CRIMES AND CASUALTIES.

A boy of 17, an inmate of the House of Refuge at Pittsburgh, Pa., committed suicide on Tuesday night. Mr. James Dewitt was found suspended in his barn, near Port Royal, on Saturday week last.

It is reported in Germany that Rosenkold, the Swedish naturalist, and his wife have been shot in Paraguay, by order of Lopez. John Walker, a Scotchman, aged 33, committed suicide at Tevidotla, Minto Township, on the 30th ult., by cutting his throat.

A North Carolina Sheriff was assassinated by a party of white men, who lay in ambush for him beside the road, recently. A prisoner was rescued from the custody of the Sheriff at Chicago on Wednesday, a Detroit rough aiding in the affair.

Mr. William Drysdale had a portion of two fingers of his left hand taken off by the circular saw in his saw factory, at Woodstock, last week. A man committed suicide at Peekskill, N. Y., a few days ago, because he had become addicted to reading dime novels, and found it impossible to break off the habit.

A large yawl, containing a party of about 15 or 20 persons, men, women and children, was upset while crossing the Mississippi from New Orleans, and seven of the party were drowned. Mrs. Eli Perkins, of Frederickton, was thrown violently from her horse one day last week, and although stunned and bruised by the animal falling upon her, she was not, it is said, seriously injured.

An old man named Atkinson, rather the worse for liquor, was crossing the track at Lucan, on Thursday evening, when a train came along, struck him on the head and knocked his brains out. Jeddiah Gould, a nephew of William L. Marcy, committed suicide at East Ferrisburgh, N. Y., a few days ago, by hanging himself with a small cord in his barn.

On Tuesday forenoon, a boat containing nine men was carried over a small waterfall below Rumford Falls, State of Maine. Five of the men jumped out, two of whom were saved and three drowned. The four remaining in the boat went over in safety.

An old man in Whitehall was dragged from his bed a few evenings since, tied up in a blanket, and beaten about the head until apparently dead, all because he had the habit of burying money in his garden and declined to tell a couple of burglars where it was hidden. A man named Alexander McDonald, an employee on the Railway works at the Bridge-Windor, was drowned on Friday morning last.

A heavy thunderstorm passed over the neighborhood of Walkerton on Tuesday evening. The house of Mr. Thomas Wilson, Durham Road, was struck, considerable damage done, and a boy who was sitting on a chair by the stove was thrown insensible to the floor. A Greek, at Stamboul, recently had a dream that a vast treasure could be found in a certain hill, if a child was sacrificed to the guardian demon.

As the brig Mary Maria, Captain Outhouse, was leaving the port of Jackson, San Domingo, for New York, last month, a shot was fired across the vessel's bow by the rebels, which so frightened the carpenter, John McLean, belonging to Fugwash, that he died a few days afterwards. At Garlieston, in Wigton, Scotland, the curtains of a bed in which a young girl was lying caught fire, and on her father attempting to extinguish the flames, his clothes became ignited as well as those of his daughter. They were both seriously injured that they died two days afterwards.

One of the Sambre fishing boats was struck by a squall at Farnham Bay on Wednesday last, and immediately sunk. Her crew consisting of three men, James Doyle of Sambre, Thomas Gallagher, of Ketch Harbor, and a person named Cluttenburg, were all unfortunately drowned. A notorious member of the demi monde in Halifax, named Margaret Howard, attempted to commit suicide by strangling herself with a handkerchief in the police station last week. This is not the first time she has made the attempt, and consequently she is always closely watched when locked up.

An accident occurred at Norwalkville on the morning of Her Majesty's Birthday, by which a young man named Fred Barnes, a blacksmith, lost his life. It appears that he, along with others, was firing off an arvil, and after one or two rounds, while in the act of pouring powder into the hole, a spark from the arvil set the powder on fire, which exploded and killed Barnes. A band of disguised armed men rode up to a country jail at Manchester, Tenn., a few nights ago, called the jailer out, presented their pistols at him, and demanded the keys. These were quickly surrendered, the jailer ordered, and two negroes, awaiting trial on a charge of rape upon a white woman, were seized, taken out to a neighboring tree and hanged. The band then rode away and have not been heard of since.

At 10 o'clock on the 1st instant, Mrs. J. A. E. Baker, widow and milliner, while sitting on a bench in the Western Promenade, was assaulted by the wife of Irving W. Parker, a lawyer, who fired three pistol-shots at her, one passing through her bosom and bowels, and one through her hip. The cause of this act was jealousy. Mrs. Baker lies in an insensible condition, and it is thought she is mortally wounded. Mrs. Parker surrendered herself at the station, and is now in custody. A disastrous conflagration occurred at Woodstock, Rhode Island, on the 1st inst. Elliott's Mills containing a large amount of stock and machinery employed in various trades, was destroyed. The loss is estimated at $100,000, as follows: The National Mills, owned by Elliott, the building contained a carpenter shop, grist mill, boiler house and engine, $50,000; insured for $15,000; the loss of the Woodstock Taps and Blinding Company is $25,000; insured for $12,000; the loss of W. H. Hubbard is $10,000; O. S. Walker & Co., $5,000; Joseph F. King, $3,000; all without insurance. The buildings gave employment to about 200 employes.

Some of the ultra-tory papers and organs of England declare that if the Queen signs a bill for the disestablishment of the Irish Church, it will be a violation of her coronation oath, whereupon the Law Journal reminds persons who make the assertion, that to charge the sovereign with a breach of her coronation oath is a grave contempt against her person and government, and punishable as a misdemeanor at common law with fine and imprisonment.

THE FRENCH ACADEMY.

The French Emperor is so highly displeased with the choice recently made by the French Academy in filling up vacancies that he has written to the perpetual secretary to say that he shall be glad to dispense with the usual ceremony of receiving the new academicians.

VERY SAD. In Syracuse an interesting girl named Nelly King, aged fourteen years, who had accompanied some friends from Tompkins Cove, pleasure excursion, died from suffocation at the Syracuse House, Monday night. She had been shown how to turn off the gas before retiring, and said she was quite sure she understood it perfectly; but she didn't understand it, and was found dead in her bed next morning.

DELIBERATE MURDER. A murder of the most atrocious character occurred at Franklin, Nashville, a few days since. John F. De Graffied took offense at a playful remark, made by James R. McGavock, and though assured that no offence was intended, De Graffied insisted on having "satisfaction," and, arming himself with a knife, got a horse, and pursued McGavock, who had started to his uncle's, a short distance from town. Having overtaken McGavock, he dismounted, and although McGavock told him he was unarmed, carried out his purpose, killed him, then rode off and escaped. The young man had, previously been good friends, and are respectively connected.

"ORIDE." "Oride," the new alloy resembling gold, is a French discovery, and consists of pure copper, 100 parts; zinc or (preferably) tin, 17 parts; manganese, 6 parts; sal-ammoniac, 3 1/2 parts; quicklime, a part; tartar of potassium, 9 parts. The copper is first melted, then the manganese, sal-ammoniac, lime, and tartar in powder are added little by little, brisally stirring for about half an hour, so as to mix thoroughly; after which zinc is thrown on the surface in small grains, stirring it until entirely fused. The crucible is then covered, and the fusion maintained about 35 minutes, when the dross is skimmed off, and the alloy is ready for use. It can be cast, rolled, drawn, stamped, chased, beaten into powder, or leaves.

LAKE IMPROVEMENTS. Active operations have been resumed for the season, to complete the new channel at Lake George, for the Lake Superior route. In the $2,000,000 appropriated by the United States Congress last session, for river and harbor improvements, a liberal allowance was made for the St. Mary's river. Upon the completion of the dredging, vessels will be enabled to navigate at night, which will be a great saving of time. When these improvements are made, there will likely be no work done on the canal, further than deepening to fourteen feet on the miter sills. The Detroit Post says, the width of the new channel is 200 feet or more at the bottom, with a depth, at low stage of water, of 14 feet in the middle, and thirteen and a half feet sides. Its course is very nearly in a straight line through the shoals, and nearly 700 miles in length. Gen. Grant has directed the contractor, John Brown & Co., to put in two dredges, so that the whole work will be completed by the 30th July, 1869.

DREADFUL DISCOVERY. (From the Kansas City Times.) Yesterday evening, some employees of the Union Pacific Railroad opened the door of a freight car at the State "L. Depot," their vision was horrified by the form of a dead man lying a few feet from the entrance, whose blood lay congealed in a downy place on the floor. The body proved to be that of a well-dressed young man named Charles T. Brady. His head was terribly lacerated, and his skull frightfully fractured as though struck with a hatchet. Two fatal cuts were in his neck, just below the throat, and a bullet had pierced a short distance into his right hip, proving that both a pistol and hatchet had been used in the murder. On the young man's finger was found a beautiful gold ring, and in his pockets were found some letters and a pocket-book containing a few dollars in greenbacks. One of the letters was from Messrs. White & Austin, lawyers of Hays City, addressed to young Brady, at Junction City, and asking an advance of $150—an advance which, legal firm, it appears, were conducting for him. A discharge was also found in his pocket from the Nineteenth Regiment of Kansas volunteers. The supposition is that young Brady was murdered at Sheridan, or between that point and Junction City, and his body thrown into the freight car by the murderer. The car was left empty, and nearly 700 miles to Kansas City, and the whole was opened for its use on the way, it had not been opened by the employees of the road, and thus the body was not discovered until it arrived at the depot in Kansas.

REBELLION IN KANSAS. (From the Lawrence, Kansas, Tribune.) Last evening while returning from a visit to the border countries, we met on the passenger train of the Missouri River, Port Neott, and Gulf railroad a messenger from the neutral lands on his way, post haste, to Kansas City, to notify the officers of the road of the starting action of the "L. E. Express," or rather opposed to Mr. J. W. Fryer, who has been the railroad company, and all favoring them, and on Friday night last, gave an earnest of their intentions by hanging two settlers on Cozie's creek, who had proved up and paid for their land in Mr. Fryer's office, thereby acknowledging his title to the lands. One of the murdered men, was John C. Taylor, the other named Little, and the other a young man named Kelly. It was also reported that they had shot another settler at the same place, but the messenger gave only as a rumor. Also they had warned a number of settlers, not in sympathy with them, to leave, which command was being complied with, large numbers of them going to Lawrence for protection, while others were leaving the State. From all the information we could gain, the Longhorn number from twenty-seven hundred to three thousand last, well organized and armed, and also determined in their hostility to Mr. Fryer. It was reported that they purchased about twenty-five thousand rounds of cartridges, and a quantity of powder in Kansas City, last week. The messenger informed us that the murderers party would work on the line north of South Fork, and in some cases they would come in collision with the regular train. All this, it is difficult, when so many rumors are abroad, to get to the truth, we have every reason to believe that a very serious state of affairs is being inaugurated there, that in all probability will be attended with deplorable consequences. One of the worst features of the case will be its effect on the peace of mind of the Kansas people, and the consequent loss of business to the extent of millions of dollars.

The Irish Church and the House of Lords.

Mr. Gladstone's Irish Church Bill has been finally accepted by the House of Commons. This, however, as our readers generally will not need to be reminded, does not by any means cause it to become part of the law of the community.

It has yet to receive the sanction of the two other estates of the realm, of the House of Lords and the Sovereign. It is only in rare cases of late years that the Chamber of Peers has exercised its privilege of throwing out a bill accepted by the Lower House, but in instances like the present, of a measure concerning which there is always strong party feeling, there is always considerable danger that its members may see cause to reassume their ancient functions.

Since the break-up of the Conservative party by Sir Rosamund Parnell in 1845, there has always been a more or less strong Liberal majority in the House of Commons, while the Upper Chamber, as would naturally be expected, has remained staunchly Tory in its opinions.

On great party questions, the two Houses are, as a matter of fact, always opposed, and nothing but conciliatory action on the part of the Lords can prevent a collision which would be likely to have a very injurious effect upon that body. In the present case it is quite evident that the House of Lords holds the power in its hands of rejecting the Irish Church bill, passed by a majority of 114 in a House of 608 by the Commons.

It is also pretty obvious that the desire to do so is not absent from them. But that to pursue such a course would be good policy is exceedingly doubtful. The effect would be to renew the agitation both in England and Ireland which has now in a great measure abated, and to force a protraction of Parliament, and various strong measures from the Government, in the course of carrying out which the dignity of the Chamber would be likely to suffer much.

And to what purpose would they re-ignite popular disturbance? For what reason would they expose themselves to be subjected to ignominious treatment? For a triumph which must necessarily be as brief-lived as it would be dearly paid for. None can fail to see that the dis-establishment and dis-endowment of the Irish Church, though it may be postponed, cannot be avoided.

There are not more than two or three thousand natives of the island in New York, but they are spreading heaven and earth to succour the Unionists, and are most sanguine of success.

Bright Queen of the Isles, on whose seagirt shores The Yankee smiles, while the Spaniard roars, That never knew since his pale star rose; But a people free that scorn all will, Yea, a people free that scorn all will, Bright Queen—bright Queen—bright Queen—

Bibo (or somebody.) THEATRICAL. Edwin Booth has married Mary McKiver. Fanny Herring is playing Ixion at the Bowery.

Jean Hooper is playing at Pittsburgh. So are Maffitt and Bartholomew. Selwyn's Theatre, Boston, has closed its regular season. A. W. Young is to play at the St. James in London, under Mrs. John Wood's management.

Wilder is being sued by Mr. Alexander Henderson for damages, for certain allegations in the "Ladies' Almanac" of Lydia Thompson and Company. SPONTANEOUS. Richards and Deerfoot ran on Saturday. Billy Mills beat Golden at Hackney Wick, four miles in 20.57.

Deery when last heard of was sunning himself at Syracuse. A rowing match between McKiel and Tyler is on the tapis. Old Flora Temple has dropped a foal colt called Prince Imperial. Mike McCool and Tom Allen fight on Tuesday. Mike is favorite.

Oxford is hard at work practicing for the International race, and is said to have a splendid crew. McDevitt was polished twice in Philadelphia; at the French game by Palmer who scored 50 to 34; and at the push-barred by Estephe, 325 to 262.

The famous trotter John Stewart is backed to trot 21 miles in the hour, and Myron Perry to beat old Dutchman's time for three miles 7.32. Ten mile champion cup won by Hazell beating Sanderson and Plect. Time 55.32, last two miles run alone. Bill Lang has challenged for the trophy.

Counting two for a carom of the red and white precisely the same performance. But take the amended game, or let us go further and take the Dion-Foster matches this winter, which are as favorable specimens of the improved game as we could have, bearing in mind the push and jaw were discarded.

Safety was never attempted, each man made all he could, and missed when he couldn't help it. But any billiard-player could find two fatal blemishes in these fine games. Both of these were, of course, induced by the fact that the men had to play for the money in the first place.

The first blemish is the prominence given to nursing. The whole object of each man's play was to get the four balls bunched in a corner. Once there, the aim of the player is to score all he can by gentle nibbles, wherein the size of the ball and the simple attraction of gravitation assist him materially.

It is not billiards. But we must win matches by such means. Well, leave this morbid exercise on the game of billiards to the professional and and to the billiard-club. Nothing has tended more to the detriment of the game than the foolish craving for big runs and high averages. The tallor's apprentice strives to jaw the balls, and the youthful costermonger aspires to make a big break. The other objection we take to the present game is the size and number of the balls.

The large ball is nicely suited for nursing purposes, and is easier carried upon the cue than the smaller one. But its manipulation involves a vast waste of skill and necessarily a sacrifice of the more artistic niceties of direction and influence. More or less objectionable is the number of balls. What is the object of having three balls to play upon when you only aim at effecting a carom on two?

The presence of the four balls renders more facile the piling up of long scores, and it makes the game simple even to the comprehension of idiots. We never could understand before why the American game was so popular at lunatic asylums, but now we can see the reason why. The presence of a fourth ball makes possible a two-chance shot. We question how far a two-chance shot is legitimate, and how far a man may "two chance" without the mental call "sanguinary fluke."

And lastly the fourth ball is a source of accident. The best planned shot for position is ruined by a kiss off it, or it runs blindly into a heap with the others and offers a break of a couple of thousand or so to the despairing player who stands by the hard, angrily, and shakes his head in scorn. If Billiards is to be a game of skill, it were well to eliminate therefrom every element of chance, all that tends to the undue exaltation of any inferior feature. For this reason we impeach the present uncomfortable table, the pocket, the fourth ball, and the nursing system.

Professional markers, and shanks find these necessary, let them retain the abuses and welcome. But let there be another game, and let it be called True Billiards; or if the other be Billiards, give gentlemen a different name. In our next we shall proceed to examine the three ball game, and contrast it with the four ball game now in vogue.

could, he thought, possibly have taken them, detective Cullen pithed on the table, and asked where he resided. He started for the house, but stuck as he was by the porter who came out. The detective brought him in and searched the house, but only found a lot of recent notes and a few single beads in the stove. It was mostly evident that the culprit had burned the evidence of his guilt, but it was not considered worth while to arrest him.

BURGLARY. The grocery store of Mr. Balfour, on the corner of St. Urban and Dorchester streets, was burglariously entered by the cellar window, and all the money in the till, amounting to six dollars in copper and silver, was abstracted. The burglars were unprovided with lamps or candles, and had used matches to illuminate their path.

CRUELTY TO ANIMALS. Isidore Brishon, a carter for John Sheddon, Grand Trunk Railway, was brought before the Recorder on Saturday morning, charged with mistreating a horse which he was driving. The case was postponed until Tuesday. Mr. Brishon appeared for the defence. We understand that Mr. Sheddon will be also prosecuted.

OVER THE WIRES. Canada. Discount on American Invoices 28 per cent. Father Point this morning—Cool, cloudy, stiff North-East wind with rain. Riviere du Loup this morning, cloudy and raining, light south air, fog. William Elliott gazetted Judge of the County Court of Middlesex; Thomas Galt, J.C., Judge of the Court of Common Pleas.

Europe. The North American arrived out on Saturday. The Duke of Montpensier has entered Spain, and is now in Audaluz. Bismarck and the King of Prussia are visiting Hanover. Paris is peaceful, though arrests are still made. The Emperor and Empress still take their walks abroad.

ROUND TOWN. —Lion O'Connell preached at Wellington bridge yesterday. Heavy rain during the night, and weather this morning close and damp. St. Traxator.—The stage carriage of Lord North with harnesses, which originally cost £250, was sold on Saturday to a well-known Boniface somewhat in the horse-line, for $150. Having made a bet that he would drive it four-in-hand out to Dechline, he accomplished it yesterday. F. transit gloria mundi.

RELIGIOUS. The following are the appointments made by the Wesleyan Methodist conference at Toronto, for Montreal:—Centre; Rev. George Douglas; Rev. J. B. Clarkson; J. B. Selly, superintendent; R. W. Ferrier, superintendent, South; Rev. George McLachlan; Rev. A. Hazell; East and St. Lawrence; Rev. James A. Gordon; Rev. Samuel J. Hunter; West; Rev. B. McEachern; Ladies; Rev. George A. Reiger. A NOVEL PROPELLER. There is to be seen moored alongside the Lake Erie, a small tug boat, of rather peculiar construction. Instead of the usual screw arrangement, she has a single propeller, of about 8 feet diameter, fitted at the stern worked by an engine of 30 horse power.

ANY MAN WHO IS NOT AN AMERICAN WHO IS NOT A CITIZEN. The English Workmen's Benefit Society are making arrangements for a grand annual banquet to be held at the Grand Hotel, on Wednesday, the 17th of July. Full particulars will be duly announced.
