Garbage chute blaze evacuates apartments

The six-storey Westmount Manor apartment house at 250 Kensington avenue, just above St. Catherine street, was ordered temporarily evacuated Saturday evening when fire broke out of the garbage chute access on the top floor.
There were no injuries and damage was confined to smoke in the corridors on the upper levels and to the stairwell doors leading to roof which had to be broken open to vent the dense smoke.
The flames, which appeared to have originated in the garbage cart at the foot of the chute, possible from a smouldering butt, were put out with a 1½-inch hose connected to the building's hydrant on the sixth floor, with assistance from the sprinkler system.
Mutual aid was called, Outremont and Town of Mount Royal brigades responding, the latter on standby at No. 1 Westmount Fire Station with a pump and 5 men.
The alarm was sounded at 8:42 am and the equipment returned to stations at 10:24 pm.

We Say

Centre sector suburbs in the dark

LATE IN JANUARY the suburban mayors of the Montreal Urban Community's Centre sector, which includes Westmount, in their wisdom chose their colleagues, Messrs. Gariepy of Verdun and Dawson of Mount Royal, to represent them on the MUC executive committee.

They did not choose well.

After the event, our own mayor, Peter McEntyre, assured city council that these two gentlemen had undertaken to keep him and thus our city administration informed of all developments at the executive committee level affecting the vital interests of Westmount. Mr. McEntyre also reported at the time that the two had assured him and others that the views of all nine mayors of the sector would be sought from time to time.

The evidence is now in that these undertakings have been honored only in the breach.

There have been too many surprises, sprung at short notice on the MUC council by its executive.

There have been too many moves—such as the advance release of the public security commission report recommending total integration of island police forces—causing dismay to unprepared and uninformed suburban administrations, including our own.

There have been too many occasions when Mayor McEntyre obviously would have liked to say he knew what was coming up in MUC affairs when obviously he couldn't.

The Verdun and Mount Royal mayors may or may not be in much more of a privileged position than the rest of their suburban colleagues. Executive Committee Chairman Saulnier may not be vouchsafing to them very much, either—so that they can't pass it on.

If this is the case, however, Messrs. Gariepy and Dawson are still not doing the right thing by their fellow mayors. It means they are quiescently bowing to the dictums and rule of their chairman, and that is a game for which they cannot be forgiven.

If all that is good in the concept of the Montreal Urban Community is not to be lost in dissatisfaction, distrust and non-information, the Centre sector soon must examine the stewardship of their two executive representatives.

And if they are found as wanting as they appear to be, their replacement and the earlier the better is indicated.

Editorial notes

It is traditional—as well as good local journalism and good business—for a community newspaper such as ours to duly recognize the "home town boy who makes good." We think this can be extended to corporations, even when the "boy" is a transplant who has lived here for some years while his parents remain elsewhere—in this instance, the U.S. We refer to The Reader's Digest Association (Canada) Ltd., whose home in this country is at 215 Redfern avenue. They've just sent along a report of their achievement financially for their year ended June 30 last. They've managed to push their net sales up by just over half a million dollars over the year previous, to $19,585,267, and knock their expenses down by over $690,000 to $18,154,783. The sad part, as for most successful businesses in this day and age, is that income taxes jumped from $88,500 to $761,200. Even so, net income was $669,284, or 72.6 cents per share, against $209,159, or 22.7 cents, in 1969. The directors have seen fit to declare a dividend of 11 cents per share payable Sept. 30. Nice going.

As a natural follow-on to that pleasing item is our own observation that local business is on the upswing. We note it in our swings around the community and in the fairly reliable barometer of the volume of advertising we carry from Westmount and other merchants. Our explanation is that entrepreneurs of all sorts are beginning to realize that they can't go on forever waiting for the high cost of money to come down, that like the prices of everything else it is not likely, in any event, to ease much; so, getting on with developing and selling goods and services which people need. Now Hardware Merchandising magazine, supports our findings by reporting "some signs point to a slight improvement from the unenthusiastic attitudes which have prevailed since late 1967" in consumer moods. There's nothing dramatic, but more people interviewed feel it is a good time to make a major purchase, repair, remodel or remake home improvements. Quebec still lags behind other provinces, such as B.C., in its swing of attitudes away from recession-mindedness—but in the overall, things appear to be looking up.

We were down to Lennoxville Monday afternoon installing the youngest member of our publishing firm as a Bishop's University freshman. And to judge by the number of familiar parental faces, and those of some of young men and women, Bishop's has not lost its special appeal to Westmount families as a place of higher learning. The old campus, dotted with ever-growing fine new buildings, never looked more beautiful in the crisp, autumnal sunshine. And, by the way, the fall colors are beginning to show in the trees down that way—or we should say "up," because of the considerable gain in altitude in that part of the country which is in the over-border reaches of the Green mountains of Vermont. Just six years ago we were similarly installing our eldest son at the same institution. This week there were far fewer academic gowns in evidence; and how the styles of both hair and dress have changed in the interval!

We commend The Montreal Star and the leading article of its News and Review section last Saturday to those concerned about making our city, any city, more pleasant. R.W.G. Bryant, who resides in neighboring N.D.G., wrote an excellent piece in which he preaches "Streets are for people," and not only for cars. An associate geography professor at Sir George Willaims University, Prof. Bryant had a hand in the rebuilding of Coventry, England. What he has to say about turning streets into malls falls in with our thinking, and of Architect and Planner John Bland in his report to the City of Westmount of just 10 years ago. We were recalling the latter's ideas for a Greene avenue mall on this page some weeks ago, and commending them for re-examination by the city's architectural and planning commission. We are told at city hall that the Greene avenue scheme is still alive and well. But, of course, the architectural and planning commission is not given to making many noises which can be heard outside its basement meeting room, let alone by the citizens of Westmount. One of these days we hope enough interested citizens are going to show up at a city council meeting to ask Ald. Charles Aspler, who is their commissioner of planning and redevelopment, just what is cooking in the commission apart from approving or denying building permits. We think there is a lot of brain-power and imagination enjoyed by the commission, but the public gets only rare glimpses of it.

One develops in this business tough skin on those parts of

Two support Mrs. Hannan

Sir: We hope we represent many other "keen, aquatic-minded citizens" of Westmount in supporting Mrs. Hannan's letter which appeared in The Examiner of September 10.

Certainly, our keenness was trampled upon by the abrupt action by certain officials to close the pool smack on Labor Day.

The argument that other pools close on the same day impresses us not at all, especially since other municipalities have a continuous winter service for swimmers. Surely, the former early opening and later closing of the pool was one of the unique features of Westmount and was beneficial to many older people who based their holidays on the sun and water there.

The plain fact is that it is high time Westmount thought of providing a year-round swimming facility.

Outdoor skating on park pond

Sir: One wonders if the Westmount city council might consider the feasibility, for this winter, of a healthy and more natural outdoor skating rink at Westmount Park's 'Horseshoe Pond.'

Those who remember the days of the bygone horseshoe skating area will not deny the advantages of such outdoor fun. It provided an opportunity for spirited families in the Westmount Park area to skate together in the hardy outdoors.

Ostensibly, the cost of such a scheme would be practically negligible.

Why not make good use of this natural environment of trees and hills, birds and squirrels, in the winter season, too?

Westmount Resident

A praying mantis say three readers

Sir: I was interested in reading about the insect which was photographed on the railing of the Westmount Lookout. I think it may be a praying mantis.

However, I am enclosing a cut-out from The Herald, Montreal dated August 29, 1953, which I thought may interest you. At that time we thought it to be a large grasshopper, but it was a very delicate green and slender. We later learned it to be a praying mantis. The photograph isn't very clear, but as I remember, it looked exactly as your clear picture. My clipping has been around a good many years.

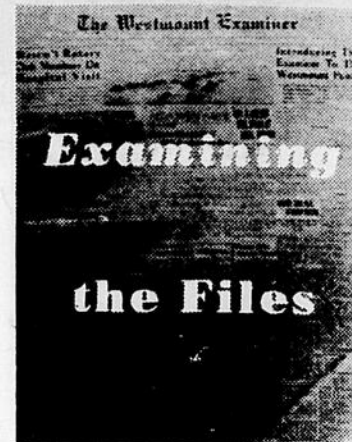

I do hope this has been of some help and interest to you.

(Editor's Note: Mrs. Haines' clipping shows the 1953 creature being examined by three boys. It rests on the thumb of Grendon Haines, then 12. The other two in the picture were Craig Reid, 11, of 260 Prince Albert, and Denis Robertson, 10, of 75 York street.

(In addition to Mrs. Haines' letter, we have received two phone calls, all identifying the oversize "grasshopper" as a praying mantis.)

says...

Phase III gets under way

(This column departs from the norm of "Our MP Says..." which is designed to be a report by Westmount's representative in Ottawa, as non-partisan as is possible for a political figure. This week Mr. Drury has chosen to deal directly with the subject of his party. This piece is published by The Examiner with the express observation that this newspaper does not lend its support to any particular party. —Editor.)

For nearly two years now, the Liberal Party has been systematically trying to develop and articulate its policy for the 70's. Widespread participation by party members in this process of policy-formulation looking to the next decade gives this program a special significance. Now that it is nearing completion, I think that its evolution and its meaning deserve some comment.

The first stage, or Phase I as it has been labelled, covered the period that led up to and included the Harrison Hot Springs conference of last November. Delegates from the riding associations and invited experts attempted to identify and discuss subjects of central interest to Canadians in the 70's. The discussions were very broad-ranging, and it was often difficult to come to any definite conclusions other than establishing the importance of certain issues.

Nine pamphlets

Nevertheless, Harrison's output was later distilled into nine pamphlets which attempted to clarify the consensus of the delegates. These pamphlets justified the need for government action and suggested the direction that this action might take in the areas of pollution, cities, poverty, the individual, agriculture, the economy, regional development, international relations, and national unity.

These pamphlets served as a basis for Phase II of the program: the riding associations all across the country organized informal seminars, teach-ins, and panel discussions dealing with the policy options as presented in the pamphlets. The goal of these get-togethers was to consult the man citizens who did not have a chance to express themselves at the Harrison conference, and to articulate their views, thus assuring the feedback up the party hierarchy.

Now that this phase has been completed, all the loose strands are about to be tied together at a national meeting of the Liberal Federation of Canada in Ottawa at the end of November - the policy convention (Phase III).

This convention will serve as a culmination of all that has gone before it, and will be the visible result of the Liberal Party's efforts to put "participatory democracy" into practice. It will attempt to do this by re-uniting the ridings and their respective resolutions, and by putting them all together in a coherent policy statement about the issues which we will be facing in the 70s. In this way, it is hoped that not only will the government know what the people want and how concerned they are, but the people will have had a hand in prescribing what the government will do!

Some skeptical

Some people nonetheless have been sceptical about how much effective participation there has been by the rank and file of the party in this project. This is neither for me nor for the organizers of this program to answer. Rather, it is for Canadians to determine whether they have been helping to identify, understand, and ultimately resolve the problems of this decade.

Now that Phase III is about to be launched, I hope that there will be many more Canadians who will be able to answer this question affirmatively.

These pamphlets are available free of charge at 685 Cathcart street, Suite 1012, Montreal 108.

How to keep your friends during a political campaign: smile and turn off your hearing aid.

Panel here Oct. 28

Local Liberals are to have a discussion in Victoria Hall on Monday, Oct. 28, at 8 pm led off by a panel on party policy on such topics as confederation, the economy, foreign relations and the environment, in preparations for a Liberal policy meeting in Ottawa in November.

Chairman is to be Prof. Maxwell Cohen and panelists Journalist William Wilson and Yves Fortier.

ones anatomy where one gets slapped, boxed and kicked. After a while it doesn't hurt so much. Latest experience has been at the hands of the busy, dedicated organizers of Saturday's September Fair, a leading lady of which came into our office as were going to press last Thursday to tell us that the committee was sore at The Examiner because we hadn't given them any, or hardly any, publicity. For the record, let it be known that we've printed everything the group has sent us; and early on they named a character who is supposed to be a pro in the communications business to push the stuff to us—rather than let us in on their plans so that we could cover developments for ourselves. This fellow's thin stuff got some large headlines in our pages, more than it deserved, simply because we think the 4424 Inc. youth centre's supporters deserve support. The good lady who came to see us revealed to us for the first time that their group had been meeting almost every Wednesday in Victoria Hall—which would have been helpful to us, and to them, for us to know earlier in the game. However, she told us where some of the preparation action was and this week we were taking pictures like crazy. It's going to be a swell "do". Come to the Fair!

Either Acting City Engineer Ed. McCavour reads this column (see last week) or it was scheduled anyway. But, over the weekend St. Catherine street got its coating down the middle of new asphalt to rebury those relics of a bygone era, the Montreal Tramways' long disused tracks. Driving that artery has, again, this week become more of a pleasure.

+ + +

There are a lot of doctors who live in Westmount, and a number of them are our friends. Even so, not one has been able to get it through to us why at one and the same time they should be able to "opt out" of Medicare but then "opt in" only for payment. Surely the doc who thinks his skill is such that he can attract business outside the scheme should be prepared to put such faith in himself to the test of the market, without public subsidy of him or his would-be patient.

+ + +

Fellow we know who captains Canadian airliners on trans-Atlantic flights agrees that it is only a matter of time before a DC-8 takes off from Montreal for Toronto and ends up in Amman or worse. Then perhaps we'll stop using exotic terms like "skyjacking" or viewing these outrages as "commando" actions, and sternly call them plain, old-fashioned piracy. Canada could do worse, right now, than boot out the diplomatic representatives of countries abetting or even condoning this outlawry as an expression of this nation's outrage—before Air Canada or CP Air and out citizens become targets of these thugs. There's nothing we know of to stop Canada taking the initiative as an example to other nations. Meanwhile, what a boost to the next Israel bond drive!

+ + +

Without getting hysterical about it, it comes as a shock not only to read of continuing thefts of dynamite in various parts of the province but that the legislation designed to control its careless storage still has not been enacted. Meanwhile, what's wrong with enforcing existing laws covering explosives in St. Louis de France, St. Simeon, Shawinigan and Amos so that Westmount may breathe easier?

Course of music for children set

A new course of music study for children begins this month taught by Christy Slater, member of the Montreal Symphony Orchestra, and the American Recorder Society, and with degrees in music performance and education from Indiana University School of Music.

Children enrolled in these classes will learn the principals of music: rhythm melody and harmony through the use of the recorder, an ancient wind instrument that has remained unchanged for over 600 years. Also used will be various percussion instruments which have definite appeal to children: wood blocks, tam-tams, rattles, cymbals, and triangles.

Dances and body movement will also be used and study will be done by the Carl Orff method specifically designed of teaching music to children.

Remember how you dreamed of sailing the seven seas?

And remember how you thrilled to tales of ruthless buccaneers, who pillaged and plundered the lovely sun-splashed, sea-washed Caribbean islands of gold and pearls and spices rare. Today you can safely sail away to these fascinating islands for four days to ninety-four days. (There's a sparkling white luxury cruiser leaving from New York every day.) On its voyage it lingers in quiet island harbours allowing you time to explore and experience the islands for yourself. For the first time you will be free as a child. Without cares, worries or concerns. You won't have to lift a finger to look after yourself. It's all done for you. All you'll have to decide is what to choose from the menu. And it'll be a difficult choice. But, we'll help you. After all, a cruise holiday means pampered luxury.

13 DAY TREASURE CARIBBEAN CRUISES

Cruise aboard the Prudential-Grace Lines' luxury liners S-S Santa Rose or S-S Santa Paula to the West Indies or South America. Visit such delightful ports as LaGuaira, Kingston, Port Au Prince, Aruba, Curacao, etc., ports-of-call vary depending on cruise. Departure from New York every Friday. This is Poverty Sunday

Throughout the Montreal Presbytery of the United Church, this Sunday is designated as "Poverty Sunday." This is preparatory to a teach-in on poverty which will be held in Dominion-Douglas Church on Saturday, Sept. 26.

At the Sunday morning worship in Dominion-Douglas a panel will discuss "The Church and Poverty." Rev. Stuart Clark and Mrs. W.R. Abbott will take part with Rev. Dr. Douglas Smith. Mr. Clark is superintendent of home missions and Mrs. Abbott is chairman of the committee planning the teach-in.

Commandments held answer

Emphasis on materialism is a modern form of idolatry and can be counteracted by an understanding of the Ten Commandments as explained in the lesson-sermon on "Matter" to be read in all Christian Science churches this Sunday.

"We bow down to matter, and entertain finite thoughts of God like the pagan idolater", states one of the readings from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, discoverer and founder of Christian Science. "Mortals are inclined to fear and to obey what they consider a material body more than they do a spiritual God."

The Bible citations include the First Commandment, "Thou shalt have no other gods before me."

NEW MINISTER: Westmount Park United Church this week has a new minister, formally inducted Friday evening. He is Rev. J. Ernest Nix, a native of Alberta who was called here from Boston where he spent two years as minister of Lafayette Street Methodist Church in Salem, chaplain of Salem State College and student at Boston University where he was granted the degree of Master of Sacred Theology, majoring in pastoral relations. Mr. and Mrs. Nix arrived here early in August and reside on Arlington avenue. They have four children. Mr. Nix's earlier charges were all in Prairie centres.

St. Andrew's children learn by doing

Students in the Orff Music classes at St. Andrew's learn by doing. Here Consuelo Guay, Patrick Andres, Ann Bogert and Gillian Newcomb learn rhythm in a xylophone class under teacher Dorothy Turner. Starting with the simplest clapping, tapping, movement and speaking exercises, the Orff method develops the child's co-ordination and precision that leads to learning instruments such as the xylophone, metalophone, drum, glockenspiel, cymbals, tuned bells and eventually the recorder. Classes in these instruments begin at St. Andrew's Monday, Sept. 28th.

Begun in 1968 as community service projects, the Orff classes and the St. Andrew's Nursery School have attracted many local youngsters. The Nursery School commenced last week with a full enrolment.

Other youth activities, including Cubs, Scouts, Brownies and Venturers, are also now underway.

Last Sunday Rev. E.A. Kirker urged the St. Andrew's congregation to support the September Fair taking place this Saturday at the Westmount rink in aid of the youth centre at 4424 St. Catherine street.

In his sermon, Mr. Kirker dealt with man's search for reality in worship. He explained the order or worship now being used at St. Andrew's.

It was announced that a study group on the Book of Job begins for all interested persons next Monday, Sept. 21, at 10:30 am. Church School open sessions get underway this Sunday, with classes in the new Celebration program commencing October 18.

Newcomers to the community are invited to visit this church at 101 Cote St. Antoine road.

After coming to the U.S. he pursued an operatic and concert career and appeared with many opera companies. He held the post of Cantor of Temple Sinai in Washington for 10 years and is currently Cantor Emeritus of that Congregation.

Parallel High Holy Day worship will be held both in the Temple sanctuary and the Grover auditorium. The worship will be conducted by Rabbi Stern and Rabbi Bloomstone. Reservations of pews are being taken by Abe Izenberg.

The Temple religious school is now in full swing. Final registration will be this Sunday morning. Registration is taking place for those eligible for confirmation, classes meeting regularly on Saturday mornings following the junior congregation worship. 'Peace Rose' tags on sale Saturday

Tags are being sold this Saturday to mark the first Montreal-wide United Nations Association "Peace Rose" tag day in support of the peace and understanding programs of the association. Many of the taggers are expected to be students who participated last month in the UNA's annual bilingual seminar on the U.N.

Theft dashed

A car parked outside 1098 Greene avenue was entered sometime between 1 am and 2 pm Tuesday. A tape-deck was removed from the dashboard but was found intact on the front seat, leading to the thought that the would-be thief had been disturbed in the act.

Car stolen, recovered

A Plymouth GTX was stolen sometime between 3:30 and 6 pm Friday from the parking garage of Alexis Nihon Plaza and recovered by Repentigny Police Tuesday afternoon in possession of a 16-year-old boy there.

While Westmount Police were at the plaza, another car was found to have been the subject of an attempted theft from the same place, its ignition switch having been removed.

Meanwhile, on Monday Rigaud Police recovered a motorcycle which had been stolen in Westmount some months ago.

What's with Galt MacDermot, composer of 'Hair'

A Westmount Profile

By MARGOT ANDREWS

Some people don't have to grow long hair to prove they're with it. Not when the present is catching up to them instead of the other way around. With the opening of the French production of Hair on Tuesday at the Comedie Canadienne, we thought we should talk a little about its composer, Galt MacDermot, who used to play organ for the Westmount Baptist Church. Maybe even better than an interview with Galt is a chat with some of his friends because Galt, by reputation, just doesn't talk much. Voicing opinions is not his line—he's too wrapped up in music.

According to Westmount resident John C. Holden, long-time friend of Galt's and joint owner with him of Kilmarnock Records Registered, Galt thinks music heavily—it's his life. "He's been composing music for 15 years that is just current today.

"He's not living down in New York with his wife and four children mulling over big problems such as smog and Vietnam—he's composing.

"He's pleasant, quiet, cuts his hair short, hasn't changed his standards or his way of life any more than most of us have of his generation and he's a perfectionist where sound is concerned. The sound of Hair is the sound that he wants."

Dedicated

"There is only one way to describe him—he's absolutely dedicated," echoed the composer's aunt in another telephone interview, painter and Westmount resident Miss Anne Savage.

Galt likes Montreal. Why is he living in New York? According to Mr. Holden, "because that's where the music is. Late one night, someone said, 'New York, that's where you should go, Man, that's where everything's at,' and that was right."

Holden, a long-time collector of jazz, feels MacDermot is different to most composers. Upon graduation from Bishops' University in Lennoxville he obtained his Bachelor of Music from the University of South Africa "and there is a large African folk influence.

"His music is melodic, rock—in that sense old-fashioned if you will—but he composes music way ahead of his time. One of his favorites was Duke Ellington who was in the mainstream in 1932 and 20 years later was still tops."

Is he a serious person? "It depends what you mean. He's not square. Anyone who is shocked, say, at the nudity in Hair, amuses him. Life's too short."

Life is love

Certainly Galt was not concerned with the production of Hair when he wrote the music. It was written by "two hippy types, James Rado and Jerome Ragni, music for Hair in '67. Among several other things he has written the score for MGM's musical Cotton Comes to Harlem and for two English musicals, Isabel's a Jezebel, and The Teeth that Bit Asia.

"Haircuts"

Kilmarnock Records Registered, a five-year-old Canadian company with Canadian distribution only, is currently putting out Galt's record "Haircuts."

Miss Savage thinks "Woman is Sweeter," a song he wrote for a movie of the same name made in '69, is "perfectly exquisite. It's unique, bewitching—knocks 'Hair' into a cocked hat!" (The movie has since been renamed "Martine's Movie"). She describes it "like sounds of the forest, the crickets, the drums, the rhythm and color of Africa."

And she greatly admires the lyrics by a "serious, talented friend of Galt's."

"Woman is Sweeter—sweeter than cool water, on hot sand."

with the idea that life is love and love is beautiful and happy and so is anything that flows out of the pen," Mr. Holden continued, sipping his beer. "They had no money but they did find a composer. However the feeling was wrong.

"Then they talked to producer Nat Shapiro who showed it to Galt who thought it hilarious. He finished writing the music in no time." (It actually took two months, according to Miss Savage.)

Has success affected him? Not at all.

"If you'd asked him before he became well known if his music was good he'd have said 'yes, of course it's good,' and if you asked him now he'd say the same thing."

MacDermot has been very busy since he composed the Rail equipment subject of talk at Rotary Club

History of iron development in Canada was related to the Westmount Rotary Club yesterday at the weekly luncheon meeting in Victoria Hall by Ted McDermott, who spoke on railroad track equipment. His talk was illustrated by a humorous cartoon film in color.

Mr. McDermott delved into the history of iron and its relationship to Canada, where early manufacture of stoves, etc., was developed to a great degree. His company, he said, had grown to a point that today an aero space division has been opened.

Among prominent guests and visitors introduced was C. Morton Hodgson, past district governor of Rotary. Visitors were called upon to identify themselves by Dick Herzer, director of international service. Phil Everson on behalf of the fellowship committee invited all who wish to attend the Players Grand Prix to be held Sept. 18-20 to join him for the occasion, while Jack Burrows reminded the membership concerning Dunany Day next Wednesday. Other dates being emphasized for membership attendance is the district conference to be held at Lake Placid, September 25 to 27.

Battle of Britain parade this Sunday

Ex-Royal Canadian Air Force members, Air Cadets, reserve and regular members of the air element of the Canadian Armed Forces will parade and attend a religious service here Sunday in remembrance of the Battle of Britain, 30 years ago.

Units will form up at 10 am near Metcalfe avenue and Sherbrooke street west and parade on Cote St. Antoine road. Col. D.C. MacKenzie, deputy commander of the Canadian Forces Base, Montreal, will receive the salute. They will then proceed to St. Matthias Anglican Church where Archdeacon J. N. Doidge will conduct the service.

Represented will be Air Cadets squadrons and members of 306, 310 and 313 wings of the RCAF Association, the band of 438 Squadron (Reserve), and airmen from St. Hubert garrison.

On Sunday, Sept. 15, 1940, allied airmen inflicted heavy damage to the German Air Force.

God can heal you.
