The flow reached a climax in March of 1,600 a day but dropped to only 300 to 400 a week for some time after the communist regime in June promised a better life and more freedom for the East Germans.

Margate, England —(Reuters)—The British Labor party today denounced the new defence pact between the United States and Spain as a blow to "the community of nations united in defence of freedom and democracy."

Victoria —(CP)— British Columbia may soon have cocktail lounges in its better hotels but they won't be the dark, dimly lighted "exotic" bars found in some parts.

A completely revamped liquor act emobdying these and other provisions was introduced by the Social Credit government in the legislature Wednesday. It will give the province drinking privileges forbidden since 1917.

Picket Lines Are Formed As Costly Work Stoppage Starts On US Waterfront

Shipping Tied Up On East Coast From Maine To Virginia.

New York — (AP) — Striking longshoremen set up picket lines on New York City's vast waterfront today as a costly work stoppage got under way from Portland, Me., to Hampton Roads, Va.

The unusual dockside quiet was punctuated by epithets shouted by rival union groups as the 8 a.m. "shape-up" passed without a man volunteering.

The strike over a wage contract was called by the International Longshoremen's Association, recently ousted by the American Federation of Labor for failure to rid itself of racketeering elements. Efforts of the AFL to bring the discredited ILA members into a new union inspired fears of possible violence.

Police moved in when members of local 895 which has affiliated with the newly-formed AFL-ILA union tried to hand out leaflets urging membership in the new group to ILA pickets circling the Grace Line pier 25.

Separated by the police, the two groups contented themselves by taunting each other.

Tension eased somewhat, however, with the appearance of John Dwyer, former insurgent ILA leader and now a leader in the new group.

Asserting that his men "have no intention of crossing the picket line," Dwyer said they would respect the "no contract, no work" tradition.

President Eisenhower said Wednesday his labor department is studying use of the Taft-Hartley injunction to nip the strike of some 60,000 longshoremen and provide an 80-day cooling off period. A White House announcement on the situation was expected today.

Wednesday night the vast New York waterfront was a beehive of activity. Lonkshoremen worked at fever pitch to get several dozen ships loaded and out of the world's largest port before the strike deadline of midnight.

Cargo for American armed forces abroad will not be affected.

A strike along the United States north Atlantic seaboard means an estimated loss of 1,500,000 daily, and directly and indirectly will affect 800,000 workers holding jobs in the New York area alone.

In 1951, a wildcat ILA strike crippled shipping for 25 days and tied up billions of dollars worth of cargo.

The new walkout involves 12 eastern seaboard cities — New York, Portland, Boston, Providence, R.I., New London, New Haven and Bridgeport, Conn., Wilmington, Del., Philadelphia and Chester, Pa., Baltimore and Hampton Roads.

Patrick J. Connolly, ILA executive vice-president, said ILA locals in southern Atlantic ports from Cape Hatteras to Tampa, Fla., had pledged not to unload any cargoes diverted from the struck northern ports.

However, Halifax longshore officials said cargoes would be handled as required by their contract.

The ILA stood on its demand for a 13-cent an hour wage-welfare boost. The association offered 8½ cents. The current basic longshore wage is $2.27 an hour.

Tugboat operators in New York said they would respect ILA picket lines.

The AFL, avowedly out to break the old ILA, indicated it would make no attempt to cross picket lines of the independent union.

But the inter-union rivalry has struck sparks leading to a flare-up of strife within the old ILA itself. Several locals already have announced they will switch to the AFL union.

The midnight strike deadline was observed in all the affected ports except Boston, were longshoremen were scheduled to vote today on taking part in the walkout. No ships were reported in Boston harbor as of early today.

The liners Liberte and Constitution docked at their New York piers today without tugboats.

The 51,840-ton Liberte eased its 936-foot length into its berth, guided by one of its motor lifeboats. The Constitution, 29,500 tons and 683 feet in length, was aided into its slip by two shore-based motor launches.

Passengers and crew prepared to carry their own luggage. Heavy cargo could not be brought ashore.

Strikers At Hollinger May Return

Toronto — (CP) — The 1,600 strikers at Hollinger gold mines at Timmins are scheduled to meet tonight to consider two proposals — one from the labor department that they return to work and submit their contract dispute to conciliation and another from their union leaders that they stay out unless the mining company agrees to arbitration.

A meeting of government leaders and key figures in the mining industry ended here Wednesday with no clear indication of settlement prospects in the walkout, one of a series which has left more than 4,000 men idle in the Porcupine goldfields. Wednesday's talks were described as "purely exploratory."

Labor Minister Daley asked Hollinger workers to return to their jobs, which they left last week without asking for conciliation.

C. H. Millard, Canadian director of the striking United Steelworkers of America (CIO - CCL), issued a proposal which made the return to work at Hollinger conditional upon an undertaking by Hollinger president Jules Timmins to submit the dispute to an arbitrator of national standing. The mine management rejected a similar proposal before the 1,600 Hollinger men walked out last week.

The Hollinger situation will be reviewed at Timmins today by the executive and stewards of Hollinger local 4305 of the steel union. It will also be discussed at a meeting of the local tonight.

Some observers believe Hollinger holds the key to ending the deadlock in the mine strike.

The Hollinger walkout is regarded as illegal because it was started before the union had gone through conciliation processes provided for by Ontario labor law.

It was reported here Wednesday night the provincial government is not inclined to try to mediate the strikes in the other five mines in the Timmins area, some of which started in July, until the union calls off its strike at Hollinger.

Another hope of settlement is thought to lie in negotiations due to start within the next few days between Noranda Mines and striking steel union members at Noranda. A settlement at Noranda could conceivably set a pattern for an agreement in northern Ontario.

At Noranda, as at the other mines the union demand for the checkoff of dues is a major issue, along with those for higher wages and shorter hours.

Abbott Asks U.S. Not To Impose Curbs

Richmond, Va.—(CP)—Hon. Douglas Abbott, Canada's finance minister, today appealed to the United States not to impose any new import curbs against Canadian goods.

The common security of the two countries can best be strengthened "by relaxing rather than renewing restraints on our trade," he said in a speech prepared for delivery before the fifth annual Virginia world trade conference.

Prime Minister St. Laurent, suggested in Montreal last week that the U.S. help remove the threat of communism and depression by reducing its trade barriers and exerting leadership in solving the world's dollar problem.

As a Canadian, I feel that you here in the States should not place new restrictions on the purchases of goods from your best customer," Mr. Abbott said.

"Indeed, in these anxious times it's more than just a matter of business common sense. When your government and mine are considering the claims of some particular group to increase protection, considerations of national security, of maintaining a strong and versatile economy, must weigh heavily.

"I think our common security can be greatly strengthened by maintaining a stable and high level of trade between our two countries and between North America and Western Europe. That can be best achieved by relaxing rather than renewing restraints on our trade."

Mr. Abbott, outlining Canada's trading position, said about one-quarter of Canadian income comes from export trade. One-quarter of her income is spent on imports.

Trade between Canada and the U.S. had become the "biggest two-way trade between two nations anywhere in the world." Canada's U.S. imports were larger than her U.S. sales but there was no call in Canada to ban American merchandise.

"There would be widespread dissatisfaction in Canada at any attempt to restrict artificially the purchase of American goods," Mr. Abbott said. That was not a good way of carrying on business and produced "many inequities and many protests."

Higher tariff duties were usually sought "as a substitute for real competitive endeavor" or showed that resources and men "are being employed in the wrong industry."

CP Directors Deal With Censorship

Seigniory Club, Que.—(CP)—Directors of The Canadian Press Wednesday urged military authorities to make public promptly the names of military personnel killed or injured in civilian areas.

Under present practice such names are withheld until next of kin of those concerned have been advised. The stand taken by directors of the national news co-operative is that this delay imposes unnecessary worry and apprehension on next of kin of all personnel potentially involved and is unwarranted military censorship.

The resolution is which this view was expressed was moved by R. S. Malone of the Winnipeg Free Press, who as assistant director of public relations for 21st army group had charge of Canadian Army public relations in the field during the Second World War, and seconded by John Bassett of the Toronto Telegram, a wartime regimental officer.

In a general discussion of press restrictions, imposed by the services, Mr. Malone said many difficulties can be traced to a change in military regulations. Throughout the war and until 1950 publicity and press matters were a direct responsibility of the cabinet minister concerned. Under present regulations such matters "can be delegated to staff officers in various branches who do not answer to Parliament or public and understandably are prone to see public information only in the light of its effect or reaction on their particular branch."

Directors concluded their two-day semi-annual meeting Wednesday.

At the final session it was announced that the Coronation Medal allotted to The Canadian Press under categories approved by Her Majesty has been awarded to C. A. Day, treasurer, on unanimous recommendation of the executive committee. The recommendation said, "It was agreed that his devotion to the co-operative idea, his understanding of daily newspaper operation across the country and the high regard in which he is held by Canada's newspaper men have enabled him to take an invaluable contribution to the development of The Canadian Press."

U.S. Government Considers McGill's Warning System

New York — (CP) — The radar defences of North America which will give Canada and the United States warning of an enemy bomber attack from the Arctic came into new prominence today with a series of announcements after a long period of secrecy.

At Montreal, it was announced that a project known as the McGill fence has fulfilled its mission to develop an early-warning system. And in New York, the Times says today in a Washington dispatch that the U.S. defence department has the Canadian proposal "under active consideration."

The Western Electric Company reported at the same time that its first experimental units of a new type of radar system designed to give at least six hours' warning of aircraft approaching over the North Pole are nearing completion in the polar region.

Operational details of the McGill fence were not disclosed, but the project director, Professor G. A. Woonton of Montreal's McGill University, indicated announcement of the project could be made because "the Russians have as good a fundamental knowledge in this field as we have."

Profesor Woonton held a press conference at Montreal Wednesday attended by Dr. F. Cyril James, principal and vice-chancellor of McGill, who expressed pleasure that the work carried out at the university's Eaton electronics research laboratory had made "this contribution to the common project."

Professor Woonton said results of "satisfactory" tests of the McGill fence have been turned over to Canada's defence research board for further development and larger-scale trials."

The Times says here that the McGill plan "under study in this country for some time," has "come to the fore as increasing attention is being paid to continental air defences."

"A decision on the efficacy of the McGill project may come sooner than expected as ways to bolster defence against air attack are weighed at the Pentagon," the paper adds.

At Montreal, Professor Woonton said the plan is not in competition with the Lincoln plan, a huge general air defence plan for the U.S. which also involves radar. The Times says the Lincoln plan, operating on limited funds until the results are evaluated, has gone forward in such places as northernmost Greenland.

As projected, the Times says, "the Lincoln line would link the Alaskan installations with those in Greenland" in the neighborhood of Thule U.S. air force base 900 miles from the pole.

The "acknowledged weakness" of the Lincoln line, the Times says "is that once the bombers passed the radar fence there would be no way of tracing their course for several thousand miles."

But the paper describes the McGill fence as a "drastically different approach in radar detection that would move radar detection considerably northward from present screening systems."

The Western Electric announcement said its initial installations are near Barter island, Alaska, about 1,200 miles from the pole, and if the new-type radar is successful the line of installations will be extended from Alaska to Greenland.

Western Electric says its radar apparatus operates automatically, without constant human attention as required by present types, and is not affected by magnetic storms which knock out conventional radar.

Indian Guards Kill P.O.W. Wound Six At Panmunjom

Panmunjom—(AP)—Indian guards killed one anti-communist war prisoner and wounded six others today in breaking up a screaming, rock-throwing demonstration in a compound and hospital in the demilitarized zone, the United Nations command said tonight.

An Indian spokesman acknowledged that there had been a disturbance and said some Indian soldiers were hurt. The spokesman said he could not confirm that one prisoner was killed and six injured.

An Allied spokesman said the demonstration began in a hospital as Polish and Czech members of the repatriation commission made an inspection tour. Both Poland and Cezchoslovakia are Russian satellites.

About 500 anti-communist Korean prisoners in a compound adjacent to the hospital began climbing over the fence and throwing rocks, the spokesman said. He added that Indian troops then moved in and broke up the demonstration with guns and clubs.

"They killed one prisoner and wounded five others," he said.

A sixth prisoner was wounded later, so seriously that he may die, when the demonstration presumably broke out again, he reported.

The UN command refused to say where it obtained its information but the spokesman said the report "is reliable." Information could have come from Allied soldiers delivering supplies to the Indian guards or from one of the neutral observers.

The Allied spokesman said that as far as he knew, no other prisoner compounds took up the demonstration.

The demonstration was the second by anti-communist prisoners within a week. Chinese PoWs seized an Indian major and held him hostage 1½ hours last Friday to protest the return of a Chinese captive to the communists.

The repatriation commission, meanwhile, put the finishing touches on an answer to a UN command portest that it distributed a letter, allegedly communist inspired, to anti-Red PoWs Saturday.

Films Of Tuna Fishing Shown At Boundary Rotary

Derby Line, Oct. 1. — The members of the Rotary Club of the Boundary were entertained by films of tuna fishing at their regular Monday evening meeting, held at the Del Monty Hotel, with the president, Fred Gilman, presiding. The films were supplied and shown by Andy Joyal and Paul Precourt, of Derby Line, and were taken on one of their fishing expeditions.

The pictures were very graphic in the showing of the size of the tuna, and of the difficulty of bringing them in after they had taken the bait. Other scenes in the film showed the landing and weighing of the fish, parts of the boat trip back to Boston, and some fishing scenes on Lake Memphremagog.

The two fishermen were introduced by C. R. MacLean and thanked for their very interesting presentation by Rev. Peter Farrell. Music for the singing was played by Miss Aline Ricard and the singing was led by C. R. MacLean.

Visiting Rotarians present at the meeting were Gerry Miltimore of Sherbrooke, Frank Jenne, Harvey Gardyne, Kenneth Taylor, Dr. L. N. Piette, Jay Carr, and Earl Brown of Newport. Harold Robinson of Waterville, was present as a guest of Mr. Miltimore.

Mrs. Aldrich brought with her an exhibition of some of the work done by the Girl Scouts at Derby Line, and of the work done by Miss Beth Cofran's troup at Derby. This exhibition was greatly admired and highly praised by the various leaders who were present.

Welcome Club At Boundary Will Hold Card Party

Rock Island, Oct. 1. — The Welcome Club met on Thursday evening, September 24, at the club house at Beebe Plain, Vt., with fourteen members attending. Miss Mae Bean, president, was in the chair and reports of the secretary and treasurer were read.

Considerable discussion was given regarding the painting of the book case in the club house. It was generally felt that, as the room is in the 4-H colors, the book case should be varnished, harmonizing with the piano and chairs.

Andrew Cote was named to investigate the prices of fuel wood, and give a report at the next meeting. Plans were made to have a card party at the club house on Friday evening, October 2, starting at 8 o'clock. Arrangements were discussed for the playing of canasta and "500".

At a previous meeting the date of October 24 was set for the Christmas sale and supper to be held at the club house. Everyone agreed on a menu of baked beans and hot casserole dishes.

The president asked for more advisors for the 4-H club work, with two appointments made, namely, Mrs. Hazel Brown and Mrs. Andrew Cote. It is hoped some of the men will volunteer at the next meeting, to be held on Thursday evening, October 8. All members are requested to make a special effort to be present at this meeting as the election of officers for the ensuing year will be held, The roll call is to be answered by suggestions for raising funds for the club.

The meeting adjourned and all enjoyed the lunch served by Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Bean and Mr. and Mrs. Armand Gagnon. The birthday cake for the celebrants of September anniversaries was made and decorated by Mrs. William Jones.

Depressed Textile Situation Forces Layoffs, Short Time At Magog Mill

Magog—Reflecting the crisis now existing in the Canadian textile industry, some 1,200 employees of the printed fabrics division of the local plant of the Dominion Textile Company, Ltd., have been placed on a four-day work-week, effective today, while 35 maintenance men in the mechanical department have also been laid off for an indefinite period.

In the spinning department, some 700 employees will continue to work five days and three days in alternate weeks as they have been doing for several months.

A spokesman for the company declared that the lay-offs and short time were due directly to the depressed conditions in the industry and to lack of orders resulting from the dumping at distress prices of American textiles on the Canadian market.

Every effort was being made to increase sales, he said, but it was impossible to predict when employment conditions would return to anything like normal.

In laying off the maintenance men, the men with the shortest period of service were being released first, he added.

Industrial Mishaps Cost $20,000,000 Last Year, Safety Conference Learns

Industrial accidents in Quebec alone last year cost approximately $20 millions, Paul A. Cooke, of Montreal, general manager of the Industrial Accidents' Prevention Association, of Quebec, last night told the Regional Industrial Safety Conference at the New Sherbrooke Hotel.

At a meeting chaired by D. W. Ward, of Canadian Fairbanks-Morse and attended by more than 100 representatives from many of the firms from Sherbrooke and several from the district, Mr. Cooke said that the number of accidents in Quebec in which workmen's compensation had been received rose from slightly over 85,000 in 1949 to more than 97,000 last year.

While the number of industries, employees and hours of exposure to accidents has been increased considerably, the number of workers injured each year makes the preaching of safety in plants imperative.

"If we have almost $20 millions to spend on our workers," said Mr. Cooke, "are there not better ways of spending it than in having them killed or maimed!"

Mr. Cooke gave the following figures for Sherbrooke in the past three years for the number of industrial accidents. 1950—1,797; 1951—2,017; 1952—2,016.

A questionnaire on accident prevention in industries was filled out by each of the representatives and following that a movie was shown illustrating the correct answers to the quiz.

Seated at the head table were: Alberic Julien, Morrissette Motors; Mr. Cooke, Mr. Ward, D. E. Winslow, Canadian Ingersoll-Rand; George W. Ewing, Melbourne, of J. G. Ewing and Sons, Ltd., Paul Lauzon, Paton Manufacturing Company; Rosaire Houle, Shoe Supplies Manufacturing, Richmond, Al. Sundborg, Canada Paper Company, Windsor Mills; Raoul Blais, Thompson and Alix; F.O. Beatty, local inspector for the Quebec Association, and B.J.V. Hoperaft, Union Screen Plate, Lennoxville.

Children's wear, dresses and coats, and fur coats were featured at the show, during which almost 100 different articles of wearing apparel were modelled.

Mrs. Francis Parker was an excellent commentator, while music during the evening was supplied by Ken Birch at the piano.

Tiny tots and children, followed by the teen-agers occupied the first half of the program and their appearance was followed by an intermission during which door prizes were distributed.

Bilingualism Is A "Must," Florist Tells Inter-Club Meeting Of Kiwanis

"Lincoln once said a nation cannot exist half free and half slave, so we can say that a nation cannot exist half French and half English. For this country we love, and expect so much from in the future, cannot go forward if it is to be continually divided by the language barrier."

Rosario Brule, owner of La-Patrie Florists in Montreal, stressed the above paragraph in his address on "bilingualism is a must" to members of the St. Lawrence Kiwanis Club and the Sherbrooke Club at an inter-club meeting last night at the Hillcrest lodge.

This barrier, if not removed, said Mr. Brule, may mean the curse of sectionalism and racialism will grow and flourish. Split we will be as a nation, and as Canadians we will be weak intellectually, spiritually and materially.

"To conquer this handicap, what we must do is give bilingualism a value in the eyes of the everyday persons who go about the everyday business of living without too many frills or fads" stated the St. Lawrence Club director.

"And probably to take things first, something has to be done—and—soon about present day methods of giving Canadians the opportunity of speaking two languages fluently."

Mr. Brule mentioned that although French is taught in English schools, and English in French schools, "it is not nearly enough."

In recalling his school days, Mr. Brule asked "how many of you became bilingual because of courses given in school? For most of us, it was a chore, an exam to be written and very few found, in such courses, a challenge to become truly bilingual."

"For no matter how well they teach, the few hours of instruction a week allotted to them cannot overcome the hours the students must spend in communities largely indifferent to the cause or meaning of bilingualism."

Continuing, the perfectly bilingual guest speaker said, "in this materialistic age, where children appear to be taught how to chase a buck before they are taught the fundamentals of even their own language — let alone another — it would appear that the classrooms alone will never make Canada bilingual."

The ideal solution to the problem, is to have French and English children grow up with another as they do here, stated Mr. Brule in referring to the "bonne entente" between the two races in Sherbrooke.

"Right here in the queen city of the Eastern Townships, and probably only here, the English and French languages are spoken and understood on practically an interchangeable basis. It is one of the few places in Canada where the ideal of bilingualism has come at all close to realization," added Mr. Brule.

"So much has been written, so much has been said and broadcast about the necessiy for understanding between our two great peoples —and so little accomplished—that it is only right to say there is a human power in this country that asks for only one thing," Mr. Brule said, "and that is art of real friendship, real love, real understanding.

This and only this, will assure us of national unity.

"For once this nation becomes truly bilingual, and only then, will Canada justify the hopes of the fathers of the country who envisaged a nation 'one and indivisible' stretching from the Atlantic to the Pacific," he concluded.

Mr. Brule was introduced by Les Memory and thanked by Newman Hunter.

President Gilbert Rheaume called upon Reg Bishop, chairman of the horse show committee, to give his report. Mr. Bishop in his abbreviated report mentioned that tickets for the Kiwanis-sponsored Provincial Horse Show, October 14-15-15-17, were selling very well.

Mr. Rheaume also thanked Mrs. Reg Bishop who accepted the chairmanship of the reception committee who will look after the invited guests at a special reception following the show.

Bogus Bills Serial No. Is S/D 5236896

Royal Canadian Mounted Police disclosed this morning that several counterfeit $10 Bank of Canada bills had been picked up in Sherbrooke yesterday. The serial number of the fake bills is S/D 5236896.

So far it is believed that this is the only bogus serial number. The tip off is that the latest rash of counterfeit ten's bears the signature "D. Gordon, Deputy Governor."

Police stress that not all the bills bearing Mr. Gordon's signature are counterfeit but, it is believed, a large number of them may be. The banks will take these bills out of circulation and give newer ones in return, provided the bills turned in are legitimate.

If you have reason to doubt the worth of a bill given you, the police advise the following: (1) get a good look at the bearer; (2) followed him if he is on foot; or (3) get his car license number; (4) phone any police department —R.C.M.P. at 2-3020; Municipals at 3-3611; Provincials at 2-4707.

Above all, don't give change on these bills. The government will not take your loss.

Armand Boutin, 61, of 117 Main street, Magog, was discovered dead on Wellington street south early this morning. Death was of natural causes.

Mr. Boutin had been engaged in a short conversation just a few seconds before with Police Constable Hubert Fortier who was on the beat in the vicinity at the time. SPAIN'S HARD BARGAIN

The Spanish Government has driven a hard bargain with the United States in an agreement whereby the latter has been given the right to develop and use naval and air bases on Spanish soil. A total of two hundred million dollars worth of assistance will be given to Spain in the form of defence support assistance — vaguely defined by the press release as "various uses in someway contributing to the development of military strength" — and of actual military assistance. The major purpose of this aid is apparently to modernize the Spanish army, which is now estimated at about thirty divisions. In addition to military aid, Spain will receive an undisclosed amount of economic aid.

In return the United States obtains a twenty-year right to establish new naval aid air bases in Spain and to improve existing ones. The actual number and location of bases in this later category is unspecified in the information supplied from Washington.

The value of bases in Spain is, of course, incalculable. Behind the rampart of the Pyrenees Spain could be a virtual island of impregnability so far as assault by ground troops is concerned. In the light of a possibility of a lightning thrust by the Reds across the Iron Curtain into the area between central Germany and the sea, where natural barriers are not of sufficient importance to slow up appreciably any land operations of modern warfare, the prospect of having Spain with its mountain barrier on the north as a point of retreat for the Allies is most comforting. So, too, the proximity of Spanish bases to the Soviet domains, and the excellent harbors both on the Atlantic and Mediterranean sides is no mean potential advantage. We must also bear in mind that Spain owns the vital Canaries, on the Atlantic approaches.

Reaction from some western powers, especially Great Britain, might be forthcoming, but in the light of the British championing Red China at the UN this should not cause much heart-searching in Washington.

There is no doubt Franco has won more ground in this single diplomatic stroke than has his fellow-dictator, Peron, in Argentina by years of anti-American blustering. Whether Franco's profit is so extensive that an invitation to join NATO will be forthcoming awaits the future and the emergency of the moment.

THE SMALL PRINT

All through the ages, lawyers have been urging their clients never to sign anything without reading it carefully. Just as regularly, clients have been ignoring this sage counsel, which is one of the reasons why lawsuits abound.

Now comes a report from Newfoundland which suggests that lawyers do not always follow their own advice.

When a candidate is called to the bar in that province, one of the formalities is for him to sign a scroll containing an oath of allegiance and other obligations. It was only recently that someone took a careful look at the first clause and discovered the extraordinary promise that Newfoundland's budding barristers have been all unconsciously making:

"I do solemnly promise and swear that I will be faithful and bear true allegiance to Her Majesty Queen Victoria: so help me God."

MOVING TOWARD UNEMPLOYMENT?

(From the Toronto Globe and Mail)

On the grounds that there is a surplus of goods in Canada, the Canadian Congress of Labor has advised all its member-unions to go after a general wage increase. It has advised them, in other words, to make the surplus bigger — and its accompanying unemployment worse. For that surplus, wherever it exists, is the result of unreasonable prices. And those unreasonable prices are the result, in large measure, of unreasonable wage demands.

The CCL argues that goods are piling up because wages have lagged behind productivity. Precisely the opposite is true. Goods are piling up because wages have raced ahead of productivity. In consequence, prices have risen to the point where even highly paid CCL unionists —. steel workers, auto workers and the like — cannot meet them; let alone the rest of the population.

At its Montreal convention, where the wage-drive resolution was passed, the CCL got a textbook example of what happens when prices go beyond reason. It heard that during the last ten months the working force at Toronto's Massey-Harris plant had fallen from 4,500 to 3,000. The same thing is happening at other farm implement factories — and for the same reason — lack of business.

Does this mean that farmers in Canada and elsewhere have all the machinery they need? Not at all. As Massey-Harris workers pointed out during the discussion, there is a great demand for farm implements all over the world. But however much a farmer may need this or that piece of equipment, he can only buy it if the price is right. Mounting stockpiles of farm implements in Canada must be taken as evidence that the price is wrong.

The chief responsibility for that fact rests with the people who work in the farm implement industry and the various other industries — such as wood and steel — which supply it. They have demanded one wage increase after another without giving any corresponding increase in productivity. As a result, the goods they make have been priced out of the market, and they themselves have ben priced out of a job.

This situation is not confined to the farm implement industry. Surpluses of automobiles and electrical appliances are in sight; not because everybody who wants a car or a refrigerator has one, but because a great many of the people who haven't these things cannot pay the price asked for them. In other industries, we have bitter complaints about American competition. But why is it possible for American goods to come in here and undersell our own? Because our own cost too much. And if the CCL has its way, they will cost even more.

Only one delegate to the Montreal convention questioned the wisdom of the wage-drive resolution. With exact truth, he said that whatever pay increases the unions might win would be swallowed up by price increases. "Name one person," he said, "who is better off with his wage increases now than he was ten years ago." But he was angrily shouted down, and accused of serving as a paid spokesman for "big business." Some CCL officials even went out of their way during the convention to berate the non-operating railway unions for announcing that they will seek no wage increase this year — though in fact the "fringe" benefits they see are the same thing as wage increases, and will have the same effect on costs and freight rates.

We do not criticize the 370,000 rank-and-filers of the CCL for pursuing a course that already has put several thousands of them out of work and in time will have that effect on many thousands more. They are being misled. We do criticize those who mislead them — the Burts, the Millards and the rest. If these men do not know what they are doing to Canadian industry, they are completely stupid. And if they do know, they are completely irresponsible. In either case, they are unfit to lead.

STRANGE OTTAWA HUSBANDS

Fort William Times-Journal

Since civil servants have gone on a five-day week and have Saturdays at home, it has been noted at Ottawa that Saturday has become the busiest day of the week. Merchants are discovering that housewives spend more when their husbands are along than when they shopped alone. H'mmm, Ottawa husbands must be different from many of the husbands around these parts.

HARD-EYED PENNY-PINCHERS HEAD FEDERAL AGENCIES NOW

By DOUGLAS LARSEN

NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington — (NEA) — Money is getting cheaper.

When the new administration moved in, the U. S. Treasury was spending $9.73 per thousand to print notes. This seemed expensive to George M. Humphrey, the new secretary, along with a lot of other things the agency was doing. He ordered some economy studies and the results are interesting.

It now costs $8.80 per thousand to print bills, thanks to a cheaper process they discovered. Net saving is $1,450,000 per year.

Then someone raised the question: Why was it necessary for Federal Reserve Banks to send mutilated one-dollar bills to Washington to be burned? They couldn't find a good reason, other than it had always been done that way. Now the banks destroy their own bills and it saves $530,000 per year.

At the Treasury's Bureau of Internal Revenue, the new economy hounds decided it wasn't necessary to require the filing of excise tax returns every month, the quarterly filing would be just as good. They tried it out, with a sample audit to make sure the new system would not inspire abuses. The savings amount to $3,600,000 per year.

William Parsons, Humphrey's administrative aide, has everyone in the Department looking for ways to save money. No saving is too small for him.

Hard-Eyed Penny-Pinchers

Parsons has a counterpart in most of the agencies. The new corps of efficiency experts which the Republicans have brought in are a bunch of hard-eyed penny-pinchers.

James C. Worthy, the Department of Commerce assistant secretary for administration, on loan from Sears Roebuck, is probably the most aggressive of them all. His philosophy on saving a buck goes something like this:

"First you've got to get everybody thinking about ways to save money. Small amounts, too. Then when individuals do come up with economy ideas, see that they get some kind of recognition. In other words, create a kind of economy climate."

Soon after Worthy took his new job, he had to make an official trip to Baltimore, 47 miles away. He asked his secretary to get the $1.55 train ticket for him through regular channels. But he was appalled at the amount of red tape she had to go through.

It aroused his curiosity. The cost of buying one train ticket was $20. Now a plan is about to be installed for a cash account which will cut that expense.

At the Department of Labor, they have set up a cash fund for the use of taxicabs by officials. James Dodson, that agency's money saver, has figured that it's much cheaper to use cabs than maintain a lot of cars. Now only the top man has a car at his disposal, assistant secretaries share one official car, and all other ridings is done in cabs. These savings will add up to many thousands of dollars when the final accounting is ended.

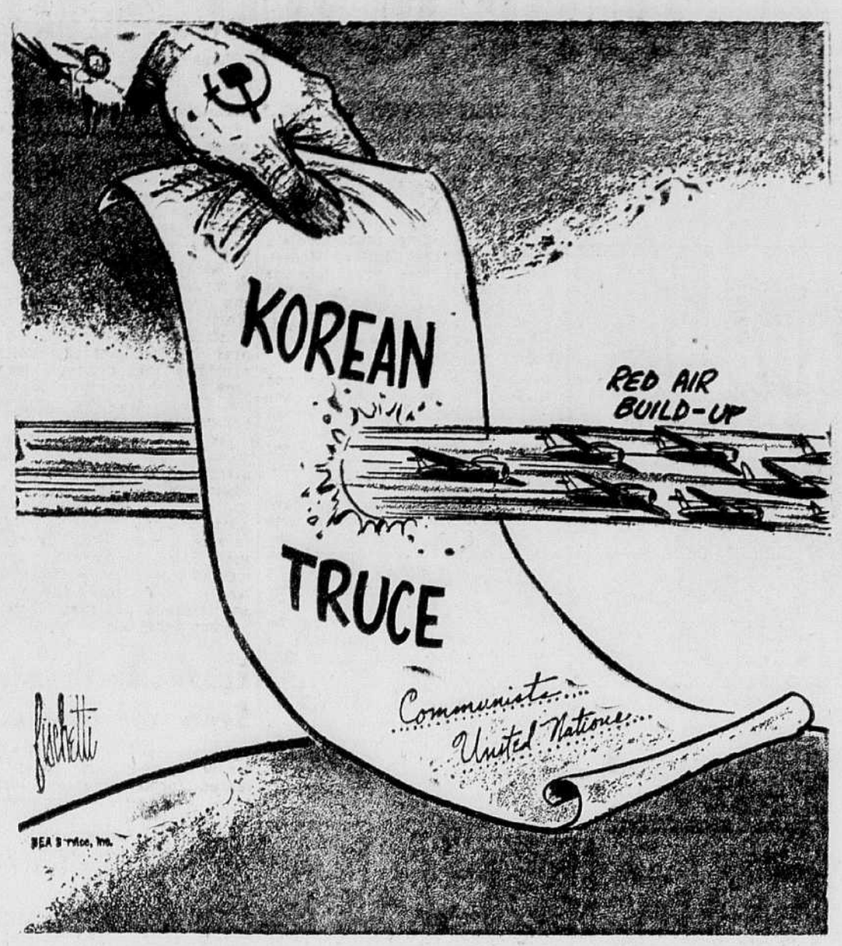

Phone To Save $17,000

At the Department of Labor, they've just installed a dial telephone system which will save an estimated $17,000 per year. Worthy is also doing something about the Department of Commerce fleet of 4693 cars. He claims that's enough automotive power to take every Commerce employee to a Sunday picnic in two shifts.

At first Worthy enjoyed the morning papers and then he discovered it was costing $1059 per year for papers delivered to the secretary's office alone. He put a stop to that. Another item which has come under his axe is $3000 for magazines annually.

All of these cases of big and small savings are just typical examples of what is going on in all of the government agencies. At the end of the year they could add up to hundreds of millions saved, and perhaps make a major contribution to balancing the budget

THROUGH THE SIGNED BARRIER

Uneasy Peace Settles Down Upon Ontario And Quebec Strike Areas

Strikes in the gold-min-ing industry in northern Ontario and Quebec started with violence, but eventually settled down to peaceful picketing. Two charges of attempted murder have been laid and 17 persons jailed for assault. This story-one of a series-describes the fights that flared when the walkouts began.

By JOHN LeBLANC

Canadian Press Staff Writer

Timmins, Ont. (CP) — Strike pickets of the United steelworkers of America quietly patrol gates leading to seven mines here and across the Quebec border at Noranda.

Only one of the companies is working, with a fractional force unimpeded by the pickets.

Earlier, there were gunfire and dynamiting, kidnapping charges, sluggings and allegations of intimidation in this Porcupine gold camp.

Since the snowballing strikes started near here July 11, two union men have been charged with attempted murder; 17 have been jailed for assault, and a half-dozen charged with intimidation.

Virtually all the tough action in the spreading walkouts came as members of the big CIO-CCL union battled company attempts to keep the smallish Broulan Reef mine in operation.

Broulan Reef fought through to stay in production, and now is operating with about one-fourth its 240-man working force on the job daily. Other and bigger idle mines in Ontario and Quebec—the whole group employs more than 5,000—have shut down for the strike duration. Their walkouts were generally peaceful.

Most serious incident came at the Broulan Reef property Sept. 2 as shots were fired between intruders and Ontario provincial police.

Two union men were charged with attempted arson and attempted murder after a running gunfight with police. The men were accused of trying to set fire to the mine's headframe.

One of those charged is Pat Walsh, president of the steel local at McIntyre mines, which was not then on strike but which was tied up later.

An earlier fight at the Broulan property brought 17 men into jail on charges of kidnapping workers trying to get into the shaft. Most of them got 10 days on reduced charges of assault. Four got 30 days and have appealed the sentence.

Another halft-dozen men were charged with intimidation. Blackjacks and a supply of pepper were found in the car, alleged to have been following men headling for work. Given short jail terms, the union men have appealed.

Other occurence are still in the mystery class. One was the dynamiting of the home of a non-union mine foreman, with no one hurt. The other was the blowing up of an electrical transformer in a power station at the Broulan holding. There have been no arrests in either case.

Union officials dont't try to minizine the seriousness of the first three incidents, but they say they are sure no USWA worker had a hand in the home dynamiting or the transformer explosion. They say the transformer, in an enclosure circled by barbed wire, probably blew normal causes.

At all events, an uneasy peace now has come down on the formerly strife-ridden Porcupine field sprawling around this city.

Pickets are still posted at the entrances to all the strikebound mines in the district, scattered over about 35 miles. But production workers move freely into the woods-encircled Broulan Reef property, and office staffs go into the other outfits that are not trying to work.

Both in this district and at the strikebound gold-copper workings at Noranda, pickets are shaking down for the cold weather. Up to now, they've been housed around the clock in tents set up outside the mine gates.

Carpenters are putting in wooden floors and sidings. Stoves are installed. The union's commissary department patrols the lines with fuel and food. Men on the lines are getting set to wait it out while company and union higher-ups wrestle out the issues.

TRAPPY HAND TESTS YOUR IMAGINATION

"What is par on this hand?" asks my friend and critic, C. M. Smith, of Madison, Wis. "Maybe South shouldn't bid it so strongly, but if he does get to three no-trump by some such bidding, what should happen?

"West opens the nine of spades, and in the average game nobody would have a problem. Dummy would play low, and East would win with the king. East would eventually get his two red aces and some sort of fourth trick, but South would make game and rubber with nine tricks.

"If East happened to be very clever, he would play the jack of spades at the first trick instead of winning it with the king. South would win with the queen of spades and go after one of the red suits.

"East would take his first red ace and shoot back the king of spades to dummy's ace. East would get in with his second red ace in time to lead his low spade, whereupon West would set the contract with three spade tricks.

"If South happened to be just as clever as East, he would refuse the first spade trick when East played the jack. South would have to play the hand very carefully from that point on, because he would make only one spade trick, but he would eventually catch East in a complicated squeeze and end-play, forcing him to lead hearts to dummy.

"But if South happened to be really clever, he wouldn't go in for all of this complicated business. He would simply win the first trick in dummy with the ace of spades and go about the business of developing the red suits. He would easily wind up with three club tricks and two tricks in each of the other suits.

"How do you think the hand ought to be played?"

I think declarer should locate all of the high cards quite easily because of the double of one club. Hence he should put up dummy's ace of spades at the first trick to avoid complications.

East should drop the king of spades under dummy's ace and should return the jack of spades when he takes the first red ace. If South makes the mistake of winning the second spade trick with the queen, East will be able to lead his low spade when he eventually gets in with the second red ace—and West will get three spade tricks. But South should refuse the second spade trick and make his contract.

THE MATURE PARENT

CHILD HAS RIGHT TO HIS OWN FEELINGS ABOUT PRUNE WHIP

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Mrs. P.'s younger sister teaches nursery school. She recently annoyed Mrs. P. by criticizing the disapproval she expressed when her three-year-old Buzzie refused to eat his prune whip.

"Buzzie doesn't like prunes, so I went to some trouble to disguise them in a whip," Mrs. P. writes. "My sister didn't think this important at all. She said that it was wrong to show irritation at Buzzie for his refusal to eat the dessert. I think this is overconscientious and 'faddy.' Don't you agree?"

No, I don't. I think we have no more moral right to withdraw approval from Buzzie because he disagrees with us over a certain dessert than the late Adolph Hitler had a right to slap down people who disagreed with him on Aryan supremacy.

Whether we have spent time and effort working over a dessert or a theory of racial superiority, the fact that we have worked over them does not entitle us to force them down the throats of those who feel distaste for them.

So the point of view of Mrs. P.'s sister is not that of a "faddy" young nursery school teacher at all It is the point of view of someone who believes in respect for the convictions of others.

Our relationship with children suffers all kinds of damage when we do not recognize the immemorial principle of tyranny in demands that they exchange their convictions for ours.

There is all the difference in the world between requiring necessary behavior from Buzzie—and forcing him to change his mind in return for our approval. One is protection of Buzzie; the other is mental interference.

It is sometimes necessary to force certain action on Buzzie. He may, for example be convinced that he does not wish to leave the park at suppertime. He may defend his conviction with screams and kicks. Under such circumstances, we may have to carry him home.

But to carry Buzzie home—and to tell him the idea that he's "bad" not to share our point of view are two utterly different forms of control.

We all have to render physical obedience to laws we don't like. Though we are willing to render this external obedience, we don't appreciate anyone who tries to force us to change our convictions.

Certainly we've taken trouble over the prune whip. We'll stop resenting it, though, the minute we remember what other kinds of trouble can result from teaching Buzzie to sell out his convictions for approval.

SHORT STORY

All In Fun

By Richard Hill Wilkinson

There has probably never been a greater hatred than that which existed between Barney Craig and Dan Chester. It all started because of Barney's eagerness to become a member of the local lodge. As one of three candidates he was introduced to Dan at the September meeting. Imbued with the feeling of good fellowship which the brothers always emanated, Barney assumed at once a familiar attitude and took liberties. Jovially, he made a crack about Dan's ears, which protruded from the Chester head horizontally, instead of perpendicularly, as is the case in normal man. The blush which mounted to Dan's checks provoked guffaws of amusement from the delighted Barney.

After the meeting in which Barney's name was voted on, Dan publicly announced that he would have shot any man who had blackballed him. Every one knew what he meant. Barney's initiation would last for two months and would involve a good deal of horseplay. Dan was out for revenge.

And he got it. During the two months of initiation, Barney suffered all the humiliations, indignations and unrestrained paddlings of a college freshman.

When it was over, the night that Barney received the ritual and became a full-fledged brother, Dan grinned at him good-naturedly. "You sure can take it, Brother Craig. Of course it was all in fun."

"Yeah," said Barney. "And now that I'm a full-fledge member I'm as good as you? Is that right?"

"Absolutely, brother," said Dan.

"Good," said Barney, "because for a long time I've wanted to do this." And he hauled off and let Dan have a smart one on the point of his jaw. "All in fun, you know," Barney grinned savagely.

Dan picked himself up and nodded. "O.K., Brother Craig, suppose you and I go outside."

They went outside and removed their coats. Ten minutes later Barney was lying on the ground staring up at Dan through the one eye that he could still open a crack.

"All in fun, Brother Craig. Come around again some time when you feel in a playful mood."

Barney spent most of November and December in a gymnasium. Shortly after the first of the year he encountered Brother Dan again. "Hello, Big Ears," he remarked, "suppose we go outside?"

Dan was willing. They went outside, and nine and one half minutes Barney decided that Dan must have practically slept in a gymnasium.

Barney went home and cursed himself to sleep. He decided that he'd lick Dan Chester if he died trying which by the feeling of his jaw he thought might happen any minute.

Barney hired K.O. McManus to train him. K.O. was pretty rough and Barney suffered a lot, but he acquired knowledge. On the first of March he invited Brother Dan "outside."

The battle lasted 20 minutes this time.

Spring in full bloom when Barney again sent word to Dan to meet him outside. There was quite an audience on hand this time.

The fight lasted 25 minutes. Both participants were pretty groggy. They were swinging wild and without much zip. It began to look like a draw, when suddenly it occured to Barney that for the first time Dan wasn't beating him. The thought gave him a feeling of elation and a burst of energy. He poked a neat one at Dan's chin and it connected. Barney, thrown off balance, too weak to steady himself, fell across his opponent's prostrate form and lay there.

It took an hour to revive the battlers. Barney came to first and looked at Dan thoughtfully. Presently Dan stirred and opened his eyes. He saw Barney and propped himself up on an elbow.

"Well, well, Brother Craig. Congratulations!"

"Thanks," said Barney, and grinned too. "All in fun you know."

"Sure," said Dan, "all in fun." And he extended his hand.

Barney gripped the hand and started to make a crack about Dan's big ears, but changed his mind.

31 Canadians Recipients Of Awards

Ottawa — (CP) — Gallantry in action and plain hard work under trying conditions today won awards for 31 Canadians in the Korean war. A nursing sister is one of the winners.

Citations accompanying the awards, including four Military Crosses and three Military Medals, referred to such operations as mine-clearing, wire-laying, patrol work and artillery spotting in the front line, and to efficient organization work and morale-building behind the lines.

Besides the Military Crosses and Medals, the awards include one Officer of the Order of the British Empire (OBE), one Royal Red Cross, 17 Members of the Order of the British Empire (MBE) and five British Empire Medals.

Canadians in Korea now have won 186 operational awards: one Companion of the Order of the Bath; three Companions of the Order of the British Empire; 14 OBE; six Distinguished Service Orders; one bar to the DSO; 52 MBE; one Royal Red Cross; 28 Military Crosses; one Associate of the Royal Red Cross; seven Distinquished Conduct Medals; one bar to the DCM; one George Medal; 51 Military Medals; and 10 BEM. In addition, Canadians have won six United States awards, including two Legion of Merit and four Air Medals.

Highest honor in today's list goes to Lt.-Col. Edward Amy, DSO, MC, Royal Canadian Armored Corps, of Kentville, N.S., and Edmonton. He wins the OBE for services as general staff officer with 1st Commonwealth Division headquarters.

Col. Amy, 35-year-old native of Newcastle, N.B., won the Military Cross while serving with the Calgary Tank Regiment in Italy during the Second World War. He later commanded the Canadian Grenadiers Guards in Northwest Europe at the age of 26 and won the Distinguished Service Order.

Lieut. Nursing Sister Josephine MacDonald of Meota, Sask., who joined the medical corps in 1945, is awarded the Royal Red Cross (2nd class) for outstanding work as sister in charge of the Canadian ward at the Commonwealth general hospital at Kure, Japan.

One of the Military Cross winners is Capt. John Edward de Hart, 33, of Calgary. An artillery spotter in the 81st Field Regiment, Capt. de Hart remained at his exposed observation post under heavy fire for 12 days in March to direct infantry support bombardment for a Netherlands battalion.

The other three Military Crosses go to Lieuts. C. D. Carter, 24, of Niagara Falls, Ont.; H. C. Pitts, 24, of Castlebar, B.C.; and G. E. M. Ruffee, 31, of Wolfville, N.S. Lieut. Ruffee's citation referred to artillery spotting under untense enemy fire.

One of the Military Medals Winners was Sgt. Bruno Bergeron, 25, of Victoriaville, Que.

Reds Want Korean Debate Reopened

United Nations, N.Y. — (AP) — United Nations delegates looked today for still more Communist manoeuvres to reopen General Assembly debate on the Korean peace conference make-up.

The assembly's political committee refused Wednesday night to take up Korea at once and instead put the question at the bottom of its seven-point work program.

Delegates freely predicted, however, that new calls would be coming from Communist China or North Korea in the wake of an Australian amendment, adopted over United States objections and providing that a simple majority vote of the committee could give the Korean debate priority if developments warranted.

As the committee members adjourned until next Wednesday, many of them expected new messages from the Asian Reds renewing demands for the inclusion of Asian neutrals in the Korean conference line-up. They figured any such Peiping-Pyonyang communications would give Soviet delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky the platform on which to say the debate had become necessary.

Egypt's Ex-Premier Sentenced To Death

Cairo — (AP) — Egypt's special revolutionary court today sentenced former Premier Ibrahim Abdel Hadi and an Egyptian formerly employed by Britain to be hanged for treason and plotting with an unidentifed foreign power to restore ex-king Farouk to the throne.

Hadi, 57-year-old Saadist party leader, was sentenced after a three-day trial. The hearing for the second defendant, Ahmad Mohamed Awad, lasted two hours and was held in secret after the sentencing of Hadi.

Awad, an electrican, formerly was employed by the British garrison which Egypt wants to expel from the Suez canal zone.

They were the first of some 24 persons scheduled to be arraigned by the special tribunal on similar charges.

The court also ordered the confiscation of more than $1,250,000 of Hadi's assets, most of his holdings.

The marriage of Miss Rita Anne Leonard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. Leonard, and Mr. Claude Charest, Orford Lake, Que., took place on Monday morning, September 28, at 10 o'clock, in St. Patrick's Church, Rev. Father J. R. Moisan officiating. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an original waltz length gown of white nylon tulle over satin trimmed with inserts of Chantilly lace, the bodice being designed with a stand-up collar and long sleeves. A small cap fashioned of bengaline, embroidered in seed pearls and rhinestones, held in place her waist-length veil of tulle illusion and she carried a bouquet of white orchids and pompons.

Mrs. Clement Rouleau, of Cookshire, as matron of honor for her sister, was in a gown of Nile green taffeta silk, designed with a fitted bodice having a boat-shaped neckline finished with soft folds over the shoulders and a waltz-length skirt of unpressed pleats, and she wore elbow length gloves and a feathered headdress which matched her frock.

Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Charest will take up residence at Manoir Orford, Orford Lake, Que.

Manners MAKE FRIENDS

May you use your fingers in eating the folowing foods: Bacon? Yes, if it is very crisp. Fried chicken? Only at picnics, cafes that specialize in fried chicken in a basket and purposely serve no fork with it, and at your own family take—if that's the way your family likes it. French fried potatoes? No. Those are the rules—but don't insist on following them if your hostess orders otherwise.

The situation determines what is proper and mannerly.

Israel Now Has Minister In Canada

Ottawa (C) — Michael Saul Comay, 45, is Israel's first minister to Canada. He was born in South Africa and practised there as a lawyer until the Second World War.

After five year's war service with the South Africans, Mr. Comay went to Palestine and, like thousands of jews from other countries, was stirred by the vision of a Jewish homeland. He chose Israel as his country.

How he is in Canada to make Canadians better acquainted with the fascinating story of Israel. One of his first steps in that direction will be a ceremony in Toronto launching a bond drive to raise money for Israel.

TWO BIG PROBLEMS

This problem of financing is one of the biggest facing his country, Mr. Comay said in an interview. The demands of one of the greatest immigration movements in history is another.

Israel needs about $350,000,000 a year to meet capital expansion and pay for consumer goods. But her exports earn only about $60,000,000. To bridge the gap Israel has turned to several methods of financing.

One is the sale of bonds in Canada and the United States where more than 5,000,000 Jews constitute the largest community of Jews in the world. About $120,000,000 has been raised in the United States from sale of these bonds and the Canadian drive is expected to bring in another $10,000,000.

Israel's economic position, said Mr. Comay, is made more difficult by her geographical position in the Middle East, ringed by hostile Arab countries. Her frontiers with her four Arab neighbors have been closed.

Egypt objects to oil tankers moving through the Suez canal to Israel. As a result, Israel must buy the $50,000,000 worth of oil she needs at higher prices from countries farther away.

DEFENCE NEEDS

Another difficulty is that Israel must devote more than half her budget to defence, a serious drain on resources which might be employed in establishing and settling the 700,000 immigrants which have come to Israel in the last five years.

This immigration program is one of the greatest mass movements of people in history, Mr. Comay said. Before it started, the Jewish population of Palestine was about 650,000 and the Arab population 150,000. Now there are more than 1,500,000 Jews and Arabs living in Israel.

"It wasn't a normal kind of immigration, "Mr. Comay said. "For instance, virtually the whole Jewish population of Yugoslavia came to Israel after the war.

"Between 40,000 and 45,000 came, not because they were badly treated in Yugoslavia for they were quite fairly treated. Rather they came because of a strong urge to settle in a Jewish homeland."

Mr. Comay said only a few thousand Jews are left in Germany. Those who survived Nazi mass slayings emigrated to Palestine. Another 110,000 were flown to Israel from Iraq because land travel was cut off by Israel's neighbors.

MASS MIGRATIONS

There was another mass migration from the Yemen in Arabia and similar movements from the satellite countries of Russia. However, the 2,500,000 Jews in Russia now constitute the second-largest Jewish community outside the United States.

Mr. Comay said the Russian Jewish people are completely cut off from the rest of world Jewry. It is hard to gauge whether they are anxious to follow the example of the thousands of others who have emigrated.

Russia has a complete ban on Jewish emigration but Israel was able to persuade the governments of satellite countries like Poland and Czechoslovakia to permit Jews to leave for their homeland.

From this diversity of peoples of the Jewish faith, Israel's leaders are moulding a country which Mr. Comay said is strongly western in outlook. Her parliamentary institutions are western.

TIES WITH WEST

"It is inconceivable that we should find ourselves, in the event of another war, in any camp other than that of the West. We have close and firm ties with western Jewry and the western nations."

He said Israel is intensely interested in international affairs. Her viewpoint is similar to that of Canada on many questions and she feels Canada plays a vital role as the leading middle power.

Mr. Comay said there is a strongly nationalist and anti-western feeling among most of the countries in the Middle East. This is a factor in the lack of interest taken there in the formation of a Middle East defence community similar to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization among the western powers.

Mr. Comay said he hopes Israel and Canada will become better customers as well as better friends. Israel now buys about $15,000,000 in goods from Canada yearly but selles only about $1,000,000 here

Her purchases are largely wheat, flour, lumber and foods. She hopes to find a bigger market here for luxury goods such as diamonds and for chemicals when present efforts to expand her chemical industry bear fruit.

FRUITS AND TEXTILES

Israel sells large quantities of citrus fruits to Britain and some European countries and is also a big producer of textiles.

Generally, Israel's industry is still in the early stages of development. Mr. Comay said. Until Israel can be self-supporting—possibly in another 10 to 12 years—she will have to face the problems that led to the current fund-raising efforts.

Mr. Comay said that on the personal side he is looking forward to his first winter here. His two children, Yael, 15, and Yochanan, 13, have never seen snow or skis and already are talking about taking up the winter sport.

Mr. Comay married in 1935. His wife, a former feature writer for the fortnightly publication "Israel Speaks" which is published in New York, is an architect and an accomplished public speaker.

Cookshire, Oct. 1 — The opening meeting of the Girls' Auxiliary of St. Peter's Church was held at the home of their leader, Mrs. S. J. Bennett, on Saturday evening, September 26th.

The gathering was in the form of a dinner party. The lace-covered table was centred with a crystal bowl floating pansies of variegated colours and snapdragon, and matching tapers in crystal holders. Commonwealth Tour For Queen, Duke

London, Reuters — The Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh will fly about 3,600 miles to Bermuda Nov. 23 to start a Commonwealth tour which will take them to New Zealand, Australia, Ceylon and Africa.

They will be away for nearly six months until May 15. It is expected that a British Overseas Airways Corporation plane will take them to Bermuda and Jamaica.

At Jamaica they will join the 15,902-ton Shaw Savill liner Gothic Nov. 27 and sail through the Panama canal across the Pacific to Auckland, New Zealand.

On the way they will visit the crown colony of Fiji, mountainous and volcanic islands at the crossroads of the south Pacific, and the British-protected state of Tonga, whose Queen Salote attended the Coronation in London last June.

The royal couple will reach New Zealand Dec. 23. As the Gothic sails into the lovely Waitemata "sparkling waters" harbor at Auckland, the Queen and her sailor-husband will be greeted by crews of up to 2,000 yatchts and motorboats—some of them from ports hundreds of miles away.

The main part of the tour then begins. For the next six weeks they will visit race meetings, attend a Maori native gathering, hold royal garden parties and inspect New Zealand industries.

On Christmas Day the Queen will broadcast to the Commonwealth from Auckland. Altogether they will see 44 New Zealand cities and towns before once more boarding the Gothic for a 14,500-mile tour of Australia.

They will land at Sydney in February. Again they will see a country at work and play, attending sports meetings, a life-saving display and visiting the mining areas of Broken Hill and other industrial districts.

The Royal couple will make 35 separate flights totalling nearly 10,000 miles during their two-month Australian tour. The longest will be from Adelaide, South Australia, to Kalgoorlie, Western Australia—a little over 1,000 miles.

The Duke of Edinburgh will visit the Woomera long-range missiles testing ground, where Britain plans to detonate her second atomic weapon in October. April 1 they join forces again to begin their homeward journey in the Gothic from Fremantle, Western Australia.

On the way, they will visit other lands, of the Commonwealth-Ceylon, Aden, Uganda, Malta and Gibraltar. They will arrive home at Buckingham Palace May 15.

Uganda will be the only African stopover. They will fly there from Aden April 38 for a visit of three days wich will include the official opening of an important dam at Owen falls.

Perfume That Clings

Q.—Dear Claire: I adore perfume, but for some reason or other its fragrance just does not last on me. I have told several of my friends that I want a new perfume, but first I must find out about a lasting one.

— Mrs. A. W.

A. — A particularly good idea for women who claim that perfume does not "stay with them" is a brand new fragrance medium by Houbigant called Liquid Skin Sachet. It smoothes on the skin very easily and lingers longer because of its sachet base. It has a slower rate of diffusion and evaporation than any other type of fragrance. Try this Houbigant Liquid Skin Sachet. Available in 3 famous fragrances: Chantilly, Quelques Fleurs, Le Parfum Ideal. Only $2.

Dodgers Go Bunt-Happy In Effort To Break Tie; It Backfired; Sain Proved Stumbling Block To Bums

By GAYLE TALBOT

New York — (AP) — Brooklyn Dodgers, the team acclaimed as the greatest hitting outfit in modern National League annals, have taken to bunting against the New York Yankees at the outset of the 1953 world series.

After this you can expect almost anything to happen.

After that three hour and 10 minute exhibition they struggled through Wednesday, the Yankees are out in front yodelling that old favorite that anything you can do they can do better.

When the Dodgers started hitting home runs, the Yankees replied in kind. When the Dodgers belted Allie Reynolds from the hill and pulled abreast at 5-5, the world champions came alive and knocked out their decisive 9-5 victory, going away.

After the game, three subjects were major discussion topics. The first concerned the mental gymnastics of manager Charlie Dressen of Brooklyn in ordering two straight bunts when his team was threatening to break the game wide open. The second had to do with the throwing hand of Roy Campanella, the Brooklyn catcher and the third with Allie Reynolds' aching back.

The squat Brooklyn backstop was struck on the outside fat of his right hand by one of Reynolds' fast balls in the second inning. For the remainder of the game Campanella could grip neither his bat nor the bally snugly. His late peg to second in the eighth inning enabled Billy Martin to effect the steal that set off the three-run Yankee rally that sealed Brooklyn's doom.

Wednesday night the hand was swollen, and Campanella refused to have an x-ray made. He said he intended to play in today's game, whatever the cost.

All year the Dodgers have gone as Campanella went. When he was coming through with his long hits in the climatic stages of their big games, Dressen's men won. When Campanella was in a slump the Dodgers were just another ball club. If he is seriously handicapped from here on, you can start measuring Stengel for his five-time halo.

The question of whether Charlie Dressen proved himself the goat in ordering two straight batters to lay the ball down in the seventh inning Wednesday still was wide open at a late hour.

The Dodgers, trailing by 4-5, got busy on old chew tobacco Johnny Sain at the outset of the seventh inning and, by chopping three straight singles, pushed across the tying run. Thus they still had runners on first and second with nobody out.

Dressen faced a problem. The very bottom of his batting order was up—Billy Cox No. 8 and Clem Labine, his third pitcher, No. 9. The Brooklyn pilot had either to go for a big inning or to try to move the leading run around to third. He chose the latter, and it backfired.

Sain fired to Cox, and both he and catcher Yogi Berra sprang into action as though they had been catapulted. Yogi reached the dribbler first and threw to Gil McDougald at third as Gil Hodges went tearing in. It was close but umpire Art Gore ruled it a put-out. Dressen danced in pain in the coach's box.

Then Labine tried it, too, and this time Berra pegged Carl Furillo out at third with a stride to spare. Junior Gilliam sent up a pop foul to end the Dodger threat.

Otherwise it was just another Yankee victory, notable only for its distance hitting and the indifferent quality of the pitching.

Carl Erskine, presumably Brooklyn's best, could not survive past the first inning, in which the Yankees lathered him for four runs.

Reynolds, the Yankee bellwether, departed in the sixth after his back had broken down and he had been scalped by three home runs. The Chief said it may have ended his series work. Stengel, however, was optimistic that the big Indian might be available for a few innings of relief work, if needed.

On the law of averages, today's game should be better. Both Ed Lopat of the Yanks and Elwin Preacher Roe of the Brooks are eminent and sagacious lefthanders whose fast balls have long since departed but who possess fine control of their dipsy-doos.

The current odds of 2-1 on the Yanks to win the series sound about right.

channel's first champ

People peering from the white cliffs of Dover aren't always looking at the scenery. Sometimes they're watching for Channel swimmers.

The whole thing started back in 1875 with Captain Matthew Webb. The Captain was already something of a celebrity when he swam it. In fact, while in training for the big effort, he wagered he could stay afloat longer in cold water than a Newfoundland dog. He did.

The Captain was mad at an American named Boynton who claimed to have swum the channel a few months earlier. Boynton wore a life preserver, which was bad enough, but afterwards he'd been congratulated by Queen Victoria. That's really what made Webb furious. Smothered in porpoise grease, he plunged into the Channel on August 24. 21 hours and 35 minutes later, he tottered up the shore near Calais.

Since Webb's time, swimmers have tried many diets en route but his seems to have been as appetizing as any. He took cod liver oil, beef tea, coffee and strong ale. In fact Webb's first words as he waded ashore were "Fetch me ale".

History does not record the name of the brand, but later on, when Webb gave some exhibitions on this side, chances are he chose Molson's. Not that any ale will win a swimming race but the thought of having a bottle waiting near the finish line should be enough to spur on the slowest paddler. Of course, swimming the Channel for your ale is the hard way. The easy way is to get comfortable and whisper the words to the waiter, "Make Mine Molson's". Wet or dry, you'll find it rewarding.

Yanks Dressing Room

By TED SMITS

New York—(AP)—Hank Bauer, New York Yankee right-fielder whose triple in the first inning of the World Series Wednesday started things going for the Yankees against the Dodgers, blamed himself for letting George Shuba score a pinch-hit homer in the sixth.

"That homer was about a foot over me," said Bauer. "I think if I had got back in time and turned I might have got it."

In the end it didn't matter, and the Yankees tripped from the field sweating and happy.

Actually, Bauer made a tremendous jump in an effort to cut down Shuba's homer into the stands, but he missed, and Shuba went into the record books as only the third man in 50 years of World Series play to hit a pinch hit home run. The other two are both Yankees on the present team—Yogi Berra and Johnny Mize.

"I thought the boys played pretty good," said manager Casey Stengel, with magnificent understatement. "They played good ball, and we did, too."

Stengel, aiming to win his fifth straight world championship—a feat no manager has ever accomplished—had no criticism of his pitching ace, Allie Reynolds, who left the game in the sixth right after Shuba's two-run homer made the score 5-4 in New York's favor.

"He just ran out of gas," that's all," said the gravel-voiced Casey.

Johnny Sain took his place and wound up as the hero of the game with a two-run double in the eighth that put victory beyond reach of the Dodgers.

"That Sain, he got out of a jam in the seventh with only one run, and the more he pitched the better he got," said Stengel.

Stengel said he had not made up his mind when he would pitch Reynolds again. Stengel will pitch left-handed Ed Lopat today against left-hander Preacher Roe.

The mood in the Yankee dressing room was unusually quiet for a team winning a game that looked to be anybody's until Sain doubled in the eighth. There were some smiles at first and then everyone settled down to showering and dressing.

Charley Chase, Classy Montreal Boxer, To Meet Reggie Chartrand In Windsor Boxing Card Tomorrow

Boxing is on the agenda for fight fans to-morrow night, as promoters Les Connors and Raymond Murphy will again present some of the country's best amateur leather-throwers on a boxing card to be presented at the Windsor Mills Arena.

In the "fight-town," ring enthusiasts will once more witness some of the most colourful and exciting bouts which has ever been presented in this small center. The first bout will get under way at 8.30.

In the main event of the evening, "Reggie" Chartrand of Montreal will meet Charley Chase in an eight round bout. This promises to be an interesting fight, since Chase is said to be a dangerous man to meet in the ring.

Chase, who made his first professional fight last Monday night at the Forum, represented Canada at the 1952 Olympics at Helsinki. He is one of the classiest coloured boys ever to dawn gloves in Little Harem, a section of Montreal from which many famous athletes have originated.

Marcel Piau, provincial champion from Windsor Mills, who handed a severe defeat to Joe Kolleth, of Paris, France, two weeks ago, is matched with Reg Springer, coloured boxer from Montreal in a five round semi-final bout.

In the quarter-final preliminary bout, Sherbrooke's own Burke Emery 168 lbs, is meeting Normand Charette 177 lbs, finalist for the Canadian championship, in a six round bout.

Burke's been training hard at the local Y, and seems to be in great condition. This bout is a revenge match for Burke, who will be out trying to even the score with Charette, who K.O.'ed Graham Emery in the third round two weeks ago at Windsor.

In other preliminary bouts, the "I don't care boy" from Magog, Butch Bousquet, will tangle with Bruno Champagne of Asbestos. Another interesting bout should be that of Blackie Potvin, who is scheduled to meet the champion of Canada, Pat Supple 112 lbs, in a six rounds slugging duel.

Robert Piau, 125 lbs, of the paper town is challenging Bertrand Moquin 128 lbs, from Magog in a three rounds preliminary bout. Anyone wishing tickets for the fight may procure them upon by calling Windsor 363R2.

So boxing fans don't forget your date with the youngsters tomorrow night at the Windsor Mills Arena.

Boston Bruins Have Surfeit Of Talent For Coming NHL Season; Depth Added For All Positions

Hershey, Pa. — (AP) New strength through added depth has been provided the Boston Bruins for the 1953-54 National Hockey League campaign. Last season the Bruins had power enough to go through to the Stanley cup finals against Montreal's championship Canadiens.

For the first time in the four seasons he has been coaching the Bruins, Lynn Patrick has more potential major leaguers on his hands than he can use.

During last season, an epidemic of severe injuries hampered the Bruins frequently and the lack of capable replacements was costly. That condition has been corrected.

"We have more right now than we've had since I've been with the Bruins," Patrick said. "Now we can replace skaters in every position. There were many times last season when our bench was much too slim."

The only member of last spring's Stanley Cup runner-up club missing here is Finnish-born Pentti Lund, veteran utility player now in the Western League.

Lund has been replaced by Cal Gardner, of Transcona, Man., forward acquired from the Chicago Black Hawks in a summertime deal.

Added strength of front was gained from the Barrie Flyers, the Canadian junior championship club. That team previously provided the Bruins which such prospective stars as Real Chevrefils, Jerry Toppazzini and Leo Labine. Toppazzini is from Copper Cliff, Ont., and Labine from Haileybury, Ont.

The new Barrie products seeking Bruins' jobs are Doug Mohns, Don McKenney and Allan (Skip) Teal, a trio of high-scoring speedsters.

Those youngsters are in addition to such experienced forwards as captain Milt Schmidt, about to start his 15th season with the Bruins, Fleming Mackell, Dave Creighton, George Sullivan and Gardner, all centres, and wingers Johnny Peirson, Ed Sandford, Jack McIntyre, Woody Dumart, the circuit's oldest active player at 36, Joe Klukay, Chevrefils, Labine and Toppazzini.

The defence again will be backboned by the experienced Toronto-born Bill Quackenbush and Hal Laycoe of Sutherland, Sask., with Bob Armstrong, Warren Godfrey and Frank Martin in support. The latter, a rugged 190-pounder, came up from the Hershey American Hockey League farm team late last season. Armstrong and Godfrey are both Toronto born.

During the training season here, Patrick had a chance to study three rookie goalies under fire. Since Sugar Jim Henry had to report late because of his summer hotel interests, Ray Picard of Cambridge, Mass., saw considerable action. That 26-year-old product of Boston's Northeastern University was an early training camp sensation while vying against Marcel Pelletier of Chicoutimi, Que., and Lorne Howes, another pair of netminders.

Canadiens Swamp Royals 7-2 As 3,500 Watch Tilt

Montreal —(CP)—Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League overwhelmed Montreal Royals of the Quebec Hockey League 7-2 in an exhibition game Wednesday night.

Some 3,500 fans saw the Stanley Cup champions score four times in the first period and add three more goals in the last period to defeat their farm team.

Veterans Elmer Lach and Maurice Richard scored two of the goals, while four rookie Canadiens —Jean Beliveau, Eddie Mazur, Lorne Davis and Cec Hockstra got the other five between them, Mazur netting twice.

Eddie Litzenberger and Gerry Desaulniers scored for the Royals.

Vancouver Trips Up Rangers 2-1

Vancouver — (CP) — Vancouver Canucks tripped up the touring New York Rangers 2-1 in an exhibition hockey game before 6,200 fans here Wednesday night.

Andy Bathgate opened the scoring for Vancouver at the 13.02 mark of the first period. In the third period after Rangers pulled Bower out of the net with two minutes to go, Dale Sweeney knocked the puck off Al Stanley's stick into the open net.

Max Bentley spoiled Lorne Worsley's shut-out bid at 19.39 on a Ranger ganging attack.

Dodgers Dressing Room

By WILL GRIMSLEY

New York—(AP)—Brooklyn manager Charlie Dressen said a close call at third base in the seventh inning decided the first World Series game in favor of the New York Yankees, but he refused to "alibi."

"All I'm going to say is that it was close," he said in the dressing room afterwards. "I'm not going to cry like the Yankees did last year."

The situation was this:

The game was tied 5-5 with Brooklyn at bat and none out at the top of the seventh. Gil Hodges was on second and Carl Furillo on first. Third baseman Billy Cox bunted and Yogi Berra scooped up the ball and rifled it to the Yankee third baseman, Gil McDougald.

Art Gore, National League umpire at third, threw his hands up quickly on the close play. Dressen went into a dance of rage at third base but made no official protest.

Instead of having the bases full with none out, the Dodgers had men on second and first with one out.

The beaten Dodgers were solemn but not downhearted as they trooped into their dressing quarters.

Jackie Robinson, the Dodger stalwart who is playing his third position in a World Series, first, second and now left field, seemed to wrap up the Brooklyn sentiments when he said:

"It was great the way the fellows came back after being down four runs. That means a lot. I think we can take 'em now if I can be of any help.

"Reynolds (Allie Reynolds, Yankees' starting pitcher) didn't have rear the stuff he's had in past World Series. I don't think he's going to give us much trouble."

Happiest man in Brooklyn's quiet, sweaty quarters was first baseman Gil Hodges, as he described his booming sixth inning home ruu: "It was like coming out of a nightmare. It was a fast ball, and I knew it was a homer all the way."

SERIES WEATHER

New York—(AP)—Another sunny day was forecast for Today's second game of the World Series. The weather bureau said it would be sunny and pleasant with the temperature in the upper 70's.

The weather man also said there will be pleasant weather for the third game at Ebbets Field Friday.

Quinnellas Prove Popular At Local Track; Pay Top Prices Of Evening, $145.10 Collected In Sixth Race

The bettors who played the quinnellas last night at the local track in the mid-week program of the Sherbrooke Racing Club reaped the profits of the evening. All four double-pickings copped the highest payoffs of the night.

In the first quinnella, in the second race, Handy Miss and Jackie and teamed up to pay their backers the price of $61.65 while in the fourth event the wagers seemed to pick the same two horses, Alicea Hanover and Dark Mercury, and the small one of the evening, $10.90, was collected.

In the sixth race Alpine Hanover and September Sauns finished on top of the eight horse field and paid their pickers $145.10, the high one of the evening. In the seventh class Jean Harvester N and Bingen Budlong finished 1-2 and their backers picked up the sum of $65.60 for their $2.00 wager.

The betting was fairly well divided as the wakers had to pick their horses and then had no come back in the second race of the event as six races were single dashes and only one was a two-heat affair. In the BB Pace and Trot Colonel Wilkins, a seven-year old black gelding, owned by M. Pouliot of Drummondville and teamed by his owner waiked off with both ends of the fixture.

Alpine Hanover, owned by Yvon Paquet of Drummondville, paid the high of the evening in the sixth race when his backers collected $26.10 for a place bet and $17.70 on a straight ticket. In the second race Jackie, who finished behind Sam Fabi's Handy Miss, paid $23.20 to his backers.

The prices on the whole paid well as the number of new horses in the various classes had the wagers guessing. Last night's card was the first of its kind presented at the local track this season and judging from the payoffs it proved fairly successful.

Yesterday "D-Day" In Big Four Union As Clubs Pare Imports To Eight; Als Allowed Nine Players

Wednesday was "D-day" in the Big Four Football Union—the day the clubs had to pare their squads of extra American imports to conform to league regulations of eight imports a club.

The rule book says that by midnight Sept. 30 American imports on each team may not number more than eight—nine in case of Montreal Alouettes who finished the season in last place last year.

The Als cut off four Americans, Hamilton Tiger-Cats three and Toronto Argonauts two. Ottawa Rough Riders, trimmed to the quota earlier this week, took on one and dropped another.

The Als dropped tackles Jack Barger and Jim Staton and backfielders Nub Smith and Jimmy Joe Robinson. The Rough Riders picked up Roy Smith, a 225-pound tackle, and dropped Jack Gearding, another tackle.

Hamilton cut end Alton Baldwin and back Billy Grimes. Quarter Auburn Lambeth was released Tuesday night.

The Argonauts released end Zeke O'Connor and Jack Barry.

The Grey Cup champion Argos held on to backfielders Joe Scudero, Ulysses Curtis and Nobby Wirkowski, ends Al Bruno and Bob Shaw, centres Keith Carpenter and Red Ettinger, and tackle Jack Carpenter.

At Hamilton, coach Carl Voyles kept Bernie Custis, Royal Bailey and Lou Kusserow in the backfield, Ed Songin at quarter, Quincey Armstrong at centre, Bob Cross and Vince Mazza at tackle and Vita Ragazza at end.

The Als retained Alex Webster and Chuck Hunsinger, backfielders; guards Ed Bradley and Ray Cicia, quarter Sam "The Rifle" Etcheverry, centre Tom Hugo, tackle Rex Coulder and ends John O'Quinn and Ray Poole.

Ottawa now has quarter Tom O'Malley, backs Gene Roberts and Avatus Stone, end Bernie Flowers, guard Kay Vaughn and tackles John Kissell and Ed Rowland.

British Ladies' Quartet Sets New World Record

London — (AP) — A British women's quartet Wednesday set a world track record for the 880-yard relay by covering the distance in 1 minute 39.9 seconds during a meet between England and The Netherlands at White City Stadium.

The previous world mark of 1.40 was set Aug. 4, 1952, on the same track by a American team.

Maple Leafs Just Edge Ottawa 1-0

Ottawa — (CP) — Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League Wednesday night shut out Ottawa Senators of the Quebec Hockey League 1-0 in an exhibition game before 7,001 fans.

The Toronto goal, scored by Gordie Hannigan, came with only four seconds remaining in the second period just after Leafs had staved off a determined bid by Senators while Jimmy Morrison and Tod Sloan were sitting our minor penalties.

Sydney Finally Decides To Play

Sydney, N.S.—(CP)—Sydney Millionaires announced they definitely will be in the Maritime Major Hockey League this season following a financial meeting here Wednesday.

The Millionaires, who have been having money troubles, gave the go-ahead to coach Terry Reardon to line up a team. Reardon will leave Thursday for Montreal on a scouting trip.

Bill Talbert Named Captain Of U.S. Davis Cuppers

New York — (AP) — William F. (Bill) Talbert, one of the finest doubles players ever developed in United States tennis and one of the game's outstanding strategists, was chosen Wednesday as nonplaying captain of the U.S. Davis Cup team which will play in Australia in December.

Talbert, 35, will lead a four-man team composed of Tony Trabert of Cincinnati, Victor Seixas of Philadelphia, Hamilton Richardson of Baton Rouge, La., and Robert M. Perry of Los Angeles.

They will play the winner of the Belgium-India match at Brisbane, Australia, Dec. 19-21 and then, if successful, the Australian team at Melbourne, Dec. 28-30, in the challenge round.

The four man team was described by the Davis Cup committee as a combination of seasoned and younger players.

WORLD SERIES NOTES

New York — (AP) — Baseball commissioner Ford Frick must have wanted to be a catcher in his younger days. Before Wednesday first world series game he said he got a thrill of watching every move behind the plate of catchers Yogi Berra of the Yankees and Roya Campanella of the Dodgers. Both came through with fine performances.

Because of the increase in price of admission, the first game established a financial record. The gross receipts of $465,267 and the net of $387,574.74 bettered the previous highs set at Cleveland Oct. 10, 1948, by 86,288 fans. Wednesday's paid turnout numbered 69,374.

Phil Rizzuto was a bit more relaxed today. "Now that the first game is over with I feel a lot better," the Yankee shortstop said. "I'm always as nervous as a cat during the first one but I'll be okay from here on in.

Despite his pinch-hit home run, George Shuba still doubts whether he'll see any regular action in right field. "After all," he says, "you can't expect Carl Furillo to be benched. He led the National League in batting."

Quick now: Do you remember who won the first game of last year's series? Answer—Brooklyn.

There was a couple of fine pitchers starting in Wednesday's first World Series game. But one of the greatest, 86-year-old Cy Young, threw out the first ball. Needless to say, old Cy didn't have much stuff on his high, hard one.

Erskine had been given three starting assignments by manager Chuck Dressen after the Brooks clinched the flag Sept. 12. All that preparation for only one inning.

Before the game, Dressen again reminded the Brooks that the Yankees were just nine other guys. "Just forget what it says here," he said, rubbing his fingers across his chest to indicate the letters on the champs' shirts.

Billy Martin stole a base in the eighth inning, just beating Roy Campanella's good throw. The aggressive Yankee second sacker only had four steals during the regular season.

Winning the first series game was nothing new for Johnny Sain. The veteran righthander blanked Cleveland Indians in the first game of the 1948 classic when he was with Boston Braves.

Gil Hodges broke out of his Series slump with a vengeance, hitting a homer in the sixth. But it wasn't the first home run for the Dodger first sacker in the classic. He had one in 1949 against the Yanks.

Kansas City Cops AA Playoff; To Meet Montreal

Kansas City — (AP) — Kansas City Blues defeated Toledo Sox Wednesday night to win the American Association playoff in the seventh game 4-1.

The Blues now go into the little world series against Montreal Royals, the International League champions. The first game will be played Friday at Montreal.

The Bues had won the first three games and the Sox had won the next three prior to Wednesday's final.

Aces Stop Bisons In Hard-Hitter

Quebec—(CP)—Quebec Aces of the Quebec Hockey League Wednesday night defeated Buffalo Bisons 4-2 in a hard-hitting exhibition game before a small crowd of less than 2,000.

Ray Cyr, on loan for the game from the junior Quebec Citadels, and Roy Kelly scored in the first period when Aces took a 2-1 lead. Walter Clune tallied the American Hockey Leaguers' first goal.

Ludger Tremblay of Aces and Ken Hayden of Bisons traded markers in the middle period and Larry Reagan shot into an open net near the close of the game.

NATIONAL LEAGUE LEADERS — The Brooklyn Dodgers were well represented among the National League leaders at the end of the baseball season. Heaviest artillery was wielded by catcher Roy Campanella (left), who led the league in runs batted in with 142, banged 41 homers and hit .312 for the season. Teammate Carl Furillo (center), despite an injured hand, led both leagues in batting with a .344 average. Milwaukee's Ed Mathews (right), one of the few non-Brooks to get into the statistics, led the majors in home runs with 47. (NEA Telephotos)

Montreal Fight Fans To Witness World Bout Between Armand Savoie And Jimmy Carter At Forum On Nov. 11

Montreal — (CP) — Armand Savoie, first Montreal-born fighter to get a crack at a world boxing championship, will meet lightweight champion Jimmy Carter of New York in the Montreal Forum Nov. 11.

Announcement of the title bout was made Wednesday by the Canadian Arena Company, operators of the Forum.

It will be the first world-title fight in Montreal since 1931 when Panama Al Brown defeated Eugene Huat of France for the bantam title.

Savoie holds a non-title decision over Carter, winning here in a 10-round bout last spring. But since then he has been shorn of his Canadian lightweight championship by Arthur King of Toronto and Philadelphia.

Terms of the agreement were not announced. Unofficially it was said Carter will get a guarantee of $25,000, in addition to expenses, or 40 per cent of the net gate and Savoie will get a flat guarantee, probably around $10,000.

Carter won the lightweight title May 25, 1951, knocking out Ike Williams in the 14th round at Madison Square Garden. He later lost it and regained it in fights with Lauro Salas. In recent non-title bouts he lost a decision in Miami to Johnny Cunningham and scored a technical eight-round knockout over Bryan Maloud in Johnstown, Pa. Savoie's more recent victims include Fabele Chauvez in New Orleans and Eddie Compos in New York.

Both Carter and his manager, Willie Ketchum, expressed confidence that Carter will retain his title in the fight with Savoie.

"I know Armand is a real good fighter and I know he can hit," said Carter.

With manager Cliff Sowery nodding agreement, Savoie said: "This is the chance I have been looking for and I'll be ready.

WORLD SERIES INJURIES

By JOE REICHLER

New York — (AP) —The voice on the other end of the telephone sounded tired and dispirited.

"I don't know," the voice kept repeating. "I just don't know."

A pause . . . then Allie Reynolds' voice was heard again.

"I pray and hope I can pitch. But I would have to say it's very doubtful whether I can start again. About relieving, I don't know.

The great New oYrk Yankee righthander went on to explain how he hurt his back during Wednesday's opening world series game against Brooklyn Dodgers. He wrenched it in the third inning and re-injured it in the fifth.

The 35-year-old clutch pitcher had been firing the ball in his old-time form through four scoreless innings. He was hit fairly hard in the fifth and was shelled from the mound in the sixth. The Yankees went on to win 9-5.

"I first hurt my back in the third inning, while pitching to Wayne Belardi," the stoical Indian hurler explained. "The only one who knew it besides myself was my wife, Dale. She was watching me closely and familiar with every move I make, she detected immediately that something was wrong."

Meanwhile, Roy Campanella, the Dodgers leading slugger and ironman catcher, insisted that he would continue to play in the series despite a sore and swollen right hand that made it difficult for him to swing a bat or grip a ball.

Campanella got his hand in the way of a fast ball thrown by Reynolds in the second inning. It was heavily bandaged today.

"It's really hurtin'," the usually-uncomplaining workhorse said on Wednesday night. "I can't grip the bat properly. But I'll be in there catching. You can bet on that."

Asked if he planned to have X-rays taken to show whether there was a fracture, Campanella said: "Not me. If it should show a fracture, they wouldn't let me play. Nobody is going to do that to me. I don't care if I've got eight bones broken, as long as I don't know it. I'm going to play and nobody is going to tell me different."

MAKES HIS MARK—Gaston Questel, chef at a New York hotel, beams from here to there as Roy Campanella of the Dodgers makes his mark across his chest during a dinner honoring the National League champions. (NEA)

CHOOSING UP SIDES—The 1953 World Series is the fifth between the Dodgers and Yankees and Pee Wee Reese, left, and Phil Rizzuto have opposed each other in all of them. They're the only veterans from the 1941 show, and from the looks of things choosing up sides is old hat to the star shortstops. (NEA).

Cal Gardner Joins Boston Bruins

Hershey, Pa.—(CP)—Cal Gardner, veteran of eight National Hockey League seasons with New York Rangers and Toronto Maple Leafs, became a left winger for Boston Bruins Wednesday.

Gardner, a native of Transcona, Man., who began his big league career as a centre with the Rangers in the 1945-46 season, was installed on a line with Boston captain Milt Schmidt and Joe Klukay. He'll start the regular scheduled season at left wing.

The other two regular lines will have Fleming Mackell, Ed Sandford and Johnny Peirson on one and Dave Creighton, Real Chevrefils and Leo Labine on the other with Woody Dumart as spare forward.

Dutch Leonard Retires After Long Career; Cubs Cut Him Loose In Youth Program; Still Wants To Play

Chicago— (AP) —Baseball's fountain of youth apparently has tricked to an end for Emil (Dutch) Leonard, the grand knuckleballer who averaged almost 10 victories a season for 20 major league years.

The 43-year-old Leonard was released Wednesday by the seventh-place Chicago Cubs, a bit of sentimental news virtually lost in the blare of World Series opening day.

Brooklyn Dodgers, Washington Senators—especially the Senators—Philadelphia Phils and the Cubs all got the best this fierce mound competitor could give. He goes to pasture with a lifetime big-league records of 191 triumphs.

Perhaps baseball's most exceptional physical specimen, Leonard was in better shape than many players years and years younger. But his pitching skill faded while his well-muscled, 197-pound frame still craved action.

"I still think I can be a relief pitcher," said Leonard, who this year had a 2-3 record in 64 innings for the Cubs. "I'll shop around. I see they have a new manager at Cincinnati. I'm sure I can pitch well three or four innings, three or four times a week.

"But the Cubs want to talk to me if I can't get a job pitching. I'm a 10-year man, so I can deal for myself. Maybe I can manage a minor league team for the Cubs. And I wouldn't mind being a big league coach, either."

These weren't the words of a man who last spring asserted "they'll have to cut this uniform off me. I'll never take it off because I love to play the game."

But today Leonard said "I sorta expected this. The Cubs are talking about rebuilding for 1954. And where does a 43-year-old guy fit into the program?"

Ronnie Hurst Joins Mats At Sault

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.—(CP)—Ronnie Hurst, rugged rightwinger with Charlottetown Islanders of the Maritime Major Hockey League last season, has been signed by Sault Ste. Marie, Ont. Greyhounds, club officials announced Wednesday.

A fiery player, the 170-pound 22-year-old Hurst scored 44 points last year even though he spent 104 minutes in the penalty box. His total included 23 goals. He is expected to arrive here Sunday with Johnny Peanuts O'Flaherty, new playing coach of the Indians.

Greyhounds now have six players from Saint John Beavers, Maritime Major Hockey League champions two years ago. Besides Hurst and O'Flaherty, other members of the 1951-52 Beavers who now are with the Indians are forwards Johnny Ubriaco and Tom Smelle and defencemen Carl Smelle and Matt Mesich.

HUGH BOLTON SENT TO OTTAWA

Ottawa—(CP)—Defenceman Hugh Bolton will be sent from the Toronto Maple Leaf training camp to join Ottawa Senators of the new Quebec Hockey League, Ottawa club officials announced Wednesday. Bolton plans to continue an engineering course in Ottawa.

Yonkers Raceway Opens Once Again

New York — (AP) — Yonkers Raceway, which lost three days of its fall season during an investigation into its labor practices, was authorized Wednesday to reopen tonight.

However, the track announced that the races would not be resumed until Friday night because of the time needed to enter horses for the various races.

Commission members said officials of the Yonkers trotting association had given assurance that they no longer employed "trouble shooters" to prevent strikes.

The investigation disclosed that the raceway paid almost $200,000 to "trouble shooters" in the 3½ years since the raceway opened and had hired 35 men with criminal records from a list supplied by a union local. Local 32-E Building Service Employees International Union (AFL) has a closed shop contract covering raceway employees.

FRANK GRABOWSKI TO COACH AMHERST

Amherst, N.S.—(CP)—Frank Grabowski of Shubenacadie, N.S., has been signed to coach Amherst Meteors in the New Brunswick Senior Hockey League. Grabowski, former Halifax and Truro player, will be playing coach of the team.
