

Bank rate now 10.67%

OTTAWA (CP) — The Bank of Canada rate dropped Thursday to 10.67 per cent from 11.29 last week, and the five major banks quickly followed the central bank's lead and lowered their prime rates.

The Bank of Montreal, the Royal Bank of Canada, the Bank of Nova Scotia, Toronto-Dominion Bank and the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce all dropped the rate charged their most credit-worthy corporate customers to 13.25 per cent from 13.75 per cent. The Mercantile Bank of Canada and the National Bank of Canada followed suit.

The Royal Bank said rates on consumer loans, mortgages and other loans are under review.

The Bank of Canada rate, which usually sets the trend for banks' borrowing charges, has been dropping steadily since it reached a high of 16.2 per cent April 3.

The bank rate, which floats from week to week, is set one-quarter of a percentage point above the average interest paid on 91-day treasury bills auctioned every Thursday at the central bank to raise money to finance part of the government's operations.

The new average interest paid on $680 million of 91-day treasury bills is 10.42 per cent, down from 11.04 per cent last week.

Sher Hydro rates dip 9% amid tax hike rumors

By JOANNE CLEROUX

SHERBROOKE — City residents will be getting an average nine per cent cut in their hydro bills beginning July 1 — but they may find themselves paying it right back in tax hikes.

City council held a special noon-hour session yesterday to pass a new bylaw in accordance with provincial Bill 87 which forces municipalities with their own hydro service such as Hydro-Sherbrooke to standardize their rates with those of Hydro-Quebec.

Because the billing structure of each company is different, farmers will see no drop in their hydro rates, while some commercial establishments will be paying up to 20 per cent less, or 15 per cent more for their electricity.

The nine per cent figure represents the company's across-the-board average rate cut, but for most residential subscribers, the rate cut will be slightly lower. "It won't be like winning the Loto-Canada draw," cautioned Hydro-Sherbrooke director

Jean Bourassa, adding the reduction in hydro rates will depend on the type of dwelling and the amount of electricity being used.

The new rates might translate roughly as follows:

Farmers will not be paying less since Hydro-Sherbrooke's rate for farms was already the same as Hydro-Quebec's.

A tenant in a small bachelor apartment will be paying between five and six per cent less, a tenant in a five-room apartment with gas or oil heat will pay between seven or eight per cent less, while a resident in an electrically heated house can expect a 9 per cent drop on his bill.

The decisive factor is the actual kilowatt consumption. Homes with an average consumption of between 1,000 and 1,200 kilowatts per month get the highest saving for residential properties — 10 per cent.

WATER HAZARDS

Jack Nicklaus, coming off a victory at last week's US Open put his drive into the 18th-hole water hazard during yesterday's first round of the Canadian Open.

"I don't know what possessed me to drive it along the edge of the lake, but I just didn't carry it and the ball dropped in," a pensive Nicklaus told Record photog Perry Beaton.

Nicklaus is trailing leader George Burns, who shot an opening round 66, by five strokes. Burns, playing with a sore shoulder, said that he is surprised he shot what he did.

Two Canadians, Jim Nelford of Burnaby, B.C., and Roger Klatt of Barrie, Ont., are only two strokes behind the leader at two under par.

Ryan for fall election

QUEBEC (CP) — Liberal Leader Claude Ryan says he is eager for a fall election and doesn't want to prolong the agony of the Parti Quebecois government by waiting until spring for the vote.

"We are at the end of a regime," Ryan told a news conference Thursday.

In preparation for a September policy meeting, the Quebec Liberals will meet in St. Hyacinthe, east of Montreal, on July 5-6 to review their finances and the state of party organization.

Ryan said the two major planks in the election platform will be the constitution and the economy.

But the election will also be a choice between two ideologies, he said, elaborating on a theme he used during the campaign for the May 20 referendum.

Quebecers will be asked to pick between the individual-rights approach of the Liberals or the collective-rights bias of the PQ.

The Liberals will point out that they favor the private sector, while the PQ seeks expansion of the public sector at the expense private enterprise.

The PQ government takes a collective approach to problems, rather than looking at the individuals involved, Ryan said, and sets up boards and commissions to deal with them.

"I think they must have created 25 (such) bodies."

CONTINUES OPTION

On the constitution, Ryan said the PQ is in a contradictory position because, even though Quebecers chose federalism, the government continues to stick with its sovereignty-association option.

The PQ proposal of political sovereignty for Quebec, coupled with an economic common market with English Canada, was voted down by a 59.56-per-cent margin in the referendum. But Parti Quebecois members voted last week to keep it in the party program.

Ryan thinks this will help the Liberals, since most Quebecers are federalist.

He called the government's interpretation of the referendum as the first time Quebec has exercised its right to self-determination "a little bit excessive" since every election is an exercise in self-determination by the people.

Premier Rene Levesque says any new constitution for Canada must recognize Quebec's right to self-determination, but Ryan said he has obtained a legal opinion that it would be a mistake to put such a right in the constitution.

With an election in the offing, Ryan said he would like to get new candidates from outside the party, but he is not actively recruiting them.

Fresh start

Sherbrooke councillor Camil Fortier, president of the Comité d'Hygiene et d'Aménagement de la Rivière Magog, helped out the city of Sherbrooke and the Ministry of Leisure, Fish and Game yesterday as they continued their program of restocking the river with rainbow trout.

14,000 of the fish are being released into the river between the Pare dam in Rock Forest and the Paton dam in Sherbrooke. The restocking is a pilot project along the lines of projects successfully done in the United States. For the program to be a success, at least 80 per cent of the fish will have to be caught by sports fishermen.

If the project is deemed a success it will be continued in other areas of the province.

Anyone is allowed to fish these trout, no permit is needed. The only stipulation is that you report your catch to the game wardens at Parc Jacques Cartier or Parc Blanchard.

MP: Feds beat on jobless

OTTAWA (CP) — The government made scapegoats of thousands of jobless Canadians during the 1970s because federal officials badly miscalculated unemployment levels, a former Liberal cabinet minister said Thursday.

Bryce Mackasey, who held the manpower portfolio in the early 1970s, told the Commons the government initiated well-orchestrated campaigns across Canada highlighting alleged abuses of the unemployment insurance program so it could justify making it harder for unemployed people to get benefits.

The tragedy is that the finance department did not appreciate those people were out of work through no fault of their own, said Mackasey, MP for the Ontario riding of Lincoln.

He was speaking during second-reading debate on legislation that shifts more unemployment insurance costs to the private sector and extends entrance rules that require insurance claimants to work between 10 and 14 weeks in the previous year to collect benefits. The weeks vary according to regional unemployment rates.

MADE PREDICTIONS

Mackasey said a group of senior public servants predicted an unemployment rate of four per cent when he brought in changes to the unemployment insurance system in the early 1970s.

But when unemployment began to climb beyond that point, officials scrambled to amend the Unemployment Insurance Act to shift more of the financial burden of the program to employers and employees. "They were not honest enough to admit they had miscalculated and had not anticipated a long period of five-, six-, seven- or eight-per-cent unemployment in the country," he said.

Price rests with PM: Lougheed

OTTAWA (CP) — A solution to oil pricing problems rests now with Prime Minister Trudeau and Alberta Premier Peter Lougheed, who meet next month in a final attempt to resolve the impasse between the two governments.

Bargaining between Energy Minister Marc Lalonde and his provincial counterpart Merv Leitch broke off Thursday with both sides acknowledging they remain far apart.

The only arrangement to emerge after two days of intense negotiations was to extend the existing agreement, which expires June 30, for one month.

That means there will be no increase before Aug. 1 in wellhead prices for crude oil and natural gas. The current domestic oil price is $14.75 a barrel, about $23 a barrel below average world prices.

A failure by Trudeau and Lougheed to agree on future sharing of billions of dollars resulting from higher oil and natural gas prices would set the stage for a constitutional showdown between the Liberal government and Alberta.

ARE FAR APART

Lougheed later said the two sides had not even begun detailed bargaining. He said all federal offers to date have left the two levels of government "very, very far apart." Leitch said he proposed the one-month extension because of the importance of the issue and to allow sufficient time for Trudeau and Lougheed to get together, not because an accord appears imminent.

Lalonde, asked whether any significant progress was made this week, said: "As long as people agree to continue talking, there still is hope. But I think it would be wrong to indicate we are quite close. The reverse would be closer to the truth."

He pinpointed pricing and revenue sharing as the major roadblocks to a new pact.

Marriage— 9 kids, 60 years later

EDMONTON (CP) — Wilfred and Mary Trohan decided to give each other a special gift after living together for 60 years.

The couple, who have nine children, 35 grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren, got married last month. "This is long enough to live together without getting married," said Mrs. Trohan, 74.

"God makes you for one man and I have him. We're getting old together," Trohan, 85, said another reason is that the federal veterans affairs department suggested they get married so Mrs. Trohan could apply for a widow's pension if he dies first.

Trohan is a veteran of the First World War.

The couple began living together in 1920 because Mrs. Trohan was already married.

"I was pretty young when I was married for the first time," she recalled. "I was 13 and my father had arranged it. I didn't even know the man."

Soon after the marriage, Mrs. Trohan left the man and returned to her parents.

"I was trying to get a divorce, but in those days it was impossible."

She said her former husband disappeared about that time. Police found his horse but no trace of him.

The Trohans said the provincial vital statistics branch told them there would be no problem in getting married. An official of the statistics branch said Mrs. Trohan's first husband was presumed dead and there was no record of her first marriage.

The couple met in 1919 when Trohan walked into a Camrose, Alta., restaurant where Mrs. Trohan was working as a waitress.

It was love at first sight for Trohan, although his wife said she was not interested in him at first.

The following year, however, "He caught me," she said. They began living together in a rented farm where they stayed until after the Second World War when they moved to Edmonton.

UN sets fall leadership convention

QUEBEC (CP) — The executive council of the Union Nationale has agreed to hold a leadership convention Oct. 11-12, pending a call for a provincial general election.

Party president Serge Fontaine and interim leader Michel LeMoignan said Thursday if an election is called this fall, it will likely be held before November.

If the government chooses October, Fontaine said, the council will re-evaluate the situation. No decision was made on a location for the convention.

The UN leadership has been vacant since March when Rodrigue Biron resigned to become an independent member of the assembly supporting the yes forces in the May 20 referendum.

Neither Fontaine nor LeMoignan would say whether they are considering running for the leadership.

Fontaine said other names cropping up for the leadership are former Union Nationale minister Marcel Masse, Montreal Mayor Jean Drapeau, and Fernand Grenier, former UN member of the assembly for Megantic-Compton, who resigned his seat last January to run unsuccessfully as a Progressive Conservative candidate in the federal election Feb. 18.

Fontaine and LeMoignan said the objective in next elections would be to win a minimum of 12 seats to gain the privileges and status of a fully recognized party in the assembly.

The party now holds five seats of the national assembly's 110 seats. Under legislation in effect next October, Quebec increases the number of seats to 122.

The council also plans to hold a fund-raising campaign, but no details were available. The party now has a debt of $35,000.

missions to speak at the 29th general synod and the visitors related their experiences in Chile, Ghana and Malaysia.

Following the visitors' addresses, a number of the synod's 300 delegates suggested that the church in Canada has not been doing enough financially or otherwise for less fortunate countries.

But next on the synod's agenda was a report by a subcommittee representing native Indians, which said many of their people on and off reserves are in dire need and even the subcommittee itself should get more formal recognition from the synod.

Earlier, a women's unit complained that not enough women are being appointed to senior positions in national and diocesan affairs and it succeeded in having a resolution passed to rectify that situation.

Jim White of Vancouver, a member of the Kwakiutl tribe and information officer with the National Indian Brotherhood of British Columbia, appealed for more understanding of the Indian cause.

White, spokesman for the synod's subcommittee on native affairs, was not a delegate but he challenged the meeting with a statement that an Indian has never served as Anglican bishop in Canada.

He wondered why, and said he hoped "it wouldn't take 120 years for an Indian to become bishop."

White introduced a group of Indians serving on the subcommittee, representing various points in Canada, and told the meeting that each had seen many broken dreams among people in their areas.

Hydro-Sherbrooke rates to fall

mercial properties, the new by-law means anywhere from 20 per cent less to 15 per cent more in hydro costs.

One factor is that the new structure requires one bill for each meter, which means administrative fees are charged on each bill. Add to that the way the numbers game is played and the new 'cut' rates could mean a 15 per cent increase for the local restaurateur or dealer.

Under the old Hydro-Sherbrooke system, all meters for the same establishment could be billed on one statement.

But depending on the business' classification and meter arrangements, some will be enjoying a 20 per cent lower rate for their hydro beginning next month.

Bourassa said Hydro-Sherbrooke expects to lose about $900,000 in revenues this year and about $1.8 million for 1981 because of the new law.

"We'll still be operating at a profit," he said, "but the revenues lost will have to come from somewhere." So far, the city's tax dollar seems the most likely source.

Bourassa explained Sherbrooke will now be selling its hydro at the same price it buys it from Hydro-Quebec.

"When we run a line to say, Dominion Textile, we purchase and maintain the equipment, the workmen, and absorb the costs, but we're selling hydro to them at the same price we're paying Hydro-Quebec for it."

Bourassa said the city has been pressuring the government for a wholesale rate for the hydro, but was told by provincial energy minister Yves Berube that they would have to manage to operate under the system.

"Nobody's come out and told us we're going to have to sell (Hydro-Sherbrooke)," said Bourassa, when asked how the company could be forced to sell hydro at the price it paid for it, but he admitted there was only one possible buyer - Hydro-Quebec.

Townships talk

GRANBY — Granby will soon have a new administration building, but the big news is that the Shefford county registration office for Shefford County is moving to Granby. The office will be located in the new administrative headquarters which will also house two new large courtrooms and two smaller ones. Deputy Richard Verreault has been fighting to have Granby the center for the region.

SHERBROOKE (JC) — The use of glass containers in city parks has been banned, effective today, by a new by-law passed yesterday in a special session of city council.

Council adopted by-law 2255-5 yesterday in a move to put an end to the broken glass and beer bottles found strewn about in some city parks after councillors reported numerous complaints from residents.

The new by-law defines and prohibits the use of glass containers in parks and public places throughout the city.

Special permits can be issued for certain activities but individual offenders caught with beer bottles in city parks will be subject to a stiff fine.

SHERBROOKE (CL) — Twenty new modest income apartments will be built in the town of Lennoxville over the summer by the Societe d'habitation du Quebec.

The SHQ has signed a contract with Adrien Couture Inc. to build 18 new one-bedroom apartments and two new two-bedroom apartments on Queen destined to receive people of low or modest income.

LENNOXVILLE (CL) — The eighth annual antique fair at Bishop's University will display the wares of some 24 dealers from Quebec and Ontario.

The fair, taking place July 4, 5 and 6 will display works of folk art dating back to early Quebec history; Indian trade silver, Micmac Indian figures and early Canadian Staffordshire china.

The show has been organized by Maryanne Enterprises of North Hatley directed by Ann Beaulieu, one of the top antique experts in the country.

The Record will not publish Tuesday, June 24 or Tuesday July 1, but there will be business as usual both Mondays.

All municipal offices, banks and most businesses will be closed both Tuesdays, but there's no fixed policy for Monday closings. Sherbrooke City Hall will be closed Monday and Tuesday both weeks, while Lennoxville and most other town halls are open both Mondays.

Banks will be open both Mondays, most of them from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m.

Have a happy -- and safe -- holiday weekend.

COWANSVILLE (JM) — Guards at the federal penitentiary are expecting a 'bingo' here Tuesday. They have expressed their dissatisfaction at a new directive barring the searches of prisoners who are being transferred, taken to area hospitals or who are returning from day passes. A guard pointed out that visitors are scanned electronically to see if they are carrying metallic objects.

"The whole place is very tense," a guard said. "There are upwards of 450 inmates and they are each allowed one visitor on La Fete Nationale. More than 50 per cent have opted out which makes us pretty sure something is in the wind."

Guards are forbidden to talk to the press, but their side of the story always manages to emerge. Meanwhile, prison authorities refuse to comment, stating it was an internal matter and of no concern to the public. "The public should be made aware of some of the problems, as it is supporting the system with its tax dollars," an exasperated guard said. "We have no definite proof, but if there is an ample supply of drugs in the penitentiary we imagine the main fireworks might well occur here, rather than on the top of Mount Royal on Tuesday," he concluded.

MAGOG (CL) — All Hydro-Quebec offices in the Magog sector are now working under new hours to allow their workers to take advantage of the warm weather during the summer.

Starting on June 23 the office hours will run from 8 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 4 p.m. It is important that these new hours be noted by all those who might need to use the Hydro offices.

Tribune, Beullac in libel action

By JOANNE CLEROUX

SHERBROOKE — Two local Quebec Police Force morality officers are threatening to sue the newspaper, La Tribune, and Montreal-based private investigator Robert Beullac for a total of $70,000 in connection with what they claim were libelous and defamatory statements made against them.

Officers Romeo Lapalme and Gaetan Fortier have served both La Tribune and Beullac with a letter of demand asking for financial compensation and the retraction of statements alleging the two officers acted beyond the call of duty in searching a 26-year-old Rock Forest woman at SQ headquarters last January 25.

The Quebec Police Commission is investigating the incident.

The time limit for the retraction ended last Friday with neither Beullac or La Tribune having retracted their allegations.

Investigator Beullac stated he had no intention of retracting anything he has said about the incident, adding he would increase his efforts "to establish some semblance of justice in the Eastern Townships."

The incident began during a police check at the 'Au Mena-Sen' bar in Rock Forest where Mrs. Denise Turcotte, a housewife and mother of two, claims she was helped into a police wagon along with several other people and taken to SQ headquarters here.

There, claims Mrs. Turcotte, she was detained in a small office, and forced to strip before three policemen. Turcotte claims the request for a matron to be present was denied and that the officers closely examined her underclothing while she stood nude before them. According to Turcotte, no drugs or unlawful objects were found on her or in her personal effects.

She adds she was then released without any charges being pressed against her and that she left with her husband who had come to pick her up.

Beullac already has two other cases before the Quebec Police Commission and the courts asking for enquiries into the behaviour of the SQ in the Townships.

On February 26, Beullac obtained a detailed statement from Mrs. Turcotte describing the incident and authorizing him to submit her case to the police commission.

Beullac immediately brought the case to the commission, asking for an inquiry, and released a statement to the press about the incident in March.

The press release did not identify the officers by name but the story appeared in La Tribune, Journal de Montreal, Journal de Quebec, Dimanche Matin, Hebdo Police, Photo Police, and The Record. None of the papers identified the officers by name except La Tribune.

The lawyer for the two officers, Me Raynald Frechette, claims in the letters that his clients have suffered in both their professional and personal lives because of the allegations against them.

The letter sent to La Tribune asks for a complete retraction of the March 8 story, and for a financial compensation of $10,000 each for Lapalme and Fortier for malicious, libelous and defamatory statements in the story.

La Tribune had not retracted the story by last Friday's legal deadline but Frechette said he has held "informal talks" with the paper's lawyer.

ing $25,000 each from Beullac for releasing false, calumnious and defamatory statements to the press.

"Contrary to the practices of certain police forces who appoint themselves as judge and jury, I was very careful not to release names of the officers until a police commission investigation was held," Beullac commented.

The history of the St-Jean fires dates back to the early Catholic church.

Townships up for Fete Nationale

BY CHARLES LEVEQUE

QUEBEC — Quebec's national holiday has always been an occasion marked by festivities all across the province and this year the organizing committee in the Townships has done more than ever to make it a big celebration.

In an open letter, the president of the Townships committee has asked everyone to fly the colors of the province and decorate their home for this weekend. They have also asked all the curates of the area to ring the church bells at noon.

There are 47 projects partially funded by the organizing committee and at least another 20 operating independently.

Everywhere around the Townships there will be something going on. The celebration will last two days, June 23 and 24 with most major cities having at least one activity per day. The celebration will entail everything from kite building in Ascot to an artisanat exhibit in Windsor.

Many of the communities have organized meals, picnics or Souper Quebecois. Other towns will carry on the historic tradition of the St-Jean fire which was started by the French colonists who would light fires from Montreal to l'Île d'Orleans just far enough away from each other to be seen. Another tradition is the High Mass that will be held in most towns. Some municipalities, such as Weedon, will be holding the celebration out doors.

The St-Jean Baptiste celebration is to most Quebecois a celebration of the province's French heritage and a reaffirmation of its nationalism. The president of the Mouvement National des Quebecois a l'occasion de la Fete nationale took that feeling one step further by stating that this year's celebration would lack a certain enthusiasm because: "Quebecois, following a historic tradition of hesitation, ambiguity and meekness, hesitated, helped by the supporters of assimilation, in their chance to give their government a mandate to negotiate their liberty."

President Raymond Vaillancourt went on to say "It isn't all that surprising since our people have followed a historic trend of being overly cautious, a trend they have developed in order to survive under the rule of the invader.

The celebration may be uniquely Quebecois but its roots go back further than this little French colony. The St-Jean fires can trace their history back to 1155 when the summer solstice festivals were celebrated between June 21 and 24 by lighting huge bonfires to be seen by the creator.

Until the middle of the last century the celebration was almost totally religious marked by many masses and religious ceremonies. 1840 was the first year to be marked by parades in the streets.

In the past three years the Quebec government has distributed funds for the celebration to the smaller areas. This year's St-Jean celebration will be spread out over 31 municipalities in the Townships alone.

Paradis pleads guilty in murder

SWEETSBURG WARD (JM) — Lesley Paradis pleaded guilty to a lesser charge of manslaughter before Justice Paul Gervais in chambers here yesterday and was sentenced to eight years' imprisonment. Paradis, 29, of Longueuil and Michel "Max" Guillette, 23, of Montreal, were originally arraigned on charges of first degree murder causing the death of Granby jeweller Rejean Bruneau on January 18.

Guillette, who was represented by Robert LaHaye was allowed to plead guilty to a reduced charge of second degree murder at the opening of the 1890 spring term of the District of Bedford assizes, when he was sentenced to the minimum mandatory life term by Justice Jean-Louis Pelouquin.

Paradis, was represented by Daniel Lavelle while Claude Noiseau acted for the Crown during yesterday's proceedings.

Coroner rules Pratt shooting accidental

GRANBY (JM) — Sheriff coroner Jacques Guertin handed down a verdict of accidental death in the case of Howard Pratt, the 29-year-old Lennoxville resident who died at the Granby Medical Centre on February 25 after suffering a gunshot wound to the head.

Testimony produced at the April 17 inquest revealed Pratt was undergoing voluntary psychiatric treatment at Douglas Hospital in Verdun when he decided to hitchhike home. He was picked up near Chambly by Michel Thibodeau who, noticing his passenger's agitated state, stopped at Marieville to gas up and asked the service station attendant to alert the Autoroute police. Sergeant Paul Martel and Const. Andre Alix intercepted Thibodeau's car and persuaded Pratt to enter their vehicle. Alix and Pratt were sitting in the rear seat when Alix decided to hand his revolver to Martel.

When he handed the weapon over the sergeant's shoulder, Pratt grabbed it and shot himself in the skull following a brief scuffle. He succumbed to his wound three hours later.

In his written judgment Guertin determined that Alix's intent in handing over his revolver was above reproach as he was taking a precautionary measure. "There was no criminal negligence in handing over the weapon, rather a slight lack of prudence," he concluded.

QPF search for rape suspect

COWANSVILLE (JM) — The criminal investigation bureau of the QPF are searching for a Granby resident identified only as Yvon who is wanted for questioning concerning the rape of a St-Alphonse de Granby adolescent last Saturday.

The suspect is between 22 and 24, about 5'8" tall, weighs approximately 175 pounds with brown hair and a moustache. He was driving a white 1974-1976 Thunderbird at the time of the crime.

Police revealed he managed to induce his victim into the car on Route 139 near the Eastern Townships Autoroute and convinced her to accompany him to Cowansville. He then cut off onto a secondary road where she was attacked and abandoned. The 15-year-old girl is still undergoing medical treatment.

Any persons having knowledge of the suspect or the crime are asked to contact the QPF here at (514) 263-2622 or the Granby detachment at (514) 378-4646. All information will remain confidential.

FARMS OPEN TO CITY SLICKERS

MELBOURNE (CB) — Do you have a hankerin' for the smell of new mown hay or long to hear the music of a milk pail, the sound deepening as the pail fills with frothy milk? This weekend, the Richmond Quebec Farmers Association is extending an open invitation to anyone interested in seeing farming as methods of today and yesterday.

The fourth annual Farm Day is being held this year on the John Carroll farm situated approximately three miles from Melbourne on the Drummondville highway, and the sights and sounds scheduled for the event promise a full day of fun and information.

A pork barbecue, exhibits of spinning and weaving, displays of antique tools, a working forge and blacksmith, free milk, donkey and wagon rides, homemade ice cream and freshly baked bread for sale are only a few of the events in store for the city dweller. There is no admission, and an area for picnics is available. The farm opens its doors at 10 a.m. and part of the day will be spent judging a poster competition by elementary school students from the area.

Bill 105

Bill 105, Quebec's latest foray in its campaign to standardize municipal practices could prove to be most beneficial for the ratepayer who wants to break into the otherwise closed circle of local council dealings. But the proposed law would set strict limitations on most other aspects of local government.

The bill, tabled recently by Municipal Affairs Minister Guy Tardif, is aimed at democratizing councils by exposing the various influences which tend to affect the way municipalities do business.

First, there must be a mandatory question period at every council meeting, although the duration of the question period, its position on the agenda and the procedure to be followed are open. In councils where there are more than 20 councillors and where oral question periods pose problems, ratepayers with questions are urged to present them in written form.

Council meetings where budgets or financial reports are to be presented must be called according to a special procedure. At least eight days before either, the municipality must publish and post a public announcement mentioning:

— the location, date, time and purpose of either such session;

— the right of all ratepayers to consult the budget or financial statement and to obtain copies, as well as to information telling him how he can consult or obtain copies;

— the location, date and time of a special session sometime within the 15 days after the budget or statements are tabled, but before their adoption. This session should be devoted entirely to explanations, questions and comments concerning the budget, financial statements and the general financial health of the municipality. Ten days before this session, a summary of the budget or the financial statements must be distributed free of charge and, without asking, to every civil address in the municipality.

Bill 105 also tackles the most prevalent abuse found within the Quebec municipal government system — conflicts of interest. It also gives the solicitor-general the power to bring action against councils or councillors who break municipal laws.

In the 60 days following their election or nomination, all mayors and councillors must submit to council a written summary of their interests in:

— companies, corporations or business;

— buildings situated in the municipality or county corporation, regional municipality or regional or urban community which council they sit.

The declaration, to be made annually, must also list all jobs, positions on boards as well as loans over $2,000 and contracts with individuals or institutions other than financial institutions.

Mayors or councillors who fail to file statements within a reasonable period of time every year will not be able to sit on council or receive their salary, and anyone who knowingly files a false or incomplete statement risks being banned from all municipal office for five years.

Currently, only ratepayers may bring charges against their municipal officials for having broken laws to do with the running of the municipality. Bill 105 gives similar powers to the solicitor-general.

MNAs and civil servants of nine ministries, offices or crown corporations can't serve as either mayor or councillor. The nine:

- municipal affairs ministry,
- environment ministry,
- Quebec municipal commission,
- real estate valuation revision board,
- Quebec Housing Corp.,
- Quebec Police Commission,
- Agricultural Land Protection Board,
- Rent Board,
- Quebec Development Corp.

An exception — those considered as employees of the above mentioned under the Labor Code are eligible to hold office. This would include secretaries, clerical and maintenance workers.

In return for all the limitations, mayors and councillors get their first salary increases in three years. Tardif says if competent people are to be attracted to these jobs, they must be offered salaries to suit. Right now, the mayors of many of the 800 smallest municipalities receive $500 — a quarter of the salary of the average school commissioner, the minister adds.

Bill 105 sets minimum salaries at $1,500 for mayors, $500 for councillors. For bigger municipalities, there is a scale. The mayor will receive 70 cents per resident in municipalities of less than 5,000 people, 63 cents per for between 5,000 and 15,000, 39 cents per for 15,000 to 50,000, 17 cents per for between 50,000 and 100,000, 7 cents per for between 100,000 and 300,000, plus half a cent per resident for 300,000 and up. Councillors get a third of what the mayor makes.

As of January, 1981, the salaries of mayors and councillors will be indexed similar to those of ministers and MNAs. This year, the rate is 6 per cent.

Councils wishing to increase their salaries will no longer have to run the risk of an embarrassing referendum. Instead, the procedure laid down by Bill 105 calls for presentation of a notice of motion which will propose a bylaw citing reasons for the increase and giving the salaries the councillors and mayor would be entitled to under the wage scales contained in the law.

The projected bylaw would be the subject of public notice appearing in newspapers at least 21 days before the date of the council meeting where the bylaw is to be adopted, mentioning date, time and place.

The law would require that the proposal be the first item on the agenda at that meeting.

The proposed bill also sets a scale of permissible election expenses during municipal election campaigns. Candidates in municipalities with 20,000 inhabitants or more are eligible to be reimbursed 50 per cent of their permitted expenses upon presentation of a report of expenses, as long as they received 20 per cent or more of the popular vote.

Mayoral candidates of all municipalities are entitled to a basic $3,000 expenses, plus 25 cents per elector for more than 1,000 voters in municipalities of 1,000 to 20,000, 40 cents per for between 20,000 and 100,000, 30 cents per for more than 100,000.

Councillors may claim $1,500 expenses, plus 25 cents per voter over 1,000.

Other aspects of 105:

— Council must consult with residents before designing the electoral map.

— Anyone with complaints can complain to Quebec.

— Only one councillor per district.

— All employers must give employees running for municipal office a 14-day leave of absence for the duration of his campaign. The employer is also required to give a successful candidate a leave of absence of up to two full terms of office if so asked. The minister also urges employers not to exert undue work pressure on employees holding municipal office.

— Municipal workers must stay out of all municipal campaigns.

— Byelections must be held for all municipal seats vacated more than a year before the end of term. If the mayor steps down less than a year before the end of his term, the councillors may name a replacement from among themselves.

— Firms are not permitted to vote in municipal elections.

Language crusade: A call for cooperation

Commentary

By JOHN McCAGHEY

Brian Timmins has been charging along like Don Quixote in his attempt to have every child within the jurisdiction of the district of Bedford Regional School Board become functionally bilingual. We cannot disagree with his aspirations.

We agree with his suggestion that teaching of a second language at the kindergarten level is vital to ensure a relatively high degree of fluency. Teaching a language is one thing, but the application of the second language must extend beyond the confines of a classroom.

In other words, it must be used at play, in the home, and at all other practical occasions. It is the old axiom practice makes perfect.

If the parents don't speak the second language and the child is only exposed to it at school, it is a lost cause. Fluency and understanding of a second language requires not only a desire on the part of the student but a willingness to get out and mingle with their peers of that tongue. Furthermore, the desire must be aided and supported by the parents.

Mr. Timmins is unduly critical of the elected officials of the DBRSB. His wife is one of the school commissioners, and perhaps he is using sometimes privileged information to further his own ends.

We dispute the statistics quoted in his rebuttal to Mrs. Wilma Schmeler in the June 17 issue of The Record. There was an obvious inclusion of parents whose children are predicated to the French school system.

We do not dispute your ultimate aim, Mr. Timmins, but we question the practicality of the entire program you have suggested. We can only presume you are aware children at the elementary level have a very low retention span. This is further diminished by the hours they must spend travelling to and from classes. We are very fortunate in the District of Bedford due to the number of elementary schools available in all sectors of the sprawling territory, which is 500 square miles larger than Lebanon.

Pity poor parents in the Saguenay-Lake

St. John area who have to see a first grader travel up to 100 miles a day. At least if they are fluent in a second language they can put it to good use, since the area is more than 98 per cent francophone.

Fluency comes from use and you aren't going to get it here.

Lest there be any misinterpretation I am neither a parent nor affiliated with the DBRSB but merely a concerned citizen. The board is aware of the problem and has sought ways to improve second-language teaching within the various restraints imposed by the Ministry of Education.

We firmly believe cooperation is the stepping stone to success and that requires input from a majority of the parents and students.

Thank Providence for Sir John A.

Editor:

Canadians, those who really love this Canada of ours — should thank a kind Providence for providing men of the mental stature of Sir John Macdonald and his colleagues, who, in 1867, imbued with a deep desire to create a wonderful, strong, and united country forged the entire nation together with twin ribbons of steel to provide a rail system without which the oil and wheat growing industries might still be in the embryo stages. And on the other side of the coin, the manufacturing potential of Ontario and Quebec would not have been developed as fully as it is today without the purchasing ability of the western provinces. We must remember, also, that this pioneer railway was built at an awful cost in labor, lives, and money, yet it was built and the benefits resulting from the building of it cannot be calculated.

But, would that unifying link ever been built had Sir John and his fellow-dreamers of a rosy future for this country, been surrounded and harassed by the Provincial Premiers of today's blend, whose only contribution to the recent First Ministers Conference was the voicing of the individual woes and wants of their respective jurisdictions which served only to weaken, and perhaps destroy, that which the statement of 1867 had built and consolidated. Further, the enforced absence of native peoples and representatives from the territories at such a meeting of national importance actually STINKS. The picture of what our Provincial Premiers accomplished at the above-mentioned conference reminds me of a huge pie, delicious in all respects, being attacked by ten hungry boys quarreling among themselves to see which one of them would have the biggest slice — at least one of them claiming "special status" which would give him two slices. Truly, a sad picture.

It seems to me that while the Dominion is rich in agricultural and mineral production that there is one crop which remains a failure, year after year and that is in the raising of politicians — politicians who would set aside comparatively small political and regional aspirations, and yet big enough to work like the politicians of 1867 to weave together using all their energy, patriotism and fervor to create a still greater Canada than was ever dreamed of by the Fathers of Confederation.

Until this happens, we Canadians are in deep trouble.

with reference to the recent shareholders' meeting of The Townships Sun Ltd., allow me to make a clarification. Gilles Mailhot's "dismissal" was not "ratified". Rather, his resignation was accepted.

M. Mailhot served The Sun well and gave much of himself to it. His leadership brought The Sun through a period when its very existence was in doubt. There is no question that our whole community has benefited greatly from his many long hours of devotion.

All of us here wish Gilles every success in whatever directions his life may take, and hope that he will remain our friend and advisor.

Jamaica's problems: Is Manley government to blame?

Gwynne Dyer

"The elections are being held this year because the government does not have the money to finish the year", said Jamaica's opposition leader Edward Seaga recently. He is probably right. A joke current in Jamaica is that the country now has not only a national flower, a national bird and a national tree, but also a national gesture — the outstretched palm.

The country is in desperate economic straits. Unemployment is over 30 per cent and rising, inflation is over 50 per cent and three-quarters of all foreign earnings go to pay for oil imports and debt service.

So little is left to pay for other imports that shops frequently lack even basic goods like salt, sugar, flour and rice, while dozens of factories have shut down because they cannot get foreign exchange to import raw materials. Kingston is full of beggars, and the Jamaican government has been reduced to the same status.

And yet, there is some question as to whether all this is simply due to mismanagement by Prime Minister Michael Manley's mildly socialist People's National Party (PNP). Manley's non-aligned foreign policy, his role as outspoken champion of the world's poor countries, and his determined pursuit of 'democratic socialism' at home have annoyed many powerful institutions in the West. It is the Jamaican economy that has paid the price.

Jamaica's economic situation would be in difficulties now even if Manley had not been elected Prime Minister in 1972. Its oil import bill has increased tenfold in the past seven years, while the prices of its main exports — sugar, bananas and bauxite — have stayed about the same. The country's foreign debt has risen to $1.3 billion, which amounts to about one year's income for every Jamaican.

But Manley's political stance — and especially his determination to maintain friendly relations with Cuba, which has sent about 5,000 technicians and advisers to aid Jamaica's development — has unquestionably made matters much worse. Jamaica remains a genuine (if chaotic) democracy, and Manley has shown no inclination to turn it into a Cuban satellite. But foreign investment, which was chiefly American, has virtually stopped. Nor has the International Monetary Fund, the last-resort source of loans for crippled economies, been particularly generous to Jamaica.

Even Seaga, whose Jamaican Labor Party (conservative despite its name) will probably win the election in August, is indirectly admits that Jamaica is being punished by outsiders for Manley's policies. They have frightened away foreign investors and encouraged the IMF to take a tough line, he says.

"Manley has highlighted a single aspect (non-alignment) of the country's foreign policy, and our relations with the West and the rest of the Caribbean have been damaged". If Seaga wins the election, on the other hand, Jamaica will seek close links with the US and the Common Market, and aim to become a major offshore manufacturing centre through selling its cheap labour — what Seaga himself once called the 'Puerto Rico model'.

This is exactly what Manley was trying to get away from. He has some surprising supporters in his argument that the developing countries should be allowed to choose their own economic patterns without being automatically penalised by the big lending institutions of the West — people like West Germany's ex-Chancellor Willy Brandt and Britain's former Conservative Prime Minister Edward Heath.

The point, says Manley, is that when developing countries' economies get out of balance, often for reasons beyond their control like changes in the world prices of what they export and import, the big Western lending agencies like the IMF try to enforce utterly unsuitable remedies. "You can't look back at any IMF programme in a developing country which has been a success", he says.

The basic problem is that the IMF administers a form of economic medicine that is designed for a developed economy which is suffering temporary difficulties and so has huge unused productive capacity. Its cure demands internal inflation to cut spending power, devaluation of the currency and a sudden sharp drop in living standards. But then the unused capacity comes into play, exports soar, and in a year or so everything is fine.

In a poor country, there is very little unused production capacity that can be rapidly mobilized. The deliberately created inflation impoverishes everybody, the country's foreign buying power drops, but there are no new exports to put matters right. The country just plunges deeper and deeper into debt — until finally the foreign lenders cut off its credit entirely.

"The IMF will be a source of complete disaster in the Third World unless it has a look at itself," said Manley. He is in a good position to know, since in late March the IMF cut off Jamaica's credit. He broke off negotiations to create a new arrangement when the IMF demanded further cuts in social services and the dismissal of 10,000 government workers, and called an election instead.

But average real wages for Jamaica's 2 million people have dropped by almost half in the past few years. The growing frustration of leftist voters is draining off support from Manley's moderate PNP to the more radical, pro-Moscow Workers' Party of Jamaica, thus splitting the socialist vote, while local business interests and foreign investors are solidly behind Seaga. The IMF (or more precisely, Seaga) is likely to win the election.

Winter sleigh rides out to Dell.

The wood-pile to saw for winter
The June exams and how we'd strive,
In fall the gangs at threshing,
In spring, Bill Gates' river drive.

The Sacraments, church suppers,
With barley scones galore,
Working the tax with the double team,
These memories and many more,

They boast of wild exotic foods
Where sophistry does rule,
Yet none we say could win the day
O'er a church supper held at Gould.

Fraser have you any lambs now?
Funny thing Wally I couldn't find them
Till I heard them start to meow.

Bob Hamish working on Sunday,
Minister told him not to unless in need,
Bob looked him in the eye and said
Better the day, Better the deed.

Secretly Neil put salt on a stone in the pasture,
Asked Johnie why is this stone bare?
Johnie fisty said 'tis Nature's Wonder
Why no snow settles there.

Another Johnny chewing a lot of the A.D.'s tobacco
When they were threshing the grain
The A.D. secretly selling a bag of Johnie's oats
To replace the plugs again.

When a salesman made fun of the A.D.
One day in MacKenzie's store,
He walked a little more humble
As he went out the door.

As a Sherbrooke lawyer attempted to make
Old Bo Bo MacLeod look like a fool,
Reverse tactics destroyed his plan
He put away his measuring rule.

The dance at the old town hall
Foxtrots, waltzes and square,
And many the romance that blossomed
That had its first date there.

And up the prices would go
If we thought a lass had made a box
Just for her special beau.

Lingwick notes: Smith sheep eat a bear

Finlay MacRitchie was the Red Mountain bard and a great friend of "Oscar Dhu", Angus MacKay the author from North Hill Gould, who wrote the first book on Donald Morrison "The Canadian Outlaw", Trench and Trail, etc.

Gaelic was the language spoken by the early Scots, I remember well over 50 years ago that when we went visiting in the evening it was still Gaelic that was used in many of the houses when visiting in the districts. In the early days this old gent wanted to show how well he was doing in English so whenever he came into the village he would talk English. This day he arrived and they asked him any news, John? Yes, bad trouble in the Black Eye, John's Smith sheep eat a bear!

Donald Morrison "The Canadian Outlaw" was born on the fifth farm down from my grandfather's, later my father's farm on the Red Mountain.

Fraser's first language was Gaelic and when he used the English any word handy would do. "By gosh when the lightning hit that tree there were piles of short circles there in droves." Looking for newspapers to put under the barley flour. "Wait just a minute I got crowds of them in the house." Like the others we miss them now, good friends and pleasant company.

A new salesman had more or less made fun of old A.D. in the store one day. When he started to leave the A.D. got up and said "Sir I would like to apologize to you. Apologize to me the salesman answered "Whatever for?" Well the A.D. said "When you came in here I took you for a gentlemen and you took me for a fool, I see we both made a bad mistake, Good day to you Sir". This took place in Angus MacKenzie's store in Scotstown.

Old Bobo MacLeod's horse had broken its leg when it stepped through a hole in the bridge at Gould Station. The town refused to pay for the horse and the Bobo took the case to court in Sherbrooke acting as his own lawyer. He only had a few years schooling in the little red school but did a lot of reading and would take on the devil himself if he thought he was in the right.

The town's lawyer from Sherbrooke had planned on getting old MacLeod confused by legal jargon and the measurement of the hole down to the twenty-fifth part of an inch.

The lawyer asked MacLeod "will you explain to the court Mr. MacLeod the exact measurement of the hole in the bridge where your horse broke its leg.

MacLeod looked up at the judge and said "First your honour may I ask the court a question?"

The judge told him "by all means Mr. MacLeod."

"Well" MacLeod said "I ask the court, what is the exact size of a hole the law allow in a bridge where man, sheep, dog and horse walk?"

He won his case, the town had to pay. The lawyer put his rule away.

In the early days Donald Chisholm from Galson talking to K.N. McIver from Brook, a near district. Donald said he would like to get some turnips. All right you come in any time K.N. said. Donald was busy the next day and Donald's wife came with the buggy. K.N. was away but his wife helped Donald's wife get the bag of turnips out of the roof cellar and loaded into the wagon. "How much do we owe you for the turnips?" K.N.'s wife said that her husband Kenny had told her not to charge anything. "Well in that case I better take another bag, Donald said if they weren't too expensive to take two."

Oh! Well Little stories from the past, see you all on the 21 at Gould and Ste. Marguerite.

Ann Landers

Woman's advances revolt reader

Dear Ann Landers:

Bisexual women not only freak out their husbands, they freak out other women.

I didn't even know such females existed until a couple of years ago. Out of a clear blue sky, a woman I had known for years suddenly confessed that she was in love with me — and had been for a long time. I didn't know how to act. I was shocked and dumbfounded, totally unprepared for such a confrontation. Apparently I was too naive to get the signals she had been sending out. What's more, the whole thing seemed revolting. Needless to say, I terminated our friendship then and there.

I don't want a recurrence of this unpleasant episode, yet how do I avoid it? I am 35 and have never been married. I was shy as a teenager and didn't date much. I never learned how to attract men and probably never will. I am busy with my work and reasonably happy. While I would like a man, I won't die if one doesn't come along.

How can I avoid future advances of this kind? Once in a lifetime is enough, thank you.

An Old Maid But Plenty Straight

Dear Straight:

You didn't invite that advance and you may well get another. Your best protection is to be alert to women who buy you gifts for no reason, who suggest taking a trip together and get onto the subject of lesbianism.

Since kissing and hugging among straight women is so commonplace in our culture, this is not much of a clue unless you feel it is excessive. Then, of course, you cool it.

The moment you suspect something is out of kilter, split. It serves no useful purpose to show disgust or revulsion and create an ugly incident.

Dear Ann Landers:

I am a 14-year-old girl who can't talk to anybody about this problem. It is too embarrassing.

My left breast is bigger than my right. I put cotton in my bra to make them look even. When I shower in gym, I try to hide myself with a towel, but I think a couple of girls have already noticed.

Please tell me what I can do about this terrible problem. Ask your doctor specialists if there is some gland medicine I can take or some salve I might rub on the breast that isn't growing fast enough.

Worried in St. Paul

Dear Worried:

You are too young to be fully developed, so give yourself a chance. The smaller one might catch up yet.

If there is still a noticeable difference when you become 20 years old, you can go to a plastic surgeon and have a silicone implant inserted in the smaller breast. (Note, I said IMPLANT — not injections. Implants are a proven medical procedure. Injections are dangerous and illegal.)

Health

BY LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D.

Team effort for asthma

DEAR DR. LAMB — Our 8-year-old son has asthma. It is worse in the summer and fall. He doesn't seem to have it in winter. Since this is the baseball season he wants to play ball with the other kids. I have been concerned about this because I know he has had asthma attacks caused by exercising or playing too hard. Is it dangerous for him to play ball?

Will he have asthma all his life? I've heard that many children outgrow their asthma but I know some adult asthmatics who have had asthma all their lives.

It's hard to keep kids from playing and doing too much. Is there anything he can take that would help him lead a normal life without having those attacks?

DEAR READER — It's hard for parents of children with medical problems to avoid being overprotective. The child with asthma is a good example. No one wants the child to have attacks, but it still isn't good for the child to grow up thinking he can't do this or he can't do that because of a medical problem. At school this often becomes a problem for the child, the parent and the teacher who supervises athletic activity.

No one rule applies to all cases but if the child is normal otherwise and has mild asthma, there usually are a number of sports he can do. Baseball or softball is a good example. Apparently, the asthmatic would have to vigorously exert two or three minutes before the exercise causes an attack. Softball allows the participant to do his thing and then rest before he does it again. The exercise that is most apt to cause an attack is one that must be sustained, like long distance running.

Your boy may have asthma on an allergic basis. If so, your doctor may be able to use allergy testing to identify the offending agents. Avoiding these agents is the best preventive treatment if that is possible.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 8-6, Asthma, to give you more detailed information. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

As I mentioned in The Health Letter I am sending you, about half of the children with asthma will no longer have it by the time they are adults. If an infant has both asthma and eczema in early life, he is much more likely to have asthma as an adult. Usually only 5 to 10 percent of children who have asthma will have severe asthma as an adult.

Not all asthma is on an allergic basis. Some people have intrinsic asthma. They have negative allergic skin tests and have negative blood tests that are usually positive in allergic asthma. The intrinsic form usually starts in adult life.

In the last few years Cromolyn, inhaled in a powder, has been used to prevent asthma attacks. It will not abort an attack that has already started but if used regularly it can help prevent attacks, including those induced by exercise.

Parents of children with asthma who are worried about how much the child can do will be wise to have a mutual understanding with the teacher, the doctor and the child. It's a team effort.

Women's groups blast sexist guide

MONTREAL (CP) — A Quebec government layman's guide to the justice system has come under harsh criticism from women's groups for displaying allegedly sexist cartoons.

Le Petit Guide de la Justice, published recently by the departments of justice and communications, contains about 40 sketches by cartoonist Raoul Hunter.

Quebec women's groups say that at least half the caricatures in the $3 guide are derogatory to women.

Under a section labelled The Search, for example, a leering policeman thrusts his hand into the cleavage of a buxom woman's low-cut dress. The caption reads: "A lot of counterfeits in circulation these days."

In the section entitled The Individual and Criminal Rights, a dishevelled woman sitting on the ground, legs spread and a satisfied smirk on her face, tells two passing policemen: "I did everything I could to detain the robbers."

Chantal Leduc, head of the Young Women's Christian Association's Feminist Action Committee, says her group is asking the government to take the handbook off the market.

"(We) vigorously denounce a good number of the caricatures illustrating Le Petit Guide de la Justice which propagate disparaging biases against women," the group said in a statement.

HOPES FOR CHANGES

"We hope the next publication will reflect the equality of sexes."

Catherine Lord, secretary of the anti-sexist advertising committee of the Quebec Council for the Status of Women, called the handbook's illustrations awful.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess, to close a pleasant evening.

Mrs. Heather Haskell will be hostess for the July 2nd gathering at her home in Rock Island.

80th birthday

As the family of the late Clive Thompson and Mrs. Thompson realized that their mother was approaching her 80th birthday, they made plans to make it a special day for her and them.

At noon on June 16, Mary Thompson was escorted to a prettily-decorated table in the Sawyerville Elementary cafeteria. On either side were Myrtle Ellen Thompson and Myrtle Ellen Thompson Murray, daughters Mildred Chute and Tracy, Ruth Semple, son James and Ruby Thompson. Also present were grandchildren and great-grandchildren Muriel Shaughnessy, Dianne and Ryan, Brenda Semple Legault with Chantal and Dannie, Sheila Semple, Bruce, Milton, Carol and Cathey-Lee Chute; Phyllis and Elden Lowry; Jeffrey Semple and fiancée; Penny and Angie Thompson, Gary Smith, Mr. and Mrs. J. Mills and Irene Dombroski. Russell and Lois Thompson and family had come earlier and Bill and family had sent greetings and beautiful flowers.

Auntie M, who had been guest at Clive and Mary's wedding in Birchton, more than 50 years ago asked the blessing.

Open House started at 3:30, when many friends, greeted by Mildred, Myrtle Ellen, Ruth and Jim signed the guest book, which Mary will treasure. Best wishes were extended to the guest of honour. A beautifully decorated birthday cake was created by Ruby Thompson in colours of lilac, green, blue and white.

After light refreshments, and socializing, the cake was served to all. Mary was the recipient of many messages for which she graciously expressed appreciation.

80th birthday

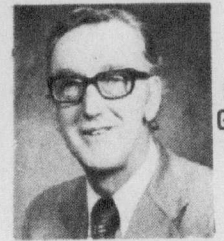

Gladys B. Allison, lifetime resident of Bury, was pleasantly surprised on Sunday, May 18, to be the guest-of-honour at a birthday supper held at the Bury Legion Hall on the occasion of her 80th birthday.

The party was organized by her daughter-in-law, Rita, and granddaughter, Greta Jones, both of Bury. The hall was attractively decorated for the occasion and the birthday cake was made and decorated by Greta Jones.

Among her many beautiful gifts was an engraved sterling silver platter given to her by the immediate family, and a corsage of red roses from Rita and presented to her by her great-granddaughter, Jamie Lynn Pageau. Other beautiful gifts were received from relatives and friends who attended the party.

Among those present at this festivity were her son, Clayton and his wife, Rita; her daughter June McMachen of Kingston, Ontario. Granddaughters, Shirley, Greta, Joy, Helen and Judy - their husbands and children. The evening was spent playing cards and visiting with friends. Mrs. Allison thanked each one for the gifts and cards and for coming to make her 80th birthday such a memorable occasion.

THE MYSTERIOUS AND BEAUTIFUL FRESHWATER PEARLS

Our window displays often are the subject of hearty congratulations on the part of our customers. In recent weeks, freshwater pearls were the occasion of very special window presentations. We think that, year around, we give our best efforts to present our goods in a most attractive fashion in our window displays. Yet, in the case of the freshwater pearls, we felt obliged to out-do ourselves because these displays were meant to present superb creations, for which our own enthusiasm is surpassed only by that of those who will wear them.

Behind all this, is the outstanding fact that, thanks to our research, our many contacts, our experience of fashion and the market, we have managed to find the most beautiful pearls, supplied by the best sources, at the most advantageous prices; all this backed by our knowledge that pearls would be very much in demand during the next few years.

The fashion world has now realized that the pearl, as provided by the oriental refinements of culture in fresh or salt water, offers a tremendous range of rich colors: champagne, pink, peach, silvery gray, burgundy, lavender; and all in most attractive shapes, from the perfectly round to shell-like baroque, which lend themselves to arrangements of many styles and lengths of pearl strands.

A faithful replica of Hans Christian Andersen's little mermaid, which is a landmark of the Copenhagen port, is presently seen in our window, fully adorned with pearls found in her watery kingdom, resplendent and iridescent jewels that we have chosen for you.

BIRCHTON

Mrs. Basil Prescott and Mrs. Pat MacKinnon attended the Presbyterian Executive meeting in Magog recently.

After attending the 100th Anniversary of the church on June 8, Mr. Carl Jackson, with Sean, Colleen and Dawn, spent a short time with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Jackson, before returning home that evening.

Mrs. Jackson was unable to be present, having recently had spinal surgery.

Recent weekend guests at the Jackson home include Mr. and Mrs. Leon Goupil, with Mr. and Mrs. Ken Macdonald and son, and Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Jackson with Pamela, David and Patricia, all of Northfield, N.H.

Mrs. Pearl Damon and Mrs. J. A. Murray went to Burlington, Vt., on the bus trip sponsored by the Seniors of Lennoxville, with Rev. Carl Gustafson, in charge, aided by Mr. Gerald Frost. A few went on the offered cruise across the lake, less than half the group, after the long ride from, and the anticipated ride back home.

To set up individual educational projects for further studies, Mrs. Stanley Logan, with Mrs. U. Wiele, both of the staff of Lennoxville Elementary School, spent a day in Montreal.

When the Cork families came from England to settle in the Cookshire-Wesleyville area, one of the Corks stayed behind, and one of that group, a cousin of Mr. Ernie Cork came to visit him recently, but Ernie's uncle, now a man of 97, was not well enough to come with his son, across the Atlantic. Ernie's father lived in the brick house now occupied by Dr. Belland.

Several went to Bulwer to the public meeting where a committee was formed for the 125th anniversary of the Eaton Municipality Council. Proposed date for the Bulwer-Birchton "do", August 16 and 17. Ideas etc. - are requested - give to President, Mrs. Kenneth Johnston of Bulwer or Secretary, Mrs. Basil Prescott of Birchton.

When the residents at the Senior Home in Sawyerville honoured Christine Lowry, one of their staff, with a bridal shower, Mrs. Percy Jackson, Christine's maternal grandmother, was among the guests.

Mrs. Pearl Damon went to visit friends at St. Paul's Home in Bury, on June 1, and very kindly invited Mrs. Henrietta Hodgman of Cookshire, and Mrs. Jack Murray accompany her. All three enjoyed the visiting with friends, and were pleased to find most of the folk there in good spirits, and giving praise to those who care for them at the Home.

Recent callers at the Jackson home included Mr. and Mrs. John Fraser with Shona and Danny of Ottawa.

To join in the 100th anniversary of the Birchton United Church, Mrs. Goodman (nee Jackson) of Niagara, Ont., and Miss Mabel Jackson of Woodstock, Ont., spent several days with their brother, Percy Jackson, and Mrs. Jackson. Their grandson, Shean Jackson of Franklin Centre, made their trip possible.

Carl Jackson of Franklin Centre came to be a part of the Anniversary, with Barry, Colleen and Dawn. Unfortunately, Mrs. Jackson was not well enough to attend.

When the Sparkes family gathered for their family reunion, the Mazlaks of Bradford, Ont., stayed with the Bob Sparkes family.

Congratulations go to David Bailey on his Graduation at Bishop's when he received his degree in Biology-Chemistry, with Honours. Good luck in your further studies, David!

Week-enders at the Michael Harbinson home were her brother, Burton Macey, Mrs. Macey, with Mark and Lisa. Mrs. Harbinson's sister, Edie, of Abercorn, spent a week at the same home.

On Saturday, June 7, the 4-H Club of the Sawyerville area, held a very interesting Calf Demonstration Day, at the John Brazel's in Lost Nation, when the youth were instructed in and judged on the techniques of sham-pooing and leading an unknown calf, no easy task, for sure, just try it in some friend's field! They were judged for the demonstration, in different classes. Bobby Aulis-Harbinson carried home a second in one of his tries. At noon, the group enjoyed an outdoor Barbecue.

One of the leaders of the above-mentioned group just told me about a honey-bee demonstration-lecture, at the Curtis Lowry home, when Deider Lowry demonstrated the biological structure, habits, etc., of the bees, and told how to treat a bee-sting. Deider is the Provincial Bee-Inspector-Instructor for Quebec. His brother Reiner is the President of the 4-H Club in the area. When members of the 4-H Club reach the age of 22, they automatically become members of the Young Farmers' Organization.

While Christopher MacKinnon's parents of Pierrefonds attended the wedding of Betty's cousin, the Moore-Roy wedding in Concord, N.H., he stayed with his grandmother, aunt, uncle and cousin in the Logan-MacKinnon home.

On June 9, Mrs. Pearl Damon was invited to the home of cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Rogers in Lennoxville, for dinner, when Pearl was very pleasantly surprised to find the dinner had become a birthday dinner for her, when she was presented with a corsage by cousin Muriel Rogers McClary, with best wishes and a birthday cake! Cousins Ray and Jean Stevenson of Cookshire, Gladys and Earl Gallup, of Sherbrooke and Bulwer, completed the circle of cousins in the area. Your many relatives and friends wish you many more good years, Pearl!

Mrs. Charles Robinson, with all her family, Jim and Sue, Betty and Jim MacKinnon and Marjorie, were guests at her niece's wedding in Concord, the Moore-Roy wedding in New Hampshire, when there were 22 Nugents at the celebration. After the wedding, Mrs. Robinson and Marjorie spent five days holidaying in the Cape Cod area.

In 1939 Rev. R. Clarence Belbin came as minister of the Birchton United Church, his first charge, and on June 8, 1980, he was guest speaker at that Church's 100th Anniversary, when he gave a helpful message, and saw many old friends, couples whom he had married, some now grandparents, even great-grandparents, and missed many one-time familiar faces, but was deeply moved to be invited to be a part of the Day.

While here, he and Mrs. Belbin were guests at the Murray home, as was Rev. Charles Johnston, of the staff of St. Andrew's College in Saskatoon, Sask., for part of the University Day, and for supper, where his nephew, Norman Johnston III of Montreal, with a friend Phil Biola, shared supper, and was joined by uncle Charles on the return trip to Montreal. Rev. Charles read the Scripture lesson on June 8, a special truly moving experience, unexpected - for him - at the morning service.

WI meetings around the Townships

SPOONER POND — Members of Spooner Pond Branch of the Q.W.I. met on June 5 at the home of Mrs. Laurie Walker, with assisting hostesses Mrs. Jessie Fraser and Mrs. Ruby Noel. The President, Mrs. Vera Hughes, welcomed her fellow members, then proceeded to open the meeting in the usual way.

Roll Call - How to bridge the generation gap - was answered by 12 members. The general opinion was that patience and understanding and the remembrance of our own younger days and their problems, are needed on the part of the "grown-ups", while respect for those in authority, and the willingness to listen to those who have "been there", are needed on the part of the young people. Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. The Treasurer, Mrs. Stella Parkes, gave her report and bills were paid.

The Food Sale, held in the show-room at Dyson's and Armstrong's garage recently, brought in a nice amount. Correspondence was read, this consisting of a receipt for a donation to the Boy Scouts; a card of thanks for a gift; and an appeal from the Sherbrooke Hospital. A donation will be sent in answer to this. It was decided that in future, all letters from the C.L.S.C. will be handed over to the Welfare & Health Convener for her attention.

Reports of conveners were called for Agriculture, Mrs. Violet Davidson, was not present. Citizenship, Mrs. Gladys Biggs, had written to Mrs. Washer at Macdonald, asking about the cigarette "sleeves" which have been collected, and the reply was that no more are being collected for the present. Mrs. Biggs had brought a small Canadian flag, and this was placed on the table while O Canada was sung.

Education, Mrs. Walker, read an article on "A barrel of Oil". This told the various materials which make up oil - crude, which is used for heavy engines, lighter grade, for heating, gasoline, and some sulphur, etc.

No report from Home Ec. convener, Publicity, Mrs. Dorothy Oakley, read an article from the Federated News, about the appointment of Mrs. Martha Beilish to the Senate in Alberta. Mrs. Beilish was a former president of the F.W.I.C. and the A.C.W.W.

Welfare and Health, Mrs. Blanche Fortier, read about "Stress" and how it can be helped, talking things over with family or a minister or priest; reading; helping someone else, etc. Sunshine, Mrs. Beatrice Rodgers, had sent six cards and two Sunshine boxes since last meeting. She had brought a card which all signed, to be sent to a friend who has been hospitalized. The Hymn of All Nations was sung and birthday money and Pennies for Friendship handed in.

The new Ways and Means committee plan to have a "Travelling Apron" as their project, and it will start "travelling" at the next meeting. This branch, as well as all other branches of the County, had been invited to a meeting and social evening by the Richmond Young Women's Branch recently, and had enjoyed this very much. The drawing was won by Mrs. Florence Blanchard.

After the meeting had been adjourned, a contest on a "Potpourri of Canada" was conducted by Mrs. Biggs. This very interesting and thought-provoking contest was won by Mrs. Walker.

At the end of the delicious lunch which was served by the hostess, a lighted birthday cake was carried in and the Birthday Song sung, in honor of Mrs. Rodgers, who was celebrating her birthday on that date. Best wishes were tendered to her from all. Mrs. Rodgers thanked everyone for remembering her in this way.

The July meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Gladys Biggs.

GORE — The monthly meeting of the Gore W.I. was held on June 10 at the home of Jessie Griffith.

The President, Muriel Duffy, opened the meeting with the repetition of the Collect. The motto for the month: "Never make the same mistake twice - make a new one." Roll call - hints for quick meals was answered by 12 members and two guests.

The minutes, read by the Secretary, Reta Hughes, were accepted. Correspondence included a thank-you note for sympathy to a bereaved family, thanks for a wedding gift, an acknowledgement for a donation made to The Boy Scouts. Letters from the C.L.S.C. included an invitation to attend a meeting on June 13, on Regroupement de Jeunes, also information concerning the services available for help in translating or completing government forms, etc.

Discussion was held on a request from the Secretary of the Richmond Regional Agricultural Corporation asking for prizes for children's exhibits. We felt this required clarification, as for several years we have made a donation for the children's prizes of the Ladies Department. The secretary was asked to get more information and report at the next meeting.

The Treasurer's report was accepted. A generous donation had been received from a member now in residence at the Wales Home. Two members paid in birthday money. Paperback books were on sale and money handed in from the sale of food cutters.

Joyce Husk read an article from the Gaspé Newspaper "Spec", entitled "Growing Interest in Local History". This has been largely due to the work of Kenneth Annett, who for several years taught at St. Francis High School.

Audrey Millar gave an interesting account of the Provincial Convention at Macdonald College, which she had attended, as our delegate. Mrs. Dubuc, representative from the Cancer Society at Drummondville, was a guest and Jessie Griffith, convener of Welfare and Health, had, for her, two large boxes of knitted articles which had been completed since Christmas. Included were bed jackets, seven knee afghans, children's sweaters, socks, caps and mitts, slippers and various other articles. Mrs. Dubuc congratulated the branch on the work done for the Cancer Society and said she would be proud to display this work at the next meeting of the Society.

An article was read - "Recycling in Penticton, B.C." Used postage stamps were handed in.

The contest "The Right Price" was won by Julia Griffith with Mrs. Dubuc being second.

The next meeting will be on July 8 with Ruth Mountain as hostess and the Convener of Home Economics in charge. Members are asked to bring suggestions for celebrating our 60th anniversary in October.

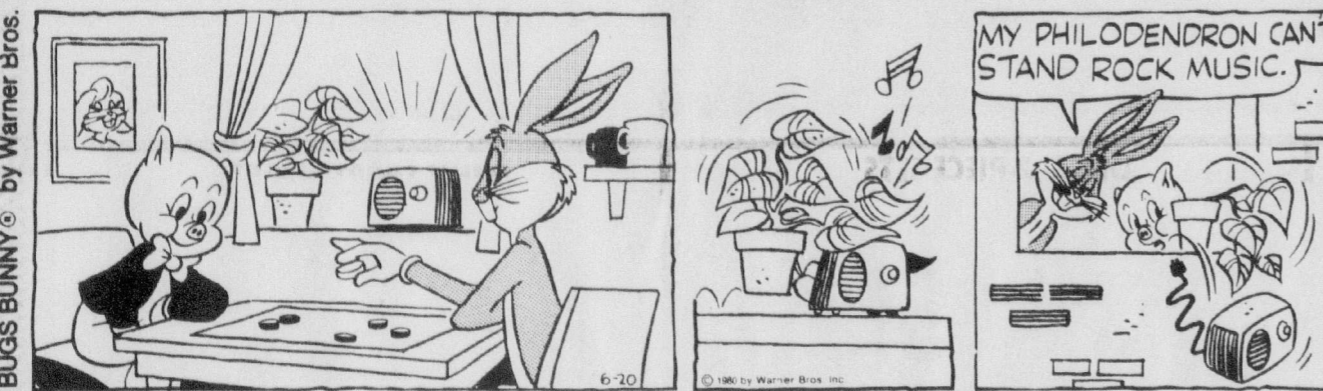

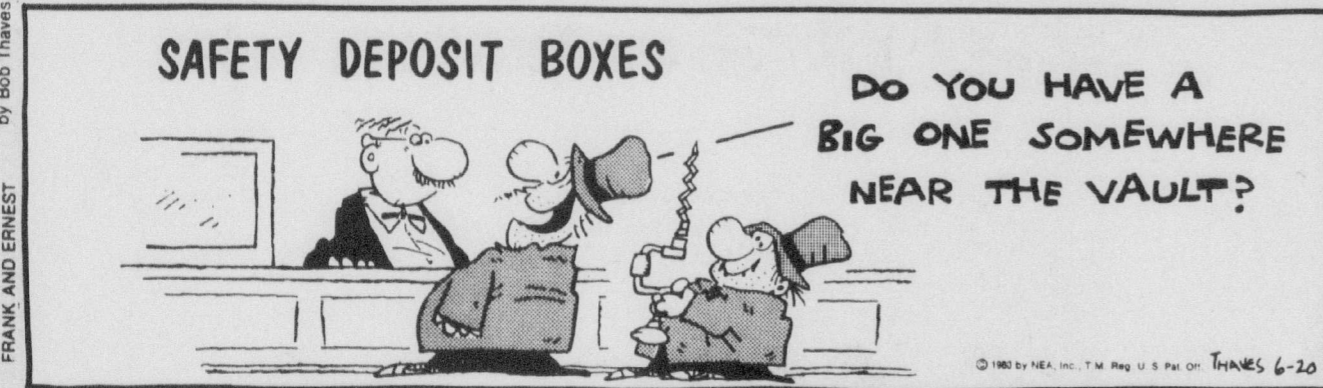

Six members had accepted the invitation of the Richmond Young Women's W.I. to be present at their meeting held in Chalmers Church Hall on June 2, and all had thoroughly enjoyed the evening.

Following the adjournment of the meeting, a delicious lunch was served by the hostess, assisted by other members.

Swim School on June 23

BOUNDARY (IH) — The Three Villages and Vicinity Swim School starts off another season with registration on Monday, June 23 at the 4-H beach, Lake Salem. The bus will leave as last year from the Haskell Library Square at 8:30 a.m. for swimmers; 1:30 p.m. for beginners and non-swimmers. Cost: 25 cents round trip.

Money is not too plentiful but the season will continue until it is gone. Last year the project was supported by the area municipalities and towns, the IODE and church groups, but only $50. was donated by individuals.

As it was pointed out at a recent meeting of the committee, the youngsters have an excellent opportunity to learn to swim and water safety under American and Canadian Red Cross regulations. The only cost to the student is the bus fare. The youngsters also have the opportunity of mingling with French and English-speaking youngsters and adult teachers which several say has been a benefit to them as they enter the labor field, for they have learned each other's language.

Robert Channell, president, will be head of the Canadian instructors and Sally Frawley from Newport will be Head of the Beach and American instruction.

They will have under them a competent staff of instructors who have learned at the project. Due to national holidays, no classes will be held on July 1 and July 4.

Look for new friends with whom you share many interests to replace pals of doubtful merit this coming year. A more interesting and different social life is in store for you.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your goals can be reached today, but not necessarily in an obvious manner. You'll find the way, even if you have to use a roundabout route.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Social acceptance is yours today, with members of the opposite sex finding you especially appealing. Your charm is refreshing in discourteous surroundings.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Persons of influence find you hard to turn down today. If you need a favor or an opportunity to advance yourself in some manner, now is the time to seek it.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Although you may unknowingly appear slightly mysterious to others, this is what is attracting them to you. Be yourself. Let events unfold for you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your unobtrusive manner makes a good impression today. Others will, in turn, respond in the same gentle and compassionate way you demonstrate.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Because you have the ability to see true feelings that lie beneath the surface of others, you can, if you wish, establish some strong bonds with those you encounter.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Being fair and just with coworkers wins their admiration and gratitude today. Although you may be oblivious of it, you'll be held in high esteem.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You're much more popular than you may give yourself credit for. Look around you. You'll see all the people you meet smiling at you.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) This is a good day to entertain at home, even if you have to put the plans together at the last minute. You shine more brightly when you are hosting others.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Chances are you could find yourself in a position today to bring harmony between two pals who are having a difficult time seeing eye-to-eye.

TAURUS (April 20-May 10) An opportunity to better your financial lot might arise. If it does, don't hesitate to take advantage of it. Luck is on your side.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) A change of pace is in order for you today. This might involve doing something quite different with someone close to your heart. You'll both enjoy it.

TAURUS (April 20-May 10) The worst thing you can do is sit at home brooding over a lot of imagined wrongs. Get out and let the sunshine reveal all the happiness about you.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Jumping to conclusions and thinking someone is trying to take what is rightfully yours will cause you unnecessary grief. Let time show you the truth.

TAURUS (April 20-May 10) Select companions wisely today, making certain they have high standards. There's one who would leave you holding the bag if he could get away with it.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You have a tendency today to make much more of things than they really are, thereby stopping your progress. Relax. It will all work out to your advantage.

From the pens of E.T. writers

ART THOU WEARY?
As we travel along life's pathway
There are obstacles we find,
And we wonder who to turn to
To have greater peace of mind.

Do you not know the Saviour
Is awaiting for your call,
Just give your heart to Jesus
He will never let you fall.

Give your mind to Jesus,
It is then that you will find
Your burdens will be lifted,
And He will give you peace of mind.

It is so wonderful to know Him
As you live for Him each day
With joy and peace and gladness
For there is no other way.

If you become too weary
Then Jesus bids you rest,
Give Him your load to carry,
Just lean upon His breast.

P. DOUGLASS,
Waterville, Que.

MARRIAGE

Joyce, love is such a splendid thing,
When you exchange vows and wedding rings.
When love is apparent in this way,
It is a bliss that grows from day to day.
Your future together is not by chance,
A gift from God, forever enhanced.
You'll be holding a novel that is untold,
While your harmonic future slowly unfolds.
You'll be exceedingly happy through the years,
Sharing much laughter and wiping a few tears.
All the joys in life will be yours,
Just remember to assist with the chores!
Always look ahead, and never back,
As you drive that tractor with your old straw hat.
All jokes put aside,
You'll make an elegant bride.

TAMMY BARNES

To my special friend Joyce, all my love - Tammy.

LOVE

Love is an emotion, I am told
Not a commodity, to be bought and sold
Yet a king has cast away a throne
For just one love -- one alone!
A man will stake his very life
For his home, his children, and his wife
Without the latter, he is lost, a soul apart
Death scores sometimes and leaves a broken heart.
Affections in the very young
Are often apt to be transferred
To those who proffer most
A new toy - perhaps - preferred --
In budding youth
A new love every day
They dance their hearts out every night
And carelessly give them away
Love is an emotion
That can't be sold, or bought
But of the millions some would give
For what the other fellow has got.

DIVIDENDS

They tell us in Life
Each Babe that appears
Is a Bond held in trust
For our declining years
Our grandchildren thus
When we are so blest
Are the Dividends on
The bonds we possess
Our desires now are simple
Our needs seem so few
Dear Lord, hear this petition
We are seeking of you
Give us some time together
The quiet years to know
To just sit in our rockers
And watch our Dividends grow.

MY OLD NEIGHBOUR

My old neighbour was a kindly soul
And oh, I loved her well
She used to say "Do Tell"
And "I just came by to set a spell"
In the early autumn crickets chirped
And leaves began to burn
She'd remark "It's time to dig the taties now"
And "There's all these leaves to burn"
She always had a plant in bloom
Upon her window sill
Laughing she'd say her "thumb was green"
She made rich soup for poor and ill
My old neighbour knew a lot
Altho' she'd say her "Book larnin' wasn't much"
I like to think that Heaven
Must be made up of such.
And "if" and "When" I reach the place
I'm sure, I'll see her kindly face.
I know she'll greet me with "Do Tell!"
"Come right in and set a spell".

HOME

Of all the places where we have lived
I recall the old farm best --
The work was harder there --
We seldom knew the meaning of the word "Rest"
The house was high, up on a hill
And we could see for miles around
At night our lighted window
A beacon, many a traveller found
The morning sun's first rays in the East
Began what seemed a long unending Day
And then at Eve, the western sky aglow
Touched our kitchen window, with its last ray
The mountains in the west, gave us a warning of a storm
With wind, behind the rain -- "5 minutes" they would warn
Before the storm would strike the little house
And it would shake and rattle, with the fury of it all
While inside, snug and warm, we talked and loved, and laughed
For we were very close -- The Rainbows, at the finish, I recall --
I'm asking now -- that when this final storm is spent
I'll find within my grasp The Rainbow God has sent.

ACW Meetings

AYER'S CLIFF — The last meeting of the ACW before the summer break was held in St. George's Parish Hall on June 5, at 8 p.m.

Mrs. Ritchie Harrison, chair person, opened the meeting with the ACW prayers. Mrs. Ross Hoffman was welcomed back after her winter sojourn in Florida.

Mrs. Joseph Shulver read the minutes of the May meeting in the absence of the secretary. Mrs. Wally Browning read the report of Mrs. Leslie Ounsworth of the Quebec Diocesan Board ACW Biennial held in Quebec City Cathedral of the Holy Trinity on May 15 and 16, 1980. At the close of the Biennial, the election results showed that Mrs. Harold Church, organist and choir leader of St. George's Ayer's Cliff and member of St. James, Hatley ACW was elected President of the Quebec Diocesan Board of ACW. A piece of the beautifully embroidered work, which employs many in a village of Pakistan and is a special work of Quebec ACW was passed around for admiration.

Mrs. Royce Martin, treasurer, took roll call, received dues and gave her financial report.

Membership cards given out at the Biennial were signed by Mrs. Harrison and distributed.

Everyone admired the completion of the painting of the hall, the almost completed kitchen and the cleaning of the stage drapes. Mrs. Joseph Shulver has been the mover of this large project. While a few members gave several hours of painting after the ceiling and upper walls were hired done, Mrs. Shulver and her husband Joe and Mrs. Ritchie Harrison have completed it. Thanks are tendered to her for her many hours of loving work. The next job to be completed is the sanding of the floor.

Mrs. John Ashworth and Mrs. Ross Hoffman will find out prices for having the windows measured and curtained.

Activities for the summer were planned. On June 14 the Colin Lax Company noon dinner was served in the Hall. The Annual Coffee Party and Food Sale will be held on July 18 from 10 a.m. until noon. The summer Rummage Sale will be held on the three days of the Ayer's Cliff Fair.

At the close of the evening's business a delicious lunch was served by the hostess, Mrs. Ross Hoffman.

KNOWLTON (KT) — St. Paul's A.C.W. met in the church hall early in May. Members of the Knowlton United Church U.C.W. joined with the A.C.W. for a "Brown bag" lunch and dessert, before a short business meeting and pleasant afternoon of good fellowship.

Mrs. Stanbridge, A.C.W. President who presided, first welcomed the guests. A period of prayer was led by Mrs. Marguerite Blunt. The secretary, Mrs. Doris Mandigo, read the minutes of the previous meeting and the correspondence secretary, Mrs. Ruby Kimball read thank-you notes from various recipients of cards from the group. Mrs. Peggy Donald gave the treasurer's report which indicated the healthy state of the group's finances. Mrs. Norah Sellars, U.C.W. president, thanked the St. Paul's ladies for their hospitality and repeated the invitation to join the United Church ladies for an evening of "Friendship" on May 27. A period of games and conversation wound up a pleasant afternoon together.

A good representation of A.C.W. members attended the Friendship party at Knowlton United Church, May 27, and enjoyed the evening of fun and quiz games organized by Mrs. Rhoda Northrup, followed by delicious refreshments served by the hostesses to end a happy evening together. Members of the A.C.W. extend their grateful thanks to the U.C.W. ladies.

WATERVILLE — St. John's A.C.W. met in the Church Hall on June 3, with an attendance of eight members and two guests. The meeting opened with prayers.

Mrs. Charlotte Howse gave a detailed report on the recent Biennial, which she attended in Quebec City. This was very interesting and educational.

Miss Irene Parsons, secretary, read the minutes of the last meeting, and they were approved as read.

Mrs. Doreen Deacon, treasurer, reported the earnings from the Spring Tea, and the two recent card parties.

Plans were made for our Ice Cream Social, which will take place in the church hall, July 9, beginning at 6:00 p.m.

Mrs. Mary Ward told us about the "Quebec Lodge Improvement Project". It was decided that we would make a donation to this worthy cause.

The hostess gift was won by Miss Irene Parsons.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Russell Nichols. We were pleased to have Rev. Keith Perry-Gore join us.

By Oswald Jacoby
and Alan Sontag

The team of Bud Reinhold, Russ Arnold, Bobby Levin, Jeff Meckstroth and Eric Rodwell won this year's Vanderbilt. The team is an unusual age group. Bud and Russ are reasonably close to Oswald Jacoby in age. The others are all in their early 20s and younger than Alan Sontag.

They got off to a fast start in the final match when West stuck in a super-weak jump overcall.

Bud is allergic to being pushed around in the bidding. He took very aggressive action, and Russ found himself in a spade slam before you could say "Harold S. Vanderbilt."

Russ, who played brilliantly throughout the whole tournament, had to do a good deal of work to bring in the slam. But with the aid of the hint given by the jump overcall he got there.

The play was straightforward and effective.

He won the diamond lead with the ace, led a heart to dummy and then led dummy's jack of trumps. East played low and Russ let it go to West's king. A club was returned and won in dummy. Now came the key play. He led a second trump and finessed his eight. Back to dummy with a diamond ruff and a further trump finesse allowed him to pick up the rest of the trumps and claim.

On stamps

BY M.M. WOODMAN

This week's column is being written a bit early as I am leaving tomorrow for Montreal. We have had a busy month, with company next month and in August and September we will have visitors from England here.

I have finally got all the stamps from last week in the mail to customers and trust that when I get back from my short trip the mail box will be full of checks and more orders.

I have had much pleasure going through the stamp papers, seeing the prices the big dealers are offering for British Commonwealth stamps, that go back 20 years or more. Sometimes the price is unbelievable and it is hard for a collector who has put his stamps away for five or six years to understand what has happened to the price of the better ones.

I thought that coins have slowed down until this past week when one of my customers came around and bought every double dollar set, every double cent set plus my 1967 sets without the gold piece and the sterling-silver medallions that were placed in the sets instead of gold. Now I am down to just cased silver dollars plus all the loose silver coins. I do have proof-like sets from 1963 to date to help a collector get started.

This week I have received a press release from Cyprus, showing that they are going to release three stamps for the "XXIII Olympiad 1980 on June 23. If you are interested in these, please let me know and I will try to obtain them for you. The 40 mills will show sailing, the 125 mills will show swimming and the 200 mills the Olympic gymnastics.

Today, I received a letter from the Director of Posts, Isle of Man. They pointed out that my standing order called for just two of the Mint souvenir sheets so it is my fault and not theirs. They are sending another 18 along and have changed my standing order to 20, so you will all get what you asked for in the future. Those who have not received the present one need not worry; they will arrive in good time.

There seems to be a rush to buy the Olympic dollar and $2. stamps, both singles, plate blocks and complete sheets. I have run out of the Sprinter issue in complete sheets but my son, Tony, has some and is going to send me down a few when he gets back to his home. In the meantime I do have sets of plate blocks plus singles. The set of plate blocks is $300 at the moment, and I expect the price will be higher in the next month or two.

I had a rush order for a stock book for a customer to put their spare Canadian stamps in. I was pleased that I had some in stock as they do not seem to sell. The buyer was lucky because when I had bought these, they were about half the price they are today. Some more are in stock if anyone is looking for one. They were made in Germany and they are of good quality and cost from about $7 up. If you want to contact me, 849-4958 or write to P.O. Box 83, Dixville, Que., J0B 1P0.

Expos bow to Dodgers, but retain first place

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Pinch-hitter Joe Ferguson's two-run homer with one out in the 10th inning gave Los Angeles Dodgers a 5-3 victory over Montreal Expos in a National League baseball game Thursday night.

Ron Cey singled with one out in the 10th and Ferguson followed with his homer into the left-field seats. It was the second home run of the season for Ferguson, who came into the game with a .132 batting average.

Bobby Castillo, 2-3, who relieved Burt

Hooton after nine innings, got the win while Woodie Fryman, 1-2, who replaced Montreal starter Bill Gullickson in the ninth, took the loss.

The second-place Dodgers remained three games behind Houston in the West Division and the first-place Expos stayed one-half game in front of Philadelphia in the East.

The Dodgers sent the game into extra innings when three pinch-hitters combined to produce a run in the bottom of the ninth.

Reggie Smith led off with a double, the seventh hit off Gullickson, who was then relieved by Fryman. Derrel Thomas laid a bunt down the first-base line, but Smith beat Fryman's throw to third. Smith then came home on Dusty Baker's sacrifice fly.

Los Angeles took a 2-0 lead in the third on singles by Dave Lopes and Jay Johnstone and Cey's two-run double with two out. The Expos tied the score an inning later when Rodney Scott tripled and Andre Dawson followed with his seventh home run.

The Expos went ahead 3-2 in the eighth when Ron LeFlore singled with two out, stole second — his 37th steal in 45 attempts — and came home on Scott's single to centre.

Meanwhile, in Atlanta, Jeff Burroughs hit his first home run in 61 games and Glenn Hubbard delivered a tie-breaking double in the sixth inning to lead Atlanta Braves to a 4-3 victory over Pittsburgh Pirates in a National League baseball game Thursday night.

The victory enabled the Braves to complete a sweep of their three-game series with Pittsburgh, which has lost four in a row.

Braves starter Rick Matula, 5-5, gave up a total of five hits in the third and fourth innings, allowing the Pirates to build a 3-0 lead. But Burroughs's first home run of the season keyed a three-run Atlanta rally in the fourth against Don Robinson, 2-3, before Hubbard got the game-winning hit off Enrique Romo in the sixth.

Matula got the first seven batters he faced before Dale Berra doubled in the third inning. Berra later scored the game's first run on a single by Robinson.

The Pirates made it 3-0 in the fourth. Willie Stargell led off with a walk, went to third on a John Milner singled and scored on Lee Lacy's fielder's choice grounder. Lacy went to third on a single by Ed Ott and scored on Berra's sacrifice fly.

Black bass is test of skill, equipment

The black bass fishing and muskunge fishing season is now open, as is fishing for Atlantic salmon. All species of game fish are now open season. Black bass is a fish which abounds in several Eastern Township lakes, and is very popular with fishermen, mainly because of its voracity and combative spirit.

Once hooked, the black bass tests both your equipment and your skill. Our neighbours to the south find the black bass draws the largest number of fishermen. It is fished with live bait, such as worms, minnows, little frogs, and crayfish. It will also take an artificial lure, such as a spinning spoon of the Mepps variety, and a wabbling lure such as dare-devils, and artificial Rapalas.

You can also capture it with a wet or dry fly. The flesh is delicious to eat, especially when it is filleted to eliminate the bones.

The musky is another species which attracts a certain class of fisherman. The Department of Leisure, Fish and Game has added it to several water-courses in the Eastern Townships, but success to date has been disappointing except in Lake Joseph and Lake William in the Plessisville region, where it is pretty good. About 50 years ago the musky was plentiful in the Yamaska River, in the region of Adamsville, Majenta, and Farnham.

Unfortunately, this river is now a regional sewer, and the most polluted water course in the province. Consequently, fishing has been totally destroyed in the Yamaska. Environment Minister Marcel Leger has been promising us for a while now to depollute it as a top priority. Now that he is no longer preoccupied with the referendum, we hope that he will concentrate his efforts in his department, and that the program of pollution abatement will begin very soon.

The muskunge fishing now is mainly in the St. Lawrence River at Lake St. Louis and Lake St. Francois, near Valleyfield, where the musky is abundant and where fishermen have the most success in catching it.

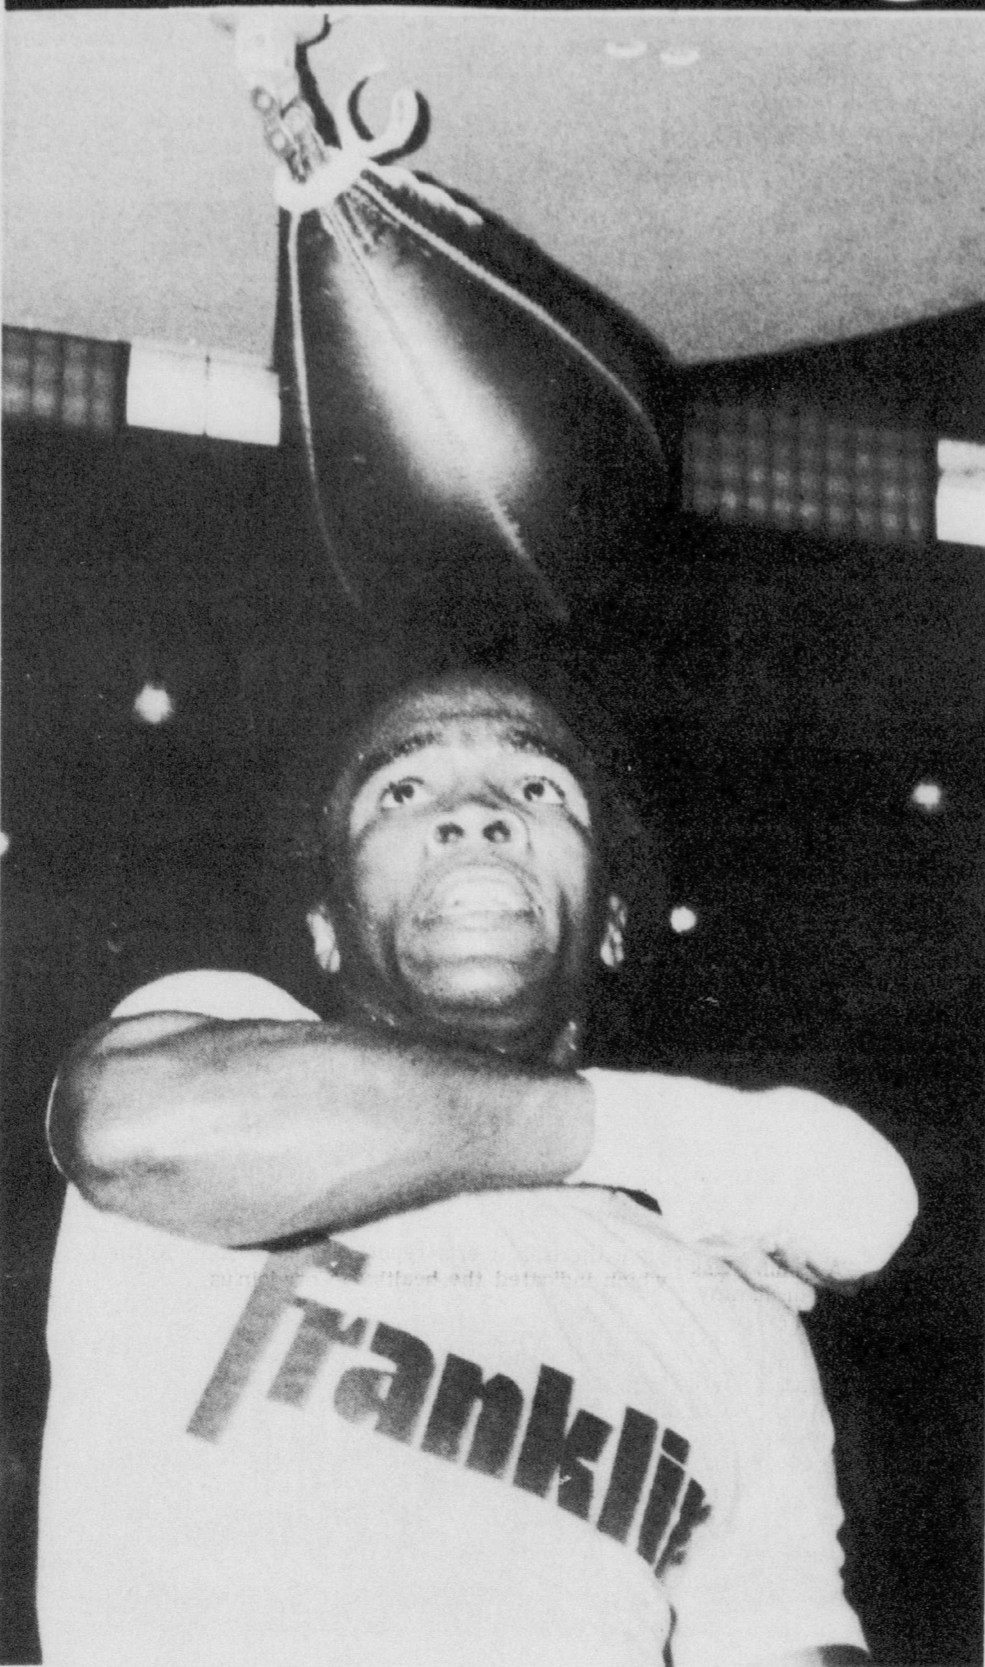

Atlantic Salmon fishing has long been the sport for the wealthy but has become more democratic in the last few years. Still, it is a fairly expensive kind of fishing when you compare it to fishing other species. In addition to a $5.50 fishing permit, a daily permit, which varies in cost from $10 to $250 depending on the rivers or sections of rivers is required.

If you add to this the cost of travel, lodging, and meals, it represents a substantial outlay. In spite of the cost, however, salmon fishing attracts more and more fishermen each year in the Gaspé, North Shore, and the rivers of New Quebec. For the majority of salmon rivers, the number of fishermen is limited, and thus reservations should be made early.

For most rivers under the management of the Department of Leisure, Fish and Game, reservations are accepted from the beginning of January, which means the best fishing times are very quickly taken by those who speak early. It must be noted that only fly fishing is allowed for Atlantic salmon fishing, which excludes spincasting or bait casting, all those who cannot master a flyrod sufficiently to fool the salmon.

At the end of the month I will have an opportunity to go salmon fishing for several days in the St. John River near Gaspé. It is the most renowned river of the whole Gaspé Peninsula. I hope that I will be lucky and have the opportunity to hook several salmon during this trip.

Win or lose, fighters will be rich

SUGAR RAY LEONARD ...showdown date with challenger Duran finally arrives.

MONTREAL (CP) — Win or lose, on the basis of a maximum 45 minutes work tonight, Sugar Ray Leonard and Roberto Duran will become millionaires.

Leonard, a 24-year-old American, is guaranteed $5 million for defending his World Boxing Council welterweight title — and it could go as high as $10 million.

Duran, 29, of Panama is guaranteed $1.5 million.

However, the promoters say extra revenue from things like closed-circuit television, pay-TV and delayed home telecast could boost Leonard's take to $10 million. Duran's income would rise proportionately.

The Olympic installations board, promoting the fight, needs a crowd of 41,000 to break even after paying $4.15 million for the rights. Slightly more than 32,000 of the 77,256 tickets have been sold so far.

All 2,000 of the top-priced $500 ringside tickets were snapped up early, as were all 5,218 of the $20 cheap seats located binocular distance from the ring, which is set up near second base on the baseball diamond in Olympic Stadium.

There were plenty of seats left in the seven other categories ranging from $50 to $300.

Even some of the patrons in the higher-priced seats may find their view restricted by a transparent canopy over the outdoor ring. The forecast is for cool, cloudy weather.

The supporting cast for the Brawl in Montreal includes champion Gaetan Hart of Buckingham, Que., and challenger Cleveland Denny of Lachine, Que., in a 10-round bout for the Canadian lightweight championship.

Other preliminaries match heavyweights Trevor Berbick of Halifax and John Tate of Knoxville, Tenn.; Clyde Gray of Lindsay, Ont., versus Sugar Ray's eldest brother, Roger, in a middweight bout and Fernand Marcotte of Quebec City against Eddie Melo of Toronto in the middleweight division.

Leonard and Duran are both expected to make the 147-pound limit in the 15-round bout in which the three-knockdown rule is waived.

Sugar Ray, 27-0 in his professional career, is returning to the city where he rose to prominence by winning a gold medal at the 1976 Olympics.

He will be pitting his speed against the proven punching power of the Hands of Stone, as Duran is known. The Panamanian has a pro record of 71-1, including 55 knockouts.

NELFORD NURSES SHOULDER

ILE-BIZARD, Que. (CP) — Jim Nelford, plagued by a nagging shoulder ailment, carded a two-under-par 68 during firstround action at the Canadian Open golf championship Thursday and tied for the lowest score recorded among the 26 Canadians entered at the Royal Montreal Golf Club course.

"A week ago I didn't really know if I'd play," said the 24-year-old Vancouver native. "My shoulder was in such bad shape I was just trying to figure out a way to swing."

Nelford, who turned professional three years ago after capturing the Canadian amateur title in 1975 and 1976, fired 34 on each nine.

Senators on winning track

By DAVE CAMPBELL

The Senators got back on the winning track last night as they out-scored the Red Sox 7-1 in Little League action. At the other end of the field the Expos pulled off a surprise win over the Elans 10-7.

Jacques Gagne who missed Wednesday night, was in full form last night. At his first trip to the plate he slugged an inside the park homerun for the Senators.

Gagne's homer was the only run in the first inning. Jim Waite, Yanick Dupre, and Alain Pelletier added three more runs in the second. Eric Sylvain and Gagne make it a 6-0 Senator game in the third.

Each team scored one run in the fifth. Gagne had his third of the night, while Christian Desruisseaux responded for the Sox.

Gagne was awarded the win and struck-out seven batters.

Francois Deneault received the loss while he fanned four Senators.

Eric Forgues, Christian Lallumiere and Carl Fortier scored two runs each for the Expos while Patrick Forgues, Louis Rivard, Steven Theroux and Francois Braum each added singles.

The Elan runs came from Serge Dubec, Eric Lavrendeau and Pierre Menard — all scoring twice. Serge Turgeon added the other marker.

Eric Forgues collected the win as he lasted the entire game.

Marc Bilodeau received the loss. Turgeon came in to pitch in the sixth.

Next games for the Little League will be Monday night when the Red Sox will play Richelieu. This game will start at 6 p.m. at the Parade Grounds.

In Lennoxville the Yankees will host the Expos. 6:05 is the starting time at the Optimist Park.

A's end streak

SHERBROOKE (MG) — Ace St. Jean pitcher Daniel Boule held the Sherbrooke A's to a 1-0 score, putting an end to their eight-game winning streak.

The only run came in the fifth inning. Pirates' third baseman Bernard Smith received a walk, and left-fielder Martin Beauregard slammed a triple against losing pitcher Jean Grenier (3-3).

Boule went the complete distance striking out 11

batters and allowing three hits. Bernard Boutin whacked two doubles in the seventh and the other hit belonged to rightfielder Jacques Chapelaine.

Next home game will be Saturday at 8 p.m. when the Charlesbourg Alouettes come to town.

Abenaki move created U.S.-Canada buffer zone

One of the most romanticized periods of Canadian history is the French and Indian Wars. This refers to the period when New France and New England jockeyed for control of the North American fur trade. Both colonies sought Indian allies to aid them in their struggle for supremacy.

The Abenaki people, forced out of their native territory in what is now Maine and New Hampshire during the late 1600's, migrated north. They settled along the rivers and lakes of the Eastern Townships.

This was a convenient situation for the French settlements in the St. Lawrence Valley, because the Abenakis afforded a buffer zone between them and New England. The dispossessed Indians were easily incited to make raids on the "Bostonians" to the south, resulting in several decades of bloody border warfare. Virtually no northern New England village was immune to Abenaki attack.

The war tactics employed by the Abenakis were completely unfamiliar to the New Englanders. War parties sometimes consisted of no more than two or three men. They struck with lightning ferocity and then disappeared into the forest.

Trained from childhood, warriors could run at a steady pace all day long, and they were usually miles away from the scene of an attack before pursuit could be organized.

More often than not, the Indians took white captives north with them. Captives were taken for three possible reasons: to be ritually tortured to death; to be sold to the French who later ransomed them back to their families; or to be adopted by the Indians. From time to time, emissaries from New England went to the Abenaki villages in the hopes of buying back captives. However, they were not always successful.

The Abenakis, like other Eastern Woodland Indians, practiced adoption in terms of replacing those who had died in war or of natural causes. Once a captive was accepted into the nation, he or she enjoyed full equality with the other members of the village. Records show that a surprising number of New Englanders adapted very well to Abenaki life, and when given the opportunity to return south, they chose to stay with their adopted families. By this time, the Abenakis had converted to Catholicism and quite often the adopted New Englanders did likewise. We find traces of them in the registers of various parishes.

Yesteryears

By IAN TAIT

At the mission of St. Francis (destroyed by Roger's Rangers in 1759) on April 3, 1704, Charles Dubois married Marie-Ursule. The real name of this woman was Mercy Adams, the daughter of Charles and Rebecca Adams. She had been taken captive by the Abenakis on July 29, 1694.

On January 4, 1710, Mary-Anne Davis took the name

Sante Cecile, when she joined the holy order of les Soeurs de l'Hotel-Dieu at Quebec City. Captured by the Abenakis at the age of six, she lived with them for 14 years at St. Francis before she decided to become a nun.

In 1750, Lieutenant Studdert was sent to Canada by Governor Clinton of New York, to negotiate an exchange of prisoners. He mentions a certain John who wanted to remain with the St. Francis Abenakis. The lad had been captured on November 9, 1747 near Fort Saint George. He was 15 years at the time.

In 1760, an Abenaki prisoner of war was sent by General Amherst, the Indian agent, to William Johnson for interrogation. It was learned that his name was Jonathan and that he had been captured by the St. Francis Indians in 1745. The young warrior spoke fluent Abenaki and French, but had almost completely lost his English.

If Roger's Rangers had not burned the Mission at St. Francis, we would probably have records of many more New Englanders who became Abenakis. The descendants of these people still live in the village of Odanak, at the mouth of the St. Francis River.
