Back to school Wednesday:

Summer vacation spent, students face studies

Bells, books and blackboards will be the order of the day for over 3,500 high school and elementary pupils attending Westmount schools as the school semester begins Wednesday, September 3.

Approximately 2,600 pupils are expected to attend the five local Protestant schools, R. Steeves, superintendent and secretary-treasurer of the Westmount Protestant School Board reported. Over 1,000 of these will be high school students, he said.

Westmount Protestant schools — Roslyn, Kings, Queens, Westmount Junior High and Westmount Senior High — have "plenty of accommodations" for their pupils, Mr. Steeves said, as he added that they are expecting their student enrollment to remain approximately the same as last year. Although there may be a slight increase of students at the senior high level, there will probably be a slight decrease at the elementary level to keep the total enrollment about the same, he said.

Westmount Protestant schools have more room than they need to accommodate only local students and some of their pupils come from outside the area. About 25 percent of their students are from Montreal, Mr. Steeves said. Because Montreal schools are somewhat short of facilities, and "since we have the accommodations, we have made them available to pupils living close to Westmount," Mr. Steeves stated.

Approximately 1,000 boys and girls are expected to attend St. Leo's Academy and St. Paul's Academy Wednesday. St. Paul's expects the same enrollment as last year. 300 English girls and 250 French girls. According to officials at the school, some students are refused admission each year because classrooms are not large enough to accommodate more than 25-30 students in each class.

Neither Protestant nor Catholic school boards are planning any construction in the area this year, officials reported. Although the Protestant board is making plans for a new high school in Westmount, construction will not begin this year, Mr. Steeves said.

PRIVATE SCHOOLS

New students at Lower Canada College will enrol at 10 a.m., Wednesday with others following at 8.40 a.m. Thursday. St. George's School opens at 9 a.m. September 8 for elementary students with high school enrollments scheduled at 8.40 a.m. the same day. Miss Edgar and Miss Cramp's School opens September 10.

Golf tournament history outlined to Rotarians

Westmount Rotarians saw a film made of last year's 48th Canadian Open Golf Championship at the Westmount Golf and Country Club, Kitchener, Ont., at their weekly meeting Wednesday.

The film was sponsored by Joseph E. Seagram and Sons Ltd who present the Seagram Gold Cup to the winner of the tournament and the occasion marked the twentieth time it had been awarded.

Introducing the film, "A Champion is Born," Edwin Culkin, of the firm's sales department, reminded members that the Canadian Open had first been played at the Royal Montreal Golf Club in 1904 and that apart from the years 1916-18 and 1943-44, during the two world wars, it had been played continuously ever since. It now ranks third behind the British and American Opens in world importance.

The Canadian Open attracts the world's best golfers from Canada, the United States and overseas and has been won by a host of golf's greatest competitors. Walter Hagen, Leo Diegel, Lawson Little and Bobby Locke have through the years, all carried off first prize in the event.

The tournament has, of course, become more worth the while of golfers as the years have gone by. In 1936, the total prize money amounted to $5,000. Today, a pot of $25,000 is shared by the most successful entrants, with $3,000 for the winner.

Seagram's also sponsors the Canadian Blind Golfers Tournament and the Canadian Professional Golfers Association Tournament. Their total promotions in golf amount to $80,000.

The recently completed postal station at the corner of Prince Albert and Sherbrooke will soon be in full operation. Though the supplementary station on Sherbrooke between Victoria and Grosvenor will then be closed, the new building will serve residents of the area more efficiently as the second central post office in Westmount.

CAR DAMAGED

Cieplak Tadeuz, 39, 84 — 40 Abingdon road, Kew Gardens, New York, left his car parked in front of 31 Staynor street, Saturday night and coming out in the morning found it had been hit. The panel under the trunk was dented, the rear bumper pushed in and the rear license plate light broken.

Playground presents awards

Children of the three Westmount Playgrounds paraded last night at the Westmount Athletic Grounds and demonstrated the activities which have kept them occupied during the summer. The occasion was the annual Awards Night which marks the closing of the playground summer program.

The program opened at 7 p.m. with a colorful march-past of children from Westmount, Stayner and Prince Albert playgrounds led by a band.

Exhibitions of softball, paddle tennis, touch football, table tennis, dodgeball, table hockey and checkers were staged for the onlooking parents, friends and city officials.

Following the athletic demonstrations, award winners were presented to the City Council. Awards went to 18 youngsters from the three playgrounds as follows:

WESTMOUNT PARK: Most popular boy, Arthur Fowler, 7; Most popular girl, Ann McNally, 12; Best boy in handicrafts, Dick Ishlemeji, 10; Best girl in handicrafts, Beverly Jones, 9; Most athletic boy, Andre Camilli, 11; Most athletic girl, Ewa Szczepanowska, 8.

PRINCE ALBERT PARK: Most popular boy, Dean Crooks, 11; Most popular girl, Jacqueline Laliberte, 10; Best boy in handicrafts, Jerry Salvaneschi, 12; Best girl in handicrafts, Nicole Dare, 8; Most athletic boy, Chris Lygitsakos, 13; Most athletic girl, Sharon Gubbay, 9.

STAYNER PARK: Most popular boy, Buddy McKaig, 13; Most popular girl, Sandra Stechlin-ski, 7; Best boy in handicrafts, James Roguski, 13; Best girl in handicrafts, Sherril Muir, 4; Most athletic boy, Ron Sheel, 12; Most athletic girl, Sherril Muir, 14.

False alarm brings fine

Fred Fisher, 23, Elm avenue, was arrested by police shortly after the fire department had been called out on a malicious false alarm at Dorchester and Clondeboye streets early Sunday morning.

He appeared before Judge Bernard Rose, Monday, and pleaded guilty to turning in the false alarm and also to damaging two motor car radio aerials. He was sentenced to $20 and costs in each case or 15 days, to run concurrently. The accused paid the fine.

Bail refused man on abduction charge

Charles Mines, 37, 1023 Fifth avenue, Verdun, appeared before Judge Bernard Rose Wednesday, on a charge of abducting against her will Mrs. Ida Baker, of N.D.G., a waitress in a Westmount restaurant. The accused elected to be tried by a judge and jury and bail was refused pending his appearance in the Montreal Courts.

Westmount Art on exhibition

The summer exhibition of Montreal artists at Helene de Champlain Restaurant which started June 27 will close in a little less than two weeks — September 8. The works of several Westmount artists are in the display, including: Ghitta Caiserman, 353 Kensington avenue, Eric Golberg, 331 Clarke avenue, Charles R. Graham, 460 Grosvenor avenue.

Car collides with bus

A car driven by Frederick Marco de Muinck, 29, 4720 Vezina avenue, Montreal, collided with an MTC bus driven by M. Ethier, 58, 3784 Marlowe avenue, Montreal, at the intersection of Ste. Catherine street and Greene avenue, Tuesday. Apparently, the car was turning north to enter Greene avenue when it stopped to let pedestrians cross and the accident occurred.

ONE OF THE MOST IMPORTANT jobs available to girls in the Canadian Red Cross Society is that of drivers for the Blood Transfusion service. The work consists of delivering blood to hospitals, picking up blood specimens and transporting staff and equipment to and from city and out-of-town clinics. Drivers can be either French or English-speaking. They must be able to drive cars with manual gear-shift, hold driver's or chauffeur's license, have driving experience and be willing to drive the mobile clinics out of town. The depot is situated at Victoria and Isabella avenues. Above: Drivers MISS B. QUINLAN, MISS J. WURTLE and MISS M. A. SHERRITT, who is in charge.

Stolen car smashes steps

A green Buick, subsequently discovered to have been stolen from 5750 David street, Montreal, was driven into the driveway of Mr. Walter Wilton, 3 Albert place, smashed the front steps of the house and was driven away.

The car was owned by the Central Loan and Finance Co., 400 Ontario street west.

Mrs. Wilton, who was in the house at the time the incident took place, came out to investigate and was able to give police a description of the driver.

Mrs. G. Stephanie, 3 Albert place, who was returning from her shopping, and three City surveyors, working on the street, all saw the licence number of the car.

The incident occurred when two men drove into Albert place and one of the men entered the Buick which was parked nearby. After smashing the steps, he drove off followed by the man in the other car.

The stolen car was later recovered by police in Joliette, stripped of a quantity of equipment, including the radio and heater.

Unity Boys' Club Summer program winding up today

The Unity Boys' Club of Westmount which is sponsored by the Rotary Club of Westmount and is affiliated with the Red Feather Services of Welfare Federation brings down the curtain on its summer program activities today when some 60 youngsters will travel to Saratoga Beach for a day's outing. The program for the day will include: swimming, group games, softball and refreshments.

During the past two months, July and August, some 200 boys and girls have taken part in Unity's Summer Program. Tours, hikes, trips to places of interest in and out of Montreal, sports, a Learn to Swim Program, swimming at beaches, etc., have kept the youngsters of Westmount and St. Henry occupied during the summer vacation period.

REGISTRATION

And once again, with the children of the district returning to school, the Unity Boys' Club will commence its annual registration of Club members for the 1958-59 season.

Beginning the 2nd of September, Club Headquarters situated at 1090 Greene avenue, will be open afternoons and evenings for registration purposes. The registration period will end September 15, however, former club members and new members may renew their memberships or join anytime during the forthcoming season. Only members with their 1958-59 cards will be allowed to participate in the program.

Plans for the new season are nearly complete. A full schedule of arts, crafts, sports, social activities and special activities have been planned.

Genetics Congress winds up; will meet in Germany in '62

BY VALENTINA RAHR

1600 scientists from 47 countries who were attending the recent International Congress of Genetics, heard a resolution put forward by the Genetics Society of America to warn other nations against the dangers of nuclear radiation, because "all such irradiation acts genetically to the detriment of this and future generations".

The motion was supported by the Russians because "we cannot ignore even this mild approach in the cause of obtaining the general decision on complete cessation of atomic tests so impatiently awaited by people all over the world".

Theodosius Dobzhansky, of Cornell University, New York

commented on some of the findings of the Russian scientists which he described as "reactionary in the literal sense of the word". Claims made by the Russians are not believed by other scientists, he said, because it is not possible to carry out an experiment as made by the Russians and get the results they claim.

He described as "Putting biology back to the pre-scientific era" the Russian claim that they can produce inheritable changes in plants and animals in a relatively short time by simply altering their environment.

Dr. E. Hadorn, a Swiss Scientist, backed up Dobzhansky's statement. He said "The test of scientific validity is that experiments can be repeated independently and still produce the same results. The theories advanced by this particular school of geneticists do not seem to have passed this test".

Dr. Norman Ford Walker, professor of Human Genetics at Toronto University, stated that many people come to the Toronto Hospital for Sick Children seeking advice on whether it would be wise to have children considering their genetical backgrounds. "We try not to offer specific advice but we do point out the possibilities. Knowing the risks involved it is up to the individuals to make their own decision."

Dr. Walker believes that gene-

Genetics is strictly a 20th century science but it has already made great contributions to the improvements of the living standards the world over. So far, its principle achievements have resulted from the application of the laws of heredity to plant and animal breeding.

One example is the development of hybrid corn. In 14 years production of hybrid corn in the U.S. has increased by 300 million bushels and while acreage has decreased by 23 million. This frees valuable land for other growing purposes.

These and other findings were demonstrated by the visiting scientists in 100 specially erected booths.

WE SAY

The juggernaut rolls right on

EARLIER this summer a group of citizens got together to protest a move on the part of the municipality to grant a permit for an apartment opposite the Westmount Fire Station.

It appeared from where we sit that they had many reasons for their action.

The street is narrow.

The fire apparatus swings wide as it roars out to action.

Parking in the area is already limited.

There are two churches, a synagogue and two schools in the immediate vicinity.

In addition there is some thought that the building bylaws had been altered too recently for this action, and the request for a permit made, to have been entirely coincidence.

Now it looks as if the protest has been in vain.

The protesting citizens, after years of paying taxes in the belief that this entitled them to protection from short-sighted planning and zoning, are, it appears, to be rolled over by the juggernaut that moves in the guise of progress.

It works like an iron hand in a velvet glove.

There was no show of force, no threats, no open unpleasantness, no harsh words.

The opposition group retained legal talent, correspondence was exchanged, meetings were held — the juggernaut rolled on.

Building news is encouraging

IN all sections of the West End, the building news continues to be encouraging. Prime Minister Diefenbaker himself, and many other authorities have pointed recently to an upturn in the country's economy, and one of the most certain signs of it would appear to be the new building starts.

Churches, synagogues, schools, apartments, office buildings, houses are on the list, as well as shops, factories, and other types of construction — and it all means more work for more people.

Almost every household in the community benefits from the cash spent on construction, the actual workmen on the job, the middlemen who handle the materials, the manufacturer of the materials, the people who hold stock in these companies as well as the merchants owning the shops in which this money is spent, the manufacturers of the goods it buys, etc.

The chain goes on, continuing an economy that is still being termed by some as a recession, but which, it might be noted is one of the highest standards of living in the world.

By the Way . . .

THE HAZARDS OF BALLET

BALLET-DANCERS at the Brussels Festival complain that "there are holes in the stage, and it slopes." Dancing is up-hill work under these conditions, but the holes make it more exciting than usual. At any moment a dancer who is cavorting and grimacing may disappear from view and then climb out again like the demon king in an amateur pantomime. On one occasion in Prague, during the rigger-scrum finale of "Le Baiser du Charcutier," Sonia Tumbelova not only fell through a hole, but dragged nine members of the troupe after her. The curtain was lowered and ropes were fetched. When the curtain rose again, they were all hanging on to it, kicking out ferociously and shouting.

TRY HIM WITH THIS

READING of a business man who makes lightning decisions on the most intricate problems. I wondered how he would resolve the old dilemma: "Which would you rather be, a man with an enormous hat and tin whiskers, or one with a tin hat and enormous whiskers? Either way he would look foolish and would regret the choice. How could he explain away his appearance or laugh it off?"

Bill Wren reminisces

By CYNTHIA JONES

WILLIAM WREN, for 40 years the Westmount fire and police chief, could give lessons on how to grow old gracefully. Retired for the past 20 years, Mr. Wren will be 86 years old September 11 and is still independent and tremendously interested in people and events.

For the past six years, his wife, Lillie, who is 84, has been an invalid so his outside activities have been drastically restricted. But Mr. Wren has remained attentive, devoted and cheerful. The couple have been living for the past 55 years in their small frame home at 3020 Botrel avenue. Their daughter, Polly, secretary of the principal of the Westmount High School, lives with them.

"I have been away from this house only twice in six years; once to a Rotary Club anniversary and the other time to get some new glasses," said Mr. Wren. "When we moved here this was a farm and you couldn't see a house for miles around. There was only the old school house on Prudhomme."

From the U.K.

The slim, six-foot-one old gentleman said he was born in Ware, Hertfordshire in 1872. His wife was born in Stoke-Newton near London. They were married in 1893 when he was 20 and she was 13. "We were chickens," commented Mr. Wren.

Mr. Wren's first job in a patent attorney's office in London lasted four years from 1890 to 1894 when he decided to come to Canada, a year after his marriage.

"I worked in a law office in Bedford for a year," said Mr. Wren. "The next year I got a job in the car department of the Grand Trunk Railway on the air brakes. We really worked in those days from five in the morning until six and seven at night seven days a week. I got $15 a week which was considered big pay then. We lived in Point St. Charles and I walked from there to Bonaventure station every morning."

At 25 in 1895 Mr. Wren joined the Westmount Police Force. In 1908 he was appointed a senior sergeant and clerk of the recorder's court. In 1912 he became an inspector; in 1920, a justice of the peace; in 1922, chief of police; in 1925 chief of police and fire; in 1936, commissioner of the superior court. That same year he won King George VI's jubilee medal and was honored in the King's Coronation list. They split the fire and police offices up when I quit," he said. Mr. Wren has outlived two of his three successors.

Mr. Wren showed a picture of the first convention of Canadian chief constables in 1909 which he attended in Niagara Falls, Ont. "There I am in a boater and big mustache," said the clean-shaven Mr. Wren. "There are

Stormy weather group scan skies with radar eyes

The McGill University stormy weather group provides CFCF with the most advanced non-military equipment and know-how for determining present conditions. One 360 degree sweep of the radar screen is time exposed on polaroid film at intervals varying from five to twenty minutes depending on the need. A map of the Montreal area is superimposed on the picture to determine the localities in which precipitation may be occurring. McGill's equipment is housed adjacent to the Department of Transport weather department offices at Dorval which affords CFCF's Gerry Kane an opportunity to inter-relate the radar data with a more traditional information available in the meteorological offices. Professor J. S. Marshall, head of the McGill stormy weather group states: "This service provides CFCF listeners with precise information to assist them in their planning of fishing trips, golf games, picnics and can even provide an alert for the housewife with her wash on the line."

Arena Fire

The biggest fire during his regime was in 1916 when the old arena at Wood and St. Catherine, the site of the present RCMP barracks, burned down. "It was lucky it was daytime or someone probably would have been killed," said Mr. Wren. "Before 1912 we used horses and rigs," said Mr. Wren. "We had the first fire truck in Eastern Canada that year."

Mr. Wren did not have many murders to cope with. "The penalties for offenses are much stiffer these days which is a good thing," said Mr. Wren. "One could buy and carry a revolver quite easily in our time. Now they are tougher to get. Pick-pocketing was the big thing then. When the boats came in from the old country it was very rife. And dope, you could buy it very cheap. The trouble today is that they make too much of a splurge about everything... There's altogether too much publicity about crime."

Mr. Wren is a past president and life member of the Province of Quebec Police and Fire Chiefs Association and the Chief Constables Association of Canada. He is a life member of the Dominion Fire Chief's Association and the International Association of Chiefs of Police.

The Wrens lost their married son, William George, seven years ago. One daughter, Margaret, died in 1901 at the age of two years. The couple have two grandchildren and four great grandchildren.

Mr. Wren, who says that he lost 50 pounds in the past few years, has a strong voice, enjoys good sight and hearing, loves working in his beautiful garden.

"Mum and I used to travel from one end of the country to the other," said Mr. Wren wistfully. "We used to like going to Florida and Gaspe. I used to love fishing the northern lakes around Nominique but you have to give that sort of thing up when you get old for it."

How is life compared to 50 years ago? "We've always had a good life and lots of fun," said Mr. Wren. "But let me tell you that we lived as well 50 years ago."

As you like it

By LAURENT PRICE

No one is likely to acquire a pair of permanently raised eyebrows of amazement by what this department has to offer this week (nor, for that matter, are we in immediate danger of collecting quantities of sneers). It's a simple suggestion, based on some recent observations, and propounded with avuncular sincerity. Covering resorts, as we do, catering to winter sports doings and summer capers in different seasons, the trend to stretch each period to the utmost has become increasingly apparent. We feel that it's a good, proper tendency. A few years back owners of most summer spots shuttered shortly after the 15th of September. Some, because their buildings weren't equipped to face less balmy breezes, and others through habit. Now the preponderance of inns and lodges are erected for year round use, and the reason for the "stretch" is a sound financial one. For us, the patrons, it presents some fine opportunities. For example: after a particularly tough winter, accompanied by the usual petty round of office, housework and business irritations and boredom, the desire for a vacation is almost over-whelming.

Let's assume you have two weeks for leisure. Why not restrain the all-out gamble and only take one week in the summer, and cannily hold the later for the fall. Says you, I've thought of it. All right, suppose you do it. For the summer week, visit a beach or a resort with a swimming pool. Then nice and sunburned, you return to the chores, probably exhausted and bored with the people you met and happy to be home. For the fall, pick a mountain area; and we are fortunate in Montreal to be able to look in any direction, and something attractive beckons. The traffic will be free wheeling; the golf just as good, and not so crowded; the big rush on the dining room will have subsided; you'll probably have a better choice of rooms; and certainly riding or a woodland or mountain walk in the fall are invigorating. At least, it's different and definitely relaxing. And let's not kid ourselves about the weather. Judging by this summer, the elements couldn't be more capricious in September or October. The same sun shines in the fall, only more gently. The nights are cool and sleep inviting. Rain and wind in the mountains — if you happen to encounter them — is romance; in the city — ugh! But you won't be there.

If you've shot the holiday time and money for this year, ponder the proposition for next year, please. (We'll now pause for ten seconds, to remind mothers with school-going broods that this piece isn't directed to them. Your rewards will be in the future, we hope. In the meantime, have the titular head of the family take you to one of the nice restaurants listed elsewhere on these pages for dinner. (Plug, L. P.)

REVIEWED OUT OF TOWN

Cabana Lodge On route 2 at Magog, Que. The smart and hospitable group of cottages, with the well known Bahama Room, the outstanding dining and cocktail lounge in the Eastern Townships, on the shores of Lake Memphremagog. When we say the golf is nearby — it is. Mount Orford looms picturesquely a short distance away. The cottage appointments are right, the food and drinks delicious. Sweet atmosphere, too. Highly recommended. Ski-Mor Lodge in Stowe, Vermont on Mt. Mansfield road. Don't be fooled by the name. It's a desirable place to holiday in all seasons. Lucy and Charlie Reynolds, the owners and operators, are familiar people to many Montrealers. Comfortable accommodations, delicious food, hospitality a keynote and the tabs won't hurt. Riding, tennis, golf and relaxation without strain. Honeymooners will like it here, too.

Arthur Lee Simpkins opens Friday at Bellevue Casino

With more than a few multiple-language singers decorating the local supper club scene during the current season, Jack Suz at the Bellevue Casino has come up with the best in Arthur Lee Simpkins, who opens at the smart Ontario street spot Friday.

Simpkins, fluent in five language, covers the entire song field from opera to popular standards with fine sincere authority. And, as an added feature to his repertoire intends to include several French Canadian folk songs during this engagement.

Bob Leclair, the singing master of ceremonies, handles the announcing, and does his own turn with pleasant competency.

Baron Buika, the comedy violinist, and a holdover attraction from the last show, rounds out the new one.

Lola Sully, rated as the "lov-

The Dignity of Labor

Unseen, unsung, the simple days passed by,
He drove the nails, and sawed and planed a board,
Intent upon His Father's business bent,
As when, with care, He fed a hungry horde.

We do not know, what happened in those days,
As He grew up, to face His tragedy,
Still what we know, is much the better part,
The lesson taught, of work's true dignity.

DOROTHY SPROULE

Swaine-Walker

The marriage of Ruth Rae, daughter of Mrs. Charles Walker and the late Mr. Walker of Lachute, Que., to Mr. John Arnott Swaine, son of Dr. and Mrs. F. S. Swaine of Westmount took place recently in the Margaret Rodger Memorial Presbyterian Church, Lachute, Rev. James Armour officiating. Mr. Wayne Riddell played the wedding music and Mr. Syd Drew, cousin of the bride, was soloist. Standards of white and shrimp-colored gladioli arranged with greenery were used to decorate.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. John K. Dixon, the bride wore a model gown of white peau de faille fashioned with a portrait neckline trimmed with Chantilly lace and seed pearls, short sleeves, and tiered bouffant skirt having lace appliques and falling into a chapel train. Her chapel veil of silk illusion was held by a small crown of seed pearls, and she carried a bouquet of sweetheart roses.

Miss Marge Walker was maid of honor for her sister, and attendants were Mrs. John D. Walker, sister-in-law of the bride, and Mrs. Walter Scott.

They were gowned in shrimp-colored silk organza fashioned with sweetheart necklines, cap sleeves, and ballerina length skirts having butterfly bows. They wore open-crowned picture hats of matching mohair trimmed with organza bows, and carried bouquets of shrimp-colored gladioli.

Mr. Colin Irving of Westmount was best man, and ushers were Mr. John D. Walker, brother of the bride, and Mr. Walter Scott.

Mrs. Walker, mother of the bride, chose a gown of rosewood silk shantung, with black accessories and a corsage of white split carnations.

Mrs. Swaine, mother of the bridegroom, wore a suit of blue silk shantung, with matching accessories and a corsage of pink split carnations.

Following a reception at the Lachute Golf and Country Club, Mr. and Mrs. Swaine left for Prince Edward Island, the bride travelling in an ensemble of aqua silk shantung with a mink fur piece and a corsage of pink sweetheart roses.

Upon their return, the couple will reside in Beaconsfield, Que.

For most of the Guides present it was the first time they had a chance to meet Guides from another country and it was an occasion that will be remembered happily by all.

The marriage of Jean Mary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Kennedy, of Dorval, to Mr. Allan Mackinnon, son of Mr. and Mrs. John G. Mackinnon, took place on Saturday morning at half-past ten o'clock, in the Church of the Ascension of Our Lord, Westmount, the Very Rev. G. Emmett Canon Carter officiating. Mr. J. E. Savaria played the wedding music, and Mr. L. P. Lecours sang during the service. Pink and white gladioli arranged with greenery and candles in candelabra were used to decorate.

The bride, who was given away by her father, was in a gown of Chantilly lace over tulle and satin, fashioned with a fitted bodice, having a sabrina neckline embroidered with seed pearls, and sleeves ending in points over the hands, and a very full skirt falling into a chapel train. Her fingertip-length veil of tulle illusion was held by a coronet of organza leaves and seed pearls, and she carried a cascade bouquet of blush pink roses and bavardia.

Miss Joan Cullen, as maid of honor for her cousin, was in a waltz-length frock of pale pink organza over deeper pink taffeta, appliqued with taffeta flowers, caught with a cummerbund of the same taffeta forming a large bow at the back. St. Ann's Baby Clinic Associates can boast 42 years of service

The growth of St. Ann's Baby Clinic Associates can be traced back to 1916, when Rev. George Daly, CSSR appealed to six ladies to organize the St. Ann's Baby Clinic, their work to supplement medicines, milk, orange and tomato juices in the diets of underprivileged infants in St. Ann's Parish.

Forty-two years later, 1958, with a membership of 52 members comprising four groups, seniors, business girls, young matrons, each member turns in a minimum of one knitted article at the monthly meetings held in the members homes, for the baby layettes.

The 1958 annual report denotes yearly progress to a broader field of social welfare work, including the donation of 68 baby layettes consisting of 32 articles; a gross of Cod Liver Oil; supplied through the year; Christmas cheer, food certificates for needy families; 250 hand knitted articles, sweaters, toques, caps, mitts for pre-school children attending the clinic on Richmond Square, irrespective of race or creed; toys, candies, oranges are included with each parcel. Approximately 100 articles of used clothing were distributed to mothers and children. Summer camp holidays have been made possible in the last few years to a few deserving youngster recommended by the Child Health nurses.

Wednesdays and Fridays throughout the year, a volunteer member attends the clinics to assist the nurses in weighing the babies, keeping the records up to date and supervising the playroom.

The annual fund raising will be an International Fall Fashion Show, presented by James A. Ogilvy's Co. Ltd., on Thursday, September 18, at 8.30 p.m. in Windsor Hall, Windsor Hotel, under the convenership of Miss Florence Hackett.

Local dance instructor spends summer teaching National Ballet Class

"Giving classes to the professional company was my greatest thrill," Juliette Fischer, Montreal dance teacher who is senior instructor at the Elizabeth Leese Studio, stated on her return here recently. "I had been engaged to teach at the National Ballet Summer School, where dancers from all over America come, but I hadn't expected to be asked to teach the company dancers, too. It was a tremendous thrill to be asked, for there is a great deal of difference giving a class to amateur students and giving a class to full-time professionals. I spent a busy summer, teaching and coaching, with a day that started at nine in the morning and ended at nine at night. Fortunately there was time off during the day to eat and rest, and watch other classes given by Betty Oliphant, ballet mistress of the company, and Celia Franca, the artistic director. I was particularly pleased to see pupils of our own studio, some of them members of the company, and others down from Montreal to take the summer course. We made up quite a Montreal contingent, and I must say that the Montreal dancers looked as good as any others in their respective classes. I was proud."

Miss Fischer, who is now busy in preparations for the new season at the Elizabeth Leese Studio, which commences on Monday, September 8, stated that she had already been invited to return to the National Ballet to teach at next year's Summer School. "so I suppose they must have been pleased with me!"

One of the few qualified Canadian examiners in the Cecchetti method, of dance instruction, Miss Fischer reported that another Montreal teacher attached to the Elizabeth Leese Studio, Joan Bouchard, had taken a set of stiff examinations in the Cecchetti Method and had passed "with credit". Joan Bouchard and Jacqueline Lemieux will both be teaching at the Elizabeth Leese Studio this season, in addition to Miss Fischer and Miss Leese herself. In addition, Carmen Cortez will give classes in Spanish dance technique. Teachers of the Elizabeth Leese Studio also teach studio projects at Miss Edgar's and Miss Cramp's School, The Study, Weston School, St. George's School, Elizabeth Ballantyne, the Central YWCA, and at Chambly, Lachute, Ste. Rose, St. Jerome and Sherbrooke.

By
The Venerable
R. Kenneth Naylor, D.D.,
Rector, Trinity Memorial Church

What again is the man who inhabits this planet, who is made of the dust of the earth and yet has dominion over the earth? He is a most curious creature — curious in two ways — he is always asking questions about himself, and he excites the most violent curiosity. The animals with whom he consorts might well ask what this strange creature is if they could ask questions, and a questioner of 3000 years ago asked the question for them: "Lord, what is man?" That man gave one answer to his own question; William Shakespeare gave another. Still another ancient answered: "Man is a thing of nought; his time passeth away like a shadow."

Science tells us that man is not only composed of earthly elements, he is also a kin to the animals. Some people do not like the idea, but I still remember the shock I got when I saw the leg of a bear hanging up in a country butcher shop. It looked so much like my own leg that I felt mine to see if I still had it. It is just a century since Darwin and Wallace propounded the theory that man is derived by natural selection from some primitive animal species. It was not a new theory. The Greeks had it 2500 years ago, but did not try to prove it.

The theologian tells us that man is not only composed of the earthly elements but that it is God who made him so. He agrees that man is akin to the animals, but that there is also an infinite difference between them. The old Scripture story says that God breathed into man the breath of life and man became a living soul. He is a creature but a creature with a difference. And note that creature means a created thing. He is God's handiwork.

There is no contradiction between the scientist and the theologian. The scientist is concerned with man as he is and with what he does. The theologian must try to answer the questions: Where does man come from? What is his purpose here? What is his destiny? The scientist asks: What does man do? The theologian asks: What should man do?

The apparent clash over the question of creation is a mock battle. The scientist says: On the evidence the history of the earth runs into billions of years, and the life of man is the product of evolution. The theologian agrees, and adds: But back of these billions of years is God, who does not belong to years but to eternity; and the method of His working is, on the evidence, evolution. If the scientist finds it necessary to change the theory of evolution the theologian is quite unmoved. He is willing to accept any workable hypothesis of how man and his world operate.

But when it comes to man — not only how he behaves, but how he should behave, the theologian demands the right to be heard. And his claim is that while man is an animal he is spirit also; that while he belongs to this world he is also a citizen of another spiritual world; that while while he is being trained to live here he is also learning to live in eternity.

On this Labor Day weekend it is necessary to emphasize one of the most striking things about man — he is a worker, always adapting himself to the world and the world to himself. A beaver will build beaver houses till his race is extinct; man will build anything that the circumstance calls for. He will tame other animals and improve them; he will use the wild plants and tame them; he will not be satisfied with a stick and a stone for tools; he tames the metals and shapes them to his purpose. He is not satisfied with a surface knowledge of the planet he inhabits; he will not be happy till he has unlocked its inmost secrets. He is a fellow-worker with

Westmount Baptist Church

Making a living has become so important that many are forgetting that making a life is more important. On this Labour week-end while we think about the dignity of honest labour, we also remember the dignity and worth of life itself. In the morning the Rev. E. J. Bailey will speak on "Making a Living" and at night on "Success and Failure", at Westmount Baptist Church.

During the summer when many churches are closed in the evening, we invite members of other churches to share evening worship. Prayer meeting continues each Wednesday at 8 p.m.

Municipal officials lauded for their devotion to duty

Sir:

I listened today to a very interesting radio discussion, the subject being: "Why are municipal politicians held in low regard?" As usual, in such discussions, there were opinions pro and con. I think that the average citizen would express surprise that those who serve in a local municipal capacity are somewhat suspect. Those who differed pointed out that municipal politicians give a great deal of their time and get little thanks. I believe that the suggested low regard is due to the publicity arising from the exposure of scandals in large cities.

We have all heard of Tammany Hall and like organizations in several of the large American cities. Occasionally, interested individuals in the smaller towns and cities may have sought personal profit rather than the general welfare, but I think it can be said in all truth, that the majority who assume the legislative burdens devolving upon the municipal councillor or alderman are men of integrity who seek nothing more than to serve their fellow rate payers and promote the best interests of the municipality. One of the speakers remarked that because of the "low regard" in which municipal politicians were held that it was difficult to get prominent and capable citizens to become candidates for municipal honors.

One can perhaps appreciate that a certain type of municipal politician may hope to profit because of his office as a councillor, alderman, or controller. There may doubtless have been and may still be, men of this type but they seldom are long in office.

The public spirited citizen who is persuaded to become a member of a city or town council is generally a business or professional man who sincerely believes he can render service that will be of benefit to his fellow rate payers. He is in the same position as the devoted men or women who sit on boards of hospitals and other institutions. Those in the latter category are held in high regard because they give their valuable time and experience in the carrying on of the association's or institution's normal activities.

Dealing with actual situations where can we get a finer and more self-sacrificing group of citizens than those who compose the councils of Westmount, Hampstead, Montreal West and Outremont? The members of these several councils are municipally patriotic and proud of the place their respective municipalities hold as efficiently administered little democracies. They serve I am advised without compensation other than the satisfaction that comes from the consciousness that they make a contribution to the welfare of the people who dwell within the confines of the municipality. Westmount, in particular, has been extremely well served since it was first incorporated as a city.

A list of those who have held office discloses that the mayor and aldermen have been citizens of unblemished reputation and a credit, not only to their city, but municipal government generally. There are grumblers and critics who would find fault with saints but the overwhelming number of those who live here regard themselves as fortunate.

One wonders why these fine men give so freely of their time and ability to administer the city or town's affairs; but as pointed out in an earlier paragraph it is because of a desire to render service in the public interest. We who live in well-governed municipalities should on every occasion express not only our appreciation but admiration of those who represent us in the municipal, legislative and administrative bodies. If I speak

Adastrians, Westmount hit cricket cup draw final

The two top teams of the Montreal Cricket League were eliminated in the second round of the "A" Division Davidson Cup competition Saturday.

Adastrians scored 119 runs to defeat the West Indians with 95, and Westmount had 112 for an easy triumph over a Mount Royal eleven that scored 110.

In Rubenstein Cup play for B division teams, Adastrians II ran up 149 to upset Rolls Royce, held to 92, while West Indians II batted out 103, without the loss of wicket, to overwhelm TCA all out with 102.

Winning the toss at Lower Canada College grounds, the Adastrians went in first. Accurate bowling by Noel Harris and K. Wilkinson, kept the scoring rate to a minimum with only 26 runs added in 90 minutes of play before lunch.

At this stage the Adastrians had lost George Lowbridge and Ian Rennie, both bowled by Harris for 18 and two runs respectively.

Runs came more freely after the adjournment with Majeek Sudeek making 30 and Mike Maher 11. Don Barker and Harris kept the batsmen on the defensive and the innings closed out with the low total of 119.

Geoff Small contributed 23 and Mel Rilstone 12. Barker's toll at Westmount was four for 20 and Harris had four for 55 off 25 overs.

When the West Indians scored 15, the Adastrians made a quick bowling change by bringing on a slow attack. This proved successful with Tom Dugdale getting R. Sandiford for 11 in his second over, and Rilstone dismissing J. Garvey for 14.

Rilstone finished with six for 49, Dugdale two for 15 and Small; two for 15.

Westmount vs. Mount Royal
Ken Branker 65 not out, Gerry Taylor 15, Dick Crony 14 not out, Dick Croal 11, Harold Cox three for 39, Colin Cox 24, Jack Chaffield 15, Peter Shell 14, George Duncan three for 24.

Adastrians II vs. Rolls Royce.
Des Morton 37, John Wilson 25, Les Dyas 19, Ed Richards 17, Alec Rennie 16, E. Pounds four for 46, Ted Hocking three for 21, G. Smith 39, Hocking 13, Alan Patterson four for 20.

team, scoring a fine six on the 20th end and going on to a 22-18 triumph.

Joining Henderson as first round singles winners were Neil Salkeld of Ontario and H. Clayton of Regina.

Quebec lawn bowlers, led by singles champion John Henderson of Westmount, moved undefeated through the first round of the Canadian championships.

Henderson defeated Dickie Williams of Vancouver 21-17. The Quebec doubles team of H. Coles and A. C. Young of Lachine scored nine unanswered points in the last four frames to chalk up a 23-12 victory over the Winnipeg team of Stanley Townsend and John Dickie, representing Manitoba.

Then the four rink, skipped by W. Burnside of Verdun, broke open a close battle with the B.C.
