. He paid high tribute to their courage and to the Women's Institutes which had not spared pains to help the newcomers to a good start.

The report of Mrs. W. H. Holmes reviewed the work of the Institutes on which Col. Rattray had commented, and Mrs. C. McQuat reviewed a programme shared by women throughout Quebec which surveyed a broad patriotism without linguistic appeal. She urged the reading of Canadian literature, not in place of, but in addition to other books and magazines.

Rural Population Problem.
It is futile to deplore the move of population from country to city. B. K. Sandwell claimed, in giving the address of the evening session. It is an economic truth that while the consumption of all products manufactured in urban centres may be increased by teaching new luxuries it is impossible to increase the amount of staple foods which a man can consume. The most advanced salesmanship cannot increase the capacity of food consumption, however cultivated the gourmet's taste may be. At the same time it is true that the productive power of man has increased many times over in the last thirty or forty years. The export trade, which now favors Canada in wheat, cannot be depended upon to take up the increasing supply. This means, Mr. Sandwell pointed out, that proportionally a smaller and smaller rural population will be required, but this does not mean that this rural population decreases in importance, but the contrary. Professor L. C. Raymond, of Macdonald College, stated that two hundred boys would be accepted for boys' week, and that applications would be accepted until June 20th.

The organ recital by R. B. Musgrove, F.R.C.O., was again the outstanding artistic event of the convention, and his half hour of music last night was well appreciated. Miss B. M. Philip, of Macdonald College, presided at the closing session.

Protection Of Fish And Game

THE INTELLIGENCE OF FISH

Many have written about the intelligence of animals but most writers have forgotten fish.

It is conceded that animals have marvelous instincts,—birds which make a real castle out of their nests and hang them in flowering trees;

bees which build even nicer cities than ours; beavers the eminent engineers, architects and carpenters, which construct dams, and for the ingenuity of which nothing seems impossible and which astonish our human engineers; birds which have learned music; circus horses obeying the slightest gestures of the trainer; the dog seems to guess his master's desires, and the elephant, the most intelligent and powerful being can be led with a thread; but, all these beasts learn something new each day, for they are in constant touch with man, as they live on air and on the land.

Fish which live in the water, out of reach of man, can become familiar to a point of manifesting their affection by coming to know their friends and even eating from their hands.

It has been noticed that a fisherman always dressed the same way, passing the same time each day with food to the fishes' liking, can have these fishes wait for him and then feed them from his hands.

A few years ago in Scotland, a

DRIVING HINTS

Start away slowly—It is a good plan not to drive a car rapidly until it is at proper running temperature. This can be determined by the oil pressure. The oil pressure will show higher than normal on the oil gauge until the engine has warmed up. After that it will show the usual pressure. Run the car at less than 30 miles an hour until the oil gauge indicates that the oil is at its usual pressure and that the engine has therefore become warmed up.

the wharf to be fed and taking the food from the strangers' hands though they could not be handled by any other than the guardian's wife, who could take them one by one in her lap and feed them in the open air.

It was most interesting to see these fishes with mouths wide open in anticipation of food. How many other stories could be told of fish being domesticated. For instance, the wounded pike who, after being treated and put in a small pond, would at the approach of his benefactor leap from the water to the grass, so grateful he seemed.

Should not these things make us change our minds about fish being stupid and unfeeling in all instances.

ITEMS OF INTEREST TO JERSEY OWNERS

CANADIAN JERSEY BULLS FOR TEXAS

Canadian Jersey herds continue to contribute rich blooded herd sires to the dairy sections of the South. Eight young bulls being selected recently by R. L. Harris, of Blooming Grove, Texas. These young bulls range in size from six months to two years and came from the herds of B. H. Bull and Son, V. Duffy, Col. Harry Cockshutt, Ralph Willis, Papple Bros and Alfred Bagg.

This shipment of young bulls should take to Texas an abundance of production combined with show type and increase the popularity of Canadian Jerseys in the South.

Missouri Gets more Canadian Jersey Bulls

A second shipment of eight Jersey bulls recently left Ontario for Missouri. These were personally selected by Mr. Geo. E. King and Mr. Dan McCarthy. The bulls were bought by Geo. E. King and Sons at Hannibal, Mo. The purchase was made through Bull and Son and the bulls were from the herds of Jas. Bagg and Son and Ralph Willis, Reg. Wood, Geo. McLaughlin and Alf. Bagg. This shipment was particularly rich in the blood of Combination Premier and Brampton Silver Flyer and takes from Canada not only excellent individuals but the product of many years careful breeding and selection.

Macdonald College Has Record Jersey

One of the highest two year old records ever made in Canada was recently completed by "Macdonald Veda's Baroness 2nd" 33274. Commencing test with first calf at two years 159 days, this heifer produced, in 305 days, 12,535 pounds of milk and 648 pounds of fat. This record makes her the third highest two year old in fat for this class in Canada and second highest in milk.

Gas-Cleaning Devices Are Coming Into Vogue

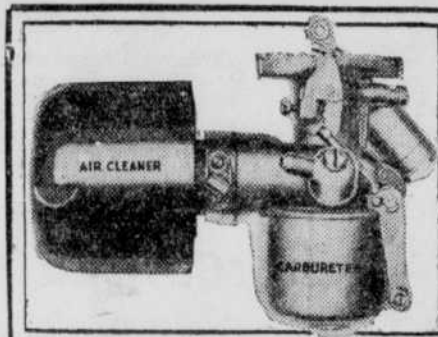

New Cars Have Elaborate Provisions for Keeping Dirt Out of Fuel.

By J. Edward Schipper, S. A. E.
A POINT very much emphasized on all the new cars is the necessity for a clean supply of fuel and aid for the motor. This tendency has been noted for about five years. For about this length of time it has been the custom of motor car builders to add such equipment as air cleaners, gasoline filters, etc., to an increasing extent. The importance of a clean engine is fully realized by anyone who has looked at the contents of the crankcase of an engine that has been in service for some time. When the crankcase oil pan is dropped after the engine has been driven about country roads, particularly, there is a muddy sediment which is full of grit that can be of great harm to the bearings and which will greatly accelerate the wear of the cylinder walls.

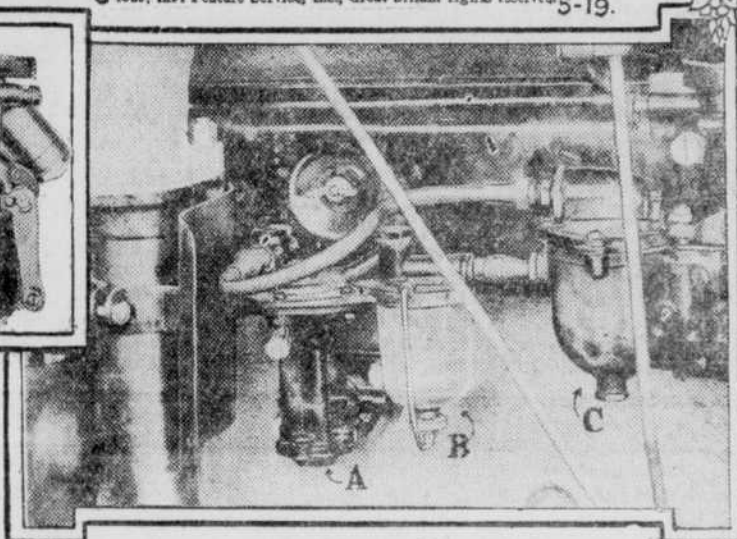

While the vacuum tank system was universal up to a couple of years ago, other methods of feeding the fuel are also in favor today. The fuel pump and the vacuum pump have been favored and are in use on the lower as well as the higher priced cars. Taking a typical car in the $2,500 class as representative of good practice in the fuel system. It is interesting to trace the provisions made for feeding the fuel as well as keeping it clean.

The gasoline is stored in a 20-gallon tank mounted on the rear of the frame. From this tank it is fed by vacuum, but not by engine suction alone, as will be shown, to a smaller tank on the dash. A large size tank filler is noted on this car, making filling easy. There also is a vent pipe in the filler which permits the escape of air and thus prevents splashing while the tank is being filled.

The difference between the vavacuum system on this car and the old type is that the flow of fuel is positive at all times, regardless of speed or in climbing long hills when the vacuum in the intake manifold is very low. Positive feed is assured by a vacuum pump placed at the rear of the crankcase and driven by an eccentric off the camshaft. This pump is diaphragm type and in connection with the vacuum in the intake manifold provides the vacuum necessary to lift the fuel from the gasoline tank to the small tank on the dash from whence it flows to the carburetor by gravity in the usual way.

Gasoline is cleaned of dirt and water in two ways before it reaches the carburetor on this system. There is one straining device between the main tank and the vacuum tank and another between the vacuum tank and the carburetor. The latter is a visible type with a glass container that can be removed occasionally for cleaning.

In addition to these cleaning devices which take care of the fuel there is an air cleaner, through which all the air that enters the carburetor must pass and which removes all the dust and dirt that accumulates in the air. On city streets very little dust is encountered, although the amount that is taken out by a good efficient cleaner, even under city conditions, is surprisingly great.

Roads today in the country are generally good and it is unusual to have to drive a car through dust clouds as we formerly did. However, particularly in night driving, the air is full of insects and there generally is a certain amount of dust left suspended in the air by the car that preceded. On windy days the dust in the country is often almost as much as we would have usually encountered in the past over the old-fashioned country road.

This protection of the air and the gasoline entering the motor is very important from the standpoint of lengthening the life of the car. There is only one other step necessary to complete the job and that is to keep the oil just as clean. This of course is being done today on most cars. On the car using the fuel system above described, there is an oil filter which is part of the oil circulating system. This takes out the dirt and grit, and in fact, the makers of the car claim that instead of having to change the oil every 500 miles in the usual manner, once every 2,000 miles is sufficient. Thus the system is not only an economy from the standpoint of preventing engine wear, but also saves oil in that it is not necessary to throw away the crankcase residue so often. The draining periods are only one-fourth as frequent.

The refinement of gasoline and lubricating systems from the standpoint of cleanliness and positive feed is an important one for all owners, as it is a great contribution toward life as well as satisfactory performance.

Motor Mastery in a New Style Setting ...at a Remarkably Low Price

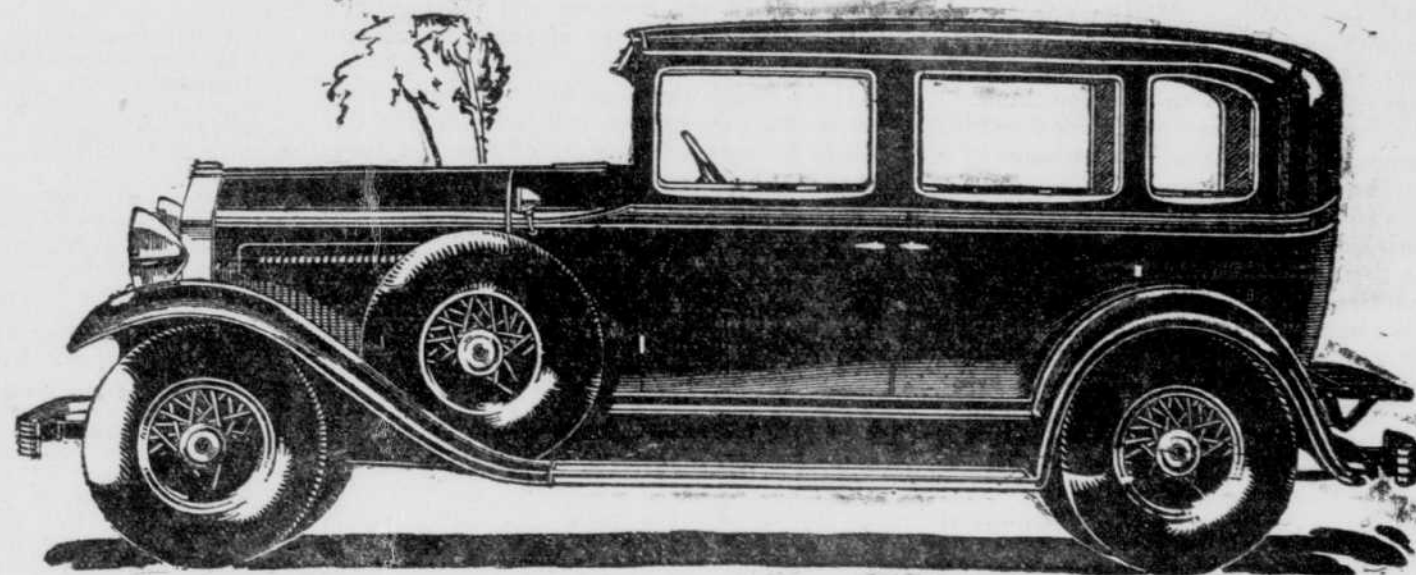

Seldom has a fine motor car been marked by so many major improvements as now distinguish the new-style Willys-Knight "70-B."

This richly styled car definitely proves that beauty of design and perfection of detail are entirely independent of price. Only among the most expensive custom-built cars can you find any adequate comparison. Indeed, its designers are men of long experience in the custom-built field, and their genius is manifest in this triumph of modern beauty.

The new-style Willys-Knight is the largest and most powerful Knight-engined car ever offered at so low a price. A demonstration will quickly prove the superiority of its patented, double sleeve-valve power-plant.

It is the only type of automobile engine that does not require costly valve-grinding and carbon removing, and that actually increases in power and smoothness to a mileage limit never yet determined.

A demonstration will give you a new idea of beauty, power and value. A standing invitation awaits you at your nearest dealer's.

A TRIBUTE TO FATHER

A determined effort is being made to have June 16th observed each year as Father's Day, and although the occasion has not aroused as general an interest as has Mother's Day in May, it is quite likely that as time goes on that father will also come in for his just share of honor.

Tomorrow the sixth national observance of "Father's Day" will be celebrated throughout Canada and, of course, the fathers of Sherbrooke will come in for their just share of the day's tribute.

It is only natural that mothers, sons and daughters should want to honor the "Grand Old Man," and there is no reason why Father's Day should not become a prominent feature.

Although fathers are by nature of a practical and business-like manner, and not given to outward show of sentiment, they are nevertheless very human at heart and cherish the marks of love which their children show to them. Consequently a box of cigars, a new necktie or a copy of one of the latest books on "Father's Day" would let father know that he had not been forgotten while the wearing of a bright red flower if father is living or a white one as a mark of respect if he is dead is also a suitable way of observing "Father's Day."

MAGNA CARTA DAY

The desire to keep vibrant English-speaking international good will has resulted in the observance on June 15th of Magna Carta Day which is also known as the interdependence day of the English-speaking nations of the world.

Although the day is not observed as a legal holiday, yet it is intended as an occasion when the Seven Nations may unite for the commemoration of the source of their common liberties, their common legal systems, their common language and culture and their common obligations to one another and to the world.

Magna Carta Day recalls the signing of the great Magna Carta by King John on June 15, 1215. This was an outstanding historical incident which has been referred to as "the background of all that we have."

In the churches and Sunday Schools of the English-speaking world Magna Carta Day is observed on Sunday, June 16th.

The International Magna Carta Day Association had two main objects in organizing the event. It was first of all intended to develop English-speaking fellowship through the annual observance of Interdependence Day, thus promoting mutual understanding and the political and economic stability of the world, which is the surest foundation for world peace.

Secondly, it was organized to encourage respect for law through a greater knowledge and appreciation of Magna Carta and other great constitutional documents, thus influencing the stranger within our gates to understand the splendid expression in Magna Carta of a people's will to be free and of our ideal of safeguarding this freedom through a greater individual responsibility for the duties of citizenship.

The English-speaking nations of the world should be a united force in safeguarding and fostering world peace and maintaining justice for all.

THREE MILLION TOURISTS

The immensity of the tourist trade in the Province of Quebec is realized when the estimates of the number of tourists who will visit here this summer are examined. The Montreal Tourist and Convention Bureau estimates that three million holiday-makers will visit Quebec, and that these will spend a total amount of money of about $75,000,000.

This comparatively new industry is an immense one, and its importance is growing every year with the increase of advertising in Canada in the United States, the steady improvement of the roads here and the providing of more facilities to deal with the trade. The Province has for a number of years now made a very real effort to bring more and more tourists here and has met with distinct success. In making this effort the Government has shown good business judgment, and it should continue to increase the attractions of the oldest and most historical territory on the continent.

The "favorable" balance accruing to Canada from tourist trade increased by over $35,000,000 in 1928, and represents an "invisible" export which is surpassed in value only by the exports of wheat among the leading Canadian commodities exported from Canada in the fiscal year 1928-29, according to the statement issued yesterday by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

The importance of the tourist movement from the United States is realized throughout Canada, as each section of the country receives a large share of the visitors. For obvious reasons the Prairie Provinces are the least visited of the nine, although even they receive, according to the Ottawa estimates, over four million dollars from the south during the summer months. The Maritimes are making an earnest and successful effort to obtain a larger quota of visitors, and last year profited to the extent of over sixty million dollars. British Columbia made between seventeen and eighteen millions, and Quebec an estimated amount of almost forty-four millions. Ontario led the country by a large amount, however, their profit being over $95,000,000.

The Province of Ontario is, therefore, if the Bureau of Statistics figures are to be taken, profiting well over twice as much from its visitors as Quebec is. This shows that there can be no let-up in the efforts on the part of Government, organizations and people to get more tourists, for there is little reason why there should be such a great discrepancy between the two provinces. Even as it is, however, the tourist traffic is seen to be one of Quebec's biggest industries and it promises to become a steadily more important one.

THE COST OF UNIVERSITIES

(By Glenn Frank)

The cost of education, as I have said before in this column, promises to become more and more a political issue.

This problem will arise wherever self-governing democracies undertake to develop nation-wide systems of education from kindergarten to university.

As budgets begin to bulk large they will prove inviting political targets.

Much of this attack will be simply the uncritical resentment of the taxpayer against anything that lifts taxes higher.

Much of the attack will be the sheer demagogic appeal of office-seekers who scent a convenient issue.

Some of the attack will rest upon solid ground.

And it is this grain of truth in the protest that should be engaging the attention of educators.

Well in advance of the full impact of the attack on educational costs, those of us who are on the inside of the school system should subject our processes to a scrutiny more sincere sustained and searching than any outsider is likely to give them.

Let the attackers of the schools scent their attention upon how much money is spent on the schools.

I cannot speak with much first-hand knowledge about the schools below the university, but respecting the tax-supported university I raise one question.

By and large, I am convinced that the tax-supported universities are as carefully administered and as economically conducted as any of the public institutions of the Western nations, but we are, I think, coming to the end of pioneer period in which state universities, having grown like mushrooms, may well subject themselves to self-surveys to find whether there may not be elements of over-organization and over-formalization in them which enter very much into their education efficiency and financial cost at one and the same time.

I am frankly worried by the extent to which we carry up into college and university the same sort of formal courses and formal classroom procedures which we use in high schools. For one thing, the extensive outlay of formal courses is expensive; and in the second place they are not in keeping with the freedom and independence that should mark the work of adults in universities.

If we could transform our universities from the excessively formalized drill factories they may so easily become into centers of free and fairly independent adult study under the more informal guidance of a group of superior scholars I suspect we might raise the character and reduce the cost of our universities at one stroke.—Cpt. 1929.

On closing day the pupils, parents and some friends were entertained to a picnic in Mr. R. Pease's grove, by Miss Curtis, teacher, and a few of the Cleveland W.I. ladies. The pupils spent some time in playing games, etc., then they all returned to the schoolhouse, where prizes and gifts were presented to the pupils by Miss Curtis.

On Friday the Richmond Hill School closed for their holidays. Miss Wright, their teacher presented prizes on this day, after which the children enjoyed a fine picnic, luncheon and a couple of hours of playing games.

Miss Wright has returned to her home in Kingsley and Miss Curtis to her home in Magog for the holidays.

General Notes.

The Cleveland Women's Institute held a very successful slip sale in the Richmond Hill Schoolhouse, on Saturday. The agriculture convener, Miss M. Stamp had charge of this meeting, three interesting papers were read by Miss Stamp, Mrs. E. Healy and Mrs. Monahan. The delegates for the convention were then chosen, namely, Mrs. J. E. Healy and Mrs. G. Tozer. Arrangements were then made for the annual social afternoon, which is to be held this year with Miss Alma Healy, at her home.

Nearly all the W.I. members attended the annual county meeting, held in Richmond, in the Odd Fellows Hall.

Last Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. Fletcher, Messrs. F. Fletcher and Clarence Pease were given a surprise party, this being their birthday. Over one hundred guests were present and a most enjoyable evening was spent in dancing and cards. The joint hostesses, Mrs. Fletcher, and Miss Pease, assisted by some of the ladies served lunch. The guests departed in the "wee" hours of the morning wishing Mr. Fletcher and Mr. Pease many more happy birthdays.

Miss Minnie Stamp entertained the Social Workers at her home last Thursday, with a good attendance present and Mrs. and Miss Pease held the June meeting of the New London Ladies' Aid at her home on Friday. The June meeting of the Social Workers will meet Mrs. Tozer the last Thursday of the month.

As Mr. Wm. Banfill and little son, Carl, were going toward Richmond, Wednesday afternoon, the car driven and owned by Mr. Banfill was hit by a Montreal car, coming from Danville, just as they turned onto the Danville highway. The force of the blow sent Mr. Banfill's car nearly one hundred feet, hitting a culvert. The other car and driver was thrown into the ditch. The little son of Mr. Banfill was thrown from the car into the middle of the road. Outside of a few cuts and bruises neither of the men or the little lad were badly hurt. The cars were quite badly damaged.

Mr. Lorne Pease motored from Montreal, spending the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. Pease.

Mrs. W. Harris and little son, of Lachine, have been visiting at Mr. A. Smith's, Mr. F. Smith's and Mr. T. Astell's.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Perkins and family were visiting in Windsor Mills, on Sunday.

Miss F. Banfill, of Montreal, spent a few days recently at Mr. J. C. Day's and Mr. W. Banfill's. Miss Banfill was accompanied home by her mother, Mrs. Banfill, who is visiting a while there with her daughters before going to Hatley to visit her son there.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Banfill, and family, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. Banfill, at North Hatley.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Fletcher and little daughter were at Mr. P. Smith's, on Sunday.

COST OF HOME SHOULD MEASURE UP WITH INCOME

Budgeting Income Is Only Rational Way of Determining Cost.

WHEN a man proposes to build a home there are things which he must consider very carefully. The first is his financial ability. How much can he afford to invest in a new home. To over-estimate his ability to pay is to invite worry and trouble as constant companions. To build without at least one-fifth of the total cost in hand is not only bad business; it is extremely dangerous.

Remember that in addition to payments on the principal and on the interest of loans on a home, allowance must be made for some or all of the following expenses: (a) Renewals and repairs, (b) property tax and special assessments; (c) insurance, (d) water tax or rent, (e) accessories, and (f) improvements.

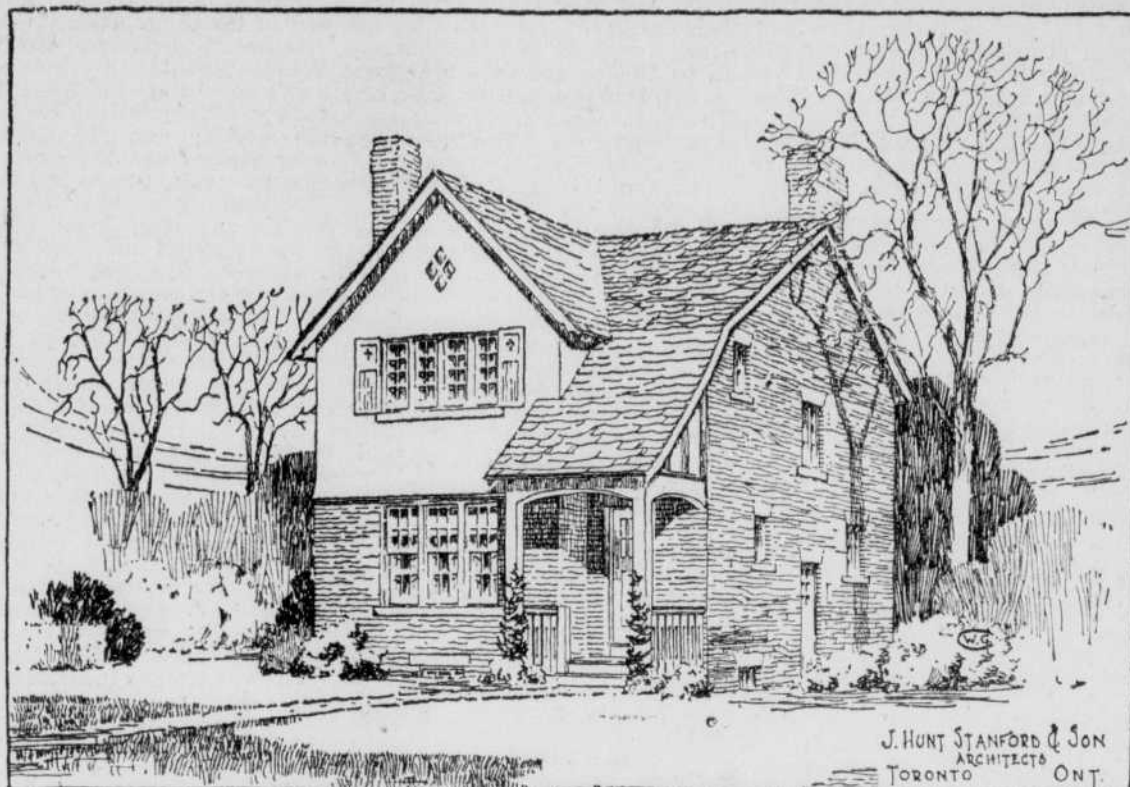

The real problem lies in getting a satisfactory home, one that will not absorb too much of the family's income, nor yet be below its general living standards.

The amount that can be paid for a house depends partly on what interest rates are charged for the money borrowed to make purchase and the date at which the principal is to be paid off. These fixed payments must be met regularly, and they must be met from the family's income. It is therefore always best to leave some margin of safety to provide for illness or other emergency.

If a family pays a sixth of its income for rent, it may be able to devote one-fourth or more to buying and maintaining a house, for the amount thus used may include both rent and savings. Rent, or payments on a home may require anywhere from one-eighth to one-third of the family income, depending upon the special circumstances in each case. Families accustomed to living in apartments sometimes fail to allow for the cost of fuel for heating purposes.

The average home costs about twice the annual income. Every family wants to spend its money so that it "goes the farthest," and the exact amount to be spent on a home can be determined wisely only by carefully checking over the family's needs and its expenses. GOOD DESIGN FOR A NARROW LOT

J. HUNT STANFORD & SON Architects.

HERE is that architectural rarity—a house of distinctiveness and character with a narrow enough frontage to permit its erection on a 25' lot. Often, realizing that the successful design of a home of such limited width is no simple affair, an attempt is made to give it character by the use of meaningless ornaments. The unhappy results can be seen in any city.

Not ornamentation, but the oft-repeated principles of honest design, good proportions and judiciously chosen and combined materials, are the only means which can be followed to ensure a successful appearance. A few moments study of the perspective above will convince the reader of the truth of this statement. The plan, too, shows about the best possible solution to the problem of the narrow lot. Every essential feature of a good modern house plan is included, and not a square inch of space wasted.

The living room is bright, cheerful and of ample size. A wide archway connects this room with the dining room and gives a pleasing glimpse of the garden through the door and sidelights which are directly opposite in the dining room.

There are four doorways in the kitchen and each serves a very useful purpose. First is that to the rear porch which gives convenient access to the garden; the second to the dining room; the third opens directly into the main hall and the fourth to the side grade entrance. The upper floor accommodation comprises three bedrooms with clothes closets, a linen closet and a three piece bathroom.

FITCH BAY

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Covey and two children, of Stanstead, were the week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Cass.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Aiger and children spent the week-end in Dunken, Que., the guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Davis.

Mr. Harry Dolloff, of Sherbrooke, spent Sunday in town the guest of Miss E. M. Dolloff.

Mrs. D. A. Camber was called to Lisgar, Que., last week to attend the funeral of his sister, Mrs. Placey.

Mrs. Flora Magoon and Mr. H. Magoon, of Wells River, Vt., are the guests of Miss Hannah Dolloff.

A wedding of interest to residents of this place took place in St. Mary's Episcopal Church, Northfield, Vt., on Wednesday, May 29th, at 7 p.m., when Marion Ruth Gardyne, only daughter of Mrs. C. H. Rogers, of this place, was united in marriage to Floyd Clifford Prentiss, of Northfield. The bride was very becomingly attired in blue flat crepe with hat to match and carried a bouquet of tulips and lilies of the valley. The young couple were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Mayland Chamberlain, sister and brother-in-law of the groom. After a few days spent with relatives here Mr. and Mrs. Prentiss returned to Northfield, where they will reside. Their many friends extend hearty congratulations and good wishes.

Miss Clara Wyman entertained at a miscellaneous shower on Saturday afternoon, in honor of Miss Enid Rollins, whose marriage takes place this month. About thirty friends of the bride-to-be were present and a most enjoyable afternoon was spent. Upon her arrival the guest of honor was escorted to a chair which was prettily decorated in white, with cherry blossoms and lilies, the house decorations being of the same flowers. A basket decorated in white and filled with gifts was brought in by Norma Marshall and Gwendolyn Covey and presented to Miss Rollins, who in a few words thanked her friends for the kindness to her. After the pretty gifts had been passed around and admired, refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. George Cass, Mrs. C. P. Rider and Miss Lena Gustin. The party then broke up after many good wishes for future happiness for the bride-to-be.

Mrs. Susie Cass and Miss Bryant attended the W.C.T.U. convention at Ayer's Cliff on Thursday.

The body of the late Mrs. Alice Wilson, of Concord, N.H., was conveyed here for burial in the family lot in Brookside cemetery on Monday morning. Rev. J. R. Wheeler conducted the service at the grave.

The MYSTERY of the BLUE TRAIN

by AGATHA CHRISTIE

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR

Rufus Van Aldin, American millionaire, secretly purchases a collection of the world's largest rubies, among them the famous Heart of Fire, once owned by Catherine the Great of Russia. In Paris he foils an attack by Apaches working for a masked man with white hair—the Marquis—who seeks the jewels. After showing the rubies to his secretary, Richard Knighton, Van Aldin gives them to his daughter, Mrs. Derek Kettering, married to a dissolute English aristocrat. Kettering, Van Aldin learns his daughter has an affair with a rascally French Count. Kettering informs his mistress, Mirelle, a beautiful dancer, that if divorced he will be rich. He tells her he will be rich if his wife dies "accidentally." Meanwhile, Katherine Grey, thirty-three and good looking, comes into money. She has been an old woman's companion for ten years and now decides to see the world and "live." She receives an invitation to visit the Riviera from a society-climbing cousin, Lady Tamplin. She obtains a wardrobe of smart clothes. Learning that his wife is leaving for the Riviera to meet the Comte de la Roche, Kettering obtains passage on the Blue Train. At the ticket office he sees a lady with grey eyes he had previously bumped against in the hotel corridor. It is Katherine Grey, who also books for the Blue Train. Van Aldin, the richest man in England, refuses 100,000 pounds to accept a divorce. On the Blue Train Katherine Grey meets Ruth Kettering, who is nervous and confides her story. But at dinner Ruth is absent. Her table partner is a small man who remarks about her book, a mystery novel. That night, unable to sleep, she sits in the corridor and sees a man enter Ruth's compartment. She recognizes him as the one she ran into at Cook's.

Now Go On With the Story.

Katherine is Questioned by the Police; Poirot Famous Detective Enters.

CHAPTER XI

MURDER

Katherine awakened the next morning to brilliant sunshine. She went along to breakfast early, but met none of her acquaintances of the day before. When she returned to her compartment it had just been restored to its daytime appearance by the conductor, a dark man with a drooping moustache and melancholy face.

"Madame is fortunate," he said; "the sun shines. It is always a great disappointment to passengers when they arrive on a grey morning."

"I should have been disappointed, certainly," said Katherine.

The man prepared to depart.

"We are rather late, Madame," he said. "I will let you know just before we get to Nice."

Katherine nodded. She sat by the window, entranced by the sunlit panorama. The palm trees, the deep blue of the sea, the bright yellow mimosa came with all the charm of novelty to the woman who for fourteen years had known only the drab winters of England.

When they arrived at Cannes, Katherine got out and walked up and down the platform. She was curious about the lady in the pink coat and looked up at the windows of her compartment. The blinds were still drawn down—the only ones to be so on the whole train. Katherine wondered a little, and when she returned to the train she passed along the corridor and noticed that these two compartments were still shuttered and closed. The lady of the pink coat was clearly no early riser.

Presently the conductor came to her and told her that in a few minutes the train would arrive at Nice. Katherine handed him a tip; the man thanked her, but still lingered.

There was something odd about him, Katherine, who had at first wondered whether the tip had not been big enough, was now convinced that something far more serious was afoot. His face was of a sickly pallor, he was shaking all over, and looked as if he had been frightened out of his life. He was eyeing her in a curious manner. Presently he said abruptly: "Madame will excuse me, but she is expecting friends to meet her at Nice."

"Probably," said Katherine.

"But the man merely shook his head and murmured something that Katherine could not catch and moved away, not reappearing until the train came to rest at the station, when he started handing her belongings down from the window."

Katherine stood for a moment or two on the platform rather at a loss, but a fair young man with an ingenious face came up to her and said rather hesitatingly:

"Miss Grey, is it not?"

Katherine said that it was, and the young man beamed upon her sympathetically and murmured:

"I am Chubby, you know—Lady Tamplin's husband. I expect she mentioned me, but perhaps she forgot. Have you got your billet de logement? I lost mine when I came out this year, and you would not believe the fuss they made about it. Regular French rule!"

Katherine produced it, and was just about to move off beside him when a very gentle and insidious voice murmured in her ear:

"A little moment, Madame, if you please."

Katherine turned to behold an individual who made up for insignificance of stature by a large quantity of gold lace and uniform. The individual explained: "There were certain formalities. Madame would perhaps be so kind as to accompany him. The regulations of the police—"

He threw up his arms. "Absurd, doubtless, but there it was."

Mr. Chubby Evans listened with a very imperfect comprehension, his French being of a limited order.

"So like the French," murmured Mr. Evans. He was one of those starchy, pompous Britons who, having made a portion of a foreign country their own, strongly resent the original inhabitants of it. "Allways up to some silly dodge or other. They've never tackled people on the station before, though. This is something quite new. I suppose you'll have to go."

Katherine departed with her guide. Somehow to her surprise, he led her towards a siding where a coach of the departed train had been shunted. He invited her to mount into this, and, preceding down her own corridor, held aside the door of one of the compartments. In it was a pompous-looking official personage, and with him a nondescript being who appeared to be a clerk. The pompous-looking personage rose politely, bowed to Katherine, and said:

"You will excuse me, Madame, but there are certain formalities to be complied with. Madame speaks French, I trust?"

"Sufficiently," I think, Monsieur, replied Katherine in that language.

"That is good. Pray be seated, Madame. I am M. Caux, the Commissary of Police." He blew out his chest importantly, and Katherine tried to look sufficiently impressed.

"You wish to see my passport?" she inquired. "Here it is."

The Commissary eyed her keenly and gave a little grunt.

"Thank you, Madame," he said, taking the passport from her. He cleared his throat. "But what I really desire is a little information."

"Information?"

The Commissary nodded his head slowly.

"About a lady who has been a fellow-passenger of yours. You remember her name?"

"Mademoiselle, alas! can tell you very little," said the Commissary.

"I have been explaining," said Katherine, "that this poor lady was a complete stranger to me."

Poirot nodded.

"But she talked to you, did she not?" he said gently. "You formed an impression, is it not so?"

"Yes," said Katherine thoughtfully. "I suppose I did."

"And that impression was—"

"Yes, Mademoiselle—the Commissary jerked himself forward—" "let us by all means have your impressions."

Katherine sat turning the whole thing over in her mind. She felt in a way as if she were betraying a confidence, but with that ugly word "Murder" ringing in her ears she dared not keep anything back. Too much might hang upon it. So, as nearly as she could, she repeated word for word the conversation she had had with the dead woman.

"That is interesting," said the Commissary, glancing at the other.

"Eh, M. Poirot, that is interesting? Whether it has anything to do with the crime—"

He left the sentence unfinished.

"I suppose it could not be suicide," said Katherine, rather doubtfully.

"No," said the Commissary. "It could not be suicide. She was strangled with a length of black cord."

"Oh!" Katherine shivered. M. Caux spread out his hands apologetically. "It is not nice—no. I think that our train robbers are more brutal than they are in your country."

"It is horrible."

GENERAL NOTES AND PERSONALS FROM BEDFORD

Newly Items and Personals of General Interest from Bedford and Vicinity.

BEDFORD, Que., June 15.—Mr. Gordon Jones accompanied his parents Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Jones on Thursday, June 6th to Macdonald College.

Mr. Charles Bockus, of Delson Junction, was in Bedford, on Saturday, on the occasion of the sale of the residence and household effects of his mother, the late Mrs. Wellington Bockus.

Miss Dorothy Ewing, of Montreal, was the guest over the week-end at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ewing.

lunched with her yesterday. "I am afraid I can't tell you anything about her. We fell into conversation over our meal, but she is a complete stranger to me. I have never seen her before."

"And yet," said the Commissary sharply, "you returned to her compartment with her after lunch and sat talking for some time?"

"Yes," said Katherine; "that is true."

The Commissary seemed to expect her to say something more. He looked at her encouragingly.

"Yes, Madame."

"Well, Monsieur," said Katherine.

"You can, perhaps, give me some kind of idea of that conversation?"

"I could," said Katherine, "but at the moment I see no reason to do so."

In somewhat British fashion she felt annoyed. This foreign official seemed to her impatient.

"No reason?" cried the Commissary. "Oh yes, Madame, I can assure you that there is a reason."

"Then perhaps you will give it to me."

The Commissary rubbed his chin thoughtfully for a minute or two without speaking.

"Madame," he said at last, "the reason is very simple. The lady in question was found dead in her compartment this morning."

"Dead!" gasped Katherine. "What was it—heart failure?"

"No," said the Commissary in a reflective, dreamy voice. "No—she was murdered."

"Murdered!" cried Katherine. "So you see, Madame, why we are anxious for any information we can possibly get."

"But surely her maid—"

"The maid has disappeared."

"Oh!" Katherine paused to assemble her thoughts.

"Since the conductor had seen you talking with her in her compartment, he quite naturally reported the fact to the police, and that is why, Madame, we have detained you, in the hope of gaining some information."

"I am sorry," said Katherine; "I don't even know her name."

"Her name is Katherine. That we know from her passport and from the labels on her luggage. If we—"

There was a knock on the compartment door. M. Caux frowned. He opened it about six inches.

"What is the matter?" he said peremptorily. "I cannot be disturbed."

The egg-shaped head of Katherine's dinner acquaintance showed itself in the aperture. On his face was a beaming smile.

"My name," he said, "is Hercule Poirot."

"Not," the Commissary stammered, "not the Hercule Poirot?"

"The same," said Mr. Poirot. "I remember meeting you once, M. Caux, at the Surire in Paris, though doubtless you have forgotten me."

"Not at all, Monsieur, not at all," declared the Commissary heartily. "But enter, I pray you. You know of this—"

"Yes, I know," said Hercule Poirot. "I came to see if I might be of any assistance?"

"We should be flattered," replied the Commissary promptly. "Let me present you, Mr. Poirot, to—"

He consulted the passport he still held in his hand—"to Madame—Mademoiselle Grey."

Poirot smiled across at Katherine.

"It is strange, is it not," he murmured, "that my words should have come true so quickly?"

"Mademoiselle, alas! can tell you very little," said the Commissary.

"I have been explaining," said Katherine, "that this poor lady was a complete stranger to me."

Poirot nodded.

"But she talked to you, did she not?" he said gently. "You formed an impression, is it not so?"

"Yes," said Katherine thoughtfully. "I suppose I did."

"And that impression was—"

"Yes, Mademoiselle—the Commissary jerked himself forward—" "let us by all means have your impressions."

GENERAL NEWS OF INTEREST IN COOKSHIRE

Social and Personal Items and Church Notes—June Meeting of W.C.T.U. Is Held.

COOKSHIRE, Que., June 15.—The June meeting of the W. C. T. U. took place at the home of Mrs. Wm. Cork, with a good attendance of members and one visitor.

The president, Mrs. George Edwards, was in the chair. After the regular routine of business, Mrs. Saul Wright read the provincial president's letter from the White Ribbon Tiddlers. The principal business of the meeting was the making of arrangements for the county convention, which is to be held here on Thursday, June 27th.

Mrs. and Mrs. C. O. Jones with their children, Eleanor, Charles and George, motored to Champlain, N. Y., on Sunday and were the guests of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Albee, who have recently returned from their winter home in St. Cloud, Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. D. P. Jones with their daughters, the Misses Doris and Betty Jones, returned on Sunday, after a stay in Montreal where they were the guest of Mr. Jones' sister, Mrs. B. I. Silverman and also of Mr. and Mrs. William King.

Miss Thelma Jones, who has completed her course at Macdonald College, returned to Bedford, on Thursday. Miss Jones' grandmother, Mrs. Ella Taylor, attended the closing of the School for Teachers at Macdonald.

Following the custom of former years, during the summer months both the morning and evening services at St. James Church will be limited to one hour only. The Rev. H. V. Fricker announced at the morning service on Sunday.

Mrs. Wilfred Thibault, has returned to her home in Sutton, after a stay of some days with her daughter, Mrs. Paul-Omer Roy.

Mr. Frank Ewing motored over the week-end, returning home on Sunday, accompanied by his mother and Miss Graham.

Mr. Charles Skeet, of Shanghai, China, who is on his way to visit his parents in London, England, came out on Saturday, to remain for several days with his brother, Dr. H. J. Skeet and Mrs. Skeet. Mr. Skeet sailed on Friday from Montreal, with his wife.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Borden motored to St. Albans, Vt., on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Dodd and family, of Green's Corners, Vt., were in Bedford on Sunday.

On Sunday, the Rev. Mr. Windsor of the residence of the late Mrs. Wellington Bockus, the residence was purchased by Mr. F. C. Saunders for the sum of three thousand dollars. The auctioneer was Mr. J. M. Hill, of Morris Line, Vt.

Mr. Bert Gould has completed his year at Macdonald College and is with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Gould, for a time.

The marriage will take place, on Monday, June 17th, at the Anglican Church, at Montreal West, of the Rev. Walter Windsor, of St. Andrew's East, rector of that parish, and Archdeacon of St. Andrew's, to Miss L. Neve, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Neve, of St. Andrew's East. The Rev. Mr. Windsor is well-known in this vicinity, where he was for a number of years rector of St. James' Church. Mr. Windsor previous to coming to Bedford was rector of the Anglican Church in St. Johns and was also for a time in Cowansville on leaving Bedford.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Struthers, of St. Joseph and St. Patrick, were in Bedford on Sunday, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Jones.

Mrs. Thomas Hunter went to Venice on Sunday, to visit Mr. Jameson, who is ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Polidor Charron have returned from a short stay in Montreal.

On Thursday last a large number of the young members of the congregation of St. Damien's made their first communion. A most inspiring and instructive address on the subject of confirmation was delivered by the vicar of the parish, the Rev. Father St. Pierre. A number of musical selections were rendered by the younger pupils of St. Joseph's Convent.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Best motored over on Sunday from St. Albans, Vt., and were the guests of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Best.

On Monday evening last, an excellent entertainment was given in the Victoria Hall by the members of the Rollin-Noroch Company, of Montreal, who had presented a number of entertainments under the auspices of the St. Damien's Church, during the past year. The drama presented was Genevieve of Brabant. A large audience was present.

On Sunday Miss Marie-Jeanne Desrosiers accompanied by Mr. Joseph Verrier, of St. Johns, were the guests of Mr. Laurette and Marie-Ange Pelletier, at Dunham.

Miss Jessie Cockerline, of Cowansville, was the guest over the week-end of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Cockerline.

Mr. and Mrs. George Coslett, who since their departure in November last from Bedford have been in Vancouver, B.C., with their daughter, Mrs. Alexander Miller and Mr. Miller, and family for the greater part of the time are expected in Bedford shortly. During their stay Mr. and Mrs. Coslett will be the guests at the home of the latter's brother, Mr. Windsor Alcombrack and Mrs. Alcombrack on the Phillipsburg Road.

Miss Margaret Dean, of St. Armand, is spending some time with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Windsor Alcombrack.

PLEASANT OUTLOOK

Dr. Voronoff predicts that everybody will live to be about 140. This means that many persons who buy their autos on the installment plan will ultimately own the vehicles providing the latter last that length of time.—Cape Argus

The Stage And Screen Attractions

THE PREMIER

The British soldier fighting in the colonies and defending the frontiers has always held a romantic place in English fiction. In fact the whole world has come to admire "Tommy Atkins," which will be shown at the Premier Theatre on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday next, there is just such a plot.

The action takes place at an actual Sudan fort which had been the scene of several desert sieges and some of the troops and natives taking part in the battle episodes actually fought each other years ago. The Highlanders, for instance, took part in a siege in this same fort twenty years ago, and had not been in the place since until they marched in again depicting the relief expedition in the photoplay.

There is a most interesting story back of "Tommy Atkins," portrayed by a company of English players, headed by Miss Lillian Hall Davis, Henry Victor and Walter Byron.

As an added feature for this programme, "The Street of Illusion," starring Virginia Valli and Ian Keith, will also be shown. "The Street of Illusion" is a colorful drama of life and sorrow along Broadway. It reveals a play within a play, and presents the sunshine and shadows in the lives of the players.

Beautiful photography of outdoor locations is one of the noticeable elements in Fox Films romantic comedy, "Don't Marry," with Loretta Moran and Neil Hamilton, which is to be on the Thursday, Friday and Saturday programme at the Premier Theatre.

The theme of the story concerns Priscilla Bowen (Lois Moran) an intriguing young flapper who falls in love with Henry Wooloughby, an old-fashioned, undaunted Priscilla decides to win him and poses as a shy and prudish old-fashioned girl, telling him it is her cousin who is the flapper.

The deception works, but Priscilla decides she cannot go through with the wedding until Henry knows the truth. She goes back to her modern clothes and Henry finds himself falling in love with whom he supposes is the cousin of his fiancée.

This complex state of affairs leads to one riotous situation after another and races along to a hilarious climax as Henry finds he married the modern girl.

Ricardo Cortes and Carmel Myers, with a large supporting cast, appear in "Dover of the Sea," which is to be the other screen attraction at the Premier Theatre for the last three days of next week.

THE GRANADA

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's film transcription of "The Trial of Mary Dugan," which will open a four days' engagement at the Granada Theatre tomorrow, is an intensely dramatic and engrossing treatment of the play which ran for more than a year on Broadway. This picture, which is an all-talking production, has the advantage of a splendid cast headed by Norma Shearer, Miss Shearer, who makes her debut in dialogue films in the difficult role of Mary Dugan, has an excellent recording voice and handles the emotional sequences of the picture fully as well as any stage veteran could have done it. H. B. Warner and Lewis Stone as the two attorneys, Arthur and Raymond Hackett as Mary's brother, contribute sterling performances.

To those not familiar with the Arthur Lebourveau and Miss Sara Lebourveau spent Sunday with friends at Bury.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kidd spent Sunday with the latter's niece, Mrs. Herbie Gillespie, in East Angus.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kidd spent Friday with her sister, Mrs. Percy Hall, at Bishop's Crossing.

Mr. and Mrs. Reginald H. Lebourveau, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Balfantyne and children, of Bulwer, were recent visitors at Mr. Rufus Lebourveau's.

The Church Army will visit Cookshire for a few days, commencing their mission on Saturday afternoon. There will be a welcome meeting in the parish hall at 3.30, advanced time, and also a service in St. Peter's Church on Saturday evening. The services on Sunday will be as follows: Holy Communion at 8 o'clock; Rector's Bible Class and Sunday School at 9.45; evening service at 7.30. The speakers at these services will be the officers in connection with the Church Army. All are welcome to the services.

Miss Baker will give an address in the parish hall on Monday afternoon at 3.30 o'clock to the members of the W. A. Guild.

Mr. and Mrs. Worby have left for an extended trip to Nova Scotia. The Eastern Star Lodge held their annual meeting on Thursday evening. Members of the Order came from long distances.

General Sharples, of Victoria, B. C., was a visitor at the rectory recently.

The military are getting into shape to hold their annual camp at the exhibition grounds next month. The brigade will be under the charge of Col. Stockwell, V.D., of Cowansville. The 7th Hussars will be in charge of Col. G. Beard, of Sherbrooke. The officers from Cookshire will be Col. T. Farnsworth, V.D.; Major Robinson, M.C., and Major (Ret.) A. W. Buckland, V.D.

Many citizens are asking the question: "How are we going to spend Dominion Day?" and are of the opinion that something should be done to spend the day in a patriotic day.

Senator R. H. Pope returned to Ottawa on Monday morning last and expects Parliament to prorogue this week.

Don't neglect to read the Classified Advertisements in this issue. They likely name something you want.

plot of Bay Veiller's gripping melodrama, one may merely say that in setting is a courtroom in which a sensational murder trial takes place. A rapid fusillade of questions by the prosecuting and defense attorneys is the central point about which the story is unrolled. So intensely realistic is the treatment of the story that the spectator feels himself in the front row of the jury box, watching every bit of the dramatic by-play. The all-talking picture has the special advantage of bringing its audience close to every bit of action, and in "The Trial of Mary Dugan" the result is tremendously satisfying.

Suspense, thrills and humorous interludes are cleverly mixed together in the development of this film. Even those who have seen the play are likely to get a stronger reaction than they experienced when the piece was presented on the stage. The plot is the same in every detail, but is particularly well-adapted to the speaking screen. These who have never seen the original "Mary Dugan" may have a double thrill in watching this remarkably stirring and exciting picture.

Much of the credit for the excellent results achieved in filming "Mary Dugan" undoubtedly goes to Bayard Veiller, who engaged by M-G-M to go to Hollywood and personally supervise the transplanting of this story to the screen. Mr. Bayard will be remembered as the author of the famous melodramatic successes, "Within the Law," and "The Thirteenth Chair."

FOSTER LADIES' CIRCLE HELD A BUSY MEETING

Final Arrangements Made for Social—Other General News and Personal of Interest to Foster Residents.

FOSTER, June 15.—The Ladies' Circle held their regular meeting on Tuesday, June 11th, at the home of Mrs. Maurice Williams, with a very good attendance. Owing to the absence of the president, the vice-president, Mrs. F. C. Inglis, conducted the meeting.

Mrs. A. G. Davis gave the reading of the minutes of the previous meeting.

Final arrangements were made for an ice-cream social. The date was changed from Friday, June 14th to Thursday, June 20th, when it will be held on the Creek Church grounds. In case of inclement weather it will be held in the basement of the church. It was decided that no tickets would be sold and that the sum of fifteen cents would be charged, including admission, ice-cream and cake.

A letter was read from the president, stating her wishes to resign from office. It was with much regret to the circle that Mrs. Mizener should be obliged to give up her active duties. The Rev. Mr. Merrifield then took charge of the meeting and Mrs. Maurice was elected president for the remainder of the year.

The meeting was brought to a close with a short prayer. Lunch was then served by the hostesses, Mrs. Arthur Inglis and Mrs. Hiram Williams. The next meeting will be held on the regular day Thursday, June 27th.

LLOYD GEORGE ON BRITISH ELECTIONS

Liberals will give him steady support on condition that his policy is Liberal. Where socialism departs from Liberal tradition and principle, MacDonald must give his programme a Liberal turn. In effect his programme must coincide with that put forward by the Liberals at the general election.

I assume that a new government will re-open negotiations and restore diplomatic relations with Russia. They will probably lose no time in repairing the silly blunders of the ARCO raid. They will urge the immediate evacuation of the Rhineland and will set an example themselves by withdrawing the British troops. I also take it for granted that Britain will intimate an early admission to the optional clause which provides for arbitration on all quarters of legal interpretation.

But their foreign policy will be tested by the energy and resolution with which they press forward arbitration and general disarmament. I have no doubt that an arrangement will be effected with the United States and other naval powers for a substantial reduction of naval armaments. That will be comparatively easy with good will on both sides.

Their real difficulty will come with the gigantic land armaments of the continent. The Socialist Government must face up to the militarist powers of the continent and insist on the obligations of the Treaty of Versailles being carried out by cutting down land and air forces to "the lowest limit compatible with security." If these words have any meaning they must imply a reduction of the huge armies of the victorious powers to figures approximating those permitted by the treaty to Germany.

The disarmament commission sitting and sleeping at Geneva has practically abrogated this provision of the treaty by ruling all reserves and their equipment out of all the discussions of disarmament. The effect of that decision has been to declare that four-fifths of the greatest armies on the continent of Europe shall remain intact and indisputable, and that such reduction as is permitted shall be confined to the remaining fifth. That, of course, is to reduce all effort at real disarmament to sham and nullity.

The late Conservative Government gave their whole-hearted assent to this militarist contention. In fact the triumphal car in which Sir Austen Chamberlain rode from capital to capital receiving bouquets and plaudits was a war chariot lent and decorated for the purpose by the wily militarists, diplomats and journalists of the continent. How can anyone be surprised that no progress has been made with the cause of disarmament during the past five years?

At all the European conferences the bayonets and guns were skilfully hidden under floral ramparts. These must now be stripped and the naked truth be exposed. The real business must begin—the business of scrapping these menacing armaments. Until that is done pacts will have no meaning. Governments will continue to rely on artillery and not on arbitration as long as they command an overwhelming superiority of cannon. If the new Foreign Secretary has the courage to tackle the question "without fear or favor, affection or illwill," then he will receive the cordial and enthusiastic Liberal support.

The Liberals will put up with a good deal of which they disapprove in domestic matters if Arthur Henderson is engaged in the great fight for world peace. Will he do it? He does not lack the courage. But does he possess the knowledge and the dexterity needful for such a momentous task? Above all will he and his chief resist the blandishments to which Chamberlain so readily succumbed? I should be more afraid of flattery than of bullying in their case.

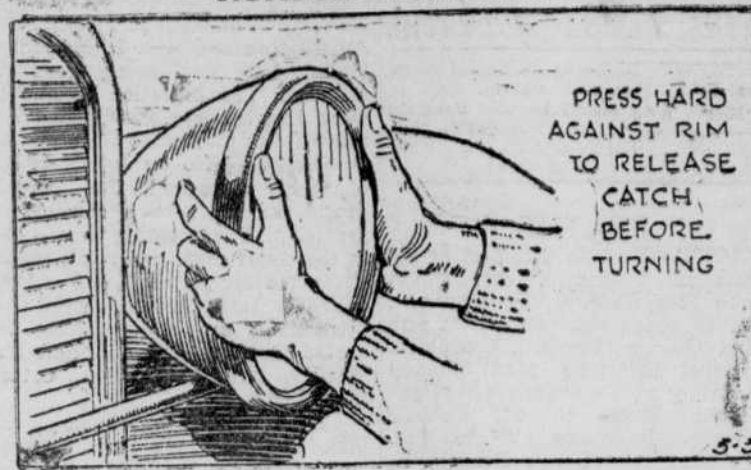

The attitude of the new government on unemployment will also affect Liberal action. If they take it on hand promptly and deal with it intelligently and energetically, they will receive hearty Liberal support. J. H. Thomas does not lack the intelligence or the energy. He is in many ways the most astute of all the Socialist ministers. I am therefore confidently expecting a "move" at last on this question. There are many plans ready to be put in operation for providing work of a thoroughly useful and essential character. There is no need for delay and I do not believe there will be any.

But the Liberal party must be influenced in its parliamentary action by another consideration which the result of the last general election has forced to the front, viz., the importance of remedying the grossly unfair working of the British electoral system.

As I pointed out, the actual number of members returned affords no clue to the striking growth of Liberal sentiment in Britain, as is proved by the increase in the number of electors who voted Liberal this year. Compared with 1924 there has been an increase of eighty per cent. whereas even the Labor poll only showed an increase of 50 per cent. over the 1924 figures. Nevertheless, Labor increased its membership by 130, whereas the Liberals gained an addition of only 14 to their numbers. The present system makes democracy look foolish. One day the Socialist might easily secure a working majority in Parliament whilst the aggregate vote against them in the country numbers millions.

Britain has been ruled already seven years by minority governments. The next time there might be a Socialist parliament to support a Socialist Government in carrying Socialist measures. This time they came within twenty-four of a majority in spite of an adverse vote of 5,500,000. Had it been 500,000 less they would have had a majority. If the Conservatives really believe in their motto "Safety first," they will join the Liberals in rectifying this evil and thus averting this danger.

ROADSIDE REPAIRS

Removing Headlamp Lens—In removing the lens in front of a headlamp it often is found that the bayonet lock which holds this lens in place has become rusted or bent in such a way that it is difficult to turn the lens to remove it. In a case of this kind two pairs of hands are better than one. If you have some one near you that can press the lens back while you also are pressing and turning to the left, the lens will often come out surprisingly easy, allowing you to change the bulb or do whatever work is required. The same applies to replacing the lens.

CANADA'S LARGEST PLAYGROUND

Perhaps nowhere in Canada are there so many beautiful summer resorts as there are today in the Canadian Rockies. But a few years ago, these places were undiscovered, now the Canadian Pacific Railway have set up wonderful hotels such as the Chateau Lake Louise where the scenery is so magnificent that no one can accurately describe it. Then again, there is the Banff Springs hotel surrounded by wonderful forests where one can bathe in the warm Sulphur springs that burst from the side of the mountain and give to the public its invigorating and healthful power.

Bungalow camps have been installed on the shores of Lake O'Hara, Emerald and Moraine lakes where one can fish in unpolluted waters, or climb the mountains, go motorizing or horse-riding along roads that the Indians once used.

The British Columbia coast whose climate is so equable and scenery so beautiful is fortunate indeed to possess two large hostels, the Vancouver Hotel at Vancouver and The Empress Hotel at Victoria. From these places countless resorts may be reached with comfort and ease where one can enjoy all manner of sports under perfect conditions.

MEETINGS AND GENERAL NEWS OF WATERLOO

Card Party Proved a Success— Happenings and Personals of Interest to Residents of Waterloo District.

WATERLOO, Que., June 15.— The card party held under the auspices of St. Luke's Parochial W.A. at the home of Mrs. Leo J. Watkins on Thursday afternoon, June 6th, was a decided success. "500" was played at fourteen tables. The highest scores were made by Mrs. C. W. Berry, Mrs. E. J. McKenna and Mrs. Bright, while the consolation prizes went to Mrs. Clarence Porter and Mrs. Charles Halloway. Following the distribution of the splendid prizes, which were all donated by Mr. and Mrs. Watkins, refreshments were served by Mrs. King, Mrs. Paul Jones and Mrs. Peterson. The sum of $22 was realized from the function.

The regular meeting of Beaver Chapter No. 7, O.E.S., was held in the Masonic Temple on Monday evening, June 10th. There was a very large attendance. The initiation of four new members made the meeting especially interesting. Invitations had been issued to past masters and patrons to be present. It being the date for the official visit of the worthy grand matron, Sister Edith Johnston, of Montreal. Other grand officers present included Sister Mabel Jenne, of Sutton, grand secretary; Sister Candace Robb, of Knowlton, grand treasurer; Sister Agnes Bell, of Freighsburg, associate grand matron; Sister Mary Holden, of Waterloo, grand inspector; Sister Phoebe McCabe, of Sweetburg, grand chaplain; Brother John McCabe, grand trustee; Mr. and Mrs. Astel, Sherbrooke; Mrs. Reynolds, of Freighsburg; Mrs. Jenne, Mr. and Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Charles Dyer, Miss Margaret Dyer, Mrs. Herman Dyer, Mrs. Charles, of Sutton; Mrs. George Benton, of Montreal; Mr. Gibson and Miss Dennison, of Danville; Mrs. Jack Kilburn, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bright, Farnham; Miss W. A. Rander, Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Swett, Mr. Robb, Mr. and Mrs. Barnes, Warden; Mr. Mr. W. R. Peters, Mr. J. C. Spenn and Mrs. Charles Thomas, North Hatley; Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Martin, South Stukely; Mr. and Mrs.

MAURICE WILLIAMS, Mr. and Mrs. John Dixon and Mrs. L. Durrill, of Foster, were also among those who attended. The initiation ceremonies were impressively exemplified by the officers of Beaver Chapter, Sister Nellie Slack, on behalf of the chapter, presented the worthy grand matron with a souvenir of her visit. The meeting was closed in the usual manner and all repaired to the banquet hall and enjoyed delicious refreshments served on attractively and appropriately decorated tables by Mrs. Bright, Mrs. Woolley, Mrs. Swett, Mrs. Corcoran and Mrs. Robb.

Friends will be glad to know that Mrs. Charles Slack has returned home from the Royal Victoria Hospital greatly improved in health.

Rev. N. E. Peterson, Mrs. Peterson and little Miss Miriam were at Davidson Hill on Wednesday last where Mr. Peterson officiated at the marriage of Miss Davidson.

Mrs. Jack Kilburn, of Farnham, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. McKenna on Monday and Tuesday last.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bright, of Farnham, were guests on Monday, June 6th, of Mrs. Bridge and Miss Bright.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Parker, Mr. and Mrs. George Benton, Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Corbett and Miss Ruby

Parker, of Montreal, were guests on Sunday, June 9th of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Bright and family.

Mrs. Johnston, of Montreal, worthy grand matron, O.E.S., of Quebec, was the guest of Dr. and Mrs. E. A. Blake on Monday and Tuesday, June 6th and 7th.

Mrs. Shaw, Mrs. J. S. Macdonald, Mrs. Violet Phelps, Master Donald Macdonald and Mrs. Irwin were guests on Tuesday afternoon last of Mrs. R. A. Hanson at Brome Lake.

Miss Kathryn Snodgrass, of Farnham, was the week-end guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Snodgrass, and sister, Margaret.

Mr. Charles Slack was in Montreal on Tuesday, June 11th.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Kennedy, of Magog, and Mr. Nelson Kennedy, of Granby, were guests on Sunday last of Miss Sarah Kennedy.

Mr. Frank Bingham was in Warden on Sunday last and visited Mr. and Mrs. Horace Russel and Mr. Russel, Jr.

Mrs. Warren Harden is again able to be about the house after her recent illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Wallace, of Lowell, Mass., were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Golden and Mr. Clifton Kendall.

Stock Market Traders Today

tive with varying trends; Nickel closing up 3-4 at 48 3/4, Massey Harris down one at 60 3/4, Brazilian up 1-14 at 56, Walker down 7-8 at 19 3/8, and Ford of Canada "A" down one at 46 1/2. Alberta Pacific Grain on light trading, has climbed in a fortnight from $2.10 to $2.30. C. P. is up 1-3/4 at 21, Hayco Wheels is up 5-14 at $64.50 and most of it on the last day. Cocksfoot, Canadian Dredging and Standard Paving have fallen off. Power stocks and newsprint stocks showed a tendency to grow in favor on the Montreal stock exchange.

Though some tendency towards stronger prices was noted on the Standard stock and mining exchange yesterday, the net result of the week on this, as on the western exchanges, was the recovering of more losses than gains for the most part. In addition to the oils, some of the higher priced mining stocks were lower, Hollinger closing at $5.70, McIntyre at $16, Mining Corporation at $3.95, and Ventures at $3.10. Dome, Noranda, Tech Hughes and Wright Hargreaves, however, showed gains, and there was great activity in Newbec, though it dropped five points to 61. Big Missouri fell from $1.44 to $1.27, but Bwana went up from $4.95 to $5.05. With a more hopeful spirit on United States stock exchanges with reference to prospects for next week and continued reports of high business activity in Canada, traders are in a more hopeful frame of mind.

Magog Meeting Of B. Of Trade

speaker.
Other speakers at Tuesday's meeting include Mr. C. B. Howard, M.P., of Sherbrooke, and Miss B. N. Philip, of Macdonald College. Presiding at the meetings will be Mr. J. K. Edwards, Sherbrooke, president of the Boards of Trade, and Mr. B. N. Robinson, of Coaticook, president of the Immigration Society. A large attendance is looked for owing to the interesting nature of the programme and the important matters to be brought before the meeting.

Safe Landing Made In Spain

Some one remarked: "You sort of slipped it over on them."
He answered: "And how."

ASSOLANT'S BRIDE WILL MEET HUSBAND IN PARIS

NEW YORK, N. Y., June 15.—Mrs. Jean Assolant, the bride of five days whom the Pilot of the Yellow Bird left on the beach at Old Orchard, Maine, was preparing today to sail for Paris to rejoin her husband.

The twenty-two-year-old bride, who was Pauline Parker, a New York chorus girl, expressed her joy and relief at the news the fliers had landed safely in Spain.

"I am so relieved and happy that I can't think of another thing to say, I didn't sleep a wink all last night," she said. Another romance rode on the wings of the Yellow Bird, for Rene Lefebvre, the twenty-four-year-old navigator, was flying toward his marriage to Mile Renee Balignat, a nineteen-year-old French girl to whom he became engaged just before the fliers came to this country.

WERE LITTLE OVER 100 MILES FROM DESTINATION

(Associated Press Despatch)
COMILLAS, Santander, Spain, June 15.—Clamby Beach, where the Yellow Bird came down after its flight across the Atlantic, is just 125 miles by airplane from Hendaye, southernmost French beach, which the plane could have reached easily in another hour and a half of flying—if it had another fifteen gallons of gasoline.

Beginning yesterday noon, Jean Assolant, at the stick, tried to leave every bit of petrol, manoeuvring for distance. As the tanks were emptied he had them dropped overboard, losing the last as the plane winged northward along the Portuguese coast just an hour before landing. Bad weather and hard winds, with the additional weight of the stowaway, were factors that had to be considered in the increased gasoline consumption. A little this side of mid-Atlantic, Assolant said, they encountered a violent storm centre through which they were able to make only sixty miles an hour, bucking a northeast gale. They used much gasoline, but their mileage was short.

Finally, when the contents of the last can of gasoline had been emptied into the big tank, they decided to try for a landing. They had followed the coast line for so long and made such turns along the edge of the Bay of Biscay, they thought they must have reached a beach somewhere in the vicinity of Biarritz.

It was only when they heard Spanish rather than French from the hundreds who greeted them that they realized they had fallen short of their goal. If not to reach Lourget, at least to land on French soil.

health may soon be completely restored.
In taking leave of you at this time, I pray that the blessing of Almighty God may rest upon your labors.

GOSSIP IN THE WORLD OF FINANCE

Furnished by Johnston & Ward

POSITION IS IMPROVED

MONTREAL, June 15.—The market Financial Service says: The position of the Canadian list has been improved by the liquidation of May and prices for the better class of stocks are at the par level that was talked of back about February last. Business continues at a record breaking pace and industrial corporations are enjoying increased earnings. It should be a case of these securities in which speculative enthusiasm was rampant, resulting in inflated values should suffer but instead it is the entire list that is carrying the brunt of this.

The manner in which National Steel Car recovers immediately pressure is relieved from the general list would appear to bear out the opinion that a split-up in the stock is not far distant. Along with other railway rolling stock equipment companies, National Steel during the past few months has secured a large volume of business from both the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways, and at the present time is operating close to capacity. It is understood that earnings are running at a high rate and the directors would not tax the treasury position of the company if an increase in the present two dollar annual dividend rate was made.

Canadian Brewing recently sold down to a low of twenty at which figure it was giving a yield of ten per cent. The main reason for the decline was the belief that the dividend was in danger. It will be recalled that for 1928 the company reported operating profits at $827,682 as against $356,973 in 1927 and completed the absorption of a number of companies so that at the present time the organization is fully rounded out and should begin to reap the benefits of such a policy this year. The breweries in Ontario have been burdened with very heavy taxation and steps are now on foot to alleviate this.

American Power & Light has been doing better recently.

The company is one of the largest and the best diversified among American holding concerns.

WHITNEY'S OPINION

NEW YORK, June 15.—Whitney today says:
Eisler Electric is still obtainable below its thus far best price of the year. While it is below that price buy it. April earnings after depreciation and taxes, amounted to $109,970.12 in comparison with $282,176 first three months of the year. May earnings will exceed April and June and May. The stock is literally, dirt cheap. In the food products group buy National Biscuit which is due for approximately a twenty-five to thirty point advance and another split-up. In the alcohol group buy American Commercial Alcohol particularly when below fifty-three or even up to fifty-five. With a move in rails scheduled to begin today and to make this group the featured group next week, buy the following: New Haven, Missouri Pacific, New York Central, Canadian Pacific and now the rights have expired Penn. Road Company.

The move in the copper group will coincide with the advance in the rails. Anaconda should be bought while it remains below 110. American Smelting and Refining below 102, Kennecott Copper below 85. In the utilities buy Cons. Gas while it remains below 120 and hold it for between 140 and 150, likewise, Public Service of N. J., while it remains below par.

DULL SESSION FOR TODAY

NEW YORK, June 15.—The New York Mirror today says: The profit-taking seen in the Friday market was a logical consequence to the heavy advance scored earlier in the week. Such incidents can have no effect on the strong undertone of the market in general and in fact, improve the technical position. The market of the past week has shown that the right people are not afraid to buy stocks at rising prices and furthermore shows that stocks are in demand. The public utilities are not through even though they have been moving ahead sharply. The steels, the food stocks and the coppers, along with the rails also will do better. Today's session will be another extremely dull affair.

Columbian Carbon is entitled to further advance on top of the current sharp movement upward. A strong group is at work in it and has advanced nearly $200 a share for the stock.

Continue bullish on the steel stocks, particularly Steel common, which will be the leader in the next upward phase of the market. Steel is still a cheap stock. Postum is the backward member of the food group at this time. It has not kept pace with the other members. Further widening of the company's horizon is close at hand and a sharp advance would not be out of keeping with an announcement of new acquisitions. Quiet accumulation is seen in Goebel. This packing company would fit nicely into any one of several groupings.

As mentioned here on several occasions recently the situation in the copper industry is improving daily. The sharp advance in Anaconda is simply a forerunner of what is to be expected with the return of the head of the company from Europe.

MARKET FORECAST

Profit-taking sales are likely to be well-absorbed during today's session and a general up-movement closing is anticipated.

BROKERS' OPINION
J. S. Bache and Co.—The major trend of security prices again appears to be definitely upward.
Hornblower and Weeks—We feel that the accumulation which we saw at lower levels will not follow the current phase of advance and we would not be surprised to see profit-taking make its appearance.

MARKET SUMMARY

C. M. Keys purchased Pitman Aviation Inc.
Thompson Products declared extra of thirty cents and regular quarterly dividend of thirty cents on class.

Some clearing house banks favor advance in interest rates payable on so-called thrift accounts to four per cent. from three per cent.
Chevrolet Motor unfilled orders three hundred per cent over year ago. Dealer stocks still below normal. Record June production expected.

Commercial failures in past week numbered 423 against 423 in previous week and 441 in like 1928 week says Dunn.
Graham-Paige Motors may overseas shipment 1,235 cars making five months total 6,262 cars over three times like 1928 period.

High money rates have not had adverse effect on business, but have been influenced against over expansion, says Federal Board June bulletin.
Youngstown District Iron and Steel production schedules being maintained at record pace for season, with operations next week to average between eighty-five per cent and ninety per cent of capacity.

Improvement Of Zoning Laws

ada except Quebec had zoning laws, these were in most cases rendered obsolete by lack of technical and educational staffs and suitable technical advisers.

The report of the committee on fire protection submitted by Alderman Towe, of London, Ont., recommended the adoption of uniformity of firehorse couplings, as often one town sent its fire brigade to help some other town to extinguish a fire, and found its hose would not fit the hydrants in the other municipality, thus rendering the attempt useless. It recommended the opening up by universities of extension courses in firemanship, the establishment of the "two platoon" system, and the paying of the greatest attention to the comfort of the men in the outfitting of fire stations and firemen's quarters.

Mr. Frenchemme's review of public utility practice in Canada was to the effect that every possible method of operating public utilities was in use in different parts of Canada, including many methods that had never been attempted in Europe, and the science of government was gaining much from the results of Canada's experiences.

In the debate that followed, the general feeling was that both public and private ownership had their place. Mayor T. D. Bouchard, of L.A., of St. Hyacinthe, stood solidly for public ownership, however, contending that the Hydro-Electric Commission of Ontario would have its users of electricity paid fifty per cent. more than the users in Ontario.

Method of operating public utilities was in use in different parts of Canada, including many methods that had never been attempted in Europe, and the science of government was gaining much from the results of Canada's experiences.

In the debate that followed, the general feeling was that both public and private ownership had their place. Mayor T. D. Bouchard, of L.A., of St. Hyacinthe, stood solidly for public ownership, however, contending that the Hydro-Electric Commission of Ontario would have its users of electricity paid fifty per cent. more than the users in Ontario.

Quebec privately-owned power companies would never be able to compete with the Hydro-Electric Commission in the matter of rates after that. He claimed that the Montreal Commission of Ontario would have its users of electricity paid fifty per cent. more than the users in Ontario.

CARDS REGAIN LEADERSHIP IN PENNANT RACE

St. Louis Back on Top as Result of Victory Over Braves and Setback Handed Out by Giants to Pirates.

(By Wm. J. Chipman, Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, June 15.—After two days of vain battling against rain squalls, the Cards settled themselves yesterday to the more pleasant task of beating the Braves. The Red Birds celebrated the delayed opening of the Boston series by shading Judge Fuch's tribe by 4 to 3 and so regained first place by the precarious margin of half a game, or two percentage points. The Giants paved the way for this Cardinal advance by turning back the Pirates 7 to 2, after taking the Bucs' pokes on the chin in the two preceding afternoons.

With the Bostonese imprisoned in Sportsman's Park for three games in the next two days, Billy Southworth entertains high hopes of consolidating the advanced position of the Cards, but he may have to fight hard for any advantage he gains.

Led by the veteran Harry Siebold, the Braves gave the league champions a severe argument yesterday. The visitors went so far as to drive Wee Willie Sherdel from the box in a most undignified fashion in the seventh while scoring three times to come within one of a tie.

Sylvester Johnson saved the day for Sherdel, who got credit for the victory. Jim Bottomley helped tremendously with his eleventh home run.

Giants Knocked Petty from Box The Pirates can't win them all and this became particularly evident when a pitcher like Larry Benton achieves his highest form. Benton gave the hard-hitting Bucs just seven hits, and seldom was in any danger after the Giants knocked Jess Petty from the box in the first inning. It was Petty's second knockout in two days.

Brooklyn committed three misplays in the ninth at Cincinnati yesterday, enabling the Reds to score three times and tie, but they won the game in the eleventh when Riel walked and scored on Fredrick's double. It was Brooklyn's second straight victory over the Reds.

With the limit only a short while away, Eddie Farrell is again a Giant as a result of a trade. Welsh came to New York in the Hornsby deal and Farrell moved to Boston in the transaction which made Larry Benton a Giant.

Athletics and Yanks Both Won The Athletics and the Yanks won their customary victories yesterday, maintaining the eight-game gap by which the Athletics lead. The Mackmen humiliated Cleveland a second time as Bob Grove turned in fine ball to win by 9 to 0, and the Hugmen stamped the Tigers 15 to 4. Grove gave just six hits in winning his tenth of the season and his seventh in succession. He has lost only once this season.

The Yanks had another fine hitting afternoon, raking George Uhl, George Smith and John Prudhomme for seventeen blows, including Lou Gehrig's sixteenth and seventeenth home runs. These two drives sent Gehrig into the unchallenged lead of the two major leagues. Waite Hoyt held the Tigers to nine hits, and gave the impression that he could have done even better had the occasion demanded.

The defeat was Uhl's third in succession and was the hardest battering he has experienced since breaking his run of nine victories. Twelve Yankee hits, including both of Gehrig's homers, were rained upon him in two official innings, none being out when he was removed in the third.

Washington about-faced and defeated the White Sox by 4 to 1, and the Browns nosed out the Red Sox 7 to 6 in the remaining fixtures.

COLORED TEAM TO PLAY HERE TOMORROW

The Chappies of Quebec will be the guests of the St. Roch Club at the Ball Park tomorrow afternoon. This colored team, playing under the name of Chappie Johnson's All Stars this spring purchased the Quebec franchise in the Inter-provincial League, and at present are leading that circuit.

Babe Hobson, the captain, is considered one of the best short stops in the province. Smith, on third, is the heavy hitter of the team, while three pitchers grace the line-up in the persons of Dudley, Lovett and Hackett.

The locals will field their regular team, using Morin on the mound and Landry behind the plate.

GOLF AS CHAMPIONS PLAY IT

IN THESE SHOTS WE FIND WOMEN STRONG

In what department of the game are women usually strongest? Why?

Answered By AL ESPINOSA

Florida West Coast Champion. Tied for LaJolla Open; Mid-American Open, P. G. A. Qualifying Medal, 1928.

I should say the departments of the game in which women are strongest are approaching and putting. As they are not strong enough to drive a ball as far as a man, and they naturally are more given to detail than a man and have more patience, they practice approaching and putting more.

DRUMMONDVILLE

A Nash Sedan was in the ditch beyond L'Avenir and a Ford was upside down on the road to Wickham.

Next Sunday the Harmony Band of Drummondville will lead the procession in Arthabaska, which is a part of the centennial celebration of the town. They will play one day during the Sherbrooke Fair, and at an early date they will give an open-air concert in St. Hyacinthe.

The usual weekly concert during the summer months was given on Thursday, June 6th, and will be continued weekly thereafter, the band in uniform, will occupy the stand in front of the Manoir Hotel from eight to half-past nine on Thursday evenings. The bandmaster

BOY SCOUT NEWS

SIXTH TROOP HOLD OBSERVATION NIGHT

The meeting of the 6th Troop in St. Andrew's Hall last evening was in charge of A.S.M. Raffan, and the programme contained several "games" known as "gashopper relay" and ball in the hat. The meeting opened with flag break and Scout silence by the A.S.M., and was immediately followed by patrol inspection in patrol corners by A.S.M. Raffan and Instructor Wilson. The ball in the hat game proved very popular, and after a hard fifteen minutes of play the game ended with no score. The troop was given a half minute to observe the Scoutmaster's uniform for errors, and many real and imagined errors were given. During patrol corners, seven boys succeeded in passing their second class first aid, and one boy his tenderfoot tests. After another game, in which each patrol was required to look at a certain picture and then answer a number of questions, all proceeded to the indoor council fire.

During the council programme, several new "Folk Songs" were practiced and the Scoutmaster told a story, which helped one better appreciate the eighth Scout law, "A Scout is Cheerful." Before bringing the meeting to a close a very impressive ceremony was carried out by the light of the council fire, when William Hammond made his Scout promise and became a member of the great brotherhood. Three hearty "buzzes" were given for the new Scout, and the meeting closed with Scout silence and the night yell. Forms were then distributed to some fifteen Scouts, explaining particulars of the second annual troop camp to be held from June 29th to July 9th inclusive, the place to be announced later.

Regular 4th Troop Meeting

The regular scout meeting was held by the 4th Troop, Boy Scouts with a very good attendance, and a lot of work was accomplished. The meeting was brought to order by troop leader and the scout prayer was read by the A.S.M. B. Bradford, and was won by the Wolf Patrol, followed by the Beavers.

Following this a number of games were run off, led by A.S.M. E. Riff. The patrols then dispersed to their various patrol corners, to take up a short period of instruction under their patrol leaders.

A number of other games were led by A.S.M. B. Bradford, then a relay race for the Tenderfoot and second classes. This was won by Fox, followed by the Wolf. A short period of drill was held by A.S.M. E. Riff.

There were a number of announcements made, such as camp that is to be held at Ayer's Cliff from July 1st to 15th, and scout law number 2 was read by all, to be kept in mind for the coming week.

The patrol competition is very close, and all are working to gain first place. The patrol leading is the Beaver followed by the Fox. The meeting was brought to a close by flag lowering and scout silence.

SPORTING NOTES

GRAND CIRCUIT OPENS MONDAY

(Associated Press Despatch)

SAN JUAN, Ky., June 15.—The Grand Circuit, the "big league" of the harness horse sport, swings into action at the historic Lexington track on Monday.

The meeting this year will run five days and will be held in addition to the regular fall meeting.

Fast trotters and pacers owned by horsemen from nearly every state in the country are quartered in the big stables near the Kentucky Trotting Horse Breeders' Association track awaiting the word of the starter.

REDUCED GAVUZZI'S LEAD

(Associated Press Despatch)

SAN JUAN, Calif., June 15.—The neck and neck race between Johnny Salo, the persistent policeman from Passaic, N.J., and Pete Gavuzzi, Italian from England, in the bunion derby, promised real excitement in today's semi-final sixty mile lap which ends at Huntington Park, a suburb of Los Angeles.

Although yesterday's jaunt was won by Harry Abramowitz, of New York, who ran the seventy mile distance from San Diego in ten hours, eighteen minutes and twenty seconds, Salo and Gavuzzi are still holding the limelight, as the two leaders to elapsed time in the long trek from New York to Wrigley Park, Los Angeles. The race ends tomorrow evening.

Salo yesterday elapsed ten minutes off Gavuzzi's total time, finishing in a tie for second place with Giusto Umek, of Italy, third in the elapsed time Umek, however, is still a number of hours behind and has no hope of finishing other than third. At today's start Gavuzzi's lead over Salo was nine minutes and fifty-six seconds.

DRUMMONDVILLE

A Nash Sedan was in the ditch beyond L'Avenir and a Ford was upside down on the road to Wickham.

Next Sunday the Harmony Band of Drummondville will lead the procession in Arthabaska, which is a part of the centennial celebration of the town. They will play one day during the Sherbrooke Fair, and at an early date they will give an open-air concert in St. Hyacinthe.

The usual weekly concert during the summer months was given on Thursday, June 6th, and will be continued weekly thereafter, the band in uniform, will occupy the stand in front of the Manoir Hotel from eight to half-past nine on Thursday evenings. The bandmaster is Professor Ringuet of St. Hyacinthe, and the secretary and sergeant is Mr. Ringuet of Drummondville, with Donat Marcotte as drum-major.

Last week the roads from town to various points were strewn with wreckage of autos due to accidents. Jimmy Dunn and some companions ran into a lumber wagon on the L'Avenir road above Chabot's farm, damaging their car very much, the lumber rig and themselves being only shaken up. The car and contents were towed back to Drummondville by a garage owner.

A car of young people dashed head-on into Mr. Jack Jolley's new car, doing it some injury. One of the young people was taken into Holy Cross Hospital unconscious.

The Women's Society of the United Church of Canada, at their sale of useful and ornamental articles, and through the service of tea, cake and ice cream, last Saturday, made the sum of eighty dollars for the benefit of the church. Keeping company with a general movement for town cleanliness, the church authorities have lately planted a quantity of trees from the vestry room by the church front and down Duncan street, which will add greatly to the property now vacant.

Mr. Haney, of the Celanese Company, was hit and his car damaged by a hit-and-run driver, whose identity was hidden in a heavy cloud of dust.

Messrs. J. B. Dougall, F.C.I.C.; Meredith F. Dixon, C.R. Russell, J. H. Williamson, Partington and Hayes, all of Montreal, were in Drummondville during the first of this week on business.

Mr. Foster and wife leave by the "Duchess of Bedford" for England this week, presently not intending to return. Their son, Master Kenneth

Foster, successfully passed the Boy Scout examination in St. George's Hall last Saturday evening, being the first boy passed in the first Scout Troop ever organized in Drummondville. The scoutmaster is Mr. Woodcock, an experienced follower of Baden-Powell, from England, who is in the employ of the Drummondville Cotton Company.

From Quebec City, Major Gaudet and Mrs. Gaudet were registered at the Manoir Drummond. So was Mr. Palmer, of the Canadian Celanese Company, Montreal, and vice-president Cameron, of the same company, New York City.

Mr. C. E. Olive, Mrs. Olive and family left town on Tuesday and sailed on Wednesday for England on a holiday. In his absence from St. George's Church, where he is the organist, Miss Molly Prince will play for several Sundays.

BRAKES TESTED FREE

How Quick! can you stop your Car in an Emergency?

In line with our progressive policy, we have just added to our equipment a Brake Tester. This brake tester is a scientific machine that accurately determines the condition of the brakes on all makes of cars, whether two or four wheel brakes.

Brake adjustment has today become the most important factor in motor-ing safety and enjoyment.

The Brake Tester has been particularly planned to cope with this modern day requirement, and it is a step ahead of anything of a like nature in the automotive equipment field. In the installing of this new device the management feel that they are taking a decided forward step in aiding the Sherbrooke public to hold down the annual automotive accident toll.

No charge will be made by us for testing brakes. If, however, the test shows that adjustments are needed or that any service work is required, a nominal charge will be made for such work.

The Brake Tester accurately shows the relative brake power on each wheel and on all four wheels at once. It makes it possible for brake adjustments to be made in a fraction of the time formerly required, without guess work but with absolute precision. It permits equalization of brakes to their maximum capacity, that they can be relied upon in all emergencies. It not only eliminates accidents due to inefficient brakes, but also saves unnecessary wear and tear on the brake linings and tires. It detects brakes when out of round, gives a comparative reading on all brakes at once, and shows the relative braking power of the front and rear wheels.

We extend a cordial invitation to all motorists to take advantage of this opportunity to have brakes tested without charge.
