WORLD HEALTH ORGANIZATION MEETING IN VALLEYFIELD

Saturday, September 12, 1959, Valleyfield was the scene of a stopping place for refreshment and food. Through the kindness of Merck's, Schenley and the municipality of Valleyfield this important group was entertained enroute to see the powerhouse and the seaway locks at Beauharnois. The president, Dr. René Lemieux of Quebec, headed the delegation of about three hundreds and with him were high officials of the Canadian Medical Association: Dr. T. C. Routley, past president; Dr. A. D. Kelly, treasurer, both from Toronto; Dr. Gerald Halpenny and Dr. T. Hale of Montreal. The delegates were from all the countries of the world: India, Italy and all of Europe, from the U.S., and were transported by bus. Perfect weather was almost enough for a greeting, but Mayor Quevillon, Dr. MacDonald Caza, Mr. "Nick" Nicholson, Dr. St. Onge and others expressed kindly words of hospitality, both at the Club Nautique and at the Chalet in Parc Sauvé where a delicious buffet lunch was served as the compliments of Merck's. Many pictures were taken as souvenirs and the guests went on their way with happy memories of Valleyfield.

Rotarians Get A Glimpse Of "Great Whale" In Address By Bob Reid, Of Chateaugay, N. Y.

"Great Whale", is quite likely a name that means nothing to our many readers, but is a place on the Dew Line near Hudson Bay that was the center of an illustrated talk given at the Rotary Club meeting on Monday by Bob Reid of Chateaugay, N.Y.

Bob Reid accompanied Ed. McNally, Rockburn, who is the illustrator for "Week End Magazine", and a party who flew north 800 miles from Montreal, the purpose of the trip being to get first hand information for "Week End" and the Hudson Bay Company publication "The Beaver".

The party of nine men went north by a Wheeler Airline plane, a stop was made at Val d'Or and from that point to the Dew Line at Great Whale, a point north of the tree line, land that is only beginning to be surveyed, sand, muskeg, ice, etc. The trip was made on July 9 and the country was literally covered with bright flower blossoms, weather was warm, water temperature in Hudson Bay 36 degrees, ice still floating in the distance.

The Eskimos are partial to bright colored clothing. Live in tents that have a wooden frame. Some 150 men are stationed at this Dew Line post and have things up to date and modern in many respects. One evening the party were invited to dine at the Dew Line mess and were informed that black ties and dress clothes would be the order of the dress for the evening. Mr. Wheeler led the party to the mess hall and one of the sketches drawn by Ed. McNally showed Mr. Wheeler being greeted by the English chef wearing a chef uniform, starched and void of stains. The Mess was immaculate and something one would hardly expect to find in such a remote northern location.

Fortunately Bob Reid took along a camera and a quantity of colored film. Fishing was indulged in and according to Bob and the pictures he took, the fishing was really good. Speckled trout from 3 to 8 pounds were what they were catching. Bob said that he accompanied Mr. Wheeler to a point where Mr. Wheeler stated he was sure no white man had ever fished before. Every time you threw in your line you immediately caught a trout that would weigh about 5 lbs. or more. The trout were so plentiful they would swim about at your feet. Mr. Wheeler told Bob Reid that they would each catch five trout and head back, as 25 to 30 pound of fish was all they could carry when wading in the water for close to half a mile in distance. Wherever the men went to fish, trout were found in abundance, and to prove this point one of pictures taken by Mr. Reid showed the party of men preparing to return home by plane and it showed a great pile of beautiful trout, as part of the cargo.

Mr. Reid also showed the Rotarians a number of pieces of art made by the Eskimos. The carvings were made from soap stone and the work was done through the use of an old hack saw blade and a file. These ornaments sold for $2 each to the Hudson Bay Store, goods taken in trade. Later in the year Mr. Reid said these same items would be found on sale in Quebec City at $25 apiece.

The Eskimo is a bright individual. At Great Whale there were 310 Eskimos. One old lady was credited as being 84 years of age. Large families, and apparently a very happy folk. They are an ingeniously inclined people and quick to grasp the why of things mechanically.

Mr. Reid said that planes are at work photographing the country as it has never been surveyed to date. Maps are being prepared and on each map appears a note asking the party who may be reading same, that if they know data pertaining to the terrain or anything that might be included on the map to send the information in to the map makers so that records can be amended.

Mr. Reid said that the country was literally covered with lakes and rivers. Great falls are to be found on many rivers leading from lakes, which would indicate that when the time comes, and hydro power is required in this north country the potential hydro supply is available. From what has already been learned of the country a great many minerals are available.

Mr. Reid is looking forward toward making a return trip in the summer of 1960.

Mr. John Kelley, "Mr. Malone", introduced Mr. Reid whilst the vote of thanks was extended in behalf of the Club by Rotarian Fred Anderson.

School Fair Very Successful And Well Attended

The school fair under the auspices of the Huntingdon Home and School Association, held at the auditorium of the High School, on Friday evening, was a splendid success. It was well attended and there was a large collection of exhibits in each of the various classes. In the evening the exhibits were on display and formed the early part of the Fair. Later dancing was indulged in with the music supplied by Arnold Milne and his orchestra.

Chateaugay Road Job to Start Soon

A low bid of $550,687.66 from Lake Champlain Development Corp., Plattsburg, has been received by the State Department of Public Works for widening and resurfacing a 4.65-mile section of Route 374 in Franklin County, starting at the Route 11 intersection in Chateaugay and extending northward to the Canadian border. Nine bids were received.

The existing route, which except for a short 42-foot wide section in Chateaugay is mostly 16-foot wide, will be widened to 20 feet, provided with eight-foot shoulders, and resurfaced with bituminous-treated gravel pavement. The existing concrete arch bridge over Marble River just north of Chateaugay will be widened.

Work is expected to begin shortly after a contract is officially executed. The contract will be awarded — following a routine check by State engineers of all bids received — to the contractor who is found to have submitted the lowest valid bid. There usually is a lapse of about one month between receipt of bids and contract award.

Howick

HOWICK. — The September meeting of the United Church W.M.S. was held on Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Robt. Tolhurst presiding.

Devotional was taken by Mrs. Wallace Kerr and her thoughts were centred in the theme for the day, "Fruits".

Mrs. Melville Brown reported on the proceeds from the trousseau tea. The President reported that our Fall Rally is to be held at Ormstown, on Oct. 30.

Reports from the various conveners were given.

The Study Chapter was taken by Mrs. H. Brady. It was chapter one in our new Study Book, "Africa Disturbed", dealing particularly with Belgian Congo and Liberia. Great changes have taken place recently, most countries demanding their independence. There are now nine independent states and more in the making.

The natives are greatly disturbed by the following: 1. Western culture; 2. The Christian influence being the most powerful; 3. Communications — change from barter to currency; 4. Race prejudices. All these play their part in causing strife.

A solo by Mrs. Wm. Templeton was much enjoyed.

The meeting closed by repeating the Mizpah benediction.

The Georgetown W.M.S. met at the church on Tuesday, September 15th.

The president, Mrs. W. Logan opened the meeting and led the responsive Scripture reading followed by prayer by Mrs. Stanley Peddie.

A letter from Miss Agnes Gollan, missionary in Nigeria, Africa, was read by Mrs. Arthur Kerr. The Study period was in charge of Mrs. Wm. Brown, who gave a very thoughtful reading based on Scripture passages.

Singing of the hymns was accompanied by Mrs. John Holmes at the organ.

Mrs. W. Logan closed the meeting with prayer after which a bale containing numerous articles of apparel, many knitted articles and quilts, to the value of $127.25 was packed. A box of good used clothing was also packed. These to be forwarded to W.M.S. headquarters in Montreal.

The Howick United Church Evening Auxiliary met at the home of Mrs. Robert E. Ness. The meeting opened by the singing of "Onward Christian Soldiers."

Mrs. Bob Ness was in charge of the Devotional and read from Psalm 103 and led in prayer.

Mrs. Robert Tolhurst gave a most interesting synopsis of the first chapter from the new Study Book on Africa.

Mrs. Ben Spedding read a poem: "Green Earth On The Other Side".

The Offering was taken and dedicated by Mrs. Bob Ness. Roll Call was answered by 18 members and 2 visitors, the text word being "Praise."

The President, Mrs. Clarence Kerr read a notice inviting all members to the Fall Rally and Literature Tea to be held on Oct. 7th at St. Luke's United Church in Montreal.

Plans were made for the joint meeting to be held in the church on Oct. 20th.

The infant son of Br. and Mrs. Howard M. Sykes was baptized on Sunday, August 30th, in Howick United Church, by the Rev. W. Charles Pelletier, Minister of Valleyfield United Church, assisted by Rev. C. R. Sutherland. The organist was Mrs. Russell Stewart. He was given the names of Peter MacDonald. A reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sykes, attended by some thirty-five relatives and neighbours.

Mrs. Janet Gavin of Kensington, her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Spencer Gavin and son Mack visited her nieces, Mrs. James Tillotson and Miss Helen McCartney.

Miss Alice Wilson And Mrs. M. A. Reese Honored At Gathering

A pleasant social gathering was held in Monroe Hall, Athelstan, on Thursday evening, when honor was accorded to Miss Alice Wilson and her sister Mrs. M. A. Reese. The party was organized by good friends and included the people of Athelstan and people who received mail along Athelstan R.R. 1, and a number of other friends. The gathering marked the change-over of the Athelstan Post Office from the Wilson family, who had operated the Athelstan Post Office for a little over 50 years. The present Post Master is James Hutchings.

In behalf of the friends of Miss Wilson and Mrs. Reese, Mr. Fred Hutchings made the presentation which took the form of luggage and an envelope containing a sum of money. In making the presentation Mr. Hutchings made several kindly references to the services accorded the general public through the various Post Masterships of the Wilson family.

Postmaster James O'Hare was called upon, and he said that when he made the regular inspection visits to Athelstan it was more of a social meeting, because all the work had been executed without errors. In other words the Wilsons had been doing the post office work for so many years it was just natural to do things according to the postal requirements.

Wm. R. Wilson, nephew of Miss Wilson and Mrs. Reese told of a few of the unusual incidents that had occured during the years the Post Office was in charge of the family. One occasion was that the snow was so deep and roads blocked that the late Dr. Wm. Rowat picked up the mail at the N.Y.C. Station and brought it to Athelstan when walking on snowshoes. On another occasion it was high water and the mail bag was tied on a horse that had carried a man to the station. Once the bag was securely tied to the horse, the horse was commanded to go home, and so the Royal Mail was carried.

Following the pleasant hour of good wishes Mrs. Reese expressed the thanks to the many, in behalf of her sister and self Miss Wilson and Mrs. Reese are to leave on Monday for a six months vacation which will take them to many places, the destination being in California.

The party was concluded on the ground floor of the Monroe Hall where refreshments were served.

Howick 4-H Ayrshire Calf Club Show Held Last Saturday

Another brilliant chapter has been added to the annals of the Howick 4-H Ayrshire Calf Club, the result of its annual show held at Terrace Bank Farm, Howick, Que., on Saturday, September 19. Founded in 1933 or 1934 that Club and Show has to its credit a wonderful record of achievement. In that latter respect, one could well say, it is a pity that event doesn't have a larger audience, instead of only the parents and a few other interested spectators. However, it is never publicly advertised and it would seem that the Club itself is only interested in the Achievement day aspect, without any fanfare in that respect.

The current officers of the Club are Bruce Cairncross, President, and Rodney McKell, Secretary, with Robert Ness (Terrace Bank) as Leader or Counsellor. Associated with Mr. Ness in the Leadership are Ken Roy (Oakburn), and Archie Roy (Balquhidder) former long time Leader.

Professor Cote, Ste. Martine, is the General Supervisor on behalf of the 4-H Club Branch of Quebec Department of Agriculture, which now supervises 4-H Club activities in Quebec. Prof. Cote and Leon Beaudin, Quebec Department of Agriculture, Huntingdon, were in assistance to Club Leader Robert Ness in the management of the show. However from an exhibition standpoint, and in line with senior show activities, etc., the youthful exhibitors were on their own, and right well did they conduct the preparation and showing of their animals, like seasoned veterans. Indeed an inspiring performance.

This year 26 members had forward their calves of the Club year — 11 junior and 15 senior heifer calves, the largest number of competitors in a considerable number of years. In addition 5 junior yearling and 7 senior yearling heifers, 6 two-year-old heifers and 5 young cows — all of them former Club calves of their year — were exhibited.

The judge was James Houston, Farm and Herd Manager Macdonald College and he carried out his task in a most commendable way. In fact one must give him considerable credit for the comments he made and the advice he gave to the contestants in the two keenly contested showmanship classes, right down the line.

The awards were made as follows:

Junior heifer calves (11): 1, Andy Ness; 2, Sheila McArthur; 3, Betty Cairncross; 4, Sandra McFarlane; 5, Keith McKell; 6, Allan McKell; 7, Earl Craig; 8, Ken McFarlane; 9, Allan Angell; 10, Gary Barrington; 11, Ross Peddie.

Senior heifer calves (15): 1, Alan Ness; 2, Howard Goodby; 3, Alvin McArthur; 4, Frank Davies; 5, George Davies; 6, Henry Wilson; 7, Sheila Wilson; 8, George Cairncross; 9, Dale Chisholm; 10, Bruce McFarlane; 11, Brodie Craig; 12, Rodney McKell; 13, Rodney McKell; 14, Dick Scoble; 15, Donnie Morrison.

Junior yearling heifer (5): 1, Alvin McArthur; 2, Betty Cairncross; 3, Earl Craig; 4, Allen Angell; 5, Ken McFarlane.

Senior yearling heifer (7): 1, Harold Goodby; 2, Alan Ness; 3, Gary Barrington; 4, Dale Chisholm; 5, George Cairncross; 6, Ross Peddie; 7, Dick Scoble.

Two year old heifers (6): 1, Alvin McArthur; 2, Brodie Craig; 3, Ross Peddie; 4, Earl Craig; 5, George Cairncross; 6, Betty Cairncross.

Cows (5): 1, Ross Peddie; 2, Alvin McArthur; 3, Brodie Craig; 4, Betty Cairncross; 5, George Cairncross.

As is usual at the show, one of the most interesting events was the parade of the "Pee-Wee's", that is boys and girls under Club age, 16 of them, as follows: Cris Ness, Campbell Gruer, Larry Ness, Ralph Templeton, Carolyn Templeton, Janet McFarlane, Kathy McFarlane, Peggy Roy, Gordon Chisholm, Linda Scoble, Agnes McKell, Joy McKell, Linn McFarlane, Dick Angell, Fay McKell, Lorne Templeton.

The first five prize winners in the Junior Showmanship Contest, with 19 competing, were: 1, Sheila McArthur; 2, Alvin McArthur; 3, Betty Cairncross; 4, Sheila Wilson; 5, Alan Ness.

Senior showmanship, 7 in competition: 1, George Davies; 2, Howard Goodby; 3, George Cairncross; 4, Henry Wilson; 5, Rodney McKell; 6, Ross Peddie; 7, Brodie Craig.

Prior to the show proper there was the usual judging competition with 27 competitors. The first and second prize winners were: 1, Ross Peddie; 2, Howard Goodby. — F.N.

COVERING THE ACTIVITIES OF THE "LITTLE ROYAL" EXHIBITION CENTRE

Ormsdale Rebekah Lodge Recent Activities

On Monday evening, Sept. 21st, a very pleasant evening was held by the members and guests of Ormsdale Lodge No. 30, in the I.O.O.F. Lodge room, on the occasion of the official visit of Sis. Muriel Imison, President of the Rebekah Assembly of Quebec.

Present also were Sis. Myrtle Boy, P.P., of Rebekah Assembly of Quebec; Sis. E. English, V.P., and Sis. A. Elliot, musician of the Rebekah Assembly; Bro. W. Shannon, Grand Patriarch of the Encampment Officers and Bro. G. Oleson, Sis. E. Lockwood of Granby, Sis. C. Clifford, D.D.P., of Bayview, as well as Sis. E. Herdman, N.G., of Pioneer, Sis. McPherson, N.G. of Bayview. A good representation of each of the Lodges was also present. Sis. D. Morison, N.G. was in the chair and conducted the meeting in a very efficient manner.

Sis. B. Kerr introduced the President and Grand Lodge and Encampment officers.

The floor work presented by Ormsdale exemplifying the President's and Lodge ideals was well received by those present. This added much to the evening's entertainment. The "Circle of Friendship" acted by the members of Ormsdale and the solos sung by Sis. M. Wallace contributed greatly to the inspiration and enjoyment of all.

The highlight of the evening was reached when Sis. Muriel Imison, President of the Rebekah Assembly of Quebec, in her friendly and capable manner, addressed the visitors and Lodge members. She brought a stirring message on "Rebekah work" with particular emphasis on "Building for Tomorrow". Her motto: "TNT" — "Today, not tomorrow — for tomorrow may be too late" is one worthy of plenty of thought and action, if you would be good Rebekahs.

Sis. M. Boy, Sis. C. Clifford, Bro. Shannon, Bro. Oleson, Sis. E. Herdman, Sis. McPherson were among those who spoke briefly bringing Lodge news, and wishing a successful year to the President, District Deputy President and to Ormsdale Lodge members.

On behalf of Ormsdale Lodge a gift was presented to Sis. M. Imison by Sis. E. Stewart and Sis. I. Kerr, and graciously responded to by the President. Previously beautiful corsages were pinned on guest officers.

During the business meeting nominations for next year's slate of officers was voted upon, and installation will take place soon.

The Lodge rooms were tastefully decorated with many beautiful flowers, especially pansies and other artistic emblems which were the President's particular favourites. The same theme of decorations further enhanced the tables at the "tea hour", adding greatly to the festivities. Particularly noteworthy was the President's cake with her name on it and "pansy theme"; this President Imison cut and shared with all those present. The Decorating Committee were Sis. M. Wallace, Sis. D. Morison and Sis. E. Stewart, who deserve much credit for their artistic abilities.

Dainty and delicious refreshments were served at the conclusion of the meeting by the Refreshment Committee.

On Sept. 19th a good representation of members of Ormsdale No. 30 attended the District meeting and Bayview's "Twenty-fifth" anniversary where they enjoyed the meeting and banquet very much.

Wife Takes Husband's Place

Tradition has it that man's helpmate, his wife, will rise to occasions when so required. The Rev. Mr. Beal, we are sorry to report was on the sick list last week, yet he managed to officiate at two funerals. Late Saturday evening it was quite evident to Mrs. Beal, that he would not be able to conduct the service in the Huntingdon United Church, on Sunday morning. Mrs. Beal appeared in the pulpit on Sunday before a very large congregation. She opened the service through explaining why she was filling the gap created through her husband's illness. The service was carried out exactly as Mr. Beal had provided. Mrs. Beal left no details undone for at the close of the service, like her husband, was at the exit of the auditorium bidding farewell to the parishioners for another week. The last time we believe that a wife of a minister filled the pulpit, as did Mrs. Beal, was following the death of the late Dr. P. H. Hutchinson of St. Andrew's Church, when Mrs. Hutchinson read the sermon which her late husband had prepared. Mrs. Beal, like Mrs. Hutchinson, demonstrated that she too is inclined toward elocution. Hearty congratulations Mrs. Beal, and in so saying we believe the entire congregation will agree. It is to be hoped the Rev. Mr. Beal will be sufficiently recovered to occupy his pulpit on Sunday next.

Not A Part

Under the heading Federated Charities, Valleyfield, the name of The Huntingdon County Hospital appeared in the list of those who have banded together in this organization, according to the report in last week's issue.

This is not correct, as the Huntingdon County Hospital is not a part of this organization. The Huntingdon County Hospital remains strictly on its own as an undenominational institution.

Anniversary Services at St. Andrew's

The 125th anniversary of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Huntingdon, was observed last Sunday at morning and evening services. The guest speaker was the Rev. W. L. MacLellan, D.D., of Cornwall, Ont., who delivered appropriate Christian messages at the well attended services. In the morning his message was based on Christ's words recorded by St. John: "I must work the works of him that sent me, while it is day; the night cometh when no man can work." In the evening the sermon was based on "The Fruits of the Spirit".

At the morning service Dr. Allen S. Reid of Rockburn offered a prayer of Rededication. Mr. George Tannahill, student for the ministry, assisted at the evening service.

A Bible-Marker was placed in loving memory of Mrs. Charles Ferry by her children.

Special music prepared for the occasion inluded two anthems by the choir, a number by the Male Quartet and a solo by Mr. Irvin McWhinnie.

After the evening service the ladies of the congregation served dainty refreshments to all who gathered in the church annex for the social hour.

Athelstan

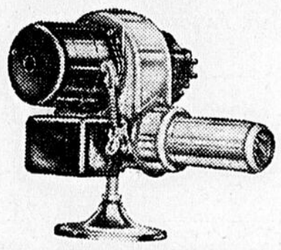

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Riehl, who have lived in Athelstan for the past fifteen years, left this week to make their home in Vancouver. Mr. Riehl was manager of Champlain Milk Products plant at Athelstan and won many prizes for butter and is well known to the people of this area. They were the recipients of farewell gifts and cash from the people of Athelstan and staff of the milk plant. These were deeply appreciated.

Homes For The Aged

ANNOUNCEMENT was made in a news article the past week in the daily newspapers that the Quebec Government plans to build a number of homes for the aged in various parts of the Province. This announcement is to be lauded as such homes are needed, and badly needed.

A comfortable home for aged people is a necessity in almost every community, but of course it would not be possible to erect one in every town and village. However, if a home could be erected in a central part of an area to serve that area, it would be more convenient for all concerned.

We put it this way. Most old people do not want to be too far away from their relatives and friends, they like to have them call in and see them as often as possible. Oftentimes, homes are located at some distance and the old people do not see their sons and daughters only at long intervals. This makes them unhappy and discontented.

If such a home could be erected in this area, it could accommodate a large number of persons who are looking for such a place to spend their remaining days and where there would be a degree of service and assistance. They would not feel alone and could call for help if needed. Also their relatives and friends could visit them fairly often and they might be able to go for a visit with them. There is a great need for such a home here and it would not be long before it was functioning to capacity. We have proven the need for hospitals in this area and there is no doubt but what they were, and are necessary. Unfortunately, at the present time, these old people use our hospitals, but cannot stay in them after treatment and are moved to other places, sometimes beyond their capacity to pay. In many cases they do not actually need full hospital treatment, but could be cared for in a home and thus leave needed hospital beds for other patients. The hospital has its own function to perform and it is widely taxed to do so, both as to accommodation and staff requirements.

Huntingdon is nicely located for a home for the aged and we are sure that many a good site could be obtained for the erection of one here. May it be hoped that our Member, Mr. Somerville, may be able to use his good influence to such an end. We feel sure it would be greatly appreciated by all the populace.

Khrushchev In The United States

THE present visit of the Headman of Russia to the United States is really something different and is really newsworthy in these times. Stalin was on this side on a few occasions during the last war, but he was not here on a touring mission, it was business and then return. If it had been Stalin at this time, we believe the reception would have perhaps been more cordial.

Invitations have been extended to the head of state in Russia on many occasions, but always they have been refused. Deputies have seen sent in the personalities of lesser officials, but never the real top "brass".

It is usual when such heads of governments of other countries visit as guests of another country, for the populace to turn out and give them a real greeting and follow their moves with great interest. Krushchev arrived in the United States with very little ceremony and with cool greetings and even some boos and other uncomplimentary reception. Such would have drawn rebuke from government officials and from newspapers generally as being most disrespectful of a visiting dignitary, but not so in the case of Russia's Headman. In fact it was predicted, and great precautions are being taken to safeguard this man against possible trouble.

Is such to be wondered at in view of the Russian attitude? People here cannot look upon this visit with the same trust as if it was General deGaulle, for instance. In this latter case, we believe he would receive a great ovation.

What are the innermost thoughts of Krushchev as he faces the people here who have such mixed feelings for him. He smiles on the outside and though he may perhaps be a little ruffled on the inside, he does not show it with his "poker-like" expression. While this is an accomplishment to have this leader here on a visit, no one can feel sure of the outcome. It is hoped that a more friendly spirit will prevail in due course, but we cannot be sure. Surely this man is not so devoid of feelings that he cannot sense that he is not being greeted with the best feeling. Surely he must realize that he is being treated very cooly and while not entirely shunned, it almost amounts to it. We may never know his feelings, or his thoughts on the subject, but we would like to. What does he think of what he has seen, how does our way of life strike him as compared to what he knows exists in his own country. Does he still believe that we in this continent are deprived and under the heels of the capitalists. That the worker has no rights, but must bend to the will of those who hire him. Surely he must realize by now that we have power and strength and can hold our own if we have to.

It is strange to have a visitor like this man, one we feel should be shown everything in order to try and change his outlook, yet not daring to do so for fear it may have sad consequences. We cannot make a confidant of such a man, for we never know to what use he may put his acquired knowledge. We look at his past and that of predecessors, what has been done in Poland, in Hungary and other countries under Russion domination and we look at his partner in China and what he has done and is doing. We wonder what kind of man is this that is being entertained on this side of the world. Yet it is being done with hope — hope for a better future, a better understanding and if possible for a better world — a world of peace. Krushchev is talking peace at every turn — but we cannot bring ourselves to trust him. We are constantly on guard against the possibilities.

Never before has so distinguished a visitor been in a country under such circumstances. But then, who is to blame?

Water Pollution Is a Public Menace

THE dry spell we have just lived through will have at least one positive result for us; that of highlighting once again the precariousness of our supply of drinking water. For several days, during the worst of the recent heat wave, articles of note such as the following appeared regularly in the newspapers of the Eastern Townships: "There is much fear in many quarters of a lack of drinking water", or "We are just getting to the danger point as far as our water supply is concerned", etc. The press could hardly be accused of exaggeration. The situation is really getting serious. If the slightest dry spell now means that our urban centres are in danger of suffering from lack of water, then we have a very serious problem on our hands. Why? Because our water resources are the polluted waters of our rivers and lakes and they all have to be filtered and purified before consumption.

And this is only one aspect of the water situation. Because many of these natural sources of water are polluted, many other greater inconveniences can result, most of them a lot more serious than not being able to water lawns and parks.

Presently, in the Province of Quebec, and more particularly, in the Montreal area, there have been enough cases of polio to make people fear there might be an epidemic. The director of Health asked the people of Montreal not to go swimming in the polluted waters surrounding the island. There was even talk of closing some of the public beaches. Far be it from us to press the panic button, but there must certainly be some connection between this outbreak of polio and polluted waters. We all know that polluted waters are carriers of germs which are the cause of serious diseases. Perhaps they carry polio germs too then! On several occasions, when polio outbreaks have occurred in the past, the polio virus has been discovered in sewage systems.

A recent news bulletin from the Eastern Townships to the effect that the citizens of St. Alphonse must put up with the disgusting odors emitted from the Yamaska River is only one case in point. The author of the article, having made a thorough investigation, found that animals had died after drinking from this body of water. He also found out that many summer residents in the district decided they would be better off in the city and returned. Is it possible that public opinion, Chambers of Commerce and municipal authorities can remain unconcerned about the purity of the water sources of their community? It is the responsibility of every citizen consoious of his duty towards the community and towards his own family and of public-minded organizations to exercise every bit of influence they can until some solution to the problem is found.

It is certain at least, that the major cause of water pollution is the dumping of sewage directly into lakes and rivers.

We must therefore impress upon municipal authorities the fact that sewage treatment plants have become a necessity.

The Ontario Department of Public Health has just ordered the city of Cornwall to install a purification system which will cost that city about four million dollars. Would that be the solution in our case, too?

Four years ago, conscious of the importance of the problem, Southern Canada Power offered to municipalities of it's service area to supply free of charge, the energy to operate a sewage treatment plant, and this for a period of five years. That offer still holds. Are there any takers? — (Contact).

Cherry Bank in B.C.

It is pleasing to note that two Howick-Huntingdon Ayrshire Club area animals figured in the prize lists at the recent P.N.E. (Pacific National Exhibition) Vancouver, B.C. Incidentally the Ayrshire judge at the P.N.E. was Doulas A. Ness, Howick, Que.

Cherry Bank Gay Lad 6th, was first prize senior bull calf and junior champion male for Boys Town B.C., Hope, B.C. This bull calf was one of the group of animals purchased last spring and William McFaul in Ontario and Quebec, as foundation stock for Boys Town B.C., Ayrshire herd. Cherry Bank Gay Lad 6th, was sired by Cherry Bank Certified and was bred by and sold to Boys Town B.C., by Allister McArthur, Cherry Bank Farm.

Elm Manor in B.C.

The other animal is Elm Manor Bonnie Jean which was second prize winner in a class of 9 cows, 4 years and over, for W. H. Savage, Ladner, B.C.

Elm Manor Bonnie Jean was purchased at the 1958 Sale of the Stars (Royal Winter Fair) by Mr. Savage from her breeder and consignor J. Grant Whyte, Huntingdon, Que. She was sired by Cherry Bank Royal Bomber, well-known former champion and chief herd sire of the Alderwood Farm of J. G. Wilson, St. Valentin, Que. Her dam, Elm Manor Model Fashion, a well-known winner, is a daughter of Cherry Bank Royal Philip and of Peggy Pansy 3rd., a noted winner and the foundation dam of most of the animals in Grant Whyte's Elm Manor herd.

Also Cherry Bank

It may be of interest to note that most of W. H. Savage's younger animals at the P.N.E., including 3 first, 2 second and 1 third prize winners, also including the reserve junior champion male and the reserve junior champion female were sired by Glendowan Anchor. That bull was sired by the famous Cherry Bank Golden Anchor, former noted herd sire at Cherry Bank Farms of Allister McArthur. His dam was Beoch Tango which was imported from Scotland by Mr. McArthur for Mr. Savage. However, Golden Anchor was the result of an Artificial Insemination. The semen having been conveyed by Air Mail from Cherry Bank to Glendowan Farm.

It may also be of interest to note that the senior and grand champion male at the P.N.E., was Springbrae Swanky Boy, first prize aged bull for Boys Town B.C. That bull was one of the group purchased by William McFaul in Ontario last spring. He had been champion at Ottawa, third at the Royal last year, and, together with his noted full brother Springbrae Bessie's Pride, won first in the produce of dam class at the Royal.

Illustrious Record

We doubt if there is any other Ayrshire Calf Club that has a more illustrious record than the 4-H Howick Ayrshire Calf Club, a report of whose 1959 annual show is given elsewhere in this issue.

Founded in 1933 or 1934 by S. J. Boily and J. P. Fleury of the Dominion Department of Agriculture and Douglas A. Ness it has brilliantly carried on through the years. At this year's show a considerable number of the competitors are sons and daughters of original Club members.

Douglas A. Ness was the Club Leader or Counsellor for several years, and after short terms of service by several others, Archie Roy one of the originals graduated from the Club ranks to the Leadership, gave signal, invaluable service for a considerable number of years. He was succeeded by Robert E. Ness of Terrace Bank, of a younger generation who had been a continuous, distinguished member of the Club until the maximum age limit necessitated his retirement. However, we understand that Mr. Ness has as his associates Ken. Roy (of Oakburn) another brilliant ex-member of the Club and Archie Roy.

Nevertheless the Club has its own member-management with, this year, Bruce Cairncross as President and Rodney McKell as Secretary.

Some three years ago the Production Service of Canada Department of Agriculture turned over the 4-H Club work in Quebec to the Quebec Department of Agriculture, with which it had previously been associated in that work. However, as in the case of the Dominion-Quebec regime, the latter Department pretty well leaves the management of the Howick Club to its own membership. In fact that Club is actually almost an autonomous organization. All of which speaks highly for the year by year group of members, their officers and leaders.

The majority of the members are from the area surrounding Howick, however, there are four members from Huntingdon County — the Wilsons, Henry and Sheila, of Franklin Centre; the two Davies, George and Frank, from Huntingdon, while Howard Goodby who was connected with the Burnside herd for a couple of seasons is also now from outside the district.

Star Selections

The classic "Three Star" selections would have been hard to make at this year's show, in fact an extension to five or six stars would have been hard to make, so keen was the competition in every class right down the line. However, in the junior showmanship class, with 19 juniors in competition, the "Five Stars" were Sheila and Alvin McArthur, Betty Cairncross, Sheila Wilson and Alan Ness, all of them third generation Ayrshire adherents. On the other hand, however, while there were seven "Star" showman in the senior showmanship class the two 1st prize winners, to whom we have already referred — G. Davies and Howard Goodby — had no previous Ayrshire background. George Davies' experience only commenced this year, after his father and uncle purchased Colonial Acres and its Ayrshire herd. It will be recalled that George also distinguished himself at Ormstown Exhibition.

The placing in the senior showmanship class was no snap but a carefully considered judgment. Time after time Judge James Houston made the contestants change calves before he made his final decisions.

Weekly Review

"We, The People"

By LEWIS MILLIGAN

With the general decline of the CCF in recent elections, the remnants of that political party have started a movement for its revival by seeking to enlist the support of the Canadian Labor Congress and farmers' organizations. By this combination they propose to form a "People's Party". A member of the CCF, in a letter to the United Church Observer, says, "The CCF was formed to create a classless society," and he points out that "in every country where economic and social democracy are increasing there is a socialist government whose backbone is composed of the people who do the useful work of the community."

But socialism does not create a classless society. In countries where classes exist it creates enmity between them, and if it succeeds in abolishing them, as in Soviet Russia, it creates new class distinctions, which are more invidious and oppressive than those it has abolished. Under absolute socialism in Russia the people are divided into various classes, from the Presidium and the bureaucrats down to the slave workers in the salt mines and the labor camps of Siberia.

The actual aim of the proposed new party is to create a class consciousness in Canada. To speak of it as a "People's Party" is to use a misnomer. The word "people" is an all inclusive term, and to apply it to the CCF is a falsity, for at its best showing it has proved to represent a small part of the Canadian people. Even with the official support of the Labor Congress and farmers' organizations it could not truthfully claim to be any more than a class party. Moreover, the average member of a labor union or a farmers' organization does not regard himself as belonging to a distinctive social class. They are not so narrow minded and ignorant as to claim that they are "the people who do all the useful work of the community." And when it comes to an election they exercise their democratic freedom to vote on politics as they please.

Letter To The Editor

September 21st, 1959

The Editor,
Huntingdon Gleaner,
Huntingdon, P.Q.
Dear Sir:

In my "Letter to the Editor" published in last week's Gleaner, I asked: "Are there not some Government Regulations demanding that drivers of Public conveyances be regularly examined and found in a state of health where sudden death is not a probability".

I have since been informed by the Medical Advisor of The Provincial Transport Company that Bus Driver Gerard Marceau was examined October 1957, July 1958 and July 1959.

Yours truly,
F. G. McCrimmon, M.D.

The Week At Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — Maj.-Gen. George P. Vanier, an old soldier who won fame with the Royal 22nd Regiment — Quebec's famed Van Doos — has become Canada's 19th Governor-General. He is the second Canadian and the first Roman Catholic to hold the high office.

His first words after his installation last week were to ask God to "bless the sacred mission entrusted to me by Her Majesty the Queen, and help to fulfill it."

"May He give peace to this beloved Canada of ours," said Gen. Vanier, 71-year-old retired lawyer, soldier and diplomat. He spoke to the Senate chamber before a large gathering of government officials, privy councillors, diplomats and members of Parliament.

Canadians are united regardless of national origin, Gen. Vanier said. "Irrespective of race or creed, we are all God's children."

Massey's Farewell

On the day before Gen. Vanier's installation, Vincent Massey, the man whom he succeeded, spoke to the Canadian people in a brief farewell address.

Mr. Massey said he was "humbly grateful for having had the privilege of occupying this great office" for 7½ years. The first Canadian as the Queen's representative in Canada, Mr. Massey said: "I have loved my job."

On the day Gen. Vanier was installed, Mr. Massey left Ottawa for his family home at Port Hope, Ont.

Change in Bonds

The government's 1959 Canada savings bond issue, launched last week, is tailored to encourage buyers to hold on to the bonds until they mature in 1968.

One part of the tailoring is the annual interest coupons, scaled upwards from four per cent in the first year to a record five per cent in each of the final six years. The other part is a non-taxable three per cent bonus on bonds held the full nine years.

This premium, the first ever offered on Canada savings bonds, will mean an average interest return of 4.98 per cent on bonds held to maturity Nov. 1, 1968. It compares with an average of 4.19 per cent on the 1958 issue, and the previous record yield of 4.46 per cent in 1957.

Other new features of this year's Canada savings bond issue are doubling of the maximum amount one person can buy to $20,000 and registration of bonds in the name of the estate of a dead person, or legally constituted executor, trustee or administrator of an estate.

The nine-year term is the shortest for a Canada savings bond in the last 10 years. Last year's bond had a 15-year term, and bonds of the previous five issues were 12 or 13 years.

Last year's issue had total sales of $921,000,000. But this was offset by persons cashing in holdings of previous bond issues. During last November, public holdings of savings bonds rose by only $547,000,000.

Earlier in the week, the government announced a successful securities issue of $500,000,000 to repay bonds maturing Oct. 1. It was in four types of short-term securities with interest yield ranging from 6.33 to 6.80 per cent.

Crowsnest Rates

The newly formed royal commission on railways last week got a taste of what may be the biggest battle in more than a quarter of a century over the controversial Crowsnest Pass rates on western export grain. The dispute between the railways and the Prairie provinces will have major economic implications and political overtones.

At the commission's initial, preliminary public hearing the Canadian Pacific Railway called for an investigation into the low statutory export rates on western grain. The CPR had some qualified backing from the publicly owned Canadian National Railways.

But the Prairie governments and the grain interests unanimously opposed such an investigation.

The seven-man commission, over-ruling objections of the Prairie governments and grain interests, said Friday it is going to look into the low Crowsnest rates to see what effect they have on the general Canadian freight rate picture.

The below-normal rates originally were negotiated between the CPR and the federal government in 1925, at pre-1900 levels. In 1926, they went into a statute embracing all railways in the West.

It appeared unlikely that the rates would be boosted, particu-

Many other long-time users have to think hard to remember when they last had to have their telephone fixed. In this modern "Age of the Repairman", such dependability means a great deal.

Of course, like any mechanical device, your telephone or the equipment that makes it work may require repairing some day. But you can be sure it will be done quickly and efficiently — and you'll have no repair bill to pay.

It is a privilege to announce that Past Pomona Master of St. Lawrence County, Clarence Poor, will be the installing officer; he will be accompanied by his own officers who will assist in this ceremony. The Maple Leaf Officers hope for the support of all available members. This is also "Oyster" Supper Night, an annual affair at the Grange; Mrs. Janet Gavin is our expert at cooking oysters.

Reports of the various committees were given at the last regular meeting, and the Grange has had a very successful year. Prizes were given those members winning in the County in the Baking and Crochet Contests; their entries going on to the Regional Meet at Ithaca this next week; the best wishes of all the members is extended to the contestants.

There were a number of "projects" put before the meeting, which it is to be hoped can be accomplished this next season 1959-60.

The Service & Hospitality Committee put forth a request, that if any member (or friends) wishes to donate cream and sugar sets for the banquet tables, they would be very acceptable. Also members wishing to donate refreshments for the Sept. 29th and Oct. 6th meetings, if they would call the committee, it would save time on the telephone, and would also be greatly appreciated. The Grange is very happy to announce the gift of a frigidaire from one of the members, this will be worth its weight in gold to the ladies. The gift of a flower basket is also acknowledged, this also from one of the members.

The various committees wish to thank all who have helped to make our Grange successful this past year, the merchants who are always willing to come to our assistance at "fair" time, as well as during the year. Special thanks to Mr. Martin of "Stedman's" for the use of the fan during the hot spell. To all friends who patronize our affairs, etc.

Lacolle

LACOLLE — The Lacolle Curling Club attended the Havelock Fair with their games of chance and Bingo and pony rides also a 'Merry Go Round' from Weston Bread. It proved to be a very successful day, there being such a large crowd.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan Helm and Alana spent the weekend in Huntingdon with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Fewster, Penny and Allan, Mr. Ray Reddick, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Smith and Ann spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Smith and Miss Hazel Reddick in Huntingdon.

Lecturer Mrs. Goodfellow presented a very interesting program, when Mrs. Charlotte Paul gave a very fitting tribute to the retiring Governor General of Canada, the Hon. Vincent Massey. Speaking of his untiring efforts toward the people of Canada on behalf of our Queen, of his love of the work, when as first Canadian Governor General had the opportunity of serving for seven and one-half years. The good wishes of all Canadians are extended to this Gentleman of Canada. Mrs. Paul also paid tribute to the second Canadian and the first son of French Canada to be the new Governor General, and to Mrs. Vanier. Theirs is a well respected family and a God fearing one, and the hearty congratulations of a nation is extended to them upon this high honour. Who can understand Canadians and Canada better than a native son?

Several "drills" were exemplified by the officers of the Grange and community singing. The meeting closed with the usual ceremony; refreshments were served by the S. & H. committee during the social period.

Wedding

CLARK-PHILLIPS

Cooke's United Church in Kingston, Ontario was the setting for a small, informal wedding on Saturday, September 5, when Miss Elizabeth Ann Phillips became the bride of Douglas Harold Clark. The bride is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Phillips of Montreal; the groom is the younger son of Dr. and Mrs. A. M. Clark of Kingston. Reverend J. Clare Kellogg officiated at the ceremony.

The bride wore a cocktail-length dress of French blue lace over taffeta. The princess-line dress featured a scooped neckline and short sleeves, and back panels of taffeta, falling from the waistline, accented the bouffant skirt; blue lace mitts and a bandeau of blue velour leaves completed her costume. Her shoulder corsage was of pink rosebuds.

The matron of honour, Mrs. Elizabeth Clark of Gananoque, sister-in-law of the groom, was the bride's only attendant. She wore a sheath dress of beige wool and a corsage of pink and white baby mums.

Mr. Donald Clark of Gananoque was best man for his brother.

At the reception which was held at the home of the groom's parents, the mother of the bride received the guests, wearing a powder blue suit with a corsage of white baby mums. She was assisted by the groom's mother who was attired in a gown of beige lace; her corsage was of bronze and gold mums.

For the honeymoon trip to Montreal and points in Quebec province, the bride wore a black linen sheath with matching jacket and turquoise accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark will reside in Kingston.

in a few words the democratic form of government when he said: "Government of the people, by the people, for the people". That does not preclude the formation of political parties. Disraeli declared that "without party Parliamentary government is impossible." He defined party as "organized opinion." There are many and various opinions on politics, and if there were separate parties organized for the promotion of every shade of opinion, politics would become a bear garden and there could be no settled or orderly form of government. France is an example of this with its multiple splinter parties and its frequent changes in policy and administration.

The two-party system has worked very well in Canada because, while both parties stand firmly for the fundamental principles of the constitution, they contend with each other in the formation of public opinion on political policies. Neither party claims to represent the political opinions of all the people. An election is a compromise to discover which party is supported by a majority of the people.

Any sectional organizations have a perfect right to organize and promote their political opinions, but for such a group even to think of themselves as a People's Party is an absurd piece of political arrogance. The best answer to that is the reply of Job to his comforters: "No doubt but ye are the people, and wisdom shall die with you."

larly in the light of a statement by Prime Minister Diefenbaker last May that they would not be touched.

Alberta counsel J. J. Frawley pointed to Mr. Diefenbaker's statement, but the commission chairman, Hon. C. P. McTague of Toronto, declared: "We have our terms of reference. What anyone had to say outside that (the Order-in-Council setting up the commission) is irrelevant."

Northern Coal

Canada's Arctic may be the setting for the world's most northern oil drilling.

Northern Affairs Minister Alvin Hamilton said last week a company is studying the advisability of moving its drilling rig by air or sea to Cornwallis Island, 1,700 miles north of Winnipeg, to a site within 800 miles of the Pole. He declined to identify the company.

Seams of coal up to five feet thick are among favorable geological features of the island where Resolute Bay is located, supply centre for the central archipelago. Resolute has a permanent weather station and Canada's northern-most RCAF base.

Gold Assistance

The federal government likely will be asked to raise the assistance it pays Canadian gold mines.

If the government were to do so, it would have to revise the Gold Mining Assistance Act during the 1960 session or undergo the difficulties involved in passing a subsidy bill making it retroactive.

The present act sets forth rates of assistance covering 1958, 1959 and 1960 production and expires at the end of next year. Under the rates, set last fall, the government pays about $12,000,000 a year to 42 of the 52 producing mines.

Wide Use Fur Trims Brings Luxury To New Fall Fashions

Fall is everywhere... in the coming of cooler days... in the changing color of the leaves... in the stores (and store windows) where new clothes are all over the place. Fashions for Fall '59 are easy to wear and flattering... elegant and dramatic... reminiscent of the glamorous clothes of the '30's worn by such movie stars as Marlene Dietrich, Carole Lombard and Joan Crawford.

One of the most talked about fashion points for Fall is the wide use of fur trims, appearing on coats and suit jackets (inside and out), and dresses. (Hats and handbags are dripping with fur, too). And furs are not merely limited to mink. Lynx, raccoon, opossum, leopard, fitch, badger and silver or golden fox are some of the furs that make the new fashions look elegant and luxurious.

Fabrics have never been more varied and exciting. They are for the most part smooth and polished, replacing the twisted loop textures of before... long-haired cashmere, velour, duvetyn and lacy mohairs for daytime wear. Sheer wool crepes, wool chiffons, mohair laces, sumptuous silks, satins, and brocades are favorites for dressier clothes. Colors are soft — brown is the prime basic. Green is the surprise color of the season shown almost always with an overtone of blue, except for the bright young green which designers call "lettuce," "absinthe" or "apple". Blues range misty to midnight. There is a whole palette of nearly-whites... oyster, bisque, warm ivory, sand and cream.

Dresses are a joy to behold — nothing freakish or outlandish this Autumn. The waistline is still where it should be, marked with belts (2 or 3 inches wide), sashes or cummerbunds. The slim sheath tops the dress fashion parade, featuring dolman, balloon or puff sleeves, big cape collars or draped scarf necklines which add width at the top and slimness below. The jacket dress (sheath-plus-jacket) turns up in fashion's favor again this Fall. This costume carries you easily through a busy working day right into a night on the town.

Suits share honors with coats in bringing about exciting fashion news. The newer-looking coats are slender, often wrapped and belted — some with big collars. In for a revival is the casually belted trench coat, George Raft style. Reversible coats are also due for a big season. And that goes for the not-quite-full-length coats with matching skirts — the coats are usually lined with fur. Another outstanding coat silhouette is the straight, semi-fitted coat which is designed to slide on easily over suits.

The longer suit jacket is the most impressive thing about the new Fall suits. Some are long enough to cover the hipline and are often double-breasted and belted (and trimmed with opulent furs, too) Fashion heralds the return of the classic, fitted suit. Although the jacket is "fitted", it does not resemble the nipped-in-the-waist jacket of former years. Instead the jacket has easy shaping throughout the waist. The Chanel-look suit (open and buttonless) and the shorter, semi-fitted jacket are still in the limelight.

Fashion is out to please and it does beautifully and regally this Autumn. If you sew, you will have a field day with the new silhouette, fabrics and the colors which enhance them. Be ready for Fall and start now to sew the clothes that will make your wardrobe the most fashionable it has ever been.

Super-Race Of Grizzly Bears

A super-race of grizzly bears has been discovered in an Alberta hide-away, recently opened up as one of the country's hottest oil-prospecting areas.

The huge beasts are believed to be remnants of the plains grizzlies which once moved with the buffalo herds across the prairies and were thought to be extinct before the turn of the century.

An article in the September issue of Imperial Oil Review reports that discovery of a "Valley of the Giants" in the Swan Hills area 150 miles northwest of Edmonton poses an intriguing zoological riddle for naturalists throughout North America.

The bears are of eye-popping proportions. They measure up to 10 feet from nose tip to hind paws and weigh up to half a ton. In the bear kingdom, only the Alaska Kodiak tops that.

Fewer than 400 of the shy monsters are believed to have survived in an 8,000-square-mile domain of woods, babbling streams, and small mountains which, until recently, was one of the continent's few primeval spots. Today oil has been found in Swan Hills, and more than 100 drilling and seismic crews are operating in the region.

The Swan Hills grizzlies are not Rocky Mountain or coastal grizzlies, nor do they appear related to any other type of bear now living on the continent. However, their skulls are strikingly similar to those of the plains grizzly exhibited in the National Museum in Ottawa.

Michael Hendry and other early explorers reported seeing thousands of "big bears" roaming the prairies, and prior to 1850 Fort Walsh in southern Saskatchewan was shipping as many as 600 bearskins a year. These grizzlies were described as longer than any other, with needle-sharp claws and colors ranging from chocolate to silver brown. The Swan Hills grizzlies match this description.

The Imperial Oil magazine tells how Albert Frederick Oeming, zoology graduate and Edmonton wrestling promoter, heard rumors of a giant race of grizzlies in the Swan Hills area, spent years questioning Indians and whites before he saw one, and finally developed a theory to explain them.

"There is historical proof that herds of buffalo roamed as far north as the Peace River to escape the advance of man," says Oeming. "I think a handful of the plains grizzlies came with them and bred up in the Swan Hills which, until lately, was one of the most inaccessible areas on the continent."

Today the huge bears appear to be moving north again, as supply roads and clanking bulldozers enter their once-silent kingdom. This has pushed them closer to the settlements along Lesser Slave Lake, and Oeming has been concerned about their survival.

The Review article tells how Oeming fashioned a 10-foot-long trap, by which he could first knock out the grizzlies with ether, then tag them and transport them deeper into the wilderness. He also went from oil camp to oil camp, telling the story of the bears and asking crews not to shoot them. The Canadian Petroleum Association circularized the industry, asking co-operation. Garbage dumps, always a magnet for bears, were moved farther from cookhouses, and some camps banned rifles. Then the Alberta government backed up the conservation effort by placing Swan Hills off-limits to all bear-hunters.

"There's a good chance now that the plains grizzly won't vanish from the earth," Oeming says.

Japan, Canada Serve As "Bridges"

By Kazushige Hirasawa

NOTE: — The following is an article written by Mr. Kazushige Hirasawa, editor of the JAPAN TIMES, on his impressions of Canada.

Mr. Hirasawa attended the Couchiching Conference of the Canadian Institute on Public Affairs and spent two weeks in Canada.

Japan, Canada Serve As 'Bridges'

Having concluded a two-week tour of Canada,I am now in New York. My tour of Canada was most wonderful and left me with a very good impression.

Aside from my personal impressions, I am giving you an honest and candid report of how Canadians in general think of Japan, of Asia, the United States and the world situation as observed by a news commentator.

I was impressed most with two things, i.e., the average Canadian's attitude toward Asia and that toward the United States.

If I might say so, most Canadians cross the Atlantic, pass through Great Britain, and cross the Indian Ocean in order to see Asia. And their observation of Asia starts with India and Ceylon. where they see the countries as a member of the British Commonwealth. Then they come to Pakistan, Burma, Singapore and Hongkong and return home via the same way.

Thus, the Canadians have a considerably good knowledge of Southeast Asia, but this knowledge does not cover countries further northeast including Japan, Korea and Taiwan.

People on the Pacific coast, of course, have a better knowledge of the northeast Asian countries, but those on the eastern seaboard of Canada — where the majority of the Canadian population is concentrated —

Federation Of Charities

of the Diocese of Valleyfield

N.D.L.R.

The purpose of this column is to enlighten our readers by answering their questions concerning the Welfare Council of Valleyfield and its Federation of Charities. We therefore invite our readers to send in their questions to "Echoes" Post Office Box 146, Valleyfield. These questions should be of a general nature to enlighten our readers about this undertaking.

Question — How does a Welfare Council operate?

Answer — Let us say, first of all, that a Welfare Council is an organization of coordination on the Diocesan level. The field of social help and assistance is so vast that the Welfare Council groups all social organizations of a charitable nature under one body. In this fashion, the various organizations are brought together to assist and jointly study problems relating to family life juveniles, health, leisure, social security, etc. The Welfare Council is expected to also seek out and make known the various social problems which exist in our midst and suggest means to overcome same. The Welfare Council is expected to conduct studies concerning such problems as housing, assistance to the aged, juvenile delinquency, leisure, etc.

The principal aim of a Psycho-Social Center is to assist those afflicted by making a thorough analysis of their problems, such as their physical, mental, social, psychological aspects and propose and establish the proper course of treatment to each individual case. In other words, such a Center is a complete analytical service for the treatment and rehabilitation of those so afflicted.

The basic principle underlining such a Center is the Christian Doctrine of Social assistance to our fellow men, the respect of the dignity and libery of the human being. It is therefore recognized that all persons mentally afflicted must nevertheless be accepted and recognized as human beings and looked upon with Christian dignity. All persons so afflicted may look upon the Psycho-Social Center for assistance and are free to either accept or reject the assistance extended to them.

The Center has nothing whatsoever to do with the judiciary or law enforcing bodies. It is strictly a social service extended to assist in the rehabilitation of the mentally afflicted in order that they may overcome their handicap and better surmount their obstacles.

In practice, the Social Center will devote a great portion of its effort to the psychological and pedagogical problems of children and adolescents. This of course will not exclude assistance to adults. However, it is recognized that in many instances the children's problems in this field are closely related to their home and family surroundings.

To summarize, the Center will accept all cases submitted regardless of age or sex and will extend equal treatment and consideration. The Center will at all times endeavor to assist and improve the patient's condition and environment.

Japan, Canada Serve

have a limited knowledge of these nations.

I heard an interesting episode which illustrates my point.

Recently, the Japan Export Trade Promotion Agency (JETRO) office in Toronto asked a Canadian public opinion institute to conduct an opinion survey on Japan.

It revealed the surprising fact that 53 per cent of the people whose opinion was taken did not know Canada was selling any goods to Japan.

As you know, there are very close economic relations between Japan and Canada, and Japan has imported $105 million worth of Canadian goods, including wheat, while Canada has bought $70 million worth of articles from Japan.

As to the state of Japan after the last world war, people I talked to knew that Japan was suffering from overpopulation. They asked me how our country was trying to solve the difficult problem.

When I told them Japan was trying to cope with the situation through higher industrialization, they doubted the feasibility of the project and suspected that Japan was again going to invade Southeast Asia to expand her territory.

If Japan and Canada had more frequent personal exchanges, it would not only improve Japan-Canada relations, but also contribute to a better world situation, the reason for which I will relate later.

Japanese people generally regard Canada and the United States as one North America. The two countries indeed are close neighbours, separated only by a border stretching nearly 4,000 miles, and Canada is heavily dependent economically on the United States.

American capital accounts for 80 per cent of the total investment made in Canada's heavy industries since the last war and to play an important role in one statistic shows that United States investment in Canadian business reached $3,000,000 per day. The total United States investment in Canada has totaled $13,000 million.

Canada is also heavily dependent on the United States for her defense.

The Canadian defense headquarters is under U.S. command and the radar station on the northern end of Canada is used jointly by the two countries for mutual benefit. The United States shares two-thirds of the cost of the station and Canada pays one-third.

Although Canada and the United States are almost one in economic and defense phases, Canadian people's sentiments are not one with Americans.

There exists, as far as I have observed, a sentiment which could be described as "Canadian nationalism" or a national spirit of independence or self-reliance. Canadians are critical of United States policy.

But this "nationalism" is widely different from that found in the newly independent Southeast Asian countries which may be natural because the Americans have the same racial and cultural background.

The Canadian people's sentiment toward the United States may be put as "don't be too bossy".

Canadians regard themselves as relatives of Britain. Therefore, they can't tolerate the United States in a dominant role though they are heavily dependent on the United States in economics and defense.

Another thing that interested me was the incident I observed when I visited Toronto. The hottest issue in that Canadian city then was the construction of air raid shelters in preparation for a possible Russian air raid.

I asked people there if they really believed the Russians would attack Canada. Their answer was that they did not believe the Russians would wage war against Canada in the immidiate future but they must brace themselves against the posibilities of war because nobody can say for sure there would be no war.

Thus, Canadians do not take the same view toward Russia as toward Red China. Because of geographical proximity, they fear the Soviet Union, but assume a more indifferent and subjective attitude toward Red China.

They think Communist China should be recognized internationally and criticize American policy on this issue. The Canadian Government has not adopted this national sentiment for its official policy and has taken the same attitude as the United States.

I asked one of those who insisted that Red China should be recognized what would he do with Nationalist China. He said there was no need to give Taiwan to Peiping but when I pointed out that Red China would refuse any compromise proposal unless Taiwan were given to them, he had no idea about what would be done to solve the situation.

Thus, the Canadians have no definite ideas regarding international recognition of Red China and they are inclined to support recognition of Peiping in opposition to Washington policy.

There is a slight difference in sentiment between the Canadians and Americans although they have an almost common economy and defense.

Japan expects Canada, a British Commonwealth member, to be a bridge across the Atlantic between West Europe and the United States.

And the natural Japanese role will be to serve as a bridge across the Pacific between Asia and the United States.

I think, therefore, if better understanding is brought about between Canada and Japan through an exchange of people, the two countries would be able world politics, linking the two bridges.
