JACOBY ON BRIDGE

BY OSWALD JACOBY

SAFETY PLAYS NOT ALWAYS PERFECT

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

A safety play is designed to increase your chance of winning some specific and obviously some desirable number of tricks although it reduces your chance of making the maximum number.

Some safety plays are sure fire and known as perfect safety plays. Some safety plays are not guaranteed to work and therefore imperfect.

Today's hand is the classic example of the imperfect safety play. You are in six no-trump and there is no way to make your contract if West is sitting in back of you with three or four clubs to the king-jack.

On the other hand you can make your contract against any other club combination if you know the correct imperfect safety play. This is to start the club suit by playing low from dummy the Official Encyclopedia of Bridge, under the auspices of the league. The book lists almost everything of interest to bridge players including the names of winners of every major tournament and covers every part of bidding and play briefly. The heading, "Loser on Loser" covers several examples of this play.

The basic loser on loser play consists of getting rid of a card that would have to be lost some time or other on a losing trick in some other suit.

South's four spade contract looks easy. He must lose a club trick and can hold his diamond losses to two tricks if he can ruff a diamond in dummy.

West starts proceedings for the defense by opening the king of diamonds. East covers with ace and returns the deuce. West wins and leads a third diamond.

South can ruff in dummy if he wishes, but he is morally certain that if he does ruff, East will overruff and South will still be left with a club loser.

Therefore, South avails himself of the loser on loser play and throws a club from dummy.

He has lost three tricks including one he didn't expect to lose, but he has gotten rid of his club loser and will be able to ruff a club in dummy at his leisure and will wind up scoring instead of down one.

Announce New Healing Substance: Shrinks Piles

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissue.

In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.

Most important of all—results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue.

Now Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H. Ask for it at all drug stores—money back guarantee.

Granby council rules all dogs must be on leash

GRANBY — It was decided at the council meeting on Feb. 15, that no dog is allowed to run freely. The director of the Police Department or officers in charge are authorized to require the services of Normand Fournier to pick up any wandering dog in the city, providing however that this does not constitute a disturbance to his regular work as an employee of the public works department.

It was also decided that if this work is executed by Mr. Fournier during his regular working hours he will not be paid.

However, if his services are required outside his regular hours, a sum of $2 will be paid to him for each animal caught at the request of the director of the Police Department or his officers. The city agrees to pay the sum of $1.25 a day for an animal kept to be recovered from the owner of the animal concerned.

The mandate of the Insurance Consultative Commission, composed of Gerard Racine, Louis Laporte and Charles Lepine, will be renewed for a three-year term, as of March 1, 1965.

About Television

NEW YORK (AP)—A well-acted, thoughtfully-written series called For the People on CBS raises valid, difficult issues, but as a dramatic entertainment program, a number of vital ingredients are missing. And some of the other values are rather mixed up.

Recently, the young assistant district attorney had a criminal charge against a young man dismissed because a confession had been obtained by the use of force. So,

Claim she rented apartment

Did separatist bomb suspect stay here?

A South Ward couple are convinced that Michelle Duclos, charged with conspiring to bomb the Statue of Liberty, the Washington Monument and the Liberty Bell, stayed briefly in Sherbrooke this year.

The two, who do not want their names divulged, claim they rented her an apartment on Ball Street in January.

However there is no evidence of dark and devious deeds in the city — at most the lady tried to escape paying her rent.

The landlady told the Record yesterday that the lady, gave her name as Mrs. N. Boutet. She said that she sang and worked for radio or television stations.

The apartment was a furnished one containing kitchenette, living room bedroom and bathroom.

Hearing put off

NEW YORK (CP)—A grand jury hearing on a writ seeking the release of Michelle Duclos, 28-year-old Montrealer arrested Feb. 16 in connection with an alleged bomb plot to blow up the Statue of Liberty, the Washington Monument and the Liberty Bell, was postponed Monday until Thursday.

Her lawyer, Henry Rothblatt, filed a petition for a writ of habeas corpus last week, stating she was being held in violation of her constitutional rights.

The tall, blue-eyed blonde, a former television personality, was arrested with three other persons in connection with the alleged plot.

She was described by police as a member of an extremist party that advocates separation of Quebec from the rest of Canada.

Lennoxville sets up a special committee to study projects for Canada's centenary

It was learned at the Lennoxville Municipal Council meeting last night that a special committee will be set up to study the town's participation in the 1967 Confederation celebrations.

Mayor Archie Mitchell said the council decided at the special session to refer participation discussion to a committee to be headed by Lennoxville former mayor Col. Lee Watson.

The citizens committee is to have responsibility for making recommendations to the Town Council on what Lennoxville will do to commemorate Confederation.

The Town of Lennoxville has received an $83,000 loan from the Municipal loan fund to cover half the cost of the two miles of street paving done last fall. It was announced at the Council meeting last night.

The municipal loan fund, a federal plan, is administered provincially, said Lennoxville secretary-treasurer Ken Herring.

The Lennoxville IODE in a letter to the Council last night urged the Town to get a suitable flag pole.

The IODE noted that during the period of mourning following the death of Winston Churchill, the Town did not fly any flag.

The present Town flag pole is broken.

"Steps have already been taken to get prices on flag poles," said Mayor Mitchell.

The town may also consider a flag pole attached to the town building.

One irate Lennoxville property owner complained in a letter to the council last night that his property situated next to the city dump was plagued with "dirt, smoke, and bad odors."

Jean-Paul Rodrigue also claimed that the town of Lennoxville had dumped garbage on his property.

Secretary-treasurer Herring stated that when Mr. Rodrigue bought his property he may have purchased part of the old city dump, no longer in use.

Mr. Rodrigue demanded that the city remove all garbage from his property.

"I would like to have a meeting with them (Mr. Rodrigue and his lawyer)," said Mayor Mitchell.

The issue has been referred to a committee.

A new volunteer fire alarm system is being considered by the town.

A plan to replace the present centrally located siren with a system whereby the telephone of each volunteer fireman will ring continuously when set off by a central unit is being considered.

When answered, a light flashes on the central board.

If a conversation is in progress the call would be automatically broken.

The council complained that the siren now in use does not produce enough volume to be heard throughout the Town.

Many volunteer firemen arriving at fires only after being notified privately that a fire is being fought. They do not hear the alarm, said the council.

Many of the town's 18 firemen are arriving late, they said.

If the Bell Telephone system is adopted, volunteer firemen will pay their standard telephone rates. The town will pick up the extra alarm charge, said Mr. Herring.

The discontinued use of the siren would "cut out following the fire wheels," said the Mayor.

In an effort to beautify the Town, the council announced a plan to supply citizens with top soil in order that they grass the town property in front of their homes, if they have not already done so.

The Lennoxville Experimental Farm has notified the council that it will co-operate fully with the Town in supplying a suitable building to house the central water meter proposed for the farm.

Education week in Lennoxville to run from March 7 to 14th, was officially proclaimed last night by Mayor Mitchell.

He noted, "Education in our Town commands the greatest attention of every citizen."

The Lennoxville Council stated last night that in cases of water pipe breakage on private property, the repair costs are assumed by the property owners.

"They pay, but we dig," said secretary-treasurer Herring.

Alexander Graham Bell's grandson was the first teenager to speak coast-to-coast by telephone at a special U.S. telephone inauguration service in 1915.

Hope for visit

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson still hopes to exchange visits this year with Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin. And the Russian leader, despite his blasts at U.S. policies in Viet Nam, says a Johnson visit to Moscow "would be very pleasant."

Kosygin raised the visit possibility anew Monday. He indicated to reporters in Leipzig, East Germany, that Johnson already had been invited, and added: "We wish to have better relations."

In hunting he favours the bow and arrow and with this ancient weapon he has shot everything from rats to bear. He has recorded Indian and animal life on the North Shore with still and movie cameras.

During the Second World War he trained members of the Canadian army in bush survival.

Considered a master woodsman Mr. Provencher is an authority on conservation, and an enthusiastic angler and hunter.

The meeting, to be held in the Prospect Street clubhouse, is to start at 7 p.m.

Mr. Provencher is chief forester for the Ontario Paper Company and its subsidiary the Quebec North Shore Paper Company.

The son of a Three Rivers lawyer, Mr. Provencher took up forestry work and received a B.Sc. from Laval University.

Town to crack down on dogs on the loose

The Lennoxville Municipal Council decided last night to enforce its stray dog by-law.

Local dogs are beginning to form packs, "and this situation could prove dangerous," stressed Mayor Mitchell.

"An action should be taken to put some teeth into this," said the Mayor.

The Council has decided to hire a dog catcher, and dispatch all bothersome strays to a dog pound.

There will be a fine of three dollars and a $1.50 a day beard fee charged each day for each animal.

A dog license will also have to be purchased by dog owners, if the dog doesn't already have one when captured.

If the dogs are not claimed after three days, they will be destroyed.

This may not be enough, said Mayor Mitchell.

"What about a second offence?" he asked.

The Town may consider levying an additional fine of $20 in certain cases.

Invertebrate life is the theme of this year's Biological Exhibition presented by the Biology students of Bishop's University.

The exhibition will open on Thursday, March 4th.

It will occupy the third floor of the Johnson Science Building (formerly the New Arts Building) at the University. The times at which the displays will be open are from 2:15 to 5:30 Friday and Saturday and 7:30 to 10:30 on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week. Friday afternoon is likely to be the time most popular for high school classes.

This is the tenth biological exhibition since their inception in 1946, under the leadership of Dr. A. N. Langford, Head of the Department of Biology. The last exhibit was held in 1961 on the theme of Man. To this came over 1300 interested persons.

This year, there will be a wide variety of displays on many intriguing aspects of the lives of invertebrates (animals without backbones). Many live animals will be made in the exhibits, as well as fossil and preserved material. Also there will be a series of motion pictures to add to the individual displays.

Among those featured are displays of the major groups of invertebrate animals; parasites and methods for their study; behaviour and physiology of mosquitoes, bees, flatworms, crustaceans and hydra; marine life; earthworms and their relatives; starfishes and other spiny skinned animals; and insect life.

Laramée writes to council

A modern bus fleet promised for 1966

Sherbrooke Transit Inc. could not discontinue its city bus service without the permission of the Quebec Transport Board, according to company manager Alphonse Laramée.

The statement was contained in a letter distributed yesterday to the press.

The letter, addressed to city clerk Henri-Paul Emond, is expected to be received today.

In the letter Mr. Laramée states an objective of giving the city a modern bus fleet by 1966.

The company promises that new buses will be put on the route and others reconditioned this year and next.

Next May the company will start making buses for the Sherbrooke and Lennoxville runs, says Mr. Laramée.

He expressed hope that this bus-construction program would reply to recent criticisms of the Laramée city service.

"In towns where annual bus service operation deficits are between $250,000 and $1,250,000 and are paid by the city, improvements may come more quickly," the letter says.

"In Sherbrooke, however, in spite of a rise in operation costs bus fares have stayed the same for adults for the last three years and for school children for the last five years."

City council is hiring a group of efficiency experts for preliminary studies of the

New plates a necessity say police

If you are driving with a 1964 licence plate, look out! — the Provincial Police will be after you.

February 28 was the last day for the 1964 car licence plates. Therefore anyone not having the new 1965 plates will be violating the law, Sherbrooke Provincial Police officials say.

But no extra cruisers will be put on the road to hunt for the law breakers, the Sherbrooke Provincial Police officials said.

There are two kinds of fines given to people driving with 1964 plates. One is a warning for those who have already sent for new plates and the regular ticket, for those who haven't bothered to do anything about it.

But the Provincial Police officials could not say how much the fine is. "All we do is give the ticket," one Provincial Police officer said.

If the owner of the car with old licence plates is in the or near the car, "we make him drive home or to a garage where he must keep the car until he gets the new plates," Provincial Police officials said.

The Regular Offering and Valentine Donations were received and dedicated, the meeting closed with the Benediction repeated in unison.

The president of Unit "F" Mrs. G. F. Sanborn, thanked Mr. Dean for giving his time and coffee was then served.

The announcement was

ORDER RESTAURANT TO BE INSPECTED

Ald. Gerard Berard, chairman of the city sanitation committee, gave orders at last night's meeting of city council that a King Street West restaurant should be inspected in the wake of complaints by nearby residents.

Tenants of the building have complained to local newspapers that the restaurant has poor garbage disposal arrangements.

Ald. Berard asked for a written report on the matter.

City council last night passed a bill to purchase various city lots valued at $517,824.

Council is financing the purchase with a $57,000 loan bylaw, to be ratified by city ratepayers March 12, at the property-owners meeting.

Land to be purchased includes the following:

Lots between Albert and Meadow streets of Wellington North, to cost $46,000. The land will be used to build a street to connect Meadow and Albert.

The road may be one-way, going from Albert to Meadow, says Mayor Armand Nadeau. Thus, he says, trucks will no longer have to go east from Albert into the Webster parking garage to reach Meadow.

The new street will be situated west of the Webster garage.

— Land between La Grenouillère, Meadow and Frontenac streets behind the Wellington Street stores.

This large area, to be used for a parking area, will cost about $230,000.

— Three South Ward lots, between Alexander and Gillespie streets, to be used for the multi-storey parking garage planned for this site. Cost of the land and buildings is $56,000.

— Land beside far Galt Street West, to be used for a park.

The land is within the new Marie-Médatrice parish and will cost $43,000.

Other parcels of land to be bought include a $14,000 portion to be used for the enlarging of the Short - Federal intersection.

The city is also buying a $7,000 parcel near Howardene, to be used for a parking lot.

An $8,520 purchase will allow an enlarging of the Minto-Belvedere intersection.

The city also plans to nip the corners of the North Ward triangle. The sum of $15,000 is to be spent to improve the Prospect - Victoria corner and the Ontario - Victoria corner.

The city set aside $86,304 to pay legal costs, expropriation costs and damage costs.

Tighter building inspection needed

Monday's tragic apartment house blast at LaSalle, near Montreal, which claimed at least a score of lives, undoubtedly will bring another Royal Commission or some other form of high level inquiry to determine the cause of the blast and to propose methods of eliminating such holocaust in the future.

But, without waiting for the inevitable delays connected with the creation of the inquiry board, the gathering of evidence and the preparation of the report, there is much that can be done immediately to ensure the greater safety of the public.

Chief of these are the tightening up of building inspection procedures and the toughening of the procedures for enforcing existing laws.

There is no question that existing inspection methods for new buildings, especially residential properties, leave much to be desired, in Sherbrooke as anywhere else.

Except for cursory inspections by lending agencies to determine the quality of materials going into the building and by government agencies to assure that the structures conform to the plans filed when applications are made for building permits, there appears little effective supervision over newly-constructed properties.

Apartment houses may be built on land incapable of supporting their weight. Generally the ill-effects are limited to minor sinkings with floors sloping, door getting out of line and walls and ceilings cracking.

As long as the heating systems contain certain specified units it seems to matter little whether the units installed are defective or unsuitable.

Provided basement walls are of required thickness, the quality of the concrete produces little concern.

Little or no effort is made to assure that older residential properties are provided with adequate safety features.

The blame does not rest entirely, or even for a large part, with the various inspectors. Regulations provide for inspection of certain features and deprive the inspector of the right to deal with other unsatisfactory conditions he may discover.

And when he does seek to deal with unsatisfactory housing through court action, the penalties so often are nominal, the result being the builder or owner may prefer to pay the fine imposed than make any effort to correct conditions.

A European news service reports an acute shortage of prison space in West Germany. Now if those darned criminals would just stop getting convicted!

Coastal provinces renew pressure

Strong opposition is apparent in the Maritime Provinces and British Columbia over the decision of Prime Minister Pearson to refer the matter of offshore mineral rights to the Supreme Court of Canada for adjudication.

Both the federal government and the coastal provinces claim jurisdiction over minerals found in coastal waters and they are issuing rival exploration licenses.

In an effort to clear up the issue, the Prime Minister has decided to seek court advice on this mineral ownership but the coastal provinces protest that the rights of the opposing parties should be determined at a round-table conference.

From the intensity of the provincial opposition to a court hearing it may be concluded that they are none too sure of their position and are fearful that they will lose out under a Supreme Court ruling.

Their reasons for wishing a round table parley are obvious.

Events of the past few months have proved that the provinces are able to force more concessions out of the federal authorities through the pressures applied at the conference table than they are through any strictly legal decision.

This is especially true when a minority government holds the reins of office at Ottawa.

Faced with the need for gathering support from every possible section, the federal government dares not risk antagonizing the provincial premiers on questions of provincial rights. Thus by a process resembling political blackmail Ottawa is forced to yield to an erosion of its rights to keep peace with the provinces.

Not only is Mr. Pearson's decision to leave the issue to the courts legally sensible. It also removes much of the danger of incurring political unpopularity in areas where he must gain support.

Once more Spain is trying to regain the Rock of Gibraltar. No doubt that insurance company will have something to say about that.

Where principle ousts principal

Frequently an individual going to court over a relatively small sum declares that it is not the money but the principle involved. Generally, however, his friends and acquaintances are convinced that money looms larger than principle.

However, it was undoubtedly a matter of principle that caused a New York resident to hail a restaurant owner before the Small Claims Court over a matter of ten cents, The St. Thomas Times - Journal notes.

According to the story unfolded before the court, the individual in question had ordered a $1.25 meal in a restaurant. Ordering extra rice, he was indignant when an additional ten cents was tacked on to his bill. But his protestations brought him nothing and the restaurant owner insisted he pay the full $1.35.

He then sued for the return of the dime in the Small Claims Court, his demand being upheld by the judge hearing the case.

But to get back the overcharge he had to pay court costs amounting to $2.75, which made the whole affair truly a matter of principle, not principal.

Other papers say:

Let's preserve some vacant lots

In Metropolitan Toronto, according to Mr. Thompson, the parks commissioner, the casual user of the playgrounds is being victimized by organized sports. As he sees it, the youngsters who merely want to "choose up sides" for a game of hockey, baseball or whatever, simply cannot find available space; they must "belong" to some organization, league or team before they can play. Mr. Thompson suggests the creation of several large "Olympic-size" parks and sports centres across Metro to cater to the organized groups. In this way the smaller playgrounds could be given back to their neighborhoods.

It is too bad, we have often felt, that in our haste to build and develop, the vacant lot has become a thing of the past. It has been one of those open areas where organization, as children know it today, was unheard of. Leagues and money were not required. The only prerequisites were imagination and a sufficient number of youngsters to play a game. Perhaps it wouldn't be such a bad idea if our planners were to consider setting aside certain areas as vacant lots, to be used by children as they see fit without any organizational interference.

Although Patagonia represents 28 per cent of Argentina's territory, only 2.5 per cent of the population live there.

Universalists support peace call

Dear Sir, The Board of Trustees of the North Hatley Unitarian Universalist Church endorses without reservation the following letter to the Prime Minister regarding the present situation in Viet Nam. Dear Prime Minister, We view with dismay and mounting apprehension the war in South Vietnam. This undeclared and largely unexplained war is to us both morally wrong and politically futile. Military operations continue there with an increasing cost in bloodshed and misery. Further there is the danger of escalation in which the United States of America and the People's Republic of China might find themselves in direct confrontation and open conflict. We wish, then, to commend your statement of February 10th in which you supported "heartily" the Indian Prime Minister Shastri's appeal for "an immediate suspension of all provocative action in South Vietnam by all sides". We also appreciate your remarks to the effect that "the Canadian Government would be glad to take part" in negotiations through a Geneva-type conference to seek a peaceful and enduring solution. We would like to see you, on behalf of the Canadian Government, play a positive role in helping to put an end to this frustrating and highly dangerous war. To this end we urge:

- (1) Canadian initiatives to institute negotiations among all involved parties to end the war and establish effective international guarantees against foreign interference; (2) Support of the United Nations in any efforts to effect a cease-fire; (3) Continuing to offer Canadian services as negotiators, inspectors or peacekeepers if they can be effective in achieving and maintaining peace; and (4) A United Nations channelled economic and social program of significant proportions and devoid of political strings, to help rebuild

"People's Republic of China. WHEREAS one of the most dangerous threats to peace in the world today is the lack of communication between many countries and the People's Republic of China, leading to misunderstanding and tensions on both sides; and WHEREAS the present exclusion of the People's Republic of China from the United Nations isolates approximately one quarter of the world's population; THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the Canadian Unitarian Council urges the Government of Canada to work towards the establishment of normal diplomatic relations between Canada and China and between China and other nations of the world, and while recognizing the rights of the people of Taiwan/Formosa, to support the efforts of the nations which are working towards the admission of the People's Republic of China to the United Nations; and BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the Canadian Unitarian Council urges the Canadian Government to increase trade and cultural exchanges between Canada and the People's Republic of China."

this land which has been ravaged by war for so many years. Respectfully yours, David C. Pohl, Chairman Ottawa Advisory Committee, Canadian Unitarian Council.

With regard to the recognition of Red China concerning which Mr. Ted Wright of Stanbridge East wrote to you recently, the following resolution was passed at the Annual Meeting of the Canadian Unitarian Council in Ottawa in May 1964.

Consider the country, not the flag

Dear Sir, Recent letters to the editor illustrate the present confused state of Canadian thinking, at least locally, on the subject of our new flag. Being a veteran with overseas service in World War Two, I think I have a right to express my opinion. Canadians did not fight for a flag. They fought for Canada. If we are to keep faith with them today, the ones who fought and the ones who died, we must not let our country disintegrate. If this happens their sacrifice was in vain. I presume most of the muddled thinkers who would sell their country down the river for an emblem are of British ancestry. So am I, but I'm a Canadian first. We had certain Canadians who would not accept the Red Ensign as the flag of Canada, Sentiment aside, they were logical, in that, officially, it was not the flag of Canada. We have another group who will not accept the (new) Canadian flag; the official flag. I preferred the Red Ensign. This was a personal preference. If I had had the opportunity of voting on the question, I would not have voted for the Red Ensign, as my country comes first. I would have voted for a flag, such as our present one, with only Canadian symbols. If we are to build a strong country, and this is not impossible if Canadians of different ancestries will make the effort to think as Canadians, we must have a flag acceptable to all racial groups. I sometimes think the only good Canadians live in the west. They come from all backgrounds; there's even a sizeable group of Japanese-Canadians in British Columbia, but all of them are Canadians first. Canada and Canadians appear ludicrous enough to the rest of the world. Let's forget such silly issues as flags. Let's, like good citizens, accept our official flag and get on with the job, the job of trying to resolve the serious differences that divide us. (Signed), Never Let the Country Fall

Await decisions by president, congress

US plans for Expo 67 are laid

WASHINGTON (CP)—Plans for American participation in the Montreal world's fair in 1967 is proceeding. But two decisions subject to congressional approval still have to be made. One is the designation of a commissioner-general by President Johnson. The post was authorized by Congress last Sept. 11 but the president, with an unusually heavy domestic program and weighty international matters on his mind, has many other positions to fill as well. Secondly, Congress has to approve a United States fair budget of about $12,000,000. This is the sum contained in the current U.S. budget but it could be trimmed or expanded by Congress. Officials planning U.S. participation at Expo 67 appeared Feb. 10 before the House of Representatives subcommittee on appropriations. They will face Senate examination at an unspecified future date. They have the architect and designer lined up for their Montreal exhibit but that will be revealed only after President Johnson has named his commissioner-general. It is understood that the subject of U.S. participation at the fair was one of the numerous subjects discussed between Prime Minister Pearson and President Johnson in mid-January when Pearson visited the LBJ ranch in Texas.

US sources say they hope there will be action soon enough for the American planners to be able to attend the meeting of national head planners at Montreal May 19. They also note that while Canada has expressed hope of getting participation by 80 countries, the total so far is about 33. One important factor in congressional handling of the Montreal fair legislation is the high-priority program in domestic matters and at least one key Canada-U.S. bill in the shape of the auto free-trade measure. However, that does not rule out the possibility that the fair bills could be passed pretty quickly once they get started.

"Praying" rather than "praying" is a more accurate name for the mantis, an insect belonging to the Mantid family. Because of the position of its front legs and its raised head it appears to be "praying." The so-called "praying mantis" has also been called "Devil's horse" in America because of its voracious and pugnacious habits in attacking and devouring other insects and even its own kind.

Gerald Waring REPORTING

(From the Record of Friday, March 2, 1965)

OTTAWA — Our rump Parliament has been sitting for two weeks now, pushing right along with the business at hand as though an election were furthest from its mind. Well, almost.

In the first five days something of a record for this Parliament was established when the Commons debated and passed four bills, including one of the rump session's "big three", the one setting a minimum wage of $1.25 an hour and making a 40 hour week the norm for work done under government auspices.

More remarkable still, the House romped through this legislation with so little snapping and snarling as to give heart to those who still look for the new kind of politics that Prime Minister Pearson said a year ago the country needs.

Then the Commons took up the Canada Pension Plan bill, the second of the three main reasons why the 1964 session was extended into 1965. The third is the legislation to enable provinces - meaning Quebec - to opt out of joint federal-provincial programs.

All three bills got some attention during 1964, but the House wasn't able to complete its work on them prior to the Christmas recess. To have stood them over until the new session this year would have required presentation of the bills anew, repeating all that had already been done on them. For Judy LaMarsh, who had already made three separate speeches introducing her A B and C versions of the pension plan, it would have meant a fourth introductory speech — and she stubbornly drew the line at that.

It's one of the anomalies of Parliament that the Commons will often take as long to approve a bill everybody's for as it will a bill over which there are sharp differences. That's what happened with the pension bill. All parties will vote for it — but not until all opposition parties have put on the record their claims that if it was their bill it would do a lot more for the people.

Still, this is a very complex piece of legislation, to provide contributory retirement pensions at 65 on top of the existing old age pension, so that Canadians will be able to look forward to economic security in their later years. The political one-upmanship that has been evident in the debate need not be unduly deprecated. Without this incentive, the opposition's study and evaluation of the government's plan, and suggestion for improvement, likely would be less effective.

But this is Health Minister LaMarsh's creation, and whenever she becomes involved the sparks are apt to fly. As when Heward Graffey (Con., Brome-Missisquoi, Que.) belabored the point that a fifth of the population earns so little as to be excluded from participation in the pension plan.

Judy interjected sweetly that she had indeed noted that most people in Brome-Missisquoi, unlike their MP, did not have swimming pools in their back yards.

Mr. Graffey: "A most unworthy comment . . ."

Miss LaMarsh: "Simmer down . . ."

Mr. Graffey: "If the honorable lady cannot act like a lady . . ."

But despite such partisan pleasantries, Parliament is really getting on with its work.

Dr. Vivien Fuchs, British explorer and scientist, completed the first overland crossing of the Antarctic continent seven years ago today—in 1958. This vast area received little attention from explorers until comparatively modern times. Until the rise of the whaling industry the continent had no political significance, but today a number of countries, principally the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain, Australia and Argentina, have claimed sovereignty or interest over wide areas of the ice-locked land-mass.

Branches fall, trees rock, signs swing as storm hits Waterloo

WATERLOO — (Special) — The storm of Thursday hit Waterloo at about 4:30 p.m.

Trees rocked and branches fell. The heavy electrical signs in front of the establishments swung perilously. Rain came down in torrents.

At the very peak of the turmoil the fire siren blew for a fire at the lower end of town. The fire truck and procession of cars started up the road leading to the golf links for a fire at Casavant's farm.

Accidents caused by icy roads

WATERLOO — (Special) — The slippery roads at the close of the week caused at least two accidents which occurred within a few minutes of each other on Friday.

A Chevrolet truck belonging to the town of Waterloo and driven by Gerard Dufresne slid out of control on the ice and struck the Chevrolet. The town truck was not damaged but Mr. Dufresne's car will cost about $165 to repair.

Not five minutes later the police received a call from Western Avenue. A collision between two cars caused damages amounting to about $700. One car was driven by Guy Hebert, 418 Park Street, the other by Lloyd Wood, 729 Western Avenue.

The constable who made the report, Gilles Picotte, estimated $500 damage to Mr. Hebert's Chevrolet and $200 to Mr. Wood's Pontiac.

Ski trip ends with unpleasant memories

WATERLOO — (Special) — A skiing trip ended with unpleasant memories for five Americans.

Five young men from Massachusetts spent a week skiing in the Laurentians. When passing through Waterloo Thursday afternoon their car, a Chevrolet convertible, broke down.

After a short delay in a local garage the boys started home at 7:00 p.m. Visibility was poor and the roads were icy, as a result of the bad storm.

The driver, Stephen Doret of Grenfield, Mass., failed to see a truck load of hay parked in front of the Canada Hotel on Foster Street.

The resulting crash caused damages amounting to approximately $150 to the truck belonging to Gerard Nadeau of 126 North Street. The 1958 Chevrolet belonging to Mr. Doret was estimated to cost about $250 to repair.

The five visitors from Massachusetts were delayed in Waterloo until Saturday morning until legal matters were completed to allow them to return to the United States.

Danny Sullivan, Robert Kiley, Robert Dhillman and Steve Lapchelle were the four accompanying Stephen Doret.

Stranger than fiction

WATERLOO — (Special) — Truth is often stranger than fiction.

A full grown buck was seen at the north end of town during the past week. Two or three mornings between 4 and 5 o'clock a watchman at Slack Brothers saw the buck come to feed on the hay behind the crane near the greenhouses on Allen Street.

Friday morning at a later hour the deer came onto Allen Street and crossed to the parking lot. It ran back to a gas station run by Rouville Roisy, then crossed the highway to the river bordering Allen Street.

The animal jumped the fence and landed on the ice. It was last seen to run up the frozen river and bound into Robinson Park to find its way up to the woods back of the Norris property.

Action, not worry solve problems of teenagers

Worry seems to be the young adult's constant companion. You can take a lot of premature weight off your teen-age shoulders, though, by acting rather than brooding.

What do you worry about? You have plenty of company if you worry about: Your figure, your complexion, your popularity and your brains (i.e., school grades).

Whether you wallow in self-pity with others your age depends upon the steps you take to correct what you consider your shortcomings.

First, ask yourself if you haven't set impossible goals — for your appearance and accomplishments. Then, weigh your reaction to the criticism of others. Be sensible. When something bothers you, take action. Don't just stew.

• Do you worry about being too thin or too fat?

Before you stop eating or start stuffing yourself, find out what your weight should be for your height and bone structure. For example, your bone structure establishes the general shape of your figure. If it's large to begin with, you'll always weigh more than you may think fashionable but without looking heavy. Try this structure test as a guide:

Measure the width of your right wrist and note the total. Your waist should be 4 1/2 times the width of your wrist; hips, 6 times wider; thigh, 3 1/2; calf, 2 1/4 and ankle, 1 1/4 times the width. If you consistently are less or more than you should be in all these areas, do something about your weight.

• Do you worry about your skin? Perfect skins are rare. You can minimize skin problems and help prevent flare-ups of skin eruptions through regular skin care.

For example, if your skin is oily and tends toward blackheads and other blemishes, wash it with a medicated cleansing jelly. This helps clear pores, stimulates your skin and combats excess oiliness.

• Do you worry about others liking you? Both boys and girls will like you if you (a) like them and (b) like yourself. You have to offer something — humor, enthusiasm, appreciation, sincere interest. When you learn the secret of this, you build your own confidence.

• Do you worry about your school grades? You should but are you aiming for straight As by cramming and not through true interest in your subjects?

Relax. Start working for a B, for example, and you may get those As once your own personal pressure is off.

Color gray hair with an eye to softness

Hair coloring does wonders for the woman 30 years old or more who is just beginning to show some stray gray. However, don't use it to "push back the clock."

This is the sage advice of a group of professional beauticians. The worst mistake a woman makes when trying to hold the years at bay is to use a much darker shade hair coloring than her own, they say. More intense color makes her look older.

Incidentally, gray hair actually is white. An optical illusion created by surrounding darker hairs makes white hair look gray. Also, the Helene Curtis Guild of Professional Beauticians reports there are no studies to indicate men and women are graying sooner than their ancestors did. It just appears that way because people are living longer.

So far laboratory tests haven't shown that gray hair colors more easily than nongray but it may be slightly less resistant to permanent waving solutions.

The beauticians pass on these tips when having your hair professionally colored or when doing it yourself:

• Highlight or brighten your natural hair color with a tint one degree lighter than your natural shade.

• If you are just beginning to gray, choose a color approximately two or three shades lighter than your natural color.

• Lighten a medium gray head three or four shades but don't go any lighter than pastel blond.

• The very gray should avoid drab or ashen shades. These tend to emphasize the whiteness of the hair. The lightest shade to use with very gray is pale blond.

• Skin color also plays a key role in selecting the proper hair coloring. Women with creamy or very fair complexion can be as daring as they wish. With age, the lighter tones are most flattering to the complexion. If your complexion is ruddy, avoid hair coloring with red in it. Ivory-skinned women look best in ash or darker hair colors.

• The guild further cautions against a hasty leap to permanents, then semi-permanent colors, then semi-permanent color and then the permanent tint, gwgith

Forbidden realm for men

Too many women resent the special enthusiasms their husbands share with other men—hobbies and social events that a woman can't be a part of.

They should realize that the coin has another side. What men ever experienced:

The feeling of triumph a woman gets when a carefully planned party turns out to be the success she was afraid it might not be?

He says casually, "Well, everybody seemed to have a good time," and lets it go at that.

The elation that comes from finding exactly the right hat to set off a spring suit?

A man finds a hat the right size and the right color, says "I'll take it," and immediately forgets the whole transaction.

The great sense of relief when a daughter who has been afraid she might not be invited to a school dance gets the all-important phone call and begins to bubble instead of droop?

A man assumes that any boy in his right mind would be proud to escort his daughter.

The joy of working out a color scheme for a room and having it turn out just the way it was visualized, down to the last distinctive touch?

A man just sees that it looks better, without seeing any of the dream or the hard work that went into creating it.

The deep sense of pride and satisfaction a woman feels when a new and complicated dish turns out just the way she hoped it would?

A man dismisses it lightly with, "This is good. What is it, anyhow?"

So, you see, there are many purely feminine joys that can't be shared by husbands. Why complain about their masculine pleasures?

Neighbor tells of search at explosion

Financial & Market Report

SHERBROOKE DAILY RECORD, TUES, MARCH 2, 1965 7

LAST RITES — An unidentified priest gives the last rites to a little girl as a rescue worker with a portable oxygen mask stands helplessly by. The girl was one of the victims of the explosion that ripped apart an apartment block in suburban LaSalle. (CP Wirephoto)

Richard Burke, 32, is a night-shift sheet metal worker who lives a block from the scene of the apartment building explosion in suburban LaSalle. He was among the first neighbors on the scene, and joined in clanking at the rubble with his bare hands to free trapped victims.

By RICHARD BURKE

As Told To The Canadian Press: MONTREAL (CP) — It's a funny thing, and really incredible that when anything like this happens you never think of your own safety. You just act because you know somebody is suffering.

I am a night-shift sheet metal worker and my wife had gone shopping. I was minding our two-year-old boy when I heard the explosion a block away. It was about 8:15 a.m.

I looked out my back window and saw a great pillar of black smoke. Then came the shock wave and the whole apartment house shuddered.

At first I thought one of the nearby refineries had blown up. I never dreamed it was an apartment.

I left my youngster with neighbors and when I arrived at the scene about three minutes after the explosion, all that remained of this great apartment block I knew so well was a giant crater with debris all over the place.

"I could hear moaning and babies crying. I jumped into the crater and was soon joined by some others of my neighbors. SEES BODIES ON DEBRIS

There were bodies lying on top of the debris. None was moving.

When we cleared those bodies away, we started clanking with our hands in places where we could hear moaning. I clanked in the direction of the baby's cries. I seem to remember carrying out about 15 bodies but you couldn't tell whether they were alive or dead.

You don't stop to ask questions. As long as there was a voice to hear, I dug for it. But I did see quite a few alive.

It was just incredible. Even the firemen were dumbfounded.

Embarrassment of riches says Rene

MONTREAL (CP) — The basic trouble with foreign capital in Quebec is that there is too much of it, Resources Minister Rene Levesque said Monday.

If the people of Quebec are to lead a "normal life," they must gain control of the mining industry in the province and other sectors of the economy, he said.

Mr. Levesque, speaking to the Montreal district Chambre de Commerce, said "only the state can establish a really local mining sector quickly enough" so that the level of rising expectations in Quebec will not be frustrated.

The advantage of the state in reconquering the economy is that it is not for sale, whereas the private citizen is subject to the temptation to sell out to outside interests, he said.

The state could wait a long time for an enterprise to become profitable and it could take the social consequences of its investment into account.

the system used "bilingual numbers."

The Commons today enters its seventh day of clause-by-clause study of the contributory plan. Several amendments recommended by a joint parliamentary committee have passed automatically, but several contentious amendments are expected soon from the Conservatives.

During the afternoon an amendment was approved for a clause that guards against "scheming gold-diggers," as Miss LaMarsh calls them, benefiting from "death-bed marriages" to "some nice old codger who's about to expire."

The amended clause says if the health minister is satisfied a contributor at the time of marriage was in such a poor state of health that he could not be expected to live a year, the survivor benefit for his widow will be withheld.

QUESTION LATITUDE

Tom Barnett (NDP—Comox-Alberni) and NDP Leader Douglas questioned the latitude allowed the minister but Miss LaMarsh said few cases would ever reach the minister.

"The minister is going to have to be satisfied there is something wrong before interfering with the normal course," she said.

The original bill proposed a reduction of benefits to survivors where the husband dies within three years of marriage. The committee recommended the shorter period.

Gene Rheame (PC—Northwest Territories) asked Miss LaMarsh to use "understanding" when dealing with residents of Canada's north where some persons do not go through a formal wedding ceremony.

The health minister said she would be guided by the length of time persons lived together but benefits were not meant to apply to persons who changed partners frequently.

She also said when a person believed to have died reappears, the benefits will not have to be repaid to the government. Survivors should not be penalized in such cases. On the other hand, benefit payments would automatically stop because "you can't be dead if you're walking around."

"Ever been to the Senate?" asked Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre).

Closed circuit television proves valuable aid to Kamloops schools

KAMLOOPS, B.C. (CP)—The call letters of the television station are unusually long—NORKAM-TV—and its reason for existence is even longer.

It's a closed-circuit instructional television station operated by the staff and students of a secondary school. And it's in North Kamloops, hence the NORKAM designation.

The little station operates five hours a day five days a week beaming instruction in mathematics, social studies, English and French from a 12-foot-square "studio" which is actually a converted storage room.

Its output is transmitted to a nearby lunchroom, where Grade 8 and 9 students watch a number of monitors.

Next year it will become the NORKAM-TV network—as programs are beamed to two elementary schools, the first of a 17-school chain the progressive district hopes to tie into the system. There are hopes that master teachers will eventually give instruction from a central studio for all schools on the network.

The ambitious program was launched by the school board of suburban North Kamloops.

USE VIVID DISPLAYS
Teachers have made use of the dramatic appeal of television programming. On one show they reproduced the burning of Joan of Arc, imprinting the dramatic moment in French history on the minds of the students. In another show, portable cameras showed a dozen students hoofing about the playing field on snowshoes to illustrate the mode of travel of the course de bois.

Seventeen of the school's 42 teachers volunteered to instruct before the cameras when television came into use last September. A spokesman said there was a bit of nervousness at first, but the teachers then settled down.

A direct outgrowth of the adoption of television has been the introduction of team teaching. With classes of up to 120 students taking TV instruction teachers can work in groups of two or three to prepare lessons. One teacher does the actual presentation before the cameras—while one or two others supervise.

EXPAND EQUIPMENT
The students grouped around the receivers get about 25 minutes of TV in a 40-minute period—then do written assignments—or ask questions based on the lesson.

The school's broadcasting equipment consists of two cameras, 11 receivers and a broadcast console capable of two-channel operation. It is rented from the B.C. Telephone Company at a cost of $5,100 a year. The rental will go up to $15,000 a year this year as the school adds a video-tape recorder and other equipment. The school hopes to tape CBC educational programs and re-broadcast them at a more convenient

St. Francis Holstein Club elects directors, officers

The annual meeting of the St. Francis Holstein Club was held in the Arena Building, Sherbrooke, recently, with approximately 40 in attendance.

Carlo Fabi, president, welcomed all present. Following the reading of the minutes of the last annual meeting and the presentation of the financial report by Pierre Paul Cassidy, Herma Lajoie was asked to act as chairman for the nomination of directors.

Mr. Lajoie, as secretary of the Provincial Holstein Club, pointed out that it was the intention of the Provincial Club to organize a club in Drummond County, to which the English speaking members of that County would have to belong.

He also noted that Richmond County would have its own club.

OFFICIALS NAMED
To organize a club, there must be at least 50 members in the area concerned. As it was the intention of doing this by spring, it was decided to choose directors from the original territory but when the new clubs were formed, they could cease to be members of the St. Francis District Club. Then he called for nominations for the different counties. The following were elected:

Sherbrooke, Carlo Fabi, Rock Forest, D. M. Robinson, Lennoxville, Richmond, D. Goodfellow, Kingsley, M. Giroux, Bromptville, Drummond, Ross Carson, South Durham; Stanstead, K. MacRae, North Hatley, H. L. Beaulieu, Lennoxville; Compton, W. Grapes, Sawyerville, R. Clement, Johnville.

The directors met briefly to choose the officers for 1965, who are as follows: President, H. L. Beaulieu; vice-president, D. M. Robinson; second vice-president, Ray Clement; secretary, Pierre Paul Cassidy.

Mr. Beaulieu on accepting the President's Chair, thanked everyone who had confidence in him. He asked for suggestions for a program for 1965 but the meeting decided to refer this to the board of directors. He then asked Mr. Lajoie to bring the members up to date on what was happening.

CHANGES
Mr. Lajoie spoke on some of the changes in agriculture during the last forty years. For instance, in 1924, in the city of Quebec, there was no inspection of any kind for milk and it was selling at 30 cents a gallon. He felt that it was necessary for the dairy farmers of today to increase their production per cow rather than buy more cows and also to improve the yields both in the fields and in the pastures.

As of December 31, 1964, there were 1,917 members of the Canadian Holstein Association living in the Province of Quebec. He suggested as pointed out earlier in a broadcast, that as many breeders as possible should attend the meeting on March 1 in Jacques Cartier.

The province has been divided into 11 districts and the breeders present at that meeting from each of the districts will choose their delegate to sit on the Provincial Board. They in turn will elect a president and a vice-president among this group.

Consequently, it is not necessary to elect a delegate from the St. Francis District Holstein Club to the Provincial Association this year.

At this time, the meeting unanimously approved that the annual meeting of the Provincial Holstein Club would be held on March 8, 1966, in Sherbrooke.

Mr. Lajoie was very much in favor of this but pointed out that he would need the full cooperation of the Club to organize this event.

for registration purposes, to make sure the color markings are right. One never knows when an inspector may walk in.

Mr. Beaulieu thanked Mr. Lajoie for his informative remarks. A short question period followed.

Stanstead County W.I. executive hears reports, plans activities

AYER'S CLIFF — Nine members of Stanstead County Women's Institute Executive met Feb. 15 for their winter meeting at the home of Mrs. Lillian McFaul in Ayer's Cliff. The meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. R. Knight.

The minutes were read and regret expressed that Way's Mills, the oldest branch in the county, has been forced to disband leaving only seven branches.

The first item of business was the decision of the branches regarding Scholarships. The majority vote ruled that the branches be assessed this year, as usual, and that last year's scholarship be held in reserve, to be given on the judgment of the committee.

Mrs. D. Johnston reported that the School Fair Committee has met but no definite plans formulated. Money enough to buy the seeds is on hand.

Miss R. Hethrington for education said three branches plan to take part in the play contest, Tomfoobia, Stanstead North and Ayer's Cliff. Tentative dates for the county run - offs were April 23 and April 30 in two different towns.

A committee consisting of the president, Miss Hethrington, Mrs. R. Rogers, Beebe, and Mrs. L. McFaul, Ayer's Cliff, met Feb. 18 to prepare the brief for this county to be sent to Mrs. Gilchrist for the Regional School Committee.

Mrs. W. Raymond for welfare and health has the March broadcast, third Thursday at 10:30 over Sherbrooke. Mrs. French of Sawyerville has a project to collect scripts of W.I. broadcasts to be mimeographed in book form. Branches that broadcast are asked to send their scripts to the County Secretary.

The 50th Anniversary of the County W.I. was discussed. A committee is to be appointed Q—My little boy has creeping eruption. What causes it? The skin specialist froze his leg, but this didn't help. What is the proper treatment?

A—This relatively uncommon skin condition is caused by the larva of the cat hookworm, which burrows into the skin.

This happens after a person has lain on damp, sandy soil, especially in subtropical regions. The lesion may itch intensely.

Freezing with ethyl chloride spray or dry ice is the accepted treatment, and is successful if it thoroughly freezes the worm.

But, since the worm has usually burrowed about a half-inch ahead of the visible eruption and pursues an irregular and unpredictable course, and since the freezing must extend well below the surface of the skin, it is not unusual to have to have a second treatment.

A group of doctors in Texas recently found that thiabendazole given by mouth will kill these parasites.

The Doctor Says

YOU NAME IT—THEY'VE TRIED IT FOR WARTS

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.

A 12-year-old girl writes that she would like to get rid of her warts. On the advice of a friend, she put castor oil on them but nothing happened. She then went to a doctor who burned off a couple of them. This left ugly scars, so she wants to know what to do next.

Warts are tricky. They often appear in the early teens and are more common in girls than in boys. About 67 per cent of the warts in adolescents disappear spontaneously in a couple of years.

Because the last remedy tried is given the credit for success, there are hundreds of "sure-fire" remedies, each of which like the castor oil, never seem to work on the next person who tries it.

Freezing with liquid nitrogen is less likely to cause scarring than burning warts off with an electric needle.

Furthermore, it is preferable to freezing with carbon dioxide snow because the liquid nitrogen is much colder. Another effective treatment is X-ray.

Although warts are caused by a virus, there is no vaccine, no acid that can be applied locally, and no medicine that can be taken by mouth that is a reliable cure.

There is, however, one simple method that is worth a try if you have lots of time. Soak your warts for at least an hour in water that is heated to between 113 and 118 degrees. This must be done every day for four or five days.

It is important to control the temperature accurately for the full period of the soakings.

SHS Bantams trample St. Pat's 10-1 for berth in Minor Hockey finals, Louis Henty shines with four goals

Sherbrooke High School Bantams laid a hockey bomb in the QMHA semi-final playoffs, as they splattered St. Pat's 10-1 at the Scott Rink, Bishop's University.

Louis Henty triggered the rubber four times past the Irish netminder as well as gaining an assist. Allan Jones and Mac Oxford chalked up four assists each, with Jones figuring in three of Henty's notches. Oxford posed as a major threat from the blue line, lifting the puck high and hard with a well-aimed slap-shot throughout the tilt.

SHS will now meet the eventual winners of the BCS Hurons and Algonquins series in which the Algonquins hold the upper hand by three goals. They will meet again in the decider tomorrow afternoon.

Gerry Willard notched the winner at 5:55 of the first period, getting a tip-off from mate Oxford. Henty had apparently tabbed the one and only needed goal at 3:05 of the same, however, Wayne Morris-

Expulsion of four girls from Australia Swimming Union has brought strong protests from all

SYDNEY, Australia (CP)—The expulsion of four girls by the Australian Swimming Union—in effect, a ban on all amateur competition—brought bitter tears from a little teen-ager and defiance from Dawn Fraser, one of the world's best.

"Mummy, mummy," sobbed 17-year-old Nan Duncan, "I don't have to give up swimming, do I?"

"I'm going to fight this sentence," said Miss Fraser, winner of four Olympic gold medals and holder of dozens of records, who was handed the stiffest jolt—10 years. There is no appeal. Miss Fraser, recently married, is 27 so the action apparently ends her competitive career.

In a radio interview today she accused the Australian Swimming Union of slandering her name around the world and said she and her husband were considering seeking legal advice.

The other girls expelled were Linda McGill, 20, for four years, and Miss Duncan and 15-year-old Marlene Dayman, three years each. All were members of Australia's Olympic team.

The action was announced in Hobart, Tasmania, Monday after the ASI had considered a report by Bill Slade, manager of Australia's swimming team in the 1964 Olympic Games, citing them for alleged misbehavior in World Ice Hockey Federation has new system to decide winner in World Tourney in case of ties

TAMPERE, Finland (AP)—Get your calculating machine ready. You may need one if the world amateur hockey championships, which start Thursday in Tampere's new 10,200-seat stadium, wind up with a couple of ties in the standings.

The World Ice Hockey Federation has worked out a new formula for awarding places if two or more teams finish even on points. It gets a bit complicated, but it should avoid such arguments as there were at the end of last year's Olympic tournament at Innsbruck.

Russia won the gold medal and the world championship in 1964. Three teams tied for second—Canada, Sweden and Czechoslovakia—and all three interpreted the goal-average rule differently.

The committee gave second to the Swedes, third to the Czechs and fourth to the Canadians on the basis of goals scored and goals allowed during the entire tournament. But there was a lot of ill feeling.

The same four countries figure to have the strongest teams here this year. Finland also is competing in the A pool—the one counting for the championship—along with the United States and East Germany. Norway and West Germany play a qualifying game Wednesday for the eighth place.

The new formula for settling ties goes this way:

If two teams tie on points, the higher place will go to the winner of the game between those two. If that game ended in a tie, the deadlock will be decided on goal spreads, but only goals in the games involving the top four teams will count.

Billy Harris undecided on his future

TORONTO (CP)—Centre Billy Harris, released from Toronto Maple Leafs Sunday, has made no decision on whether to accept his demotion to Rochester Americans of the American Hockey League or to retire from hockey.

Harris was to talk to manager-coach Punch Imlach today about his release from the National Hockey League club.

Don McKenney, a left winger called up from the Americans Sunday, was worried about the fact he has been playing mostly centre for Rochester.

"It's quite an adjustment," McKenney said. "I hope it won't bother me."

Quebec and Manitoba tie for curling lead

EDGED IN EXTRA END—during the first round Monday of the Canadian Curling championships at Saskatoon. B.C. was edged 10-9 by Quebec on the 13th end. (CP Wirephoto)

SASKATOON (CP)—Terry Braunstein came through with the type of clutch shooting Monday that carried him to an extra-game showdown in the 1958 Canadian curling championship while still a high school student.

The Winnipeg skip made a pair of double takeouts in the seventh and eighth ends of his second-round match against Saskatchewan to tie the Manitoba rink a two-way tie for top spot with Quebec in this year's championship.

Manitoba and Quebec's Bill Tracy of Bagotville had two victories each going into today's third and fourth round of the 11 rink, round-robin bouspiel.

Northern Ontario, skipped by Jack Polyblank of Kirkland Lake, and Prince Edward Island, skipped by Doug Cameron of Charlottetown, were also undefeated but both had drawn a bye during the opening two rounds.

Rinks skipped by Ray Grant of Unionville, Ont., Harold Worth of Delisle, Sask., Nick Lashuk of Calgary, Alta., and Dr. Peter Lyons of Moncton were all tied for fifth with 1-1 win-loss records.

George McCharles of St. John's, Nfld., Ron Franklin of Halifax, and Jack Arnet of Vancouver were all winless in two starts.

Braunstein came from behind a 4-3 deficit with two in the fifth end in the opening round to take command and register a 10-7 victory over Newfoundland.

MADE THE DIFFERENCE—But Braunstein admitted after his 11-5 second-round rout of Saskatchewan that the difference came when his two double takeouts created a blank seventh and forced the Delisle quartet to take a single stone in the eighth.

That left the Manitoba crew with a 4-3 lead and last rock in the ninth end, and Braunstein took advantage of shaky shooting by Saskatchewan to collect four stones and sail the game away.

Braunstein admitted his rink played well—"but no better than in the provincial playoffs."

The Quebec rink registered a 10-9 victory over B.C. with a single stone in an extra end, and a 10-7 win over Newfoundland in the second round.

Tracy saved the Quebec rink from disaster in both games with brilliant shots.

In other first-round games, Ontario took command with three stones in the seventh and went on to an 8-5 won over Alberta, Saskatchewan had little difficulty defeating New Brunswick 12-6, and P.E.I. walloped Nova Scotia 16-4.

Northern Ontario held off a last-ditch drive by Ontario to preserve an 8-7 win, while New Brunswick defeated Nova Scotia 11-8, in the other second-round matches.

Roger Letourneau paced Sherbrooke Jr. Beavers to a 5-3 win over Technical School with two goals in the opening tilt of the finals of the Sherbrooke Junior Hockey League last evening at the Arena.

The second game will take place Sunday afternoon or Monday evening depending on the outcome of the series between Drummondville and Sherbrooke in the Senior circuit.

J. Perron, Gilles Vallee and J. St. Hilaire were the other marksmen for Coach Georges Roy's Beavers. Florian Manseau, Claude Pelchat and Jean-Guy Gingras tallied for the Tech in the wide-open fixture.

Tech opened the scoring in the first frame when Manseau potted his marker a few minutes after the start. Perron evened it a little later to complete the scoring in the first period.

In the middle session Letourneau put the Beavers ahead 4-1 but when he potted the only tally of the period. The final session saw five goals registered.

Letourneau and EST. Hilaire put the Beavers ahead 4-1 but the Tech bounced back with two by Pelchat and Gingras to make it 4-3. Roy was in the cooler when Vallee came up with the insurance tally to give the Beavers the decision 5-3.

REMEMBER WHEN—Gordon Hudson's Winnipeg Strathcona rink won the Canadian curling championship 36 years ago today—in 1929—with an unbeaten record, for its second straight title.

Whitey Ford throws and rests as he tests his arm, seems alright, Roberto Clemente fails to appear Whitey Ford threw for a while and wasn't sure whether his arm hurt or not, Roberto Clemente's phone was busy so the brass doesn't know whether he's a holdout or not.

More questions than baseballs were up in the air at the major league training camps Monday.

In the Yankee camp, ace lefty Ford threw for five minutes, rested a while, then threw five minutes more.

"I'll admit my arm felt tired after throwing about 40 pitches," said Whitey, who had an operation on his pitching arm during the off season, opening of Pittsburgh Pirates' first spring training session. Roberto, who led the National League in hitting with a .339 average last season, isn't under contract.

Meet Beavers here tonight in key game, must win to stay in running, Granby travels to St. Hyacinthe Drummondville Rockets face elimination this evening when they take to the ice at the Arena to tangle with the Sherbrooke Beavers in the fifth game of the four-out-of-seven Series "A" of the Quebec Provincial Senior Hockey League. The game is slated to commence at 8:30 p.m.

The Beavers hold a commanding 3-1 lead in the affair and a win tonight would give them a berth in the finals against Granby or St. Hyacinthe. The Vics came through with a convincing 6-3 victory Sunday evening over the Gauls to tie their series at two games each. They also meet this evening in St. Hyacinthe.

The Beavers posted a victory in the first game of the series in Sherbrooke 4-3 to get off on the right foot. On their first visit to Drummondville they continued their winning ways with a 6-4 win but when the Rockets came to Sherbrooke last Thursday they upset the Beavers 6-5 in a delayed fixture.

On Sunday the Beavers picked up a 5-2 victory in Drummondville to take a 3-1 lead and if they can pull through with a win tonight it would be the end of the Rockets for this season. Drummondville will be gunning for a victory.

The Rockets facing elimination will be going all out in order to prolong the battle. With the return of Claude Aubrey they are a different club as he instills more fight in the club. He played a big game Sunday in the Rockets' defeat.

Black Hawks holding to lead with four weeks left, but Canadiens and Red Wings are right on their heels

MONTREAL (CP)—Chicago Black Hawks are holding on to their lead with four weeks left in the regular schedule of the National Hockey League season. But Montreal Canadiens and Detroit Red Wings are crowding them, while Toronto Maple Leafs hover in the near distance.

The Hawks have 71 points and 10 games left to play. The Canadiens have 68 points and 12 games. Detroit follows with 66 points and 13 games. Toronto is next with 62 and 12.

Stan Mikita of the Hawks stands at the top in the scoring race with 76 points on 26 goals and 50 assists. He's nine points up on team-mate Bobbv Hull who has 38 goals and 29 assists for a 67 total.

Norm Ullman of Detroit is in third place with 27 goals and 32 assists for 59 points, three ahead of Claude Provost of Montreal who has 24 goals and 32 assists.

In goaltending, Detroit is leading with 138 goals against in 57 games. Toronto is second with 144 against in 58 games. Detroit goalie Roger Crozier leads in shutouts with five.

Ted Lindsay of Detroit leads in penalties with 157 minutes. Mikita and Carl Brewer of Toronto each have 140 minutes.

Mikita's pull ahead of Hull in goals scored—24 in the second half of the season so far, compared with 12 in the first half—comes in part from playing more games. Both played 35 games in the first half of the season. But Mikita has played 25 games in the second half while Hull has been in only 18, in which he has scored six goals.
