Seeks support

Wilson off for USA

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Wilson flies to Washington today and high political authorities said he would seek ironclad American support for the wobbling pound sterling during the next six to nine months.

Wilson was reported confident such a breathing space would provide the time his Labor government needs for its crash program of deflation to pull Britain out of the red.

The economic crisis, its implications on Britain's role in the world and the Viet Nam war will dominate Wilson's one-day conference with President Johnson.

Wilson leaves at 4:30 p.m. (11:30 a.m. EDT) and Friday night will stop over for a few hours in Ottawa for talks with Prime Minister Pearson before returning Saturday in time for the England-West Germany soccer World Cup final.

TO OUTLINE PLANS

Wilson will tell President Johnson and Pearson how the British government plans to save at least $300,000,000 on overseas spending, mainly through defence cuts "east of Suez" and in West Germany, informed sources said.

Plane struck by low-flying mouse

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—The U.S. Tactical Air Command reported officially today that a plane in flight was hit by a mouse.

While approximately 1,000 feet in the air on the approach to Rhein Main (air base in Germany), the crew observed an eagle approaching seemingly for a head-on collision. The bird was carrying a mouse.

The aircraft could not be veered since it was in a controlled final approach. Just prior to an inevitable mid-air collision with the eagle, the bird pulled up and released the mouse directly into the No. 2 engine.

Strikers ignore injunction for d'Youville staff

The 317 striking hospital workers at d'Youville hospital in Sherbrooke voted to disobey the court injunction served to them yesterday ordering them back to work to halt the strike.

When 85 per cent of the 317 hospital workers voted either yesterday afternoon or evening, they were in favor 100 percent for continuing the strike. "Not one dissident hand was raised", said Napoleon Nadeau, district hospital strike organizer.

The vote was carried out in two sessions without breaking the picket lines, said Mr. Nadeau. "And the hospitals were not inconvenienced," he added.

Asked if the strikers would disobey the injunction if legal reprimand is put into effect, Mr. Nadeau said, "Before that, we will decide what to do according to the circumstances."

The injunction first issued by Quebec judge George Pelletier was served locally yesterday morning at 10:45 by lawyer F. Edmund Bernard of the law firm Leblanc, Delorme, Bernard, Leblanc, Bedard and Fournier of Sherbrooke.

This injunction lasts for 80 days. It orders the union, officers and members to stop the strike in d'Youville Hospital, return to work, not incite anyone to strike and to suggest to all union members and workers to go back to work in the institutions.

The injunction says the reasons for this is that the strike in health institutions constitutes a danger to the public health and create a dangerous situation; and because the patients in the hospital are aged and unable to care for themselves; and that the health and welfare of these people is in danger.

Meanwhile negotiators for 32,500 striking non-medical hospital workers, who have rejected three contract proposals by the government, were drafting a compromise counter-proposal early today.

The announcement of the first break in the National Federation of Labour on Page 7

In a very tired voice this morning the Medical Director of d'Youville Hospital Dr. Roland Gauthier said "some legal measures" should be taken to have the court injunction served to 317 striking d'Youville Hospital workers obeyed.

He said there should be an emergency meeting of the Commons, where "the politics play" would be forgotten to settle the hospital strike.

Referring to the staff at the hospital he said he would describe them with a word he had not used up to now. "They are exhausted."

"They are so tired that I'm afraid we'll have to send them home before they break down from fatigue," he said otherwise everything was the same. Every 24 hours 66 unionized workers are relieving the hospital staff.

Dr. Gauthier heard that the injunction was served yesterday morning at 11:05. Then waited through two union meetings — one in the afternoon, one at night, before he was told around 10:30 last night that the hospital workers would not obey the court injunction and would maintain pickets and control.

The medical director of St. Vincent de Paul Hospital said "the government should pass a special law to settle hospital strikes for all time." He said all were waiting for government intervention as soon as possible.

Otherwise he said all was calm in the hospital although the employees were getting "more and more tired".

Storming Queen's Park brings promise of talks for farmers

TORONTO (CP) — About 250 Ontario farmers stormed Queen's Park Wednesday and obtained a promise from Premier Roberts to discuss farm produce prices with federal agriculture officials as soon as possible.

While a committee of seven representatives of the Ontario Farmers' Union met behind closed doors with Mr. Roberts and Agriculture Minister William Stewart, a large group of demonstrating farmers burst past police guards at the legislative building's main door and milled through corridors in search of the meeting room.

They didn't find it, but a few interrupted a meeting presided over by Kelso Roberts, lands and forests minister, and attended by two other cabinet ministers—works Minister Ray Connell and Resources Minister J. R. Simonett.

The farmers included 60 who drove tractors almost 100 miles from Woodstock. The others arrived in cars Wednesday.

The meeting with Mr. Roberts and Mr. Stewart was the culmination of province-wide demonstrations by tractor-driving farmers. About 600 farmers took to the highways Monday and 200 rallied at Woodstock to start the trek to Toronto.

Only 60 completed the drive, which ended in front of the legislature building in a warm drizzle shortly before 4 p.m.

Following the meeting Mr. Roberts announced that OFU representatives had agreed to attend a meeting with federal Agriculture Minister Greene when it can be arranged. Officials of the Ontario Milk Marketing Board and the Ontario Federation of Agriculture will also attend.

The premier said much of the discussion during the 90-minute meeting revolved around OFU claims that vegetables from the United States are being dumped on the Canadian market.

"That is a matter of tariffs over which this provincial government has no control," he said. The same approach applies to farm-product subsidies which must be applied on a national basis by the federal government.

"Otherwise we'd be subsidizing food here to make it cheaper for people to buy in Alberta—or wherever it ends up," he added.

In most tractor demonstrations so far, farmers have spotlighted their demand for a basic $4-a-hundredweight price for milk to processors. They now receive $3.25 from the manufacturers and a 75-cent government subsidy which they claim drops to 50 cents after transportation costs are taken away.

ESTIMATES COST — In a prepared statement before the meeting, Mr. Roberts estimated the OFU demands would cost Ontario $260,000,000—more than it could afford without federal assistance.

The demands include milk subsidies, loans for construction of milk houses and purchase of bulk tanks, a 50-per-cent eduation tax rebate to farmers, acreage payments for crop losses and subsidies on other farm produce.

Meanwhile, most of the farmers who attended Wednesday's demonstration returned to farm chores today. Those who drove tractors said they would probably have their farm vehicles shipped home rather than wear them out on the return drive.

Earlier John Dalmer, OFU president, had spoken with reporters about a possible farmers' strike. After the meeting with the premier, he said that while "we can't show material results" the talks were worth while.

Atlantic allies seek ways to trim East-West tension

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Atlantic allies are weighing proposals for initiatives to improve relations with the Communist East.

One suggestion—for a broad declaration of principles within which specific East-West accommodations could be worked out—is reported to have been submitted by the British for discussion in the North Atlantic Council.

In addition to the British paper, other allied representatives were said to have expressed varying views orally during past deliberations of the council, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's political body.

But there appears to be a widespread feeling that under the impact of the Viet Nam war, Moscow is hardening its position against the West. This tends to reduce western urgency for initiatives which, at this time, would seem likely to meet a Kremlin rebuff.

Prime Minister Wilson, due in Washington tonight for brief talks with President Johnson, is expected to focus on economic and defence problems. Wilson got a cool reception when he tried a Viet Nam peace move on Premier Kosygin in Moscow earlier this month.

A basic U.S. governmental review of European policy is under way but informants said no conclusions have yet been reached.

The search for ways to trim East-West tensions over Europe was ordered by the NATO ministers at their Brussels meeting last month. The ambassadors at the North Atlantic Council were told to prepare for the ministers a "report which should deal with all possible initiatives in their field."

The British proposal was said to envision a generalized statement of principles to which the NATO nations, and perhaps the East European Communist countries, too, could subscribe. The declaration would set forth common aims such as: —Desire for limited East-West agreements in areas of common interest pending a broader settlement.

—More contacts between East and West. —Renunciation of use of force in settling disputes. —Disarmament. —Co-operation in aiding underdeveloped countries.

The Atlantic allies were said to be in agreement that NATO itself, as an organization, would not be a practical channel for negotiating with the Communists. Each member would remain free to conduct his policy toward the East.

Thalidomide

OTTAWA (CP)—Scientific research with the drug thalidomide, which was blamed for birth deformities in 1961 and 1962, indicates that the trouble may have been the way it was taken by pregnant women.

Four researchers reporting on tests with rabbits said that when the drug was administered by intravenous injection it had no observable effect on the young.

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — South Africa's industries are growing so fast there are insufficient skilled white workers to keep the wheels turning at full speed.

Prime Minister Hendrik F. Verwoerd's government is searching hard for skilled European immigrants. Looking to the future, the minister for Bantu (African) administration, Conrad Botha, has appealed to white women to bear more babies. So far there is no sign he has been heeded.

Sukarno angry

JAKARTA (Reuters) — President Sukarno angrily said today that he still is prime minister of Indonesia, has not ceded power to army strongman Gen. Suharto and the confrontation against Malaysia will go on.

In an hour-long speech after installing Indonesia's new cabinet, Sukarno said that under the constitution the president also holds the office of prime minister.

Showpiece victory sought

BATTLE GEAR PLUS LAWN CHAIR — As he arrives at a staging area in South Viet Nam, a United States Marine carries full battle gear plus a folding chair he scrounged somewhere. The Marine spent a comfortable night in the chair before climbing aboard a helicopter and flying into battle. (AP Wirephoto)

SAIGON (AP) — Hardly 75 miles from Saigon, the South Viet Nam capital, the shadowy military and political leaders of the Viet Cong guerrillas make their plans for victory.

Their headquarters is deep within the matted jungles of northern Tay Ninh province, a short distance from sanctuary in Cambodia if need arises.

In terms of real political power, this jungle command post is only a way station to implement the orders of Ho Chi Minh in Hanoi. In military terms, however, the jungle planners plot the day-to-day outline of their war in South Viet Nam.

Increasingly, they seem to concentrate on one problem: How to win a showpiece victory from a major United States unit.

At the Viet Cong's disposal are some 250,000 fighting men. They have a fulltime guerrilla army seasoned by years of war. There are crack North Vietnamese regulars infiltrated from Hanoi. And they have a host of peasant soldiers who hide their guns by day.

Backing them is North Viet Nam's 600,000-man regular army which, by U.S. estimate, is sending 5,000 replacements south each month.

South Viet Nam has a regular army of some 320,000 men plus 136,000 regional forces and 135,000 popular forces troops who are restricted to local guard duties. These are more or less evenly distributed over four corps areas.

The United States has about 280,000 troops in Viet Nam, South Korea 25,000, Australia and New Zealand about 4,700. Thailand has a 180-man contingent and the Philippines soon will be sending a 2,000-man engineer-and-security force.

Backing them is the U.S. 7th Fleet with 60,000 men and usually three to four carriers on station. In the air, the United States can move its forces with 1,650 helicopters and support them with 1,500 airlift and combat aircraft, not counting several hundred more planes from the carriers and from bases in Thailand. From Guam, B-52 bombers stage one to three raids daily on South Viet Nam.

From north to south, U.S. and South Vietnamese forces control every vital area—but this leaves vast tracts of mountain and forest and flooded paddy land under virtual Viet Cong control.

A year ago the Viet Cong was clearly on the way to victory in Viet Nam. The tactics which had led and defeated the French were grinding the South Vietnamese army to pieces.

MOVED TO BATTLE — Despite the mounting influx of American troops, the guerrillas confidently started to shift into what they call "phase three"—the open-battle climax which the dogma of Mao Tse-tung, Communist party chairman of China, says will end guerrilla war victoriously.

There is evidence that the Viet Cong strategists are sticking to Mao's doctrine, although it has resulted in a bloody series of battlefield defeats.

The escalation required by Mao, and implemented by Hanoi's Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap, posed tremendous supply problems for the guerrillas.

By re-equipping main-line units with Soviet and Chinese weapons, the guerrillas burdened themselves with the need to bring almost all ammunition from the north — a 1,500-mile supply line for remote units.

Professional workers granted wage boosts

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Daniel Johnson said Wednesday that wage increases for the 1,600 striking Quebec government professional workers have been implemented and will go into effect Monday.

The government-approved increases range from $50 to $1,000 immediately with successive increases according to a complicated scale based on seniority and profession.

Mr. Johnson said strikers who want to can return to work Monday.

"They have been warned that there will be no changes," the premier said, referring to the wage increases.

Mr. Johnson added that the strikers' demand for $1,200 in retroactive pay has been definitively rejected.

The civil servants are members of six unions affiliated with the Quebec-based Confederation of National Trade Unions.

The 1,600 agronomists, engineers, geographers, economists and other professionals stopped work May 9 in support of a demand for a $2,000 increase in their average $8,000 yearly salaries.

Andre Marcoux, president of a union council representing the striking employees, refused to comment immediately on Premier Johnson's statement.

Meanwhile, some 200 of the striking employees demonstrated for the third straight day Wednesday—this time outside the main building of the provincial legislature. They were watched by 125 police officers.

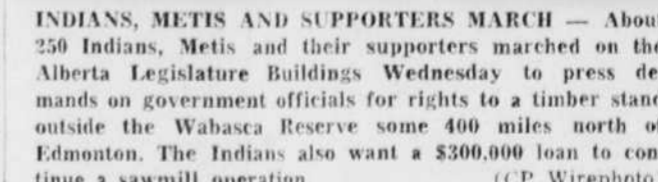

Religious rivalry bursts again in Belfast

BELFAST (CP)—Police cordoned off part of North Belfast yesterday after thugs attacked two Catholic homes in a fresh outburst of religious hostility that brought riots to Northern Ireland last weekend.

A family of four escaped when a gasoline bomb smashed against their home at midnight, setting fire to the front door. A jam jar, which may have contained gasoline, was hurled through the window of the neighboring house.

The incidents occurred in the tense capital since three days of rioting which ended Sunday. Protestant extremists have staged a series of anti-Catholic rallies over the last two months, whipping up traditional tensions between the two communities.

INDIANS, METIS AND SUPPORTERS MARCH — About 250 Indians, Metis and supporters marched on the Alberta Legislature Buildings Wednesday to press demands on government officials for rights to a timber stand outside the Wabasca Reserve some 400 miles north of Edmonton. The Indians also want a $300,000 loan to continue a sawmill operation. (CP Wirephoto)

JACOBY ON BRIDGE
DELAYED FINESSE GAINS BONUS

The delayed finesse is really in the nature of a safety play. The opportunity for it arises when you want to play a suit in which you hold the ace and queen but no spot cards of any value.

Playing at three no-trump South has to attack clubs sooner or later and the sooner the better. Most South players would win the heart opening in dummy in order to lead a club and finesse against the king. South wouldn't be too upset when the finesse lost but he would be likely to scream when a second club lead disclosed that the king has been a singleton.

Screams will die away to a murmur if he discovers that he still manages to make his contract.

Really good players have bad luck also but they have a lot less bad luck than others because they make it a point to take out insurance whenever possible. The correct play with this type of holding is to lead the ace of clubs immediately. If West holds the singleton king it drops and the insurance has paid off. If the king doesn't drop declarer goes over to dummy and leads a club toward his own hand. If East holds the king, declarer's queen of clubs will still make because he has achieved the finesse effect anyway.

Once the king drops under the ace South should make four no-trump. He will abandon clubs temporarily to set up two spade tricks because he will be able to count nine sure winners this way. Later, he will have time to HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "You and I have the same trouble—type-casting," said Debbie Reynolds to Van Johnson.

The setting was Miss Reynolds' trailer outside the set of Marriage American Style, in which both are appearing. It was a pleasant reunion for the graduates of the Louis B. Mayer academy. Both starred at MGM, although Reynolds never made a film together there.

"That's true about type-casting," said Johnson. "This kis-it for me," she said. "But I ser of mine; it's like a baby's. Always has been. So they could never see me in any kind of a mature role."

"Same here," said Debbie. "Would they let me grow up with this face of mine? Never."

"Not until I went off to London and did Music Man did I convince anyone I could do something beside the boy-next-door," said he.

"It was How the West Was Won and Molly Brown that did it," said Johnson. "This kis-it for me," she said. "But I

Increase expected Aug. 1
Skim milk price to go much higher dairymen predict

Sherbrooke dairymen will release a statement Saturday outlining a proposed price increase for bottled milk. The price increase follows a decision by the Quebec Milk Marketing Board, he said, is uniforming the price of bottled homogenized milk at 27 cents a quart.

Skim milk, said Mr. Pettigrew, will almost certainly increase considerably in price. This rise in price, he said, is due to the decision of the Quebec Marketing Board to raise the price paid to the farmer for skim milk. Previously, he said, dairies were paying class 2 prices for skim milk, but now the Marketing Board has increased the price to a class 1 level. One estimate is that the price of skim milk will increase five cents per quart.

The exact prices, explained one dairymen, could not be released until Saturday because it would cause a rush on milk tickets and tokens. The dairies, he said, will honor all tickets and tokens bought before the price increase takes place.

The date that the increase will officially come into effect in the province is August 1.

HOMELESS — This is one of the dogs at the SPCA animal shelter at Belvidere Heights that is looking for a home. Some of the dogs at the shelter are threatened with destruction if they are not 'adopted' soon.

It's adoption or death for dogs

There are thin dogs, fat dogs, dogs with long hair, dogs with short hair and dogs of almost any color or breed. "Almost anything you can imagine," said Mrs. Ashley McMullen, manager of the Sherbrooke branch of the SPCA animal shelter.

One way or another, says Mrs. McMullen, there will soon be fewer dogs at the shelter. The animal shelter, she said, has become overcrowded to the point where some of the animals will have to be destroyed, unless they are given homes by the people in the area.

Last year the SPCA shelter in Sherbrooke received 1,450 animals, 698 dogs, 736 cats and 16 wild animals, of which 208 were returned to their owners, 696 were placed in new homes and the balance destroyed.

The cats at the shelter, said Mrs. McMullen, would make excellent mousers as well as being good house pets. For those who prefer to custom train their own mousers, the cats have also brought a sizeable kitten population to the shelter.

Mrs. McMullen particularly wants to dispell some myths commonly held about the animal shelter. The shelter, she said, is a purely non-profit organization. The shelter receives a $350 grant from the city of Sherbrooke and lesser amounts from other municipalities for its work, but relies primarily upon the donations of individual citizens.

It is a common belief, said Mrs. McMullen, that the shelter is a government-supported organization. This, she said, is untrue. The shelter receives no grants from any government other than the small municipal grants.

The shelter does not charge for the animals that it manages to place. The new animal owner, though, is asked to make a contribution to the support of the shelter and the SPCA.

The SPCA animal shelter is located about three miles outside Sherbrooke, just past Belvidere Heights. Signs clearly mark the way.

Though the figures on the animal population were not immediately available, Mrs. McMullen said that there were many cats, kittens and dogs that needed placing. If the surplus population should be placed, said Mrs. McMullen, the remainder of the animals would not have to be destroyed. The shelter policy is to keep all the healthy animals it can manage for as long as it can.

The hours the shelter is open are between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m., seven days a week. Mrs. McMullen urges all who are interested to visit to the shelter.

Textile firm answers Frechette, Allard with 'political football' counter-charge

In correspondence released to newspapers yesterday, the Dominion Textile Company has answered charges by Raynald Frechette, Union National MLA for Sherbrooke, and Maurice Allard, Independent MP for Sherbrooke, that the company's 'rigid and miserly' attitude is responsible for prolonging the strike by workers at plants in Quebec, including those in Sherbrooke and Magog.

The correspondence, as given by the company, follows:

TO ALL EMPLOYEES:

You have heard or read statements by Messrs. Allard and Frechette on the strike. Attached is our answer. We deplore any attempt to make a political football out of this situation. This is no way to end a strike.

Negotiations are the only road to settlement.

Yours truly,
F. P. Brady
Manager
Industrial Relations Dept.

The new Domil plant has attracted worldwide attention. You ignore this and talk about employees there having to "run" to maintain incentive work standards. This is not so. Our incentive work system has been studied by several firms of independent industrial engineers and it can be positively stated that our incentive plans do not demand more of an employee than that they work at a reasonably steady pace.

If your remarks about working conditions are intended to refer to work loads, have your studies informed you that company negotiators accepted the proposals of an independent engineer suggested by the government while CNTU negotiators refused them?

You talk about "miserly" wages. Did your studies show the Dominion Textile employees before the strike earned 22 cents per hour more than the all-Canada average for this industry, 14 cents more than the Quebec average, and that employees in other Dominion Textile mills who have negotiated new three-year contracts without a strike are already earning very close to the Quebec average for all industry including heavy industry?

Were your studies intensive enough to show you that at the time of the strike Dominion Textile employees were earning 8 cents per hour more than the average for all manufacturing industry in Sherbrooke? If you add to that a three-year wage offer that would mean 37-40 cents per hour more in earnings, how can you in good faith talk about miserly wages?

You note correctly that in recent years the company has earned profits. Did your studies show that these profits are lower in relation to sales than most big Canadian companies, that they have helped the company to stay modern and protect employees' jobs? Did you study the fact that when dividends decreased during the difficult '50s wages kept on rising in spite of poor business conditions?

You pretend that your studies show the company to be prolonging negotiations. Have you attended any negotiation meetings to see how the CNTU consistently changes course when a settlement on any clause seems close? Did you study the public statement of CNTU that they intended to set a new record for the duration of a strike?

Does this make you think that the company is prolonging the strike?

You talk of moral and social responsibilities. The company's principal responsibility to employees is to provide modern competitive plants and operate them in keeping with modern industrial procedures, so that they can continue to provide employment at good wages (better than the Sherbrooke average). This is of value to your county as well. Industrial payrolls sustain the economy of Sherbrooke.

Both company and union have the responsibility of negotiating in good faith to sign a new agreement.

Your public threat to conduct a "campaign", if taken seriously by the union, can have only one effect. It would delay any real chance of negotiating a settlement. This would prolong the financial distress of our employees and their communities.

That is your moral and social responsibility.

Yours truly,
F. R. Daniels,
President

RICHMOND — A Richmond resident, Miss H. Blanche Gouin, one of a family of pioneers to the area, presented in 1954 a parcel of land to the town, consisting of several acres, for a park site.

The land is a high piece of ground situated to the East of the town proper. Originally, it was accessible by way of Adam Street. But, now with the new by-pass on Route 22-32, leading to the new million-dollar bridge which crosses the St. Francis River, the entrance from Adam Street has been blocked off.

Since the inauguration ceremony at the Park on June 24, 1955, little money or time has been spent to develop the area. A road was cut through, some land was cleared, there was talk of a picnic area with tables and a camp site, swimming pool, and tennis courts.

Government betraying Que. people

None will blame Premier Daniel Johnson for the problems which led to the strike of non-medical workers in more than 100 Quebec hospitals. The troubles are deep-rooted and go back months and even years before the present government took office in mid-June.

But the Premier and his colleagues cannot escape public criticism for their failure to use every means in their power to prevent the curtailment and suspension of such vital services as are provided by the hospitals and similar institutions.

Only after the strike had been in effect for nearly two weeks did the government see fit to seek court injunctions ordering the strikers to return to work and these applied to only 18 of the 119 hospitals affected.

Probably the cabinet feared that invocation of injunction actions would make it unpopular among certain segments of the trade union movement.

Probably the supine attitude of the Government is largely responsible for the reported decision of the workers at the 18 institutions to ignore the injunction and continue their picketing. Having defied the state and the public interest for two weeks with impunity the strikers apparently believe that the injunction order is just another display of shadow boxing on the part of the cabinet.

The real test of the Government's determination to bring back a degree of order out of the chaos now existing in the hospitals for the mental and chronically ill will be the efforts they make to see that the injunctions are respected or their willingness to summon a special session of the legislature to enact legislation making such strikes illegal.

Any fear the Government may have of the political dangers of such legislation should give way to its concern for protecting the interests of the population of the province.

In all probability the administration might pick up more support among the unattached voters than it would lose among organized labor by showing a little backbone in the present dangerous situation.

Summer drivers--slow down and live

During the summer months when so many families take to the road, it is fitting that the motorist be reminded to slow down his driving speed.

Speed was a major cause of the 4,879 deaths from automobile accidents which occurred in Canada in 1965 and continues to be a major factor in the increasing number of automobile accidents across the country.

Long smooth highways are a natural temptation for the driver to increase his speed. But highway signs are established with reference to wide surveys of the dangers of each road. They are to be obeyed — for the safety of the driver.

Divided highways, too are not necessarily danger-free. Often drivers do not observe regulations concerning slow and fast lanes or they are surprised by animals crossing the road.

War escalation rests with Hanoi

The bombing of the oil dumps near Hanoi and Haiphong has been followed recently by the North Vietnamese announcement that civilians are being evacuated from these cities.

The Communists no doubt would like the world to believe that the evacuations were forced by the American air strikes. Hanoi would leave the impression that it alone has solicitude for civilians and the Americans bomb indiscriminately. Only those who accept the North Vietnamese version of events will swallow this propaganda.

The Americans have not bombed civilians in Hanoi or Haiphong. It becomes clearer every day that the oil dumps were attacked, as the Economist of London reported, "with painstaking precision on 20 undeniably military targets." The raids "caused no more civilian casualties than a Viet Cong bombing in Saigon, and a great deal fewer than when a Viet Cong unit in the south opens fire on American troops from the cover of a village."

Another British paper carrying no torch for the U.S., the Telegraph, comments "that never before in the history of aerial war have crews taken such care, and accepted such risks, to minimize civilian casualties as the Americans."

This is not to say that the extension of the bombing to the fringes of the North Vietnamese cities did not represent a new phase in the war. It did. But there is no cause for hysteria over the number of civilian victims.

Escalation of the war depends far more upon Hanoi's actions than upon Washington. The quickest way for Hanoi to invite an expansion of the conflict would be to carry out the threat to try and execute captured American fliers as war criminals. If Hanoi really has that in mind, perhaps it is as well that it evacuate its cities. Such an atrocity would release new furies.

THE FUN SEASON

The readers say:

French-Canadian thinking too narrow

Dear Sir: Throughout the years the thinking and actions of French-Canada along political lines has become so uniformly stylized and conforms to type in such a manner that it apparently matters little whether one party or another is outvoted and superceded by the other. There is the same old tub thumping and carefully qualified threats of "separatism" unless their special status is recognized, and other impossible discriminatory demands are conceded by the federal government. Whether these paranoid expressions come from a Rene Levesque or a Daniel Johnson is a matter of small consequence; the results are much the same. These factors have become almost as a vested interest to the French-Canadian politician, and a "sine qua non" of Quebec politics.

They have long since formulated for their own ends, a world of complete unreality. They have reduced their political thinking to an utter stark simplicity which is appalling to contemplate. Their attitude towards the Federal government has always been the same, and in recent years much more so. To them it is a docile milk cow of inexhaustible productivity, or ever flowing cornucopia of dispensable wealth and power, which must be trapped at any cost and for any puerile purpose of the moment and by any means whatever. They utterly fail to give consideration to the fact, or realized that forage for the cow may have been limited owing to an unfavourable season or other unfavourable circumstance may have affected production, and there is not the same quantity of milk available.

The attitude of even the demented French-Canadian is so self centred that he fails to have an understanding of world affairs which are not under his immediate observation. He fails to realize that the Western world, which, of course includes himself, has been in a state of undeclared war with an ideology completely different from his own for a matter of some 21 years, or since the termination of World War II, and which if victorious would make short work of all that he considers most sacred and sanctified in his own culture. He fails to understand that our own economic system is facing a very severe test in its struggle to survive in its present form. He does not realize that every province in the nation, along with every state in the American union and every country in the Western world is having the same difficulties as the Province of Quebec in raising sufficient money through taxation to pay for current welfare and other needs and are operating through deficit financing, which is largely responsible for our continuously rising cost of living and which can eventually prove to be completely ruinous to our entire economy. He does not see that under the very real menace of atomic warfare, which can mean total extinction that our only shield and protection has been, and still is, the United States. In the face of these very obvious acts he is satisfied to maintain his own little "tempest in a teapot", and let the rest of the world go by. He continues with his own macabre dance of life. A modern day Quebec politician is indeed something out of this world.

It remains to be seen whether Prime Minister elect Johnson will attempt to implement his campaign promises. He has stated publicly that his objective is to obtain 100 per cent of personal income, corporation and succession taxes. In which case he might as well state that the Province of Quebec intends to participate in the life of the nation, accept the obvious advantage and ignore the obligations. For a considerable portion of these taxes must be retained by the Federal government for national purposes, such as defense, unemployment insurance, old age pensions, assistance to weaker Provinces, payments on the national debt (when possible) and servicing it, public works and a multitude of other current expenditures which are absolutely necessary.

It could be that Premier Johnson is somewhat of the pragmatist which he should be under the circumstances and has none of the qualities of a star-gazing Messiah which some of his predecessors have appeared to have. It may well be that judgement should be withheld until it becomes apparent whether Premier Johnson should be judged by what he has said in the past or by what he does in the future, the verdict should possibly be held in abeyance.

We have one very good reason for gratitude to him in that he has relegated ex-minister Rene Levesque, our former Minister of Health and Welfare, to his proper sphere of inactivity, and we are not required to listen to the flutulent, seditious-tinged belchings of that exploded volcano, who must fully realize that his prophecies of the take-over of the business activity of the city of Montreal within five years must be revised and brought up to date. L. A. PARMELEE.

Must hospital strike bring suffering?

Dear Sir: It seems that we, in the province of Quebec, live in a regime as bad as or worse than that of Communism. At least, under Communism we would never be forbidden a visit to a hospital.

However, such is the case at one of Sherbrooke's well known hospitals. An attempted visit to my mother there, who is a nurse, proved totally in vain. I was very ungraciously met at the entrance by a small man, who, at last, could feel important because he had risen above the ranks of the laundry and the washrooms. Here he was imposing his self-importance upon visitors who were trying to enter to cheer workers and patients. No one I saw entered - each was asked for his pass, but to none was the source of the pass revealed.

Later that day, I talked to my mother by telephone. I told her of an impulse to walk directly past this group of self-righteous picketers. She told me that those who were given a difficult time when they tried to leave the hospital and that the police were doing as little as possible to impose justice in these areas.

However, along with these hard facts, she also told me of the tears of relief that met those who did manage to enter - the tears of exhaustion of the workers to see another holding hand and the tears of tension of the patients to see that extra box of supplies - "just in case"...

"She told me of the irony and the ridicule of the picketers searching the rooms, bathrooms, and offices every few hours to satisfy their vengeance-thirsty minds that those who did have enough 'guts to stick it through' were well saturated with work and pressure and worried; to satisfy their mal-adjusted egos that not one extra pair of helping hands had been summoned without their almighty consent.

She told me of the morale of the nurses and the doctors and the nuns who force themselves to keep smiling so that not one of their fellows will break down under the strain of over-work and not enough rest. She told me of the morale of the patients who also keep smiling but can't control the few tears they shed when they see their tray coming, or their bed about to be changed or even when they are given a bit of lotion for their sore elbows - and who can't help saying as they swallow hard, "Is it really my turn?"

Somehow, I don't want to feel that it is more than a minority group of people instigating such cruelty to the sick, the aged and to those who have dedicated their lives to nursing care. It might do well here to make the distinction that the truly dedicated - those who have said their vows with sincerity - seem very insincere in their purposes. I am wondering if their vows were given for their own well-being, or really for the well-being of those who are unable to care for themselves.

In closing, I add that it is not my intention to minimize unions, syndicates or any other such organizations. I am sure that their essential purposes are quite commendable. But then ideologically, so is Communism. Perhaps ideas such as these seem very hard heard, but I am wondering too if it is really necessary to so willfully cause suffering - in this case suffering to so many wonderful people - who never asked to be sick, and even greater, the wonderful people who through the thickest and the thinnest preserve to care for those who have the misfortune to be sick at such uneasy times.

I can only hope that my "friend", who so curiously peeped into the bag of goodies I was carrying, as he sheepishly grinned and told me I was not "entering that hospital to visit any nurse even if she was my mother", can really feel good - good to the bottom of his Great Big Christian Heart that he is successful in his new role of Self-Importance.

Yours truly, A protesting citizen

COMMENT

by Lubor J. Zink

OTTAWA — One of the difficulties of commenting on the socio-economic currents and undercurrents that produce news headlines is the growing gap between once clearly understood terms and the medley of adulterated concepts or meanings they now convey.

I want to utilize the temporary calm on Parliament Hill for saying a few words about the confusion which seems to exist in the minds of many people with regard to political and economic terminology.

I have found from readers' reaction to my columns that quite frequently no distinction or, in my opinion, incorrect distinction is made between such household terms as Socialism, Communism, planned economy and totalitarianism on the one hand, and capitalism, democracy, free enterprise and freedom in all its aspects on the other.

The most common error made, it seems to me, is the description of the Soviet social system as Communism and of our system as capitalism. Both the systems that today pass under these labels have little in common with their theoretical origins and their initial practical forms. Today they both are advanced forms of industrial management, of which the Westtern, with its precious freedoms and extensive welfare schemes, is much closer to what most people understand under socialism, than the Soviet version.

By industrial management I mean the system in which ownership of the means of production has been divorced from their management. This is how all our big corporations are being run, and this is how the whole Soviet economy, which is one giant state monopoly (i.e. state capitalism), operates.

In both cases the managers, who are well trained administrators and technicians, are highly paid employees of anonymous owners. Thus there is, in our system, little left of true private enterprise, and in the Soviet system there is nothing left of the Communist theoretical concept of workers' ownership and management of the means of production.

Where these two technical and administratively parallel systems radically differ is in their motivation and social function. In our case the basic motive power is the prospect of material betterment of the individual, i.e. financial profit. In the Soviet case the motive power is the individual's absolute dependency on and fear of the all-powerful party state.

The reason for the failure of our system to take care of many social and individual needs is that it caters only to effective, which means money-backed, demand. In other words, being operated for profit, our economy tends to disregard all the needs that cannot produce effective demand. The gap is partly filled by public services and welfare schemes, but the fact remains that if left to its own devices, the market economy would fall far short of fulfilling its social function.

So much for the apparently widespread misunderstanding of the terms capitalism, Communism and free enterprise. The confusion in the use of the term Socialism stems from a historical split of a movement shaped by egalitarian philosophy into revolutionary and evolutionary factions.

The revolutionary socialists, or Marxists, who fathered Communism and the Soviet system, maintain that modern social and economic problems can be solved only through what they call the dictatorship of the proletariat. They are committed to the total destruction of political democracy.

The evolutionary socialists, or reformists, advocate economic and social changes within the political structure of democracy. This is an important distinction. In some Western countries the reform-seeking socialists, who usually call themselves social democrats, are among the staunchest opponents of totalitarian Communism.

They are, however, also a favorite and vulnerable target of Communist infiltration and can, in certain circumstances, become unwitting partners in the Communist scheme of parliamentary democracy through a cunning misuse of parliamentary methods.

As for economic planning, which is mistakenly regarded by some businessmen as a slippery Socialist path to Communism, it should be obvious

In some Western countries the reform-seeking socialists, who usually call themselves social democrats, are among the staunchest opponents of totalitarian Communism.

They are, however, also a favorite and vulnerable target of Communist infiltration and can, in certain circumstances, become unwitting partners in the Communist scheme of parliamentary democracy through a cunning misuse of parliamentary methods.

As for economic planning, which is mistakenly regarded by some businessmen as a slippery Socialist path to Communism, it should be obvious

IN A ROW — Trucker have ceased hauling asphalt for Highway 7 in order to obtain a price increase demand. The 32 trucks are being paid $1.25 per ton of asphalt and would like this amount to be boosted to $1.60 per ton as prescribed by the provincial transport department. (Record photo by Studio Eclair)

Truckers halt road work over rate dispute

PHILIPSBURG — More than 30 truckers stopped work early this week over a rate disagreement. The truckers engaged in the hauling of asphalt for the construction of a road near here are being paid $1.25 per ton and would like this amount to be boosted to $1.60 per ton as prescribed by the provincial transport department.

The truckers have been working on the construction of route 7 for two years. During that time the general contractor, P. Baillargeon Ltd., has paid the prices for hauling goods according to the rate schedule of the Provincial department of transport.

However, for hauling asphalt for the road the firm has not been paying the correct prices, the truckers claim. The contractor's latest offer of $1.35 per ton of asphalt has been refused by the truckers.

The contractor's own trucks did not walk out but kept on hauling the required goods. The trucks carry about 15 tons at a time. This would mean they are presently earning $18.75 per load. They are being offered $22.25 per load but they would like to have $24. per load.

World trade prospect bright as tariff slashes imminent

A long struggle to expand world trade through a dramatic slash in tariffs enters its final stage with the prospect of success brighter now than at any time in the last four years. One of the major barriers was the slowness of the European Common Market to reach full agreement on the kind of proposals it was prepared to make in the Kennedy round of world tariff bargaining.

That barrier now has been overcome. The six-country trade bloc has produced not only a fairly comprehensive package of products on which it is prepared to trade tariff cuts but also has given its central commission the power to start bargaining. The full extent of that power has not been disclosed. Negotiators don't give away negotiating positions before they extract every possible concession from the other side. The final stage of the bargaining will see some stiff horse-trading. The final outcome cannot be assured although there would appear to be strong grounds for optimism.

Truck fire

COWANSVILLE — (Staff) — The Fire Department here has released details about a truck that caught fire Monday evening at the corner of River and South Streets here. A truck owned by Marquis Tire Shop of Sherbrooke loaded with 200 tires caught fire because of what fire department officials now believe was a short circuit in the electrical wiring of the truck. Damage is estimated at $1,500. It was learned from a report made by Deputy Fire Chief Richard Charbonneau who answered the call of Georges LaRoque, a Cowansville resident. He was assisted by 20 volunteer firemen.

The one major event that Kennedy did not foresee at the time was that Britain would be barred from the European trade group. Nevertheless the American negotiators, under former state secretary Christian Herter, persisted. They could have negotiated with Britain, Canada and other countries and tried to ignore the Common Market entirely. But this would have achieved only a fragment of the Kennedy ideal of enhancing cross-Atlantic relationships. They could have worked out a deal with the Common Market on a less controversial package containing only industrial products. This would not have been of much help to U.S. farmers and would have increased political problems for the American administration.

MADE IT POSSIBLE Conceived by the late president Kennedy, the Geneva tariff bargaining session was made possible by power given the U.S. president to cut American tariffs by 50 per cent providing similar concessions are offered by other countries. Kennedy aimed his plan at the Common Market, since this biggest single marketing unit in the Western world outside the U.S. seemed to be moving behind a high tariff wall which the Americans would find hard to penetrate.

Dust is sometimes too expensive

The fine coating of dust found on cellar-aged vintage wine bottles often is proof of the excellence of the wine inside. However, not everyone can afford the luxury of a vintage wine every day. Even a wine connoisseur saves his best bottles of vintage wine for very special occasions.

Therefore, for those who want to enjoy wine every day, Paarl imports delightful yet inexpensive wines in bottles from the sunny vineyards of South Africa.

For example: Paarl Roodeberg, a full-bodied red wine, and Paarl Riesling, a dry, white wine with a delicate bouquet. Next time try these two excellent, modestly-priced wines.

Rhodesia's multi-racial college closed down after staff arrests

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (Reuters) — Rhodesia's multi-racial University College was closed by its acting principal Wednesday after police arrested nine white teachers—one of them a Canadian—and 10 students.

The closure announcement, pinned on a college notice board, said Acting Principal Alan Milton had decided to close the college a month before the end of the current term because the arrests had depleted the teaching staff and disrupted college discipline.

The detained lecturers were identified by the college as Gerald L. Caplan, a Canadian in the history department; Ian Henderson, C. R. Hill, C. R. Whittaker and Elizabeth Joyce, all British; Dr. I. van Velsen, a Dutchman; Alex Sommerfelt, a Norwegian; G. Marriahi, an Italian, and T. R. C. Curtin, a British-born Rhodesian.

(Caplan, 28, is from Toronto. He graduated in 1960 from the University of Toronto and went to Rhodesia as an assistant lecturer while completing his work toward a doctorate of philosophy in African history.)

In Parliament Wednesday Desmond Lardner-Burke, minister of justice, law and order, said the nine white lecturers and one Asian student had been placed under detention in connection with recent campus incidents.

Nine other students, three of whom were white, were restricted for one year, he said. Of those restricted, five Negroes were sent to the remote Gonakudzingwa restriction area where many Rhodesian Negro nationalist leaders are being detained.

The police crackdown followed months of campus disturbances and demonstrations. Lardner-Burke described the college protest activities, and especially clashes at a July 16 graduation ceremony, as disgraceful. In the July 16 disturbances, police and white students clashed with 50 Negro students. This led to suspension by college authorities Tuesday of 31 students.

The government was aware of clandestine activities of people connected with the university who had been associated with banned organizations or had strong Communist leanings.

At the root of the University College upheavals are divisions over Rhodesia's unilateral declaration of independence from Britain last Nov. 11.

PREPARED VIOLENCE

Lardner-Burke told Parliament he had evidence that preparations recently were made at the college for "the commencement of violence" against students who refused to fall in line with a dissident group.

City-bred nurse takes charge of wilderness hospital

VANCOUVER (CP) — Sybil Johnson is in charge of a hospital in "wild and wonderful country" where people are scarce, wildlife abundant and the winds howl with hurricane force.

When the city-bred nurse asks her patients where they have come from, she must be prepared for a story of hours or days of travel by boat, plane, foot or canoe.

It is a place where nursing may be done by flashlight while wolves howl and grizzly bears scramble for berries nearby.

Mrs. Johnson is in charge of the Red Cross outpost hospital at Wadhams, in Rivers Inlet, 70 miles from Bella Bella, B.C. a community 220 miles north-west of Vancouver.

She says she went there out of curiosity, a sense of adventure and an appreciation of the scenic grandeur of the north. The hospital serves loggers, fishermen and Indians.

"The people around there have lived without help for so long that they are capable of taking care of themselves. But if something turns out to be a wee bit challenging they come to me or they fly out to Bella Bella."

In the summer time there are about 500 persons living near the hospital. In the winter there is no one.

Mrs. Johnson lives at Wadhams with her husband and 18-year-old son, Jess.

"The station itself is a terrific setup for the wilderness. We get our heat from oil stoves and our electricity from a diesel plant."

Wardrobe Treasure

For a wonderful knit that can make any dress a costume, why not invest in a beautifully trimmed jacket-sweater? Deep, soft lambs-wool, angora and rabbit hair, with the addition of bound edging in satin or ribbon, will make this a treasure in any wardrobe.

Continue grilling, brushing with the ketchup mixture and turning frequently, until done so that leg twists easily in the thigh joint and pieces of chicken are fork tender. Allow from 40 minutes to one hour of total grilling, depending on weight of chicken and distance from heat. Makes 6 servings.

NOTE: Broiler halves may be spit grilled rather than cooked flat on the grill if desired. (T.N.S.)

JUICY BARBECUED CHICKEN

There are hundreds of recipes for barbecued chicken—but you'll like the one below. It's easy and very effective. Monosodium glutamate enlivens the flavor, as it also does with the potato salad below.

- 3 broiler-fryer chickens, halved
1½ to 2 teaspoons monosodium glutamate
Salt and pepper
¼ cup butter
¼ cup tomato ketchup
¼ cup lemon juice
2 tablespoons soy sauce
½ teaspoon tabasco sauce
- Sprinkle each chicken half with about a sixth of the monosodium glutamate. Season with salt and pepper.
- Melt butter in a saucepan and stir in remaining ingredients. Bring to boil.
- Place chicken, skin side up, on greased grids of barbecue. Place over burned-down coals and brush with butter or salad oil. Grill for about 20 minutes, turning often and brushing with butter or oil when chicken is turned.

Eskimo family medical pack cuts by half infant mortality rate

OTTAWA (CP) — Eskimo babies are pretty much like other Canadians except that more of them die. One Eskimo infant in 10 dies before it's a Canadian average.

But five years ago the death rate for Eskimo infants was one in five. One reason it's been cut by half is the Eskimo family medical pack, put out by the year old. That's 3½ times the department of national health and welfare.

About 500 of the packs have been given out by northern nurses to families setting out on the traditional hunting and fishing expeditions. The kits contain medicines and bandages and instructions in Eskimo syllabics and English.

Eskimos in the Northwest Territories and Arctic islands now are using the packs, but the idea began along the west coast of Hudson Bay, says Dr. R. A. Armstrong, senior treatment officer in the medical services division.

"It's very sparsely settled and communications are sometimes not very good. A family going out for weeks or months would be impossible to locate in an emergency, and a sick person could die before he reached medical help. The nearest settlement might be several days' journey by dog team."

The death toll is especially heavy among infants. "This is true among most primitive people, but the Eskimos have a particularly impossible climate on top of it. It's an area where there's an awful lot of nothing."

The climate gave the medical pack's designers the kind of headache they couldn't cure with their pills for "pain in the teeth, head or ears."

The problem is that every-thing freezes. "You can't raise the temperature in an igloo to more than 31 degrees or you don't have an igloo any more."

Freezing shatters some plastics, and lots of medicines come in plastic containers. A tough plastic had to be found.

Babies can't swallow pills but liquid medicines turn into ice cubes in the Arctic. A liquid antibiotic that didn't curdle, lose its strength or taste awful after repeated freezing and thawing was located. It has to be thawed between the hands before it is administered from its squeeze bottle.

As explained in the instruction booklet, the pack contains ointments for "eye sickness" and "skin sickness."

The eye sickness may be an irritation brought on by the glare of brilliant sun on snow, harsh winds or driving snow and ice.

"The skin sickness is usually impetigo. There's no hot water tap to turn on for a bath or a wash, so they get dirty, they scratch and blisters develop."

Even though washing isn't the order of the day, the medical pack has a bar of soap for cleaning injured areas and the hands of the amateur nurses, who sometimes appear in the role of midwife.

CONFIDENTIALLY YOURS

MONTREAL, July 21st — Going on a trip? For the valuables you leave behind, here are some burglar-proof tips I picked up from THE BANK OF NOVA SCOTIA . . .

1. Tell the police you're going away.
2. Don't lower all the window shades in your home.
3. Leave a light on.
4. Cancel regular milk, bread, newspaper and mail deliveries.
5. Keep the lawn cut.

and, above all . . . Protect your valuables by putting them in a Scotiabank Safety Deposit Box. Even if you're not away, it's not wise to leave valuable papers and irreplaceable keepsakes lying around your home. In a Scotiabank Safety Deposit Box they are secure, safe from loss by fire or theft and they can be located easily when you want them.

Escaped prisoner object of intense police search

MONTREAL (CP) — Quebec Provincial Police have set up roadblocks on highways in the eastern part of the province in hopes of capturing Andre Daoust, 24, who has broken out of custody twice in the last two months and is described by police as "terribly dangerous."

Daoust, who escaped from guards here in June, broke out of Gloucester County jail in Bathurst, N.B. Saturday after loosening a water pipe from his cell and slugging his jailer with it. He is believed armed.

He had been arrested by RCMP in a hotel in Bathurst on a charge of possessing a loaded revolver while under the alias, Roger Miron of Sherbrooke.

Boat missing

BAIE-COMEAU, Que. (CP) — A sea and air search is under way for two men reported missing Wednesday aboard a 24-foot boat out of this community, 225 miles northeast of Quebec City.

The men, both from Baie-Comeau, were identified by police as Leonard Julien, 36, a businessman, and Bernard Fournier, 36, a city employee.

The air-sea rescue centre in Halifax said the men left Baie-Comeau in the boat on a short trip Monday and had been scheduled to return later in the day.

An RCAF Albatross from the Greenwood, N.S., air station joined a Quebec provincial aircraft, an RCMP cutter and a local boat in the search Wednesday and a spokesman said more aircraft will search today.

Probe deaths

MONTREAL (CP) — Police said today they are waiting for full autopsy reports on two women who are thought to have died after consuming "certain poisonous substances."

But a spokesman said they do not believe the deaths are linked.

Dr. Jean-Paul Valcourt, Montreal Medical-Legal Institute pathologist, said it could not be ruled out that some poisonous product had led to the death of Mrs. Jacqueline Beaudry, 38, late Tuesday.

Toxic traces were also found in the body of Mrs. Roland Emond, 37, who was found dead Sunday.

Both women lived in the same east-end district of the city.

THE MARKET TODAY

(Greenshields Ltd.)

Steel production in Canada has shown strength in the current month in sharp contrast to the experience of its counterpart in the U.S. where output has been in a downturn for the last two weeks. In Canada, as a result of three weeks of advance, the operating rate rose to 91.0% in the week ended July 23rd, up from 87.6% the previous week, 83.8% two weeks ago, to reach the best level attained since mid-June.

Shell Canada Ltd. reports net profit for the first six months of 1966 of $22,590,071 or 68¢ per share. A common share up sharply from $15,508,948 or 47¢ per share for 1965. Gross revenue totalled $336,240,985 versus $298,968,717. The higher earnings reflect increased volumes of refined product and sulphur sales, improved price levels for motor gasoline and sulphur and increases in crude oil and natural gas liquids production.

As a result of increased sales of natural gas in B.C. and the U.S. Pacific Northwest, Westcoast Transmission Co. Ltd. will show earnings of approximately $1 per share for the current fiscal year ending March 31-67. (In the year ended March 31-66 net profit was $2,293,268 or 34¢ a share). The company will commence dividend payments this year.

Little influence

QUEBEC (CP) — Abbe Gerard Dion, professor of industrial relations at Laval University, says he doubts that intervention by Quebec's Roman Catholic clergy had much influence on the outcome of the June 5 provincial general election.

He makes the statement in an article in Perspectives Sociales, a pastoral bulletin published Wednesday.

"For a long time in Quebec, people have been holding the clergy responsible for everything that goes wrong," Abbe Dion said in the article.

Sons seen on screen

BERLIN (AP) — The two teenage sons of Willy Brandt, West Berlin's mayor, have gone to Gdansk, Poland, to star in the movie of Guenter Grass's novel Cat and Mouse. Lars, 14, and Peter, 18, were picked by Grass, who said he wanted youngsters known in West Germany to play the leading roles.

NEGOTIATIONS

of Service's stand for a one-year contract came after Premier Daniel Johnson said in Quebec that an emergency session of the Quebec legislature might be called if the 13-day-old strike was not settled soon.

The counter proposal includes provision for a 24-month contract with a $7 a week raise the first year and a $6 a week raise the second year. The non-medical employees, who include kitchen and housekeeping help and ward orderlies, now average less than $69 a week.

The latest proposal by the government, presented early Wednesday, provided for a $10 a week raise, spread across 30 months. Premier Johnson said the proposal would have cost an additional $80,600,000 a year.

The federation said it was inadequate.

Canucks meet Als again, third time in one week

Little League Senators third; John Hanson defeats Yanks 5-4

An 8-7 win over the Orioles just about settled the Senators in third position of the Sherbrooke Little League last night at the Parade Grounds. In the other game played, the Twins won a close 5-4 decision over the Yankees.

Tonight, the Tigers are playing the Twins, while the Indians meet the White Sox, both games being at the Parade Grounds. Alain Chamberlain, pitching for the Orioles, issued 14 walks and struck out 11 men for the loss, while Jean-Pierre Robitaille, allowed only six hits and sent 11 men down by the strike-out route.

Four bases on balls set up the first Senator run, with two more being added in the second on hits by Robitaille, Hal-lee, and Fortier.

Senators made an 8-4 contest out of the ball game by the top of the sixth and final inning, but the Orioles were not out of the picture yet. Three runs crossed the plate for the Orioles on two errors and a hit by Andre Patry. Robitaille put the final man out at the plate with three strikes and ended an threat.

HANSON HOLDS YANKS TO THREE HITS

John Hanson, Twins hurler, held the Lennoxville Yankees to three hits last night in gaining the 5-4 victory. The young pitcher last week had a no-hitter, the third of the season in the league.

Dave Turnbull had a home run and Ross has two singles against the Yankees, while the visiting hitters were Hartwell, Warner and Annesley.

Senators 122 102 8 3 2
Orioles 001 123 7 6 3

Coaticook Canadiens, fresh from a 5-4 victory over Plessisville Braves and another climb out of the Provincial League cellar last night, are heading for the Sherbrooke Municipal Stadium this evening for the third meeting with the Sherbrooke Alouettes within a week.

The Als, presently holding the first position over the other eight clubs in the Yvon Ellyson enterprise, defeated Coaticook Tuesday 3-2 and both teams share the spoils in the series.

Granby and Acton Vale, hot on the heels of the Als in the standing, only hold a half-game spread over third place Quebec.

Games other than the Sherbrooke meeting in the Provincial League include Acton Vale at Drummondville and Quebec Indians at Thetford.

ANOTHER PLAYER ON ALOUETTE ROSTER??

Another player from the United States will apparently be at the Municipal Stadium this evening for a tryout with the Alouettes.

Further information regarding this player was not released by the management this morning. Paul Molloy, GM of the Als, told The Record in a telephone conversation that the player "can fill any infield position."

When asked where he came from, the GM replied: "I don't know."

Molloy answered an inquiry as to the position and person he would replace on the team, if signed, saying: "We will try him out before tonight's game, and if there is anything promising, Coach Andy Pratte will take the decision about signing him. It's all up to the coach."

Baseball fans at the stadium this evening will have a chance on a stereo combination that will be drawn this evening. Tickets have been sold throughout the stadium during recent games on this stereo.

Relief for the pitchers in duel gives the Dodgers a 2-1 comfort

Sandy Koufax has given his aching left arm an 11-inning acid test . . . and proved that Los Angeles Dodgers can win without him.

The Dodgers are within a whisker of the National League lead after Koufax' long rest pitching ordeal of the season, but all the matchless south paw has to show for it are two more strikeout standards and a no-decision.

And Jim Bunning of Philadelphia Phillies knows just how Sandy feels.

Bunning and Koufax gave way to relief pitchers after a brilliant 11-inning duel Wednesday night and the Dodgers immediately pushed over an unearned run in the 12th for a 2-1 victory that stretched their winning string to six and put them one-half game behind first place Pittsburgh Pirates in the NL race.

The Pirates climbed back into the top spot with a 5-3 victory over San Francisco Giants, dropping the Giants into second place.

Phil Regan, who pitched the 12th, gained his eighth victory against a one setback.

JOHNSON BROKE TIE

Neither was Bunning involved in the decision, despite a six-hit, 12-strikeout performance. He was in the clubhouse when Lou Johnson's pinch hit single scored the winning run against reliever Darold Knowles in the 12th.

Elsewhere, St. Louis Cardinals and New York Mets continued to roll, the Cardinals downing Atlanta Braves 9-7 for their ninth victory in the last 10 games and the Mets edging Houston Astros 3-2 for a 10-2 mark over their last 13 Cincinnati Reds battered Chicago Cubs 11-2 in the other NL game.

Jim Davenport, San Francisco's usually slick fielding third baseman, committed two errors in the ninth, helping the Pirates score twice and regain the league lead by two percentage points.

Bill Mazeroski singled one run in and May Mota delivered the other with a sacrifice fly after Davenport threw wildly on Donn Clendenon's bunt single and then bobbled Jim Pagliaroni's sacrifice bunt.

Bob Friend combined with reliever Jack Hamilton for a six-hitter and gained his fourth victory in five decisions with New York as the Mets beat the Astros and moved into a tie with Atlanta for eighth place. Ken Boyer's two-run homer paced the Mets' attack.

Valentine walloped a grand slam homer and a double Wednesday night, driving in five runs as Washington Senators whipped California 7-5.

His slugging was hardly unexpected by the Angels. Like a persistent beau, he's been pestering them all season, Valentine, batting .278 over-all, is hitting .321 against California.

LOVES ANGELS

The husky Senators outfielder has had 25 hits in 48 swings against the Angels this season. He has driven in 38 runs, 20 of them against California.

He tagged his 10th home run of the season in the third inning against rookie Clyde Wright following bunt singles by Ed Brinkman and Ken McMullen and a fielder's choice which loaded the bases.

In the sixth, his loop double scored McMullen, who had singled. Brinkman had four hits for the Senators and Barry Moore won his second major league game in as many starts.

Elsewhere, New York Yankees downed Minnesota Twins 6-3, Chicago White Sox blanked

ET CHAMPIONSHIP IN DRUMMONDVILLE

The Eastern Townships Championships will be playing next week in Drummondville on August 3 and 4.

Mrs. R. Newman, present ET champ, will defend her title which she won in Granby last year at the Granby-St. Paul course. Team trophies, junior and senior championship rounds and a medal round of 36 holes is played on two consecutive days in what the Eastern Townships ladies championship involves.

All clubs are asked to cooperate with the Executive of the CLGU ET branch, and have players' names in to the Tournament Manager for the draw.

Playing schedule is changed in O'Keefe Pro-Am at Granby

A record total of 766 golfers, one of the largest registrations ever received for a golf tournament in the Province of Quebec, has forced tournament officials to change the playing schedule for this weekend's O'Keefe Pro-Amateur competition at Granby-St. Paul Golf Club.

Major change announced has class C men's competitions from the rescheduling of the Saturday morning to Friday afternoon, starting at 1:00 p.m.

Other sections of the three day tournament will be held as scheduled originally, but at earlier starting times: ladies competitions from 8:30 a.m., Friday; class B men from 7:00 a.m., on Saturday; and the class A men from 7:00 a.m. on Sunday, followed by the pros at 12:22 p.m.

According to Yvon Bonin, O'Keefe Sales Promotion Manager, the 766 registrations, 84 ladies, 184 class A men, 304 class B men, 108 class C men and 86 professionals, sets a new record for tournament participation in Quebec and made the changes necessary in order to accommodate everyone wishing to play.

Said Bonin, "We have tried to keep the changes to a minimum in order to inconvenience the least number of persons possible, and hope that everyone originally registered will be able to take part at the new scheduled times."

Outstanding competitive golf should be in store for fans intending to follow Sunday's pro match. Bonin adds, pointing out that the record registration includes all of the Quebec pros who distinguished themselves in last weekend's Quebec Open championship, as well as previous winners of this year's O'Keefe pro matches.

Hottest golfer on the local circuit at the moment is Riche-lieu Valley's Jack Bissegger, who turned in an 11 under par 205 over the championship Pinegrove course, to finish one stroke behind Quebec Open Champion Moe Norman, of Golf Haven, Gifford, Ont.

Seriously challenging Bissegger's supremacy of the local circuit at Granby/St. Paul will be 1965 Quebec Open champion Adrien Bigras, of Rosemere, and the winner of the July 10 O'Keefe pro-amateur competition at Saguenay Country Club, Jean Guy Periard, of Boucherville, both of whom turned in 2 under par 214's in the Quebec Open.

Long considered as Canada's largest provincial golf circuit, the O'Keefe competitions have been enjoying record registrations this year throughout the province. The Granby/St. Paul match will complete seven of this year's ten scheduled matches and brings the total participation to well over 2,500 golfers.

Senators win 7-5

All the sweet talk in the world won't help. Until they are treated more gently, California Angels won't show any affection for Washington's Valentine.

Dan Cupid used a bow and arrow, but gave Fred Valentine a bat and the Angels to hit against and the results are just as devastating.

Valentine walloped a grand slam homer and a double Wednesday night, driving in five runs as Washington Senators whipped California 7-5.

His slugging was hardly unexpected by the Angels. Like a persistent beau, he's been pestering them all season, Valentine, batting .278 over-all, is hitting .321 against California.

Bobby Richardson and Joe Pettibone walloped two-run homers and Horace Clarke drove in two runs with a triple as the Yankees downed the Twins against Jim Kaat 14-7.

Fred Talbot went the distance for his ninth victory.

John Buzhardt pitched his fourth shutout of the season and Tommie Agee drove in four runs with a bases-loaded double and a sacrifice fly for the White Sox. Tom McCraw had three hits, driving in one run and scoring another for Chicago.

EASTERN TOWNSHIPS TRAIL RIDERS CLUB PERMANENT HORSE SHOW TROPHY

THE WORLD OF SPORTS

For Dow plaque Lightning crafts sailing Saturday

Eastern Townships sailors, take note! Grey Styan has a trophy, won last year in a sailboat competition on Little Lake Magog, and it's up for grabs this Saturday afternoon.

Actually, the trophy is awarded each year to sailboat racers who enter an annual contest, sponsored by Dow Brewery of Sherbrooke, for lightning crafts in the Eastern Townships.

The winner of the race each year receives the Dow plaque and then must stake the trophy in a similar competition the following year.

Styan, in an effort to retain the trophy, invites all interested owners of lightning crafts to Belanger Beach on Little Lake Magog Saturday afternoon at 2 p.m. There will be two races, with the better result of the two counting for the race result.

All it takes to release the Styan hold on the Dow trophy is a lightning craft, a crew of two, along with the skip and plenty of determination.

Further information, if desired, may be obtained by contacting Marcel Chateaufort, at 842-2218.

AROUND THE GOLF WORLD with Gene Sarazen

Smothering shots — ones that don't take to the air, but bobble along the ground — are not only ruinous to a score, they are horrible to look at.

There are several causes for smothering. They all result from the clubhead contacting the ball race downward, instead of with the heel parallel to the ground. This nullifies the natural loft of the club and keeps the ball from taking off.

The usual basic cause of a smothered shot is a faulty grip, if the hands are turned too far to the right at address, the clubhead tends to turn into a closed position when the ball is hit. Turn the hands more to the left at address. Remember, the V formed by the thumb and index finger on both hands should point over the right shoulder.

If adjusting the grip doesn't eliminate smothering, perhaps you are playing the ball too far back toward the right foot. This can make the clubhead hit the front of the ball and result in smothering.

Failure to keep the head in a fixed position with relation to the ball sometimes causes smothering.

ETTRC SPONSORS HORSE SHOW

Members of the Eastern Townships Trail Riders Club will present their fourth annual Horse Show at the Sherbrooke Autodrome this Sunday, beginning at 10 a.m.

Twenty-five classes are open for entry, eight of which are Western. These classes will be judged according to the Quebec Horse Show Association regulations, while the remainder of the classes will be judged under Canadian Horse Show Association regulations.

Trophies for winners have been donated by citizens and merchants of Magog. The Grand Champion will receive a perpetual trophy, presented by the ETTRC.

The Eastern Townships Trail Riders' Club was formed in 1952, founded by Albert Viens and Alex Charland, of Magog. Jay Irwin, of Waterloo, and Miles Richeard, of Foster.

Special guests invited by the club to the show are Eastern Townships veterinarians Dr. C. S. Harris, Magog, and Dr. L. A. Gendreau, Sherbrooke.

Tony Lema, R.I.P.

BLACK RIBBONS . . . AND A FUNERAL INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)—The $92,000 Festival open golf tournament starts today with the pros wearing black ribbons in memory of their colleague, Tony Lema, killed in a plane crash last Sunday.

During a pro-amateur affair Wednesday, which Jacky Cupit topped with a six-under-par 66 for a record on the new Speedway course, a memorial to Lema was recorded. At noon, play was halted and The Last Post played on the public address system. Rev. Paul Reichart, Speedway chaplain, gave a brief memorial prayer.

Flags were put at half-staff for the remainder of the meet, which ends Sunday.

Two minutes of silence were observed over the entire course and a flare burst overhead.

A field of 135 teed off today with Billy Casper the favorite. He won the same title in 1962 and is on the crest of a great 1966 season

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—As his home town flew flags at half staff, funeral services were held today for professional golfer Tony Lema, 32, and his wife, Betty, 30.

They were killed with two other persons Sunday in a flaming crash of a private plane on a golf course near Munster, Ind.

Among the 12 pallbearers were fellow pro Ken Venturi of San Francisco and Tommy Jacobs, chairman of the Professional Golfers Association tournament committee.

Eight Roman Catholic priests were to offer mass at St. Elizabeth's Church. Burial was to follow at Holy Sepulchre Mausoleum in nearby Hayward.

Hundreds of persons filed past the two closed coffins Wednesday in San Leandro, Lema's hometown adjacent to Oakland. The city council ordered all flags half staff until after the burial.

CFL exhibitions: rally wins

Toronto Argonauts and Hamilton Tiger-Cats fought from behind Wednesday night to score Canadian Football League exhibition victories against Western Conference opposition.

In Vancouver, Argos' rookie quarterback Wally Gabler overcame fierce rushing and threw a 21-yard touchdown pass to Bobby Taylor with two minutes left in the game to give Toronto a 28-27 win over British Columbia Lions.

In Calgary, the Stampeders were leading the Tiger-Cats 24-20 going into the fourth quarter when a fumble helped Bobby Kutz score a two-yard touchdown. Don Sutherland booted a field goal and Hamilton won 29-24.

The game was costly for the Stampeders. End Herman Harrison suffered a partially torn ligament in his knee and could be lost for three weeks.

Lineman George Hansen suffered a broken rib and could miss the league opener next week. Terry Evanshen picked up a badly bruised ankle and linebacker George Carr a dislocated shoulder.

The victory was the third for the Eastern Conference Tiger-Cats in four exhibition games. British Columbia ended its pre-season schedule with three losses. Both Toronto and Calgary have 22 records.

Gabler's last-minute performance overshadowed three touchdowns scored for B.C. by Bill Munsey, two in the first quarter and one in the third.

Before marching the Argos 85 yards, Gabler had been rushed and pushed back to his own five-yard line with third and 61 yards to go.

The Toronto march started on the 25 after an exchange of punts.

Gabler threw four touchdowns passes, two to Taylor, a former Stampeders, and two to Al Irwin. John Vilunas converted three and Dave Mann booted a 44-yard single.

Tiger-Cats got a 52-yard touchdown from Garney Henley and a one-yard touchdown from Art Baker. Sutherland converted two of the three touchdowns and added two field goals. Tiger-Cats also earned a single and a safety touch.

Stampeders opened scoring quickly when Ted Woods got the opening kickoff and galloped 105 yards to score. Quarterback Eagle Day hit Terry Evanshen on a 29-yard pass-and-run touchdown play. Fullback Lovell Coleman hit Gerry Shaw on a 10-yard strike. Larry Robinson converted all three touchdowns and added a field goal.

Now their reputation is more solid and glory is piled atop glory.

The No-Stars defeated the Lennoxville All-Stars 6-5 after trailing 5-4 at the bottom of the fifth inning. Two runs were scored in the sixth for the No's while the All-Stars were held scoreless after their final three in the fifth.

The Lennoxville All-Stars were formed from players of other teams in the league, and offered the competition to the Record to replace a cancelled game.

Tonight, weather permitting, the Truckers will host Moe's River.
