AMENDMENT BY LIBERAL SENATOR TO C.N.R. MEASURE

LAURIER'S PUPPETS EVIDENTLY HAVE ORDERS TO STULLIFY THEMSELVES

Ottawa, June 5—The Liberal leader in the Senate has offered an amendment to the Canadian Northern Railway Aid Bill.

The debate on the second reading was begun this morning by Hon. J. A. Lougheed, the government leeader, and Senator Bostock, the Opposition leader followed with a speech and amendment which enumerated the objections taken in the Commons and suggested that the government would not be disposed to facilitate aid being given to Mackenzie and Mann on coditions which would not be open to the objections mentioned.

The Liberal leader, in both his speech and resolution, made it clear that he does not wish to deny aid to the Canadian Northern in the present financial condition of the world.

The Liberal amendment is as follows:—

"That this House before assenting to the second reading of this bill desires to express its opinion that the said bill is adverse to, and does not properly safeguard the true interests of the country, in, amongst other respects, the following:

"That aid in the form provided for in the said bill implying as it does partnership on the part of Canada with Sir William MacKenzie and Sir Donald Mann, may involve the country morally and otherwise in very large additional expenditure, and will in effect bring about the payment by the government of the outstanding securities of the Canadian Northern system.

The nature of the said partnership is aggravated by the fact that the majority of the stock may be made use of, or disposed of to parties hostile to the best interests of the country.

"The sanction by parliament of an issue of $12,500,000 of watered stock is immoral in its nature, and is aggravated by the fact that the government is taking two-fifths, thereof, and that the people of this country will ultimately be made to provide interest on the whole capitalization and the carrying charges will be increased accordingly.

"It does not appear by the said bill that the additional aid of $45,000,000 will ensure the completion and oueration of the Canadian Northern system which is already charged with securities amounting to more than $176,000,00 apart from public aid granted by way of subsidies, land grants, bonds and guaranteed securities exceeding $220,000,000, or in all $396,000,000.

"The mortgages and charges to be given to the government in virtue of said bill do not constitute a sufficient or reasonable assurance that the government shall not be called upon to pay the 'guaranteed securities' at maturity.

"The Canadian Northern system has remained to this date a personal undertaking of Sir William MecKenzie and Sir Donald Mann, and no provision is made in said bill for their personally guaranteeing the 'guaranteed securities.'

"The said bill contains no provision preventing the proceeds of the 'guaranteed securities' being applied to the payment of indebtedness of the Canadian Northern System to Sir William MacKenzie and Sir Donald Mann, or to the MacKenzie, Mann Company, Limited, of which they are reputed to be the principal, if not the only members.

"Under the said bill the 'guaranteed securities' are not to be taken into account in making up the maximum of the mortgage securitiese, which may be issued under the Trust Deeds referred to in sub-section 2 of section 4 and in section 11 of said bill.

"The said bill contains no provision whereby the 'guaranteed securities' may through nubrocation get the benefit of securities held by creditors who may be paid, or out of the proceeds of such 'guaranteed securities.'

"No proper evidence has been given that Sir William MacKenkie or Sir Donald Mann are not directly or indirectly enriching themselves through the building and financing of the Canadian Northern system, or by means of subsidies, land grants or townsites which should have inured to the exclusive benefit of the said system.

"Valuable lands which may be used for townsites or other purposes and which have been given to and acquired by the Canadian Northern system and important enterprises connected with the said system are not included in the 'guaranteed securities.'

"And this House desires to ascertain whether the government would not be disposed to facilitate the aid being given on conditions which would not be open to the above mentioned objections."

FIRE INSURANCE RATES.

Montreal, June 5—At the request of the Canadian Fire Underwriters' Association, the Board of Control this afternoon agreed to have the city's water system investigated by competent engineers with a view to their reporting as to its sufficiency for fire fighting purposes. The underwriters stated that if the report were not to pessimistic it was not likely the insurance rates in Montreal would be increased. The investigation will begin next Friday and will cost about $3,000, and the insurance men intimated that if the city would not pay the cost they would.

MAYOR MARTIN WILL GET HIS MONEY

Montreal, June 5—The Board of Control this afternoon decided to pay Mayor Martin the $305 which he demanded as salary from the date of his election until he was sworn in as mayor, ten days, so the mayor called off his "strike." It is understood ex-Mayor Levallee is refunding the $305 which he received from the city for continuing as mayor during the ten days in question.

A DANGEROUS MAN.

Montreal, June 5—Joseph Cousineau, who is yet to be tried on three charges of shop-breaking, was convicted in the Court of King's Bench today, of shooting Constable Ratelle on the night of May 5th, with intent to kill.

"I'VE three good reasons, Mother, for buying sugar in these sealed REDPATH Cartons.

"In the first place, I am sure of getting genuine REDPATH. Then, too, I know it is perfectly clean and pure, for it has never been exposed or handled. And the third reason is that this Carton makes the handiest sugar box you ever saw. I just clip off the corner, and the sugar runs out beautifully, as I want it."

"You are lucky, daughter. Ever since I've kept house I have always ordered REDPATH Sugar—and generally got it—but with these original packages you are always sure of the genuine, in perfect condition."

REDPATH Extra Granulated Sugar is put up in 2 and 5 pound Sealed Cartons and in 10, 20, 50 and 100 pound Cloth Bags—a size to suit every home.

MEIGHEN HONORED BY CONSERVATIVES

BRILLIANT YOUNG SOLICITOR GENERAL IS RECIPIENT OF A PRESENTATION

(Special to The Chronicle)

Ottawa, June 5.—Hon. Arthur Meighen, the brilliant young Solicitor General, was paid a unique tribute by the party members of the Conservatives tonight when he was presented with a gold watch and chain and Mrs. Meighen with a solid silver tea service. The presentation was made on behalf of the party in room 16 by Premier Borden.

Premier Borden in making the presentation said that the duty imposed on him was a very happy one. The members of the government wished to be included in the feelings which had prompted this presentation. Mr. Meighen, he said, from the first day he had entered Parliament had shown clear and lucid expression and lofty clear and lcuid expression and lofty ideals, in fact, everything necessary for the successful public man had been his. His work in the House spoke for itself. Mr. Borden closed with a graceful tribute to Mrs. Meighen.

Mr. Meighen made a brief, modest and feeling reply. He expressed appreciation that Mrs. Meighen had been included in the presentation. He said that even the earnestness of the Premier failed to convince him that he was entitled to any special recognition. There was nothing a man so desired as the respect of his fellow men, and the approval of his own conscience. The latter at least, he had always enjoyed. He said that any success he had in the House he owed to the men who had honored him with their confidence. He hoped they would be regarded similarly. He accepted the gift from the bottom of his heart, not because he felt himself entitled to any special recognition, but as the much appreciated expression of courtesy and good fellowship from the party.

Mr. and Mrs. Meighen were given three hearty cheers.

FIND TRUE BILL AGAINST BECK

Montreal, June 5—The grand jury today found a true bill against Edward Beck, editor and publisher of "Beck's Weekly," and chief instigator of the charge of graft against members of the Quebec Legislature and Legislative Council last winter. Mr. Beck is charged with having published a defamatory libel against Thomas O'Connell, exposing him "to hatred, contempt or ridicule, and designed to insult" Mr. O'Connell, in an article entitled "Echoes of the Quebec Graft Inquiry."

ENGINEER KILLED

Barrie, Ont., June 5.—Robert H. Jupp, engineer for the County of Simcoe, was instantly killed near Allison this afternoon. When inspecting work on a new county bridge being constructed at Nicholson, between Allison and Cookstown, he fell through a hole in the flooring and dropped a considerable distance to the hard ground. Deceased was exwarden of the county, and on one occasion unsuccessfully contested East Simcoe for the legislature against J. B. Tudhope.

LACK OF INTEREST IN N.B. CHARGES

PREMIER FLEMMING FLATLY DENIES ACCUSATIONS AND IS NOT WORRIED

St. John, N.B., June 5—There seems to be an extraordinary lack of public interest in this city in the investigation which was begun yesterday by the Royal Commission appointed to inquire into the charges of corruption made against Hon. James Kidd Flemming, Premier of New Brunswick. While the opening proceedings were purely formal, the fact that the court room was almost entirely empty was striking. Premier Flemming is charged under three heads, as follows:

1:—Unlawful extortion by Premier Flemming of about $160,000 from the holders of timber limits in the province. The money is alleged to have been secured through the agency of William H. Berry, chief lumber scaler of the province.

2—Diversion from its proper chanled of a large amount of the money paid by the Provincial Government to the St. John and Quebec Railway Company.

3—Compulsion on contractors under the St. John and Quebec Railway Co. to pay sums of money to Premier Flemming before they obtained their contracts.

A similar charge is made against H. F. McLeod, formerly the Provincial Secretary.

Premier Flemming flatly denies the charges and says they do not worry him. He says the charges are chiefly personal. He states that he has no intention of resigning.

The commissioners will begin taking evidence on June 16.

TY FOSTER ELECTED PRESIDENT N.H.A.

ADJOURNED ANNUAL MEETING HELD IN MONTREAL YESTERDAY—MR. EMMETT QUINN SECRETARY.

At the adjourned annual meeting of the National Hockey Association in Montreal yesterday Mr. Thomas Y. Foster was elected president of the organization to succeed Mr. Emmett Quinn, who was appointed secretary.

The board of directors will be composed of one member from each club. They are: Canadiens, Geo. Kennedy; Toronto, F. Robinson; Ontarios, T. Wall; Wanderers, S. Lichtenhein; Ottawa, M. Rosenthal; Quebec, M. J. Quinn.

The revision of the constitution of the Association, was left in the hands of the Quebec Club, who will submit proposed alterations to a meeting of the N. H. A. later.

It was decided to leave amendments to the playing rules in the hands of the managers of each club, who will meen in Montreal on the 19th inst.

In connection with the report from Ontario that the N. H. A. officials some weeks ago had not received any compensation for their services during last winter, Mr. M. J. Quinn, manager of the Quebec Club, who returned to Montreal last evening, announced that all officials had been paid off and further that the N. H. A. was in a very healthy condition in every respect.

The Quebec delegates were very pleased with the election of Tom Foster to the presidency, as he is a well-known figure in sporting circles, and his standing in the hockey world is particularly influential. The name of the Quebec club manager was mentioned for the office, but owing to his local connections this was abandoned, as he would be unable to absent himself from the city during the entire hockey season.

FORGED CARDS TO THE ROYAL COURT

NO LESS THAN SEVEN WERE DETECTED — MONEY FOR SUFFRAGETTES.

London, June 6.—According to the Standard seven forged cards of admission were presented at Thursday night's court, but all the forgeries were detected and the bearers of the cards persuaded to leave without creating a disturbance.

According to the Daily Express Queen Mary remarked after the Bloomfield incident, "If this had been the worst thing the women had done they might perhaps be forgiven."

It is reported that Their Majesties have decided to hold no garden party at Buckingham Palace this year, as this function, to which thousands of invitations are issued, would give too great an opportunity to the suffragettes for scenes. It is also stated that the invitation list to last night's court was so rigorously scrutinized that the invitations of three ladies were withdrawn by special messengers.

Open air suffragette meetings at Balham and other places in London last night were broken up by irate crowds.

The list of subscribers to the Women's Social and Political Union seized i nthe recent raid shows that the movement was being supported by wealthy people. The list contained nearly a hundred names of persons who had made donations of from $50 to $7,500 each. Miss Janie Allen, according to the list, gave $5,125; Dr. Garrett Anderson and Mrs. Douglas Hamilton, $7,500 each; Lady Byron, $50; Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson, $50; Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Harben, $790; the Hon. Mrs. Henry Sykes, $50; Lady Wolseley, $75, and Mrs. Israel Zangwill, $140

The total income to the union from subscriptions is close to $250,000, according to the list.

The Weather

Toronto, June 5.—The disturbance which was over the New England states last night has since passed across the Maritime provinces accompanied by moderate gales and heavy rain, while an important high area covers the Great Lake region. Newest Models in Pathe Talking Machines

The new styles of Pathephones are marvellous in their faithful reproduction of the human voice or instrumental music.

They are all hornless machines, and the objectionable features of the old style Talking Machines are entirely obliterated. We have now reached the stage where the Talking Machine is practically perfact as a musical instrument, and the most critical musician cannot now find any fault with the reproduction.

A special feature of the Pathephone is that even the cheap instrument at $18.00 is fitted with the Pathe sapphire-pointed indestructible reproducer, which is a great improvement over the style of machine which needs a fresh needle for every disc. The reproducer is the same on the $18.00 machines as on the $65.00 one. The difference is a matter of size and appearance of the machine.

CITY COUNCIL NOT IN HURRY TO TAKE WATER MAIN OVER

MANY OTHER MATTERS DISCUSSED—ALD. LAVIGUEUR IS PRO-MAYOR

The question of accepting the new 40-inch water main on which a favorable joint-report was made to the Civic Road Committee by the Waterworks Engineers, Messrs. Gallagher and Forrester, came up at the meeting of the City Council last night and was left on the table, the Council preferring to wait a little before accepting the pipe.

On this subject, Ald. Trudel remarked that he had been informed that there had been a serious break in the new pipe.

Ald. Fiset took Ald. Trudel to task for voicing such unfounded rumors in the Council and remarked that the Alderman from Limoilou Ward should seek reliable information from the City Engineers before he gave voice to street-corner talk.

Ald. Trudel informed Ald. Fiset that there was no occasion for any thundering. He said that the person from whom he had learned that a break had occurred in the new main were as intelligent as Ald. Fiset or himself. He said that the Council was the proper place to bring up such questions despite the lessons which Ald. Fiset wanted to give.

Ald. Madden informed the Council that he had just telephoned to Mr. Forrester, Mr. Gallagher not being at home, and had been informed that no break had occurred in the new main. A small leak had sprung in one of the joints at Riviere des Meres, but it was not at all serious and did not affect the reliability of the pipe.

Mayor Drouin said that the new main was supplying the Lower Part of the City while the 30 inch pipe was employed for the Upper portion.

Pro-Mayor Lavigueur

On motion of Ald. Dussault, seconded by Ald. Gauvin: Ald. Lavigueur was unanimously elected Pro-Mayor for the ensuing three months.

While favorable to the appointment of Ald. Lavigueur, Aldermen Lockwell and Morin protested strongly against what they termed an injustice to Montcalm Ward. I nseven years they said Montcalm Ward had not had a Pro-Mayor and for the honor of the ward they maintained that this honor for an important section which had numerous electors and gave large revenues to the City was long overdue.

Mayor Drouin pointed out that Ald. Dussault had brought the question of Montcalm Ward to his attention and that he had decided that Montcalm Ward would have the next Pro-Mayor.

Resolution of Condolence.

Ald. Collier inquired from the Mayor if any suitable resolutions had been prepared in connection with the Empress disaster, and was informed that the matter had slipped the memory of the Chief Magistrate.

Ald. Collier then moved, seconded by Ald. Walling, that the City Clerk be instructed to prepare suitable resolutions of condolence to be addressed to the Quebec famailies that had suffered bereavement and tlso to the Canadian Pacific Company.

King Returns Thanks.

A letter was received from Lt.-Col. Farquhar, Secretary to His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught, expressing the thanks of His Majesty King George, the Duchess of Argyll, and of the Duke himself for the resolutions of condolence passed by the City Council on the occasion of the death of the Duke of Argyll, a former Governor-General of Canada.

Visitors to H. M. S. Essex.

The Commander of the H. M. S. Essex, Captain Watson, wrote the city informing the Mayor that the warship will be open to visitors on Sunday afternoon, from 1.30 until 6.30 o'clock.

French Civic Advertisng.

The contract for the French civic advertising was awarded to L'Action Sociale at the price of $1.500, as recommended by the Finance Committee.

St. Jean Baptiste Procession.

On motion of Ald. Fiset, seconded by Ald. Verret, it was unanimously resolved that the Council will accept the invitation of the St. Jean Baptiste Society of St. Sauveur and will take part in the procession on the feast of the French Canadians on Monday, June 29th.

The report of the Finance Committee reducing the grants to L'Ouvre de La Creche from $600 to $300, and to "La Protection de la Jeune Fille," from $300 to $150 caused a rather long discussion and it was finally decided to refer the grants back to the Finance Committee for further consideration.

In connection with the widening of Palace Hill it was decided to leave the question over to be settled at a special meeting of the City Council, which will be held next Wednesday evening. In the meantime it is understood that the City will pay four dollars a foot for the Garneau property, which was the last price asked.

A letter from Ald. Walling requested that the city place the Council Chamber at the disposal of a convention of several hundred members of the Independent Order of Oddfellows who were coming here on August 8th and 9th next, and on motion of Ald. Gibsone, seconded by Ald. Walling, the Council voted the request.

A letter from the Quebec Board of Trade, outlined an ambitious program for the City of forming a commission to study a plan of continuing the Boulevard from the Monument des Braves to the city, to connect with Rampart street on the north side and from the Plains to connect with Ste. Genevieve avenue on the south side.

The letter also urged the construction of steps from St. Paul street to Hamel street on the Ramparts.

Mayor Drouin informed Ald. Lockwell that the City paid the full amount which the Dorchester Electric Company charged, notwithstanding the report made by the electrical expert, Mr. Herdt.

Mayor Drouin, however, said that he had not heard that the lighting contract which the City had with the Dorchester Company, had been transferred to a coal company.

PRESBYTERIAN MISSIONS

Wonderful Stories of Pioneer Mission Work

Woodstock, Ont., June 5.—Tonight's session of the Presbyterian General Assembly was devoted to the recital of wonderful stories of pioneer mission work in out of the way corners of the Empire by men actively engaged in the Presbyterian foreign fields. The meeting was a public one and the Knox Church auditorium was again packed to the doors. Ten minutes was allotted to each speaker.

Principal Gandier of Knox College made an eloquent appeal for increased financial aid. But one twelfth of the amount spent by Presbyterians on the home fields was devoted to foreign mission work.

Rev. S. A. Fraser, of Trinidad, told of the problems being gradually overcome in that south sea island. The professing Christians of the island generally set a very bad example to the native population, who were natives of India of the very lowest class.

Rev. J. A. Scrimger told of the work in British Guinna, declaring that it would almost be better to leave the natives of this colonly in the state in which the church had found them than to take away their original faith and give them nothing in return. A great deal more would have to be done in this outpost.

Rev. D. F. Smith, of Central India added to the appeal for more men and money. Greater assistance was absolutely necessary.

Rev. J. A. Young, of Korea, had the most optimistic report of any of the speakers. The Koreans, naturally, a scholarly people, once they had been told the story of Christ became splendid missionaries themselves.

Rev. A. W. Lochead, of Honan, China, said the change in regime in China had been a great disappointment to the natives and he was of the opinion that the people would not be really civilized and humanized until they were Christianized. The speaker humorously suggested that the next assembly be held in China.

Rev. J. A. MacDonald told of the medical work being done in South China and Rev. Duncan McLeod told of the necessities of the work in Formosa.

At the conclusion of the meeting it was announced that the report of the committee on Church Union would be submitted to the assembly tomorrow morning.

CONAN DOYLE'S VIEWS.

London, Ont., June 5—Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, passing through London today, declared that as a British tariff reformer, he was much struck by the way in which American industrial concerns are forced to establish branch factories in Canada.

As to woman's suffrage, Sir Arthur declared that through the tactics of the militants, the cause of suffrage in England is now lost completely.

As to Home Rule, he looked for a compromise in connection with Ulster. Sir Arthur predicted a general election in Great Britain in the near future.

Much Pain From Kidney Disease

DOCTORED IN VAIN UNTIL DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS WERE USED

Kidney derangements are often associated with disorders of the liver and bowels, and under these conditions ordinary kidney medicines usually fail to effect cure. It is because of their unique, combined action on the liver, kidneys and bowels that Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are so generally successful, even in the most complicated cases.

Mr. Emanuel Bernard, farmer, St. Paul's Kent County, N.B., writes:—"About eighteen years ago my wife was bad with kidney disease, and suffered greatly from headaches, pains in bowels and stomach, and her heart was affected. For a year she was treated by her doctor, with no apparent benefit. She then used five boxes of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills with most satisfactory results. This gave us such a good opinion of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills that we always keep them in the house to be used for all derangements of the kidneys, liver and bowels." JAPAN COMPLAINS TO HER ALLY, ENGLAND

MIKADO'S SUBJECTS ARE HATED IN AUSTRALIA, NEW ZEALAND AND CANADA

London, June 5.—The Japanese Government has become so seriously concerned over the anti-Japanese spirit being cultivated in Australia, New Zealand and Canada that missions have been sent to England and the Dominions named to counteract this feeling.

In Australia the antagonism against Asiatic immigration is even more bitter than in New Zealand, Canada, or the Western States of America. It is believed that the Japanese have designs on Australia. It is for this, and for no other reason, that conscription has been introduced into the Dominion, and the start has been made in building a navy.

Among the stories current in Australia is one that a map of that country is hung up in every schoolroom in Japan, to which the attention of the pupils is directed as being that of a land which should form a part of the Japanese Empire. The Japanese deny this, and say the only justification for the invention is the cry of "To the South Seas," which is often heard in Japan, but which means nothing more than a movement of commercial expansion and has no political significance.

The antagonism of which the Japanese complain is not confined to Australians and New Zealanders. Englishmen visiting those Dominions are infected with it. Gen. Sir Ian Hamilton, Inspector General of the Oversea Forces, who is paying an official visit to the Antipodes, referred to it in a speech at Wellington, New Zealand. Answering the question why extraordinary precautions were being taken in Australia and New Zealand, he said it was because of the shortening of distances caused by the advent of electricity and aeroplanes and of high explosives.

"The Pacific," he said, "is the meeting ground not of nations, but of continents, where it may be decided whether Asiatics or Europeans should guide the destinies of the world."

Other reasons no less obvious are under the surface. In the Malay States a fine people is going down before cheap coolie labor, and China showed signs of breaking up. These were illustrations of the change-evolving chaos, resembling the time of the French revolution. Foreigners, who live on rice and monopolize business are invading British countries. New Zealand is very close to the danger zone, and New Zealand is no less eager, ready and willing to help her big sister.

PUBLIC IS WAITING

Montreal, June 5—No further developments in connection with the disaster to the Empress of Ireland have come to light within the past 24 hours. The public has settled down to await with patience the official investigation that is to be begun on June 16, with Lord Mersey as chairman of the commission of inquiry, though individuals continue to discuss the different statements about the shipwreck made by Captain Kendall of the Empress and Captain Anderson of the Storstad. Some of the sympathy that was spent upon Capt. Kendall at the outset has since been diverted to Captain Anderson, and the latter has many supporters here. There is confusion in the public mind as to whether the investigation is to be held at Montreal or Quebec, but Ottawa despatches to the Montreal newspapers late today mentioned Quebec as the scene of the inquiry.

It is believed by many people here that the Empress may be raised, though the C.P.R. officials have been careful not to make statements tending to confirm this belief. Such a move would have the approval of the public, which seems anxious that all the bodies possible should be recovered from the wrecked vessel, no matter what the cost. Possibly divers will be employed to extricate the imprisoned bodies, and the ship blown up after the bullion in it has been brought out.

GOOD PROGRESS ON GRAND TRUNK BILL

HAS BEEN PUT THROUGH THE HOUSE EXCEPT FOR THIRD READING.

(Special to the Chronicle).

Ottawa, June 5—The bill to guarantee $16,000,000 of bonds to complete the Grand Trunk Pacific was put through last evening except for the third reading. There was no opposition and practically no criticism. The Premier presented to the House correspondence between Mr. E. J. Chamberlain and the Finance Minister in regard to the claim of the company that they were entitled to further aid under the contact of of 1903 and 1904. He stated that the Government, in rejecting, in rejecting this claim, had acted on the advice of Hon. C. J. Doherty, Mr. E. L. Newcombe, Deputy Minister of Justice, and Hon. Arthur Meighen. The Grand Trunk Pacific has presented opinions by Sir Allen Aylesworth, F. H. Chrysler, Sir Robert Finlay and Mr. A. F. Spence, of England.

Mr. E. J. Chamberlin stated in this correspondence that the mountain section had cost $25,000,000 more than had been estimated.

Mr. Borden gave the House a statement prepared by the Finance Department, showing how the $16,000,000 was made up. Of this amount $10,715,000 was for actual construction; $680,000 for interest on advances under the G. T. P. Loan Act; $2,720,000 for interest for four and a half years on the $16,000,000 and discount and flotation charges, $1,440,000.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier asked when the road would be completed, and Mr. Borden said that it was expected that it would be completed next autumn.

Mr. Borden informed the House as he did on the former occasion, that the Government had not admitted the legal right of the G. T. P. to this guarantee, but that it had been considered unwise to carry the matter to the courts, as this would involve delay in the further completion of the line.

Hon. George P. Graham expressed the opinion that the Government had rightly set up the contention that the G. T. P. at the present time has no legal claim for this assistanec. The governmnet, however, was probably right in its action because the road must be completed and because the idea originally in the minds of the two parties to the agreement has not been carried out.

MILITANTS SATISFIED WITH ADVERTISEMENT.

London, June 5—Tonight's court in Buckingham Palace—the last of the season—was not disturbed by any suffragette demonstration. Stricter precautions were taken than on Thursday evening to scrutinize closely all the guests and their admission cards. There was no indication, however, that the militant suffragettes made any serious attempts to procure admission to the court by improper means. They were satisfied for the moment with the big advertisement they secured last night by Miss Mary Blomfield prostrating herself before the King and Queen and pleading that force be not used against women. They believe the action of Miss Blomfield will stimulate greatly the inflow of donations to the suffragette cause.

LIPTON SATISFIED WITH SHAMROCK IV.

London, June 5—In response to an invitation for his opinion of the Shamrock IV. on her showing in Thursday's sail stretching trip, Sir Thomas Lipton said tonight:

"The Shamrock IV. came up to my fullest expectations during her trial yesterday. She will do still better, and I have every confidence in her ultimate success. The four leaves will do the trick."

HANDSOME LOGGER A "BEARDED LADY"

SMOKED AND PLAYED CARDS AND SUES MAN WHOM SHE CLAIMS AS A HUSBAND.

Bangor, Me., June 5—Up to Friday afternoon James George was regarded by the people of Kingfield merely as a good-natured and rather handsome man of forty, who was a good worker in the novelty mill, dressed well and preferred cigars to the ordinary workingman's pipe. He was something of a favorite with the boss but seemed ti prefer James Jameson as a chum, often taking long walks with him.

On Friday, however, it developed that James George was not a man at all, but a woman, and that she came to Kingfield to find James Jameson, whom she claimed as her husband. She informed Deputy Sheriff Hinds that Jameson had deserted her and wanted him arrested. Hinds sent her to Farmington to interview Sheriff Small, and at last accounts she was there.

The experience of the deserted wife, as she relates it, rivals that of the Cleveland, O., girl who posed as the husband of another girl in order that she might get a man's wages. She says that her name is Miss Georgiana Jameson: that she is thirty-eight years old, and that she has a daughter of nineteen by a former marriage, and a child of three, of which James Jameson, her second husband, is the father. She was for some years the "bearded lady" in the Barnum Circus, but that six years ago her husband, who also travelled with the circus, died, and that she then married James Jameson in St. Stephen, N.B., and came with him to Maine. Jameson got a job in a mill at Phillips, and then went into the woods as a pulp wood peeler. Not wanting to separate from his wife, Jameson urged her to wear men's clothes and join the woods crew, which she did, and for some months she worked with the rest, peeling the bark from poplar logs, eating and sleeping in the common camp and learning to smoke and play cards, in order to kill time and be sociable. The work was rather hard, but the only thing she much regretted about the strange life was that she had to cut off her hair.

After some months at this sort of work, for which she received the same pay as any of the men, Mrs. Jameson says her husband took her to Livermore Falls, where they both got jobs in a pulp mill. Here he compelled her to work until within a few days of the birth of her child. Then, suddenly, he deserted her, and as soon as she was able she resumed her male garb and went in search of him, finding him in Kingfield, wehere, after his refusal to make amends for his treatment of her and their child, she asked for his arrest.

Mrs. Jameson says that she is a graduate nurse, and that she served for a year in the Central Maine General Hospital in Lewiston, where her daughter is now studying. James Jameson denied that the "bearded lady" is his wife, declaring that he never saw her until two weeks ago in Kingfield, and that he knew her there merely as an agreeable young man.

MILITANT'S MOTHER MAKES APOLOGY

London, June 5—Lady Blomfield, according to the Daily Sketch has tendered through the Lord Chamberlain's office a personal apology to King George for the conduct of her daughter, Miss Mary Blomfield at Thursday night's court. The Daily Sketch adds that knowing the sympathies of Mary, another daughter, Eleanor, Lady Blomfield had forbidden them to attend the court but that they procured tickets to the function unknown to her.

The Times today prints an editorial on the militant problem which it says is placing the British people on trial in the eyes of other nations. The editorial says it is much easier to demand that the government do some than it is to say what it is not do. It adds that all suggestions of deportation and violent punishments, like flogging are quite impracticable.

The proposal to prosecute subscribers to suffragette funds would be more purposeful, but even that presents difficulties, adds the Times. "The proposal to allow hunger strikers to starve is common sense," says the Times, "but the view cannot be adopted because the prison authorities are legally responsible for the lives of prisoners and must do everything possible to keep them alive. The remedy seems to be to pass an act of parliament relieving them of responsibility for prisoners refusing food."

ENGLISH POLOISTS MAKE GOOD SHOWING

FIRST OF INTERNATIONAL MATCHES WILL BE PLAYED ON TUESDAY.

Hempstead, N. Y., June 5.—Surprises were in store for the large number of polo enthusiasts who witnessed the English challengers play today their second practice game in this country against a mixed team supposed to be the best of the second raters. The visitors displayed a lack of team work last Tuesday. Today Captain Vivian Lockett was put in as back in place of John Traill, and in its new makeup the team apparently was much strengthened. The first of the international matches will be played at Meadow Brook next Tuesday.

The Englishmen won today on field No. 1 by a total score of 14½ goals to 2 goals. The team lined up with Major H. A. Tomkinson, Captain Leslie St. George Cheape, Major H. W. Barrett and Captain Vivian Lockett playing in the order named. Opposing them were Alexander Brown, of the Philadelphia Country Club; Charles Cary Rumsey, Devereau and Milburn, who played for one period and was then replaced by Malcolm Stevenson, and H. C. Phipps, as back.

Milburn, while making a backhander at the end of the first period fell from his pony when the mount tripped. He was shaken up but unhurt.

Throughout the game the Englishmen were in fine form. Frequently they made brilliant runs, and their direction was invariably perfect.

The field is in excellent condition, and every opportunity was afforded the Englishmen to display their best team work.

Capt Cheape was by far the star of the game, making seven of the goals scored by his team. Tomkinson hit six and Barrett and Lockett each one.

The Americans play their last practice game tomorrow at Meadowbrook, and on Sunday the English team will play on the John S. Phipps estate.

QUEBEC, JUNE 6, 1914.

CANADIAN IMMIGRATION.

Canadian immigration statistics become more interesting with the years, and the most recent publication from the Immigration Department serves to throw strong light upon the rapid progress of this country. During the year 1913 the number of immigrants to arrive in Canada was 402,432 and of these 150,542 came from the United Kingdom and 139,000 from the United States. It will be seen that almost 72 per cent. of the total arrivals came to Canada from Anglo-Saxon countries.

During the same period the immigration figures of the United States show an influx of 1,197,892, of which 88,204 were from the United Kingdom Thus Canada leads the republic to the south of us as a home for British immigrants. Comparison of the British immigration to each country for last year produces the following figures:

	To Can.	To U. S.
From England	108,082	43,363
From Scotland	30,735	14,220
From Ireland	9,706	27,876
From Wales..	2,019	2.745
Total..	150,542	88,204

Of the balance of the immigration to Canada during the year under consideration the following are some of the approximate figures: Austria Hungary, 24,000; Russia, 18,000; Italy, 16,600; Jews, 10,000; Germany, 5,000, and Scandinavian, 5,000. Compared with the United States this makes a particularly significant showing, for the nationality from which Uncle Sam received the bulk of his new citizens is Russia, which sent no fewer than 291,400. Next in order was Italy with 265,000 and then Austria-Hungary with 254,825.

The figures of immigration to the United States are apt to be misleading as it is well known that many of the newcomers from Southern Europe do not remain. They come principally as laborers or itinerant merchants in the larger cities and as soon as they have succeeded in accumulating a little money return home again. Thus we find that in 1913 the total number which left the United States was 303,734 and most of these were of Southern Europe.

Another interesting point upon which light is thrown by the returns is that unless the whole trend and character of Canada's immigration changes there is little danger of the British people losing their dominance in the Dominion. Of the immigrants from the United States it is estimated that at least 50 per cent. are Britishers by birth who went to the Republic first to try their fortune and then came into Canada. They have retained their British allegiance, so, assuming that the proportion is correct, we find that during 1913 the number of British people to enter Canada from all countries was approximately 220,000 and of other races about 180,000. Add to this the percentage of Americans who, after living in this country, became naturalized and it will be seen that there is no danger of the British race losing its ascendancy in Canada.

THE C. N. R. BILL.

The Canadian Northern Railway bill passed the House of Commons with a majority of 47. This was greater by one-fifth than the total vote registered against the measure. Two Conservatives, Messrs. Bennett and Nickle, maintained their opposition, while Hon. W. A. Charlton, Liberal, voted with the Government. The bill now goes to the Senate, where its fate, owing to the political situation, is regarded as uncertain. The Senate has a considerable Liberal majority, and should the Senators adopt the bill the reflection their action will cast upon the contentions of the Opposition in the Commons will be unmistakable.

The Opposition has already been discounted in the country by members of its own party. Liberal newspapers have declared that there was no course open to the Government other than to come to the assistance of the Canadian Northern Railway. Some of these newspapers were quite frank to say that such terms as the Government had been able to make had not heretofore been known in Canada. One of these newspapers was The Winnipeg Free Press, possibly the leading Liberal newspaper.

The Winnipeg Tribune, owned and edited by a Liberal, who was a Laurier candidate in the MacDonald by-election in 1912, had this to say concerning the Opposition and their relation to the construction of the National Transcontinental:

"Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Mr. Fielding, Mr. Sifton and Mr. Graham, the then minister of railways, have bequeathed a legacy to their country which should stand as a monument to their disgrace for the next century, or until their names have rotted in oblivion."

The Tribune might have added that these were also the men who left the Canadian Northern as a legacy to the Borden Government, and that it was these men who have assumed the role of critics of the manner in which the Government have dealt with the difficult Canadian Northern situation. That they are hardly fitted for the role of critics is quite clear from the observations of The Tribune, which further says that "the appalling corruption and mismanagement in connection with the National Transcontinental was such as to practically destroy it for all time as an asset to the Dominion."

ANGRY HINDUS.

The detention of the shipload of Hindus at Vancouver has brought to a focus a difficulty that had to be met some time. The Hindus themselves are exceedingly indignant, and at last accounts were becoming riotous on shipboard. In the Hindu community at Hong Kong, threats are made that if British Hindus are not accorded the right of entry in any part of the British Empire, sedition and insurrection will probably become irrepressible among the hundreds of millions of the people in India. The editor of the Hindu organ in Vancouver, Dr. Sunder Singh, has had several interviews with the authorities at Ottawa, and, failing to make any impression there, intimates that he may appeal to the Imperial government.

But the present case is perfectly clear. When the Komagata Maru left Shanghai with this load of Hindus, it was well known that under a Canadian Order-in-Council they could not be allowed to disembark in British Columbia. Their leader and financial backer, Gurdit Singh, has admitted as much in saying that his object in bringing a shipload of Hindus across the Pacific was to test the point, and see whether British subjects, because Asiatic and dark-skinned, could be excluded from any part of the British Empire to which he might choose to take them. He now has his answer. That answer he could not have expected to be anything else. Those of the party who could prove that they had previously been residents of Canada, and were merely returning, have been allowed to land. All the others are held. The pretense that the bulk of the men are agriculturists, and not artisans or laborers, and thus not covered by the Order-in-Council, will not avail, for the reason that those Hindus long resident in Canada show no inclination to agriculture, but are laborers in sawmills, and also because, even if the Order-in-Council excluding incoming artisans and laborers from British Columbia did not apply to them, an earlier regulation would, which excludes all Asiatics not sailing to Canada directly from their own country. If the present shipment had come straight from Calcutta, it might have some claim: as the voyage began at Shanghai, it has none.

Talk of remonstrance to the Imperial government, or of a revolt in India, cannot affect the course of the Canadian government. As was recently seen in South Africa, the autonomous dominions under the British crown are allowed to decide for themselves whether or not they will admit British subjects from any other part of the Empire. The right to do so went with the right of self-government, and cannot now be revoked. Whatever the consequences may be to India, this state of affairs must continue.

PRESS COMMENT.

Women who have been graciously permitted to destroy the mails, smash windows, mutilate masterpieces in public art galleries, set fire to churches and country houses, horsewhip Cabinet Ministers, defy the courts and terrorize a kingdom according to their own sweet will, have a right to expect that murder is also a privileged crime. The militant who hacked an attendant in a London art gallery with a hatchet recently failed to kill him, but that was not her fault. Arson and assault and battery having failed to convince the British people that these women are fit to govern, and the Government having refused to take adequate steps to suppress their crimes, the heroine of the attempt at manslaughter is wholly logical in her contention that "we have been too ladylike in the past." Hitherto the militants have been treated as a criminal caste. No matter what offenses they committed, they have not been punished as other criminals are punished. A few days of "hunger-striking" and they are usually released to begin new depredations. Murder may appeal to them as more mussy than some of their other crimes, but if their "cause" is as sacred as they pretend, there is no reason why they should permit human life to stand in the way. Three days of hunger-striking ought to be sufficient to turn a militant murderess loose again, and every dead man means one less "tyrant."—New York World.

When the first reports of the Empress disaster in the St. Lawrence came to hand there was a disposition to regard with suspicion the large proportion of members of the crew saved. Later accounts, however, very fully exonerate the officers and crew, who apparently did everything that was possible in the few minutes that elapsed between the collision and the sinking of the ship. Those of the crew who were in their sleeping quarters would naturally be the first aroused. They would be thoroughly acquainted with all parts of the ship. They would probably be more or less expert swimmers, hardened to the water, and, in the final collapse, would have an infinitely better chance than the passengers. Besides, many of the latter were either not aroused, because of lack of time, or were imprisoned in their state rooms. People, as a general rule, go aboard a big ocean liner, as they do aboard a railway train, without any thought of disaster, or the means of safety in case of accident. In this great calamity it is a melancholy satisfaction to know that there is no charge of cowardice against either officers or crew.—Moncton Times.

Enquiry elicits the information that the ill-fated Empress of Ireland had ten water-tight bulk-heads or partitions across the ship. The Empress press was 600 feet long. The bulk-heads would therefore be about fifty feet apart. Palpably no cillision could destroy more than a couple of these bulk-heads at most. Had the doors of all the bulk-heads been closed at or immediately after the moment the Empress was struck by the Storstad, could so rapid a sinking have been possible? The despatch stating that the Empress had ten water-tight bulk-heads adds that on C. P. R. boats these are tested every morning at eleven o'clock. By this is meant, we suppose, a test whether the doors of the bulk-heads close freely and properly. If this was by human agency, possibly the suddenness of the disaster prevented men of the crew getting to their posts in time. It is a point that deserves attention. The Montreal Star makes a suggestion which seems sensible, namely, that there ought to be an alarm-bell system on all steamships by which the captain, by simply pressing a button on the "bridge," could set a loud alarm ringing in every cabin in the ship. This would serve the double purpose of awakening all the passengers simultaneously, and of telling them at the same time that the captain thought the danger sufficiently imminent for them to rush up on deck without losing much time.—Ottawa Journal.

What a strange, jumbled, disordered world is revealed by the daily press. Here is a race-horse valued at 70,000 pounds. A workman getting a pound a week would have to work about thirteen hundred years before he earned the price of the horse. If the race-horse and the workman both fell sick, the former in all likelihood would receive from its owner much more thought and care than the workman. Social contrasts meet us at every turn unless we are blinded by custom and convention. At Covent Garden theatre a thousand pounds was spent in an evening for flowers, and inside a vast audience displayed their dazzling gems. Outside in the streets or in mean homes the builders' laborers and their children pinched and starved. In Swansea, the Education Committee have just issued a return dealing with the "spare-time work" of young children. It is the sort of document which is not soothing to our national pride, if we have any. Children attending school work in addition in barbers' shops or at delivering newspapers, milk, meat, groceries, fruits. Often the tired young heads will droop in sleep at school. Never can they take full advantage of an educational course. Need there be such poverty and subjection? Are we compensated in having race-horses worth 70,000 pounds or in spending 1,000 pounds on flowers for a Royal entertainment?—London Citizen.

FINANCIAL.

It was at a theatre in Manchester, Eng. The king, aged and infirm, was blessed with two sons. He was pacing up and down the stage, with a wearied, troubled look, exclaimed aloud: "On which of these my sons shall I bestow my crown?"

Immediately came a voice from the gallery: "Why not 'arf a crown apiece, guv-nor?"

IN AND ABOUT TOWN

BUILDING PERMITS FOR MONTH OF MAY

NEARLY A HALF MILLION WORTH OF CONSTRUCTION HERE LAST MONTH.

The fact that building activities are very pronounced in all the wards of the City seems to augur well and to offset the rather disappointing outlook which was caused by the stringency of the money market which prevailed for some time.

The latest report from the City Hall announces that there were 201 building permits issued during the month of May, which amounted to the sum of $461,590.00, which for the five months since the 1st of January makes a total of $1,252,114.00, and this is more than double the amount for the corresponding months of last year.

In the construction permits for the month of May just passed, Montcalm ward heads the list, with permits for $125,185.00; Jacques Cartier Ward comes next with $96,550.00, while Belvedere Ward is third with $75,400.

GYMNASTIC WORK BY QUEBEC BOYS

LIEUT.-GOVERNOR AND LARGE ATTENDANCE SEE FINE DISPLAY AT DRILL HALL.

At the Drill Hall on Grande Allee, last evening, there were almost 3,000 people present to witness the excellent display of gymnastics and of military drills put on by the pupils of two schools—St. Jean Baptiste school and Victoria school. This was the best display the boys have ever made.

From St. Jean Baptiste school four classes of boys of varying ages took part; they were the St. Damase cadets. From the Victoria school some forty-five of the cadets took part. The combined work of the two schools went to make up one of the best programs ever put on by the boys. All the boys were put under the direction of their trainer and instructor, Sergeant Good.

The St. Damase boys—some 145 in number—specialized in gymnastics and erected during the course of the evening no less than six well-formed pyramids. They were arranged in four groups according to their ages. The youngsters 7 to 9 years were especially good and got repeated applause from the large audience of their friends present.

The Victoria school cadets appeared in attractive uniforms with rifles and gave an illustration of the military drills of which they are capable.

The Lieutenant-Governor of the province, Sir Francois Laugelier, attended by his aide-de-camp, Captain Pelletier, was an interested spectator. Cure Beaudoin, of St. John's Church, was also present to encourage the boys.

During the evening the band of the St. Damase attended and furnished enjoyable music. It was in charge of Mr. Joseph Vezina.

REMARKABLE CURE OF RHEUMATSM

Supt. Of Sunday School In Toronto Cured By "Fruit-a-tives"

R. A. Waugh, Esq.

Toronto, Ont., Oct. 1st. 1913.

"For a long time, I have thought of writing you regarding what I term a most remarkable cure effected by your remedy "Fruit-a-tives." I have lived in this city for more than 12 years and am well known. I suffered from Rheumatism especially in my hands. I have spent a lot of money without any good results. I have taken "Fruit-a-tives" for 18 months now and am pleased to tell you that I am cured. All the enlargement has not left my hands and perhaps never will, but the soreness is all gone and I can do any kind of work. I have gained 35 pounds in 18 months."

R. A. WAUGH.

"Fruit-a-tives" will always cure even the most stubborn cases of Rheumatism because it is the greatest blood purifier in the world and acts on the bowels, kidneys and skin.

"Fruit-a-tives" is sold by all dealers at 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size 25c or will be sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives, Limited, Ottawa.

SIXTY BODIES NOT IDENTIFIED

MORE IDENTITIES ESTABLISHED YESTERDAY — IRVING'S BODY IS NOT HERE.

Coroner Jolicoeur has a long and tedious work on his hands. Yesterday he visited the morgue on the wharf and counted the bodies remaining. He stated the number was seventy one. Of these he said two were taken away on Friday while many others identified have not been claimed by relatives or friends.

"There are," said the Coroner, "six or seven bodies that have been identified, but remain unclaimed by relatives or friends. The reason for this is most likely because word of the disaster has not yet reached the remote places where some of those who suffered death in the disaster lived."

"Yet, excluding all those, there are yet probably about sixty unidentified bodies," continued the Coroner.

Dr. Jolicoeur is making sternuous efforts to ascertain the names of those that remain. He is devoting much time to carefully going through the personal belongings found on the bodies. This method of investigation has already been successful in several instances.

"In one case," said the doctor, "we were able by means of a cheque or order to pay a sum of money, able to prove the name of one of the victims."

Another instance is Robert Clayton whose identity was ascertained through letters from his mother, interesting epistles found among his property. Mr. Clayton was a member of the crew and 42 years of age. He lived with his mother at 31 Ashe street, Oldham road, Manchester, Eng. He was a Y.M.C.A. man, and the local authorities here took charge of the remains. It is expected that the funeral will be held here.

The Coroner has received photos of the dead actor, Laurence Irving, and states that he is certain the remains of the dead man are not in the morgue.

The identifications yesterday were: Miss Jennie Newton, Toronto, by W. Cook, her nephew, of Toronto; Laura Tuffley, identified by Mrs. Drinkwater, of Kamloops, B.C.; Mrs. George Bolton, of Toronto, identified by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Gascadar; Mrs. Stevenson, identified by her husband, R. Stevenson, of Edmonton; T. Scott, baby, and Thomas Usher Scott, identified by R. Purvis.

It is quite probable that many of those foreigners who lost their lives will never be claimed for, as Coroner Jolicoeur stated, their friends in Central Europe probably have not even yet heard of the accident, and may not have known that their friends or relatives were on the sunken vessel. As soon as any possible clue is ascertained, messages are at once sent in an effort to communicate with or to ascertain the friends or relatives of the deceased.

The funeral of Miss Alma Assafray, one of the victims of the Empress disaster, will take place today to Mount Hermon cemetery. The deceased was identified by Mr. A. J. Musgrove who would in all likelihood have married the young lady had she survived.

MACK

MOTOR TRUCKS

Capacities—1, 1½, 2, 3, 5 and 7½ tons.

"What kind of service may I expect from the manufacturer after I have purchased a motor truck?" An important question to consider.

Mack service begins with an analysis of your delivery problems, the furnishing of accurate and interesting data regarding the experiences of business men whose transportation problems are similar to yours.

And Mack service ends when the truck wears out—how long this will be we do not know, for the first Mack Truck built, 14 years ago, is still doing reliable work at Tucson, Arizona.

The strength of the company behind the truck should be as carefully investigated as the strength of the truck itself. Address Dept. 38.

NEW OLYMPIC RULES.

Lyons, France, June 5—A decision of considerable importance to American athletics was reached today by the International Amateur Athletic Federation committee on rules, regulations and records. By five votes to one the committeemen rejected the American contention that there should be no dig-out at the take-off in the broad jump. During the discussion James E. Sullivan, president of the committee, pointed out that the American method was a guarantee against injury to the athlete and had produced the world's finest broad jumpers. The foreign delgates, however, while admitting the facts, declared the dig-out to be essential and were disinclined to change the methods to which they were accustomed.

A few other differences of opinion occurred at the meeting but the committee brought its work on rules to a conclusion by passing all the athletic rules suggested by Mr. Sullivan with a few alterations. For instance in the rule on uprights it was decided that they shall not be moved at all. In that on throwing events and the pole jump the rule was made to read that if the impleemnt breaks it shall be counted no trial. As to the Marathon rule no attendants or coaches are to be allowed during the race while on account of differences in the various grounds steeplechase specifications are omitted from the rule and are to be decided upon by the committee before each competition.

London, June 5—General W. Bramwell Booth of the Salvation Army and Mrs. Booth and 10,000 other Salvationists gathered in Albert Hall tonight at a memorial service for the members of the Salvation Army who were drowned in the Empress of Ireland disaster. A letter from Queen Mary was read in which Her Majesty expressed her heartfelt sympathy with the Army in the loss of its colleagues.

Morin, a catcher from Syracuse, Reanonins, shortstop from the Brantford Canadian League team, and Jacobs, a fielder of Montreal, in uniform.

If the Athletics are successful in winning the local baseball championship the team is promised a trip away for the world's baseball championship by a certain Quebec sportsman. Paquet and Laurin will do the pitching for the Athletics tomorrow. The C. B.-St. Patrick game will start at 1:30. Levesque, as already announced, will be on the mound for the Young Scouts, and Campagna for St. Pats.

NORTHLAND PULLED OFF

New London, Conn., June 5—The Eastern Line steamer Northland, which grounded off Bartlett's Reef during the heavy weather last night, was pulled off the rocks tonight by four wrecking tugs after her cargo had been lightened. The Northland came to New London harbor under her own steam and she will proceed to New York late tonight for repairs. The damage is not extensive.

Kidney Disease in Every Symptom

WHY MRS. MARK FOUND QUICK RELIEF IN DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS

New Brunswick Lady Who Suffered for Six Years Tell How She Found a Speedy Cure

Miscou Harbor, Gloucester Co., N. B., June 5—(Special)—"For some five or six years I was troubled with backache. I tried many tonics, but kept growing worse, until I decided to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. They gave me almost immediate relief."

This is the statement of Mrs. A. Mark, well known and highly respected here. Asked to give more particulars in regard to her case, Mrs. Mark said:

"My trouble started with a cold, and gradually grew worse. I had stiffness in my joints and cramps in my muscles and suffered from neuralgia. I had heart flutterings and headaches, my sleep was broken and unrefreshing and I was always tired and nervous. I had dark circles under my eyes, I was irritable and often dizzy and had a bitter taste in my mouth in the mornings. I also had attacks of rheumatism.

OLD MASTERS ARE FAKES.

Montreal, June 5—Justice Pennetton today decided that the "Old Masters" figuring in the recent cause celebre of Robillard De Mezuel vs. The Springfield and seven other insurance companies, are not old masters at all, and that, therefore, the claim of some $50,000 entered against the insurance companies to reimburse their owner for damage and loss by fire which was to a considerable extent unfounded.

His Lordship found that the plaintiff, De Mezuel, had suffered loss to theextent of $1,433.50, this amount being made up as follows: $992 cost of restoring and repairing the paintings injured in the fire; $40 covering the loss of two alleged Gobelins; $401 damage to the house furniture.

HOW TO PREVENT ACID STOMACHS AND FOOD FERMENTATION

By a Stomach Specialist.

As a specialist who has spent many years in the study and treatment of stomach troubles, I have been forced to the conclusion that most people who complain of stomach trouble possess stomachs that are absolutely healthy and normal. The real trouble, that which causes all the pain and difficulty, is acid in the stomach, usually due to, or aggravated by, food fermentation. Acid irritates the delicate lining of the stomach and food fermentation causes wind which distends the stomach abnormally, causing that full bloated feeling. Thus both acid and fermentation interfere with and retard the process of digestion. The stomach is usually healthy and normal, but irritated almost past endurance by these foreign elements — acid and wind. In all such cases — and they comprise over 90 per cent. of all stomach difficulties—the first and only step necessary is to neutralize the acid and stop the fermentation by taking in a little warm or cold water immediately after eating, from 1 to 2 teaspoonfuls bisurated magnesia, which is doubtless the best and only really effective antacid and food corrective known. The acid will be neutralized and the fermentation stopped almost instantly, and your stomach will at once proceed to digest the food in a healthy, normal manner. Be sure to ask your chemist for the bisurated magnesia, as I have found other forms utterly lacking in its peculiarly valuable properties—F. J. G.

There were no conferences today.

MEMORIAL SERVICES

Montreal, June 5.—Memorial services for Empress of Ireland victims who belonged to Montreal churches will be held Sunday night in Christ Church Cathedral, and in Emmanuel Congregational Church.

SUIT AGAINST McMARTINS

St. John's, Nfld., June 5.—The Supreme Court today decided unanimously in favor of the defendant in the action for $100,000 taken by the Job Brothers, merchants, against John McMartin, of Cornwall, Ont., the well known Cobalt millionaire, the amount being the final instalment of the purchase money of $400,000 for a lumber property on the Labrador coast.

The question turned on the validity of a note for $100,000. Job Brothers today took another action against McMartin for $126,000, and McMartin took a counter action for $300,000 against Job Brothers, being the amount already paid towards the purchase of the property.

FOR 10,000,000 COCKTAILS.

Contracts For That Number Of The Right Sort of Cherries.

Between 10 and 15 carloads of Royal Ann cherries grown in the Northwest have already been contracted for and will be prepared as maraschinos for immersion in cocktails throughout the country.

The Royal Ann is demanded exclusively for the maraschino trade, being a white cherry particularly adapted to the treatment necessary to give it the florid hue demanded by connoisseurs of the cocktail. The cherries go first to The Dalles, Ore., where they are treated and barrelled preliminary to genereal distribution to all parts of the country. At the head office of the distributors it was said the maraschkino manufacturers would take the entire Northwest Royal Ann cherry crop for their particular purpose.

The Royal Anns are packed usually in 16-quart crates, 800 in a car. A quart represents approximately 75 cherries, a crate 1,300 cherries and a car, roughly, 840,000 cherries.

NEW YORK CLOSING LETTER

Received over the private wire of McDougall & Cowan, Stock Brokers, 81 St. Peter St., Quebec. Tel. 246.

New York, June 5.—Total sales of stocks today were only 91,000 shares against 184,000 yesterday. All that can be said about the market is that sellers were a little scarcer than buyers and therefore prices advanced fractionally. A sudden demand for Lehigh, on which that stock rose over a point about 136 was the chief feature in the last hour. This buying was apparently due to shorts put out at the low levels of previous days. Texas Co. was also strong and active, moving up about a point to 141½. There was an improvement in C. P. R. The final tone of the market was firm. Government bonds were unchanged. Other bonds strong. Sales, 91,000; bonds, $1,994,500.

CRICKET MATCH VS. H.M.S. ESSEX

The Quebec Cricket Club will play a match this afternoon on the Plains of Abraham against a team from H. M. S. Essex.

The local club have been much weakened by the loss of their crack bowler, Delahunty, and none of the players have had any practice as yet, but they mean to make a bold bid for victory.

The Quebec team will be as follows: Ansell, Atlee, Chisnel, Gray, Macintyre, Massey (Capt.), Messias, Newton, Osborne, Thomas, and A. N. Other.

WANT SATISFACTION FOR BENTONS' DEATH

London, June 6—The Daily Express asserts that Sir Edward Grey, British Foreign Secretary, has notified President Wilson in friendly but unequivocal terms that if General Villa should become President of Mexico the British Government would demand and exact satisfaction for the murder of William S. Benton, who was killed last February by the Constitutionalists.

HUNDREDS OF CASES of Diabetes Cured

This startling statement can be readily corroborated by hundreds upon hundreds of letters received at this office telling of complete cures effected by.

"There is no question in my mind regarding the virtues of Sanol Antidiabetes, and I feel that a great blessing has been conferred upon suffering humanity by the discovery and use of this medicine."

The Association extends to the thousands of mourners their most heartfelt sympathy, and prays Almighty God to sustain them in their deep affliction.

FABRE IS SUSPENDED

Montreal, June 5.—The punishment meted out to Edouard Fabre for defying the Quebec branch of the Amateur Athletic Association of Canada by competing in a road race against James Duffy, winner of the Boston Marathon, at Kingston on June 3, while under suspension, was a year's suspension. Fabre was called before the registration committee at a meeting held in the M. A. A. A. clubhouse tonight and after being put through a cross-examination the above penalty was imposed on him.

The nominal charge against Fabre was club jumping, as he went from Montreal to Boston to run under the colors of the Richmond Athletic Club while he was registered with the Nationals.

HAZING IN GERMAN ARMY ❋ PARNELL'S LOVE AFFAIRS ❋ HEROINE

LOVE STORY OF PARNELL, FAMOUS IRISH LEADER

Book Written by His Widow, Katherine O'Shea, Gives Interesting Romance and Personal Disclosures Which Have All London Talking

(Special Dispatch.)

LONDON, June 6.

OF the several great political romances of the latter part of the nineteenth century there was none that gripped the British people like the love story of Charles Stewart Parnell, the Irish leader. For nearly a quarter of a century this romance, intrigue, or tragedy—for it is any or all of these according to the individual view of the observer or reader of history—has been more or less of an enigma. But the enigma is now solved by the publication of "Charles Stewart Parnell, His Love Story and Political Life," written by his widow, Katherine O'Shea.

The story which aroused such violent passions in the '80's stands forth in this book, nakedly revealed to the uttermost detail. After having read it most people will find it difficult to decide into which category the story falls—whether it is the romance of a great man who sacrificed everything for the love of a woman, an extraordinary intrigue in which politics and love were strangely mingled, or a tragedy of thwarted political ambitions. In any case, it is the history of a very remarkable couple, whose lives were closely interwoven with the stormy events of the beginning of the fight for home rule.

Of the political side of the book the greater part is well known history, illuminated by a flood of sidelight upon the negotiations between Parnell and Gladstone, which were carried on clandestinely by Mrs. O'Shea, who acted as go-between, and upon the intriguing for place and power which went on behind the political scenes. Of Parnell's leadership of the Irish party, his organization of the Land League, his imprisonment in Kilmainham Goal for six months, the Pigott letters, the Parnell commission, the libel action, and the suicide of Pigott—all these incidents are dealt with in the book, but its chief interest lies in the love story of Parnell and Mrs. O'Shea, as told, and most graphically told, by the latter.

How did it come about that a woman of more than thirty, married for thirteen years to a man of good family, with three charming children, well connected herself and possessing influencial friends, should fall under the influence of the ambitious, brilliant and apparently austere politician, and that the two should become so much to each other that the one deceived her husband and children for eleven years, while the other risked his reputation, his future and the fate of the country for which he had fought so long rather than abandon the liaison?

It was unquestionably a case of love at first sight. Mrs. O'Shea met Parnell for the first time at the House of Commons, whither she went to invite him to dinner:—

"In leaning forward in the cab to say goodby a rose I was wearing in my bodice fell out on to my skirt. He picked it up, and, touching it lightly with his lips, placed it in his buttonhole. This rose I found long years afterward done up in an envelope, with my name and the date, among his most private papers, and when he died I laid it upon his heart."

Parnell was then thirty-four, so that this was not a piece of boyish love dreaming. Three months later he was writing to her, "My own love." Even two months afterward, although addressing her as "My dear Mrs. O'Shea," he was telling her that he could not keep away from her any longer.

They met frequently, one of their favorite means of enjoying each other's society being to take long rides in hansom cabs. Almost from the very first Parnell made Mrs. O'Shea's house at Eltham his home, staying there whenever Captain O'Shea was away. On one occasion in the first year of their friendship Mrs. O'Shea hid him for a fortnight in a little boudoir leading out of her own room:—

"None of the servants knew he was there and I took all his food up at night, cooking little dainty dishes for him at the open fire, much to his pleasure and amusement."

Mrs. O'Shea took charge of all his papers. There were two which, fearing arrest, he could not carry on him. For these he had a hollow gold bracelet made, and after inserting the papers he screwed it on her arm, where it remained for three years. The ruses and subterfuges to which they resorted to keep their intimacy secret would provide material for half a dozen romantic novels. Either alone or with her, Parnell drove down to Eltham in a cab from the House of Commons nearly every night. She would often meet him at railway stations, waiting sometimes for hours on bleak platforms or in dismal waiting rooms. Before starting for Eltham they often had "coffee" at one of the night stalls. Scores of letters were exchanged between them, many intended to be shown to others and couched in formal language. Every night when he was not staying at her house he telegraphed her "good night."

In July, 1881, Captain O'Shea had suspicions about their relations and threatened to shoot Parnell. But a peace was patched up, and from this date, says Mrs. O'Shea, "Parnell and I were one, without further scruple, without fear, and without remorse." But in the same chapter she says:—

"I had fought against our love; but Parnell would not fight, and I was alone. I had urged my children and his work, but he answered me:—'For good or ill, I am your husband, your lover, your children, your all. And I will give my life to Ireland, but to you I give my love, whether it be your heaven or your hell. It is destiny. When I first looked into your eyes I knew.'

"Never once in all these years," she adds, did he fail me or leave the place of appointment before I came, even though it might mean the loss of the mail train to Ireland, and leaving some thousands of people waiting in vain for the speech he was too far away to make."

Great Newspaper War Is On in London

"LORD NORTHCLIFFE SITTING IN ADORATION BEFORE LORD BURNHAM"

LONDON newspaperdom is hypnotized by the great war now on between the dual alliance of the Times and the Daily Mail on one side and the Daily Telegraph on the other.

The Times began it. That fact is incontrovertible. Still, it was rather a surprise to find the Times turning its guns on the Daily Telegraph and scouting the Telegraph's circulation statements.

Only a few months ago Lord Northcliffe was the central figure in a great complimentary movement to honor Lord Burnham, the proprietor of the Daily Telegraph. Lord Northcliffe made speeches laudatory of Lord Burnham's beneficent influence on British journalism, and it was impossible to open an illustrated newspaper without finding a photograph of Lord Northcliffe sitting in adoration before Lord Burnham, the Nestor of the British press, while Lord Northcliffe's publications, among them the Times and the Daily Mail, vied with each other in placing the Daily Telegraph on a pedestal.

Now the same publications are vying with each other to knock the pedestal from under the Daily Telegraph and are scolding the Telegraph for what they call "its erroneous and grotesque statements and its evasive tactics regarding its circulation" and generally showing a violent hostility.

The change in Lord Northcliffe's attitude toward the Daily Telegraph is so complete that London is watching the great fight with breathless interest.

EMPEROR TAKES A HAND TO STOP HAZING OF RECRUITS

Severe Punishment Meted Out to Men Who Practise Cruelties on Young Soldiers, and Situation Is Regarded as Grave.

(Special Dispatch.)

BERLIN, June 6.

THE question of cruelty to recruits in the German army is once more engaging public attention. Both the recent speech in the Reichstag of the Minister of War, General Falkenhayn, and a trial on appeal of a couple of cuirassier guards at Potsdam have brought the matter potently to notice again. General Falkenhayn adopted the usual attitude of the Prussian Minister of War in making out that cases of cruelty were less grave and less frequent than generally alleged, but later in the speech he surprised his hearers by announcing that the Emperor had once more intervened in person in hopes of abating these disagreeable affairs.

In his annual (confidential) address to commanding generals, too, he made a very pressing appeal for sterner measures of suppression. It was a strange coincidence that a few days before there had been a serious incident, involving a protest to the Imperial Government from the French Ambassador, arising from the German campaign against the French Foreign Legion, and that, a few days later, there should be an appeal by the prosecuting counsel against two otherwise rather sharp sentences against a couple of cuirassier guards. This case had been by no means particularly severe. The two men had come back to the barracks late at night under the influence of liquor. They had then routed the younger recruits out of their beds, and had made them stand, sleepy and shivering, on the tops of their cupboards and there sing comic songs. Some had been rather roughly knocked about with the flat of the sabres. One, indeed, was wounded on the shoulder and cut in the face. Though intoxicated, the two accused were well able to distinguish between the rooms occupied by the seniors and those occupied by the new recruits.

The prosecutor, indeed, made a point of this, and at the first trial the chief culprit was sentenced to two months and his assistant to four weeks' imprisonment. But the prosecution did not consider this exemplary enough. At the trial on appeal sentences of as much as six months and eleven weeks were asked for by the prosecuting counsel. Surprise would have been universal had such sentences been passed, even though the general opinion is that the prosecutor was quite right in saying that unless examples are made it is like tilting at the windmills to attempt to put an end to exaggerated "ragging" of young recruits. The court actually did increase the sentences.

Public opinion is curious to know whether this case is to establish a precedent. For the matter of cruelty to soldiers is a grave one in many ways. In the recent debate in the Reichstag on the military estimates a socialist member stated that the number of suicides in the army between 1879 and 1910 was 10,439, and that in the same period there had been 2,333 unsuccessful attempts to commit suicide. General Falkenhayn did not refute these figures, but argued that since they amounted to only .43 per thousand among the military element, and the figure for civilians between 20 and 25 and .36 per thousand, they did not bear the very grave interpretation that was placed upon them.

But be this as it may, it is admitted by all who look into the matter that the severity and cruelty of non-commissioned officers and, as in this case, of older recruits, are the most important factor in providing about a couple of thousand soldiers for service under the tri-color in the Foreign Legion. And if General Falkenhayn, by taking up a strong position against cruel treatment and by mildly disowning some of the more discreditable methods employed for provoking German national feeling against the Foreign Legion, has these couple of thousand men in view he can count on making some real progress. He may help, at least, in producing a more objective attitude toward the question. And this alone would be an appreciable gain for the peaceful councils of Europe.

A very tempestuous and unscrupulous campaign has recently been carried on in Germany, which logically amounts to interference in the internal affairs of another country. Indeed, the campaign has gone so far that few can believe that the Foreign Legion is not the only organization of its kind in the world, and that it is not almost exclusively constituted of Germans, whereas reliable information shows that Holland has also such a foreign contingent (and even proposes to enlarge it), that Italy and Spain are considering the formation of similar bodies, and that, all in all, the German element in the Foreign Legion is scarcely more than 18 per cent of the whole.

AMERICAN DANCERS BRING MANY NOVELTIES TO PARIS

(Special Dispatch.)

PARIS, June 6.

THE invasion of Paris by American dancers is becoming evident, and soon the American hesitation waltz and the one-step will be danced as they were never danced in Paris before.

In addition to the dances of the "Fin-de-Semaine" Club, which are taking place at the Hotel Majestic, another American dancing scheme is being set forth in Paris. Scarcely more than in its embryo at present, it is promising to fulfil the demand for more American dancing.

Mrs. R. W. Hawkesworth, of New York, arrived a few weeks ago with her daughter Margaret and Mr. Basil Durant. Miss Hawkesworth and Mr. Durant have been the fashionable exponents of dancing in New York, Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, Richmond, Newport and other Eastern cities for the last year.

Mrs. Hawkesworth is a well known figure in New York and Newport society and in the dancing world in general. While it is her daughter who does the dancing, it is under Mrs. Hawkesworth's management that so many balls have been arranged with such success that they have become talked of the world over. It is Mrs. Hawkesworth who furnishes the novelties for the balls given by Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish in Newport every years and for Mrs. Arthur Curtiss James' entertainments.

Among the entertainments Mrs. Hawkesworth has arranged are:—The Blue Garden Fête of last summer, the Mother Goose ball and the Italian dinner given by Mrs. E. T. Stotesbury, of Philadelphia. She was also responsible for the "thés dansants" at the Plaza Hotel and the McAlpin Hotel, in New York.

Mrs. Hawkesworth told your correspondent she had learned that Paris had taken up the hesitation waltz only this season and was "mad" about it. As she wanted to come to Europe to search for novelties for her Newport entertainments for this season, especially for Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish's Flower ball, for which she is already engaged, she decided to join the force of those endeavoring to answer the call for American dances in Paris.

Mrs. Hawkesworth said:—"I have been in Paris scarcely a fortnight, and can already see that there is a tremendous field for our dancing. I have cabled for my band of negroes, and they are now on the ocean, and we expect to give Paris some negro ragtime such as it has never had before. Of course, there are negroes and negroes, but there is only one 'Europe,' and 'Europe' and his ragtime orchestra will arrive in Paris next week. 'Europe' is the negro who is described in New York as 'the man who put time into ragtime.'"

COUNTESS AS GARDEN EXPERT.

(Special Dispatch.)

LONDON, June 6.

THE Countess of Warwick, who is an enthusiastic amateur gardener, has decided to practise garden planning professionally. Some French friends asked her recently to plan certain Mediterranean gardens, and, delighted with the results, urged her to take up the work in earnest.

She has selected a staff of women assistants from Studley Castle, in Warwickshire, the college for women gardeners that she established some years ago. Women will be employed exclusively on the work, and everything, from the earliest plan to the last piece of planting, will be done under the direction of Lady Warwick.

A MODERN ST. FRANCIS

(Special Dispatch.)

LONDON, June 6.

"I AM seeking personal poverty and the simplest kind of life, and also an unorganized and irregular form of preaching—a kind of wayside sowing of the seed."

This is an extract from a letter written to his congregation by the Rev. E. W. Lewis, pastor of the King's Weigh House Church, in announcing his resignation of the pastorate, which is worth $3,000 a year.

The letter was written from Assisi, associated with St. Francis, who also was a preacher who sought poverty. In his letter, which is printed in the "Christian Commonwealth," Mr. Lewis said also:—

"I have often asked myself at the close of a Sunday whether I myself were prepared to do what in my sermon I had been urging you to do. * * *

"I have felt for some time the incongruity between the position of being a man of God and the position of being a comparatively highly salaried, comfortably conditioned official in organized religion."

MORGANATIC MARRIAGE OF PRINCE OSCAR MAY BE OF BENEFIT TO DUCHESS OF CROY

Berlin Believes That Now That the Kaiser and Kaiserin Have Smiled Upon the Love Match of Their Son the House of Croy May Do Likewise in the Case of Their Son, Who Wedded the American Miss Nancy Leishman.

(Special Dispatch.)

BERLIN, June 6.

OF the current subjects of conversation for the week the first was rain. It has poured for about four days, and overcoats are the order of the day, the weather being unseasonable and chilly. The second topic that everybody in society talks of is the coming morganatic marriage of the fifth son of the Kaiser, Prince Oscar, to the beautiful and highly intelligent Countess Ina von Lassewitz. She is tall and slight, with auburn hair and soft brown eyes. She is a fine horsewoman and a highly skilled musician. Far from opposing the marriage, the Kaiser and Kaiserin, especially the latter, very much favor it, as both believe in their children marrying for love, and as Prince Oscar's choice is essentially of that order his way is easy, naturally.

Now that there is to be a morganatic marriage in the imperial house, it is thought by those interested that it will have an effect upon the Croy marriage, and that the example of the Kaiser and Kaiserin will be followed by those of the Croy family who are so opposed to a recognition of the once Miss Leishman as the Duchess of Croy.

In the theatrical world a great fuss has been made over the anniversary of Rosa Poppe's twenty-fifth year as the Royal Prussian court actress.

I hear that she has made up her mind to make a tour of America, beginning next January. This has long been her wish, but Count Hulsen Haeseler, the intendent of the Royal Theatre, would not agree. However, at last she has been granted a six months' holiday, and Frau Poppe will give to the new world her rendering of "Mary Stuart," by Schiller; Goethe's "Iphigenie," Mede's "Sappho," by Grill Parzer, and "Brunehilde and the Nibelungen," by Hebbel. She is conversant with English and will play in that language.

The tide of Americans is well on its way to Berlin, and already the steamships have brought goodly loads, filling the hotels. This incoming of Americans is a perfect godsend to Berlin, for it occurs just at the moment when the German element leaves the hotels empty during June.

Last season—to give an idea of this movement—more than six thousand Americans registered at the hotels here, and each year their number largely increases.

Major Langhorne and Captain Gherardi have been appointed delegates from the United States to the International Congress for the Olympic Games, to be held in Paris this month.

Before going to Paris Major Langhorne expects to attend the military contests in Berlin by imperial command at the Grunewald Stadium.

WOMEN AS DENTISTS.

(Special Dispatch.)

LONDON, June 6.

THE prospect of a new profession for women is afforded by the appointment by the Huddersfield Education Committee of a woman dentist at a salary of $1,250 per annum.

"Such an appointment is not at all surprising," remarked Mr. L. A. Harwood, medical superintendent of the National Dental Hospital and College, Great Portland street West, to your representative. "Women who take up the profession show considerable aptitude for the work; but so far not many have been attracted to it. This may be partly due to the fact that, so far as this country is concerned, it is only during the last few years that women have been admitted to the examinations of the Royal College of Surgeons in England; and at present there are only two who have got the L. D. S. of that institution.

"At present we have five girl students in training here—ours being the only dental institution in London which admits female students. So far the professional practice of female dentists appears to be chiefly of a private character, with the exception of appointments in schools and one or two small hospital clinics. Generally speaking, their patients, a believe, are women and children."

NOVEL SUGGESTION OF A FRENCH DEPUTY

(Special Dispatch.)

PARIS, June 6.

AN amusing proposal, half in jest, half in earnest, has been made by one of the newly elected representatives of France in her Parliament. He states that if properly dealt with the popular habit of duelling might be made a very profitable one to the State and might indeed add another $5,000,000 or so to her annual revenue. He intends to call the attention of the Chamber to this novel point.

He argues that the modern French duel is little more than a form of advertisement and that it should be taxed like all other forms of publicity. Funerals, he points out, are a State monopoly, and the cost of an interment ranges from $10 to $2,500, according to the class selected, and he suggests that duels should also be divided into classes and taxed on a gradually ascending scale. The fee for a duel in the highest class should be $400.

Critics of the proposal, appreciating the humor of the suggestion, point out that it could be rendered more profitable still to the State were steps taken to insist that a duel follow every challenge, or that if the arbitrators consider a duel is unnecessary the challenger shall pay a fine, while if the challenged party declines to fight he shall pay a greater proportion of the tax than the challenger.

HUMANITY CARD INDEX

(Special Dispatch.)

LONDON, June 6.

A PAPER was read before the Royal Statistical Society the other day by Mr. Walter Hazell on a proposed system of officially registering the details of the lives of every individual in the kingdom, compared with which the inquisitorial methods of the Insurance Act pales into insignificance and the glare of publicity in the divorce court is merely twilight.

Briefly, Mr. Hazell's scheme is to card index at Somerset House the life history and family connections of every boy and girl born in this country, and later perhaps in any other country.

No one could be married, have children, be divorced, remarried, leave the country, change his name, go blind or mad or do many other things without producing his index number and having the event duly recorded on his card, which would be kept for ever and ever, for the inspection of his friends and enemies and all generations to come.

The scheme was considerably criticised. It was pointed out that the chief difficulty would be in persuading people to remember their numbers. It would almost be safest to have them printed on their visiting cards.

FRANCE'S HEROINE OF THE RAILROAD SIGNAL BOX

(Special Dispatch.)

PARIS, June 6.

A STORY of dramatic heroism, reading like a tragic melodrama, is told in the newspapers here in describing the murder of a pointsman named Poullain while he was on duty on the line from St. Denis to Epernay, on the main Paris-Chantilly line.

Poullain, who was aged fifty-one, lived with his wife and another family in a small cottage close to his signal box, at Pierrefitte, about fifteen miles from Paris, and both of the Poullains were certificated servants of the company. These boxes are only entrusted to tried employes, as the express service by day and night is almost perpetual, requiring unceasing vigilance. The work was shared between Poullain and his wife, and soon after three in the morning, the woman hearing a cry, ran down and found her husband lying on the threshold just able to say:—"Help! I am being murdered."

Shouting aloud, she began to attend Poullain, when she heard the semaphore bell giving warning of the approaching 3:09 train, and, leaving her dying husband, she rushed to save the lives of the passengers by working the points, which she alone now understood. The whole time she continued crying at the top of her voice, and she saw first their son and then the neighbors come out and pick up the wounded man, but though half heart-broken and shaken with sobs, she remained at her post for the passage of the Calais boat train, due at 3:30.

This she stopped, and Poullain, unconscious but still breathing, was placed on board and conveyed to Paris, while his heroic wife refused to quit the levers till six in the morning, when finally she was relieved by another signalman. It was only then that the poor creature broke down in a long fainting fit, and as soon as she recovered she took train to see her husband, whom she found dead.

The magistrates and police hurried to the spot, and they have already arrested several suspicious characters, but without much evidence. The signal box where the crime was committed is an ordinary small brick and wooden structure, and the assassin evidently prowled about outside waiting till, as the book showed, Poullain had worked the points at five minutes past three and returned inside. Probably he then rested a revolver on the window sill, from which the distance is not much more than a yard, and the bullet went in under the man's life eyebrow and out behind the right ear, ricochetting twice on the wall behind. Both the box and the cottage are in a very lonely position, surrounded by a spinney of acacia trees, and with no houses near. As soon as he shot Poullain the criminal must have taken flight, and never entered the box. Neither the wife nor the neighbors offer any reasonable conjecture as to the motive of this murder, unless it be a case of a mistaken victim, Poullain paying for somebody else.

The extraordinary courage and almost sublime devotion of the wife in taking her dying husband's place and leaving others to tend his last moments will stand high among the records of heroism claimed for the humble servants of the public.

ROMANCE AND FORTUNE IN A WRECKED STEAMER

(Special Dispatch.)

LONDON, June 6.

THREE months ago a tramp steamer named the Jane Rowe piled herself up on Bolt Tail, between Plymouth and Dartmouth, so successfully as to defy every effort to refloat her. She was loaded with 3,000 tons of iron ore, which did not add to her buoyancy.

After a thorough survey of the damaged vessel, the frowning rocks, and the restless Atlantic, the insurance agents recommended that the ship and cargo be sold as they lay. At the sale Mr. George Turner, a marine store dealer, of Plymouth, with a fine assumption of indifference, offered $1,250 for the lot—and secured it.

Then, with a quiet chuckle, he went to see what he had bought. The weather being fine, he lost no time in removing everything movable. Anchors, chains, riding lights and such like trifles he computes will recoup his speculation.

Engines and boilers will be worth a considerable sum, and no one knows better than Mr. Turner how to obtain full value for the scrap iron to which he proposes to reduce the hull.

The cargo claimed his particular attention. The words iron ore have a peculiar fascination for a marine store dealer, and 3,000 tons, estimated to be worth $5 a ton, appeared a fine prize.

The hatches were lifted, and Mr. Turner dropped down upon the cold, wet contents of the hold. He looked long and earnestly at the yellowish rubble, but said nothing, except to order half a ton of it to be put ashore.

This half ton was secretly and mysteriously sent to be assayed. It proved to be heavily veined with copper, and was estimated to be worth $80 a ton.

This week forty men in lighters will attack the stranded steamer. They will be able to work only at certain states of the tide, but Mr. Turner recognizes the value of incentive. All the powers of persuasion which lie within ten shillings per day and the best of victuals are being extended to each of these forty men.

CLOSING MARKET LETTERS

Received by Breen & Gourdeau, Stock Brokers, 63 St. Peter St., and 6 Sault au Matelot.

Today's session of the stock market was one of decided dullness, the price changes extremely small and the volume of business handled was so contracted as to rank among the low record days. The absence of public participation and the waiting attitude so long identified in stock market circles, were never more pronounced. General conditions are unchanged, and the inclination to await the disposition of the rate case and developments in Mexico before assuming a market position is indicated on all sides. We continue to favor the long side on setbacks, however.

Sales to 3 p. m., stocks, 91,552; bonds, $1,994,560.

Boston, June 5.—The market today was very quiet and speculation narrow. Tone, however, continues firm, but the trading element not inclined to do much pending the freight rate decision which is expected some time next week and we believe a reasonable increase will be granted in which case higher prices would be assured.

Chicago, June 5.—Wheat has held steady, largely on the old wheat situation. There has been about one million wheat cancelled to go out here past three day and charters for 250,000 bushels again today. All markets report good business. We would not sell wheat on any weak places, waiting for bulges until the situation is a little better defined and clearer.

Corn—Considerable of a waiting market in corn. Early prices were higher and many longs sold out on the bulge. Country sales have been light again, also consignments, but the southwest appears to be taking less corn than usual and has not been showing up as well as usual. Crop conditions favorable, but stocks are decreasing and one must sell only on the bulges.

Oats—Oats started out lower and have ruled rather heavy all day, because of the rains over best producing area and indications of more to follow. There has been a great deal of selling because of this. Much of it was from local elevators, but some came from outside dealers. Sales reported, 320,000 bushels.

CLOSING MARKET LETTER

Received over the private wire of Neuville Belleau & Co., Brokers, 93 St. Peter St., Quebec.

New York, June 5.—Changes in the market today are negligible and trading has been very dull. Prices continue to hold a steady level. In the absence of any special developments, and there have been very few of late, the market jogs along waiting for something that will give a line on the future. The most encouraging expectation for the moment is that we may soon get a decision in the railroad rate case, and the Congress will adjourn.

The demand for good investment securities shows some improvement, based on the condition of the money market, and it is said that the new issue of St. Paul bonds is being well taken. Such a tendency could easily overflow into the stock market if anything of an encouraging character occurred.

S. AFRICA TO GET RELIEF IN TARIFF

PROPOSED CHARGES WOULD MATERIALLY DECREASE COST OF LIVING.

Capetown, June 5—The new tariff about to be introduced in Parliament by Gen. Smuts, minister of finance, is notable first for the absolute rejection of all tariff changes likely to increase the cost of living, and secondly, for its frank acceptance of the principle that tariffs should be used for the encouragement of local industries. The exceptional circumstances now obtaining in South Africa discount all ordinary high protection arguments The cost of living is higher than in any other civilized country. The argument of free traders that this is due to the existing tariffs is not borne out by the facts. One of the chief causes of the sparsity of population is the distance between markets and the length and cost of transportation. Another cause is the high rents, those in Capetown, for example, being double those existing in Manchester and Birmingham. This is attributed by the Economic Commission to local causes

The fact of the extremely high cost of living is, however, undeniable, and the government therefore holds that a tariff increasing it would do more harm than good to local industries, more especially as the country can not hope for many years yet to be independent of the importation of many commodities of necessity for general utility. Gen. Smuts takes the point of view that free food is not an axiomatic principle, but that a tariff policy depends upon local requirements. He has therefore rejected the main recommendations of the Cullinan commission, which reported in favor of a general increase of protection, including the duties on wheat, flour, sugar, tea, boots, shoes, clothing and furniture. Mr. Macintosh, the chairman of the minority, estimated the cost of these increases to the consumers at $5,000,000 annually. These were rejected wholesale by Gen. Smuts.

The proposed increases in the duties affecting the cost of living are only trifling, and it is not unlikely that they will be abandoned. There are increased duties for revenue on plate, jewelry, motor spirit and a few other commodities. The increase most likely to affect English exporters is that on high-class confectionery. While it is intended chiefly for revenue, this increase is likely to tell heavily in favor of South African chocolate makers. Local industries are also favored by the additional sixpense per pound on imported cigarettes and manufactured tobacco and the increase in the duties on leather manufactures, except shoes, and on saddlery and bespoke clothing.

The encouragement of local industries, however, is chiefly to be secured by reductions of the duties on raw material and partly manufactured goods. Thus the tariff indicates which nascent industries the government considers worth while fostering. The duties are deduced on raw cocoa, amber for pipes, hair for brooms and brushes, canvas for tents and sails, saddlery and harness, furniture, dye stuffs and unrefined glycerine. The tariff changes are in no way revolutionary. Except in the case of those specially for revenue, they are generally downward in tendency, but they are brased on a frank recognition of the utility of tariffs for fostering home industries. The protective effect of reducing the duty on raw material, while not changing the duty on the finished article, is equivalent to raising the duty on the finished article. The new tariff has been well received.

PEACE ESSAY WANTED.

The Church Peace Union, endowed recently by Andrew Carnegie with $2,000,000, announces money prizes for ministers, any religious body, for young women and young men, and for Sunday-school pupils, and it has just voted $10,000 for the expense of a World Peace Conference to be held this summer, either in London or Berne. The prize open to ministers, is $1,000 for a monograph on any phase of international peace preferably 15,000 words long. It must be 10,000 words at least, and must not exceed 20,000. The Union hopes to obtain in this way a monograph that it may find worth printing for general distribution, possibly translation into several languages. Three prizes of $500, $3,000 and $200 are offered for monographs on the same subject, not to exceed 5000 words, written by students in theological schools.

The Union proposes to distribute $3,000 in the prizes to young men and young women, and the Sunday-School pupils. These are to be for essays, but fuller announcements of conditions are to be made later. It is stated that invitations to 20 American clergymen of various religious bodies, are to be extended to go to England, Germany and Switzerland, possibly to some parts of the United States, expenses to be paid by the Union, to speak in behalf of world peace, and the co-operation of the peoples of the nations named to make that peace permanent. The purpose of this invitation by the Union is to make larger use of churches in the interest of peace. The headquarters of the Union, located temporarily in the Bible House, New York, are to be removed at once to the new educational building in lower Fifth avenue in that city. —Boston Transcript.

The Car of The Canadian Family

Completly Equipped
With Electric Starter and Lights, Oversize Tires Demountable Rims, $1380.

Next Spring—Not This!

How will you feel next Spring about the car you buy this Spring?

That's the one, the all-important question.

Will it wear as a Hupmobile wears, and run as a Hupmobile runs, after twelve months of persistent pounding?

Will the motor be the same sweet-running, mellow motor the Hup long-stroke motor is in its second, its third, and its fourth season?

We ask for the purpose of pointing out the marked characteristic that makes people buy Hup after Hup—or use the same Hup, season after season.

Service—Low Cost Service

That characteristic is long-continued, apparently everlasting service—and the consistent low cost of that service.

That's the service from which Hupmobile reputation springs; the service that has made the Hupmobile "The Car of the Canadian Family."

That's why Hup owners are our most successful salesmen.

And isn't that quality what you must consider, first and last, in any car?

How will a lower price compensate you, a year from now, for a worn, shabby down-at-the-heel car, which you are compelled to sell for a song?

How will a neat, natty exterior this Spring compensate you for a broken-down interior next Spring?

Continuous service at a lower cost and a higher price when you want to sell at second hand*—that's what makes Hup owners loyal to the car.

Think this Spring of next Spring, think of the one hundred thousandth mile and not the ten thousandth—and your investigation will surely bring you to the choice of the Hupmobile.

GLIMPSES OF OLD QUEBEC

From the Files of The CHRONICLE, May, 1884 and 1914.

A HUNDRED YEARS AGO TODAY

Quebec, May 30th, 1814.

Most sincerely do we offer our congratulations to our readers, on the momentous and happy change which has taken place in Europe. A change for which the world is indebted to the persevering struggles of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and latterly by the noble stand made by the Emperor Alexander of Russia and his skillful Generals, whose successful defence against the most powerful army the universe ever witnessed, within the knowledge of the present generation of man, had the effect of detaching the other European Powers from the confederacy formed by the ambitious usurper of the throne of France. Of the deposed usurper we shall only further say: "That like a poor-player, he has strutted his hour and is heard no more, and that he—when dead and turn'd to clay, may stop a hole to keep the wind away.

When the Americans see Their Error.

When the American government shall have been brought to a proper sense of its error in making war with Great Britain, particularly at the period at which it was declared, we shall be as desirous of contemplating the future prosperity of the United States as that of the European nations; but contrition and reparation must form the basis of such a sense of their wrong, such as the invasion of these provinces of Canada, without provocation.

WHEN BABY SUFFERS FROM CONSTIPATION

Mothers, if your baby suffers from constipation, if his little stomach or bowels are out of order give him Baby's Own Tablets. They never fail to give relief and an occasional dose will banish constipation and keep the stomach and bowels in perfect order. Concerning the Tablets, Mrs. J. H. Gagnon, St. Simon, Que., write: "I cannot recommend Baby's Own Tablets too highly as a cure for constipation as I have found them the very best medicine in the world for this trouble." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Only two prisoners, charged with drunkenness, appeared before the Recorder yesterday. They were discharged.

THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Consular Appointment.

Readers of The Chronicle 30 years ago, will recall with many other reminiscences of Quebec the firm of D. and J. Maguire, ship owners. This firm was prominent in Quebec 30 or more years ago, at this time 30 years ago James Maguire was appointed Consul for the Argentine Republic at this port, from which Republic he sent several reports of the conditions prevailing in that country to correspondents in Quebec City.

Prices 30 Years Ago.

Owing to the fact that the many complaints which our housewives have to make regarding the high price of articles of household necessities, we beg to quote at this time, 1914, the prices prevailing thirty years ago:

Beef, 11c to 12c per pound.
Veal, 10c to 12c per pound.
Fresh Pork, 9c to 10c per pound.
Barrel of Flour, $2.50 to $2.70.
Chickens, per pair, 75c.
Cordwood, $2.60 to $3.70, according to the length.

Is it any wonder that the citizens of Quebec 30 years ago were in a better position financially than they are at the present time, when all kinds of food stuffs is nearly doubled, not to consider rents, fuel, etc., and salaries in many instances have stood still.

EUROPE TO BE ISLAND, GERMAN GEOLOGIST SAYS.

Great Crevasses Will Separate Nations of Continent, Herr Golsche Predicts.

Berlin, June 5.—A curious prophecy as to the eventual fate of Europe is made by a well-known geologist, Herr Golsche, in one of the scientific reviews. He points out that since a certain period great crevasses have been produced in the Continent, and that thus Iceland and Greenland were separated from Scandivania and a channel formed between England and the rest of Europe.

The tendency to the formation of crevasses, he adds, still exists, and the day may be foreseen when the sea will penetrate into the Ural regions, and then spread from Lake Ural northward across the Kirghe Steppes to the mouth of the Obi River, and the Arctic, thus making Europe an island.

AT NIAGARA.

Here, where the world-thought centers, while glad Spring
Reclothes the ancient earth with leaf and bloom,
Where majesty o'erawes man's puny mind,
May Wisdom's light pervade the fateful room!
May heaven-sent tongues of fire descend again
To rest on each with Understanding's power,
With counsel, fortitude, a broadened sight,
May Judgment each with prudence, ruth, endower!
Countless the prayers from anguished, anxious hearts,
That their determining be speedy, sure;
That in blest harmony, forbearance, truth,
They frame a compact fitted to endure.
And not alone from quiet homes obscure
Go forth the hopes that Justice reign as law,
But from the tented field, the armored ship—
They best love Peace who know the cost of War!

LOCOMOTOR ATAXIA, HEART TROUBLE AND NERVOUS SPELLS YIELDED TO DR. CHASE'S PERVE FOOD

It would be easy to tell you how Dr. Chase's Nerve Food cures locomotor ataxia and derangements of heart and nerves, but it may be more satisfactory to you to read this letter:

Mrs. Thos. Allan, R.F.D. 3, Sombra Ont., writes: "Five years ago I suffered a complete breakdown and frequently had palpitation of the heart. Since that illness I have had dizzy spells, had no power over my limbs (locomotor ataxia,) and could not walk straight. At night I would have severe nervous spells, with heart palpitation, and would shake as though I had the ague. I felt improvement after using the first box of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and after continuing the treatment can now walk, eat and sleep well, have no nervous spells and do not require heart medicine. I have told several of my neighbors of the splendid results obtained from the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food."

QUEBEC'S SPLENDID OPPORTUNITIES

The Gateway of Eastern Canada

Quebec the Gateway of Eastern Canada and the natural geographical centre and railroad terminal, is about to take its place as the chief port of Canada, and to become again what it was in the past, the key of commerce of half a continent.

Quebec has not received its just share of the prosperity of the country and in the last decade, although it has increased slightly in population, owing to the poor railroad facilities and the more or less antiquated condition of the harbor and of course partly to internal reasons, the manufacturing and the employment of labor generally has not had a big increase.

During the last few years, however, the growing need of a modern port at Quebec fitted to meet the most exacting needs of the present day shipping, and with corresponding railroad facilities to feed this port, has been felt by the authorities at Ottawa.

The Government's programme for equipping Quebec as a great national port includes, besides the present new and modern Custom offices and warehouses and Emigration Department to handle the ever increasing flow of emigrants which pass through this port, the complete modernizing of the harbor front, a great deal of which is now under construction. The dredging of the St. Charles River for six miles and the placing of two 600 foot docks will make a canal of the River and facilities for manufacturing along its banks second to none on this continent. In addition they have supplemented this, providing the port with the largest dry dock in the world, and are figuring on a large ship-building industry to be located at its door.

Quebec is Canada's deep-water terminal and each year owing to economic reasons, ships are becoming larger and larger and the latest records show water in the channel above Quebec to be 18 inches lower than previous low records. Steamship Companies are beginning to appreciate this.

The C. P. R. foresaw it some years ago and now other large steamship companies are bidding for terminals here.

The Quebec and Lake St. John Railway as well as the James Bay railroad are entering the vast Northern hinterland, with its untold wealth and particularly opening up what is known to be the greatest pulpwood area in the world and of which Quebec is the centre. From the fast increasing number of uses that paper is put to, and from tariff conditions this area bids fair to be exploited with a rapidity previously unequalled.

Although the great national expenditure and opening up of trade facilities at Quebec Port is only being felt this year, the prosperity of a prosperous country has been reflected on it, and statistics show the following:—

Quebec Facts.

The greater part of the 500,000 emigrants who come to us each year pass through this port.

Quebec.—Bank Clearances show:
In 1902 ..... $ 72,529,153
In 1912 158,760,185
—Increase 117 per cent. in 10 years.

Quebec.—Harbor Returns:—
In 1901 ..... 1,213,168 tons
In 1912 ..... 2,517,723 tons.
—Increase 107 per cent. in 10 years.

Quebec.—Permits for Buildings:—
To Oct. 31, 1912..... $ 908,890
To Oct. 31, 1913..... 1,829,080
—Increase 102 per cent, in one year.

Quebec.—Incorporated Companies having Head Office in Quebec.
In 1912 126
In 1913 194
—Increase 54 per cent. in one year.

Quebec.—Imports and Exports:—
In 1901 ..... $11,792,751
In 1913 23,089,931
—Increase 100 per cent. in 10 years.

Quebec.—Increase in Value of Products of its Factories during the last 10 years amounted to $792,013,652, or 121 per cent.

The following is a list of the estimated expenditures during the next five years; the greater part of which is already under way:—

Harbor Improvements	$20,000,000
Quebec Bridge	10,000,000
New Buildings	15,000,000
New Dry Dock, Levis.....	7,000,000
Grain Elevators	5,000,000
Railway Terminals	4,000,000

The growing need of the City is evidenced in the large addition to the post office, the building of immense union passenger and freight depots on the site of the present C.P.R. station and Old Champlain Market and in the construction of another aqueduct to supply the increased demands for water.

The improvements are so far reaching the moderizing of the Harbor front together with the railroad facilities simultaneously realized should make Quebec one of the world's leading ports, which is also expected shortly to be the winter port. The whole of Quebec Province south of the St. Lawrence, which has been practically denied as a market to manufacturers here on account of transportation competition will be opened to them by the Quebec Bridge and partly before by Car Ferry, this will allow five established roads entry into the city viz: Quebec Central, Grand Trunk, Intercolonial, Deleware & Hudson and Portland and Rumford Falls Ry. The Grand Trunk Pacific alone, should be a wonderful boost to Quebec as by its road to Quebec it is 1352 miles from Winnipeg and Montreal is 1398 miles from Winnipeg, a difference from 100 to 150 miles closer to the Western wheatfields than Montreal, and with its gradients which will greatly increase the tonnage per train, will materially lessen the cost of transportation and the time element.

Owing to the great amount of public works going on, a large increase in property values will naturally be expected. At St. Malo and Little River adjoining the Grand Trunk Pacific Workshops which will employ 3,000 men and are a duplicate of the "Transcona Shops" at Winnipeg is causing a great activity in this section and land values are rapidly increasing as evidenced by The Van Dyke Land Company one of the best known real estate firms in Quebec, placing its new subdivision "Vandykeville" on the market. Although this subdivision has only been on sale for ten months, already streets are made, water, sewers, electric lights and telephones are introduced, and residences are built.

In this vicinity also, the Militia Department have started construction of large arsenal and ammunition factories, also the re-constsuction of the Ross rifle factory, which will employ over 800 men.

In Limoilou Ward a large packing plant and abattoir plant is located, and the Canadian Northern shops there, have made it grow from a meadow to a city in four years, and has greatly enhanced the value of its real estate, and made immense profits to investors in that locality.

PARC JACQUES CARTIER

Le Parc Jacques Cartier Limited, which have on the market splendid prosperity either for investment or building. Their lots are situated in the city, Limoilou Ward, which is phenomenaly growing bigger from day to day and is situated a few minutes walk from Drouin Bridge, near the St. Charles River.

The Parc Jacques Cartier lots offer all the conveniences of the heart of the city like water, sewers, electricity, telephone, police, firemen, etc.

Picture, at no distant date, the Valley of the St. Charles, with its sloping banks and navigable water, using the unlimited stores of electric energy and being connected by water and rail with all parts of the wold,—and a great manufacturing centre. Great flour mills, pulp and paper industries, steel and iron foundries and car plants will spring up, as well as the hundreds of smaller manufacturies that use the bye-products and follow in the wake of the greater industries.

The Levis Dry Dock Company represented by Daoust Realty, Ltd., which have a splendid subdivision opposite the new dock at Lauzon have made wonderful developments opening up streets 50 ft. wide, laying down sidewalks and it is their intention in the near future to install all modern improvements.

In view of the fact what a great boom this new Dry Dock will mean for Lauzon many wide awake investors have taken advantage of this opportunity, and houses will be in construction inside of a few weeks as building permits have already been issued, demands for housing the large number of laborers which will be employed by the Government.

Is it to be wondered at, that the spirit of optimism is found to be springing up in this city; as its people realize that, although Ancient Quebec, the old walled city, will always remain the city of historic interest that it is today, and the programme of the Battlefields Commission is making it more a beauty spot of America, that a new Quebec a greater industrial and shipping centre, greater even than their fondest dreams is now a certainty.

NOR-MOUNT REALTY CO.

The Nor-Mount Realty Company Limited, one of the largest dealers in real estate in Quebec, have on the market choice building lots, situated in Limoilou and in Little River, at attractive prices where development is taking place most rapidly.

QUEBEC COUNTY REALTY CO.

The building lots which this Company are offering are situated and are connected by a good car service, and all modern conveniences are to be found there, including water, electric light, telephone, etc. Their property is elevated and the ground dry and well drained, commands a good view of the St. Lawrence River.

INTERVIEW WITH MR. E. DESMARAIS

The Daoust Realty Limited, which represent the Levis Dry Dock Company when called upon the local manager, Mr. Elzear Desmarais, gave the following interview:

M. M. DAOUST,
Pres. of the Daoust Realty Limited

"I am not a pessimist, neither am I an optimist, and it forces me as well when it relates to real estate, as well as to all other matters to be able to preserve a happy medium between the two methods of looking at extremes.

"Do not expect that I should describe to you, the future of Quebec as a matter already realized, and of which we only have to gather the effects, nor that you will hear me deplore the present state of things; I shall limit myself to telling you that according to all the reasonable provisions. I believe that within a near enough future Quebec shall be called upon to develop itself in a normal fashion, and that as a result the properties there will assume logically a greater value considerable enough in proportion to this development as far as things concern me personally, that is to say the construction of the new dry dock at Levis; it is certain these works which will bring along with them the construction of maritime dock yards, at least so far as I can foresee, these works I say will double and treble the value of the lots situated on the plateau Lauzon, and I believe I am not exaggerating in saying that everything permits me to believe that an investment in this locality would be certainly what might be called an investment of the father of a family, for he who would buy lots today in this locality can be assured not only that he will not lose the amount invested, but that he will see it doubled before long."

Mr. Maixime Daoust, who is president of the Daoust Realty Limited, is one of the best known real estate men in Montreal and owing to the splendid showing of the company in the past under his supervision, they will no doubt meet with big success in Quebec.

INTERVIEW WITH MR. MACAULAY

Mr. R. M. Macaulay, Manager of the well-known Real Estate firm, The Van Dyke Land Company, Regd., when called upon, said:—

The Read Estate situation in Quebec is such a big subject that it would take a great deal of space and time to go into it thoroughly. However, there are a few points that stand out prominently about Real Estate here. One is that there are not enough building lots sold in Quebec altogether today to hold even the increase of population which will come directly from the employment of labor in works now under construction, to say nothing of the increase we should naturally expect both directly and indirectly from the transportation facilities both rail and water which are nearing completion here.

Another point is that Quebec is growing a little more rapidly at the present moment than ever before; that the demand for houses has caught up to the supply so that our surplus stock, so to speak, of houses has been used up and now we are in the position that one new dwelling must be constructed for each new family that comes to Quebec and this fact is already being reflected in our building permits. Regardless of the facts that money is tight and loans hard to secure the building permits in this city so far this year have far out-classed its banner year, 1913.

A very important point to consider is that independent authorities from every city in Canada are unanimous in telling us that although the money situation has hit the Real Estate investors very hard and has greatly curtailed the volume of business that there are no sacrifices, prices are well maintained, that what sales are made are made at increasing prices, this immediately explodes the often-advanced opinion that Real Estate prices in our centers of popualtion are too high. Now that conditions are such that only three or four cities in Canada have shown an increase in building so far this year it is encouraging to note at Quebec City heads the list with more building than ever before in its history, and one is constrained to ask the question "What would Quebec show this year under favorable money conditions?"

Quebec City is in a very advantageous position. The programme for equipping the port with the most modern facilities and the simultaneous entry into Quebec of all the south shore railroads together with the three transcontinentals on the north shore of which the Grand Trunk Pacific and Canadian Northern are making Quebec their terminals, while also the C.P.R. is getting ready to handle its share of the increased business which a modern port and the Quebec Bridge will make, places, this city in a very enviable position. The dredging of the St. Charles River and making a canal of it which will open up a manufacturing district on its banks six miles in length is probably the greatest local development here. These developments are on so large a scale and so far-reaching that it is hard to estimate just how much they will transform the size and importance of this city. A large increase must come, but this is a turning point in the history of Quebec and whether this city realizes its full estate depends on the people of this city and more particularly on the government of this city. This is a time when this city as a unit cannot afford to be niggardly. We have the opportunities, it is a question now of what we will make of these opportunities. The old walled city of Quebec is well advertised and is a mecca of tourists. It is necessary now to advertise Greater Quebec's manufacturing and transportation advantages; it is necessary to have a well-organized publicity division that will place before the hundreds of manufacturers that are every year building large plants in Canada the advantages of this city; it is necessary to adopt a policy in this city that will not only encourage the investment of this city's wealth at home but will also attract capital from outside. If these things are done I believe that the next ten years will see the residental part of Quebec extend to Cap Rouge; the whole valley of the St. Charles one great manufacturing district; and the hills of Charlesbourg and Lorette the suburbs of this city.

A person cannot study the Real Estate situation in this city without appreciating that property values are lower here proportionately than practically any other city in Canada; that they are increasing and are bound to increase more; that this city is built solid to its confines; that any increase in population whatsoever means extension and of course the most rapid extension in the sections, where an increase of labor will be employed. The fact that this city is built solid and that extension comes immediately from the increase in population gives well-located subdivision property a distinct advantage over inside property as an investment because of the more rapid increase in value to the land during the period of building.

INTERVIEW WITH MR ED. TALJANSKI

Mr. Ed. Toljanski, Sale manager of the firm of Lockwell & Leclerc, one of the leading real estate houses in Quebec gave the following interview:—

Notwithstanding the recent hard times created by financial crisis the sales in Quebec real estate have been considerable, which amply show that the "real" real estate market here comprising only all sound and business-like propositions and cutting the ethereal ones out) rests on a solid basis in which the most prudent and moderate investor can have entire confidence. With easier and better times expected shortly, everybody is keenly alive to the immense possibilities with regard to well selected land in Quebec, and taking further into consideration the projected works of public utility now under way, or that are contemplated in the near future everything points to a great awakening of our City though it has never been consistently boomed.

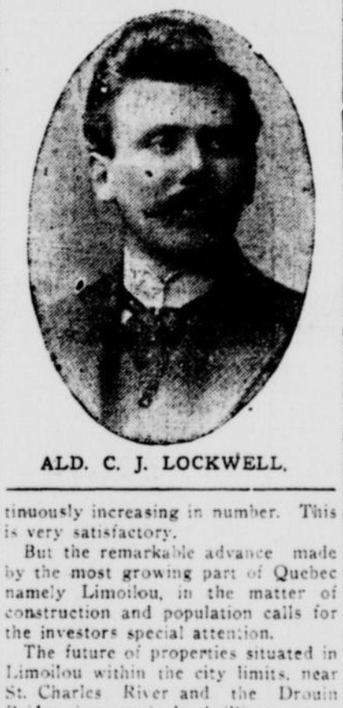

A great proof of Quebec's progress and growth is the large increase in buildings, and here are some figures which speak for themselves:

Constructions for 10 months in 1913	$1,829,080
Against the same period in 1912.	908,690
Showing an increase of.....	$ 920,390
Figures for constructions during the months of March, 1914.	$342,542
As compared with March, 1913	25,650
Showing an increase of.....	$316,892

And the building permits are continuously increasing in number. This is very satisfactory.

But the remarkable advance made by the most growing part of Quebec namely Limoilou, in the matter of construction and population calls for the investors special attention.

The future of properties situated in Limoilou within the city limits, near St. Charles River and the Drouin Bridge, is a particular brilliant one as it has already all the commodities of the heart of the city, retaining all its country charms and with the extension of the electric tramways in the near future this phenomenal growing part of Quebec stands foremost amongst the best and soundest real estate propositions of this country. Nothiny but figures, and statistics prove this fact.

ALD. C. J. LOCKWELL.

EUGENE LECLERC, M.P.P.

Every sensible investor ought to be very careful about the location of the land he intends to buy as he will see his "Money Grow."

SOONER, if he chooses his lots situated within the City limits.

LATER, if outside or near a city.

Like the awakening of Quebec, investors ought also to be fully awake to grasp the opportunity offered now in good real estate propositions, as opportunity only knocks once at your door.

INTERVIEW WITH MR E. BROUSSEAU

Following up his enquiry on the situation of the real estate market, the Chronicle's representative called upon Mr. E. Brousseau, real estate agent,

MR. ELZEAR BROUSSEAU.
Manager of the Railway Central Park Company.

of this city. Mr. Brousseau is perfectly well acquainted with the West of Canada, where he travelled during twelve years, therefore, it is of this part of the country that he speaks of.

Mr. Brousseau said: "I will speak to you of the West, for on this subject I am perfectly posted, having lived a long time in this region, and will specially entertain you about Regina and its future. Nothwithstanding all is said, Regina is the heart of the West, and now or later she will surpass in importance all the other cities which are actually in concurrence with her. The rapidity with which her population is increasing is a sure guarantee of it, and the investment of money on lots situated to the north of this city is without a doubt the best investment at the present time. I will not inisist more than necessary on the discovery of natural gas wells, but understand, that there already exists a company which has a contract with the city of Regina to supply it with gas taken in Saskatchewan, and that upon this contract the said company will furnish gas to industries at 20 1-2 cents by the cube metre mile and at the rate of 40 cents to the public.

"My firm conviction," said Mr. Brousseau, "is that persons buying lots in the northern part of the city of Regina, and principally in the part known as the Railway Center Park, will for the reasons above enumerated, make an excellent investment, and see their property double and maybe triple in the early future."

A TIMELY TIP

Though many people knock real estate on principle, but when you get down to figures they agree that much money has been made by investors in Quebec Read Estate in the past, and that there will be even more money made in Real Estate in the near future.

It is a known fact that "Old Mother Earth" is man's best banker though other bankers no doubt fearing this great competition tried to turn away those who wanted to "grow money" on her. The older she grows the safer she grows and the more valuable becomes the capital entrusted to her.

She brings interest every minute of the day and night. She works for you, not you for her. Invest your savings carefully in Real Estate and you will certainly reap your share of prosperity, which must eventually come to those who have the foresight in investing in rapidly growing parts of this City.

QUEBEC'S POPULATION INCREASED 5,000 LAST YEAR

It is estimated that the population of Quebec increased between 4,000 and 5,000 within the past year, and in view of the fact there are now sold in Quebec and outskirts altogether, which are particularly for building and partly for speculation purposes 7,000 building lots. This represents some 700 acres. The whole city of Quebec averages 40 people to the acre population, this will hold an increase in population of 17,500 people, and the Transcontinental shops, Government Cartridge Factory and Arsenal, the Dry Dock at Lauzon, Terminals, and completion of all other public works will alone increase the population over 17,500.

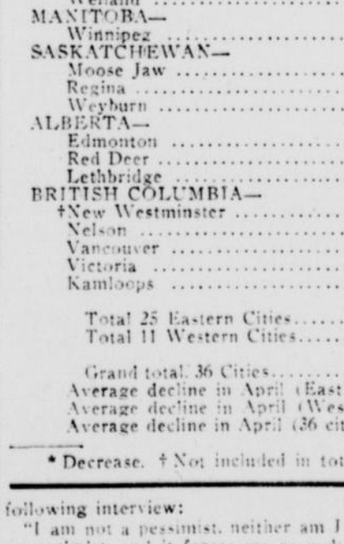

There were 600 houses built in Quebec City in 1913, representing an investment of roughly $2,000,000.00. This to meet the increase in population. Rents appear to be scarce and there is need in Quebec, at the present time of a large number of modern residences, both to meet the increase of population and to take the place of the old houses, which are being made over and rebuilt into business blocks and office structures. Rents are on the rapid increase.

Real Estate Speculators make fine profits in

THE CHATEAU QU'APPELLE

REGINA

Amount of cost of new constructions at Regina in 1913, $6,000,000,000.

Real Estate Speculators make fortunes in

REGINA

It's not bad to invest your money in the East, but it is still better to invest in the West. THERE IS A REASON.

HERE IT IS: The Realty companies of the East ask prices for their lots, which do not give the small speculators a chance to realize big profits very quickly, on account of the slow development in certain districts.
IN THE WEST, it is different. The Real Estate Companies are very reasonable in their prices, and give those who want to make money a chance to re-sell their lots with a good profit, on account of the very rapid progress of all the cities of the West, and thus

RIGHTLY HOLD FIRST PLACE

REGINA— Some authentic facts furnished by the Chamber of Commerce in reference to Regina, will justify our statements and prove in the most positive manner that the MOST OBVIOUS developments are in the NORTH of the city.

FINANCES.

REGINA.—The City of Regina has ranked in the second place of all cities of the Dominion of Canada in 1913, regarding the clearing house business of the eleven banks which are established there, and which amounted to over $16,000,000 more than in 1912. Its Custom House revenues have been $150,000.00 more also than its receipts of 1912.

REGINA.—The debentures of the City of Regina were sold in London, England, in the spring of 1913, at $101.00. No other cities of the Dominion of Canada have ever obtained such results.

RAILWAYS.

REGINA.—Seven lines of railways are running through Regina: the Canadian Pacific, the Grand Trunk Pacific, the Canadian Northern and their branches.

REGINA.—Thirty-three passenger trains enter and go out of Regina every day.

The Grand Trunk Pacific is now building an immense hotel by the name of "Chateau Qu'Appelle," which will cost according to the contract $1,750,000.00.

REGINA.—Still another great manufacture is just starting, since we have commenced to write this: a Rubber Works manufacture, the Gueta-Percha. Its construction will cost $6,000,000.00, and also a Hat manufacture.

SITUATION, ETC., ETC.

REGINA.—The north of Regina is the industrial ward and where the Parliament buildings have been constructed at a cost of $4,000,000.00. Regina is the Episcopal seat of Mgr. Mathieu, who has erected there, his cathedral, his episcopal residence, and where he will have built, very soon, a classical college and a seminary.

REGINA.—Regina is a division point of the center of the Western Province. It has been decided that Regina shall soon have a direct line of railway to Chicago, which will shorten, by at least one-half, the distance between these two cities Chicago and Regina, to the advantage of the latter place, and all the other places located west of Regina.

REGINA.—Notwithstanding what the pessimists are saying about the monetary conditions of Western Canada, the municipalities, as well as the various companies of that part of the country are going right ahead, without fear, with the enterprises in which very likely, very few financiers of the east could think to engage in, at the present time.

REGINA.—Practically every city of any importance must execute this year quite a large amount of municipal works, which will have quite an influence on the activity of the real estate market, either in advancing the value of the properties located in the vicinity of the works to be done, or otherwise.

REGINA.—The School Commissioners of Regina are studying presently a very interesting project. It is actually the matter of obtaining free passes on the tramways for the school children. The Board of Trade of Regina is also discussing the opportunity to establish municipal slaughter houses and warehouses where meats, farm products, etc., shall be sold directly to the citizen during the whole year. It is thought that this good move shall slightly contribute to reduce the cost of living.

REGINA.—Chicago is interested; bright spring weather suggests big things in Regina district.

Boom has commenced—Saskatchewan's big figures. Twenty-one companies with an aggregate capitalization of $1,484,500 were incorporated in Saskatchewan during the month of March, and seven new foreign companies were registered during the same period and are capitalized at approximately $3,890,000. The Regina companies registered and the capitalization where they exceed $25,000.00 are La Review Dairy Co., $100,000; Motor Supplies Co., Limited, $25,000.00; Commercial Hotel Co., Limited, $40,000. The foreign companies registered their capitalizations as follows: Multigraph Sales, Limited, $40,000.00; B. J. Johnson Soap Co., Limited, $100,000.00; Glens Falls Insurance Co., Limited, $500,000.00; La Nationale, Compagnie Anonyme, contre l'Incendie et les Explosions, 10,000,000 francs; Ryan Agency, Limited, $50,000.00; John Stewart Co., Limited, $40,000.00; Saskatchewan Life Insurance Co., $1,000,000.00.

BUILDING ACTIVITIES.

REGINA.—The bright sprink-like weather of the past two or three weeks has resulted in increased building activities in and around Regina and contractors generally are taking an optimistic view of the prospects for 1914 work. In many cases the construction of proposed large buildings is about to start as there is plenty of mortgage money in sight, in fact some of these buildings have already been started. The Metal, Shingle and Siding Company of Canada, with headquarters at Preston, Ont., will erect a large warehouse in Regina. They will employ a large number of hands and corps of travellers, the whole under the management of one W. M. McKenzie. Real estate has commenced to boom and several brisk sales have been reported during the past few weeks.

REGINA.—In view of the fact that Regina is the capital of the Province of Saskatchewan and the centre of a very large agricultural district, everyone expects that it will continue to increase in population up to 125,000 or 150,000 people. Although business has been quiet in Regina and all the West, as well as all over, will doubtless change right away, and everyone in the West is looking forward for continuation of extremely good time, due to the increased amount of land which is being put under cultivation and the enormous influx of people which is going on each year.

REGINA.—Crop prospects in Saskatchewan best on record.

Sowing will be completed next week.

The prospects are better than ever before in the history of Saskatchewan regarding the crop outlook for 1914.

This property is situated on the north side of the city, which is one of the most important parts of the city. All big buildings are situated on this side of the town, which is the business section. Some of the buildings are: Union station, wholesale shops and factories, C. N. shops and C. P. yards.

REGINA.—In the majority of cases from sixty to eighty per cent. of wheat seeding is done and farmers expect to complete the sowing of wheat within next week and to have made a good start with moving their crops.

We Want Men

to represent us in every city and country.

Earnest men who desire to make money have an exceptional chance to realize their desires.

THE COMMISSION PAID is very high and selling is practically easy. Because the chief office at Quebec will furnish proofs of the extraordinary value of lots at Regina, which is not content to progress rapidly, but is, moreover, the city where developments are the most sweeping of the Dominion.

Ask for our conditions at once, before others have taken the part that you wished to reserve.

Come to see us, write or telephone, we will give you all the information you desire.

We Want Ladies

to act as agents in the city and country.

Several companies in the West have adopted the system of confiding to the fair sex, the sale of their lots and the results obtained are astonishing.

THE WOMAN can often make a sale when a man has failed.

We pay the same commission to women as we do to men, and help the sales by our informations and literature concerning Regina and its progress.

Money harms nobody, and the fact that dealing in real estate is a very honorable occupation, a thoughtful woman will find no harm in it. The sun shines for everybody.

Reserve your locality at once before others take it.

Come and see us, write or telephone, we will give you all the information you desire.

ACT AT ONCE, DO NOT LET THIS OPPORTUNITY PASS.

INTERVIAW WITH MR. MOONEY

In an interview with Mr. M. J. Mooney, the Manager of the Nor-Mount Realty Company one of the leading and most active Real Estate Companies in the City; that gentleman expresses the opinion that the business world has been passing through a period of great financial stringency, which has caused even giltedge securities to fall so rapidly that the question was when would they touch the bottom.

It is, he thinks, remarkable that while real estate has been subject to probably more than its fair share of criticism, sales as a rule have been made at advanced prices, though the demand has not been so active.

Dealers in real estate find that on the whole they will be benefited by the removal of all doubtful propositions which cannot withstand critical investigation, resulting in a very active market on the approach of easy money.

That Quebec will be among one of the first centres to benefit, there can be no question; for here, real estate has never been over-boomed. The large expenditure on public works and private enterprises, mean a large increase in population, (which will cause an active demand for close-in properties. That this movement is already under way is proven by the building permits issued, which show that last year was double 1912, and that this year so far we are more than quadrupling our previous record.

Limoilou has already proven that few places in Canada have given as handsome returns to those who have had the foresight to invest there, and it needs no prophet to foresee that Little River will, on account of the proximity of the G.T.P. shops and other improvements, advance more rapidly in values than even Limoilou.

SWEETHEART.

What a beautiful word is that fine oldfashioned word, "sweetheart." It comes to us through a long and loving line of grandfathers and grandmothers, whom we see in fancy, the bride with a spreading nosegay in hand—not a bouquet, heaven forbid!—and bride and bridegroom walking churchward with happiness. Sweetheart and nosegay—how fitting that they should go together, breathing the romance of an earlier and simpler time! Today to what a degraded use has the word "sweetheart" been detrayed and diverted! How often it is dragged, drabbled and disgraced, through the muck of a police court, in connection with a burglar, a highwayman or a murderer.— Indianapolis News.

NAPOLEON AS PRESS CENSOR

It is not generally known that Napoleon Bonaparte acted as press censor in 1805.

With the beginning of popular government in France in 1789, the Debats was one of a cluster of newspapers which sprang into being. This is the oldest newspaper in Paris, and it recently celebrated its centenary.

It was founded by a printer named Baudoin, and purported to be, as its name shows, a mere chronicle of political events. Owing to its pungent criticisms of men and affairs it soon became one of the most influential of the Paris journals.

In 1805 the paper was compelled by Napoleon to change its name and became the Journal de l'Empire. It was in the course of the correspondence which took place between Napoleon and the editor, Fieves, on the subject of the threatened censorship, that the emperor gave the order which has become famous, about the policy of the newspaper, "that it should publish no news unfavorable to government until the truth was so well known that publication was needless!"

After Napoleon's retirement to Elba the paper resumed its old title, and it is that event which has just been celebrated.

It is still edited and printed in the house where it was first started, beside the Church of St. Germain de l'Auxerrois, from the tower of which the signal was given for the massacre of St. Bartholomew's eve. Of all the great Paris newspapers, it has been the least affected by the modern developments of journalism, and its dignified columns are an encouragement to thoughtful reflection and a serious study of affairs.

BERTHS ENGAGED.

The Ark was about to leave the dock for its famous forty-day cruise.

"All aboard!" called Noah. "All but passengers ashore!"

At that moment a young couple was seen rushing madly for the gang-plank. The skipper took a look and observed that it was the family that had been kidding his schemes the day before.

"Hey! Wait for us," shouted the men, waving his umbrella.

"Too late," grinned Noah, pulling in the gang-plank. "We already have a pair of asses!"

AN OLD MELODY—THE BLUE-BIRD'S SONG.

A melody of the springtime!
A tune of the April sky!
A music like vocal sunshine,
As a flash of blue skims by.

Blue are the sky and the river,
And the music the Lord hath made
Is held in the throat of a songster
That gleams with the same bright shade.

And we know that spring is coming,
When we hear the bird of blue,
And hear his song in the orchard—
A melody old, yet new.

For it seems that the bird is a spirit
Whose summons sweet will bring
Over the river the dawning,
And over the hills the spring!

OUT OF BABYLON.

Their looks for me are bitter,
And biter is their word—
I may not glance behind unseen,
I may not sigh unheard!

So fare we forth from Babylon,
Along the road of stone;
And none looked back to Babylon
Save I—save I alone!

My mother's eyes are glory-filled
(Save when they fall on mine);
The shining of my father's face
I tremble when I see!

For they were slaves in Babylon
And now they're walking free—
They leave their chains in Babylon,
I bear my chains with me!

At night, a sound o singing,
The vast encampment fills;
"Jerusalem! Jerusalem!"
It sweeps the nearing hills—

But no one prays for Babylon
(Their home of yesterday),
And no one prays for Babylon,
And I—I dare not pray!

Last night the Prophet saw me;
And while he held me there
The holy fire within his eyes
Burned all my secret bare.

"What! Sigh you so for Babylon?"
(I turned away my face).
"Here's one who turns to Babylon,
Heart-traitor to her race!"

I follow and I follow!
My heart upon the rack;
I follow to Jerusalem—
The long road stretches back.

To Babylon, to Babylon!
And every step I take
Bears farther off from Babylon
A heart that cannot break!

And many a powerful piano mover is unable to carry a tune.

The best brand of religion is the kind a man uses in his business.

FORSEES SUCCESS OF GERMAN PRINCE

DR. LIMA, AUTHOR, PREDICTS BRILLIANT FUTURE FOR HEIR APPARENT.

Berlin, June 5.—Will the German crown prince be a strong ruler? What manner of man is he who will one day guide the destinies of the great German Empire? These are questions often asked and not only in Germany; and an attempt is made to answer them, from one point of view, in a volume just published here—"Der Kronprinz: Gedanken Uber Deutschland Zukunft." The author of it is the well-known German author and journalist, Dr. Paul Liman, whose recent book on the kaiser attracted great attention.

Dr. Liman draws his picture of the prince from his royal highness' already well-known doings, his love for sport, his military enthusiasm, his "indiscretions," his writings—everything from A to Zabern—and everything is justified. And it is remarkable, in the first place, that to justify the prince before Germany the author should draw attention most pointedly to the difference between the kaiser and his heir—much to the advantage of the son. For instance:

Son Lacks Mysticism.

"And, indeed, the straightforward and clear character of the son appears to be free from all leaning toward that unfortunate mysticism which, in November, 1908, nearly led to a Jena for the monarchical idea. The picture of reality appears to stand out in holder, firmer and more natural outlines to the eye of the son than it does in many a speech of the kaiserly father. In few points are the father and son like one another."

Dr. Liman praises highly the prince's love of games and sport. He quotes freely from the writings of his royal highness in this connection to show that the prince is setting an example to the youth of the nation with regard to physical fitness, and that he loves sport because he loves nature. The writer, too, dwells on the prince's opposition to luxury. Dr. Liman praises the golden mean which lies between "that longing for everlasting peace and that Cauvinism which, for personal advantage, threatens the rights of all others." That, he says, is the golden mean in which Bismarck believed and he will have people believe that the crown prince supports it, too. Here is one of the quotations from the prince's writings which Dr. Liman recalls and underlines:

Prince Not a Dreamer.

"We live today in an age which, with peculiar satisfaction, points to the proud height of its international citizenship; that delights in dreams of an everlasting world-peace. This conception of life is un-German and does not suit us. The German who loves his people, who believes in the greatness and future of his home land and will not have its authority lowered, must not shut his eyes in such dreams, must not let himself be lulled to sleep by the peace song of the Utopians."

Such expressions of opinion lead Dr. Liman to believe that Germany's coming kaiser will be the strong man for which the Junker has prayed since the passing of Bismarck. There will, he thinks, be in the future no lack of warfare regarding the king's right, and the people's right, and the king must set himself against any extension of so-called popular government.

The emperor's rights must remain intact, for with any further increase of the people's rights the army will be endangered for one thing, and the Curragh incident is pointed to as the evil result of a democratic army. The final pages of the book lead through an advocacy of the whole range of militarism, aristocratic rule and the right divine, and their advocate firmly believes that the prince is on his side. He says:

Not a Weakling Defender.

"If the future leads the successor of William II. to such conflicts (for representative government, etc.) no weakling will be found on the defending trenches. Only a deadly battle would lead to the last goals of the prophets of parliamentarianism, and the race of the Hohenzollerns has not become so weak, that it will yield without a struggle its most real and deepest character or unresisting allow itself to be robbed of its ornament and its height right. The great-grandson of the first kaiser will know, if he is forced to fight, how to guard his rights, and most assuredly he will not be 'William the Last.'"

Whether Dr. Liman's hopes of the German crown prince will be realized, history will have to tell. But one thing is certain, and that is that history will also tell that progress in Germany will not stand still at the Junker's bidding.

The kaiser is soon to witness military manoeuvres which troops stationed in the district will carry out in the Vosges.

Preparations for Imperial Visit.

Naturally, every one is most anxious that the imperial visit to Alsace shall be a success, and very elaborate preparations are bing made—some, indeed, verging on the ridiculous. Thus, soldiers of the garrison at Calmar at present are busy scrubbing every atom of dust and dirt off the rocks whence the war lord will witness the operations. The rocks are being actually washed with plenty of water and black soap, and then covered with moss to give them the real rural touch. It is not known as yet whether an ancient stile or boxed shrubs and leaden figures after fashion of Versailles are to be added to make the spot sufficiently dainty for the army's supreme head.

It should perhaps be added that the countdy round about is prettier than is usual amid the romantic scenery of the Vosges.

Meanwhile, too, preparations are going on for the grand manoeuvres that are to begin on September 14. Six army corps will take part, and the conditions of actual warfare are to be more nearly approached than has yet been the case in Germany. The kaiser is said to be taking particular interest in the arrangements, and as the commanders on each side will not be hampered by tactics laid down beforehand for them by their superiors, he will be able to get their superiors, he will be able to get a better idea of the efficiency of his officers and men than hitherto. If his expectations are not realized in this regard the kaiser will personally treat his officers to strong and scathing criticism.

BLACK HOME RULE.

A Prosperous Negro Kingdom In South Africa.

The rising among the Basuto mine laborers of the Transvaal at the time of the recent trouble with the white workers draws attention to one of the most remarkable of the native races in South Africa. Bastutoland is a self-governing native territory under the aegis of the British crown. The spirit of British policy toward it was strikingly revealed recently by Lord Gladstone when before thousands of Basutos he first proclaimed Griffiths the future king, and then, as the servant of King George, saluted the new ruler of the Basutos.

Thirty years ago Great Britain started upon the experiment of helping the Basuto nation to govern itself. Today no matter what test of progress is applied to that country, half as large again as Wales, the response is conclusive. There is loyalty to the crown, racial peace, national vitality, religious amity and economic stability.

The critics of 30 years ago predicted disaster, and not without some reason. The Boers had tried to conquer the Basutos and failed. British expeditions ended in disaster. British sovereignty was proclaimed and abandoned. The Orange Free State declared war against the Basutos and received such a hot reception that they had to give up. The Cape Parliament, too, tried to govern this distant territory, but failed and abandoned it. Then a new era dawned, the administration of Basutoland by the Basutos and for the Basutos alone, under the guidance of a British adviser.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer of Basutoland must be a happy man, for he has never faced a deficit. The taxation in Basutoland is about $1 per capita per annum upon a population of 400,000 and every year the budget shows a surplus. The country has no debt, but lends the realized surplus to other native territories or places large sums on fixed deposits of the South African Bank.

Before home rule Basutoland was seldom free from wars, rumors of wars, and tribal fights. The national Parliament, has brought together every element in the nation and welded it into a solid force, which now makes for peace and progress.

While many tropical and sub-tropical territories are feeling acutely their decreasing population, this little country, secure from the European exploiter and prospector, is multiplying with extraordinary rapidity. In 1891 the population was 218,324 and in the next decade, 1911, to something over 400,000.

This rapid increase is going a long way toward solving the labor problem, for during last year over 70,000 Basuos crossed their own borders to assist the white man in his task of reaping the wealth of South Africa.

Though for its size and population Basutoland produces a comparatively enormous quantity of grain, it has an industry of great economic value to South Africa, the output of native labor. It supplies the sinews of agriculture in the Orange Free State; to a large extent it keeps going railway work, coal mining, the diamond mines * * * the gold mines of the Transvaal and furnishes in addition a large proportion of domestic servants in the sourrounding territories.

SMOKING DENOUNCED BY MANY EXPERTS

QUESTION GETS RENEWED PROMINENCE BECAUSE OF SIGN IN FACTORY

Is tobacco injurious to athletes and growing boys? This question is given renewed prominence by the denunciation of cigarettes by Ford, the automobile manufacturer, and by Edison, who has posted in his factory at West Grange the following sign:—"Cigarettes not tolerated; they dull the brain." The Medical Times has been interviewing a number of prominent physicians and atheltes upon the subject, and finds that they are almost unanimously opposed to smoking. Some of them admit that they have seen cases in which smoking makes no apparent difference. There are famous athletes who smoke, just as there are famous athletes who drink, but they are the exception, and it is certain that if a boy who did not smoke was to ask any authority whether he should begin the practice he would be warned against it. Collins, the great ball player, said that as a boy he did not take up smoking, and had never regretted it. He believed that he could keep in better condition without it. Mike Donovan, the former middle-weight champion, and for thirty years physical director of the New York Athletic Club, says that while smoking may not affect the wind, it does affect the heart and the nerves. Athletes should not smoke.

What Smoking Does

Charles B. Towns, superintendent of the Towns Hospital, New York, hopes to see the day when every school teacher in the country will be compelled to teach the pupils the harmful effects of tobacco and indulgence in drugs. He says that tobacco can do nobody any good, and that it does most people harm. Dr. Woodward, of the Massachusetts Insane Asylum, is fully convinced that tobacco produces insanity, and it is on record that the famous Dr. Abernethy declared the moral sense to be stupefied by tobacco. Dr. J. H. Kellogg says that in his opinion the tobacco habit is the worst vice of civilization, and Dr. Keeley says that tobacco enfeebles digestion, produces emaciation and general debility; it lays the foundation for nearly every nervous disorder now common to the American people; it produces color blindness; partial or total loss of vision, various forms of insanity, epilepsy, bronchitis, rheumatism, asthma, dyspepsia, catarrh, tobacco heart and cancer of the stomach. Apart from that it does little damage.

Dr. O. M. Stone, of Boston, rises to remark that a tobacco user's chance of recovery from malignant diseases is lessened 50 per cent. The professors of the University of Michigan, who have had long experience, testify that tobacco has a worse effect upon young men than liquor that more young men break down in mind and body and finally go astray through tobacco than liquor, and that smoking frequently leads to drinking. T. D. Crothers, M.D., superintendent of Walnut Lodge Hospital, Hartford, Conn., says that the cigarette smoker is the "most degenerate palsied of all users of tobacco." Dr. Wright, of London, has shown that nicotine lowers the power of resistance of the human body against tuberculosis, and post-morten examinations at Phipps Institute showed that smokers are twice as subject to tuberculosis as non smokers. Dr. Bouchard, of Paris, says that tobacco is one of the leading causes of diseases of the heart and blood vessels. There is a very strong suspicion that the growth of Bright's disease, arteriosclerosis, angina pectoris, and other diseases involving the heart and blood vessels, which has been so pronounced in the past thirty or forty years, is largely due to the coincident spread of the smoking habit.

Smoker's Growth Stunted

At Yale University, Dr. J. W. Seaver made tests as to the effect of smoking upon students, and reports that non-smokers during the four years of college life gained in height, weight and chest measurements 18 per cent. more than the regular smokers, and 12 per cent. more than the irregular smokers. In actual lung capacity the non-smokers gained 50 per cent. over regular smokers and 35 per cent. over irregular smokers.

George L. Meylan, A.M., M.D., medical director of Columbia College, believes that there are very few smokers who are not the worse for the habit. They have irregular pulse, poor circulation, and are inclined to be nervous. He mentions the case of a student who smoked and wanted to pitch upon the college ball team, but was disqualified because of nervousness and irritability. He gave up smoking and in three weeks had so greatly improved that he won the coveted position.

Tobacco Heart Is Common

Another doctor produced figures to show trat 80 per cent. of applicants for army service in both England and the United States were rejected as unfit because of "tobacco heart," and he says that if three-quarters of our young men are unfit to fight for their country they ought to be unfit to assume the responsibilities of progenitors of the race. So one might go through the list of authorities interviewed by the Medical Times. There is practical unanimity as to the harmfulness of the smoking habit on the part of boys and youths, the only difference of opinion being as to the effect upon matured men who do not smoke to excess. In many cases it is no doubt difficult to say whether a symptom of nervousness and irritability observed in a smoker is due to cigarette, or wrether the nicotine has not, in fact, some soothing effect. The consequence is, however, that the smoking is bad and that the boy who begins it is playing tricks with his health.

The public's choice for 40 years, and still without a rival.

AT THE AUDITORIUM

Professor Dubois, the famous artist and musical director of the no less famous "Quatour Dubois," of Montreal, will be one of the features of the bill of the concert the 61st Regiment is organizing for the 10th. inst., under the distinguished patronage of H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught. H. R.H will attend Wednesday Evening's performance.

And the other talents whose cooperation the organizers have secured are also very well and favorably known. The selections to be played by the R.C.G.A. Band will be a great attraction of course, but there are other artists whose reputations should be a drawing card anywhere they play or sing. Miss Donahue is one of them and Mr. Raoul Dionne is just as well known.

The whole program is not arranged yet, but as it is we can assure the music-loving theatregoer that the concert of the 61st Regiment will be a rare treat to them and, by attending it they will also have the advantage of seeing the biggest array of military uniforms that has been in evidence in Quebec at any entertainment.

The tickets will be on sale Monday. The prices are 25c., 50c., 75c., $1.00 and $1.50.

COUNTESS EMOND ART PATRONESS

NOBLEWOMAN WHO DIED IN PARIS WAS ONE OF THE COURT BEAUTIES.

Paris, June 5.—Countess Edmond de Pourtales (nee Renouard de Bussierre), has died, after an illness of some months, in her once famous house in the Rue Tronchet, near the Madeline. She was one of the beauties of the second empire and one of the closest friends of the Empress Eugenie; and, besides being a great society lady, was a woman who played discreetly some political role in contemporary French history.

The German connections of the Pourtales family are well known, and the late countess enjoyed the friendship of the Emperor William. She kept up for some time a correspondence with Gen. Dubrot, after the Franco-German war, which was of some political importance, and which has been published. The countess was the daughter of Baron de Bussierre, director of the mint under the second empire. She leaves five children—Counts Jacques, Paul and Hubert de Pourtales, the Baroness de Berckheim, and the Marquise de Loys-Chandieu.

After the fall of the second empire the late countess often visited the Empress Eugenie in England. She also enjoyed the friendship of the late King Edward. Under the presidency of M. Thiers the countess succeeded in obtaining the restitution to the empress of some of her property in France which had been confiscated. The countess, who was a Protestant, like the Pourtales family, received all the highest French society, both in her house in the Rue Tronchet and in her country house in Alsace, the chateau de la Robertsau, near Strassburg. She was a Bonapartist and a Protestant, but had a large circle of devoted friends among Royalists and Catholics. Her receptions in both her houses, in which are contained remarkable art collections, were formerly among the most sought after in France. Besides being a leader of society, the late countess was a devoted worker in the cause of charity and a great patroness of the arts.

Strange Poisoning Case.

The trial of a strange poisoning case has begun in the Department of the Nord, in which a young woman, Octave Lecompte, was accused of having poisoned her father and her brother in order to inherit their estate. Her father, Jean Baptiste Lecompte, was a well-to-do farmer, who owned land near the village of Clary. He lived on the farm with his daughter, Octave, who is 35 years of age. Her brother, who was two years younger had quarreled with her and had left his father's farm. One day Octave Lecompte, it is alleged, wrote in the name of one of her uncles to a veterinary surgeon to obtain a doctor's prescription for 300 grams of arsenic acid. A farm laborer was sent with the letter to the veterinary and bought the arsenic for her at Maretz. The arsenic was to be used as a rat destroyer.

On January 14 of this year Octavie's father, who was 60 years of age, suddenly died. The neighbors were surprised, but as the death was attributed to natural causes, nothing was said, and Jean Baptiste Lecompte was buried. Octavie's brother returned for the funeral and remained to take charge of the farm, but a week later he also died as suddenly as his father.

This time grave suspicion arose against Octavie Lecompte. The permit to bury her brother was refused, and an inquiry was begun by the authorities. She was questioned by the gendarmes, but protested and declared that she was innocent. The autopsy indicated that both her father and brother had died of poisoning. The prescription of the veterinary for arsenic and Octavie's letter to procure it, written in the name of her uncle, were then shown to her, and she, it is alleged, confessed that she put some of the arsenic in the coffee which she served to her father and brother. She said that she had done it because they had been too hard on her and had treated her like tyrants.

Example of Modern Engineering.

A remarkable example of modern engineering applied to architecture is to be seen in a house which is now nearing completion at Passy, one of the Western quarters of Paris.

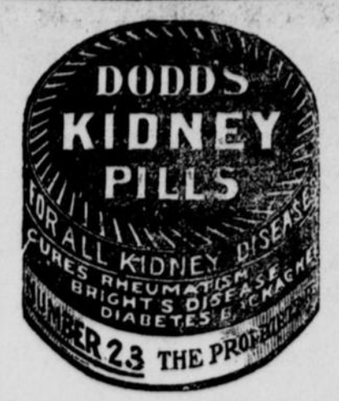

It is a big six-storied block of flats standing in the Avenue Budeau, close to the Place Victor Hugo. Just there the Metropolitan Railway, the "underground" of Paris, passed under the roadway at a slight depth, and the tenants of houses facing on the street complain bitterly of sleepless nights and broken crockery caused by the vibration of passing trains.

In order to insure a new house against this the architect and builder decided to isolate it entirely from any substance by which vibration might be carried, by supporting it, so to speak, on stilts.

This has been done by boring shafts seventeen in number, down to a stratum of solid rock, at a depth of about 60 feet, in which vibration cannot be felt. Each of these shafts contains a pillar of ferro-concrete, rising from bedrock to street level, without touching the sides of the shaft.

These seventeen pillars support a framework of huge girders on which the house is constructed. A small space is left on either side between the house and the building on each side of it, and the facade is separated from the roadway by a sort of mattress of steel springs.

Thus, practically speaking, the building stands clear of everything around it, the foundations touching nothing but the bed-rock from which they rise. The new experiment, which has proved entirely successful, will be the subject of a special study in a French technical journal next month. The sinking of these special foundations was carried out at a cost of $13,000 and took nearly six months.

AN OLD FRIEND.

By Augustus Treadwell.

A thrill of delight went through my soul
As his welcome hand grasped mine.
Years in their courses seemed back to roll,
Light from the past seemed to shine.
Joy was written all over his face,
My heart responded in glee.
No blot on friendship had left its trace,
While the years came back to me.

We both had wandered through many lands,
With our pathways wide apart.
For many long years we'd not clasped hands,
Though faithful was heart to heart.
To unexpectedly meet again
Brought back all the by-gone years,
And neither one wished, nor could refrain
From holding back joy's glad tears.

Reunions are sweet when hearts are true.
They bring to our minds again
Bright days of joy, when our cares were few.
Revive what had dormant lain.
We find there's something on earth beside
The grind of every day life,
True hearts in whom we sweetly confide,
Amid life's struggle and strife.

'Tis pleasant to know we're not forgot
By those we've earlier known,
That in some hearts there's a tender spot,
A love that is all our own.
It brightens and cheers life's later years,
When nearing our journey's end,
As echoes come back from early years
In welcome voice of a friend.

SPRING NIGHT.

Lilac branches swaying beneath the moonlight,
And the road a ribbon of silvered whiteness;
Silence brooding in wonder and strange renascence,
Haunted with beauty.
Swiftly passing nights of unearthly splendor,
Ever lost yet ever returned in Springtime!
Wherefore thus?—and we always left unheeded,
Dumb by the roadside.

—Thomas S. Jones, Jr.

The aeroplane was almost completely wrecked.

OVERWORK AND WORRY

A Fruitful Source of Broken Down Constitutions.

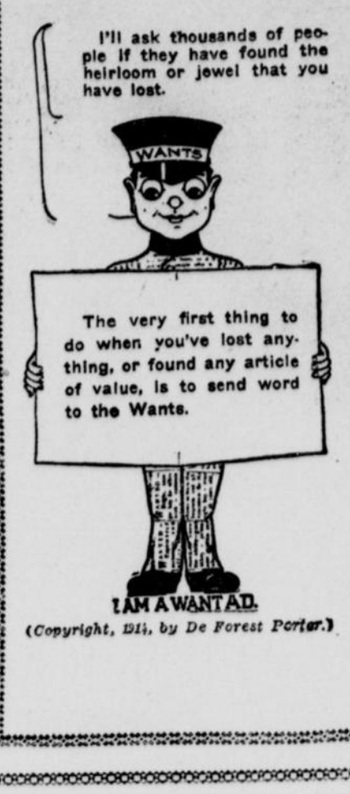

A little worry does a great deal of harm. Overwork and worry gives rise to headaches, nervousness, sleeplessness, weak back, lack of interest in your work, indigestion and sometimes a complete breakdown of the nervous system, leading to paralysis. If these are your symptoms you need a tonic. And the only way to tone up the nerves is through the blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale people are a direct nerve tonic because they make new rich red blood, which feeds the nerves and strengthens every organ in the body. Under the tonic influence of these Pills nervousness and all the other evils of worry and overwork quickly disappear. They restore the digestion and enable the body to take full advantage from the food eaten.

Mrs. J. C. Chapman, Omemee, Ont., says: "I became completely rundown and my nervous system shattered from overwork and worry. I always felt tired and exhausted and slept badly at night. I tried several medicines but did not find the hoped-for relief. Then I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I took them regularly for several months and they restored me to perfect health, and I have since been well and strong. I can recommend these Pills to any afflicted with nervousness or a broken constitution as I feel sure they will effect a cure."

These Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or will be sent by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

COMMERCIAL NEWS

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

McDonald & Lesperance, stock brokers, private wire to New York and Montreal, Hochelaga Bank Building. Telephone 1227.

(Canadian Press Service.)

New York, June 5.—An undercurrent of strength was perceptible through today's listless trading in stocks. The foreign influence was unfavorable, and it was chiefly on this account that the early market here was inclined to droop. London reported selling there by the Continent, and in turn put out 10,000 shares here. Most American stocks were lower in London, and there was a corresponding slight recession when this market opened. Traders took little interest in the dealings and the market was quiet all day. The demand nevertheless was sufficient to overcome the early disadvantage, and during the greater part of the session the active list held close to yesterday's last figures. In most cases the range of prices was confined to fractions.

The supply of stocks was not large, and buyers frequently found it necessary to raise their bids. Another evidence of underlying firmness lay in the strength of various specialties, such as the fertilizers, the local tractions and Wells Fargo, which gained 1 to 3 points. It was among these shares that the only movements of consequence occurred. Westinghouse was the one weak spot, that stock being depressed by the strike of the company's employes.

Foreign exchange rates were strong. Demand sterling touched 488.85, the high record for a long period. Another engagement of gold for Europe, amounting in this instance to $2,000,000, was arranged. Time money rates nevertheless were lower, on large offerings by institutions which were unable to find profitable employment for the money which has accumulated here. A gain in cash by the banks on the week of $2,000,000 or more was indicated by the known movements of currency.

Dealings in bonds were unusually diversified, considering the limited volume of business. Irregularity prevailed, with distinct weakness at times in the Rock Island, St. Louis and San Francisco, and Western Maryland issues. Local traction bonds ruled higher, as did some of the more important convertible mortgages. Total sales of bonds, par value, $1,957,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call.

NEW YORK MARKET LETTER

By private wire to M. L. Dohan, Broker, Dominion building, St. Peter street. Phone 4748. Branch, Quebec Ry. Bldg., St. Joseph Street, Phone 582.

New York, June 5.—There were occasional small spurts of bullish activity in a small way today, but these were quickly succeeded by intense dullness, which was the predominating feature of the day's stock market.

There was no fresh news of interest, unless it was the placing of another equipment order, this time by the Illinois Central, which was taken as a sign of the times. It is practically certain that a large number of roads are in the market for equipment, but the amount purchased will likely depend upon the nature of the forthcoming railway rate decision. With the certainty of increased revenues from that source in connection with the bright crop outlook, the railroads may be willing to spend freely in bringing up the physical conditions of their property. It is expected also that the agricultural equipment companies will soon begin to place liberal orders with the steel mills. The prospective purchasers' names are usually the first to make their appearance in the Steel market, and in times past orders of this character have been the forerunner of a trade revival. In other respects conditions are favorable for improving business.

Liquidation seems to have been thorough in all leading lines, commodities as a whole are cheap, and the supply of money in the Banks available for investment and new enterprises is now larger than it has been for several years past.

Total sales, 90,000.
