PRICE: TWO CENTS

750 Guests At Annual RMR Event

"At Home" and Regimental Dance at Armoury Saturday Was Colourful Affair

The annual "At Home" and regimental dance of the Royal Montreal Regiment, held Saturday evening at the St. Catherine street armoury, was a colourful and pleasing affair. The event was organized by the ladies' committee of the regiment, for the men. The grand parade provided a fine spectacle, and varied music and many original dance numbers were among the many attractions of the evening.

The armoury was effectively decorated with flags and bunting in the regimental colours of red and white, relieved frequently with evergreens. The blue and scarlet uniforms and the multi-coloured dresses of the ladies made the usually austere building a riot of colour.

A series of counter-marches, performed by the regimental drums and bugles under the direction of Major Watkins, were well received by the 750 guests of the evening.

Besides the music supplied by the "Knights of Knute" orchestra under Blake Sewell, the regimental band, under the direction of Lieut. T. E. Jackson, provided a number of dance numbers.

The ladies' committee, of which Mrs. W. Bonnar is the president, were: Mrs. W. P. Oram, Mrs. R. Hood, Mrs. E. Walton, Mrs. W. Baxter, Mrs. H. Whiteman, Mrs. H. Love and Mrs. A. W. D. Swan. The Commanding Officer, Lieut. Col. J. E. Slessor, D.E.O., who was accompanied by Miss Hamilton, took a prominent part in the evening's fun, and among others present were Colonel and Mrs. C. B. Price, Lieut.-Col. and Mrs. G. V. Whitehead, Lieut.-Col. and Mrs. R. H. Hood, Major and Mrs. J. H. Richardson, Major and Mrs. H. G. Brewer, Major and Mrs. E. Walton, Major and Mrs. W. Bonnar and Major J. H. McBride.

Brotherhood Hears Rev. A. Wilkinson

Rev. A. Wilkinson, of the United Theological College, will be the special guest speaker at the regular weekly meeting of the Calvary Men's Own Brotherhood, to be held Sunday afternoon at Calvary Church at three o'clock.

Musical selections, in the form of duets, will be rendered by Mrs. L. Jones and Mrs. Matthews of the Calvin-Westminster church choir. Professor John Hughes, of McGill, was the speaker at last Sunday's meeting of the Brotherhood, and he spoke on "Lifelong Education." Prof. Hughes outlined the aims and objects of the Workers' Educational Association of Canada. Stressing the need of continued learning and enlightenment, the speaker referred to his connection with the association in Great Britain, and latterly in Canada. Intimation was given that should a group be formed in the vicinity of Westmount, an ideal meeting place has already been offered.

Motorcycle Policeman Attacked 'Tis No Lie--Just Honest Fact

When a motorcycle runs over a dog--that's not news--unless, of course, it happens to be Mrs. Van de Snooty's pet poodle and the motorcycle belongs to the butcher's delivery boy. But, when a dog attempts to run over a motorcycle, and the motorcycle is ridden by a Westmount policeman, that's news that makes even the society editor sit up and forget to powder her nose.

Sunday afternoon, at precisely 3.05 p.m., Officer Harold Rowe of the local force, was proceeding (according to the police accident record) on a department motorcycle on Lansdowne avenue, heading northward. Officer Rowe was doubtless keeping his weather eye peeled for careless motorists, drivers with only one light burning--oh, pardon us, it was daylight--drivers with only one hand on the wheel, etc. In fact, Officer Rowe was diligently hunting for almost anything except what suddenly turned up.

On the east sidewalk, it was learned on good authority, a lady accompanied by an unleashed dog, or vice versa, was sauntering

Support For League Of Nations Urged By Secretary On Sunday

Support from every Canadian citizen for the League of Nations in its efforts to avert war was urged Sunday evening in Dominion Douglas Church by James A. Gibson, secretary, Montreal Branch of the League of Nations Society. Canada, ranking high among the nations of the world in trade and commerce, has a vital interest in the peace problem, contended Mr. Gibson.

Sunday was the eighteenth anniversary of the first meeting of the League, Mr. Gibson reminded his hearers. Despite its being launched amidst strife and confusion, the League had grown in prestige and power, and although it had not always reached as high as it had aimed, it had done untold good in the world, he said.

Canada, as an original signatory of the League covenant, had derived much benefit from League membership, especially in the

Loiterers And Thieves Sentenced

Offenders Promptly Picked Up By Local Force--Appeared Before Recorder Hale Wednesday

Three young men, Eric Hurst, 26, 1039 Greene avenue; Donald Robertson, 19, 763 Walker avenue; and Angus Muchan, 19, 792 Atwater avenue, found Wednesday morning before Recorder Hale that their liberal application of the "Help Yourself" policy in Westmount is not a paying proposition. They were arrested on Tuesday and Wednesday of last week by Captain Broden and Constable Belce, of the local force, and lodged on charges of stealing overcoats, shoes, scarves and money from the local Athletic Grounds, on Monday, January 4th.

Recorder Hale sentenced Hurst, alias Michael O'Day, to a month, while Robertson and Muchan got time in jail. Captain Jones and Constable Lauzon ran into William Leclaire, no given address, which was a bad thing for Leclaire. An old offender, with a lengthy police record, he was charged with loitering on Dorchester street, and was sentenced Wednesday morning before Recorder Hale to thirty days in jail.

Paul Desblos, who gave his address as 944 St. Lawrence Boulevard, and Frederick Beausigle, alias Fred Lebeuf, were picked up by Detective Tremblay and Constable Hovenden, and brought before Recorder Hale Wednesday morning on loitering charges. They were fined $10 and costs, which amounted to $5.00, and fifteen days in jail.

STAMP AUCTION TONIGHT
The Westmount Stamp Club is still holding regular weekly meetings in the clubhouse of the Westmount Athletic Grounds. On Friday evenings at 7.30, all persons interested in stamps are cordially invited to attend. The feature tonight will be a stamp auction.

Pastor Was Speaker At Y. P. Meeting

Rev. J. D. McCrae Addressed Calvary Young People's Group On Monday Evening

Strenuous opposition to mixed marriages was voiced here Monday night by Rev. J. D. McCrae, of St. Lambert, in addressing the young people's club of Calvary Church. He urged Protestant youth to strive to "cultivate" those relationships looking to marriage only within their own faith, because of the inherent differences between Catholic and Protestant backgrounds, and the vital need for common interests and tolerance beyond everything. The speaker submitted that not the least of the evils attending the Great War and later arising out of the depression, were the factors which have operated to deter the young man from assuming normal responsibilities. Marriage, he went on, is the natural state in which humans should live, to which they bend early in life. Stressing the restlessness of the day, and the tendency to "diffuse individual interests" in wasteful ways, he advised his listeners to consider even "a humble start," and not put off marriage any longer than was absolutely necessary economically.

As the essentials of a happy married state, he placed first importance upon common interests, particularly in religion; tolerance, "considerateness," and a "constant delight in taking pains about one's self," in appearance, manners and all relationships.

HOLD DANCE FRIDAY
The Girls' Branch of the W.A. of St. Matthias' Church is giving an informal dance in the Parish Hall, 12 Church Hill, on Friday, January 22nd.
Blake Sewell and his "Knights of Knute" will supply the music, and dancing will be from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. For information call Miss Kingsland at WE. 3177 or EL. 9538.

Temple Emmanu-El Brotherhood Heard Father W. X. Bryan, Speak

Father W. X. Bryan, S.J., of Loyola College, was the guest speaker Wednesday night at a meeting of the Temple Emmanu-El Brotherhood. "Ways towards a Better Understanding" was his subject.

Harmony must be secured between divergent bodies of people, declared Father Bryan. This harmony is not necessarily to be attained by public debate, nor by controversy, and still less by attempts towards a mass understanding; rather, he said, it must be done by responsible leaders willing to see the "other fellow's view," and sufficiently honest to present it to opposing groups without misrepresentation or bias. Leadership, he maintained, under present conditions was rather a "heavy wine" demanding more than ever "hard work, self-control and intellectual honesty."

Father Bryan confessed that in view of present conditions, he did not see how a "complete" understanding was possible between Englishman and Frenchman, Jew and Gentile, native-born and foreigners. However, he stressed the word "better," and suggested three ways in which the goal of concord between warring factions might be more nearly approached.

First, there must be a sincere desire to understand the other fellow's viewpoint; second, there must be an earnest attempt to shed prejudices. Under this heading, the priest recounted some humorous stories of religious prejudices. Lastly, contended Father Bryan, and most important of all, was the need for intellectual honesty, the cult of truth for truth's sake.

W. Buckley Addressed Hi-Y Boys

Former Boys' Secretary Outlined "Ten Commandments" For Members On Monday

Monday night W. A. Buckley, former Boys' Secretary at the Westmount "Y," returned to the local branch to speak to the Hi-Y Grads at their weekly supper-meeting. As most of the Grads had been members of the "Y" when Mr. Buckley was Secretary, they knew him well and thoroughly enjoyed the informal talk which he gave them.

He spent a few minutes reminiscing about the beginning of the club, in which he, by the way, was instrumental, and then developed Ten Commandments for the Hi-Y. They are as follows:--

1. Thou shalt be present--Attendance is the pulse by which one's interest may be judged.
2. Thou shalt be punctual.
3. Thou shalt be patient--See other's point of view.
4. Thou shalt be pleasant--A smile a minute is the fastest way to make any journey.
5. Thou shalt be progressive--The development of new ideas should be consistent.
6. Thou shalt be positive--Men of authority are always respected.
7. Thou shalt be prepared.
8. Thou shalt produce--Every young man should be prepared to take part in the club affairs.
9. Thou shalt be peppy--Enthusiasm is to be successful.
10. Thou shalt be practical--One should advance practical ideas.

President Parker Chesney was in the chair and among those present were: J. Holmsted, J. Tennam, F. Jennings, E. Hodgson, W. F. Hughes, J. A. McNiven, J. W. Crowley, A. B. Tester, J. Natuek, Wm. Lang, A. Wilkinson, P. Wilson, R. P. Brodie, G. Trower, J. B. Wells, F. B. Wilson, E. I. Taylor.

Mrs. T. S. Simpson Buried Yesterday

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon from the Jos. C. Wray and Brother Chapel on Mountain street for Mrs. Thomas Spear Simpson, 34 Winchester avenue, one of the oldest members of the American Women's Club of Montreal, whose death occurred in the private patients' pavilion of the Montreal General Hospital on Wednesday. She was 56 years of age.

A native of Newton, N.J., she had lived in Montreal for fifty years. She worshipped at Trinity Memorial Church and was active in church work. She also belonged to the Kanawaki Golf Club.

She is survived by her husband, who is well known in the tea and coffee business; a son, Howard Spear Simpson; her mother, Mrs. George R. Wilkinson; a brother, Dr. F. L. Wilkinson; and a sister, Mrs. Herbert Loye, all of Montreal.

Interment was made in Mount Royal cemetery.

Local C.C.F. Club Held Study Group Meeting

Members of the Westmount C. C. F. Club held their regular meeting Wednesday evening at 127 Abbott avenue, and a round-table discussion of the C. C. F. programme was the evening's feature.

Chief speaker was W. A. Walsh, president of the club, who traced the history of industry back from the days of the medieval guilds to the present monopolistic system. He then described the C. C. F. programme in detail.

The local group is holding a series of study groups, of which Wednesday's meeting was one.

Annual Harbinger Of Spring Not Yet Seen Upon The Wing

Oh where's the little butterfly that someone finds each year, to tell us winter's over and that spring will soon be here? Is it flitting round the mountain, is it flying in the park, for Spring harbingers' honours is it vying with the lark?

Westmount always rings the gong for being first to find this little creature telling us that spring is in the wind. About the Westmount mountain top it frequently appears, dodging amidst the snowflakes with its little tale that cheers; nor wintry winds nor snow and ice its passage do impede, nor to their chilly atmosphere the butterfly gives heed.

Of course, we haven't seen him yet, perhaps he hasn't sprouted, perhaps in winter's icy face, his wings he hasn't flouted. But when we take a look around and see green grass about us, we're sure the little creature will not take to flight without us. We're waiting by the telephone, in case someone should see him, we search through all the parks and woods in hopes that we may tree him. It seems that old King Winter didn't wait for him this year, but has already hid himself to his cold northlands drear; we don't know what to call it, when a sea son intervenes, between the end of winter and the first of spring it seems. It really has us worried, and it has us in a fix; for once we're stuck just how our words, in proper ways to mix. That's why we seek the butterfly, to settle 'bout the season, why we always have a reason. So we'd like co-operation from good Westmount folk galore, and if they see the butterfly, perhaps right by their door, will they call and let us know it, for we're sure they wouldn't mind, and if the butterfly appears, can Spring be far behind?

Hold No Election Monday

W. B. Scott, K.C., and C. Kirkland McLeod, Unopposed On Nomination Day

TWO RETIRE

Col. C. B. Price and Maj. J. Colin Kemp Leave Council After Next Meeting

Mayor John Jenkins and three aldermen, Douglas Lorimer, George S. Currie and B. Panet Raymond, were returned to the Westmount City Council Monday for another two year term, and W. B. Scott, K.C., and C. Kirkland McLeod, were acclaimed to Council to fill the vacancies created by the retirement of Col. C. B. Price and Maj. J. Colin Kemp.

Westmount was the first of Montreal's island municipalities to hold its civic election in 1937, elections which, however, never came to pass, as none of the candidates was opposed. The expected acclamations became a fact Monday afternoon at two o'clock, when the time for receiving nomination papers at the City Hall closed, and papers in favour of only the six candidates were filed.

No election will thus be necessary. Election day had been set for Monday, January 18th in the event of possible opposition; but once again Westmount's election machinery will remain idle. An election has not been opposed here since 1931.

Swearing-in of the new Council members will take place at the first meeting in February. A. D. Thornton was re-elected--also by acclamation--as trustee of the Westmount Public Library.

Arthur P. Bell, secretary-treasurer of the city acted as returning officer, with C. W. Houston, assistant secretary-treasurer, as election clerk.

Council will not meet on Tuesday, the next meeting to be held January 26th.

LITTLE FORUM OFF THE AIR

Many of our readers will, we know, regret the discontinuation of the Little Forum radio hour, conducted for many years by T. H. Carverth of this district. It has indeed been said that the Little Forum was the oldest radio program on this continent. Considering the type of program presented, and the difficulty of getting really good speakers week in and week out, a fairly high standard was maintained on which Mr. Carverth is to be congratulated.

THE LATE BROTHER ANDRE'S WORK

The late Brother André, mourned by thousands of all religious faiths scattered throughout the world, was one of the most remarkable of men. It was not until he was well along in years, however, that his name became famous. For forty years he served as porter, door-keeper, and did other humble tasks at the Cote des Neiges College. But his daily tasks were performed with great patience and faithfulness, and this, together with his inborn kindness, good nature, and human understanding made him beloved of the pupils and they spread his name afar. At first a few people came to the college to seek solace for their mental and physical worries from the good man. As these found benefit, more came, and still more, until, after a few years, the afflicted and the distressed came in hundreds and in thousands. Many cures were recorded, and the fame of the good brother became so great that the crowd of visitors to the college became a problem on the hands of the authorities. Some of the church leaders attempted to stop the good work, but so great was the popular protest that it decided to let those who wished to do so, see Brother André after school hours. This served only to accentuate the problem, but many requests were made and refused before the good man finally was given permission to build a small chapel. This little chapel was opened November 19, 1904. News of Brother André's deeds spread still further, and a continuous stream of pilgrims besieged him. Several additions to the chapel were made, and finally, in 1910, His Grace the Archbishop of Montreal, Paul Bruchési, granted the right to hold divine service in his chapel, and in the same year His Holiness Pope Pius X granted his benediction to the shrine. The Archbishop of Montreal, blessing a further extension to the oratory, said, in part: "The work has but begun. I foresee in the not distant future, a Church, a Basilica built in honour of Saint Joseph on this beautiful spot on Mount Royal. Shall I say that miracles are wrought here? . . . I need make no investigations. I am convinced that extraordinary occurrences have taken place here; corporal cures, perhaps, although it is quite easy to suffer illusion in such cases, and spiritual cures still greater have been wrought here. . . . Today, as predicted by the Archbishop, a Basilica has been erected — a monument to the patience, generosity, kindness, faithfulness, wisdom, and piety of a humble porter.

SOME UNHEALTHY "ISMS"

Speaking the other night to members of the St. James Young Liberal Association, Hon. Fernand Rinfret, Secretary of State, took occasion to sound a warning against several "isms" of an unhealthy character — communism, fascism, nationalism and separatism. Mr. Rinfret took particular care to point out the dangers from the spirit of nationalism and separatism now in the ascendancy in Quebec. "The brand of politics now being preached in the Province of Quebec," he said, "is very similar in spirit to the politics preached by the Quebec Nationalists in 1911. We cannot, we must not, preach that it is best that each keep to his own small corner, separate from the remainder of the country. We must preach a broad program of Liberalism preached by Laurier — a political faith in Canadian unity, liberty, autonomy, and progress as a country in the British Empire." All Canadians, particularly those who know what the Empire tie means, will heartily applaud the sentiments expressed by Mr. Rinfret.

NATIONAL DEFENCE A DUTY

Montreal movie theatres this week carried news reels presenting Hon. Ian Mackenzie, Minister of National Defence, delivering a short talk on the subject of increased Canadian armaments and an appreciation of the loyalty and co-operation of the men and officers of the Canadian military and naval forces. The scene is effective and reminds us that we are at last waking up to our responsibility as a member nation of the British Commonwealth. Mr. Mackenzie is no imperialist; in fact it is only a few months since he rebuked Lord Elibank as a "perpetrating imperialist"; but he has nevertheless a keen sense of our responsibilities not only to ourselves, but to the Empire, and his demand for a much increased appropriation, to be presented at the present session of parliament, will, we are sure, be accepted in a patriotic spirit by the Canadian people, and will be appreciated in the motherland.

EXAMINER FORUM

In Which Subjects of General Interest are Discussed

NOTE:—The opinions expressed in these columns are not necessarily those of The Examiner, and this newspaper does not accept responsibility for them. They are published for their general interest, variety and originality of treatment.

By HOWARD S. ROSS, K.C., D.C.L.

Honorable William C. Bullitt former United States Ambassador to Russia, now envoy to Paris said recently: "In foreign countries it is frequently asserted that the only men who can succeed in political life in a democratic country are those sufficiently stupid to perceive the truth only one day before the public perceive it, or who are intelligent enough to perceive the truth months before the public perceive it, and are sufficiently cynical to keep their mouths shut till the public are ready to agree with them."

"Fatigue is the red light which shows that more effort is being expended than the organism can stand."—G. H. Miles, M.D., well-known English physician.

Antioch College in Yellow Springs, Ohio, recently held a Conference commemorating the centennial of Horace Mann's entrance into the field of education. The topic for discussion was "The Function of Education in a Democracy." A bronze statue of the great educator was unveiled and dedicated. A pageant depicting the life of Mann was presented by the Antioch Players.

When Mann at the age of forty-one left a lucrative law practice to become Secretary to the Massachusetts State Board of Education he made educational history. He was among the first to realize the importance of the public school to any nation that professes democracy. He introduced many specific and tangible reforms, but his greatest contribution to the cause of education as a whole was his conviction of its tremendous significance. He believed education was the prime tool toward realizing that "accelerating improbability of the race."

As president of Antioch College (1853 to 1859) he founded an institution which no amount of financial adversity has been able to eradicate. He was less an originator than a synthesizer. He gathered into a unified whole the many "advanced ideas" of his day. He believed in the full equality of the sexes educationally (Antioch College had several women professors who had full rank with men); he believed in equal educational opportunities for all races; introduced the then new and little-tried elective system of studies; granted the students a fuller measure of responsibility for their conduct; emphasized and encouraged physical health and physical exercise, and introduced hygiene into the curriculum; denounced the spirit of competition (or, in his words, "emulation") as an incentive to study; and deprecated religious sectarianism although insisting on an irreproachable moral life as a requirement for graduation. No man or woman, he felt, was truly educated unless cultivated in character as well as in mind. Otherwise the sharpening of the intellectual powers of the individual might be more a curse than a blessing to society. His last public words spoken at the last of his life were: "I am ashamed."

Where two countries are competing in international trade, a depreciating currency (falling faster in the foreign exchanges than in domestic buying power) will enable one country to undersell another, and furthermore, that this influence will gradually permeate all trade, eventually unsettling all relations. It is the most demoralizing of all phases of competition. Competition in economics of production or distribution, to improve the quality or reduce the costs, is an incident of both industrial and social progress, and hence constructive, but currency depreciation as a method of competition is essentially destructive. The parties can retaliate until the currencies are worthless, and so many and such bitter antagonisms are aroused that the very foundations of social order are threatened.—From Bulletin of National City Bank of N.Y.

Physicians know how to talk to an acutely sick person. Lugubrious anecdotes all too frequently contribute to an unfavorable outcome.—Dr. George B. Lake.

EUROPEAN INFERNO

BY

Henry Babbage

"European Inferno" is the title of a series of articles dealing with conditions on the Continent, and written for this paper by Mr. Babbage, a Melville Avenue resident. The articles are published for their timeliness and general interest; opinions expressed herein are not necessarily those of this paper, and no responsibility will be accepted for them.

At a meeting of the council of the British University Unionist and Conservative Associations held in Glasgow early this month a motion advocating military conscription in the event of Britain becoming involved in a European war was decisively defeated. In view of the many rumours circulating to the effect that the Baldwin Government may adopt drastic measures to bring the British Army up to the strength of continental nations such as Germany this decision of British students is of the utmost significance. It seems certain that individual liberty in England will not be sacrificed on the altar of military preparedness and national glorification without a stern fight.

A correspondent writing from an industrial city in northern England denies that conscription is necessary in the United Kingdom and in explanation says, "People talk about Hitler and Mussolini and what they are going to do, but should the time ever come when Britain must fight for her freedom and her empire all fears and doubts will be cast to the seven winds and courageous unity alone will remain in this island kingdom. Until that time comes let England re-arm and be content to follow Asquith's advice to wait and see."

Summing up the attitude of the average towards the extreme doctrines of Fascism and Communism a Londoner has this to say, "I am in constant contact with foreigners and can sympathize with their problems but I cannot profess to be favourable to either side, being more of a referee by nature than a participant in these sordid and unnatural differences between nations." It is interesting to note that the words of the English philosopher Thomas Hobbes, who lived three centuries ago, still holds good today. "They live in the condition of a perpetual war, and upon the confines of a battle, with their frontiers armed and cannons planted against their neighbours round about." He was speaking of Europe!

The novel's title is "They Call It Peace." Probably the words came from the saying, "They made a desert and they called it peace."

The circulation of American newspapers in Great Britain has been showing phenomenal increases during the past year.

STORIES IN STAMPS

By I. S. Klein

AMERICA'S FORGOTTEN HERO

FIVE men-of-war, the first naval fleet of the United States, were cruising the coasts of Ireland and Scotland, late in 1779, under command of John Paul Jones. Near Hull, Jones sighted 40 merchantmen convoyed by two British warships. Giving chase, Jones, in the "Bon Homme Richard," drew up alongside the fleeing "Serapis" and opened fire. Across the gunwales the men fought in hand-to-hand combat, until the "Serapis" surrendered. It was the first great naval victory in U. S. history.

Jones, Scotch-born adventurer, entered the Russian navy, after the American revolution, served five years, and died in Paris in 1792, aged 45. His grave, and even his cemetery were forgotten, until they were discovered in 1905 and his body was returned for burial in Annapolis. His portrait appears alongside that of John Barry, on the new one-cent navy stamp.

Westmount Baptist Church Notes

On Sunday morning Rev. J. A. Johnston will have as his sermon theme: "Which Thing I Hate." We have long enough indulged the notion that Christianity implies easy tolerance of things that are wrong. Are we quite sure that the thing we call love excludes hatred? Is there such a thing as healthy moral hatred? Is there any sense in which a Christian must be an inveterate hater? Who were and are the Nicolaitanes whose pernicious teaching Christ hates?

In the evening Mr. Johnston will give the second address in the series entitled: "On the Trail of the Christian Martyrs." The sermon is entitled: "When Nero Wore the Purple." There will be the unfolding of the almost incredible story of what Christian men and women suffered and are suffering for the sake of the Name. These messages constitute

Round The World Hikers To Tell Adventures Here

Toll Brothers Travelled Thirty Thousand Miles On Seventy-five Dollars — "Thumbed" Way Round World—Visited Twenty-seven Countries—Show Many Pictures

Relating their thrilling and interesting experiences as they "hitch-hiked their way round the world" the Toll Brothers, Ellsworth and LeRoy, will present a travelogue on Tuesday night at Dominion Douglas Church; on Thursday at Westmount Park United, and on Friday at Calvary.

This remarkable travelogue is literally 'taking the country by storm', and the 30,000 mile trip of the two lads is one of the most interesting presented in this manner to date. They visited twenty-seven countries, took a year to make the journey and their transportation bill was just $75.00.

A story of youth and adventure, the travelogue illustrations depict scenes of beauty and amazement, scenes of life and people in the countries visited.

From Canada the speaker takes his listeners by cattle-boat across the Atlantic, then on a 'bi-cycle-built-for-two' through England, Scotland, Ireland, Wales, Belgium, Germany, Luxembourg and France, tenting and cooking their own meals as they go.

But no mere outline can give any adequate conception of the fascination of the story. The audience is convulsed with laughter as the tale is told of how language lack made them cackle for eggs in Belgium and moo for milk in Italy. The spectators shiver with apprehension as details are told of a night spent in the pyramids. Gasps of amazement are heard as the mystic moonlight beauty of the Taj Mahal of India appears on the screen.

Ellsworth and LeRoy are the sons of Rev. S. L. Toll, former pastor of Earlscourt United Church, Toronto, now retired. LeRoy is an excellent long-distance swimmer, Ellsworth is a proficient boxer.

W. Wheatley Engineer, Is Dead Aged 74

Handled Locomotive on Train Bearing Duke of York and Royal Party Many Years Ago

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at the D. A. Collins Chapel for William Henry Wheatley, locomotive engineer, whose death occurred Sunday in his 75th year. Although latterly residing in Beaurepaire, Mr. Wheatley formerly resided in Westmount for fifteen years.

Mr. Wheatley, employed by the old Grand Trunk and then by the Canadian National Railways, had travelled over practically every line of the system in his time. When King George, as Duke of York, visited Canada about the beginning of the present century, Mr. Wheatley was chosen engineer for the train carrying the Royal party. He also was appointed engineer of trains carrying high state officials on various occasions.

Mr. Wheatley was a native of Norton Creek, P.Q. He lived at Point St. Charles for a number of years, following which he came to Westmount. Since 1827 he had lived at Beaurepaire. He had been in retirement for twelve years.

He is survived by his wife and a brother, Alexander, of Burlington, Ont.

Wm.S.Adams Saw Expert Dead At 67

Somerville Avenue Resident Had Travelled Extensively Since Retirement In 1930

Final rites for William S. Adams, 102 Somerville avenue, were held Wednesday evening in the William Wray Chapel, after which the remains were entombed at Windsor station for Henniker, N.H., where burial took place yesterday. His death took place in the Western division of the Montreal General Hospital in his 67th year after an illness of five months.

A native of New York, Mr. Adams was a master mechanic with Simonds Saw and Steel Company, Pittsburg, Mass., before coming to Canada in 1907 as superintendent of the Montreal plant. He retired from business in 1930, and had since travelled to some extent. During a trip last summer he was stricken with a heart ailment.

Mr. Adams was an active Mason, and belonged to Aurora Lodge, A.F. and A.M., and Mount Roulstone Lodge, I.O.O.F., No. 98, of Pittsburg, Mass., and to Richard Coeur de Lion Preceptory, No. 7, Montreal Chapter No. 7 and Karnak Temple of Montreal, A.A.O.N.M.S.

He is survived by his wife, the former Abi Frances Walker, and a sister, Mrs. Henry Webb, of Los Angeles.

MAINLY ABOUT RAILROADS

This week we indulge in rather a heavy "train" of thought, and shall tell, in not more than five million words, the story of the railways, from the days of link and pin to air conditioning and slots for used razor blades. All aboard? Szzt! Szzt! Choo! Choo! Choo-choo-choo, ad infinitum. We're off, children! (No funny remarks, either.)

Oh, mother, dear mother, who is that big man with the brass buttons on his vest and the dandruff in his moustache? Hush, dear, that's the conductor. Why is he taking the little pink papers from the passengers and punching them with the pinners? Hush, dear, he's collecting the fares. Oh mother, dear mother, is this the man I'm supposed to tell that I'm only five years of age? Yes, dear, I'm only five years of age, my daddy said to tell you. Oh he did, did he? And where is your daddy, my little man? Please sir, he's hiding under the seat, and he's not to call him until you had passed by. . . . Oh daddy, what are we getting off at this little country station for. . . .?

We hear a lot these days about the trouble with the railroads. The trouble is not so much with the railroads as it is with the bureaucratic red tape that won't let the railroads do a thing without government permission, while opposing forms of transport are permitted to do just about all they want whenever they wish. . . . But anyway, we'll discuss in a forthcoming column about kiddie-cars. But to get back to the railroads, their big trouble is that long haul, low rate freight hauls, while short-haul, high rate cargoes are not so easy to get. But in recent months the railroads have been making tracks towards better things. . . .

The first train in Canada travelled from Laprairie to St. Johns on July 1st, 1836, but you know all about that. The passengers, however, were not treated quite so well as they are nowadays when they take a choo-choo trip. The cinders, dust, dirt, and blow through the coaches, igniting the top hats of the gentlemen and the bustles of the ladies; dust flew in their eyes and mouths; and flies, mosquitoes, etc. reined in their faces as the "Dorchester" thundered on at the terrific velocity of twenty miles an hour. Today, one glides over the same route at about ninety M.P.H., and suffers no discomfort except the snore from the passenger in berth 5.

They tell the story of Cassidy, a grizzled engineer who was accustomed to jerking coal trains on a mine branch line. When promoted to passenger running, he proudly wheeled his No. 97 out on the main line. After running a few miles, he slowed his train down to stop at a water tank. In "spotting" the tender under the tank, he made a rather rough stop. The conductor came running forward. "Hey, what's the idea?" he bellowed. "You knocked every one down back there when you

AT LOEW'S THEATRE SATURDAY MORNING

So great has been the demand for a repetition of the recent success of "Little Women" staged at Victoria Hall by the Children's Theatre under the direction of Dorothy Davis and Violet Walters, that the management of Loew's Theatre have booked this production for Saturday morning at 9:30. The doors will be open at 9 a.m.

It is amazing that a cast of children could give such expert portrayals of the characters of this delightful play.

Marcia Getz, who had the difficult role of the loving tomboy Jo, gave a smooth and delightful performance which would do credit to an actress many years her senior. Her diction, poise and deportment were excellent. Janice Fischel as Aunt March gave a delightful character impersonation of the cranky old aunt, and Lillian Simons who played "Marmee" was as delightful an old lady as one could wish to see. This indeed was a very convincing portrayal of the beloved mother of the March household, and this young player deserves credit for having analyzed the character carefully and playing it with admirable restraint. The Amy of Laura Mitchell was simple and delightful, and she made the most of every line. Meg, the eldest girl of the family, was played by Natalie Sommer. The growing up process—falling in love—and finally becoming a wife was well done. Lillian Wilkinson, as Hannah Mullett played the role of the family housekeeper and did full justice to the part. James Keith, Frank Leonard and Bert Berkley were delightful as Prof. Bhaer, John Brooks and Laurie, while Irving Richer and Leo Kostiner were adequate as Mr. March and Mr. Laurence, Marilyn Matts as Beth gave a very convincing performance.

Percy Grainger Arrives Today; Conducts Sunday

Percy Grainger, rated the most colourful figure in modern American music, arrived in Montreal this morning full of confidence in the future of music on this side of the Atlantic.

"American music of the future is bound to be a mixture of symphony and this stuff called jazz," he said in reply to a newspaperman's question. "Music by such outstanding contemporary composers as Gershwin and Kern and Grofé is typical of this trend in composition. Their works possess some classical quality, yet do not fail to retain those rhythmic features which raise modern dance rhythm to peaks of popularity."

Grainger is making his first local visit in several years and will appear with the Montreal Orchestra as guest conductor and piano soloist at the Orchestra's concert Sunday afternoon at His Majesty's Theatre.

Now in his late fifties, Grainger was born in Australia but moved to New York at an early age and subsequently became an American citizen. He is rated by many as the outstanding Anglo-Saxon composer now living.

While Dr. Douglas Clarke will conduct the Orchestra through most of the program, Grainger will appear as piano soloist in a Tchaikowski concerto and will conduct the Orchestra in two of his own compositions, "Spoon River" and "Molly on the Shore." Grainger, it is hoped, will also appear at the special concert for young people scheduled for Saturday morning in the Ball Room of the Mt. Royal Hotel.

Magistrate — When were you born? Prisoner — Wot do yer care? You ain't goin' to give me nothink, are yer?

stopped like that! "Never mind," said Cassidy imperturbably. "O'il stand thim all up again when Oi start!" Which may not be very funny, but it fills space, anyway.

With the advent of light weight trains, air conditioning, cheap meals, etc., the railways are showing an interest in the lowly passenger — and it's about time. For years they carried passengers with indifference, because passenger revenues contributed a very small part to the total income of a road. But now they are beginning to realize that the lowly passenger often has a lot of drag with big shipping concerns, and in pleasing him they may often increase their freight haulage. When they get the little branch lines air-conditioned, and kow-tow a little more to the commuter and short-distance traveller, then they'll really begin to hum.

Facts: Your dollar spent for railroad fare or freight charges is distributed among more wage-earners than in probably any other branch of industry. The railroad buys, maintains, and pays taxes on its own highway, besides paying high wages to its employees and spending millions annually in equipment, maintenance and safety devices. This all comes out of the fare-dollar.

Just why our national system costs us some sixty millions every year is a matter of some controversy. It would be interesting to know just how much certain other lines would have cost the government since 1922 had all their bonds been government-guaranteed as are those of the C.N. A comparison would prove surprising. When the Grand Trunk and all the other lines were bought over, why didn't the government wait until they went on the block, and then buy them at five cents or so on

Canadian Mines Good Investment

Local Hi-Y Club Heard J. M. Forbes, Mining Expert, Speak Wednesday Evening

On Wednesday night, forty-three members of the Hi-Y Club were treated to a very interesting address on mining by Mr. J. M. Forbes. Mr. Forbes has spent the greater part of his life in connection with mining, and is well qualified to speak on that very broad subject. He began his remarks with a general reference to mining in foreign countries which he has just visited, particularly South Africa and Europe. Then he confined his remarks to Canada. He stated that the Canadian Shield was one of the greatest unexplored areas in the world. The keynote of Mr. Forbes' words was optimism, not only for Canadian mining but for Canada as a whole. Geological conditions of areas where gold has been found are duplicated all over Canada, which affords much promise for the future. The speaker prefaced his remarks with a few words of advice. He gave as a basic principle for success, the word Loyalty, and he certainly demonstrated this by his own loyalty to Canada; for from his experience gained by studying mining conditions in several countries, he said he would advise anyone with money to invest in mining, to invest it in Canadian mines.

The meeting was presided over by Wm. Pepper, president of the Hi-Y, and after several items of business, the gathering adjourned.

HELD OPEN MEETING

Rabbi Charles Bender and Mrs. Alton Goldbloom were the guest speakers at the first open meeting of the New Year sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary of Shaar Hashomayim, which took place on Wednesday afternoon, in the Ladies' Auxiliary Room of the Synagogue, Cote St. Antoine Rd. Mrs. Edward Solomon, the president, presided.

GLADYS GEORGE AT THE WESTMOUNT

Gladys George, celebrated stage star, who makes her stellar film debut in "Valiant Is The Word For Carrie," gripping drama of a great sacrifice, which opens for three days at the Westmount on Sunday, following at the Seville and then the Monkland.

Compelling Drama Relates Story Of Noble Sacrifice

A dilemma faced by a woman— jail on the one hand, or dishonor in the eyes of two children whom she adopted and brought up as her own on the other — is the basis of the tensely dramatic and gripping motion picture, "Valiant Is The Word For Carrie," which begins Sunday at the Westmount Theatre.

Taken from Barry Benefield's best-selling novel, and introducing Gladys George, famous stage ac-tress, to the screen, "Valiant Is The Word For Carrie" is a power-ful story of a woman's resurrec-tion through mother-love and the great sacrifice she is willing to undergo in payment for the bor-rowed happiness which was hers in bringing up the children.

Carrie Snyder, played by Miss George, is a woman of dubious background who adopts two waifs as her own. Through them she finds love and because of them she gives up her former life.

The years roll on. The peace and happiness of her little house-hold are threatened. A bold move has to be made. Carrie makes it and finds herself under arrest. Then comes the dilemma. Should she fight for her freedom? If she does her tawdry past is sure to be revealed and, more important, the children who loved her would know. If she doesn't fight, the past will not be revealed but there is a long jail sentence ahead.

Included in the cast, besides Gladys George, are Arline Judge and John Howard as the boy and girl, Isabel Jewell, Harry Carey, Dudley Digges, William Collier, Sr., John Wray, and little Jackie Moran and Charlene Wyatt as the boy and girl as children. The film was directed by Wesley Ruggles.

Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy are in the second feature on this program, "Our Relations."

Challis Smart For Spectator Sports

Especially Printed Black; Relief From Pastels

New York, —Challis, especially printed black, is being used for spectator sports. This is a nice relief from the pastel flannels in Bermuda. Printed linens are im-portant, too.

It's in beach and active sports clothes that the delightful new styles exist, though, the kind that would make even a skier forsake his hobby. Slacks are pre-eminent classic. New is a palm suede cloth, available in slacks and shirt, which takes to dyes beautifully and doesn't muss. There are some beautiful linen outfits—coats, shirts and slacks in gorgeous colors, ideal for southern Florida, especially if you're at a beach club where you can change your wet bathing suit and avoid that damp spot where you heat want it. That's why we've always preferred knitted slacks and jackets. You can wear them sailing. You can put them on over wet bathing suits and they're warm enough. A shop uptown has a grand collection of these knit slacks in black, white, natural or blue, with matching jackets, either single or double breasted. There are flannel slacks and shirts, too, in new pastel shades.

ON THE AIR COMMENT ON CURRENT Radio Programmes and Stars By JACK HIRSHBERG

RETROSPECTION ON A KEYBOARD

Radio and theatrical emporiums, generally speaking, have never been especially distinguished for their ability to warm the cockles of one's heart. Indeed, it seems that at times the only common element of most regional air-castles is the upishness of those who stroll their corridors and the frigidity with which they bid the outsider welcome.

Perhaps then it is not surpris-ing that many of the inmates of these asylums prance 'round with their noses tilted upwards and occasionally condescend to toss the poor intruding newspaperman or newly-initiated artist a patroniz-ing glance which reeks of conceit and self-import.

In their wanderings from studio to studio and stage door to dress-ing room, however, newsmen occa-sionally encounter someone to whom the above lines do not ap-ply. I remember especially two such folk . . .

Rudy Vallee, probably one of the most misunderstood figures that grace the public scene, is one of these. Rudy's unruly hair hides an overdose of brains; his fine physique covers a tender heart; and behind his cheerful smile lurks one of the saddest stories of recent years—the tragedy of Fay Webb Vallee's death after a roman-ce that should never have ended in marriage.

"We might have been happy if I hadn't been Rudy Vallee," Rudy once confided to his western representative and closest friend, Richard Eng-lish. And there was a depth of meaning in those words.

Just three weeks ago today Rudy and I sat down together in the privacy of his suite at the Mt. Royal Hotel and chat-ted amiably about one thing or another during the better part of an hour. Did he think the radio capital would soon move from New York to Hollywood? No! Would he name his favourite dance band? Certainly—Russ Mor-gan. And so the time sped by, spent in idle chatter and friendly repartee.

But it took no psychiatrist to pierce that veil of cheerfulness and tell that Rudy Vallee was a very sad and lonesome gentle-man, indeed. Madly in love with each other, Rudy and Fay had married seven years ago, only to have their marriage wrecked by idle rumours that eventually burst into print and led to divorce. And now death had taken the girl who had been his wife for a spell, —but always his inspiration.

Yes, Rudy was a lonesome man. But a fine one, too.

Perhaps the honour of be-ing ranked the most completely charming of modern singing stars should go to Paul Robeson. He has the knack of making even the troublesome newspaperman feel entirely welcome, no matter at what time or under what con-ditions he may come barging into the star's dressing room and de-mand an interview.

Somehow or other, I shall always remember Robeson as a genial gentleman, his two hundred pounds of brawn and muscle balanced precari-ously on a two-legged chair tilted against the wall of his backstage dressing-room, as he related the circumstances surrounding his debut as a singer.

"It all happened at the Greenwich Village Theatre in New York," he mused, flash-ing a smile across the room at his wife. "I had managed to get a part in the stage pro-duction of "Emperor Jones," by O'Neil, and the script called for me to whistle at a cer-tain point in the doings. Now fortunately, or unfortunately, as the case may be, it has al-ways been a failing with the Robesons that they could not whistle—so I sang! A couple of people said they liked the singing, and I gave a concert soon after!"

Thus, with a few modest words, Paul Robeson dismissed discus-sion of a career that has seen him rise to gain universal acclaim as the outstanding representative of his race in the realm of song and har-lequinade. Robeson's art may die; but memories of Paul Robeson, the man, will never perish.

And so it goes, Robeson and Vallee are but two representatives of a group which must include such names as John Boles, Sally Rand, Milton Berle, Duke Elling-ton, Sir Guy Standing and Em-anuel Feuermann—all of them stars, all of them world-acclaim-ed, all of them stationed firmly on the top rung of the ladder of suc-cess.

Westmount Seniors Defeat Lower Canada College 6-0 For Second Win Of Season

Mowatt Began Score On Assist From Ross—Johnson, L. C. C. Goaler, Defended Nets Ably—Ross Of L. C. C. Failed To Score On Penalty Shot—Second Period Fast—Line-up

On Tuesday, the Westmount Seniors won their second victory of the season overcoming L.C.C. 6-0.

The game was full of action from start to finish, with Mowatt beginning to score on an assist from Ross. For several minutes four of the Westmount team shot repeatedly at Johnson, L. C. C. goaler, but he let only one slip in. Many was the time that the puck bounced off a stick to just miss the nets by inches. Mowatt was the only one able to score.

At the beginning of the second period a penalty shot was given to L. C. C. because Aird tripped Casey. Colin Ross took the penalty shot but was unable to score. Buddy Hellyer scored on an assist from Bannison and Mowatt, and immediately after Bannison shot the puck into the nets, with Mowatt and Hellyer assisting. Casey was able to score on an assist from Thomson.

The second period was fast with the purple and white down at the L. C. C.'s net most of the time. Near the end of the game Hellyer scored when Bannison passed the puck to him.

Line-up:

TWO GAMES ON SUNDAY IN THE SENIOR GROUP

Royals Play Verdun. While Canadiens Meet Victorias in Double-header

Royals meet Verdun and Canadiens play Victorias on Sunday afternoon at the Forum in the regular week-end double-header of the Senior Group.

Sailing along nicely at near the top of the standing list Royals have been playing some exceedingly fine hockey and several of their players are attracting the interest of the big-time scouts.

From the start of last Sunday's game with Vics the Royals looked the best aggregation and goals by Mahaffey and Macquisten set them up nicely. Penney of Vics scored just before the end of the first session and the second frame went scoreless. There was plenty of action in the final period however. Vics came out in a determined manner and Farmer scored the equalizer, then E. Munday put them one up. But their day of glory was short lived for Ken Murray came right back and tied it up again with Buster Munday scoring the winning goal for the Royals. It was great hockey to watch.

Seniors vs. D'Arcy McGee In an exhibition game at the Forum on Tuesday 5th, Westmount was defeated by D'Arcy McGee 6 to 3.

The game started out at a fast pace with Hodgson, of D'Arcy McGee, scoring the first goal. Soon after, Casey, Westmount's left wing, shot the puck into the nets.

At the beginning of the second period, the D'Arcy McGee team converged on Scarlett, who, however, made a nice save. Hodgson was able to score again, but near the end of the period, Bannison broke away, beat the defense and scored very easily.

Mulcair scored two goals, one right after the other, on Fry, and again Ryan, of D'Arcy McGee, scored on an assist from Merrigan. A few minutes later there was a fight, and both teams rushed onto the ice. However, after the two lads had been separated and sent to the penalty box to cool off, they made up. Immediately after the fight, Thomson scored for Westmount, but near the end of the game D'Arcy McGee added another goal to their score.

W.H.S.—Fry, Scarlett; Ross, Small; Thomson, Casey, Wright; sub: Dawson, Bennett, Kennedy, Ireland, Low, Fisher, Turner, Wells, Bannison, Mowatt, Hellyer.

Goodyear Extra Dividend Of $2.50 On Common Stock

Surplus Adequate to Cover Future Requirements.

In a letter to Common stock holders of Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. of Can. Ltd., the President, Mr. A. G. Partridge says:

"We are enclosing a cheque which covers both the regular dividend of 68c per share payable in respect of your Common shareholdings for the last quarter of 1936 and an extra dividend of $2.50 per share, which was practically all earned during 1936. The Company's present earned surplus seems entirely adequate to cover everything foreseen in the near future and, therefore, we believe it advisable to distribute among the Common shareholders the balance of the 1936 earnings, after payment of dividends on the Preferred stock. Any small portion of the additional dividend not earned during 1936 will be taken from surplus."

Woodcarving Class

Every Saturday afternoon a tall white-haired man may be seen surrounded by a group of young boys. He will be patiently trying to answer the multitudinous questions put to him or explaining the proper way to hold a plane or chisel or helping some little fellow build the boat of his dreams. He is Mr. Frank Spence, affectionately known to hundreds of Y boys as "Pop" Spence. This class is extremely popular with the young boys, but if any of the older boys would like to make some useful article of furniture, it has been suggested that a senior class be formed. If any senior members are interested, please speak to Mr. Taylor.

Stamp Club

The Y Stamp Club got officially under way for 1937 on Saturday. In his opening remarks to the several young boys who had gathered there, the instructor, Mr. N. C. Churchill, outlined his programme for the next few months. It includes several contests to stimulate interest in stamps. He also stated that a social evening would be held once a month. Some stamp magazines were distributed among the members and then they got down to the business of buying, selling and trading stamps. Judging by the enthusiasm exhibited by the members, the Stamp Club will be still another of the Y's successful Hobby Clubs.

The standing for this month is:

Next week a cup will be awarded for foil competition.

Before the meeting tomorrow, Geo. Tully was given a combination electric toaster and waffle iron as a wedding present and as a token of appreciation of his many services.

Cellar Teams In Local Y Basketball Loop Spring Surprise In Two Victories

Maroons Defeat Maple Leafs 30-20 Saturday—Hawks Down Bruins By 25-21—Bottom-place Teams Now In Lead—Former Leaders Out For Scalps—Hectic Scenes Expected On Local Floor Tomorrow

The two weeks' rest for the holidays must have breathed new life into the habitual losers at the local 'Y' on Saturday afternoons. The Maroons, who up to this time had not won a game, took the measure of the top-place Maple Leafs. When the smoke of battle had cleared, they found themselves on the long end of a 30-20 score. Phil Stolp, D. Austin and G. Rogers (no relation to Ginger) supplied the scoring power for the winners. N. Jeffries and L. Dickie scored a large share of the loser's points.

As if trying to keep up the record of bottom teams winning, the Hawks eked out a close 25-21 win over the Bruins. C. Ramsay and J. Novinger divided more than half the victorious Hawks goals, while D. Lightfoot and U. McCulloch formed their stiffest opposition from an offensive point of view.

These two victories entirely reverse the old order of things, for the time being at least. The two teams which finished the first half of the schedule in the cellar are now in the lead. "But not for long" vow the Leafs and Bruins. "We'll catch them next week." Tomorrow the whole race may be tied up for the Maroons meet the Bruins and the Leafs tackle the Hawks. A win for both the Bruins and the Leafs will create a four-way tie for first place.

A WHALE

OF A TIME

Friday night a group of "Y" youngsters got the thrill of their lives by listening and talking to two genuine professional hockey stars, Jimmy Ward and Russ Blinco. They sat in wide-eyed wonder as these two popular players explained to them the proper way to become hockey stars, what to eat, what exercise to take and any general advice that they had garnered from their varied careers.

Then they volunteered to answer any questions that might be puzzling the boys. If you can imagine a cyclone striking an unprotected area, you can imagine the bedlam that broke loose when over a hundred young boys tried to ask their questions at the same time. Several of the boys got so excited that when their turn did come to have their question answered, they got up, but found to their amazement that they had forgotten what they had wanted to ask. So they had to sit down again, and wait another turn.

This visit has stimulated interest in hockey among the boys, and it is expected that they will turn out in full force for their outdoor hockey league which will commence tomorrow morning at Roslyn.

In 1935 a total of 439,000 American wage earners were employed in motor vehicle and parts factories.

YMCA SWIMMING TEAM WILL ENTER TRIALS

The Westmount YMCA Swimming Club, under the direction of William and Alf Mander, will enter the forthcoming City and District swimming trials to be held at the NDG Community Hall on Friday night, it was announced late last night.
