Royal Visit Draws Anglo-French Bond Of Unity Tighter

Entire French Nation Unites in Extending Warmest Welcome to British King and Queen Ever Given Foreign Royalty Visiting France—Visit Seen as Offering Important Counter-Attraction to Recent Exchange of Hitler-Mussolini Visits.

Boulogne, France, July 19.—(P)—King George and Queen Elizabeth came to France today aboard the Admiralty Yacht Enchantress for the first visit of state of British monarchs to France in a quarter century.

Shortly after their arrival in this channel port, the Sovereigns entrained for Paris with Viscount Halifax, Foreign Secretary, and the Royal Suite.

The flower of the French navy, ranged before the port of Boulogne, boomed a twenty-one gun salute and hoisted the British flag as the Enchantress entered at 12:30 p.m. (7:30 a.m., E.D.T.).

The battleship Dunkerque, five cruisers and six destroyers formed a double line outside the port, and through this line the Enchantress, met in midchannel by seven other French destroyers, passed.

Two more destroyers and two submarines which were at anchor in the harbor joined in the salute to the British monarchs, who came to reaffirm the friendship of Great Britain and France, probably stronger than at any time since the Great War.

Crews of all ships lined the decks and cheered, while ships' bands played "God Save the King!"

As soon as the Enchantress docked, Georges Bonnet, France's Foreign Minister, went aboard to greet the King and Queen.

To Queen Elizabeth, wearing black with a knot of white flowers on her left shoulder, he presented a bouquet of French roses.

A huge crowd cheered and waved banners, while troops presented arms.

The Enchantress steamed into Boulogne as the Giant Britannia Statue, standing guard at the entrance of the port, was being unveiled.

M. Bonnet was accompanied by Sir Eric Phipps, British Ambassador to France. The King, in the blue and gold uniform of an Admiral of the Fleet, stepped forward smiling, and shook M. Bonnet's right hand while the latter still was gripping the Queen's flowers in his left hand. M. Bonnet then bowed to the Queen and presented the bouquet.

The unveiling of the Britannia monument, which marks the place where the British soldiers first set foot in France in 1914 to fight in the Great War, was an impressive prelude to the landing.

As the yacht passed the breakwater, the King appeared on the bridge, turned toward the statue and saluted it. At that instant Marshal Henri Petain of France, 84, Field Marshal Lord Cavan, standing beside the monument, unveiled it. The King continued in salute until the British and French flags had slowly fallen, revealing the memorial to thousands of spectators, who cheered.

After a brief exchange of courtesies aboard the Enchantress, the King shook hands with yacht's officers and descended the gangplank with the Queen, setting foot on French soil at 12:50 p.m. (7:50 a.m., E.D.T.).

M. Bonnet presented the Royal couple to officials while the crowd cheered. The King then reviewed the guard of honor drawn up on the dock.

While hundreds of school children sang the British National Anthem in English and then the Marseillaise in French, the Sovereigns and their party proceeded afoot to the train awaiting nearby.

The train departed for Paris at 1:07 p.m. (8:07 a.m., E.D.T.). Troops presented arms and the officers of the Enchantress stood at salute while the train pulled out.

The King stood in the doorway saluting while the Queen waved and smiled. The Queen wore two strings of pearls, her favorite dark red fox fur and a black silk coat, trimmed in silver fox fur. The King wore the red sash of the French Legion.

Death Of Marie Brings Temporary Truce Between Carol And Brother

Bucharest, July 19.—(P)—The death of their mother, the Dowager Queen Marie, brought at least temporary reconciliation today between King Carol of Rumania and Nicholas Brana.

The King summoned his brother—the former Prince Nicholas, son of his titles and in exile in Italy since April 26th, 1937, for marriage a commoner—to attend the funeral of the Queen, who died Monday of an unusual form of cirrhosis of the liver at the age of sixty-two.

King Carol warned Brana, however, that he must leave Rumania immediately after the ceremonies. A solemn Requiem Mass was celebrated by Miron Cristea, Prime Minister and Patriarch of the Rumanian Orthodox Church, at the

During Robbery of Cottage
In Chicago.

Chicago, July 19.—(P)—A. C. Tarn, wealthy Winnipeg turfman, and his wife and son were bound and gagged last night by two masked gunmen who escaped with $35,000 after threatening to kidnap the son for ransom.

The robbers spent thirty minutes at the suburban Lake Zurich cottage occupied by the Tarns during the Arlington Park racing season in search for more money.

Tarn, forty-six, owns a stable of horses now running at Arlington Park. He cashed a cheque for $500 at the track yesterday and it was believed the robbers saw it and trailed him.

Upon their entrance, the robbers said "We want the dough." Tarn denied he had any money. "We know better," he answered one of the gunmen. They forced Mr. and Mrs. Tarn and their nineteen-year-old son, Clifford, into a rear bedroom, made them lie on the bed and then tied them with neckties and hosiery. One stood guard while the other searched the cottage and found $35,000.

After a whispered conference one of the robbers turned to the son and said "Get ready to come with us." Turning to Tarn he added: "Unless you give us more money, we'll kidnap your son for ransom."

Tarn said he told the robbers, "You'll have to do it then because there isn't another cent in the house."

The gunmen held a second conference that lasted five minutes. Then walked out. The Tarns quickly broke their bonds and notified police.

TWO CONVICTS WOUNDED IN ATTEMPTED PRISON BREAK

Columbus, O., July 19.—(P)—Two convicts were shot, perhaps fatally, and an Ohio penitentiary guard was knifed today in an attempted prison break.

Prison officials were busy summoning physicians and said they could not give any information over the telephone.

It was the first organized, attempted break in nearly a year.

ARGENTINE VOLCANO ERUPTS

Mendoza, Argentina, July 19.—(P)—The Descabezado Volcano, 12,750 feet above sea level on the frontier between Argentina and Chile, erupted today, pouring forth ashes and causing persons living in the vicinity to flee. The volcano had been comparatively quiet since 1932.

PLAN COMPLETE LIBERAL PARTY REORGANIZING

Adelard Godbout Issues Instructions for Revival of County Liberal Association.

Montreal, July 19.—(P)—Adelard Godbout, leader of the Provincial Liberal Party, announced today sweeping plans for reorganization of the Liberal political machine.

In conformity with the reorganization resolution proposed by Justice Minister Lapointe and approved at the recent Liberal convention at Quebec, it is proposed to set up active Liberal Associations in each of Quebec's ninety counties, the Provincial leader announced in a statement handed to the press today.

"I invite each county of the Province of Quebec to constitute a local association whose members will be chosen from each municipality," said former Premier Godbout. "In the future, the delegates of the counties will constitute a general organization committee preliminary to choosing the executive committee."

Suggestions contributing to reorganization of the party would be welcomed by either Quebec or Montreal headquarters, the leader said. "The county associations, apart from their collaboration with the central executive committee, are invited to aid the party leader in the choice of the best candidates for the next elections," the statement said.

English-speaking Liberals had claimed the right to organize themselves and were free to do so as long as they followed the same general procedure and collaborated with the executive, Mr. Godbout declared. Special pleas for aid and collaboration were addressed to the Young Liberals' Associations and the Liberal Women's Association.

The Liberal leader, in reply to questions from newspapermen, said he had no statement at present on the possibility of his seeking a seat in the Legislative Assembly. Mr. Godbout was defeated in Lislet county in the 1936 general elections by Hon. Joseph Bilodeau, Minister of Municipal Affairs, Trade and Commerce.

ITALY TAKES ANOTHER STEP TO REGIMENTATION

Rome, July 18.—(P)—Premier Mussolini today ordered all Government civilian employees to wear uniforms henceforth during working hours. Il Duce's newspaper Il Popolo d'Italia described the order as "another step in the spiritual mobilization of the country."

X-RAY MOTION PICTURES
FORECAST BY DOCTOR

Seattle, July 19.—(P)—X-ray motion pictures transmitted by wire for quick consultation by distant diagnosticians were forecast today by Dr. Leo G. Riegler, Professor of Radiology at the University of Minnesota. He said that when the X-ray motion picture becomes a reality a specialist a thousand miles away could sit in his office and watch your heart beat.

Quebec, July 19.—(P)—Dean of Laval University's Medical Faculty, Dr. P. C. Dugue, yesterday was appointed technical advisor to the Provincial Ministry of Health.

EMPIRE'S AMBASSADORS OF GOOD WILL

Today Their Majesties King George and Queen Elizabeth begin their state visit to the Republic of France. This visit is causing keen interest in the capitals of the world, for it is taken as a mark of Anglo-French defence alliance.

Their Majesties will convey to the people of France the kindly sentiments of the British Empire. The royal welcome which France has arranged for the British Sovereigns is another mark of the friendship and better understanding which today exists between the Empire and the people of the great Republic.

CHARGES BRITISH CABINET IS DOMINATED BY FASCIST GROUP

London, July 19.—(P)—Charges that the British Cabinet contains Fascist elements was voiced in the House of Lords yesterday by Lord Strabolgi, Labor peer.

After expressing deep regret the Government's refusal to approve a proposed loan to China, Lord Strabolgi ventured the opinion that certain unnamed Fascist-inclined Ministers were more friendly to Japan than to China.

Lord Stanhope, Government Leader in the Lords, promptly rose to deny Lord Strabolgi's charges. Not a single Minister can properly be classified as a Fascist, Lord Stanhope said.

The exchange was part of the debate on the Turco-British financial accord, which was adopted on second reading without a record vote. Lord Strabolgi said he felt China was entitled to help as much as Turkey, but the Government spokesman declared the loan was refused China purely because China was in a financial situation quite unlike Turkey's.

ARREST LUMBERJACK IN WOMEN'S MURDER

Nelson, B.C., July 19.—(P)—A towering thirty-two-year-old lumberjack was held by British Columbia police today, charged with the murder of fifty-five-year-old Mrs. Laura Green, native of Truro, N.S.

The arrest of Seth Daniel Ostlund came as a surprise development in police investigations of the death of Mrs. Green, whose bruised and beaten body was found Friday in a railway cut at nearby Taghum by a section gang.

Investigations convinced police the woman had been "murdered," and an autopsy revealed she died from a fractured skull. Ostlund's arrest came three days after her body was found.

OUTLINES ONTARIO OPPOSITION POLICY

Brantford, Ont., July 19.—(P)—A steady programme of road construction, protective tariffs and a "complete turning" toward home production and consumption by Canadians are advocated by Hon. Earl Rowe, Ontario Conservative party leader, as measures to restore prosperity in Ontario.

"We farmers are buying sixty-eight per cent. of our agricultural implements from the United States and that is how it is there are so many men out of jobs in this great agricultural implement manufacturing centre," Mr. Rowe said in an address here last night. He charged that Liberalism, in its present form, was a menace to the industrial and rural stability of Canada.

Japan Suffers Heavy Toll In Shanghai Guerilla Activity

Six Hundred Deaths Claimed as Chinese Roving Bands Harry Japanese Troops in Industrial Sections of Shanghai District—Three Cities Suffer in Heaviest Air Raids Since War Started as Japanese Drive On Kiukiang Along Upper Yangtze.

Shanghai, July 19.—(P)—Sharp guerrilla fighting in industrial Pootung, across the Whangpoo River from Shanghai, has cost perhaps six hundred dead the past four days.

The Pootung area had not been a scene of major fighting since the Japanese offensive to capture Shanghai last August and September. Chinese, who finally withdrew, listed two hundred Japanese casualties, one hundred dead among the attacking irregulars, and three hundred peasants killed accidentally by Japanese upon suspicion of guerrilla activity.

The Japanese drive to capture Kiukiang, 135 miles below Hankow, continued with heavy artillery and aerial shelling, but still without marked result.

The Japanese want Kiukiang so they can press on toward the China capital, and today two of their warships, in the upper Yangtze, alternated with warplanes in bombing the city. Defending land batteries replied with steady fire.

On central China fronts, the Chinese claimed recapture of Pingshan in West Hope, and Luyi in East Honan Province, and said they had occupied the outskirts of Peking, destroying railway tracks and begun attacks against Japanese garrisons in Southern Shansi, seriously hampering Japanese supply lines.

MOST INTENSIVE ATTACK OF WAR ON THREE CITIES

Hankow, July 19.—(P)—Thirty-three Japanese warplanes made the most intensive attack of the war today in the tri-city area about Hankow, Wuchang and Hanyang.

The bombardment was pointed at Wuchang and Hanyang, and huge columns of dark smoke gave evidence of fire and material damage that resulted.

The attackers, timed their arrival to coincide with the return to their Hankow base of heavy Chinese bombers at daybreak. In three separate flights, the Japanese bombers dropped their cargo as Japanese attack planes power-dived from the clouds, spattering machine-gun bullets and scattering small bombs.

REICH MARKETS DEPRESSED BY ANTI-SEMITISM

Barring of Jewish Brokers From Exchanges Increases Difficulty of Floating Large Number of Industrial Issues.

Berlin, July 19.—(P)—Increased anti-Semitism of the past month and decrees by Germany's economic director, Field Marshal Goering, appeared today to have become a double-edged sword—hitting the Jews and resulting in a stock market tumble.

A lethargy of German stock exchanges appeared in July, a likely result of Goering's decree of April 24 whereby Jews were required to register their property. This was seen as a step towards breaking the "Jewish hegemony of business life."

The so-called "Aryanization process" presently is in full swing. Along with the barring of Jewish brokers from exchanges, it induced Jews to realize on their share holdings.

Cash-hungry industry, in an effort further to enlarge its plants, also offered a considerable part of the stock holdings.

The Bourse, which has been fluctuating since March, complains of an absence of buyers. Because of this inability to absorb high sales, July consequently has resulted in a rapid drop in prices varying from seven to sixteen points.

While the downward trend optimistically is described as temporary, owing to the Jewish desire to liquidate business holdings, newspapers emphasize that the full employment in German industry and the nation's economic life are wholly unaffected by or a cause of the bourse weakness.

MANY HURT IN FIGHT AGAINST REFINERY FIRE

Twenty-two Firemen Slightly Injured in Nearly Successful Effort to Blow Out Dangerous Blaze with Steam.

Wellsboro, N.Y., July 19.—(P)—Twenty-two firemen were injured slightly here today as they made a desperate and nearly successful effort to blow out the disastrous Sinclair oil refinery fire with steam.

The new injuries, most of which were minor burns or scalds, swelled the casualty toll of the three day fire to three dead and approximately one hundred injured. Company officials estimated the loss at $1,000,000.

Only a smouldering, stubborn blaze remained in the ruins of the dewatering plant today after engineers finally succeeded in putting the power plant of the $15,000,000 refinery back in commission. With steam in the boilers for the first time since Sunday, fire fighters turned

FOSTER ELECTS JOHN O'HEARN AS COUNCILLOR

Two of Three Slated to Retire Return to Office—Only One Change of Officers.

Foster, July 19.—John O'Hearn was elected Councillor for the Municipality of Foster in the election held here yesterday. He replaces R. H. Wright, one of three members who were slated for retirement.

Hammon Spencer and Walter Phelps continue for another term. The former defeated Leo Bourbeau, a candidate nominated to oppose him, and Phelps was re-elected by acclamation as J. V. Willey, his opponent, retired before the election.

The Foster Council consists of the Mayor and six councillors.

STRIKERS SEEK LARGE SUMS IN BACK SALARIES

Test Suit Entered in Syracuse Supreme Court to Determine Right of 1,100 Strikers to About $890,000 in Back Pay.

Syracuse, N.Y., July 19.—(P)—A test suit which union leaders said would be the basis for further actions designed to gain $890,000 in back wages for 1,100 former strikers of the Syracuse plant of the Remington Arms Company is on file in Supreme Court here.

Clair Bellows, an official of the joint protective board composed of striking employees, said that if the test suit was successful, additional suits would be filed by 3,500 strikers in five other Rand plants.

Clifford H. Searl, attorney for the protective board, said the test suit was filed in behalf of William Thompson, an employee of the company for thirty years, who struck May 21, 1936.

Union officials estimated the combined suits for the 4,600 strikers would involve approximately $2,500,000.

Meantime, John Hetherington, representative of the United States Labor Relations Board, arrived in Syracuse to investigate supplementary charges brought by union officials that the company had failed to comply fully with the board's order for reinstatement of strikers on a seniority basis.

FOURTH PRINCIPAL IN COAL TRIAL DIES

Corbin, Ky., July 19.—(P)—Oscar Skidmore, twenty-two, defence witness in the Harlan anti-labor conspiracy trial at London, Ky., was killed in an automobile accident last night on a highway four miles from Harlan. Skidmore's death was the fourth fatality in the course of ten-week-old trial. Three other men, either witnesses or defendants, have been shot dead.

Struck by a car as he crossed a street, Jack Horwitz, twenty-four, suffered a possible fracture of the spine and other injuries and Eleanor Cohen was believed to have fractured her pelvis when the automobile in which she was a passenger crashed into a truck. Three others in the car with her received cuts which necessitated hospital treatment.

Emile Latour, two year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Rodolph Latour, was scalded by a kettle which upset on him at the home of his parents. His condition today was described as critical.

London Physician Acquitted After Performing Of Illegal Operation

London, July 19.—(P.—Havas)—Dr. Aleck William Bourne, prominent London obstetrician, was acquitted in Old Bailey today of charges he performed an illegal operation on a fourteen year old girl who was criminally assaulted by Royal Horse Guardsmen.

The jury ruled Dr. Bourne was not guilty of illegal act and the charges were dismissed.

The trial, which has aroused profound interest in medical circles, began yesterday. During the proceedings, Lord Horder, physician-in-ordinary to the King, came to the defence of the noted obstetrician, who had invited prosecution for purposes of a test.

Lord Horder and two prominent gynecologists, Dr. John Rawlings and Dr. William Gillatt, testified they would have acted in the same way as the defendant under the circumstances.

The jury, which included two women, took forty-five minutes to reach a verdict after Justice Macnaughten, summing up, said Dr. Bourne had performed "an act of charity without fee."

Cheers from the crowd, including leaders of the British medical profession and prominent society figures, greeted the verdict.

Dr. Bourne had insisted on being prosecuted in order to test Great Britain's rarely invoked statute against operations to prevent motherhood.

The defence pointed out that the operation had been a complete success and that the young girl left

Technical Penalty Only Punishment Anticipated For Atlantic Journey

Dublin, July 19.—(P)—Douglas G. Corrigan was $2,000 to the good today on that little "mistake" in direction which took his $900 plane across the Atlantic.

Dismissing his "wrong way" flight as "not much," the thirty-one year old Californian was up at 10 a.m. after a long night's sleep.

There won't be any more "errors" of compasses going wrong again, Corrigan admitted, because he's going to take his "unworthy" plane home by steamer.

Funds were no worry, although he was broke on alighting yesterday. "The $2,000 I got for my broadcast to America last night will keep me in pocket money while I'm here," he said.

"But as soon as I can get steamship passage fixed up I am going home. I am trying to get a boat where my plane won't have to be dismantled."

He acknowledged that "folks here still are tremendously excited about my trip, but after all it wasn't much. They've been very kind to me in not having me summoned for landing without an air-worthiness certificate."

The thirty-one year old Californian who flew an aged $900 plane, the "wrong way" across the Atlantic, set all England and Ireland talking and was proclaimed on two continents as a foolhardy hero, slept late in the guest bed of the United States legation. He wore pajamas borrowed from John Cudahy, United States Minister.

"I want a nice long rest," he told Cudahy last night. "Don't wake me for a long time. I'll sleep through breakfast."

He had the matter of his legality of his landing to settle with Irish officials, but men with names like Corrigan and Cudahy are not likely to have trouble getting over a technical difficulty when it concerns a flight like Corrigan's to Dublin.

He won't have to worry about clothes. Admirable tailors already have sent the daring aviator two new outfits.

He had offers of contracts, too, although he had been less than a day, but it was understood he turned them all down with the statement: "I prefer to be footloose while I am here and won't sign anything."

Footloose and fancy free, he is staying in Dublin a day or two without planning for the future.

The "crate" that took him the 3,150 miles from New York to Dublin, the Baldonnel airplane between 5:17 a.m. E.D.T. Sunday and 10:30 a.m. E.D.T. Monday was locked up at Baldonnel to safeguard it from souvenir hunters.

Technically Corrigan was "detained" today pending an examination of credentials and communication with the United States Government. But little trouble was expected because of the unorthodox flight.

Newspapers burst into praise. The Northern Whig of Belfast said: "Flying the Atlantic in an old dilapidated monoplane, Corrigan turned a gamble with fate into a brilliant and jaunty triumph."

The Irish News said: "Corrigan's feat without wireless, weather reports, maps or adequate instruments leaves us almost speechless with amazement."

"When the initial shock is over the hand of everyone will be lifted to salute this intrepid adventurer with an Irish name."

BIG SHORTAGE IN AFFAIRS OF HOUSING BODY

London, Ont., City Council Hears Special Report of Auditor On Alleged Shortage of $1,200 In Accounts.

London, July 19.—(P)—Irregularities totalling $1,200 in accounts of the London Housing Commission were alleged in a report read here last night to a private sitting of the City Council committee. City Auditor Harry Sing and Finance Commissioner James S. Bell presented a tentative report on their investigations into the affairs of the Commission.

The report claimed arrears during the past month of many thousands of dollars were discovered. In some cases, the report went on, city houses were recorded as vacant when in fact they had been occupied for many years.

When claims of irregularities in the Commission's accounts were first made, Leonard E. Mills, Commission Administrator for fourteen years, was placed under suspension. Mayor T. F. Kingsmill said this order would stand until the city auditor's complete report was ready.

Entire French Press United In Tribute To Visitors

Paris, July 19.—(C.P.—Havas)—The entire French press today warmly acclaimed King George and Queen Elizabeth as the capital welcomed the sovereigns with ceremonies on a scale not seen here in many years.

In an article in the independent paper Le Journal entitled, "To the ally who arrived first when our soil was in danger," General Maxime Weygand, Marshal of France, Chief of Staff in the Great War, declared:

"The welcome which Paris is prepared to give the British sovereigns will bear witness to France's sentiments toward Britain and the Royal Family. In the warmth of these welcoming ceremonies our British friends will perceive two sentiments."

"First a feeling of loyalty and gratitude toward the ally, who, without being bound by any formal engagement, arrived first on our soil when it was endangered. Second, a feeling of confidence in the future created by the fact that the relations between the two countries grow closer as the external dangers increase."

The Independent Le Petit Parisien published an illustrated page of welcome, reproducing the statements of welcome by Premier Daladier, General Weygand, Edouard Herriot, President of the Chamber of Deputies, and other prominent personalities.

"This friendship, forged by history, strengthened by experiences and trials shared in common, illuminated by glories paid for with the same blood, is precious in itself," M. Daladier said. "But circumstances make it yet more precious since it represents today the strongest and highest will for peace in the world."

The Conservative Le Figaro and Le Figaro also devoted many pages to the visit.

In L'Ouvre, Andre Maurois and Gabriel Hanotaux, members of the French Academy, recalled the visits paid to France by Queen Victoria, Edward VII and George V.

The Conservative Le Figaro headed a big article "France today acclaims the British Sovereigns" and published many photographs of the King, the Queen and Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret.

The Royalist L'Action Francaise declared the shout of "Long Live the King!" at the present time means "Long Live Peace!"

The first page of Le Petit Journal, organ of Francois de La Rocque and his Rightist French Social Party, was topped by the British coat-of-arms and a cluster of flags. De La Rocque and Jacques de La Lorette, of the French Academy, headed the visitors in articles on the front page.

London Physician Acquitted After Performing Of Illegal Operation

The hospital in perfect health. Dr. Bourne said the girl undoubtedly suffered injuries when she was attacked by the Guardsmen which might have affected her ability to give birth without danger. The age and temperament of the young girl also strongly influenced his decision to operate, the physician declared.

The main question in the trial was whether the operation could be performed only to have a prospective mother's life or also for the sake of her health and future.

The judge told the jury: "Here is a man of the highest skill who openly at one of our great hospitals performs an operation."

"Whether it is legal or illegal you have to determine. But the performance of that operation was an act of charity without fee, and unquestionably Mr. Bourne believed he was doing the right thing in the performance of his duty as a medical man, one of a profession devoted to the alleviation of human suffering."

Starlings To Aid Fight On Ontario Pest

Toronto, July 19.—(P)—That old Ontario pest, the malignant black starling, may be of some use after all, farmers are beginning to suspect. Despised by fruit farmers because the birds eat the fruit they are seen as a new hope by grain farmers whose fields are being threatened by the destructive army worm.

In Oxford County farmers report great swarms of starlings are settling down in infested fields to feed on the worms. But the presence of the birds indicates the presence of the worms so they are not entirely welcome.

Reports of new swarms of army worms are being received daily at the offices of the Department of Agriculture here.

One of the greatest grain and hay crops in years in Calvin Township, North Bay district, is threatened. Farmers are uniting to fight the worms in the Corners district there.

The pest has moved south from Perth township in Oxford and Zorra township farms has been attacked. It is hoped there, however, that other crops will be ready for harvest before great damage is done.

CENTURIES-OLD THAMES CUSTOM BEING HONORED

Fleet of Six Swift Rowboats Started From London for Branding of Annual Crop of Young Swans.

London, July 19.—A fleet of six swift rowboats started up the Thames from London on the annual, centuries-old expedition to brand the year's crop of young swans.

Manned by the King's Swan-keeper and the markers who do the work of branding, the little fleet moved along leafy banks into quiet backwaters where the swans nest among the reeds.

Ownership of the birds, on the Thames is a three-cornered partnership. The King's share has not been marked in recent centuries. But the other swans, which belong to the two City Livery Companies, the Vintners and the Dyers, must be branded.

"All up" is the cry when a family is sighted.

Instantly the boats scatter and surround the swans for the ticklish business of curbing the old birds and nicking the beaks of the Cygnets, or baby swans.

The swans put up a stiff fight in the water, and sometimes the boats upset the boats.

PAPER FEATURE OF ST. ARMAND GROUP SESSION

Mrs. H. Guthrie Delivered Interesting Discourse on "National Parks" at Meeting of Women's Institute.

St. Armand, July 19.—Mrs. George Krans entertained the St. Armand Women's Institute at her home, twelve members being present.

After singing the opening ode and repeating the club women's creed, the members answered the roll call with a "Rhyme in Relay."

The minutes of last meeting were read, together with a letter of thanks for a gift to the Victorian Order of Nurses.

The treasurer read her report and several bills were presented and ordered paid.

An excellent paper on "National Parks" was read by Mrs. H. Guthrie, who also conducted a true and false contest, the pretty prize falling to Mrs. F. Sager.

A detailed report of the Macdonald College convention was read by Mrs. George Krans, after which final plans were laid for a lawn social.

The hostess served tea from a table graced by a centerpiece of flowers.

CONSIDER $25,000 LIGHTING PROGRAMME

Erecting Twelve New Light Standards On Melbourne St.

Electricity Department Members Plan Trip to United States to Study Most Modern Street Lighting Methods Before Inaugurating Proposed $25,000 Programme—Melbourne Street Lights Will be Ready Within Two Weeks.

City Council is contemplating a $25,000 street lighting programme to be inaugurated in the fall, the Record learned from a reliable source today.

Following out their plan to provide proper street lighting and at the same time beautify the city, municipal authorities yesterday commenced the installation of twelve cement light standards along Melbourne street to the first route leading to Elmwood Cemetery. Cost of this undertaking has been estimated at $1,200. Citizens along Melbourne street have long complained about the inadequate lighting along that thoroughfare.

Their street lighting programme in East Sherbrooke completed, the Council and more particularly the Electricity Department under chairmanship of Ald. Alex Ross, have realized the pressing need for better lighting facilities along Melbourne street and work on the twelve new standards started yesterday to be completed within two weeks.

The standards will be erected in the stone wall which flanks the road, rounding the corner and continuing down to the first house. The Record learned this morning there would be little further work of this nature until the fall when members of the Electricity Committee plan a trip to the United States to survey the most up-to-date methods of street lighting.

SANITARIUM ADVOCATED FOR BALDWIN'S MILLS

Coaticook, July 19.—The establishment of a tuberculosis sanitarium at Baldwin's Mills has been advocated by certain local citizens. If a suitable site could not be found at Baldwin's Mills, it is felt that some other convenient location, endowed with the necessary facilities for a hospital of this nature, could be obtained in this vicinity.

The plan will be given consideration by the Coaticook Board of Trade and other interested citizens.

FORMER SHERBROOKE RESIDENT PASSED AWAY

The death occurred at Riviere du Loup of Alexander Garwood, a former resident of Sherbrooke, who passed away at the age of ninety years.

Mr. Garwood was born in London, England, but came to Canada at an early age. In 1877 he was married to Catharine Rankin, who predeceased him several years ago.

In 1900 Mr. Garwood left Sherbrooke to make his home in Riviere du Loup. Possessed of an artistic nature, he was for many years employed as interior decorative artist for the Intercolonial Railway. Being a painter of note, Mr. Garwood turned out some very fine painting and he devoted many hours of his leisure time to fancy painting which was a delight to behold.

During the past few years he has been living in retirement, but advancing years failed to lessen his enthusiasm for his life's work. Despite his advanced age, he continued his painting, making many useful and beautiful articles which he gave to friends. He was also responsible for the artistic decorations and intricate painting in many of the public buildings of Sherbrooke and Montreal, including the first Bishop's Palace in Sherbrooke.

Mr. Garwood is survived by two sons, Harry, of Valleyfield, and George, of Riviere du Loup. A daughter, Mrs. T. G. Flaherty, predeceased her father a little over a year ago.

The remains were brought to Sherbrooke and laid to rest in the family lot beside his wife, daughter and son, who died in early childhood.

The Sheriff of the District of

Crops On Number Of District Farms Threatened By Army Worm Outbreak

Crops on a number of Eastern Township farms are being threatened by a serious outbreak of Army Worms and harvesting is being rushed, in some instances before the crops are nearly ready for cutting. W. G. MacDougall, District Agriculturalist, stated to a Record reporter in an interview this morning.

Similar outbreaks were reported in Western Quebec and Eastern Ontario last week, he said, and all farmers in this district should be on the lookout for the pest as it is feared there may be other serious outbreaks, damaging oats and barley, within the next ten or twelve days.

Certain control measures, in the form of poisoned bait composed of bran, paris green, molasses and water, to be sprayed in the fields already affected by the worms, and other preventative measures through spraying of an arsenate of lime solution, have been recommended by the Quebec Department of Agriculture, Mr. MacDougall said.

The Department, he added, has agreed to aid farmers in the control of the outbreak by paying for the insecticides used in spraying of the material purchased for preparation of poisoned bait.

Godbout Held Best Choice As Quebec Liberal Party Leader

Liberal Association of Sherbrooke County Heard Delegates Give Impressions of Quebec Convention at Howard Club Last Night.

Quebec Liberals, having elected Adelard Godbout to the leadership of their party, are now giving him their whole-hearted support for the formation and carrying out of a worthwhile Liberal programme in this Province. This opinion was expressed last night at an open meeting of the Sherbrooke County Liberal Association by eight speakers, most of whom were present at the recent Liberal convention at Quebec City when the party choice was made.

Under the chairmanship of Maurice Giguere, president of the local Liberal organization, the meeting was addressed by Charles B. Howard, Liberal Member of Parliament for Sherbrooke, A. Trudeau, president of the Howard Club, L. P. Brousseau, secretary-treasurer of the Liberal Association, Dr. Ludger Forest, A. Martin, Mayor of Rock Forest, Cesar Gervais, K.C., and Dalma Landry.

Mr. Gervais summed up the purpose of the meeting, and even of the Liberal Association itself, in that the delegates to the convention were relaying their impressions of what occurred at Quebec and that the Association was the party's means of contact with its supporters. Mr. Gervais maintained that before long Adelard Godbout will have established the Liberal flag on the Citadel at Quebec.

As a delegate to the convention Mr. Howard was impressed by the university of classes of society, walks of life and geographical representation of those there. After Edward Lacroix, Member of Parliament for Beauce County, had withdrawn his name from nomination for the Quebec Liberal leadership there was a popular and universal vote for Mr. Godbout and a belief that he was the best man to nominate for the office, he said.

Mr. Brousseau read a report of the Association's activities during recent months.

The Liberal citizens, who are the real Liberal force of the party, should always see that the name of the party is preserved, said Mr. Forest. Misleading blocs of so-called real Liberals should not be taken seriously, he said. The man who has been named head of the party should be given the strongest support possible.

What impressed Mr. Landry was the fact that there were adherents of the Liberal party at the Quebec congress from many far-off isolated places.

Frontiersmen's Main Object Is To Be Of Service To Empire

The Legion of Frontiersmen is a self-governing body that refuses to participate in politics of any kind, its main object being to be of service to the Empire, it was stressed last night at the regular meeting and drill parade of "S" Squadron which was recently organized in Sherbrooke.

The Squadron turned out twenty strong at the Belvidere street armory under the command of Major W. W. Fole, V.D., who was largely instrumental in the organization a few months ago of the local unit.

The Frontiersmen are affiliated with the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and develop and practice semi-military training for its educational and recreational value. It was pointed out.

Following a brief business session, the Squadron, which meets every Monday night at the armory of Les Fusiliers, indulged in a two-hour drill period. First aid training and revolver practice will be taken up in the near future.

HEAT VICTIM MET DEATH AT COWANSVILLE

Wilfred Duquette Accidentally Killed When He Fell Under Hay Wagon — Services Held at St. Therese Church Yesterday.

Cowansville, July 19.—Funeral services were held yesterday for Wilfred Duquette, who was accidentally killed when he was apparently overcome by the heat and fell under the wheel of a hay wagon. The heavy vehicle passed over his chest, causing almost instantaneous death.

Mr. Duquette was assisting one of his sons-in-law in the latter's hay field when the fatality occurred. The remains were later taken to the home of his daughter, Mrs. Armand Poirier.

Deceased was sixty-seven years old and is survived by three daughters, three sons and eleven grandchildren. Miss Jeanne Duquette, local Postmistress, is a daughter.

Final tribute was paid Mr. Duquette in St. Therese Church and interment was made in Sweetburg Cemetery beside the grave of his wife, who predeceased him seven years ago.

MAGOG STORE GUTTED BY FLAMES

Magog, July 19.—After battling flames for approximately an hour and a half, the Magog fire brigade gained control of a conflagration which broke out in the Bousada Block at approximately ten o'clock this morning.

The blaze is believed to have started in the office of the Union Five and Ten Cent Store, although the cause has not yet been determined. The store itself was badly gutted, while water and smoke caused considerable damage to adjoining places of business.

A restaurant operated by Paul Raymond, L. Degre's grocery store and the Bousada furniture shop were in danger for some time, but quick work by the fire brigade prevented the spreading of the flames.

Canada's oldest practising surveyor passes.

Calgary, July 19.—(G. A. P. Patrick, one of the first residents of Calgary and the oldest practising surveyor in the Dominion, was ninety years old today.

He celebrated his birthday by walking eleven blocks to his office as he has done for the past thirty years and tinkering around with a new fangled game that teaches a person to play bridge.

Born in Quebec, he first came west to Manitoba and in 1874 moved to Calgary.

YOUNGSTER SMOTHERED AT PLAY

Atlanta, July 19.—(T. Thirteen-year-old Jasper Ray Love, Jr., at home alone during the day while his parents worked in a hat factory, often sought his own amusements. Neighbors said he enjoyed hiding in obscure places. Last night he was found smothered to death in a cedar chest. His boy scout knife lay nearby and he had removed two of five screws from the heavy chest lock, apparently in a vain attempt to free himself.

Brae Manor Director Claims E.T. Fine Field For Theatre

Filmore Sadler, Who Appeared In "The Late Christopher Bean" Last Night, Says His Group Will Make Determined Effort to Develop Theatre Throughout This District—Will Present "Rotating Stock."

Believing that a splendid field for summer productions exists in this district, the Brae Manor Players, who last night presented "The Late Christopher Bean" at North Hatley, are endeavoring to promote the theatre in the Eastern Townships, according to Director Filmore Sadler.

"I believe that there is a fine field for summer shows throughout the district, just as there is in the summer resorts of the United States," he said to a Record representative following last evening's performance.

He added that the company, now well known at Knowlton, intends to one Christmas "beat it known in the theatre as a 'rotating stock'."

"Christopher Bean" is a comedy, he said; "next week we will offer a mystery, then something serious, followed by another comedy. We are doing what we believe is an important work in the training of those who are keen on dramatics and we pride ourselves that our productions are carried out in a true professional manner."

The play last night was handled deftly from beginning to end, with the cast playing their parts naturally and effectively. The well known plot of the "Late Christopher Bean" tells the story of a New England country doctor and his family, including the hired girl, Abby. Ten years before they had as their guest, and patient to the doctor, a tubercular painter, one Christopher Bean. He dies in great poverty. It is not until later that his art is recognized and the world clamors for his paintings. The good doctor is besieged with telegrams and visitors from New York, who entirely upset his home. He is swindled out of two of Bean's pictures, then in turn tries to steal away the portrait of Abby, the hired girl, that Bean had painted of her and given her. The story ends with Abby revealing herself as the wife of Christopher Bean and the heir to all his pictures.

The love interest is supplied by Susan Haggitt, Dr. Bean's young daughter, and Warren Creamer, a pupil of the late Christopher Bean. Filmore Sadler, in the role of Dr. Haggitt, dominated the cast and gave a polished performance. Dorothy Hearn as Abby, the hired girl who understood, loved and married Christopher Bean, was thoroughly at home in her part, giving a restrained and touching performance. Her scene with Tallant, the picture forger, when she told him of the things she had learnt from the dead painter and what memories he had left her, was the finest individual bit of acting in the play.

Susan Haggitt, played by Phyllis Thaxter, filled her part admirably. Miss Thaxter was natural, sincere and very decorative. With an appealing smile and manner she charmed not only the rural Warren, but the delighted audience. Lillian Rowland, as the greedy Mrs. Haggitt, who yearned for the material blessings in life, gave a well studied performance. She handled her New England accent well and was entirely convincing as the grasping mother.

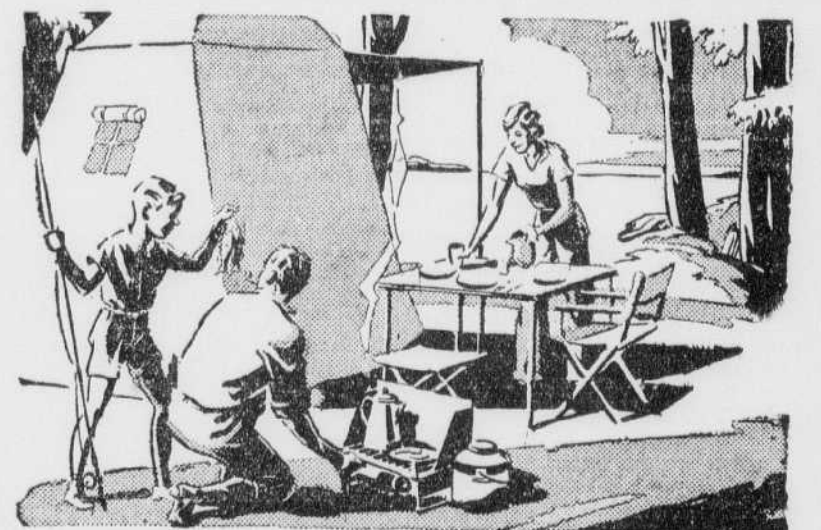

Peggy Atkinson, as Ada Haggitt, the greedy, elder and unlabeled daughter of Dr. Haggitt, played her part to the full. Cast as a slightly hysterical girl, terrified that her younger sister would be married first, Miss Atkinson seemed to force a bit when called on to burst into tears of rage. Her facial expressions were very good, while her lines were spoken with an assurance and ease that was perfect.

With the exception of Dr. Haggitt and Rosen, the male members of the cast were slightly weaker in their parts than the women. Manly Mitchell, as the painter-lover Warren Creamer, gave a sincere, but slightly juvenile performance. Tallant, the picture forger who first duped the doctor, got away with two of Bean's pictures and then proposed a business deal based on "friendly co-operation," was very assured and smooth. Rosen, the picture dealer who dealt in forgeries but was willing to stage a real show with the Bean masterpieces, played his part to perfection, taking full opportunity of the humor and full-blooded language of his role. His bit was one of the brightest spots in the play.

Tim Whalen, as Davenport, the art critic, was convincing in an apathetic part, although perhaps not commanding enough as the one true artist who really knew the intrinsic value of the pictures as well as their material worth.

Next Monday the Brae Manor Players will present "The Stranger," a thriller written by Frank Vosper.

The Royal Visit To France

The rapidly growing friendship between the once traditional enemies of Western Europe is undergoing further consolidation this week with the state visit of Their Majesties, King George and Queen Elizabeth, to President Lebrun of France.

It is essentially on the common front presented by these two great democracies, supported by the United States, that the hopes for continued peace in Europe rests. If these two major powers can present a united stand against the aggression and ambitions of any dictator or group of dictators, the peace of Europe can be considered assured, for in these two nations is centered the bulk of the wealth and economic resources of the Old World, while their combined military forces and potential reserves of manpower are stronger than any other combination of powers.

But if they fail to maintain a policy of joint action, it will be only a matter of time before the world is plunged into a new holocaust which will surpass anything that has been witnessed in the past. Any wide rift between the policies of these democracies will only serve as an invitation to some of the troublemakers of Europe to renew their expansionist policies, probably at the expense of one or other members of the entente, or to the disadvantage of their allies.

It is for the purpose of cementing this entente and strengthening against future attack that Their Majesties are making this somewhat unusual visit and it is to be sincerely hoped that the enthusiasm displayed by the people of France will be reflected in England with a growth of good feeling.

Those Antiquated Laws

From time to time some zealous person—news-paper reporter or otherwise—seeks to learn more of the laws governing his city or his province and as a result many rather unexpected measures are unearthed. In Vancouver such a probe uncovered the fact that every motorist in the city was liable to arrest, as the bylaw directing that traffic keep to the left has never been repealed, although under a provincial ordinance the city has been "keeping to the right" for eighteen years.

Apparently like Sherbrooke, Vancouver aldermen in the past have been gravely concerned with the question of abbreviated bathing suits, for an ordinance forbids bathers to appear on city beaches "without a proper bathing dress covering the body from neck to knees."

Automobile owners inclined to dust their machines while parked in front of the residence of their lady love are also on the blacklist under a law forbidding the cleaning of vehicles or the currying of horses on public streets.

Mayor Gerry McGeer is also affected by a measure which requires him to be in his office at least one hour daily, and the hour must be named when he assumes his post. Just what fine is imposed for failure to carry out this function is not announced, but it must amount to something substantial by now as His Worship spends considerable time each winter gathering national fame at Ottawa by his monetary reform proposals.

Other members of the Council are also regulated by a bylaw enjoining them not to speak "disrespectfully" of any persons administering the Government of Canada or the Province.

Maybe a search of local legislation might unearth some rather startling facts on limits placed on Sherbrooke aldermen.

Escourt Cows Cause More Trouble

It is extremely doubtful that for a normally peace-loving breed of animal of no great pedigree, any four-footed domestic beast has received as much attention and as many press headlines in recent months than the cows of Escourt, Quebec, a little settlement in Temiscouata county on the Maine border.

In the months gone by, one of the cows in question fell into the bad graces of some United States customs officer, or perhaps an immigration inspector, by crossing the border to feed in the verdant pastures of northern Maine. The said bovine was promptly imprisoned or impounded and its bail, or fine, set at twenty-five dollars. The exact charge against the cow has not as yet been clearly outlined so the average citizen is still unaware if it was accused of seeking to bring beef into the United States without payment of duty, or of breaking the law against labor commuters designed to halt people from making their living in the United States, or again of merely being an undesirable alien.

Not content with seizing one cow, the United States officers precipitated another international incident by corraling eight cows belonging to ex-Mayor Ludger Richard, of Escourt. His ex-Worship became highly indignant and appealed to Francois J. Pouliot, fame-seeking member of Parliament for the county, who in turn, has placed the problem before the Dominion Government, demanding that something drastic—such as annexing the United States, or sending an army to protect the Escourt cows—be done.

Ottawa sees things in a different light, however, and an informal note to Washington has brought the reply that the matter will be duly probed and the customs regulations relaxed in such a manner as to allow the Escourt cows their feed. Thus passes another world crisis.

Queen Marie of Rumania

Both beautiful and accomplished, and one of the outstanding personages on the Continent of Europe for many years during a critical period of the world's development, Dowager Queen Marie of Rumania is dead at the comparatively early age of sixty-three years.

But it was not in Europe alone that she was a familiar figure, the Continent of North America holding a special interest for her and she made an extensive tour of the United States during the administration of President Coolidge. Here she made a special study of economic and social reform, being actively interested in the welfare of people of all classes.

Of English descent, she played an important part in bringing Rumania into the struggle on behalf of the allies during the Great War, her influence being credited with forging the decision of a country in an unusually critical position.

With the coming of peace, the worries of Queen Marie were apparently only starting, her domestic tribulations being reflected in the abdication of her son in favor of his young boy, and his later return to the Throne of his country. However, she never lost her regal bearing and was no inconsequential figure in maintaining unity in Rumania when the country was torn with internal dissension.

In her passing, Rumania loses a noble figure and the Continent of Europe an unusual woman.

Reading about the Howard Hughes flight has suggested at last what the toughest job in the world is: calling stations between Omsk and Yakutsk.

It's getting so a man cannot have any fun any more. Brides and grooms have been forbidden to kiss in a Cleveland church, and officials in Cairo have clamped a ban on wailing at funerals.

WILD DUCKS ON THE POND

The tame ducks waddled through the crystal blur of filmy ice at edges of the pond. And flapped their wings and called. I saw the stir of wings against the sky that spread, beyond the hill, like ice-films in the early light. And from that curve of vastness came the cry of wild ducks slanting down in rhythmic flight. To bring with them the splendors from the sky.

The pond was rippled into arctic blue. That winked with hidden fires before each breast—And tame ducks mingled with them to renew The feast and play with unaccustomed jest. Then wild wings thundered up, and rainbow spray Fell back to flapping wings that had to stay.

MANION AND BENNETT

(Toronto Star)

He (Dr. Manion), and his leader, Mr. Bennett, had a difference in Parliament three years ago and Dr. Manion said, "You can have my resignation any time." The two men glared at one another for several moments; then the Manion grip spread over the Irish face and the tension apparent in Mr. Bennett relaxed. Later that year, when Dr. Manion defeated Mr. Bennett, he tried to find another seat for him.

The new Conservative leader is favored with the friendship of Mr. Stevens, Mr. Ferguson and Mr. Bennett. At a banquet Mr. Bennett said of him, "He is one who by his force of character has won a great place in the State and has brought high honor and distinction to himself and to the position he holds. He has the wit of his race, to which he does great credit. He is lovable, he is genial and he is companionable. He is thoughtful and loyal. He is pains-taking and hardworking and he loves his country intensely."

FAIRNESS IN CRITICISM

(Brantford Expositor)

The St. Thomas Times-Journal notes that the Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett on the last day of Parliament, when he was acknowledging the tributes that had been paid to him as leader of the Conservative party, replied by saying that his opponents had sometimes been very kind and sometimes very cruel. Mr. Bennett was certainly justified in making that observation, as perhaps no man in public life in Canada has been more maligned and unfairly criticized than he has been. He deserved well of Canada for plotting Canada through five of the most difficult years in its economic history. He stood for Canada first at all times and under all circumstances, and was always on the alert to protect Canadian interests. It is a pity that criticism of public men is too frequently malicious, inspired by partisan motives, and calculated to injure its victims. It is probable that more men of outstanding ability would be attracted to parliamentary careers if they felt convinced that they would not become the targets for unfair partisan and frequently cruel criticism. Premier Bennett did not fail to raise the issue, not only for his credit but for the public good, who have been the recipients of just as much cruelty.

ALCOHOL AND AUTOS

(Sarnia Canadian Observer)

A clergyman in Toronto addressed his congregation recently regarding an article he had read in an English magazine wherein it was related that the latest innovation in the deluxe motor car was a cocktail set which embodied all the accessories for alcoholic beverages. Apparently the minister, who made some aspersions on the Ontario government for permitting such equipment, was misinformed, for there is no evidence to the effect that Canadian cars are equipped in the way indicated and even the existing regulations are such that anyone who attempted to serve cocktails or other alcoholic drinks on the highways, would be subject to penalties. Neither is it likely that any manufacturer of motor cars in Canada would encourage facilities for drinking while on the road. There is not much doubt that public opinion would be overwhelmingly against the idea. It is admitted that there is a certain amount of drinking in cars and some people are sufficiently reckless to drink alcoholic beverages while in charge of cars, but there is unmistakable evidence of a rising tide of public disapproval of that outrage. Everywhere the sentiment is crystallizing against those who drink and then attempt to drive cars.

TOUTING FOR BEER

(Orillia Packet and Times)

When government control of liquor was adopted, the principle was laid down that the object was to enable those who desired alcoholic beverages to obtain them, but that nothing should be done to promote their sale. For this reason, the manufacturers of these beverages were forbidden to advertise, a restriction confirmed by Mr. Hepburn when he came into office. Deprived of the regular channels for pushing the sale of their wares, the brewers are adopting devious methods of evading the restriction placed on them. One of these is to despatch a genial young gentleman, well supplied with the means of making himself a good fellow, to conceptions of the regular channels for pushing the sale of their wares. He is known as their public relations man, and his business is to win popularity for his employers and their products. Similarly, agents of the breweries come into a town and invite citizens with whom they became or make themselves acquainted, to sample their brands without cost. This business of toutage for the beer business is in many respects a more objectionable form of sales promotion than direct advertising, and we should think that, once their attention is called to it, the Government would take steps to see that the law was no longer evaded in this way.

BALKS AT OWN MEDICINE

(Peace River Record)

The whole situation serves to emphasize how vicious has been the Alberta Government's anti-financial propaganda. The banks have been performing a public service as is now agreed by Mr. Aberhart in his protest. He wants them to stay even if he is compelled to swallow all the nasty propaganda he has been issuing against them. We must have sinking service and since Mr. Aberhart and his gang realize their own inability to undertake a banking system of their own, Mr. Aberhart is the first to squeal because his programme of persecution has backfired.

The idea still persists today in many sections that cats will suffocate a sleeping child by sucking its breath. Such a belief is not based on fact, but, perhaps on the fact that cats do like to sit on the chest of a sleeping person, which, in the case of babies, makes breathing difficult.

TIMELY COMMENTS

All the devious devices of our political medicine men to re-distribute the wealth we have is nothing more or less than economic cannibalism. Cannibals eat each other instead of going out and finding or producing food. And that is what a civilized people do when they turn their attention to devouring what they have, rather than trying to create more and thereby have more for everybody to consume.—Nation's Business.

Nothing but local ire is likely to result from the proposal of Sir William Allen, Deputy Grand Master of the Grand Orange Lodge of Ireland, the North should ask Great Britain to give her County Donegal "to complete Northern Ireland." As the Donegalers are mostly Catholic and Gaelic-speaking, the Eire is in them. The county accordingly presents no Sudeten problem. If there is any worry it will be at Westminster.—Montreal Gazette.

Our young people today, if they possess anything of the spirit of their pioneering forefathers, will not feel too sorry for themselves in what they may think to be their plight. Their lot may seem hard, but it is not as hard as was the lot of their fathers, most of whom never knew the education nor the care nor the comforts which go to so many young people today. Let them remember that life, at best, isn't easy; that it is an endless adventure, a hard and long battle with unavoidable reverses. To ask the place without the dust is to ask too much.

I was surprised to find that American morals and customs were so moderate. I had been led to believe that this was a very wild country, indeed.—President Vaino Hakkinen of the Finnish Parliament, visiting the United States.

It will take the American government years to catch up with the scientific society which supposedly operates under it.—Robert Bolling Lambeth, leader of student conference on public affairs at the University of Virginia.

Nothing the fiction writers concocted could be more exciting than the day-to-day happenings of these times.—Margaret Ayer Barnes, fiction writer.

"It is true that food prices are higher today than they were during the slump, but one reason is because people are eating more and better food."—Mrs. George Hall.

"We are beginning to understand in this country more and more that there is one law for the rich, an other law for the poor." — J. S. Woodsworth, M.P.

From The Pen Of E.T. Writers

TO MURDO N. MCKAY, WHO DIED AT THE RED MOUNTAIN ON JUNE 23rd, 1938.

The day is warm and silent,
The sun is hot o'erhead,
When news comes from the Red Mountain—
Yes, "Murdo Neal" is dead.

Oh Murdo, we shall miss you,
For few have gone before
Who treated people truer
Than you did of yore.

Your daily deeds upon this earth
Showed your upright honesty,
What drove you to that fate of yours
Can ne'er be probed by me.

There's many now that cannot say
They lived a life like you have led,
You worked both long and bravely
To earn your "daily bread."

And yet no matter how much work
That you did have ahead,
Your daily prayers went up to God—
A Christian life you led.

On Sundays when at church would meet
The people from around,
'Twas you who'd lead those Gaelic hymns
In a voice both clear and round.

But now 'tis true, no more we'll hear
You ring those Gaelic strains;
But let us hope beyond the grave
We'll meet with you again.

And so, before I close this piece,
May I have this to say,
"We should all remember 'Murdo Neal'
As we knew him in his day."

Lingwick, Que.

diamonds, then, hoping that the trumps split three-two, laid down the ace and another trump and succeeded in going down 2,200 points or four tricks at his game contract.

Bemoaning his luck after the hand was over, Bixby pointed out the way to make the contract with a distribution which existed. South should have led only the ace of trumps, and then laid down the ace, king and queen of clubs. This line of play would have limited West to his two high trumps and the diamond ace.

IN THE WOMEN'S SPHERE

NEWLY-WEDDED COUPLE FETED IN WATERLOO

Mr. and Mrs. Roger McKergow Tendered Welcome by Congregation of St. Paul's United Church On Return From Honeymoon.

Waterloo, July 19.—The high esteem in which Mr. and Mrs. Roger McKergow are held was manifested when upwards of fifty members of the congregation of St. Paul's United Church assembled at the home of Dr. and Mrs. E. A. Blake to welcome them on their return from their wedding trip.

Following the cordial greetings extended the guests of honor on their arrival, a delightful pleasant social hour was spent, the following musical numbers being rendered: Piano duet, Mrs. Colwill and Mrs. Daigneau; trumpet solo, Mr. Mervin Rogers, accompanied by Mrs. David Brown; vocal duet, Mrs. Gunter and Mrs. Colwill, accompanied by Miss Lucia Graves, piano solo, Mrs. David Brown.

Rev. E. M. Wilson addressed the guests of honor, after which Mr. and Mrs. McKergow were presented with two handsome gifts, a tea wagon from the senior members of the congregation, the presentation being made by Mr. Henry Bird, and a coffee table from the Young People. Mr. Ralph Broadhurst making the presentation.

The invaluable and highly appreciated services rendered St. Paul's Church organizations by Mr. McKergow was emphasized by the speakers who extended a warm welcome to Mrs. McKergow.

Following the bridegroom's feeling expressions of appreciation on behalf of himself and Mrs. McKergow, refreshments were served.

General Notes

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Marcell and son, Billy, and Mrs. Albert Bouchard, of Montreal, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Smith and family.

Miss Susie McGuirk, of Saginaw, Mich., who for several months has been a guest of her sister-in-law, Mrs. George McGuirk and family, is leaving this week for Montreal where on Monday, July 11th, she will be joined by her niece, Miss Jean Delorme, and Mr. Delorme, of Acion Vale. They will accompany her on a motor trip to Michigan. Miss McGuirk expects to leave on September 1, for California, where she will spend the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rutherford, of Granby, and Mr. Wesley Woolley, of Stratford, Conn., were guests of Mrs. W. H. Woolley.

Mrs. Henry Neil has gone to Montreal to join her sister, Miss Margaret MacFarlane, G.N., in a boat trip down the Saguenay and around the Gaspé Coast as far as Newfoundland. Mrs. Neil will be away from home for two weeks.

Mrs. Weir is spending several months in Vancouver with a daughter and her family.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Dawson, of Verdun, visited Mr. and Mrs. James Beswick and daughter, Doreen.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Cowling, of Scottstown, were among those who attended the reception given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Roger McKergow.

MARRIAGES

GREEN—ROSS

Leeds Village, July 19.—The marriage of Mabel Alberta, second daughter of the late Mr. Charles Ross and Mrs. Ross, of Lemaireville, to Mr. William Thomas Green, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Green, of Hamilton, Ont., was solemnized in St. James' Church, Leeds Village.

Babs Travels Far for Her Romances, But Somehow They Just Don't Last

People with heaving hearts often have itchy feet as well.

Barbara Hutton Midvanti Haugwitz-Reventlow, now sweeping up in a London court the fragments of a romantic career which began in Siam, is only one of the rich world-travellers to whom romance and rambling go hand in hand, and a steamer ticket leads to heart's desire as well as to odd ends of the earth.

Barbara, heiress to a stack of 5-and-10-cent store dimes that would make the Great Pyramid look like a pinch of snuff, was born an American, and raised a "poor little rich girl." At the age of eighteen, her debut party cost $60,000, her private car $120,000.

To discourage several youthful romances deemed unsuitable, her father launched her on the restless career of travel in which she has moved ever since.

In Paris she met Prince Alex Midvanti, youngest of several brothers from Georgia (Caucasus, not the deep south).

Back to the United States and then off on a world tour went the restless Barbara. In Bangkok, Siam, by the river Me Nam, Prince Midvanti caught up with his princess. They were married in Paris in 1933.

The honeymoon covered Lake Como, Biarritz, southern France, Morocco, and Venice. The fashionable beaches and night spots of Paris, Rome, and London soon knew their name. By fall of that same year they were off on a world cruise—

Dime-Store Heiress' High, Wide and Handsome Globe-Trotting Ends Up Twice in the Divorce Courts

This picture of Countess Barbara and Count Court Haugwitz-Reventlow happens to have been taken aboard the S. S. Victoria as they were en route to Bombay, India, shortly before their recent split-up. Actually, however, it is symbolic of the entire globe-trotting career of the American heiress—always restless, never long content in one place, always seeking new vistas, new friends in remote parts of the world.

restless, unwilling to stay long in one place.

When they returned, there were rumors of quarrels. Barbara retired to a London nursing home. Midvanti devoted himself to polo. Soon they parted. Barbara crossed the ocean once again and went to Reno for the divorce.

The reason for the lack of grieving was then revealed, for immediately she married Count Court von Haugwitz-Reventlow, a minor Danish nobleman.

Back to New York, and on to Denmark for a honeymoon in the "haunted castle" of Hardenberg. Her baby, Lance, was born in London.

Once again to the United States went the restless Barbara, this time for only a brief stay to sign away her citizenship. But the boy, Lance, who might have been expected to be a bond, became a source of discord. A long trip to Egypt and up the Nile and a long stay at St. Moritz failed to bring the hoped-for marital happiness.

Soon Barbara, with a divorce suit pending in Copenhagen, was in London while the count denied from Paris her charges that he was trying to steal their son. When they got together again it was in a London court where he posted a peace bond not to disturb her.

Is it any wonder that the Woolworth heiress is the idol of the travel agencies? Doesn't it seem unlikely that even divorce from the Danish count will cure her yen for restless romance?

Magog, July 19.—The annual Sunday School picnic of St. Paul's United Church was held at Wright's Beach. It rained shortly after the picnicers arrived but later turned bright and warm.

The use of the beach was given free by Mr. James Broadbent. Transportation was in charge of James Nichol, and was provided by members and friends of the church, who also made donations for ice cream, soft drinks, pony rides and sports prizes.

The sports committee was composed of Messrs. Harry Nichol, Robert Osborne and J. B. Connor. The races and other events were run, with the following results:

Girls, six years and under: 1 Janet Brown, 2 Ruby Clough, 3 Marilyn Moffat.

Girls, eight years and under: 1 Claire Connor, 2 Ruby Clough, 3 Gwen Dustin.

Boys, six years and under: 1 Philip Moore, 2 Stanley Mayo, 3 Jack Whittier.

Boys, eight years and under: 1 Wallace Brown, 2 Maril Phaneuf, 3 Norman Nichol.

Girls, ten years and under: 1 Sandra Moore, 2 Claire Connor, 3 Patricia Still.

Boys, ten years and under: 1 Eric Campbell, 2 Garth Jackson, 3 Terence Whalley.

Girls, fifteen years and under: 1 Sandra Moore, 2 Patricia Still, 3 Claire Connor.

Boys, fifteen years and under: 1 Everard Connor, 2 Willie Malcolm, 3 Walter Williamson.

100 yard dash, open: 1 Bob Malcolm, 2 Ronald Trew, 3 Eddie Connor.

Three-legged race, open: 1 Harry Nichol and George Dudgeon, 2 Wallace Barkley and George Connor.

Thread-the-needle race: 1 Mr. and Mrs. John Connor, 2 Nan Macintosh and Ronald Trew.

Clothesline race: 1 John Connor, 2 Norman Connor.

400-yard dash: 1 Jack Peake, 2 George Connor, 3 Norman Connor.

Ladies' walking race: 1 Mrs. John Connor, 2 Mrs. Albert Sandell.

ADVENTIST SUNDAY SCHOOL PICNIC HELD

The Adventist Sunday School also held their picnic. Transportation was provided by members and friends of the church as were sports prizes. The races were in charge of Rev. F. W. S. Walden and Mr. and Mrs. Walden provided ice cream.

Mrs. Walden, with her piano concertino and Mr. George Walden, with his Hawaiian guitar, provided accompaniment for the singing.

The picnicers brought both their midday and evening meals and spent a very enjoyable day.

LADIES' GROUP HELD MEETING AT TOMIFOBIA

Seventeen Members and Five Guests Gathered in Garden of Mrs. B. W. Brown—Heard Fine Address On Medical Units.

Tomifobia, July 19.—The July meeting of the Women's Institute was held in the lovely garden of Mrs. B. W. Brown, with Mrs. H. G. Taylor as assisting hostess. Seventeen members and five guests attended. The meeting opening in the usual manner, the roll call responses being "a humorous story." Mrs. Alice Cox read the minutes of the last meeting and a short time was taken up discussing the exhibit for the fair. Mrs. Ward Derick then read her report of the convention at Macdonald College, which was enjoyed. Following this report, Mrs. Betty Cass, of Bebe, county convener of child welfare, was introduced. Her address was very interesting as many phrases of the medical units were explained and all could readily see how much benefit a community would derive from one. An appreciative vote of thanks was extended Mrs. Cass.

PARIS LOOKS TO RICH, NOT FUSSY, STYLES

Although summer is hardly more than a promise, the eyes of the fashion world are focused on Paris. As have said repeatedly, summer fads develop into autumn fashions. But you will be interested in opinions other than mine, so I am quoting stylists who attended the midsummer openings in Paris:

"The fashion shown at the midsummer openings have a rich but not fussy look. Embroideries are used for both daytime and evening, contributing to the rich suggestion and not detracting from a sleek line. There is much more interest in slim lines, both for formal and informal wear, and while black is obviously the daytime choice, for evening there is more latitude in the way of color, but with no one color outstanding."

Another says: "Bodies that have an easy suppleness, coupled with skirts built on slim lines, create a smart silhouette in daytime fashion. Slim lines are also advocated for evening, with even the draped silhouette of Alix giving a slim wearable expression."

"Dinner dresses were more significant than is usual at this time of year in the Paris collections," another stylist reports, "gaining novelty through the sleeves, which are young and give a high shoulder silhouette. In the main, this designer has chief approval for those silhouettes which are slim and straight but take on a 'slinky' character through the choice of rich, dull, drapery fabrics. In these slim, straight lines there is the basis for developments which are assured of acceptance among American women."

As noted, and assimilated in current fashion, the ribbon bow-knot motif is very strong in the costumes of the eighteenth Century, with particular prominence for it in the Louis XIV period. The fashion has already made its mark in positive terms as trimmings on dresses, on hats, and in accessories, and there is every reason to believe that this fashion will continue.

Paris couturiers gave tremendous support to the fashion of ornate jewelry in the recent midseason showings, even though not specifically related to Louis XIV. Jewelry that particularly points up style features of frocks, and in ornate, rich designs, is especially significant.

Dr. H. S. Ellis and Dr. H. L. Ormsby were at Ayer's Cliff.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mrs. M. L. Thompson and Miss Marjorie Thompson left this morning for Old Orchard Beach, Maine, where they will vacation for a week.

Mr. and Mrs. Adam Smith have returned to Montreal, after being guests for the week-end of Mr. and Mrs. C. MacLean Miller at their home on Goodhue street.

Miss Elizabeth Stevenson, of Montreal West, is the guest of her aunt, Miss Elizabeth Dunsmore, at her home on Portland avenue, for the summer holidays.

The many friends of Mrs. James Daker, of Island Brook, will be sorry to learn that she is a patient in the Sherbrooke Hospital, where she underwent a serious operation yesterday morning. Best wishes are extended for her speedy recovery.

The officers and executives of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Sherbrooke Hospital were charmingly entertained yesterday by their president, Mrs. L. A. Darey, at her home on Victoria avenue. During a short business period, plans were formulated for a more extensive campaign to be carried out the third week in August for the outlying centres, and the third week in September for Sherbrooke. At the conclusion of the agenda, a pleasant social intercourse was enjoyed during the tea hour.

Flower lovers of Sherbrooke are enjoying a rare treat this week. They are being entertained at two garden parties at the home of Mrs. F. A. Briggs, on Quebec street, today and Thursday, for the purpose of viewing her lovely delphiniums. Mrs. Briggs is a keen flower enthusiast, and is justly proud of her delphiniums, for there are many rare varieties among them. Mrs. Bruce Fletcher will preside over the charmingly appointed tea table this afternoon, when the centrepiece will be a sunny bouquet of orange snapdragons with meadow rue and tall orange tapers in silver holders. Mrs. F. A. Baldwin will do the honors at the coffee urn. Those assisting the hostess in serving will be Mrs. J. Keith Edwards, Mrs. Earl Fidler, Mrs. Lennox Wilson and Miss Gladys Hale.

After promising mother to play on the porch, little Betty forgot and went for a stroll down the road. Upon her return mother greeted her with, "You disobeyed me and now you must come into the house."

Betty protested, "I didn't go far. Just a little way and back." "I know you'd rather be on the porch," mother said. "But I can't trust you until you learn to stay there and not go walking where it is unsafe." Betty came indoors and hung her head. This she did not know what would happen next nor how she stood with mother. She was on the verge of sulking, therefore, as a defensive measure and just in case mother should be angry with her.

Her mother saw nothing of this. Her mind was working on a different tangent. As if it weren't punishment enough just keeping the child indoors, she ordered, "I'm busy and you're not to annoy me. Understand?"

"May I ride my scooter?" "Of course not," mother said, fearing that if the child's stay indoors were made pleasant she would not learn anything.

There were other unnecessary privations. And as a result Betty had a wretched time she won't soon forget. But doubt if it taught her a lesson. But will serve in any way as an inducement to keep on the porch next time mother puts her out there to play.

It would have been much better if the mother had made it possible for the child to amuse herself indoors as she was accustomed. In denying these everyday privileges mother showed an animosity which she did not actually feel. And which could do no good under any circumstances, serving only to arouse ill-temper and ill-will. Friendship and fair-play are needed to induce willing co-operation when a child is learning.

The Misses Hargnave are moving to their cottage at Ayer's Cliff today where they will be vacationing for the remainder of the summer.

Mrs. Lewis Dunsmore is spending a few days at Metis Beach with her sister, Mrs. Lawrence Campbell, and Mr. Campbell.

Miss Ann Jowett, Aberdeen avenue, left the city today on an auto trip to Lawrence, Mass., and Boston, where she will be the guest of friends and relatives. She will also spend some time at coast resorts with friends.

Miss Frances Davey was taken by complete surprise last evening when she returned to her home on St. Michael street to find that a birthday party had been arranged in her honor by Miss Estelle MacNamara and twenty-five young people were present. During the evening singing and dancing were enjoyed. Miss Davey was presented with a beautiful overnight bag and the best wishes of her many friends. Later a dainty lunch was served, a long table being set in the living room and centered with tall silver standards of sweet peas and nasturtiums, lighted tapers in silver holders and the decorated birthday cake with its glowing candles.

LENNOXVILLE

Mrs. Charles A. Peterson entertained at a charmingly arranged dinner at her home, "Rockholm," last evening. The guests were welcomed by Mr. and Mrs. Peterson and covers were laid for eight, the lovely lace covered table being artistically centered with a crystal bowl of sweet peas and baby's breath and tall pink tapers in antique brass holders.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Peterson at their home, "Rockholm," Church street, for a few days, include Mr. Peterson's brother, Mr. F. Victor Peterson, and Mrs. Peterson, of Hartford, Conn., and Mr. and Mrs. George Goodrich, of New Breton, Conn.

Supper guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Turner on Saturday evening were Mrs. Charles Solomon, of Lynn, Mass., Mrs. May Cook and Mrs. John Elliott, of St. Johnsbury, Vt., and Mrs. J. Kimble and daughter, Barbara, of Newport, Vt.

Miss Jean Campbell was one of the hostesses at the Lennoxville Ladies' Golf Club tea on Saturday afternoon.

Miss Sadie Downs, of Norwood, Mass., is spending two weeks as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Downs, Jr., at their home on Clough avenue.

Recent guests of Mrs. Abbie Willard were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bloomfield, Mrs. L. J. Hooker, Mrs. Nellie Andrew and Mrs. Cyril Little of Bishopston and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Merrill, of Barnston.

Mrs. Jack Dormer and two children, Doreen and Bobby, who are visiting Mr. and Mrs. David Harrison, spent Monday in Moulton Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Woodward and Mr. and Mrs. A. Woodward, Miss Anna Woodward also spent the day at the same home.

Mr. and Mrs. David Harrison were calling on friends in Sawyerville yesterday.

Woman Mayor Great Asset For Village

Ellsworth, Kas., July 18.—(AP)—The best spareribs and sauerkraut cook in Ellsworth County rapidly is gaining a wide reputation as Ellsworth's mayor simply "because a woman can get by with a lot of things a man can't."

"A woman can ask a man for just about anything she wants and a man will do his best to provide it rather than disappoint her," says Clara Williford, fifty-one year old restaurant owner.

Mrs. Williford was elected in 1933 and has been re-elected twice since without opposition.

In five years she has built a new $600,000 City Hall, reduced the tax levy from 197 to only 9.7 mills, paid off $116,000 in bonded indebtedness, reduced sewer rentals forty per cent and improved the streets.

When Mrs. Williford first was elected Ellsworth faced a serious water shortage every summer.

"When we needed water worst and everything was burnin' up the city always announced no one could water their lawns and I'm tellin' you it go so bad sometimes a person was almost ashamed to take a bath."

"Well, I decided to do something," she said today, "because I felt there was water around here somewhere." Mrs. Williford called in engineers, discovered a new well and "got so much water we don't have pipes big enough to take all the water into Ellsworth," a town of two thousand population.

ATTRACTIONS AT THE LOCAL THEATRES

At The Granada

The film "Holiday," which opens at the Granada Theatre tomorrow, marks the fulfillment of Katherine Hepburn's ambition to play the Linda role in Philip Barry's heart-tugging comedy of sophisticates—a role she lost by a narrow margin to Harding when the first picture was in preparation.

Story carries poor man-rich girl theme, with two central characters attempting to escape from repression. . . Huge two-storey Seton mansion set, through which hero Cary Grant wanders almost lost for comical opening sequence, cost studio $80,000 to construct, occupying all of largest stage on lot. . . Unusual, in that set was built like real house, so that much of the action supposed to take place on second floor really did take place.

Steel girders supported the set and electric elevators (real ones) carried players up and down.

The added attraction is "Goodbye Broadway," starring Alice Brady, Charles Winninger and Tommy Riggis and his Betty Lou of the Rudy Vallee programme. Ray McCarey, expert laugh specialist with a long string of comedy hits to his credit, directed the picture.

At The Premier

The unusual story of a "hard boiled" cop who wows a girl by reciting poetry is told in "Nurse from Brooklyn," which opens at the Premier Theatre tomorrow.

Sally Eilers again wins praise for her highly emotional appeal as the nurse, Beth Thomas, who in spite of herself finds her heart swayed to the policeman, Jim Barnes, the man she thinks has shot down her brother in cold blood. Paul Kelly, as the policeman who keeps romance and sense of duty in separate compartments, brings life and action to the performance. His is forceful and unusual delineation, for he makes it seem logical that a policeman would use the girl he loves as "bait" in order to lure a ruthless killer into his net.

"Island in the Sky," the added feature, stars Gloria Stuart and Michael Whalen, and is a film treat which starts out with what it calls "just a routine murder case."

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK MARKET

Montreal, July 19.—(P)—Receipts on Montreal livestock markets today were: Cattle 295; calves 444; hogs 552; sheep and lambs 1,034.

Fresh arrivals of cattle were made up of cows and bulls of common to just fair quality. Trading was very slow and at time of writing there were less than fifty cattle weighed up. Prices were about steady.

Cattle held over were mostly steers of fair to medium good quality. Calves were moving very slowly.

Prices ranged from $4 to $6.40 according to quality. Grassers brought mostly $4 to $4.25. Common light veals and drinkers sold as low as $4.50.

Trading on sheep and lambs was at a standstill.

Hogs were firm at $12.25 for hogs fed and watered, with hogs off trucks up to $12.50. Selects drew one dollar per hog premium with the usual cuts on off grades.

Sows were $7.50 to $9. Rail grade hogs sold at $16.50 to $16.75.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR

Lord Geoffrey Breamer has a remarkable capacity for nobility, for a fourteen-year-old boy. With his governess, Doris Clandon, he goes to a jewelry shop to pick out a locket for his mother. Another man comes in the store to examine an enormously valuable necklace. Lord Geoffrey has a sudden fainting spell and is removed to his hotel.

Chapter Two

Reaching the hotel, Miss Clandon entrusted Geoffrey to the care of the chauffeur and commissionaire. Then, explaining that she had to get some medicine, she sped away.

It was no pharmacy, however, toward which she ordered the corner cabman. In a few minutes he had drawn up before a small brownstone house in Ebury Street. Miss Clandon got out, hurried up a flight of stairs, and knocked at a door. It was Jim Hampstead, the man in the jewelry shop, who opened it.

He was frantically removing a facial disguise. The moustache stuck, and he swore. His age, as one looked at him now, could not have been more than thirty-five.

"Well, that's done, darling," cried Doris Clandon. "Here's one for luck." She kissed Hampstead gallily, but he was too preoccupied untangling his face to return the embrace.

"What's the matter? You got it, didn't you?"

"Yes, I got it, and I've got the duplicate too!"

He drew from his pocket the Zyrant necklace, then the paste duplicate.

"What went wrong?" cried Doris, frightened. "We did everything the way you rehearsed it—you had the case in your hand—"

"Yes, but I told you the bracelet wasn't to drop until I had my back to the clerk. You didn't give me a chance to slip the duplicate into the case."

"Well, at least we've got the necklace," replied Doris philosophically. "Hardly she removed her pince-nez and her transformation, revealing herself as an attractive brunette."

"Yes, and facing fifteen years' penal servitude. Like as not, they're after us this minute."

He finally managed to rip off the moustache, then seized Doris' transformation and threw the two disguises into the fire.

"There go Jim Hampstead and Doris Clandon," said Jim.

"I'll phone Geoffrey," Doris volunteered.

"No, not from here!" he cried. "We'll call from a pay station. Get into another dress and pack! We'll have to hop it."

"Right you are, darling," said Doris, as she hurried to obey.

Geoffrey was walking around his room, nervously stopping here and there to punch a soft pillow or to crumple a bit of note paper at the desk, and throw it into the waste basket. He showed no sign of pallor or weakness after his recent fainting spell. Suddenly there was a knock at the door, and the boy hastened to assume a less vital appearance.

"Come in," he called, with a woe-begone expression.

The man who entered carried a bowler hat in his hand. He was deferential in attitude, but he studied the boy with suspicious eyes.

"Lord Geoffrey Breamer?" he inquired.

"Yes, what is it?"

"My name's Scott. Morcott's sent me around to inquire how your lordship feels."

"A bit better, thank you," said Geoffrey, growing suspicious.

"Splendid! Then perhaps you could answer some questions about the incident in the jeweler's shop."

"I'd be glad to, but I'm not any too fit yet. Some other time."

"Time is important, Your Lordship," went on the other firmly. "Perhaps you could describe the man who was looking at the emerald necklace."

"How should I be able to describe a total stranger?" Geoffrey countered.

"It would be extremely helpful if you could," said Scott. "You see, the necklace was stolen."

Geoffrey propped himself against the desk, then sank into the chair. The telephone was at his elbow on the desk.

"Indeed?" he asked. "Sorry, but I hardly noticed him. Now, will you pardon me? I want to lie down."

"Perhaps the lady who was with you might have noticed," persisted Scott.

"My governess has run off to the chemist's for my medicine," said Geoffrey. "She may be quite some time."

"I'll wait, if you don't mind," replied the man. He deposited himself in a chair facing Geoffrey and pulled out his pipe, as though prepared to sit it out.

"But I do mind!" cried Geoffrey, rising. "I feel better but not quite up to entertaining strangers."

"I'll be as quiet as can be," promised Scott, with a certain grimace.

Geoffrey, baffled, sat down again. Scott watched him keenly for a few moments before breaking into conversation again.

"You've lived in India, I understand?" he finally asked.

"Yes, for three—no—four years," said Geoffrey, avoiding his glance.

"Landed at Calcutta, I suppose? Dirty place, isn't it?"

"Yes, dreadful people. The untouchables, you know."

"Been to Darjeeling, too? Hot there, eh?"

"Yes, awfully."

Geoffrey was frantically making little circles on the pad in front of him. Scott's voice carried a note of partial triumph as he went on.

"Braemar—Braemar—would your father be Lord Thomas Braemar by any chance?"

"No, that's quite another branch of the family."

"Possibly an uncle?" demanded Scott.

"Yes—an uncle," replied Geoffrey, clenching his fists.

"Splendid man, your uncle," smiled Scott. "I knew him during the war."

Geoffrey's scratching became more feverish.

"Yes, Uncle Tom's a jolly chap. The matter and I am going to visit him." There was an awkward pause.

Geoffrey sensed he had blundered. "At least—I think we are."

"I doubt it," said Scott triumphantly. "Lord Thomas Braemar was killed in 1917."

"Of course, how silly of me," dodged Geoffrey, rattling on. "I was thinking of Uncle—of—Uncle John."

"You're smart, young fellow—medal," said Scott, rising, "but not smart enough. When you go to India, you don't land at Calcutta, but at Bombay, and Darjeeling isn't hot, it's in the mountains, and you're not Lord Geoffrey Breamer."

"You're impertinent, my man! I'll have to trouble you to leave."

"Very well," rejoined Scott, "but I'll have to trouble you to come with me, Your Lordship. I'm an investigator for the Insurance Underwriters."

The telephone rang. Geoffrey hastily picked it up, and spoke breathlessly into the transmitter. But before he could say more than "Hello," Scott's hand closed over the mouthpiece roughly. He pushed Geoffrey away from the phone and moved the receiver to his ear.

"Jeff—this is Doris," she said tensely. "Something's gone wrong—Jim and I are—"

Desperate, held at arm's length by Scott, Geoffrey stood on tiptoe and yelled at the top of his voice: "Please—Mr. Detective! That must be the doctor. I must ask him about my medicine."

The warning was effective. Clamping down the receiver and turning to Jim, who was standing beside her, Doris looked panic-stricken.

"They're twiggled up!" she cried. "There's a detective in the room with him."

"That didn't take 'em long," said Jim. "We've got to clear out, and quick!"

"What about Geoffrey?"

"He'll have to take care of himself."

"He's the only one who can definitely identify us. If he talks, we're done for."

"Right-o," admitted Jim gloomily. Then he seized his companion's arm. "Come on before they run our call down!"

LODGE MEMBERS PAID HONOR TO DANVILLE PAIR

Mr. and Mrs. George Porter Guests of Honor at Party on Occasion of Their Fiftieth Wedding Anniversary.

Danville, July 19.—Mr. and Mrs. George Porter, who recently celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary, were the honored guests at a very happy party in the Golden Rule Lodge room which was filled with Sister Rebekahs of Mrs. Porter and Brother Oddfellows of Mr. Porter.

Early in the evening Mrs. Porter was presented with a beautiful "bridal" bouquet by Mrs. Edward MacGonigal and Mr. Porter was given a golden rose button hole bouquet by Mrs. Albert Olney. This presentation was made in the ante-room and the bride and groom of yesterday were asked to walk up the lodge room to special seats placed for them. As they stepped inside the door the guests rose to their feet and the organist, Mrs. Lulu MacNeill, played Lohengrin's Wedding March. This was followed by four cheering cheers and the singing of "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows."

Mr. and Mrs. Porter, who were completely taken by surprise, expressed their thanks for the kindly reception. John Stewart, of Asbestos, accompanied by Mrs. MacGonigal at the organ, sang three solos, "I Love You Truly," "Dona, Dona," and "If I Might Only Come to You," which were very much enjoyed. Three or four songs were sung by the entire group and Joe Batstone gave two fine recitations, "Maggie and Jiggs at the Golden Gates," and "Friendship, Love and Truth."

Bridge and five hundred were enjoyed at fourteen tables, after which the group adjourned to the banquet hall, which was beautifully decorated for the occasion with flowers. A handsome three storey wedding cake, made and decorated by Mrs. Albert Olney, of Asbestos, surrounded by a wreath of yellow roses and silver candle holders with yellow candles, was the centre of attraction.

Following refreshments, Mrs. Bert Olney made a very fine address and Mrs. West Olney, on behalf of the lodge, presented the guests of honor with a very handsome Kenwood blanket.

Mr. and Mrs. Porter, who were deeply touched by the presentation, expressed their sincere thanks and spoke feelingly of their happy associations for many years in the work of the two lodges. The entertainment was brought to a close by the singing of Auld Lang Syne.

Sand Hill, July 19.—The Ladies' Guild of St. Luke's Church held their annual strawberry supper in the church hall. The attendance was very good and the proceeds satisfactory.

After supper was served, the guests dispersed to the upper hall, where an entertainment took place. Rev. Berry, rector of the church, acting as chairman.

The programme was as follows: Vocal and guitar selections by two young men from Sherbrooke; solo, Miss Muriel Hemming; song, Mrs. Cecil Reeves; song by Eleanor Labere; song, Mr. Doug. Lofthouse; song, Mr. E. Hemming.

The last item on the programme was a radio play which was very much appreciated by the audience. The singing of the National Anthem brought a very pleasant evening to a close.

YOUNG PEOPLE HELD MEETING

The Young People held their meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Shaughnessy. The president, Miss Muriel Hemming, was in charge of the business meeting, which opened with the hymn "Work For the Night Is Coming," and the Lord's Prayer.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and the roll call taken, showing an attendance of seventeen members and eight visitors.

The meeting was adjourned, after which progressive "500" and crokinole were played. The prizes in "500" were won by Mrs. Hazel Ashe and Mr. Bill Dabry and in crokinole by Miss Muriel Hemming and Mr. Charles Pickett. Refreshments were served by the hosts and hostesses.

General Note.

Mrs. Annie Copping was visiting in Sherbrooke at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Pendleton, and Mr. Pendleton.

Miss Annie Barrie, of Montreal, spent a week-end at the Swinden home.

CITY TRANSIT MOVES INTO TIE FOR THIRD

Defeated Textile Four To Three In Thriller

Four-Run Outburst In Fourth Provided Bus Drivers' Margin of Victory—Beavers Had Off Night, Losing Eighteen to Three to Beatty Brothers—Kaysers Swamped "Hopeless Hoboes."

The encounter between City Transit and Textile, won by the transportsmen by the score of four to three, was by far the most interesting game on the City League programme at the Parade Grounds last night. The league-leading Kayser team trounced the Hoboes eighteen to three while Beatty Brothers went to town against the Beavers to the tune of seventeen to eight.

Hits were few and far between in the City Transit-Textile battle. Jim Ross, the bus drivers' hurler, giving up only four and Collin, Textile's pitcher, being touched for six. Both aggregations backed up their pitchers with fine fielding, and the one run margin just about represents the edge the Transportation had over their opponents.

Going to bat to start the game, Luc Roy and George Riel laced out successive singles and romped home on Frank Humphrey's triple. From then until the fourth the two teams were retired in quick order, but in their turn at bat in the fourth the millmen went three runs ahead as R. Baker singled and tallied on a hit by Boisvert.

BOB WAGNER IN GRAPPLING WIN OVER LANGEVIN

Magog, July 19.—After dropping the first fall to "Legs" Langevin in the feature bout of a wrestling card in the Magog Arena last night, Bob "Strangler" Wagner, of Los Angeles, came back to win the hard way. The bad man of the mat world was tossed for a loop by the Magog grappler after twenty minutes of hard wrestling. Langevin used a flying scissors to subdue his ferocious opponent.

Wagner must have been eating raw meat during the rest period, for he came out and started to toss Langevin around with elbow smashes and body slams. It took him twenty-one minutes to even the match at one fall each.

Both lads went all out for the third and deciding fall, but Wagner, using his brute strength and quickness to advantage, gradually subdued "Legs" and floored him for good with a body slam. Time, ten minutes.

Jack Sharkey, one of the former greats in heavyweight boxing circles, handled the bout and didn't let Wagner pull off any of the stuff that has made him notorious wherever he has appeared.

Tony Parkin, 210, of Montreal, and Hardy Kruskamp, 220, of Germany, staged a bout that had the crowd of six hundred out of their seats. Body scissors, headlocks, toe hold, armlocks and flying mares followed each other in quick succession, with the edge swaying back and forth between the two grapplers. Kruskamp finally threw Parkin after twenty-eight minutes.

Young Siki heaved one of Yvon Robert's pet holds to conquer Young Deglane, who wrestles in the State of Massachusetts. Applying a rolling short-arm scissor at the nine minute mark, Siki held it for five minutes rolling Deglane around and around the ring. Deglane finally decided he had suffered enough, and conceded the match to Siki.

Kid LaBbe and Kid Langlois wrestled to a draw in a twenty-minute preliminary while Kid Doucet and Polo Labente could reach no decision in the opener.

The preliminaries were handled by John Dubois.

Selections by the Memphremagog Band were enjoyed throughout the evening.

terrible score. Ken Jackson, official scorer for the game, feels sure seventeen is the correct total, but admits he may have slipped up on five or six tallies.

Whipple and Gleason each had two home-runs for Beatty Brothers while Larry Varney poled one out for the same team in the fourth.

Until the fifth inning, the game was fairly close, Beatty Brothers sporting only the slender margin of one run, but they tallied eight times in the fifth and sixth without answer from the Beavers.

Albert Kouri, with two hits in three trips to the platter, led the losers' attack while every man in Beatty Brothers' line-up figured heavily in the offensive.

Beatty Brothers: Varney, Fuller, Fortin, M. Smith, Lacroix, Leharu, Gleason, Whipple, T. Smith and Lalonde.

Beavers: Lessard, A. Kouri, C. Mutchler, Holgate, Jowett, C. Terry, Wooton, H. Terry, Reid and W. Mutchler.

Beatty Bros. 230 426 0—17 14 1 Beavers . . . 112 400 0—8 11 4 Batteries: Gleason and Fuller; W. Mutchler and Wooton.

KAYSER CONTINUED VICTORY MARCH

Led by Jack Dion and Marcel Latulippe, who each tallied three times, the latter contributing a home-run to the cause, the first-place Kleimmen rolled a little farther ahead of the pack in the chase for the league pennant by smothering Hoboes eighteen to three.

Every player on the Kayser team crossed the plate at least once, Pinard, Morin and DiMass scoring twice each. "Jolting Joe" Chartier continued his average of a circuit clout a game by blasting one onto Elizabeth street in the first, with two men aboard.

Charley Clark carried the wars for the losers, although, strangely enough, he made no official appearance at bat. Clark walked three times in succession, scoring single tallies in the first and sixth. Maurice Parsons scored the third run for the Hoboes.

Scoring seven times in both the first and fifth frames, once in the second and fifth and twice in the seventh, Kayser had no trouble at all, and the eighteen to three count reveals how superior to the Hoboes the powerful Kleimmen were.

Kaysers: Courchesne, Drapeau, Dion, Chartier, Asselin, Pinard, Morin, Latulippe, Goyette and DiMass.

Hoboes: Parsons, Clark, Filion, Lepage, Boisvert, Choquette, Nadeau, Blouin, L. Nadeau and Lacharite.

Kaysers: 710 071 2—18 21 2 Hoboes . . . 100 002 0—3 5 3 Batteries: DiMass and Pinard; Filion and Boisvert.

Miss Mary Fuller Won Honors At Field Day

Granby Lady's Ninety-One Good Enough for First Gross in Ladies' Field Day at Drummondville Yesterday—Miss B. N. Holtham, of Sherbrooke, Captured First Net Prize in Silver Division.

Drummondville, July 19.—Miss Mary Fuller, of the Granby Golf Club, led a field of Eastern Townships lady players in a C. L. G. U. Field Day held at Drummondville yesterday.

Playing the first nine holes in 43 strokes and the second nine in 48 for a total of 91 strokes, Miss Fuller finished two strokes ahead of Miss Mary Innes, promising Drummondville player, who carded 48-45 for a total of 93.

Mrs. V. P. Spencer, of the Drummondville Country Club, took third place with a 98, and Mrs. B. Holtham of the Sherbrooke Country Club, fourth, with a 99.

The second hole prize, which was for the second hole, was won by Mrs. G. Henderson, of the Granby Golf Club, who carded the only three on this hole in the first round.

Mrs. A. Gauthier, of Drummondville, won the prize for the best score among the thirty-six handicap players.

ASBESTOS TEAM AGAIN LEADING BASEBALL LOOP

Asbestos, July 19.—Taking both ends of a twin bill from Drummondville's Aramis squad, the Asbestos baseball team climbed back to the top of the St. Francis Baseball League. The score in the first game was eight to seven while in the second contest the homesters won eight to nil.

The lead see-sawed back and forth in the first game, and Asbestos had to come from behind to win. With the score deadlocked at six-all going into the tenth inning, Drummondville put a run across on two bingles and a brace of miscues, but Lambert, sent in to pinch-hit for Drapeau, clouted the ball over the right-field fence for a home run to again tie the score.

An error, a sacrifice and a single sent Plourde clattering over the platter with the winning run.

The second game turned into a rout, with the home team playing rings around Aramis. Rexford, on the mound for Asbestos, allowed only two hits, both coming in the last frame.

The Asbestos batsmiths pounded the offerings of H. Simpson for eleven hits and eight runs. Plourde, who hit safely five times, was the hero of the game, and robbed Aramis of two sure hits by beautiful running stabs in right-field.

Score by innings:

Aramis	101 300 010 1—7 11 2
Asbestos	050 010 000 2—8 15 0
Batteries:	H. Simpson and Dubuc, Corrigan; C. Plourde and Nourry.

ASBESTOS TRIMMED WINDSOR MILLS

Asbestos continued their winning ways in an exhibition game with Windsor Mills. Fleming, of Windsor Mills, who was touched for two doubles and a single, was charged with the defeat—his first of the season.

In the second inning, Fleming pasted one over the right-field barrier to put Windsor Mills in the lead, and three singles in the third gave them another run.

A hit, an error and a fielder's choice gave Asbestos a marker in the fourth, while in the seventh a free ticket, an error and three hits added three runs.

Collard, pitching for Asbestos in his first appearance of the season, had the situation in control from start to finish, allowing only eight hits and walking one.

Score by innings:

Windsor Mills	011 000 000—2 8 4
Asbestos	000 100 30x—4 9 0
Batteries:	A. Couture, Brault, Fleming and C. Couture; Collard and Lambert.

PAUL BROTHERS DEFEATED

Toronto, July 19.—Packer and Danny Paul, the Richdale, Alta., brothers who campaigned recently with success in Europe, were defeated here last night in preliminary bouts to a feature boxing match which saw Orville Drouillard, of Windsor, Ont., take a ten-round decision over Phil Zwick, Milwaukee.

Packer, fighting in the semi-final, lost an eight-round decision to Mickey Benson, a Detroit heavyweight. Danny, in the second preliminary, suffered a technical knockout at the hands of Jack O'Sullivan, Peoria, Ill., heavy. Danny was unable to come out for the fourth round because of a fractured jaw.

NAME REFEREE FOR DAVIS CUP MATCHES

Montreal, July 19.—Angus S. Cassils, veteran Montreal tennis player, will referee the Davis Cup matches between Japan and Canada here July 28, 29 and 30. He was announced yesterday by R. K. Watt, president of the Canadian Lawn Tennis Association.

Mr. Watt said both Japanese and Canadian captains had agreed to selection of Mr. Cassils.

point-winners besides Gadbois were Richard Crepeau, Gaston Audet and "Dr." Paul McMahon, all of Lake Park. Len Gilliam and Newt Munick carried off the spoils in a distance canoe race from Brian's Wharf to the beach.

If you ask Lynden Morrison and Gordie Riff to explain the reason they finished first and second in the twenty-five mile bicycle race from Richmond to Sherbrooke they may tell you they kept in shape by delivering Sherbrooke Daily Records.

Then again, they may not. Right behind the two leaders came Walter McLeod and Paul Fountain, also of Sherbrooke. These four lads should do well in the distance grinds slated for later in the summer. Keep your eyes on them.

"Dizzy Dean is foggin' em through. The other teams are feeling blue. We thought the great one's days were past—they're wondering now how long he'll last."

Old Diz stood Chicago fans on their ears with a four-hitter against the Bees and seemed to have all his old skill and speed. Whether you like him or not, he certainly deserves a hand for the way in which he came back.

How are things down in Mount Stephen, Dick? That story you prophesied is just about ready to break any minute, but you don't have to worry about that—"Ace" can handle it.

Manhattan's Outfits Hold Big League Stage

Yanks and Giants In Thick of Fights for American and National Loop Pennants—Series with Indians and Cubs Rightly Titled "Crucial"—Pirates Won to Stay On Top.

No matter what may happen to those pennant-hungry New York baseball clubs within the next week or so, no one can say they haven't given or received fair warning.

Yankees, leading the American League by a game and a half as they go into a "crucial" four-game series with Cleveland's second-place Indians, sounded the alarm by winning seventeen of their last twenty games and tying another. Giants, dropped into second place by Pittsburgh Pirates, have heard a similar warning from Chicago Cubs. They have to tackle Chicago and its newly-recovered Dizzy Dean late this week after what they hope will be a pleasant interlude at St. Louis.

Cubs, right now, look like a team to watch in the National League. They have a long way to go, however, before they can overtake those persistent Pirates. The "Buccos," who rose to the top on a thirteen-game winning streak, proved that wasn't just a prolonged flash in the pan when they won two games and tied one in a four-game series with Giants. They made their margin previously visible only in the percentage column, a half game yesterday by slugging out a seven to four victory in two big innings.

Cubs, meantime, pulled out a seven to six decision over Boston Bees in the ninth inning after blowing a six to three lead in the same frame. Gabby Hartnett, the reliable, singled in the winning run after Tex Carleton had lost his stuff in the ninth, loaded the sacks with two singles and a pass and then served up a nice one which Tony Cuccinello belted for a three-run double.

St. Louis Cardinals knocked off the Phillies five to three in the day's only other game as Brooklyn Dodgers, with four straight victories, were checked by rain at Cincinnati. The American League had an open date.

If you are still horsing for real long shots why don't you place a quid on "Feller and Hemsley and Brown and Todd" as the batteries for the opening game of the world series? And before you lough that one off, remember that Connie Mack pulled off old Howard Ehmke out of the bull pen and sent him against the Cubs one day—and won.

BISONS BURNING ALONG STRETCH

Those Buffalo Bisons, although they have been pushed around at times, are a hard team to keep down. And if Newark's Bears, who haven't been travelling so fast in their runaway race for the past couple of weeks, falter a bit there may yet be a race for the International League pennant.

Buffalo has been kicking around second place most all season, occasionally dropping back to third or worse, but in the clutches they generally come through. They have won their last four games now and six of their last seven games such dangerous rivals as Newark and Syracuse, and are more solidly set in second than ever.

Coming through at the last minute, the Bisons downed Syracuse six to five last night for their fourth straight win. Newark, meanwhile, suffered its fifth shutout of the season and its third within two weeks at the hands of Rochester's southpaw rookie, Ken Raffensberger, four to nothing. The result left Bears a "mere" ten and a half games in front.

Jersey City Giants won their first game for Manager Hank DeBerry, rallying for five runs in the eighth to beat Toronto eleven to seven, and thus further complemented the standing. That put the Giants back in fifth place by a few percentage points over Montreal and dropped Toronto to last, a shade behind Baltimore Orioles. Montreal and Baltimore were idle.

Raffensberger broke an important jinx when he blasted Newark with six hits and fanned seven, getting Charley Keller on strikes three times. It was Rochester's first victory over the league leaders in seven games this year.
