UN candidates wind up drives

Battered party boosted

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The battered Union Nationale party received a badly-needed boost Monday night as four candidates for the UN leadership began winding up their campaigns.

Former cabinet minister Daniel Johnson (UN — Bagot) praised the party as "the source of our political emancipation and of the respect the whole country has for our ideas and our convictions."

He told a rally in St. Jerome, 25 miles north of Montreal, the former UN regime "brought Quebec more progress than any other government since Confederation."

Mr. Johnson is one of six aspirants to the leadership. The party's top post is to be decided at a convention in Quebec City Sept. 21-23.

Raymond Maher, a Quebec City lawyer who has made few pronouncements so far, said the UN does not have to defend itself because it is "clean, honest and patriotic."

Mr. Maher said the UN was a victim of materialism in the 1960 provincial election it lost to the Liberals.

In Trois-Rivières, Mayor Armand of Sherbrooke echoed the other candidates' confidence in the UN organization.

Mayor Nadeau, who complained last week that certain constituencies were influencing their delegates to vote for a particular candidate, said he was satisfied the delegates would attend the convention "without any partisan feeling."

"I have been assured... that delegates will not be influenced in any way," he said. Jean-Jacques Bertrand, another former cabinet minister, told a press conference in Montreal that a party election fund is a necessary unless legislation is passed to defray candidates' expenses.

Raiding charge is levelled

EDMONTON (CP) — The International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.) launched its Canadian convention Monday with a verbal assault on its chief rival, the United Steelworkers of America (CLC).

It accused the Steelworkers of raiding its 17,000-member local in Sudbury, Ont., which represents about half of Mine-Mill's total membership in Canada. It charged the executive of Sudbury Local 598 with promoting secession from the Mine-Mill movement.

The situation in Sudbury is a sorry spectacle for the labor movement in Canada, said Al Skinner of Denver, Colo., international vice-president of Mine-Mill.

'DIRTY BUSINESS'
Union raiding is a "dirty, rotten business," he said in an address to 100 delegates. He described the Canadian Labor Congress and Steelworkers Union as "great propagandists and great promoters."

Miffed at the stand-or-lack of it—taken by the New Democratic Party in the Sudbury dispute, the union officers' report to the convention said Mine-Mill cannot ask any worker to support a party that "condones and practises" a "full-scale raiding attack on our union in a savage attempt to stamp out its existence."

CENSORED? — During the past few weeks, a number of road signs on Townships roads have been found defaced. In most cases, the English part of the bilingual signs has been blotted out. The sign above is an example. It was discovered early this week a few miles outside Scotstown on the Sherbrooke-Scotstown highway. (Record Photo by Doug Gerrish)

Berlin nerve war

Loudspeaker new weapon

BERLIN (AP) — The Communists have brought a new weapon into their war of nerves against West Berlin.

All along the concrete and barbed wire barriers of the divided city, they have opened up with a barrage of loudspeakers turned at full strength toward West Berlin.

They blare out propaganda, threats, scorn and flattery—interspersed with American jazz and German waltzes.

Some of the loudspeakers are mounted on trucks. Others are hung in trees overlooking the border or fixed to the boundary fence.

The loudspeakers are guarded by People's Police and Communist army patrols with sub-machine-guns and hand grenades.

The Communists call this free entertainment for West Berliners "Radio Aug. 13."

STOPPED REFUGEES
Aug. 13 was the day the East Germans sealed off West Berlin to stop the flood of refugees fleeing from Walter Ulbricht's Communist rule.

"Radio Aug. 13" was first started with a few loudspeaker vans along the midtown boundary wall. Now it has been extended all round the borders of the city.

For Canada's 100th birthday

Centenary suggestions pour in

By ARCH MacKENZIE

OTTAWA (CP) — Pick a day — any day — in the year 1967 when Canada celebrates her 100th birthday as a nation: The country will be humming from sea to sea on the basis of suggestions forwarded to Ottawa seven years before the centennial event.

It would cost several billion dollars to carry out all the suggestions — athletic, intellectual, artistic, academic, material or public — Prime Minister Diefenbaker told the Commons Monday when he tabled the list of about 100 ideas.

Here's a sample of what might be going on during any of the 365 days in 1967.

There is a royal visit on. And a freedom or Confederation train is moving across the country, bearing among other things a replica of the ship sailed by one of Canada's numerous early explorers, a Canadian handicrafts exhibit, miniature of the fathers of Confederation, the documents, a biographical dictionary of Canadians, seedlings for school children along the way and educational films.

GAMES PLANNED
The empire games, winter olympics, pan-American games or an international regatta have been, are, or will be in progress.

There is a new flag, a new national anthem and a common licence plate for motorists who can travel on a centennial highway — starting point and destination unspecified.

Plenary meetings of the United Nations, NATO and the Commonwealth nations are being held, plus numbers of conferences of international organizations invited to come to Canada for the birthday party.

It may be "Canadian family day" to play up the role of the family in Canadian life.

Researchers may just about have completed summaries of family histories to provide the basis for a genealogical index.

Wild speculation surrounds Hammarskjold tragedy

Crash inquiry is opened

Best friend lost to Congo

Lynn Heinzerling won the Pulitzer Prize for international reporting this year for his coverage on the birth of the Belgian Congo as an independent nation. Now on a temporary assignment to Berlin, he analyzes the impact UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold had on the young African state.

By LYNN HEINZERLING
BERLIN (AP) — The Congo has lost the best friend it ever had.

When UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold died in a plane crash in Northern Rhodesia he was on a mission he first undertook in July, 1960 — to safeguard the unity, territorial integrity and viability of a new and confused republic.

Hammarskjold took snubs, insults and vilifications from the immature, helpless and self-seeking political leaders of the Congo. He did not move an inch from what he considered was his mandate from the United Nations.

Premier Patrice Lumumba and other Congolese leaders from the first assailed the secretary-general whenever they felt their own personal progress was being impeded.

HELPED BACKWARD AFRICA

Not one of them contributed as much toward making the tottering, backward jungle land a stable political state as Hammarskjold. He was far from completing his task in the Congo when he met his death.

Lumumba was most vociferous in denouncing Hammarskjold in the wild and dangerous days of 1960 until he found it necessary to seek UN protection. Jacques Lumumba, like Lumumba now dead, called the secretary-general an imperialist. He was a secretary of state in Lumumba's cabinet.

Moise Tshombe, the Katanga leader now fighting the United Nations, opposed Hammarskjold from the beginning. Tshombe has been determined from the birth of the republic to keep his copper-rich province independent.

Antoine Gizenga, the left-leaning Lumumba deputy who tried to set up a government in Stanleyville after Lumumba's death, questioned Hammarskjold's motives and denounced his policies.

UNITED NATIONS — The United Nations General Assembly was opening today under the shadow of a possible East-West clash over a new UN secretary-general to succeed Dag Hammarskjold, killed in an African plane crash.

Hammarskjold's untimely death—he had more than a year to go in his six-year term as UN boss—added to the grave cold war issue already facing the UN and may make this session the most critical in UN history.

For the first time since the UN was founded in San Francisco 16 years ago the General Assembly will convene without a secretary-general.

Delegates are expected to hear expressions of condolence and then adjourn for at least 24 hours out of respect to Hammarskjold, the suave Swede who never stepped back from a tough problem in world affairs and himself became an issue in the East-West struggle.

WOULD AVOID DEADLOCK
Within hours after the announcement of the secretary-general's tragic death at 56, stunned delegates began looking for a way to avoid an East-West deadlock that would paralyze the secretariat, the administrative arm of the world organization.

There was speculation that the Assembly might delegate a board of ranking UN officials to make decisions until a new secretary-general can be chosen.

Most of those being mentioned as candidates came from the non-aligned states of Asia and Africa, who now hold almost a majority in the Assembly. But there was no indication of firm support behind any one of them.

A new secretary-general must get past the threat of a Soviet veto, which the Russians could exercise if they decide to push their plans for reorganizing the United Nations and curbing the powers of the secretariat developed by Hammarskjold.

A new secretary-general must be nominated by the Security Council with the agreement of all five permanent members—the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain, France and China. Then the nomination must be approved by the General Assembly.

LONG AGENDA
The Assembly was confronted by a long agenda of 95 items including such cold war issues as Communist China's admission, testing nuclear weapons and disarmament. The Berlin crisis also may come up.

One of the first items on the agenda is election of a new president, who holds office for a year.

Mongi Slim of Tunisia, who is highly regarded in Western capitals as a UN mediator, had a clear field for the presidency. He helped line up African support for Hammarskjold's Congo program last summer.

Slam was unopposed after Ali Sastroamidjojo of Indonesia withdrew Monday. The Indonesian had been campaigning since February and had a maximum of 38 votes promised. Slim probably had about 60 votes sewed up in the 99-country assembly to succeed Ambassador Frederic Boland of Ireland.

See no chance
STE. MARGUERITE, Que. (CP) — There is no foreseeable change in Canada's postal rates, Postmaster-General William Hamilton said Monday. He said last year's loss of between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000 in postal operations has been offset by the higher parcel post rates set earlier this year and no other rate change is planned.

SIX-DAY BATTLE
Katanga's military forces claimed they had wrested the big UN base at Kamina from its Irish and Swedish defenders after a six-day battle.

O'Brien, the UN chief in Katanga, insisted however, that the hard-pressed defenders still held the air strip in that vital base 280 miles northwest of Elisabethville.

A UN spokesman in Leopoldville reported a flareup of fighting in a new sector of Katanga where UN forces last Wednesday undertook to bring the rebellious province under control of the central government at Leopoldville.

He said Indian Gurkha troops at Albertville, 400 miles north-east of Elisabethville on Lake Tanganyika, were fired on when they were putting up obstacles on the air field to prevent unauthorized landings.

Heavy fighting also was reported in Kabalo, 150 miles west of Albertville, where Katanga forces occupied the air field.

The Katanga information department said 17 Irishmen were killed and 43 were wounded at Jadotville.

But Interior Minister Godefroid Munongo of Katanga said that of the 158 officers and men under protective guard only five were wounded.

President Moise Tshombe of Katanga said at Kitov, Northern Rhodesia, on his way back to his province Monday that 1,000 persons had died in fighting in Katanga.

In an impromptu press conference he accused the United Nations of "ineffectiveness."

Expect new fires in Newfoundland
ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — More fire is likely to appear in Newfoundland's smouldering forests today if forecast warm, windy, weather continues.

Experienced firefighters, battling to save the province's woodlands since early in June, found fires springing up in several areas Monday.

Winds, always important in fighting forest fires, are expected to be southwest at 20 miles an hour today with gusts to 30.

Airplanes Monday began a survey of the 2,300 acres burned this summer. The survey is a resources department attempt to learn how much of the timber burned, mostly spruce, might be salvaged and to what extent was the destruction of soil and game.

Fires in the Dunn's River area of southern Newfoundland and the Bonaville area of the northeast coast were especially stubborn. However, low temperatures at night and shorter days are giving firefighters an advantage.

Situation deteriorates
Fear mass uprising of Katanga citizens

ELISABETHVILLE (Reuters) — Hatred and suspicion stalked this capital of breakaway Katanga Province today amid fears of a mass uprising of Katanga civilians against the United Nations forces.

The situation in the tense city had deteriorated to the point where an explosion was feared at any minute.

Belgian civilians left over from the days of colonial rule openly expressed their bitter hatred of the UN forces who are battling Katanga troops for control of the province.

Doctors at a city hospital charged that UN troops were sniping at unarmed civilians, both Negro and white. But Irishman Conor O'Brien, chief UN representative in Katanga, said this was not true in general.

Europeans living on the outskirts of Elisabethville meanwhile charged that Negro members of Jeunoket, a Katanga youth organization, have been entering European homes demanding identity documents and arresting Kasai servants.

DIVES FOR COVER
O'Brien himself twice had to dive for cover Monday when a Katanga jet plane raided a press conference he was giving to correspondents on the grounds of his headquarters.

O'Brien confirmed that Irish troops at Jadotville, 80 miles west of Elisabethville, were "effective prisoners."

The Katanga information department said 17 Irishmen were killed and 43 were wounded at Jadotville.

But Interior Minister Godefroid Munongo of Katanga said that of the 158 officers and men under protective guard only five were wounded.

President Moise Tshombe of Katanga said at Kitov, Northern Rhodesia, on his way back to his province Monday that 1,000 persons had died in fighting in Katanga.

In an impromptu press conference he accused the United Nations of "ineffectiveness."

Calm day in Parliament
Four government measures find smooth sailing in the Commons

OTTAWA (CP) — The government's bills, the general tone was set by some smooth sailing in the Commons Monday.

Four measures were put before the MPs and all made progress—although the opposition indicated there are stormy waters ahead for at least one idea and offering suggestions for centennial events.

Then Works Minister Walker proposed a $500,000,000 boost in federal housing loan funds, pushing the loan ceiling to $2,000,000,000. Nobody opposed the plan, although Liberal housing critic J. R. Garland wondered if the government was "seeking to provide election insurance."

A bill to give Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta full control over school land and school land funds within their borders sailed through all legislative stages to final approval.

BILL CAUSES RIPPLE
The only ripple on the otherwise serene surface came at the night sitting with second reading of the Pine Point Railway bill.

Although the measure finally was endorsed in principle 93 to 9 in a recorded vote, Liberal and CCF speakers complained they hadn't been given enough information about the project and suggested perhaps the government wasn't as sure of the line's success as it pretended to be.

The railway would run 398 miles north from Grimshaw, Alta., to Hay River on the south shore of Great Slave Lake in the Northwest Territories. A 40-mile spur would be built east to Pine Point Mines Limited, developing a vast lead-zinc deposit.

Transport Minister Balcer said the line will cost at least $75,000,000. The bill would provide the publicly-owned CNR with this amount, plus $11,500,000 for contingencies for a total of $86,500,000.

(CP Photo)

CP from Reuters-AP NDOLA, Northern Rhodesia—An official inquiry opened in private here today into the fatal plane crash that killed Dag Hammarskjold while two more bodies were discovered in the wreckage.

The investigation got underway amid widely conflicting speculation about the cause of the crash — an aerial attack or sabotage were seen as possible causes — but Rhodesian authorities officially discounted a suggestion that the aircraft was shot down.

With the discovery of two more bodies, the death toll in the tragic accident rose to 15. A Canadian secretary was killed in the crash of the DC-6B less than eight miles from here.

ONE SURVIVOR
Only one person, Sgt. Harold Julian, an American UN security guard, survived the crash. He was in serious condition in the hospital here but was reported today to be "holding his own."

Investigators probing cause of the crash were faced with speculation about possible sabotage or that the two jet planes owned by the Katanga government were somehow involved.

Julian said a series of explosions shook the plane before it crashed. They came shortly after the 56-year-old secretary-general had changed his mind about landing at Ndola in darkness and told the pilot to alter course to another destination.

NOT RULED OUT
UN officials in the Congo capital of Leopoldville said they did not exclude the possibility that Katanga's two jet planes were either directly or indirectly responsible for the crash.

However, Northern Rhodesian officials denied a report that an unidentified aircraft had circled Ndola airport on Sunday night before Hammarskjold's plane was due. Only Hammarskjold's plane had circled.

Adds up to hundreds of millions of dollars

Canadian defence program a broad buildup

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP) — In bits and pieces of Commons debate, Defence Minister Harkness has outlined a fairly broad defence buildup for Canada.

Taken separately, as they were last week, these plans do not appear to amount to much. But taken together, they represent expenditures of hundreds of millions of dollars in the next few years.

All these plans are in addition to a program previously announced for a new jet interceptor for home air defence; a low-level jet bomber for the RCAF air division in Europe; an armored personnel carrier for the army; modernization of destroyers to accommodate anti-submarine helicopters; and a manpower increase of 15,000 in the regular armed forces.

Here is a rundown of the new plans:

1. New naval construction. This may involve building of conventional submarines in Canada. Engineering studies of anti-submarine hydrofoil craft have begun.

2. A ship-to-air guided missile to replace the navy's Banshee jet fighters.

3. Heavy transport helicopters and anti-tank missiles for the army.

4. A new national defence headquarters building.

5. More planes for RCAF Air Transport Command.

6. More industrial defence research and development.

The fact that Mr. Harkness referred publicly to these plans before the government has provided for their financing demonstrates how fundamentally the administration's thinking has changed since mid-summer because of the Berlin crisis.

In July, Mr. Harkness was saying the government had no intention at that time of increasing Canadian forces in Europe.

By the end of this week, the first 400 of 1,350 reinforcements for the infantry brigade and air division in France and West Germany will be on their way to Europe.

Less than a year ago, when External Affairs Minister Green was holding out strong hope for an East-West disarmament agreement, it was all but for-bidden here for the defence department to talk about new equipment plans.

This policy was carried to the length that the defence department was told not to make any announcements about Exercise Skyshield, a large-scale air interception exercise by North American Air Defence Command.

But this policy has been discarded. The voice coming through loud and clear here now is that of the defence department, not that of the external affairs department.

Theft proceeds aided needy kin

A 25-year old Sherbrooke man, who pleaded guilty to a charge of theft involving a $250 chainsaw, was allowed his freedom on a suspended sentence in District Court Monday after it was revealed that the accused had sold the chainsaw to help his needy brother-in-law.

Yvan Lapointe told the Court that he had received $20 for the saw, following which he immediately handed the money to his brother-in-law who needed it to buy food for his family.

Judge Redmond Hayes, after taking into consideration all the facts in the case, imposed the suspended sentence even though the accused had previously spent six months behind bars. Judge Hayes also ordered Lapointe to post a $500 bond and to keep the peace for one year.

Lapointe told Judge Hayes that he had appeared in Court on only one previous occasion, in connection with a theft charge, following which he was sentenced to six months in jail. This previous conviction dated back to 1954.

"I am at present looking for work, but I can't find any in Sherbrooke," said the accused. He added that he was married, has two children, and that his wife is expecting a third one.

"I am giving you a chance," said Judge Hayes. "Because you have voluntarily given yourself in, because you kept the saw for seven years, and since the saw was returned to its rightful owner, you will benefit from a suspended sentence. However, if you appear before me again, the sentence will be decidedly different."

The car is owned by Charles Pilette, of Vermont.

Defence counsel Leonce Cote asked that his client be released on bail. However, Crown Attorney Benoit Turmel was in Montreal for the opening of the Quebec Appeals Court and the request was to be heard today.

Lavoie meanwhile, was kept behind bars for the night.

Accident victim

Nurse dies from injuries

A 27-year-old nurse who was injured in a two car collision near Ascot Corner on Sunday evening died Monday as a result of her injuries.

Miss Jeannine Fredette of East Angus was one of four people taken to hospital in Sherbrooke following the accident.

The other three, Mrs. Paul Chretien of East Angus, her two-year-old daughter Jo-Anne, and Yvan Paquet also of East Angus are all progressing favorably hospital authorities said today.

A date for the inquest into the death of Miss Fredette has not yet been set.

Miss Fredette had been a nurse at the St. Vincent de Paul Hospital here since 1956. She is survived by her widowed mother Mrs. Ovila Fredette of Sherbrooke.

Two youths pleaded guilty in District Court Monday to stealing $2.25 worth of gasoline on September 17. They were both allowed to go on a suspended sentence.

Emilien Goulet, 22, and Donald Beliveau, 18, admitted siphoning five gallons of gas from Miss Gladys McDonald's parked car.

Following Judge Hayes admonitions, both told the Court that they would never be arraigned again. Since it was the first offence for both accused, Judge Hayes imposed a suspended sentence.

International affairs rally is postponed

The first fall meeting of the Sherbrooke-Lennoxville branch of the Canadian Institute of International Affairs which was to have been held tonight has been cancelled.

J. King Gordon, a senior member of the Canadian staff at the United Nations who has spent the last year in the Congo was to have been the guest speaker. However, due to the situation arising from the death of Dag Hammarskjöld, Mr. King is unable to come to Sherbrooke at the present time.

The date when the first meeting will now be held has not yet been announced.

Lengthy Council session

Postpone discussion on League charges

Citizens group urges public works tenders

City council postponed until next week any discussion in connection with a Citizen's League suggestion asking that any construction work approved by the city be carried out by public tender.

Ald. Jean-Marcel Jeanson presented the motion during the City Council meeting Monday night. The Citizen's League asked among other things: Why mayor Armand Nadeau doesn't apply in Sherbrooke what he is asking for the whole of the province, as a Union Nationale leadership candidate, in connection with public tenders.

Pro-mayor Carrier Fortin pointed that the council had refrained from asking public tenders on only two occasions.

On the other hand, Ald. Nicol said that no problem really existed.

"With the exception of the two cases mentioned by Mr. Fortin," said Ald. Nicol, "the council has always asked for public tenders whenever the costs were more than $400."

Ald. Jeanson's motion will be presented again next Monday night during the regular council meeting.

The council received Monday night three tenders for the installation of traffic lights. The tenders, from Northern Electric, Canadian General Electric, and Codere Ltd., were referred to the traffic department for further studies.

The traffic lights, to be placed at 12 different intersections, where school children are numerous, will be erected at the following locations: King-Carillon, Belvedere - Westmount, Galt-Caron, King-Brooks, Galt-7th avenue, Papineau-8th avenue, Council-15th avenue, Bowen-Caen, King-Victoria, and Galt-Gauvin.

Pro-mayor Carrier Fortin insisted during Monday night's Sherbrooke city council meeting that the Citizen's League produce names, dates and precise facts in connection with the charges of illegal procedure brought against certain city employees.

The accusations were made public after a letter addressed to city council was read publicly, in which the Citizen's League accused certain foremen, superintendents and assistant superintendents of deliberately planning ways whereby illegal practices were carried out.

The letter claimed among other things that certain city heads circulated false rumours alleging that unemployment would be more widespread during the winter months following the withdrawal of a city by-law in connection with a $170,000 loan.

Most of the aldermen protested against this allegation saying that if the loan had materialized, the work would have been done by city employees.

The letter objected strongly to the claim that certain departmental heads imposed their authority unduly on their employees who were dependent on them for their positions.

Marc Bechard, assistant secretary of the Citizen's League, maintained that if these departmental heads didn't stop these drastic measures, a public inquiry would be started and the results made public.

Pro-mayor Fortin said that if the necessary information was furnished, the council "will certainly adopt the necessary measures to remedy such a situation."

Thetford resident suffocated

THETFORD MINES—A Thetford Mines man, father of two, died here Monday after he was buried alive by a cave-in as he was digging a ditch.

The body of 25-year-old Maurice Turcotte was not discovered until nearly two hours after the accident occurred. The victim had been employed by Broughton Construction Co. to dig ditches and sewers for the city. Turcotte was usually employed just to lay the sewers while a steam shovel dug the ditches. Monday, however, he was doing both jobs.

The alarm was first given by the sexton of St. Marthe Church who noticed that the steam shovel was standing idle and that the side of the ditch had fallen in.

Representatives were sent from Broughton Construction and they succeeded in recovering the body. An inquest into Turcotte's death is being held this afternoon.

Turcotte is survived by his wife, the former Bejeanne Fecteau, and two children, one, a year old and one, two months.

Sells liquor in park fined $200

A 40-year-old Sherbrooke man who pleaded guilty to a charge of illegally selling alcoholic beverages was fined $200 by Judge Edward Boisvert in district court Monday.

Philippe Fortin was arrested on Sunday by provincial police as he was selling liquor from his car in one of the city parks. His arrest culminated a month-long investigation of reports of illegal sales in several city parks.

The city council urged the OTJ to ask the School board for $5,000 and advised it to recall the precedent set by the Thetford-Mines OTJ which received a similar amount under similar circumstances. If this request is met, the city will be partially relieved of the $15,000 guarantee, as it was stipulated that any amount received from other sources would be deducted from the city grant.

The city will inquire shortly if a special insurance policy could be obtained to protect the Fire Department personnel and material while fighting fires outside the city.

On the other hand, Ald. Nicol objected to the stand taken by the provincial authorities requiring the cities to pay the costs of insurance. He even admitted he thought the best solution would be to keep the Fire Department within the city limits, refusing them any leeway in connection with fire fighting outside the city limits.

The small municipalities would then be required to exercise a certain pressure on Quebec, which may bring about a different stand, concluded Ald. Nicol.

The Director of Services, Charles Langlois, following the authorization of city council, gave the local papers a short report and tabulation in answer to different accusations which the Citizens League had brought against him.

The statement declares that King Street west definitely will cost less than the previous estimate handed in to the provincial government when applying for a provincial grant. The difference will be in the neighborhood of 15%.

Mr. Langlois said that the quantities could vary, but that it was really the final result that counted. Mr. Langlois criticized the people who did not hesitate to exaggerate a situation and did not take into consideration the different conditions which can occur.

The final estimate in the King Street construction program varied by 3.5%. Ald. Pinarid said that even though the error was unfortunate, but minor, it had caused more than 300% of trouble.

The Council postponed to next Monday a study of a further report by Mr. Langlois in connection with certain specifications when buying necessary equipment.

Plan blood clinics in November

The Sherbrooke Branch of the Canadian Red Cross will hold a blood donor clinic at the Belvedere Street Armoury in Sherbrooke November 13, 14, and 15, it was announced Monday.

The blood clinic at Bishop's will be held November 17 for Bishop's students and the people of Lennoxville.

Power failure aids passing of counterfeit currency

SAWYERVILLE — (Special)— Over $90 in bogus $20 bills were accepted by candlelight at three Sawyerville and Randboro merchants here Saturday evening.

RCMP are still looking for the passers of the counterfeit money.

A power failure in Sawyerville, Eaton Corner and Randboro plunged the three villages into pitch darkness Saturday night for nearly three hours.

During that time, two men reported to have been driving an American car with a New York licence drove up to the Ber Mac Restaurant on Main Street, Sawyerville. They purchased a quart of oil from the MacKay Garage. The dealer accepted a $20 bogus bill.

On to Randboro, the men passed another $20 bill at a Randboro restaurant. It was accepted.

Roger Heatherington of the Bank of Montreal who had come to the town to warn of the counterfeiters after they had passed bogus bills in Cookshire, was the first to notice the counterfeit bills.

The RCMP were called in Sunday night and are still investigating.

It is reported that the men have also passed bogus $20 bills at St. Isidore and St. Edwidge and are probably heading for Coaticook.

THETFORD MINES—A Thetford Mines man, father of two, died here Monday after he was buried alive by a cave-in as he was digging a ditch.

The body of 25-year-old Maurice Turcotte was not discovered until nearly two hours after the accident occurred. The victim had been employed by Broughton Construction Co. to dig ditches and sewers for the city. Turcotte was usually employed just to lay the sewers while a steam shovel dug the ditches. Monday, however, he was doing both jobs.

The alarm was first given by the sexton of St. Marthe Church who noticed that the steam shovel was standing idle and that the side of the ditch had fallen in.

Representatives were sent from Broughton Construction and they succeeded in recovering the body. An inquest into Turcotte's death is being held this afternoon.

Turcotte is survived by his wife, the former Bejeanne Fecteau, and two children, one, a year old and one, two months.

Dag Hammarskjöld

Dag Hammarskjöld's favorite recreation was climbing mountains.

When he was first appointed secretary-general of the United Nations in 1953, he said he would attempt to apply to the job the qualities required for conquering peaks — "endurance, perseverance, patience and a firm grip on reality; careful, imaginative planning, a clear awareness of danger and awareness of the fact that fate is what you make it."

This turned out to be as fine a creed for a world administrator as for a mountain climber. And Mr. Hammarskjöld lived up to it.

He was, in many ways, the living embodiment of the United Nations as it was ideally conceived: a man dedicated to freedom, to peace and to progress.

He held office during the most momentous years in the development of the UN; years which, despite reverses, have shown the United Nations can be a most effective force in helping to attain the goals for which it stands.

As the UN scaled heights, so did Mr. Hammarskjöld. Indeed, he often stood on the peak while all those around him scrambled and slipped on rocky cliffs beneath him.

On occasions, he towered above factions and dissension, as when he was the object of Mr. Khrushchev's scathing denunciations.

It will always be a measure of Mr. Hammarskjöld's stature that the Communists within the UN, were forced to devise their unworkable "troika" system. This was a proposal born of Communist failure to either cow or influence Mr. Hammarskjöld.

Russia insisted that Mr. Hammarskjöld was not a fit man to hold the position of secretary-general of the UN because he weighted his decisions in favor of the West.

That Mr. Hammarskjöld's decisions were weighted, is true, but they were weighted, not necessarily on the side of the West, but on the side of truth, of freedom, and of honor. This kind of bias, far from disqualifying Mr. Hammarskjöld from the post he held, only confirmed his fitness for it.

Like a mountaineer, he scaled the peaks of international turmoil many times, and as he went he left steps carved behind him for others to follow.

Mr. Hammarskjöld's death was loss to the whole world. But if the UN is allowed to develop along the lines which he drew so clearly and steadfastly, if the steps he left are not neglected or destroyed, then he will not have died in vain.

Water pollution initiative

The rapid pollution of many of our lakes and streams is one of the most pressing conservation problems facing us today.

Too often, the issue is allowed to degenerate into a game of buck passing, with everyone agreeing that something should be done, but no one willing to take the first steps.

It is encouraging, then, to see constructive, voluntary steps being taken by residents of the Brome Lake area.

Recent reports have indicated that the lake — one of the most beautiful in Quebec — is in danger of becoming seriously polluted.

Early this month, a conservation association was formed, sparked by the interest and leadership of the Knowlton Chamber of Commerce.

The Association already has representatives that include people interested not only in Brome Lake, but in a number of waterways in other parts of the district.

The new association will meet with

Knowlton Chamber of Commerce periodically to discuss pollution problems, and to see that proper by-laws are enacted and enforced, and that other necessary steps are taken to prevent water pollution.

The municipal council of the village of Knowlton is also actively interested in preventing water pollution. It has passed resolutions which will start Knowlton on the way to better, healthier sewage sanitation, and nip in the bud any development which may tend to pollute fresh waterways.

A member of council has been appointed as a representative to the conservation association.

It is this kind of action that is most needed if we are to fight water pollution successfully.

Until the residents of every area are concerned about water pollution, the problem will never be completely solved. Governments can only advise, plan and institute programs. They can never substitute for collective initiative on the local level.

Anti-radiation pills

It has been predicted that meals of the future will be taken in pill form, if people cared to eat in this manner.

Now comes word that pills are being developed that will help protect people from the harmful effects of nuclear radiation.

Reports say that researches working on crash programs for the Atomic Energy Commission in the United States and the Pentagon may have the pills ready by spring if they can eliminate the problem of toxic side effects — nausea, hypertension and skin allergies.

The pills, which combine nitrogen and sulphur, are intended to save off the effects of temporary exposure, and will not be a substitute for shelters.

It is conceivable that, if the pills could be made effective enough, a nation could embark upon a program of shelter-building and pill stocking which would ensure the survival of a large percentage of its citizens.

And, since it is generally agreed that survival in any all-out nuclear war would be the key to victory, the pills could become the most important medications ever developed.

Now, if they would only do something for those pesky colds.

Trend growing

Identical tenders cause concern

By DON HANRIGHT

OTTAWA (CP) — Concern and bewilderment are growing here over the number of Canadian companies submitting identical tenders on municipal contracts.

Among justice department officials there is a feeling that there are understandable, if sometimes ill-founded, reasons for public conjecture that identical bids result from illegal price-fixing.

By law, tendering of identical bids is not in itself illegal. Required for conviction on a conspiracy charge is evidence of tacit or express agreement among the firms involved.

It also is stressed here that the identical bids often show up on tenders for some standard item for which company price lists are well known. The prices on that item may have become uniform over a period of time because of the market.

The Ottawa anti-combines men are professional skeptics, however. Every complaint touches off a preliminary investigation—perhaps leading to a formal inquiry that could involve seizure of company files or a demand that company personnel answer questions under oath.

Seldom does a case reach court. In the last 50 years in Canada there have been only 11 convictions on anti-combines charges in which illegal tendering practices were a factor.

The official bewilderment is reserved for the companies involved. The feeling is that they owe the public an explanation; that a first-class selling job is badly needed, and that no one, least of all the government, is going to do it for them.

This attitude was expressed by David Henry, director of investigation and research under the anti-combines law, in a speech.

"... I think it is fair to say that industry is on trial in the public mind and if I may say so, may find itself in the position of attempting to conduct its defence on ground not of its own choosing.

"I suggest that it is for industry to satisfy the public that its pricing policies are determined entirely in accordance with the spirit and letter of the law with adequate concern for the interests of the communities that it serves."

Mr. Henry said later in an interview that Canadian business can expect dire consequences, possibly in the form of stricter government control, if it fails to meet this challenge.

He noted that in the United States there is pressure for amendment of the anti-trust law so that the burden of proof would be shifted to the accused in identical-tender cases.

This would mean, in effect, that companies submitting identical tenders on a contract would be virtually stand convicted of illegal conspiracy unless they explained the situation to the court's satisfaction.

It would involve a reversal of Canadian law but it could occur if the companies don't stave off pressure here, Mr. Henry suggested.

A sidelight to the issue that is of some concern here is the municipal dramas that sometimes occur when a case pops up.

"Conspiracy" is often cried before Ottawa is even told about the incident.

If there was conspiracy, the firms involved have lots of time to cover tracks.

One question that could be posed to the companies is: Even if the price lists are known and the prices are pretty well uniform, why is there no price competition among the firms? The explanation given here is this:

To the municipality or school board or public utility the contract is a big deal that may

LONDON (CP) — Tributes from world leaders to United Nations Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld poured forth Monday after the news of his death in a Northern Rhodesia air crash.

In Washington, President Kennedy said Hammarskjöld died in the cause of total dedication to peace and "his name will be treasured high among the peace-makers of history," Kennedy said.

"His patience surprised the endurance of all but the rarest of human beings. His life is a tribute to the ability of civilized men to live by the principles of impartial justice.

"I pray that his final sacrifice will inspire all members of the United Nations to complete the task for which he died."

In Vienna, Austrian Foreign Minister Bruno Kreisky said Hammarskjöld's death was one of the greatest losses the world had suffered.

"He in fact became a victim of our tragic time. He was a man of highest ideals who devoted his full energy to the course of peace as hardly any other person."

In London, Lord Gladwyn, acting secretary-general of the United Nations in February, 1946, said Hammarskjöld's death was "an international disaster."

In Oslo, Norwegian Prime Minister Einar Gerhardsen declared the death of Hammarskjöld was "a great loss for the organization which he served and a disaster for the creative forces of peace."

In Ottawa, Prime Minister Diefenbaker called it a "tragic day" in the history of efforts to maintain peace, a goal to which Hammarskjöld had given his "selfless best."

Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson also had words of high praise for the Swedish diplomat and said the world could ill afford to lose such a great man.

At the United Nations, Canadian External Affairs Minister Howard Green said the death of Hammarskjöld, whom he described as one of the great world statesmen of his time, was a tragedy for humanity.

British Prime Minister Macmillan said:

"We all mourn the loss of a world servant who has pursued his duty with courage, single-mindedness and devotion."

He had nothing to gain by playing the queen. When he played low, West had to win with the ace. Later on, South lost a club and a diamond, but made his game.

At the other table North chose to respond on spade.

That is the ologopolic curve. None of the companies benefited. They all lost money and, perhaps two, left the scene. Are these consequences worth a price war on some standardized item, where the market itself has dictated the price and which makes up only a small part of a large firm's business.

LUCKY GUESS MAKES SCORE

The bidding in the box is that at one table in a team of four game. South won East's queen of clubs with the ace and led a heart toward dummy. West ducked and dummy's king held the trick. South returned a trump and played a low heart on East's ten spot. This is a fine example of the obligatory finesse.

He had nothing to gain by playing the queen. When he played low, West had to win with the ace. Later on, South lost a club and a diamond, but made his game.

At the other table North chose to respond on spade.

While team of four competitors is the most skillful form of bridge this hand clearly shows that there is a tremendous luck factor. Each declarer reached a slightly ambitious game contract. One made a lucky decision in hearts; the other an unlucky one.

Gerald Waring REPORTING

OTTAWA — The prime minister's penchant for crying "Foul!" when he gets hit where it hurts—like a political Phauling Phil Scott — does not endear him to the Ottawa press corps because, more often than not, his protests are about being "misquoted" in the press.

On the other hand, the stridency of his protests against reportorial "inaccuracy" is a pretty good guide for newsmen, and others, in assessing the seriousness of Mr. Diefenbaker's attitudes to whatever situation he may be trying to repair.

On that basis, the PM was greatly perturbed by news stories from Ghana last week that Finance Minister Fleming had told a Commonwealth conference that Britain had to choose between joining the European Common Market and continuing to lead the Commonwealth.

Compounding his perturbation was the comment of Trade Minister Hees at Accra — that the Commonwealth could scarcely survive market membership for the UK.

Despite a multiplicity of news stories using extensive and identical direct quotations from the Fleming and Hees speeches, the PM pooh-poohed the reports. The one he saw was "a news report and I am sure it does not represent what was said."

George McRae (Lib., Ottawa West) read him a long quotation attributed to Hees. "A hypothetical quotation," Diefenbaker replied.

Over the years the Conservative Party has fostered a public image as the great pro-Commonwealth party. The image has been an election asset in sections where British sentiment is strong—in Ontario, in the Maritimes, in parts of the west.

This presented no difficulties when pro-Commonwealth was synonymous with pro-British. Now the two terms can mean different attitudes. They did in the Suez crisis in 1956. The Liberal government was confronted with intelligence that India would quit the Commonwealth if Britain did not withdraw its forces from the Suez Canal. Other Asian members might have followed India.

Prime Minister St. Laurent and Foreign Minister Pearson were instrumental in persuading Sir Anthony Eden to bow to the United Nations' condemnation and abandon the venture. The Liberal government thus probably staved off disintegration of the Commonwealth, but the Conservative opposition in Parliament called the government's action a "stab in the back" for Britain.

Now the wheel has fully turned. The British are off on another adventure, this time economic rather than military, but just as disturbing to other members of the Commonwealth. And it is a Conservative government at Ottawa that has administered the stab in the back.

In considering the possible effect on the Tories' political fortunes of the Fleming and Hees speeches — or, more accurately, public disclosure of what the two ministers said in the supposed privacy of closed conference meetings — it is little wonder that the PM is perturbed.

The stand taken by the two ministers was pro-Commonwealth. It was in Canada's interest. But it also put Canada in the fore in marshaling the rest of the Commonwealth — the Indians, the Pakistanis, the Australians, the Ghanians and all the rest of them — in a solid phalanx opposing action that London contends is vital to the Mother Country's economy.

The PM must be wondering how well that will go down next June in Ontario, in the Maritimes, and in parts of the west.

DISPENSATION GIVEN
LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Roman Catholic children who attended the Western Fair on children's day were granted a dispensation from the Friday abstinence rule to allow them to eat hot dogs and hamburgers. Tariffs may affect Canadian agriculture

Farmers have a stake in E.C.C.

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian farmers have a substantial stake in the tariff structure being adopted by the six-nation European Common Market.

That stake increases with Britain knocking on the Common Market door.

Canadian sales of farm produce to the six—Belgium, West

Germany, France, Italy, the Netherlands and Luxembourg—were $149,000,000 last year or about 35 per cent of the total value of all Canadian exports to those countries.

The United Kingdom took an even larger chunk—$289,000,000 or 30 per cent of all Canadian agricultural sales abroad. She continues as Canada's No. 1 farm customer although the proportion has dropped from 20 years ago when she absorbed 60 per cent of all Canada's farm exports.

Canada joined last year with other big agriculture exporters in putting her views directly before the Common Market countries. The United States, Australia, New Zealand and Argentina were others.

The real proof of Common Market prospects will come with the tariff adopted by the six nations, probably later this year, after trade negotiations at Geneva under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT).

The draft tariff proposals of the Common Market are not promising for Canada.

For example, take wheat, this country's main farm export item.

It has entered British and most-favored-nation markets duty-free. Under the proposed Common Market tariff, the rate of duty would be 20 per cent. Britain bought $135,400,000 worth last year and $148,200,000 the previous year.

Wheat flour would meet a duty of 30 per cent compared with the present duty-free entry into Britain and a rate of 10 per cent applied by most-favored nations under GATT.

Cheese, now duty-free to Britain and subject to 15-per-cent duty for most-favored nations, would go up to 23 per cent and butter to 24 per cent.

Barley, oats, tobacco, tallow, soybean oil, apples and other items would be revised upward.

Some items such as soybeans and furs and hides would remain unchanged or actually drop in duty, reflecting the good demand within the Common Market.

Unemployment total drops below last year

OTTAWA (CP)—For the first time in 18 months, unemployment in Canada has dropped below its year - earlier level, declining to 323,000 at mid-August from 354,000 a month earlier, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today. The August jobless figure represented 4.8 per cent of the labor force, compared with 5.2 per cent a month earlier and 5.3 per cent a year earlier.

The 31,000 drop in unemployment between July and August was attributed to a larger-than-usual decline in the jobless ranks of young people. Early hiring in the automobile industry and general strengthening in a number of other industries also contributed to the decline.

"In the past years," said the federal labor department in its analysis of the jobless report, "unemployment has seldom decreased and often increased during this interval."

5TH MONTHLY DROP

The August unemployment total was the fifth monthly decline in unemployment since the winter peak of 719,000 in February when the unemployment rate was 11.3 per cent. The picture in brief, with estimates in thousands:

Unemployed	323	354	352

The unemployment report is based on a survey of 35,000 households across Canada. The labor force report said there was no "appreciable" change in employment between July and August, which stood at 6,381,000 a month ago. The labor force decreased by 39,000 from July to August, which is more than usual for this period.

Employment increased more than seasonally in a number of industries, while in services, mainly community service, the decline was greater than seasonal.

ROCK ISLAND. — The 17th annual Boundary Rotary Fair concluded on Saturday night. Three days of fine weather and a good attendance total it one of the most successful fairs to date.

The grand prize winner was Miss Monique Rousseau, Rock Island, who had a choice of a trip for one week for two persons to Florida or a cheque for $500.00 cash. Miss Rousseau, guest of honor at the Rotary banquet on Monday night, chose the money and was presented with it at this meeting.

Wayne Morrison, Stanstead, won the Saturday night Sherbrooke Daily Record prize of $50.00 when he identified Mrs. Ralph Cooke as the mystery person.

Chance-it prize winners on Saturday night were Mrs. Arthur Langevin, Beebe; Ernest Willard, Derby; Prescott Kelly, Derby Line; Mrs. W. T. Greer, Rock Island; John Wheeler, Ste. Anne de Bellevue; Lionel Surprenant, Rock Island. Unclaimed are E36, A59 and F 84.

The door prize Saturday night, twin bedroom lamps, were won by Almond Bullock, Graniteville, and the Three Village Building Association, Graniteville, and the Three Village Building Association, Graniteville, and the Three Village Building Association, Graniteville.

The money from the fair was used locally in many ways for benefit of the children.

during the month. In part, this was said to be the result of early hiring in the automobile industry. Women's employment declined by an estimated 19,000, largely centred in community service.

Employment in August was up 1.8 per cent over the year. The service, trade and finance industries accounted for most of the increase. In goods-producing industries, a year-to-year increase in manufacturing work was offset by losses in forestry, agriculture and mining.

Three of the five regions of Canada reported unemployment rates running higher than the national average. The regions were the Atlantic provinces, Quebec and the Pacific area. Ontario and the Prairies were below the national unemployment rate.

267,000 UNEMPLOYED MEN

Across the nation, men accounted for about three-quarters of the 31,000 drop in unemployment during the month. Unemployed men numbered 267,000 in August, of whom 135,000 were married. Unemployed women numbered 58,000, of whom 29,000 were married.

CRASH INQUEST

the airport, they said.

Lt.-Col. Ben Matlick, U.S. air attaché from Leopoldville, who inspected the wreck today, said he was convinced that speculation that the plane may have been shot down was groundless.

"There's absolutely nothing in it," he said.

Seasoned pilots who viewed the fire-blackened wreckage agreed with Matlick. They said it looked like typical results of a crash caused in a landing approach by loss of power or faulty instruments.

Owners of the plane, the Swedish Air Company, said in Leopoldville the plane might have been shot down by a jet fighter from rebellious Katanga's tiny air force. Hammarskjöld was on his way to discuss a cease-fire between UN and Katanga forces with President Moïse Tshombe of Katanga when disaster struck.

BEGIN INVESTIGATION

A UN spokesman said neither gunfire nor sabotage could be ruled out. British and Rhodesian authorities launched an investigation.

As the bodies of Hammarskjöld and the other victims were brought to the Ndola hospital mortuary, the world's easy capitals worried about the effect of his death on the United Nations.

Tributes were paid to Hammarskjöld and his ceaseless labors for peace around the world. In many parts of Europe and elsewhere, fears were expressed that his death and Soviet stalling tactics might jeopardize the future of the United Nations.

In New York, the UN General Assembly was opening one of its most crucial sessions. Western diplomats worked to prevent the Soviet Union, arch opponent of Hammarskjöld, from paralyzing the UN's work by delaying the appointment of a successor.

AFFIRMS SUPPORT

Hammarskjöld's death prompted President Kennedy to decide to go before the United Nations Friday or Monday to affirm "at a time of crisis for the United Nations," support for the UN and its principles, a White House spokesman said.

Hammarskjöld's death posed grave problems for the United Nations and its Congo operation. He had been a major cementing factor in the world organization and the UN Congo force was his own idea to keep the new nation from lapsing into anarchy.

The search for his successor must be conducted under Communist pressure to replace the office of secretary-general with a three-man board of Communist, neutral and Western representatives, each with a veto. This probably would paralyze the world organization. Manoeuvring in the wake of Hammarskjöld's death is likely to impede UN debate on the Berlin crisis and other pressing problems.

The departure of Hammarskjöld, who was quickly recognized in the wreckage by the search team.

STYLIZED VERSION

VICTORIA (CP) — The Victoria Colonist has incorporated into the masthead of its Sunday edition a stylized version of the original Vancouver Island coat of arms, issued by Queen Victoria in 1850. It was brought here by Richard Blanshard, first governor of Vancouver Island from 1849 to 1851.

Business failures increase

OTTAWA (CP)—There were 669 business failures in Canada during the second quarter of 1961, 49 more than the same period last year, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today.

The average liability per failure was $34,800 as compared to $46,500 in the same 1960 period.

Business failures hit hardest in the trade sector. Of the 321 failures in this category, 41 were food stores, 73 were auto products establishments and 48 were furniture and appliance stores. The report said 145 construction firms went out of business while failures in the manufacturing industry amounted to 76 and in the service sector to 102.

Quebec had the greatest number of failures with 359. Ontario had 257, the Prairie provinces 25 and British Columbia 14.

Production of steel ingots reached a record weekly total for 1961 in the week ended Sept. 16, rising to 133,195 tons, a 23.8 per cent increase over the preceding week. Output in the comparable 1960 week was 109,451 tons.

Department store sales in the week ended Sept. 9 were 0.7 per cent higher than the corresponding week in 1960. There was an increase of 7.4 in the Atlantic Provinces. Decreases were recorded in Quebec (2.5) and Ontario (8.6).

The average weekly wage in Canadian industry rose to $78.50 in June, 59 cents more than May and $2.85 more than June of last year.

The industrial composite index number of employment was 121.0 in June, up 3.2 per cent from May but down 1.6 from the same month last year. The index is computed with 1949 equalling 100.

Canadian oil pipe lines received 27,573,851 barrels of crude oil, liquefied petroleum gases and products in May, an increase of seven per cent over the same month last year. Deliveries by oil pipe line companies in May were 27,630,726 barrels, up 5.4 per cent from a year earlier.

Railway revenue freight loaded on Canadian lines and received from United States connections in April was 10,923,800 tons, down 3.6 per cent from a year earlier.

Loadings on lines in Canada, including imports at lake or ocean ports in the month decreased to 8,998,600 tons, receipts from U.S. rail connections destined to ports in Canada were down to 749,400 tons, and transist freight (U.S. to U.S. through Canada) decreased to 1,175,900 tons.

CENTENARY

There are fireworks, military tattoos and a world's fair, special postage stamps, coin issues, medals and youth conferences.

GOOD WORKS AROUND

Good works abound — the translation of literature, especially poetry, into either English or French from the other language.

Earncliffe, residence of Canada's first prime minister, Sir John A. Macdonald, would be "recovered" from its present role as residence of the United Kingdom high commissioner in Ottawa.

Community projects and slum clearance would be pushed rapidly and there would be a major museum of Canadian history, a national shrine to honor famed dead, a national library and national citizenship centre near Ottawa to accommodate national conferences.

New university chairs and more scholarships would be provided to mark the centennial and there would be a new atlas of Canada for every Canadian school, plus a re-enactment of Confederation, pageants, local historical dramas, archives for business, films and historical portraits, special press, radio and television coverage and — by the way — a new edition of the Revised Statutes of Canada.

Mr. Diefenbaker singled out the Confederation train Monday as a good idea.

Baby shower by proxy for Mrs. Rene Bluteau

A delightful baby shower by proxy, was given by Mrs. Leonard Russell of Eustis, Quebec, at the home of Mrs. W. Jones, Queen North, in honor of Mrs. Rene Bluteau, formerly Suzanne Langlois of Sherbrooke, now residing in Seven Islands.

Mrs. John Evans, junior, acted as proxy mother and opened the gifts to the delight of everyone. The gifts were then re-wrapped and mailed to Seven Islands.

A telephone call was made to Mrs. Bluteau, and everyone wished her a blessed event.

After a social evening was enjoyed, refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. W. Jones and daughter Christine.

Beauty Tips

Smooth Tip

Smooth hand cream on before donning gloves for dish washing or household chores.

Food Tips

Ingenuity is required when friends drop in for a visit and you're caught with an empty cookie jar and cake tin. Here's a delightfully simple way of solving the problem. Serve Sugar-And-Spice Slices that can be prepared in next to no time from ingredients at hand. Combine one-quarter cup of margarine or butter with one-third cup of white sugar, one-half teaspoon of cinnamon, one tablespoon of orange juice and two teaspoons of orange rind. Spread each slice of a loaf of bread with about two teaspoons of the mixture. Stack the loaf in a greased, shallow pan or bread pan. Tie a string loosely around the stack lengthwise. Spread the remaining mixture over the top. Slice lengthwise, cutting completely through the centre of the loaf. Bake in a moderately hot oven, preheated to four hundred degrees F., until the topping is bubbly.

L'VILLE WOMEN'S LEAGUE OF ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH IN SHERBROOKE

The opening meeting of the fall season was held at the home of Mrs. George MacDonald, with Mrs. E. Morrison as co-hostess. Mrs. Gerald Cascarden, president presided and led the devotional reading followed by prayer.

The reports of the various secretaries and treasurer were given, the latter reporting a substantial sum on hand. The members turned in their talent money.

Thank you letters were read from various church organizations and also for expressions of sympathy received by bereaved.

All bills were ordered paid and money voted to conveners for materials for Bazaar to be held in St. Andrew's Church Hall, Sat. Nov. 25.

Final plans were made for a rummage sale to be held in St. Andrew's Church Hall, Thursday, Sept. 28, 7 p.m. to be convened by Mrs. Ray Hunting.

The meeting closed by the repetition of the Mizpah. Next meeting to be held Tuesday, Oct. 10 at the home of Mrs. Angus MacKenzie.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses.

LENNOXVILLE W.I.

Lennoxville Women's Institute hear Talk on Educational Trends in the English course as set for grades 10 and 11 in our Quebec schools by Mr. Philip Lawrence of the Lennoxville High School.

Mr. Lawrence outlined the Course in grammar, composition and good literature noting many of the changes in the English language and completing the high standards set in this subject, which will fit the young student of today to take his place on the platform with every confidence upon his graduation.

Mr. Lawrence was introduced by Mrs. Grant Taylor, convener of education and thanked by the president.

Mrs. Hugh L. Wallace president conducted the business session at the regular meeting held in the club room recently when plans were made to hold a pre-Christmas sale and tea on November 13 and arrangements are under way to hold the regular French conversation classes again this year but with two classes of instructors available for a beginners class and an advanced class as the combined class last year was not satisfactory. Notice will be given when plans are final and classes will start the first part of October. The courses will be free as usual and held Monday and Wednesday evenings.

The sum of $5.00 was voted towards the Optimist Fun Night and $5.00 for school fair prizes and $10.00 to the Lennoxville High School for prizes and the sum of $2.20 to Pennies for friendship and food and money for school fair luncheon donated.

Mrs. Warren Ross, Home Economics convener reported on the success of the Handicraft booth held at the Sherbrooke Fair, and reminded members of the inter-county contest to be held at the quarterly meeting.

Tips for parents

By EDITH HENRY
Parent Education Associates

ARTICLE I

In our part of the world everybody has to know about money. Children begin learning early, picking up their knowledge from what goes on at home.

They see their mother handling coins and bills, giving them in exchange for groceries, bus tickets or other commodities.

They hear what is said. From Daddy comes: "But, darling, WHY can't you make the house keeping money last?" And from Mommy: "It seems to slip through my fingers."

From all this, which children can scarcely be expected to understand, they nevertheless gather the way their parents feel about this thing which does not grow on trees.

ABSORBED

Attitudes are absorbed early; tend to last; are hard to change, and are a great influence over the behavior of later years.

They are important. It may be that our family attitudes towards money need reviewing before we pass them on to a future generation!

It is desirable to see money on the one hand as a return for labor done fairly, willingly and with pride. A child should also be helped to feel that the family is a working unit, father in town, mother and children on the home base.

On the other hand, money is for use. It is spent for necessities and pleasures; saved for future projects; given to help the needy and for the community betterment, not hoarded.

This concept may not reach the child until his adolescent years, but if it is held by his family, he will absorb it.

IT'S RELATIVE

Our attitude should regard money as only of relative importance. Through it we obtain our livelihood. It is not, however, our only measure of value of either things or people; it will not buy true respect nor friendship.

Our attitude emphasizes that, since money represents the labor of our hands and minds, it is to be carefully used rather than squandered.

Our attitude recognizes the pressures upon us to spend, and seeks to know values rather than yield to enticements made through all our sense!

Our attitude is one of continuing willingness to learn the skill of money management so that we escape the results of helter skelter spending; are confident rather than fearful. We strive to be among those who do know where the money goes! (TNS)

Five Clubs To Operate In E.T. Intermediate League

Montreal Olympics And Ste. Therese Admitted, Teams Must Carry Five Juniors, All-Star Game In Granby

GRANBY — Montreal Olympics and Ste. Therese were accepted officially into the Eastern Townships Intermediate Hockey League last night at a special meeting held here, stated President Len O'Donnell.

At the previous meeting held last week in Drummondville, the league had granted an extension to the Olympics to give their final decision. This was brought about in order to give the Montreal club time to reach an agreement with the Paul Sauve Centre, where they will play their home games.

In the meantime President O'Donnell received a request from Ste. Therese to join the circuit. The other clubs in the league, Granby, Drummondville and Sherbrooke accepted both requests following slight discussion on the second bid for a franchise in the league.

Drummondville objected at the admission of Ste. Therese at first as they figured it would consist of added travelling and they threatened to withdraw if they were admitted. It was then pointed out the trouble the league had gone in order to secure more teams and they consented to remain and proposed the motion to accept them.

The teams passed a new rule forcing all clubs to sign, and play, five players who hadn't reached their 21st birthday. This was done in order to assist the teams in reducing their overhead and give more young players an opportunity of joining the circuit.

A request by the two new clubs to be given permission to sign two players of a higher calibre was turned down as this would defeat the purpose of increasing the number of young players in the league.

The All-Star game will be played in Granby Sunday Oct. 22nd and the probable opening date for the league is Sunday, Oct. 29th.

ASBESTOS — G. Beauregard won the O'Keefe golf tournament staged at the Asbestos Golf and Country Club. Sixty-seven men and twenty-one ladies competed in the club sponsored affair.

Beauregard took a honors with a net 71 while Dr. W. Paul was second and Oscar Noel third. In class B Jacques Tanguay emerged the winner with 71 closely followed by Renald Proulx with 72 and Grant Davies 73.

Guy Lemieux walked away with class C when he posted low 64 while Roger Gauvin and F. Hegenbarth were tied with 74 each. Miss M. Leblanc won the nine-hole event for the ladies with 35 while Mrs. Connie Kelly and Mrs. V. Paul finished deadlocked with 38.

Following the tournament a corn roast was held with a presentation of the trophy and various prizes taking place. A dance was held in the club house to close activities.

New York — Harold (Babe) Simmons, 153½, Westbury, N.Y., outpointed Gene Johns, 169, New York, 10.

Floyd Robinson Of White Sox Has Turned Into One Of American Loop's Top Batsmen In His Rookie Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Without Lee Thomas of Los Angeles and shortstop Dick Howser of Kansas City.

Robinson and Detroit's Al Kaline were the only ones among the first six batters in the American League to gain ground last week. Kaline advanced one place to fourth on a six-point increase to 323. He had 12 safeties in 27 trips.

CASH-HOWARD TIED Norm Cash of Detroit and Elston Howard of New York, tied for first at 359, lost two and four points, respectively. Howard has 42 total appearances including official times at bat, walks, sacrifices and hit by pitches and is not likely to come when he broke into the regular lineup. Robinson's main competition for rookie honors figures to come from pitcher Don Yanks have 11 games left to Schwall of Boston, outfielder play.

Golf Important Thing In Hitchens Home

VANCOUVER (CP) — Golf isn't the only thing in the young life of high school student Gayle Hitchens but right now it's just about the most important.

"In our house we just live golf," said the blue-eyed blonde 17-year-old who this year won the Canadian junior title.

"Mother doesn't play but she lives the game with Dad and me just the same."

Like her father, Gayle says she "practically grew up on a golf course." The Hitchens lived beside Regina's Gyro Golf Club and Bob Hitchens became the pro there before moving to the coast where he now is assistant pro at North Vancouver's Capilano Golf Club.

Another Marlene? Gayle came to know golf in Regina where she was born. The family moved to the coast when she was 13 after spending two years in Vernon, B.C. Now the experts say that with her father's teaching and her own natural ability, Gayle seems well on the way to becoming one of Canada's golfing greats like Marlene Stewart Streif of Thornhill, Ont.

This year Gayle, besides winning the Canadian junior title, became the youngest girl ever to reach the finals of the Canadian women's open golf championship — being just a few months younger than Mrs. Streif who previously held that honor.

In the 36-hole open final over Point Grey's 6,500-yard, tree-lined course she put up a great battle, finally losing out 2-up to 24-year-old defending champion Judy Darling of Montreal. At one point Gayle was six down to her more experienced opponent but won back five holes with spectacular recoveries and close-to-the-pin chip shots that brought gasps and cheers from the gallery of some 1,500.

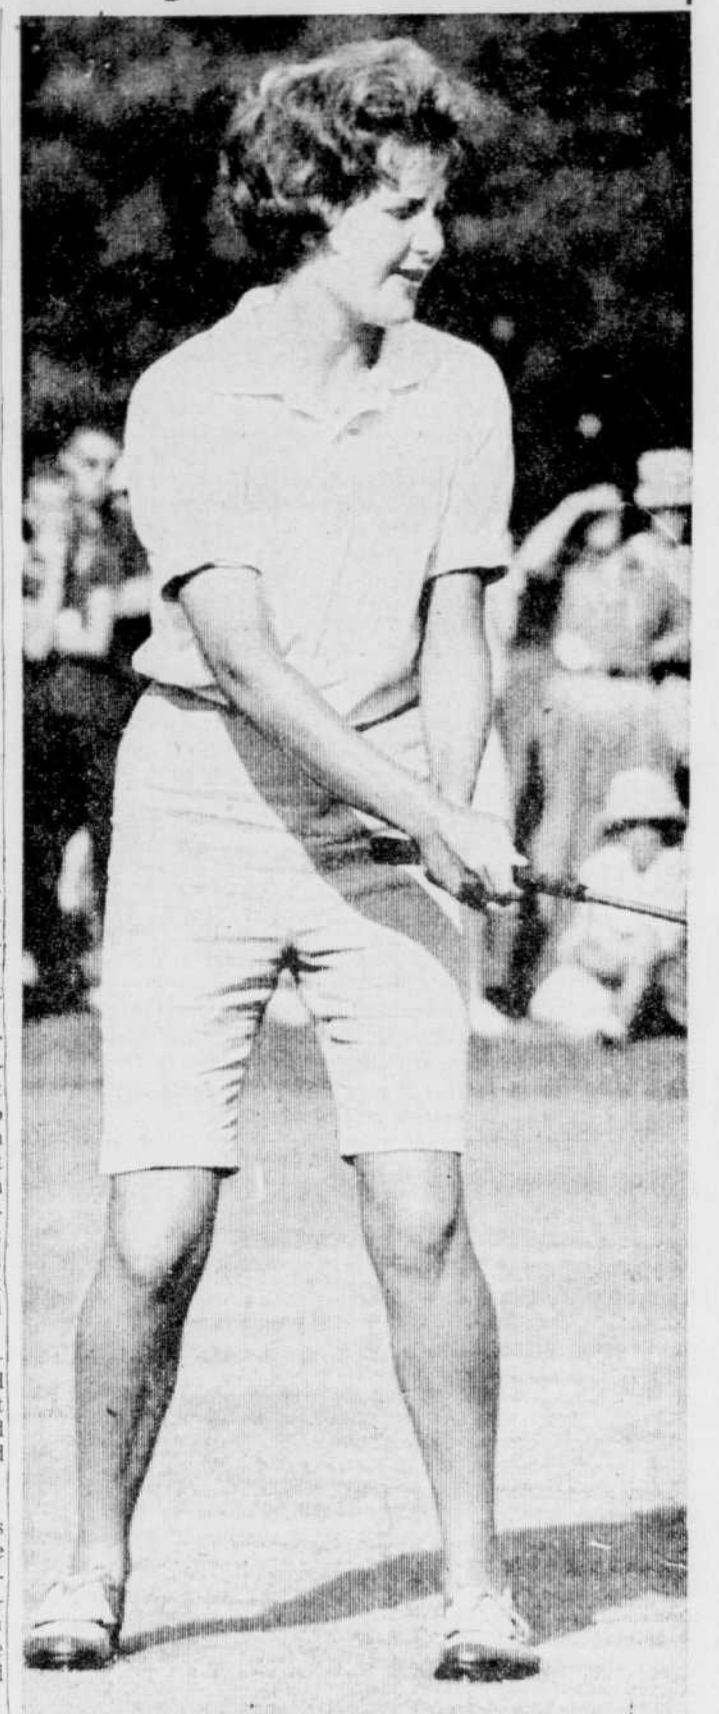

Afterwards Gayle told reporters shyly that her putting had been off early in the match. But she made a determined bid later because "I felt I just had to give her a battle."

PRIDE FROM RIVAL

In the semi-finals Gayle's steady game knocked out one of the name players, Miss Marjorie Burns, a 35-year-old seasoned tourney veteran from Greensboro, N.C., who holds the eastern U.S. title and is ranked 10th in the United States.

Said Miss Burns after the match: "You're going to forget the name of Hitchens to forget she's a great little player and cool as a cucumber when the pressure is on."

Gayle, a better-than-average student—she's in grade XII at North Vancouver High School—has a trim, 112-pound figure and likes parties and dances. She has no steady boy friend though "there's plenty of time for that." All sports attract her—swimming, skating and basketball—but golf is her first love.

Did she have any ideas about Gayle smiled: "No I'm not turning professional? I'd love to turn pro but I'd have to improve an awful some day, but I don't think I'll lot before I could even turn ever be good enough. You've got to be awfully good to make a success as a professional."

Mighty Bambino's 60th Homer Failed To Impress Anyone, Says Ford Frick, Who Was Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Nobody was impressed much — the mighty Bambino least of all — that cool autumn day 34 years ago that Babe Ruth hit his 60th home run, commissioner Ford Frick recalled Monday.

"It was just another home run for the Babe, and I don't remember that there was any great excitement, either from the fans or from the sports writers," Frick said. "Because it was a record, it called for a two-paragraph box in the papers."

The commissioner, then a young sports writer, witnessed the record homer from the Yankee Stadium press box where he was covering the game for the old New York Journal. As baseball writer assigned to the Yankees, he also saw the other 59 which Ruth hit during the 1927 season and was present for most of the 714 which the Babe hit during his career.

Frick, who later became president of the National League and then moved on to baseball's highest office, said the record created such a little impact that most of the details remained fuzzy in his mind.

"There was none of the hysteria such as is accompanying the present-day bids by Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle," Frick said. "I don't remember exactly what the Babe said afterward when I caught up with him."

"I think it was something like this: 'I really got my bottom into that one.' That's what he usually said. He also might have said, 'Relax kid, I'll get a couple more tomorrow.' He had supreme confidence."

Ruth's 60th came on Sept. 30, 1927, in the 154th but, because of a previous tie, the next-to-last game of the season. It was the eighth inning off Washington's Tom Zachary with Mark Koenig on base. It broke schedule here Oct. 15 against a 2-2 tie and won the game.

NHL Schedule Opens Oct. 11th

MONTREAL (CP)—The National Hockey League today released its full schedule for the 1961-62 season, the NHL's 45th.

The openers by cities with opposition bracketed:

Boston: Oct. 11 (New York)
Detroit: Oct. 12 (Toronto)
New York: Oct. 12 (Boston)
Toronto: Oct. 14 (Boston)
Montreal: Oct. 14 (New York)
Chicago: Oct. 15 (Detroit)

Each club plays 70 games and the schedule closes March 25.

Six Saturday afternoon games are scheduled, three in Detroit, two in New York and one in Boston. All other games are at night.

The league's annual all-star game kicks off the season Oct. 7 in Chicago.

San Francisco—Herman Marquez, 118, Stockton, Calif., outpointed Jimmy Abeyta, 115, Oakland, Calif., 12.

Alarm Sounded Over Faltering Grey Cup Champs, Injuries Prove Costly, Team Lacks Desire, Says Coach Clair

OTTAWA (CP)—At the end of last November, the capital was languidly calculating how many Grey Cups in a row Ottawa Rough Riders would win. Now it's wondering whether the defending Grey Cup champions will make the Eastern Football Conference playoffs this season.

All over town the old cry has gone up: "What's wrong with the Riders?" It hadn't been heard since Ottawa lost five in a row at the start of the 1959 season.

Ottawa sports writers Monday had plenty to say about what's wrong with the Riders. "Age, indifference, injury and complacency have contrived to strike at the same time," wrote Citizen columnist Jack Kinsella. Journalist writer Eddie MacCabe described the champions in their 26-12 loss to Montreal Alouettes Saturday as "listless, lifeless and indolent."

RIDERS 'SPIRITLESS'

Journal sports editor Bill Westwick said Riders were "spiritless, lethargic and disjointed."

Citizen sports editor Jack Koffman said the Riders have become "fat with press clip-

Dodgers Unable To Put Together A Sustained Drive May Cost Them The Pennant, Lose To Cubs, Giants Win

Los Angeles Dodgers are four games behind the leading Cincinnati Reds and may be out of the National League pennant picture for 1961.

Unable to put together a sustained drive in an attempt to overtake the Reds, the Dodgers had their latest win string snapped at four games Monday when sixth-inning home runs by former teammate Don Zimmer and George Altman gave Chicago Cubs a 5-3 victory.

It was a big loss for the Dodgers and reduced the Reds' magic number to seven to clinch their first pennant since 1940.

The third-place San Francisco Giants edged Milwaukee Braves 3-2 on Orlando Cepeda's two-run homer in the ninth inning and Pittsburgh Pirates beat St. Louis Cardinals 8-6.

STARTS ROOKIE

In order to rest a pitching staff, depleted by the absence of Johnny Podres, at the bedside of his ailing father, the Dodgers started rookie righthander Phil Ortega.

Ortega gave up three homers before departing after 5 1/3 innings.

The bid to get by with Ortega against the seventh-place Cubs, losers of eight straight games, failed when Chicago starter Don Cardwell checked

CBC To Carry NFL Tilt Sunday

There's a big week end coming up for sports followers. On Saturday at 2:00 Carling's World of Sport will bring the Baltimore and Chicago baseball game to Quebec television viewers in both the French and English TV networks.

Football fans will get their fix on Sunday at 2:00 when Detroit Lions take on the Baltimore Colts in the second of the 14 Sunday NFL games to be telecast by Carling's over the CBC French and English networks.

Last week Frank Gifford, great halfback of the New York Giants for nine seasons, came to Canada to help launch the advent of NFL games over Canadian television.

Burke Emery To Meet Williams In Halifax

HALIFAX (CP) — Canadian lightweight champion Burke Emery of Sherbrooke, Que., will meet Rudolph Williams of Miami, Fla., in a 10-round, non-title match here tonight.

Emery, who compiled a 38-10 professional record with four draws, will be making his second appearance in a Halifax ring. In an earlier engagement, the Quebec pugilist scored a stunning ninth-round knockout over Blair Richardson, of South Bar, N.S., eastern Canada middleweight title holder.

Williams has a 33-12 win-loss, professional-amateur record. He has drawn once.

Hal Skinny Brown Of Baltimore Will Try To Stop Maris, Faces Barber In Opener, Has Two Homers Off Him

By GEORGE BOWEN
BALTIMORE (AP) — Hal (Skinny) Brown will try for the third time tonight to reach a decision in a game he started pitching April 22 for Baltimore Orioles against New York Yankees.

The original game was called because of rain after seven innings with the score tied 5-5. Rain stopped an attempted replay after 3 1/2 innings July 17.

Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle hit home runs off Brown in the abbreviated replay. They didn't count because a game must go at least 4 1/2 innings to be official.

Second game of tonight's doubleheader between Baltimore and New York is the make-up contest and again Brown is the probable pitcher.

The righthander said "personally I would like to see Maris break Babe Ruth's record of 60 homers. But I'd hate to be the

Maris Faces Tough Assignment In Baltimore

Roger Maris of New York Yankees, held to a pair of singles in 18 official at-bats at Baltimore's Memorial Stadium, must tag two home runs in three games at the Orioles' home park to tie Babe Ruth's homer record.

The stadium's hard-to-scale walls, a Baltimore pitching staff that has allowed Maris only one homer during the American League season and the possibility of a visit from hurricane Esther all bar Roger's way to the Bambino's record, set in 1927.

Maris, with 58 home runs and a one-game edge over Ruth's record 60-homer pace, begins his final "official" assault on the mark in a doubleheader tonight, then winds it up in a night game Wednesday under the 154-decision allotment decreed by baseball commissioner Ford Frick.

No. 62—Apron Chips

The chip shot from the edge of the green is a close relative of the putt.

The clubhead should follow a straight line from the top of the backswing through the ball to the finish of the follow through. If the ball is lying on a straight line pointing directly toward the hole, the club should stay directly above the line during all phases of the chip from the apron.

For this shot, employ an open stance, the left foot at about a 45-degree angle to the pin. This makes the straight line movement of the club easier. The open stance with the straight line throughout the shot make it easier for you to keep the ball on the line to the pin. All you have to worry about if you play the shot in this manner is the distance to the hole.

A square stance on the chip from the apron will cause the clubhead to veer from the straight line during the swing, resulting in an inaccurate shot.

Dublinski And Cosentino Handle Quarterback Job With Faloney On Sidelines, Toronto Rolls To Win

Toronto Argonauts and Hamilton Tiger-Cats ran into stiff opposition but came up with victories in Canadian Football League games against western clubs Monday night.

Toronto de-emphasized its potent passing attack to beat British Columbia Lions 15-7 in Vancouver.

Hamilton Tiger-Cats, unbeaten leaders in the Eastern Conference, defeated Saskatchewan Roughriders 22-15 at Regina before a crowd of 10,420. Quarterback Tobin Rote attempted only nine passes for Argonauts and completed seven for 68 yards. Halfback Dick Shatto passed two more, completing one, and that was the Toronto passing attack.

The loss for the Lions before 24,428 fans, left them in last place in the Western Conference with one point on a record of eight losses and a tie. Saskatchewan retained third spot with three wins and six losses.

STAYS THIRD

Toronto also stayed in third spot in the Eastern Conference with seven points, but moved up to within one point of the second-place Ottawa Rough Riders. With regular quarterback Bernie Faloney on the sidelines with an injury, Hamilton was guided by Tom Dublinski and Frank Cosentino.

Dublinski started Hamilton scoring the first time the club got the ball. He lateralled the ball to Gerry McDougall, who passed to end Paul Dekker in the clear. Dekker went over for the touchdown.

Defensive halfback Bob Placek got this one back for Saskatchewan in the second quarter by intercepting a Dublinski pass on the Hamilton 50-yard line and going all the way for a touchdown.

Placek, who played an alert game on defence, intercepted a Cosentino pass later in the quarter to halt another Hamilton march.

Saskatchewan had an 8-7 lead at the half, but lost it when Bill Gray took a pass from quarterback Dave Grosz and fumbled the ball into the arms of Hamilton's Garney Henley.

Henley ran 28 yards for a touchdown.

TIE IN LAST QUARTER

The final Hamilton score came mid-way through the final quarter with the clubs tied 13-13. Dublinski passed from his own 36-yard line to George Scott, who caught the ball on the Saskatchewan 40 and went over from there.

Reg Whitehouse kicked two field goals and a single and Ferd Burket kicked a single to 121, Japan, 10.

Christ Church, Stanstead, holds council meeting

STANSTEAD — It was noted at the Christ Church parochial council meeting, held at the Rectory, home of Rev. and Mrs. A. L. Salt, that two students of the church school, Miss Janey Whitehouse and Master Richard Salt, had both received the highest marks in the diocese on papers written in June. Both papers contained questions based on the bible study. Miss Whitehouse obtained 98 percent and Richard 97. The exams were national.

U. E. Cargill and Douglas Farrow, wardens of the church, in their report, said that during the summer months the church floors had been painted by volunteer labor, with paint donated by Mrs. P. M. Poops. Those working were Mr. Salt, Maynard Sargent, George and Jim Cooke, Ernest and Robert Channell, William Pope, Alfred Middleton, Douglas Farrow. A vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. Poops and these helpers.

The church sign has been installed on the lawn and the entrance steps are being repaired.

Mrs. C. B. Hill, superintendent of the church school gave the financial statement. She reported that 90 children had registered at the summer school, with an average attendance of 77. This possibly was due to the many cases of measles in the community at that time. This year the church school has an enrollment of 110, an increase of 10 over last year.

Mrs. David Mackey, Guild president, noted plans in the making for the annual turkey supper to take place on Sept. 28, and the Christmas bazaar in December. With these two projects the Guild expects to meet its budget.

The sector project is being adopted in the church again this year as the council feels the church is benefiting from the past two years with Sector. The Sector pledge campaign will take place on Nov. 7.

Maybe a loose shingle started it. Or worn-out weather stripping. Or a gnawing band of termites. Whatever it was, plugging a leak property can be expensive—and, of course, the longer it's left, the more costly a repair becomes. This goes for peeling paint, crumbling concrete, and missing mortar too.

Yes, keeping a house in shape sometimes costs a lot of money, and occasionally it may cost more than you have on hand. What then? The answer may be a Scotiabank Home Improvement Loan... money you can borrow at low interest for repairs... or for extra bedrooms, a garage, a carport, modern heating, new and up-to-date plumbing—things that maintain or improve your home as an investment. Just call at your nearest branch of The Bank of Nova Scotia. See the manager. He will welcome the opportunity to discuss how a Scotiabank Home Improvement Loan can help you.
