An Omen.

NORMAL COURSE RUSSIAN NATIONAL LIFE

St. Petersburg, Aug. 19.—Emperor Nicholas has today announced the grant to the people of Russia of a national consultative assembly to be formed by elected representatives from the whole of Russia. The imperial manifesto, which is published simultaneously here and at Moscow and which will be read in all the churches of the Empire, is dated at Peterhof today, and is as follows:

"The Empire of Russia is formed and strengthened by the indestructible solidarity of the Emperor with the people and of the people with the Emperor. This concord of Emperor and people is the great moral force which has created Russia in the course of centuries by protecting her from all misfortunes and all attacks and has constituted up to the present time a pledge of unity, independence, integrity, material well-being and intellectual development.

"In our manifesto of February 24, 1903, we called to a close understanding all the faithful sons of the fatherland in order to protect the organization of the State by establishing on a firm basis the domestic life of the Empire and then we devoted ourselves to the task of co-ordinating elective public institutions with governmental authorities and of removing the disagreements existing between them which had reacted so disastrously on the normal course of our national life.

"The autocratic Emperors, our ancestors, constantly had that object in view and the time has come to follow out their good intentions, and to summon elected representatives from the whole of Russia to take constant and active part in the elaboration of laws, thereby attaching to the higher State institutions a special consultative body entrusted with the preliminary elaboration and discussion of measures and with the examination of the State budget.

"It is for this reason that, while preserving the fundamental law regarding the autocratic power, we have deemed it well to form a Gosudarstvennaya Duma (lower house of the assembly) and to approve the regulations for elections to the Duma, extending the validity of these laws to the whole territory of the Empire, with such exceptions only as may be considered necessary in the case of some regions in which special conditions obtain.

"As regards the participation in the labor of the Gosudarstvennaya Duma of delegates from the Grand Duchy of Finland on questions concerning the Empire in general and the Grand Duchy in particular, we will take special measures.

"At the same time, we have ordered the Minister of the Interior to submit immediately for our approbation regulations for the elections to the Duma so that deputies from fifty governments and from the military province of the Don may be able to assemble not later than the middle of January, 1906.

"We reserve ourselves entirely the care of perfecting the organization of the Gosudarstvennaya Duma; and when the course of events shall have shown the necessity for changes corresponding completely to the needs of the times and the welfare of the Empire, we shall not fail to give at the proper moment the necessary directions.

"We are convinced that those who shall have been elected by the conscience of the whole people and who will thus be called upon to participate in the legislative work of the government will show themselves in the eyes of all Russia to be worthy of the imperial trust in the virtue of which they have been invited to co-operate in this great work, and that, in perfect harmony with other institutions and authorities of the State established by us, they will contribute profitably and zealously to our labors for the well being of our common mother Russia, and for the strengthening of the unity, the security and the greatness of the Empire, as well as for the tranquility and prosperity of the people.

"In invoking the blessing of the Lord upon the labors of the institution established by us and with unshakable confidence in the grace of God and in the infallibility of the great historical destinies reserved by Divine Providence for our beloved fatherland, we finally hope that, with the help of God Almighty and with the combined efforts of all his sons, Russia will emerge triumphant from the trying ordeals through which she is now passing and will be born again in the strength, greatness and glory of her history, extending through a thousand years.

"Given at Peterhof, this 19th day of August, in the year of grace, 1905, and the eleventh year of our reign.

(Signed) NICHOLAS.
St. Petersburg, Aug. 19.—Many of the main features governing the elections to and the proceedings and powers of the national assembly which the Emperor has now ordered to be constituted have already been cabled in these despatches.

The paragraph of the first section sets out the purpose of the new legislative body as follows:—
"The Duma is established for the preliminary study and discussion of legislative propositions, which, according to the fundamental laws, go up through the council of the Empire to the supreme autocratic authority."

Paragraphs two and eight explain the composition and organization of the Duma which is to be formed of members "elected by the population of the Russian Empire in accordance with the election regulations."

The terms of the Duma is to be five years, but it can be dissolved by the Emperor. There is to be a general session, but the Duma will also meet by sections, the length of the sessions being determined by the Emperor. The President and other officers are to be elected by the members.

Paragraph fourteen of section three provides that "members of the Duma shall enjoy freedom in expressing their opinions on matters within the competence of the body and are not to be responsible to the electors."

Several sections are devoted to the exemptions to be enjoyed by the members and the reasons for and the occasions on which they can be deprived of their membership.

Ministers and chiefs of departments cannot be members of the Duma, but they can attend its sessions and make explanations or delegate that right to others. The Duma can demand explanations from the ministers.

Section five deals with the competence of the Duma, which is as follows:—
"A.—All questions relating to new laws or to the modification, amplification or temporary suspension or repeal of existing laws, and also relating to appointments made on the staff of ministers and the expenditures thereby involved.

"B.—Departmental, ministerial and national budgets; also other expenditures not provided therein.

"C.—The financial report of the comptroller of the empire.

"D.—The expropriation of any portion of the revenues or property of the state.

"E.—The construction of railways by the state.

"F.—Questions regarding the organization of stock companies involving exceptions from existing legislation.

"G.—Matters submitted by Imperial decree."

The Duma has jurisdiction in the matter of taxation in the provinces where there are no Zemstvos; also in the raising of the rates above that fixed by the Zemstvos and city councils.

The Duma will have initiative in the matter of appeal or modification of other, and the adoption of new laws, but the fundamental laws of administration are not to be touched by it. The ministers and chiefs of departments and the secretary of the Empire will submit questions to the Duma for discussion.

Many sections are devoted to the methods of procedure. The public will not be admitted to the sessions. Representatives of the newspapers will be admitted by the President to open sessions but not to the closed sessions, the latter being ordered by the general session, or by the President or at the request of a minister when he has a question to submit involving a national secret. Reports of the meetings may be published by the President.

After passing the Duma bills will go to the council of the empire and then to the Emperor. Should the Duma and the council of the empire disagree, the question at issue will be submitted to a joint commission. Should this bring no conclusion the question will again be submitted to the Council of the Empire. Should the Emperor call attention to delays in the consideration of any specific question, the Council of the Empire shall appoint a date on which the Duma must reach a conclusion, failing which the Council of the Empire will act alone.

Legislative bills may be introduced when endorsed by thirty members, should a minority differ with the Duma respecting a bill and the Duma in general session pass the bill by a two-thirds majority the question will be referred to the Emperor.

Relating to the electoral system the project states that elections are holdable—firstly, in the provinces and territories; secondly, in the principal towns which are named, in Poland, Siberia, the Caucasus, Turkestan, and some provinces special regulations will govern the elections. The total membership will be 412 of which 25 will be returned by the towns. The elections in the provinces and territories will be effected by a provincial electoral college, chosen, firstly, by the land owners; secondly, by urban electors, and thirdly, by delegates of the peasantry. Women, men under twenty-five years of age, students, sailors, soldiers, bankrupts and persons convicted of crimes or desertion shall not have the right to vote. Governors and the police cannot vote when they are exercising their functions. Land owners, mine owners and owners of industrial establishments of a minimum value of $7,500, and clergy owning lands are qualified to vote in the electoral assemblies.

In the urban electoral assemblies, owners of land of a minimum value of $750, and owners of industrial properties of the first category are qualified. The peasantry electoral assembly shall consist of two delegates from each canton chosen by the peasants belonging to the cantonal and agricultural corporations. In cities which are named, owners of real estate of the value of $1,500 and owners of industries of the first category and persons paying taxes on rent of the tenth category are qualified to participate in the electoral assemblies. The urban and provincial assemblies will vote for deputies to the Duma by secret ballot which also applies to the subsidiary elections.

DEATH OF AN OLD QUEBECER.

Our obituary column contains the death notice of Mr. William C. Young, who died at his residence this morning after a few weeks illness. He leaves a family besides a large circle of friends to mourn his loss.

ACCIDENT TO WEBB JAY.

Buffalo, N.Y., Aug. 18.—Webb Jay, of Cleveland, was probably fatally injured at Kenilworth Park to-day in the ten-mile automobile race. At the three-quarter of the fourth mile Jay's car dashed through the fence and down an embankment of 15 feet and into a pond of water. What caused the accident is not known. It is believed, however, that Jay was blinded by dust and steered into the fence. He was driving about a mile a minute when the accident happened. Jay was racing with Little and Burnan. At the three-quarter turn Jay was third and the dust cloud of the other two cars hung over him. Just at the three-quarter, the track has been braked by dirt taken from an excavation, which has left a deep hole just beyond the fence. Heavy rains have transformed the hole into a deep pond. Just as Jay rounded the turn his car crashed through the fence, down the fifteen foot embankment and into the water. Jay, unconscious, would have been drowned, had not two spectators sitting on the fence nearby gone to his rescue and dragged him out. He was taken to the General Hospital where it was found that nine ribs are broken, one of his lungs is punctured and his right femur is fractured. Pneumonia and pleurisy will set in within twenty-four hours, and if he survives them he may live, the surgeons say. Five thousand people were at the races and witnessed the accident.

Keeping your sins a secret is only hiding them in an incubator. The pace that kills always slays.

ELECTRIC LIGHT RATES WILL DROP

Reply from the Companies Received by Committee.

COUNCIL ADOPTS OFFER.

Dominion Manufacturers will be Officially Welcomed—Hon. A. Robitaille Appointed Joint City Attorney.

Important meetings of the City Council, and the Finance, Police and Electric Light Committees were held last evening at the City Hall, those present being Mayor Parent and Aldermen Tanguay, Cantin, Savard, Juchereau, Zelenat, Marois, John, Cummings, Leonard, Rancourt, Dinan, Drouin, Pfeiffer, Barry, Turgeon, Duquet, Picard and Samson.

POLICE COMMITTEE.
Ald. Cantin presided. There were no less than six applications for the position of constable on the city police force and Mr. Verret was appointed to the force in the place of Constable Blackburn.

Ald. Dinan suggested that men off duty should be employed on special service at extra pay during the present festivities instead of taking men from police stations to send them on duty all over the city. This was agreed to, and the committee decided that if extra men were placed on duty on the Q.A.A.A. grounds to-day, that they should be paid by that association.

FINANCE COMMITTEE.
Ald. Tanguay presided at this committee and read a statement from the Q. R. L. & P. Co., stating that their gross receipts for the three months ending July last were $48,679.69, which gave the city about $1,930 per cent.

The chairman informed the committee that the Quebec members of the Dominion Manufacturers' Association wanted to call upon the committee in connection with the visit of that association in Quebec on the 18th and 19th, and 20th September next. The delegation consisted of Messrs. G. E. Amyot, W. A. Marsh and Jos. Picard, the two former explaining that the Dominion Manufacturers' Association would hold their annual meeting in Quebec on the above dates and that the city should take part in the reception. This was the first and last time that the Association would meet here, as it had been decided that all future meetings would be held in Toronto and Montreal. About 240 members would come to Quebec and all that was asked was that the city should tender them an official reception.

On motion of Ald. Tanguay it was decided to officially receive the visitors at the City Hall.

A letter was received from Mr. M. Chouinard, city advisor, stating that since May last his salary had not been paid as it should have been. According to a resolution passed over a year ago Sir C. A. P. Pelletier and Mr. M. Chouinard had been appointed joint city attorneys at $3,000 a year. Sir C. A. P. Pelletier had been appointed Judge of the Superior Court of this district some time ago and his partner claimed the salary.

It was moved by Ald. Cantin, seconded by Ald. Samson, that Hon. A. Robitaille be named joint city advisor in the place of Sir C. A. P. Pelletier, Mayor Parent and other members of the Council referring to the high legal talents of the ex-Provincial Secretary.

ELECTRIC LIGHT RATES.

The special committee appointed to investigate the alleged high rates charged by the electric companies also met last evening and considered the following letter of both companies, who have agreed to meet almost all the demands of the citizens and giving better rates in future which should not fail to please all customers. This letter reads as follows:—

Quebec, August 18, 1905.

The Chairman of the Special Committee on Lighting:

At the last meeting of your Committee, we undertook to make a complete study of the lighting rates in this city and to report to you at your next meeting the results, but before doing so, we desire to express our appreciation of the business way in which the various discussions regarding lighting rates have taken place and the courtesies extended to us at the various meetings.

After making a careful and complete study of the question and after fully considering the different views of yourself and your committee, we have concluded to make the following alterations in our rates so as to comply as near as possible with your wishes upon the subject.

Our present minimum charge to residential customers will be done away with and there will be no minimum except that no accounts will be rendered for less than one dollar per month for any customer having five or more lights. This means a charge of not less than 75 cents for lighting, whether the customer uses it or not, and upon which for prompt payment he will be allowed the discount, and the usual monthly charge of 25 cents for rent of meter.

During the months of summer, the lighting rate will be 12 cents net per kilowatt hour, but during the winter months, when the consumption is considerably larger, the companies are prepared to reduce this rate to ten cents net for all prompt payment, the winter months to extend from the 1st of October to the 31st of March. This rate of ten cents per kilowatt hour is equivalent to the old rate of one cent per ampere hour less 50 per cent, which your committee requested.

We trust that the rates above mentioned, which represent a considerable concession on the part of the companies will fully meet with your approval and endorsement, and will also meet with the approval of the public upon whom we depend for our business.

Respectfully submitted.

Signed E. A. EVANS, J. M. MCARTHY.

The conditions laid down in the letter, which cannot fail to satisfy all parties using electric lights, was immediately adopted by the committee, the other members of the Council present highly agreeing with the report.

CITY COUNCIL.
At the meeting of the Council a letter was received from Messrs. Richard & Co. offering to sell property to the city for the widening of St. Celes street near the Martello Tower. Referred to the Road Committee.

The clerk read the report of the Grand Jury for April term of the Court of King's Bench as well as a letter of thanks from Hon. Mr. E. B. Garneau and Mr. George Garneau for the resolution of sympathy adopted on the occasion of the death of their father, Hon. P. Garneau.

A letter from Col. Pinaud asking the city to build a bridge over the former site of St. John's gate was referred to the Road Committee.

A letter was also received from the London, Liverpool and Globe Insurance Company, complaining that fires are lit in several places around the city markets by parties supplying meals. The letter was referred to the Road Committee.

The joint letter of the Q. R. L. & P. Co., and the Quebec Jacques Cartier Co., as appears above, was read to the Council as well as a report of the special committee stating that the Committee had not the power to force the companies to make certain reductions but as both companies were desirous of meeting the wishes of the citizens the committee recommended that the Council accept the propositions contained in the joint letter, at the same time thanking the companies for their good will as proved by their present action. The report was unanimously adopted.

The by-law regarding the extension of Dauphine street from D'Auteuil to St. Patrick street was also adopted and Ald. Duquet, seconded by Ald. Pfeiffer, moved that a detailed statement of the costs incurred for the painting and joiner work in the interior of the City Hall since last spring be put before the Council at its next meeting, so as to see if said works were accomplished according to by-law 123 of the rules of the City Hall.

Mayor Parent remarked that the latter part of the motion was out of order as it implied that the works were not given out in a proper manner and Ald. Duquet agreed to drop the latter part of the motion, remarking at the same time that he had been informed lately that certain works were being carried out in the City Hall, without tenders being called for.

Mayor Parent replied that he had no objection that all details possible should be given. During the past twelve years the City Council had not feared to give full account of their administration and were as usual ready to give full explanations. Tenders were always called for when works amounted to a certain price but this could not always be done as certain works were undertaken and completed when large sums of money were unexpectedly voted.

Ald. Dinan, seconded by Ald. Pfeiffer, moved that Ald. Cummings be appointed pro-mayor for next three months but was informed by the Mayor that no such appointment could be made before next meeting as the present term expires only on 1st September next and the motion was temporarily withdrawn. After other routine business the Council adjourned to 5th September next.

CANADA CUP RACES.

The races on Lake Ontario for the Canada Cup have demonstrated conclusively that each boat is superior in its own line; the Iroquois is the best drifter and the Temeraire the best sailer. It all depends on the weather, and what is wanted now is some one that will build a boat that will win, weather or no.

TODAY'S MEETING.

As will be seen by an advertisement which appears in our columns elsewhere, and to which we desire to draw the special attention of our readers, His Worship the Mayor has called a special meeting of the citizens to be held in the City Hall at 11 a.m. to-day. We understand that an important matter, and one of great public interest will be brought before the meeting, and we trust that there will be a large and representative attendance.

THE RECENT FIREWORKS FIASCO.

Our criticism on this memorable display of fireworks of Tuesday evening last has been highly approved by all our papers, and the citizens in general who witnessed this miserable display. We are very pleased indeed also to learn that the Hon. Treas. of the Citizens' Committee, Mr. W. G. Hinds, who was also a spectator on that occasion, has very wisely, and equally emphatically, refused to pay any part of this claim, until the matter has been fully ventilated, and the responsibility of such a poor show shown up in a thorough manner.

ELECTRIC LIGHTING.

As will be seen in our report of the meeting of the City Council last evening, the two electric companies after considering carefully the views of the special committee on lighting of the City Council have consented to make material concessions on their charges to the residential public. The Council is to be congratulated on this result of its action, and the two companies on the promptness with which they have endeavored to meet the public wishes. It evinces a just and liberal spirit which will increase the confidence felt in their desire to deal fairly and honorably with all classes of the community and we are sure that they will not be the losers thereby.

THE WESTERN GRAIN CROP.

The reports of the crops to be expected, which are usual at this time of the year lead us to look forward to a good average of cereals, hay and roots, while the fruit crops will be decidedly below the average. With regard to the Northwest grain, the best advices from Winnipeg according to the information given to the Canadian Bank of Commerce indicate a wheat crop of 82,540,000 bushels as compared with 57,000,000 bushels last year, showing a gain of 25,540,000 bushels, the calculation being made on the basis of 22 bushels to the acre; barley, calculated on the basis of 35 bushels to the acre, will yield 18,404,855 bushels and oats at 45 bushels to the acre will yield 73,179,900 bushels, and these figures are said to be on the conservative side. The condition of the crops is much healthier than a year ago, owing to better weather conditions, and the harvest in the West should be pretty general by this time.

The United States Government crop report shows the yield of the wheat for 1905 to be estimated at 709,731,000 bushels which is 157,000,000 bushels more than were actually harvested last year, but 47,729,218 bushels less than the record year of 1901, that year together with the next, being especially favorable years both in the United States and in Canada. A notable feature in Manitoba and the Northwest was that the yield in those years was 25 and 26 bushels per acre compared with the years' estimated average of 22 bushels, while the average yield in the two succeeding years of 1903 and 1904 was about 47 bushels per acre. The yield of 82,540,000 for this year is higher than the best year in the wheat history of the West, exceeding the banner year of 1902 by over 15,500,000 bushels, but this is due to the greater acreage under wheat cultivation. The wheat crop of the world in 1905 was 3,009,000 bushels.

In barley and oats also this is a record year for the West; 1904 had the highest previous yield in both cases. In oats the increase over that year is 20,566,270 bushels and in barley, 501,451 bushels. The yield per acre is also very high, in both cases nearly approaching the highest record for these cereals. Altogether, the great granary of the west gives promise for a continuance of the prosperity with which Canada has been blessed for the last number of years.

THE BACON TRADE.

Britain last year bought from Canada bacon and hams to the value of $13,000,000 as against less than $400,000 fifteen years ago. This growth, in the opinion of the Montreal Gazette, has been due to the improved quality of the output by the Canadian packers, aided by the farmers who have striven to improve their hog products; and the trade will continue to develop to sufficient encouragement is given to the farmers by way of better prices for the improved hog. Of this it expresses its fear and says that many progressive farmers complain that after going to the expense of improving their stock and paying more attention to feeding along lines that will produce quality as well as weight, they find that they are receiving the same price for it as other farmers get for an inferior hog. "This condition of affairs," says the Gazette, "it must be admitted, is not merely disheartening, but actually dangerous, since it means the elimination of the surest means of improving the quality of Canadian bacon, an improvement absolutely essential if it is to capture a much larger share of the British market—more profit to the producer."

The blame for the menace to this trade rests principally with the drover and he must provide the remedy. In his anxiety to secure hogs he has bought inferior stock and sought to protect himself by refusing to pay the higher price for better stock which the packer would permit him to pay. If he would refuse to take the inferior stock except at such a low figure that the farmer would not care to accept and, so, would be led to improve the breed of his hogs, the average quality of Canadian bacon and hams would so materially improve that it would capture a larger share of the British trade and favorably react upon Canadian producers. If the present system continues, the Gazette thinks it will result in disaster to the cured meat trade.

RESUSCITATING THE DROWNED.

Drowning accidents are frequently reported at this time of the year, and with them the unsuccessful attempts to resuscitate a subject who had been immersed for short periods of time ranging from half an hour downwards to ten, five, or even fewer minutes, and the question occurs to many whether intelligently directed and more persistent effort would not have been rewarded with success in the attempt to save life? In this connection Rev. E. Beach in a contribution to the Saturday Evening Post, headed "How and why we ought to swim," makes the following somewhat startling declaration: "One half of those given up for drowned, whose bodies have been recovered shortly after the accident were not drowned at all, but might have been resuscitated had there been present one who knew what to do. Still more remarkable is it that twenty-five per cent of the one-half who really do die in the water do not drown, but perish from shock, examination proving that instead of their lungs being full of water, thus leaving no breathing space, the heart has ceased its action from fright." The last part of this assertion is important, if it is founded in fact, as it has hitherto been assumed that if no water was found in the lungs the deceased had died on land.

That more intelligently directed and persistent action may be the means of saving many lives of which there seemed reason to despair may be shown by the following case in point, in which a young bather was brought to the surface apparently dead, after having been immersed for nearly half an hour. There was no sensible heart action, and all were for taking the body home except one who had recently read an article on resuscitation, though about all he remembered was the admonition to "keep at it," which was in fact the key-note. So he laid the man face down, with the forehead resting on his arm, and, reaching under the stomach lifted until only the head and feet touched, working the body up and down several times to free the lungs from water. Then placing it on its left side, with a handkerchief he grasped the tongue which had fallen back, and drew it out that it might not clog the breathing. Next, he seized the right arm and shoulder and rolled the body on its back, and then on its face again, doing this repeatedly, each roll backward and forward serving to distend the lungs, while his assistant pulled the sufferer's tongue well out, letting it out in rhythm with the other's movements. This was varied by placing the patient flat on his back with arms at the side, then raising them above the head in measured count, about eighteen to the minute, simultaneously aiding the respiration by pressure on the chest. Others chafed hands and feet, always rubbing toward the heart, but for nearly an hour no sign of life answered the efforts made. Still the young fellow would not give up, though others became discouraged and had sent for a doctor some miles away, and at last, by sheer dogged perseverance the life was driven back into the apparently drowned, and he is a healthy man to-day.

Mr. Beach, who relates these particulars adds: "Other methods of resuscitation are many, but they are of a great similarity. In taking the patient from the water use all possible haste and gentleness. After being turned face downward for a moment, to clear the water and mucus from the windpipe, he should be treated as narrated above, and, as soon as the water has been thoroughly expelled he should be stripped and dried and, if possible, placed in the warmth with head and shoulders raised a trifle. Keep the body warm at the stomach and extremities and always rub toward the heart."

A MODERN MEDICINE

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Cure Disease Through the Blood.

Medicines of the old fashioned kind will sometimes relieve the symptoms of disease, though they can never touch the disease itself—they never cure. Ordinary medicines leave behind them indigestion, constipation, biliousness and headache; purgatives leave the patient feverish and weakened. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, on the other hand, do direct good to the body, blood and nerves. They fill the veins with new, rich, red blood; they brace the nerves; they drive out disease by going right to the root of the trouble, in the blood. They always do good—they cannot possibly do harm. Mrs. Geo. Henley, Boxgrove, Ont., says:—"It is with thanks that I tell you that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have cured me after my doctor had said I could not be cured. I suffered from an almost constant fluttering of the heart, and sometimes severe pains. The least exertion would leave me breathless and tired out. My appetite was poor, and my head ached nearly all the time. I had lost all ambition to do any work, and felt very hopeless. I had taken a great deal of medicine without any benefit, until I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These have made a remarkable change in my condition, and I am feeling better than I have done for years. I gladly give my experience in the hope that it will benefit others."

Now Dr. Williams' Pink Pills build up strength as they did in Mrs. Henley's case in just one way—they actually make new blood. That is all they do, but they do it well. They don't act on the bowels, they don't bother with more symptoms. They go right to the root of the trouble in the blood. That is why these pills cure anaemia, headache, heart palpitation, indigestion, kidney trouble, rheumatism, lumbago, neuralgia, St. Vitus dance, paralytic, general weakness and the special ailments of growing girls and women. But you must have the genuine with the full name Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, on the wrapper around every box. Sold by all medicine dealers or sent by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brookville, Ont.

FRONTENAC ELECTRIC LAUNDRY. We would respectfully call the attention of the public to the fact that some person is soliciting for "My Valet" patronage, claiming to have had charge of the Valet department of the Frontenac Electric Laundry. We wish to state that this person was never in charge of the Valet department, as its management and ownership is still under the same charge, as when it was organized by us four years ago. aug18/3

NOTICE

In a few days the Assessors will begin to prepare their Valuation Roll.
As it often happens that many persons willingly deceive the Assessors by giving them erroneous and false information as to the real amount of their rents, etc., etc., I draw, in a particular manner, the attention of the taxpayers to the following clause of Act 35 Viet., chap. 46:
"Any person who shall refuse to reply to the questions which are put to him by any assessor in the discharge of the duties imposed upon him by law, or who shall give information to the said assessor which he knows to be false, or who shall verbally insult or slander or strike such assessor, or who shall refuse to allow any such assessor, in the discharge of his said duties, to enter in and upon his property or the localities occupied by him, shall incur for each offence a penalty not exceeding FORTY DOLLARS, which shall be recovered according to law, before the Recorder of the Court of the said City."
The most energetic measures will be taken to discover the persons guilty of such offences, as injurious to the Corporation, as unjust to the citizens who pay according to the real amount of their rent. All such persons will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

City Treasurer.

A GREAT ARTIST.
Henri Marteau.

Of all the violinists since the days of Vieuxtemps and Wieniawski, those violinists of the king of instruments, not one has earned a prouder position or a fame more secure than Henri Marteau, erstwhile "grand prix at the Paris Conservatoire, and now a master of his instrument, himself the head of a famous Geneva Conservatoire, and a virtuoso whose art has conquered a myriad of music lovers, from Schastopol to San Francisco, and from Bergen to Barcelona.

Marteau, born a Frenchman (at Reims, not far from Paris), was a typical exponent of the Franco-Belgian school of violin playing when he graduated from the Paris Conservatoire in 1892, incidentally capturing all the highest honors at that institution.
In 1893, Marteau made an American tour and captured his American audiences by a marvelous display of dash, finger dexterity and right arm flexibility. There were those among his hearers in 1893, however, who heard in the young man's playing a deeper note of musical feeling than he could reveal properly in the virtuoso music which he preferred at that time, and those keener listeners predicted that in time Marteau would go over entirely to the classical repertoire and become the logical and legitimate successor of Joachim. Fortunately, Henri Marteau was too versatile an artist, and at least too faithful to the best violin traditions, to confine himself to any one school or style, and he has retained a position midway between them all, master of everything, specialist in everything, and possessor, besides, of a vein of seriousness which dignifies his every performance and enables even his tremendous technique into something much more significant than a mere sensational display.

In 1898 Marteau made his second American tour, and then the violin shards who had prophesied the easily broadening of Marteau's art were fully vindicated. His style had undergone a wonderful expansion and purification, and no player has ever been heard here who more effectively recombined the best of both worlds than Marteau in 1898. From that time on the artist's triumphs increased every day in magnitude and importance. All the music centres of Europe acknowledged his unquestioned genius, and Marteau's playing of all the classical concertos won for him in Germany a place immediately beside that of Joachim and Healy. As a composer, too, Marteau began to show signs of unusual talent, and his quartet for strings quickly became a standard work. For several years he acted as a veritable godfather to unknown composers, and the list of works for which he secured a premiere by playing them in their entirety. Marteau's activity at the Geneva Conservatoire has too often been discussed to need reiteration, and the fame of the Marteau String Quartet also is too general to require any emphasis. Trans-Atlantic musical critics, as well as those on this side of the water, concur in estimating Marteau as the greatest violinist of the younger school.
In Marteau's playing are fused the French elegance together with the Belgian finesse and the German solidity.

I have much pleasure in bearing testimony to the value of the MAGI Calceolaria Tablets, both in Rheumatic and Neuralgic affections, and for their general tonic effects. I have not only visited the Springs, but have used them constantly (aerated) as a table water, and can speak of them in the highest terms from personal experience. I have recommended them to a number of people, and in every case where they have been faithfully used the results have been satisfactory.

THE NAVAL MEN WON

Cricketers from H.M.S. Berwick Played a Match at Kent House Yesterday.

There was a very pleasant cricket match at the Kent House grounds at Montmorency Falls yesterday afternoon, when a team from H.M.S. Berwick met a team selected from Y.M.C.A. and Quebec players. Only one innings was played, the naval men winning by a score of 37 runs to 31. Mr. Smedley put on 19 runs for the navy and Mr. Carruthers 23 for the Quebecers. Messrs. Reid and Thomason did the bowling for the local team, while Messrs. Smolley and Rainbow officiated in a similar capacity for the Berwick players. There was a large party of the sailors at the Falls yesterday, a party of 74 going down. They had lunch at the Kent House and spent a most enjoyable time during their visit to the historic and picturesque resort and its many attractions.

CRICKET.

It is found to be impossible to play a whole day match to-day against the fleet, owing to so many of the Quebec Club being unable to get off. The Secretary trying to arrange a half day match and he will give the team due notice as early as possible.

MILITARY AND NAVAL TOURNAMENT.

The military and naval tournament organized by the sergeants of the 8th R.R. in honor of the sailors of the second cruiser squadron, and which is to take place in the Skating Rink, on Tuesday evening next, will be one of the most interesting ever organized under the same auspices. The entries in all the events are very large and the contests promise to be most exciting. No pains are being spared by the organizers to make the evening a most successful one as well as highly enjoyable to our naval visitors, and the public as well. The Skating Rink should be crowded on Tuesday evening, for that there will be lots of sport with the jolly tars on that evening goes without saying.

THE LOG ROLLING CONTEST.

The rules regulating the log-rolling contest at the regatta this afternoon have been finally adopted and are as follows:—Contest to be on square white pine, one man to one piece of timber. Timber to be 19 to 22 feet long, not to square more than 14 inches. Distance to be rolled, about 250 yards. The judges decision to be final. The start to be made from the H.M.S. Drake towards shore. Prizes: 1st, $35, 2nd, $20, 3rd, $10, 4th, $5. Timber and competitors will leave Giblin's wharf at 3.30 p.m. Saturday, the 17th instant. The judges will be Messrs. C. Dube, M. Kenney and R. Butler.

TO-DAY'S LACROSSE MATCH.

The lacrosse match between the Montcalms and Sherbrookes to-day promises to be an exciting event. As everyone knows, the Montcalms have simply got to win this match to retain their hold on the championship so there will be no slackness on their part in the struggle. The Sherbrookes on the other hand, if they can only win out to-day, will land the championship, which means that they are not going to give away any chances either. No match in a long time has been arousing greater interest, and owing to the attendance of spectators it is played the attendance of spectators is expected to be a record one. The match is under the auspices of the Citizens' Reception Committee and invitations have been sent by the Montcalm Lacrosse Club to the Governor-General, H.S.H. Prince Louis of Battenberg and other distinguished people to be present.

BRITISH VS. AMERICAN ATHLETES

An Interesting Comparison of the Merits of the Respective Countries in the Field of Sport.

A discussion in the New York American as to the respective merits of the athletes in the United States and Great Britain has brought forward a number of interesting communications upon the subject. Among them is the following comprehensive study of the whole question, which is well worth consideration. It goes very fully into the subject, and is an important contribution to a much-debated and often discussed topic. The letter reads as follows:—

TRACK ATHLETICS.

"Taking an open competition restricted to men born and bred in the country they represent, I grant a slight superiority to Americans in this department. In the 'dash' the Americans are a shade better than the British; on the other hand, from the half-mile up, the British are so far superior as to make the contests a farce. To-day America cannot claim superiority in the 100 yards, as on form there is no better runner for this distance than J. W. Morton, a member of one of the famous London cross-country clubs. In the season of 1904 he met Duffy thirteen times and won outright on ten occasions, losing only one race, with two ties. He also equalled Duffy's English record of 9.4-5 on two occasions, while at the last race of all, at Stanford Bridge, Duffy finished only fifth, five running from scratch. Putting Flannigan on one side, as he is of Irish birth, there are athletes in Ireland and Scotland who would not be far behind the best of the British. An Irishman is a British athlete, whether or not he likes it. P. Connor, of Waterford, has the world's record for the broad jump, while C. B. Fay, the all-round English athlete, has a record of over 23 feet 10 inches. I am not now certain as to exact figures for pole-vaulting. High jumping is at present a lost art in England; so on the whole I grant the Yankees a slight superiority in these events.

SWIMMING.

"In this branch of sport England holds all professional records, while Australia will run pretty close in the amateur class. Probably the next country to Australia is Austria-Hungary, while America and Germany may have a close tussle for fourth place. Names like Tyres, Nuttal, Derbyshire, and Billington, all English, are world famous in swimming. No other country, either ancient or modern, produced such a famous quartette in one generation. America has only one swimmer who could be called first class, viz: C. M. Daniel, and he only in the extra short dashes. England has produced not only the swiftest but the strongest, and M. Holbein is the holder of the long-distance endurance record to-day. He failed, no doubt, to swim the Channel, but he had covered forty-one miles before he gave up the attempt, and then was within one mile of the English shore. Only one man out of many hundreds who have made the attempt succeeded, and that was Captain Webb, another Englishman.

POLO.

"This is another event in which Britain can claim easy mastery, as the Americans were easily beaten when they invaded England to lift the cup. There is probably more and better polo to be seen either at Rochester or Hurlingham in one season than on all American courses combined. Probably in front of America will also come India, where the game originated, and not only Anglo-Indian teams, but teams of natives could beat anything that opposed them on this side of the water.

WATER POLO.

"Perhaps it would be unfair to America to make comparisons on this head, as the game is practically unknown on this side. There are more water polo clubs in the city of Manchester alone, and of a higher standard, than in all the United States. Scores of water polo matches take place there nightly. They have junior and senior leagues with the dozen, with anything from twelve to fifteen clubs in each; and what is typical of Manchester is typical of any large town in Lancashire, whose public are the greatest sport lovers in the world. A combined team from Manchester would have in its ranks nearly every swimming record known. South Baeup, the village where D. Billington lives, is in the league. The best American water polo club would be hopelessly smothered by any one of the six clubs of the Manchester senior water polo league.

LACROSSE.

"This is essentially an American game of Indian origin, yet strange to say although the only pure American game, yet the Yankees are the most skillful exponents. Some two or three years ago an Oxford-Cambridge aggregation came over and simply carried everything in front of them, finally losing only one game, and that by the narrowest of margins, to the Crescents of New York; yet that well-nigh invincible team was not the best by a long way. In England, as they were badly beaten both by Manchester University and by another college there, by scores like 7 to 10 and 10 to 1; while this year Manchester did the trick again, beating Oxford by 11 to 1 and Cambridge 14 to 3. There are more than ten lacrosse leagues in Manchester district, with from six to ten clubs in each, which shows the popularity of this fine game in the County Palatine.

HOCKEY.

"This is a game on which I am not well enough posted to speak with any degree of accuracy. In England, especially the northern portion, it is greatest crowd in the history of sport that ever watched a ball game. In English Rugby the game is played fifteen on a side, viz: One fullback, four three-quarter backs, two half-backs and eight forwards; and the great Welsh teams, owing to their wonderful development of machine-like passing of the backs, are the world's champions in this sport. It is impossible to make a fair comparison with America, as the college players have so mutilated Rugby football that it isn't a shred of its former self, and is a style of game that no other country will accept; so, if there's any glory in it, Americans will have it all to themselves, like Sir John Moore, "all alone in his glory."

ROWING.

"Here again British athletes are supreme, and for one first-class eight in America the Old Country could produce a dozen. The average American takes to rowing as a child does to medicine—he doesn't love it; he gets no recreation from it; it is simply a toilsome grind, with all enjoyment taken out of it. Not so in England, where men take to rowing as a duck to water. Boat crews fraternize even a day before the contest, and have a jolly time together when the race is over; in England it is sport for the sailor's sake, and there is no disgrace for losers; it would be a good thing if there were more of this spirit on this side of the pond. English rowers keep up their rowing in after life, and in their veteran days form good rowing eights. As there is but one style of rowing on the other side, any scratch crew drawn from the four corners of the country could go at it right off without any fumbling or misunderstanding.

CROSS-COUNTRY RUNNING.

"In this sport British athletes are so overwhelmingly ahead that comparisons are ridiculous. Cornell, I see, wants to try conclusions with Oxford-Cambridge. Now, neither of these universities can produce what, in England, would be considered a first-class cross-country team. If Cornell wants to meet the real thing, let them go up against such a combination as the Salford Harriers, Crew Harriers, Herne Hill Harriers, and dozens of others; there are thousands of them in England. Any one of the above named clubs could run away with any organization that the three universities—Oxford, Cambridge, and Cornell—could produce. These clubs have few, if any, university players in their teams; they are mostly mechanics, clerks, etc. Oxford and Cambridge have only one first-class country runner—Churhill Schutt, the Cornell-Rhodes scholar—but he is a long way from first-class according to the English cross-country standard. The two best cross-country runners in the world to-day are Shrubbs, the famous South London Harrier, and Aldridge, the crack runner of the Highgate Harriers, who is only a matter of 150 yards behind Shrubbs in a ten-mile run. Shrubbs' record for ten miles flat is under fifty-one minutes, and his record for the hour is eleven miles 1,133 yards, being a little over 200 yards short of the world's professional championship for the hour made by J. Cummings, an Englishman. In the Cambridge-Oxford races, Churhill, their champion, was forbidden by his doctor to run, so the Americans thought they were sure of winning with Schutt; but they were disappointed, for A. E. Welsh, Cambridge's second fiddle, completely ran away from Schutt in the three-mile run, winning by more than 300 yards, in the slowest time on record—which does not speak well for Schutt as a champion. Last April 100 members of the Salford Harriers ran a scratch race of ten miles flat, and twelve men got home under fifty-seven minutes; and close to thirty men under the hour; yet none of the team had undergone any special training—it was only a trial race. In the whole United States and Canada you could not find twelve men to do ten miles under fifty-seven minutes. Yet Salford is but one out of more than a hundred cross-country clubs in that borough alone, and they are not the present champions of Lancashire. There are at least eight men in the Salfords, however, who have made better time for the ten miles than either Joyce or Hynes, the Irish champion. The English cross-country courses are too heavy and taxing for American runners; it requires tremendous strength and endurance to cover this course.

OTHER SPORTS.

"There are several other games, such as racquets, bowls, quoits and archery; also shooting. If any one will take the trouble to look up records on English and Scotch ranges and compare them with American they will find the former not only higher, but a far higher grade; simply because more encouragement is given to shooting in England and more interest taken in it; for one enters here there are a hundred on the other side, and for one dollar given in prizes on this side there are fifty in Britain.

CRICKET.

"America contains barely half a dozen men of the first class. The M. C. C. of London has sent a team to represent it in this country, but a single member of that team would find a place in a representative English eleven. It wouldn't stand an earthly chance against any average county eleven. The M. C. C., in a sportsmanlike manner have sent a team which, in their opinion, would just about be good enough to win. The team is fairly good, but contains no stars.

FOOTBALL.

"This is the national sport of England; it is played eight months in the year—last September to 30th April. A comparison cannot be formed, as the styles are different here and there even in the Rugby game. No one in England plays the college game that is erroneously called football on this side. The game is still too young here for America to have developed first-class players; and the saying is in England that a good player is born with his football boots on, and is not made. The crowds that attend football matches in England would astonish Americans. A 40,000 gate draws no comment; they occur dozens of times in a season. At the final of the English Cup at the Crystal Palace last April more than 101,000 people paid for admission. But the record attendance was five years ago, when, for the first time in twenty years, a metropolitan club succeeded in reaching the final stage of the English Cup; and more than 115,000 people paid for admission—the Dominion DeForest Wire- less Telegraph Company, Limited.

BEHOLD

The Dominion DeForest Wireless Telegraph Company, Limited is the only wireless company building stations on land to compete with the present wire system. The storms that have laid low all of the telegraph wires within the last few months had no effect on wireless, and commercial business went on as usual. Buy our shares now when you can get them for $5 each.

BEWARE

You are about to lose one of the grandest opportunities that was ever offered to you. Do you remember that in 1893 when the American Bell Telephone stock sold for as low as $1.00 per share? People who bought then made fortunes. To-day the stock is only bought for investment. The shares of the Dominion DeForest Wireless Telegraph Company, Limited, are as good a purchase to-day as the American Bell Telephone shares were in 1878, and will bring as much profit to their purchasers.

CONSIDER

All we ask of you is to stop and consider the wonderful progress made by the Dominion DeForest Wireless Telegraph Company, Limited, and what it means to you in the future to invest in the stock to-day. It is needless for us to point out the value of the contracts made with the various newspapers, and that an investment in our shares at the present prices will be the foundation of your fortune.

BOXING TOURNAMENT

Arranged by Some of the Men of the Squadron Has Been Disallowed.

The Citadel, Quebec, August 17th, 1905.

To the Editor of the Chronicle:

Dear Sir,—I am desired by Rear-Admiral Prince Louis of Battenberg to request that you will be good enough to publish the enclosed letter which His Serene Highness caused to be written to the Manager of the Tara Hall observing that H.S.H. stopped the competition the moment he was aware it had been organized. Will you be so good as to stop the advertisement of this entertainment as well as publishing enclosed.

I have the honor to be Sir,
Your obedient servant,
MARK KERR,
Flag Captain.

The Citadel, Quebec, August 16th, 1905.

Sir,—I am desired by Rear-Admiral H.S.H. Prince Louis of Battenberg to write to you on the subject of a boxing tournament which he has seen advertised in the Quebec Chronicle.

His Serene Highness regrets that the men whose names appear as taking part have not complied with the rules of the service which insist that all men of His Majesty's Service are prohibited from taking part in public entertainments of this kind without the sanction and management of the officers detailed to arrange and manage such matters. His Serene Highness feels sure that you will see equally with him the necessity for abiding by these regulations which, far from destroying or interfering with the true spirit of sport are calculated to keep it on the high level which British sportsmen hope and wish to maintain. Under the circumstances H.S.H. is obliged to forbid the men who have thus broken the rules from entering the competition which you have so kindly arranged. You are at liberty to publish this letter if it will assist you to explain to your patrons the reason why these men cannot carry out what you have already advertised.

I have the honor to be,
Your obedient servant,
MARK KERR,
Flag Captain.

In connection with the above, the following reply was received from the management of Tara Hall:

Tara Hall, Quebec, August 17th, 1905.
Dear Sir,—I am in receipt of yours of 16th, in re subject of boxing tournament, advertised to take place in Tara Hall.

While thoroughly appreciating the ideas and motives suggested in your letter, I respectfully beg to assume you, that there is an error as to some of the main particulars mentioned. In the first place, the management of Tara Hall have nothing whatsoever to do with the boxing exhibition advertised, further than the mere fact of renting the hall to a couple of men (sailors) who made application for that purpose, and agreed to pay a stipulated price before the entertainment would take place; and further, it was only on the assurance from them that the style of entertainment was merely an exhibition of skill rather than a decisive contest of boxing, as it is not the intention of the management to rent the hall for such a purpose.

In the meantime, in accordance with the objections and wishes of Rear-Admiral H.S.H. Prince Louis of Battenberg, the management of Tara Hall will withdraw the privilege granted to the parties above mentioned for the purpose intended, without his express permission to the contrary.

Believe me, Sir, to be
Your obedient servant,
MANAGER TARA HALL.
To Captain Kerr,
Flag Lieutenant.

LOG ROLLING CONTEST.
To the Sporting Editor of the Quebec Chronicle:

Dear Sir,—As a competitor, and a representative of five other contestants, in the log rolling competition, which takes place in front of our city this afternoon, I perused, with surprise, an article which appeared in the Telegraph yesterday afternoon, allotting the prizes for the winners of the contest as follows:—1st, $25.00; 2nd, $20.00; 3rd, $10.00; 4th, $5.00.

Now, Mr. Editor, in an interview, yesterday morning, with the members of the committee in charge of the regatta, it was explained, and decided upon, that out of the $100.00 voted for the contest the prizes would be arranged as follows:—1st, $40.00; 2nd, $30.00; 3rd, $15.00, leaving a balance of $15.00 to be used for the purpose of defraying incidental expenses, an arrangement which met with the approval of the majority of the competitors.

Trusting, Mr. Editor, that the errors in last evening's Telegraph, were caused through misprint, and thanking you for permitting me to encroach too such an extent on your valuable space,
I remain,
Yours truly,
D. DALBERG.

ANOTHER WELL MERITED REBUKE ON THOSE FIREWORKS OF TUESDAY LAST.

To the Editor of the Chronicle:
Dear Sir,—Let me compliment you on your editorial in connection with the late display of fireworks, for such an occasion it was certainly a mean and shabby display, especially when it is compared to that given during the visit of the Duke of York, the cost of which I understand was about the same.

The public have been solicited for subscriptions for the entertainment of the fleet, and have responded liberally, especially our French-Canadian fellow citizens, if money is to be squandered in such entertainments, do you think people can be asked to subscribe on another occasion, unfortunately this is not the first time that money publicly subscribed for entertaining our guests has been wasted.

It is to be hoped the Treasurer will refuse payment of the cost of the fireworks some $200; he will have no difficulty in getting all the backing he requires financially or otherwise.

Yours truly,
"SUBSCRIBER."

RELICS OF THE PASTOld Stepping-Stones Are Still to be Seen in Baltimore.

In the midst of the enterprise and activity that mark the Baltimore of to-day visitors frequently come across old landmarks that stand out distinctly as reminders of the earlier and more leisurely days of the city's history. None of them is more familiar than the old-fashioned stepping-stones still to be seen at a few crossings, usually at the bottom of the steepest grades and which become veritable Ararat of refuge when the streets are flooded after a heavy rain. Worn smooth on top by thousands of skurrying feet that now are still, chipped and scarred at the corners by hundreds of whirling wheels long since rotted and strangled and pitted on the sides by the winter snows and summer rains of countless yesterdays, the stepping-stone stands amid the busy street like a mile-stone on the road that Greater Baltimore has trod—like the tombstone of the dead past.

Nowadays the most prominent of these old stepping-stones are at the foot of the hill below the town house of Secretary of the Navy Bonaparte, at Centre street and Park avenue. On the opposite corner is the Academy of the Visitation, and many a dignified matron whose schooldays were spent at the academy can recall how she skipped across the street, jumping from stone to stone, on her way home from school after a rainstorm. There are traces of the stones still left on the steep grade of Saratoga street, down from Courtland to Calvert, and in the old days—not so far away, either—there were stones on Lexington street, along the grades in what is now the busiest part of the shopping district, and on Liberty street, clear down to Lombard. White-haired men of to-day who were boys 50 years ago tell about the stepping-stones across the way on South Howard street, where Hill and Montgomery come to a point; but they digress here to say:

"Yes, in those days the boys shot reed-birds down at the foot of Howard street, at Spring Gardens."

Then they go back to the subject of stepping-stones.

"Whew, but the water swept down the steep gullies in those days!" the say.

There were stepping-stones only a few years ago at the crossings at North and Park avenues. There are some of these stones at North avenue, near the Mount Royal avenue entrance to the Park, and their usefulness has been demonstrated more than once during the heavy downpours that have characterized this season's rains.

Probably the best known of the stepping-stones were those opposite the site of the old Hall of Congress on what is now Baltimore street, between Sharp and Liberty, at which the sessions of the Continental Congress were held in December, 1776.

Speaking of these old landmarks, Col. William H. Love said: "For many years Baltimore and Fredericksburg, Va., shared with Pompeii the distinction of having stepping-stones across the public highways. Some years ago, when ex-Mayor Latrobe and his father, the late John H. B. Latrobe, were traveling in Italy, the elder Mr. Latrobe said: "Ferdinand, do you see anything familiar?" Mr. Latrobe said that he suddenly felt at home; he saw some old stepping-stones; another Baltimorean tells of the stepping-stones at Pompeii, and also of the system of underground sewers which seems to have been in existence there.

"Some years ago, if I am not mistaken, there were stepping-stones at the crossings on Lexington street leading toward Liberty, and on Liberty at the crossings all the way down to Lombard street. They were the cause of some painful accidents to children who were crossing and slipping cutting their faces badly. But as a rule they could not have been dispensed with, because of the enormous body of water that came down the streets when it rained in those days. "The flow of the water was especially strong down Baltimore street, and the old stones opposite Congress Hall I remember well. The stones were quite high at the curb and were somewhat lower near the center of the street. I have known the rush of water to be so great that traffic was altogether stopped by it until the storm was over."

Teething Eczemaand Scald Head

Bring much suffering to babies and young children. Certain cure in Dr. Chase's Ointment.

In the home where there are young children Dr. Chase's Ointment is found useful almost every day of the year. During the teething period, especially, there is almost sure to be an attack of eczema, scald head or some form of itching skin disease.

Besides the keen distress which such ailments bring to the little ones, there is always the danger of eczema becoming chronic and clinging to them through life.

There is no reason for any child to suffer in this way so long as Dr. Chase's Ointment is obtainable, for it is a prompt and thorough cure.

Only a few applications are required to bring relief from the itching, stinging sensations, and the skin is left in a clear smooth and healthful condition. Dr. Chase's Ointment, 60 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

A COSTLY CARPET.The Battle of Trafalgar Woven in Silk—It Is Entirely Hand Made.

A magnificent Persian carpet has just been brought to England as a present from the Shah to the King. It is entirely hand made, and its manufacture, despite the number of workers employed, took upwards of three years to complete. It is of most artistic and intricate design, into which the King's name, Edward VII., is woven.

The palatial hall of the Goldsmiths' company in Foster lane contains three costly carpets made at the factory at Wilton, near Salisbury. The largest which is in the court drawing room, and measures 40 feet 2 inches by 26 feet 9 inches, is of a rich crimson surrounding a centre, 10 feet by 9 feet, consisting of the company's arms in their heraldic coloring of blue, green, red and purple upon a white ground, and enclosed in a border of festooned roses with medallions at each corner. In setting the pile of this carpet, which weighs about 12 cwt., over 5,000,000 knots were, it is said, used.

Another company, that of the Guilders, possesses a carpet which in historic interest is probably unique. It was manufactured in the reign of Charles I. at the factory founded by Agbar the Great at Lahore, to the order of Robert Bell, who, in 1634, was the master of the company. The carpet, which is 24 feet by 7 feet 6 inches, is worked with the company's crest and arms, the martyrdom of St. Lawrence, on either side of which are the donor's arms and two bales of merchandise, on which are his initials and trade mark.

At the time of the great fire this carpet was saved from destruction, only to fall upon a Gothic age that regarded it on a mere floor covering, and year by year it grew more dirty and dilapidated.

The prayer carpet on view at South Kensington is a splendid specimen. Measuring some 33 feet by 20 feet, it was purchased at a cost of £2,500, chiefly through the instrumentality of the late William Morris, the poet, who, with other gentlemen, gave a handsome subscription for that purpose. It came originally from the mosque at Ardebil, for which it was made in the year 946 of the Hegira (A.D. 1510) by Mahoud of Kashan, a fact which—taken together with a pious maxim recorded in words which are woven into the texture of the carpet itself.

Two other magnificent carpets were, four years since, sold at the municipal chamber at Lisbon, to pay for repairs at the Royal Convent of St. Antonio, to which they had been given by the Infanta Donna Sanche in 1500. For these carpets, which were of Persian manufacture, 18 feet square, and embroidered with gold, the bidding was very brisk. Starting at £888 it rapidly rose to £1,608, at which price the prize, at £1,000 below its real value, was secured by a Frenchman. Public opinion, however, was so greatly against the sale that two other equally valuable carpets, the property of the Estrella convent, were withdrawn.

A curious carpet has lately been manufactured at Casarva. It is a representation of the Battle of Trafalgar, depicting that moment in the engagement when Nelson received his fatal wound. The carpet, which is en-

Mrs. Jenkins stood sternly facing the man who had sworn to love and cherish her; anger, scorn and indignation blazing in her eyes, her trembling fingers clutching a photograph—the photograph of a woman.

"So this, sir," she cried at length, mastering with a supreme effort the womanly inclination to fall into a chair and scream herself into hysterics—"so this, sir, is the termination of our period of married existence—this is what I left a happy home, where I was the joy of dear mamma; for this is all you mean by your hypocritical protestations of affection, which, if I hadn't happened to—oh, to feel in your pocket to find a box of matches, I might have gone on blindly believing? This, I say, is all—"

"My darling," he interrupted, "Don't 'darling' me sir!" she cried fiercely; "don't dare to use a term of endearment to me again. I—oh, to think that you could be such a brute, such a monster, such a—"

"My pet," expostulated Mr. J., "pray hear me for a moment."

"Not a word," she broke in, furiously; "to madness, I tell you! Don't drive me to your overburdened conscience, a can only make you, if possible, even string of miserable falsehoods, which more contemptible!"

"But really, my dear, if you will only allow me to explain—"

"Explain! What explanation can you give of the evidence of this photograph? Do I not find it secreted carefully in your own pocket? What construction would any sensible woman, any judge or jury, put upon such a discovery?"

"But you are talking nonsense; the photo is only—"

"Stop, sir!" she exclaimed. "Have I not said that your excuses are futile. Oh, to think," she added, passionately, her womanly spite for the moment getting the better of her dignity—"to think that you could desert me for a thing like this! Look at her!" she cried, holding the photograph at arm's length and glancing at it in magnificent scorn, "look at the brazen jade! Did ever you see such an object before? Why, the woman squints—actually squints; and then, what a nose, what a mouth—half across her face, I declare! And, oh, her figure, and the dowdy trimmings of her altogether! She dashed down the photograph and sank breathlessly into a chair."

Then Jabez got his chance. "I've been trying to tell you, my dear, only you wouldn't allow me, that the photograph is only the one I took of you with my new camera last week. I did not think myself that it quite did you justice, but—"

With a wild shriek she collapsed into unconsciousness.

GARMENTS OF PAPER

Textile Fabrics That Are Worn and Which May Be Washed.

Garments made of paper have long been used in Eastern Asia, but only in default of other clothing or on special occasions. In western countries the only articles of dress made of paper, until recently, were collars, cuffs and shirt bosoms; that is to say, articles which are usually starched. Now, however, numerous inventors are endeavoring to introduce woven paper fabrics.

Some time ago an Italian, Prof. Zanetti, devised a method of making fine and strong yarns by twisting very thin strips of paper, cut into strips about one-tenth of an inch wide. As yet these yarns are used only for wicks of wax candles, and in the manufacture of incandescent gas mantles.

A greater advance has been made in Saxony. Here, also, narrow strips of paper are spun by a process patented by Claviez and Co. Paper and cotton are also spun together, so that in the finished yarn the paper envelopes the cotton. These yarns are used as fillers, in conjunction with cotton warp, in weaving drillings suitable for towelling and summer waistcoats, trousers, and skirts.

Heavier and warmer cloth is made by combining paper and woollen yarns. The fabric is cream colored, and may be washed repeatedly without injury to the surface. It is well adapted for tennis and lounging suits. Sufficient cloth for a jacket, waistcoat and trousers costs only 10 marks, or $2.50 and still cheaper garments are made for laborers. This new product is named xylolin.

For such use, however, raw materials even cheaper than finished paper are sought. Spinning mill refuse, consisting of very short, smooth fibres that cannot be spun, goes as a rule, to the paper mills. Many attempts to utilize this material have been made in spinning mills, and experiments in spinning it are suggested the idea of further communicating the short fibres in paper machines. In this way a thin fibrous paste was produced. This, when poured on sieves, yielded a thin, soft paper, which partially dried and cut into narrow strips, could be spun into yarn. Other cheap paper stock, including wood pulp, can be converted into yarn by a similar process, and so spinning and paper-making meet.

One brand of these cellulose or wood pulp yarns is called salvin. During the last ten years many similar processes have been patented. The manufacture is still in the experimental stage, but definite progress has been made, and the industry has a promising future before it.

Resistance to the action of water is another important quality in which fabrics differ greatly. Prof. Pihl gives an example from experience. A lighter laden with grain in jute and canvas bags sank in the Voige. Thirty-six hours afterward the canvas—flax—bags were raised, with their contents, but the jute bags had disintegrated, so that the grain which they contained was lost. Jute yarns, however, withstand several hours immersion, but wood pulp yarns fall apart after very brief soaking.

SPRAINED HER ANKLE.

"I slipped on an icy spot and sprained my right ankle very badly," writes Miss Minnie Burgoyne, of Glenwood. It swelled to a tremendous size and caused intense pain. I applied Polson's Nervine and got prompt relief; the swelling was reduced, and before long I was able to use my foot. For sprains, swellings and muscular pains Nervine is the one sure remedy. Strong, penetrating, swift to destroy pain—that's Polson's Nervine. Fifty years in use.

A GYMNASTIC MARVEL.

There are optical illusions of all varieties. Some are due to mirage, and some are not. A little boy who was drilling a squad of classmates at recess found difficulty in getting them to march properly.

"Lift your right leg!" he called. "Lift your right leg!" Things went very well until Patey Hennessy forgot and lifted his left leg, which happened to be clad in trousers exactly like those of the boy next him, who was obedient in holding up his right leg. The drillmaster stopped aghast. "You can't do that, Pat Hennessy!" he called. "You're holding up both legs!"

HEAVY HEADACHE FOR FOUR YEARS

But Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets cured it. They are known by their works all over Canada.

"By their works ye shall know them," and if you know Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets by their works you must admit they are the greatest comfort products of the present age. Here is some of their work. Mrs. A. Waddell of 31 Simcoe street, Hamilton, says:

"I was troubled with heavy headache for four years caused by dyspepsia. I doctored with the best doctors, but they failed to help me. I got one box of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets and after taking part of them I found I was cured. I can now eat in the morning; before I could not eat a bite."

Thousands of other Canadians relate similar experiences. In fact everybody who has used Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets tells the same story—Indigestion and Dyspepsia cannot live in the same body with them.

There is something lacking in the life when the funeral writes "Finis" over it.

NAVAL NOTES.
"One Life, One Fleet, One Flag, One Throne."

The battleship "Duoduricht" on this year's naval construction programme, will be the most powerful vessel of war ever built, and is a noteworthy advance on the "Lord Nelson" which itself surpasses in value any foreign ship. The battery will consist of ten 12-inch guns, though hitherto no more than four have ever been mounted on a ship. The displacements will be 15,000 tons, and the armor on the waterline, and gun positions 12 inches thick. She will have turbine engines, and her speed is intended to be 22 knots.

After the battle of the Sea of Japan, practically the whole British squadron in the China Seas was recalled, and will be added to the strength of the Navy in northern Europe, with a base probably on the east coast of Scotland. The ships are the Ocean, Glory, Vengeance, Albion, Centurion, Goliath, Canopus, and the armored cruisers Sully and Hogue.

At the present time the British merchant service employs the following large number of aliens on its vessels: Captains, 511; petty officers, 2,991; seamen, 40,000.

The account of the sinking of the Japanese cruiser Takisago, where the seamen fell in on deck, sang the National Anthem, and cheered the Emperor as they faced death, recalls the fate of the Birkenhead, and win hold the same place in the heroic records of our allies, as the latter incident does in ours.

Eight new branches of the Navy League have recently been formed in New Zealand, including several in schools. The membership in the junior branches under the control of the Wellington Branch numbers 1,400, and much useful work is being done by illustrated lectures, and naval history competitions. The Trafalgar Centennial will be universally observed in the Islands.

A splendid little booklet outlining the history and proper use of all our national flag may be had by enclosing 25 cents to Major W. I. Wright, Brockville, Ont. This is a subject which every patriotic British subject should know thoroughly, and yet the greatest ignorance is often apparent, when foreigners ask for information.

MONKEYS AS SERVANTS.

Instances in Which They Have Been Valuable Assistants.

The cleverness and imitative faculty of the monkey have been utilized by mankind in many ways during late years, and to-day this hairy animal acts as clerk, servant, laborer and tea packer in various parts of the world says London Answers.

A female chimpanzee once went out to service at Loango, and made the bed, swept the house and assisted in the kitchen, peeling the potatoes and turning the spit.

These feats are equalled, if not surpassed, by a young monkey, the property of a sailor on one of Britain's ironclads. This animal can turn the capstan and furl the sails as well as any one. He also assists the cook in preparing dinner and is an adept of boiling eggs. Luckily the culinary arrangements on board a ship are not quite as exacting as those in a London hotel, or the monkey assistant might find himself in somewhat of a quandary.

Chinese monkeys for years past have assisted the natives in tea packing. The labor is cheap, for they are more than contented with payment in the shape of sundry luscious morsels.

During the rush to the gold fields of Yukon an enterprising miner carried five Chinese monkeys to help him in gold washing. The monkeys had been used to severe cold and the extremes of a rigorous climate, and the gold searcher found his animal workmen most useful.

Some years ago a number of British engineers employed monkeys to assist the workmen in carrying material to a railway extension in Cape Colony.

It appears that a score of monkeys came regularly every morning to the line to watch the laborers at work, and the engineers in charge, rightly believing that the imitative faculties of the creatures would render them useful in railway work, and them captured. They were immediately put in training, and soon proved themselves invaluable as carriers.

In Siam apes are now employed as cashiers. A year or two ago much base coin was circulated by a clique of coiners, and the traders found that it was a very difficult matter to discriminate between good and bad money.

A large store kept a pet monkey, and one morning he was seen to take a coin from the cashier's desk and put it between his teeth. After biting it, for some moments he threw it on the floor with a solemn grimace of dissatisfaction.

The proprietor of the store then handed the monkey another coin, and after testing it with great deliberation he laid it on the cashier's desk. Apparently the creature could tell a counterfeit coin from a good one, and in order to ascertain whether other monkeys had the same extraordinary gift a couple of apes belonging to a zoo were given the test, with satisfactory results.

From that day the majority of the business houses in Siam have kept monkeys as cashiers, and the gifted creatures have developed the faculty of discrimination between good and bad coin to such perfection that no human being can compare with them.

A CUNNING BEAST.

London Society's New Pet Is Jumbo, Jr.—Received by Royalty.

Captured by Charles F. Mayer, in the wilds of Burma, Jumbo, Jr., is but 35 inches high, weighs 230 lbs. and proudly parades his importance at the ripe age of twelve months. It cost just $7.50 per pound of his weight to deliver the little elephant to his English owners.

Jumbo Jr., used the Eccentric Club as the first rung of the social ladder. Then he showed his versatility by playing Home Sweet Home on a mouth organ at Lady Wernher's children's party at Bath House, where he presented a miniature of himself to the most beautiful young woman present—aged twelve.

Jumbo, Jr.'s social career, however, reached the climax when he appeared at the royal garden party given in the grounds at Buckingham Palace in honor of Princess Victoria's birthday, and made

AN INSTANT MASH on Queen Alexandra. When coming before the distinguished audience the elephant followed his trainer as sedately as usual until he had arrived in front of the Queen's chair. She presented to him a lump of sugar, which the social favorite despatched with such gusto that the Queen immediately sent for a plate of cakes and bananas, with which she regaled him still further.

After this the elephant's trainer persuaded him to return to the front of the audience and mount his little tub preparatory to playing the mouth organ, but just as Jumbo was about to begin, his eye wandered in the direction of the Queen, and in spite of the efforts of his master, he jumped off his tub and walked straight to her, holding up his trunk in expectation of more gifts. The Queen sent for another plate of cakes and the elephant remained steadfastly by her side during the rest of the afternoon. At the close of the entertainment Queen Alexandra rose from her seat and Jumbo, Jr., trotted proudly beside her. Then the Duke of Connaught—the King's brother—joined the Queen and presented to Jumbo a magnificent Tasmanian apple, which was cut and peeled for him.

Decidedly refined and patrician in quality are all the tastes and education of the new favorite. He goes to meet his social engagements.

IN A FOUR-WHEELED CAB and discriminates nicely in the matter of food and drink. This was illustrated at the Kessler dinner and is among the unrecorded events of that notable affair. The dainty young elephant scorned everything on the menu except the birthday cake, which he was requested to pass to the guests. As he did so he leisurely consumed $500 worth of it, leaving the other $100 worth for the guests. He would drink no Scotch whisky, but insisted on champagne. Altogether his food and drink cost the host just double the amount of any individual present. When it came to distributing the dinner favors Jumbo made himself deservedly gracious to the economist. Edna May says he gave her just the diamond ornament she coveted, but, no matter whether the trinket was of diamonds, rubies or sapphires, each recipient declared no better selection could have been made.

ONTARIO CROPS.

Toronto, Aug. 18.—Following is the summary of the August crop bulletin about to be issued by the Ontario Department of Agriculture, reports crop conditions up to August 1st. Fall wheat harvesting was begun rather later than usual in most sections, but the weather was favorable for cutting and many had completed the work and some had even threshed before the 1st of August. The crop will be a big one, more especially in Lake Erie counties. Taken altogether, 1905 may be classed as one of Ontario's best fall wheat years. Spring Wheat.—The fields were yet green, as correspondents reported, but cutting was expected to be general about August 14. The crop is full in the head, with good straw, and promises more than an average yield. Barley.—This grain will go considerably over the average in yield per acre. While some were starting to cut about the 1st of August, most of the crop was more likely to be harvested about the middle of the month. Several correspondents speak of barley and oats being sown together as a popular feed mixture. Oats.—The field promises to be one of the largest both as regards average and total yields, several correspondents classing it as the finest crop in years. Rye.—The yield is above the average and the grain is of good quality. Peas.—The crop has been somewhat injured by rain, nevertheless the yield per acre will run over an average. In the newer districts of Northern Ontario, the yields are among the best. Beans.—Where grown as a field crop beans give promise of a large yield, notwithstanding few correspondents anticipate rot in the new crop. Roots.—All classes promise a good yield especially mangels and sugar beets. Fruit.—All varieties of berries have yielded well and grapes also promise well. Apples will be poor in point of yield, but the quality will be rather above the average. Peaches and plums fair to good. Pears vary much but they have done better than apples.

What Flour Granulation Means in Bread-Making

Flour is composed of myriads of tiny granules.

To make good bread these granules must be uniform in size.

In poorly milled flour some granules are large, some small.

The small ones absorb yeast, "rise" and "ripen" before the large ones—the result is bread of coarse, poor texture.

The large granules are not developed into "sponge," they bake into heavy hard particles, spoil the texture of the bread and make it harder to digest.

ROYAL HOUSEHOLD FLOUR is perfectly milled—all the flour granules are uniform in size—the sponge rises uniformly—the bread is even in texture—perfect in flavor—good-looking, appetising bread—easily digested.

TEACHER and STUDENT

Found Health in Vin St-Michel

"I am very happy to show my gratitude to Vin St. Michel, for it has been very good to me. When I was fourteen, I was compelled to leave school on account of ill-health. Friends told me to take Vin St. Michel, telling me that this tonic would surely bring back my strength and make me a plump, rosy checked girl again.

I followed their advice, and after taking a few bottles, found that I was greatly improved. I continued the treatment and was shortly able to return to school in perfect health."

CECILE BOURSIER,
139 Victoria St., Valleyfield.

Mr. Domicien J. Robichaud, teacher at Bas Caracquet, N. B., says:
"For years, I suffered from a run-down condition of the system, due to my labors in the school. Reading so many testimonials of Vin St. Michel in the papers,

I determined to try the tonic myself. The first bottle did me so much good that I purchased a second. When I finished the third, my health was completely restored and has continued so up to the present writing."

Montreal's Public Refuge uses Vin St. Michel. Attending physicians prescribe it.

Mrs. Deschamps, head nurse of L'Assistance Publique (Public Refuge) at Montreal, speaks thus of Vin St. Michel:

"Acting under the orders of our consulting physician, Dr. A. F. Mercier, we give Vin St. Michel to our convalescents. Its tonic effects are most beneficial and it is so palatable that our patients take it with pleasure.

We are greatly pleased with Vin St. Michel and are glad to recommend it."

A MAN OF MANY ALIASES.

In tracing a clever villain there is always a doubly pleasing interest. One feels at once the keen ardor of the sportsman and the knowledge that success means the removal of one of society's terrors writes Detective Inspector Sweeney of Scotland Yard, in the Cleveland Plain Dealer. I cannot say who has been the most wicked criminal I ever met—probably the worst is not always the most interesting. A sordid murder is never the entertaining spectacle that morbid journalists try to depict. The really fascinating criminal is the man who thinks, whose plans are clearly laid beforehand, whose crime is no mere episode, but the result of a deliberate purpose. Such men, although seldom violent in their misdeeds, are an immense danger, and society owes much of its own safety to the fact that its criminals are usually at least intelligent members.

"Dr. De Villiers," to give him his best known name, was indeed a villain of parts. A mere recital of his misdeeds would fill a three volume novel. A list of his aliases would look like a directory and supply a dozen novelists with ready made sets of characters for all the novels they could write. Whataker Wright helped him people to lose money, but Dr. De Villiers was more ubiquitous.

From the year 1880 to the time of his arrest and death under tragic circumstances in 1902, Dr. Villiers lived a life of the utmost affluence. His mansions, parks and estates in various parts of Great Britain were baronial in their splendor. He had a retinue of servants, horses, carriages and motors, but he dressed simply and never gave to any charity. He obtained his wealth by methods of swindling which could only be practiced in England and America. He was a German, and he had not been in England long before he realized how easily a swindler could live and flourish there. After various more or less successful bankruptcies, which left his creditors penniless while he lived luxuriously, he found himself in a tight corner.

He was sent to prison for perjury, and a prosecution was commenced against him for fraud. Having served his first sentence of twelve months hard labor, he managed to obtain bail in the second prosecution. He escaped from England and his bail was forfeited. He returned to England almost immediately and then commenced his successful frauds from which it is estimated he cleared no less than $100,000 a year for several years. His method was the same in the several companies which he established. First he took an office, invented seven names and addresses, which he registered as the first shareholders in the company. The latter always had a high sounding name, such as the Brandy Distillers Company, Limited; the University Press, Limited; the Concentrated Produce Company, Limited, &c.

The directors were always men whose names counted familiar and whose addresses seemed to indicate ability and wealth. One company's directors were Sir Stuart Wortley, Bart., of King's Park, Waltham Abbey; Lord Roland Owen, K. C. L., of the Lodge, Whitby, Suffolk; Col. Laking Webb, of Aldershot, and A. A. Gould, Jr., 73 Fifth Avenue, New York, U.S.A. Needless to say, not one of these worthy men had any existence. The Brandy Distillers Company, Limited, went even further. The directors were boldly announced under such names as Messrs. Most Terrier and Mumm, and the prospectus contained actual photographs of veritable vineyards—some of the best in France—labeled variously, "Lar distillery at Bordeaux," "view of the Company's Limoges Vineyards," "Nimes and Montpellier Branches," and all described as the properties of the Brandy Distillers Company.

Not one of these companies ever had any property or assets of any sort or kind. Some of them existed for two years before any attempt was ever made to obtain money from the public. Meanwhile the authorities were furnished with increasing lists of alleged shareholders, consisting of names and addresses taken from any directory.

Reports were sent (and paid for) to be inserted in numbers of newspapers of annual meetings supposed to have been held "at the offices of the company." Of course no reputable newspaper would insert such notices, but there are many newspapers in England which are not above work of this sordid character. The reports of the meetings invariably ended with announcements of 8 or 10 per cent. dividends. After one or two reports had appeared the public would be drawn into the net.

From various addresses circulars pretending to come from a firm of stock and share dealers would be sent to all the share dealers in various well-known concerns. These circulars were skillfully drawn. No mere advertisement of their real object, but a clever letter was despatched giving details of some excellent high class stocks which were stated to be for sale or to be purchased. As all the shares so mentioned were to be sold or bought at the double value there seemed no reason to doubt the bona fides of the circular. But the circular also included "about 250 Brandy Distillery shares, $25 each," with a footnote to the effect that the prospectus copies of the last two reports could be had on application and that the company had already paid dividends of 8 to 10 per cent.

Then the public began to bite the bait. Year after year this dodge was repeated, and actual dividends of 10 per cent. were paid of course out of the new victims' capital, as there were no assets of any kind. Then one fine day the office was closed and no more was heard of that particular fraud. The enormous success of these company swindlers is almost incredible, and Dr. De Villiers found no difficulty in continuing them. He lived in royal style, and besides his houses in London and other places in England he had a beautiful residence in Avenue de l'Opera, Paris, and a chateau on the Rhine.

His morals were about as elevated as his sense of honesty. He was vice-president of the free love movement, a bigamist or polygamist, and his household was the most extraordinary of its kind. He lived with him, was variously represented to be a countess, a famous authoress, a Russian princess—anything except his own wife. He more frequently posed as his own wife's brother, at times alleging her husband to be a certain George Astor Singer, a millionaire of New York. I have a long descriptive article written by Dr. De Villiers in the University Magazine, in which is described a most wonderful orphanage, built at a cost of many millions by the munificent "Singer." Neither the millionaire nor the orphanage had any existence, but this fact did not prevent various serious journals from commenting on the article representing a valuable philanthropic work. With so little knowledge is the literary world governed.

From the commencement of the year 1898 some of the Scotland Yard staff, as well as various local forces, endeavored to arrest this strange criminal. I have only given hints of the crimes with which the doctor has been publicly charged. Justice demands my silence as to the many crimes some involving female accomplices still living) of which Dr. De Villiers is believed to have been guilty.

But if his crimes were many and great, never did criminal show greater ingenuity in frustrating justice and evading pursuit. For many years he employed a staff of private detectives. Attempts were even made to undermine the police officers, but for the credit of the force I am glad to say that every such attempt was immediately reported, and had been a less skillful villain he would have fallen into one of the many traps set for him.

Before "Dr. De Villiers" had been identified as the notorious "Weissenfeld" he had in the former name appeared in semi-public connection with a band of freelovers who held meetings at St. James's Hall, London. He was expected to take the vice chair at a dinner on one occasion, and I was present. He learned that I was in the room and did not appear. His spies were everywhere, and I have reason to believe that none of the movements of his enemies ever passed unobserved. Wealth cannot buy justice in this country, but it is useful to a criminal anxious to cover his tracks.

De Villiers not only bought detectives, he also initiated historical conspirators. His House at Harrow was a masterpiece of secret passages. A tower commanded a full view of every approach to the house. Secret panels flew open and the estate was under a dozen exits, some of them more than a mile apart, owing to the road passing around two houses and estates. It was an ideal spot for a refuge, and every "surprise visit" to the house was in vain.

Needless to say, all his companies came to grief, and many were the complaints from suffering shareholders. As, however, there was never any sign that one of his companies had any connection with any other of them, no one complained so long as he received his dividend, and as the office was closed months before another dividend was expected we could do nothing but

SEARCH AND WAIT.

In January, 1902, the work which had engaged the attention of some of the best men at the yard received its fruition. We discovered that the "doctor" was living in Oriental splendor at a Cambridge mansion. Two detectives were instructed to make the final coup. Knowing the slippery character of the man, they acted with the tactics of a wisdom born of past experience. Every possible exit was guarded and the house was surrounded. Armed and prepared for every possibility, detectives approached the house, arresting all the inmates (various accomplices and others were simultaneously arrested in London). Dr. De Villiers, who was living here as Roland Sinclair, with a loaded revolver escaped into one of the carefully prepared secret passages. Our men, knowing all the past history of the criminal, determined not to leave without him. As they knew he could not have got safely away, every wall and floor was searched and sounded. The secret entrance was found leading to the passage which had been ingeniously built in the wall. The game was up, and the villain we had sought so long surrendered without a struggle. Within an hour of his arrest he was dead. Was it poison or apoplexy?

In De Villiers' possession was found a volume of signatures to remind him how to sign his various aliases. Numbers of the bank books were found showing that he had taken the most elaborate means to dispose of his victims' cheques. When the trial of his accomplices took place it took some days simply to hear the evidence of his various bankers. If ever there was an undesirable alien, I think this was the man.

It is a much better guess to be made a fool of by a woman than to think she is the one.

When a girl is in love it is a sign she is mighty uninteresting to everybody else.

Palpitation and irregular action of the heart are due largely to a thin, watery condition of the blood. The heart and nerves refuse to perform their proper work for want of support. Pale, weak, or anemic people should use "PSYCHINE" and avoid heart troubles. "PSYCHINE" makes rich blood, tones the system, regulates the heart action and restores vitality. All Household Roads Lead to Kitchen Work

NINE-TENTHS of kitchen labor and worry is caused by ill-working cook stoves and ranges; by ranges that draw poorly; that have such complicated drafts that only a skilled mechanic can manage them; whose grates are so constructed that it is a strong man's work to shake them down; ranges which work well when the wind is in a certain direction, but act like a fiend at other times; ranges whose work is so unreliable that the housekeeper is in a constant nerve-racking worry lest the meals be late or the baking spoiled.

The Pandora range is built to make work easy, a child can shake it down; its drafts are so simple that one learns them in a minute; its heat is kept in the range so effectively that you can do a big baking and hardly know there is a fire in it two feet away; it keeps the kitchen cool; it saves you worry; it saves you time and money; it saves you backaches and headaches, because it is so easy to manage and so reliable.

The Pandora makes kitchen work easy.

KISS BRIDE BEFORE THE GROOM JUST FOR LUCK.

The bride is always interested in the "signs," and spies a spider on her gown with pleasure, as it means good luck, but she is fearful if a telegram is delivered on the way to church, and if the wedding ring is dropped during the ceremony fears bad luck. Always kiss the bride before the bridegroom for luck.

The loss of time and comfort caused by a corn makes it dear to keep. Better invest in Putnam's Corn Extractor and cure that corn. Putnam's is painless and acts in twenty-four hours; use no other than "Putnam's."

THE PUZZLE TANKARD.

It was a Feature of the Seventeenth Century Tavern.

"This is a puzzle tankard," said the antiquary. "Try it."

The tankard, of peculiar shape, with odd little spouts protruding from it in unexpected places, was made of blue glazed ware, and on it was scratched the stanza:

From Mother Earth I claim my birth;
I'm made a joke for man,
But now I'm here,
Filled with good cheer,
Come taste me if you can.

The old man filled the vessel with fair water, and the youth tried to drink from it. He could not, though, succeed. To whatever spout he put his lips the water refused to flow from that opening. Flowing from half a dozen other ones instead all over his face and neck.

"That's enough for me," he said.

"This puzzle tankard," said the antiquary, "dates back to the seventeenth century. Every tavern had one in those days. The landlord would fill it with ale or sack or beer, and if you could empty it down your throat you would get your drink for nothing. Otherwise you must stand treat. Many a seventeenth century tavern house these puzzle tankards must have caused."

"It was, you know, quite impossible, unaided, to solve a tankard's secret. The secret of this tankard of mine is to place your little finger over the further spout, your thumb over the other and your left hand thumb over the bulb. Now you can drink, you see, from the main underspout in comfort."

THE FIREWORKS DISPLAY.

We are pleased to learn that Mr.
W. G. Hinds, Treasurer of the Citizens' Committee, has absolutely refused to pay the account of Meers, Hand & Co. for the fireworks display of Tuesday evening on the Terrace, pending direct authorization by the committee. This is due to the generally unfavourable criticism of the public in regard to the disappointing nature of the display.

etc., to be had at Piper's.

AN OMISSION.

In our report of the naval and military smoker at the Drill Hall yestercommittee in charge were inadvertently omitted. The entertainment was in charge of Lt. Col. (Turner, V.C., D.S.O.), Major Ashmun, Lieut. S. Barrow and Sergeant E. E. B. Rattray. Their good work in connection with the entertainment was amply demonstrated in its success, and they certainly deserve high praise.

DEER CAPTURED.

A young deer was captured in the St. Lawrence by a number of young men from Cap Blanc, who put out in a boat when they saw it swimming in theriver. The animal was seen by residents of Mount Pleasant earlier in the day, having passed through a number of gardens at the back of residences in the vicinity going in the direction of Jeffery Hale Hospital. Later it was discovered on the Cove Fields by a number of people, who made an effort to capture it, but the animal ran down the cliff toward the river and jumped in, where it was seen by residents of Cap Blanc and captured.

of officers was postponed to a future meeting.

A POPULAR MAN.

Capt. Joe. E. Vincent, unattached but still to the fore, reached his half-century mark yesterday. In commemoration of that historic episode in his life, he was called upon by a number of friends, and presented with an illuminated address, and a well-

PRESENTATION.

Last evening at the termination of the performance at the Auditorium,
Mr. Joseph Tanguay, the popular general treasurer of the Auditorium, was agreeably surprised on the eve of his approaching marriage to Miss Lemieux, by being called into the presence of Mr. F. X. Kormann, resident manager and staff, and a large number of personal friends, when he was made the recipient of a purse of one hundred and fifty dollars in gold. The best wishes for the future happiness of Mr. Tanguay and his bride elect, who enjoys the high esteem of everyone who has had the pleasure of her acquaintance, were expressed in appropriate speeches by Mr. Kormann, Mr.
Pilon, and others. Although taken completely by surprise, Mr. Tanguay made a very happy and feeling reply.
An hour or two passed pleasantly away at the conclusion of the presentation, in recitations, songs and dances. Prof. Zimmermann and his orchestra supplied the music in their usual masterly style. The nuptials will be celebrated at St. Patrick's Church on Monday next, and the happy couple will spend their honeymoon in a trip to the Thousand Islands, Toronto, Kingston, London, Buffalo, and other western cities.

Go to Piper's, 19 Buade St., for high class Briar Pipes, Tobaccos, Cigars, Cigarettes, etc., etc.

A DESERVED PROMOTION.

We hear with pleasure that Mr. N.
H. Asselin, superintendent of the Singer Sewing Machine Company for the eastern division of the Province of Quebec, has just been appointed agent of the Central Agency for the Province of Quebec and the Maritime Provinces, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island, with headquarters in Montreal.

Never was promotion better deserved. Mr. Asselin has been engaged for thirty years in the sewing machine business and has been since fifteen years in the employ of the Singer Company. Having started at the bottom of the ladder, he has risen by dint of work, perseverance and energy, to the highest position which the company can offer to an employee. This appointment is the just reward of the bright results obtained by Mr. Asselin in his superintendence of the eastern division of the Province of Quebec.
By his assiduous work, by his wise choice of the agents placed under his orders, by the constant attention he has shown in the course of his management, he knew how to make the district which was entrusted to him, yield a harvest unknown before his time. We warmly congratulate him on his recent promotion and, while regretting his departure from Quebec, we wish him the same success which has hitherto marked his career in the new position which he is going to occupy in Montreal. He is succeeded here by Mr. Raymond Legare, former manager of the Singer Company at Bedford Mines, whose brilliant service have recommended him to the choice of the company as the successor of Mr. Asselin.

Exercise and Grecian Beauty.

Many thousands of women are now-a-days paying attention to physical culture and the proper exercise of their body muscles, where, thirty years ago or fifty years ago there was no thought expended on this science, which is quite necessary to physical beauty. The reason the Greeks, both men and women, excelled in beautiful and symmetrical forms was because of the attention they paid to the proper exercise. Then, too, they were untrammeled by corsets, shoes and the inconveniences of clothing. To the minds of some women the idea of physical exercise conveys only the idea of hard fatigue and wear. Mild exercise continued day after day is best for the body and spirits and health. Without proper exercise there can be no health, and without health there can be no real beauty.
There is no stronger proof of the sound remedial value of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription than that it restores the wasted form to its wonted roundness.
Alcoholic or narcotic medicine will make one "feel good" for a time, the one by stimulating, the other by stupefying the nervous system. But there is no real gain. "Favorite Prescription" tranquilizes the nerves by feeding them, and builds up the body by nourishing it.
Sick women are invited to consult Dr.
Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence is guarded as sacredly secret and womanly confidences are protected by professional privacy. Address Dr. R. V.
Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

REGATTA AT LAKE ST. JOSEPH.

A unique feature in the regatta to the race between boat crews of the different warships in port, will be a canoe race between teams selected between four Indian tribes—the Hurons, Iroquois, Alenakis and Montagnais.

In this event the old enemies of ancient days will engage in 2 more peaceful contest.

VISIT H.M.S. DRAKE, SUNDAY,
