Oh, Coward! invades The Piggery

By Leah Fitzgerald
NORTH HATLEY

The Master, or Noel Coward to you, put on airs and made no bones about it. He was poor, but pretended to be a gentleman. He knew you had to look like you were having fun to actually have it. And it shows in his work.

Oh, Coward!, which is playing at The Piggery in North Hatley from July 15 to Aug. 1, is a trip through Coward's works — songs, scenes from plays and musicals, and essays.

Director Stephen Pietrantoni says Coward still has a place today — even though his biggest days were between the two World Wars.

"It's about getting dressed up, being fancy just to get through the day," Pietrantoni says. "It still speaks to us in 2004."

The production is one first put on in New York City in 1972. Coward actually made one of his last public appearances at a performance, a few months before his death in March, 1973 at the age of 74. Coward was an actor, playwright, composer, lyricist, director, singer, and even a painter.

In the 1950s, he did a cabaret stint in Las Vegas, and recorded an album, which features a picture of Coward, dressed in his typical prim and proper Englishman's costume, holding a teacup and saucer — in the middle of the desert.

Coward grew up in his mother's boarding house in England, where he lived until his 30s, when he was actually quite popular. To maintain his image of being witty and urbane, he had a room in the boardinghouse dressed to resemble a much higher-class English house and had his photograph taken there.

Coward's most known works include the songs 'Mad Dogs and Englishmen' and 'Don't Put Your Daughter on the Stage, Mrs. Worthington.'

Coward was known for putting a humorous spin on darker subjects — in-cestuous love triangles and drug addiction, just to name two. The scenes from plays chosen in Oh, Coward! are, Pietrantoni says, all funny.

Peach salsa gives grilled pork punch

I, like most people I know, love the ease of grilling dinners on a barbecue instead of messing up my kitchen.

During the summer, it's almost a nightly ritual, so I am always looking for new ideas on how to serve grilled food.

PANTRY

The other day my sister-in-law Hilary introduced me to one super-tasty combo: Grilled pork and spicy peach salsa. She gave me her basic recipe, and I adapted it into the one you see here: Quick, easy and as summery as it gets.

It's hot just to the right degree, but also sweet and sour. The flavour is so intense that you won't need to do anything to your pork other than rub a little salt and pepper on it. And by the way, I tried the salsa with a steak last night, and it was equally brilliant.

From now on, I will make sure to always have some of it in the fridge for those times when I have to whip up a quick dinner for friends that show up when I least expect them.

Ingredients (for four):

4 to 8 pork chops (depending on what else you'll serve)

4 peaches

4 tbsp. washed and chopped mint leaves

2 tbsp. jalapeño salsa (it's green, not red), or, if you don't mind the extra work, 2 fresh jalapeños, cored, seeded and finely chopped

6 tbsp. cider or rice vinegar

2 tbsp. sugar

2 tbsp. fresh lime or lemon juice

salt to taste

freshly-ground pepper

Directions: Wash and dry the peaches, and cut them into small cubes.

Turn on your barbecue, set to high heat. Rub salt and pepper on the chops and put them on the grill. Flip them over only after at least five minutes.

In the meantime, heat up the sugar, vinegar and the jalapeño salsa in a saucepan, until sugar is fully dissolved. Remove from heat. Add peaches and lime juice. Taste, and add salt to taste.

Flip the chops and grill them for another four minutes or so, depending on how done you like them. Serve at once.

Dining

Cool drinks for a hot day

By Judy Schultz

The shiver is an ideal frozen drink for a sweltering day. It can also be made in an ice cream pail, and a sparkling soda such as ginger beer or ginger ale can replace the wine.

PEACH SHIVER

Serves 6

1/2 cup (125 mL) water

1/4 cup (60 mL) sugar

1 long slice orange zest

1 large or 2 small ripe peaches, peeled, sliced

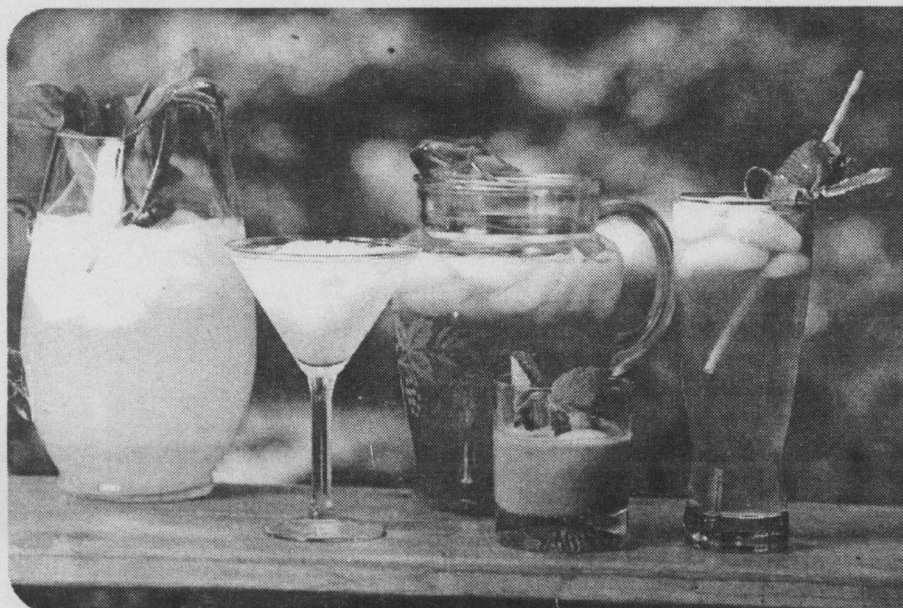

3 cups (750 mL) sparkling wine
peach segments for garnish

Directions: Bring water, sugar and orange zest to a boil and make a simple syrup. Remove from heat and add peaches. Cool completely. Blend peach mixture (using blender or processor) until smooth. Pour sparkling wine into a 9 x 3 inch (3 L) pan and stir in peach mixture. Cover with plastic and freeze six hours, stirring every hour to break up crystals. Spoon into martini glasses. Garnish with peach slices.

ICED GREEN TEA WITH LIME AND MINT

Makes 4 cups (1L)

1 cup (250 mL) water

CANWEST NEWS SERVICE

1/2 cup (125 mL) sugar

4 cups (1 L) strong green tea lime

fresh mint to garnish

Directions: In a saucepan, bring the water and the sugar to a boil. This produces a smooth, easily dissolved simple syrup. Cool. Make 4 cups of strong green tea or other tea of your choice — jasmine, for instance. Cool in the refrigerator. Slice the lime in half. Slice one of the halves and juice the other half.

Pour the tea over ice into two or three tall glasses. Pour 2 teaspoons (10 mL) of sugar syrup into each glass. Add 1 teaspoon (5 mL) of lime juice. Taste. Stir and correct the seasoning. Garnish each glass with a lime slice and a sprig of mint.

Do not be tempted to steep the green tea leaves longer than you would normally, or it will take on a bitter taste. Instead, add more tea and steep it for the normal length of time. The extra sugar syrup will keep for weeks refrigerated.

RHUBARB NECTAR FOR A PARTY

Makes about 6 cups

10 cups (2 1/2 L) chopped rhubarb

1 small orange, washed, sliced

1 cinnamon stick, broken

1 teaspoon (5 mL) whole allspice

4 cups (1 L) water

2 cups (500 mL) sugar

Directions: Bring fruit, water and spices to a boil in a large pan. Simmer for about 10 minutes, then ladle into a cheesecloth-lined strainer and strain juice into a clean pan. (Cheesecloth for straining can be purchased with canning supplies, in most supermarkets.) Add sugar and bring to a boil. Simmer briefly, about two minutes.

Cool. Pour into a large sterilized container and store in fridge. To use, mix two parts rhubarb nectar with 1 part soda water, ginger ale or sparkling wine.

This is also delicious mixed 1:1 with the sparkling saskatoon beverages available at various farmers markets.

Studio Theatre has Arms and the Man

Theatre

By Scott McLean

One year ago Dog-Cart productions made its debut at Bishop's University Studio Theatre with Oscar Wilde's comedy classic The Importance of Being Earnest.

The result was three successive sold out shows, rave reviews and numerous requests for encore performances. One year later, Dog-Cart is busy putting the final touches on its second production, this time its George Bernard Shaw's Arms and the Man, taking place from July 23 to 25.

Arms and the Man is set against the backdrop of war-torn Bulgaria in 1885 and begins with a young woman idealizing the military heroics of her fiancé in her bedroom. One evening however, she returns home and discovers an enemy soldier hiding out in her bedroom, and despite the obvious perils, a relationship develops between them.

"In essence it deals with the ideals of patriotism, and the glorification and idealization of war, and by that same token, love as well," says artistic director Laurel Thomson, who herself is a graduate from the National Theatre School of Canada with 10 years of professional theatre experience. "I think that even though we live in the 21st century, a number of the themes and emotions of this play ring very true.

"This is quite a unique piece, and it responds to the modern consciousness,

PERRY BEATON/SPECIAL

it's a very timeless struggle within the play between those emotions and realities."

Dog-Cart continues to feature Bishop's and Champlain drama students in its productions, and the group has continued to work together throughout the year, even touring local high schools with a production of Good-bye Mari- anne by Irene Watts.

"(The students) have been amazing, they are working exceptionally hard and taking the time to study their characters," says Thomson. "They have a professional manner when they approach the material, and are using this as an opportunity to progress and cultivate their talents."

Thomson says the reaction to last year's production was overwhelming and that she never expected three sold out shows. She contends that the market is ripe for more theatre productions in Lennoxville and Sherbrooke.

"Last year the production really affirmed my belief that this area is hungry for theatre, and that even though these are the sleepy days of summer, people will still come out and see a play," says Thomson, who spent three seasons at the Stratford Festival. "It has filled a gap, there is a thirst for classical theatre and it is always important to revisit the classics, they continue to speak to every generation."

On opening night the play will be followed by a wine and cheese reception featuring live music. Tickets for the show are $8 and can be reserved ahead of time at the Bishop's Studio Theatre box office by calling 819-823-2395.

Photography in abeyance

By Philip A. Godin
RECORD CORRESPONDENT

A small group of stills by photographer Stanje Plantenga comprises this month's exhibit at the Pettes Memorial Library in Knowlton, marking yet another sortie from the paint-on-canvas fare that makes up most of the season's program.

Yet, as alluring as the promise of a new medium appeared at the onset, the exhibit remains frustratingly two dimensional, at times even quasi monochromatic.

Less revealing in the novelty of their composition as in the insipidity of the realism they depict, Plantenga's subjects are silent emissaries of the ecosystem in which we are cohabitants.

Perhaps that's exactly the point Plantenga is attempting to convey; life in its natural state is somewhat less exotic than it is usually packaged to be. If Plantenga's intention is to have her portraits contrast with the stills that make up the marrow of today's magazine skeletal structure, she has succeeded marvelously.

Solitary toads and sun-imploring ferns clustered in amalgams of familiar foliage leave nothing to the imagination, lest their passion for life in its mundanely passive form. Plantenga's works are a series of sunlit nature scenes, reminiscent of the staunch zoology/botany textbooks that have adorned professorial libraries for decades.

The photographs, when taken as an ensemble rather than as individual statements, have the rare quality of befitting their surroundings in the library. They are captured between, unfortunately reflective, sheets of glass and framed by black outlines, the effect of which harmonizes with the centenarian wooden wall coverings that support them.

The exhibit's Achilles heel may be most apparent in the printing and mounting of the photographs themselves. Their finish betrays an apparently unsophisticated process reminiscent of naive artistry as well as faltering artistry.

Here again, the primitive simplicity that characterizes the exhibit is placed front and centre. Less amateur than casual in its approach to photography, less an abdication of technique than photographic artistry in waiting.

The exhibit continues until the end of July and can be viewed during regular business hours. For more information, call 450-243-6128.

Eight treasures at House & Garden Tour Homes

By Bea Vongdouangchanh

Eight of North Hatley's most beautiful homes and gardens will be open for the public to view during the Piggery Theatre's seventh annual House and Garden Tour on July 22.

"We're so snooty," said Sherry Caron, the tour's organizer. "It's just so fun looking in people's houses and seeing what's there."

All of the houses are from the turn of the century or earlier, said Caron, and many have been restored and renovated. Each house was chosen for something special, such as the architecture or the location. "All of the homes are a little unique," said Caron.

One house on the tour features the old train station. It was built around 1892 and closed in 1951 and later used as North Hatley's town hall until 1997. It was then renovated and converted into two residences.

"It's a surprise for everyone," said Caron. "It's an old train station but you open it and it's just beautiful inside."

The two-storey wing is a three bedroom open concept design and has an excellent view of the lake from the second floor sitting room. The current resident is a student of Early American Decoration and has many art pieces on display as well as a large collection of antique cheese dishes. People on the tour can also see where the ticket master issued tickets.

Another significant house on the tour is Hugh MacLennan's former house which was featured in Canadian House and Homes and Canadian Gardening Life. This is where he wrote Two Solitudes, a story about the differences between English and French Canadians in a small Quebec town.

Two cottages, a former Bed and Breakfast, a farmhouse and a boathouse and a 15-room house with 12-foot ceilings are also on the tour.

"We're very fortunate to have homeowners letting us in," said Caron. "Without them, we couldn't raise this money."

The self-guided tour is one of The Piggery's biggest fundraisers, said Caron. Organizers hope to raise at least $25,000 this year. All the money will go toward maintaining the theatre.

"In the past, they used buses and it was more expensive but now we can raise more because it's self-guided," said Caron.

Last year, the tour was on a Sunday but it wasn't as successful as previous years, so Caron said they've returned to having it mid-week on a Thursday.

She said she expects between 500 and 700 people there.

The tour takes place from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. next Thursday. Tickets are $45 and includes a box lunch. Call 819-842-2431 to reserve a ticket.

HUMOUR:

"There's darker humour and light humour in the numbers," he says. "If you don't get something you like out of one scene, the next will be right up your alley."

"The humour is silly, risqué, innocent, been there done that, all different kinds of humour. If you don't see something you like, you can come see me after the show."

Pietrantoni says he was attracted to the show because of the lightness.

"It's the style of the material that excited me," he says. "I couldn't do anything depressing too long. If you play a psychopath too long, its inevitable you'll become one. "This material is like a lifejacket — it keeps me afloat."

The material has been keeping Pietrantoni afloat for over two years. This is the production's biggest house yet. Of course, it doesn't hurt that the first production was in an actual house, not a theatre.

"A friend handed over her house," Pietrantoni says. "She literally gave me the keys. We turned her living room and hallway into a theatre that sat 24 people."

Pietrantoni says he couldn't wait for someone to give him an opportunity, so he created his own.

"It's so important to have a vital theatre scene," he says. "Places like the Piggery can't just happen today; you'd need to be a millionaire."

Pietrantoni is a native of Boston. He came to Montreal on a whim — a friend worked for an airline and got him a ticket and a hotel for $100.

"I looked around the city and knew, just knew, this is where I belonged. I saw such potential in the city. Even after 20 years, I think we're only at 5 per cent."

Pietrantoni is committed to promoting arts, so much so that he's pursuing a Masters degree at the John Molson School of Business in Arts Administration. "I love performance, but I want to make sure things keep happening," he says. "I love the theatre, because we all know we're present in the room, even in a production where the fourth wall is present."

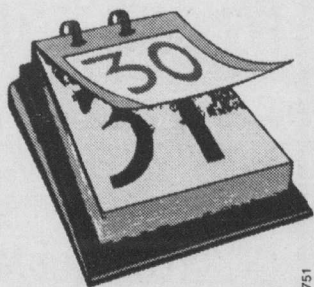

Pietrantoni just wants people to take advantage of the theatre offerings available in the Townships, especially Oh, Coward!

"All we want is people to go home and tell someone a joke," he says. "Most of all I want to smile on your face. There are no desperate or miserable moments in this production."

TOWNSHIPS STAGE'S PRODUCTION OF OH, COWARD! APPEARS AT THE PIGGERY THEATRE FROM JULY 15 TO AUG. 1, WITH SHOWS FROM WEDNESDAY THROUGH SATURDAY AT 8 P.M., AND A 2 P.M. WEDNESDAY AND 4 P.M. SUNDAY MATINEE. TICKETS ARE $22, $20 FOR MATINEES. CALL 1-819-565-4957 OR 1-866-565-4957 TO RESERVE.

Five questions with Elin Gustafson

Q & A

By Nancy Nourse
RECORD CORRESPONDENT

Elin Gustafson is a mellow young artist whose work is influenced by the world around her, not always in a realistic manner but one that has proven to be very popular with those who have seen her work with stained glass and fabric.

Gustafson spends her summers in a cozy corner of Georgeville, a place well-known for its artistic and picturesque surroundings. She was chosen Visual Artist of the Year in 2003 by the Office Franco-Québécois pour la Jeunesse. She also had an opportunity to represent new young artists at the Maison de Québec in France.

She has participated in the Festival of Arts Georgeville/Fitch Bay several times since its origin. Her work has been exhibited in Gallery 101 in Ottawa.

The Record recently sat down with Gustafson for an interview.

THE RECORD: What is your background in the art field?

GUSTAFSON: "I get great satisfaction out of trying to recreate objects around me, adding my own special twist. I received my official training at the Nova Scotia College of Arts and Design but you will often find me taking workshops or working as an apprentice to another artist so that I can learn more about their particular work. Many times you will find that my work is a mixture of different mediums — whatever is easily available at the time."

THE RECORD: What makes your work stand apart from that of others?

GUSTAFSON: "The stained glass panels that I create are technically the same as others have done but I feel that the images and combinations of colour and design that I choose to create helps to set my work apart from that of others. Except for the stained glass panels, most of my work would be considered 3-D. I have worked as an apprentice in pottery and metal work which I find very interesting but my favourite choice of medium at this point in time is fabric.

"There have been times when the work of others has sparked a new idea but I make it a point not to copy what has already been done. When I worked at a stained glass shop in Montreal, I had access to some very extraordinary glass. It is amazing what wonderfully different effects can be achieved when using patterned glass in collaboration with simple or stained glass. I especially like the one that I found that looks like antique lace."

THE RECORD: How do you create a 3-D effect with fabric?

GUSTAFSON: "I prefer not to base my work on flat images. Even though fabric is usually considered a flat medium, it is very pliable and can be transformed into veritably anything — adding its own unique texture and colour. It's a great medium to bring immovable objects around us to life — especially flowers.

"To keep this particular flower standing upright, I placed a few ball bearings in the base (I was working at a scuba shop at the time). Other times I have used pockets of sand. I sometimes use wire to hold the flower upright but it is not always necessary. The stiffness of the fabric and the endurance of the folding method tend to make the process differ from one time to another. This particular aspect was key to the success of the tea cup and saucer that I created."

THE RECORD: What was your experience at the Maison de Québec like?

GUSTAFSON: "The Maison de Québec acts as a tourist centre where people can learn more about Quebec and have access to important information about visiting both France and Quebec. It was a wonderful opportunity. The project was very well-organized. All our food and lodgings were paid for but we had to find the materials that we wanted to use in our workshops any way we could. People were so friendly and generous. As a result of conversations that I had with some of the ladies, I was either given material or allowed to rummage through their leftover stuff. Some of my creations, such as the rings that I am working on now, take only a small amount of fabric. The Scandinavians and the Germans showed a real interest in my flowers but for some reason most people from France just didn't seem to get it. We also had a great chance to visit and learn from other artists."

THE RECORD: What do you see in the future for yourself, as an artist?

GUSTAFSON: "Right now, I am preparing my exhibit for this year's Festival of Arts Georgeville/Fitch Bay which will begin on July 24. It should be an exciting event — even larger than last year. It is unique in that there are four different venues — the Murray Memorial Hall, the historical centre, the Elephant Barn and the town hall in Fitch Bay. Not only do people get a chance to meet many of the talented artists in the area but they also have an opportunity to enjoy the beautiful surroundings as they travel between exposition sites.

"I don't know exactly what the future holds for me. I would like to continue taking workshops and doing apprentice work with other artists — maybe in the line of pottery or sculptures, or maybe the art of glass-blowing."

Sutherland book features past columns

Books

By Leah Fitzgerald
NORTH HATLEY

The story of the Massawippi monster is one of Ronald Sutherland's most popular — and probably the most pressing reason for him to publish a collection of his columns.

The Massawippi Monster and Other Friends of Mine is the first collection of Sutherland's columns, which have appeared in The Globe and Mail, The Montreal Gazette, and The Record.

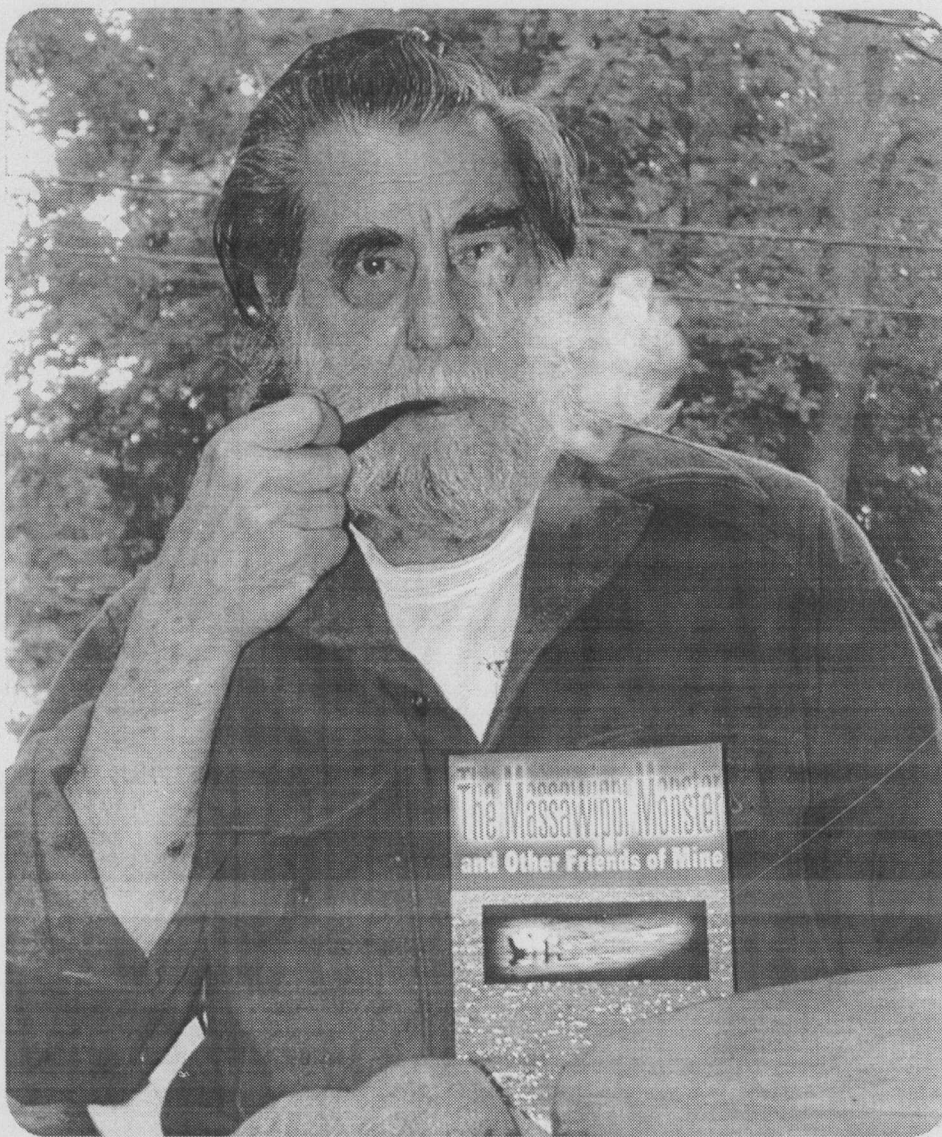

Sutherland launched his seventh book last summer — How Elvis Saved Quebec. The Massawippi Monster and Other Friends of Mine is partly requested, partly to fill the lull as he works on his next novel.

"I'll keep writing until they pull me out of here feet first," he said in an interview on his porch in North Hatley, where he's lived since 1961.

Sutherland first worked as a reporter — on the morgue beat, and then as a rewrite man — at the Montreal Star. His first columns were for The Mermaid Inn, a column in The Globe and Mail which was written over the years by the greats of the Canadian litterati — Duncan Campbell Scott and Sir Charles G. D. Roberts, just to name a few. He wrote over 200 columns for The Gazette.

"They're more literary," he explained. "They have a beginning, middle and end, and they have a theme. They're not like those chit-chat columns you see now, about celebrities and Hollywood."

Most of the columns in the book have a humorous bend. They're arranged by theme, with sections focusing on Sutherland's childhood in the East End of Montreal as well on raising his five children — four daughters and one son — who are pictured on the back cover along with his wife, to whom the book is dedicated.

"She's been gone nine years now," he said. "I thought she deserved something."

Sutherland said people have been asking him where they could find his columns. The Massawippi Monster column was used as a speech for people on a bicycle tour of North Hatley, which prompted many requests for copies.

Crows, Raccoons and Crabgrass Take Over, which exposed a plan to dump nuclear waste in abandoned quarries in northern Vermont, was read in the Canadian Parliament.

"The government made a move after that, since it affected over a million Canadians," he said. "The people who came up with that plan had a map that just ended at the border. They didn't see that the runoff would go into Lake Champlain, to the Tomifobia River and into our lakes."

Another of Sutherland's columns on bilingualism was used in an RCMP training handbook. Sutherland worked for the University of Sherbrooke teaching journalism and working in bridging the gap between English and French.

Sutherland isn't just working on a novel — he's got his fingers crossed that his most recent novel will be turned into a movie. His first book, Lark des Neiges was made into the feature film Suzanne, which, Sutherland said, is shown about three times a year on late night CBC TV.

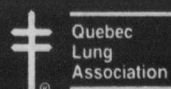

"It would be good to get a movie. My kids could use the money," he joked. "They could do something really good with that book."

The Massawippi Monster and Other Friends of Mine by Ronald Sutherland will be launched Sunday, July 18 at the North Hatley Library. Refreshments will be served from 2 to 5 p.m. The author will be on hand to sign books.

Dinner concert in Dunham

The Jeunesses Musicales of Canada Foundation will host the 11th edition of its annual dinner concert, which will be held under the honorary chairmanship of Darren Entwistle, president and CEO of TELUS Corporation, on July 24 at 5 p.m. in Dunham.

The master of ceremony for this benefit event, which will feature the best arias from Rossini's The Barber of Seville, will be actor Albert Millaire.

The equestrian grounds, transformed into a concert hall for the occasion, will welcome to its stage five renowned lyrical artists with the Orchestre de la Francophonie canadienne, conducted by maestro Jean-Philippe Tremblay.

All of the proceeds from this event will go to the Vocal Arts Fund. Solely funded by the proceeds of this concert, the Vocal Arts Fund is dedicated to promoting the lyrical arts and helping young opera singers launch professional careers in music.

Say Something
(Columbia/Sony)

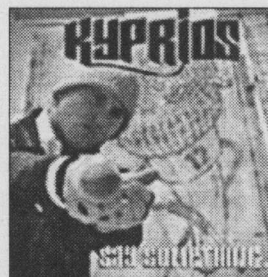

This is an impressive piece of Canadiana. Rob the Viking of Swollen Members is on the production team with the group also featured on 'One Day.' Different arrangements await your ears with eclectic lyrical content for the grey matter in between. Always working within the definition of what is catchy, Kyprios weaves a fine tapestry in 'Root Of All Evil' and 'Lovesick Blues.' 'Sex' has him rapping with a seductive sort of growl and a near soulful R&B tempo, but then he almost offers up an Outkast delivery in 'Ignorance Is Beautiful.' In 'This Is My Hit,' the shout outs to creative big name acts complement the critical perspective he rocks. Everlast is yet another possible comparison with some music and vocal delivery. Kyprios brings his discerning eye to the masses subtly so one might not even notice the clever words woven in. This is a solid, delicious debut album.

GABE LEE

Haunted Hollowbody
(Independent)

His sweet and special 1964 Guild Starfire III guitar is the inspiration for this debut foray. He brings us a mix of country, blues and folk all made into his own musical creation. For the most part Lee works through an assortment of themes to come up with original lyrics. A sort of 60s surf guitar feel comes through on 'Double Entendre.' 'Bonita Mala' features female backing vocals. 'Step On A Crack' is the coolest little ditty by far - it sounds a bit like Beck's 'Loser' when it begins but then ambles off with a bit of vocal distortion and a delivery almost like Big Sugar, but without the roaring guitars. Throughout the 45 minutes there is no bad song, no maladjusted moment and it all flows together nicely. This is definitely music best heard live on a hot, humid summer night with much time to spare for lounging.

MC Mario Presents Sun Factory 5
(Sony Music Direct)

This will have you running for your local beach. You'll need a lot of sunscreen to party with this great mix of tunes. People will be dancing all night. The crazy blend of house, dance and world beats are woven into this concoction of electronically generated music. At over an hour in length, the smooth blending of one track into another is appreciated and makes all the songs feel like one long, raving bit of fun. Syncopated sorts of synthesized, programmed beats with vocals layered over the top can be a bit much time and time again. Sun Factory is a well done summer series and a testament to MC Mario that he can make a decent blend out of a host of songs, including the hot dance hall track Pull Up from Mr. Vegas.

should be. Through all the drama, madness and fine moments there is music to match. Whether it is the eminent cool of Suede with 'Attitude,' the swell smarts of 'Love of The Loveless' from the Eels or the eclectic nature of TV On The Radio on 'Satellite,' this album stands alone on its own as being good stuff without needing visual offerings of the television program to enhance the meaning of the tracks.

Fear not, the hit single from the emo rockers you love or hate starts things off. Dashboard Confessional are indeed 'Vindicated' and they lead into fine and dandy brand new material from the Australian rockers Jet, the new sometimes Motown sounding Maroon 5 and a few other pop punk groups. Like the movie itself, the soundtrack wanders and meanders a bit more than the first one did. An impressive number of acts perform songs that ebb and flow, never too fast or slow, but remind one of the slightly slow and somewhat scattered path the movie took. Both the motion picture and accompanying album could stand alone but are better used in combination to enhance each other as neither is an outstanding effort. Each has their good moments. The last two tracks vary with instrumentals for the good guy Spider-Man and the bad guy, Doc Ock composed by Danny Elfman.

DVD Of The Week

With a red-hot cast featuring Heath Ledger (A Knight's Tale), Orlando Bloom (Shine, The Lord of the Rings trilogy), Naomi Watts (The Ring, 21 Grams) and Oscar-winner Geoffrey Rush (Shine), Ned Kelly brings to life the compelling story of a farm-boy-turned-rebel who became a populist hero in the spirit of Jesse James.

Ledger brings a raw intensity to the role of Ned Kelly, an innocent man driven to fight the corrupt authorities oppressing his people. Joining Ned's legendary gang is his best friend, Joe, played with devilish charm by Bloom. Watts plays Ned's lover, Julia. Overnight, the Kelly Gang become heroes to their people. But as their popularity grows, they quickly find themselves the target of a ruthless lawmen, (Rush) and the most wanted men the world has ever known.

Summertime reading in the mystery aisles

Books

By Mike Gillespie

Lists, lists, everywhere a list – but some a lot more relevant than others. But for those with larceny in their hearts, none are as important as the annual summer reading guides.

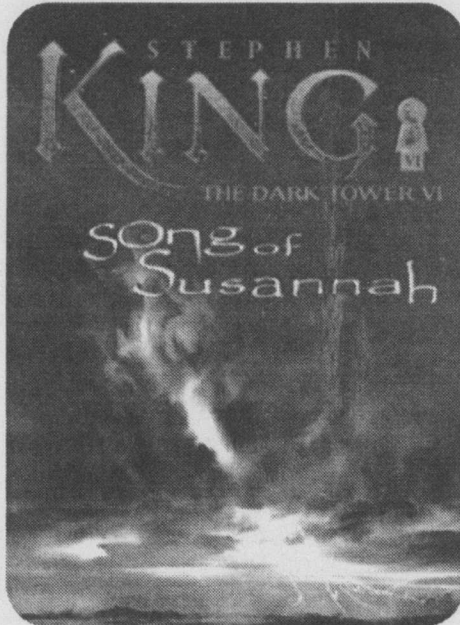

For mystery lovers' planning to retreat to the cottage, or the backyard, and bury noses deeply in a book, here are 10 of the season's must-reads, novels so good they'll make your head swim, even if you don't:

- The Taking, by Dean Koontz is a riveting departure for a master storyteller known for his psychological thrillers (False Memory, for one). When a mysterious, luminous rain pelts down on a small California mountain town, coyotes start crowding onto rural porches and an injection-moulded doll springs to life, can aliens be far behind? Koontz's leap of faith into other-worldly happenings was rewarded with starred reviews and a comfy spot on the New York Times bestsellers list.

- Little Scarlet, by Walter Mosley marks the return of the acclaimed Easy Rawlins in a tale that drops him into the middle of the devastating 1965 Watts riots in Los Angeles. In that city's hottest-ever summer, Rawlins investigates the murder of a red-headed woman who died in an apartment building where a white man sheltered from a mob. Mosley's story reverberates with the rage that seared L.A. and offers a window on the new city that emerged from the riots.

- Song of Susannah, by Stephen King is the penultimate episode of the seven-part sci-fi Dark Tower series. Not surprisingly, it rocketed to the top of most bestseller lists on its release. Susannah Dean, whose body has been usurped by demon-mother Mia to give birth to her "chap," is transported to New York City circa 1999. This episode offers a key to the unfolding mystery of King's series which winds up next year with The Dark Tower.

- Ten Big Ones, by Janet Evanovich. Billed as a collector's anniversary edition, Evanovich's 10th Stephanie Plum adventure delivers in every way. Plum, in all probability North America's favourite bounty hunter, faces her toughest case yet when she falls foul of a notorious Trenton gang. The gang wants her dead. Could Plum's number finally be up? And at only 10?

- Monday Mourning, by Kathy Reichs Based on an actual case that forensic anthropologist Reichs was assigned to in Montreal. Reichs, who is chief medical examiner for the Quebec justice department and the State of North Carolina, turned that bones-in-a-take-out-joint case into her seventh bestselling novel. The anthropologist describes in blood-curdling detail just what happens when the remains of three young women turn up in the basement of a pizza parlour. Temperance Brennan, Reichs' alter ego, as usual leads the charge in this nail-biting forensic page-turner.

- Be Mine, by Rick Mofina. Few authors can match the sheer pleasure of former journalist Mofina's growing series of mysteries. Be Mine, Mofina's fifth police thriller, is as good as they get for anyone looking for a gripping read for the beach. Starring that crusty San Francisco detective Walt Sydowski and crime reporters Tom Reed and Molly Wilson, Mofina takes readers behind the scenes of an investigation into the death of a popular police inspector and into the newsroom of a major daily newspaper, a setting where he himself excelled.

- The Narrows, by Michael Connelly is Harry Bosch at his best. It's also a settling of accounts for the bestselling Florida author who lived to regret letting serial killer Robert Backus escape the law in his 1996 bestseller, The Poet. He returns the one-time LAPD detective to the City of Angels for a murder spree that will send chills down any spine and give Bosch a case to remember. Even as The Narrows rides the bestsellers lists, Connelly is at work on next year's Bosch case.

- Nighttime is My Time, by Mary Higgins Clark. A perennial favourite with her psychological thrillers, Higgins Clark tells the story of a group of women, including a college dean, who set out for a hometown college reunion. The twist? There's a murderer afoot with a mission of vengeance against the women who mocked him as a student.

This is a journey into the mind of a killer – but a trip with one of the best tour guides in the business.

- Double Play, by Robert B. Parker is, to be sure, an odd creation from the acclaimed grand master of mystery. Parker takes us back to 1947, the year Jackie Robinson broke the major-league baseball colour bar. It's part novel, part history and part memoir from someone with a love for the game. Parker's field of dreams centres on a brooding war-vet hired by the Brooklyn Dodgers to guard Robinson. Like most of the Boston author's books, this one is about honour, duty, responsibility and redemption.

- A Good Year, by Peter Mayle is, of course, another odd turn of events from an author who, with a series on Provence, helped change the way many think of food and wine – and living the good life in France (even if it was living in a constant state of disrepair). Mayle's mystery, in a travelogue-ish sort of way, tells the story of an Englishman who inherits a vineyard in Provence and winds up in the middle of some nasty business in the wine trade.

Cole Porter, a complicated genius Movies

By Jamie Portman

Cole Porter was a giant of America's golden age of songwriting — the man whose hit musicals included Anything Goes and Kiss Me Kate and whose honour roll of songs included Night And Day, Let's Do It, In The Still Of The Night, Beguine The Beguine and Just One Of Those Things.

He was a wit and raconteur, a member of high society, a man who lived like royalty and pursued an extravagant lifestyle.

And, when it came to his work, he was a ruthless disciplinarian who demanded the highest standards not only of himself but of those who performed his music.

He was capable of remarkable courage as he struggled to rebuild his life after a fall from a horse left him permanently crippled and many years later resulted in the amputation of one leg.

But Porter was also a promiscuous homosexual at a time when such conduct was illegal and taboo. Yet, paradoxically, he was also married 38 years to a wealthy socialite — and it was a close and loving relationship which left Porter devastated at her death.

In other words, says Kevin Kline, Cole Porter was a brilliantly gifted but intensely complex human being. Furthermore, when Kline agreed to portray Porter in the new MGM musical biography, De-Lovely, his research kept leading him down blind alleys.

"I know he was gay ... but he would sleep with a woman if asked to," Kline says, by way of illustrating the Porter enigma. "And there were some women he dabbled with early in life."

Kline quickly found that he had to be cautious when it came to determining what made Cole Porter tick.

"Listen — I read five biographies and talked to a dozen people who knew him. To find corroborating stories that matched up, to find a consensus, was what I ended up doing. But I started to be suspicious of any biography. I read ... even an autobiography he sort of dictated is so self-mythologizing. He didn't want to give away too much. He thought that his private life was his private life. Not that he was in the least bit secretive about his prodigious promiscuity — he was famous for it. Everyone in the business knew he was gay."

In today's tabloid world, Porter would have never managed to keep his life from wider public scrutiny, but Kline points out that he came from an era when great pains were taken to conceal the fact that U.S. President Franklin D. Roosevelt was a permanent cripple. "Everyone knew he (Roosevelt) had polio and was wearing leg braces, but they always photographed him above the waist. Whereas if he were president today, we'd be watching the X-rays of his last check-up on CNN."

In an age when the sexuality of an Elton John or a Madonna is an open book, the success of people like Liberace and Cole Porter in concealing their sexual lifestyles from the public at large may seem astonishing. But Kline points out that they came from an era when media attitudes towards celebrity reporting were substantially different.

"The fact is that the news media at the time colluded in this. 'Let's keep our heroes. Let's give them a heroic stature.' They certainly kept Rock Hudson's secret — it just wasn't talked about. Leonard Bernstein was married with two children...."

This is not the first Porter film biography, the first, the 1945 Night And Day, starred Cary Grant as Cole Porter and obeyed the strictures of the day by ignoring his true sexual orientation and by presenting his marriage to Linda Porter (Alexis Smith) as an uncomplicated heterosexual union.

In De-Lovely, which opens in several Canadian cities Friday, Ashley Judd plays Linda Porter, and Porter's own sexuality is explicitly evident. Veteran director Irwin Winkler says that the strength of Porter's contribution to songwriting was that "he was a very complicated man who wrote complicated lyrics and music" and that he dealt marvelously with that most universal of subjects — "human love."

What surprises Kline most about

Porter is "the degree of his appetite — his voracious appetite for pleasures of the flesh, pleasures of the eye: the way he loved and was endlessly curious about things esthetic and gastronomic — smoking, drinking, ballet music, art, beautiful men, beautiful women, a passion for music."

Kline also hopes the movie conveys Porter's "intensity, that gem-like fling, the lust for life that fed his work."

Having now portrayed Porter, Kline speculates that unexpected and sometimes controversial pathways often lead to creative genius.

"It makes you wonder whether Van Gogh would have been Van Gogh without going mad. Would Picasso have been as great if he hadn't screwed all those women?"

The new movie features a heady array of Porter songs sung by some of the top names from today's pop music scene — among them Elvis Costello, Robbie Williams, Diana Krall, Alanis Morissette, Sheryl Crow and Natalie Cole. Kline, who appeared on Broadway in Pirates Of Penzance, also sings in the film, and he was struck anew by the brilliance of Porter's lyrics and the complexities of his music.

Despite his hedonistic lifestyle, Porter was deadly serious about his craft.

"He was very strict about his music and lyrics. He would call an actress at two in the morning and wake her up and say: 'I missed the word 'teacup' in the middle of your song. Get it right.' That's why he loved Ethel Merman: with her, you could hear every word."

But for Kline, an extraordinary love story forms the heart of De-Lovely.

"To me, this movie is a disquisition, an investigation, an investigation on the nature of love. It does ask the question (to borrow from a Porter song) — what is this thing called love? It breaks the convention of a sexually driven passion between two protagonists in a Hollywood move ... they don't have sex. So, how can they love each other? Well darling ... there are many kinds of love and that's what the movie is interested in exploring."

Chesney shines when the sun goes down

Music

I don't think it would be an exaggeration to say that for the past four years Kenny Chesney's popularity has reached a higher level. It came with the release of the No Shoes, No Shirt, No Problems, an emotional album that reflects well his recent breakup.

It left him with a lot of hurt so pouring that pain into his work was the best way of dealing with the problem. Real emotions are easily felt in the music. The album became a real winner.

Chesney will perform on Aug. 29 (7 p.m.) on the Coca Cola grandstand as part of the Guitars, Tiki Bars and A Whole Lotta Love Tour. The tour is for his latest album, When The Sun Goes Down.

This collection is different from the previous one. The lyrics are written from a more grown up and surely more happy perspective. The young singer went through the healing process and is now back in control.

The album is about love and memories. This record will turn out to be one of the biggest albums this summer. The whole collection has a beachy feel and Chesney's duet with rocker Uncle Kracker, titled 'When The Sun Goes Down,' is the perfect example.

This song celebrates the sense of freedom that comes with summertime, when you can walk on the sand under the sun. It's a reminder of Alan Jackson and Jimmy Buffet's 'It's Five o'clock Somewhere'.

This is not a new style for Chesney, who loves including a feel of the Caribbean in his music.

The album's first single 'There Goes My Life' was already number one before the release of the album. It's a bittersweet tale about being a parent and seeing your children ready to leave the house, taking your heart with them.

Other highlights include the truthful 'Being Drunk's A Lot Like Loving You' about falling in love, getting hurt and swearing it will never happen again.

'The Woman With You' is about picking love over a career or love over personal goals. It's all about that special person who becomes so much more important than plans you might have made. It is about sacrificing them for the love of someone.

COUNTRY CONNECTION

JESSIE AULIS

On 'Outta Here' Chesney brings on the island treatment again and the party feel. This one will be a summer favorite as well.

'Keg In The Closet' will bring back memories of high school and wild college parties for many fans.

Chesney covers a lot of topics on this album. It offers fun and feel-good music but also some reflective numbers.

Though the progression of Chesney's early recording career came very slowly, he managed to make the giant step to stardom. His recordings always reflect his high energy live shows.

His love for music comes from being raised in a musical family; his mother and aunt appeared regularly on an East Tennessee gospel radio show. Although he had a passion for sports (he considered a career in baseball) music won his heart.

He started playing guitar and writing songs while in high school and got his first professional gig at a Mexican restaurant. He was paid $20 a night but found a way to increase his nightly income by selling tapes of songs he wrote.

In 1990, after graduating with a degree in marketing, the young man moved to Nashville to become a songwriter. Meanwhile, he met Aaron Tippin who invited him on the road to see firsthand what the trade was all about.

He got the chance to write with some of the top songwriters in Music City and ended up signing a recording deal with BNA.

So when the sun goes down Aug. 29 at The Champlain Valley Fair, Chesney will be performing his new stuff as well as older material.

As a part of our celebrations for the 75th ANNIVERSARY OF THE STANSTEAD HISTORICAL SOCIETY, two new exhibits will be Colby-Curtis Museum. The two exhibits will continue until July 25. Tea, coffee, chocolate. This exhibit, curated by Monique Nadeau-Saumier, is presented in the upstairs hall of Carrollcroft in Stanstead, the exhibition features several tea, coffee and chocolate services in bone china, earthenware and silver plate from the Colby-Curtis Museum's exceptionally fine collections. Two adjoining rooms, including the nursery, also serve to illustrate the importance of these beverages in the Colby household. Heart to Hand. This folk art show, curated by Elsie Sullivan, celebrates originality and beauty created from the mundane. The exhibition presents an extremely rich collection of animals, birds, decoys, furniture, hooked rugs, maple syrup buckets and molds, quilts, tole painting, toys, weathervanes and whirligigs.
