

NEW PAVING SPEEDS TRAFFIC

Westmount City public works department raced ahead of the schedule set for their $100,000 paving and alteration program at the Glen last week, eradicated the city motorists big headache two days ahead of time.

The department had earlier reported that it was unlikely the project would be completed before Tuesday. But aided by the good weather the work was pushed right ahead over the week-end and cars were running freely through the area Sunday night.

Original schedule for the development was, Friday, pavement laying on Victoria between Western and St. Catherine; Saturday, parts of St. Catherine between Victoria and the Glen; and the balance of the work Tuesday.

Big problems facing the department while this was being done were difficulty of keeping the heavy Western avenue traffic moving, ensuring that store-keepers did not lose valuable holiday week-end trade, and handling the traffic to and from Westmount station.

Rotary governor cites peace work of organization

Rotary Clubs in 102 countries throughout the free world are united in an endeavor to promote international understanding, good will and peace.

This was part of the address given by Linton W. Armstrong of Lachute, Quebec, the Governor of District 704 of Rotary International, when he spoke to Westmount Rotary Club Wednesday. The address followed a conference with local officers and committee chairmen.

"In addition to the activities of Rotary's 9,500 clubs within their own communities," Mr. Armstrong went on to say "Rotary International has spent more than $2,250,000 in recent years through its program of student fellowship. This enabled outstanding college graduates to study for one year in foreign countries, as Rotary ambassadors of good will."

"Also," Mr. Armstrong continued, "special emphasis is being placed on the individual Rotarian. President Charles 'Buzz' Tennent's challenge—enlist for action, extend for strength, and explore for knowledge—should be followed to the end. In this way the Club's motto 'Service Above Self' will have an ever-widening influence throughout the free world."

The Governor finished by urging the members of the local club to attend the District Conference to take place in Watertown October 20th-22nd.

Proctor rivalry is renewed

Westmount High School will meet their annual international rival, Proctor Academy, from Andover, N.H., tomorrow, when the two teams clash at the Westmount Athletic Grounds at 10:30. The game will mark the ninth time the two schools have met in a game which upsets the rules and regulations of both Canadian and American football. Both teams have an equal number of victories over the eight year period, each winning four times.

For Westmount, it will be the first such game played under Coach Stratton. To date his team has earned a 1-1 record. Proctor has a 2 win, 1 loss record. Westmount will field a somewhat larger team than in previous years. Formerly they have been outweighed by the American team, but have relied on more speed to gain their touchdowns.

The game combines elements of both Canadian and American rules. For one half of the game, mostly under Canadian rules, Proctor will have to adapt to having a twelfth man in the backfield, and having only three downs to make a first down. In the second game the situation will be reversed, and the standard American team of eleven players will be used, with four downs for the first. Other differences in American versus Canadian rules are arbitrated before the game.

In previous years, the conflicting rules have confused spectators, players, and even officials. In last year's game, Proctor trapped Westmount in the Westmount end zone. The officials brought the ball out to the 20-yard line, as is customary in Canadian play. The American bench protested vigorously. The play, they stormed, was a safety in American football, and that half of the game was under American rules. So the officials reversed their decision, and Proctor earned two points. They won that game, 26-13.

The game itself is only part of a whole weekend of activity that is the climax of the fall social life for both schools. The weekend, which begins on Friday, is a splendid example of good international relationships. The Westmount students entertain the American boys in regal fashion. A dance is held in honor of the Proctorites, followed by parties at various homes throughout Westmount. In return, the Westmount ski team is invited down to Proctor later in the year for the annual winter carnival, and the chance to compete on Proctor's ski slopes.

Ceremonies at the game take on an international flavor, as flags of both countries are raised before the game. Cheerleaders from the Westmount student body volunteer to lead the festive part of the school in cheer for Proctor, while the boys remain loyal to the home team. The winner of the game is awarded the Doug Smalls trophy, awarded in honor of one of Westmount's finest athletes, who was killed during World War II.

Court verdict awaited in office, machine case

A 22 year old Verdun man, Gerard Goulet, who allegedly specialized in raiding the offices of commercial companies and looting all their office equipment is awaiting trial and will appear in the Montreal Criminal Court shortly. His criminal career was brought to a sudden end by alert Westmount police.

In the early hours of September 12th a woman living near 4178 St. Catherine street heard suspicious noises. She called the beat constable who investigated and called the station. A squad car was immediately despatched. In the meantime the patrolman went to the rear of 4178 St. Catherine street and found Goulet and a juvenile. He arrested them and held them until the arrival of the car when they were taken to the station.

Police discovered that the windows in the building had been broken, and it was obvious that the men were attempting to pull a job. A car parked in the lane was found packed with typewriters stolen in an earlier raid in Verdun the same night. The car itself also proved to have been stolen.

Alerted by Westmount, police in Montreal went to the address of the suspect there and found more stolen equipment. Goulet appeared in the Criminal Court on September 14th charged with breaking and entering theft and theft of an automobile and was remanded in custody. His juvenile accomplice went before the Welfare Court.

Verdun police say they believe that Goulet was working for an outfit that specializes in stealing office equipment and selling it. The suspects had in their possession blue prints of a number of other office premises when arrested. Police in N.D.G. and Verdun have known of the existence of a gang of office machine bandits for some time.

He will be open to questions after his talk, and then will circulate among the group during refreshment time. Tropical fish are fast becoming not only a hobby but a rage, and the season for this is not hard to find. They are ornamental and enhance the appearance of a living room. We heard this week from the Westend Tropical Fish Association who held a meeting in Verdun this week. We would be glad to hear more details as we are sure a large number of our readers will be interested.

T.F.H. Publications, Inc., 57 Academy street Jersey City 2, N.J. have prepared a full color chart illustrating 77 aquarium fish in full color. This chart can be obtained through your local petshop for $2.95. It is printed on heavy coated paper and varnished to prevent scratching and fading. It is the sort of thing that will appeal to all tropical fish enthusiasts.

A large number of tropical fish come from the island of Haiti. Among the many varieties easily obtained there are Sergeant Majors, Neon Gabies, Tangs, Angelfish, etc. A number of local people work in the tropical fish trade which is now almost a national industry.

In order to present your pets attractively it is necessary to devote some time to the decoration of your aquarium. You should always strive for informality. First thing to think about is the location of the tank. It should be so designed that it fits into the general decor of the room. You will soon tire of your aquarium unless you are able through the long winter months to appreciate and enjoy its hidden beauties. Electric strip lighting is very cheap and easy to install. You do not need to purchase it with your tank, it can always be added later. Even a person with only gas available with a bit of ingenuity can always arrange so that the light shines behind the tank.

Whatever type of tank you finally choose, take care to arrange for adequate illumination for both day and night. The usual aquarium offered to beginners at the pet store has a capacity of 12 gallons and is two feet long by a foot wide and a foot deep. These are made in large numbers and the price has been reduced to the absolute minimum. For a very little such a tank can be made very attractive. For the next few weeks we will devote ourselves to the selection and decoration of your fish tank and the type of fish you should start off with.

Current events club popular

Ask any student of Westmount High School the most popular extra curricular club and the answer in almost every case will be "the Current Events Club."

This club was started in 1948 by J. K. Snyder, one of the history teachers, when he found that a part of his history periods were being spent discussing current world affairs. Mr. Snyder felt that this interest should be encouraged and with the approval of the Principal, R. O. Bartlett, a meeting was held and an executive chosen. Five students were elected, Peggy Fish was the first president and Mr. Snyder has acted as advisor from the beginning.

Each year some 12 meetings are held—usually at noon hours—with an average attendance of 140. Debates and round-table discussions are featured. The highlight of each year is a trip to Ottawa to see Parliament by tenth year students, and a trip to New York to the United Nations for eleventh year students. In Ottawa the students meet the Montreal Members of Parliament and hear an address by the Prime Minister. The Westmount Club was the first Canadian school to have an annual visit to the United Nations Building.

A meeting was held this week to acquaint the students with the activities as carried out at United Nations and the seven students taking part were: Steve Terry, General Assembly; Mark Segal, Secretary Council; Marion Lazare, Economic & Social Council; Carol Cohen, Trusteeship Council; Alan Willis, International Court of Justice; Joe Silver, Secretariat; Barbara Golden UNICEF and Billy Fraiberg, a Summary of UN work.

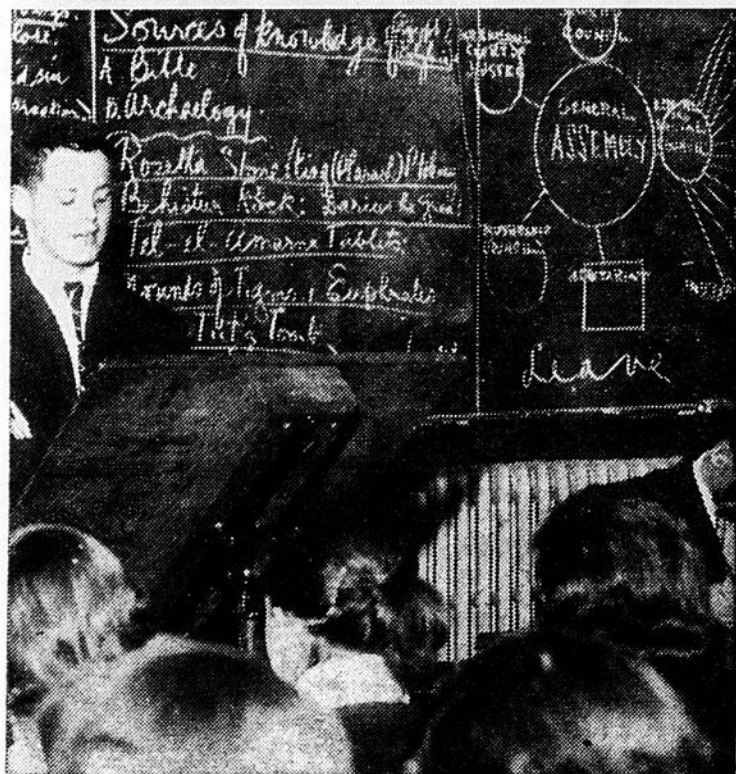

When asked about the value of such a club, Mr. Snyder replied "There is a very great need for such clubs to interest teen-agers in current world affairs. This type of club teaches the student how history repeats itself."

R. O. Bartlett, Principal, is very interested in the club and stated the Current Events Club makes a real contribution to the school and extra curricular activities.

Catholic Charities campaign under way

THE annual campaign of the Federation of Catholic Charities is now under way and will continue until the end of the month.

The federation comprises 33 agencies united for economy, efficiency of operation, and better service to the young, the homeless, the sick, the lonely, and the aged. In addition to its own agencies, the federation helps support many others of a non-sectarian nature by annual budgetary allotments.

Objective of the drive this year has been held to $578,000 by a close scrutiny of the requirements of all agencies. Contributors can rest assured that their money will produce fullest possible value for those in need.

We are sure that this area will again do its full part in putting the campaign over its objective. When the canvasser calls upon you, remember that the cost of practically all goods and services is up compared to last year, even for charitable organizations.

Be generous.

Shorter days call for driving care

EACH year, night-time driving results in scores of accidental deaths across Canada; most frequent causes are fatigue and poor visibility, according to insurance experts.

With days growing shorter, many motorists are compelled to travel after dark. These precautions are recommended for safer night driving:

Always dim your headlights when approaching oncoming vehicles or when following close behind another automobile;

Allow extra space for stopping between your own car and the one ahead;

Signal all turns, preferably with flashing or illuminated signals;

Take frequent coffee breaks to combat drowsiness;

Stop for a nap if you are overtired;

Carry flares for use in case of mechanical breakdown;

Keep within the legal speed limits and obey caution and warning signs;

If you must walk along a highway for any purpose, use the left shoulder, facing traffic;

Take special precautions at dusk, when some cars are using headlights while others may not be.

By the way...

THE hustling American who addressed the Senate for over 24 hours has drawn attention to the brevity of most speeches. Even so, they seem too long, and nothing is more fun than to watch a chairman trying to ignore the restlessness of an audience.

He scratches his ear, smiles stupidly, tugs at his tie, leans back, leans forward, mutters "Hear, hear!" If he is cunning, he tips a waiter to announce an urgent telephone call for the speaker. If he is more manly he imitates that exasperated chairman at Lachute who, without a word, rose from his seat and knocked the speaker down. He said afterwards that he could think of no other way of stopping "all that sort of rot."

IF what a morning paper calls a "Guided missile sales war" is really developing, we may expect a new kind of advertising.

A weary girl typist is reprimanded. She consults a doctor, who says, "You are worrying too much about something." "Yes," says the girl. "My country has only got the cheap, American rocket with an inferior warhead. I don't seem to take any interest in my typing." Two weeks later she hears that her country has a Canadian rocket with a perfectly gorgeous warhead. Her work improves. She is made a Director. (Thanks: thanks to the Canadian rocket.)

An Examiner Profile:

Paul Earl in navy and politics

By CYNTHIA JONES

NOT many men indulge successfully in two widely opposed careers. Commodore Paul Earl, CBE, CD, has been doing just that for a number of years and carrying on a private business besides.

Commodore Earl is senior naval officer in Montreal, a post which, to most men, would be demanding enough in itself. Paul Earl is the Liberal member of the provincial parliament for Notre Dame de Grace and hasn't missed a sitting since he was elected first in 1948.

"Politics and navy don't mix and I've kept them completely divorced, even to dropping the Commodore from my name in politics," said Commodore Earl. "I think the time has come to pursue one career and I hope to be retired from the navy soon so that I can devote my energies to my constituents and, incidentally, have a little leisure time."

Wearing a natty, grey business suit, Commodore Earl was sitting at his desk in his naval office in the Post Office building. On the walls were pictures of Commodore Earl in uniform taken with Prince Philip in Quebec City; with General Eisenhower in Ottawa during the war; autographed photographs of Admirals de Wolfe and Mainwaring; a portrait of Lord Nelson; a framed copy of Nelson's Prayer; and, of course, a portrait of the Queen. In such an obvious naval setting Commodore Paul was reluctant to talk about his political career.

A MONTREALER

A native Montrealer, Commodore Earl was introduced to politics by George Marler, the former minister of transport, and still liberal MP for St. Antoine-Westmount. "Until he asked me to lunch one day and suggested that I enter politics I had never entertained such a thought," he said. "My advice to young people is to be wary of luncheon invitations. Something usually is up."

Commodore Earl was first elected to the provincial government in 1948; was re-elected in 1952 and 1956.

The Commodore's first love is the navy. As a young man of 20, he joined the RNR, served as a sub-lieutenant and lieutenant in the First World War for four years. He was at sea during the entire time, on convoy and patrol duty in the North sea, the Mediterranean, Black and Caspian seas. He saw duty on motor torpedo boats which he enjoyed because he always has been a motor boat racing enthusiast.

In between wars Commodore Earl pursued a business career as a manufacturer's agent and played golf six days a week. Golfing today has been ruled out by the Commodore's doctor. A heart condition has slowed down his participation in sports. A swimming and water polo champion in his youth, Commodore Earl finds the doctor's edict tough.

"TOO OLD!"

The day the Second World War broke out Commodore Earl offered his services to the navy. He was turned down because he was "too old," the navy said. But within eight months of the outbreak, Paul Earl was back in the navy.

"The biggest disappointment of my life was that I didn't get to sea for active duty," he said. "That's why I joined up. Instead I slept in my office here three nights a week during those years. I got to sea for a few days each year now, though." Last trip was this summer's trials of HMCS Restigouche, one of Canada's latest destroyer escorts, which hasn't been commissioned to date.

As senior naval officer in Montreal, Commodore Earl must co-ordinate all naval matters in this area; see that the port's naval defences function efficiently; oversee the operation and control of all naval ships of all nations based in and passing through. He offered the information that Canada's navy now boasts 20,000 "bodies" and 65 ships.

Commodore Earl is required to represent the navy at all manner of functions — social and charitable. He and Mrs. Earl lend their patronage to naval balls; attend turning-of-the-sod ceremonies; visit hospitals. His engagement book shows a tremendous variety of engagements as he serves on the boards of many organizations in a private capacity in addition to the appointments he keeps on behalf of the navy.

One day there is a Saint John Ambulance meeting; the next, a luncheon at the Montreal Amateur Athletic Association of which he is a former president; or it may be a meeting of the Boy Scouts, of which he is a vice-president; or the Canadian Paraplegic Association; or a dinner of the Irish Protestant Benevolent Society. Among his clubs are the Reform Club, the Naval Officers Club, of which he is a past president, and the Garrison Club in Quebec City.

OFFICIAL GREETER

Commodore Earl is the official greeter for the navy here. Two recent guests were the First Lord of the Admiralty, the Earl of Selkirk, and the Mayor of Madrid. "I got up at the crack of dawn to meet the Earl of Selkirk at the airport at 6.50 a.m.," he said. "For a lesser admiral I wouldn't have made it."

Last month the Commodore represented the Navy in Quebec City at ceremonies marking the 400th anniversary of the death of Jacques Cartier, (Continued from Page 13)

4300 Western avenue offers modern suites

Forty-three-hundred Western avenue will soon become the best known and one of the most exclusive addresses in Westmount.

The reason is an 11 storey apartment building rapidly nearing completion there. Designed by local architect Ian Martin, the new building incorporates all the exciting features of the ultra modern school of architecture while avoiding the harsher aspects.

Set in the heart of Westmount's green belt the building has already altered the local skyline, but in a way that old time residents find pleasing. Despite picketing by illegal strikers and union goons the building is rapidly nearing completion and will be ready soon. Exclusive rental agents are The Royal Trust Co. sales department, 105 St. James street west.

Described as Canada's foremost apartment building it affords from the roof a breathtaking view of the island of Montreal with the dramatic eminence of Mount Royal on one side, and the broad lazy sweep of the St. Lawrence river on the other.

Among the many revolutionary features of the new building are beautifully landscaped private gardens and garden terraces. Automatic selective collective passenger elevators render even the highest apartments as accessible as ground floor apartments and eliminate tiresome waiting. There are also private service elevators.

If tenants so desire they can have individual controlled air conditioning units installed. The kitchens equipped with the most up to date equipment are a housewife's dream of the future with separate service doors and deluxe equipment including automatic recessed dishwashers and twin sinks.

All bathrooms are tiled to the ceilings and are equipped with modern plumbing fixtures.

All corridors are carpeted and each apartment has its own private terrace offering superb views. There are also rooftop terraces. Large walk in wardrobes are a special feature in each apartment which are also wired for TV including colored and frequency modulation radio.

An internal intercommunication system ensures rapid and efficient service from the buildings maintenance staff. A special mail and parcel receiving room facilitates delivery to dwellers. As a final inducement the planners have ensured adequate parking space and garages for residents plus a doorman and car attendant service.

co-operated to make her feel at home as the Queen of Canada.

She has made remarkable elocutionary progress since her last visit. Her French was letter perfect and without a trace of accent. It was I am sure a pleasant surprise to those whose mother tongue is the beautiful language brought to this country by its first settlers.

She and her husband were undoubtedly moved by the sincere tributes paid, to the Sovereign by the statesmen and leaders she met.

Through stress and storm the British people have been staunch in their adherence to the Crown. To them it has always been symbol of national solidarity. In two world wars the men of Britain and the several commonwealths gladly made the supreme sacrifice for King and country. The gratitude of their fellow citizens is shown in the monuments erected to their memories one of the most beautiful standing in the City of Westmount's chief thoroughfare.

During the present century what were at one time mighty thrones have toppled. The Romanoffs, the Hohenzollens and the Hapsburgs are a mere memory. Even Italy dethroned the ancient house that once ruled its ancient people.

The Royal family of Britain were held in affection and esteem during its darkest and most dangerous days. Its members demonstrated a courage and fortitude that inspired the King's subjects—and all the more determined to resist the attempts to defeat the "little nation that has a glorious history."

The silken thread that binds Canada to the little island in the North Sea has the strength of tempered steel.

Her Majesty stood the strain of the numerous engagements she filled with a poise and patience that brought out her finest qualities.

She has followed the pattern of her predecessors in dignity, grace and those virtues that we regard as royal.

It was a happy thought on the part of those who extended the invitation to preside at the opening of the new Parliament. Though there was a change of Cabinet personnel the Prime Minister and his colleagues acted in a manner creditable to themselves and the Canadian people. The Speech from the Throne that she read gave hope of better days to come for the hundreds and thousands who will benefit from the legislation proposed. It was somewhat of a Queen's gift and will long be remembered.

Her Majesty's visit and that of the Duke of Edinburgh has made history and future generations will read of it with pleasure and pride. It was an auspicious beginning for the new government.

Queen Elizabeth and her gallant husband are now Royal members of the nation to which that each paid pleasing tribute.

A full education

By

The Venerable
R. Kenneth Naylor, D.D.,
Rector, Trinity Memorial Church

A very interesting lecture fell into my hands last week. It was delivered by Professor Basil A. Fletcher as an inaugural lecture in new University College of Rhodesia and Nyasaland. The title of the lecture is "The Educated Man". It is a very suitable title for a lecture delivered at the very initiation of higher education in a very new federation of colored and white people, trying to build a new nation on mutual respect.

Professor Fletcher leaves no doubt about what education involves: "Literature, science, art, politics and philosophy are specifically human activities, and a man can only be called educated when his mind moves with some facility in all five worlds."

"These are pre-eminently the studies to which a university hopes to introduce its undergraduates, and it will be a pity if any undergraduate of this University, however specialized or utilitarian his study, left its halls without having his mind quickened in all five directions." I apologize to the Oxford University Press for quoting one of its publications without permission, but I was anxious to use these two sentences while the Teachers' Convention has left our mentary form of those five controlling ideas is the basis of any school curriculum.

So the Professor sets out what each of those subjects contributes to the curriculum, and so to the education of the next generation of citizens. As one reads that list of subjects, one wonders if religion is to be left out entirely. It is not. Each of these subjects leads up to an awareness of something that is not included in the formal curriculum, but which rather includes the curriculum and gives unity to it. Scientific truth "can lead a man to see that a world of value exists outside of the mind that experiences it." The order of the universe points "to some entity interlocking its constituents into a unitary whole," and so to a mind which, "unlike ours, is neither limited or mortal." So at this point the teacher and the pupil go beyond the school room and the curriculum and come to the College Chapel or the School Assembly Hall and so to worship.

That is the ideal of our pro-

Montreal Children's Hospital rate of attendance increases

Visits made to the new out-patients' clinics at The Montreal Children's Hospital this year are expected to total nearly 85,000.

During the past four years the total number of visits has averaged 65,000 annually; but the rate is continually increasing, it is announced in the current edition of the Joint Hospital Fund Committee publication, "The Leader." The average daily attendance is now 205 children.

In fact, "The Leader" says, moving the child to another part of the hospital. Routine tests are carried out in a special clinical laboratory close at hand.

In the surgical area, two minor operating rooms and a plaster room are completely equipped and ready for the next patient at all times. In the out-patient operating area, there are eight beds with piped-in oxygen and suction ready to help the patients' recovery from anaesthesia.

An emergency service is maintained as well and is available 24 hours a day.

Although the public clinics are used for needy children, the hospital receives no governmental assistance toward the cost of their treatment.

Until such time as increased governmental support is available to cover this cost, it must be included in objectives for fund-raising campaigns organized by the Joint Hospital Fund Committee.

Here is how the new system operates: On arrival at the clinic, the child has his weight and temperature recorded by a nurse. In the 20 private examination rooms available, each doctor has his equipment ready for use. By using mobile equipment, even major treatment can be given in these rooms without

Broncs retain first place over Mules

BRONCS won two games over Thanksgiving weekend to retain their hold on first place in the Westmount Park Recreation Tackle Football league at Westmount Grounds.

The league leaders beat the Bulls 26-18 and the Huskies 24-6. Second place Mules split in their two games. They beat Huskies 30-7 but lost to the third place Bulls 6-0.

Broncs have a 5-1 record and Mules 4-2. Bulls have four points and Huskies one win for two points. Two games are slated for Saturday morning.

On Saturday, Broncs defeated Bulls 26-18. Doug Fisher opened up the scoring by taking a side line pass and running 15 yards for the touchdown. Tony McCullagh converted.

In the second quarter, George Spare went over from 1 yard out and scored again on an interception after running 75 yards to cross the goal line. Tony McCullagh again converted. The score at half time was 20-0 in favor of the Broncs.

THREE TD'S

The third quarter opened up with Tony McCullagh going 55 yards on a pass and run effort to jump the score to 26 points. At this point, the Bulls took over and charged all over the Broncs to score three consecutive touchdowns by Gordie Cole, Hal Sherback and Cole again.

The Bulls played an outstanding last half of the Ball game, could not overcome the Broncs big lead piled up in the first half. Gil Gagne of the Bulls played outstanding football on defence.

In the second game, the Mules downed the fighting Huskies. Constant Nucci opened up the scoring for Huskies on a 75 yard pass and run play. Dave Tyldsley threw a beautiful pass to Nucci who outran the field. Claude Servant kicked the convert.

In the second period, the Mules came back strong with a TD by Tony Tyrrell from one yard out, and a Thriller by Bernie Kelly who went 80 yards through centre.

Kelly again went over from 17 yards out by charging up the gut.

In the fourth quarter, Mules connected for two more TD's, both by the galloping Tony Tyrrell. The outstanding defensive player in the game was Bert Wingfield. The game ended 30-7 for the Mules.

BULLS UPSET

On Monday, the Broncs hurdled into the League lead by downing the Huskies 24-6.

In the opening quarter, George Spare and Tony McCullagh each went 10 and 65 yards respectively for majors. Spare went around end and McCullagh went over on a pass and run combination.

In the third period, Spare made a 55 yard run around end for his second TD of the game. Huskies retaliated with a keeper play by Tyldsley from one yard out.

The fourth quarter was a see-saw battle, the only scoring coming from a ten yard run around and by Tony McCullagh. For the Broncs, Tim Rothwell, George Jansen and Bobby Willis were strong defensively.

In the second game, the Bulls pulled the surprise of the season by knocking off the Mules 6-0. The only score of the game came in the second quarter when Hal Sherback struck over centre from 3 yards out.

This game was highlighted by the fine defensive game played by the Bulls, with boys like Gil Gagne, Gordie Cole, and Dave Summerton doing the lion's share of the work.

Barbarians are atop of league

Montreal Barbarians maintained their three-point bulge atop the Quebec Rugger league standing by walloping the Town of Mount Royal 23-5 Saturday.

In other games Montreal Irish nipped the Wanderers 11-9 and Ottawa beat McGill 13-5.

In Thanksgiving Day action the red-hot Westmount crew kept up their winning ways by defeating the Irish 15-3 at Longueuil.

After the Town had opened the scoring with a try by Wurtter converted by Ruxton, the Barbs untracked themselves and went on the rampage.

Touchdowns were counted by Denis Gustard and Martin Wallace two each and Fred Foster and Gordie Burnett, one apiece. Ed Kelleher kicked a penalty goal and Eric McKilloon booted a convert.

In a kickers' battle Irish edged Wanderers. The only touchdown of the game for the Irish by Fitzsimmons turned out to be the margin of victory.

For the Erin boys other points were scored on penalty goals by Gerry Pitcher and John Kerin who also notched a convert.

Wanderers' Tony Lee kicked two penalty goals and Chappell dropped a three point drop goal.

THREE REGULAR CENTERS

Toronto Maple Leafs started the 1957-58 season minus their three regular centers. The three pivotmen, Billy Harris, Frank Mahovich and Brian Cullen were all sidelined with the flu.

Minor hockey clinic slated yearly affair

Minor hockey officials said that the clinic operated through cooperation of the city parks department, Quebec Amateur Hockey Association (minor division) and the Montreal Forum was so successful that it is planned to make it an annual event.

They reported that 300 officials of minor hockey teams in the Montreal region attended the theoretical session at D'Arcy McGee High School and 500 were out for the practical session at the Forum.

At the "classroom" session Toe Blake, Maurice Richard, Doug Harvey and Floyd Curry were on hand to answer all questions and give practical advice on various aspects of play.

In the "laboratory" session at the Forum, the Royals illustrated all the tactics of hockey with Jacques Béanger giving a running explanation on the loud-speaker.

Organizers of the school voiced their appreciation to the Canadiens players and coach, the Royals, Frank Carlin and Frank Selke, general manager of the Forum.

Westies in 1st senior 'B' win

Westmount scored its initial victory of the High Schools Senior B football season by defeating Monklands 18-6.

Westmount lost its season's opener to Mt. Royal while Monklands beat John Rennie.

Matsubuchie, Brown and Robinson rambled over for the Westmount touchdowns with Williams notching Monklands' lone major.

Following a scoreless first quarter, Westmount picked up one TD in each of the three remaining stanzas. Matsubuchie scored in the second quarter, Brown in the third and Robinson in the fourth.

Williams hit paydirt on a pass from Maddocks in the final quarter.

Cats drill for Oct. 27 opener

IT'S the same old story in the QRFU senior section this season as it has been in the past. It will be Lakeshore Flyers and Verdun Sham-Cats who'll battle for the section title, won by Flyers for the past five years.

And all those years it has been the Verdun club with different names, such as the Bulldogs who have been on the losing end of the stick.

The schedules wind up next week-end with two games, but one will have a bearing on the standing. Verdun and Lakeshore are tied for first place with 18 points each.

Orfuns will be seeking their first win in 10 starts when they meet Sherbrooke while Flyers and Three Rivers Braves will tangle in the other game. Both clashes are four pointers.

Braves have 13 points and a win for them will give them 17 points, one from first place Flyers and Verdun. If the Braves-Flyers goes the other way, then Flyers will have sole possession of first place.

Jimmy Tsonos's Cats rest until the playoffs open Oct. 27 with the second game Nov. 3. First place team has the choice of playing away or home in the total points series. In the case of a tie it will depend on wins or points scored for.

In closing off their schedule Verdun Cats came up with a one-sided 37-1 win over Sherbrooke and Flyers beat Orfuns for their ninth defeat of the season 26-2. This was the cinch for Flyers for a playoff position.

With Flyers in Three Rivers on Sunday the game will mean nothing except to maybe Max Black who could win the scoring title, there is the chance that Flyers may come out of that game with injuries, something they can't afford since they enter the playoff one week later.

Tsonos will drill his Cats regularly during the waiting period for the playoffs to start and should have his players in top shape and their fans hope, up for the title series.
