Grit meeting to center on education

Economic and educational problems are expected to dominate the discussions when Provincial Liberal Leader Jean Lesage meets with Liberal workers from nine Eastern Townships constituencies at a regional conference in Sherbrooke this Sunday.

The conference is one of a series of district rallies being held by Lesage in an effort to bring the thinking of the party executive closer in line with that of the electors at large. In announcing the program for the Liberal chief's visit, Francois Poulin, Q.C., regional vice-president of the Quebec Liberal Federation and organizer of the talks, said that the regional problems to be studied at the afternoon session include agriculture, full employment, social security, cultural affairs, education and recreation. Registration for the conference, which is to be held at the Cavalier Room of the Hotel

Wellington, will commence at 9 a.m., with the first study session being at 10 o'clock. The morning meeting will be devoted largely to constitutional affairs and those attending will be asked to give their views on the report of Paul Gerin-Lajoie of proposed reforms to the constitution. During the course of the afternoon, Mr. Lesage will hold a press conference. While the constitutional issue will be discussed at the morning session, it is unlikely to produce much in the way of definite recommendations.

Russian forces move into Prague

PRAGUE (CP) — Soviet-bloc troops supported by tanks and planes occupied newly liberalized Czechoslovakia in a lightning invasion Tuesday night as most of the nation slept, and some shooting was heard today.

Within hours Soviet paratroops had surrounded Communist party headquarters in Prague, virtually imprisoning nine of the 11 presidium members and threatening to bring the eight-month-old liberal Czechoslovak regime under the Soviet thumb.

Czechoslovak leaders appealed to the nation to remain calm and not to resist the advancing troops. But fighting was reported in several places in Prague.

Prague radio reported that "citizens are trying to stop with their bodies the advancing Soviet tanks which are heading for the Czechoslovak radio building."

Other Czechoslovaks reported for work in some offices this morning. Many had tears in their eyes.

AIRLIFT TROOPS
Government leaders throughout the world called emergency meetings to assess communism's most explosive crisis since Soviet tanks crushed the Hungarian uprising 12 years ago.

The Soviet tanks and troops were airlifted into Prague Airport for the attempt to crush Czechoslovakia's liberalization drive.

Prague Radio, which broadcast intermittently throughout the morning, said clashes had taken place between the occupying troops and citizens who built barricades.

An official Soviet statement issued in Moscow said that Soviet, Bulgarian, Polish, East German and Hungarian troops had moved into Czechoslovakia to save that country from the enemies of communism.

Unconfirmed reports in Moscow said a coup in Prague Tuesday deposed Czechoslovak party chief Alexander Dubcek and replaced his liberal regime with leaders who invited the Soviet troops.

CZECH LEADERS MEET
But Dubcek and his colleagues were reported meeting in the party's central committee headquarters, the building surrounded by Soviet paratroops and tanks.

Czechoslovak President Ludvik Svoboda was reported in his office at Prague Castle, which was surrounded by other troops. In Bratislava, troops of five Warsaw pact countries were said to be holding key positions on main roads, the airport, the Danube Bridge and the radio station.

A crowd of many thousands gathered in the main square in the centre of the city to demonstrate peacefully and express their support for Dubcek and

the party leadership. SILENCE RADIO STATIONS

Radio stations controlled by the liberal government were forced off the air. Only Vitava, described by Prague radio as an illegal station of the occupying armies, remained on the air. It broadcast appeals to the Czechoslovak military to support the invaders.

Reuters correspondent Vincent Buist reported that Soviet troops shot at demonstrators outside the Radio Prague building, but some of the gunfire was over their heads.

Troops guarded the Czechoslovak Communist party central committee building, and Prague radio said shooting outside the radio building was gaining in intensity and that "cannon firing" could be heard.

It broadcast an unconfirmed report that Cestmir Cisar, chairman of the Czechoslovak national council, "has been deported by three unknown men to an unknown destination."

The Czechoslovak news agency CTK later reported that occupying troops were entering the Prague radio building.

WITHDRAWAL URGED
The Czechoslovak National Assembly appealed to the invaders to withdraw from Czechoslovakia.

One of Prague radio's best-known commentators, Dienstbier, read out the assembly message over the radio as rifle and machine-gun fire crackled in the streets outside.

The message said: "The entry of foreign troops was a complete violation of Czechoslovak sovereignty. "The National Assembly is in total disagreement with the intervention."

In Brussels, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's permanent council was hurriedly summoned by Canada's James Roberts, deputy secretary-general, for an emergency meeting today to discuss the invasion. The permanent council is composed of the ambassadors of the 15-member state including Canada.

NO EXPLANATION
President Ludvik Svoboda, making a personal appeal over Prague radio for calm, told the Czechoslovak people he could offer no explanation for the Soviet invasion.

He also urged the populace to remain calm.

American eyes turn to European crisis

WASHINGTON (Reuters) — President Johnson kept close touch with Prague developments today while officials studied diplomatic options available to the U.S. to meet the menacing Czech crisis.

The White House and the Kremlin both appeared anxious to head off a new East-West confrontation following Russia's blitz movement of troops into Czechoslovakia. First Washington reactions were cautious.

Diplomats predicted the focus would shift quickly to the United Nations and that the U.S. would join—but probably not initiate—a move to censure the Soviet Union and its hard-line Communist allies, Poland, East Germany, Bulgaria and Hungary. Because of the Vietnam war, America's diplomatic maneuverability is regarded as strictly circumscribed.

Military action by the Western powers also is considered highly improbable. But diplomats believe the Soviet decision to use force in Eastern Europe for the second time in 12 years will deal a heavy blow to President Johnson's efforts to ease East-West relations.

COUNCIL SUMMONED
Johnson summoned the policy-making National Security Council to the White House for an emergency 55-minute meeting immediately after news of the Russian invasion reached Washington late Tuesday night.

News in brief

Complicates

WASHINGTON (AP) — Critics of the Vietnam war acknowledged today the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia likely will make it harder to nail a specific war-ending plank into the Democratic party platform.

But in admitting they are a minority of the 110-member platform committee, they insisted they can still carry their point in the Democratic national convention which opens in Chicago Monday.

Says nonsense

MOSCOW (Reuters) — A top Soviet foreign ministry press official described as "nonsense" today a report that Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin has resigned.

The official said "this report is nonsense which should not be spread." The report originated with a Czechoslovak radio station.

Serves notice

LAC LA BICHE, Alta. (CP) — Less than two months after it lost its last voice in the House of Commons, the Alberta Social Credit party has served notice that it is still a dominant force in provincial politics.

Spearheaded by Premier E. C. Manning and nine of his cabinet ministers.

Kill Americans

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese troops fighting out of a trap shot down nine American helicopters below the demilitarized zone separating Vietnam, military spokesmen reported today.

Northern ground gunners opened up on reconnaissance helicopters, then duelled with helicopter gunships called in by the scouting choppers.

Board turns

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Canadian wheat board is turning to a United States port for relief from the continuing grain handlers strike at the Canadian Lakehead.

The desperation move is being taken in the face of what the board calls a "crisis" grain glut facing Prairie growers and endangering Canada's world wheat markets.

Day's respite

TORONTO (CP) — A mistake in arithmetic has given this city's 2,000,000-plus residents a day's respite from a transit strike threatened for rush hour Friday morning.

But plans already are under way to cope with a crippling shutdown.

Connect bomb blasts with strikes

MONTREAL (CP) — Three bombs exploded in different parts of the city early Tuesday—all connected by police with current labor disputes.

A fourth explosion about three hours later, which police say was caused by faulty natural gas connections, sent 10 apartment dwellers to hospital with minor injuries.

The most serious of the bomb blasts occurred at 3:30 a.m. outside the home of Alphonse Legace in the northwestern suburb of Mount Royal.

Mr. Legace is an adviser to the Quebec Liquor Board, whose 3,000 employees have been on strike for higher pay for the last eight weeks.

Several windows of his home were shattered, his garage door split and his car demolished by the explosion.

Neighbors who fled their homes in night clothes told police they heard the screeching of a car's tires on the street just before the explosion.

Simultaneously, but several miles east of the Legace home, another blast shattered a window of a liquor board outlet and broke about 12 windows of an adjacent house.

BOMB BICYCLE PLANT

Twenty minutes after these explosions, a third blast rocked a bicycle manufacturing plant in the east end.

The factory is owned by the Victoria Precision Works Co.

Ltd., which has been involved in labor disputes since January.

Police said an incendiary bomb placed in a ventilation shaft of the building broke basement windows and dislodged plaster.

Natural gas company investigators were checking on a fourth, unconnected explosion which sent 10 persons to hospital early Tuesday with minor injuries and shock. The blast occurred in a west-end apartment building.

Police and firemen extinguished a fire and broke down six apartment doors to reach trapped occupants.

Most of the injured were released from hospital after treatment.

His fight for life continues

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former president Eisenhower is resting comfortably and receiving visits from members of his family despite brief periods of irregular heart beat.

This was the sum of the latest medical bulletin issued by doctors at Walter Reed Army Hospital Tuesday night.

They added that the 77-year-old general's condition remained essentially unchanged throughout the day as they sought to bring him through his seventh heart attack, suffered last Friday.

There was a report, meanwhile, by the Washington Post that a new experimental drug is being used on the general and that it could be contributing to a decrease over the past few days in the periods of irregular heart beat.

The Post said the drug, bretylium tosylate, has produced dramatic results at other medical centres. There was no comment from the hospital.

MEDICAL REPORT

The Tuesday night medical bulletin said: "Gen. Eisenhower's condition remains essentially unchanged. He continues to have brief episodes of irregular heart action from time to time. He is resting comfortably and enjoys brief visits from members of the immediate family."

Richard Nixon, once Eisenhower's vice-president and now the Republican presidential candidate, visited the hospital Tuesday and conferred with Eisenhower's doctors and members of the family, including the general's son, John.

He described Eisenhower's battle to survive as courageous. "His chances for recovery are certainly not to be underestimated, despite his critical condition," he said.

EXCITEMENT BAD

Nixon did not see Eisenhower because, the former vice-president explained, "anything in the political field at this time would excite him."

Earlier in the day the doctors had said there had been a generally favorable trend in reduction of the muscle-twitching irregular beats, but that the outlook for recovery remained guarded or unpredictable.

At the same time the hospital announced that at least 20 volunteers had offered their hearts for a transplant in recent days.

The possibility of such an operation has been ruled out by Eisenhower's doctors because of his age and major, but unexplained medical conditions.

Pierre splits

IBIZA, Spain (Reuters) — Prime Minister Trudeau left here suddenly Tuesday for an unknown destination in an apparent attempt to escape publicity on his Mediterranean holiday.

He boarded a plane bound for Madrid, with a stop-over at the eastern Spanish port of Valencia, accompanied by an assistant and a RCHP officer.

DOING FINE — Five-year-old Maria Giannaris of Hargers-town, Md., is doing fine as she recovers in the special heart transplant section of the intensive care unit at Texas Children's Hospital at Houston. Maria received the heart of an 11-year-old boy early Sunday morning and became the second child to receive a transplant. (AP Wirephoto)

Kidney transplants active

EDMONTON (CP) — "They're giving me heck for eating too much."
"I'm thinking of going swimming."
"I feel fine."
These were comments of Edmonton's three successful kidney transplant patients when they were together for the first time recently for almost-simultaneous checkups with the doctor who performed the operations at University Hospital.
Mrs. Rose Hansen, 50, mother of 13, was the one who talked about eating.
Ben Crozier, 32, of Edmonton was thinking of going swimming.
Mrs. Vernon Hough, 24, who eats "anything" now, was feeling fine.
Mrs. Hansen, who lives in Meadowview, 50 miles north-west of Edmonton, and Mrs. Hough, whose home is at Rimby, 75 miles southwest of Edmonton, got kidneys from dead persons.

Mr. Crozier got his kidney from a donor who is still alive.
Mrs. Hansen has her disabled husband and the youngest five of her 13 children living at their farm home.
"I'm getting so I can do a little cooking and housework," she said. "I sure feel good."
Mr. Crozier, a technical aide in the provincial lands and forests department, has been back at work for six months.
Before the operation last November, he said he spent two nights of every week for 4½ years connected with an artificial kidney machine.
"It's nice to be home those extra two nights a week," he said.
He is married to a home economics teacher at Victoria composite high school.
"It's nice, too, to get rid of the cannulas."
A cannula is a tube which connects a vein to the kidney machine.
Dr. William Lakey, who performed the transplant operations, said the hospital had five persons waiting for a kidney

Broken beak no handicap for singing canary

NEW YORK—(NEA)—What else would a fellow named Canary be but a singer? Even if he does have the build of a football player (and he had offers to be a pro in that field) and the broken nose to go along with pigskin roughhousing.
And even if he is playing a fellow named Candy in NBC-TV's popular Bonanza.
After searching for a suitable fourth male for the series, missing ever since Pernel Roberts "ankled" the show (to use the Variety vernacular), Canary is the one who made the grade. The day he knew he was set was the day they filmed a script written by Michael Landon, who plays Little Joe, which had Candy saying that even though he often threatened to leave the Ponderosa, he would not.
"Michael wrote the line and they filmed it as I said it," he says with a smile.
Canary is a quietly amusing, impressively bright young man who seems to be objective about himself. "With this face I thought I wouldn't get away from the villainous mold, but my smile takes away from my broken nose."
He is also a man with a dream. He wants to star in a Broadway musical comedy. He has a big, legitimate voice and began as a singer.
"I originally came to New York as a singer. If you're a singer the challenge is to get a straight play and I finally did with 'Great Day in the Morning.' Then I went out to Colorado to do 'The Fantastiks' and after that I played Stanley in 'Streetcar Named Desire.' I got a call from New York to do 'The Fantastiks' there and I almost did, but I decided against it because I was married by that time and my price had skyrocketed to $55 a week.

"I don't want to sing on Bonanza because the only way it would fit the character would be to pick up a guitar and play badly and sing badly. Why should I give all those viewers a wrong impression of my voice? Maybe I'm foolish, but my dream is to come back and star in a Broadway musical. That would be the

Bruce Geller
The man behind Mission: Impossible

funnest thing of all."
When commercials and other TV shows start spoofing a TV show, that TV show is made. When it wins Emmy Awards two straight years, it is MADE.
And when a show is MADE, the creator has every right to be loud. Which is why Mission: Impossible's Bruce Geller comes as a pleasant surprise. He's a soft-spoken, almost-shy man who is a writer and producer with a vast amount of experience for someone who is only 38. He has produced The Dick Powell Theater and Rawhide, in addition to his present chore as executive producer and creator of Mission: Impossible and executive producer of Mannix.
Geller, a tall, good-looking New Yorker, says the last two years have been good ones. In the past, "I've been white-haired and I've been fired," he says. "CBS has been good to us. The shows did not rate well in the beginning and if we had been on ABC, they would have been canceled."

When Geller was dreaming up the Mission: Impossible characters, he created one called Martin Land, especially for Martin Landau. The name was changed, of course, to Rollin Hand and has become an extremely important part of the show. Landau is an attractive man in an off-beat way and Geller says it's hard for a man to tell who a woman will find attractive. "I use my wife for that. Besides, lives there a man tiny, feeble and homely without some woman somewhere to say, 'He's cute.'"

Brass prime target for unhappy GIs

NEW YORK—(NEA)—The American GI ain't what he used to be.
In World War I he was a semiliterate, parochial farm boy who was educated, on the average, through the eighth grade. Today, he's an inquisitive, urban sophisticate with more than 12 years of formal schooling.
He's a couple of inches taller, 20 pounds heavier and remarkably better-equipped. He is, says the military, a whole new man. He's stronger. He's smarter. He's more aware. He's even a mite or two healthier.
In fact, there is only one throwback: He's still as miserable as ever.
In every post and station in the land, the GI remains dissatisfied with his lot. Chow may be better, "but it ain't good." Pay may be higher, "but I'm still broke." Life may be simpler, "but not so's you notice it much."
And, as in 1917 and 1941, the soldier has a familiar point to focus his frustration on: The Brass. "Them dumb clucks" who are sitting in the shade.
"Oh, private?"
"Yes, corporal."
"How can you tell an officer at the beach?"
"I don't know."
"Silly. He's the one walking on water."
This kind of gag has grown increasingly bitter of late. It no longer seems funny.
Some of the wisecracking is malicious. The officer, as an obvious part of the Establishment, is being blamed by many for Vietnam, the draft, the Bomb and a host of other world woes.
At present, officers are a chief target of the shadowy military "Resistance" movement which is reportedly forming at various bases. Different Resistance members have different goals (from stopping the draft to stopping the war) but most have at least one common stand: They dislike officers.
Civilian organizations are popping up all over for the clear purpose of, as one of them advertises, putting the Brass down. The idea being to let dissatisfied servicemen know they have friends on the outside.
There is, as example, a group called SLAP (Southern Legal Assistance Project) in Atlanta. It promises service to anyone "being hassled by the brass."
There is the Resistance in New York City. It is suspected of such activity as counseling draft dodgers and operating an underground railroad.
There is the Youth Against War and Fascism, a Progressive Labor party offshoot which authorities believe is urging GIs to refuse combat service.
Then there are the anti-officer newspapers. There are at least a half dozen of them, the largest of which are the Vietnam GI, the Ally, the Bond, and Vietnam Veterans' Stars and Stripes. They publish sporadically.
The papers are all edited by former servicemen, none of them officers and all of them harboring deep resentment against rank of any kind.
Jeff Sharlet, for example, puts out the Vietnam GI, an eight-page, Chicago-based tabloid. He claims a BA degree from Indiana University, and three years Army intelligence service. He says officers are "oppressive."
Sharlet's paper reflects his thoughts. His May edition has a photo of GIs holding severed Viet Cong heads. The caption reads: "This shows what the brass want you to do in Nam." The inference being officers want atrocities.
In the rest of the May issue, Sharlet concentrated on complimentary letters from unnamed soldiers, pilfered cartoons from copyrighted newspapers, and the use of a somewhat repetitious series of four-letter words.
Sharlet says 30,000 copies of his paper are regularly distributed in the nation, or mailed (under wraps) to Vietnam. He says the issues are condemned by the military, but still secretly passed from GI to GI.

He believes the paper is "hurting" the Army. "We've helped show the soldier he doesn't have to be afraid... he can stand up to Army intimidation."
As with the contents of his newspaper, Sharlet's opinions are debatable. His critics feel he vastly overemphasizes his editorial power.
Nevertheless, Sharlet's sheet, as well as thousands of issues of similar publications, are being read by servicemen. Some probably read out of curiosity, but others admit they believe the papers print the truth.
"I know the officers get away with a lot in the service," says a Ft. Jackson recruit, Pvt. William Bait. "I've seen some things myself."
"What things?"
"One of them hit a buddy of mine once."
"For what?"
"For nothing."
"Did you report it?"
"What for? I'd really get it then. All officers stick together."
This kind of talk is, of course, not surprising to old military hands. It has been common among enlisted men since the cold snap at Valley Forge.
But what does surprise is the fact that today's GI is so closely echoing yesterday's GI. A man with an eighth-grade education might well believe officers are cruel, but what explains the same belief in more learned soldiers?
What about all the GI progress? What about the new awareness in today's recruit? What about the sophistication and ability to think individually?
No answer is absolute. Some military people believe that the anti-officer propaganda, and the over-all Resistance may be partly responsible.
But there is another, more obvious guess:
"Well," says one observer, a chaplain at Portsmouth, Va., Naval Base, "I've been watching soldiers for 24 years. I've heard their worries and their fears in three wars. And I tell you: They haven't really changed at all."

7-year-old accident victim in Montreal

Seven-year-old Linda Speck was transferred to a Montreal hospital early this morning from the Sherbrooke Hospital to be treated for injuries she received in an accident yesterday in Lennoxville.

She was struck by a car driven by a Mr. Robinson, of Windsor, Que., at the intersection of Burczyk Lane and Queen Street at 5:20 yesterday afternoon.

Constable Willard Young of the Lennoxville Police Department said the young girl, daughter of Carl Speck, 42 Downs Street, was unconscious when she was taken by ambulance to the Sherbrooke Hospital.

Officials at the Sherbrooke Hospital would not reveal the young girl's condition.

Constable Young, after learning that she was transferred to Montreal said about her condition, "... it must be serious."

He said the little girl ran into the street from behind a parked vehicle causing the accident.

Mr. Robinson was travelling from Lennoxville towards Sherbrooke, the policeman said.

Stanstead mayor opens new caisse

STANSTEAD — (Special) — The new Caisse Populaire on Dufferin Road here was officially opened, dedicated and blessed Sunday in the presence of some 200 English and French persons.

The day's program started off in the morning with mass at the Sacred Heart church with Father Pierre Comeau, the celebrant.

The white satin ribbon at the door of the new Caisse was cut by Mayor E. J. Struthers of the Municipality of Stanstead, then everyone gathered around for the dedication and blessing by Father Comeau.

Roger Roy, Regional President, District of Sherbrooke, and Caisse President, Gilles Grenier then invited everyone to tour the building.

The remainder of the program took place in the auditorium of the near-by Sacred Heart Boys' School where Mr. Grenier was master of ceremonies. Mr. Grenier spoke of the history of the establishing of the caisse in Stanstead in 1937 when Father Lanctot was the parish priest at Sacred Heart Church, and E. Daigneault was the first manager.

Several members of the Grenier family stand out as early organizers, and Mr. Grenier made note of several others. Some of them were present at the dedication. "The bank is here to assist financing and to be a service in the community," he said.

Roger Roy, addressing the assembly also spoke words of welcome, he commended the Grenier's and others who have done much for the progress and success of the bank which has brought about the building of a new bank home. He said he is proud that the English people share in the economic life of the Caisse and "today in the festivities".

"I wish to see that the curtain of suspicion disappears in these communities and with the co-operation of both nationalities and with an open mind we together can do great things in this area".

Father Comeau, in his remarks spoke of the progress the Caisse has made over a period of less than 30 years in the community.

Mayor Struthers, speaking in French and English, referred to Alphonse Desjardins, who was born at Levis in 1854 and died in 1920.

Galt monument

Society to decide stand

As the renewed Galt monument controversy enters its second week, a cloak of uncertainty as to the monument's future was slightly lifted yesterday.

Eastern Townships Historical Society President Leonidas Bachand said a meeting will be held in the Howardene building at 8 p.m. tonight to hammer out the Society's stand on the proposed monument.

Asked to comment on Mayor Nadeau's recent statement that council and the Society should back a federal government proposal for a modern sculpture, the Society president replied:

"I have no idea what approach members will take to the mayor's proposal." The president did indicate tonight's meeting will be open to new suggestions concerning the proposed monument.

Until now, the Society has stood steadfastly behind a bronze or stone bust of the Father of Confederation to be erected in Mitchell Park.

Sherbrooke MP Paul Gervais said "I do not want to do anything until I go to Ottawa, for the convening of Parliament September 12."

The freshman politician said he will contact National and Historic Parks Branch authorities sometime after his arrival in Ottawa.

Last Monday City Council tabled a letter from the Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development warning funds for construction of the monument may be lost if Sherbrooke doesn't soon decide where and when to erect it.

Mr. Gervais said he personally prefers a stone or bronze bust of Galt, "but I definitely haven't made up my mind." He said he doesn't have a clue what the modern sculpture designed by Montreal sculptress

Suzanne Guite looks like, and remarked he would "get my nose into the file" to bone up on the background history of the monument.

Last November 10, the Record carried the first published sketch of the federally proposed sculpture which Historical Society Vice-President Desmond McKeon curtly dismissed as looking like a bunch of bananas.

The general body of the Society has termed it as being "a monument of fantasy smothering reality." Last November council fully supported this stand.

Hold Orford poetry readings

MOUNT ORFORD — Next Saturday and Sunday evenings members of the drama class at the Orford JMC Centre under the direction of Jacques Zouvi, will present poetry readings and a two-act play by Ottawa author Jacqueline Martin. Six of the Orford JMC Centre's participants in the drama section will recite poems by Canadian authors Leclerc, Saulnier, Nelligan, Hebert, Gameau, Prefontaine and Vigneault.

Twelve other drama students will perform the two-act play by Canadian author Jacqueline Martin. Besides his regular assistants, director Jacques Zouvi will be aided by lighting, sound, settings and costume specialists selected from among the Orford JMC Centre personnel. Painting and sculpture participants have also cooperated in this dramatic production which is one of the annual features of the Orford JMC Centre for music and the arts.

rescored the orchestral accompaniment for two pianos and percussion. It is many years since Marcel Landowski last visited Canada, but since the Jeunesses Musicales tour of his one-act pocket opera Le Ventriologue in 1957, he has written 12 major works, many of which have been recorded.

Ever since 1960, when he was named Director of the Conservatory of Boulogne-sur-Seine, he has been engaged in improving the musical situation in France and he now occupies the leading musical post in that country. Mr. Landowski will remain in Mount Orford from August 24 to 31.

L'OPERA DE POUSSIÈRE Fifty-three year old Marcel Landowski, who is the Inspector - general of music in France's Department of Cultural Affairs is arriving in Montreal on Saturday to supervise the Canadian premiere of his two-act opera. First performed in Paris in 1965, the work is centred around a composer and a theatre director who do not speak the same language. The story recounts the trials of a composer in his attempts to get his work performed.

The opera is dedicated in the words of the composer: To all theatre directors, past and future, who, when faced with a new musical score by a living composer, have secretly asked themselves the question: — Is it a masterpiece or a flop? For the Mount Orford JMC Premiere Mr. Landowski has arranged to be made by R. L. Bishop and Son Funeral Home, Lennoxville, to have the body moved from here to Sherbrooke for private burial at the Elmwood Cemetery in Sherbrooke.

In good shape

Rodney Brand, 63 Academy Street, Lennoxville is reported to be making satisfactory progress following an automobile accident on the Cookshire highway between Bishop's University and the Experimental Farm.

The accident occurred last Saturday afternoon during the rain and was one of a series which took place within hours apparently due to slippery pavement. Mr. Brand is expected to return home at the end of the week.

Pig Iron

Pig iron, a form of crude cast iron, gets its name from molds originally made of sand and formed in a way suggesting a nursing litter of pigs. The iron was poured directly into the molds from the blast furnace.

Denies attempted rape

Yvan Gosselin, 18, of Bromptonville, pleaded not guilty yesterday in Court of Sessions when he faced Judge Roland Dugre on a charge of attempted rape.

Gosselin's lawyer, Jean Cormier, succeeded in having his client granted bail of $500 or $950 property value.

Mr. Cormier pleaded with the court that the charge was attempted and not rape and asked that Gosselin be allotted the usual bail.

The young Bromptonville man is accused of the attempted rape of a 15-year-old girl in Bromptonville on Aug. 18. He will appear on Aug. 28 pro forma.

Sutton Junction

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Smith, Mrs. Corinne Persons and daughter, Christal, attended the recent wedding of Pamela Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Royal Smith, Drummondville.

Mr. Emma Page was at home to her many relatives, and friends recently, the occasion being her 85th birthday. Mrs. Page is one of the oldest residents of this community and was the recipient of many lovely cards and gifts, along with best wishes for many more birthdays. Refreshments were served by her daughter, Mrs. Irene Royea, and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. William Page.

The services in St. Aidan's Church were conducted by Mr. Reid Cook, Montreal, and Rev. I. M. Lidstone, Granby.

En bloc elections

Despite declarations by Mayor Nadeau that the decision taken by the Council Monday night was irregular, it appears that the Sherbrooke aldermen have committed themselves to the institution of en bloc elections effective in 1970.

Monday night's resolution may be irregular because of the manner in which it was presented but there is nothing to prevent the Council from studying a similar motion at a future meeting and it is difficult to see how the aldermen who voted for the change this week can change their stand at the coming session — even if they wanted to.

Aside from the claim that the system of en bloc elections might lead to the establishment of municipal political parties there appears no substantial argument against en bloc as contrasted with the present system of naming the aldermen by rotation.

And there are many strong reasons for favoring a change.

The existing system tends to make the City Council a self-perpetuating club, preventing the electors from taking any effective action to change an administration they regard as inefficient.

Under present conditions the best that can be hoped for is that two new aldermen will be introduced into the Council at each election, meaning that three years must elapse before any change in the Council control could be effected.

And by that time some of the early-elected reformers may have given up in disgust or have learned "the facts of life" from their hold-over conferees.

But en bloc elections alone will not bring true democracy to the city hall.

There is a crying need for changes in ward representation to assure that each alderman will represent approximately the same number of electors.

Until this is accomplished there can be no claim that the Council represents the will of the people.

The person who first said that father gives away the bride quite obviously never received a clutch of wedding bills.

Curbing traffic toll

One suggestion worthy of study that has been advanced in an effort to cut down the steadily increased toll of highway traffic accidents is that of granting a selected group of citizens the right and responsibility of reporting the license numbers of really dangerous drivers to the nearest police authority with the details of the offence.

The idea is that these vigilantes would supplement the regular police forces who obviously cannot be everywhere at the same time with the result that many major traffic offences pass unnoticed.

And in addition to the number of offences reported by the voluntary groups there would be the deterrent effect on the motorist who would not know if the soft-looking pedestrian at the street corner or the gentle driver of a small car are actually law enforcement agents.

Certain safeguards must be incorporated in the plan if it is to work effectively.

The volunteers must be incorporated in the plan if it is to work effectively.

The volunteers must be responsible individuals who can be depended upon to use reasonable judgment before making complaints to ensure that the system is not a cover-up for righting personal grievances.

The reports must be made without undue delay and the summonses issued immediately so the alleged offender can offer a proper defence.

Probably there are other objections to the scheme but at least it deserves more than cursory study if last year's toll of 5,393 Canadians killed and 104,371 injured on the highways is to be reduced.

TODAY in history

By THE CANADIAN PRESS
Aug. 21, 1968 . . .

Jean-Baptiste Bernadotte, one of Napoleon's generals, was elected crown prince of Sweden 158 years ago today — in 1810 — and ascended the throne eight years later as Charles XIV on the death of childless Charles XIII. His departure to Sweden suited Napoleon since Bernadotte was a fine soldier but uninterested in politics. Bernadotte proved popular as a monarch and founded the present — Swedish royal house.

1858 — Abraham Lincoln and Stephen A. Douglas began their historic debates.

1859 — Drilling a well at Titusville, Pa., Edward Drake struck oil — the first modern oil well.

First World War
Fifty years ago today — in 1918 — Sir Julien Byng's 3rd Army attacked north of the Ancre River reaching Achiet-le-Petit, while French forces under Gen. Mangin advanced taking Beaucourt, Courcelles and Lassigny; an independent air force bombarded Frankfurt, Cologne and Mannheim.

Second World War

Bygone days

TEN YEARS AGO

Major J. Edgar Kingsland, guest speaker at the Magog Kiwanis Club's weekly meeting described the past service group and youth activities in Magog.

Major Kingsland said that a veterans service group formed after the First World War was in reality the first service club in Magog.

One-time soldier, Magog ex mayor, and noted welfare worker, the major's address was received with much appreciation. He was introduced by Gordon Beerworth and thanked by Edward Foggo.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

AYLMER, Ont. (Staff) — Sherbrooke Air Cadets at summer camp here, won the intersquadron track and field meet Saturday.

The Sherbrooke cadets took four first places in the meet in addition to a number of seconds, and scored a total of 40 points.

LAC J. Bissonnette placed first in the senior high jump and the senior broad jump. Sgt. A. Lyon won the senior 440 yard dash, and the senior relay event was also won by Sherbrooke. The relay team consisted of: LAC D. Webb, LAC D. Dutil, LAC J. Bissonnette, and LAC G. Harton.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

GALLUP HILL (Staff) — The original first annual "One Cent Fair" by the "Jolly Juniors Club", for the benefit of the Canadian Red Cross, was favored with sunny skies.

The major part of the afternoon of August 14, was spent on the grounds of Mr. Holland Burrill's farm.

It was attended by upwards of fifty people, and the proceeds totaled $8.

A sociable and jolly afternoon was enjoyed. The fair closed at 6 p.m. with speeches, thanks and good wishes.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Portugal's greatest epic poem, "The Lusitads" (1572), which extols the voyage of Vasco da Gama, was nearly lost at sea. The World Almanac says. The poet Luis Vaz de Camoens was shipwrecked near the Mekong Delta in what is now South Vietnam. He saved his life and his great poem by swimming ashore. Vasco da Gama, Camoens' kinsman, discovered the water route to India in 1497.

Regional government seeks solution to municipal problems

TORONTO (CP) — So far, there's no map with a master plan for regional government hanging in Darcy McKeough's office.

The Ontario minister for municipal affairs says that's not surprising. The administration does not yet stand committed to the principle of regional government.

His department has initiated eight studies on larger administrative units throughout the province. Reports are in for Niagara, the Lakehead, Ottawa-Carleton and Peel-Halton. Reports are due in the fall for Muskoka and Kitchener-Waterloo and in a year for Hamilton-Wentworth. A Brant-Brantford study is under way at what the minister calls a "leisurely pace."

Next in line is likely to be the Sudbury-Nickel belt area in Northern Ontario, he says. Action there depends on what Queen's Park decides to do about taxing smelters.

These studies, not counting a ninth on Metropolitan Toronto, take in 40 per cent of Ontario's 7,000,000 population.

"Everyone talks about regional government and larger units," Mr. McKeough said in an interview. "So far, the impetus for studies has come locally from areas that need it and the department has encouraged them. But a great deal more planning could be done."

"For instance everyone agrees that the Niagara fruit lands should be preserved. But when someone is offered a good price for his land he seldom turns it down. The province can never afford to buy all the land itself any more than the municipalities can."

For now, Mr. McKeough has called a halt to more studies while the department catches its breath. He hopes to introduce three pieces of regional legislation next year. The New Democratic Party has criticized him for a "bits-and-pieces approach" to planning.

Mr. McKeough told the legislature in July that a decision on regional government will be announced with the white paper on the Smith committee on taxation. The paper is expected about next May.

At the appropriate time, he told the MPPs, they will be asked to make far-reaching decisions on the future of local government.

"I wish to make absolutely clear my strong feeling that the pace of reform must quicken," he said.

Why the urgency? By 1980, 70 per cent of Ontario residents will live in cities with populations of more than 100,000. This shift of people and resources puts a strain on the municipalities—the units are too small and too limited financially to plan and pay for all the activities demanded by a complex society.

In redrawing the map from 967 municipalities to an undecided smaller number of more-workable units, money is a big factor. A third of all the municipalities spend less than $100,000 annually on municipal programs.

The municipal system set up in the Baldwin Act of 1849 just doesn't fit any more, said Mr. McKeough.

Already, municipalities have yielded responsibilities in education, health, conservation. "We don't want municipalities that are merely figureheads."

The Smith report said poorly-drawn municipalities contribute to tax imbalance, cut-throat competition for new industry and the freezing out of low-cost residential development.

But it seems unlikely that a master-plan map would follow the regional areas suggested in the Smith report. It recommended 29 new regions—seven metropolitan, three "urbanizing", 12 county and seven "contracting municipalities" with low populations. The objections aim at the separation of urban and rural governments which C. E. Bateman, president of the Association of Ontario Counties, labels "unacceptable".

"Regional government as proposed by the committee would create a city-type of government which would benefit urban areas far more than rural ones," Mr. Bateman said last year.

Mr. McKeough agrees. One thing that pleases him most: about the Ottawa-Carleton structure is that 92 per cent of its area is rural.

Here's what has been done so far to redraw the map: In 1965, the Goldenberg royal commission said Metropolitan Toronto should be made into a four-city Metro. Instead, in January, 1966, 13 municipalities were compressed into a city and five boroughs under a stronger council.

In September, 1966, a metropolitan form of government was recommended for the Niagara Peninsula. Study chairman Henry B. Mayo blamed an antiquated municipal structure for pollution problems in Lake Ontario and Lake Erie.

No killowats yet

'Quoddy' project is only words

DICKEY, Me. (AP)—If words were kilowatts, Dickey-Lincoln would rank as the greatest power project in New England.

The $227,000,000 plan to build two dams on the St. John River near this tiny logging hamlet in northern Maine is a spin-off from the Passamaquoddy tidal dream of 30 years ago.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt sparked "Quoddy" as he looked across the surging tides of the Bay of Fundy from his summer home at Campobello, N.B., near Eastport.

Quoddy produced millions of words over three decades, but not one jot of electricity.

A plan to dam Rankin Rapids near here to supplement "Quoddy" during low tidal cycles was left high and dry.

Dickey-Lincoln is being talked to death, too.

Talk is on the side of the private utilities. The more talk the more delay, and the more delay the higher go the costs of a possible public project.

New England has the highest power rates in the United States and it is also the only region without a large-scale public power projects.

In July, 17 of 25 New England congressmen voted against further planning funds for Dickey-Lincoln.

ACCUSE POWER LOBBY

"Another victory for the greedy power lobby," say Dickey-Lincoln supporters. They say these same congressmen vote for public power projects in the rest of the country.

Dickey-Lincoln does or does not make sense according to what yardstick you measure it with.

By one yardstick it would produce "peaking power" at a rate lower than any other built or planned power project in New England.

"Peaking power" is the power needed during the late afternoon rush when the housewife turns on her electric stove to cook supper or draws hot water to bath the children, and stores and offices turn on extra lights.

Hydroelectric plants make good peaking power since they can be easily turned off and on for a few hours a day. Steam and nuclear power plants do not operate economically for short periods.

Private power defenders say nuclear plants now under way in New England in conjunction with "pumped storage" make Dickey-Lincoln obsolete.

Pumped storage is a system whereby electric power during slack hours of the day is used to pump water to a height where it is stored for use to turn turbines during the peak hours.

The Allagash forest is on the edge of the Dickey-Lincoln battlefield but few of the protagonists have ever visited the area. It is New England's nearest approach to wilderness.

Lumberjacks of a century ago, sometimes dubbed "Bangor Tigers," logged the Allagash of virgin pine, but it has been recut several times since of fast-growing spruce for pulpwood.

Today's big paper companies are still trying to live down the "robber baron" reputations of their cut-and-run predecessors. They now find themselves in the same canoe with conservationists, normally their mortal enemies, on Dickey-Lincoln.

Northern Maine is famed for its wilderness canoe routes on the Allagash, St. John and St. Francis rivers as well as several dozen lakes.

The Dickey dam would flood the St. John, and fluctuating lake levels would make a mess of the shoreline, conservationists claim. The original Rankin Rapids plan was junked because it would flood the Allagash waterway. Even under the Dickey plan, however, a storage dam at Lincoln would flood the lower part of the Allagash.

The lower dam is needed to regulate the off-and-on flow from Dickey, otherwise residents downstream on the St. John in Maine and Canada would face a dry river once a day.

Knowlton parish has a century party

By STEPHEN MORSON, (Record Correspondent)

KNOWLTON — (Special) — The Roman Catholic Church of St. Edouard has completed the 100th year of the founding of the parish in Knowlton, and to mark this occasion a banquet and concert was held in the Church School Hall on Sunday evening Aug. 11, when over 275 parishioners, friends and guests of the Church sat down to a splendid banquet.

Chairman of the banquet Herve Gagne welcomed all present and the proceedings commenced with the bilingual singing of O Canada accompanied by Keith Tedman at the organ.

Chairman Gagne then introduced the head table guests, and called upon each for a few words. His Worship Mayor Lorne Church was introduced and addressed the gathering in French. He was followed by the Rev. Canon T. E. R. Nurse, Rector of St. Paul's Anglican Parish, who also spoke in French and English. The Rev. Douglas Warren, Pastor of the Knowlton United Church, was then introduced and addressed the gathering in flawless French. Mrs. Church and Mrs. Nurse were also among the head table guests.

The parish priest, Rev. Father E. Boucher addressed the gathering and stressed that in this community all work together, live and pray to One God, and this makes for a very happy community.

St. Paul's Church having just celebrated their 125th anniversary in 1967, at which time many friends from St. Edouard's attended their celebrations, now the members of St. Paul's Parish are returning the compliment and visiting St. Edouard's on this happy occasion.

One of the high lights of the evening was the singing of a specially written song for the occasion. The song dedicated to St. Edouard's Parish was written by Mrs. Pearl Grenier and sung very beautifully by Mrs. Edna Badger. Mr. Gagne then called upon Mrs. Fred Baader and Mrs. Richard Tuer who sang two duets.

They were followed by Miss Louise Lavigne who presented several numbers on the organ. She was also accompanied by Miss Diane Lauziere who sang two very beautiful French songs. Miss Joanne Desgens then entertained the gathering with a further selection of French songs, and all joined in singing the choruse. The Bell Telephone Company presented a fine colored film entitled All About Time.

During the showing of this film the hall was cleared away for dancing to the music of George Young and his orchestra. So a happy and event filled evening was brought to a close. There will be further religious ceremonies next month to mark this 100th Anniversary.

Stanbridge East firemen are busy

STANBRIDGE EAST (Special) — An early morning fire completely destroyed the barn owned by Merrill Plouffe of Dunham.

The fire believed to be caused by a short circuit in the wiring system, broke out during the morning milking time. The Freighsburg fire department rushed to the scene but were unable to reach the water supply.

By the time the Stanbridge East fire department, under the direction of Fire Chief David Blinn reached the scene the barn was completely in flames. However, they were able to save several other near-by buildings. The milking herd were saved but two young calves were burnt in the blaze. The hay crop stored in the barn was a complete loss.

About 3 p.m. firemen were called to the home of Mrs. Archie Lenny in the Freighsburg-St. Armand area. Mrs. Lenny was away from home, visiting relatives at Sawyer-ville. A neighbor saw the fire and called the Stanbridge East fire department. When they arrived, the roof had already caved in and they were unable to save the house or any of the contents. The cause of the fire is as yet undetermined.

Paper boy is injured

COWANSVILLE — (Staff) — Police here said yesterday that David Wilson, 13, Sherbrooke Daily Record delivery boy — in Sweetsburg Ward, was injured in a car accident on Dieppe Boulevard early Sunday afternoon.

Police alleged the Wilson boy dated in front of a car driven by Donald Pelchat, 20, 130 Laurier Street, Cowansville. David is presently hospitalized at the Brome - Missisquoi-Perkins Hospital. Hugh Wilson, David's father, said his son is bruised from head to foot and has a fractured leg.

Skilled Metal Workers North American Indians of the so-called Hopewell culture, which was centered in southern Ohio, were highly skilled in metal work, using copper, silver, iron and even gold centuries before the arrival of Columbus in America.

Desilets—Murphy wedding

RICHMOND — The Holy Family Church in Richmond was the scene of a pretty summer wedding recently when Lorraine Murphy, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Murphy, became the bride of Pierre Paul Desilets, of South Durham. Father Martin of Holy Family parish officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of white peau de creme and trimmed with Spanish lace on the sleeves and the neckline. Her Spanish lace veil was held in place by seed pearls and lace headpiece. She carried pink gladioli and baby's breath.

Thelma Murphy as maid-of-honor for her sister was in a floor-length dress of rose Kennedy bonded crepe with A-line skirt and empire waistline. The gown was trimmed with tiny satin buttons and piping at the waist.

The bride's youngest sister, Maureen Murphy was bridesmaid in an identical dress of apple green. The attendants wore satin bow headpieces and they carried colonial bouquets of Shasta daisies and baby's breath.

Robert Desilets was best man for his brother and Brian Murphy, brother of the bride was usher.

Gregory Stevens sang Ave Maria, accompanied by Mrs. Howard Oakley at the organ.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Belle-View Golf Club with about 70 guests present.

Candy McAdams was in charge of the guest book. A buffet style supper was served. The bride's table was centered with the traditional wedding cake and flanked on either side with bowls of pink low-cut roses and white tapers in crystal candleholders.

The bride's mother chose a pink linen suit with black accessories and wore a corsage of two-tone pink gladioli. The groom's mother wore a pale blue ensemble and her corsage was of white carnations.

Following the supper dancing was enjoyed to the music of the George Young Orchestra, of Granby. The bride and groom left for a short honeymoon. They are now residing in Lawrenceville.

Guests were from Ottawa and Dundas, Ont.; Montreal, Granby, Waterloo, Warden, Weedon, Greenlay, Sherbrooke, Sutton, South Durham, Magog, Richmond, Melbourne and St. Felix de Kingsey.

COOKSHIRE — About 75 relatives and friends gathered in the hall of Trinity United Church on Aug. 13 to honor bride-elect Pauline Brazel with a miscellaneous shower.

Upon arrival at the hall, corsages were pinned on Miss Brazel, her mother, Mrs. Raymond Brazel and on her prospective mother-in-law, Mrs. Walter Thorneloe, by Patricia Smith, Diane Cork and Beverley Brazel. Marching to the music of the bridal chorus, played by Mrs. Heatherington, the group conducted the guests of honor to the front of the hall where the seats of honor were placed.

A large white paper bell was suspended from the ceiling over the bridal chair. Pink and blue streamers were used to decorate the chairs and the same color scheme was used for the decorations on the lace-covered table.

An interesting centrepiece of flowers was in the shape of a white paper-covered watering can. Streamers were attached from ceiling to the edge of the table and two small paper umbrellas completed the table decorations. Several baskets of flowers were used to decorate the remainder of the room.

Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Cork brought in a large basket of prettily decorated gifts, and presented them to the guest of honor. The basket was replenished several times. Mrs. Brazel and Mrs. Thorneloe assisted the bride-elect to open her parcels.

Miss Brazel thanked her relatives and friends for their lovely gifts and for the very pleasant evening.

The UCW members then served refreshments.

Celebrate ruby anniversary

LEMESURIER — The ruby wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Beattie, of Lemesurier, was celebrated on July 27 in the St. Antoine de Pontbriand Hall where a reception was held in their honor.

A short address of welcome was read in English and French by their daughter, Joan. She then presented them with two La-Z-Boy chairs, gifts from the assembled guests. They also received other gifts of ruby glassware, china and money.

Before dancing to the music of Sam Hopper's Orchestra, of Waterville, Mr. and Mrs. Beattie received congratulations and best wishes from all present. A red guest book was signed by the guests as they arrived at the hall. Lunch was served by the Ladies of Kinneer's Mills.

Celebrate 25th anniversary

KNOWLTON — Mr. and Mrs. Albert Needham were surprised recently following a family dinner party at the Steak House. They were persuaded to enter the Rebekah Hall on a fictitious errand and found over 90 of their friends and relatives had gathered to extend congratulations on the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Needham were married at the home of Mrs. Needham's parents, Mr. and

Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Cork brought in a large basket of prettily decorated gifts, and presented them to the guest of honor. The basket was replenished several times. Mrs. Brazel and Mrs. Thorneloe assisted the bride-elect to open her parcels.

Miss Brazel thanked her relatives and friends for their lovely gifts and for the very pleasant evening.

The UCW members then served refreshments.

Guests were from New York City, Boston, Pittsfield, Island Pond, St. Catharines, Ont., Montreal, Sherbrooke, Lennoxville, Huntingville, North Hatley, Beebe, Quebec City, Three Rivers, as well as from the surrounding areas.

Prior to this party a supper was served at the Routhier Hotel in St. Pierre de Broughton to about 25 close relatives and neighbors. On arrival at the hotel, an orchid corsage was pinned on Mrs. Beattie and a white carnation boutonniere on Mr. Beattie. The table was centered with a three-tiered white iced anniversary cake topped with an arrangement of red rose buds and white stephanotis. The cake was a gift from Mrs. Harry Haddon and Mrs. Borden Ross, of Lennoxville.

Mrs. Robert McKerrell, the home now occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Taylor, on August 7, 1943, by Rev. Mr. Douglas of Sutton United Church.

They were met at the door by their daughter, Marsha, and Mrs. Needham's sister, Mrs. Russell Lawrence, of Waterloo, and Adrien Whitehead, Foster.

PRETTY WEDDING — Mr. and Mrs. Russell Charles Meyers who were married recently at Trinity United Church. The bride is the former Rosemary Alma Wheeler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell A. Wheeler of Sherbrooke and the groom is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Russell C. Meyers of Montreal. (Record photo: Gerry Lemay)

White gladioli is flower motif for the Meyers-Wheeler wedding

Baskets of white gladioli decorated Trinity United Church for the marriage of Rosemary Alma Wheeler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell A. Wheeler, of Sherbrooke, to Russell Charles Meyers, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Russell C. Meyers, of Montreal.

Rev. R. Graham Barr officiated at the ceremony, Aug. 17, at 3 p.m. Wedding music was played by Wright W. Gibson. The guest pews were marked with white satin bows.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length empire style gown of silk faile with satin applique. The chapel train was similarly appliqued. Her shoulder length veil of tulle illusion was held by a flowered bow and she carried a cascade bouquet of miniature pink carnations.

Patricia Mulcahy and Diane Caunter, bridesmaids, were in floor-length dresses of rose pink bonded crepe with puffed sleeves and scooped necklines. A bow of the same material was in their hair and each carried colonial bouquets of white carnations.

Ernest Meyers was best man for his brother and the ushers were Mark Wheeler, brother of the bride and Brian Meyers, brother of the groom.

Mrs. Wheeler, mother of the bride, chose a silk knit ensemble of pale blue and silver with matching tulle turban and silver accessories. Her corsage was of pink Sweetheart roses.

Mrs. Robert Oswald, sister of the groom, wore a dress of blue crepe with white lace coat, silver accessories and red roses corsage.

Mrs. W. H. Wheeler, grandmother of the bride, was in a teal blue double-knit silk dress with lace yoke and navy blue accessories. Her corsage was of red roses.

A reception was held following the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents. The bride's table was decorated with white candles in silver holders and a three-tier wedding cake.

Later, the couple left on a wedding trip to Quebec City and points of interest on the east coast. The bride travelled in a blue dress and coat ensemble with white eyelet embroidery trim and a corsage of orange tipped carnations. Her accessories were black patent leather.

Guests were from Toronto, Montreal, Sherbrooke and surrounding district.

On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Meyers will reside in Montreal.

Among those who entertained in honor of Mrs. Meyers prior to her marriage were Mrs. Richard Mulcahy and Miss Diane Caunter at a linen shower and Mrs. George Foreman at a tea.

POLLY'S POINTERS Try These Easy Methods To Place, Remove Screws

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—Like most women, I always had a great deal of trouble putting in or removing screens until my son showed me a few tricks. With a soft pencil, carefully mark the place for the screw. Drive a small nail about 1/4-inch or less into the mark. To remove the nail, put a magazine or something similar under the hammer's claw to prevent scarring of the wood as you pull it out. Rub the threads of the screw on a bar of soap, insert into the nail hole and it goes in with no trouble at all.

If a screw is hard to remove because it won't start, give it a good turn the wrong way to tighten. That will often break it loose. If it is in metal and no "penetrating" oil is handy, pour a little lighter fluid around it, give it a 1/4-inch turn the wrong way and then try it the right way.—STELLA

Polly's Problem
DEAR POLLY—What can I do with a dozen new carpet samples? Those measuring 14x18 inches are in various shades of gold, one red one is 14x34 inches and another is 14x66 inches. I do hope some of the readers who have proved so resourceful in providing wonderful answers to problems will help me.—MARJORIE

DEAR POLLY—and Marion—I, too, received a new vinyl raincoat full of wrinkles. The manufacturer had included a tag advising that one put the garment in the clothes dryer, set at the lowest heat, and allow it to toss around for no longer than a minute. It did take several minutes before I was satisfied but, of course, there is danger of leaving the garment in too long. Watch it constantly and hang up on a wooden coat hanger immediately after removing from the dryer.

This remedy should have been "old hat" to me. It was the way I used to treat my children's plastic pants and little suits with plastic linings. The heat makes the plastic soft and pliable, and removes the wrinkles at the same time. Do watch carefully.—ARLENE

Minimizes Problem
You have a minimum problem removing drips and splatters from water base paints if you clean up promptly with soap and water. You can clean yourself easier, too! Cleaning your equipment is simple. Just rinse under running water, then wash in a bucket with soapy water and rinse again.

A computer keeps inventory of settled Canada

By HENRY HEALD

OTTAWA (CP) — How do you keep track of all the uses and potential uses of a million square miles of settled Canada?

You put them into a computer.

What do you do when you want to know which land uses are best for a certain section of the country?

You tell the computer to print a map.

This is the system—unique in Canada—that the Agricultural and Rural Development Agency has devised for the Canada land inventory, a comprehensive study of the present and potential land use of about half of Canada's land mass.

When completed in about a year's time, the data gathered on some 22,000 maps will be stored on 25 computer tapes ready for recall in a number of ways.

Each of the maps, on a scale of 1 to 50,000, contains detailed information on one of five topics—capability for agriculture, forestry, recreation, wildlife (waterfowl, large game and sport 8fish) or present use.

NO MANUAL TASK

The need to be able to analyse any particular section under all six headings dictated computerization. It would have been an impossible task to tackle manually.

R. J. McCormack, chief coordinator for the Canada land inventory, explained the first big hurdle was to find a way to put map lines on tape. International Business Machines had done some preliminary work on the problem for the United States Army. They finally came up with a drum scanner that could record map markings on tape and reproduce them in any scale desired.

Once that problem was solved, the potential of the system was almost limitless. County boundaries, electoral subdivisions, census figures, average family income are just a few of the items that can be added to the memory bank.

The Canada land inventory was organized after initial experience with federal-provincial ARDA agreements showed the necessity for more-detailed land-use data.

"We could say that certain land was sub-marginal for agriculture, but we couldn't say what it was good for," Mr. McCormack commented.

IDEA APPROVED

A national conference of land-use experts approved the idea and the Canadian Council of Resources Ministers, set up after the Resources for Tomorrow Conference, gave it unqualified support.

The inventory is about half done, and to date has cost a little more than $9,500,000. Mr. McCormack believes the taxpayers have received good value for their money.

Federal-provincial co-operation is the key. ARDA's staff on the project consists of Mr. McCormack and six other co-ordinators. The actual work is done by the provincial governments and other federal departments such as agriculture, northern development, forestry and transport, which are already involved in related work.

ARDA co-ordinates the work and pays any expenses that would not normally be covered in the provincial or departmental budgets.

Mr. McCormack said it might have been a lot easier to do the inventory under contract, but much of its value would have been lost. Under the present system the people who will be using the information are being trained in the process.

USED FOR P.E.I.

The Canada land inventory will be used extensively for planning ARDA and FRED—Fund for Rural Economic Development—programs. It provided the basis for the Prince Edward Island rehabilitation scheme soon to go into operation.

In the future Mr. McCormack hopes it will be used much more by the provinces. With the kind of information the inventory provides, provinces could zone the entire settled areas.

Mr. McCormack, 45, is a native of Bancroft, Ont. After serving in the RCAF during the Second World War he studied forestry at the University of New Brunswick and did post-graduate work at Michigan State University. He was a research officer for the northern affairs department for seven years and then spent seven years in private industry doing land-use projects in Ceylon, Chile and Ve### nezuela. MAY RAISE PROBLEMS

Although he has only six on his staff in Ottawa, the small group is responsible for co-ordinating the efforts of about 1,000 professionals and 1,500 technicians at work in all provinces.

Full implementation of the Canada land inventory could raise some delicate political problems.

THE DOCTOR SAYS Vaccine Best Weapon Against Influenza

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Every fall or winter an outbreak of influenza of varying magnitude occurs. Although the disease is rarely fatal in itself, it is a serious threat because it so often paves the way for a fatal pneumonia, especially in the aged or infirm.

So far, the best weapon against this disease is a vaccine. In order to be effective it must be given well in advance of the anticipated exposure, it must be of the same type as the virus that is expected to strike your community and it must be repeated every year.

The type of virus predominating in any given year is announced by the Public Health Service after study of reports received from all parts of the world. The latest development in preventing influenza is a spray or aerosol vaccine that is easier to take and more effective than the injections formerly given. The vaccine is sprayed directly into the nose or throat and causes fewer and milder side effects than when given by injection.

Q—What is the best treatment for the douloureux or facial neuralgia? Will the pain gradually cause blindness?

A—No single treatment is best for all victims. For complete relief in severe cases, cutting or partially cutting the trigeminal (trifacial) nerve may be necessary. Alcohol injection of the nerve has long been a standard treatment but many authorities now believe that injecting the nerve with hot water is safer and just as effective. Various drugs that can be taken by mouth have been used to control the pain. Recent reports indicate that either mephenesin carbamate or carbamazepine (Tegretol) will give prompt relief. Both are prescription drugs. Their value is limited and careful medical supervision is essential.

No matter how severe the pain it will not affect your vision.

Q—My husband has had trigeminal neuralgia for eight years. It is getting worse. He is taking Demerol for the pain. What is the water-block treatment?

A—I assume this refers to the nerve block produced by injecting the involved nerve with boiling water.

It Really is "MAINLY BECAUSE OF THE MEAT." Here are the facts!

DOMINION trims off fat that others include in the price you pay per pound.

And we trim our Weekly Specials to the same exacting specifications

This is our policy. This is our practice. This is what makes a Dominion meat special a genuine meat special. If you're not a Dominion shopper, you may have noticed how extra fat is sometimes left on when a meat item goes "on special". Not so at Dominion. Dominion meat is trimmed to give you "just enough" finish to preserve the natural juices and full natural meat flavour. At Dominion, excess fat and bone is always trimmed away to guarantee you a full measure of meat value for every meat dollar you spend. Stop and think about it. Dominion actually trims off fat that others include in the price you pay per pound. So, if you want honest meat value—shop where you can be sure. Switch to Dominion and discover the difference.

LESS WASTE—MORE MEAT VALUE!

Elected President

ROGER LEFRANCOIS, R.I.A.

At the annual meeting held recently in Dorval, P.Q., Mr. Roger Lefrancois, R.I.A., was elected president of the Society of Industrial Accountants of Quebec. It was reported at the meeting that the membership of the Quebec Society now stands at 2,942.

Mr. Lefrancois, who is Controller of Machineries Provinciales Inc., is a member of the Quebec Chapter.

Other officers elected for the 1968-69 term are: vice-presidents: G. Brown, R.I.A., Quebec, B. Stokes, C.A., Montreal, J. C. Wynn, R.I.A., Montreal; treasurer: Z. Wojciechowski, B.Sc. (Econ.), Trois-Rivières, and secretary: D. W. Burke, C.A., Montreal.

Financial report

From Greenshields Ltd.

The averages at the close yesterday, industrials, Montreal 0.11, Toronto 0.17, New York 0.99; active issues were International Nickel 4 1/4, Royal Bank 1 3/4, Bow Valley 2 1/4, Dometar 10, Fleet Mfg 3.95, Famous Players 5 1/2.

Crown Cork and Seal Co's first-half net profit rose to $752,000 or $7.52 a share from $503,000 a year earlier. Sales were $3,929,000 versus $8,095,000.

Neon Products net profit for the first two months ended June 30 was $269,747 or 15 cents a share compared with a year-earlier, restated figure of $249,110 or 14 cents. Sales and other revenue rose to $10,182,663 from a restated $9,169,880. The company said starting with the September quarter, all future interim earnings reports would be on a quarterly basis.

Trans Mountain Oil Pipe Line Co said deliveries of crude oil and propane during July averaged 282,105 barrels daily, 12.6 per cent more than in June but 12.3 per cent less than in July last year when the Arab-Israeli war caused disruption in world oil delivery patterns and resulted in sharply increased exports of oil from Canada to the United States. The company forecast August deliveries of 273,000 barrels daily, down 3.3 per cent from July.

Bedford

Mrs. Alfred Staudenmaier has returned from her former home in Gleissen, Germany, where she spent three weeks.

Miss Debbie Lapointe, Montreal, was the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lapointe while in Bedford to attend the funeral of her aunt, Mrs. Edward Maurice.

Mrs. O. Sampson, Montreal, was with her mother, Mrs. William Campbell, for the week-end.

The wedding took place on Aug. 10 at St. Jeanne d'Arc Church, Stanbridge East, Father Milette officiating, of Mr. Paul Brault, Bedford, eldest son of Mrs. L. Brault and of the late Mr. Brault to Miss Jacqueline Savard, formerly of Montreal. Following the wedding ceremony a reception was held at the Riverview Hotel, Bedford, Mr. and Mrs. Brault are living in Mr. S. McNab's house on the Phillipsburg Road. Weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. Davidson included Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Laureys, Montreal; Michael and Wesley Fitzpatrick, Thorold, Ont.; David Blackwood, Knowlton and Greig Standish, Cookshire.

Mrs. L. Parkinson and her daughter, Miss Parkinson, of England, are guests of the former's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Parkinson. Mrs. John Teare, with her son and daughter, are spending several weeks guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Preston. Mr. Teare has recently been transferred from Kingston, Ont. to Montreal.

Charles Bird, who has spent the past months in Vietnam with the American forces is presently on furlough, which he is spending with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Bird. Mr. and Mrs. Ross Preston entertained recently at a family gathering. Among those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Pearson and three sons, Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. D. K. Sherry and three children, Mr. and Mrs. J. Robb and three children and Mr. John Teare, Montreal.

Bury

Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Mayhew of Bury were recent supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. Carl Mayhew. Friends of Mrs. Elsie Brooks, Katevale, regretted to learn of her sudden death, which occurred at her home on Aug. 11. Mrs. Brooks, a faithful member of Beulah United Church choir and superintendent of the Sunday School, will be greatly missed by her friends.

Everything for BACK-TO-SCHOOL

HELPFUL HINTS FOR MOTHER

MOTHER, ARE YOU READY FOR THE DAY? ORGANIZE!

Back in June, your children's school vacation seemed endless. But here it is many weeks later, and once again the daily newspapers bulge with back-to-school advertising.

Department stores and specialty shops are obviously ready. Are you?

Have you kept your promise that this year, by golly, there wouldn't be any procrastination in preparing your children for the return to the classroom? Do you have a well-thought-out shopping list for your youngsters' back-to-school wardrobe? Have you taken an inventory of "school-worthy" clothes? Have you and your children agreed on a date to do all the things that need doing before another school year starts?

Once you've decided on a day, make it something special by planning it carefully. It'll save time, money and nerves. Here are a few suggestions to make it a happy event:

Start the entire family out with a special breakfast treat — this'll give everyone a chance to tell Dad about the big day ahead.

First stop is the family dentist's office for the back-to-schoolers' semi-annual check-ups. If you live in an area where the water supply is fluoridated or your dentist has been prescribing vitamin-fluoride supplements for your children, chances are that little work — perhaps none — needs to be done on their teeth.

The value of fluorides in dental health has been known for more than 25 years, and recent studies indicate that vitamin-fluoride supplements can be as effective as fluoridated water in preventing cavities, and of course, dental bills. This is a most important consideration for those two-thirds of American families who don't have the benefit of fluoridated water. Scientists at Indiana University found that tooth decay was reduced up to 68 percent in children who were given daily doses of a vitamin-fluoride combination. The vitamins in the study were Tri-Vi-Flor drops, Poly-Vi-Flor drops, and Poly-Vi-Flor chewable vitamins.

Fluoride given this way can begin its work long before the first teeth start emerging. Most families find vitamin-fluoride supplements fit easily into their already established daily vitamin habit.

With the visit to the dentist happily out of the way, schedule the shopping trip next. In mid-morning, the stores aren't crowded and the sales clerks can devote sufficient time to helping you find exactly what your children need.

Third on the calendar of events, plan a leisurely lunch in an attractive restaurant. If reservations are advisable make them the day before.

Then, as the highlights of your get ready-for-school shopping expedition, enjoy a movie together.

First Aid for Back-to-Schoolers

The accident rate among boys is slightly higher than girls, especially when they spend more time outdoors. According to the National Safety Council, the boys suffer more serious injuries than girls. Young ladies, however, experience more frequent scratches, abrasions and minor cuts than their male contemporaries.

Parents are cautioned to remind youngsters that an open wound of any kind is easily subject to infection. The back-to-school season is a most important period to bear this in mind, because games of sport as well as play generally produce a generous share of scrapes, bumps and lumps.

Quick Action

The Pfizer people, who make antibiotic bacitracin ointment, suggest that children be instructed frequently that any open wound, no matter how small, be treated at once to help prevent infection. The risk of infection increases the longer a wound goes untreated. A major offender in this area is usually the adolescent boy, who thinks it is "manly" to dismiss wounds lightly.

Recommended treatment for minor cuts and bruises is to rinse under running water, then apply mild antiseptic or antibiotic ointment, which doesn't sting or stain. Before giving first aid, be sure to wash your own hands thoroughly. And never treat a swollen, or "hot" infection without consulting a physician!

To occupy the least space in a medicine cabinet or car first-aid kit, antibiotic bacitracin ointment is sensibly packaged in a small portable tube. On the counters of all drug stores, it's also a valuable first-aid around the house for burns.

SHERBROOKE PLAZA

note to teachers

Teach with such personal enthusiasm that you will truly regret the shortage of time to go more deeply into the subject.

Receive each lesson as a personal challenge to you as a teacher to get your class to receive and live it in the days ahead with enthusiasm.

Personal enthusiasm is highly contagious. The teacher's enthusiasm will be caught by the pupils. Their new enthusiasm will not only hold them gladly to the class, the school and to you, the teacher; but it will also attract and hold others . . . a marvelous cycle.

FUN-TIME CLOTHES for a romp outdoors or roughhousing in the playground match brilliantly colored fun shirts with snug pants. The Bassett Walker outfits are sparked by bright contrasting stripes at neck and cuffs. This fiber doesn't shrink, stretch, or mat, even after machine washing, because it is made of Crestan acrylic.

AN EXCITING NEW LOOK for Fall '68 . . . a giant hooded jacket in a wool-blend that is belted, banded and buttoned in leather . . . with matching all wool umbrella doubleknit skirt. Colors: Licorice, Indian Blue, Candy Apple, Goldenrod. Skirt also in Acorn, Moss. By Jantzen.

HH's gut vote appeal

MIAMI BEACH—(NEA)—NEA's second complete nationwide survey of Democratic convention delegate strength shows that Vice-President Hubert Humphrey has an indicated vote total of 1,594½, upwards of 280 more than the 1,312 he needs to be nominated at Chicago.

His one remaining rival, Sen. Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota, is projected presently at 470 votes, while 308 gained by the late Robert F. Kennedy must still be assigned to him and there are another 250 otherwise uncommitted.

NEA's initial Democratic survey in late April was the first to show Humphrey with a strong lead, held then over Kennedy, who had entered the presidential race just five weeks earlier. A second NEA delegate count was interrupted by Kennedy's assassination in early June and never resumed.

Humphrey gains his indicated lead from almost every quarter of this country. He surpasses McCarthy's total in every major region except New England, where the latter's capture of all Massachusetts' 72 votes and 20 of New Hampshire's 26 give him an edge.

The vice-president today is reported to have 92½ in Pennsylvania, 88 in Ohio, 75 in Michigan, 62 in New Jersey. He virtually sweeps the Old South, holding 499 of the region's 527 votes. Highest count there is the 104 under Gov. John Connally's favorite-son wing.

Moreover, Humphrey is achieving his big margin without counting any measurable support from either California or Illinois.

Reports from California suggest he may pick up a large part of the 172 votes won by Kennedy in the June 4 primary but not yet committed to move elsewhere.

Of Illinois' 118, most of the uncommitted 116 are expected to follow Chicago Mayor Richard Daley's lead. He will declare Aug. 25, convention eve, and the odds are heavy it will be for Humphrey. Some key Illinois delegates already are working for the vice-president.

This newest survey, taken from telephone inquiries and personal checks with Democratic leaders and other sources, makes it decisively evident that McCarthy is not attracting the large blocks of delegates he needs in his catch-up campaign.

After his May 28 Oregon primary, which gave him all 35 delegate votes, he has had only one striking victory—in the June 18 New York primary. He won 62 district delegates. A later modest pickup of at-large votes boosted his total and it now stands at 82½ of 190. Conceivably he could get still more from the 57½ uncommitted in New York.

His biggest failure is that he has not won over any sizable numbers of those delegates earned by Kennedy in the driving, 85-day campaign that preceded his death. Personal appeals by McCarthy to the 96-vote Michigan delegation and the heavily Negro 23-vote District of Columbia group, to mention just two, failed badly.

Some Democratic governors who had either supported or were sympathetic to Kennedy say they cannot move to McCarthy. The Minnesotan has gained the allegiance of few established political figures.

The matters which most trouble the Democratic professionals when they consider McCarthy are their doubts as to his electability (despite polls which sometimes show him leading potential GOP rivals), the question whether his make-up and temperament qualify him for the presidency, and their uncertainty whether he really wants the job. Politicians automatically look askance at anyone who is irregular, unconventional and unpredictable. McCarthy is all three.

Unluckily for him, the senator has underlined the regulars' fears by refusing to say he would back Humphrey if he is nominated, by remaining vague about his role in a possible fourth party effort, and by indicating when he talked to Michigan delegates that he could conceivably support Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York if he became the Republicans' 1968 nominee at Miami Beach.

McCarthy's electability is questioned by party leaders when they review his vote performance in the 1968 primaries.

He lost six of the eight he entered in which he had genuine contests (New Hampshire, Indiana, Nebraska, Florida, California and South Dakota). His sole victories were Oregon and Wisconsin.

McCarthy's militant partisans now claim that his primary votes, in combination with Kennedy's, "repudiated" Johnson administration policies in many places. The fact is that, in four of his eight contests, McCarthy himself ran behind either the President, a supposed administration stand-in or an indicated Humphrey slate.

His voting success was mostly with the better-educated and the more-affluent citizens, particularly in the suburbs. McCarthy's appeal to the so-called "gut" vote long relied on by the Democratic party—Negroes, other nonwhites, blue-collar workers, the undereducated—proved minimal.

Consequently, those party professionals who do not get turned off by the senator's maverick tendencies just see no real hope in his candidacy. So they move more heavily to Humphrey, even though many are seriously worried over his election prospects.

They think he can get much of the "gut" vote, unless Rockefeller is the GOP nominee. Humphrey's pull with Negroes, as measured by the polls, is more than 4 to 1 over McCarthy's.

But the vice-president lacks appeal to the young, to liberal intellectuals and to swollen suburbia, of which the Democrats must capture at least a part. He lights no fires when he campaigns.

Leading Democrats who are with him wonder how he can break the President's harness to get free enough to suggest to voters that he can carve out an independent path if elected. He seems overburdened with Johnson's problems with the cities and the Vietnam war.

Humphrey's old label of flaming liberal no longer fits. He sometimes appears unswayed to these turbulent times, which evidently cry out for a new kind of political mastery thus far exhibited by no one.

Waterloo

Mr. Allan Duncan, Winnipeg, Man., was a dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. John Champagne and family.

Master Stephen and Miss Deborah Paulette, Pierrefonds, were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Chapman and children.

Donors to the monthly parcel sent to Ste. Anne's Military Hospital, by Royal Canadian Legion Ladies Auxiliary of Waterloo, included Mrs. Therese Ledoux, Mrs. Helen Ramsay, Mrs. Agnes Wallace, and Mrs. Lois Campbell.

Mr. and Mrs. Doug Eldridge, Cowansville, were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Eldridge and children.

The 83rd Sherbrooke Exhibition combines education with entertainment — there's something at the fair for everyone of all ages.

Scheduled to open Friday, the fair will last six days — chocked full of thrilling events. This year the directors have succeeded in obtaining a grandstand show which will appear to your tastes.

Gastoni spectacular acts include the Rasini Rocket car and auto-jet propeller. This is one of the world's most thrilling rocket car acts from Denmark. Also on the same bill will be Apollo from Germany, a highway pole act, a comedy car act and the Royal Skating Rockets as well as unicycle and bicycle — acrobatic stunts and the three Als.

Monday is children's day and all the youngsters will be admitted to the fair grounds free of charge.

Another thrill will be Conklin's Midway with a new look this year.

A big bingo opens the fair Friday night at 8. Entrance is also free at the gates on Friday.

On Friday morning at 10 some judging will start in the ladies department.

On Saturday night a big dance featuring Les Topazes will take place in the Arena from 9 to midnight.

Judging of the following will take place on Saturday at 11 a.m., young people; 11 a.m. cooking, fine arts.

At 1:30 p.m., field crops, vegetables and poultry; 2:30 p.m., flowers; 3. maple products and honey; 8 p.m., special attraction.

Sunday will see harness races, the Midway, grandstand performances, afternoon and evening to offer varied forms of amusement. The grandstand performance is free in the evening 8 p.m.

On Monday thousands of children will be guests of the Exhibition. The youngsters are all eager to get out and have a little fun before school commences.

The Midway offers special rates for children on Monday, and myriads of balloons, colored whips, squeakers, and assorted toys appear as though by magic. The merry-go-round, the caterpillar, the whip and other Midway amusements offer a lively scene. The grandstand performance is eagerly anticipated.

The children's department should be visited and the youngsters encouraged to compete for the numerous prizes offered for cooking, drawing, woodwork and knitting.

Judging of the following takes place on Mondays at 10 a.m., cheese and butter; light horses; 1 p.m., Canadians, Guernseys; 1:30 p.m., swine; 8 p.m., grandstand performance, free.

Provincial and federal day will be celebrated at the fair on Tuesday.

Judging will be carried on in the Arena all day.

IT'S FAIR TIME AGAIN — Crowds are expected to flock to the Sherbrooke fair grounds this year during six exciting days of entertainment and competition. The fair opens Friday and closes August 29. (Record photo: Gerry Lemay)

At 9 a.m., calf club, sheep; 10, Holsteins; 12 p.m., reception; 8 p.m., grand stand performance, free.

On Wednesday, 9 a.m., heavy horses, judging competition; 10 a.m., Jerseys, Ayrshires; 12:30 p.m., exhibitors banquet; 8 p.m., harness racing, cattle parade in the arena; 10:30 p.m., drawing of the automobile.

On Thursday championships will be awarded in the judging classes and a special event of harness races will be staged. A full performance at the night show, will be a fitting climax to a day packed with thrills of all descriptions.

The Midway will remain open until a late hour and there will be ample time to visit all the departments and inspect the winners in the various classes.

At 8 p.m. is the grand stand performance, free and at midnight the closing of the exhibition.

To show Mormon film

Many from the Sherbrooke area are expected to view the film Man's Search for Happiness which will be shown in a theatre at the annual Sherbrooke Fair.

Elders Robert H. Friend and Thomas D. Hurst, missionaries in Sherbrooke for the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints have announced that there will be a booth and a small theatre with a good seating capacity for the showing of the film which also appeared at the Mormon World's Fair.

The Mormon Church, known for its renowned Mormon Tabernacle Choir and its information centers around the world, sends some 13,000 young missionaries such as Elder Hurst and Elder Friend all over the free world.

UK papers challenge Council

LONDON (CP)—Exercising what they described as press freedom and the readers' right to know, two British newspapers have challenged a town council by publishing a confidential housing report on which the council claimed to have complete copyright.

Clement Jones, 53-year-old fighting Welshman who initiated the struggle against the council, said it was not a personal fight against the local body but primarily against "the idiocy of the law."

The issue began when the town council of Dudley, located about eight miles northwest of Birmingham, decided it would not allow publication of a confidential inquiry into its housing department.

Jones, editor of the Wolverhampton Express and Star, warned the council he had a copy of the report and would publish it unless the council decided to obtain a court injunction against his action. He said he would fight any attempt to get such an injunction.

Play for Big Stakes

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — The future of television may be arriving on the night of Sept. 20, over NBC.

The entire television industry will be watching the network's new series, The Name of the Game, with more than the usual interest. This project is a new concept and, if it works, it could mark the beginning of a new era.

The Name of the Game is a 90-minute dramatic series. That, in itself, isn't new—The Virginian has been going along for years. But this one is really a series of almost-movies, tied together by only the flimsiest of threads.

There are three stars on The Name of the Game—Gene Barry, Tony Franciosa and Robert Stack. They will alternate from week to week. The unifying theme is that they all work for a large magazine publisher. Barry is the owner-publisher, Franciosa a roving correspondent and Stack the editor of a crime magazine.

Barry will probably make a brief appearance in the segments starring Franciosa and Stack. With that exception, and the usage of Susan Saint James in a continuing role, each episode will be entirely self-sufficient.

The series, obviously hopes to recoup some of the cost by selling many—six or eight out of the original 24—as feature films in Europe. Insiders believe that the network sale alone will not be enough to defray the cost, which is estimated at between $400,000 and $500,000 each.

This makes it far and away the most expensive television series ever made. The actors are in awe of the way money is being spent—each episode has four or five high-priced guest stars, the sets are as good as most movies, the scripts are being written by experienced and costly movie writers.

"We had two scripts which weren't quite right," Bob Stack says. "So we postponed them. When I was doing The Untouchables, they would have gone ahead and tried to make the script work."

"We had a set that the producer didn't like. He ordered it rebuilt."

"Are these movies? It's a matter of semantics—I'd say it's about half again as good as an ordinary TV show. We shoot 12 days on each. I have a week off between them."

Originally, the Alamo in Universal, which is making Texas was a Catholic mission.

McGill team studies glaciers

MONTREAL (CP) — A team of McGill University scientists are studying a massive mountain of ice and gravel grinding towards its own doom—at two feet a week—in the Arctic.

The 11 glaciologists and students have been spending the summer charting the movement of some 30,000,000 tons of silt at the head of a glacial moraine on Axel Heiberg Island, 600 miles from the North Pole and adjacent to Ellesmere Island.

But the mass of gravel and debris being pushed ahead of the moraine may never reach the sea to the north, says expedition leader Dr. Fritz Muller.

"I estimate the giant push moraine will grind to a halt in a few years because of the lack of snow to feed the glacier of which the push moraine forms the tongue."

But at its existing rate of 100 feet a year, which the scientists regard as one of the faster-moving moraines on earth, it's a laboratory to be utilized while it lasts.

Swiss-trained Dr. Muller is director of the Axel Heiberg Island Expedition—its full, official name—which has been backed since 1960 with grants from the National Research Council.

STUDY SOLAR RADIATION

Dr. Muller, an associate professor of glaciology at McGill and chairman of the NRC's subcommittee on glaciers, said the team will also establish a weather station in the interior of the Nova Scotia-sized island where the land rises to 7,000 feet above sea level.

The weather station, the fourth on the island, will also be used to record automatically solar radiation levels near the North Pole.

The station records its observations on digital punch tape which can be extracted each year when the expedition visits the island.

Studies of the moraine, spreading two miles across a valley, will be aided by the drilling of four 350-foot holes at its leading edge.

The cores removed in the drilling process will reveal, it is hoped, the disposition of solid matter in the moraine and whether all or only some of the material is frozen.

Dr. Muller led the original expedition to the island in 1959 and in the years since helped establish the weather stations there.

Czechs flee to Austrian border on Sunday outings

The view across the Czech border into Austria at Devin isn't much of a tourist attraction but Bratislava residents flock to it on Sundays. Peter Buckley, Canadian Press correspondent in Moscow who visited Czechoslovakia, sees the relaxed attitude of the border guards as a symbol of the freer attitude under the new Czech regime.

By PETER BUCKLEY

DEVIN, Czechoslovakia (CP) — From downtown Bratislava you join a woman conductor in bedroom slippers on the rickety old No. 7 tram to the end of the line, then transfer to a No. 29 bus.

Just past Devin's old baroque church and down a narrow village street, you get off the bus at a cemetery where the tombstones lean right out over the roadside.

A five-minute walk along a dusty road and you're there: Fragile strands of barbed wire, a sluggish river and distant wooden guard towers announce that this is the border between Czechoslovakia and Austria.

It's not exactly a gee-whiz tourist attraction, especially since there isn't even a control point at Devin where you can cross over.

But on a warm, sunny Sunday recently, there were light-hearted crowds in a steady flow out of Bratislava on the road to Devin, carrying picnic lunches and sweating freely in the crowded bus.

Once here, they climbed the rocky slopes of a little hill that overlooks the border, and from the ruins of a centuries-old castle at the top they surveyed the level green farms of Austria beyond the turgid Danube River.

GUARDS RELAX

In the watch towers, the guards lounged on straight-back chairs with an indifference that suited the summer heat. And from the deck of a Czech border-patrol boat docked just beyond the barbed wire, the young crew whistled at pretty Slovak girls strolling by.

The relaxed attitude of the whole Devin border area was a first-class illustration of a change announced by the new reform government in Prague that is likely to be welcomed by ordinary Czechs as much as any other.

The change is that the Czechs are to be allowed to come and go across their borders just about as they please.

The new laws, when enacted, are to be the most liberal in Eastern Europe. Alone among Communist states, Czechoslovakia plans to give its citizens the same right to travel abroad that, for instance, a Canadian has.

The whole restrictive fabric of visas and limited passports, paperwork and intimidation is to be abolished, government spokesmen say.

PASSPORT RESTORED

The only limitations will be money—and this may prove to be fairly severe, since hard currency is scarce—as well as

Kinnear's Mills

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Wallace, Mr. Willard Wallace, Mr. and Mrs. Lucien Trepanier and daughter, Dixie, were vacationing in the Maritime Provinces, returning home via Maine, visiting points of interest.

The Misses Collette and Francine Jacques, and Mr. Gilles Jacques, Bromont, and Mr. Clay Deering, Torrington, Conn., were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Wallace. Mrs. Alger White and daughter, Cindy, Lunenburg, were calling on Mrs. Wallace.

Miss Linda Guy accompanied her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Keith Allan, Birchtown, on a motor trip to Gaspe.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Currie and family, Hamilton, Ont., are holidaying at the Davidson home here. Mr. Barre McElroy, Bulwer, also spent a few days here, the guest of his grandmother, Mrs. Davidson.

Mrs. Ben Rothney has returned from Boston, Mass., and is a guest of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Rothney and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Maitland Paton and daughter, Heather, Montreal West, were at their summer home here recently.

Kingsey Falls

Mr. and Mrs. Jules Blouin and children, accompanied by Kathleen Smith, spent August 11 sight-seeing in Quebec City. Mr. and Mrs. Ross Sells and family were guests of their aunts, Mrs. Leith and Mrs. Brown, before returning to their home in Kingston, Ont.

Sympathy is being extended to Mrs. Eddy Mastine and family on the death of a husband and father.

exceptional cases where judicial or state interests could be affected.

Even before the new law went into effect, there have been changes.

Some of the more austere concoctions of barbed wire and mines which separated Czechoslovakia from such neighbors as Austria and West Germany are reported to have been tidied up and reduced.

An engineer in Bratislava told me of another change:

"I have travelled abroad several times on business. Each time I had to apply at the police station for my passport. When I came back, the passport had to be turned in again."

"Then, a little while ago, I got a call from the police.

"Would you please report to the station at your convenience."

"I went down and they gave me my passport. To keep at home. Without me asking for it."

The man was visibly moved by the police action. As much as free speech, a free press and a new freedom from fear, the liberty to travel beyond one's own borders is regarded by many Czechs as essential to any deep-rooted reform of the country's political system.

TRAVEL WAS LIMITED

For years they have watched with resentment or envy as tourists from the West surged through their cities and villages, free as birds to travel almost anywhere their wallets allowed.

The young people are believed to have felt it most. They mixed with students from Germany and France and the U.S., then stayed behind when the foreigners moved on.

Many Czechs were able to visit the West in years past—and some of them defected when they got there. But travel abroad was usually subject to good behavior in every respect, including politically. The interior ministry was able to refuse a visa on a whim or a suspicion.

It may be that in the worst years of the Stalinist past in Czechoslovakia, the people of Bratislava came to Devin and looked with longing across the Danube to Austria.

There's no sign of it now.

On that recent Sunday, they sunned themselves among the toppled stones of the old castle, had a glance at the Austrian farms, then went back down the hill to an outdoor cafe for picnic lunches and warm beer and a laugh.

After that there was the stuffy little No. 29 bus, the No. 7 streetcar with the conductor in her slippers, and home.

Scots protest disbanding of the Argylls

By TOM A. CULLEN
European Staff Correspondent

EDINBURGH, Scotland — The bagpipes are wailing in the glens. The claymores are out, and Scots everywhere are girding to do battle with Britain's Labor government for having dared to lay a finger on Scotland's famous Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders regiment.

The Labor government has decreed that the Argylls must go, as part of its drive to cut back defense expenditures. After more than a century of valor that stretches from the Crimean war to Korea, the killed regiment (Motto: "Get up and go") is to be sacrificed on the altar of economy.

The Argylls are one of nine major Army units that are scheduled to be either disbanded, or merged with other units to form a more compact fighting force by September, 1972.

However, the whole of Scotland is up in arms over the government's decision. Support for the "Fighting Jocks," as the Argylls are sometimes known, ranges from the Duke of Argyll, who heads the Clan Campbell, to the most fanatic of the Scottish nationalists, who would like to see Scotland break away from England altogether.

Petitions calling for the reinstatement of the Argylls are now circulating in every town and hamlet in Scotland, with the aim of getting at least 250,000 signatures by the time Parliament reconvenes after its summer recess.

"We'll teach the Socialist government to tamper with our history," an elderly Scot who was getting signatures on Princess Street, Edinburgh, warned.

The Argylls are written up in the history books as "the thin red line," a name which they earned one cold morning in 1854 when 550 of them and 100 invalids barred the path of the Russian army at Balaclava. The London Times correspondent described how "the Russians dash on towards that thin red line tipped with steel."

Since then the Argyll's record for bravery has been an unbroken one, whether it be in crushing the Indian mutineers at Lucknow in 1857, or, in more recent times, fighting terrorists in Cyprus, Borneo and Aden. An Argyll won the first Victoria Cross, Britain's highest military award, of the Korean war.

Observers here feel that the government's decision to ax the Argylls may be due in part to the vendetta which defense officials have been waging against their commander, Lt. Col. Colin ("Mad Mitch") Mitchell.

Last year, against orders, "Mad Mitch" marched the Argylls into the terrorist-held Crater District of Aden, but his impulsiveness paid off. In the five months they held the Crater District the Jocks killed 36 terrorists with the loss of only five of their own men.

As the Daily Express points out in a recent editorial, "A blind eye to authority has saved the situation on more than one occasion in British history."

"Mad Mitch" has also been criticized for his unorthodox recruiting methods, which he gleaned from an American sales handbook on how to sell chocolate-covered mints. "The same techniques can be used to recruit Argylls," he explains. "We have to convince people that the Argylls are the best, which they are."

Unless the Scottish campaign to reinstate the Argylls succeeds, Mitchell's recruiting may be wasted. He, himself, is leaving the army at the end of September, in the belief that as a civilian he will be in a better position to lead the attack on the government decision to disband the Argylls.

There are a number of rules, regulations to follow

Every fair has its rules and regulations and the 123rd annual exhibition of Stanstead County Agricultural and Horticultural Societies scheduled to open tomorrow is no exception. Following is a list of rules and regulations governing the Ayer's Cliff Fair:

Competitions in classes for cattle, sheep and swine are open to residents of Stanstead, Sherbrooke and Compton Counties. Class 12B, fancy horses, is open to all corners.

The directors reserve the right to refuse any more entries in livestock, as soon as the accommodation is filled.

All exhibitors must purchase a membership ticket in order to exhibit, the only exception being those exhibiting in cookery, fancy work, children's, to those who have purchased membership tickets or anyone may exhibit by paying the following entry fee:

First four entries will cost $5 each and each additional entry up to 14, .10 each.

All above 14 entries must have membership. When an exhibitor has paid $2 in entry fees, to exhibit in agricultural department, he will be entitled to membership ticket. All articles must have been made in the County of Stanstead and be the property of the exhibitor or his immediate family and no article can be exhibited that has been exhibited at the Stanstead county fair before. All articles must have been completed within the past year.

An additional entry fee of 10 per cent will be deducted from prize money won, to reduce the society's indebtedness.

Any exhibitor may be required to take the following oath: "I do solemnly swear that all ar-

All persons intending to compete in class of purebred stock shall show on entry form, certificate of pedigree showing the same to have been registered in the English, American or Canadian Herd Book, and all sheep and swine entered in the registered classes must have the necessary ear tags or tattoo. All purebred animals must be registered in name of exhibitor, 30 days before grade classes. Name and registry number must be given with entry.

Exceptions for foals of the current calendar year when exhibitor must furnish name and registration number of sire and dam.

All animals and other property entered for competition must be in their respective places before 10 p.m., Wednesday evening, and no animals or other property shall be loaded or removed from the stalls before 3.30 o'clock p.m. Saturday, or exhibitors may forfeit prizes. Chairman of each breed responsible that exhibits stay on grounds until 3.30 p.m. Saturday. A policeman will be on guard after 2.30 p.m. Saturday.

An exhibitor may make two entries in a section to a maximum of two sections under the Hays federal plan.

In registered draft and grade horses (1 to 12a) inclusive, horses may be shown in as many sections as they are eligible for, provided entries have been made in accordance with the regulations of the prize list.

Only one member of any firm or one person from the same farm shall be allowed to compete in the same section of any class.

No competitor shall speak to or interfere with the judges in the performance of their duties. Exhibitors so interfering, shall forfeit their right to any prize to which they may be entitled. No person will be allowed in the show ring except those handling the animals.

No animal shall be shown in the ring without an entry tag, giving its number, section and class.

In the absence of competition in any of the classes or if any of the exhibits are of inferior quality, the judges will exercise their discretion whether they will award first, second or any premium. Where prizes are withheld, the judges will please give the reason. Each award must be written in a plain manner in the blank opposite the number of entry.

All parties competing at the exhibition must be bonafide owners of the animals or articles exhibited at least 30 days, and to be kept in the district covered by the fair. Stallions, bulls, rams, or bears, however, may be exhibited by any member of the society, provided that such animal has been kept in the district covered by the fair, during the calendar year.

Sher-Lenn blanks Nicaragua

Houle, Longpre, Deschenes team up in 1-0 win

By TED ANDERSON

WILLIAMSPORT, Penn. — Sherbrooke - Lennoxville Little Leaguers rode to another victory in their bid for the Little League World Series title here yesterday afternoon before some 10,000 fans.

Normand Houle hurled a two-hitter and that was the story as the starry right-hander whiffed 13 as the Sher-Lenn squad shutout Nicaragua 1-0. It was the first game of the current World Series which is being played here.

Sherbrooke - Lennoxville will now meet Richmond, Va., tomorrow afternoon with the winner advancing into the finals Saturday afternoon. The game is slated for 2 p.m. and will be carried live over CKTS with SportsCaster Gordie Breen doing the play-by-play description.

Sherbrooke-Lennoxville team ran into a little trouble in the seventh when Nicaragua managed to get two men on base. Roy fumbled a drive to short and this allowed the runner to pull into second safely. Herrera, the hurler, was next to face Houle and he went down swinging to end the rally.

In the seventh Sher-Lenn, who had trouble with Herrera's offerings in the early innings, commenced to click. Longpre laid down a perfect bunt to reach first. Laforest connected with a single for two on and nobody out. Choquette and Provencher were retired.

Sher-Lenn staged rallies in the fifth and sixth but the loose throwing Nicaragua held them off the score sheet. In the seventh Nicaragua staged their big rally getting three men on with two out.

Houle started to bear down. He got two fouls on the hitter and then rifled a hard one to end the game. Sher-Lenn took over and with their confidence proceeded to chalk up the winning run.

since Sher-Lenn commenced in the playoffs. He has struck-out 64, issued four walks and allowed only seven hits. Roger Roy, at short, as well as Bob Laforest at third turned in strong defensive games.

Deschenes, after the game, when talking over CKTS, stated he was confident he was going to hit in the seventh although up to that point he had failed to connect. It was the payoff blow for Coach Roy's team.

Prior to the game a brief ceremony was held with a player from each country unfurling his country's flag. The official opening of the new park will take place Saturday prior to the finals.

Coach Roy will be going with Yves Longpre in tomorrow's game resting Houle for Saturday's important game. Richmond is a heavy hitting team but Coach Roy isn't worrying about them. He figures his crew will do alright.

THE WORLD OF SPORTS

Conrad Deschenes was next at bat. He stepped up and calmly banged a hard drive down third base line and Longpre was off at the blow racing for home. He was blocked at the plate but tossed the catcher out of the way to tally the winning run and end the hard battle.

Houle gave up his first hit in the fourth when the ball hopped over his head to roll into centre field but the runner was held at first and a fine play by the centre fielder. In their half Sher-Lenn managed to get a hit when Houle singled and advanced to second on an error but was left stranded.

Houle started to bear down. He got two fouls on the hitter and then rifled a hard one to end the game. Sher-Lenn took over and with their confidence proceeded to chalk up the winning run.

It was Houle's sixth shutout

Strong, young arm defeats Tigers in the pennant push

A strong young arm has put some zip into Detroit's pennant push. But the Tigers would be a lot happier today if it belonged to Denny McLain.

John Miller, a second-year southpaw who hadn't been to the winner's circle in two months, pitched a one-hitter Tuesday night as the American League leaders whipped Chicago 7-0 in the opener of a doubleheader.

The White Sox then kayoed arm-weary McLain, Detroit's 25-game winner, with a nine-run blitz in taking the nightcap 10-2. The setback ended a seven-game winning string for McLain, 25-4, whose powerful right arm apparently is beginning to feel the strain of 261 innings' work.

McLain denied a report he had torn a muscle in his pitching arm, but admitted to a minor muscular irritation.

"What I mean by that is it's strained," the 24-year-old fireballer explained. "It's something I've had for two or three years. But I can still pitch every four days."

The doubleheader split increased the Tigers' edge over second-place Baltimore to seven games.

ORIOLES DUMPED

The Orioles bowed to California 7-2 as Rick Clark and Clyde Wright flipped a combined one-hitter. New York Yankees beat Minnesota 5-0 behind Mel Stottlemyre, Cleveland nipped Boston 2-1 for Sam McDowell and Oakland divided a twin bill with Washington, taking the nightcap 4-3 on Danny Cater's ninth-inning homer after a 7-5 loss.

Hiller, who set a major league mark by striking out the first six batters he faced in Detroit's 17-inning victory over Cleveland two weeks ago, nailed his first victory since June 14 by limiting the White Sox to a fifth-inning single by Ron Hansen.

Gates Brown drove in two runs with a single and his fourth homer and Mickey Stanley delivered a pair with a bases-loaded single.

Shoddy fielding contributed to McLain's demise in the nightcap. Seven of the nine runs off him were unearned, the result of four Detroit errors—two of them by Al Kaline.

Gerry McNertney, McLain's onetime batterymate before Denny was traded from the Chicago organization to Detroit five years ago, drove in four runs with the first three of his four straight hits. Ward cleared the bases in the sixth with his 13th homer, finishing the Detroit star.

Dapper Ron Swoboda paces Mets to win, Phillies bomb Cards

Dapper Ron Swoboda, the mod Met, had a swinging time against San Francisco Giants.

Swoboda, who occasionally accentuates his lengthy sideburns with a set of love beads, displayed great affection for Giants pitching Tuesday night, driving in five runs in New York's 8-0 victory.

The spurge included a three-run eighth-inning homer—Swoboda's first in almost a month—and helped Tom Seaver win his 11th game.

Elsewhere in the National League, Philadelphia bombed St. Louis 8-2, Pittsburgh rapped Cincinnati 8-3, Houston dropped Los Angeles 8-5 and Chicago took Atlanta 6-5 in 10 innings.

Swoboda, who struck out three times in 17 frustrating innings as the Mets lost 1-0 the night before, drove in a run with a fielder's choice grounder in the third inning, singled another across in the fifth and climaxed a four-run Mets rally in the eighth with his 11th homer.

ENDS DROUGHT

It was his first since July 23 and only his fourth since the end of April.

Server worked six innings, allowing four hits, before writing in the Shea Stadium heat. Cal Koonce finished up.

Larry Dierker, who hasn't lost a game in two months, ran his record to 12-10 as the Astros hopped on Don Drysdale and defeated the Dodgers.

Rusty Staub drove in three runs with a double and a sacrifice fly and Danny Coombs extinguished a ninth-inning Dodger rally, preserving Dierker's sixth consecutive victory.

Cookie Rojas and Clay Dalrymple hit home runs as the Phillies clawed the Cardinals, ending Nelson Briles' five-game winning streak.

KNOCKED OUT EARLY

Briles retired the first two batters in the first inning and then two walks, four hits and an error cost him four runs.

Olympics bow out fighting as Braves post 14-8 win before 3,325 last night

Sherbrooke Olympics bowed out of the Quebec Lacrosse League playoffs last evening in a fighting manner when they were dumped 14-8 by the Valleyfield Braves before 3,325 fans at the Sports Palace.

The win gave the Braves the best-of-seven semi-finals 4-2 and they will now meet Drummondville in another similar series for the loop title. The finals will get underway in Drummondville Sunday evening at 8:15 p.m.

It was a hard-hitting battle the whole way and the Olympics held their own for the early stages of the game but lack of bench strength made the difference. The Braves had 17 men in uniform while the Olympics had only 13, of which several were operating at only half speed owing to previous injuries.

Styan's crew wins Dow Trophy for third time in five years

After the Dow Trophy had been shelved for a one year period due to racing inactivity period due to racing inactivity at Little Lake Magog, Grey Styan nestled the trophy from his neighbor's backyard, for a one year period at least.

Styan, with crewmates Christopher Styan and Pete Cross won the Dow championship for the third time in five runnings with previous victories in 1964 and '65.

Chateaufort, who won trophy in 1966 was represented by his two sons Jacques and Andre, who, due to inexperience came last both heats.

The Olympics opened with a bang and the large crowd had plenty to holler about. They led 4-3 after the first twenty but then ran out of steam and the Braves took command to run out the winners.

After the Braves had knotted the count and moved to the fore the Despard squad rallied a few times but four goals within four minutes put the decision out of reach of the Olympics.

The Braves were commencing to roll and with their extra bench strength one could picture the outcome of the game. There was no doubt that Jean Cusson was running along with his mates and Terry Burgess had little chance on the close-up shots fired at him from point range.

Penalties didn't help the Olympics as some of the players seemed more content throwing their weight around than the Braves kept rolling. In the third period it was all Braves and they threw up a strong defense to protect their good lead.

Coach Claude Chapleau of the Braves kept going to his bench as he wanted to keep the pressure on. He knew that this system would take the steam out of the Olympics as they were short-handed.

The Braves had a better attack and a strong defense with the Olympics had trouble with Jean Cusson was the big gun up front as he drove five shots into the net to pace the Braves' offence.

Ron Thomas and Yves Paquette each came through with two goals while singles went to Abe Thomas, Dave Sundae, Bob Sundae, Mike Landry and Peter Tulk. For the Olympics Denis Dagenais potted three tallies while Guy Hubert, Andre Despard, John Hansen, Brian Hein and Doug Carpentier accounted for the others.

A total of 23 penalties were called with the Olympics collecting 14 for their share. Sherbrooke was tagged with three majors while the Braves collected two in the hard-hitting tilt.

It was rumored that several of the Sherbrooke players had made their final appearance in a Sherbrooke uniform and wouldn't be back. Johnny Hansen stated it was his last match as he was going back home out West. He is quitting the bachelor ranks tomorrow and will leave for home with Mrs. Johnny Hansen.

Championships for the top horse and pony will be awarded. The classes will consist of Trail, Western, Jumping, Driving, English pleasure and special timed events.

London to rebuild old Piccadilly?

By CAROL KENNEDY

LONDON (CP) — Londoners may joke about selling off bits of their city to the rich Yanks, but if civic planners get their way, there won't be much left of the old London anyway by the 21st century.

The latest in a long line of proposals to remodel Piccadilly Circus would not only prove a case of "goodbye Piccadilly, farewell Leicester Square"—it could also spell the end of great tracts of the familiar West End from Oxford Circus to Covent Garden and southward to Trafalgar Square and Whitehall.

Frank West, Westminster

city architect, is a man with a dream—a nightmare, depending on your viewpoint. He wants to rebuild the heart of the capital in space-age style.

His Piccadilly Circus plan, sixth attempt since 1958 to modernize the cluttered Victorian hub of the West End, would turn the famous old Circus into a futuristic dazzle of pyramids, cubes and a pencil tower, like something out of Expo 67.

And this would only be the start of a grand design to remodel the whole of the West End on a two-tier principle, with glass-roofed streets for pedestrians at first-storey level and the traffic imprisoned below.

Unlike previous Piccadilly plans, all of which were jettisoned almost as soon as they left the drawing board, this one is being thrown open to public opinion before giving the green light to developers who own the north, south and east sites around the circus.

A scale model on view in the 1878 Criterion building—its self scheduled for demolition under the plan—drew initially favorable remarks from visitors, but comment took a more acid turn after an architect publicly condemned the scheme as a "tragedy of misplaced effort."

If approved, the $104,000,000

project could be built by 1976, but controversy is bound to bubble over West's revolutionary concept. As cynics are saying, somebody is probably already getting busy on yet another Piccadilly blueprint to replace it.

In West's design, the famous bronze statue known as Eros would be resited 26 feet above ground and slightly east of its present position on a pedestrian deck running round three sides of the Circus. The platform, open to the well of traffic on the west, would be supported by a giant steel stalk and arching, umbrella-like ribs.

The ornate Victorian building now housing the Criterion theatre and restaurant would be replaced by a slim, 30-storey tower clad in bronze glass. Most startling of all, the new London Pavilion cinema would be a glass pyramid covered in animated advertisements. Behind it would loom a larger, inverted pyramid shape housing a new hotel on the old Trocadero site.

Summer storms smash the UK but this isn't the worst summer

By JAMES CONWAY

LONDON (CP) — British weather forecasters say this hasn't been the worst summer on record—it just seems like it.

Unseasonable storms have wrecked buildings and highways, ruined crops, killed livestock and washed out thousands of vacations and sports events.

Much of Europe has suffered similar, if less-extreme weather. But Britain—traditionally touchy about her short-on-sun summers—has been complaining louder than most about the great sun robbery.

For example, The Times front-paged that central London had its dulllest first week of August since records began in 1929. This is a lot of dullness, which is an understatement for, mainly, rain.

It has been a blustery year. Back in January freak hurricane-force winds lifted the roofs off thousands of homes in Glasgow, killing 20 people and causing more than £23,770,000 ($60,000,000) damage.

A stormy spring continued into summer, letting up for a few weeks in June. Around the end of that month, the mercury jumped 30 degrees and much of Britain basked in the sweltering 90s for a brief week.

DUSTED WITH SAND
The sort of conditions that only occur three or four times a century swept up thousands of tons of sand from the deserts of North Africa and sprinkled it across southern England, leaving automobiles and sidewalks a mottled yellow for days.

Then the clouds rolled over again and July and early August were shrouded in damp gloom.

Lucky corners of the country like Cornwall—known as Britain's Riviera—parts of Wales and the north of Scotland were bathed in unexpected sunshine in early August while the rest of Britain shook the mothballs out of fall coats and drug stores reported a steady sale in cold cures.

Resort towns along England's south coast, normally bursting at the seams in their busiest period, presented tales of woe as disappointed town-folk cancelled hotel bookings or packed up early and went home.

More disastrous has been the cost of Britain's grey summer.

Estimates of insurance payments for damage to property already exceed £5,770,000 and assessors predict the final tally will be double that figure.

LIVESTOCK HARD HIT
It doesn't include things like crop damage and farmers' loss of earnings that can't be covered by insurance. One conservative estimate puts the loss so far at another £3,850,000.

Flattened cereal fields eloquently tell the story in many agricultural areas. Hailstorms and floods caused by downpours have killed thousands of farm animals.

The National Farmers' Union estimates 60,000 poultry, sheep, cattle and pigs have died already. On one Yorkshire farm 3,000 turkeys were battered to death during violent hailstorms. A Somerset farmer lost 25,000 broiler chickens drowned in floods.

A market gardener lost one-quarter of an acre of tomatoes when his glasshouses were smashed and the fruit ruined by splintered glass.

A bumper soft-fruit crop—particularly strawberries—was cut short in July by torrential storms sweeping southern England.

Some of the most serious flooding in living memory swept away bridges in Devon and Cornwall at the beginning of the season.

EXPENSIVE FOR LLOYDS
Army construction squads rigged temporary bridges across swollen rivers to get motor traffic carrying impatient holidaymakers into the west in time for the recent warm spell there.

Hailstones measuring 2½ inches across raked the Leeds and Bradford area of Yorkshire in July, causing £3,850,000 damage.

A spokesman for the British Insurance Association said: "It will be at least another six months before the full cost of the summer storms up to now is known."

"Claims are still being made for the damage in the January storms in Glasgow." And a Lloyds official said: "We are going to face heavy costs for this summer's big losses."

But the weather men do have some consolation for depressed Britons. They forecast a balmy Indian summer in the fall.
