Lennoxville apartment hit by fire

LENNOXVILLE (BP) — Lennoxville volunteer firemen contained a blaze in a wooden apartment building on Downs Circle last night, within thirty minutes after arriving, but not before one apartment was destroyed by flames.

Another three or four apartments were damaged by firemen trying to reach the fire and they also suffered extensive water damage.

The building housed primarily university and college students in Lennoxville and all presumably moved out for the rest of the night with what valuables they could carry.

The fire apparently spread between the ceiling and roof, feeding on wood shavings used as insulation between that gap, said fire chief John Nichol.

"The guys did a helluva good job," he commented, stating that if they had arrived five minutes later, the building probably couldn't have been saved.

The alarm was sounded at 9:40 p.m. by a student living adjacent to the apartment where the fire started when he smelled smoke. The seventeen firemen left the scene around midnight.

The apartment's proprietor, Georges Rodrigue, was unavailable for comment last night, but had viewed the scene earlier.

It was the second fire of the new year in Lennoxville.

Walkouts curtail railway service

Canadian National Railways' transcontinental rail service was suspended Thursday night after trains were cancelled in New Brunswick, Quebec, Ontario and the West because of walkouts of locomotive engineers.

Alberta and British Columbia were the most severely affected, with CNR suspending virtually all freight and passenger services in the two provinces, effective today.

The engineers began booking off sick or for study sessions across Canada Thursday and would give no indication when they will return to work.

They are seeking a change in their contract to give them the same 15-per-cent wage increase that members of other railway unions received Jan. 1. The members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers are not due to receive their 15-per-cent increase until May 1.

"Trains en route will be terminated at Winnipeg (westbound) and at Edmonton (eastbound) and passengers will be bused or flown to their destinations at our expense," said Mike Matthews, a CNR public relations officer.

In addition to the transcontinental trains, three of six trains between Toronto and Montreal were cancelled Thursday as well as trains between Toronto and Niagara Falls, Ont.

MARITIMES HIT
 CNR train service was also affected in New Brunswick where three runs between Moncton, Saint John and Edmundston were cancelled Thursday night.

Skeleton crews operated GO transit commuter trains in Ontario during the evening rush hour Thursday but buses were used during the off-peak hours when no GO trains were operating, a CNR spokesman said.

The CNR called the work stoppages illegal. G.D. McMillan, regional manager of operations for the CNR mountain region, said some talks have already taken place and others are scheduled.

Joe Speare, general chairman of the unions eastern region, said however, the issue of contract dates has not been dealt with successfully in past meetings.

"The fellows have reached the stage where they want a definite commitment rather than the promise of meetings."

Cost-of-living system for dairy farms

MONTREAL (CP) — The Dairy Farmers of Canada adopted Thursday a policy statement which would give dairy producers a cost-of-living system based on current farm costs and target levels of returns to investment, labor and management.

Dairy farmers also called for immediate government action in supporting their request for a returns increase to $10.60 per hundred pounds of milk, after requesting the increase three months ago.

Canadian dairy farmers now receive $9.41 per hundred pounds.

The proposals were accepted by dairy farmers from across the country at the end of their three-day annual meeting.

The statement, to be presented to the board of directors today, said preliminary calculations indicate returns for the 1975 dairy year, beginning April 1, will be in the neighborhood of $11.50 per hundred pounds of milk manufactured.

Included in the milk price cost-of-living system would be a provision to establish returns for cream producers.

The farmers expressed their dissatisfaction with Canada's cheese export and imports calling for a ban on imported cheeses from Common Market countries whose policies exclude importing Canadian cheddar cheese.

Cheese subsidies "should be raised near to levels equivalent to butter and powder (skim milk powder) support."

As far as compensation for slaughtered cattle is concerned dairy producers said that although there have been some upward adjustments, compensation continues to be "dangerously inadequate and unfair."

Blass dies in hail of bullets

MONTREAL (CP) — Richard Blass, a 28-year-old escaped convict, died in a hail of police bullets early today.

Acting on a tip-off police surrounded a cottage where Blass was hiding out in Val David, a Laurentians ski area about 60 miles north of here, said a police spokesman.

Heavily-armed detectives from Quebec Provincial Police homicide and holdup squads, backed up by Montreal police, moved into position at about 5 a.m. EST and called upon Blass to surrender.

He replied with only a few gunshots before police opened fire.

Blass' brother, Mario, was anxious to clear him of any involvement in the Gargantua fire deaths. Mario told a French-language newspaper Thursday: "My brother is not an angel but I am convinced he did not do that."

But police intensified their search for Richard Blass, called the "Cat" or "Weasel" because of his numerous brushes with both sides of the law and narrow escapes from converging lawmen.

In January, 1969, Blass and three others were arrested after a 90-mile-an-hour chase from a holdup in which they exchanged 40 shots with police.

Police from nearby St. Agathe and from Montreal converged on the cottage after a tip-off and Blass fired only a few shots before he was hit at about 5 a.m. EST, said police.

Blass, known as the "Cat" because of his numerous escapes from prisons and penitentiaries, became a prime suspect in the worst mass killing in Canada's history Tuesday.

Ten men and three women died in the fire-charred storage room of the sleazy Gargantua night club, most of them asphyxiated in a fire which police said was deliberately set.

Blass, who had escaped with four other convicts from the maximum security wing of the St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary last October, had threatened "a bloodbath" if conditions in the prison were not improved.

He was later that month implicated in a double murder at the same Gargantua club where Tuesday's macabre deaths took place.

Two men were shot to death by two gunmen as they sat drinking at a table in the club. Police speculated soon after Tuesday's grisly find that the fire deaths may have been an effort to eliminate possible witnesses to the October slayings. This possibility was later ruled out.

In October of that year Blass and eight other convicts escaped from a police van taking them to the court-house in Montreal. Shortly after that escape, Roger Levesque — one of the victims of the double murder in the Gargantua club last October — was charged with harboring Blass and two other convicts.

Last Nov. 5 Montreal lawyer Franklin Shoofy received a letter from Richard Blass and Roger Roussel — one of the men who had escaped from the St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary saying they would "kill many people" unless newsmen were allowed to inspect Cell Block No. 1 at the penitentiary.

A few weeks later newsmen were allowed to visit the cell block.

Earlier this month heavily-armed police surrounded a house in nearby Laval hoping to find Blass. They burst through the front door to find that he had slipped through their net only a short time before.

Bourassa says Montreal must bear part of Olympics deficit

QUEBEC (CP) — Despite Mayor Jean Drapeau's promise that the 1976 Olympic Games "won't cost Montreal taxpayers one cent," the city will have to bear part of the $250 million forecast deficit, Quebec Premier Robert Bourassa said Thursday.

The provincial government will pay only part of the deficit and Montreal will have to assume some of the responsibility, the premier said.

Rapidly mounting costs—from an original $310 million to $600-$644 million—will result in a minimum deficit of $209 million.

"Mayor Drapeau can justify spending city money for some of these facilities—after all these facilities will generate revenues for some time to come," the Mr. Bourassa said.

The premier also said he is hoping the federal government may change its mind about not helping to defray Olympic costs.

Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau, whom Premier Bourassa will meet at the end of January, said Thursday he is confident of the financing of the Games and noted neither the premier nor the mayor has asked for help.

Ottawa had said from the beginning the Olympics will get no special Olympic aid beyond the coin and stamp program.

Time, Reader's Digest

Government aims to cut US magazines' tax rug

OTTAWA (CP) — The government proposed pulling the tax rug from under Time and Reader's Digest Thursday, producing different responses from the two publications.

Time Canada Ltd. president Stephen LaRue announced hours later that the decision will "cause us to cease" the Canadian edition of Time which features about 10 per cent Canadian content.

Reader's Digest was more optimistic. Ralph Hancox, the monthly magazine's vice-president, said he hoped the government would reconsider.

The long-simmering issue came to a head in the Commons when State Secretary Hugh Faulkner announced an end, effective Jan. 1, 1976, to special tax concessions accorded Canadian advertisers using the two magazines.

On the same date, he said, similar privileges will end for Canadian advertisers using United States radio and television stations along the 4,000-mile international border.

MIGHT WITHDRAW
 In essence, the government will withdraw the right of Canadian advertisers to deduct from income taxes the money they now spend on advertising in all foreign periodicals and broadcasts.

The privilege of doing so, in the case of Time and Reader's Digest, was granted in the early 1960s by the Progressive Conservative government of John Diefenbaker. The exemption did not apply to other periodicals.

Mr. Faulkner said Thursday that he hopes the decision will lead to creation of a new Canadian news magazine, the idea being that advertising dollars spent on Time and Reader's Digest would go to a new magazine.

Response came quickly from Maclean's editor Peter Newman, an outspoken nationalist, who said the prospective increase in domestic advertising revenue might result in a weekly edition of the now-monthly Maclean's.

TURNING POINT

Robert Page, chairman of the Committee for an Independent Canada, hailed the announcement as the turning point for the long suffering periodical publishing industry in Canada. Pierre Camu, president of the Canadian Association of Broadcasters, said he was delighted.

Commons opposition spokesmen were more cautious.

Sinclair Stevens (PC—York-Simcoe) said the Jan. 1, 1976, deadline is good because it allows all parties concerned time to examine the full implications.

Cyril Symes (NDP—Sault Ste. Marie) and Andre Fortin (SC—Lotbiniere) called the move long overdue but said it should have been accompanied by incentives to ensure magazine publishing improvements at home.

Across the border, the reaction was mostly negative. Some broadcast outlets said they would suffer severely while others hoped for minimal losses.

Mr. Faulkner said the broadcast restrictions will apply only in cases where alternate time is available on Canadian radio and television stations. Advertising time already is booked solid at many Canadian outlets.

COST MILLIONS
 Mr. LaRue, who had warned earlier what the decision would mean, said the change would double the cost of advertising in Time and cost the magazine millions of dollars.

Asbestos earth shift stabilizes

ASBESTOS, Que. (CP) — A spokesman for Canadian Johns Manville Ltd. said late Thursday earth movements had stabilized near the edge of an openpit Asbestos mine in this community 85 miles northeast of Montreal.

Company spokesman Marc Gosselin said 20 families were evacuated from their homes Thursday as a precautionary measure after four houses had tumbled into the 950-foot-deep pit and municipal police said two other houses were threatened.

He said company engineers believe the worst is over and "there isn't any immediate danger."

Seventy families have been evacuated since a 1,300-foot section of earth slid into the pit early Tuesday. About 150 men working at the bottom escaped injury.

The company has provided affected families with lodging at nearby hotels and motels and municipal and provincial police were guarding a seven-block area to prevent looting of abandoned houses.

Consumer appointment

OTTAWA (CP) — Sylvia Ostry, Canada's chief statistician, has been appointed deputy minister of consumer and corporate affairs, Prime Minister Trudeau's office announced Thursday.

Mrs. Ostry, 47, will assume her new position Feb. 19, replacing Michael Pitfield, recently appointed Privy Council clerk.

She becomes the first woman to hold a deputy minister's position, although as head of Statistics Canada she was considered to be at the deputy minister level.

Postal strike

OTTAWA (CP) — Contract talks between the treasury board and the Canadian Union of Postal Workers (CUPW) are to begin today, but there are already indications of a strike unless the thorny question of technological change is settled.

Jean-Claude Parrot, national vice-president and a member of the union's five-man bargaining team, said the post office's $90-million automation program must be negotiated if labor peace is to be maintained.

"Otherwise there will be no agreement and automation will not work," he said.

The union represents 20,000 inside workers at the Post Office who are most affected by the $90-million government automation program which includes the introduction of postal-coding and sorting machinery.

However, under federal collective bargaining laws which apply to the employees, technological change and job classification are non-negotiable items.

Deputy minister dies

REGINA (CP) — Saskatchewan's deputy minister social services and his wife were killed in the crash of their small plane Thursday, but two young daughters survived.

Hubert Prefontaine, 39, the pilot, and his wife, Carol, 30, died in the crash of the single-engine Piper Cherokee. Jocelyn, 4, and Carmen, 1, were in fair condition in a Regina hospital Thursday. Four older children had stayed in Regina.

The plane was discovered in a field near Balgonie, 15 miles east of here, about 10 hours after it crashed while on a Winnipeg-to-Regina flight. Cause of the crash was not known.

Gas pipeline start

TORONTO (CP) — A speedy start to a $78-billion natural gas pipeline from the north is vital to Canada's continued prosperity, the National Energy Board (NEB) was told Thursday.

Canadian Arctic Gas Pipeline Ltd., in its final submissions to the NEB for a construction permit, described the pipeline as a "national priority."

The 23-company consortium said that natural gas shortages are anticipated as early as next year. This, plus the unreliability of imported energy, endangered Canada's economic welfare unless the new pipeline construction began as soon as possible.

War materials

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail say it has obtained United States defence department documents that contradict Canada's official position that it never has supplied the Americans materials for the Vietnam war.

The newspaper says the documents confirm that although Canada maintains a ban on export of arms and military equipment to areas involved in warfare, the country has ignored shipments of Canadian produced material to Vietnam by the U.S.

The U.S. buys military equipment and supplies in Canada through the defence production sharing agreement.

The newspaper says the confirmation of indirect Canadian involvement in the war is contained in computer printouts of all prime contract awards made in Canada by the U.S. department of defence.

FUN FAIR — Lennoxville Guides will be holding a Fun Fair tomorrow, Jan. 25 from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. in St. George's Anglican Church hall. A lunch will be served, and a bake table, book table, magic show and other games will be featured. The money raised will be put towards sending girls to camp and other Guide related activities. Shown from left to right, making posters for the fair, are Kathy Burczyk, Noreen Gallagher and Judy Nichol.

Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto stock market Thursday added another broad gain to its latest rally. Industrials rose to a five-month high in active trading.

The industrial index was up 2.2 to 173.69, highest since Aug. 21, and the third straight rise following five losing sessions.

Analysts say the market strength, evidence in all sectors, is largely a result of falling interest rates. Just before the close, Bank of Montreal announced a reduction in its prime rate to 9 1/4 per cent from 10 1/2 per cent, effective Feb. 1.

The gold index closed at 360.16, up 7.51. Base metals gained .25 to 61.80 and western oils 3.03 to 146.90.

The industrial index has gained 5.45 points in the three-day rally, compared with a loss of about 1.71 in the five-day slump. In Thursday's trading, all 17 sub-groups in the index rose, with merchandising, pipeline and food processing sectors among those with the largest gains.

Advances outnumbered declines by a three-to-one margin. What stocks did:

New York

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market zig-zagged upward Thursday in a session of alternating hopes and doubts over prospective government measures to stimulate the economy.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials rose 4.15 to 656.76 on top of a 10.71 gain Wednesday.

Gainers outnumbered losers by nearly 2-1 margin on the New York Stock Exchange, and the NYSE composite index added 20 to 38.37.

NYSE volume was a brisk 17.96 million shares, up from 15.33 million Wednesday.

The market, as reflected in the path of the Dow, started strong, hesitated, climbed sharply, and then fell back in the final two hours.

Analysts viewed the erratic swings more as a reflection of shifting tides of opinion on pending economic moves by the government than as responses to any specific news items.

The message that seemed to come through was that investors were looking ahead to eventual agreement between President Ford and Congress on a plan to stimulate a recovery from the recession.

Brokers generally said the market was driving support from the Federal Reserve's recent moves to ease credit and expand the amount of money available to the economy.

But the monetary situation also posed an unanswered question—whether fiscal moves such as tax cuts might force the government to borrow so heavily that its influence in the credit markets would push interest rates back upward again.

U.S. auto makers disclose mid-January sales

DETROIT (AP) — United States auto makers disclose mid-January sales figures today, the first to reflect the industry's new rebate program, and analysts predict they will show a substantial upturn.

But no one is predicting the end of the longest auto sales slump since the Second World War.

U.S. sales for the Jan. 11-20 period were expected to be no more than 140,000 cars, compared with 155,004 in the same period a year ago. Volume then was the slowest for a mid-January in a dozen years due to the energy crisis.

Sales for the first 10 days of January this year were the lowest on record for the period, 93,235.

Sales for the Jan. 11-20 period reflect in part the impact of rebate programs designed to spur sales of new models.

REBATES OFFERED

In the two weeks since Chrysler began paying rebates of up to $400 on selected models, the other makers and more than a score of automotive supply and related firms have started similar programs.

Large and small firms are offering rebates to their employees, banks have offered to cut interest rates on new car loans.

The Detroit Red Wing hockey club said Wednesday anyone who buys a new car from an area dealer by Feb. 28 will get two free tickets to home games of the National Hockey League team.

Because of the 16-month sales slump, production lines at eight car plants in the U.S. were idle this week and 228,000 hourly employees of a total auto production work force of 685,000 were on layoff.

GM said Wednesday that all but three of its U.S. car assembly plants and all of its truck plants will operate next week. It said 6,000 employees will be on temporary layoff next week, compared with 10,455 this week and 34,800 last week. Shift reductions and production cuts will leave 93,000 GM employees on indefinite layoff by the end of the month.

Ford and two major supply firms said Wednesday they will give $100 rebates to employees who purchase new model cars.

GM, Ford and AMC are offering rebates ranging from $200 to $600 on specified small cars purchased from dealer stocks by Feb. 28. Chrysler's program ends Feb. 16.

B.C. Telephone to apply for new rate increase

VANCOUVER (CP) — When British Columbia Telephone Co. was granted rate increases last week, its reaction was boldly blunt.

The company said it was preparing to apply for another increase almost immediately. The bluntness also seems characteristic of B.C. Tel's new president, Basil Beneteau, 49.

A close acquaintance describes Mr. Beneteau this way: "He knows the telephone business from the top to bottom."

"I have been impressed with his directness; he is very progressive, thinking ahead all the time."

Any weakness?

"Perhaps, at times, a little too brusque with people. He doesn't suffer fools gladly. I would say he is fairly blunt."

The recent rate increase — 4.7 per cent for residential phones, 9.5 per cent for business phones and installation and service charge increases — was granted last week by the Canadian Transport Commission despite heavy opposition from a minority shareholder, the B.C. government, which owns 10.8 per cent of the company's publicly-traded shares.

comment about Mr. Barrett putting a government representative on B.C. Tel's 11-man board of directors, now totally occupied by appointees of General Telephone and Electronics (GTE) which owns 83 per cent of Anglo-Canadian Telephone Co., which, in turn, owns 50.69 per cent of B.C. Tel.

Anglo-Canadian also owns 54.7 per cent of Quebec Telephone where Mr. Beneteau formerly was chairman, president and chief executive officer.

General Telephone and Electronics of New York, a vertically-integrated mixture of about 180 companies, is the largest independent telephone holding company in the United States with about eight per cent of U.S. phones. American Telephone and Telegraph Co. (ATT) owns 82.7 per cent.

It is GTE's vertical integration of which the provincial government is most critical. The government contends that by purchasing equipment through family companies, B.C. Tel does not necessarily make the best deal financially or in terms of quality, and that the parent company takes huge profits out of the family suppliers.

Aim for cooling power

This is the time of year to begin thinking about buying an air conditioner. Don't forget to compare the energy efficiency ratios to get the most cooling power for your money and your needs. Divide the B.T.U. rating per hour by the watts rating. The higher the resulting number, from 4.7 to 12.2, the better. The highly efficient models may cost more initially, but the savings in electricity will make up the difference. Many manufacturers voluntarily label the efficiency ratio of their products. — H.W., Pensacola, Fla.

For future reference

Take the wrapping paper from gifts you receive, smooth it out on your ironing board and press it with a warm iron on the wrong side. If wrinkles persist, rub a barely damp cloth over it lightly and iron again.

Then spread the paper in layers and roll it on a large tube, as from aluminum foil. Place a rubber band at each end of the roll and store it with your wrapping supplies for the future. — A.S., Creston, Ia.

Thirst quenchers

Try drinking water for variety. It's the cheapest thirst quencher there is, and much healthier than most of the over-sugared, carbonated drinks we often use.

When you want fruit juice, make certain it's real fruit juice, not the imitation fruit drinks loaded with sugar, artificial flavorings and colorings with a bit of vitamin C thrown in.

Insulation ideas

When insulating around electrical receptacles be sure to use extra insulation behind the receptacle box to help cut down on air drafts.

If paneling is used, caulking the space between the receptacle and the paneling will help eliminate air drafts around the receptacle. — T.H.W., Hanover, Pa.

Hot water helps

Think about economics when you're placing a water heater. The farther water has to travel in a pipe from the heater to where it will be used, the more expensive it is.

Suggest that your builder install water heaters closer to laundry facilities, kitchens and bathrooms. — R.M., Ishpeming, Mich.

Sherbrooke Snow

Shoe Club

By LES HUMPHRIES

A Chicken Pie Supper got the annual Life Member's Night off to a good start Wednesday Night at the Sherbrooke Snow Shoe Club where 97 members and guests had congregated to celebrate this event.

In honor of the "Geritol Gang", the Kitchen Crew presented each Life Member present with a prescription bottle containing "Geritol Pills" to give them strength to survive the meeting and enable them to gain enough energy and vitality to come back to another meeting. Cecil Blenkhorn came up with new song sheets for the occasion, and as Irv. Richards is a Tee-totaler, he had some problems with Roll out the Barrel, Tavern in the Town, and I've got sixpence.

Cecil really pulled out some old ones for the "old" boys. Stan Lothrop was in charge of tickets for the Half and Half this week - first, he lost the tickets. Fortunately he had already given the money to George Jobel. However it was discovered that someone had hidden them for safekeeping.

Hawley Griffith was given the honor of drawing the winning number - Guess who won - Stan Lothrop.

After the noise had died down President Don Lyon asked the Red Party to act as Scrutineers for the voting on New Member Urban Cryan. They finally tallied the votes and Urban was welcomed into the Club.

Rev. Dean Ross was accepted into the Club as an Honorary Member. Bob "Ding-a-ling" Bell raised a point about members not wearing their name buttons. Rather than say "Hey-you" it is better to say Fred or George or Bill. This way we get to know the new members and they get to know us.

This week it was the duty of Red Party Vice-Presidents Gordon Bown and Wyatt Savage to report on Lions Ltd., a feature that will be presented weekly to the Club.

We all received a copy of the Annual Report of the B & S PIPE LYON CO. With a slogan like "B & S lies with the best" you can imagine the laughter and enjoyment it brought. Congratulations and Thanks Gordie and Wyatt for a job well done.

After a lengthy introduction Bob Bell finally got around to naming the speaker for the evening, who was in fact, our own Past President George Jobel, who traced the history of our club from its inception in 1877 when 36 men met at the Magog House to from the nucleus of the Sherbrooke Snow Shoe Club, draw up its constitution and decide on a suitable uniform.

As the years went by land was obtained on which to build a club house which was officially opened in 1888. Up until this time the members met in various locations in Sherbrooke and Lennoxville. In 1959 after further additions to the building to accommodate the increasing membership, an oil furnace was installed and running water piped in to replace the old hand pump which had stood the test of time.

The latest renovation was the complete re-wiring and installation of a new lighting system last year. Following the thanks of the Club Members by Irving Richards, George received a standing ovation for his excellent presentation.

Before adjournment, President Don called on Life Members Howard Kennedy, Hawley Griffith, Norman Flint and Ray Hutchinson who addressed the gathering briefly. Darts, Cards, Table Tennis and Volleyball completed the evening's activities. "Recruits on Revue" next Wednesday at 7 p.m. Supper meeting. The new members are preparing the entertainment. Let's show our appreciation by supporting them with our presence and encouragement.

New North Hatley residents

Film-making their profession

By ROSA HARRIS
Record Reporter

NORTH HATLEY — It's an extremely colorful dwelling-place, reflecting faithfully, one feels, the personalities of its inhabitants. Baskets of gourds and oranges adorn the sill of a window which looks out on stately Lake Massawippi. Books on every conceivable subject line the walls — and there are many walls to line in this sprawling house.

The most striking feature of Peter and Frances Mellen's North Hatley home, however, is how it seems to have absorbed the vitality of its owners. The energy of the film-making duo virtually reverberates off the walls, and has an immediate effect on whoever steps in the door.

"Come right in," Frances Mellen urges, "and take a look upstairs at the film studio Peter's building while I put on the coffee. We love this house. There's so much room to work in."

This reporter, a little taken aback by the effervescent reception, dutifully heads upstairs to have a look and is indeed impressed by the professional-looking film studio which is emerging out of the planks of wood and sawdust. Later, over large mugs of coffee, the Mellens explain their development as film-makers.

Originally from Virginia, Mrs. Mellen came to Canada to complete a PhD in geography.

"I was studying at the University of Toronto, and later taught at Ryerson Institute there. Somewhere in the middle of all this, however, I realized that geography was not my true vocation," she recalls.

"I became interested in making films with my students," she goes on, "and I used to try and caddy film equipment from the film-instructor at Ryerson. When he realized I didn't know much about the mechanics of film-making, he suggested I take a few courses. That was the beginning."

With an experimental film course under her belt, she went on to make a series of shorts on topics ranging from pollution to urbanism.

What brought about the mid-stream career switch?

"Well," says Mrs. Mellen, "although my development in movies was gradual, the decision was pretty sudden. I was on a plane coming back from a vacation with Peter. My father had just died, and I guess I didn't consider the world a very safe place. I felt if you wanted to do something, you had to do it fast. I said to Peter 'I think we should make films.' He said 'I think that's a good idea.' The rest is history."

Their early trials and tribulations can be chuckled at now, but initially they ran into a few frustrating problems.

"We decided to try our hand at movies by learning how to use a camera first," Mrs. Mellen laughs. "All we had available was Peter's father's ancient eight millimeter camera. We discovered manufacturers didn't even make film for that kind of camera anymore."

But they persevered, becoming more and more adept in their field.

At present, he says, he is learning to combine both forms of communication. Working under a senior Canada Council arts grant he is currently making a film and writing a book on contemporary Canadian art.

The Mellens feel that Canadians have a unique cultural identity — contrary to popular opinion.

"The thing that struck me container into which I can unload my experience."

The concept of movie-making as a craft rather than an art is something the Mellens both feel strongly about.

Mr. Mellen explains that film-making, as a total concept is what he and his wife are trying to achieve.

"Generally, people tend to specialize too much. Somebody does the cinematography, someone edits, and no-one has a general impression of the film."

"While I think some specialization is necessary — we're using more outside people ourselves — it's still important to us to get involved in every aspect of the films we make."

Mrs. Mellen adds that it's the non-bureaucratic approach to film-making that appeals to them.

"It's not specialization that bothers us so much as it is the bureaucracy so evident in most film-making ventures today," she elaborated.

Currently, the Mellens are working on a comedy to be completed tentatively this summer. The title is "City Folk" and the subject — urban emigration to the country — has lent itself to burlesque, according to the Mellens. Mrs. Mellen is writing the screenplay for the 25 minute short.

Another iron in the fire at present is the completion of a film they shot in Newfoundland recently, filmed aboard a steamer travelling down the southwest coast of that province. The theme of this movie is the changing nature of Newfoundland society.

"The struggles of the people isolated in tiny communities of 40 families barely clinging to survival captured our imagination," Peter muses. "We knew we had to film it."

The Mellens have chosen North Hatley as a base because they find a semi-rural environment most conducive to their creativity. They believe they have made deeper friendships here than they did in

Stanstead College

By IVY HATCH

This Sunday, January 26 is the annual communities youth masquerade on ice at the arena where Bernie and Sybil Laberee will be the host and hostess assisted by their staff.

This is for youngsters up to and including the age of 14 years. There will be prizes for classes in costume and others for races. This will start at 1:30 and continue until 4:30 p.m. Adults are most welcome to be on hand to see the fun.

Wednesday, January 5, the BCS Bantam A. hockey team journeyed down to Stanstead for the second encounter of the season. The Stanstead Bantams still licking their wounds from the previous 4-3 loss to BCS, played an outstanding passing and skating game and won 5-1. Goals scored were by Wallace, 2, Alexander, 2, and Eagle, 1.

Monty Allan played a great game between the pipes. The Bantams have one game before exams, an exhibition with the Village of Stanstead Pee-Wees.

Those who saw the Varsity Hockey game at the Arena here on January 18 between Stanstead and BCS say the first two periods were excellent. The first period was scoreless. Stanstead scored once in the second but in the third, Stanstead went to pieces and lost the game by several points.

Brian Denney's Varsity basketball team participated in the AGRHS tournament in Lennoxville on the weekend. In the first round with Lorne Park, Toronto, they lost. Then in the second round with Massey-Vanier, we had a score of 61-44 to win. The Stanstead boys then advanced to play Richelieu Valley and won 56-53 which gave Stanstead the consolation round. Jim Echeverry was one of the students chosen as an All Star.

With exams which started on January 22, and the long weekend January 28 to February 2, there will be games only starting on Feb. 5.

$3,000 granted to historical society

Through the efforts of Glen Brown, M.L.A. the Missisquoi County Historical Society has received a grant of $3,000 from the Cultural Affairs Department of the Provincial Government.

$2,000 of which is for the museum and $1,000 for Hodge's Store.

This 1840 store was acquired by the historical society in 1971, was completely renovated in 1972 and '73 through two LIP grants and set up as an Old Time Country Store.

Volunteer help keep the store open on Saturday and Sunday afternoons for four months during the summer. This store is unique in that it is 90 per cent stocked with the original merchandise as found in the store. Nothing is for sale and no admission is charged, this being the only store of its kind for many miles around.

It has proven to be very popular with an admission of 1,290 registered visitors during the four months that it was open during 1974. There were actually many more than the 1,290 visitors due to the fact that many people do not bother to register or sometimes one person registers for a whole family.

Up until now there have been no funds available for its upkeep and maintenance, except by contributions to the collection box. Now, with this very generous grant, several badly needed improvements can be made and the Old Country Store will become a more valuable asset of the Missisquoi County Historical Society.

The Games must go on

Upon my return to Canada, after closely observing the 1972 Munich Olympics, I spouted enthusiasm for the Games at every opportunity. In response I usually received a dull negative reaction which over the past few months has slowly been changing to genuine enthusiasm for the Games and all that they stand for.

Sherbrooke residents should not forget that this city has been chosen to host portions of the soccer and handball competitions. The impact that the 1976 Olympics will have on Sherbrooke, Montreal, Quebec and Canada will be enormous. West Germany plunged into the Olympic spirit wholeheartedly. Vast sums of money, much beyond what had been predicted, were spent and even though Germans understood that most of this money was not retrievable, they were behind their government one hundred per cent.

The difficulties that Mayor Drapeau is experiencing now are by no means insurmountable. The labor dispute with the iron workers has been solved, or at least for the time being. The pile drivers strike deserves the same attention from Quebec.

During Premier Bourassa's visit to Sherbrooke on Monday, he said that Canada, Quebec and Montreal would suffer "enormous humiliation in the eyes of the world if the Games are cancelled." Thousands of athletes, coaches, trainers and support staff have been preparing for this event for years. Participant countries have been spending money in order to prepare for the Games and if they should be cancelled, for any reason, the future of the Games will be in jeopardy.

The Olympics are now facing a crisis that may be compared to the Munich tragedy when 16 Israeli delegates were killed and the Games had to be postponed. The Black September organization chose Munich as their target simply because it was the focus of world-wide attention. The power that the construction workers hold over Mayor Drapeau is effective because Montreal is now also the center of world attention.

In 1972, when the delegates to the Games learned of the fate of the Israeli athletes people everywhere were in tears. The fate of future Olympics was being questioned, many feared that the Games would be cancelled. At the moment when the president of the Olympic Organizing Committee made his now famous announcement that "the Games must go on", people were laughing and singing in the streets.

The surge of Canadian nationalism that can be expected if the Games are held in Montreal is sure to catch many people by surprise. Never before will Canadians everywhere be so proud to be Canadian.

In 1974, Willi Daume, vice-president of the International Olympic Committee, said that financing of any undertaking the size of the Olympics is always difficult. He expressed hope that Montreal's scheme would guide the way to less developed countries who have hesitated in making bids because of a lack of financial resources. If Montreal fails to hold the Olympics, other countries cannot be expected to risk holding them. If the 1976 Olympics are aborted, the result could well be the end of the Olympics as we now know them.

Premier Bourassa asked Monday that the costs be reduced to an "acceptable level" if his government was to further support the project. Roger Frot, president of the Sherbrooke Olympic Co-ordinating Committee, said in 1974 that: "We cannot escape the realization that this event, which will require much investment, must be profit-earning for our city." It is estimated that Sherbrooke will have to pay $80,000 in order to provide facilities for the soccer and handball events.

The Olympic deadline is rapidly approaching, it is time for Quebecers everywhere to let Premier Bourassa know that "the Games must go on."

Letters to the editor

Dear Editor:

Your recent correspondent's letter about gun control covers a much more serious subject than one would think, at first glance. Once again, certain citizens (read factions) are on the prowl for more stringent supervision of firearms. This question keeps cropping up and then dies on the vine.

The most common arguments for a reduction in crime and lessening of accidental deaths. Theoretically yes. Practically, a most emphatic, "No". Prior to the introduction of firearms, would you believe, they had a substantial crime rate in Europe not to mention accidental deaths (picking one's teeth with a claymore took a high degree of skill).

Surely we have all heard the arguments against the red-necked ridge runners. Self-defence in the event of a no-show by police, defence of the country by a hardcore group of steely-eyed minutemen, etc. The best reason advanced, so far, is the erosion of rights and privileges considering the fact that all legally acquired handguns are already registered at great inconvenience to those with the true grit to carry through.

One must pick out the item desired from a dealer (scarce as they are), obtain the serial number and leave a deposit. Application is then made to the QPF who fingerprint the applicant and make discreet inquiries from prominent local citizens and neighbors about stability, habits, etc. The last form seen by the writer, years ago, insisted that you make a declaration to the effect that the gun would be used either for house defence or for organized club shooting. Because I felt that (a) requesting the opinions of others as to the probity of my behavior was an insult (b) ordinary citizens should not use firearms for self-defence without proper training (c) hobby clubs I've known were dominated by those who think that expensive equipment is the only equipment, I never took the plunge (no prominent people knew me and the neighbors were all a pain in the neck anyway).

Seriously though, when the permit has been obtained, it is presented to the dealer and the transaction completed. It is merely an owner's permit and you are expressly forbidden to transport the gun from one place to another, concealed, dismantled or otherwise. Think about it. Assuming you managed to get it home without getting busted, you would have to nail it to the wall in the event of a move and borrow someone else's gun down at the club or dive into the red tape once again.

A few years ago, the writer witnessed a recent arrival from a former enemy country in both world wars walk across the street in Lennoxville with a pistol in his hand. Now I know that man is a club member and a citizen in good standing but it seemed ludicrous that this could occur and yet a seventh-generation Canadian, no criminal record in the family, two brothers overseas in WW 2 and a father overseas in WW 1 (all on our side, I think), could have one by touching his forelock, allowing others to pass judgment on him, making untrue statements not to mention fingerprinting.

Shotguns and rifles are used in robberies a lot less than illegal handguns are simply because of ease of concealment of the more compact handguns. However, they are used quite frequently in violent crimes by unbalanced people who would think of some other way to accomplish their purpose, as they have in the past, in the event of a gun shortage (this, I can vouch for).

Hear me out. Why not an amnesty for all gun owners with the police submitting a fired bullet and cartridge case to Ottawa for filing electronically? This would help and it would be one of the very few good applications for a computer. Guns are here to stay and they cause a lot less trouble, in peacetime, than alcoholic beverages, automobiles, snowmobiles, etc.

I enjoyed the reference made to the fancy trappings of the target shooter but have you seen golfers, skiers of both categories, snowmobilers, horsemen, boat owners and even students? They all have to have a uniform, details of which I will not dwell upon.

As for hunting, if you care to spend slightly less money than that required for an all-inclusive African safari, you can be transported to the remotest regions of the province to enjoy fishing and hunting comparable to that found in the wilds of New York state or even Michigan. The average citizen can no more enjoy decent fishing and hunting in Quebec than I can enjoy trying to put two slugs through the same hole in a piece of paper 100 yards away with some antigrav breathing down my neck.

Finally, do not make light of the Swiss because even Hitler hesitated to take them on and the Russians certainly did not enjoy the Finnish campaign. In more recent times where the pressing of a button is supposed to wipe out humanity, the mighty armed forces of the U.S.A. (whom I respect and admire) did not exactly distinguish themselves against a bunch of disciplined inhabitants of small villages in Viet Nam armed with modern small arms. I even had a letter from an acquaintance in one unit begging me to send off all the information on current communist small arms that I could gather. He was a combat soldier.

Maybe I can get my hobby subsidized like a lot of others are and maybe one of those rifle clubs can produce a shooter that can distinguish himself in international competition so that Canada can place within ten points of Lower Slobbovia in the next Olympics.

Sincerely,
D.I. Witherspoon

To the Editor:

Once again our volunteers have worked hard during December, 1974 to help people of all ages in Cowansville. Of course, this was Christmas time and everybody was busy getting ready, but 53 volunteers have found the time to render services to their fellow-men.

These volunteers have given seventy-three hours to bring happiness for Christmas; for example, the St-Louis hospital was visited by Santa and our volunteers. For this occasion there were gifts offered to the old people, the sick and the lonely. These gifts were donated by other local organizations and we take this opportunity to thank them warmly.

Local transportation was provided to ten people for a total of 14 hours; 28 hours were devoted to those who need help with housework, washing and ironing and also for some sewing.

The Richelieu-Yamaska Federation for community services had their campaign; two of our volunteers helped with solicitation.

As we all know, the Federation provides financial help to local organizations such as ours to allow these organizations to operate. Other tasks were done, such as helping with the translation from French to English of our articles in the local papers. Some have designed and addressed Christmas cards and others have visited the lonely and the sick people.

Everybody has worked hard in December, and we can be proud of our volunteers who have given their time and effort to help make a happy Christmas for those in need.

If any of you, dear readers, feel like joining us, do not hesitate anymore. The volunteer Service Centre (263-3758) needs YOU.

Pressures from presidents past

Jack Anderson's

Washington Merry-go-round

WASHINGTON — The preliminary, secret testimony in the CIA investigation has focused on the White House itself.

Former CIA chief Richard Helms, according to sources close to the investigation, testified behind closed doors that he had been pressured by both presidents Lyndon Johnson and Richard Nixon to spy on Vietnam War protesters.

As far back as 1967, Helms alleged, Johnson began badgering him to investigate any connection between the protest movement and foreign enemies.

Both Johnson and Nixon suspected that the Communists were pumping money into the antiwar movement. However, Helms reported that the CIA found no significant foreign influence.

Some radical groups, such as the Black Panthers and the Weathermen, had foreign contacts. But the student opposition to the war effort was largely an American phenomenon, said Helms.

His secret testimony was taken by the President's Commission to Investigate the Central Intelligence Agency. Other witnesses confirmed that the CIA files on American citizens largely grew out of the Johnson-Nixon concern over the antiwar agitation.

At first, the Secret Service began investigating every group, no matter how innocent, that expressed the slightest criticism of the President. The Nonviolent Direct Action group came under surveillance, as a typical example, because it "urged members to write Pres and other govt officials to protest war in Vietnam," according to confidential Secret Service records.

By late 1970, the Secret Service developed a computer network, which now contains information on more than 180,000 Americans. Other government agencies also began trading information. Files began to grow on tens of thousands of citizens who were guilty of nothing more serious than shooting off their mouths against the President's policies.

Dozens of celebrities wound up in the files, including comedians Dick Gregory, Groucho Marx and Tony Randall, actors Marion Brando, Paul Newman and Rock Hudson; actor-producer Carl Reiner; conservative news commentator Paul Harvey; and folk singer Joan Baez.

The CIA, of course, got caught up in the hysteria. There were times when the CIA overstepped its legal limits and conducted domestic surveillance. It became increasingly difficult to draw the line between legitimate security and political security.

This was the atmosphere in the back-rooms of the CIA when the Watergate caper began. The CIA didn't balk, therefore, at furnishing E. Howard Hunt with a reddish wig, glasses, a speech alteration device a set of alias documents, a tape recorder concealed in a portable typewriter case, two microphones and a camera disguised in a tobacco pouch.

Hunt used this James Bond paraphernalia to carry out his Watergate assignments. The CIA has insisted in secret statements that it had no knowledge of Hunt's Watergate role. The supply officer, Cleo Gephart, has sworn that he thought Hunt was a member of the CIA's Domestic Contact Service.

This is the branch that interviews U.S. travelers who might pick up interesting information abroad. Gephart didn't explain why Hunt would need a fancy disguise if he were merely conducting routine interviews.

It is also interesting that the CIA converted the Domestic Contact Service from a routine intelligence operation to a clandestine service in 1973. This was done ostensibly for budgetary reasons. But once the unit became a clandestine service, the CIA was no longer obligated to give Congress a detailed account of its activities.

In fairness, it should be added that Helms resisted most of the pressure from the White House to go beyond his legal authority.

Watch on Waste: The balustrades and handrails in the old Senate Office Building have been refurbished so Senators can descend the stairways in style. The cost to the taxpayers: $111,500. — At Ft. Carson, Colo., the Army is planning to spend between $250,000 and $500,000 to build handsome, new field latrines near the base firing range. An Army spokesman told us it's all "according to regulations." — While President Ford is calling upon all Americans to conserve energy, Andrews Air Force Base, where the presidential planes are based, has upped its jet fuel requirements 246,780 gallons. A spokesman explained that more pilots have been assigned to the base, so more fuel is needed for them to fly. — Down the road at Bolling Air Force Base, enlisted men and women have been ordered to turn off their exterior lights in the family housing quarters to save energy. But the officers' lights, particularly along General's Row, still burn brightly. — After we reported that the Internal Revenue Service was treating itself to new furniture in Detroit and consigning used but useable furniture to outside offices, the frugal FBI called to request some of the old furniture. The G-men were told that the furniture could be distributed only to other IRS offices.

Record Yester Years

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

SHERBROOKE — Eleven years ago, Sherbrooke had no official police force.

Instead, the police and fire departments were grouped as one unit, with many of its members serving double duty as firemen and police constables.

But on Dec. 4, 1944, Edouard Moreau, who joined as a fireman-constable on the combined force in 1938, was appointed chief of a new and independent police force, and the Policemen's Association of Sherbrooke came into being.

Yesterday, the members of the association joined together in 10th anniversary celebrations which not only commemorated the separation of police and fire departments in Sherbrooke, but which also paid tribute to Police Edouard Moreau and his first decade of service to the department.

In an anniversary banquet attended by some 50 members of the local force, at the No. 1 police station on Marquette street, president of the policemen's Association, Maurice Houle, paid tribute to Chief Moreau, and on behalf of the 70-member force presented him with a full colour portrait of himself by Gaby. Sunday morning Chief Moreau led the force on parade to the 54th Armoury on Belvedere street, where a special mass was held, conducted by Father E. Poser of the Mariannhill Monastery. The force's padre, Father Leon Drapeau preached the sermon.

20 YEARS AGO TODAY

SHERBROOKE — The case of the Paton Manufacturing Company against the Canadian Bank of Commerce, which opened before Mr. Justice White in the Superior Court on Thursday last, was adjourned following yesterday's session until Tuesday. Present indications are that the case will be concluded next week. Examining will be continued on Tuesday, when the auditors and the few remaining witnesses will be called to the stand, and it is quite likely that the argument in the case will commence on Wednesday.

The examination to date has been chiefly in connection with the banking business of the Paton Company and the Bank. A considerable amount of time has also been given to the study of cheques and depositor's slips made out by T.G. Haultain, former office employee of the Paton Company.

This case, which is of unusual nature, is attracting considerable interest. In this case the Paton Manufacturing Company demands from the Bank the sum of $22,616.87, which they claim was given to T.G. Haultain, a former employee of the Paton Manufacturing Company, by the bank in an illegal way.

BETTER LETTUCE through X-rays is the idea of an experimental mechanical harvester developed by Agriculture Department engineers at Salinas, Calif. A small medical-type unit, located directly behind the uplited wheel in foreground, monitors lettuce for maturity. When a head of proper diameter and density passes between the X-ray and a photodiode, a signal activates a knife that slices off the head and starts it through the harvester, which has a 15-man crew and can harvest up to 400 cartons per hour. Fifteen men harvesting by hand turn out 180 to 225 cartons per hour.

OTTAWA (CP) — By re-emphasizing the fundamentals of the movement, scouting can reverse its recent membership decline and go on to new strengths.

That's the view of Lt-Gen. William Carr, Canada's deputy chief scout.

The Boy Scouts of Canada, the movement's English-speaking section, has lost members steadily since it reached a peak of 288,000 in 1965. By the end of 1974, this figure had declined more than 26 per cent, to 212,000.

But scout officials see reason for optimism in the fact that the 1974 drop was only 1.5 per cent from 1973 figures. "I am not preoccupied with numbers but rather with the relevance and quality of our programs," said Gen. Carr. "Then, automatically, the numbers will come."

He said loss of membership can be related in part to a general decline in the number of young people eligible to participate in boy scout programs after the end of the post-war baby boom. There are scout programs for all from the age of five to 24.

SCOUTING ENTHUSIAST Gen. Carr is deputy chief of defence staff and one of the top military men in the country. But his real passion is the scouting movement in which he has participated for 40 years as a scout, scout leader and scoutmaster.

He assumed his present position in the movement about 18 months ago. The Chief Scout of Canada is Gov-Gen Jules Léger.

Gen. Carr said the movement began to lose members in the mid-1960s because it strayed away from its guiding principles.

"In our attempt to keep up with the times we tended to over-sophisticate our programs."

The movement began to use jargon that more properly belonged in a business organization, referring to establishment of goals, measurement of success and similar terms.

At the same time there was a tendency to "over-democratize" the movement. The traditional role of leaders was undermined, resulting in lower morale among adult volunteers.

"Youth wants leaders. They know they need leaders."

CAMPS WELL-ATTENDED After a period of intense self-examination, the organization has also decided to redouble its emphasis on outdoor programs.

Gen. Carr cited increased attendance at summer camps and weekend camps in 1974 as evidence of renewed interest.

But there was a growing recognition that the attitude of scouts to the outdoors would have to change.

In its report to the November meeting of the Boy Scouts of Canada national council, the program committee said:

"In recent years we have been coming under increasing criticism by outside authorities, the phrase 'behave like scouts' often being used to describe destructive camping practices."

Gen. Carr agreed that scouts will have to change their approach. Live trees should no longer be cut, grease pits no longer dug and all garbage should be taken from campsites.

Again he said, it's just a matter of returning to the fundamentals of the movement. He quoted its founder, Lord Baden-Powell: "When you leave a campsite, leave nothing but your thanks."

PROGRAMS ADAPTABLE He said scouting must become more adaptable in its approach to boys in urbanized settings. There are pilot programs in cities like Toronto aimed at the special needs of youth in ethnic communities and in high-rise apartment buildings.

But scouts have long since learned to adapt their programs to the special needs of different areas, the deputy chief scout added.

In the Arctic, where about 45 per cent of eligible youths are scout members, it was found that awards for campfire and woodcraft skills were not practical in the barren environment.

So the movement introduced awards for interpretation skills, dog-team driving and snow-house building.

As Shakespeare might well have said, "Take your game and let the honors go."

South thought of this, but greed got the better of him and he bid the game in his suit instead of notrump. Fortunately for his continuing good relations with his partner, South worked out the correct line of play.

He started proceedings by cashing his second high spade at trick two. Then he led a club to dummy's 10 and East's jack. East led back a third spade, but that didn't upset South at all. He ruffed and led a second club.

East won and led a fourth spade. South ruffed again and led a third club. Eventually, South wound up with his own five trumps, two spades, two diamonds and a ruff of his fourth club with dummy's nine of trumps to score game, rubber and 150 honors.

The really noteworthy part of South's play occurred at trick two when he cashed his second high spade. If he had failed to make this play, East could have beaten South by the simple expedient of taking three immediate club tricks. This would have allowed West to jettison his second spade, whereupon East would have simply given his partner a ruff.

The bidding has been:

You, South, hold:

What do you do now?
A—Bid five hearts. Once more you are asking your partner to bid six if he can take the second diamond. However, if he now bids six diamonds you should bid seven hearts.

TODAY'S QUESTION
Instead of rebidding two hearts your partner rebids two diamonds. What do you do now?

WI Meeting

AYER'S CLIFF — The January meeting of the Women's Institute was held in the United Church Hall on Friday afternoon, Jan. 10.

The meeting was conducted by the president Mrs. Eileen Lord and opened with the Collect and the singing of two verses of the Ode.

The roll call was answered by fifteen members who responded by saying what they think of first when unexpected guests arrive. Reports were given and approved. Several thank-you notes were read from people who had been remembered at Christmas.

Convenors reports were given. Agriculture: Mrs. K. Little reported on plans for the School Fair for 1975. She stated that we must be prepared to serve many more people at the booth as the Fair will be much larger this year.

Citizenship: Mrs. M. Dezan read an article on respecting the rights and liberties of others.

Education: Mrs. L. McPaul read an item about retired teachers' pensions and also asked members to save their used postage stamps through the year.

Home Economics: Mrs. T. Ride read an article from the Canadian Consumers Magazine on the dangers of using Pam and also asked for volunteers to make articles for the Fair Exhibit.

Welfare and Health: Mrs. W.B. Holmes gave an interesting account of the Home Care Nursing Service now available to all persons requiring it.

Sunshine: Mrs. M. Thompson reported that she sent out 32 Christmas cards and with the help of the committee, prepared and delivered 24 plates of Christmas goodies to the sick and shut-ins.

The needlepoint bag made by Mrs. Ruth Waite which was raffled before Christmas was won by Mrs. Edith Olson of St. Catharines, Ont.

The convenors agreed to get together on Jan. 14 to make out their annual reports in readiness for their annual meeting in February.

The president named Mrs. K. Little, Mrs. J. Walker and Mrs. Wm. Robinson to act on the nominating committee.

It was agreed to send a shower of get well cards and a basket of fruit to a member in hospital.

The programme for this meeting was a white elephant sale, which was conducted auction style by the Home Ec. convenor, Mrs. Ride and proved both interesting and profitable.

At the close of the meeting, dainty refreshments were served by the hostesses Mrs. Hugh McComb and Mrs. E. Astbury and a pleasant social hour enjoyed.

KNOWLTON

Stephen Morson

243-5870

The Rev. Francois Menard, Cure of St. Edouard's Church, has been on the sick list for the past few weeks, and was for a time a patient in the Hotel Dieu, Sorel, Que. It is hoped that he will be home this weekend and able to resume his Parish duties, best wishes are extended for his complete return to good health.

Mrs. Kenneth Blake, Mrs. Helen Bell and Miss Vicki Blake, all of Ayer's Cliff, were visiting Mrs. Stephen Morson after her return home from hospital.

There will be held a 'Blizzard of Bargains' in St. Paul's Church Hall on Friday, February 7 when clothing, jewellery, china, home furnishings, kitchen utensils, etc., will be offered at bargain prices, everything guaranteed in good condition. This sale is sponsored by St. Paul's Church ACW (Afternoon group).

Mr. and Mrs. James Walsh, late of Knowlton, and now residing in Bedford, Que. at the home of Mrs. Shirley Chase, wish to express their thanks through this column, to all their Knowlton friends who remembered them with cards and flowers at Christmas time. Mr. and Mrs. Walsh are both very well and well taken care of by Mrs. Chase. Mr. Walsh recently celebrated his 94th birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Donald were in the Anglican Cathedral, Montreal, on Sunday afternoon for the farewell service on the occasion of the retirement of Bishop Maguire. The Cathedral was filled to capacity for this service, which was followed by a social hour in Fulford Hall. The Consecration and Enthronement of Bishop-elect Reginald Hollis will take place in the Cathedral on Saturday January 25, with the Consecration at 10:30 a.m. and the Enthronement at 4:00 p.m. Admission will be by ticket only, but will be televised live on Channel 12 at 4:00 p.m.

Several Knowlton residents, including your Record correspondent, have received word from Rev. and Mrs. Ian Dodd in England: they are well and settled down to their new work in Birmingham, but, as they state, Birmingham is a far and lonely cry from Knowlton. Thought for the week from St. Paul's: "Things of which we are dead certain are DEAD."

EAST FARNHAM

Mrs. Eunice Thomas

Miss A.E. Collins spent a couple of days in Montreal last week consulting her eye specialist and also called on Mr. Luther King at the Royal Victoria Hospital.

Mrs. Henry Hall passed away in Montreal recently and her remains were brought to Riverside Vault for interment in the East Farnham Riverside Cemetery later in the year.

Tenants and Landlords... How to live in harmony in 1975.

Here are a few pointers to guide you.

The Rental Board Commissioner (Régie des Loyers) has jurisdiction over all rented apartments throughout the Province of Québec except for those whose construction started after December 31st, 1973.

If the duration of your lease is 12 months or more and expires on April 30th or May 1st, 1975, it comes under the category of automatically renewable leases, subject to the same conditions and at the same rental price, until June 30th, 1976.

To avoid automatic renewal

a) the tenant must:
— advise the landlord in writing, prior to February 1st, 1975, of his intention to vacate the premises upon the expiry of his present lease.

b) the landlord must:

— send a written eviction notice prior to February 1st, 1975;
— or send a written notice of rent increase or changes in clauses in the lease, prior to February 1st, 1975.

Upon receipt of one or the other of these notices from a landlord, the tenant can, within 30 days of his notice:

a) advise the landlord in writing of his intention to vacate the premises;
b) or provide a written request to the Rental Board Commissioner (Régie des Loyers du Québec) to obtain an extension of the lease and/or determine the amount of the rent. A copy of the request must also be sent to the landlord within the prescribed delay period of 30 days.

The tenant who does not reply to his landlord, or who does not contact the Rental Commissioner (Régie des Loyers du Québec) within 30 days provided for by law, accepts the notice of either eviction, increase in rent, or changes in clauses in the lease.

If your lease is shorter than 12 months, or if it expires on a date other than April 30th, or May 1st, 1975, contact your legal advisor or the Rental Commissioner (Régie des Loyers du Québec) for more complete details.

Every lease made, renewed or extended must conform to the conditions of the lease distributed without charge by the Gouvernement du Québec. It is available in French or English (the tenant has preference of choice) in all banking establishments and Caisses populaires, at la Régie des Loyers' offices, at a large number of newsstands or by writing to:

Women's year plans described by QFW

Editor's note: The following is the first of a series of articles written by members of the Federation of Quebec Women from the Eastern Townships division. With the advent of International Women's Year, the federation would like to bring to the public's attention a few salient points on the subject of women's equality.

SHERRBROOKE — Proclaimed by the United Nations, endorsed by governments, and launched by women's organizations under the banner "EQUALITY, DEVELOPMENT AND PEACE," what does 1975 bring to women? This depends upon us: our interests, our talents, and our support for the various programmes undertaken.

We women make up half the world's population. With such numbers to support us, we have chosen to take advantage of the opportunities granted by International Women's Year to explore a theme which affects us in all aspects of daily life, be it as an individual, as a member of a family, in school, at work or elsewhere: sexuality.

The Federation of Quebec Women, Eastern Townships Section, is preparing a programme of lectures, group discussions, audio-visual presentations, articles and interviews focussing on sexuality. We believe that the time has come to change a conditioning which causes many problems. Our traditional society creates stereotypes which imprison us, both men and women, even in 1975.

Here are a few examples: We asked some boys and girls, aged 8 and 9, the following questions: Are there differences between boys and girls? If so, what are they? They replied:

Boys are better than girls in school. (Denis, age 8)

Girls like dolls. Boys play football or baseball or with cars. (Michele, age 9)

Women clean the house. Men only do so sometimes. (Michele, age 9)

Girls do not live like boys. Girls do housework and boys play. (Stephanie, age 8)

Women don't use tools, like in a garage. (Chantal, age 9)

Girls obey their mothers because they want to show that they are nicer than boys. (Louis, age 9)

Girls wear dresses. Boys wear sweaters and pants. (Michele, age 9)

During the interview this little girl was wearing a sweater and pants.)

Must we continue to cling to these stereotypes? Come to our meetings and voice your opinions. The dates and places will be published shortly.

West Coast menswear has style all its ownBy Helen Hennessy
NEA Women's Editor

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. — (NEA) — A diversified and imaginative group of West Coast menswear designers was shown here during the Men's Fashion Association's Press Preview staged at the Gene Autry Hotel in conjunction with the Men's Apparel Guild in California.

All of the styles exhibited illustrated the elan and freedom of Pacific-area designers, who impart a distinctive verve to their clothes while remaining within the current fashion trends — many of which they originate.

The suits and sport coats, for example, held to the shaped two-button models but are individualized by unusual detailings applied to the collars, lapels and pockets. Their squarish, "forward pitch" shoulders originated on the West Coast and are hallmarks of this area's clothes. Colors are in pastel shades — linen tones, whites and off-whites. In many cases buttons utilize metals, horn, wood and enamel. Western-type suits and sport coats worn by oilmen and ranchers appear with trimmed yokes, pointed pocket flaps and fancy backs.

Easy suits, the casual clothes that have taken the nation by storm, were among the most important styles shown and they came in three basic types: The short blouson or battle jackets, the C.P.O. overshirts and the safaris.

Outerwear stamped with Pacific Coast styling was very well represented and much emphasis was placed on smooth and sueded leather look and leather tailored into trench coats, shirts, safaris and stockman's coats.

T-shirts, now well established in the fashion firmament, are a California forte and they were shown in a rainbow of colors decorated with an eye-popping array of prints.

Of course the things to wear with T-shirts are jeans. And these wildly popular pants are getting their fashion due. The newest models have saddle seats. They fit snugly at the thigh and flare out to the bottom of the leg.

The slacks shown were generally classic in concept with Western pockets. Most were in polyester double-knits.

Swim wear collections ranged from coordinate top-and-bottom pool suits to basketball model trunks, brief bikinis and a new minimal racing trunk knitted of bright, shiny nylon.

(NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Navy polyester double-knit shirt jacket features epaulets and flapped patch pockets. Blue plaid polyester double-knit slacks and a white knit shirt complete this leisure look. Beige polyester double-knit gabardine leisure suit (right) by Ron Postal features flapped bay pockets, upper zipped flapped pockets, front and back yokes, horn-like buttons and contrast topstitching. Cotton T-shirts (far right) are imprinted with colorful 1930s cartoon scenario and surfing scene.

Ann Landers*Fat husbands need a lesson

Dear Ann Landers: I have some practical advice to the woman whose husband is eating himself to death. Yours was fine — as far as it went. Here's mine: (1) If you have never worked and have no marketable skills, go back to school NOW, while he is around and still able to pay for it. (2) If you DO have marketable skills, get them in shape if you are a little rusty. You'll probably want (or need) to go back to work.

(3) Make sure he has all his insurance policies paid up and ask him to tell you all you will need to know if he should keep over suddenly from a heart attack. Most women are in a state of abysmal ignorance when it comes to their husband's financial affairs. They must then depend on attorneys who discover the estate was left in an awful mess. Sometimes there isn't even a valid will. This can mean real trouble as well as horrendous financial losses.

(4) If you don't already know, ask your husband to show you how to change a fuse, how to start the lawn mower, and how to handle balky plumbing. These jobs are very simple — when you know how.

(5) No sex. You don't want to be responsible for his heart attack. And in your situation, you need another baby like you need a case of smallpox.

If you follow my advice you will probably damage his male ego, but you might shock him into taking off those killer pounds. You might also give him additional years so he can enjoy his golden wedding anniversary — and his grandchildren. — Farsighted In Florida

Dear Farsighted: Thanks for an excellent letter. I go along with everything you said — except Point Five.

Sex will not bring on a heart attack — even in the obese. Some men are stricken during sex, but the attack was due anyway.

A denial of intimacy to a fat husband is a punitive act and will not encourage him to lose weight. It will merely provide him with a perfect excuse to seek satisfaction elsewhere.

Dear Ann Landers: I am sure you've already heard more than you want to from women who don't iron their bedsheets and towels, but please, can I have the last word?

In your answer you said, "We iron ours." Anybody with half a working brain knows that a family of two doesn't need more than one person to do the ironing. It came through plenty clear that you have a maid. What you SHOULD have said was, she irons YOURS. I'm signing myself — Reading Between The Lines

Dear Friend: You might be reading "between the lines" but you are obviously missing the whole column from time to time. I straightened out the nightmare several days ago — put on sackcloth and ashes and confessed that I hadn't done any ironing for 25 years, which was why my answer was a bummer. I also offered to eat a generous slice of crow. Do you think now I should offer to drink a cup of hemlock? Please rush your answer. I'm waiting.

Confidential to Want To Stand On My Own Two Feet: It's awfully hard to do when one foot is in your mouth. Try thinking before you speak.

it, get Ann Landers's new long, self-addressed, stamped booklet, "Straight Dope on envelope (20 cents postage) to Drugs." For each booklet or Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, dored, send a dollar bill plus a Elgin, Illinois 60120.

Vegetable and fruit crop appraised

Since early fall, Canadians, as always, have been dependent on storage stocks, greenhouses, and imports for most fresh fruits and vegetables. In early December, in excess of last year's inventory. With a record potato crop harvested in the United States this year, wholesale and retail prices will likely rise moderately

Of the domestic vegetable crops going into storage for fresh (rather than processed) consumption, cabbage, carrots, onions, beets and turnips are reportedly in good supply, although beets are scarce in some areas. In terms of storage stocks in December, onions were up about 12 per cent over last year, carrots are down to a normal level but cabbage is up. In recent years, there has been a consumer shift away from Canadian grown carrots for fresh consumption to imported carrots.

Wholesale prices of fresh vegetables relative to late 1973 levels vary from region to region. In the Montreal area, most of these vegetables are selling below year-earlier levels, while in the rest of the country, prices are generally higher. Retail prices of cabbage, cucumbers and onions are near year-earlier levels. Most other vegetables are slightly more expensive than they were at this time a year ago.

Most of the vegetables imported into Canada are perishable varieties whose supply and price vary with the fortunes of successive crops grown in Southern and Western United States and Mexico. Recent reports from the United States Department of Agriculture indicate lower acreages for fall harvest of lettuce and tomatoes. Through the latter months of 1974, farm prices of vegetables in the U.S. have been below year-earlier levels, but this situation is expected to change by year end.

Retail prices for lettuce and tomatoes in Canada have increased considerably recently, and are currently well above late 1973 prices.

The 1974 fruit harvest in Canada was generally very good. Not all regions enjoyed good fruit harvests, however. Apple production in the Maritimes, and especially in British Columbia was below last year's level. British Columbia production is estimated to have fallen 20 per cent below the large 1973 crop. On the other hand, in both Ontario and Quebec, the apple crop was up by a third. Ontario's pear crop is expected to double the previous year's output, while the British Columbia crop is down slightly. Substantial crops of peaches and grapes were harvested in both major growing regions.

Reflecting the harvest conditions, wholesale apple prices in Ontario and Quebec are below last year's prices, while they are higher in B.C. Apples of the Delicious variety in the coming winter may be more expensive relative to McIntosh and other types because of the lower B.C. harvest, and a similar large drop in production in the state of Washington, another major source of Delicious apples. Overall U.S. production of apples is about equal to the 1973 crop, with increases in Eastern States and declines in the West. In the late winter and spring, Delicious apples from storage are predominant in the apple market. The lower Delicious output may lead to bigger year-over-year price increases in the spring than will be experienced in the next few months.

The European apple crop was poor, so that export demand for North American apples will be strong. British Columbia and Nova Scotia producers have historically exported apples to Common Market Countries.

Building a new barn

NORTH HATLEY (BS) — Building a new barn is a big event on any farm and Arthur Cheal's 75 acre farm near North Hatley is no exception.

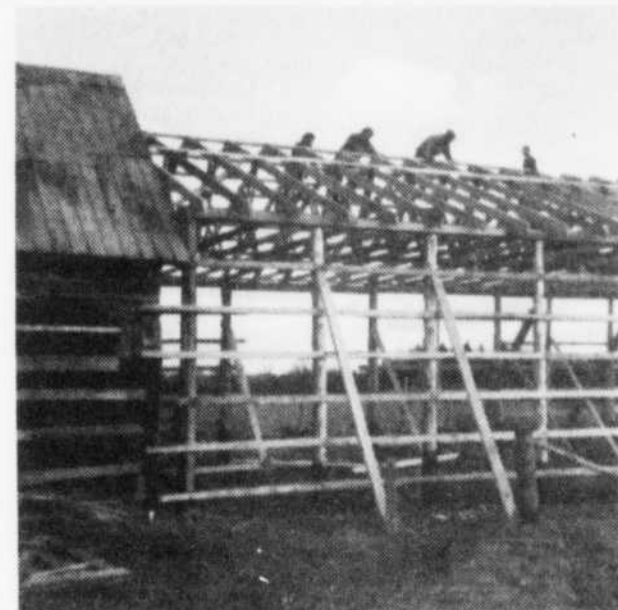

Last winter he began cutting the 11,000 feet of lumber from his woodlot that would be used for the cattle pole barn structure. Then the spruce, balsam, cedar and hemlock logs were hauled by Haines Bernard of Waterville to Ron Haseltine's sawmill in Moe's River where logs were sawed into the right dimensions. The following autumn poles were cut for the barn.

Then working on weekends Mr. Cheal built the barn trusses on the ground as a unit. When it came time to put the trusses up, neighbors helped out in the old barn-raising tradition.

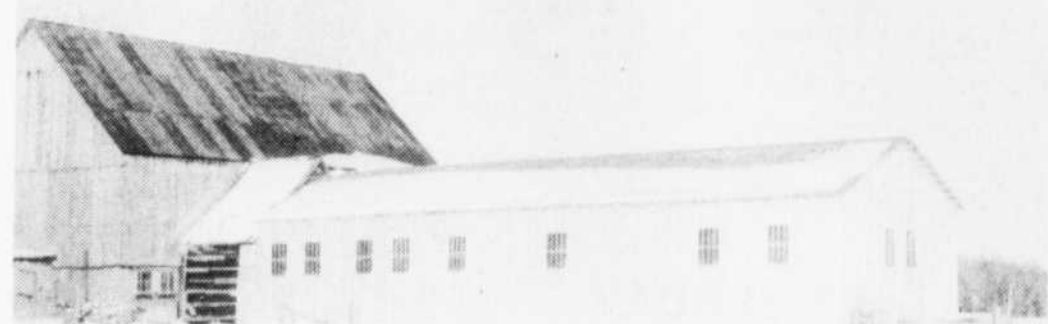

When this work was done it remained for Mr. Cheal to put on a tin roof, tin siding and fiberglass windows.

The final job in constructing the 28 foot by 72 foot barn was to put in a flooring of 120 yards of gravel.

Now his herd of 35 Herefords which it is attached. And as Mr. Cheal points out, "We're trying new barn as well as the old to it out."

BARN-RAISING — When Arthur Cheal was ready to raise the trusses on his new barn neighbors pitched in to help. Men are seen on the roof putting the structure together when construction was underway last autumn.

AND NOW — The completed barn is shown above now with its tin sides, tin roof and fiberglass windows. Those helping Mr. Cheal in the building of the barn ranged from his 10-year-old son, Jeffrey, to his 82-year-old father-in-law, Howard Banfill, as well as several neighbours.

beets, cabbage, carrots, onions, potatoes and turnips were primarily being drawn from Canadian storage stocks.

Lettuce and tomatoes being sold were from both Canadian greenhouses and from United States growers in Florida and California. Some brussels sprouts and most broccoli, cauliflower, celery, cucumbers, green onions, and peppers were from southern U.S. sources, the latest Food Prices Review Board states in its latest quarterly report.

Potato acreage planted in Canada in 1974 was up slightly from the previous year. Good yields produced a crop estimated to be 12 per cent above 1973 production, and the largest crop in many years. Some frost damage to late-harvested potatoes has affected the quality of some potatoes. In November, cold and common storage stocks of potatoes were about 9 per cent in both countries through the winter and spring. Wholesale and retail prices in Eastern Canada are currently well below year-earlier level, while in the West they are near or slightly above last year's levels.

VEGETABLES — The latest Canadian Food Prices Review Board points out that the 1974 potato acreage was up slightly from the previous year. Good yields produced a crop estimated to be 12 per cent above 1973 production.

Ed. Note: The following is Part 5 of a series of reports recently completed by the Food Prices Review Board on the Canadian beef market. The first four parts to the series have appeared on previous Farming and Gardening Pages of The Record.

The market for calves in Canada can be separated into two distinct parts: the larger part, the feeder calf market, provides the source material for the feedlot industry, and is largely based in the Western Provinces, particularly Alberta; the smaller part, itself a composite group, is the slaughter calf or veal market and is largely based in Quebec, and to a lesser extent, Ontario.

From January to May 1973, 3.75 million calves were born in Canada. Alberta alone accounted for 32 per cent and all Western Canada, 68 per cent of the total. Over the same period in 1974, calf births reached 4.04 million, an increase of 8 per cent. Provincial share of the Canadian total was similar to that in 1973.

Movements in total Canadian calf slaughter are largely determined by those in the Quebec market. Generally, the Quebec slaughter ranges between 50-75 per cent of total and when combined with Ontario, represents 80-90 per cent of all Canadian calf slaughter.

In Western Canada, only 21,763 calves were slaughtered in the first nine months of 1974. This represents an insignificant proportion of the new calf crop for this region which totalled 2.82 million for the period January to May. An indication of the importance of the feeder calf industry in the West is that usually 99 per cent of all calves are either fed for beef or retained for the breeding herd.

In Quebec, on the other hand, typically more than 30 per cent of the calf crop is slaughtered for veal.

Because most calves born in Quebec and a high proportion of those born in Ontario are by-products of the dairy industry, the market for these calves is quite distinct from that for beef calves.

QUEBEC CALF MARKET

Three major categories of calves can be identified:

1. Choice Calves. Milk-fed dairy calves, generally slaughtered at 150-225 pounds liveweight.

2. Good Calves. Milk-fed dairy calves of lesser quality and possibly lighter weight.

3. Common Calves. Lower quality calves that have fed on milk and probably some grass. This category will also include the very young calf that is slaughtered 10 to 21 days after birth. During the peak calf slaughter in March and April, many of these calves will yield a carcass of 60-65 pounds. Later in the season this will increase to average 90-100 pounds.

The animals in the three categories identified are all dairy calves and are very seldom "fed out" to produce Canada grade A beef. This is reflected in the fact that the A1 and A2 steers slaughtered in Quebec account for less than 1 per cent of all grade A beef produced in Canada.

Prior to 1973, there were three main markets for calves produced in Quebec:

(a) Calves slaughtered in Quebec and exported as dressed veal to Europe and the U.S.A.

(b) Sizeable numbers of live calves were shipped to the U.S.A., mainly for immediate slaughter.

(c) Smaller numbers of "selected" live calves were shipped to Ontario for "fancy white veal" production.

During 1973, two additional markets opened up for young dairy calves:

(d) Live calves exported by air to Europe (mainly Greece, Italy and France) for further feeding.

(e) Due to the high price of beef-type feeder cattle in Western Canada, some calves from Quebec were bought by Alberta feedlot operators and shipped to Western Canada.

These buoyant markets for Quebec calves came to a somewhat sudden halt in 1974. Traditional and newly-opened markets evaporated:

(a) Calves slaughtered in Quebec and shipped to the U.S.A. and Europe. During the period

January 1 to October 26, 1973, 2.63 million pounds of veal carcass and carcass equivalent were exported from Canada, the vast majority of which was produced in Quebec. Over the same period in 1974, only 1.1 million pounds were exported. There was only a relatively small drop in shipments to Europe, but exports to the U.S.A. declined by more than 1 million pounds. The total decline of 1.5 million pounds of dressed veal is equivalent to a loss of export markets for more than 19,000 live calves.

(b) Live calves shipped to the U.S.A. During the period January 1 to October 26, 1973, exports of live calves to the U.S.A. were 62,230. For the same period in 1974, the figure was only 4,644, a decrease of 58,586.

(c) Calves to Ontario (and limited production in Quebec) for white veal trade. It is difficult, if not impossible, to determine the specific number of veal calves that are shipped from Quebec to Ontario. However, it is generally accepted that this trade has declined substantially in 1974 over previous year levels. An increase in the price of the special white veal feed from $670 to $900 per ton no doubt contributed to this decline.

(d) Live calves shipped by air to Europe. The anticipation of a beef surplus in Europe brought a sharp halt to this "glamor" market for calves from Quebec

During the period January 1 to August 31, 1973, 29,154 calves were exported to this market. Over the same period in 1974, this figure declined to 7,799 head and in August the trade disappeared completely.

(e) Calves shipped from Quebec to Western Canada for finishing in beef feedlots. Agriculture Canada estimates that in 1973 more than 5,000 calves were shipped to Alberta. In 1974, to date, 1,900 calves have been shipped and in recent months the flow of calves has dried up completely.

The Quebec producer, after enjoying a healthy market climate for dairy calves in 1973, now finds that he is competing in a market that has increased on the supply side (dairy calf births in Quebec increased by 4 per cent from January 1 to May 30, 1974, over the same period in 1973), while demand for his product has declined considerably (reported marketings to known outlets have been reduced by more than 100,000 head).

This situation of greater supplies competing for a smaller market has been aggravated by increases in the price of starter feeds for calves.

In the early part of 1973, calf feed delivered to the Quebec farmer was $6.30 per hundredweight. By year-end this had risen to $8 per hundredweight. However, calf prices were strong enough at this time for producers to absorb the increase. Through 1974, the price of calf starter has increased ($9.39 per hundredweight in September), while calf prices have declined.

Prices for the common dairy-type calf have suffered the sharpest decrease.

On average, good and choice calf prices have declined by 12-15 per cent, while common calves are priced some 30-40 per cent lower than in 1973. It is worth re-emphasizing that dairy-type calves are generally not competing in the same market as the feeder calves destined for the beef feedlot industry.

It is a fallacy to compare dairy-type calf prices with retail prices for grade A beef.

It should be stressed that most calves produced in Quebec are strictly a by-product of the dairy industry. Farmers who have calves of this type are milk producers.

Historically, heifer calves have been retained as replacements for the dairy herd and bull calves have had only limited value on the calf market. A recent exception to this was in 1973, when the excess demand for beef-type calves spilled over into the dairy sector.

This resulted in record high prices for these animals. However, with the present prospects for feed grain prices there will be little demand for these surplus dairy-type calves in 1975.

Farm financing reviewed

CALGARY — The heavy cost of starting a farm makes it important that high priority be given to financing improvements in productivity through research into agricultural technology, a leading banker told the second Agricultural Credit Conference here recently.

J. Allan Boyle, president of the Canadian Bankers' Association which sponsored the conference, told the opening session that the "enormous increase in productivity at a time when farm agricultural employment is dropping, the use of new methods and technologies ... all have increased the capital needs of farms."

Mr. Boyle, also executive vice president and chief general manager, Toronto Dominion Bank, said the average cost for a beginning farmer now is close to $85,000.

He said the basic principles underlying banks' farm lending have changed. In addition to short- and medium-term credit, banks now are going into longer term and are basing farm loans more on the farmer's ability to repay than on his equity or security.

More than 350 persons attended the conference, which featured a wide range of expertise. The audience and speakers included representatives from farm associations, academics, banks, federal and provincial government agricultural departments, agriculture-related businesses, as well as individual farmers and ranchers.

Conference chairman, I.D. Gibb, Manager, Agricultural Department, Bank of Montreal, summing up the two-day event, said three major points had been established: more co-ordination is needed between provincial and federal governments and the private sector in order to assemble a comprehensive credit policy; guarantees to private lenders will continue to play a major role in the future, although the "traditional shot-gun approach is not the answer"; and that the conference had given all groups concerned with agricultural credit a chance to air their views and pave the way for advancement.

Agricultural credit legislation was discussed by a panel of experts two of who advocated overhaul of present agricultural credit policies. "There has been sufficient discussion and debate in recent years ... to suggest that the present farm system is one of disarray, severely affecting the agricultural community," said one.

Another felt that the current programs available to farmers are "less than adequate" and that credit legislation and policies should be concerned with the long-term goal of encouraging the larger efficient operation in addition to helping the smaller and part-time operations get started.

Dr. Lamb

Hemorrhoids are dilated veins

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband has just had his second hemorrhoidectomy in 20 years. We know other people who are hemorrhoid sufferers and are wondering the following: What are hemorrhoids? What causes them? Why do they sometimes recur after surgical removal and what can be done to prevent them?

I'm sure if you answer these questions you will enlighten many of us as hemorrhoids are quite a problem for so many people.

DEAR READER — Hemorrhoids are nothing more than dilated veins around the rectum. They are just like varicose veins of the legs except for their location.

There are generally two types of hemorrhoids, the external type, outside the sphincter, and the internal type inside the sphincter. The outside ones cause pain, itching and discomfort.

The worst problem comes when a small clot forms in the dilated vein. A clot is called a thrombus so these are called thrombosed hemorrhoids or thrombosed piles. Sometimes these need to be lanced and drained, but usually they go away on their own after causing the discomfort. The small scarred tag of tissue left behind may be a persistent source of itching.

The internal hemorrhoids may not cause any symptoms, but they can bleed silently, in small or large amounts.

Trying to answer what causes hemorrhoids is a bit like answering what causes varicose veins. In general anything that increases the pressure inside the thin-walled veins may cause them to dilate excessively and become sack-like structures. Being below the heart is one cause of increased pressure. It is no accident that dilated veins are in the legs, around the rectum and, in men, within the scrotum (varicocele).

You don't see people with dilated veins in the head because the head is above the heart, and there is little or no pressure inside the thin veins in the head region. You don't see hemorrhoids in animals where the rectum is above the heart, as in most four-footed grazing animals. Part of the problem, then, goes back to our being upright animals.

Pressure around the rectum distending the veins can also be caused by childbirth, and many women will have hemorrhoid problems after pregnancy. Abdominal tumors and probably even being overweight can contribute to the pressure problems.

Constipation and poor bowel habits are a major factor in causing hemorrhoids. The pressure during forceful bowel movements really balloons out the elastic veins. This is a tip then on what you can do to avoid them. Maintain good bowel habits, avoiding laxatives and stool straining. For more information on this aspect of hemorrhoids, write to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019 and ask for the booklet on hemorrhoids. Send 50 cents to cover costs.

Never overlook the possibility that pressure from a cancer of the rectum above the hemorrhoids may cause them to appear. Everyone who develops hemorrhoids or who has rectal bleeding must have an examination. If it is more serious than just hemorrhoids, early diagnosis and treatment can be lifesaving.

UCW meeting

EAST FARNHAM — The U.C.W. was held with Mr. and Mrs. Earl Royce on January 17 at 8 p.m. instead of the Horner home as previously planned. The extreme cold (15 below zero) failed to keep too many from attending. Miss Marion Collins had charge with Miss Elizabeth Collins assisting with the devotions.

Minutes were read and accepted.

Committees were appointed which will remain the same as last year with one exception namely the Sunshine Convener which was accepted by Mrs. Lela Shufelt replacing Mrs. June Royce.

A report on the "birthday party" held in Sherbrooke, on Tuesday, was attended by three members and a good report was given by Mrs. June Royce, Mrs. Harrowing and Miss Marion Collins.

Many worthwhile suggestions for celebrating the 50th anniversary union of the United Church were brought forward.

Mrs. Harrowing stated the anniversary celebration of the Yamaska Valley Council of Churches, which includes the Cowansville-Farnham Pastoral Charge, would be held at Owl's Head, on June 8, replacing the annual picnic.

It was moved and seconded that birthday contributions would be made to the sunshine fund during the year and one member responded for January.

Fourteen members paid fees for 1975.

It was duly decided, the East Farnham U.C.W. would be responsible for spreading sunshine during the year to one child, at our Eastern Townships Butters Home, at Austin. The Home will be contacted and the child suggested by the institution will be accepted.

May 31st, was the date set for the Spring Lilac Tea.

Mrs. Royce offered to have charge of the February meeting, place and date to be announced.

The Mispah Benediction was repeated in unison at the closing, and refreshments served.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Bedford Pastoral Charge holds annual meeting

BEDFORD - The annual meeting of the Bedford Pastoral Charge was held in the Bedford Church hall on Monday, January 20 with a good representation from all four points in the Charge.

Rev. Keith Eddy opened the meeting with scripture and prayer. Minutes of last meeting were read and approved.

Mr. Eddy reported that 12 deaths and burials, 10 marriages, 16 baptisms, 19 birth registrations, 4 young people's confirmation, and 5 members received by transfer had been entered in the church register during 1974. 13 of the baptisms were the triplet children of Mr. and Mrs. Neil.

Mr. Eddy also reported that Philipsburg had celebrated their church's 155th anniversary with several special events during the year.

Sessions reports showed that all churches had held at least four communion services and all held special Christmas services. Miss Frances Walbridge, a retired United Church missionary, from the Charge, had conducted services in some of the churches. Miss Jean Barclay, a student minister, had spent four months among the people of the Charge and assisted Rev. Eddy at all points, endeavoring herself to all. Church attendance had been fair, cooperation in projects enthusiastic.

Trustees reported several major repairs on some buildings. All church buildings are free of debt and in good condition generally, and well covered by insurance.

Sunday School had 103 pupils and teachers enrolled. Total credits were $1200.00, with balance of $460.00. Several children were awarded perfect attendance pins. Christmas parties and summer picnics were held.

UCW members attended 37 meetings, average attendance was 11. They raised $3700.00, donated $600. to Presbyterian M.S. allocation, $600 to Manse fund, turned some $1500 over to stewards, used $500 for "Outreach" in various ways, leaving a substantial balance to start another year's work.

Manse Committee spent over $1,000 on manse repairs and running expenses. Thanks were expressed to Mrs. Stanley Soule, chairman, for the work done in the manse. Appreciation was also expressed to Mrs. Eddy for her great assistance in redecorating.

The stewards' report showed some $21,000 raised for local purposes with expenditures of $16,000. Thanks are due the treasurers for their many hours of balancing books and keeping financial matters on the move all year.

The $5100 allocation for M & S was slightly over-subscribed and $5200 was accepted as a possible goal for 1975.

The Young Adults held 7 meetings with an average attendance of 11.

They were instrumental in collecting $450 through "Lenten Cards" to send to Zaire for special missionary work there and they sponsored a two weeks camping vacation for a deaf boy.

Mr. Russell Biggs is the 1975 President and Mrs. Ronald Martin the secretary-treasurer.

Although figures, in themselves, do not tell a complete story, they do give evidence of much effort on the part of many dedicated workers, hopefully all endeavors are to the glory of God.

Mr. Thomas Bird, secretary, Mr. Stanley Soule, treasurer for local joint funds, and Mr. Richard Martin as joint M & S treasurer were all re-elected. Miss Edith Walbridge was re-appointed as delegate to Presbytery.

Thanks were expressed to Rev. Eddy for his inspirational leadership during the year.

Plans were suggested and passed to increase salary to somewhat over the required minimum set by General Council. All points to continue at the same percentage basis.

Mr. Eddy expressed his appreciation to all for the kindness and thoughtfulness extended to him and his family in the past two years and assured the gathering of his pleasure in continuing to serve as pastor of the Bedford Pastoral Charge for 1975.

Meeting closed with the benediction pronounced by Rev. Eddy.

Refreshments were served and a social hour was enjoyed.

P. Camu comments on FM policy

OTTAWA (CP) — Some FM broadcasters in large centres may lose heavily when they are forced to diversify their program formats under a new Canadian Radio-Television Commission (CRTC) policy, Pierre Camu, president of the Canadian Association of Broadcasters (CAB) said Tuesday.

Commenting on the CRTC policy statement released Monday, Camu said the association generally agrees that frequency modulation (FM) broadcasting should be different from standard AM or amplitude modulation broadcasting, and the over-all objective of the CRTC is "not bad."

However, he added, restrictions put on commercials, requirements of complicated licensing application forms, demands for more audience-attention radio shows, and the necessity to diversify the formats of several FM stations in a given market area impose burdens on broadcasters.

Camu said broadcasters may have problems achieving the CRTC requirement that FM stations owned by AM stations devote at least one-quarter of their daytime and evening broadcast hours to "foreground" rather than background programming.

FM stations that are not affiliated with an AM station will be required to devote 16 per cent of their time to audience attention shows.

WANTS QUALITY RAISED
The CRTC wants FM broadcasters to raise the quality of their shows, broadcasting more live or tape-recorded public events and concerts.

Camu said the CRTC aims to encourage more Canadian production, Canadian artists and more imagination. This will cost money, and private broadcasters must have commercial revenue to foot the bill, he said.

In reducing the amount of commercial time that can be broadcast, FM stations will have to ensure an adequate inflow of dollars, he said. This indicates that per-minute commercial charges will have to be raised.

In large market areas, where several stations now are broadcasting substantially the same kind of programs, they will have to diversify.

Each station will have to become a specialist, working in a compartment, Camu said. "Some are bound to win audiences, and some will lose completely."

"It will take two or three years to find out who will be the losers."

Camu said the new licence application forms prepared by the CRTC are complex, requiring answers to more than 350 questions and detailed promises of performance.

The CRTC has called a public hearing here, starting March 11, to discuss the form of the new regulations and other details of the policy.

Magnetic Hollywood still lures authors

By Dick Kleiner

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — Hollywood draws writers of all kinds, like a miraculous magnet. Three fascinating, totally different writers were in town — Angela Davis, Ladislav Farago and Rona Jaffe.

Miss Davis, the one-time cause celebre, proved to be an intelligent and straightforward young woman. We didn't talk politics — that's not my professional area — but stuck to the world of entertainment.

Angela Davis says she believes black exploitation films are doing a great deal of harm to the black community. She singled out "Super Fly" as a prime offender.

Angela Davis

"The children," she says, "are growing up glorifying the pimp and the dope pusher, dressing like they dress, speaking and acting like they speak and act. I understand, too, that that film greatly increased the use of cocaine among blacks."

She loved — and approves of — "Sounder" and "Claudine." She says she doesn't watch much TV — she's yet to see Sandford and Son.

But she thinks the combined effect of blacks on TV and in movies has had a positive effect — "now black children can see black grownups in positions requiring education and intelligence and that's good."

She's written her autobiography — "Angela Davis" — and there's talk of a screen version. So far, just talk.

More than talk, though, for Ladislav Farago's story of Nazi Martin Bormann, "Aftermath," that's been sold and Farago is writing the screenplay. It will be his first, although "Patton" was based on his biography of the general.

Farago says "Aftermath," the story of Bormann's escape to South America, will be filmed on that continent.

"Only Brazil and Peru," he says, "would permit a film about a Nazi to be made there."

We chose Brazil — it's the cleanest, there's less Nazi infestation there than in any other South American country."

Farago's next project is a biography of the late F.B.I. head, J. Edgar Hoover. He says his publisher wanted him to do one on Douglas MacArthur, "but he didn't turn me on — Hoover did, he was a fascinating man."

One of my favorite people is the pint-sized author of big novels, Rona Jaffe. Her new one, "Family Secrets," is a big, sweeping story, the kind you can lose yourself in.

I said I thought it would make a great movie but she disagreed. She'd rather see it sold to TV than to films.

"Because of its size and scope," she said, "I feel it would be better to make it into one of those new TV film series — like 'QB VII' or 'Upstairs, Downstairs.' I think that's the most popular form of entertainment today."

"My book lends itself more to six or eight episodes on TV than it does to one big movie. I think that's the coming thing with big novels."

Cookshire United Church holds congregational meeting

COOKSHIRE — The annual congregational meeting of Cookshire United Church was held in the Church Hall on Jan. 14, 1975, at 7:30 p.m.

The Rev. G. Simons chaired the meeting, and opened with a short passage of Scripture from First Corinthians, Chapter 13, after which he gave a short prayer.

The recording steward, Mrs. E.S. Heatherington, read the minutes of the previous meeting, and these were accepted as read. There being no business arising from these minutes, routine business was conducted.

A motion was made that power be given the Memorial Fund Committee to purchase some hymnaries, as they see fit, and that they be given power to add a helper, namely, Mrs. P. Gaudine.

Mr. Simons had the annual reports typed, and these were passed around for all to read and evaluate. Those presenting the reports were available to answer any questions, or their substitutes answered for them.

It was moved that the reports be accepted, and that those that were not available for this meeting would be added at a later date, at the discretion of the Pastor and secretary. If changes were made they will be subject to the approval of the Official Board, which will meet on Jan. 26, at 2:30 p.m. in the Cookshire Church Hall.

The report of the treasurer, Mrs. Marie Nutbrown, showed a very active year, with all commitments met. Money was given to the World Development Fund, and for Bangladesh, and there was a balance on hand.

The report of Mrs. Reta Picard, for Birchton in Memoriam Fund, showed a good balance on hand, also the Birchton Trust Fund, submitted by Mr. Howard Picard, showed some expenditures and a balance on hand.

The Cookshire organist's report from Mrs. Heatherington, showed that, with few exceptions, an anthem was sung each Sunday, with special music for White Gift Sunday, Christmas, Easter, Mother's Day and Thanksgiving. Several of the intermediates took solo parts and David Gaudine kindly acted as violinist, and also played on the melodica, along with the regular organist.

Thanks were expressed to all members of the choir for their loyalty and faithfulness in their participation in the services. Any new members would be gladly welcomed.

Mrs. Gaudine's report, as secretary for the Board of Stewards, showed that a meeting had been held in July. Financing had been discussed, and the matter of a "every person visitation" was left in abeyance until the Fall meeting.

The Birchton U.C.W. treasurer's report of Mrs. Heather Turchyn showed a very active year, with all commitments met, and donations given to the Mission & Service Fund, United Church projects, and appeals from outside and Eaton Valley Pastoral Charge, and to community projects and non-United Church projects.

Mrs. Nellie Parker's report for the Cookshire U.C.W. showed good receipts from cards sold, teas and sales. Donations were given to the Committee of Stewards, the Sunday School, the Mission & Service Fund, the LIVE-LOVE project, the Elementary School cafeteria, student exchange, the organist, gifts, plants and flowers, Christmas cheer. An electric hot water tank and cable were bought and supplies for the Christmas supper, leaving a good bank balance.

The U.C.W. secretary's report for Birchton showed that they had held 10 meetings, with an average attendance of 12.

Each meeting began with devotions, following a particular theme: some form of entertainment followed the business — local and educational slides, quizzes, games and readings. A bus was chartered and the ladies attended the annual meeting of the Quebec-Sherbrooke Presbyterian U.C.W. in Richmond. Several ladies attended the Fall Rally in Bulwer. One lady held weekly meetings in the Fall to study the Plan of Union, and they hope to continue these meetings in the New Year.

They subscribed to and circulated copies of Mandate. They were guests of Bulwer U.C.W. in the spring and guests of the Cookshire U.C.W. at their Christmas party. They entertained the above groups and the Island Brook group at a bingo party. They sponsored a bus trip to Florida, Nova Scotia and Montreal, and held a Halloween tea and sale in October.

Locally, they assisted the Sunday School, the Board of Stewards, the Presbyterian Rally, the skating carnival, the Cookshire Elementary School cafeteria, the Halloween party put on by the Youth Group, a needy family, sent some baskets at Christmas to senior citizens who had been ill, and helped four students financially, who were going to Alberta on an exchange school program.

Other projects supported were, the LIVE-LOVE project, the Quebec-Sherbrooke presbytery (allocation), the Gideons, the Association for the Mentally Retarded, the African Relief, an ice-maker for the Grace Christian Home, the Bible Society, Pennies for Peace, the Cancer Cupboard, Overseas Relief, Angola and the Salvation Army.

The secretary's report of the Cookshire U.C.W. submitted by Mrs. Barbara Vogell, showed that ten meetings had been held, with an average attendance of 16.

They assisted with lunch at the annual congregational meeting. They chose and supported the LIVE-LOVE project. Observer subscriptions were received and ordered, and a baby gift bought. The sick and the shut-ins were remembered at Easter; an Easter lily was bought for church decoration, several members attended the meeting in Lennoxville to hear the Moderator, the Rev. Dr. Bruce McLeod. The United Church Presbyterian allocation was met and Easter Thank Offerings received.

A salad tea and sale was held in May, and a donation made to a school exchange pupil. Some members attended the Presbyterian Rally, held in Richmond in May.

An electric hot water tank was bought for the church hall, and a donation of $50.00 given for the "Indian Work in the West" project. Several members attended the United Church Conference held at Bishop's University in June.

No meetings were held in July or August. Donations were made to the In Memoriam Fund, the Committee of Stewards, the Mission and Service Fund, and the Sunday School.

The president, Mrs. P. Gaudine, attended the United Church "Summer Event." A number of ladies attended the U.C.W. Fall Rally, held in Bulwer, where their poster "Poverty in Canada" was displayed, an honorarium was given to the organist.

Christmas cards and baskets were sent to sick and shut-ins. A Christmas party was held, with ladies from St. Peter's Guild and the Birchton U.C.W. as guests.

The Sunday School report, prepared by Mrs. Gladys Parsons, showed a number of donations received, supplies bought, a June picnic held, a Christmas party held and supplies bought, leaving a bank balance on hand.

The Cookshire Youth Group's report was submitted by the secretary, Judy Halsall, and showed that meetings were held every second Sunday evening, at the Cookshire or Birchton halls.

A carnival was held in Birchton in February at the Birchton skating rink, broomball and volleyball games were also held there. They held some card parties, an auction and a rummage sale in the Birchton hall. They held their annual trip in early June, and visited Ausable Chasm and Hemmingford Park. There were no summer meetings.

In October they decided to continue with the meetings, and held an election of officers. Elliott Smith was appointed president, Gail Richards, vice-president, Judy Halsall, secretary and Bob Halsall treasurer. Mr. McKercher resigned as leader.

A "scavenger hunt" was enjoyed at Cookshire. In November they made preparations for the Christmas season, and on behalf of the club a gift was presented to Mr. McKercher.

They visited Grace Christian Home and sang Christmas carols, and had a Christmas Carol service in Birchton on Dec. 20.

On New Year's Eve they were invited to a party at the Balls in Bury.

Thanks were expressed to the parents, friends and patrons who have made 1974 such a successful and memorable year.

The secretary read the list of officers for the ensuing year as prepared by the nominating committee, which was accepted, and is as follows:

Honorary Elders, Miss Esther Farnsworth, Mrs. O.C. Farnsworth, Mr. G.W. Learned, Mrs. R.B. Learned, Mrs. J.A. Murray.

It was stated that if the money for the Observer renewal subscriptions was received early in February, the price would still be $2.00. The person to contact is Mrs. Charles Cruickshank for your renewals.

Thanks were expressed to the Rev. Mr. Simons for his fine sermons, and for his work in getting out the reports.

One minute of silence was observed in memory of those who had passed on during the year.

Following adjournment, the Pastor pronounced the benediction.

Thanks were expressed to the ladies for serving refreshments.

"The friendships we've built here are certainly less superficial than those we had in the city," Mr. Mellen stressed. As to cultural stimulation, both feel that they have as much as they need here in the Eastern Townships.

"I go along with McLuhan's theory that the city is everywhere nowadays," Mrs. Mellen goes on. "With the ease of communication, no-one is really removed from the latest artistic and cultural developments."

"We have everything we need right here."

Beavers at home to Hull tonight

Hull Festivals will be the visitors this evening at the Sports Palace at 8:00 p.m. and the Beavers will be seeking a win for their 7-3 setback they received at the hands of Laval Nationals Wednesday evening.

Tonight's tilt will be the first of the weekend when the Beavers, following this evening's battle, will travel to Trois Rivières on Sunday and Shawinigan Monday night. Next Wednesday they will move into Chicoutimi. This is the rescheduled game following the crucial accident.

Following this series of games the Beavers will return home next Friday to take on the Montreal Juniors in what should be a hard-hitting affair. Each time these teams have clashed it turned into a tough battle and next Friday's shouldn't be any exception.

"Lack of work was the main factor for our humiliating 7-3 defeat at the hands of a lower club like Laval. It was just a case of lack of top effort by the players. You must also remember that we have been hit by injuries with Leblanc and Veysey out of action," stated coach Delage. The Sherbrooke pilot asked for an all-out effort from all players. On top of this the Beavers will be without Marc Tessier, who was struck on a shot from Richard Mulhearn catching him on the jaw. Dr. Pierre Rouleau, the club physician, has put Tessier on a liquid diet and it may be some time before he returns to action.

Coach Delage has called up Bernard Harbec from his farm club, the Granby Vics, to fill the gaps left by the injuries. Harbec played with the Beavers previously and turned in some fine games. He will certainly help the injury-stricken Beavers.

Johnny Miller trails by five in Crosby event

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Johnny Miller was in an unfamiliar position—trailing the leaders—after Thursday's opening round in the $185,000 Bing Crosby golf tournament.

He was five strokes behind Hubert Green and Larry Ziegler who had 66s. Miller had a 71.

It was the first time in this season's nine rounds that Miller had failed to lead or share the lead. It was his first round in the 70s.

The record-setting winner of the Phoenix and Tucson opens had to work hard to salvage his one-under-par.

"I'm OK," said Miller. "I kept my subpar string intact. I want to see how long I can keep it going."

Jack Nicklaus also had a 71. Miller, Nicklaus and Green all played Cypress Point, the shortest and probably the easiest of the three par-72 courses being used. Ziegler was at Spyglass Hill.

Ralph Kiner finally makes into baseball's Hall of Fame by one vote, Robin Roberts misses goal

NEW YORK (AP) — Slugging Ralph Kiner, saying "this was the culmination of something I always wanted to be a part of," was narrowly elected into the Hall of Fame Thursday in his final chance by the Baseball Writers' Association of America (BWAA).

In his 15th year of eligibility for election by the writers, the 52-year-old Kiner, one of the game's greatest home run hitters, barely received the necessary 75 per cent of the vote necessary for induction. Of the 362 ballots cast by the BWAA, he got 273 votes—one over the minimum of 272 needed for election.

Last year, Kiner had finished fourth in the balloting, behind Mickey Mantle and Whitey Ford, who were elected, and Robin Roberts, who missed induction. This time, Roberts, winner of 286 games during a 19-year major league career, most of them with Philadelphia Phillies, finished second with 263 votes—nine short of election. Bob Lemon was third with 233 votes, the late Gil Hodges fourth with 188 and Enos Slaughter fifth with 177. In all, 37 players received votes.

"I was surprised to make it alone," said Kiner, "because I thought there were other candidates who should have made it, such as Robin Roberts and Bob Lemon."

Kiner, who spent most of his major league career with Pittsburgh Pirates—he also played for Chicago Cubs and Cleveland Indians—was only the third player elected by the writers who played only 10 years, the minimum required for eligibility for the Hall of Fame. The others were the late Jackie Robinson and Roy Campanella.

During his career, Kiner hit 369 home runs, more than any player in history in his first 10 years in the majors. The only Hall of Famers with more homers are Babe Ruth with 714; Mantle, 536; Jimmy Foxx, 534; Ted Williams, 521; Mel Ott, 511; Lou Gehrig, 493, and Stan Musial, 475.

Kiner also is the only player to lead or tie for the National League lead in homers in his first seven years in the majors. His best home run season was 1949 when he hit 54. He also holds the National League record for hitting 40 or more homers in five different seasons.

Kiner, who also drove in 1,015 runs in 1,472 games, had his career cut short by a sciatica condition in his back.

Kiner, the 147th member to be chosen for the Hall since elections began in 1936, will officially be inducted in ceremonies at Cooperstown, N.Y., Aug. 18.

Seagram Stone at stake

Battle for Senior curling crown close

By LEO O'DONNELL

The battle for the Provincial Senior Curling championship is drawing to a close with only five games left on tap. The winner will earn the Seagram Stone and will represent Quebec in the Canadian championships.

Following yesterday's tilts all the curlers were guests at a buffet supper and a cocktail hour sponsored by Seagram's at the Sherbrooke Curling Club. This evening it will be the turn of the Lennoxville Club, who will play the role of hosts.

At the supper last evening Lionel Bouvrette, General Manager of Sales for Seagram's in the province, presided and made presentations of special cuff-links to Dr. Tom Cadman, club president, Jim Atto, general chairman of the Tournament, and Greg O'Boyle, also a member of the tournament committee. Art Lamb, of the Canadian Branch, also received a set.

Mr. Bouvrette congratulated all the rinks for competing in the event. He stated that Seagram's was dropping the annual event and in place would stage special curling tournaments. In this manner all curlers would have an opportunity of participating in the various tournaments.

General Chairman Jim Atto thanked Mrs. Winslow and her staff for the well prepared meal. Everyone enjoyed the buffet supper, in fact some returned for second helpings.

Mr. Bouvrette announced that Seagram's is going to sponsor a Mixed Bouspiel in Granby Feb. 18-22. He invited the men to complete rinks and take part in the tournament.

Bill Fuller, president-elect of the Canadian Branch, thanked Mr. Bouvrette and Seagram's for sponsoring this year's playdowns. "Seagram's gave us 100 per cent backing in the event and without their generous co-operation it would have been almost impossible to stage it," added Mr. Fuller. Seagram's will present prizes to the winners following the finals Saturday afternoon. In case of a tie in the afternoon the rinks will clash again in the evening.

Three games are on tap this afternoon commencing at 2:30. These will be followed with two games in the evening at 7:30. Some very good matches were witnessed as the curlers came through with some good draws and knockouts to stay in the running. Today's games should also be very close as it is getting near the end.
