'Narrow-minded prejudices' to go with Trudeau, Drury says here

"The people of Canada have to cast aside narrow-minded prejudices and regional differences, and Pierre Elliott Trudeau is the leader who will get the people to work together for a better society for all Canadians", Charles M. Drury, Liberal candidate in Westmount riding, told voters last week at one of a series of local meetings.

In order to meet as many electors as possible, Mr. Drury is inviting them to meetings which are being held at various places in the enlarged Westmount constituency.

At a meeting on Ridgewood Avenue on Thursday evening, and another on Bonavista Avenue on Friday, Mr. Drury answered electors' questions and discussed with them many points of the Liberal government policy and his own beliefs on the political scene.

Other meetings were scheduled early this week at Chateau Maisonneuve, with a group of student nurses at Royal Victoria Hospital, and elsewhere.

Mr. Drury said that national unity is clearly the biggest issue of 1968 in electors' minds. The Liberal leader, Mr. Trudeau, had brought this issue out into the open after Premier Johnson of Quebec forced matters on the question of international representation. Soon afterwards, the Conservatives branded this issue as not fit for public discussion now.

In discussing national unity publicly, the Liberals appeared to have far more faith in the wisdom of the electors than does the opposition, said Mr. Drury.

Westmount's Liberal candidate is minister of industry, and recently took over the trade and commerce portfolio. He said that the Liberal government's policy will be to encourage increases in industrial production and in export trade as the best vehicles by which Canadians can earn a higher standard of living.

TRADE BARRIERS

The government isn't planning to work toward a North American Free Trade area or other such groupings, but believes that Canadian goods should be free to make the biggest possible impact in all markets. Canada has dozens of bilateral agreements with various nations under which specific products enter specific markets at favorable terms. "Our object is always to reduce trade barriers to the extent that we can in various countries", Mr. Drury said.

Trade with mainland China is not a matter of ideology or of the issue of recognition, he said. Canada believes that China should sit in the United Nations; the lack of this de facto recognition is unquestionably an irritant to the Chinese. Meanwhile China also represents a huge and developing market, some of whose needs can be met by Canadian industry and agriculture.

On bilingualism, Mr. Drury said that it is government policy to make French as widespread a working language across Canada as English. Intensive steps have already been taken to do this in the federal civil service.

At the last federal-provincial conference, the federal government appealed to all provinces to introduce French into the schools, and all provinces except B.C. and Alberta have now made plans to implement French instruction programs.

"If French-speaking people can feel at home using their own language anywhere in Canada, much of the emotionalism will surely be drained out of the French-English dialogue", Mr. Drury told electors. "This would (Continued on page 5)

SIDE BY SIDE - "The problem of affluence and poverty standing side by side in a developed nation such as ours is shown in our own Westmount riding. We have a housing problem right here in this constituency," says NDP candidate Professor Jeffrey Adams. These pictures were submitted by the NDP party.

Unsuitable housing within this riding concerns NDP man

"The housing problem in Canada is getting more and more serious", said Jeffrey Adams, NDP candidate for the Westmount riding, during a recent speech at a campaign coffee party.

"Many people, already comfortably settled in their own homes, may not be aware that there are thousands of Canadians with families who find they cannot afford suitable lodging. Some of these people are in this riding.

"Since 1964, the cost of housing accommodation has increased 10 percent per annum while the increase in average wages and salaries in the same period has been less than five percent.

"The price of land has skyrocketed. Land which commonly sold for $1,000 an acre in the early 1950s now sells from $20,000 to $30,000 per acre.

"NHA mortgage rates have reached their highest levels in history at over nine percent. To qualify for a loan at this rate, an applicant must be earning over $8,000 a year. This puts the purchase of a new home beyond the reach of 75 percent of Canadian wage-earners.

"Apartment dwellers", he said, "are in the same predicament. Rents, under no control, are increasing rapidly - up to 12 percent in some communities".

Professor Adams, head of Loyola College's history department, listed the points of an NDP program at suitable prices to live up to the minimum 200,000 units of housing production declared essential by the Economic Council of Canada.

"Long-term federal-provincial planning. The proportion of Canada's total investment devoted to housing is now five percent. The NDP would raise this to 10 or 15 percent.

"Establishment of a federal Department of Housing and Urban Development to assist other levels of government in the planning and construction of a wide range of rural and urban housing, urban redevelopment, community planning, and the preservation and extension of parks, green belts and recreation centres.

- "Removal of 11 percent sales tax on building materials and equipment.

- "Institution of a land assem- (Continued on page 2)

Multi-crash injures three

A multiple collision involving two cars and a tow truck pulling another car Friday afternoon resulted in injuries to three persons. Westmount police report the accident occurred at the corner of de Maisonneuve Boulevard and Prince Albert Avenue, May 24, 1:58 p.m.

Injured were an Ottawa woman, 65-year-old Mrs. Mary Sullivan, Mrs. George Colquhoun, 58, of 156 6th Avenue, Verdun, and Joachim Meurer, 24, of 1929 de Maisonneuve Boulevard.

Two are chosen

Names of only two Westmounters appeared among the 151 drawn Monday evening for the first round of prizes in the City of Montreal's voluntary-tax lottery.

They were G. M. Pelton, 344 Wood avenue, and N. Poulson, 4663 St. Catherine street.

Woman's leg crushed under bus

A 37-year-old NDG woman's leg was crushed Saturday night on Claremont Avenue beneath the rear wheel of a bus.

Witness told investigating Westmount police officers that the woman, Mrs. Mary Cauley of Belmore Avenue, NDG, was running beside the bus, apparently in an attempt to stop it, when she stumbled and fell. The rear wheel of the bus rolled over her leg.

The accident occurred at 10:20 p.m., May 25 on Claremont Avenue, just north of Sherbrooke Street. Mrs. Cauley was taken to the Queen Elizabeth Hospital for treatment.

NEXT WEEK'S WEATHER

By Eric Neal
June 1 to 8

Commencing mainly sunny and warm, although nights can be quite cold; serious storms may be expected mid-week but a pleasant weekend follows. With a high humidity, local thundershowers should be allowed for.

At this time wind-driven rainstorms can drop an inch in a few minutes and snarl traffic by flooding underpasses.

A pleasant day will be followed by a second "cold front" to bring some snow grains or ice pellets, and a twenty degree temperature drop.

Improving generally for a sunny weekend.

bly program, and encouragement of more co-operative housing.

- "Enactment of a 'Tenants Bill of Rights' and increase home improvement loans.

"Each year", said Professor Adams, "the federal government should be able to provide the provincial governments with a statement of the anticipated housing program within the entire nation, under both public and private auspices. It should also be able to tell its provincial partners what financial resources are available and at what cost to accomplish this purpose".

The goal of the NDP party regarding housing, is, according to Professor Adams, to provide all Canadians with decent housing at a cost of no more than 20 percent of their income no matter how low those incomes may be".

We Say

Westmount's canoe keeps off the shoals

Mayor Tucker last week gave the best ever "state of the city" address to the annual meeting of the Westmount Municipal Association.

It is a comprehensive and frank review of policies adopted and actions taken by the city administration during the past year. (See full report in last week's Examiner.)

And it is a review essential to a civic-conscious Westmount citizenry, whose appointed (elected by acclamation, rarely by ballot) Council conducts the essentially deliberative part of the public business in private.

While we consistently deplore this "board room" privacy approach to city affairs, we likewise once again assert that in the final outcome Westmount probably is the best run municipality in Canada.

Evidence, if insufficient in what meets the eye or in the paucity of complaint, is to be found in His Worship's excellent WMA report. The internal affairs of the city appear to be in order or under control.

What caught our eye was Mr. Tucker's reference to co-operation with other municipalities. Some months ago Westmount withdrew from the Inter-Municipal Co-ordinating Council which, whatever sweet words are used, basically stands against "encroachments" by the City of Montréal, upon the suburbs' rights and independent privileges.

Westmount, we think rightly, decided that it was "different" - not in any snobbish sense (though that could be so!) but because we are entirely surrounded by one neighbor, and that one is Montréal. Bilateral co-operation with the island's core city, as well as with others with which we may have particular common interests, promises greater good for us as well as for the general welfare of the metropolitan region.

Until there is a body less self-interested than ICC and an effective substitute for the ineffectual and toothless Montréal Metropolitan Corporation, for Westmount to work closely with the City of Montréal administration makes good sense.

Parents must assert rights in education

All too little attention is given, in the revolutionary reform sweeping education in Québec, to the official role of parents.

To be sure, they have had an effective part in many aspects of the planning for the network of magnificent new schools appearing throughout the province.

We suspect, however, that they have been called into consultation in many cases primarily because the law says they must. Without properly-constituted planning committees, the necessary grants and authorizations to build simply would not have been forthcoming.

After all, the "professionals" - the teachers, the civil-servant administrators and all too many school boards, whose members have become institutionalized, self-regarded "experts" - don't easily call in laymen, mothers and fathers of pupils, persons from all walks of life, and of every level of educational attainment, for advice.

But the Department of Education says they must and in doing so implements one of the wisest and far-

Writer had wrong trustees

The Royal Trust Company points out that the writer of a letter printed April 11 in The Examiner was in error when he said Royal Trust was trustee for the building at 4126-4128 St. Catherine Street West.

A check with city records shows that Trust General du Canada are administrators of the property for the estate of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Trudeau.

The April 11 letter mentioned 14 people who were suddenly informed that the building where they roomed had been condemned and would have to be vacated.

Demolition of the building at this time is nearly complete.

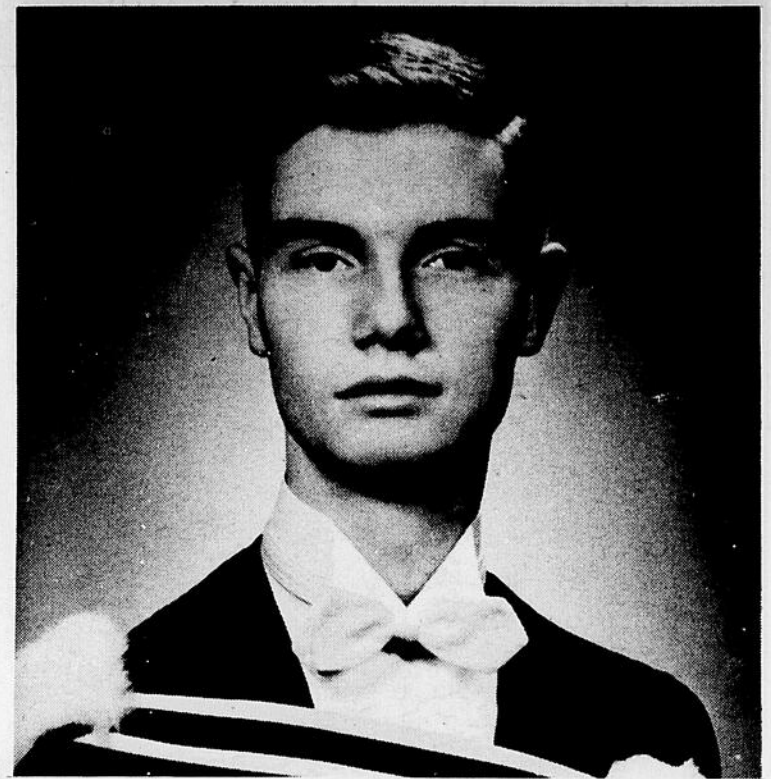

seeing recommendations of the Parent report on education. A parent may be the least "professional" and yet the wisest person to have the last word on how his or her children are to be educated.

Not sufficiently realized by mothers and fathers (and taxpayers) is that the Department of Education has decreed that each school shall constitute a General Assembly of all its pupils' parents, (not to be confused with a coffee-and-doughnuts Home and School Association) who in turn shall elect their own representatives to work with the appointees of the professionals in Education Workshops to decide on specific options regarding curriculum, grading, promotion, etc. No longer is the rule that only "teacher knows best." The tremendous changes and flexibility developed in recent years amply demonstrate that educationists are themselves undecided, in disagreement and in doubt about the best method and approach to their inexact science or art of instructing the young.

It is in these realms that the parents may have to do some pushing of the professionals. In one out-of-town regional high school, not far from here, the "pros" have instituted subject promotion this year and will be taking in Grade 7 pupils next September. But they have just realized that the size of future grants may be dependent upon whether or not the parents had a hand in these decisions. So a hastily called meeting of parents was summoned this week to place what one enlightened teacher openly described as "a rubber stamp" on what had been pre-decided. "Railroading" was an upset parent's term.

Education of our children should no more be left in the hands of the educationists than should our health to the doctors, our legal rights to lawyers, or our faith to clergy.

Parents must assert their now recognized rights to a direct voice in schooling. Too few professionals are ready to open the way.

also be an effective answer to those who want to suppress the "English language in Quebec".

INFLUENCE

Asked about Pierre Trudeau's possible influence in Quebec, Mr. Drury said that Mr. Trudeau can lead, but he can't compel.

"Mr. Trudeau can lead in developing ideas and workable policies. Then, if Mr. Trudeau and Mr. Johnson are in conflict, the people in our democratic system will choose between them".

"But Mr. Johnson knows that he must insure Quebec's future economic growth - and so does Mr. Faribault. We expect that they will continue to recognize the need for reasonable behavior on the part of the Quebec government", said Mr. Drury.

Asked about the government's bill on drugs, he said that it is designed to protect consumers in the special case where the consumer of prescription drugs cannot choose between competing products, and where it isn't the consumer but a third party, the physician, who chooses the product to be consumed. The bill is designed to widen the range of drugs available, in a way that will affect adversely only the inefficient or profiteering manufacturer, Mr. Drury said.

For many years the British Post Office was the butt of public criticism due to their drab and uninteresting postage stamp issues. Now, with the new printing techniques, the improvement of designing and art work, British stamps are in great demand the world over, and lo there is criticism from a new source. This time it is the British stamp dealers, who are afraid that the British Post Office is becoming their prime competitor through the operation of the Philatelic Bureau in Edinburgh and its branch office in New York. It is true that Postal Authorities have improved in recent years on the postage stamps, however, they were not satisfied to stop there as part of their campaign is to brighten-up the stamp-booklets.

Stamp-booklets with illustrated covers are now the vogue in Britain and as of March 25 these began replacing the old booklets. The new stamp-books will show various aspects of Britain - her history, fauna and flora, skills and crafts, outstanding explorers, artists and inventors.

There will be three series of illustrations - British explorers on the 10s (cerise) book; British birds on the 6s (orange) book and British ships on the 4/6d (blue) book. Designs for the 10s book will change every six months; the first, issued March 25, shows a portrait of David Livingstone and this will be succeeded by pictures of Scott, Mary Kingston, Shackleton and Cook. The 6s pictorial stamp book goes on sale June 4 and the first cover will show a Kingfisher.

Changing every two months, the 6s covers will then show the Peregrine Falcon, Pied Woodpecker, Great Crested Grebe, Barn Owl and Jay. The 4/6d books go on sale July 1, and also changing every two months they will depict in turn the Cutty Sark, Golden Hind, Discovery, and Queen Elizabeth II. These pictorial stamp-books could well become valuable as collector's pieces because the designs will not be repeated.

In 1940 the Icelandic Parliament issued a decree to adopt right-hand traffic Jan. 1, 1941. However, due to the war this alteration was never made effective. The traffic statute for right-hand traffic was once again enacted in 1966 and this change over took place on Sunday May 26, 1968.

Needless to say, a change of this nature requires an educational program which has been prepared and introduced and will be continued over the next several months. May 21 two postage stamps were issued as part of this educational program. These stamps, kr 4.00 and kr 5.00, are in a common design depicting a street with right-hand traffic. Printing was by heliogravure in yellow and brown respectively in sheets of 50 stamps.

This is not the first time that scenes of street traffic have been used as the designs for postage stamps. In the past several countries have used this type of a design to stress road safety campaigns e.g. Switzerland (Zum. 324 - 327); Israel (Michel 360-364); Hungary (Michel 2064-66); Japan (Michel 966). These are just but a few of the issues which come to mind.

 Crunchy, zippy caraway seeds make delicious bread sticks. Trim crusts from slices of enriched white bread and brush slices with melted butter. Cut each slice into one-inch wide strips and roll each strip in caraway seeds. Toast on a baking sheet in a 350 deg. oven until golden brown and crisp. Serve with soup, salad or casserole dishes.

McGill man tells Rotary: Student unrest worldwide

By E. C. GANNON

Student unrest in the world today is a widespread phenomena which began in Berkley, California and spread throughout the land to other highly developed countries of the western hemisphere. Its causes have been brought about through the rapid changes in society and in the university community, said Dr. Michael Oliver, vice-principal, academics, McGill University, speaking to the Westmount Rotary Club at its regular weekly luncheon in Victoria Hall.

The changes represent the growth in size of universities and their new importance through research and as a supplier of technical specialists in the world's industrial growth, he said. These changes cause students to look upon the university no longer as a preparation for their participation in the life of society, but as an integral part of an industrial society whose values they mistrust.

As the students challenge the values in society, so they challenge the university as part of society, he said. He spoke of solutions proposed by the students and the reaction of the universities to their solutions. Bill Reay introduced the speaker who was thanked by Gordon Cormie.

The meeting was opened on a note of sadness when President Phil Everson paid a memorial tribute to the late Jack McKee who died during the Victoria Day weekend. Tribute was paid to his memory as he had been a member of the Westmount Club for the past 27 years.

"Jack was a fine Rotarian, a good friend, a keen sportsman."

One of those years in retrospect judged good

As the year draws to a close, students begin to reminisce over the 10 months forever gone. For some, a new life, university or working - the beginning of the end, for others merely the continuance of a seemingly never-ending road. With whatever feelings students leave Westmount there will be a feeling of honor for what has been accomplished as well as a discouraged attitude for what has not. There is no doubt that every club contributed something and became part of WHS - 1968.

by vicki percival

THE THEATRE

The Theatre Club and its president Tina - May Isсенman proved to Westmount that there is the theatrical tendency at WHS and no effort to hide it. This year was a significant year in many respects. The production of the Diary of Anne Frank was the first full-length drama that has ever been produced at the school. Never before has there been such a challenge for not only the actors but the stage, sound, lighting and costume crews. The presentation of the play was a resounding success and did much to further the cause of the performing arts at Westmount for coming years.

SUCCESS LIMITED

Girls sports had a close but not final year this year. The majority of girls' teams seem to be able to reach the finals in most of the sports they participated in, but other schools just seemed to have the luck of that day and WHS had to be satisfied with second place. The boys continued their athletic attitude and seemed to suffer the same fate. Nevertheless, the boys' hockey team let "victory shine for Westmount" beating Proctor, their challenging counterpart; nor was Proctor the only school to meet this end.

RED CROSS

The Red Cross this year under Allan Silverman brought its share of laurels to WHS. The year began with the donation of a piece of equipment to the

STUDENTS' COUNCIL

The Students' Council under Lynne Kassie, the first girl elected to the most important position in the school, experienced all kinds of weather and managed to keep the boat from sinking. The Chocolate Bar Drive was an innovation which proved to be most successful. Times brought new ideas and attitudes and throughout all this the students' Council was in the foreground representing the students.

TO NEW YORK

The Current Events Club with Stephen Leopold as president started the year off with the traditional New York Trip. For all those who shared the sights and sounds of New York, it will be well remembered. The club opened its agenda with the Member of Parliament for Westmount, C. M. Drury. The next speaker proved to be quite the contrast, being Mr. Jacob, former coach of the Canadian National Ski Team. Thus students at WHS were able to have Canada in two phases.

Montreal Children's Hospital. Activities including such ones as hospital and school kits, the selling of calendars continued all year. These fund raising campaigns were climaxed by the biggest of them all, Red Cross Week. With its movie, games and dance, Red Cross happily aided its worthy cause.

CARE NEW

A new project, Care also had a very successful year. Under Margo Rubin this new committee has already sent its first contribution to a country in need. Several trips, sponsored by this club helped to inform students on the UN and its work. Plans have been made for next year and hopefully in the next year, WHS will be able to adopt a child and give it the chance to live.

PREFECTS

The School Prefects with Head Prefects Mary Shapiro and Peter Chodos brought in their share of new ideas. The number of them was first reduced which led to a more closely-knit group striving to maintain order at Westmount. Another new idea was the appointing of assistant head prefects to help run the administrative end of things.

ENTERTAINMENT

The entertainment side of Westmount also had a successful year. The coffee house of Westmount, Cafe Vendredi, kept up with the times and kept students at school on Friday nights. The club under Wendy Ronalds brought the Boarderman and Cedric Smith to Westmount. The Friday Nite Club with John McBride as President organized the dances at Westmount which were both successful and numerous and brought a happy relief to book - fatigued students.

YEARBOOK

The Vox Ducum, the school yearbook, with Michelle Gubbay as editor was successfully finished and students will soon be able to relive this year in pictures and writing. The school newspaper brought the happenings in and around Westmount and opinions bloomed in '68. Posters saw their success as the school was in a perpetual state of poster-wall-paper. Through them all that was happening was publicized and all knew all that was new.

AT YEAR'S END

Activities and clubs have closed for the year and the call of book labor summons each to his respective place. With such a year behind them the only way to finish it would be in the "right Way" and so Good Luck to all and to Westmount in 1969.

endowed with a high sense of fair play, a keen sense of humor and a warm personality and leaves a fine example to his fellow Rotarians", he said.

Chuck Spence welcomed the visitors and guests while Percy Jarman kept the gathering informed as to the condition of Archie Callard confined in the Montreal General Hospital and Blair Jardine in the Royal Victoria.

Ross Sherriff of St. Leo's Academy was introduced by Hal Giles. Ross was Rotary's representative at Ottawa on the "Adventure in Citizenship" project and gave members an interesting report on the results of the trip.

Within a few weeks the annual Rotary Carnival will be held from June 11 to June 15 and enthusiasm is at high pitch to make the event the most successful on record.

Sponsored by the Danish National Commission for Unesco, the book was first published in Denmark in 1967. A mine of practical information compiled by an expert with long experience of printing and publishing, the book is itself an object-lesson in book-production for developing countries, being at once cheap, clear in expression and tropicalized.

TV interviewer panel moderator at Westmount Park School

Herbert C. Auerbach, president of Westmount Park Home and School Association announced that Peter Desbarats of "7 on 6" fame will moderate a panel discussion on the vital question "What kind of school should Westmount Park be?" at the annual meeting at Westmount Park School, 20 Academy Road, at 8 p.m., June 6.

Panelists include: in favor of bilingual education, Sister Ferrier, mistress of studies, Sacred Heart Convent; in favor of multi-confessional schools, Russel D. Mosher, director general of the Chateaugay Valley Regional School Board; and in favor of non-confessional education, Reverend Leonard Mason of the Unitarian Church.

Amateur musicians buy Laurentian site for permanent centre

The Canadian Amateur Musicians-Musiciens Amateurs du Canada, a Westmount based group, has purchased White Forest Lodge as its permanent headquarters for the Music Centre. The Lodge and its eight acres of land are situated on the edge of Lake MacDonald, a large lake in the heart of the western regions of the Laurentians. It is ideally located half way between Montreal and Ottawa. The buildings include the Main Hotel with meeting rooms, kitchen and dining room and guest accommodation and three other buildings containing living quarters.

CAMMAC has been holding its Music Centre for amateurs of all ages since 1952 and renting the premises at White Forest Lodge for the past five years. The purchase is the culmination of many years of planning for a permanent centre.

After a vigorous short campaign enough money was raised to buy the property. The Board of Directors will now concern itself with turning the centre into a year-round operation. The many professions and backgrounds of CAMMAC members will be tapped and channelled into the new venture.

Westmount members of the board of directors are Donald Cash, 4491 Sherbrooke Street West, Sr. Marcelle Corneille of l'Institut Pedagogique girls' school, and Jan Simons, 364 Olivier Avenue, who is also general director. Treasurer is Richard Driscoll of 335 Clarke Avenue.

George Little and Mario Duschenes, who were amongst the original founders of CAMMAC and who are still active board members, look on this as another milestone along the pathway of success as CAMMAC celebrates its 16th anniversary. Money for the purchase was raised by outright gifts and interest free bonds purchased by members. The loans are to be repaid over as short a period as possible.

OLD BUILDINGS AS MUSEUMS

by Pierre Gilbert

AUTHORIZED
ELECTROLUX

There is no better home for old objects than a building which is itself old, and creates that subtle harmony between object and background which one expects of a museum.

Belgium is fortunate in possessing many fine old houses, now converted into museums, whose style and furnishings help to evoke life as it was in times gone by. Such are the Gruuthuse Museum, in Bruges, whose remarkable collections of sculpture, gold and silver work, arms, musical instruments, lace, coins, etc., are exhibited in the former mansion of the Gruuthuse family; the Plantin Museum in Antwerp where visitors can gain first-hand knowledge of printing techniques in the 16th and 17th Centuries through the work of this famous family of printers; or the Ansembourg and Croix mansions, in Liège and Namur, where old world elegance combines with homely simplicity.

In the Brussels area, the borough authorities of Anderlecht have managed to recreate the atmosphere of the house where Erasmus once lived; while the City of Antwerp has reconstituted Rubens' house and the famous porticoed garden, shown in many of his pictures, where the artist used to stroll with Hélène Fourment and their children.

CONTINUITY
 Each of these dwellings has been restored to its former purpose, but there are others where the continuity has never been broken. St. John's Hospital in Bruges, still operating as a medical centre, is also a museum by virtue of its 13th Century architecture, its mediaeval pharmacy, and its magnificent collection of Memlings, the finest in the world. In Ghent, Bijloke Hospital has also continued its medical work but outside the fine mediaeval buildings that would make an excellent museum; while another of the city's monuments, the cloister of St. Peter's Abbey, provides a wonderful setting for temporary exhibitions.

At Liège, the old Franciscan monastery, badly damaged by bombing, is to become the Walloon Museum, thus resuming something of its former rôle, since the Franciscans have always been involved in the everyday life of the people. Here war damage was so severe that only the outside of the building will retain its former style; the interior has been completely redesigned to provide space for collections housed up to now in very cramped quarters.

This Colonial look wallpaper blends with the room decor and graceful bay window.

A simple guide to good advertising

False or Misleading Advertising—No advertisement shall be prepared, or be knowingly accepted, which contains false, misleading, unwarranted or exaggerated claims—either directly or by implication. Advertisers and advertising agencies must be prepared to substantiate their claims.

Public Decency—No advertisement shall be prepared, or be knowingly accepted, which is vulgar, suggestive or, in any way, offensive to public decency.

Superstitions and Fears—No advertisement shall be prepared, or be knowingly accepted, which is calculated to exploit the superstitious, or to play on fears to mislead the consumer into the purchase of the advertised commodity or service.

Exploitation of Human Misery—No advertisement shall be prepared, or be knowingly accepted, which offers false hope in the form of a cure or relief for the mental or physically handicapped, either on a temporary or permanent basis.

Price Claims—No advertisement shall be prepared, or be knowingly accepted, which makes misleading or inaccurate presentations of actual and comparative prices.

Testimonials—No advertisement shall be prepared, or be knowingly accepted, which contains false or misleading testimonials, or which does not reflect the real choice of the person giving the testimonial. Advertisers and agencies must be prepared to produce evidence in support of the claims made in any testimonial advertisement.

Disparaging Claims—No advertisement shall be prepared, or be knowingly accepted, which unfairly disparages products or services of other advertisers. Substantiation is always required where comparisons are made with competing products or services.

Professional or Scientific Claims—No advertisement shall be prepared, or be knowingly accepted, which distorts the true meaning of statements made by professionals or scientific authorities. Advertising claims should not be made to appear to have a scientific basis they do not truly possess. Scientific terms, technical quotations, etc., should be used in general advertising only with a full sense of responsibility to the lay public.

Guarantees—No advertisement shall be prepared, or be knowingly accepted, offering a guarantee or warranty, unless the guarantee or warranty is fully explained as to the name of the guarantor or warrantor, conditions and limits, or it is indicated where such information can be obtained.

Advertising to Children—No advertisement shall be prepared, or be knowingly accepted, which would result in damage—physical, mental or moral—to children.

Imitation—No advertisement shall be prepared, or be knowingly accepted, which deliberately imitates the copy, slogans, or illustrations of other advertisers and is apt to mislead the consumer.

Bait Advertising—No advertisement shall be prepared, or be knowingly accepted, which does not give the consumer a fair opportunity to purchase the goods or services advertised at the terms or prices represented.

SPECIAL NOTE: The foregoing Code embraces those areas in which it is possible to make an objective appraisal of advertising content. It avoids entry into the subjective area of taste, which is difficult to pinpoint, and in which personal judgment plays such an important part.

Nevertheless, the participating organizations agree to discourage, wherever possible, the use of advertising of questionable taste, or which is deliberately irritating in its contents, or method of presentation.

The Canadian Code of Advertising Standards was adopted for your protection. It has now been accepted as the minimum standard for advertising ethics by leading national advertisers, their advertising agencies, and all media groups across Canada. If you are interested in a personal copy, please write: The Advertising Standards Council, Canadian Advertising Advisory Board, 159 Bay St., Toronto 1, Ontario.

ST. LEO'S SPORTS Dark days' return feared after word from new chiefs

By ANDY MCGILLIS

A recent meeting in the Academy hall between parents and representatives of the Montreal Catholic School Commission offered answers to questions regarding what changes might be in effect next year at St. Leo's, under the new administration. One of the questions put to the commission was about sports next year at St. Leo's. The answer was brief and to the point with the explanation that in the past St. Leo's had a sports specialist but this will not be the case next year.

I arrived on the local sport scene some 30 years ago to handle both competitive and intramural sports. Prior to that St. Leo's operated on a small scale with very little organized sports and most of the students with a love for sports had nothing to do but be spectators at Westmount High games. With the above decision it looks like a return to these dark days in sport for a lot of teen age citizens.

During the past 30 years St. Leo's was a well respected and worthy competitor in high school sports. Over these years I have been privileged to coach hundreds of Westmount youth attending St. Leo's and all these students not only enjoyed participating in sports but gained many values out of playing the game.

At this meeting were a good number of prominent citizens but when this negative reply was given on the future of sports at St. Leo's, there was not one voice raised in protest. The fact the school was returning to a second rate school sportswise did not seem to be of particular interest to anyone present.

NEW BANK BRANCH OPENS - Westmount Mayor Michael L. Tucker cuts the ribbon to open officially the Royal Bank's new branch in Westmount Square.

New look bank branch opens

On Monday, Mayor Michael L. Tucker cut the traditional ribbon to officially open the Royal Bank of Canada's new branch at 1 Westmount Square.

The new branch, which replaces the Royal's premises which have stood on the corner of St. Catherine and Greene for the past 64 years, incorporates the latest in interior design and equipment.

"Bank branches in the old days weren't quite so attractive as this," said Mayor Tucker during the opening ceremonies. "I know all of you who are employed here and all of the Royal's customers will enjoy these new premises."

George H. Mercier, general manager of the bank's Quebec, New Brunswick and Eastern Ontario districts said, while thanking the mayor for opening the branch: "... you must admit, however, Mr. Mayor that you had a bit of a moral duty to do the honors. We're 'Bluenoses' together. Our first branch in Westmount opened in 1894 under the bank's original name - The Merchants' Bank of Halifax and you, as a good Nova Scotian, just had to come and help your friends.

"Old landmarks," continued Mr. Mercier, "such as our building at Greene Avenue has served us well, must eventually make way for something more up-to-date. In a way a bank is like a politician - it has to serve the people and serve them properly and the old premises were getting just a little cramped. We had to modernize. There may be a little less marble around these new premises but there are a lot more comfortable chairs and I'm sure our manager Mr. Whitley and his staff will be able to serve the people of Westmount as well and even better in these new and very pleasant surroundings."

DOUBLE THE SIZE

With a total area of close to 6,000 square feet, the new branch is more than double the size of the old premises. Entry to the branch can be made either from St. Catherine or from the underground shopping plaza.

Probably the most outstanding feature in the new quarters is the safe deposit vault area, which stands behind a stainless steel decorative screen, at the rear of the branch. This area is carpeted throughout with an olive and red weave and has four private cubicles for the use of customers who have safe deposit boxes.

The main floor area is laid with red quarry tile and the walls and columns are covered with a chartreuse coloured vinyl fabric.

A comfortable waiting area has been provided just inside the main entrance.

15 managers in 74 years 'on the corner'

Westmount's first bank - The Royal Bank of Canada (formerly the Merchants' Bank of Halifax) - which opened at the corner of St. Catherine and Greene in 1894, has "housed" 15 managers. Old-timers in the district may remember some of these names.

The first manager, E. A. McCurdy, was here for a short period - 1894 to 1896. From '96 to '99 Mr. H. W. Mayrand was the 'friendly banker'. For the next eight years D. S. Benvie served Westmounters. From 1908 the following men have held the position of manager "on the corner": C. H. McDunnough (1908-11), G. M. Todd (1911-13), J. A. Terrace (1913), Geo. Kydd (1913-21), A. D. Munro (1921-22), A. W. Allah (1922-36), H. B. Wilson (1936-40), C. B. Cutter (1940-46), J. M. Carleton (1946-50), D. T. Youngson (1950-59), R. K. Learmonth (1959-65), W. W. D. Whitley (1965- ).

Since 1894

Our oldest bank

Seventy-four years is a long time in any lifetime, and the case of the Royal Bank of Canada branch - which has stood on the corner of St. Catherine and Greene all those years - is no exception.

The bank has witnessed many changes and developments within Westmount since it first opened its doors in 1894.

It was in 1894 that Westmounters got their very own bank branch - The Merchants' Bank of Halifax. The new name "The Royal Bank of Canada" came into effect in 1901. A few years later, however, the building almost fell down.

During the official opening ceremonies on Monday of the Royal Bank's new premises at 1 Westmount Square, Manager W. W. D. Whitley stated: "... the (old) building deteriorated very fast and had to be completely demolished as it turned out to have been built on a bed of sand."

A new building, almost identical to the previous one, was built on the same site but this time, hundreds of wooden piles were first driven through the sand until they hit solid rock. "The building is still in good condition," said the Royal's chief architect, W. T. Leslie.

"We plan to sell the old building but I suspect that whoever buys it will want to demolish it and put up something more modern," said Mr. Leslie. "It'd be a pity though. That building is a landmark in Westmount. In fact it opened only two years after Westmount became a town."
